YOUNG MAN ENDS OWN LIFE NEAR JACKS PEAK

Sad Ending of the Life of Earl Knowles Who Being Deranged by Gas in France Dies by Own Hand

On Monday last, Earl Knowles, who had been living with his mother on a part of the Fambraugh ranch at Jacks Peak near the town of Ancho, committed suicide by shooting himself in the forehead, the ball passing through the young man's head. Mr. Knowles was a soldier in the late war enlisting in the service at Belmont, Texas, after which he was stationed at Camp Cody until he entered the service overseas. He served his country well, was in many battles, finally being gassed in an engagement that retired him from active duty and on the 20th day of last February he came home.

Contrary to the hopes and expectations of his mother he failed to recover from the evil effects of the deadly gas, and at times he would become despondent which finally terminating in the derangement of the young man's mind, causing him to take his own life in the sad manner as stated above. On the day mentioned, the weather was stormy. A strong wind was blowing which caused both mother and son to stay indoors and about noon time Mrs. Knowles began to arrange for lunch, when the son complained, saying he would rather rest for a while and asked his mother to do the same, which she did.

The wind increased in force while they slept and at last the stovepipe was blown down which aroused the mother from her nap. On arising from her cot she saw her son, whose cot was on the opposite side of the room gasping for breath with an ugly bullet hole in his forehead, from which the blood spurted with every dying heart throb. After satisfying herself that nothing could be done to save his life, she hastened in search of assistance and seeing a passing neighbor in the distance, she hailed him. The party mentioned after viewing the remains of the young man and hearing the mother's story hastened to Ancho, notifying undertaker Ed. Kelley and Justice of the Peace Wetmore and these gentlemen repaired to the scene of sadness taking with them the following jury selected by Justice Wetmore acting in the capacity of coroner. The members of the jury were: Messrs. Wm. Sevier, foreman; C. A. Perkins, D. Peres, Juan Mirabal, A.M. Fleming, G. T. Fleming, who rendered a verdict according to the facts stated above.

On Tuesday the funeral was held with the Rev. J. H. Skinner of Carrizozo conducting the services. A large gathering of friends from in and around Ancho attended the funeral. Young Knowles was well thought of by all of his neighbors and as the shifting scenes of time with all of its uncertainties brings one surprise after another, we wonder how a faithful soldier like Earl Knowles could endure the hardships and privations of war in foreign lands and after all this, to be again restored to home and native land to come to such a sad and untimely end.

To the Commercial Public

I desire to inform you that the Knights of Columbus Employment Bureau has opened its office under my direction at 207 W. Central Ave., Albuquerque, N. M., for the purpose of placing discharged soldiers, sailors and marines in positions, not only in this city, but throughout the entire United States. This bureau tenders its services not only to those soldiers who were so fortunate to go overseas for the great conflict, but those who offered their services for the same purpose, but who, for some reason or another, were held on this side.

I have been devoting my whole time to studying the labor problem throughout the country, and think with the co-operation of the business men of the State, I will be more apt to place the applicants in positions for which they are fitted.

Now that these returned soldiers have completed the duties assigned them, I know that they will greatly appreciate it if you will co-operate with me. If those of you who are in need of help will send me a list, I can then be better fitted to immediately send the applicants to the respective positions.

Assuring you that your co-operation will be greatly appreciated by me as well as the soldiers, I am,

Very sincerely,
R. F. SENA,

Secretary, K. of C. Employment Bureau.

MONSTER MEETING OF TEACHERS AT MILWAUKEE

Thousands of Teachers From All Parts of The U. S. Attend Convention--Important Transactions.

The Convention of the National Educational Association which closed its sessions July 5th, was attended by about 5000 teachers from all parts of the Union. Mrs. M. L. Blaney, School Supt. of Lincoln County, who is a member of the Association, attended.

The question of consolidation of school rooms came up for discussion, the opinions of the delegates being equally divided on the arrangement of the one room schoolhouse.

A greater co-operation between parents and teachers was solicited in rural communities with a view of making the school the social center of the community and a more general and extended use of the schoolhouse for the promotion and encouragement of every movement for good. An appeal was made for better training for teachers, making teaching a business instead of merely a stepping stone to advancement in other occupations. Teachers in local schools will be admitted to membership without reservation. Americanization, Vocational Education, Red Cross, Children's Welfare League, together with all organizations of a kindred nature were applauded as being highly instrumental in the child's preparation for life work.

As to teachers' salaries, New Mexico compares favorably with her sister states, but none are without need of proper adjustment along this important line. Our educational advantages are equally as good for the child therefore, on the whole, the state has no reason to consider herself lacking in comparison to others. The next annual convention will be held at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Fatal Accident at White Oaks

Last Friday evening a few minutes before 5 o'clock a sad and fatal accident occurred at the mines of the Lincoln Light & Power Co., in which Manuel Moreno was the victim. Moreno, who was an old experienced miner, was preparing to arrange a blast which is the last thing done in the mine before quitting time so that all smoke from the blast will be eliminated for the next morning's resumption of work. He had removed all dirt and rock from around the ledge of coal and was drilling the last holes for blasting when a huge rock weighing over a ton worked loose from its moorings above him and fell, striking the unfortunate man on the back, pinning him down to the earth completely severing the spinal cord.

The miner in the room adjoining that of Moreno's, rushed to his assistance, but the efforts of his companion were useless. He gave the alarm, which brought the entire force of the mine and they finally removed the rock and rescued the man. He was hurried to Carrizozo but died in about one hour after arriving here. The foreman of the mine had provided necessary timbers to brace the roof of the room, and Moreno, thinking the room perfectly safe, had failed to protect himself as the foreman had advised. The remains were interred in the cemetery at White Oaks the day following the accident.

TULAROSA BASIN-MOUND SPRINGS OIL CO. ORGANIZED

Important Organization of Prominent Business Men Monday Give Aims And Objects to The Public.

Because the Carrizozo papers have not been coming out with flaming notices of oil activity is by no means a sign that our business men are sleeping on the proposition. Our people have not been chasing rainbows, but have been soberly and sanely working quietly and cautiously. In other words "Sawing Wood and Saying Nothing," until on Monday night a meeting was held that meant something. The newly organized company has 20,000 acres of land in the Tularosa Basin which has been pronounced by reliable geologists to be the most available for oil realization of any in this region.

The company, composed of well known and reliable business men of Carrizozo and neighboring towns will be known as the Tularosa Basin - Mound Springs Oil Co. With the amount of valuable land above mentioned and a supply of capital equal to any emergency, they propose to soon begin the work of drilling and mean business.

The officers of the company are: Benj. Burns, Occuro, President; A. C. Wingfield, Carrizozo, Vice President; O. W. Bamberger, Carrizozo, Secretary; Dr. R. E. Blaney, Carrizozo, Treasurer. From now on, we propose to give the public an idea of what this company means to do. Negotiations are now under headway to purchase drilling rigs will sink to the depth necessary to reach the oil strata and they are absolutely certain the oil is there. The workings of the enterprise will be given out as the company's plans develop and surprises may soon be looked for.

"You take this one," said Barnes, "and I will manage the other." He was in a hurry to get away from the house. There was no telling when the government agents would descend upon the place.

Barnes helped Peter to lift the trunks into the car and then ordered him to start at once for Hart's Tavern.

"You can return later on for your things," he said.

"I got 'em tied up in a bundle in the garage, Mr. Barnes," he said. "Won't take a second to get 'em out." He hurried around the corner of the house.

A dry, quiet chuckle fell upon Barnes' ears. He glanced about in surprise and alarm. No one was in sight. "Look up, young man," and the startled young man obeyed. His gaze flitted at a window on the second story, almost directly over his head.

Mr. Sprouse was looking down upon him, his sharp features fixed in a sardonic grin.

"Well, I'll be d—!" burst from Barnes' lips.

"Surprised to see me, eh? If you're not in a hurry, I'd certainly appreciate a lift as far as the Tavern, old man. I'll be down in a jiffy. Stand aside! I'm going to drop." A moment later he swung over the sill, and dropped lightly to the ground eight feet below.

"See, here, Sprouse or whatever your name is—"

"Better hear me out," broke in Sprouse calmly. "I could drill a hole through you so quickly you'd never know what did it," he went on. His hand was in his coat pocket, and a quick glance revealed to Barnes a singularly impressive angle in the cloth, the point of which seemed to be directed squarely at his chest. "But I'm not going to do it. I just want to set myself straight with you. In a word, I never got anywhere near the room in which the jewels were hidden. This is God's truth, Barnes. I wasn't the only one who was trying to get the baubles, my friend. It was a game in which only the best man could win."

"I know the truth now about Roon and Paul," said Barnes significantly.

"You do?" sneered Sprouse. "I'll bet you a thousand to one you do not. The girl was led to believe that they were a couple of crooks and that they fixed me in that tavern down there. Isn't that what she told you? Well, that story was cooked up for her special benefit. Roon was the Baron Hedlund. Hedlund came up here a week or so ago to keep a lookout for his wife. The baroness is supposed to be deeply enamored of Prince Ugo. He found letters which seemed to indicate that she was planning to join the prince up here. When he heard of the arrival of a lady at Green Fancy the other afternoon, he got busy. I admit that I am the gentleman who telephoned the warning up to the prince. They tried to head the baron and his man off at the crossroads, but he beat them to it. If there was to be a fight, they didn't want it to happen anywhere near the house. I believe Ugo is the one who got the baron—or Roon, as you know him. Now, that is the true story of the little affair."

"To go back to my own troubles. When I got out into the hall night before last, after leaving her room, I heard voices whispering in Prince Ugo's room. I beat it up the stairway into the attic. Nothing happened, so I snaked down to have a peep around. The door to Ugo's room was open, but there was no light on the inside. He came to the door and looked up and down the hall. Then some one else came out and started to sneak away. I leave you to guess the sex."

"Nicholas butted in at this unfortunate juncture. He made the mistake of his life. Ugo jumped back into his room. In less than a second he was out again. He landed squarely on Nicholas' back as the fellow turned to escape. I saw the steel flash. Poor old Nick went down in a heap, letting out a horrible yell. Ugo dragged him into the room and dashed back into his own. A moment later he came out again, yelling for help. There was only one thing left for me to do and that was to get out on the roof if possible, and wait for things to quiet down. I got out through a trap door and stayed there for an hour or so."

"Well, to shorten the story, I finally took a chance and slid down to the caves where I managed to find the limb of a tree big enough to support me—just as if the Lord had ordered it put there for my special benefit. I was soon on the ground, and that meant safety for me. I had heard Ugo tell the others that Nicholas said the man who stabbed him was yours truly. Can you beat it?"

"And now comes the maddening part of the whole business. He said that the crown jewels were gone! The thief was running downstairs when he staggered to the door. If we are to find the crown jewels, my friend, we will first have to find Prince Ugo. He has them."

"I don't believe a word of this yarn," said Barnes flatly. "You have the jewels and—"

"Look here, Mr. Barnes, I'm not going to double-cross you again. That's all over. I want to get that scurvy dog who knifed poor old Nick. If you can give me a lead, I'll try to run Prince Ugo down. And if I do, we'll get the jewels."

"Well, I can't do any more than give my promise, my solemn oath, or something like that. I can't give a bond, you know. I swear to you that if I lay hands on that stuff, I will deliver it to you. Might just as well trust me as Ugo."

"Get in the car," said Barnes suddenly. He had decided to take a chance with the resourceful, indefatigable rascal. There was something convincing about Sprouse's version of the affair at Green Fancy.

Barnes told him that he knew of Prince Ugo's fight. Sprouse looked thoughtful for a long time.

"So O'Dowd knows that I really was after the swag, eh? He believes I got it?"

"I suppose so."

"The only one who thinks I'm absolutely innocent is Ugo, of course—and Mrs. Van Dyke. That's good," Sprouse smirked his lips. "I've got a pretty fair idea where I can find Mr. Loch. It will take a little time—a couple of days, perhaps—but sooner or later he'll turn up in close proximity to the beautiful baroness."

CHAPTER XIX.

A Trip by Night and a Late Arrival.

Shortly after sundown that evening, the Rushcroft company evacuated Hart's Tavern. They were delayed by the irritating and, to Mr. Rushcroft, unpardonable behavior of two officious gentlemen, lately arrived, who insisted politely but firmly on prying into the past, present and future history of the several members of the organization, including the new "backer."

Barnes had devised a very clever plan for getting Miss Cameron away from the tavern without attracting undue attention. She was to leave in one of the automobiles that he had engaged to convey the players to Crowndale, where they were to "show." In case of detention or inquiry, she was to pose as a stage-struck young woman who had obtained a place with the company at the last moment through his influence.

When the hour came for the departure from Hart's Tavern he deliberately engaged the two secret service men in conversation in the taproom. Miss Cameron left the house by the rear door and was safely ensconced in Peter's automobile long before he shook hands with the "rat-catchers" and dashed out to join her. Tommy Gray's car, occupied by the four players, was moving away from the door as he sprang in beside her and slammed the door.

Peter's efforts to stay behind Tommy's venerable but surprisingly energetic car were the cause of many a gasp and shudder from the couple who sat behind him in the bounding car. He had orders to keep back of Tommy but never to lose sight of his tail light.

"Are you there?" he whispered.

"Yes. Isn't it jolly, running away like this? It must be wonderfully exciting to be a criminal, always dodging and—"

"Sh! Even a limousine may have ears!"

But if the limousine had possessed a thousand ears they would have been rendered useless in the stormy racket made by Peter's motor and the thunderous roar of the exhaust as the car got under way.

Sixty miles lay between them and Crowndale. Tommy Gray guaranteed that the distance could be covered in three hours, even over the vile mountain roads. Ten o'clock would find them at the Grand Palace hotel, none the worse for wear, provided the always put it parenthetically they tried to tell the tale! The luggage had gone on ahead of them earlier in the day.

Soon after ten o'clock they entered the town of Crowndale and drew up before the unattractive portals of the Grand Palace hotel. An arc lamp swinging above the entrance shed a pitiless light upon the dreary, Godforsaken hostelry with the ironic name.

Miss Cameron was warmly conscious of the thrill that had come into her blood when he carried her up the stairs in his powerful arms, disdainful of the offer of assistance from the suddenly infatuated Tommy Gray.

"Rehearsal at eleven sharp," announced Rushcroft. "Letter-perfect, every one of you. No guessing. By the way, Miss—er—pon my soul, I don't believe I got your name?"

"Jones," said the new member, shamelessly.

Barnes went down to the dingy lobby. A single, half-hearted electric bulb shed its feeble light on the desk. In front of which stood a man registering under the sleepy eye of the night clerk.

Barnes was turning away when a familiar voice assailed him.

Whirling, he looked into the face of a man who stood almost at his elbow—the sharp, impassive face of Mr. Sprouse.

CHAPTER XX.

The First Wayfarer Has One Treasure Thrust Upon Him—And Forthwith Claims Another.

"What are you doing here?" demanded Barnes, staring. He seized the man's arm and inquired eagerly: "Have you got the jewels?"

"No; but I will have them before morning," replied Sprouse coolly.

"Would you be surprised if I were to tell you that his royal nibs is hiding in this town? Well, he certainly is. The Baroness Hedlund has been here for a week or ten days. She goes by the name of Mrs. Hasselwein. I popped down here this afternoon and found out that she is at the sanatorium, but that she expects to leave tomorrow morning. I made another trip-out there this evening and waited. About eight o'clock Mr. Hasselwein strolled up. He sat on the veranda with her for half an hour or so and then left. I followed him. He went to one of the little cottages that belong to the sanatorium. I couldn't get close enough to hear what they said, but I believe he expects to take her away in an automobile early in the morning. It is a seventy-mile ride from here to the junction where they catch the train for the West. I'm going up now to make a call on Mr. Hasselwein. By the way, what is the number of your room?"

"Twenty-two—on the next floor."

"Good. Go upstairs now and I'll join you in about ten minutes. I will tap three times on your door."

"Why should you come to my room, Sprouse? We can say all that is to be said—"

"If you will look on the register you will discover that Mr. J. H. Prosser registered here about half an hour ago. He is in room 80. He left a call for five o'clock. Well, Prosser is another name for Ugo. He left the cottage an hour ago. Came in a jitney or I could have got to him on the way over."

Barnes, regardless of consequences, dashed over to inspect the register. Sprouse followed leisurely.

"See!" cried Barnes, excitedly, putting his finger on the name "Miss Jones." "She's in room 82—next to his. By gad, Sprouse, do you suppose he knows that she is here? Would the dog undertake anything—"

"You may be sure he doesn't know she's here, or you either, for that matter. The country's full of Joneses and Barneses. Get on upstairs. Leave everything to me."

Barnes had been in his room for twenty minutes before he heard the tapping on his door. He opened it and Sprouse a'd into the room. The instant the door closed behind him, he threw open his coat and coolly produced a long, shallow metal box, such as one finds in safety vaults.

"With my compliments," he said dryly, thrusting the box into Barnes' hands. "You'd better have the countess check them up and see if they're all there. I am not well enough acquainted with the collection to be positive."

Barnes was speechless. He could only stare, open-mouthed, at this amazing man.

"My God, Sprouse, have you been in that man's room since I saw you down—"

"All you have to do is to keep quiet and look innocent. Stay out of the hall tonight. Don't go near the door of

No. 80. Act like a man with brains. I said I would square myself with you and with him, too. Well, I've done both. Maybe you think it is easy to give up this stuff. There is a half-million dollars' worth of nice little things in that box, small as it is."

"I cannot begin to thank you enough," said Barnes. "See here, you must allow me to reward you in some way commensurate with your—"

"Cut that out," said Sprouse darkly. "I'm not so virtuous that I have to be rewarded. I like the game. It's the breath of life to me."

"The time will surely come when I can do you a good turn, Sprouse, and you will not find me reluctant," said Barnes, lamely.

"That's different. If I ever need a friendly hand I'll call on you. It's only fair that I should give you a tip, Barnes, just to put you on your guard. From now on, I'm a free agent. I want to advise you to put that stuff in a safe place. I'll give you two days' start. After that, if I can get 'em away from you, or whoever may have them, I'm going to do it. They will be fair plunder from then on. Good night—and good-by for the present. Stick close to your room till morning and then beat it with her for New York. I give you two days' start, remember."

He switched off the light suddenly. There was no sound for many seconds, save the deep breathing of the two men. Then, with infinite caution, Sprouse turned the knob and opened the door a half inch or so. He left the room so abruptly that Barnes never quite got over the weird impression that he squeezed through that slender crack, and pulled it after him!

Many minutes passed before he turned on the light. The key of the box was tied to the wire grip. With trembling fingers he inserted it in the lock and opened the lid. . . . "A half-million dollars' worth of nice little things," Sprouse had said!

He did not close his eyes that night. Daybreak found him lying in bed, with the box under his pillow, a pistol at hand, and his eyes wide open. He was in a graver quandary than ever. Now that he had the treasure in his possession, what was he to do with it?

He solved the breakfast problem by calling downstairs for a waiter and ordering coffee and rolls and eggs sent up to his room. Singularly enough the waiter solved the other and more disturbing problem for him.

"Some robbery last night," said that worthy. "Feller up in one of the cottages at the sanatorium. All beat up, something fierce they say."

"Up in—where?" almost shouted Barnes, starting up.

The man explained where the cottages were situated.

"Seems he was to leave by auto early this mornin', and they didn't know anything was wrong till Joe Keep—he's driving a car Mr. Norton has for rent—(I'll Joe'd been settin' out in front for nearly half an hour. The man's wife was waitin' fer him up at the main buildin' and she got so tired waitin' that she sent one of the clerks down to see what was keeping her husband. Well, sir, him and Joe couldn't wake the feller, so they climb in an open window, an' by gosh, Joe says it was terrible. The feller was layin' on the bed, feet an' hands tied and gagged, and blood from head to foot. He was unconscious, Joe says, an'—my God, how his wife took on! Joe says he couldn't stand it, so he snook out, ahakin' like a leaf."

"Is—is the man dead?" cried Barnes, aghast.

"Nepel! Seems like it's nothing serious; just beat up, that's all. Terrible cuts on his head and—"

"What time did all this happen?"

"Doc Smith figgers it was long about midnight, judgin' by the way the blood co'gulated."

"Did they get away with muth'?"

"Haven't heard. Seems as though the burglar—must ha' been more'n one of 'em, I say—wasn't satisfied with crackin' him over the head. He stuck the point of a knife or something into him—just a little way, Joe says—in more'n a dozen places. What say?"

"I—I didn't say anything."

"I thought you did. Well, if I hear anything more I'll let you know."

BELA KUN IS OUSTED

RED RULE IS TOTTERING AS ARCHBISHOPS DISAGREE IN HUNGARY.

BUDAPEST IN DISORDER

GENERAL CRISIS LOOMS AMONG SOVIETS AS DESERTING STARTS.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Paris, July 18.—Bela Kun, head of the Hungarian communist government, has been ousted, according to dispatches from reliable sources in Vienna received by the peace conference. Troops returning from the Czech front were reported entering Budapest in large numbers. Budapest was in disorder. Herr Boehm and Herr Lander have taken over control of the communist government.

Bela Kun was reported in a Budapest dispatch to have broken off with nearly all the Socialist leaders. Officers of the soviet army were said to be deserting at every opportunity. The communist leader was quoted as having said he was tired of trying to ride Socialist and communist horses at the same time.

Herr Boehm, commander of the Hungarian armies, was reported in prison, in a dispatch from Vienna, which also stated Bela Kun was seeking some excuse to leave Hungary and that he would not return.

Bela Kun assumed the post of minister of foreign affairs in the Hungarian soviet government which succeeded the Republican government set up by Count Karolyi. He took office in March, 1919, and immediately got in touch with the heads of the Russian soviet government.

The council of five at Paris July 5 reached the conclusion, it was stated, that it was impossible to make peace with Bela Kun's government. Consequently it was considered necessary to maintain the blockade.

Recent events in Budapest have presented trouble. An attack was recently made on the soviet headquarters by three monitors in the Danube, aided by land forces. As a result, forty youths from the Budapest military academy and three officers were hanged.

London.—The German government is believed to be trying to establish trade relations with soviet Russia and a German mission has visited Russia or is about to do so, Cecil B. Harmsworth, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons here.

Mr. Harmsworth said he had no exact information on the matter, but stated: "I believe it to be the case that the German government is endeavoring to enter into trade relations with soviet Russia and that a German industrial and commercial mission has visited or is about to visit soviet Russia."

Ban On Luxuries

Washington.—To protect British exchange in America and other countries where the balance of trade is against England, the British government, in addition to maintaining on the prescribed list of imports a good many articles, has found it advisable to require special licenses in some cases with the purpose of reducing the expenditure of British money for luxuries.

Meat in Storage

Chicago, Ill.—In a report issued officials of the Illinois department of agriculture declare that enormous quantities of meats, butter and eggs are now in storage in Chicago warehouses chiefly under control of the big five packers. According to the report the following quantities are at present stored in Chicago: Beef, 36,971,000 pounds; pork, 70,517,000 pounds; butter, 7,806,000 pounds; eggs, 1,200,000 cases or 300,000,000 dozen. The figures in the report will be used by District Attorney Clype in the federal government's inquiry into the high cost of food products in Chicago.

Bandits Got Boos

Jackson, Miss.—Francis L. West, a wealthy farmer living nine miles south of Winona, drove to Jackson and told the county officials that nine bandits in two automobiles had raided his home while he was away and looted his cellar of 150 cases of liquor valued at $6,000. West has offered rewards for the arrest of the men and the return of "what is left" of his property.

DOCTOR URGES AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headache and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BARTLETT, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

EVERYTHING FAILED

Then Mrs. Booth Used Doan's for Kidney Trouble. Says Worth Weight in Gold.

"Doan's Kidney Pills are worth their weight in gold for they cured me after all other medicine had failed," says Mrs. B. Booth, 87 Water St., Mt. Holly, N. J. "For over three years I was in misery."

"The pain in my back grew worse until I had to go to bed. I did nothing but toss about. The stinging pains shot through my body and my head ached and throbbled. My eyes felt as though they would bulge out of my head. The blinding dizzy spells made me think I was going to lose my mind. Everything would turn dark. The kidney secretions turned, were the color of coffee and passed every few minutes in very small amounts. I felt all a-titter with nervousness. I couldn't do anything and I lost twenty-four pounds. I felt short of breath and my heart would palpitate. Sometimes I would choke all over and become numb. "Doan's Kidney Pills" soon gave me relief. I couldn't believe this little 80c box had helped me after the doctor's expensive treatment had brought me nothing. Three boxes of Doan's cured me. Write to me before it is too late."—E. J. E. SLACK, Jersey Falls, Wis.

YOUR FLAG AND MY FLAG

Industrial Competition

Washington, D. C., July 24.—That Japan has been buying raw American cotton and driving America out of the Oriental markets for cotton goods is one of the facts set forth in a statement issued today by the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Jonathan Bourne, Jr. who thus reviews Japanese trade statistics:

"Purchases of large quantities of spelter, tungsten, rails and ship plates by Japanese, have recently been reported and one case is cited in which the Japanese purchased about 16,000 tons of copper. The rails are to be used in some of Japan's concessions, and the ship plates are for construction of some of the freighters the Japanese have under way. The copper purchase was a shrewd and speedy move on their part to stock up before the demands of the belligerents, following the resumption of normal conditions, became too persistent. The fact is Japan has not lost an opportunity to entrench herself in the trade and commercial field since the opening gun in the Great War was fired, and her people have had the consistent support of their Government in this work.

"Japan's total trade rose from $580,500,000 in 1913 to $1,319,000,000 in 1917,—almost doubled in four years. In 1913 her imports exceeded her exports by $48,500,000. In 1917 her exports exceeded her imports by $284,000,000. To quote from some statistics of our Tariff Commission on the subject:

The disclosure of trade incident to the war gave the Japanese an exceptional opportunity to supply various countries with commodities which had formerly come from Europe. This opportunity was effectively grasped and enormous increases were registered in the exports of manufactured goods to other oriental countries, as well as in the exports of manufactured goods and raw silk to the Occident, particularly to the United States. The more striking gains were in exports to China, in 1913, $77,330,000 and in 1917, $318,380,000; in exports to British India, in 1913, $12,936,000 and in 1917, $60,682,000; in the exports to Australia, in 1913, $4,318,000 and in 1917, $14,644,000; in exports to the United States, in 1913, $92,236,010 and in 1917, $239,268,000.

"During the fiscal year ended June 30th, last, our imports from Japan were around the $300,000,000 mark, and over three times what they amounted to before the war.

"One interesting phase of our trade with Japan shows up in the official figures for the ten months of the fiscal year 1919, ended April 30th, last, wherein Japan is seen to be, next to the United Kingdom, the greatest purchaser of American raw cotton, her total for the ten months being valued at nearly $110,000,000, as compared with $24,000,000 worth for the similar period of 1913, or, expressed in pounds 175,000,000 in 1913, and 337,000,000 in the 1919 period. With this cotton she has been driving us out of the Oriental markets for cotton goods. Her sales to us of silk wearing apparel have nearly doubled in value, and our imports of Japanese silk fabrics woven in piece have been multiplied by six.

"Naturally these matters are giving the Ways and Means Committee of the House something for serious consideration in the preliminary work of drafting a tariff bill which will undoubtedly have to await the signature of the Republican President some time after March 4, 1921."

PUT PROFITS INTO DIAMONDS

Many Reasons Why Increased Demand for Precious Stones Invariably Follows Devastating War.

The waste of war, by which many suffer and few reap returns, is always accompanied by a demand for precious stones. This war has differed only from other wars in that the demand was greater. Profiteers in the allied countries have bought for the purpose of display. Profiteers in enemy countries want diamonds, because they supply the safest way of concealing newly acquired wealth. As the diamond industry is the closest corporation in the world, values are not likely to depreciate, unless all the profiteers want to change their investments at the same time. At the present moment the price is higher than it has ever been.

The diamond dealer is of all traders the least hampered by office restrictions. He frequently carries the bulk of his stock in trade about with him in his waistcoat pocket. The public street is, as often as not, his only market place. In Hatton gardens, which is the chief center of the diamond industry in London, may frequently be seen little groups of two, three, or more well-dressed men, peering intently through little monocle lenses at gems worth many thousands of dollars.

NO NEED FOR THEM TO PART

Young Man Willing to Sacrifice Himself to Soften Blow to Poor Father-in-Law.

The young man had asked him for the hand of his daughter, and a pang wrung the fatherly heart of Mr. Jones as he looked at the youth, and thought of the bitterness of parting with his well-beloved child.

"I suppose, Oliver," he said at last, "it is only natural and right that when the young birds have become old enough to fly, they should leave their parental nest and go with their chosen mates to build nests of their own, and yet it pains me when I think of one of my fledglings getting ready to fly away."

"This seems to be a good-sized nest," suggested the young man, anxious to soften the blow; "perhaps you'd rather have me and Gertrude stay here."

RURAL SCHOOLS STUDY POTATOES

Guide for Teachers and Pupils
Published by United States
Department of Agriculture.

ITS IMPORTANCE AS FOOD

One of Most Widely Cultivated of Agricultural Plants—No Crop, Except Rice, Is Eaten by Larger Number of People.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A guide for teachers and pupils of elementary rural schools in the study of potatoes has been published by the United States department of agriculture as Bulletin 784, "Lessons on Potatoes for Elementary Rural Schools."

The bulletin contains 12 lessons, including the selection of seed potatoes in the field, harvesting and grading, marketing, winter storage, judging tuber and plant structure, place of potatoes in the rotation, soils (kind, preparation, fertilizers), planting and seed treatment, cultivation, insect pests and diseases, and uses as food. With each lesson is given the sources of material which may be studied with the subject under discussion, illustrative material that will help in its presentation, class exercises and practical exercises.

Study Different Stages.

As potatoes may be secured at any time of the year, there is no excuse, says the bulletin, for attempting to study them without having at hand specimens which represent good varieties grown in the district. The potato plant in the field should be studied during the different stages of development. Especially should the relation of the new tubers to the seed tuber and the root system of the plant be noted. If no plants are available, a diagram showing the plant as a whole will be useful. Charts showing the composition of the potato and its relative food values should also be made. Pictures clipped from bulletins, showing types of potatoes, may be mounted for class use.

In referring to the importance of the potato, the bulletin says it is one of the most widely cultivated of the agricultural plants, and next to Indian corn is the most important contribution of America to the food supply of the world. Probably no crop except rice is eaten by a larger number of people. In the more thickly populated regions of northern Europe the potato is now the most important of human foods, furnishing about 25 percent of the food of the continental and English peoples. EARNINGS OF CLUB MEMBERS

Indiana Boys and Girls Spend Bigger Part of Savings for Liberty Bonds and Stamps.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

What do club boys and girls do with the money they earn in their work? It is a question frequently asked by persons who have read of their profits. The question was asked approximately 350 boys and girls at the first annual club roundup of Indiana boy and girl club members, held recently at Purdue university in co-operation with the United States department of agriculture. It was found that 58 of those present owned Liberty bonds, which they had purchased with their own earnings; 100 had War Savings stamps; and practically every one had bought Thrift stamps. Thirty-one had started bank accounts with the money they had made in raising corn, pigs, calves or poultry, selling canned products, or from some other branch of club work. Eighty-five owned pigs, 46 owned calves, 36 owned sheep, and 62

SHORTAGE IN CLOVER SEED IS PREDICTED

Important That as Many Acres as Can Should Be Left.

Possibility of Good Crop Will Be Greatly Increased if First Crop Is Cut Early—Early Cutting Destroys Midge.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Drought during the summer of 1918 and the war have caused a shortage in red clover and crimson clover seed, and it is important in sections where seed can be profitably grown that as many acres of clover be left for seed as can be used without seriously interfering with crop rotation. If the second crop is to be left for seed, the possibility of a good crop will be greatly increased if the first crop is cut early. This is especially true if there is any danger from the clover flower-midge. Early cutting of the first crop may result in a smaller tonnage of hay and may not quite as nutritious, but it will destroy the midge. If the field is badly affected with midge and the larvae have had time to mature, a good seed crop is out of the question. For further detailed instruction see Farmers' Bulletin 971.

In sections where mammoth clover is grown fields intended for seed should be rolled. This will cause the stems to lie close to the ground. The flower heads will then bend up and can be harvested, leaving a large part of the clover upon the ground to be turned under for fertilizer. This will also reduce the amount of straw necessary to handle in hulling.

Write your extension director for Farmers' Bulletin 455, Red Clover; 886, Harvesting Hay with the Sweep Rake; 945, Haymaking; and 977, Hay Crops. They give methods of making clover hay. Others may be published by your state agricultural college.

peoples exist without it. Not only are the tubers used for food, but they have important industrial uses. As American population increases, the potato will become more and more important in this country, there being no other crop which will give such a large yield of food suitable for man under such varying conditions.

owned poultry. Definite plans to attend college by use of money from club work had been made by 117. It was found that of the 350 attending the meeting, 176 had been engaged in club work two years; 70, three years; 9, four years, and four, five years.

Beekeeping as Side Line.

Beekeeping as a side line is more profitable than poultry, in the opinion of Dr. J. H. Merrill, assistant professor of entomology in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Eye as Forage Crop.

Eye is sometimes used as a forage crop supplement and next to rape is perhaps best adapted to seeding in the corn when it is laid by.

Check Drifting Soil.

Drifting of soil can be checked by spreading straw or manure in strips across the field. Plowing an occasional furrow will also help.

Not Difficult to Control.

The Colorado potato beetle is not a difficult insect to control if begun in time.

BIG POTATO YIELD

Western Canada Man Raised 600 Bushels on Two Acres.

He Thinks He Did Pretty Well, but There Were Even Larger Crops in the Neighborhood—Live Stock Men Prosper.

As a by-product the yield of potatoes on the farm of Ben Pawson of Coaldale, Alberta, was somewhat of a paying proposition. Coaldale is in the Medicine Hat district of Alberta. Medicine Hat is a place, pictured in the mind of many Americans, where the weather man holds high carnival, and when he wants to put a little life or spirit into the people just moves the mercury down a few notches. The rascal has thus given Medicine Hat a rather unenviable place on the map. But it isn't half as bad as it is pictured. Anyway, Ben Pawson likes it. Last year he grew six hundred bushels of potatoes on two acres of land that had no special preparation, and only the usual precipitation, or rain, as the less cultured would call it. When he couldn't work at his hay or grain, because of the damp mornings, he gave them some attention. And then evenings between supper and chores and bedtime he gave them some work. Anyway his yield was six hundred bushels, and he sold the whole lot for $285. Ben is satisfied. Still there were larger yields than this in the neighborhood.

If one might speak of hogs in the same breath in which you speak of potatoes, there is nothing in the ethics of literature that would create a debarment. Taking advantage of this license it will not be out of place to state that large potato yields are not the only feature of interest in this new and interesting country. Amongst others hogs are having a good deal of attention. Not long ago, hogs reached the $22.00 mark on the Calgary market. It doesn't cost much to raise a hog and very little to bring him to a weight of 200 pounds. Don't cost much! Certainly not. But what about the man who recently paid $860 for a Duroc Jersey Boar? That was all right. That man knew what he was doing. He was doing what a great many other farmers in Western Canada are doing today. He is acting on the old "saw," that "it costs no more to raise a good critter than a poor one." That is the reason that Western Canada is looming large in the live stock world. The best is none too good. The same may be said of horses, cattle, yes, and sheep, too. The very best sires and dams of the best breeds are purchased. And while big prices are paid, it is felt that the demand for pure-bred stock at home and abroad will bring returns which will warrant any reasonable price that may be asked.—Advertisement.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it falls almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

ZEBU CHILD.

"The zebu child," said Daddy, "was a great joy to his mother. She was very proud of him, and no matter if he was not always a perfect and well-behaved child she thought he was lovely."

"It is a way that mothers have, you know."

Nick and Nancy laughed for Daddy gave a knowing wink.

"I can't always understand it myself," he said.

But both the children knew that he could, for they knew, deep down, that he adored them and thought they were perfect, and besides he was never, never, never too tired to tell them a good-night story.

"The zebu child and her mother lived in the zoo and there were a number of other zebras there, too."

"In fact there were many other animals all around. Some times on a rainy day I've seen the zebras in the zoo with their heads out of their little houses and their bodies inside as though they were saying:

"Well, we'll shampoo our heads today, or at least we will give them a rain-washing. But our bodies had better be inside. It's just as good as being able to check our bodies in our houses, like folks check their umbrellas and suitcases at the railway station to be called for when they want them."

"We can't go off and leave our bodies behind but we do keep our bodies directly behind us so they don't get wet."

"They looked quite funny with their heads all out of doors, their great cow-like eyes gazing up at the rain as though to say,

"What a silly thing rain is, and yet it has its purposes. It is useful, but it is silly!"

"For they look as if they thought everything in the world was rather silly, just as creatures will look who aren't thinking much themselves."

"Well, I heard the keeper talking to a zebu child, this special zebu child

"Don't Feel Badly, Mother."

I want to tell you about and this was what the keeper said:

"You're six months old today," he told the zebu child, "and now you must be taken from your mother and made to look after yourself a little more."

"You've had your mother all to yourself for quite a long time, you must now learn how not to be a baby and how to be a grown-up zebu."

"Ah, I'm six months old today," the zebu child said proudly. "Think, mother, I'm six months old!"

"Yes, my child is a grown-up son now," she said, "he is a real zebu!"

"The zebras, you know, are the sacred cattle of India. They look like great gray cows, only they have humps. Their faces are like cows and they belong to that family."

"There is no reason for their humps, and no special reason why they should be made the sacred cattle of India."

"Both the Mr. Zebus and the Mrs. Zebus have horns and they're all pretty nice for the most part."

"Good-by to your babyhood," said Mother Zebu sadly, for though she was proud that her child was really a child now and not a baby, still she couldn't bear to think that his baby days were over.

"The zebu baby, or zebu child was delighted that he was considered really quite grown-up and that he was actually six months old."

"Don't feel badly, mother," he said, "for now I can look after you. I will care for you when you get old for I am young and strong."

"And the mother zebu looked at him out of her great big wet eyes and said,

"Ah, what a child he still is!"

"But the zebu child didn't think so at all, and only thought that that was his mother's way of making him believe that he was still young."

"I'm six months old," he kept repeating proudly to himself. "Six months old, a great and terrific age it is!" he added.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and restoring ugly hollows and angles by the use of a variety of lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who feel their existence a burden.

Thinness and weakness are often due to a starved nerve. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. A special claim is made for Nitro-Phosphate as being the only phosphate known among druggists as Nitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most drug stores and food stores. It is a fact that the nerves are the seat of the life force. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, Nitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany extreme thinness, should soon disappear. Full eyes ought to be bright, and hair checks glow with the bloom of perfect health. Miss Georgia Hamilton, who was once thin and frail, reporting her own experience, writes: "Nitro-Phosphate has brought about a magic transformation with me. I gained 15 pounds and never before felt so well."

CAUTION:—Although Nitro-phosphate is usually sold for raising nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Hand grenades, just like those hurled into the Hun lines by the American soldiers, can be secured as war souvenirs by the boys and girls, men and women of Carrizozo. The grenades have been made into savings banks and are being distributed locally by the First National Bank.

When the Germans gave up, the United States had a large quantity of these grenades ready to send across. The War Department had no further need of these "weapons of war" so they turned them over to the Savings Division of the Treasury Department and they have been transformed into "weapons of peace."

It is a simple matter to obtain one of these grenade banks. The boy or girl obtains one from the local bank so that he or she can save. When enough money has been earned and saved to buy a $5 War Savings Stamp, and it is purchased, the grenade becomes the property of the boy or girl. Adults may also obtain these grenade banks by saving and investing in at least three $5 War Savings Stamps of the 1919 issue.

Only a limited number of these grenades could be obtained for Carrizozo. This will be the only opportunity to earn a real weapon of war as a souvenir. When these grenades are gone, it will be impossible to secure any more. Those interested should arrange today to get their grenades, which can be obtained in Carrizozo from the First National Bank.
