JUDGE MECHEM DISPOSES OF MANY CASES

District Court Proceedings in Which Judge Mechem Deals Justice to All

Considerable business was transacted in Judge Mechem's court this week. In the case of the State vs. Lazaro Gallegos, the defendant was adjudged not guilty by the jury; State vs. Jose Torres Sedillo, defendant was found guilty; State vs. Harry Aguayo jury rendered a verdict of acquittal; State vs. Gabriel Ballizar, defendant was found guilty; State vs. Antonio Lucero, the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty; In the case of Tom Wallace and Augustin Villa, defendants plead guilty.

In the case of Marcellino Carabajal and Frank Gallegos, changes of venue were granted to Otero county. Judge Mechem and staff have undergone a hard grind during the past week, and more remains to be done. Several night sessions have been held with the view of aiding in the work so as to enable the Judge to take up the heavy grist awaiting him in Otero County, and as it now appears, some matters may of a necessity be postponed until next term of court.

Old You Chicken Dinner!

The Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church will serve an old fashioned chicken dinner at the Wetmore building, Saturday, May 10th, from the hours of 5 to 8 at which time the public will be given a grand treat for a small amount of money.

The menu will begin with baked chicken with dressing, and include sweet peas, potato salad with lettuce, hot coffee and rolls and many other appetizing items on the bill of fare, including ice cream and cake all for the sum of 15 cents. The men should not obscure themselves about dinner at home on that day, but bring the entire family to the Wetmore building and get a good old styled chicken dinner like mother used to make. Young men may avail themselves of this opportunity to show their sweethearts just what kind of meals they will expect should they already serious intentions lead them to the altar of matrimony. Everybody come. The proceeds will go toward the expense of remodeling the Baptist Church.

A Proclamation By the Governor

Many things in creation came from the hands of the Great Maker that challenge our admiration; the universe, consisting of numberless planets and worlds revolving in space and maintaining a harmony of action that almost bespeaks human intelligence, each performing its own functions and revolving in its allotted and described path; each in its own way contributing to the existence and to the well-being and happiness of the other, are creations that attest not only the power, but the wisdom of the Creator. Yet in all these wonderful creations there is nothing that came from the hands of Almighty God so great, so noble, so magnificent, as woman, and therein a mother and a mother's heart. It is impossible to imagine that the Creator, even with His unlimited power and wisdom, could have conceived of a being more lovable, more wonderful, more amiable, than a mother. In her tenderest years, in that period of life when nature has clothed her with all the attractiveness and loveliness of youth, at that stage of her career when, by reason of her nature, she would be inclined to give herself up to the allurements and enjoyments of life, is precisely the period when she, in pursuance of her divinely allotted mission, practically abandons and forsakes the world and its social pleasures, comforts and enjoyments, and willingly and lovingly devotes her existence and early youth to the cares, the troubles, the sufferings and untold privations of motherhood; and we all know with what ardent devotion, with what unswerving and unyielding care, she devotes her whole life to the raising of her child, that he may become part and portion of the great human family and of society. The allurements of the banquet hall, of social parties, the opera and all other entertainments are not only willingly but cheerfully surrendered and sacrificed that she may consecrate her every minute in the day and in the silent hours of the night, to the tender and loving care of her infant child; and that love, that care, that devotion are not diminished or abated for one moment from the time that her first-born comes into the world, until the light of day disappears from the affectionate glance of the mother in the eternal darkness of death. Man can never do too much to show his keen, deep and earnest appreciation of a mother's love, of a mother's devotion and of a mother's self-denial and sacrifice; man should ever be happy, willing, ready and anxious to show and to prove his love for his mother.

It is a beautiful, nay a holy practice that has sprung up amongst us, to devote one day in each year to the good mothers of our land and to consecrate that day to them. In pursuance of that beautiful practice which we never should permit to die from amongst us, it is my inestimable privilege to proclaim, and I do hereby proclaim and I hereby invite every man, every woman, and every child in New Mexico to most specially devote that day to their mothers; that in their respective places of worship they remember their mothers in their prayers, and commend them to the care and to the protection of Almighty God; that in the sanctuary of the home something be done by devoted children to attest their love and devotion for those blessed mothers to whom we owe so much; a little innocent entertainment, a simple, insignificant present within the means of the poorest, even that which may be bought with the nickel of the little boy, and presented to the mother, will be appreciated by her, coming as it does from those she loves most in this world, more than diamonds and precious gems; on the other hand, we will all feel better, feel happier and more contented with ourselves in the conscious knowledge and assurance that we have done something to make our mothers happier.

Sunday, the 11th Day of May, as

And further I command and direct that on that day the flag of our country be raised and displayed in all the public schools of the State of New Mexico, and in all other public buildings within the State, in honor of the good mothers of New Mexico.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico to be affixed. Done at the City of Santa Fe, this 2nd day of May, A. D. 1919.

O. A. CARRAZOLO,
Governor.

J. R. Greene Takes

Leave of Absence

Mr. J. R. Greene, who has been for some time past the efficient stenographer for the Ancho Brick Co., leaves this week for El Paso to make that city his future home. Mr. Greene will be accompanied by his mother, Mrs. C. B. Frye and sister Marjorie. The people of Ancho sincerely regret the departure of the family, and in turn they are loth to give up their residence at Ancho, but the advantages Mr. Greene will have in the large city to those in Ancho will be so great in comparison, that in justice to himself and family he feels it his duty to make the change.

Following the certainty of their intention to leave for El Paso, the "Busy Boosters" of the Sunday School of which Mr. Greene was President, surprised his sister and himself, by gathering at the residence, spending a pleasant evening in playing games, and giving themselves over to unrestrained enjoyment with their friends who were about to depart to new fields of usefulness both spiritually and materially. After the merry making, the party sat down to delicious refreshments. The

Ladies of the Star

The regular meeting of Comet Lodge No. 29, O. E. S. was well attended last Wednesday night. After the business session, light refreshments were served. The next regular meeting will be held on the night of June 4th.

Desert Sandstorm

Ever see a desert sandstorm? No? Well, by all means see Selig's spectacular special, "The Garden of Allah," at the Crystal Theatre, tonight, when a genuine Sahara sandstorm will be presented. We see flying clouds, the day darkens, then the eddies of wind continually gathering in force until a veritable hurricane results. In the rain of sand, the man and woman journey forth to meet their fate. Helen Ware, the famous emotional actress, is given many opportunities for success and appealing work. Other exciting situations in "The Garden of Allah," a film version of Robert Hitchman's novel of the same name, is the attack on the desert caravan, the charge of the Bedouins, the forecast of the Sand Diviner, the meeting of the lovers, and the succession of passionate love scenes that then ensue. Wm. H. Selig, who is responsible for the feature film successes, "The No. 10," "The Spoilers," "The Crisis," "The Kossuth," etc., spent a fortune in producing "The Garden of Allah."

Tragedy and Mystery.

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy. At Hart's tavern Barnes finds a stranded troupe of "barn-storming" actors, of which Lyndon Ruschcroft is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading lady. They are doing hotel work for their board. He learns Green Fancy is a house of mystery. That night two mounted men leave the tavern under odd circumstances. A little later one of the two riders is brought back dying, the other having been killed. Both have been shot. The whole affair is most mysterious.

"They were hitched just about a hundred yards below Mr. Curtis' property, on the off side of the road. I hadn't any more'n got to our front gate when I heard some one running in the road up there behind me. 'Fore I knowed what was happenin', bang went a gun. I almost jumped out'n my boots. The ruffin' had stopped. The horses was rarin' an' tearin' so I thought I'd—"

"Where'd the shot come from?" demanded Jones.

"Up the road somew'ere, I couldn't swear just where. Must'a been up by the road that cuts in to Green Fancy. So I thought I'd hustle in an' see if pa was awake, an' git my gun. Jest then pa stuck his head out'n the window an' yelled what the hell's the matter. You better life I sung out who I was mighty quick, 'cause pa's purty eery with a gun an' I didn't want him takin' me for burglars sneaking around the house. While we was talkin' there one of the hosses started our way lickety-split, an' in about two seconds it went by us. It was purty dark, but we see plain as day that there was a man in the saddle, bondin' low over the boss' neck and about'n to it. We waited a couple of minutes, wonderin' what to do, an' listenin' to the boss gittin' fuder and fuder away in the direction of the cross-roads. Then 'way down there by the pike we heerd another shot. Right there an' then pa said he'd put on his clothes an' we'd set out to see what it was all about."

"Well, pa come out with my gun an' his'n an' we walks up to where I seen the hosses. Shoro 'nough, one of 'em was still hitched to the fence, an' 'tother was gone. We stood around a mbout or two examin' the boss an' then pa says let's go up the road a ways an' see if we c'd see anything. An' by gosh, we hadn't gomp more'n fifty feet afore we come plumb on a man layin' in the middle of the road. Pa shook him an' he didn't let out a sound. He was warn, but deader'n a tombstone. I was fer leavin' him there till we c'd git the corner, but pa says no. We'd carry him down to our perch an' say him there, so's he'd be out o' danger. I jumps on Polly an' lights out fer here, Mr. Jones, to telephone up to Saint Mis for the sheriff an' the coroner, not givin' a dang what I run into on the way. Polly ailed some-thing terrible jest afore we got to the pike an' I come down near 'bels' throwed. An' right there 'side the road was this fellow all in a heap. Thinks I, you poor cuss, you must'a tried to stop that reller on horseback an' he plunked you. That accounted for the second shot. The thing that worries all of us is did the same man do the shootin', or was there two of 'em, one waitin' down the cross-roads?"

"Must have been two," said Jones, thoughtfully. "The same man couldn't have got down there ahead of him, that's sure. Did anybody go up to Green Fancy to make inquiries?"

"'Twasn't necessary. Mr. Curtis heard the shootin' an' jest before we left he sent a man out to see what it was all about. The old skeericks that's been drivin' his car lately come down half-dressed. He said nothin' out of the way had happened up at Green Fancy."

"It's most mysterious," said Barnes, glancing round the circle of awed faces. "There must have been some one lying in wait for these men, and with a very definite purpose in mind." "Strikes me," said Jones, "that these two men were up to some kind of dirty work themselves, else why did they say they were going to Spanish Falls?"

They were queer actin' men, I'll have to say that."

His eyes met Barnes' and there was a queer light in them. "You don't happen to know anything about this, do you, Mr. Barnes?" he demanded, suddenly.

CHAPTER V.

The Farm-Boy Tells a Ghastly Story and an Irishman Enters.

Barnes stared. "What do you mean?" he demanded sharply. "I mean just what I said. What do you know about this business?"

"How should I know anything about it?"

"Well, we don't know who you are, nor what you're doing up here, nor what your real profession is. That's why I ask the question."

"I see," said Barnes, after a moment. He grasped the situation and he admitted to himself that Jones had cause for his suspicions. "It has occurred to you that I may be a detective or a secret service man, isn't that the case? Well, I am neither. Did you know any more about these two men, Mr. Jones, than you know about me?"

"I don't know anything about 'em." "What was their business?"

"Mr. Roon was lookin' for a place to bring his daughter who has consumption. He didn't want to take her to a reg'lar consumptive community, he said, an' so he was lookin' for a quiet place where she wouldn't be associatin' with tingers all the time. That was his business, Mr. Barnes, an' I guess you'd call it respectable, wouldn't you?"

"Perfectly. But why should he be troubled by my presence here?"

Miss Thackeray put an end to the discussion in a most effectual manner. "Oh, for the Lord's sake, cut it out! Wait till he's dead, can't you?" she whispered fiercely. "You've got all the time in the world to talk, and he hasn't more than ten minutes left to breathe unless that rube doctor gets here pretty soon. I think he's going now. Keep still, all of you. Is he breathin', Mr. Barnes? That awful cough just now seemed to—"

Her eyes were fixed on the still face. "Why—why, how tightly he holds my hand! I can't get it away—he must be alive, Mr. Barnes. Where is that silly doctor?"

Barnes unclasped the rigid fingers of the man called Andrew Paul, and, shaking his head sadly, drew her away from the improvised bed. He and the shivering Mr. Dillingford conducted her to the dining room, where a single kerosene lamp gave out a feeble, rather ghastly light.

"Would you like a little brandy?" inquired Barnes, as she sat down limply in the chair he pulled out for her. "I have a flask upstairs in my—"

"I never touch it," she said, "I'm all right. My legs wobble a little but—" stair and listen to your conversation with Jones when you registered. That gave me an idea. It was you they were watching the road for."

Barnes held up his hand for silence. "Listen," he said in a low voice. "I will tell you who they were looking for." As briefly as possible he recounted his experience with the strange young woman at the cross-roads. "From the beginning I have connected this tragedy with the place called Green Fancy. I'll stake my last penny that they have been hanging around here waiting for the arrival of that young woman. They knew she was coming and they doubtless knew what she was bringing with her. What do you know about Green Fancy?"

He was vastly excited. His active imagination was creating all sorts of possibilities and complications, depressions and intrigues. Bacon was the one who answered. "People live up there and since we've been here two or three men visitors have come down from the place to sample our stock of wet goods. I talked with a couple of 'em day before yesterday. They were out for a horseback ride and stopped here for a mug of ale."

"Were they foreigners?" inquired Barnes.

"If you want to call an Irishman a foreigner, I'll have to say one of them was. He had a beautiful brogue. The other was an American, I'm sure. Yesterday they rode past here with a couple of swell-looking women. I saw them turn up the road to Green Fancy."

The arrival of four or five men, who stamped into the already crowded hallway from the porch outside, claimed the attention of the quartette. Among them was the doctor who, they were soon to discover, was also the coroner of the county. A very officious deputy sheriff was also in the group.

Mr. Jones called out from the doorway. "Mr. Barnes, you're wanted in there."

"All right," he responded. The doctor had been working over the prostrates form on the tables. As Barnes entered the room, he looked up and declared that the man was dead.

"This is Mr. Barnes," said Putnam Jones, indicating the tall traveler with a short jerk of his thumb. "I am from the sheriff's office," said the man who stood beside the doctor.

The rest of the crowd evidently had been ordered to stand back from the tables. "Did you ever see this man before?"

"Not until he was carried in here an hour ago."

"What's your business up here, Mr. Barnes?"

"I have no business up here. I just happened to stroll in this evening."

"Well," said the sheriff darkly, "I guess I'll have to ask you to stick around here till we clear this business up. We don't know you an'— Well, we can't take any chances. You understand, I reckon."

"I certainly fail to understand, Mr. Sheriff. I know nothing whatever of this affair and I intend to continue on my way tomorrow morning."

"Well, I guess not. You got to stay here till we are satisfied that you don't know anything about this business. That's all."

am subjected to the indignity of arrest or even detention, you would have a nasty time defending yourself in a civil suit for damages. I shall remain here, as you suggest, but only for the purpose of aiding you in getting to the bottom of this affair."

Standing on Jim Conley's front porch a little after sunrise, Barnes made the following declaration: "Everything goes to show that these men were up here for one of two reasons. They were either trying to prevent or to enact a crime. The latter is my belief. They were afraid of me."

Why? Because they believed I was trailing them and likely to spoil their game. Gentlemen, those fellows were here for the purpose of robbing the place you call Green Fancy."

"What's that?" came a rich, mellow voice from the outskirts of the crowd. A man pushed his way through and confronted Barnes. He was a tall, good-looking fellow of thirty-five, and it was apparent that he had dressed in haste. "My name is O'Dowd, and I am a guest of Mr. Curtis at Green Fancy. Why do you think they meant to rob his place?"

"Well," began Barnes dryly, "it would seem that his place is the only one in the neighborhood that would bear robbing. My name is Barnes. Of course, Mr. O'Dowd, it is mere speculation on my part."

"But who shot the man?" demanded the Irishman. "Certainly wasn't winged by anyone from our place. Why, Lord love you, sir, there isn't a soul at Green Fancy who could shoot a thing if he saw one. This is Mr. De Soto, also a guest at Green Fancy. He'll, I think, bear me out in upsetting your theory."

A second man approached, shaking his head vigorously. He was a thin, pale man with a singularly scholastic face. Quite an unprepossessing, unsanguinary person, thought Barnes.

"Mr. Curtis' chauffeur, I think it was, said the killing occurred just above this house," said he, visibly excited. "Green Fancy is at least a mile from here, isn't it? You don't shoot burglars a mile from the place they are planning to rob, do you?"

"I'll admit it's a bit out of reason," said Barnes. "The second man could only have been shot by some one who was lying in wait for him."

"Bodad," said O'Dowd, "it beats the devil. There's something big in this thing, Mr. Barnes—something a long shot bigger than any of us suspects."

"You'll find that it resolves itself into a problem for Washington to solve," said De Soto darkly. "Nothing local about it, take my word for it. These men were up to some international devilment. There'll be a stir in Washington over this, sure as anything."

"What time was it that you heard the shots up at Green Fancy?" ventured Barnes.

"Lord love you," cried O'Dowd, "we didn't hear a sound. Mr. Curtis, who has insomnia the worst way, poor devil, heard them and sent some one out to see what all the racket was about. The man, it seems, made such a devil of a racket when he came home with the news that the whole house was up in pajamas and pelj-norra."

"I think I have a slight acquaintance with the chauffeur," said Barnes. "He gave me the most thrilling motor ride I've ever experienced. Gad, I'll never forget it."

Barnes, having been forced into this unsolvable combination of mystery and violence, finds himself getting in deeper and deeper.

Work Too Hard?

This time of the year finds everyone hurrying to get the home cleaned up for summer. It's a pleasure, too, when you're well, but no man or woman with a "bad back" enjoys doing anything. If your back is lame, if sharp twinges catch you when lifting and you feel tired and worn out, kidney weakness is likely causing your trouble. Don't wait! Delay may cause gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped people the world over.

I used Doan's Kidney Pills but a short time before I felt better and about one box cured me. I haven't had a sign of pain or aches in my back since."

FINISHING THE JOB

"We Shall Not Sleep" And "Our Answer"

When Mrs. R. T. Cribb of Carrizozo read Col. McRae's beautiful poem, "We shall Not Sleep," that has been so frequently quoted throughout our land, she wrote what she felt might be the answer of any true American, to any call from home and native land in the great cause for which so many gave their all. We therefore, take pleasure in publishing the two poems to show "The Answer" to be equally as beautiful and sublime as the appeal; it also shows the remarkable display of talent brought forth in the beautiful lines which follow. We first print Col. McRae's poem, following with Mrs. Cribb's in order to show the beautiful sentiment contained in "Our Answer:

WE SHALL NOT SLEEP

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

We are dead, Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn; saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, And now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw the Torch.

Be yours to hold it high;
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
On Flanders fields.

COL. JOHN McRAE.

OUR ANSWER

On Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
Where sleep the noble dead. You paid
The highest sacrifice; you made
The fight supreme against the foe.

And as you fell, to us who live
You flung the Torch and bade us give
Our best to keep it bright;
Nor break the faith with you who fight
No more where Flanders poppies blow.

'Twas not in vain that it is so.
We'll keep the sacred flame aglow,
So sweetly sleep; and know we share
The vision that you saw out there
On Flanders fields, where poppies grow.

Junior Teams Play Good Ball

We have two good base ball teams in the junior class who are playing real ball: the Carrizozo Juniors and the Boy Scouts. These two teams played two games last week; on Friday the score stood 12 to 3 in favor of the Carrizozo Juniors; the game on Saturday resulting in a score of 11 to 6 in favor of the same team. The Boy Scouts played a good game, but as the saying goes they "played in hard luck" and other games which will follow may turn the tide in their favor. The following is the line-up of the teams:

CARRIZOZO JUNIORS--Turrell Hamilton, c; Harry Cole, p; Charlie Cole, ss.; Julian White, 1st b; Dayton Herron, 2nd b; Syl Mirrelez, 3rd b; Willis Hutchings, r. f.; Albert Harrison, l. f.; Roscoe Rustin, c. f.

Vaudeville at Crystal

Monday and Tuesday were "Banner Nights" for the Crystal Theatre; the first performance was given by Reese Bros., colored minstrels, who entertained a large audience with singing, dancing and general plantation merry-making which brought forth rounds of applause for the performers whose acts were well worthy of all applause they received.

On Tuesday night the Milo Family gave a musical entertainment which well merited the goodly share of applause received as each act was performed showing the participants to be masters of the different instruments. Prof. Milo on the Trombone and Violin, Mrs. Milo on the Piano and Cornet, the little Miss Milo on the Violin with Master Milo dividing his time between Piano and Drums coupled with a farcial snake entitled "The Haunted House," furnished entertainment enough to drive away the heav-

Changes in Telephone Rates--1913 to 1918 Compared with Changes in Wages and Prices

SINCE 1913 there has been a steady increase in the price of all commodities and the products of industry, which has not been reflected in a corresponding increase in telephone rates. In order to meet the past and present high cost of telephone operation, a revenue in just proportion to the expense must be secured.

The reason is simple. The cost of telephone operation has steadily advanced both because of the increased cost of material and the increased living cost of employes. The consumer has realized the necessity of paying more for rent, for food, for clothing and for transportation. The telephone industry has been affected by the same conditions which have produced higher prices in all of the necessities of life.

Between 1913 and 1918, commodity prices advanced 112%, wages advanced 72% and Telephone rates the country over advanced only 4%. Adequate rates are needed if the service is to be maintained efficiently and on a comprehensive scale, so as to meet the increasing demands of the public.

This company is operating its telephone property under the direction of the Postmaster General for the United States Government and must secure sufficient revenue to cover the cost of rendering the service.

The plan, its organizers say, means that hereafter American business men will be able to avail themselves of banking facilities in France as advantageously as Frenchmen themselves enjoy.

Tentative figures now place the actual increase in sight in the state tax roll for 1919 over 1918 at about $1,450,000. These figures are obtained by adding the apparent increase in Sandoval, made public two weeks ago by the state tax commission, to figures for Sierra county, made public.

Gallup's city officials are meeting the loss of revenue through the absence of liquor licenses by a vigorous campaign against bootleggers. A recent roundup of offenders brought twenty-one alleged bootleggers into court and as a result of the trials, fines amounting to $2,200 were assessed.

Net profits of $10,103.50 or 10 per cent of the investment, were made by the Albuquerque municipal water plant during the first three months of 1919, according to a statement made public by Manager Harry E. Stockmen from all sections in the West will meet in Salt Lake City July 1 to discuss the proper disposition of the remaining unappropriated public domain. President Victor Culberson of the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' association will soon appoint a committee to represent New Mexico at the gathering.

In a report recently issued by the Treasury Department, it is shown that New Mexico subscribed the highest per cent of any state in the Union for the fourth Liberty loan. Its subscription was 151.3 per cent of its quota. District of Columbia, with a percentage of 183.7 (which included a large amount of navy subscriptions taken thru the Navy Department) and Alaska with a subscription of 223.2 per cent alone exceeded New Mexico.

A firm of Chicago capitalists has purchased the entire Transil interests outright at Carlsbad. The new concern will start immediate operation of the ice factory and laundry, will enlarge the dam at considerable cost, have shipped already new machinery for the power house and will furnish electric power to the business concerns and residences of this section. They announce that in addition to the purchase price improvement of the plant will represent an expenditure of about $10,000.

Oil booms seem likely also to do their part in developing the roads of the state, in addition to what they are doing for the income of the state land office and the state corporation commission. The first evidence of it is in the information to the state highway engineering office to the effect that the citizens of Las Cruces have gone out amongst themselves and raised $1,500 for the improvement and repair of the road running east from the capital of Imperial Dona Ana to the "oil fields."

An official of the Alamogordo Shale and Oil Company, has gone to California where he will make arrangements to get hold of a drilling outfit and have it shipped to Alamogordo. This rig is a special and will cut a five-inch core to 1,500 foot depth if necessary. Mr. Hogan, the president of the company, says that drilling will be commenced on the land of the company within less than a month.

More than $4,000,000 will be expended on road construction and maintenance in New Mexico this year. Of this sum, $750,000 will come out of the state for road maintenance, which in a way is also construction, for it will be spent for culverts, bridges and repairs of a permanent nature that will eventually form part of a federal aid project. In addition, the state will expend $1,500,000 for permanent construction to match a similar sum made available by the United States government. The counties of the state will have another three-quarter million dollars which will be expended on purely county projects under the county road superintendents. The rest will be made up by a forest service which will construct a number of projects with the aid of state and county.

Sturdy Womanhood is the demand of to-day

In the Health and Strength of the Wives and Mothers Rests the Future Integrity of the Nation.

We must preserve our womanhood. There is need, greater than ever for strong women. Apparently, the race is not as sturdy as formerly or our women are victims of an over-civilization and less able to resist disease. Thousands suffer and thousands are destined to suffer from that most insidious of diseases, catarrh. Ninety-seven per cent of the people have catarrh. It is not confined to the head, nose and throat as many suppose. Catarrhal inflammation may attack the stomach, bowels or any portion of the body where there are mucous linings. It is no respecter of persons or position. Everyone is liable to attack. Mrs. Mary Fricks, 187 Norman St., Belleville, Ill., was one of its victims. She says: "I have weighed as little as 100 pounds. For years I suffered with my stomach, cramps and severe headaches. After reading Dr. Hartman's Health Book, I decided to try Ferruna. The first bottle brought good results, but as I was bound to get well, I took twelve. Fifteen years ago, I started with Ferruna and I wouldn't be without it. My weight is now around 300 pounds and I am hale and hearty at the age of 58. I can do as much work as my daughter." The use of Ferruna for forty-five years in the American family has proved its worth. If you are able, do not give up, try Ferruna. Write The Ferruna Company, Dept. B, Columbus, Ohio, for Dr. Hartman's Health Book. It is free. Ferruna is sold everywhere in liquid and tablets. Insist upon having Dr. Hartman's Famous Ferruna Tonic. Ask your dealer for a Ferruna Almanac.

Valuable Suggestions

A resourceful motorist whose car has been stuck in the mud does not always have to fall back on a pair of mules to get free. For such an emergency the United States Tire Company offers some suggestions that have proved valuable.

Then store away somewhere in the car a stack of old newspapers. When the car gets stuck and the wheels refuse to take hold, feed some of the old papers between the tires and the mud. Usually only a few will have to be worked in before the wheels will begin to grip and the car start forward. This method of handling a difficult situation is so simple and so uniformly successful, that every motorist should know of it and carry a pile of old newspapers in his car.

Here is another method suggested by the United States Tire Co.: Put the car in low, and if you cannot feed the gas with your foot evenly, so that the wheels will revolve slowly, put your emergency brake on. Do not put it on so that the wheels will not revolve at all, but tightly enough to keep them from revolving rapidly. With the wheels turning slowly, the maximum pull is delivered to them by having the car in low gear, and as long as they turn slowly they can get the benefit of the tremendous pulling power.

Oscuro Booster

The following poem was written by Mr. George L. Castle of Oscuro, who is one of the leading oil boosters of our neighboring town and shows it by the manner in which he sings about coveted fluid:

The Tularosa Basin

By Geo. L. Castle, Oscuro, N. M.
From the tejas called Orogrande
Or any place that is handy,
For the chances will be just about the same,
For all to lay a pipeline from the main,
Alamogordo, Tularosa, Oscuro, Carrizosa,
You will find men staking out a claim.
Every location now stands under
A location notice number,
While the county clerk is raking in his fees.
Soon the valley will be humming
With machinery that is coming,
To drill for oil, that we expect to see.

With Miss Fortune we have travelled
Harassed double, single, saddled,
And to stand her was a very bitter pill,
But old Fortune now is coming,
From a pipe you'll see him running,
From the oil wells, they're 'bout to drill.

To the Tularosa Basin
Soon you'll see the people chasin'
Of excitement they "sure" will have their fill,
On exchange you'll hear men shouting,
Of the oil wells that are spouting,
And of the places where they are going to drill.

Justice to Teachers

The Literary Digest of May 10th, contains an exhaustive article on the poorly paid school teachers of the country at large and while applauding the action of the people in pouring out their riches in response to every patriotic and charitable appeal, makes the alarming comparison to that of the low salaried teachers who it justly terms the "Foster Parents of Our Children," saying that there is no class from which we demand more than from the teachers, who have in their keeping the minds, bodies and even the souls of our children, at the same time they are less paid than the ordinary street sweepers. The article goes on to say:

"In a certain town of Illinois, for instance, the average wages of fifteen miners for one month was $217, while the average monthly salary of fifteen teachers in the same town was $55. In another town a miner, who, by the way, was an enemy alien, drew more than $2,700 last year, while the salary of the high-school principal in the same town was $765. We welcome with all our hearts the long-delayed recognition that is being given to the man who works with his hands. We believe that this same workingman will be the first to join with us in asking better pay for those who teach his children."

After making like comparisons which consumes extensive space, in giving figures which prove the teacher to be the poorest paid who receive salaries, the Digest says:

"What a crime is this! What an indictment! What an unpardonable sin at the doors of an enlightened people who now find themselves at the head and forefront of the democracies of the world! How can we better prepare for the great undertaking of reconstruction than by setting ourselves immediately to remedying this national condition. In these trying and chaotic times when the world is beset by unrest, by anarchy, by revolution, by the devil's brood of appalling evils that follow in the train of war, we must make sure that the foundations of our republic are set on a rock that it may stand against the flood.

"Let each community set for its goal, as far as is practicable, a minimum wage of at least $1,000 a year for the teachers of America. This would cost the nation perhaps as much as we spent so gloriously in but one week of the Great War."

Building For Investment

To people who contemplate the matter of building at this time, the question naturally arises—Is building a good investment? Our answer is most positively—YES!

The value of money is relative and comparative and based entirely on its purchasing power. Figure the purchasing power of a dollar today as compared with every other living commodity and you find that it will buy more lumber than ever before.

Food, Clothing and Shelter are the three great physical necessities of the human race. Food and clothing have advanced in price since the war started in 1914 far more than has shelter. The luxuries—and they are making tremendous inroads in our wealth—have known much greater price advances than lumber.

And all of these other things are going to fall in price before lumber does. On account of the great European necessities, lumber will be in great demand for years to come. A sack of flour will buy more lumber than ever before, but we predict that lumber, used intelligently in building today, will grow in comparative value to that sack of flour and other living commodities.

If the Government of the United States did not consider building to be a good investment at this time, the Department of Labor would not be conducting its present elaborate campaign to induce the working man to own his own home.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a

DAIRY PROFITS BIG

Splendid Returns From Farms in Western Canada.

Production of Butter and Cheese, Commanding Highest Prices, Increases Steadily—Live-Stock Raisers at Height of Prosperity.

Dairying is rapidly approaching one of the first positions in Western Canada agriculture. This does not apply particularly to any one of the three Western Canada provinces, as they all participate in the distinction.

A report recently published by the Alberta Department of Agriculture shows that in 1918, in spite of adverse conditions of labor and the high cost of feed there was no decline in the industry. It will be interesting to know that the average number of milk cows per farm is 5.6. The total production of creamery butter in the provinces in 1918 was 9,100,000, as against 8,944,000 pounds in 1917.

No better evidence of the growth of Western Canada can be given than by the fact that in ten years the production of butter has increased from 2,500,000 pounds and of cheese from 25,570 pounds to 650,000 pounds. When it is known that in the production of grain so much energy was placed, and through which bank deposits were increased, homes made comfortable, farms carefully tilled, it will be realized that the increase in dairy production has been remarkable. During the past four years the price to the producer increased 75 per cent.

Further evidence of the great interest taken in the dairy and livestock industries is found in recent bull sales. At Edmonton the average price of 141 was $231.00; at Calgary 724 head were sold, bringing an average price of $269.18; while at Lacombe 179 bulls brought an average of $191.54. Sales in Manitoba a few days ago gave fully as good an average, or better. The sales were attended by farmers from all parts of the country. The high prices paid show that good stock was required, and, no matter the price, the farmer had the money to pay for it. As evidence of this we find that at a sale recently held at Carman, Manitoba, buyers were present from all parts of the province, besides some from Saskatchewan points. Five head of Herefords brought $500 each. A Shorthorn bull was sold for $700 and registered Shorthorn cows brought $500 each.

The establishment of creameries and cheese factories throughout the entire West is on the increase, and it will only be within the period of a very few years before Western Canada will occupy a position in the first ranks in the dairy production of the continent.

There is complete government supervision over creameries and cheese factories. The government takes care of the sales, looks after the manufacturer and employs as heads of the institutions highly paid and efficient managers.

It may well be said that the dairy industry in Western Canada is rapidly coming into its own. At present it is but an adjunct to the parent or foremost industry of the country—the growing of grain, but while an adjunct, it is a highly important one. The price of farm lands is gradually increasing, but not in the rapid proportion that has been shown in other countries. This rise in price does not materially increase the cost of production, nor lessen the profits that may be derived from an acre of wheat, oats or barley. The advance in the prices of these grains has more than doubled; the use of tractors has lessened the cost.

The reports from government sources are that the present year will show a great increase in immigration over the past four or five years. The man who has made a tour of inspection of the country will give you the reason. He will speak of the fertile soil, of the good crops, of the attractive climate, of compliance with the law, the splendid school system, the almost perfect social conditions that prevail. He will have visited settlements composed almost solely of Americans, who have built up their homes and villages, who have brought, and are applying, today, their experience in economic land culture as applied to large tracts with the result that he obtains yields on $80 an acre land equal to that formerly produced on land that he had sold for $200 an acre. The story of his success he has sent back to his friends in his home state. They in turn follow him, and so it goes on, and immigration to Western Canada increases.—Advertisement.

FEAR OF MAY DAY PASSED

MUCH EXPECTED DEMONSTRATIONS FAILED IN EUROPE AND AMERICA.

FEW SMALL DISORDERS

SEVERAL INJURED IN CLEVELAND RIOT AND ONE MAN KILLED.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Paris, May 2.—Several American soldiers were hurt in the Place de la Concorde, being the victims of their curiosity. The prefecture of police announced that eighty policemen were more or less seriously hurt. The day passed quietly in the provinces. Everywhere the cessation of work was on a scale never before approached. At 8:30 o'clock calm had been re-established everywhere in the city after the disorders of the day. According to police summary made at 5 o'clock, five persons had been dangerously wounded, fifteen more or less injured and fifty arrested as a result of the demonstrations.

Though comparatively little bloodshed marked radical celebrations of international labor day in the United States, serious rioting occurred in several large cities. In Cleveland one man was killed and more than 100 persons, including thirteen policemen, were injured. In a battle between the police and paraders in Boston four persons were shot and many arrests made. A riot call was sounded in Chicago when radicals attempted to hold a parade which had been forbidden. Several persons were arrested but there were no casualties. Soldiers and sailors in New York broke up several meetings at which ultra-liberal sentiments were expressed and also raided the offices of the Call, a Socialist labor paper. They destroyed a large quantity of Socialist literature and roughly handled a dozen employees of the paper.

A small army of service men tried persistently last night to break up a meeting at Madison Square Garden, but were beaten off by 1,500 patrolmen mobilized around the building. Scores of men in uniform were beaten with night sticks.

Red plans for the most gruesome May Day tragedy in history miscarried because of the accidental discovery of the bomb plot which had nationwide ramifications. None of the score or more of infernal machines entrusted to the mails has claimed its intended victim.

Three more dynamite-filled packages were found in the mails yesterday. They were addressed to Senator Overman, who conducted the Senate investigation into disloyalty, to Senator William H. King of Utah and to Frank K. Nebeker of Salt Lake City, assistant attorney general, who was a special prosecutor during the I. W. W. trial in Chicago. Another addressed to Senator Smoot of Utah is known to have been mailed, but has not been traced.

Eighty policemen were wounded during demonstrations in Paris, which were participated in by dense crowds. One man was killed.

Cleveland, Ohio.—An unidentified man was killed by a detective's bullet, eleven policemen were shot or badly beaten and about 100 other persons wounded, many seriously, in general rioting which brought a dramatic final this afternoon to a Socialist May Day demonstration here. About thirty persons, seriously injured, are in hospital, while scores of others, including women, were trampled by rioters and clubbed by police. Socialist headquarters were totally wrecked by angry civilians bent on putting an end to the demonstration.

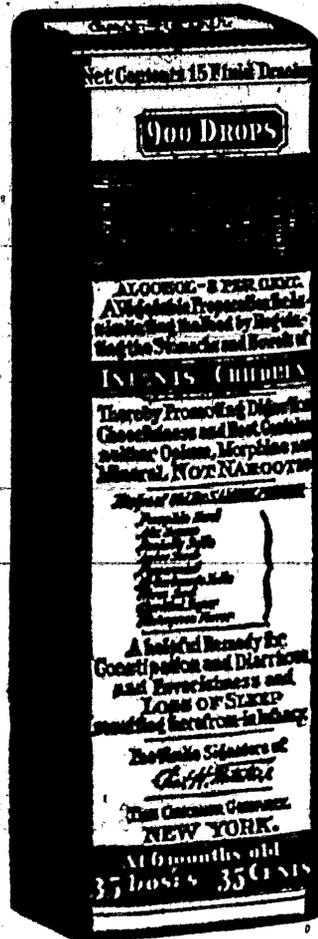

May Day Meeting.
Denver.—So quietly that even the police were unaware of their meeting, 5,000 employees of the railroad shops in Denver held a mass meeting in the Greek theater of the Civic Center and adopted resolutions protesting against the efforts of "certain moneyed interests to force the railroads back into private ownership, and threatening a nation-wide strike in the event of their success and registering disapproval of the imprisonment of Eugene V. Debs."

Italian Advances Troops.
Capehagen.—Italian troops and war material are being landed at Sebaste and Suez, on the eastern coast of the Adriatic, according to advices from Spalato. The troops are advancing eastward and the Italians are bringing up reinforcements to the debarkation pier.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's. Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy: why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

Jimmy Roselle

"Jimmy" Roselle came in unexpected last Tuesday; having left the Victory Loan Circus at Albuquerque in order to pay a visit to his old Carrizozo friends before joining the forces at El Paso to resume the work. "Jimmy" has had a vast amount of valuable experience since enlisting in the service, shortly after his enlistment he was assigned to the famous Aero Pursuit Squadron in the Lafayette Escadrille, a large percentage of whom perished during the late war. "Jimmy" has the implicit confidence of his superiors, consequently his advancement will be rapid, substantial and remunerative. He left to join the Victory Loan Flying Circus at El Paso Wednesday morning to continue the work.

Has Aroused Interest

The recent ball game played between Carrizozo and El Paso has aroused much interest among lovers of the game on account of the real ball playing exhibited, as shown by the score of 3 to 2 which although going against the home team, was a remarkable showing for our boys. The battery of the home team, the Norman Brothers made a showing second to none in the game in the State, and will with the same support as they had in the last game, be ready to meet all comers.

Disposed of Ten

The Carrizozo Live Stock & Commission Co. has sold ten of the sixteen Hereford bulls made mention of in our last week's issue; John Gallacher bought six, J. B. THE DOG SHOW.

"Ha, ha," barked the Pekingese. "What is the matter?" asked another prize winner at the dog show.

"What is the matter?" asked the Pekingese, whose name was Wan. "How can you ask what is the matter?"

"I suppose that is true," said Wan, "but still I should not think you would ask me what was the matter when I barked a good laugh."

"Well, I suppose we do," said a third prize winner. "You have won prizes over all of us."

"Yes, you've guessed right. I laughed because I thought it was such a good joke on all those who thought they were going to win prizes forever."

"Well, aren't you sorry they didn't win?" asked another dog.

"In some ways, yes; in other ways, no," said Wan. "You see, it is more fun if it is hard to decide a show."

"My Mistress Gives a Lot of It to Me." "You're right," said the other dogs. "You have a lot of sense."

"What is that?" asked the others. "They didn't like it when I won the prize. They said I hadn't the right shaped neck, and that I should weigh a pound or two or three more to be the right size."

"If they said such things how did you manage to get the very first prize of all?" asked the other dogs.

"Because the judges gave it to me," said Wan. "The ones who did all this talking were the ones whose dogs did not win. It was such poor sportsmanship."

"That's the right idea," said the other dogs. "Well, it's the people, not the dogs, who do the arguing over the prizes."

"There were a good many dispatches about my winning the prize," said Wan. "No matter," said the other dogs. "You won it, and you deserve it. You have a handsome face and beautiful body."

"Thanks," said Wan. "But you know I don't care so much for beauty. I'm very fond of cream. My mistress gives a lot of it to me. Yes, cream is far better than beauty."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people.

Of two evils some men choose the lesser—unless there is more money in the other one.

There is nothing more satisfactory after a day of hard work than a line full of snowy white clothes. For such results use Red Cross Bag Blue.

When the head feels thick or aches, when one feels all out-of-sorts—perhaps a coated tongue—it is the signal that poisons are accumulating in the system, and should be cleared out at once.

Auto-intoxication can be best ascribed to our own neglect or carelessness. When the organs fail in the discharge of their duties, the putrefactive germs set in and generate toxins—actual poisons, which fill one's own body.

Sleepiness after meals, flushing of the face, extreme lassitude, biliousness, dizziness, sick headache, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, offensive breath, anemia, loss of weight and muscular power, decrease of vitality or lowering of resistance to infectious diseases, disturbance of the eye, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, many forms of catarrh, asthma, ear affections and allied ailments result from auto-intoxication or self-poisoning.

The Flow of Meat

Two-thirds of the live stock in the United States has to be raised in the West.

One-half of the consumers of meat live in the East.

In other words, most of the live stock is one or two thousand miles distant from most of the people who need it in the form of food.

Fifty years ago, when live stock was raised close to every consuming center, the country butcher could handle the job after a fashion.

But the job got too big.

Now millions of animals have to be moved hundreds of miles to millions of people. Somewhere on the way they have to be turned into meat.

The packers solved the problem. They set up plants where the "live haul" and the "meat haul" were in the right balance. They built up distributing systems—refrigerator cars, refrigerating plants, branch houses. They saved time, money and meat everywhere. The stockraiser benefited in better markets and higher prices; the consumer, in better meat and lower prices.

As the country grew, the packers had to grow, or break down. Because of its present size and efficiency, Swift & Company is able to perform its part in this service at a fraction of a cent per pound profit.
