LINCOLN COUNTY TEACHERS' MEETING HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

Educators From Over County
Give Interesting Addresses
And Readings at Well Attended Meeting of Society.

In accordance with the arrangements made by the program committee of the Teachers' Association, the program, as printed on the front page of the Outlook of April 5th was carried out to a successful termination, much to the satisfaction of all concerned. Some fifty odd teachers from over the county were in attendance and were hospitably entertained in the homes of Carrizozo people.

The business and professional men gave the visitors a dinner on Saturday at the Carrizozo Eating House, and during their stay entertainments of all kinds were offered for which the crowded program afforded no time. All speakers, and others who were announced, responded promptly, and in no county meeting has there ever been more genuine enthusiasm. The passing of Ex-Gov. McDonald who has always expressed such an active interest in school affairs, cast a shadow over the meetings.

At the opening meeting, Mr. John A. Haley in his usual pleasing manner, and with well chosen words, welcomed the visitors, and Mrs. Geo. Dixon, of Hondo, responded for the city's guests. Mrs. Ethel V. Jewett, of Corona, read an able paper on "Domestic Art in the County Schools," and Miss Fulghum, of the Lincoln County High School, gave a practical talk on "School Domestic Science in War Times," and was followed by Prof. W. T. Conway, State Leader of the Boys' and Girls' Industrial Clubs, who spoke on "A Club Project with Five Points."

Friday evening Dr. David R. Boyd, of the N. M. U., delivered an address on "Universal Military Training." The A. & M. College was represented by Prof. M. L. Fox—who explained how it was helping to solve the troublesome times now, and will help in the future with experts in all industrial branches. Hon. Johnathan H. Wagner, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, spoke of the work of the schools in all parts of the state in furthering all of the government's plans in the homes, and of the noble response of the men teachers to the colors.

Saturday's subject was "Patriotism." Mrs. Mabel J. Smith, of Lincoln, read an excellent paper on "How to Teach It in the Public Schools." Col. J. W. Wilson, of the N. M. M. I., addressed the Association on "Everybody Enlist for Service." Supt. Koonce presided at the Roundtable, which proved to be

HOME COMING SHORT

As announced the latter part of last week, a train load of sailor boys passed through Carrizozo, and among the four hundred, were three of our home boys, namely, Eb Jones, Mike Barnett and Bert Holland. To say the sailors were well received, would be putting it mildly. The Carrizozo Eating House, in its customary style of accommodating crowds like this, had everything arranged for a welcome reception for the boys, every available space being occupied with tables. Mrs. Gurney assumed the role of "Mother" to the boys, which was much commented on and highly appreciated. As one of the boys was heard to remark, "Home is just like this!"

After the boys had enjoyed their evening meal, they were escorted about the city and had it not been that time was so short, a public reception would have been given in their honor. Our home boys did of a certainty look fine, and show signs of good treatment at the hands of Uncle Sam.

The train remained for about two hours, after which the four hundred sailors (who are firemen in the service) answered the call of "All Aboard" and started on their long trip to Hampton Roads, where it is very likely they will soon set sail for foreign waters to engage in the conflict.

Timely Assistance

Last week a couple arrived in town and camped on the lot back of Kelley's warehouse. The man was in a pitiful condition, being in the last stages of tuberculosis. The lady's condition was not as deplorable as his, but sad enough as it was.

The attention of charitably disposed citizens were attracted to the case. They found that these people were totally destitute and steps were taken to relieve their condition. Their personal property consisted of a few cooking utensils, some scanty bed clothing, and a team of burros to carry them to their destination. Captain. John Baird, Frank Richards, Esca Kelley, with others furnished the needy with food, clothing, and a purse of money to carry them to Alamogordo, where it is hoped they will meet with people as charitable as those in Carrizozo.

Carrizozo Honored

Governor W. E. Lindsey was in Carrizozo last Sunday to attend the funeral of the late Ex-Governor W. C. McDonald. The Executive left for Santa Fe Sunday evening.

Horses for Government

The Carrizozo Live Stock Commission Co. visited the Ruidoso country this week, and bought up a good herd of horses for the Government. Another purchase is announced for the latter part of this, or the first part of next week.

Hearts and Flowers Mingle With Impres- sive Ceremonies at Ex-Governor's Bier

Funeral of Late Governor W. C.
McDonald Was Held at Ranch
Home Sunday Afternoon With Impressive Rites.

Funeral services for the late ex-Governor Wm. C. McDonald were held last Sunday afternoon at the ranch home, with the Rev. E. J. Hoering performing the rites. From early morning until the time announced for the funeral, crowds of sympathetic people flocked to Carrizozo to pay their last respects to the pioneer and first governor of the State of New Mexico.

At the appointed time, Rev. Hoering opened the services with prayer. Mrs. C. P. Squier and Miss Bessie White sang "Beautiful Island of Somewhere," accompanied by Mrs. H. S. Donaldson. The scripture selections were very impressive and the services in general caused the thought to soar above things of a material nature and mingle with the real and everlasting.

At the conclusion of the services, which ended with reading of the poems, Mrs. Squier and Miss White sang the soul stirring hymn, that has been the means of comforting many a sad heart when the cold hand of death has snatched from its fond embrace, the nearest and dearest that earth can give, "Lead Kindly Light."

The pall bearers, who were life long friends of the governor, were:

Active—Geo. L. Ulrick, Jno. A. Haley, Loyd Taylor, A. H. Hudspeth, Ben Stimmel, O. T. Nye, J. F. Kimbell, H. S. Campbell, J. B. McManus, J. W. Poe, Donald Young.

Honorary—Jno. Y. Hewitt, M. G. Paden, Summers Burkhardt, Pete Johnson, F. J. Sager, G. A. Richardson, Governor Lindsey, Judge Hanna, Smith Lee, Arthur Seligman, Jas. B. French and Felix Garcia.

The funeral procession was lengthy, there being over one hundred automobiles in line.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held by those who knew him best and loved him most.

At the White Oaks Cemetery, the rites were solemnized and the casket lowered into mother earth, where with its honored contents, it will go the way of all the world and return to the place from whence it came—"Dust to Dust."

In the quiet little cemetery overlooking the peaceful "White Oaks" made famous by the hospitality of its people and the birthplace of "Hearts Desire," he rests, awaiting the time when the last trumpet shall sound, and even the sea shall give up its dead.

Gallacher-Collier

At the Baptist Parsonage, April 18th, with the Rev. Gardner officiating, Harry A. Gallacher and Ida C. Collier were united in marriage. A few close relatives and nearest friends were present, the wedding being by mutual agreement, a quiet affair. The bride is a native of White Oaks, where her parents now reside, and she has many friends in that locality who wish her much future happiness. The groom is a Carrizozo boy and therefore is well known among his many friends and associates, all of whom join in wishing the newly married couple a life of joy and unmolesated happiness.

RED CROSS PUBLICITY COMMITTEE GIVES A REPORT OF DONATIONS

Remarkable Showing is Contained in March Report of Department of Military Affairs in France.

The March report of the Red Cross Department of Military Affairs in France, just received at National Headquarters, indicates the large development of the Red Cross canteen service back of the "American Front." A network of thirty canteens for our troops has been established three miles in the rear of the front line trenches. Besides supplying hot drinks and other refreshments to soldiers, the Red Cross also is undertaking the distribution of such articles as pencils, paper, envelopes, safety pins, playing cards, bandages, iodine, canes for wounded, and sewing kits. Four rest stations along the American lines of communication supply food, hot drinks and American fruits to soldiers enroute to camps from various ports of debarkation. No charge is made for drinks or any articles distributed.

The March report shows that 5,500 pairs of socks, 780 sweaters, 1,200 pairs of gloves, 1,500 comfort kits, and 145 mufflers were distributed to American soldiers during that month. The Bureau of donations also shipped for American soldier in hospitals more than 15,000 shirts, 12,000 handkerchiefs, 18,000 pairs of socks, 15,000 pajamas, and 1,900 pairs of slippers. The Hospital Supply Service supplied 1,466 hospitals with 3,821 cases weighing more than 190,000 pounds. The Red Cross delivered in March the first lot of Trench Bags, that is, bags to be used for wounded when it is impossible to get them out of trenches, where they may have to remain several hours without medical attention. The bags contain such food as coca, coffee and condensed milk; such articles as scissors, electric torches, candles, matches, insect powder and feeding spoons. "Tommy" cookers and Greely Hypodermic units. One bag is distributed for every twenty men.

Card of Thanks

To our many friends, both at home and abroad, who so kindly and graciously assisted us in our recent bereavement with willing hands, and comforted us with sympathetic words, and for the many beautiful flowers which as tokens of love and esteem were tendered as the heart's last sacred offering, we express our sincere gratitude.

The Deep Sea Peril By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

For, like a fury, the queen rushed at him, and Clouts, at first solicitous about striking a woman, soon found himself hard put to it to maintain the upper hand, with all his strength and with the use of all the wrestling tricks he knew.

"It's all right, marm!" he pleaded. "I'll ask him if he'll see you, if you'll only not lose your head. I didn't mean to put you outside, but orders was orders. I'm only obeying orders, marm. There ain't no need for them hysterics. Now—now, marm!"

He was still fighting madly when suddenly her strength seemed to leave her. Clouts became aware of a spectator of the combat. He glanced aside hastily, to see Ida standing beside him.

"What is she, Clouts?" whispered Ida. Clouts scratched his thick head. "I don't rightly know," he answered. "But it's all right, marm. I was just strolling along, casual like, when I met her. She ain't no friend of mine, marm. Nor of the captain's," he added, with sly emphasis.

He turned to the queen. "If you'll take my arm, marm, I'll take you a ways and ask the captain if he'll see you. I can't do no more," he muttered in an audible aside. "I've done the best I know how for the captain, and now he'll have to make his own excuse. And I can't leave a lady in this here place alone, with all them gongs on and jugglings with the water like—like Pharaoh."

Five minutes later the little middy, seated on deck, saw Clouts and Ida, apparently re-enters from the dead, approach the F55. Between them he fancied he saw a gossamer form that scintillated in the sunlight.

There was a space of only a hundred paces between them and the boat when suddenly the ocean appeared convulsed. A wall of water bore down upon the flanks of Fair Island. It rolled toward the submarine, fifty feet high, its mighty crest upreared. "Run!" shouted Davies.

It was a frantic race between the oceaners and the sea. They gained the submarine with hardly ten seconds to spare. Davies drew them aboard and clasped the hatches down. Next instant the boat was lifted bodily from the beach and spun round like a top.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Unheeded Warning.

On the evening of the same day London was stirred by a sensation which eclipsed even the interest in the progress of the war. The evening newspapers contained, in full, Donald's narration of the approaching ruin of the world.

The second sea lord, receiving Donald's name, came to the conclusion that matters of the most pressing moment must have brought the unknown young American naval officer. He rose from his desk and shook hands with him cordially. "Sit down, Mr. Paget," he said warmly. Then he noticed that Donald was dressed in a nondescript diving suit and that his looks were decidedly wild.

Donald sat down and plunged instantly into the story of the world danger. It did not lose its dramatic interest in the manner of its telling.

"You must stop the war at once," Donald ended. "Unite all nations of the earth, for that is the only way to save the human race. It is a matter of hours, perhaps. Even now these monsters may be speeding southward."

The second sea lord had been unable to interpose a word by reason of the torrent of impassioned speech that poured from Donald's lips. At first he listened in amazement at what he considered an impudent boar; then in anger; then, after a brief glance at Donald's face, with absolute passivity.

"I thank you, Mr. Paget," he said, rising, when Donald had ended. "You have done notable work, and England will not forget it. And now, sir, you must be conducted to the prime minister at once, that you may apprise him of these startling events."

He touched his bell, and his secretary, a dapper, alert little man, at once appeared. "Excuse me one moment, please," said the second sea lord to Donald.

He whispered to the secretary, whom Donald perceived to glance toward him in a rather apprehensive manner. The secretary came forward, making a preposterously low bow,

"I will conduct you to the prime minister at once, Mr. Paget," he said. "No time must be lost. I am going to have a taxicab called."

Donald addressed the second sea lord again.

"I understand, sir, controlling himself with an effort of will. "Very well, my lord, I shall say no more at this time. On you will rest the responsibility. And you will repent this bitterly within a day or two."

And he walked quietly out of the office, leaving the second sea lord and the secretary staring at each other. He was at the bottom of the starway before they had recovered their self-possession. Then the sea lord snatched up his telephone.

A curious haze was creeping up from the Thames, spreading perceptibly from corner to corner. It blotted out the redness of the evening clouds and hung overhead like a great, smoky pall. A newsboy rushed past, shouting. Donald saw the contents of the placard that swung before him. It mentioned a series of local explosions which had been occurring along the east coast of England.

Donald was trying to locate a hotel. He groped his way from corner to corner, clinging to the railings of areas and pillars of houses.

He had reached some open space, which he imagined to be Trafalgar square, but it was impossible to cross. Cabs, carriages, omnibuses, stabled by the fog, loomed up on every side. Horses stood snorting invisibly, a few inches away. Drivers struck out with their whips promiscuously. Men were shouting, women screaming. Panic had begun. All knew that this was not one of those rare black fogs that descend upon London.

Then it was that the news of the man-monsters began to filter through the crowd.

A man announcing himself, through a megaphone, to be the police commissioner, ordered all to remain still until star bombs could be set off. Nobody heeded him, and his efforts to stay the panic were unavailing. The mob had begun to flow in one direction, sweeping all before it.

Donald had been swept along with it, and then left, stranded and jammed by the human torrent, into a small recess. In front of him he felt a parapet.

He tore himself away and was lost in the crowd. Donald hoisted himself to the parapet, scrambled to the outer coping, and clung there. The shrieking mob rushed past and never touched him. Then there came the sound of a mighty explosion, a long volume of resounding thunder. It went rolling down the river like the discharge of a thousand cannon.

And then, as a flood from a hose-pipe, a burst of water from the skies deluged the city. It boiled through the air with hissing fashes, as if the portals of the firmament were broken open. The grinning face of the moon broke through the smoky pall. Suddenly the stars appeared. And it was calm, clear weather.

A roar of relief seemed to go up from the throats of the multitude. And very slowly the traffic began to resume its course again.

What had happened, as scientists afterward surmised, was this: The hydrogen, increasing until it attained a certain chemical relationship to the oxygen of the atmosphere, had exploded where it was densest, on contact with fire, as in a laboratory. But the explosion instantly generated water as the two gases met. Hence followed the deluge.

But as yet the government was only dimly beginning to understand that this was some unknown natural force and not a contrivance of the enemy.

"You Must Stop This War at Once."

They did not know until Donald presented himself in the office of the second sea lord at nine o'clock.

The second sea lord grasped him by the hands.

"There isn't time to say more than that I apologize," he said. "The government has been searching for you since daylight. We've cabled Washington, and they have placed you at our disposal. You are the only man who can advise us, and—the prime minister wants you immediately. And that's no joke this time!"

CHAPTER XV.

The Battle of the Dogger.

Within the next three days a series of phenomena occurred which left no doubt as to the dangers which were menacing the human race.

Before noon messages began to pour in from all parts of the country and from the fleet. The admiral in command of the home squadron wired that a torpedo-boat destroyer had approached him under a flag of truce, with the singular statement that the ocean had receded all along the Baltic littoral, leaving a vast swamp of muddy sand, in which ships were embedded. The Zuyder Zee no longer existed. A spur of land extended from the dogger bank nearly to Ostend. He proposed a temporary armistice.

By evening reports were telegraphed that an army of the monsters had landed upon the shores of Lincolnshire and Norfolk, had crossed the Wash, which became first a swamp, then an inundation, and was moving along the river beds toward Cambridge, stripping the land of vegetation.

He saw the F55 Start in Their Wake.

By nightfall all communication between London and the eastern counties had ceased. The telegraph poles were washed out of the sodden ground. The approach of the herd was measured by the haze.

Already poultry and domestic animals were being devoured. There were reports that children had been seized from riverside houses. The docks, the shores of Essex and the Thames estuary were abandoned. The flats were a level stretch of water, above which the steeples of the churches stood out as isolated landmarks.

Everywhere the war had been halted by a short armistice. The governments of the civilized world devoted their whole attention to the consideration and solution of this new and stunning problem.

In the meantime there had been a good deal of activity on Fair Island. The tidal surge created by the departure of the herd soon subsided, breaking into a choppy, turbulent sea. The F55, tossed and battered as she was by the waves, nevertheless held tight. The locked rudder prevented her from submerging.

Within the messroom the queen of the swarm was housed securely.

She was almost invisible, and not at all visible by daylight. A silent, phantom figure, she created fear and awe in each of them. They did not know what her connection with the swarm might be. They knew she had not human intelligence.

From his position upon the highest point of Fair Island, MacBeard saw the swarm vanish at sea. He saw the F55 start in their wake, and threw up his hands and raved. "Coward as he was, he could not let his last hope slip from him like that."

He was the loneliest man in the world, as he had always been. But he had not known it or cared. He had rebelled against the human race. He was the modern Cain; he had plotted the ruin of the world, over which he was to rule, godlike. But that was before he had set eyes upon Ida Kennedy.

The thought of her renewed his courage. He found his motorboat upon the shore, unharmed by the inundation, since the point of rock had acted as a breakwater and protected it. Within a few minutes he had filled his great gasoline reservoir with a supply sufficient for several days, and set out in pursuit of the herd. He knew that he could easily outdistance the submarines.

Presently he came upon the monster. Their first wild dash had taken them in all directions, so that little vapor had formed, but now they were beginning to congregate, and a wall of black cloud, rising in the distance, indicated their situation.

The monsters made no effort to molest him, but they would not, at first, need his tuning fork. Later, however, he managed to assemble a small bodyguard about him.

MacBeard pursued them down the east coast of England. His boat, hidden in the cloud, remained undetected by the patrol vessels.

It was not until the second morning that he guessed where the herd would make its main rendezvous.

It was a simple deductive process, though nobody else had thought of it. It was the Dogger bank, swarming with fish, which would provide the monsters with food.

He believed that, once the first dash of the monsters was over, they would obey his call again. And his first summons proved successful beyond his expectations. Exhausted by their dash southward, numbers of the herd congregated about the motorboat to the sound, which was perceptible to them for a much greater distance than the tone carried to the human ear. From within a radius of twenty miles a cloud rolled in upon the motorboat, until MacBeard, invisible in the heart of its blackness, like some arch-devil, controlled his devil crew.

This cloud was quickly seen by the rear-admiral's patrol vessels, while it had this disadvantage—it prevented MacBeard from discovering the F55 as she slipped past on her way southward.

PULLED THEIR COLLARS OFF

If Paris Women Wore Too Large a Neck Piece Other Women Forcibly Removed Them.

In Paris, at one time, the people dropped their extravagance, and "if a woman ventured to wear too large a collar, the other women would pull it off." Henry VIII—as he did with everything he set his mind to—interfered with the dress of his subjects to some purpose and brought forward an act against wearing costly apparel.

A few years later the law became more stringent still. Philip and Mary compelled attention not only by fines, but went so far as to send offenders to prison. Elizabeth saw that the people were reckless with their money, and caused an act to be passed which declared that anyone who sold foreign apparel to persons having less than £5,000 a year in land or fees, except for ready money, should forfeit every penny of the price.

Ladies wore hoods, hats and caps of every conceivable shape. They were careful as to their hair, and they had a fine assortment of wigs at hand. Elizabeth herself sometimes wore red hair, and then reverted to black for a change. It so happened that trade in the cap line fell off considerably because caps went out of fashion.

United States Presidential Elections.

The following is a brief description of the composition and functions of the electoral college of the United States: On presidential election day, which occurs on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, instead of voting directly for the president and vice president, the qualified voters of each state vote for as many electors as the state has senators and representatives in congress. The electors thus chosen constitute the electoral college. These electors meet in their respective states on the second Monday in January following, and vote by ballot for the two offices. Three lists of the persons voted for, and the number of votes received by each are certified and signed by all the electors and then sealed. On the second Wednesday of February the lists are opened by the president of the senate in the presence of the two houses of congress. The votes are then counted, and the winning candidates declared duly elected. The names of the presidential candidates do not appear on the ballot used at the election of the members of the electoral college.

French Drapery.

The French are pastmasters in the art of drapery fabrics. A Parisienne has truthfully said that French taste is distinctly feminine and as clear as the Gallic language itself, says an exchange. It possesses the genius of curves, the secret of what is graceful and the intuition of what brings about harmony. These characteristics are all to be found in French art, French industries and French creations.

It is in France that we find the work of the most skillful hands, the most artistic jewelry, the richest clothes and the most beautiful hats. In foreign countries the idea of ugliness or bad taste is never associated with the women of France.

His Only Solution.

Richard was playing with a toy machine. His mother heard an unusual commotion and hurried to the room. On entering she found poor Pete, his doll, with a broken head. In reply to her questions as to what had happened to Pete, Richard only shook his head and mumbled each time: "Richie, ruff-neck."

Building-up for the Spring Attack at the Front is a good deal like putting the body in condition for an invasion of the germs of grip, pneumonia or "Spring fever," here at home.

At this time of the year most people suffer from a condition often called "Spring Fever." They feel tired, worn out, before the day is half thru. They may have frequent headaches and sometimes "pimples" or pale skin and white lips. The reason for this is that during the winter time, shut-up with doors, eating too much meat and too little green vegetables, one heaps fuel into the system which is not burned up, and the cinders remain to poison the system—a clogging up of the circulation—with inactive liver and kidneys. Time to put your house in order.

For an invigorating tonic which will clarify the blood, put new life in the body, sparkle the eyes, and a wholesome skin, nothing does so well as a glyceric herb extract made from Golden Seal root, Blood and Stone root, Oregon grape root and Wild Cherry bark. This can be had in convenient, ready-to-use tablet form at all drug stores, sixty cents, and has been sold for the past fifty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By reason of the nerves feeding on the blood, when the blood is pure the nerves feel the effect, and neuralgia or other nerve pains disappear because such pain is the cry of the starved nerves for food. When suffering from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired feeling, the simple way to overcome these disorders is merely to obtain Dr. Pierce's Anuric from your druggist. In tablets, sixty cents.

Reason for His Question.

His mother said: "Why?" He said: "Because I called her Katherine and she didn't answer me."

Had To Quit Work Gave Up Hope of Recovery, But Doan's Restored His Health. Has Been Well Since.

J. B. Eagles, carpenter, 210 W. 50th St., Chicago, Ill., says: "My back gave out completely and I had to quit work. I could hardly endure the pain in my back and nights I tossed and turned, unable to sleep. Often in the morning my back was as stiff as a board, so that I couldn't stoop to dress myself. When I did manage to bend over, everything before me turned black. My head seemed to be whirling and sometimes I was so dizzy I had to grasp something to keep from falling."

"The kidney secretions were irregular in passage, getting me up at night and the passages burned cruelly. I lost my appetite, was weak and listless and went down twenty-five pounds in weight. When I had almost given up hope, Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. Soon after, I passed an examination for life insurance and I'm glad to say my cure has lasted."

PISO'S

LETTER FROM LOCAL BOY IN FRANCE

The following letter of interest has been received by F. W. Brockway from one of his nephews who is now with the U. S. Expeditionary forces in France.

Somewhere in France, Feb. 24th, 1918.

F. W. Brockway,
Carrizozo, N. M.
Dear Uncle:

Received your letter a few days ago, and was more than glad to hear from you. Generally our mail is about two months coming over here from the states, but you can bet it is well read when it does get here. The last mail I received was January 7th and was nearly seven weeks on the water.

I hardly know what to write. There are so many things of interest going on over here that the censor will not allow to go through. We have been here two months and were fifteen days crossing the "pond." Fourteen of the fifteen days we were out of sight of land.

We had remarkably nice weather on the trip, but we had several good submarine scares that we could have done very well without. The last two days of the trip everybody was on the job, looking for the dreaded periscope, for, believe me, there are parts of the ocean that are nothing short of a "floating hell."

I consider that I was extremely fortunate in escaping the "joys" of sea sickness. We lost one of our boys on the trip, and he was buried at sea with military honors. After landing, which I think was about the happiest time of my life, for old Mother Earth certainly did look good to me. We had a four-day trip by rail which took us to our present camp. While we are not in the immediate vicinity of the front, we are close enough to hear the "Big Babies" when there is any bombarding going on.

Both sides seem to be making preparations for the "big doins" this coming summer. All able bodied men are in the army over here. Women are acting as conductors and brakemen on the railroads, and the gentler sex are doing the work of men in the machine shops and munition factories. In the wine rooms, fair French maidens have taken the places of the big bar tenders and every place one can see that the women are working and the men are fighting.

As to sanitation, it is merely a word without a definition to the French people. We passed an infirmary one day, where we saw the blood running through a trough into the street from the operating table. They dump their garbage wherever it is the most convenient, very often in the front yard. When we turn loose this summer, there will be something doing. It seems that the kaiser has the same taste for democracy, that a child has for castor oil.

Tell Fred when he starts over to bring plenty of tobacco and "3 in 1 Oil," for it is so damp here that a gun will rust over night. I will close for this time with love to all, I am

Merited Ability

The attention of the Mountaineer was called last week by our old friend Clement Hightower, of Hondo, to the following article in "World's Work," relative to Mr. Ralph Crews, son of our neighbor, Seth F. Crews, of Os-curo, N. M. Ralph was appointed about the first of the year to the position of Legal Advisor of the Ordinance Bureau of the War Department, because of his signal ability as an organizer and his great faculty for "speeding up business."

"When Ralph Crews was seventeen years of age—he is forty now—he began the study of law, working as a clerk in his father's law-office by day and attending the Chicago College of Law by night. He was admitted to the bar before he was twenty-one. When only twenty years old he was general counsel for the National Packing Company—the old beef trust, since dissolved. In this capacity he continued until 1912, when the dissolution came.

His chief characteristics are concentration and energy, for example: He prepared the evidence in the trial of the ten big Chicago packers accused of violation of the Sherman Act, which resulted in their acquittal. During the trial, and without warning the Government demanded by the following morning a list of all original stock-holders of all packing concerns—there were several dozen of them—affiliated with the National Packing Co. The counsel for the packers were sure it could not be done. To trace the countless changes in ownership would involve a search through scores of record books. But Crews spent the night in his office, working there until within five minutes of court time the following day. He appeared in court, as the bailiff sounded his gavel, with a great chart, showing ownership of stock in all packing concerns carried through, transfer by transfer, down to the last owners. "He can recall any business transaction, even down to any letter or document connected with it, without resorting to a file or clerk. He is a champion concentrator. He plays whole heartedly as he works. Once out on the golf links or reading history or driving his motor, business is a blank page."

It might be further mentioned that Ralph Crews is a Republican. His appointment to the responsible position he now holds in the Democratic administration is on the basis of merited ability. —Capitan Mountaineer.

YOUR FLAG AND MY FLAG

The Honor Flag

HELP OUR COMMUNITY TO WIN THE RIGHT TO FLY THIS FLAG.

Every Country or Community can win the right to fly the Flag shown above, by over-subscribing their quota to the Third Liberty Loan.

Doubt may arise in the minds of some people as to whether a flag can be won by a county only, or by a particular community. The feeling of the Government about the matter is that where a town or city is large enough to have a separate quota assigned to it, that city or town can have an Honor Flag for itself. For instance, the County Executive Committee will assign a separate quota for Denison and Sherman in Grayson County, Texas. This illustration will give some idea of how the matter will be arranged. The rules governing the question of what communities shall have the right to earn and fly an Honor Flag must necessarily be somewhat elastic. You may be sure of one thing: that wherever a community determines to go "Over the Top" with the Third Liberty Loan, provision will be made by the Federal Reserve Bank, as agent for the Government, for recognition of the patriotism of that community by awarding an Honor Flag.

The Honor Flag measures 36x54 inches. It has a red border and a white center, and three vertical blue stripes. As an additional Honor emblem, a blue star, to be sewn into the white field of the Flag, will be awarded to communities every time they increase their quotas by a hundred per cent. In other words, if a town's quota is $100,000, it will be entitled to an Honor Flag when its subscriptions reach this amount, and when the subscriptions

USE MORE POTATOES.

WE consume the 1917 record breaking potato crop. Government experts have estimated that over 700,000 extra acres of potatoes were planted last year. The United States Food Administration is endeavoring to push the nation's big potato stocks into channels of trade and has placed potatoes on the list of substitutes that may be bought along with wheat flour.

Potato soup has become a war dish. Here is a recipe that has been tested by United States Food Administration experts. Ingredients needed are three potatoes, one quart of milk, two slices onion, three tablespoons butter substitute, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half tablespoons salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, few grains cayenne and one teaspoon chopped parsley.

Cook potatoes in boiled salted water. When soft run through a strainer. Scald milk with onion, remove onion and add milk slowly to potatoes. Melt the fat, add dry ingredients, stir until well mixed, then stir into boiling soup. Cook one minute, strain and sprinkle with barley.

reach $200,000 it will be entitled to one blue star.

Every bank will be supplied with window cards 7x9 inches, which will show a reproduction of the Honor Flag, and have a space for the subscribers name. The subscriber will write his name on the window card and display it in his residence or at his place of business.

The raising of the Honor Flag in any community, should be made the occasion of a great patriotic demonstration, and be made one of the greatest events in the life of the community.

In many communities there will be used in connection with the Honor Flag system, the "Honor Roll." This will give a list of the names of subscribers to the Third Liberty Loan. The list will be placed in the most prominent position in town, outside of the Liberty Loan headquarters, or possibly the postoffice in smaller communities, and the list will be added to frequently and kept up to date. Every man who values his self-respect and the opinion of his neighbors will want to have his name appear on the Honor Roll.

There is not a single county in the whole of the Eleventh Federal Reserve District, or a single city or town large enough to be given a separate quota, that will not earn the right to fly this Flag eventually.

The one question before the people in any community is whether they will at once spring to the aid of their country, or whether they will wait and come in at the last moment.

The value of service depends largely upon its promptness. What kind of service is your community going to render to the Government—a quick, willing one, or a grudging one?

Your whole community has been enlisted in the army of the United States that is to win this war. Be good soldiers—obey orders promptly. Your orders are "Over the Top, Civilians! Over the Top With the Liberty Loan."

TO THE OLD WOMAN AND THE NEW WOMAN

Greeting. The best kind of men, the men who count for most in the world, the men who have "done things", almost without exception have been inspired by women. Dante was inspired by Beatrice—whom he saw only once. Socrates was inspired by a lady of whom he saw and heard too much. Henry VIII of England made history at the instigation of a number of ladies. Shelley wrote some of his best work under the influence of Mary Wollstonecraft, before she became his wife. But these women never did anything. They stood on pedestals and radiated inspiration.

Times have changed, and apparently women have changed. I do not know today of a single woman of my acquaintance, nor do I read of one in contemporary history, who is willing to be a silent partner in the business of a man's life, whether that business be running a kingdom, writing poetry, thinking great thoughts, or running a business.

The influence which women now exert and the inspiration which they offer to the male of the species comes from their leadership in human activities.

Those of us who are interested in the raising of the Liberty Loan in this section gladly accept the new order of things and call upon the new order of women to inspire and influence the men of the district by their actions and their example rather than by any attempt to stand on a pedestal and let somebody else do the work.

Woman today is claiming equal rights with man, and cannot expect to enjoy these unless she is willing to take her share of the responsibilities which rights and privileges always carry with them. The woman who believes in the equal civic right of the sexes is bound to take at least as active a part in the war as do the men. She can do no less unless she wishes to violate her own creed.

Let no one suppose for one moment that the writer of these lines imagines that the modern woman is less approachable on the grounds of her womanhood and her motherhood than the old fashioned woman who was content to knit socks, wash the children, and inspire her husband; but it is permissible to point out that the newer type of woman should help in the Liberty Loan Movement because she is a woman, a wife and a mother, and because in addition to all these things she is bound absolutely by the creed of the new womanhood to vie with men for supremacy in the realm of initiative and action.

It seems not unlikely that the women of the Eleventh Federal Reserve District will be the determining factor in campaign work during the Third Liberty Loan Campaign, and these remarks are addressed to the women of the District in the hope that they will take in this important work the position which they have claimed as their own; namely, that of comrade, co-worker, even leader, in all matters in which both men and women are jointly concerned for the national good.

A FIGHTING AMERICAN

Mrs. Ora B. LeBow.

A letter was received recently by the officers of the Federal Reserve Bank at Dallas that made a deep impression on all who read it. We quote it in full:

"Your circular, 'The Victory of the Ages,' has just reached me today, and I assure you I endorse it with all my heart. I am a widow of a soldier, also a mother of one—and I have but one son. He enlisted in the U. S. N. last May. I gave my son to America and I am proud of him. He was my all. I am sixty-four years old. I did not have enough money last October to buy even a $50.00 Liberty Bond, but I want one. My son was on the sea at that time and could not send me any money until he reached his destination, but I have saved five and ten cents till I can now get one.

"What would you advise—wait till the next Loan is placed before the people? I believe that will be April the 6th. Kindly advise me.

"I am with you for victory or death. Oh, how I wish I was a boy just like mine, so I could do more to help win the war."

On receipt of the letter Mrs. LeBow was requested to write again, and, in her own way, tell just why everyone should buy Liberty Bonds. Her reply to this request is also quoted:

"Why should all people be glad to subscribe to these Liberty Bonds?"

"Because it takes money as well as men to win this war. We have the men, let's have the money. This is our part—the part for us who stay at home in ease and comfort. It is also the very least part that we can take, to loan to Uncle Sam our money, when he pays us back with interest. Our sons have said so gladly, 'Here am I, send me, Uncle Sam,'—some are now this minute in the trenches facing shot and shell, and shall we who have no hardships to endure, be less patriotic than they, who give their lives if need be, for our homes and country? Let us give as cheerfully of our money as they have of their lives and hopes for the future. For they are young men they have laid their all on their country's altar. Let us not hesitate to pledge our last dollar, and more, if Uncle Sam calls again. I do not think that the American people will be found wanting, and may the God who rules over the destinies of nations make us strong to lift high the Star Spangled Banner, and never let the old flag fall, at home or abroad, and, like Patrick Henry said, 'Give me liberty or give me death.' Then, and only then, will we win this dreadful war."

Is there one among us who can not or will not catch the spirit of this dear old Spartan mother?

She responds in spirit and in reality, to the call of country and humanity. She gives her all, husband, son, and carefully hoarded scanty savings, so that the world "may be made a safe place to live in."

What a demonstration of patriotism, sacrifice, and whole-hearted co-operation is presented in the view-point of this aged mother!

With the same spirit having possession of all our hearts and minds, it can easily be seen why the Third Liberty Loan will be subscribed with a rush, and Uncle Sam will have the benefit of our efforts toward maintaining our nation's share of the world's fight for a lasting peace, a peace not dictated by German force and brutality.

Good Old Runaway

Some people of Carrizozo witnessed a good old fashioned runaway the first part of this week. The horses seemed to realize that their days of usefulness had about passed, and decided to treat the public to a run for its money before the auto truck makes horse-runaways impossible.

The team, hitched to a rock wagon, started on North Alamo-gordo Ave., and made in the direction of the Post Office. Hearing the noise, many of the business men and clerks, flocked to the sidewalks to witness the sight, and everybody seemed desirous of allowing the horses to have their fun unmolested.

Watchers saw the team attempt to make a turn at Mrs. Kahler's millinery store, but they made the turn too quick, for in so doing, the wagon whirled against the sign, taking pole and sign with it in the mad jamboree.

The team passed the Exchange Bank like a spectre. On and on they went, gradually turning in the direction of the Malpais, advertising Mrs. Kahler's millinery as they went. They were finally stopped, after having made about a four mile run.

Patriotic Address

Last Sunday night Dr. David R. Boyd of Albuquerque, N. M., delivered an address at the Methodist Church which was remarkable from a patriotic standpoint. The speaker took two characters which he claimed, each saw in the other, danger for the country.

The first was called the philosopher of the upper class, who sees danger in the lower classes arising from ignorance of conception of what freedom of press and speech really mean, and in licensing themselves erroneously, override the bonds of liberty, and therefore are a menace to the country's welfare.

The next class is what the speaker termed the "Attic philosopher," who sees in the upper class, a danger resulting from the power, prestige and influence, which money exercises in the world today. They credit all National blunders etc., to the upper class, claiming it to be directly antagonistic to the best interests of the common good.

His remedy for both these evils was he said, for each class mentioned to arrive at the right conception of what right really is, as it is only three generations from shirt sleeve, to shirt sleeve. The lower class of today will be the upper class of tomorrow and both classes mentioned, need a conscious will directed by a proper conception to discern between right and wrong.

Two Spuds a Day Keeps Kaiser at Bay

"Think potatoes, eat potatoes, eat more potatoes, eat them three times a day, and save the crop," urges Roy A. Stamm, chief of the Division of Perishables of the Food Administration.

Stamm appeals to the people of New Mexico to eat all the potatoes they possibly can to the exclusion of wheat products and other foods. More than half of last year's crop, Stamm says, is yet to be moved; it would be a crime to let this great food resource be wasted after the way the farmers went to work and raised them last year at the call of the government. Grocers are urged to push the sale of potatoes all they can. The price will be put where it will back other foods off the boards; potatoes are to be the cheapest and most plentiful food; a "Potato Day" should be held weekly in every community, on which day every housewife is supposed to buy potatoes.

Death on the Rail

Last Tuesday a motor track car bearing a gang of workmen collided with a freight train instantly killing a man by the name of Alvin Carrillo, and severely injuring several more near Tecolote.

The freight train was going at full speed, when about to round a curve, the track motor hove in sight, and before the action force had time to detach the car from the track, the freight train collided with it, demolishing the track car and killing Carrillo.

The injured men were given medical attention as quickly as possible, and the remains of Carrillo taken to White Oaks for burial.

Warnings About Tomadoes

Conditions Usually Preceding Severe Windstorms and Precautions to Prevent Injury

The causes and effects of windstorms, the seasons when they are most likely to occur, how to forestall tornadoes, and precautions to prevent injury are outlined in a series of warnings issued by the United States weather bureau, which are briefly summarized as follows:

Tornadoes are usually preceded by high temperature and humidity—a weather condition generally said to be "sultry," "sticky," or "oppressive." Rain may come before, with, or after a tornado, or, very rarely, there may be no rain at all. The barometer does not foretell a tornado, though it indicates low pressures; and tornadoes always occur in a "low" area.

The season in which tornadoes may be expected varies according to the region. They may visit the Gulf states in winter, and as the season advances the region of greatest frequency is in the Plains states and the Mississippi valley, from April to September, inclusive. In this region May is the worst month, with April next. East of the Appalachian mountains, however, tornadoes rarely occur until after July. Generally they come between 3:30 and 5 p. m., but they may even come at night.

Persons may somewhat avoid tornado danger by watching the local signs and reading the weather maps, which at least show the conditions which favor tornado formation. The local signs are heavy, dark clouds, first in the southwest, almost immediately followed by clouds in the northwest and north. A funnel-shaped cloud is a sure sign, though there may be a tornado when such a cloud is not readily seen. If a funnel cloud cannot be seen, the whirling motion of the air may be known by a peculiar roaring noise, somewhat like the rumble of distant thunder or the approach of a heavy train of cars.

If one can see the cloud and get an idea of the direction in which it is moving, the zone of safety is at right angles to the direction of motion. The southern margin is usually more dangerous than the northern, and this should be remembered in seeking a place of safety. The width of the path of greatest destruction is ordinarily not more than a few hundred yards, though this destructive diameter may be, from some rods wide to a half mile, or sometimes wider. However, the worst part is comparatively narrow, and relative safety may be had only a short distance at right angles to the line of the advance of the tornado.

In some of the Plains states there are so-called "cyclone" cellars, and where these are not available the southwest corner of the cellar of a frame building is the next best place. Brick buildings are not so safe, but the cellar is probably the safest place in them. In the Omaha tornado of 1913 very few brick houses were seriously damaged. These are ordinarily unroofed, though sometimes the walls crumble or fall outward.

American Mills Are Urged to Manufacture Peanut Oil; Good Market for By-Products

It is possible with the use of improved machinery for cleaning, shelling and pressing peanuts, to make a high grade of oil in American mills which is well suited for use in cooking, according to the United States department of agriculture. Before the war cut off practically all imports of French and Dutch peanut oils, the United States was importing nearly 900,000 gallons a year at an average price for all grades, including soap stock, of more than half that of edible olive oil. Specialists of the department state that American oil mills should prepare to make this oil at home both to utilize the large peanut crop and to increase their profits.

Peanut oil mills, the specialists say, should be located where the farmers can profitably grow the Spanish type of peanuts, which are high in oil content and have less shell than the larger Virginia varieties. The mills should be equipped with peanut cleaners, and all the nuts, after going over screens to remove the stocks, stones and other trash, should be thoroughly scoured.

For the by-products obtained in the manufacture of peanut oil there is a growing market especially for the press cake, which stockmen now realize is a very high-grade cattle feed. There is also a demand for flour made from hull-less peanut cake for human food, and there is no reason why it should not become a popular article in human sustenance, the specialists say.

With the manufacture of high-grade peanut oil for cooking and shortening, the manufacture of hull-less peanut cake for human food and peanut-hull cake for stock feed, the millers can utilize all of the peanut crop to best advantage.

Paper in Surgery.

The increasing scarcity of cotton and linen for surgical dressings, compresses and bandages has resulted in experiments with a paper pulp fiber tissue substitute. An Oregon manufacturer has especially prepared a ton of such tissue which is now on its way to a medical surgeon in the war zone. If the experiments with this paper are successful it will result in an enormous saving in tonnage and shipping costs, since it could be manufactured in any quantities in France.—Textile World Journal.

Saving Foodstuffs

By MRS. LUTHER BURBANK
Wife of Noted Plant Scientist

In all ages the plentifulness of food or its shortage has meant victory or defeat.

When Napoleon made his great drive on Moscow, he accomplished his military objective, but he went down to defeat because he could not keep open his lines of communication. Italy lost a quarter of a million men to the Teutons a few months ago because of hunger. Napoleon's food ran short; his soldiers hungered and, while he had Russia on her knees and was himself still the military genius of old, starvation forced his retreat.

And so it will be in all ages and for all times. A well-nourished body means victory, whether in civilian or military pursuits, while a hungry person can neither fight nor work.

This country has been asked to save wheat, meat, fats and sugar. Why? Wheat is the grain most easily transported. It takes up less space and does not spoil. Europe knows nothing of handling cornmeal, and, even if she did, it would do her no good, because corn easily spoils. Wheat does not. The sugar shortage in Europe has been caused by lack of transportation, hence it is up to America to get this necessary food to them in our own ships and from our own supplies.

Fats are vital in making ammunition, such as nitroglycerin, and in keeping the soldiers in warmth-producing food. The chief reason why so much stress is laid upon the saving of pork is because it is the easiest kept and contains nourishment and fat. Pork products, such as bacon and hams and shoulders, may be kept for an indefinite period, whereas other meats will spoil unless they are kept upon ice. Refrigerator ships cannot be had, except in limited numbers, hence it is desirable to transport only those supplies which take up the least cargo space and with the minimum risk of spoiling.

No man or woman in this country would refuse a starving person a slice of bread, but this is, indirectly, what we are doing. The allies are holding back the German hordes while the American armies are preparing. Yet these people are in want; their children are suffering from lack of proper foods and if we refuse to give up some of our pleasures or tastes that their sufferings may be relieved, we are placed in the same position as one who has plenty yet will not give to the hungry.

Already we have shipped to the allies our surplus of wheat and now all future shipments must come direct from savings from our daily consumption. If we fail in this we will have sacrificed thousands upon thousands of lives to our taste and greed by prolonging the war. By getting food to the allies we enable them to hold Germany until American troops get on the fighting front, and once they are there, victory is in sight.

SOME SMILES

Serious Flight.
"Smith was telling the other night of the awful trouble he had one time when he was shipwrecked in getting away from a man-eating shark."
"Yes, but did he ever tell you how he succeeded in dodging his wife when she was after him for a bargain hunting shopping trip?"

Quick Success.
"Well," said the young lawyer, "I pleaded my first suit yesterday, and won it."
"You don't say!"
"Yes; congratulate me, old man; I'm engaged to Miss Rich."

With a Benediction.
A private had received from England a gift of a new pair of woolen socks, and put them on joyfully on the morning before a heavy march. He was soon limping, but got no chance to take his boots off till the end of a 20-mile day. Then he got the socks off, and found in the toe of one a piece of stiff writing paper, on which he could just read the words, written in a childish hand:
"God bless the wearer of this pair of socks!"

Drat the Cat.
"That man ought to be arrested! He threw a lump of coal at a cat!"
"Are you going to tell the S. P. C. A.?"

PRAYER OF THE ARMY MEN

At the going, when we stumble up the gangway to the ship,
While we wish, and curse the wish, that we could stay;
On the chance, as we watch the yearning cliffs of England dip;
Help us, Lord, to hide our sickened hearts away!
On the marches—oh the marches with the blisters on our feet,
When our kits weigh not much less than half a ton,
And our one idea of heaven is a place to sleep and eat—
Give us strength, Lord, till our thirty miles are done!
Through the weary, starlit vigils when we guard the sleeping tents,
When they huddle gray behind us in the gloom,
Bid us challenge every phantom that our fear of death invents;
Keep your ears alert to hear the creeping doom!
In the trenches, with the bullet-ridden earthworks spitting dust,
And the shrapnel rife muskets spitting snuff;
In the smothering bayonet charges with the thrust and wrench and thrust,
Near us what we, dying, call upon Thy name!
In the winning, in the losing, in the triumph, in the despair,
Be we victors or the holders of defeat,
Keep us mindful of the honor of a nation that we bear;
Let our souls, Lord, be above the tale we meet!

Famous Tower of Babel Would Not Be Considered in the Nature of a Wonder Today.

The tower of Babel was only 140 feet high, but as it was built upon an elevated foundation it was the loftiest object in Babylon, a city of low buildings, spread over a flat plain, says the New York Evening World. This description of the most famous structure of ancient times has been obtained from recent translations of old Assyrian records, some inscribed on tablets of burnt clay.

The tower was a temple and the architectural pride of Babylon. The lowest of its seven stories was 272 feet square, and it was constructed of the only available material, sun-dried brick, faced with burned brick. It was probably topped with an astronomical observatory, or rather one for the use of astrologists, a calling followed by many priests of Babylonia. Babylon, with a population of 2,000,000, was then the metropolis of the world, and its great area, twice that of London, was encircled by a wall 55 miles in length. The tower of Babel was a temple, containing wonderful golden statues and other treasures, and it was in attempting to describe these that the tongues of men were confused.

To Study War in College.
With the record-breaking enrollment of 1,080 regular students and many others who attend more or less regularly, the course on the great war, a special course of lectures, is proving itself one of the most popular courses ever given at the University of Wisconsin.

The course, which was established last spring, continued during summer session and during both semesters this year, meets twice a week to hear lectures on various phases of the war and its problems by professors and others who have made special studies of particular problems.

Although students receive but one credit for the course, 1,080 students from all colleges are regularly enrolled and many others attend without enrolling. About 200 from outside the university attend regularly, since the lectures are open to the public.—University Bulletin.

FOOLISH TO NEGLECT CUT

Many Cases on Record Where Seemingly Unimportant Wound Has Led to Blood Poisoning.

Do you treat a cut on your finger properly? Or do you just take a chance of it healing? Day after day people are having fingers and arms amputated because they failed to take care of a little cut. The cut became infected and in many cases blood-poisoning set in and the injured member had to be cut off. It is very easy to take care of a little cut yourself, but if the cut is a large one see the doctor or go to a hospital. Iodine is a drug which is very much used on cuts as an antiseptic. In the operating rooms of large hospitals you always see the bottle of iodine. When you cut a finger, just put some iodine on it. This is the best thing you can use. It kills the germs that are in the cut and discourages the attempt of other germs to enter the cut. After the cut has been cleaned and saturated with iodine and the blood has stopped, it may be well to apply some collodion. This acts as a new skin. A cut is merely a cut when it is treated right, and right away. It may mean something worse, and entail even the loss of a limb if you put off giving it proper attention.

And Teacher Fainted.
"Good morning, children," said the arithmetic teacher. "How many of you have prepared an original problem in multiplication, as I requested?" Only one hand went up.
"Well, William you may give your problem, and the rest of the class may solve it."
"If my baby sister is a year old now and weighs 20 pounds, and keeps on gaining two ounces a day until she is sixteen years old; and if the price of living doubles again in the next ten years, how much will my elster's graduation outfit cost? Mother says she would like to know."
—People's Home Journal.

Past History.
Elsie's mother held the opinion that instruction should be given to children incidentally whenever possible. Therefore on different occasions at the table Elsie learned that veal is cut from a little calf, that slices of bacon once helped to make a pig, and so on. One morning at breakfast she looked up from her plate with a puzzled expression.
"Mamma," she inquired, "what was hash when it was alive?"

The Nasal System.
While mother was arranging the pantry shelves Marjory handed her the spice boxes, mentioning each spice by name. Presently she said: "Mamma, I can read."
"Can you, dear?"
"Yes, mamma," said Marjory, "but I don't read like you. I read by smell."

Scenes of Prosperity Are Common in Western Canada

The thousands of U. S. farmers who have accepted Canada's generous offer to settle on homesteads or buy farm land in her provinces have been well repaid by bountiful crops of wheat and other grains.

Where you can buy good farm land at $15 to $20 per acre—get $2 a bushel for wheat and make 30 to 45 bushels to the acre you are bound to make money—that's what you can do in Western Canada.

In the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta you can get a

HOMESTEAD OF 160 ACRES FREE

and other land at very low prices.

During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 30 bushels to the acre—many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley, and Flax.

Good Farming is as profitable an industry as grain raising. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate moderate. Write for literature and particulars to the nearest railway station or Dept. of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to Directoire Frocks Look as Though Grafted on Egyptian.

Girdled High Under the Bust, Having Short Sleeves and a Slight Round Neck—Short Hair.

In the reaction toward the directoire, which has come about through the influence of many designers, there is a return to the classicism that was insisted upon by Mme. Tallien and Josephine in the days of the directoire. You remember, recalls a fashion correspondent, that these two women established simplicity and, history says, semi-nudity, as a protest to the extraordinary frivolity of the gowns of Marie Antoinette.

Our fashionable women have already adopted the short hair which these two brought into fashion in France, and which was called the "coiffure a la victime." Today the hair is worn pulled up on top of the head, sometimes ending in a mass of ringlets, as was the fashion of the directoire, when the short locks were considered a badge of honor.

These directoire frocks are one-piece slips, girdled high under the bust, with short sleeves and a slight round neck. Callot makes them to look as though they were directoire grafted on Egyptian—a curious combination indeed.

SHOULD SPONGE WOOLENS

Treatment of Material Before Being Made Up Will Prevent Its Shrinking and Water Spotting.

Woolen materials should be sponged before being made up in order to avoid shrinkage and water spotting.

Lay the material on a table that has been padded and covered smoothly with a cloth that is free from lint. Cover the woolen material with a wet cloth and press with a fairly hot iron until the cloth is almost dry, when it should be removed and the woolen itself pressed until it is dry. In pressing, the iron should be lifted and placed rather than pushed along. If the material to be sponged has a nap, the pressing should be done with the nap.

If double width material is to be sponged, it may be left folded, right side in. The wet cloth on one side is sufficient to stem both thicknesses, but both sides should be pressed in order to insure dryness.

COLORFUL HATS HAVE CALL

Gobelin Blue, Rose Pink, Mandarin Yellow, Leaf Green and Scarlet Attached to Black, Favorites.

The milliners have especially laid stress upon hats in color, instead of black. The world should be quite weary of black on the head, for it has had six years of velvet, straw and satin in this cambray shade. We are now to wear gobelin blue, rose pink, mandarin yellow, leaf green and scarlet attached to black.

The turban is the thing, although there are women who cannot abide it, who look ill in it and who insist upon the brim.

If they do, they will be in fashion. There is no one law that governs the whole. The beaver dam turban, however, with its round crown, is a somewhat new note in millinery.

And another thing that is of interest is that the French milliners have taken the collar and put it on the hat. They have insisted for three years upon what is known as the fence collar—a wired, upstanding ruffle of or-

COAT FOR SPRING WEAR

Styles come and go, but the clothes used in making them stay pretty near the same. Corduroy always has been the practical cloth for a spring coat, for it gives just the quantity of warmth that is needed for spring days when sunshine is mixed with breezes. Styles in using corduroy have changed greatly, but corduroy is still used. The color, too, has changed for the better, for this jade corduroy makes a very pretty effect and with its dainty style, the coat is well-nigh perfect. The collar is of tan velours. The belt on the coat, fastened in front with three buttons, is the only slight suggestion of fanciful style.

Suits of Silk Poplin.

The revival of silk poplin is a bit of news that appeals to the majority of women. The fabric makes admirable coat suits, and with the modern activity of nearly every woman in this country there will not be such a wide demand as usual for frocks that need constant cleaning and laundering.

The late spring and summer will probably usher in a vast array of women dressed in silk poplin, shantung, the thinnest gaberdine, satin and dark foulard.

The tailored suit which is adopted by such numbers of women doing active relief work has already set its impress upon the fashions, and it is quite probable, despite the talk of the dressmakers, that coat suits of silk poplin in black, beige, brown and blue will rise to unusual heights of popularity. Let us hope this may come about.

Lemons Whiten and Beautify the Skin! Make Cheap Lotion

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothen and beautifier.

Just try it! Make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the hidden roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.

Your druggist will sell three ounces of orchard white at little cost, and any grocer will supply the lemons. Adv.

CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IN MAN POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIBERTY

The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply.

Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist

Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be seeded, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seeding operation.

Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 225,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels

To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. The Government of the United States wants every man who can effectively help, to do farm work this year. It wants the land in the United States developed first of course but it also wants to help Canada. Whenever we find a man we can spare to Canada's fields after ours are supplied, we want to direct him there.

Apply to our Employment Service, and we will tell you where you can best serve the combined interests.

Western Canada's help will be required not later than May 5th. Wages to competent help, $10.00 a month and up, board and lodging.

Those who respond to this appeal will get a warm welcome, good wages, good board and find comfortable homes. They will get a rate of one cent a mile from Canadian boundary points to destination and return.

Titsworth's Store Robbed

The firm of Titsworth & Co. of Capitan, was robbed last Sunday night. Word was conveyed to Sheriff Hyde of the robbery and Deputy Ed Harris, who is an avowed enemy of all evil-doers, started out on a reconnoitering tour to apprehend the guilty parties. He went from here to Capitan, where after a consultation with Deputy Will Read of that place, the latter remembered having met a man going through his pasture Sunday afternoon, who said he was going to Capitan to buy goods Monday, and further informed Will that he had struck camp the night before at the ranch belonging to Mr. Moss.

Deputies Harris and Read made an examination of the trail taken by the stranger and found that one of his horses was small and the other large. The larger of the two wore heavy shoes, while the small one was entirely unshod. This discovery afforded the officers a good clew, which followed up, led to the discovery that the team belonged to the guilty party.

The officers followed the trail. It led them in the direction of Ancho and after passing Coyote, they noticed a camp pitched in a brush patch to the left of the road, and upon an investigation, found the object of their search calmly going about his camp duties as though nothing had happened. He first claimed to have purchased the goods at Capitan, but after being brought to Carrizozo, he admitted to the stealing, gave his name as Herculano Martinez, and on being arraigned before Judge Medler Tuesday afternoon, pleaded guilty to the theft and was sentenced to from five to seven years in the state penitentiary.

The following amount of goods was found in his possession, which compared with the loss sustained by the Titsworth Company: Nine sacks flour, one sack potatoes, one sack beans, 25 pounds dried apples, one case oysters, one case pure lard, one box soap, 13 pounds coffee, 50 pounds salt, 18 cans milk, 13 cans pork and beans, seven cans salmon, two large cans baking powder, one four-pound pail cottolene, three gallon syrup, five sacks meal and four packages cream of wheat.

He made the steal, was tracked up, arrested, tried, convicted, sentenced and sent to prison all in a space of forty-eight hours. Can you beat it?

Buying Newspaper Cause of Man Returning Flour

Mr. Charlie Hibler, a farmer living near Mountainair, drove into town and bought fifty pounds of wheat flour and fifty pounds of corn meal. He also bought a newspaper. When he got home he read in the newspaper that the flour rations of the French soldiers had been reduced below the small quantity hitherto doled out. Mr. Hibler promptly drove back to town with his fifty pounds of flour, returned it to the store and announced that he would eat no more wheat products until the end of the war.

Lieut. Gregory, inspector of the Food Administration, told the story at the movies in Mountainair. Next day another farmer, P. Sellers, turned in 500 pounds of flour and by

Kahler's War Bread

Mr. William Kahler, Sr., has been engaged in deep study of late to arrange a substitute for wheat bread. The following recipe if properly followed, he claims, will make enough biscuit or pancakes for a family of five people.

Mr. Kahler has given the recipe a thorough test, and knows whereof he speaks, and says a trial will convince the most sceptical. It will be seen at a glance that a great saving of flour is very evident, as the recipe which furnishes enough bread for five people, contains but one teacup full of flour.

Here you are ladies:

KAHLER'S WAR BREAD

One pint boiled mashed potatoes, one cup sour milk, one egg, one teaspoonful baking powder, one-half teaspoonful sugar, salt to season, flour enough to stiffen batter, which will be about one teacup full.

DADDY KAHLER.

that evening a total of 2000 pounds had been turned in and many more patriotic citizens declared they had sworn off on wheat.

Stories are coming in from many states of similar action. Arkansas and Texas counties have turned in large quantities of flour, and a wave of wheatless, flourless patriotism is sweeping over the country. But the Food Administration believes the action of the Mountainair men has set an example for the whole country.

If buying a newspaper was the means of conserving this enormous amount of precious food, it shows what a power the newspaper is, and what a prestige it has for good. It should also serve as an example to those who are negligent about buying newspapers.

"God, The Democrat"

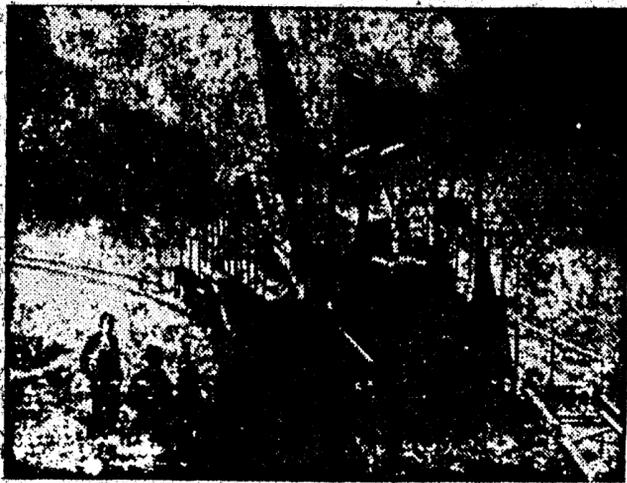

Sunday morning, Frank H. H. Roberts, President of the Normal University of Las Vegas, delivered a telling sermon at the Methodist Church. His subject was "God the Democrat."

The speaker first told of the Ancient Idea of God as a God of War, ruling with an iron hand, taking a principal part in battles and bloodshed of all kinds. He drew a picture of this God as a magnified man: one who sat on a throne of fire, ruling with a club; a God who delighted in poverty, pestilence, pain and sorrow.

He then told of the true God, and quoted from the scriptures where He said He would dwell Among His people. A God of Love instead of hate, of mercy instead of tyranny, of long suffering instead of fault finding, and without variableness neither shadow of turning.

The speaker claimed that the people, after having been taught the true nature of God as Jesus described Him, had lost sight of Him and the only way in which to find Him, would be to know him as Jesus did, as Father of Kindness Truth, Love, a gentle God in whose realm democracy prevails. The public would be greatly benefitted by more frequent visits from Dr. Roberts.

GIGANTIC FRENCH WAR EXHIBIT TO TOUR STATE

There is now being assembled at Waco, Texas, several car loads of every conceivable kind of fighting apparatus that is used on the battle fields of Europe, in the submarine warfare, and in the sky. The exhibit is the property of the French Government and is in charge of Mr. H. B. Coles, representative of the French High Commission. Mr. Coles is being aided in the arranging of the trophies by Mr. M. L. Fuller, special representative of the Missouri Pacific R. R.

This priceless collection will, when ready, be transferred to the American Government, and in turn into the care of the officials of the Eleventh Federal Reserve District.

Arrangements have been completed to divide the exhibit into two trains of five cars each, each train being composed of two flat cars, two baggage cars, and sleeper. The routing and transportation of the trains over the territory comprising this Federal Reserve District is in the hands of Mr. O. W. Campbell, assistant to chief operating officer of the M. K. & T. Ry. The itinerary will allow for the inspection of the exhibit by the largest number of people possible in the various sections of the District. Two to three hour stops will be made at cities and towns en route. Each train will have a lecturer to explain in detail the history of the relics, and American soldiers will act as a Guard of Honor. The trains will start on this pilgrimage on the morning of April 6th, the opening day for the Third Liberty Loan drive. To attempt to describe in detail the history of this collection would be to tell the full story of the war. Nothing like it has ever been seen in America.

There is shown the type of torpedo that sank the Lusitania, airplanes, parts of Zeppelins, and every description of rifle and cannon that is being utilized.

They look—the airplanes and the 75's, the millitrulleuses and the trench mortars, and the caissons and the big gun carriages with the barrels shot away—as if they had been through every known kind of warfare.

The big French 75 millimeter cannon, a part of this exhibit, was damaged at the battle of the Yser. It shoots 23 times per minute, and without rest, an automatic cooling process making this possible. This immense gun is so perfectly balanced that one man can move it around. The range is four miles. The barrel is perforated with machine gun holes, made in close quarter fighting.

These are the guns that helped save Paris at the Marne, when the Germans were within fifteen miles of the capital.

A captured German airplane of the "Albatross" type, with a speed of 125 miles per hour is shown. When brought down, the two occupants, both officers, were dead; one of them wore the "Iron Cross" of bravery, and the machine itself, evidently for previous meritorious service, was designated with the same insignia.

There is a large German mortar of the "Minniewerfer" type, which was captured at the Marne by General Joffre's men. This piece is used to break down heavy defenses, and wherever it hits, everything is annihilated within a radius of several hundred yards.

You will see one of the French 400 millimeter guns that shoots a 16 inch shell and carries 24 miles, and is effective at 20 miles.

There is a collection of German 12 inch shells, captured at the Battle of Aires.

A notable relic is a Zeppelin bomb weighing 175 lbs. Each Zeppelin crew consists of 14 men, 2 machine guns, and 14 tons of projectiles.

There are liquid bombs for incendiary purposes. A defective German shell that burst out at the side, probably killing the nearest Boche—a French machine gun that shoots 550 shots per minute, the cartridges being fed on steel clips containing 26 cartridges each—a German trench mortar captured at Soissons—French catapults, a medieval style brought up to date, which throw grenades with immense force.

A peculiarly interesting piece is the gun carriage of one of the giant 120 millimeter French siege guns. This particular gun carriage was recently recognized by a French Officer visiting Waco, who declared his promotion was gained in an action around this gun. He shed tears of emotion when he satisfied himself of the gun's identity.

For trench war-fare, gun rests with periscopes are shown, so that the gunner can fire his weapon without putting his head in jeopardy. Supporting these mute but eloquent relics are upwards of four hundred actual battle front photographs, some of very large size.

The desperate character of the fighting above the earth is depicted in a vivid way by a close examination of the captured Albatross biplane, whose canvas wings are perforated in hundreds of places, and whose control wires are all wrenched and twisted into tangled masses.

The big Zeppelin bombs, the aerial bombs with fluted rudders, tell their grim story of death to women and children. The whole atmosphere of this hallowed collection of battle-scarred relics is redolent of deeds of valor, of sacrifice, and the determination to put out of the way for all time, this damnable Russian octopus whose poisonous tentacles must be loosed once and for all.

A Message from America's Roads

SECURE certainty of service in Tested Tires. They give sure service because it is proven service. Their endurance and mileage have been proved in the one way to assure mileage to the motorist, on the car on the road.

Hearken to that 1918 message, the roads of America send American motorists. Last year Goodrich, launching six Test Car Fleets in six widely different regions of our country, took Goodrich Tires, and with light and heavy cars mauled them over sand, gravel and rock roads of plains, deserts and mountains, to try out—

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

What those tires endured doubled Goodrich's pride in its tires. They fought America's roads through 4,178,744 tire miles. They conquered the roads of America in that phenomenal mileage, those BLACK SAFETY TREADS and SILVERTOWN CORDS.

Let American motorists listen to this message from America's roads. It means time and money saved them. They get lasting service with the tires that have won the title, "America's Tested Tires."

HELP IN 50-50 WHEAT PROGRAM

Thousands of Retail Grocers Support Food Administration Rules.

SIGN PLEDGE VOLUNTARILY.

New Wheat Saving Program Demanded — Allied Food Shortage Increases—America Must Feed Fighters.

Explaining the United States Food Administration's new 50-50 wheat regulations is a war time task the American grocer has gladly shouldered. Many stores are already displaying their Food Administration wheat saving pledge cards, that they have signed, agreeing to carry out the new wheat program.

Each flour customer is now required to buy one pound of cereal substitute for every pound of wheat flour. The substitute may be of one kind or assorted. This 50-50 sale is made by weight and not by value of the commodities. There is, of course, no regulation demanding the consumer to buy wheat flour at all.

A wide variety of substitutes has been provided: Cornmeal, corn flour, edible cornstarch, hominy, corn grits, barley flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, soya bean flour, Feterita flour and meals, rice, rice flour, oatmeal, rolled oats and buckwheat flour.

Graham and whole wheat flour constitute an exception to the national regulation. Either of these commodities may be sold at the ratio of three pounds to five pounds of wheat flour—that is, five pounds of graham or wheat flour counts the same as three pounds of the usual wheat flour.

Mixed flours constitute an exception. Where the ratio is 50 per cent. of sold without any substitutes. Where the flour is mixed at the ratio of 60 per cent. wheat and 40 per cent. of other ingredients an additional 20 per cent. of substitutes must be purchased by the consumer.

Where necessity is shown specially prepared infant's and invalid's food containing flour may be sold.

That the approved substitutes may be assorted is a fact many grocers and housewives overlooked for a time. For instance, if a customer wishes to buy a 24 pound sack of flour the necessary substitutes might be assorted as follows: Cornmeal, 8 pounds; corn grits, 4 pounds; rice, 4 pounds; buckwheat, 2 pounds; cornstarch, 1 pound; hominy, 2 pounds; rolled oats, 3 pounds.

None of the substitutes should be considered as a waste purchase. There are many household uses for each. The eight pounds of cornmeal can be made into cornbread, corn muffins or used in the baking of wheat bread.

Cornstarch is useful in making custard, thickening gravy or may be used in cake baking. Corn grits fried like mush forms a delicious dish, or it may be used in baking corn bread. Rolled oats are used largely as breakfast porridge or in oatmeal cookies or in making muffins.

Buckwheat flour may be used in bread-making, forming an excellent substitute for one-quarter of the wheat flour, but is especially choice in the form of buckwheat cakes for breakfast.

With 11 wheatless meals needed each week in America to provide enough wheat for the allies, the Food Administration believes the substitutes will all be used to advantage.

Our Part in Feeding the Nation

(Special Information Service, United States Department of Agriculture.)

LET THE BEES HELP THE SUGAR SUPPLY.

Save the Swarms and Make Every Colony Do Its Best This Year.

BEES WILL HELP PROVIDE SWEETS

Better Care of Colonies Is Best Way to Quicken Supply of This Crop.

SUGAR NEEDED TO HELP WAR

Present Stock of Honey Could Be Increased 10 to 20 Times Without Appreciable Increase in Cost Per Pound.

More honey is needed to help the sugar supply—and needed in 1918. It is imperative, using the language of officials of the United States Department of Agriculture in a recent publication, that we increase not only the sugar crop in the United States, but every possible supply of sweets, and honey is one of the supplemental sweets the supply of which can be enlarged without great effort. Not only should those who already keep bees enlarge the number of their colonies, but the industry should also be extended, say federal officials, to localities where beekeeping has not been tried on a commercial scale. It is important that efforts be made to make the honey increase immediate—more honey this year.

Provides Nutritious Food.

It is quite possible for the American beekeeping industry to be developed so that the honey crop will be ten times what it is at present. Not only would such a development be valuable in an emergency, such as the present crisis, but in normal times, to which all hope the nation may speedily return, the beekeeping industry can provide a concentrated nutritious food, almost universally liked and assuredly an article of diet preferable to the inferior sirups and jams so commonly used. The beekeeping industry may be the means of conserving a national resource now largely wasted, changing it into nature's own sweet. The raw material is free on every hand; the investment for equipment is small in comparison with other branches of agriculture; the profits are fully commensurate with the study and labor involved. It would seem profitable to stop such a waste of so desirable a supply of sugars. This waste can be prevented only by the education of beekeepers.

In selecting a place for commercial beekeeping, attention should be paid to the regions best adapted to the industry, and it should also be remembered that not all localities within a main region are equally valuable. The chief honey regions of the United States are (1) the white clover region of the Northeast, (2) the southeastern region, west to eastern Texas, with a wide variety of nectar sources; (3) the alfalfa region of the West; (4) the mountain-sage region of southern California, and (5) the semiarid region of Texas and adjacent states. In all of these regions commercial beekeeping is practiced extensively and in all of them, too, there is room for a great expansion of the industry as a commercial enterprise. In addition to these larger regions many more restricted areas offer special inducements to the beekeeper.

Not Always Profitable.

But even where colonies of bees are sufficiently numerous and where nectar is freely secreted, beekeeping is not always considered profitable. This results from the nature of the industry.

A colony of bees does not always gather sufficient honey for its own use and also enough so that the beekeeper can take honey for himself. It is only when bees are properly handled that they yield to the beekeeper the fullest return, and to an unusual degree beekeeping is profitable to just the extent to which the beekeeper applies intelligent care.

Success in beekeeping depends upon the beekeeper's skill in two lines of effort—keeping the colonies strong by proper care in winter and keeping the colonies from swarming. The failure to take proper care of bees in winter is a source of the greatest loss now experienced by beekeepers, and this applies to almost all parts of the United States; yet it is a simple matter to protect the bees in the hives—one which will put more dollars in the farmer's pockets and more bees in his hives. The essentials to the greatest success with bees are discussed in numerous textbooks and Bulletins published by the state agricultural colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture.

HONEY'S CHANCE TO HELP INCREASE SUGAR SUPPLY.

The average annual honey crop of the United States is about 250,000,000 pounds and is sufficient to supply each man, woman and child with about 2 1/2 pounds a year, which is equivalent to 3 per cent of the amount of sugar they consume in normal time. Thus there is ample room for expansion of both the production and consumption. The present use of honey in the home usually is as a substitute for jellies, jams and sirup. It is little used in domestic cooking or baking, but this use should be increased. While honey within recent years has sold at prices sufficiently low to justify its use as a substitute for sugar, it is rarely used in commercial food manufacturing except in the making of certain cakes which must be kept moist for a considerable time. Usually, however, the supply of honey is so inadequate that most of the crop can be used as a spread for bread. With the use limited as it is, many people in the United States rarely eat honey, but it is evident that there might be developed a ready sale for honey as a supplement to sugar, if production were increased many times.

Look to 1919 Seed Now.

To be prepared for a possible scarcity of seed next year, growers of root crops of all kinds, would do well to take steps to insure at least a partial supply by growing seed themselves, specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture advise. This can be done only by the use of roots already grown and now in the ground or held in storage. Such crops as carrots, beets, onions, turnips, rutabagas, parsnips and salsify are involved, owing to unfavorable weather conditions so far this year in regions where the chief seed supply of these crops is produced. This fact, together with the uncertainty of the usual European sources, which cannot be relied upon to supply us, threatens a very considerable shortage for next year's planting. Since it takes two years to produce these seeds, this shortage can only be alleviated by the planting for seed of roots already grown. Farmers' Bulletin 884 gives directions for the home production of seed of those crops mentioned and other vegetables.

LOYAL AMERICANS MUST CONTRIBUTE

CRUSHING OF GERMANY CAN BE ACCOMPLISHED ONLY BY OUR FINANCIAL AID.

RESPOND TO LIBERTY LOAN

Appeal to All True Citizens to Help Eliminate the Diseased Tree Lying Across the Path of True Democracy.

(By WINSTON CHURCHILL, Who Recently Returned From the War Zone.)

Germany may be likened to a great tree that has fallen across the path of democracy. The trunk is being chopped through by two axes, the military ax and the propagandist ax. If the trunk is to be severed and the obstruction removed, neither ax must be spared. Americans must contribute willingly to help their allies to support their army and navy, which will be the deciding military factor in the struggle.

Our American president was the first world statesman to make clear that while a military victory is essential, it is not in itself adequate. The great significance of this was lies not on the battle lines, but behind them. It is a war for human liberty and that which restricts human liberty, not only in the German empire, but also in America and England and France and Italy and Russia must be abolished. We are beginning to perceive that the future progress of democracy depends on national unselfishness and international co-operation scientifically conceived.

Issued World Proclamation.

In a series of masterly state papers Mr. Wilson has announced to the world that America enters the war unselfishly, and has defined the true issue for all the peoples of the earth—even for those deluded portions of the German population which, because of a false system of education, have hitherto upheld the hands of the worst enemies of liberty, the junkers. Until quite recently, one of the most disquieting symptoms from the point of view of the allies was a discontent with, if not an actual opposition to, the war of large elements among the working classes of the allied peoples. In Russia, where democracy was most cruelly suppressed, where conditions for the peasant and the workman were hardest, a revolution actually took place—a revolution that has sounded the keynote of our times. The world service which our president is doing is that of enlisting the allegiance of those masses for the war. He is convincing them that it is their war. And these are they upon whom the evils of an outward economic system have pressed hardest, and who hitherto have seen little hope that victory over the Germans meant their own deliverance. Mr. Wilson has issued a world proclamation of emancipation from economic slavery.

Make Their Own Treaties.

He not only declares that powerful nations shall cease to exploit little nations, but that powerful individuals shall cease to exploit their fellow men. He declares that henceforth no wars shall be fought for domination, and that to this end secret treaties shall be abolished. The peoples through their representatives shall make their own treaties. And just as national democracy insures to the individual the greatest amount of self-determination, of self-realization, world democracy shall insure self-determination to the individual nations of the earth, in order that each may be free to make its own contribution to world democracy.

Fighting for Oppressed.

This is the spirit in which America has entered the war. We are fighting for the oppressed everywhere. And we are equally determined that the injustices and inequalities that exist in our own government, the false standards of worth, the materialism, the luxury and waste shall be purged from our midst. We shall seize this opportunity to finish up the cleaning of our own household. To sustain our army and navy in the struggle for such a cause, to uphold our president, to aid our allies who have fought so long and so bravely, these are worthy of our sacrifices. I am confident that the response of the American people to the third Liberty loan will be generous.

Bonds Feed the Boys.

Every farmer knows how his boys like to eat. Mother's fried chicken and apple dumplings and pumpkin pies haven't a chance in the world when the boys sit down at table. Lots of farmers' boys are in France and the farmer doesn't want them to go hungry over there. Liberty Bonds buy food for them.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TURTLES GET UP.

"Time to get up," said Mrs. Turtle. "Oh, we're so sleepy, we're so sleepy," said the little turtles.

"But the spring is here," said Mrs. Turtle. "There will be lots of exciting things happening down in the pond. We must hurry and get our summer homes ready. I'm sure Mrs. Hard Shelled Turtle will be all settled by now."

"Just one more little nap," begged the little turtles. And then they yawned, such big turtle yawns!

"No more sleeping now," said Mrs. Turtle. "You may take naps later on, but your winter's sleep is all over. It's spring and we must be awake. We must see all that is going on in the big world down in the pond."

Mrs. Turtle looked very happy. She had always longed for a green leaf coat to wear over her shell suit. In the evening she called it a shell evening dress.

"Hurry," said Mrs. Turtle again to the little turtles. And soon they were all out of their winter beds of mud and were looking about the pond for the nicest kinds of homes.

"What do you think of this?" asked Mrs. Turtle. She was much pleased, after all she had gotten to the pond in excellent season.

"It is a very fine looking home," said Mr. Turtle. "Let's see how we can fix our porches. We must have three. I couldn't abide a summer home that had less than three porches."

"No more could I," agreed Mrs. Turtle.

"We like plenty of porches," agreed the little turtles.

"Ah," said Mr. Turtle, twisting his head far out of his shell, "it's so nice that we all like the same things. It makes us get along so well. We all like porches. We like to sit upon them in the warm sunshine. We enjoy a quiet nap on one of three porches, but we always like to choose between three."

"Yes," said Mrs. Turtle, "it would be such a pity if we only had one porch. Just imagine how hard it would be to think, 'Oh dear, which porch shall I take my nap on?' and then remember that there was only one porch anyway."

Now the turtles have three logs outside their homes which they call porches. Sometimes they are of logs and sometimes of funny, ugly snags which the turtles think are quite beautiful.

"It's going to rain," said Mr. Turtle, after they had all decided upon their summer home and were settled upon their porches.

"How do you know it is?" asked Mrs. Turtle. "You say that in such a decided fashion. Of course, I know you are a wise turtle and know a great deal, but I never before knew you were a weather prophet."

"I'm not a weather prophet, my dear," said Mr. Turtle. "But I know this time."

"Tell me how you know," asked Mrs. Turtle.

"Because," continued Mr. Turtle, "I see Mr. Tortoise."

"Does he like the rain so much?" asked Mrs. Turtle.

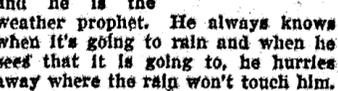

"Like it!" exclaimed Mr. Turtle. "Gracious, he hates the rain. He simply cannot stand it. He thinks the rain is horrid, yes, extremely horrid."

"I don't understand at all," said Mrs. Turtle. "You say you know it is going to rain, and the reason you know it is because you see Mr. Tortoise in the distance. And then you say that Mr. Tortoise hates the rain. It's all very confusing."

"Mr. Tortoise Hurrying Away From a Storm." "Mr. Tortoise hates the rain, and he is the weather prophet. He always knows when it's going to rain and when he sees that it is going to, he hurries away where the rain won't touch him."

"I can see him hurrying away from an approaching storm now. The storm is coming because he's hurrying off. Just see if I'm not right. Mr. Tortoise never makes a mistake."

And sure enough, in a short time, it began to rain!

Spring Colds Are the Worst

They lead to catarrh and pneumonia. They weaken the entire system and leave it unable to resist the sudden changes. They interfere with your digestion and lessen your activity. Neglected they soon become that dread disease known as systemic catarrh. Don't neglect them. It's costly as well as dangerous.

PERUNA Will Safeguard You

Have a box of Peruna Tablets with you for the sudden cold or exposure. Tone your system up with a regular course of the liquid Peruna, fortify it against colds, get your digestion up to normal, take care of yourself, and avoid danger. If you are suffering now begin the treatment at once. Give Nature the help she needs to throw off the catarrhal inflammation, and again become well. Peruna has been helping people for 44 years. Thousands of homes rely on it for coughs, colds and indigestion. It's a good tonic for the weak, as well.

TYPHOID

is no more necessary than Smallpox. Army experience has demonstrated the almost miraculous efficacy, and harmlessness, of Anti-Typhoid Vaccination. Be vaccinated NOW by your physician, you and your family. It is more vital than house insurance. Ask your physician, druggist, or send for "Have you had Typhoid?" telling of Typhoid Vaccine, results from use, and danger from Typhoid Carriers. THE CUTLER LABORATORY, SCIENTIFIC, CAL. Holder's Pen.

A European inventor has devised a metal blank with four clamps which carries a pen at the end. This device clamped around the forefinger is said to make writing much easier than when a penholder is used.

Accept an obligation without being a slave to the giver or insensible to his kindness.

CORNS LIFT OUT! COSTS FEW CENTS

Drops of magic! Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little Freezone on a touchy corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it off with the fingers. No pain! Try it!

"Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without soreness or irritation. Freezone is the much talked of discovery of the Cincinnati genius."

HAVE YOU A SWEETHEART?

Son or Brother in training camps in the American Army or Navy? If so, mail him a package of ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoe and sprinkled in the foot-bath. The American, British and French troops use Allen's Foot-Ease, because it takes the friction from the shoe and freshens the feet. It is the greatest comforter for tired, aching, tender, swollen feet, and gives relief to corns and bunions. The Plattsburg Camp Manual advises men in training to shake Foot-Ease in their shoes each morning. Ask your dealer to-day for a 30c. box of Allen's Foot-Ease, and for a 5c. stamp he will mail it for you. What remembrance could be so acceptable!
