ARMY BILL IN SENATE FIXES SIZE OF FORCES

Measure provides for 300,000 Soldiers
Washington, D. C., June 24.—Without a record vote the senate tonight adopted committee amendments to the army appropriation bill, providing for an average army of 400,000 men for the year beginning July 1. The bill, as passed by the house, provided for an army of 300,000 and Secretary Baker had recommended that the total be placed at 500,000 officers and men.

The senate also accepted the committee amendment authorizing the war department to turn over to the Red Cross medical and hospital supplies not needed by the American Expeditionary forces, for relief work in Europe. Senator Reed criticized the sale of $20,000,000 worth of airplanes for $2,000,000 by the war department, and said he thought some explanation of the matter should be made.

Shriners Meet

Ernest Prehm returned from Raton Wednesday, where he went last Friday night to delve into the deep mysteries of the "Shrine". He crossed the hot sands, held on to the line and went through all the necessary stunts, which one must undergo in order to reach the shrine. About fifty candidates were initiated, each one holding tight to his life insurance policy.

Raton was alive with Shriners and their ladies. A monster parade was witnessed by crowds of people, who were anxious to see just how the Shriners pulled off an affair like this. Everything proved a great success, which was finished with a grand ball.

The next annual initiation will take place at Gallup, June 1920.

Home From the Service

Trains that pass in the night bear precious burdens to loved ones at home; train No. 2 last Tuesday brought to the J. E. Farley family one whom they have watched and waited for with anxious hearts. Albert Farley, who has undergone service overseas, came home not as a welcome visitor, but as a descending blessing to the home folks.

Albert was in foreign service about one year, during which time he was in many battles, without sustaining the slightest wound. He looks well and hearty and considers his experience abroad in the light of a proud possession in which he is joined by all of our boys who realize that they have never faltered in their country's direst needs.

Pitts on the Job

The familiar face of R. C. Pitts is again seen behind the screen at the Lincoln State Bank. Mr. Pitts will attend to the duties of Assistant Cashier during the absence of E. D. Boone, who is now on a vacation.

Thrift Message

Inasmuch as the period of time from June 28th to July 6th, both inclusive, has been proclaimed as Thrift Message Week in the Eleventh Federal Savings District, and in conformance with the request of Frank M. Smith, Federal District Director, I, Frank J. Sager, Acting Mayor of the city of Carrizozo, do hereby deliver this Thrift Message to the people of this community.

The prosperity of any community depends on whether or not it is composed of thrifty people. Those persons who avoid waste, save wisely, spend wisely and invest wisely are the persons who make the community prosperous. Thrift is a happy habit and it is one we should all learn to follow.

Avoiding waste is important but that alone will not make for prosperity; that is a negative virtue. Wise saving is important—the miser saves but does not enjoy life because he does not save wisely—it is not wisdom to save at the expense of daily needs. Wise spending is important for the man or woman who buys recklessly, not reckoning whether what is bought is worth the money, will soon come to grief. As important at least as those things already mentioned is wise investing.

Avoidance of waste, wise saving and wise spending are all of no avail if the money saved is invested foolishly. There are many good investments. Among the very best are Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps, issued by United States Government and backed by all the resources of this great Nation.

As small an amount as a quarter of a dollar may be saved through the medium of Thrift Stamps, which are exchangeable for War Savings Stamps. The War Savings Stamp costs four dollars and a few cents, the insignificant amount varying from month to month. War Savings Stamps draw four per cent interest, compounded every three months. They may be redeemed at the postoffice at any time with the interest they have earned to that date on ten days' written notice. They are a worthy investment.

All over the Eleventh Federal District Thrift Messages will be delivered during Thrift Message Week. I call upon the Citizens of Carrizozo to heed them carefully. And in accordance with the proclamation issued by the Governor of this State, I urge that every bell in this city be rung and that every whistle in this city be blown at 10 o'clock each morning and at 4 o'clock each afternoon during Thrift Week.

Let us all be thrifty that our community may prosper and we may individually lead happy lives of Thrift.

FRANK J. SAGER,
Acting Mayor.

Six Feet Four; Four Feet Six—Mutt & Jeff

Among the recruiting contingent from Ft. Bliss, two figures aside from Lt. Strode stand out prominently; that of Sgt. Geo. H. Hebard and Corp. Douglas Russell. Sgt. Hebard is just six feet and four inches in height (while Corp. Russell's measurement reaches the enormous height of five feet four inches).

These two non-commissioned officers are the greatest of chums and can be seen together any time during the strolling hours. When they are out you will know it; you may fail to see Cpt. Russell, but the Sergeant can be seen anywhere between here and Oscuro. Headed by Lt. Strode, the contingent as a whole is composed of courteous, soldierly gentlemen and are not only entitled to our esteem and respect, but our assistance in the recruiting work in which they are engaged. Their time in this county was to have been limited to one week, but an extension of time will be granted for one week longer.

Lieutenant and Sister

Lieut. Henry Lutz and sister, Miss Belle Lutz arrived Monday from Ft. Sam Houston, where Miss Belle went several weeks ago to accompany the Lieut. home, after his recovery from his last operation. He looks fine and his general condition shows the result of careful treatment. He will return after the expiration of his leave of absence twenty days.

HOPEWELL HOPES WELL

Albuquerque N. M., June 21. Lincoln County has gone over the top in splendid shape in the recent Boy Scout drive according to the announcement by Col. W. S. Hopewell, State Chairman.

Under the leadership of J. A. Haley, County Chairman, Lincoln County has subscribed 64 associate memberships in the National Scout Organization. The quota assigned by National Chairman W. G. McAdoo was 10 members, and Mr. McAdoo has expressed his personal gratification over the fact that Lincoln County's quota was passed.

Penix—Frame

The consummation of a romance which began before the war was the marriage of Bertram E. Penix to Miss Thelma Frame at Corona, Sunday morning. A few of the friends of the families were present at the early morning wedding ceremonies officiated by Rev. Le Breton of Alamogordo. All preparations for a honeymoon trip in a beautiful new car were made before the service. The bride was very becomingly attired in a traveling suit of midnight blue and a large tailored hat of white georgette and carried a magnificent arm bouquet of pink and cream roses.

The groom was dressed in a conventional business suit. After the simple and impressive wedding service, the reception of numerous gifts of friends and relatives, the happy pair left in their car for a honeymoon trip of ten days in the upper Ruidoso country and the White Mountains. Miss Frame is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Frame of Corona where they have resided for the past three years. They formerly lived at Pecos, Texas. They are a very highly respected family. Mr. Penix is a native of Georgia but has spent the major portion of his life at Corona. He is a trusted and responsible member of the Corona Trading Company. During the war he was in the Balloon Service and was about to leave for France when the armistice was signed. The pair was launched on the sea of matrimony most auspiciously and they have the best wishes of all who know them for a long and happy life.

Mrs. Blaney Goes East

Mrs. R. E. Blaney left on No. 3 Tuesday for Milwaukee, Wis. where she will represent Lincoln County, N. M. at the annual convention of the National Educational Society of the United States. Delegates from every state in the Union will be present, which assures the attending delegates of an educational feast.

On her return trip Mrs. Blaney will stop over in Chicago and other eastern cities.

"SHE IS LYING AWAKE"

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy. At Hart's tavern Barnes finds a stranded troupe of "barn-storming" actors, of which Lyndon Bushcroft is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading lady. He learns Green Fancy is a house of mystery. That night Andrew Roon and his servant, guests at the tavern, are shot near Green Fancy. Barnes comes under suspicion and stays to help clear up the double murder. He gets into the Green Fancy grounds; meets the mysterious girl, who gives him the cut direct, and is politely ejected by O'Dowd, an interesting adventurer. Enter at the tavern another man of mystery, Sprouse, "book agent." Barnes visits Green Fancy with the sheriff and stays to dinner. Enter still another mysterious personage, "Loeb," secretary to Curtis, owner of Green Fancy, who does not appear because of illness. Barnes again meets "Miss Cameron," the mysterious girl, who is a ravishing beauty in evening dress. She is a prisoner and secretly appeals to him for help. Sprouse reveals himself as a secret service man and tells the enthralling story of the Green Fancy representatives of a royal house oppressed by Germany and his purpose to recover royal papers and jewels that night.

"With the landlord's approval," he explained, pointing to the instrument, "but unknown to the telephone company, you may be sure. Call him up about half past ten. O'Dowd may be up at this unholly hour, but not she. Now I must be off to discuss literature with Mrs. Jim Conley. The hardest part of my job is to keep her from subscribing for a set of Dickens. Conley's house is not far from Green Fancy. Savvy?"

Barnes, left to his own devices, wandered from taproom to porch, from porch to forge, from forge to taproom, his brain far more active than his legs, his heart as heavy as lead and as light as air by turns. More than once he felt like resorting to a well-known expedient to determine whether he was awake or dreaming. Could all this be real?

Ten minutes later he was in Sprouse's room, calling for Green Fancy over an extension wire that had cost the company nothing and yielded nothing in return. After some delay O'Dowd's mellow voice sang out:

"Hello! How are you this morning?"

"Grievously lonesome," replied Barnes, and wound up a doleful account of himself by imploring O'Dowd to save his life by bringing the entire Green Fancy party over to dinner that night.

O'Dowd was heart-broken. Personally he would go to any extreme to save so valuable a life, but as for the rest of the party, they begged him to say they were sorry to hear of the expected death of so promising a chap and that, while they couldn't come to his party they would be delighted to come to his funeral. In short, it would be impossible for them to accept his kind invitation. The Irishman was so gay and good-humored that Barnes took hope.

"By the way, O'Dowd, I'd like to speak with Miss Cameron if she can come to the telephone."

"Don't be surprised if you are cut off suddenly. The coast is clear for the moment, but— Here, Miss Cameron. Careful now."

Her voice, soft and clear and trembling with eagerness, caressed Barnes' eager ear.

"Mr. O'Dowd will see that no evil befalls me here, but he refuses to help me to get away. I quite understand and appreciate his position. I cannot ask him to go so far as that. Help will have to come from the outside. It will be dangerous—terribly dangerous."

"You say O'Dowd will not assist you to escape?"

"He urges me to stay here and take my chances. He believes that everything will turn out well for me in the end, but I am frightened. I must get away from this place."

"Then keep your eyes and ears open for the next night or two. Can you tell me where your room is located?"

"It is one flight up; the first if the two windows in my room is the third to the right of the entrance. I am confident that someone is stationed below my windows all night long."

"You still insist that I am not to call on the authorities for help?"

"Yes, yes! That must not even be considered. I have not only myself to consider, Mr. Barnes. I am a very small atom in—"

"All right! We'll get along without them," he said cheerily. "Afterward we will discuss the importance of atoms."

"And your reward as well, Mr. Barnes," she said. Her voice trailed off into an indistinct murmur. He heard the receiver click on the hook, and after calling "hello" twice hung up his own with a sigh. Evidently O'Dowd had warned her of the approach of a less considerate person than himself.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Second Wayfarer Receives Two Visitors at Midnight.

The coroner's inquest over the bodies of Roon and Paul was held that afternoon at St. Elizabeth. Witnesses from Hart's Tavern were among those to testify. The verdict was "Murder at the hands of parties unknown."

Sprouse did not appear at the Tavern until long after midnight. The secret agent listened somewhat indifferently to the latter's account of his telephonic experiences. At nine o'clock he yawned prodigiously and announced that he was going to bed, greatly to the surprise of Mr. Barnes, who followed him from the taproom and demanded an explanation.

"People usually go to bed at night, don't they?" said Sprouse patiently. "It is expected, I believe."

"But, my dear man, we are to undertake—"

"I have some cause for believing that one of those chaps in there is from Green Fancy. Go to bed at ten o'clock, my friend, and put out your light. I don't insist on your taking off your clothes, however. I will rap on your door at eleven o'clock. By the way, don't forget to stick your revolver in your pocket."

A few minutes before eleven there came a gentle tapping on Barnes' door. He sprang to his feet and opened it, presenting himself before Sprouse fully dressed and, as the secret agent said later on, "fit to kill."

The night was as black as pitch. Barnes, trusting to the little man's eyes and hanging close upon his coat-tails, followed blindly but gallantly in the tracks of the leader. It seemed to him that they stumbled along parallel to the road for miles before Sprouse came to a halt. "This is the short cut to Green Fancy," he whispered, laying his hand on Barnes' arm. "We save four or five miles, coming this way. Do you know where we are?"

"I haven't the remotest idea."

"About a quarter of a mile below Curtis' house. Are you all right?"

"Fine as a fiddle, except for a barked knee and a skinned elbow, a couple of more or less busted ribs. I've banged into more trees than—"

"Sh!" After a moment of silence, intensified by the mournful squawk of night birds and the chorus of katydids, Sprouse whispered, "Did you hear that?"

Barnes thrilled. This was real melodrama. "Hear what?" he whispered shilly.

"Listen! After a second or two: 'There!'"

"It's a woodpecker hammering on the limb of a—"

"Woodpeckers don't hammer at night, my lad. Don't stir! Keep your ears open."

Sprouse clutched his companion's arm and, dropping to his knees in the thick underbrush, pulled the other down after him.

Presently heavy footsteps approached. An unseen pedestrian passed within ten yards of them. They scarcely breathed until the sounds passed entirely out of hearing. Sprouse put his lips close to Barnes' ear.

"Telegraph," he whispered. "It's a system they have of reporting to each other. There are two men patrolling the grounds near the house. You see what we're up against, Barnes. Do you still want to go on with it?"

"I'll stay by you," replied Barnes sturdily.

Several minutes went by. There was not a sound save the restless patter of rain in the tree tops. At last the faraway thud of footsteps came to the ears of the tense listener. They drew nearer, louder, and once more seemed to be approaching the very spot where he crouched.

Then came the sound of a dull, heavy blow, a hoarse gasp, a momentary commotion in the shrubbery, and—again silence. Barnes' blood ran cold. He waited for the next footfall of the passing man. It never came.

A sharp whisper reached his ears. "Come here—quick!"

He floundered through the brush and almost fell prostrate over the kneeling figure of a man.

"Take care! Lend a hand," whispered Sprouse.

Dropping to his knees, Barnes felt for and touched wet, coarse garments, and gasped:

"My God! Have you killed him?"

"Temporarily," said Sprouse, between his teeth. "Here, unwind the rope I've got around my waist. Take the end—here. Got a knife? Cut off a section about three feet long. I'll get the gag in his mouth while you're doing it. Hangmen always carry their own ropes," he concluded, with growling humor. "Got it cut? Well, cut two more sections, same length."

With incredible swiftness the two of them bound the feet, knees and arms of the inert victim.

"I came prepared," said Sprouse, so calmly that Barnes marvelled at the iron nerve of the man.

"By heaven, Sprouse, I—I believe he's dead. We—we haven't any right to kill a—"

"Don't be finicky," snapped Sprouse. "It wasn't much of a crack, and it was necessary." Straightening up, with a sigh of satisfaction, he laid his hand on Barnes' shoulder. "We've just got to go through with it now, Barnes. We'll never get another chance. Putting that fellow out of business queers us forever afterward." He dropped to his knees and began searching over the ground with his hands. "Here it is. You can't see it, of course, so I'll tell you what it is. A nice little block of sandalwood. I've already got his nice little hammer, so we'll see what we can raise in the way of wireless chat-chat."

Without the slightest hesitation he struck a succession of quick, confident blows upon the block of wood.

"By gad, you are a wonder!"

"Wait till tomorrow before you say that," replied Sprouse, sententiously. "Come along now. Stick to the trail. We've got to land the other one."

Turning sharply to the right, Sprouse guided his companion through the brush for some distance, and once more came to a halt. Again he stole on ahead, and as before the slow, confident, even careless progress of a man ceased as abruptly as that of the comrade who lay helpless in the thicket below.

Barnes laid a firm, detaining hand on the man's shoulder.

"See here, Sprouse," he whispered, "it's all very well for you, knocking men over like this, but just what is your object? What does all this lead up to?"

Sprouse broke in, and there was not the slightest trace of emotion in his whisper.

"Quite right. You ought to know. I suppose you thought I was bringing you up here for a Romeo and Juliet tete-a-tete with the beautiful Miss Cameron—and for nothing else. Well, in a way, you are right. But, first of all, my business is to recover the crown jewels and parchments. I am going into that house and take them away from the man you know as Loeb, if he has them. If he hasn't them my work here is a failure."

"Going into the house?" gasped Barnes. "Why, my God, man, that is impossible. You would be shot down as an ordinary burglar and—the law would justify them for killing you. I must insist—"

"I am not asking you to go into the house, my friend. I shall go alone," said Sprouse coolly.

"On the other hand, I came up here to rescue a helpless—"

"Keep cool! It's the only way. Now listen. She has designated her room and the windows that are hers. She is lying awake up there now, take it from me, hoping that you will come tonight. I shall lead you directly to her window. And then comes the only chance we take—the only instance where we gamble. There will not be a light in her window, but that won't make any difference. This mobby came I'm carrying is in reality a coil lapable fishing rod. First we use it to tap gently on her window ledge or shade or whatever we find. Then you pass up a little note to her. Here is paper and pencil. Say that you are below her window and—all ready to take her away. Tell her to lower her valuables, some clothes, etc., from the window by means of the rope we'll pass up on the pole. There is a remote possibility that she may have the jewels in her room. For certain reasons they may have permitted her to retain them. If such is the case our work is easy. If they have taken them away from her she'll say so, some way or another—and she will not leave! Now I've had a good look at the front of that house. It is covered with a lattice work and huge vines. I can shin up like a squirrel and go through her room to the—"

"Are you crazy, Sprouse? You'd take your life in your hands and—"

"See here," said Sprouse shortly. "I am not risking my life for the fun of the thing. I am risking it for her, bear that 'ip mind—for her and her people. And if I am killed they won't even say 'Well done, good and faithful servant.' So let's not argue the point. Are you going to stand by me—or—back out?"

Barnes was shamed. "I'll stand by you," he said, and they stole forward.

There were no lights visible. The house was even darker than the night itself; it was vaguely outlined by a deeper shade of black.

At last they were within a few yards of the entrance and at the edge of a small space that had been cleared of shrubbery. Here Sprouse stopped and began to adjust the sections of his fishing rod.

"Write," he whispered. "There is a faint glow of light up there to the right. The third window, did you say? Well, that's about where I should locate it."

The tiny metallic tip of the rod, held in the upstretched hand of Barnes, much the taller of the two men, barely reached the window ledge. He tapped gently, persistently on the hard surface. Just as they were beginning to think that she was asleep and that their efforts were in vain their straining eyes made out a shadowy object projecting slightly beyond the sill.

After a moment or two of suspense Barnes experienced a peculiar, almost electric shock. Someone had seized the tip of the rod; it stiffened suddenly, the vibrations due to its flexibility ceasing. Someone was untying the bit of paper he had fastened to the rod, and with fingers that shook and were clumsy with eagerness.

He had written: "I am outside with a trusted friend, ready to do your bidding. Two of the guards are safely bound and out of the way. Now is our chance. We will never have another. If you are prepared to come with me now write me a word or two and drop it to the ground. I will pass up a rope to you and you may lower anything you wish to carry away with you. But be exceedingly careful. Take time. Don't hurry a single one of your movements." He signed it with a large "B."

It seemed an hour before their eyes distinguished the shadowy head above. As a matter of fact but a few minutes had passed. During the wait Sprouse had noiselessly removed his coat, a proceeding that puzzled Barnes. Something light fell to the ground. It was Sprouse who stooped and searched for it in the grass. When he resumed an upright posture he put his lips close to Barnes' ear and whispered:

Barnes, Sprouse and "Miss Cameron" have an exciting night at Green Fancy.

His Summer Name.

One day William, while visiting his grandmother, met the woman across the hall with her little dog. William inquired what she called the dog and she replied: "We call him Zero because we got him in the winter." William then asked: "Well, if you call him Zero in the winter what do you call him in the summer?"

COULDN'T SLEEP

Was Miserable and Losing Weight Suffering From Kidney Complaint. Doan's Removed the Trouble.

"I was about down and out from kidney trouble," says Harry Griffith, of 222 N. Darlington St., Westchester, Pa. "The kidney secretions burned like scalding water. Sometimes there would be a complete stoppage and, oh! what pain I suffered! My feet became swollen and I had a time of it getting on my shoes."

"My back hurt right over my kidneys. Nights I did nothing but tom about. It was just as though a knife were thrust into my back. I couldn't bend over without terrible pain and I would fall to my knees and crawl along to get hold of something to help myself up. Blinding dizziness came on and terrible headaches added to my misery. I was rapidly losing weight and knew something would have to be done. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and was more than surprised. The troubles were soon leaving me and six boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me entirely. To this day I have been free from kidney complaint."

GOING DOWN FOR THIRD TIME

Oldtime Idea About Drowning Said by One Who Should Know to Be All Wrong.

"Observations gleaned from 20 years of teaching people to swim" are related by George H. Corcan in the Association Men in "In the Water, There's the Life." He points out that it is the only exercise which will make fat people thin and thin people fat; that a woman can endure more cold water exposure than a man; that people become "drownproof" as they learn to breathe in rhythm. He also explodes the venerable, time-honored theory that going down the third time means death.

"It won't be water, so to speak," he says. "Water brings strangulation is trying to inhale under water. A Missourian who could not swim, was reading in a Kansas paper a 'first lesson' in swimming, which pointed out that if a person suddenly immersed would gulp in air as he came to the top, and exhale by 'mouse-power' beneath, he stood a fine chance of rescue. That afternoon this man was plunged into a river when his boat capsized. He recalled the lesson in a flash and followed directions. There is no knowing how many times he went under, but after bobbing some hundred yards down stream, he was finally fished out. His companion was drowned."

Du Barry's Forgotten Jewels. If the measure becomes operative by which banks will have to give particulars of valuables in their possession, we may expect to solve some mysteries and also to hear of new discoveries of hidden treasure.

For instance, it is popularly believed that in the vaults of Coutts' bank repose the wonderful jewels of the unfortunate Madame du Barry. She is supposed to have left them there in safe custody when she went back to France for, as it proved, the last time, and as the bulk of her jewels were never forthcoming there may be truth in the story. With her jewels also rest the valuables of many emigres who, returning to France at the time of the Terror in a hope of saving some of their possessions and estates, fell victims to the guillotine, leaving no heirs and possibly also no information as to the treasures England guarded for them.—Manchester Guardian.

Brutal Materialism. "Too many husbands," said Senator Kendrick in a discussion of divorce, "take a brutally materialistic view of marriage. 'I don't want my wife to go away,' a banker said in my hearing the other day. 'Moved, I patted him on the arm. 'Ah, you dread the separation, eh?' I said. 'Yeh,' he answered curtly—the separation from the coin.'"

Carrizozo Juniors Defeat Alamogordo

The ball game last Sunday between the Carrizozo Juniors and the Alamogordo team was won by the home team as was predicted. The game was close up to 5th inning, but after that the Juniors forged ahead, winning by a score of 15 to 11.

W. R. Wooten and Dewey Heron were the score keepers and Billy Ferguson umpired the game to the satisfaction of all concerned. The Alamogordo boys were a fine lot of fellows and it is hoped that another game may be arranged for the near future.

Still "Livin' Easy" On "Pork Chops Greasy"

The three little darkeys, who were mentioned in this paper two weeks ago as being the instigators of much "cussedness" at Ancho, were taken to Alamogordo last week by Detective Ben West and arraigned before Judge Mechem. On the hearing that followed, information was obtained which proved that the "alligator baits" were on parole from Las Cruces and could not be tried in that court.

Judge Mechem ordered the boys returned to Carrizozo, where they will remain until the Judge disposes of their cases, when they will, in all probability, be sent to the reform school. The police are anxious to finish this case, as the little mischief-makers have given them more trouble than all the disturbances of the world war.

Recruiting Parties Now in New Mexico

On June 9, 1919, the General Recruiting Station at El Paso, Texas, sent out ten recruiting parties to cover Western Texas and the State of New Mexico. Seven of these parties are now at work in New Mexico. These parties are traveling in large cars so as to be able to reach all small towns not accessible by rail. It is the plan to make a thorough advertising campaign in every part of the State.

Lincoln and Otero Counties are being covered by a detail of 9 men from the 82nd Field Artillery. Its personnel consists of: 2nd Lieut. R. T. Strode, Sgt. Geo. H. Hebard, Corp. D. H. Russel, Pvt. Harry G. Sandquist, Pvt. Ernest L. Woods, Pvt. Harry H. Heck, Pvt. Ralph E. Teale, Pvt. A. H. Hexon.

The detail worked a week at Alamogordo and vicinity, three days at Cloudcroft and Tularosa. A number of immediate enlistments were secured and several young men are planning to enlist as soon as they can make arrangements to leave home.

The recruiting party arrived in Carrizozo at noon June 21, 1919 and will work in this vicinity, Lincoln and neighboring towns during the next ten days. It is planned to have the party at Ft. Stanton on the fourth of July.

Men are wanted for every branch of the service. The Army is offering a wonderful opportunity to every ambitious young man. It allows him to select any branch he desires to serve in and gives him a chance to learn any trade he wishes to follow later in life. A large number of young men are enlisting in the Engineer Corps, the Signal Corps, the Motor Transport Corps and the Aviation because of the excellent trades taught in these branches. Every branch has a perfect system of office work in which a young man can become an expert accountant, bookkeeper or stenographer.

The large increase in the regular army makes promotion easy and rapid. The various grades of the noncommissioned officers receive from $36.00 to $81.00 per month. Many men are promoted every year from the ranks to the grade of commissioned officer. Young men of exceptional ability are sent to the West Point Military Academy.

In addition to the vocational and military training by the army special provisions are made for the physical and educational development of every soldier. The army is a large, thorough and practical university in which young men are fitted for a successful career in life.

Every young man should carefully consider this opportunity to receive a practical education without cost, and at the same time earn from $300 to $900 in clear money every year spent in the service.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 350,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

Record Log Raft

While log rafts are by no means new, the huge raft recently constructed at Haparanda, Sweden, and used to ship a large number of logs to Copenhagen, Denmark, is worthy of passing mention. The great raft measured 387 feet long 55 1/2 feet wide, 10 feet above the water line and 10 1/2 feet below.

The raft took six months to build and contains as much wood as four big steamers. It is held together by an ingenious system of steel cables and wires, and is capable of carrying a large amount of material. The crew consists of seven men.

His Only Chance.

"I wish the police could get my client to confess that he did the crime of which he is accused," said the lawyer.

"Why?"

Women "Cultivate" Mustache.

The Ainu, the "Celtic" race of Japan, live in the island of Yeddo. The most noticeable peculiarity about Ainu women is that they have tattooed on their upper and lower lips what resembles a mustache. The women are not considered attractive without this decoration, and their matrimonial prospects are quite injured unless it appears.

The mustache is begun when the girl is quite a child, until it extends partly across the cheek, the material used being the coat from burning birch bark. The face is cut and the black rubbed in. Afterwards it is washed in a solution of ash bark liquor to fix the color.

The Ainu women are said to be usually finely formed, straight and well developed, with small hands and feet. Their eyes are a beautiful coffee brown, their hair black and most luxuriant and their complexion olive, with often a deep, rich color in their cheeks.

The native cloth—of which their garments are made—is woven from the fiber of the bark of the elm tree.

FIGHT IS ON IN SENATE

BILL TO SEPARATE LEAGUE FROM TREATY CAUSES SCRAP.

THE KNOX RESOLUTION

CHARGE MADE THAT POLITICS HAS STRONG BEARING ON ACTION.

Western Newspaper Union News Service

Washington, June 20.—Debate of the League of Nations shifted to political grounds again in the Senate with a resulting flurry of party feeling which ended in an admonition by the chair that Senate rules must be obeyed.

The flareup started when Senator Williams of Mississippi, a Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, charged the Republicans had "stacked" the committee against the League. Senator Moses of New Hampshire, a Republican member, made a spirited denial and Senator McCormick, Republican, of Illinois, declared the Paris peace mission had been "stacked with Democrats."

Other senators quickly got into the discussion and still others were asking recognition when Vice President Marshall called a halt, ruling that the discussion, which had interrupted a speech by Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, was out of order. The Colorado senator then resumed his address, directed against the Knox resolution, by which the Senate would ask an opportunity to accept the peace treaty without the League of Nations covenant incorporated.

Senator Williams' charge followed one by Senator Thomas that the Republicans first had put the League into politics by the celebrated round robin of the last session, and now were condemning Democratic support of the League as partisan.

Mr. Thomas is one of the Democratic senators who have taken to definite stand regarding the League, but in his speech he read many extracts from historical works to show that in the past beneficial proposals often had met the same arguments as now confront the League covenant.

The Knox resolution he opposed an improper and would be interpreted as a pre-emptive effort to dictate to the peace conference. Answering the plea that the people should have more time to consider the League proposal, he asserted there already had been a wide discussion of the subject for several years.

"If there is a man between the two oceans who hasn't discussed it and reached some conclusion regarding it," he said, "the fact argues for his ignorance and for the impossibility of his ever reaching any conclusion."

There was no effort to bring the Knox resolution up for a vote and there were predictions in some quarters that it would be permitted to die on the calendar.

Dive From Airplane.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Diving head first from an airplane 1,000 feet up, Maj. Ordo Lees, the parachute expert, demonstrator of the British air force, and Miss Sylvia Boyden, British woman parachute expert, gave a convincing demonstration of aerial life preservers at the Atlantic City air port. They flew up to 1,000 feet with "Eddie" Stinson, and after making a circle of the air port they dove head first from the aeroplane. Their drop was stopped with hardly any shock by the parachute.

Labor's New Declaration.

Atlantic City, No. J.—A comprehensive reconstruction program, designed to "bring to all people greater hope for a better day, a brighter life, greater liberty and a larger degree of happiness," was adopted by the American Federation of Labor at its annual convention. Radicals and conservatives united in approving a report embodying reconstructive recommendations devised by the federation's executive council. The report was termed by labor leaders "a new declaration of independence for the workers of America."

Throat Injured by Bomb.

Chicago.—Lord Northcliffe, one of England's strongest leaders during the war, who went under the knife for throat trouble, is believed to be the victim of a Chicago "stench bomb." That the lowly homemade missile, hurled during the banquet at the La Salle hotel here two years ago, was responsible for the famous editor's long illness, culminating in the operation, is indicated by incidents that happened during Northcliffe's visit.

His Utter Inability.

"Mercy! What is the baby crying for?" upon her return from shopping exclaimed the young mother, who had left her infant to the care of his bachelor uncle.
"How should I know?" ventily replied that gentleman. "There are so many million things that he couldn't use if he had them that it hasn't been possible for me to get them all for him."—Kansas City Star.

It always makes us smile to hear a lazy man wishing he had some of the joys an industrious man has earned.

Al Lindley Arrives

As in our dreams, old and familiar faces come to greet us, so in reality do they sometimes pleasantly surprise us. This happened the early part of this week when Al Lindley, who enlisted from Carrizozo in the early stage of the war, came home in company with Lieut. Henry Lutz and sister Belle from Fort Sam Houston.

Mr. Lindley, shortly after enlisting was sent to the front, where he served through the war with a good record to his credit. At one time during his absence he was reported dead, and the Carrizozo papers announced it to his many friends, all of whom firmly lived in that belief until a letter came to Mr. Henry Lutz from Al which was like a message from the dead! The report found its way to this country from the hospital at San Andre, France, where he was operated on for gall stones. The physicians removed seventy-two from him which so weakened his condition that his life was despaired of and this led to the report that he was dead. Al has not as yet received his discharge owing to the fact that the incision made on performing the operation has not healed sufficiently to warrant his release. Both he and Lieut. Lutz are here on leaves of absence for twenty days after which they will return to San Antonio. It is not generally known but the fact remains nevertheless, that Al is a printer and this accounts for his being hard to kill.

Plan Moving of Big Grain Crops

Railroad Administration Giving Careful Consideration to Necessary Measures.

EXPECT GREAT WHEAT YIELD

Tonnage of Grain Will Exceed That of Last Year by Large Margin—May Try Permit System Again.

Washington.—The railroad administration is giving careful consideration to the measures necessary for the satisfactory transportation of the anticipated large crops of grains, according to a statement authorized by Walker D. Hines, director general of railroads. The department of agriculture has estimated that the yield of winter wheat will exceed 900,000,000 bushels. A fair estimate of the yield of spring wheat approximates 300,000,000 bushels. The total yield of wheat this year will in all probability exceed the total of last year by from three to four hundred millions of bushels. No estimate of other grains is, of course, possible at this time, but, barring unusual climatic conditions, it can perhaps be properly expected that the tonnage in grain that will be produced this year will exceed that of last year by a considerable margin.

The stable price fixed last year by the government on wheat naturally provoked a desire on the part of the producer to realize his earnings as quickly as possible, and since a stable price has again been fixed by the government for this year's crop it is assumed a similar condition will obtain. Last year this economical condition, coupled with more or less disarrangement in ocean tonnage and consequent disruption in shipping, resulted in such an acute situation at the interior grain markets and at seaports, that it became necessary to install the so-called "permit system," which was early made operative at the ports, and in September, 1918, at the principal interior markets.

Controlling Traffic.

The permit system is a highly beneficial system of controlling traffic at the sources to prevent serious congestion on the road and at destination.

This system prevented in the fall of 1918 a serious transportation paralysis of former years due to widespread congestion of traffic which had been shipped but which could not be disposed of at destination. This paralysis of traffic in former years was most apparent in the East, but its injurious effects were felt throughout the country.

While the permit system at the ports is still in operation, it was suspended a few months ago at the interior markets, due to improved ocean shipping and the fact that the bulk of the grain had been moved. It is, however, to be expected that the system will again be inaugurated with the opening of the new wheat season, and in view of that possibility the railroad administration is already preparing the necessary machinery so that it may be prepared to act without delay at the proper time. Conferences have already been held with representatives of the grain corporation.

As graphically illustrating the necessity of regulating the transportation of this tonnage, and the results obtained from such regulation, the following facts are of value and interest: For the nine months of the crop year, July 1, 1918, to May 1, 1919, there passed through the grain handling facilities of the country—elevators and mills—a total of 3,440,238,000 bushels of all grains, although the highest point of grain storage of all kinds at any one time in that period was 490,000,000 bushels. That is, in nine months the flow of grain was seven times the quantity which accumulated in storage at the highest point during that period. This is a direct illustration of the necessity of keeping the grain-handling facilities of the country liquid to avoid the distress to all interests that would follow the blocking of this flow of grain.

Reinaugurate Permit Plan.

The permit system as operated last year contemplated the closest co-operation between the railroad administration and the United States food administration grain corporation. The local representatives of the grain corporation were in daily contact with the grain control committees at each market, and in view of the very comprehensive data and information in their possession as to storage facilities, anticipated movements out of markets, the needs of different sections of the country, not only as to wheat but as to other cereals that flow coincidentally with wheat, etc., were of invaluable aid in the accomplishment of the permit system with a minimum economic disturbance. The same character of assistance is being arranged for from the grain corporation, or the wheat director, in anticipation that it will be necessary to re-inaugurate the permit plan within the next one or two months.

The wheat director is as vitally interested as the railroad administration that the grain tonnage shall be handled with the least possible friction as between all interests concerned, and is in entire harmony with the railroad administration as to the plans proposed in that direction.

Most Deadly of All War Gases

Washington.—At the educational exposition, illustrating the wartime and reconstruction activities of the department of the interior now being held there is being shown under guard a sample of the most terrible super-poison gas known, the discovery of Prof. W. Leo Lewis while in the employ of the bureau of mines at its American university laboratories.

This gas, formerly called "Lewisite," later known as "methyl," because the latter name meant nothing to curious persons, was being manufactured by the war department at the rate of ten tons a day when the armistice came.

The gas is being variously described as "the climax of the country's achievements in the lethal arts" and as "the most terrible instrument of manslaughter ever conceived." The department itself declares that it is the most deadly of all war gases.

This gas was not only discovered by Professor Lewis, but was also developed by him to a point where it was ready for production at the American university while those laboratories were still under the control of the bureau of mines, one of the organizations of the department of the interior. When this work was first taken up by the bureau in behalf of the military authorities Professor Lewis was called from his civilian duties as professor of chemistry at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., and at the request of the bureau was commissioned as captain in the ordnance department and assigned to the gas warfare service of the bureau of mines. While acting in this capacity Professor Lewis discovered and developed this gas, and 18 days after the gas work of the bureau was transferred to the jurisdiction of the war department an 11-acre plant for its manufacture was started near Cleveland, O.

"Mouse Trap" Plant.

This plant, which was dubbed by the workmen the "mouse trap," because, in order to prevent the leakage of information, it was understood that the men who entered would not leave until the war was over, was in operation within a miraculously short time, and plans were made by the war department to have 3,000 tons of this most diabolical gas at the American front by March 1, 1919. When the armistice came the plant was well ahead of its production schedule, but the opportunity had not come for the use of the gas at the battle front.

but I think the worst situation that came to my knowledge was in Igdur, where there is a larger proportion of sickness and a higher death rate than in either Erivan or Alexandropol. "Regarding reports of cannibalism which have come out of this district from Coa I have been forced against my will to believe these reports to be true. I saw with my own eyes mutilated remains of corpses which had been exhumed from newly-made graves. I did not see anybody who had actually witnessed the eating of human flesh, but there is so much circumstantial evidence that I personally came to believe it true. "Typhus has been epidemic during the winter, and has taken away thousands, but with the moderation of the weather it is now decreasing; but cholera is making its appearance, and the outlook is threatening."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Von Zeppelin's Career.

Count von Zeppelin, inventor of the airship which bears his name, was not killed in the war, but died of pneumonia at Charlottenburg, near Berlin, on March 8, 1917. He was born in 1838 and was a lieutenant of cavalry at the age of twenty-five, when, in April, 1863, he was sent to the United States as Prussian military attaché of the Union army in the Civil war, being attached to the Army of the Mississippi, in which Gen. Carl Schurz commanded a brigade. It was at that time that Count von Zeppelin had his first experience as an aeronaut, going up in a captive balloon belonging to the corps to which he was attached.

Sure Sign.

"Ichosphat!" exclaimed Henry, in the hall. "What's wrong, dear?" called his wife. "I'm going to get caught in the rain." "Don't be foolish. There's no sign of rain." "Yes, there is, too. Somebody's taken my umbrella."

Sightseeing at War Prices.

Recently the board of public works at Holyoke, Mass., had occasion to employ a man to inspect some boilers in a city building. Soon after it received this strange bill: "To 5 looks, $12." The bill will be paid.—Cartoons Magazine.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curves of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness. Thinness and weakness are often due to stunted nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health. CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Tale of Cannibals in Armenia Is Confirmed.

Starvation and Misery Prevail Among Armenian Refugees in Caucasus Region.

Constantinople.—Starvation and misery prevail among Armenian refugees in the Caucasus region, according to a telegram sent to Herbert Hoover in Paris by Howard Heinz, American food commissioner for the near East, who is in this city.

Mr. Heinz has returned from a trip of inspection in the Caucasus, on which he was accompanied by Walter George Smith of Philadelphia, former president of the American Bar association and a commissioner of the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief, which has charge of a great part of the relief work there. Mr. Heinz says reports that some of the refugees, driven frantic by hunger and suffering, have resorted to cannibalism are true in his opinion. He adds that food for 500,000 in that territory will have to be provided by outside sources for another year.

"The lack of food is so serious," says the telegram, "that the women are forced to go into the fields and obtain grass roots, which they cook into a kind of broth and serve as boiled greens, occasionally getting a bit of rice to mix with it. This constitutes the principal diet of many. The little children, naturally, get the worst of this situation, because they cannot eat such material, and it is among the children that the death rate is the highest.

Three of a Kind

The local force of Veterinarians was strengthened this week by a visit from Dr. N. C. Elbertson of Clinton, Ind., who came to pay his respects to Dr. Hess, who worked under Dr. Elbertson's directions in the east. The Dr. was in the service overseas, having returned just one month ago. He is a pleasant gentleman to meet which puts him in the class with Drs. Pine and Hess, making 'three of a kind.'
