

TWIN AFFAIRS

BEFORE PARTING OF OLD FRIENDS

After Years of Separation, Mrs. Clyde Gilbert Visits Girlhood Friends — Home-folks — Novel Entertainment at Farewell Period.

Last Friday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed R. Kelley was the scene of a pleasant dinner party given in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Dr. Claudia C. Gilbert, of Caldwell, Idaho.

The decorations partook of the nature of St. Valentine's day, the place cards being hearts. After an absence of almost ten years, eight of her girlhood friends are still residents of Carrizozo, and this added novelty to the occasion as it furnished the ladies with the pleasure of reviewing the season of girlhood spent together, and as it were, living a part of their lives over again. The guests at the dinner were: Mesdames Lemon, Hoffman, Laughrey, Greer, Kelley, The Misses Georgie Lanet, Grace Spence, Lorena Seger, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kelley.

Bowling Club Entertains

Following closely on the above pleasant affair, Mrs. Gilbert was the guest of honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Richard last Monday evening, when the Ladies of the Bowling Club and their friends gave her a farewell surprise party.

A very pleasant evening was spent; music and games furnished the entertainment, and at 11 o'clock a delicious chili luncheon was served. At a late hour the guests departed wishing Mrs. Gilbert a safe and pleasant journey to her home in Idaho, and each presented Mrs. Gilbert with a sealed letter with the understanding that neither should be opened until she was aboard the train and enroute for her home. These letters which contained loving tributes, and farewell tokens of love and best wishes, will be treasured and preserved by the recipient as souvenirs, of this pleasant affair.

Those present including Mrs. Gilbert, were: Mesdames Forrest, Becot, Lemon, Whittingham, Loughrey, Massie, Miller, McLean, Roberts, Day, T. E. Kelley, Ed R. Kelley, Shulda, Hoffman, Barnhart, Dekker, George, Norman, Pitts, Richards, Miss Clara Becot, and Messrs. Pitts and Richards.

War Savings Work

Mr. Ira Wetmore was nominated to Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Glass, for County Chairman of War Savings for Lincoln County, by Jno. N. Gambrell, Jr., Special Representative of the Treasury Department. Mr. Gambrell expressed himself as being very much delighted that the Government is to have the services of such a man as Mr. Wetmore, and assured us that his Commission of appointment from the Secretary will reach him in a very few days.

The war Savings work this year is not only one for supplying the government with the needed revenue; in addition thereto it is one, the purpose of which is to direct the thoughts of the public along the line of personal economy, of the foregoing of the purchase of non-essentials, of securing 100 cents in value for every dollar spent, of acquiring thrift habits and practices, to the end that the Nation may become one of a sturdy, self-reliant, prosperous, and independent people.

Mr. Gambrell informs us that the Public Schools organized a War Savings Society Tuesday and appointed two committees to organize a War Savings Society in each room, possibly. He was very much impressed with the spirit of loyalty to country and love of it, as expressed by the children and it is confident that they shall be found good savers and regular investors in War Savings and Thrift Stamps.

The quota for 1918 in War Savings Stamps for the county was $156,000.00 while for this year it is only $34,000.00.

Mr. Gambrell says that the Government expects everyone who made a pledge last year to buy War Savings Stamps and who for any reason failed to keep that pledge to do so this year by purchasing Stamps of the 1919 issue.

Leaving With Our Regrets

Next Saturday Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Pitts will move to their ranch home in the Jicarilla Mountains. We regret the loss of the Pitts family as they were always identified in our affairs of both a social and patriotic nature. We are not without consolation however, as their ranch being only about thirty miles distant from Carrizozo we may expect to see them occasionally; we also have some hope of their return after a year's sojourn on their Mountain ranch.

Dingwall and Arbuckle

"Fatty" Arbuckle passed through here Thursday on No. 4 on his way to El Paso and afforded Manager Dingwall the opportunity of holding about fifteen minutes' conversation with the distinguished screen comedian. "Fatty" said he would have been pleased to stop over for a hours, but pressing business matters in El Paso demanded his immediate attention, and he must hurry on to fill the important engagement. He will return to the east, as soon as his El Paso appointment is filled.

Nogal Items

After much pumping, blowing of whistles and getting things in readiness the American mine has the water out of the workings and will soon be realizing something more than wind, water and old timber out of the mine.

Mr. Robinson is working at the Helen Rae mine and expects to have some good news for us at an early date. Both he and Mrs. Robinson are laid up with severe colds of late.

The Hedges family have recovered from their recent illness and Mr. Hedges is now working at the Vera Cruz mine. They are adding new machinery to the plant and are about ready to start up in earnest.

Geo. Whittaker has built a new house and is now comfortably located on Walnut Ave.

Joe Cochran has built a blacksmith shop on his property and is now ready to serve the public in this line of business.

The Boyd Zumwalts have moved to their ranch in Nogal Canyon, and the Martin family are now occupying the old Zumwalt home.

Mr. Rich Hust, who has been suffering with rheumatism of late, left for the Hot Springs where he is testing the curative powers of the water. His wife and daughter accompanied him and we hope he will be benefitted, as we know what rheumatism is ourselves.

The Elmer Zumwalt family are enjoying a pleasant trip through California.

Uncle Tom Henley has returned from Carrizozo and is enjoying the old fire place at home.

Mr. Norwood has started a chicken farm and we wish him success.

To the Rainbow's End

Miss Meda West and mother left for Clouderoft this week. Mrs. West will take up her residence at the old home and Miss Meda will remain with her mother for a short while, after which she will return to Carrizozo, to care for the interests of her brother Joe.

Returning Boys

Rolla Parker and Orville Smith arrived this week from overseas, and speak well of the service, but are glad they are home.

John Robinson Dies

In the Nogal items of this week, mention is made of the illness of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, which was shortly followed by the death of the veteran miner. Mr. Robinson had followed the mining industry for the greater portion of his natural existence, and was at the head of the Helen Rae mine at Nogal. As the sad news came just as we were going to press, nothing definite could be learned as to what disposition would be made of the remains. The Outlook extends its sympathy to the surviving relatives.

"Valentine Tea"

The "Valentine Tea" given by the ladies of the Baptist Church last Friday afternoon and evening was not only an enjoyable affair but was a success financially, as well as socially. The big room of the Land Commissioner's office was prettily decorated in hearts, and there was music everywhere.

From two o'clock in the afternoon until eight in the evening the tables were full, the ladies being busy as bees for the entire time. After an accounting was made, the ladies found that the neat sum of thirty-five dollars had been realized from the entertainment. The ladies therefore, wish to return their thanks to the people for their patronage, and in the near future there will be another surprise of a like nature for the public.

Juvenile Candy Pulling

Last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. C. W. Hyde gave an old fashioned "Candy Pulling" in honor of the eleventh birthday of her little daughter Helen. There were about twenty-five guests present and the afternoon was spent in playing games of different kinds, after which refreshments were served attended by the mirth producing custom of candy pulling. As the shades of evening began to fall the guests departed wishing Miss Helen many happy birthdays and thanking Mrs. Hyde for the novel and thoughtful entertainment.

Mrs. Adams' New Acquaintance

Mrs. J. R. Adams came in from Bisbee, Ariz., last week to meet her son Louis who came up from Waco, Texas, and also to spend a short time with her daughter Mrs. Floyd Claunch; her deepest interest however, seemed to be centered in forming the acquaintance of the new grand daughter, whose arrival we announced several weeks ago.

Robert Thompson, who formerly resided here, being employed at the Vera Cruz mine, spent a short time with friends last week having stopped over on his trip from Douglas, Ariz. to El Paso.

Alvin Hightower and Jim Cooper of Ancho, were down last Saturday.

From Camp Sheridan

Sergeant Bernard Wilson, who has been stationed at Camp Sheridan, Ark., came home Wednesday, having received his regulation discharge papers. The Sergt. is a brother of the Misses Gladys and Laureen Wilson, who are pleased to the extreme at their brother's return.

Went and Returned

The little Misses Lois and Kathryn Stidham left last Saturday for Bisbee, Ariz., to pay a short visit to their uncle, and returned on Wednesday of this week, accompanied by their grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Pace.

SENIOR AND JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES RENDER PROGRAM

In Washington's Birthday Exercises Pupils Exhibit Rare Talent Which Reflects Credit to Teachers in Program of Merit.

The Senior and Junior High School classes of Carrizozo put on a patriotic program Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the High School Auditorium. GUNNER DEPEW

When I looked around I saw that our real position was to the right of where the artillery was, and that there were three lines of trenches with French infantry in them. So the trenches I had come from were more like outposts than anything else, and were cut off. I felt pretty sure, then, that the boys in them would never come back alive, because as soon as their fire let up the Turks would advance, and to keep them back our guns would have to wipe out our men, and if they did not, the Turks would. At first I was glad I had come out, but then I remembered what the artillery officer had said and I figured I would have to go back and stay with them or bring them back. Either way there was not one chance in a hundred that any of us would make it. Because when I got through it was really just a miracle and nobody would have thought it could happen.

Then the officer told me to go back to the beach, where our naval guns were, and that I was detailed to them. Maybe you do not think I was glad? But there was rough work still ahead of me, because when I got behind the third line I saw a wide open field that was light gray from the shell smoke hanging over it, and I could see the flashes where the big ones were doing their work, and I had to go through that field.

I felt time and again, sometimes when I thought a shell was near, and sometimes when I had no reason for it—only I was thirsty again, and was shivering all the time, and was so weak I could not have choked a goldfish. I do not remember hardly anything about going through that field, and you might say the next thing I knew was when I was overtaken by a dispatch runner, and got in a tin tub at the side of a motorcycle and was taken to the gun.

I felt ready for a Rip Van Winkle nap then, but the officer in command would not let me. He said they were short of gunners—the terrific shelling had killed off dozens of them—and as he knew I could point a gun he had ordered them over the telephone to get me to the beach as fast as possible. He spotted the two warehouses I have spoken of for me and said it was up to us to put them out of commission. The gun was a 14-inch naval, and that looked good to me, so I bucked up a lot. The warehouses were about 10 or 11 miles away, I should judge, and about 80 or 90 yards apart. I felt very weak, as I have said, and shivered every once in a while, so I did not think I could do much gunning worth anything at. But they loaded the old 14-inch and made ready, and we got the range and all was set. The officer told me to let her ride. So I said to myself, "This is one for you, Murray, old boy. Let's go from here."

So I sent that one along and she faded direct and the warehouse went up in fire and smoke. I felt good then, and I told the wiper on the other warehouse and let her go. But she was too high and I made a clean miss. Then I was mad, because I had sent that one over for myself. So I got the crew wiper on the warehouse again and, if I said to myself, "This is not for anybody, just for luck, because I sure have had plenty of it today."

Then the wiper came through the wiper and into the charge, and away she went, and up went the second warehouse. That made two direct out of three, and I guess it hurt the Turks some to lose all their ammunition. The officer looked me before I could duck and stopped me on the beach and I thought over. I was just all in. They brought me to with rum, and they said I was singing when I came to. When they tried to sing to show me what song it was, I figured it was "Sweet Adeline" they meant. But I do not believe I came to, singing, because I never sang "Sweet Adeline" before, that I knew of, or any other song when anybody was in range. But I heard a lot of times, so maybe I did sing it at that.

Then I went to sleep feeling bad. The next morning the detachment from the Cassard was withdrawn, and I saw some of the men who had been in the two trenches but I was not near enough to speak to them. So I do not know how they got out.

Yet never saw a hopper bunch in your life than we were when we piled into the trenches and started for the Cassard. The old ship looked pretty good to us, you can bet, and we said if we never got our heads on that place again it would be soon enough.

We were shelled on our way out to the Cassard, and our best was overturned, but the men were rescued. Two men in the launch I was in were wounded. But we did not pay any attention to that shelling—the Turks might just as well have been blowing peas at us through a soda straw for all we cared.

I noticed that when we came near the Cassard the other boats held up and let our launch get into the lead, and that we circled around the Cassard's bows and came up on the starboard side, which was unusual. But I did not think anything of it until I came over the side. There were the side boys lined up, and the Old Man was there, with the ship's steward beside him.

He took the log book from the steward and showed it to me, and there was my name on it. Now when you are punished for anything you are logged, but I could not figure out what I had done to get punished for, so I was very much surprised. But the Old Man slapped me on the back and everybody cheered, and then I saw it was not punishment, but just the opposite.

When people ask me what I have received my decoration for (Croix de Guerre), I tell them I do not rightly know, and that is a fact. I do not know whether it was for going back from those trenches or for destroying the storehouses. So I always tell them I got it for working overtime. That is what the Limays say, or if they have the Victoria cross they say they got it for being very careless. Ask one of them and see.

All of us were certainly glad to be aboard the Cassard again, and if any place ever looked like home to me it was the old ship. Our casualties were very high and we were therefore ordered to put back to Brest. We had a great little celebration that night, and next morning washed anchor and started back, after clearing for action. I was still pretty blue about Murray, but very much relieved as to the safety of my own skin, and I figured that after the Dardanelles and my last day there they had not made the right bullet for me yet. The rest of us felt about the same way and we were singing all the time.

CHAPTER XV.

Je Suis Heures.

As usual, when we got to Brest there was rough work day and night on the Cassard to get her out and supplies of all kinds were loaded for our next visit to the Turks. The French parties were always keen for the trip back to Brest—they were sure of landing up on tobacco and other things they needed.

My twelfth trip to the Dardanelles was different from the others. The Cassard was doing patrol work at the time in the neighborhood of Cape Helles. Those of us who had served on the Cassard before were thanking our stars for the nap we were having—just cruising around waiting for something to happen.

We had not been there very long before something unexpected did happen, for we ran into two enemy cruisers—what I afterwards heard were the Werft and Kaiserliche Marine—one on the starboard and one on the port. Now they had managed to sneak up so near us I do not know. They opened up on us at not much more than a thousand yards and gave us a hot time from the start, though with any kind of gunnery they should have done for us thoroughly.

We came right back at them and were getting in some pretty good shots. I was in the 14-inch gun turret, starboard bow—my old haunch—and we were letting them have it about four shots every five minutes and seeing heavily.

I do not know how long we had been fighting when part of our range finder was carried away. It was so hot, though, and we were so hot at it that such a little thing like that did not bother us. It is hot in any gun turret, but I have always noticed that it is hotter there in the Dardanelles than in any other place. The great wind simply came up on us, with our faces were just covered with a film of perspiry sweat.

But the range finder was carried away, and although it looked bad for us I was feeling so good that I volunteered to go on deck and get another one. I got up to the turret deck and across the deck, got the necessary parts and was coming back with them when I received five machine-gun bullets in the right side. One went clear through here and all and dented a hole on the other side, while the other came within an inch of going through. The peculiar thing is that these two were in a line above the wound I got at Dardanelles. The line is almost as straight as you could draw it with a ruler.

Of course it knocked me down and I hit my head a pretty hard crack on the steel deck, but I was able to crawl on to the turret door. Just as I was about to enter the gun was fired. That particular charge happened to be defective. The shell split and caused a back fire and the cartridge, fire and gas came through the breach, which the explosion had opened.

It must have been a piece of cordite which did it, but whatever it was, it hit me in the right eye and blinded it. The ball of the eye was saved by the French surgeons and looks normal, but it pains me greatly sometimes and they tell me it will always be sightless.

I was unconscious immediately from the blow and from the quantity of gas which I must have swallowed. This gas did me a great deal of damage and gives me dizziness often to this day. I do not know what happened during the rest of the engagement, as I did not regain consciousness until three days later at sea. But I heard in the hospital that the French super-dreadnaught Jeanne d'Arc and the light cruiser Normandie were in it as well as ourselves, though not at the time I was wounded, and that we had all been pretty well battered. The Cassard lost 95 men in the engagement and had 45 wounded. Some of our torpedoes were twisted into all manner of shapes and part of our bow was carried away. One of our lieutenants was killed in the engagement.

I was told that both the Werft and the Kaiserliche Marine were sunk in this engagement. I have seen pictures of sailors from the Werft who were prisoners at internment camps.

When we arrived at Brest the wounded were taken from the ship in stretchers and after we had been reloaded for about fifteen minutes on the deck got into ambulances and rushed to the hospital. On the way those who could leaned out of the ambulances and had a great time with the people along the streets, many of whom they knew, for the Cassard was a Brest ship. And of course the women and children yelled, "Vive la France!" and were glad to see the boys again, even though they were badly done up.

Some of our men were bandaged all over the face and head and it was funny when they had to tell their names to old friends of theirs, who did not recognize them. As soon as one of the Brest people recognized a friend of his would go to get cigarettes and other things for him and some of them almost beat me in the hospital.

I do not know, of course, just what the surgeons did to me, but I heard that they had my eyeball set on my cheek for almost two hours. At any rate they saved it. The thick wounds were not dangerous in themselves and if it had not been for the rough treatment they got here on they would be quite healed by this time, I am sure.

I really think I got a little extra attention in the hospital in many ways, for the French were at all times anxious to show their friendliness to America. Every time my meals were served there was a little American flag on the plate and always a large American flag draped over the bed. I had everything I wanted given to me at once and when I was able to, all the cigarettes I could smoke, which were not many.

While I was still in bed in the hospital I received the Croix de Guerre, which I had won at the Dardanelles. The presentation was made by Lieutenant Barber. He pinned an American flag on my breast, a French flag beneath it and beneath that the war cross. He kissed me on both cheeks, of course, which was taking advantage of a cripple. But it is the usual thing with the French, as you know—I mean the kissing, not the kissing to cripples.

When he had pinned the medal on he told me that he had the bottom of his heart for the French people, and also thanked all the Americans who had come over from their own land to help a country with which most of them were not connected. He said it was a war in which many nations were taking part, but in which there were just two blood, freedom and democracy, and a lot more things that I cannot remember. He finished by saying that he wished he could shake hands all of us.

Of course it was great stuff for me and I thought it was the best thing any country could do, but I could not help thinking of the remark I have heard here in the States—"I think you and the whole family thank you." And it was hard not to laugh. Also it seemed funny to me, because I did not rightly know just what they were giving me the medal for—though it was for one of two things—and I do not know to this day. But I thought it would not be polite to ask, so I let it go at that.

There were twelve other naval officers who were present and they said all the other people did a lot of cheering and vived me to a first-you-well. It was great stuff, altogether, and I should have liked to get a medal every day.

One day I received a letter from a man who had been in my company in the Foreign Legion and with whom I had been pretty chummy. His letter was partly in French and partly in English. It was all about who had been killed and who had been wounded. He also mentioned Murray's death, which he had heard about, and about my receiving the Croix de Guerre. I was wishing he had said something about Brown, whom I had not heard from and who I knew would visit me if he had the chance.

But two or three days later I got another letter from the same man and when I opened it out I found a photograph. At first all I saw was that it was the photograph of a man crucified with bayonets, but when I looked at it closely I saw it was Brown. I fainted then, just like a girl.

When I came to I could hardly make myself think about it. Two of my pals went to think of it that I crashed the letter up in my bunk, but later on I could read parts of it. It said they had found Brown this way near Dardanelles about two days after he had been reported missing. So three of us went over and five stayed there. It seems very strange to me that both of my pals should be crucified and if I were superstitious I do not know what I would think about it. It made me sick and kept me from recovering as fast as I would have done otherwise. Both Brown and Murray were good pals and very good men in a fight. I often think of them both and about the things we did together, but lately I have tried not to think about them much because it is very sad to think what torments they must have had to stand. They were both of great credit to this country.

The American consul visited me quite often and I got to calling him Sherlock because he asked so many questions. We played lots of games together, mostly with dice, and had a great time generally. After I became convalescent he argued with me that I had seen enough, and though I really did think so—however much I disliked what I had seen—he got my discharge from the service on account of physical inability to discharge the usual duties. After I had been at the hospital for a little over a month I was discharged from it, after a little party in my ward with everyone taking part and all the horns blowing and all the records except my favorite songs played one after another.

Sherlock arranged everything for me—my passage to New York, clothing, etc. I ran up to St. Nazaire and saw my grandmother, looked around a while and also visited Lyons.

After a short time I returned to Brest and got my passage on the Georgie for New York. I had three trunks with me full of things I had picked up around Brest and had been keeping with my grandmother. Among my belongings were several things I should like to show by photographs in this book, but no one but mermaids can see them now, for down to the locker of Derry Jones they went. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

And the German Dropped.
An American aviator, forced to land within the German lines and taken prisoner, returned a few days afterward to American headquarters, safe and sound, in his own machine.

The commanding German officer informed him they were after certain information and had decided to send him up in his own machine accompanied by a German officer, who would shoot him if he deserted from orders. He took his machine up, his German companion sitting beside him with a drawn revolver at his side.

He said: "I determined that the German officer should never return, even if it cost me my own life. I was thinking how I could do it, when I realized that the man beside me was not equipped. I leaped the loop."

Weekly Health Talks

Where Most Sickness Begins and Ends

BY FRANKLIN DUANE, M. D.

It can be said broadly that most sickness begins in the stomach and ends in the stomach. Good digestion means good health, and poor digestion means bad health. The minute your stomach fails to properly dispose of the food you eat, troubles begin to crop out in various forms. Indigestion and dyspepsia are the commonest forms, but thin, impure blood, head aches, backaches, pimples, blotches, dizziness, belching, coated tongue, weakness, poor appetite, sleeplessness, coughs, colds and bronchitis are almost as common. There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to take, for it is made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this standard medicine, and it is good to know that he distinguished a physician is proud to have his name identified with it. When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the world. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

If pills are torturing you, get and use Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment. The quick relief it gives is hard to believe until you try it. If constipated Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pilelets should be taken while using Anodyne Pile Ointment. For indeed are the cases which these splendid remedies will not relieve and usually cure. They are so good that nearly every drug store has them for sale.

"I carry no literary baggage." This confession of Marshal Joffre sums up his laconic habit. He hates words. Not long after his great victory on the Marne he consented to receive a party of war correspondents. They looked forward eagerly to columns of copy. Joffre uttered 95 words and then said, "Good morning."

A Terrible Ordeal!

Gravel and Kidney Stone Caused Intense Suffering—Doan's Brought a Quick Cure.

Edw. J. Turlock, 2225 Broadway Ave., St. Louis, Mo., says: "I was taken with a terrible pain about the back and every nerve I made, it felt like a knife being driven into my back and twisted around. It lasted about half an hour, but soon came back and with it another affliction. The kidney sensations began to pain me; the bow was puny and burned like fire when passing. I had severe headache and my bladder got badly inflamed, too, and I passed little pieces of gravel in the urination. Doan's Kidney Pills had been recommended to me and I began their use. The first Mr. Turlock felt brought relief and I passed a stone the size of a pea. It was a terrible ordeal and afterwards a steady sediment and particles of gravel settled in the urine. I got none of the pills and they cured me. The inflammation left and there was no more pain or gravel. I now sleep well, eat well and my kidneys act normally. Doan's Kidney Pills have accomplished this wonderful cure."

AT LINCOLN STATE BANK

Guest at Roswell

Lieut. Henry Lutz took a trip the latter part of last week making his first stop at his old home in Lincoln. After spending a day there he went on to Roswell, where he was the distinguished guest at a reception given in his honor.

The Lieut. next visited Carlsbad, where he was accorded the same honors as in other places he visited. These people have performed a pleasant and sacred duty; they have shown the Lieutenant that they hold in loving remembrance the patriotic sacrifices he has made that we might continue on in the God-given privilege of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

We should have been first to show a public recognition of what the boys have done. "It is better to be late than never." We have that duty yet to perform, and the Committee, as it appears, has made several attempts to formulate plans and carry out a suitable program of entertainment for the boys, but at every attempt something of an obstacle has stood in the way and now we the people of Carrizozo are going to insist in vigorous terms that everything stand aside and allow this program to be carried out.

Stopped Over Between Trains

Fred W. Jones, who was at one time station agent at this place, stopped over for several hours last Sunday, awaiting a train for Douglas, Ariz. where he now resides.

"Buenos Dias," Louis

Mr. Louis Adams returned from Waco, Texas, where he has been since the early part of January. It was the intention of Louis when he left us, to attend the court of Charles of his feet however, but a short time after his departure in Waco, the well of the "mountain" bursted his dam, and he at once made arrangements to return to his old home and friends of early days.

Mr. Adams has not only returned but he brought for the benefit of our citizens, a fine lot of all kinds of clothing, and he at once made arrangements to return to his old home and friends of early days.

Mrs. Gilbert Departs

Mrs. Dr. Gilbert, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed R. Kelley for the past month, left Thursday for her home in Caldwell, Idaho.

She will stop over at Moriarity, N.M. to pay a brief visit to a number of friends at that place, going from there to Albuquerque where she will be joined by her mother, Mrs. Ed R. Kelley. Mother and daughter will spend a few days with friends at the Duke City, after which Mrs. Gilbert will return to her home in Idaho, and Mr. Kelley to Carlsbad.

Walk-Over shoes in all the wanted styles and leathers are always on display at the Carrizozo Trading Co.

Brickley and Warden to the Coast. E. M. Brickley and Guy Warden left last Saturday for the coast, where they will spend a short time enjoying the climate of the "Golden Gate."

Gene to Birmingham

Little Lamont Johnson, son of Lieut. F. H. Johnson, left Thursday for Birmingham, Ala., to join his mother at that place.

You can save a ten dollar bill on your suit or overcoat at the Carrizozo Trading Co.

Come to the Coast

Mrs. M. Grumbles left Wednesday for Camp Kearney, Cal., where she will join her son Roy, who is to be discharged from the service in about two weeks. It was the hope of the folks, that he would pass through here on his way to the coast from the east, but he only got as far to us as Mountainair, having taken a different route than that expected after reaching Vazquez. Mrs. Grumbles will stop at Las Cruces, where her daughter Ida resides and after a short stay there will go to Camp Kearney to await the discharge of Roy, after which they will accompany him home.

Dr. Richard Ernest Kunze, internationally famous as a naturalist, is dead at Phoenix.

Three persons were burned to death in a fire destroying the Tokio House at Seattle, a lodging house in the lower part of the city. Twelve are missing and fourteen were injured.

Thirty French veterans, including a number of aviators and tank experts, part of a contingent ordered to Hawaii, received orders upon their arrival in Honolulu to return to France.

About 300 orange growers of the San Gabriel valley, many of them armed, drove from this vicinity 25 Mexicans, including four women, alleged to have attempted to intimidate Mexican orange pickers.

Harlan Talbert, secretary of the Oregon Socialist party, and four other men were arrested at Portland charged with violation of the newly enacted state criminal syndicalism law, by the distribution of alleged seditious literature.

Managers of copper properties at Idanha and Kennecott, Alaska, have begun making reductions in the number of employes because of the decline in the price of copper. Gold mines here have added extra shifts, operating now nearly on a pre-war basis.

At a mass meeting of members of local and district draft boards in Portland resolutions were adopted memorializing Congress to enact legislation to exclude from citizenship, and to deport from the United States, all aliens who withdrew their applications for citizenship during the war in order to evade military service.

WASHINGTON

Prof. George Herron and William Allen White have been appointed American delegates to the joint conference of the associated powers and Russian factions at Prinkipoo.

The House bill providing for a reduction of $15,000,000,000 in war appropriations and contract authorizations and making deficiency appropriations of $285,000,000, was passed by the Senate without a record vote.

To maintain facilities for training merchant seamen, the Shipping Board has decided to turn six of the wooden cargo steamers built during the war into training ships. More than 20,000 men have applied to take the training courses, and it is planned to add dispatch cruises to the curriculum.

Plans for bringing home the bodies of all officers, sailors and marines now buried on foreign soil are being worked out by the Navy Department and the next week will be undertaken within the next few months. The wishes of relatives, however, will govern not only as to the return of the bodies, but also as to their final disposition.

There were more than 100,000 which by conscription of American soldiers during the war, Secretary Fisher informed the Senate in response to a resolution of Senator Booth of Idaho, asking for the facts of World War soldiers. Mr. Fisher said that 100,000 men were listed by general conscription and the remainder by special or statutory conscription.

Speaker Antonio A. Sedillo of the House of Representatives is one of those sticklers for the letter of the law that has been duly made and provided.

A bill that was introduced in the House by Arnaldo de Dona Ana county is one that should result in increased activity in the raising and prospecting that is being done throughout the state of New Mexico.

The drastic revision of a number of the laws vitally affecting the interests of the stockman of the state was the object of various bills that were introduced in the House by W. J. Linwood of Colfax county, former secretary of the Cattle Sanitary Board.

Opposition to the bilingual bill, which is such an important part of Governor Larrazola's educational program, continues to develop on every side, and the measure will not become a law without a stiff fight in both the House and the Senate.

There was quite a flurry in senate legislative circles at Santa Fe when a bill was introduced into the House to define games of chance, and to provide penalties for anyone who might be caught indulging in any of the games mentioned, or, in fact, in any amusement that remotely smacked of the element of chance.

The mutilated bodies of two passengers named Hanesok and Taylor were found in a branch of the Colorado river station near St. Thomas, a few miles from Las Vegas, and officers said they believed the men had been killed by an Indian who is alleged also to have slain Mrs. Mary J. Douglas the night of Jan. 21.

Antonia, a village on the El Paso & Newkirk railway, has been given an agency for an express depot through the efforts of the state corporation committee. The station had a connection with the common carrier several months ago and the cause has been settled by the establishment of a depot, and the starting of an express agency.

House Joint Resolution No. 4 introduced by Judge E. F. Barnes of Bernalillo, seeks to have Congress adopt the Senate's amendment to the constitution of the United States. Under the present terms of the constitution of the state there would be considerable difficulty in extending the franchise to women, and it was thought best to memorialize Congress as the shortest and most effective way of accomplishing this object.

A total of 79,311 men registered in New Mexico for military service, 2,406 were accepted and inducted into service and more than 1,000 registrants enlisted voluntarily. Many men of draft age entered the army or navy from New Mexico before the draft law was passed. The expense attached to draft works was $22,222 or $1.28 per man. These figures are contained in a report of Federal District Attorney R. C. Holt.

Assistant Attorney General Henry S. Bowman gave an opinion to the effect that proceeds from the sale and lease of state lands granted for the support of state institutions constitute a permanent fund, which may not be expended in principal and the income from which may be used only as provided by the law. Mr. Bowman believed, however, that the $50,000 acres granted for the purpose of establishing a permanent water reservoir for irrigating purposes, and the 100,000 acres granted for the improvement of the Rio Grande, should provide a fund the principal of which is available for the purposes for which the grants were made.

Science has been recently visited by earthquake shocks. The Government geologists are busy now in April, the first month having been so dry, that the ground was fairly parched. No damage was done.

The first of the new series of the "New Mexico" was published in the city of Santa Fe, N. M., on the 1st of the month. It is a four-page weekly, put out by members of the Fourth Army military park. WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-FOOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Williams' Swamp-Foot, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Foot is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder for the weak natured they should be.

Swamp-Foot has stood the test of years. It is used by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Foot and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish that to test this great preparation send for sample to Dr. Williams & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—free.

The cost of a bottle is the gift of nature. The cost of a doctor is often the work of a tailor.

A good doctor-medicine a mild cure.

Shall We Be Lacking?

The following article from the Otero County News is enough to stir up our pride and venture the question: Shall we send our County School Superintendent and Supt. of the Carrizozo Schools to this important educational gathering at Chicago? This is the usual custom of the different counties of the state, but so far this year there seems to be no activity regarding the movement and the time is near at hand.

By all means Lincoln County should be represented and we presume this important matter has been overlooked. Therefore, a memory jog we hope will produce the desired effect. The article follows:
County Supt. of Schools R. S. Tipton will leave Tuesday for St. Louis where he will attend a National Vocational Educational convention to be held there the 20th of February. From there he goes as a delegate to the Annual Meeting of the National Educational Association, department of Superintendents at Chicago, Ill., which will meet Feb. 24th.

To the New Mexico Editors:
With the closing of the work of the Federal Food Administration for New Mexico, the Division of Education wishes to express its very special and sincere thanks to the newspaper men of the state for the generous and constant co-operation which enabled it to get the Food message over the state. It is quite safe to say that in no state in the Union, everything considered, has the press shown a broader or more patriotic spirit.

You editors made the work of the Educational Division easy and without you it would have been impossible to arouse in the state the loyal response which enabled New Mexico to go over the top so splendidly to "Win the

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one remedial measure that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Protection For

Wool Growers

The western wool growers are making a hard fight for the existence of that industry now attacked on all sides. Besides the government dumping large holdings on the market the bars are let down for enormous importations.

This imported wool is produced by the cheap labor of Argentine and all Latin-American countries, Australia and New Zealand.

Without embargoes and import duties to put them on a level with this unfair competition the days of wool industry are numbered. The woolgrowers do not want government control or ownership of market facilities of the sheep and cattle industry as proposed.

The government asked the general public to conserve wool during the war and to use all kinds of substitutes for wools. By the same token the woolgrowers now ask the government to demand by law that substitution cease unless properly labeled. They demand that there be a stop to increasing game preserves as wool and meat are more necessary than propagation of wild game. Sheep and woolgrowers further demand that their property be not longer assessed on the basis of war valuations.

May Reorganize a

Band at Alamo
 (Otero County News)

Ex-band men who are interested in band matters have called a meeting of band men at the pavilion Saturday night at 8 o'clock, the object being to see how many men would join a reorganization of a band here.

It has been stated that there are upwards of 20 men here now who have played instruments in bands at some time of their lives and who would be available members for such an organization here.

 13 Cents

When Swift & Company paid, say,—13 dollars per hundredweight for live beef cattle last year, the profit was only 13 cents! In other words, if we had paid $13.13, we would have made no profit.

Or, if we had received a quarter of a cent per pound less for dressed beef we would have made no profit.

It is doubtful whether any other business is run on so close a margin of profit.

This is bringing the producer and the consumer pretty close together—which should be the object of any industry turning raw material into a useful form.

This remarkable showing is due to enormous volume, perfected facilities (packing plants strategically located, branch houses, refrigerator cars, etc.), and an army of men and women chosen and trained to do their special work.

This, and many other points of interest, are found in the Swift & Company Year Book for 1919, just published which is brought out for the public as well as for the 25,000 Swift & Company shareholders.

The Year Book also represents the packer's side of the Federal Trade Commission investigation, upon which Congress is asked to base action against the industry.

Many who have never heard the packer's side are sending for the Year Book.

Would you like one? Merely mail your name and address to the Chicago office and the book will come to you.

M. Doering returned Tuesday night from Casutillo, Texas, near El Paso, where he visited his brother, Wm. J. Doering, who has been very sick with the pneumonia and paralysis, as a result of the "Flu" which he had in October. He says Will is getting along as well as can be expected. He is unable to use his right arm, but otherwise is on the road to recovery. It may be many months before he is able to resume his business. His many friends here hope his improvement will be speedy and permanent.

MUST LIST WAR MATERIAL

THE SUPREME COUNCIL OF ALLIES MAKE KNOWN DEMANDS.

MAKE ARMY REDUCTION

ARMISTICE TERMS WILL BE SETTER IF GERMAN NATION COMPLIES.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

London, Feb. 19.—A German wireless communication received here says: "The Superior Council of the allies has demanded from the German armistice administration at Spa a declaration of all stocks of war materials available in Germany or under construction, including guns, airplanes and motors. The demand was based on the attitude of the German army administration in connection with the Polish question and the necessity of settling conditions for an extension of the armistice."

Paris.—The Bourgeois proposition for an interallied military force to enforce peace was defeated by an overwhelming vote at the meeting of the society of nations' commission. The French and Czech-Slovak were the only representatives voting in the affirmative. The draft of the society of nations plan was then unanimously adopted as a whole. The final draft consists of twenty-six articles.

Revolt in Rumania.

Berlin.—A general insurrection is in progress throughout Rumania, according to a special dispatch from Vienna. King Ferdinand has been wounded slightly in attempting to flee from Bucharest with the royal family. Workmen blocked the roadway from the royal palace when the royal family attempted to flee to Jassy and the king and his family were forced to return. The king was wounded when the workers, according to report, fired upon the royal palace. Risters in the streets of Bucharest are openly demanding the overthrow of the dynasty, crying "down with the puppets, long live the republic!"

Wounded Soldiers Sturdy.

Washington.—There were 12,249 wounded soldiers in hospitals in the United States registered Dec. 1 for various educational or other courses of instruction provided by the military authorities. A statement issued by the surgeon general shows that 3,917 who applied for instruction in handcraft work were men not able to go into the workshops and whose instruction was to be received in the wards, while 569 registered for academic study in the wards. Shop and trade courses attracted 2,012 men; commercial subjects, 1,117; agriculture, 661; recreational courses, 1,534 and the others were scattering. Such courses are now being given in twenty-three army hospitals.

$30 "Gob" Gets $44,000,000.

Chicago.—Daniel Tolman, 18, a 30-month "gob" at the Great Lakes naval training station, was granted a twenty-day furlough on request of the Surrogate Court of New York that he might be present at court proceedings there in connection with an estate of $44,000,000 bequeathed him by his grandfather, Daniel Tolman, founder of a string of loan brokerage offices throughout the United States.

Governor Gets Black Hand Letter.

Denver.—Threats of violence, even to the extent of cutting off the head of the chief of police and wrecking banks, was sent to Governor Oliver H. Shoup in a "Black Hand" letter through the mails. These dire penalties are inevitable unless the unemployed of Denver are given work. An impression of the outlines of a left hand, supposed to be that of the sender, and a scrawl in ink written by a right-handed person, are the sole clues that state officials are turning over to federal authorities for investigation.

Lincoln's Address Read.

Washington.—In accordance with long-established custom, Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read on his birthday in the House of Representatives. Representative Russell of this state, for the first time in many years, was unable to read the address, illness preventing his attendance. By designation of Speaker Clark, the address was read by Mr. Russell's colleague, Representative Nohoy.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out" unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

Don't ignore the "little pains and aches," especially backaches. They may be little now but there is no telling how soon a dangerous or fatal disease of which they are the forerunners may show itself. Go after the cause of that backache at once, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

MEANT TO OBEY HIS ORDERS

Sentry Decidedly Emphatic in His Refusal to Allow Visitor to Come Aboard the Ship.

Captain Black, a Salvation army chaplain from New Zealand, who has done good service in France, tells the following story: After the arrival of a transport at Plymouth sound, England, a soldier was placed on duty near the rope ladder, with instructions that no one must be allowed aboard. Shortly afterward the chug-chug of a motor engine was heard, and a trim little launch drew alongside, from which a voice hailed the sentry in peremptory tones, "Lower the ladder!" "No one allowed aboard this ship. Them's my orders," replied the unbending soldier. This called forth a repeat order in tremendous voice, the owner of the same informing the sentryman that he was the admiralty pilot!

Tired Nervous Mothers Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women. Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my household work."—Mrs. B. H. Zentgraf, 308 West Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Commissioners' Proceedings
Feb. 19th, 1919.
(Special Meeting)

Board met at 10 a. m.
Present, E. L. Moulton, Chairman.

E. H. Taylor, Member.
W. H. Sevier, "
E. A. Duran, Sheriff.
G. M. Osborn, Deputy Clerk.
Minutes of former meeting read and approved.

In the matter of the petition of citizens of the Riofago asking that gates placed across the public road by H. P. Clarke be removed; Mr. Moulton read to the board letter from citizen reporting gate still up contrary to orders of the Board at former meeting, also a letter from Judge Mechem in answer to the inquiry of Mr. Moulton, stating that Mr. Clark's appeal to the District Court acts as stay of proceedings until a decision of the Court is given.

It is ordered that this Board endorse the action of the Boards of other Counties in asking a change in the present law regarding payment of salaries to County Officials and that a letter be written by the Clerk for the Board to Hon. J. V. Tully and Hon. W. E. Blanchard, asking that they use their efforts to have the present law so amended as to make the salaries of county officials payable monthly.

The following official bonds of Constables elected at the last election were examined and approved:

Juan Mirabel, Nicholas Maes, Pedro N. Anala, Filomeno Griego, W. S. Norman.

The application for correction of taxes of Geo. Haviland, Deceased, was presented to the Board and the same transmitted to the office of the District Attorney for presentation to the District Court as appears from Petition No. 259 now on file with the Clerk of this Board.

The application for correction of taxes of Chas. Hfeld was presented to the Board and the same transmitted to the office of the District Attorney for presentation to the District Court as appears from Petition No. 271 now on file with the Clerk of this Board.

The application for correction of taxes of Carrizozo Trading Company was presented to the Board and the same transmitted to the office of the District Attorney for presentation to the District Court as appears from Petition No. 272 now on file with the Clerk of this Board.

The application for correction of taxes of W. J. Lawrence was presented to the Board and the same transmitted to the office of the District Attorney for presentation to the District Court as appears from Petition No. 273 now on file with the Clerk of this Board.

Mr. R. C. Sowder appearing before the Board representing the people of the lower end of the County asks for an appropriation for the road from the top of Picacho Hill West. After due consideration the Board orders that material for the repair of the bridge over the Hondo be furnished by the County at Capitan, and the people of Picacho agree to haul it to the bridge where necessary repairs can be made. It is also ordered that this vicinity be given the use of a grader for work on the road. It is ordered that E. F. Haskins be appointed road supervisor for White Oaks, Jicarilla and Roben-ton Precincts and the Clerk is asked to notify Mr. Haskins of his appointment.

Commissioner Taylor is appointed to take up with the Railroad Company the matter of repairing the road between Carrizozo and Oscura which was torn up by railroad hauling.

Petitions for the appointment of a Road Supervisor at Lincoln having been considered, it is the action of the Board that Mr. Burleson be re-appointed to this office.

There being no further business before the Board, the Board adjourns sine die.

An Important Exhibit

Mr. E. C. Monroe is making all preparations to leave here on March 5th for Chicago, where he, with Messrs. Bulla and Campbell, will exhibit the Bulla Automatic Train Stop, known as "Train Control Appliance." Carrizozo people own about 95 per cent of the stock, which has sold for $50.00 per share, with par of $100.00 and this price will continue until March 1st, when it will go to par. Representatives of the government have promised to give this device a test, and the management feels that their machine will meet all requirements.

Big Hit Coming

"Gladstone Company" coming to Carrizozo for a three day engagement, starting Feb. 27th. This clever combination of international artists need no introduction to the theatre going public.

The Gladstone Sisters are premiers of all singers and dancers; introducing all the latest songs and New York dances.

Signor Carlo Fessia, once a member of the La Scala Opera Co., always scores a big hit with his musical offering, "The Queens of Jazzcopation" and "Mlle. Hazel," billed as the incomparable acrobat is worthy of her title.

Considerate.

"Why have you and Miss Gadhwaite broken off your engagement?"
"Because she loves me so."
"That's a queer reason."
"Not at all. She believes in fortune telling, and when she went to have her fortune told not long ago she was informed that she would be married three times. That settled my case, for the time being, at least. She said she was determined that I should not encounter the danger of being the first on the list."

Time to Get Up.

A new bunch of colored recruits arrived at camp late one night. They were startled from their sound slumber by the sonorous and insistent notes of the bugler blowing reveille. None of them paid any attention to it except one, darky, who sat up and shouted: "You all bettah get up! Ist ain't yob mothan callin' you up, boys; dat's yob uncle talkin' to you now."

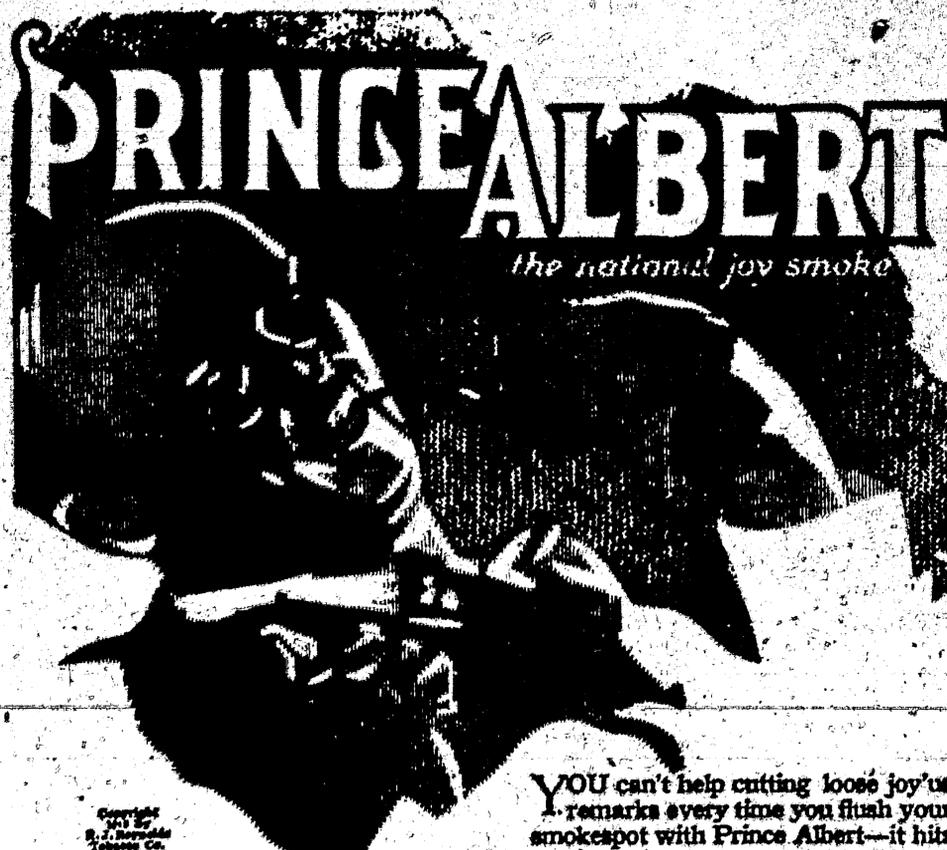

Stimulating.

The Energetic Fellow—Ah, by Jove, it takes fresh, brisk atmosphere to put pep into a man and make him want to work.

The Joy Rider—Yes, I've often noticed that most men will get themselves in a regular sweat trying to clean the window when there's a little cool air blowing in.

Undesirable.

"Do you believe in prohibition?"
"Believe in it—just as Uncle Sam believes in it. I've got to believe in it. At present it's one of the most obvious sins in our system."

YOU can't help cutting loose joy's remarks every time you flush your smokespot with Prince Albert—it hits you so fair and square. It's a scuttle full of jimmy pipe and cigarette makin' sunshine and as satisfying as it is delightful every hour of the twenty-four!

It's never too late to hop into the Prince Albert pleasure-pasture! For, P. A. is trigger-ready to give you more tobacco fun than you ever had in your smokecareer. That's because it has the quality.

Quick as you know Prince Albert you'll write it down that P. A. did not bite your tongue or parch your throat. And, it never will! For, our exclusive patented process cuts out bite and parch. Try it for what ails your tongue!

Try our bags, tidy red tin, handsome pencil and half pencil tin, humidor—and that class, practical pencil crystal glass humidor with sponge moisture, top that keeps the tobacco in such perfect condition.

FROM FARM TO MILLNER

Process by Which Ostrich Feathers Are Introduced to the Markets of the World.

The greatest ostrich farms are in South Africa, and the feathers when plucked are shipped to Port Elizabeth, undoubtedly the chief ostrich feather port of the world. Here they are received by the recognized merchants, who sell them for their clients at the auctions held every fortnight. These merchants receive the goods in boxes, sort them, and sell them on a commission basis of 2 1/2 per cent. The auction sales are held in what is known as the feather warehouse. This covers more than an acre, and consists of a great room full of trestle-work tables. Upon these tables the plumes are laid out in lots, and buyers from all parts of the world look over them and bid as they are put up for sale. Sometimes fully one hundred thousand dollars' worth of feathers are displayed at one time. After purchase, the feathers are re-sorted, and then shipped to London and other centers—nearly nine-tenths, in fact, of the total quantity go to London, where auctions are held at stated periods of the year. The London feathers are re-sorted before they are sold, the merchants there handling, in normal times, twenty to thirty tons of feathers every two months.

A GIRL LIKE YOU.

It's the faith of a little girl like you
That counts when the world goes wrong
When a fellow's down and mighty low
And his hip can vote no more
When the long-limbed fellows lead us here
And the scheme of life proves lame
It's knowing somehow, that will you care
That makes a fellow game

When he wants to quit in the first long turn.

Turn back in the grinding gear,
When the goal beyond can't seem worth while.

And he talks at the speedy pace,
It's then that the faith of a girl like you
Makes him turn the corner's end,
And he plays to win on a team should go.
The game he might have lost.

It's girls like you that keep men steady,
Keep them white over through and vice.

It's girls like you that make men glad

Anglo-Chinese School grows.
Moulton's Anglo-Chinese school, established by the Philippine Chinese Educational Association in April, 1917, for the benefit of Chinese youth in Manila, is in flourishing condition. It is under the supervision of the Bureau of Education and is meeting the standards set for schools throughout the Islands. Recently there were 225 students enrolled in the day school and 225 in the night school. A primary school has been opened in conjunction with the original Anglo-Chinese school, and attendance is growing very fast.

LAST HOURS of WASHINGTON

INTIMATE FACTS DISCLOSED BY DIARY KEPT BY TOBIAS LEAR, SECRETARY OF THE FIRST PRESIDENT

PAINTING DEPICTING LAST MOMENTS OF WASHINGTON

COMplete account of the last days of George Washington, first president of the United States, was written by Tobias Lear, who was his private secretary and intimate companion for many years. This account, which was the only one written, has been preserved, and as it has been garbled and distorted in the biographies of Washington it is herewith presented as a matter of historical reference. For the sake of brevity, however, minor details will be summarized. Mr. Lear dates his account "Mount Vernon, Saturday, December 14, 1799," and he writes as follows:

"This day has been marked by an event which will be memorable in the history of America, and perhaps of the world. I shall give a particular statement of it, to which I was an eyewitness.

"On Thursday, December 12, the general rode out to his farm about ten o'clock and did not return home until past three. Soon after he went out the weather became very bad—rain, hail and snow falling alternately, with a cold wind. When he came in I carried some letters to him to frank, intending to send them to the post office in the evening. He franked the letters, but said the weather was too bad to send a servant to the office. I observed to him that I was afraid he had got wet. He said no; his greatcoat had kept him dry. But his neck appeared to be wet and the snow was hanging upon his hair. He came to dinner (which had been waiting for him) without changing his dress. In the evening he appeared as well as usual.

"Friday, December 13, 1799. A heavy fall of snow took place on Friday, which prevented the general from riding out as usual. He had taken cold, undoubtedly, from being so much exposed the day before, and complained of a sore throat. He, however, went out in the afternoon into the ground between the house and river to mark some trees which were to be cut down for the improvement of the spot. He had a hoarseness, which increased in the evening, but he made light of it.

"Saturday, December 14, 1799, 2:30 a. m. Between two and three o'clock Saturday morning he awoke. Mrs. Washington told her he was very unwell and had had an ague. She observed that he could scarcely speak, and breathed with difficulty, and would have got up to call a servant, but he would not permit her, lest she should take a cold. As soon as the day appeared the woman (Caroline) went into the room to make a fire, and Mrs. Washington sent her immediately to call me. I got up, put on my clothes as quickly as possible and went to his chamber. Mrs. Washington was then up, and related to me his being ill, as before stated. I found the general breathing with difficulty, and hardly able to utter a word intelligibly. He desired Mr. Rawlins (one of the overseers) might be sent for to bleed him before the doctor could arrive. I dispatched a servant immediately for Rawlins and another for Doctor Craik, and returned again to the general's chamber.

"A mixture of molasses, vinegar and butter was prepared to try its effects on the throat, but he could not swallow a drop. Rawlins came in soon after sunrise and prepared to bleed him. When the arm was ready the general, observing that Rawlins appeared to be agitated, said, as well as he could speak, 'Don't be afraid. And when the incision was made he observed, 'The orifice is not large enough.' However, the blood ran pretty freely. Mrs. Washington, not knowing whether bleeding was proper or not in the general's situation, begged that much might not be taken from him, lest it should be injurious, and desired me to stop it; but when I was about to untie the string the general put up his hand to prevent it, and, as soon as he could speak, said, 'More, more.' Mrs. Washington being still very uneasy lest too much blood should be taken, it was stopped after taking about half a pint. Finding that no relief was obtained from bleeding, and that nothing would go down the throat, I proposed bathing it externally with sal volatile, which was done, and in the operation, which was with the hand, and in the gentlest manner, he observed, 'It is very sore.'

Doctors Are Summoned.
"In the meantime, before Doctor Craik arrived, Mrs. Washington desired me to send for Doctor Brown of Port Tobacco, Md., whom Doctor Craik had recommended to be called if any case should ever occur that was seriously alarming. Doctor Craik came in soon after and put a blister of cantharides on the throat, took some more blood from his hip and had a gargle of vinegar and sage tea prepared, and ordered some vinegar and hot water for him to inhale the steam of it, which he did, but in attempting to use the gargle he was almost suffocated. When the gargle came from the throat some phlegm followed, and he attempted to cough, which the doctor encouraged him to do as much as possible, but he could only attempt it.

"11 a. m.—Doctor Craik requested that Doctor Dick be sent for, as he feared Doctor Brown would not come in time. A messenger was accordingly dispatched for him. About this time the general was bled again. No effect, however, was produced by it and he remained in the same state, unable to swallow anything.

"3 p. m.—Doctor Dick arrived about three o'clock, and Doctor Brown arrived soon after. Upon Doctor Dick seeing the general, and consulting a few minutes with Doctor Craik, he was bled again. The blood came very slow, was thick, and did not produce any symptoms of fainting. Doctor Brown came into the chamber soon after, and upon feeling the general's pulse the physicians went out together. Doctor Craik returned soon after. The general could now swallow a little. Calomel and tartar emetic were administered, but without effect.

"4 p. m.—About four o'clock he desired me to call Mrs. Washington to his bedside, when he requested her to go down into his room and take from his desk two wills which she would find there and bring them to him, which she did. Upon looking at them, he gave her one, which he observed was useless, as being superseded by the other, and desired her to burn it, which she did, and took the other and put in into her closet.

Knew End Was at Hand.
"After this was done I returned to his bedside and took his hand. He said to me, 'I find I am going. My breath cannot last long. I believed from the first that the disorder would prove fatal. Do you arrange and record all my late military letters and papers. Arrange my accounts and settle my books, as you know more about them than any one else, and let Mr. Rawlins finish recording my other letters which he has begun.' I told him this should be done. He then asked if I recollected anything which it was essential for him to do, as he had but a very short time to continue with us. I told him that I could recollect nothing, but that I hoped he was not so near his end. He observed, smiling, that he certainly was, and that, as it was the debt which we must all pay, he looked to the vent with perfect resignation.

"5 p. m.—Doctor Craik came again into the room, and upon going to the bedside the general said to him, 'Doctor, I die hard, but I am not afraid to go. I believed from my first attack that I should not survive it. My breath cannot last long.' The doctor pressed his hand, but could not utter a word. He retired from the bedside and sat by the fire absorbed in grief.

"6 p. m.—Doctor Dick and Doctor Brown came into the room, and with Doctor Craik went to his bed, when Doctor Craik asked him if he could sit up in bed. He held out his hand, and I raised him up. He then said to the physician, 'I feel myself going. I thank you for your attentions, but I pray you take no more trouble about me. Let me go off quietly. I cannot last long.' They found that all which had been done was without effect. He lay down again, and all retired, except Doctor Craik.

Physicians Abandon Hope.
"8 p. m.—About eight o'clock the physicians came again into the room and applied blisters and cataplasms of wheat bran to his legs and feet, after which they went out, except Doctor Craik, without a ray of hope.

"10 p. m.—About ten o'clock he made several attempts to speak to me before he could effect it. At length he said, 'I am just going. Have me decently buried, and do not let my body be put into the vault in less than three days after I am dead.' I bowed assent, for I could not speak. He then looked at me again and said, 'Do you understand me?' I replied, 'Yes.' 'Tis well,' he said.

"About ten minutes before he expired (which was between ten and eleven o'clock) his breathing became easier. He lay quietly; he withdrew his hand from mine and felt his own pulse. I saw his countenance change. I spoke to Doctor Craik, who sat by the fire. He came to the bedside. The general's hand fell from his wrist. I took it in mine and pressed it to my bosom. Doctor Craik put his hands over his eyes and he expired without a struggle or a sigh.

"While we were fixed in silent grief, Mrs. Washington, who was sitting at the foot of the bed, asked with a firm and collected voice: 'Is he gone?' I could not speak, but held up my hand as a signal that he was no more. 'Tis well,' she said in the same voice. 'All is over now. I shall soon follow him. I have no more trials to pass through.' 'At the time of his decease Doctor Craik and myself were in the situation above mentioned. Mrs. Washington was sitting near the foot of the bed. Christopher was standing near the bedside. Caroline, Molly and Charlotte (servants) were in the room, standing near the door."

At the time of Washington's death congress was in session in Philadelphia. When the news was received both houses immediately adjourned. A joint committee of the two houses was appointed, which reported resolutions recommending that a marble monument should be erected to commemorate the great events in the military and political life of Washington; that an oration suited to the occasion should be pronounced in the presence of both Houses of congress; that the people of the United States should wear crepe on the left arm 30 days as a badge of mourning, and that the president, in the name of congress, should be requested to write a letter of condolence to Mrs. Washington.

From that time the American people have honored the father of their country on his birthday to demonstrate by speech and act their appreciation of his virtues and to reaffirm the eternal principles of liberty and democracy, of which he was the foremost champion.

THE KINSHIP OF THE NEW AMERICAN

Arms and Ideals of the United States and Canada Will Soon Be Signed.

The war is over, peace will soon be signed, the fighting nations have sheathed their swords, and the day of reconstruction has come.

What of it! Hundreds of thousands of men, taken from the fields of husbandry, from the ranks of labor, from the four walls of the counting house, and the confines of the workshop, taken from them to do their part, their large part, in the prevention of the spoliation of the world, and in the meantime removed from the gear of common everyday life, will be returning, only to find in many cases old positions filled, the machinery with which they were formerly attached dislocated.

Are they to become, aimless wanderers, with the ultimate possibility of augmenting an army of menacing loafers? If they do it is because their ability to assist in laying new foundations, in building up much required structures, is underestimated. Men who have fought as they have fought, who have risked and faced dangers as they have, are not of the caliber likely to flinch when it comes to the restoration of what the enemy partially destroyed, when it comes to the reconstruction of the world the ideals of which they had in view when they took part in the great struggle whose Divine purpose was to bring about this reconstruction.

Inured to toil, thoughtless of fatigue, trained in initiative and hardened by their outdoor existence they will return better and stronger men, boys will have matured and young men will have developed.

They will decide of themselves lines of action and thought, and what their future should and will be. On the field of battle they developed alertness and wisdom, and they will return with both shedding from every pore.

Action was their by-word and it will stand them in good stead now that the din of the battle no longer rings in their ears, or the zero hour signals them to the fray, and it will continue during their entire existence.

But if, they return to find their old avocation gone, their places filled, the institutions with which they were connected no longer exist, new walks of life and employment must be opened to them. It may be that the counting house, the factory, the workshop will have lost their attraction. The returned soldier will look elsewhere for employment; within his reach there is always the "Forward-to-the-Land" necessity. In this lies the remedy that will not only take care of a multitude of those who may not be able to return to their former occupations, whose desires are not to do so, whose health prohibits them from indoor life or whose outdoor habits from the past one, two, three or four years have given them such a taste and desire for it that confinement would be unbearable. Farm life will thus appeal to them, and the indications are that it will be taken advantage of by thousands. It means much to them as well as to the Continent of America that provides the opportunity to the world at large, and to the stricken and famished nations of Europe, who, not only today, but for years to come, will require the sustenance that can only largely be supplied by the United States and Canada. By following the pursuit of agriculture the returned soldier will continue the cause he so greatly advanced when fighting on the field of battle. Both countries have undeveloped areas yet open to settlement.

There is little need here to direct attention to the wealth that has come to the farmers of Canada within the past few years. It is not only in grain growing that unqualified and almost unequalled success has followed honest effort, but the raising of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs has been large source of profit. These are facts that are well known to the many friends and acquaintances of the thousands of farmers from the United States who have acquired wealth on the prairies of Western Canada. Farms of from one hundred and sixty to six hundred and forty acres of the richest soil may be secured on reasonable terms, and with an excellent climate, with a school system equal to any in the world, and desirable social conditions, little else could be asked.

Canadian statesmen are today busily engaged planning for the future of the returned soldier with a view to making him independent of state help after the immediate necessary assistance has been granted, the main idea being to show in the fullest degree the country's appreciation of the services he has rendered.

But, now that the war is ended, and the fact apparent that of all avocations the most profitable and independent is that of the farmer, there will be a strong desire to secure farm lands for cultivation. Canada offers the opportunity to those seeking, not an speculation but as production. The deepest interest is taken by Federal and Provincial authorities to further the welfare of the farmer and secure a maximum return for his efforts. Large sums of money are spent in educational and experimental work. Engaged in Experimental and Demonstration farms, and in the agricultural colleges, are men of the highest technical knowledge and practical experience, some being professors of international reputation. The results of experiments and tests are free and available to all. Educational opportunities for farmers are the concern of the Government and appreciation is shown by the number of farmers who attend the free courses.

Agriculture in Canada has reached a high standard, notwithstanding which lands are low in price.

Thus upon the United States and Canada for many years will rest the great burden of feeding the world. With free interchange of travel, difficulties of crossing and recrossing removed, Canada may look for a speedy resumption of the large influx of settlers from the United States which prevailed previous to the war. During the war period there was a dread of something, no one seemed to know what; if the American went to Canada he might be conscripted, put in prison, or in his attempt to cross the border he would meet with innumerable difficulties, most of which, of course, was untrue. These untruths were circulated for a purpose by an element, which, it was discovered had an interest in fomenting and creating trouble and distrust between two peoples whose language and aims in life should be anything but of an unfriendly character. The draft law of the United States adopted for the carrying out of the high purposes had in view by the United States kept many from going to Canada during the period of the war. The citizen army of the United States was quickly mobilized, and contained a large percentage of the young men from the farms. In this way many were prevented from going to Canada.

That is all over now. There are no real or imaginary restrictions; there is no draft law to interfere. On the contrary there is an unfathomable depth of good feeling, and the long existing friendship is stronger than ever. This has been brought about by the knowledge of what has been done in the recent great struggle, each vying with the other in giving credit for what was accomplished. In thought and feeling, in language, in aims in life, in work, in desire to build up a new world, there has been bred a kinship which is as indissoluble as time itself.—Advertisement.

Both Beef and Milk

THE one breed that excels in both beef and milk is the Short-horn. Short-horn steers repeatedly broke the records at the markets in 1918, making the highest record of the year—over $100 per cwt. And Short-horn cows have milk records of over 17,000 lbs. per year. It is the farmer's best, having extra cost, quality and quick improvement.
