ANCIENT CUSTOMS AT BIG FIESTA

Santa Fe The Scene of Weird And Dramatic Program Of "Matachina"

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 11.—The present week, especially the last three days will see the climax of the liveliest social season that Santa Fe has ever experienced as far as any one can remember. The Santa Fe Fiesta with all it implies—victory, peace, home-coming and observing traditions of thousands of years. Other places have their Fiestas, but none can offer what Santa Fe does.

The festivities of Thursday evening alone will bring visitors from the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards. The evening will be given over to Indian cycle of dances and ceremonies, rooted in America's past, going back for thousands of years. The Koshare are to usher in the three days Fiesta just as they usher in the corn dance and other ceremonies of their native heath.

They are the spirits of the ancients, who bring glad tidings from the other world and who are the purveyors of the accumulated wisdom of the ages. At dusk on Thursday evening they will dart from the plaza to the four world quarters, while those remaining will present fragments of their stupendious nature drama.

The "Eagle," and other dances that together with rites so ancient that they are about to slip out of memory, will be given on a platform directly facing the new museum. The climax will be in the "Matachina," that weird drama of the power of good over evil will interest many visitors, Cochiti being the only Pueblo that has kept this ancient custom alive. The returning Koshares bringing tidings of approching war, the scene of merriment suddenly changing into scenes of terror and confusion as the warriors leave for the battle-field, the children in their dramatic dances and prayers for peace will be vividly pictured by wonderful performers.

Red Cross Plans Peace Program

The Executive Committee of the Lincoln County Red Cross held an important meeting on Thursday at which Miss Erna Fergusson, who is conducting the Home Service work of this section attended. Everyone with a knowledge of this work is familiar with what this department has done by caring for the families of men in the service.

Miss Fergusson pointed out that the winning of the war is not accomplished until all standards for our men in the army are realized. This may be done in a variety of ways. In matters of health, school attendance and all recreation, are follow-ups of the war job in which communities who wish to continue their organizations, may have the assistance of the national oganization.

However, the decision to continue need not be made in haste, as the war job is not yet finished and there are still families in this county who have not received all the money due them from the government and need the assistance of the Red Cross, to that end. There are 23 young men who were discharged from the army for physical disability, who are entitled to assistance from the government in training for things beneficial to their future. The Red Cross has been requested by the War Risk Insurance to get in touch with the men and assist them in filing the claims. No action was taken on the peace program, although the matter was discussed with much interest. Mrs. H. S. Fairbank was chosen as head of the Home Service Office.

BIG MASONIC MEETING LAST SATURDAY

Carrizozo Lodge No. 41 held another important meeting last Saturday, at which several candidates finished their final journey, fitting them for Master Masonry. The work in hand fell on the regular meeting night and in order to complete both regular and special work, Masonic workers gathered according to announcement at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, continuing until the hour of six, when the work ceased for refreshments.

Beginning again at 7 o'clock, the labor continued until eleven, after which tired workers and newly made Masons sat down to refreshments together. This is the second meeting of this nature that has been held in the last six weeks. Visitors from surrounding towns were in attendance and remained until the close of the big meeting.

Tucumcari has also announced that a band will accompany its delegation.

According to W. H. Harvey, of Monte Ne, Ark., president of the association, much interest is being taken in the four relay runs of automobiles scheduled to arrive in Roswell on the evening of Sept. 30. These runs will will be made up of live road boosters from the cities along the way. Brief meetings will be held in towns through which the runs pass, allowing for short talks on roads and permitting the boosters to distribute literature about their communities.

On the arrival of the visitors there will be an open air reception with speeches of welcome, band music, and other stunts while the visitors are being assigned to rooms. The Chamber of Commerce is now busy listing all available accommodations in the city, so that every visitor will be assured of comfortable quarters. The municipal camping ground, with all conveniences, will provide a pleasant place for those who wish to camp.

French was a member of the famous 139th, which was a great factor in breaking the Hindenburg line in the world war. He was among those who were the first to enter overseas service and suffered from gas and other injuries which only those who were in the great conflict were the victims.

WAR DEVELOPS RADIO TRIUMPH

Washington, D. C.—In a general way it is known that during the war a method was found to communicate with a submerged submarine from shore or sea. How this is done and how it came to be discovered that it could be done not until now has been made public. Like a good many other revelations it came when the researchers were at work on another problem.

The scientists of the radio section of the bureau of standards stumbled on its secret and the lucky ones to suspect it were two young assistants not long out of high school. Their experiments and the development of what is known as the "loop aerial" for submarine radio communication by the bureau resulted in a device so simple and perfect, and producing such wonderful results, that the navy has adopted it and is equipping all its undersea craft with this style of loop.

In the fall of 1917 a series of experiments was undertaken by the bureau to develop an apparatus for the detection of enemy submersibles. J. A. Willoughby and P. D. Lowell were engaged in the work. They had a notion that a closed or rubber encased coil of wire offered the best chances for success. They made one and threw it one night into a tank of fresh water on the grounds of the bureau near Chevy Chase, Md., a suburb of Washington. To their delight they received a signal from the big radio station at Arlington. The next night they submerged the coil in the tidal basin of the Potomac near the new navy building. Again the signal came with no difference in strength whether the loop or coil was suspended in air or sunk in the river.

Discovery Significant.

The significance of this discovery struck both young men: Here was a way possibly to detect the presence of enemy submarines, but surely to talk with our own, which was equally important, had been thought impossible. This was in November.

In December improvements in the submerged coil brought the reception of signals from Lyons, France; Paris and San Diego, Cal. By March last year excellent signals were received on a single turn coil 150 feet long by sixty feet high having a wave length of 100 meters by 15,000 meters.

In April Mr. Willoughby discussed with Lieutenant Commander H. P. St. Clair of the radio division of the navy, the use of loops on submarines for both transmission and reception under water. Both he and Mr. Lowell were sent to New London to work under Commander McDowell in charge of the base, to install the apparatus for a try-out on submarine D-1. It is a simple contrivance, the metal frame of the submarine itself being a part of it, this being used as a "ground" just as the earth is used in hand telegraphy. The circuit is thus made complete. As finally perfected the loop consists of two insulated wires grounded at the extreme ends of the hull carried over suitable supports to the conning tower and thence through "radio-lead-ins" down into the boat to the receiving and sending apparatus. A single turn loop was used on the D-1. With its top submerged three feet signals were received from a submarine chaser three-quarters of a mile away.

Boat Used as "Ground."

A new type of loop was tried on the U. S. S. G-3, in which the lead-in wires were brought in from the upper side of the loop instead of the lower and the entire loop was insulated from the hull. Better, but not satisfactory, results were obtained. Up to this time the frame of the boat had not been used as a "ground."

The lower side of the loop was removed and the ends of the wire fastened to the bow and stern. The top of the loop was submerged eight feet; signals from Nauen, Germany, were clearly heard. Very sharp indications of direction were obtained when under water or on top of it. And soon other stations were heard, including Carnarvon, England; Rome, Italy, and various merchant vessels. Later experiments showed that communications can be carried on at sea under all conditions more efficiently with the closed loop aerial than with the ordinary antenna now in general use.

RAISULI BANDIT OF RARE CHARM

Washington, D. C.—That relentless bandit, Raisuli, the Villa of Morocco, whose present raids have caused a political crisis in Spain, has another side.

"He could not bear to hear a child cry, while on several occasions I noticed his care even to avoid allowing the bees collected on his cup to drown," is the surprising statement, not of a friend, but of the wealthy American who was held for ransom by Raisuli in 1904, until President Roosevelt sent a fleet of war ships and his famous ultimatum, "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead" to Morocco.

Ion Perdicaris' own story of his adventures as the prisoner of the "Moroccan Robin Hood" is told in a communication sent by him to the National Geographic society soon after his release.

"In many respects the man interested and attracted me, in spite of all my natural motives for dislike," said Mr. Perdicaris. "Raisuli was at once so gracious and dignified, not to us only, but to his own wild adherents, who evidently idolized their chieftain, whose position among them seemed that of the head of a Highland clan in the olden times.

Has a Superior Character.

"He was quick to see the humorous aspect of a situation, while his repartee was as immediate and to the point as though he had been born in County Galway itself. In fact, I discovered to my consternation that I was beginning to like the man, in spite of my natural resentment. I found myself unconsciously accepting his contention that he was not a mere brigand or cattle lifter, but a patriot struggling to rescue his Berber followers from the tyranny of the corrupt shereefian officials.

"While standing near Raisuli one day on the village green, of which we were now allowed the freedom, one of his followers came up from Tangier, almost breathless from his haste, to report the arrival of the two American squadrons. The man described how the eight frigates had entered the bay, one after another.

"I watched Raisuli with anxiety, lest apprehending the landing of marines, with a view to our relief and his own capture, he might endeavor to drag us to some more distant and inaccessible retreat. What was then my surprise when, looking up with a bright smile, he said: 'Well, I think I can now congratulate you!'

"'I do not understand you,' I replied.

"'I mean,' answered Raisuli, 'that the presence of these vessels will lead the authorities at Tangier to make such representations to the sultan as may result in his acceding to my demands, and then you will be able to return to your friends.'

Part as Friends.

"The next morning it was still dark when our men began loading the pack mules, and we reached the crest of the mountain, which lay between us and Tangier, just as the sun rose.

"At last the mules, bearing the silver dollars, carefully packed in boxes, arrived; but now luncheon was again served in honor of Mulai Ahmed, and must be partaken of, after which the bullion was counted in another room.

"'The silver,' said Raisuli, addressing me, 'has been counted—$20,000, as stipulated, in Spanish dollars, but these letters,' showing me as he spoke a check book containing certified checks on the Comptoir d'Escompte, the French bank at Tangier, 'of the value of these, which are supposed to represent $50,000, I know nothing. However, I will accept them on your personal guarantee.'

"When I had examined the checks certified by Torres and Si Gannam, the sultan's delegate minister of finance, I gave the required assurance verbally, and Raisuli, leading me to the door, where I found my horse waiting for me, bade me adieu, saying that he had learned to look upon me as a friend and that he hoped I cherished no ill feeling on account of my detention."

CUBAN VOODOOS SLAY

Keep Parents on Island in Constant Fear.

Havana, Cuba.—With the recent sudden outbreak of cannibalistic practices by voodoo worshipers, which have resulted in the deaths of at least three innocent children and a half dozen of the voodoos, the latter by the application of "lynch" law for the first time in this country's history, fathers and mothers are living in constant fear that their little ones may be spirited away by the superstitious negroes to be offered up in sacrifice to "Changa," the god of the "Brujos," as they are called in the Castilian language.

The voodoos are divided into various sects, each with its separate god. The latter include "Babagueye," god of sickness; "Miocus," god of injury; "Olorrum" god of misery, and "Changa," the terrible god, to whom human sacrifices are made.

"Changa," according to the voodoo belief, was the son of Olorrum and Anaragun. He was slain by Miocus, the "god of injury," and ascended into heaven from a ceiba, or god tree, in the month of May. It is in the month of May, therefore, that the "Brujos" observe their holy week, when Changa is expected to make a weekly visit to the earth, descending by the ceiba, his sacred tree, always on Monday.

The followers of Miocus do not directly offer human sacrifices, although their heathen sacrifice the lives of some patients by giving them poisonous concoction, supposedly a mysterious cure for some ailment, in order to restore to health some other patient. Miocus, being the "god of injury," his followers believe that good can come to one person only through injury to another.

Voodooism is not practiced by the negroes alone. Many white persons also are said to secretly take part in their religious meetings, and accusations have been heard in various quarters of the difficulties encountered by officers seeking to break up their temples because of the obstacles placed in their way by persons of influence.

An active campaign by the authorities in Havana and other parts of the island have resulted in the capture of numerous "Brujos" and the seizure of many curious and weird objects used by them.

Reward for Glider Flight.

Ilwaco, Wash.—Deeds to 1,000 acres of Gray's harbor land, lying within what it has been hoped for years will prove an oil belt, are to be placed in a local bank as a reward for the aviator who flies around the globe. George J. Hibbard, a Seattle attorney, makes the offer, and has set the time limit for winning the land at Aug. 1, 1923.

GOVERNMENT TO OPEN STORE

Establishments to be Operated Throughout Nation in Effort to Reduce Cost of Living.

Washington, D. C.—Announcement has been made that retail stores for the sale of household commodities included in the surplus stocks of the war department will be established September 25 throughout the country. The stores will be located in depot centers and other large cities and they will accept and fill mail orders.

The present plan is to open stores in the fourteen zone supply cities, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Baltimore, Jeffersonville, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Antonio, Omaha, El Paso, San Francisco and Washington. The chain will be extended to additional cities as rapidly as possible.

Continued purchase by the department of certain necessities so that these stores may be continued indefinitely as a part of the government campaign against the high cost of living is understood to be under consideration.

Prices on all commodities offered for sale will be so fixed as to prevent discrimination between the purchasers who buy over the counter and those who purchase through the mail.

All mail orders will be delivered by parcel post, but the policy of making these sales through the post office department is to be discontinued. All such orders will go directly to the stores.

To expedite the mail order sales the post office department has been asked to establish sub-stations in each store. Catalogues quoting prices and giving the location of all stores are being prepared and will be available at every post office in the United States.

Germany Faces Cold Winter.

Berlin.—That any possibility of averting a coalless winter is regarded as a forlorn hope, is indicated by reports received from the Silesian and Ruhr coal fields, the action taken by municipalities in many section of the country and the restrictive measures agreed upon by the coal commission which promise about as much light and warmth as the winter moon. Greater Berlin has been informed that it would be permitted to indulge in the luxury of a hot bath on the first and third Friday of each month. Kitchen ranges will not be permitted to operate between the hours of 8 and 11:00 a. m. and 2 and 7 p. m.

Battle Forest Fires.

Missoula, Mont.—Five thousand men, composing the fire-fighting force of the federal forest service, are waging a battle against hundreds of forest fires sweeping over Montana and northern Idaho, with no prospect of controlling the flames further than to save whatever towns may be in their path until rain intervenes. This estimate of the situation was made at forest service headquarters here where it was said that despite the refusal of federal troops to aid in the fight against the flames, no shortage of men is feared, civilian recruits filling the daily vacancies in the ranks of the fighters.

May Have Been Nebraskan.

Topeka, Kan.—That the unidentified jewelry peddler for whose death Rufus King is charged with murder, may possibly be identified as William R. Ringer was indicated in a telegram received by Attorney General Hopkins from T. O. Ringer of Tilden, Neb., and his brother, O. B. Ringer, of Wisner, Neb. They announced their intention of attending King's preliminary hearing at Fairbridge and expressed their belief that the peddler was their long lost brother.

Rank of General for Pershing.

Washington, D. C.—Universal laudation of General Pershing at the hands of his fellow countrymen was not confined to any particular section when the house had under consideration, and with four negative votes passed the bill authorizing the president of the United States to confer on him the permanent rank of general. Two Nebraskans paid General Pershing praise.

Ole Hanson Quits Mayorship.

Seattle, Wash.—Ole Hanson, Seattle's mayor, who gained nation-wide fame as a result of his stand for Americanism during the general strike here last February, has resigned.

"I am tired out and am going fishing," he said in a statement accompanying the resignation, which was immediately accepted by the city council.

Wants U. S. to Enter Mexico.

El Paso, Texas.—Intervention in Mexico and the adoption of the league of nations "to make the world safe for American citizens" were urged by Governor W. P. Hobby of Texas in a speech made at a dinner given in his honor by friends here.

FOR FUNSTON YANKS

GREAT MONUMENT BUILT AT CAMP DEDICATED.

STANDS SIXTY FEET HIGH

Camp Funston, Kan.—A lasting memorial to men who gave their lives on the battlefields of France, the native stone monument erected at Camp Funston by soldiers who trained here, was unveiled and dedicated September 1 by Major General Leonard Wood, commander of the Eighty-ninth division during its training period at Camp Funston, and now commander of the central department of the United States army. A bronze table on the monument bears this inscription:

"To the Men Who Trained at Camp Funston for the Great War, 1917-1919."

Construction of the monument was authorized in December, 1918, by General Wood and was begun in February, 1919, under the direction of Major Sidney H. Negretto, being completed in May. The material used was native stone, secured from quarries in the hills of the reservation over which the soldiers took many a hike during training days.

The monument, which has a thirty-foot base and stands sixty feet high, is of cyclopean structure and is located in the heart of the camp on West boulevard, about 500 feet from the Golden Belt highway. It is of random rubble construction, "impressive and dignified," says Major Negretto.

Soldiers from South Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, composing the Eighty-ninth division, trained at Camp Funston from the fall of 1917 until the division left for France in May, 1918. The Ninety-second division, composed of negro troops from the south, also trained at Camp Funston during part of this time. After these divisions left the camp, soldiers from many states were sent to Camp Funston to form the Tenth division.

Carranza Defends Mexico.

Mexico City, Mex.—A defense of Mexico against foreign representations, particularly from the United States regarding the lives of foreigners and their property was contained in a message of President Carranza, read at the opening session of the Mexican congress here. Particular reference was made in the message to alleged injustices practiced against Mexicans in the United States.

A long list of the alleged offenses was given under the section of the address devoted to foreign relations.

The message also defended Mexico's neutrality during the war and protested against charges that the Mexican government was incapable and unwilling to protect foreign lives and property.

In the message President Carranza asserted that Mexico did not ask admission to the league of nations, because he said the league did not establish equality for all nations and races. He reiterated that Mexico had not and would not recognize the Monroe doctrine.

Regarding oil legislation, the message said the government was willing to conciliate, but would not sacrifice its national sovereignty.

Race Riot in Tennessee.

Knoxville, Tenn.—During a race riot here which lasted the better part of two days, one United States regular army officer, Lieutenant James W. Payne, Madisonville, Ky., was killed, a negro was shot to death, several white persons were injured, one of whom may die, and a number of blacks more or less seriously injured. The disturbance broke out when a mob stormed the Knox county jail in an effort to reach a negro who had been locked up in connection with the murder of a white woman. The accused man had been taken from the jail before the mob congregated.

In a series of fights between deputy sheriffs, police officers and militiamen and members of the mob in the jail corridors and outside the building, several men were wounded. Most of the window glass in the jail was shot out. Mrs. Lindsey, the murdered woman, was shot to death in her home while in the act of escaping from the negro.

American Wins Derby.

New York.—Lieut. E. W. Maynard of the United States army air service won the international aerial derby between Mineola, N. Y., and Toronto, covering the 1,000-mile round trip course in 6:35:15 minutes, it is announced by the flying club. There were 32 aircraft entered in the race. Of these, 25 finished the round trip.

If you want a happy husband, let him eat between meals. Don't bedgrudge him pie at bedtime or a wedge of cake while you're getting supper.

Some times it's upsetting to find tomorrow's desert has vanished,--that the cake box is empty,--that you must put on your apron and take down your rolling-pin and go at it again. But if husbands and pies weren't made for each other, what were they made for?

And if pies are made for husbands, IMPERIAL FLOUR IS MADE FOR PIES.

As good as the best and better than most--that's IMPERIAL. Better wheat in it, you see.

You're remembering that name all right--IMPERIAL.

KIDNEYS WEAKENING? BETTER LOOK OUT!

Kidney and bladder troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow upon you, slowly but steadily, undermining your health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you feel that you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1696 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its sale.

The good housewife of Holland would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Their use restores strength and is responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

Cheering Note in City Hubbub.

It was a scorching hot day. Three of the characters that grow familiar to the frequenters of the thoroughfare from Broadway to Park Row took part in a little bit of drama that was watched from a nearby bench. The lame old man who sells shoestrings sat wearily on the stairs leading to the closed canteen opposite the postoffice. His eyes drooped with sleep, but opened suddenly at a word from the woman who sits near by with a basket of pretzels, the piece de resistance of many a midday meal in that vicinity.

She held out a tall glass of orangeade supplied, doubtless, by the proprietor of the flourishing stand hard by, where one may buy postcard souvenirs of New York, or sweets and cool drinks to eke out the pretzel lunch. He drank it gratefully while the kindly if draggled Hebe chatted about the weather. It was a cheering note in the rush of the city's crowded, careless thoroughfare.—New York Times.

PERSONS OF ROYAL DESCENT

In Natural Course, Millions Might Lay Claim to Blood of William, the Conqueror.

There are more claims of descent from William the Conqueror than from any monarch in the world, and in most cases a descendant of this king comes down a line of 15 or 20 other royal personages, although sometimes the descent from monarch to plain, untitled yeoman seems to have been accomplished in two or three generations. There is practically no limit to his descendants today and one genealogist says this fact is accounted for by the statement that, according to the regular proportion of increase in each generation since his time, the descendants of William the Conqueror would now number more than twice the present population of the British Isles. So, of course, it is very easy to see how many of them came over to the United States.

Larrazolo's Letters

Governor Larazolo has issued three letters to the public; one to the District Judges, one to the municipalities of the state and one to localities where no municipalities exist. These letters are sent out with a view of putting an end to profiteering, if there be any, the investigation of existing conditions being the method recommended by the Executive to bring out the facts.

The substance of his letter to the Judges is as follows: "For some time past, I have been giving serious thought to the difficult problem of living under existing conditions and to a method whereby that problem can be solved, if possible of solution. I believe that under the constitution, giving the general congress power to regulate interstate commerce, it is difficult for any individual state to properly deal single handed with that proposition; still, if anything we can do properly under the law to remedy a condition that has become unbearable, I believe it is our duty to apply that remedy as far as we may, if such remedy can be found under our laws. Sections 1685 and 1686 might in a measure bring about some relief."

"I therefore call your attention to these sections and beg to suggest that it might prove beneficial to call the attention of the grand juries of the various counties of your district. The Attorney General's office has made a similar request of the several district attorneys in the state."

In the two other letters referred to, the Governor says: "I will not hesitate to call a special session of the legislature with a view of enacting such laws as will protect the public against extortion and undue, illegal profiteering. I have great faith, however, in the sense of justice and fair play of our people, therefore, before invoking the power of the legislature of an extraordinary session, I beg to suggest a method if properly applied may result in battering existing conditions."

"I beg to suggest that in your respective communities you appoint committees composed exclusively of consumers. The duties of these committees will be to investigate what profits are being made by your dealers both wholesale and retail in all commodities that enter into the support of human life; that the findings of these committees be given the widest publicity to the end that the public may understand the methods and reasons why living has become an almost unbearable burden.

"These suggestions are respectfully submitted to you for your consideration, and awaiting your reply, I am, Your Excellency will find other methods of procedure equally superior to and more effective than those suggested."

The above are quotations of the three letters issued by Gov. Larrazolo which will be of interest to readers of the high cost of living. It is a live issue at the present time in the public thought.

PLEDGE TO HERO SAYS WILSON

PRESIDENT CHALLENGES SENATORS TO PRODUCE BETTER PEACE PACT.

ASKS NATION'S SUPPORT

ASSURES MOTHERS THAT THEIR SONS WILL NEVER CROSS SEAS AGAIN.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 5.—Urging the nation to stand back of him in his fight to save the League of Nations, and assuring cheering thousands that the Senate would be forced to sign the treaty, President Wilson scored his opponents and reiterated his belief that the rights of small nations would be protected. The President challenged senatorial opposition to produce a better covenant than he had brought to America or immediately ratify.

Mr. Wilson said he could face the mothers of the nation with confidence, because "he had given them an assurance in the League of Nations that their sons would never again face the necessity of crossing the seas."

In referring to the war, the President said: "The League of Nations is the only thing that can prevent the recurrence of this dreadful catastrophe and redeem our promises." The crowds repeatedly cheered him when he asserted that he was an American first, and would always bear in mind the aims and aspirations of his own people.

He assured the nation that the treaty in no way encroached upon the rights or domestic policy of the country. Its central idea, he said, was that nations do not consist of their government, but of their peoples. The President said he was astonished by many of the statements made concerning the treaty, and declared that many of his opponents displayed "absolute ignorance" in their discussion of it.

"But my opponents in the Senate must and will pass the treaty. I am sure I will win in this because their cause is weak."

The League of Nations, he declared, was formed in fulfillment of the promise that the United States was fighting this war to "end business of that sort" forever. Not to establish the League, he said, would have been unfaithful to those who had died.

Besides, the President said, the treaty "tears away" the chains of oppression and gives small nationalities the right to live their own lives. "That," he said, "was the American position, and I was glad to fight for it."

The President quoted the treaty provision providing for an international labor organization, which will hold its first meeting in Washington next month. He declared the meeting would be held whether the treaty had been ratified by the Senate by that time or not.

Greets Ex-Kaiser.

Amerongen, Holland.—Much excitement was occasioned in Amerongen when an aviator, passing above the Von Bethack castle, suddenly looped the loop and dived low directly over the garden where the former Germint emperor was engaged in his daily task of sawing wood. Many of the villagers believed that the one-time emperor was in danger, but the aviator merely descended to about fifty feet above the garden, leaned over the side of his plane and waved a greeting to William Hohenzollern.

U. S. Seized Drugs.

New York.—Eight men were arrested and habit-forming drugs valued at more than $100,000 were seized here by internal revenue agents in what they declared to be the most important raid of its kind that has ever taken place in this district. The prisoners had $25,000 in cash on their persons, and are said to be members of a gang whose operations extended throughout the country.

"Did he find it?" another banker asked.

"Find it?" said the first banker. "Why, man, he found a half-dollar."

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation.

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

GRASSHOPPER IS MOST INJURIOUS

DRY WEATHER FAVORS YOUNG

Hoppers Are Active and Able to Jump Almost Immediately Upon Emergence From Eggs—Three Methods of Control.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The periodical cicada, an insect almost universally miscalled the 17-year locust, has a bad reputation, but the destruction it causes is negligible compared to that wrought by grasshoppers—which, by the way, are true members of the locust family. The cicadas have been blamed for much of the work of the grasshoppers.

Both the young and old hoppers gnaw and devour the grain crops wholesale, and work in large swarms which sometimes attain sufficient numbers to consume almost every green thing in sight.

Dry weather ordinarily favors the successful hatching of the eggs and the subsequent development of the hoppers, while cool, wet weather, as a rule, is unfavorable and grasshoppers often die in great numbers from disease when weather conditions of this character prevail. The grasshoppers lay their eggs in the soil, the banks of irrigation canals being favored for this activity, and the young grasshoppers appear the following spring. In some of the Southern and Southwestern states the hoppers emerge as early as February, while in the northern territory the eggs are not hatched before the middle of May or the first part of June. The young grasshoppers are active and able to hop almost immediately upon emergence from the eggs. In 70 to 90 days they attain maturity and develop wings. Hence the time for the farmer to attack the pest is during its young stages.

Three Methods of Control.

There are three methods of controlling grasshoppers, according to specialists of the United States department of agriculture—destruction of the eggs, catching the insects in the fields by traps, and use of poisoned baits. Wherever possible, the ground containing the grasshopper eggs should be thoroughly plowed or disked and harrowed in the fall, as these operations prevent the eggs from hatching the following spring.

The hopperdozer is a mechanical control implement and consists of a galvanized sheet-iron pan or trough having a back rising at right angles to the pan. It is about 16 feet in length and mounted on runners made of wood or old wagon tires. Hopperdozers often are made of a pan of galvanized sheet iron, but the back and side wings are usually built with a wooden frame covered with stout muslin or light cotton duck, thus securing lightness and elasticity of structure. The insects hop into this trap, which is drawn across the field by horses. As many as 500 bushels of grasshoppers have been collected by the use of hopperdozers on 100 acres of alfalfa.

How to Make Poisoned Bait.

As ordinarily prepared, the bran bait is composed as follows: Wheat bran, 25 pounds; paris green, 1 pound, or white arsenic, 1 pound; 6 fruits of finely chopped lemons or oranges; 2 quarts of low-grade molasses; 2 to 4 gallons of water, according to climatic conditions. The bran and paris green or other arsenical are thoroughly mixed while dry. The fruits are then finely chopped and added, and last the diluted molasses is poured over the bait and the whole thoroughly kneaded. This amount of poisoned bait is sufficient to treat about three acres when the grasshoppers first hatch. Later, when they are nearly full grown, this amount will suffice for about five acres if sown broadcast in strips one yard apart.

Blow flies, robber flies and digger wasps all prey upon grasshoppers, while wild birds, from the minute humming birds to the mammoth hawks, also assert a marked control.

Complete information relative to grasshopper control is presented in Farmers' Bulletin 747, which has just been reissued by the United States department of agriculture, a copy of which will be mailed free on request.

CRATE FATTENING IN FAVOR

Flesh of Fowl Is Made More Tender and Juicy and Is More Readily Prepared for Table.

Crate fattening of fowls for home use and for market consumption has been found by the Purdue university poultry department to make flesh more tender and juicy and more readily cooked than that of the ordinary fowl which is placed on the market.

Livestock must have feed and care to be profitable. Those who expect animals to "rustle" their own living are likely to be disappointed.

Cement walks are not exceedingly expensive and any farmer can do the work at odd times, if he gets a little advice about the work.

VETCH CROP IN HOME GARDEN

Spaded or Hoed Under It Will Assist in Keeping Soil Supplied With Needed Humus.

A few cents' worth of vetch seed planted in the garden each year and spaded or hoed under as a green manure crop will keep the soil supplied with humus and, to a large extent, with nitrogen. The vetch should be kept growing at all times in all available spaces.

For example, if early corn or cabbage are not removed in time to allow for a follow-up crop, vetch can be planted between the rows at the time of the last cultivation. It will then be large enough to spade under in the fall or spring. Another good way to use vetch is to sow it in the fall or spring when the garden is being spaded in preparation for tomatoes.

By the time the tomato plants are ready to set, the vetch will be well under way. If the vetch is not more than three or four inches high, places can be cleared at proper distances for planting the tomatoes by turning under a spade or two of soil. Then when the vetch left between the tomatoes is six or eight inches high, it can be hoed in. Since it is green and tender, this is no great task and the vetch will soon rot. If vetch is used in this way, the soil should be inoculated with the necessary bacteria. Instructions for doing this simple work can be had upon application to the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

CLOVER SEED AND HAY CROP

Pennsylvania Farmer Does His Cutting When Most of Heads Are Filled and Brown.

A crop of seed and of hay can be made from the second crop of clover just as well as only one crop, according to the experience of a Pennsylvania farmer. In his practice the crop is cut when most of the heads are filled and brown. It is then cured in the usual way for hay and when good and dry the hullers will get out all the seed as well as if the stalks were dead and weatherbeaten.

PROVIDE VARIETY OF GRAINS

Don't feed the old fowls too much fattening feed, like corn, during the summer but give them a variety of grain and let them have free range if possible so that they will make the best use of their opportunities to keep strong, healthy and productive.

Good Tax Collectors.

Alfalfa is more likely than other hays to cause spontaneous combustion, and for that reason should not be put in a barn till thoroughly cured.

THE GORILLA.

"Take a look at me," said the gorilla, "and take a look quickly, and come to see me at once and don't delay."

Patted Himself on the Head.

For the gorilla had just arrived in the zoo.

Many people, too, were coming to see him. There were grown-ups and boys and girls. The other monkeys in the zoo felt a little hurt that the gorilla was getting quite so much attention, for they were around all the time trying to make things interesting for the people who came to visit them. And here was this gorilla, who had just arrived, and who didn't really care for the visitors in the least, being made such a fuss over.

Still they felt their own good old friends, the ones who came often, would still be fondest of them, and that thought comforted them. For they came and looked at the gorilla because they were interested.

But then they went and talked to their old friends, the others in the monkey house.

"I may not like it here," continued the gorilla. "I may not live. Zoos don't as a rule agree with me.

"I came on a boat. I was brought here by a man. Oh, yes, it is not only with gorillas that I associate; it is with men, too.

"They bring me along and I come with them and they talk to me and I talk to them.

"But as I say, I may not like it here, and if I don't I will get sick so they'll have to send me away for my health.

"I'm like that; I do what I choose in that way. If my health won't stand a thing, it won't. I won't try to get over my feelings; ah, no.

"It's not everyone who is a gorilla, so if one is such a fine animal, one should make the most of it; eh, friends?"

The gorilla looked about the monkey house.

"Poor little monkeys having such fun with your tails. I like to be myself, I do. I look so much larger, and of course I look that way, for I am larger!

"That's a clever point!" The gorilla patted himself on the head.

"And what is more, I look more like a human being. Ah, much more like one. That makes the human beings mad. But I don't care. I laugh at them for getting mad. I don't mind if they look like me, so why should they care if I look like them?

"Why should they, I'd like to know? For no reason at all that I can think of; for no reason at all.

"I come from Africa. Am I not handsome walking upright like anyone would do?"

But the gorilla was not right about being handsome, for he is really quite ugly. He is very large and looks very human, but he hasn't nearly as much sense as the nice orang-utan or the lively, cheerful chimpansee.

"I'm worth looking at," the gorilla kept saying to himself, and as he looked at the people who hurried to the zoo to see him he chatted and looked at them and said:

"You're all a foolish lot. I don't believe I will stay long in the zoo if you're the ones who're coming to see me.

"Such absurd looking people. And your climate is so different from Africa. And the zoo is very different from the home I had; very different.

"This zoo is enough to make me cross. There isn't room for me to take all the exercise I want. And I will have indigestion if I do not take plenty of exercise.

"You're the One I Like."

"Yes, I believe I am already beginning to feel cross. I don't like zoo life—that is certain—so take a look at me, people, when you can, whenever you can, and now is an opportunity."

And the people did come to look at the gorilla, but the keeper whispered to the orang-utan:

"You're the one I like, you are!" and the orang-utan put his arms around the keeper's neck and kissed him.

Helgoland to Join Louisbourg as a Memory.

Famous French Fortress in Canada Has Long Been Demolished and Soon the German Stronghold Is to Be Razed.

Announcement that the German forts on the island of Helgoland are to be demolished recalls the similar fate of a glorious landmark on Canadian soil. This is Louisbourg, Nova Scotia, once the pride of New France, and now a pile of ruins, with but a faint echo of its original splendor.

Louisbourg was the remnant of French power on the Atlantic coast when the treaty of Utrecht was signed in 1713, reducing the fortunes of Louis XIV to a low ebb. From 1720 to 1760 it led a precarious but spectacular existence, its magnificence as a defense guaranteed by the expenditure of millions of dollars by the French government, though millions were stolen and wasted by dishonest officials and unhappy officers, whose only ambition was to get rich and go home.

The fortress was imposing, despite the thievery and mismanagement, and it required a seven weeks' siege by Colonel Pepperell and his New Englanders in 1745 to take it from the French.

By one of those diplomatic incidents too plentiful in the history of the new world, Louisbourg was handed back to France in 1748 by the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle. The New Englanders were furious, but ten years later the British army and navy, with such rising strategists as Amherst and Wolfe taking part, again laid siege by land and sea, and in another campaign of seven weeks recaptured the stronghold.

The days of the great fortress were now numbered. The home of discontent, the abode of smugglers, the den of thieving officialdom received its death warrant in 1760 at the hand of George II and Pitt in London. So well was the warrant executed that for months sailors, sappers and miners worked until they laid Louisbourg level with the dust.

And there it remains. Memorials recording its history raise their modest heads above the chaos of stones and mortar. The site on a point three miles from the railway and the town of the same name is remote and forbidding. Should the visitor follow the shore road by the lonely Atlantic in summer he will hear tinkling sheep bells from the pasture where once stood the French town, now completely obliterated. The great area of the ruins of the fort gives some hint of the vain preparation to hold a last grip against the advancing British and Colonials.

What will be the thoughts of the tourist as he drops by airplane on Helgoland a century hence, witnesses its ruined forts, and contemplates the futile ambitions of a race that drew the sword and fought a losing battle for world domination?

Her Part.

The physician had diagnosed the young woman's case and was compounding for her a bottle of medicine. He put two or three drugs into the bottle and then took up a jar of pepsin. The jar was almost empty and there was not enough pepsin to finish filling the patient's bottle. The physician looked around for another jar. He didn't find one, however. For a minute he was frankly perplexed, and then came sudden relief. He turned to the faucet and finished filling the bottle with water.

"Oh," the young woman's voice was very cool, "you needn't have done that. I can put in the water myself."

Greeks Prize Rugs.

Rug making is as old as Greece itself, but it was never made a commercial item, and it was rare indeed that a weaver could be persuaded to part with his rug. Greek rugs are of two kinds, the heavy ones used in winter and the light ones used at all times. In the beginning the designs were of the simplest, but later the Greeks borrowed floral designs from the Persians, which loan was amply repaid with the development of Grecian art. Venetian rugs are also very rare.

Ticket Not Filled Out.

There was a new baby in the corner house, and the proud parents had sent out announcement cards to friends and neighbors. Mary, who lived in the same block, was anxious to see the new baby, and was waiting impatiently for the time to come when she could go. One afternoon at another neighbor's house she saw that she, too, had an announcement of the baby's arrival. "Oh, did you get a ticket to see the baby?" she said. "We did, but it didn't say what day to come."

INDIGESTION

Acid-Stomach

Millions of people—in fact about 9 out of 10—suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—belching, heartburn, bloat after eating, food repeating, sour, gassy stomach. There are many ailments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are, nevertheless, traceable to an acid-stomach. Among these are nervousness, biliousness, cirrhosis of the liver, rheumatism, impoverished blood, weakness, insomnia, melancholia and a long train of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack these ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC now makes it easy to do this.

One of hundreds of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC writes: "I have been troubled with intestinal indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pains in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the remedy I needed."

We have thousands of letters telling of these marvelous benefits. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise.
