Red Cross Calls Its Workers to Arms

A zero approaches in the Red Cross Drive.

Glencoe reports that they are ready and will go over with their quota.

Ft. Stanton has asked for additional Official Enrollment blanks and additional Red Cross buttons. They had already been sent a large supply of both. There is no question but that Ft. Stanton will be "among those present."

Mr. E. L. Moulton of Corona found it necessary to be away from home during the greater part of the time the Drive would be on so J. C. Hester, Asst. Cashier of the Stockmens State Bank has assumed the office of Chairman for Corona. He has written for instructions and states that he will do all he can.

The following Red Cross Films have been reserved for Carrizozo and will be run at the local theatre Nov. 4th, or 5th. "The Greatest Gift," and "Rebuilding Broken Lives." They will be available for four days from the date received here.

The following four minute speakers for the local theatre will hold themselves in readiness to respond to the call of the county chairman: Dr. E. E. Cole, Mrs. T. A. Spencer, Jno. A. Haley, Henry Lutz, Jr., Mrs. J. B. French, Ebb Kenneth Jones. Other names may be added to this list later.

Speakers are available for local precincts if they are wanted.

Each and every individual in Lincoln County is requested to ask themselves the question "Am I preparing to do all I can to make the Drive a success," if you are not then get into the "band wagon" the funds collected are for the National Committee and for Lincoln County, four-fifths for Lincoln county. We want your dollars and we want your help, be a "pusher" not a "rider."

TO WORKERS

It has been decided upon that any person donating at least $1.00 to the Red Cross Drive will be enrolled as a member of the Red Cross. Out of every donation of $1.00 or more, $1.00 will be set aside as a membership fee in the Red Cross. We get to keep only 50 cents of this, the balance goes to the National Organization. Keep this in mind in figuring your quota and try and get your quota without considering the $1.00 for membership at all, what you have in this fund will help make up for donations you hoped for and did not get, or donations that others hoped for and did not get.

The $1.00 subscription to the Red Cross Magazine is separate and apart from the Drive for Funds. This all goes to the Red Cross Magazine which sells for $1.50 a year, $1.00 during the Drive. It is necessary to have an official organization of any society, the Red Cross Magazine assists greatly in spreading Red Cross information and sentiment. Get all the subscriptions you can but do not count them in your quota.

Election of officers of Red Cross will appear next week.

E. M. BRICKLEY,
Red Cross Chairman.

B. Y. P. U. Halloween Social Highly Successful

The Baptist Young People's Union entertained at a Halloween Social Wednesday evening which proved to be one of the most novel and entertaining affairs of the season. Barring the usual custom, the doors were locked until 8:15, after which they were opened to admit the waiting guests who gathered to take part in the evening's merrymaking.

The social was given at Wetmore Hall, the decorations being black, yellow and red. The gypsy tent was the center of attraction; the entrance was guarded by skull, devil and cat lanterns lighted by candles, the gypsy fortune teller being Miss Irene Smith. New and old games were played in which Marie Davis, Bernard Merchant and Lee Stimmel were prize winners. Novelty abounded; interspersed with refreshments. After the movies at the Crystal Theatre, the number of guests increased.

Costumes worn were as follows: Witch, Barbara Hust; Old Woman and Kitten, Miss Branum; Old Maid, Ben Scott; Halloween Spirit, Marie Davis; Indian, Ruby Smith; Parson, Linza Branum; Red Devil, Mr. Hust; Farmer Boy, Jas. Roselle; Girl, Dayton Herron; Grecian Goddess, Catherine Pine. Ghosts and goblins abounded while the guests made merry. The affair closed at 11:15 with all expressing their appreciating of the evening's entertainment.

Doings of the Court

District Court convened Monday with Judge Mechem in the chair. The usual line up of attendants were present. Court Stenographer Newell and Interpreter Pedregon were on the job; the court was opened but on account of parties connected with the different cases to come before the court not being able to produce the proper witnesses, etc., adjournment was taken until Tuesday.

The present sessions of the Court being occupied with cases of minor importance, no jury trials will be brought up. Therefore, decisions in most of them are taken under advisement by Judge Mechem and will be mentioned later on.

The Cravens Depart

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Cravens left for Big Springs, Texas, where they will take up their residence for the future. Mr. Cravens, who is an expert druggist, has been in the employ of Rolland Bros., and has given the public the best of service, but the high altitude has not been agreeable to his health and after becoming fully convinced that a longer stay would only aggravate his ailment, he decided to get to a lower altitude. We regret the loss of the Cravens family; during their stay in Carrizozo they have made many friends. Let us hope the climate at Big Springs will restore his health.

White Oaks Visitors

Mrs. S. E. Barber and Judge Y. Hewitt were visitors from White Oaks Monday and while they talked freely about the good and welfare of things at their home town, their conversation was enough to warrant saying that some news more than ordinary would reach the public at a date near at hand.

The Two Macks

Get One Buck

L. H. McCall and W. H. McLane wandered down to the malpais last Thursday and had not long to wait before a large buck deer made its appearance from behind a heavy mass of charred lava. Before he had time to make his "get away," L. H. landed on him, bringing him to earth. The two Macks had a hard time in getting the deer across the malpais (about three hours' time being consumed in the task), but it was good eating after the work was done.

Wedded at Wichita Falls

On Oct. 18th at Wichita Falls occurred the marriage of Mr. Daniel Mays of Salt Lake, N. M., and Miss Mirl Davis, formerly of Carrizozo. Both parties are well known here, Mr. Mays at one time residing near Ocuero. The bride is a sister of Miss Marie Davis, who is the assistant of Mrs. M. L. Blaney in the office of County School Superintendent. After the ceremony, the couple journeyed to Salt Lake, where they will reside for the future.

From Fields of Honor to Field of Fortune

Last Saturday afternoon at the home of Father Girma occurred the marriage of Mr Ramon St. John and Miss Agueda Baca, Father Girma performing the ceremony.

The bride is a native of Lincoln, N. M. and has served the board of education for several years as teacher in that place. Her friends in her home town and also in Carrizozo are many and her former pupils at Lincoln being foremost in expressing regret at losing their teacher.

The groom has but lately returned from foreign service where he faced the enemy for 18 months and as he was successful on the field of honor, he now seeks a field of fortune in a new life. After returning, he accepted a position on the Carrizozo Outlook, where he served his apprenticeship years ago as a printer. The couple will make Carrizozo their future home.

Gray Squirrel Hunters Fined

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 30. — What is probably the first prosecution in the State under the new game law for protecting tassel-eared gray squirrels was recently conducted by Ranger J. R. McClure of the U. S. Forest Service at Hanover, N. M.

Two residents of Fierro, N. M., were found killing tassel-eared gray squirrels out of season and without a license. Complaints were sworn out by Ranger McClure on these two charges, and the men were fined $50.00 and costs before a Justice of the Peace.

The tassel-eared gray squirrels have been placed under protection to prevent their extermination, especially in areas much frequented by summer vacationists.

Brent Paden Returns

Brent Paden returned Sunday morning from an extended trip through the east. He went with a set determination to enjoy his vacation and he certainly did. His first stop was at Kansas City, after which he visited Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville and on to Parkersburg, Va. While at Cincinnati, he witnessed one of the games of the World's Series of base ball. At every stopping place, he figured out the best means of entertainment and got the best out of it. He "seen'em all."

Left For The Border

Mrs. J. W. Bates and sister, Miss Wahna Lee Powell, left on No. 3 Monday for El Paso, where Miss Wahna will reside with Mrs. Bates for several months at least.

Visiting the Stadtmans

Richard Dunlap and wife of Supulpa, Okla., are visiting the W. W. Stadtmann family. Mrs. Dunlap is a sister to Mrs. Stadtmann. The visitors will remain for about one week.

Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before

Tucumcari has struck gas; a heavy discharge, the first part of this week, blew the tools and part of the casings of the McGee well 200 feet into the air. This is no oil joke, neither is it a scheme to attract crowds to the city and deceive the people into buying wild cat stuff.

Mr. McGee is an honorable, conscientious geologist, who understood what he would encounter under the soil at Tucumcari before he spudded in. His statements carry honesty of purpose with them. He has struck a pocket of gas, which, if nothing more would become of the venture, will be more than the worth of the drilling project. To say McGee will strike oil is now an established fact.

The Picacho Company are ready to spud in. The Tularosa Basin Oil Company are operating about ten miles below Tularosa. The Magna Oil Company are casting about for a location for a drilling site and the O'Rourke Oil & Gas Co. are working to the same end. All of the companies are well known to the people of Carrizozo; the last named company being composed of our neighbors, who are employees of the E. P. & S. W. With a gratifying outlook all around us, the near future will mark with wonderful achievements. Watch the press for particulars as the finger of time moves on the dial of prosperity.

Epworth League Social

The members of the above named society gathered at the home of Miss Eva Wack Friday night and spent a pleasant evening in playing games, among which was the one where Dr. Cole, as the play went, became hypnotized, after which he was able to discern the thoughts of all present. About fifty guests were present, who, after making merry until the retiring hour, separated after partaking of delightful refreshments. The League wishes to extend its thanks to the Wacks for their hospitality.

Pleasant Evening at Bar W

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Spencer entertained at the Bar W Ranch home, last Friday evening at a social dance, Messrs. Geo. Ferguson and R. C. Pitts furnishing the music. About 30 couples were present who danced to the exhilarating and inviting music of the two "joy makers" after which refreshments were served. The season for dances and parties is at hand and the Spencers, who are royal entertainers have opened the season with the above event which is a good forerunner of more to come.

The Kelleys Return

Mr. and Mrs. Ed R. Kelley returned the first of this week from their Texas pleasure trip. They visited several different places; caught a good glimpse of the Texas oil fields and feel much benefited by their pleasant trip.

"BUT I'M SICK OF IT ALL"

Synopsis.—David Elden, son of a drunken, shiftless ranchman, almost a maverick of the foothills, is breaking bottles with his pistol from his running cayuse when the first automobile he has ever seen arrives and tips over, breaking the leg of Doctor Hardy but not injuring his beautiful daughter Irene. Irene rescues the injured man and brings a doctor from 40 miles away. Irene takes charge of the housekeeping.

CHAPTER I—Continued.

After breakfast Irene attended to the wants of her father, and by this time the visiting doctor was manifesting impatience to be away. But Dave declared with prompt finality that the horse must rest until after noon, and the doctor, willy-nilly, spent the morning rambling in the foothills. Meanwhile the girl busied herself with work about the house, in which she was effecting a rapid transformation.

After the midday dinner Dave harnessed the team for the journey to town, but before leaving inquired of Irene if there were any special purchases either personal or for the use of the house, which she would recommend. With some diffidence she mentioned one that was uppermost in her thoughts—soap, both laundry and toilet. Doctor Hardy had no hesitation in calling for a box of his favorite cigars and some new magazines, and took occasion to press into the boy's hand a bill out of all proportion to the value of the supplies requested.

The day was introductory to others that were to follow. Dave returned the next afternoon, riding his own horse and heavily laden with cigars, magazines and soap.

The following day it was decided that the automobile, which since the accident had laid upturned by the roadway, should be brought to the ranch buildings. Dave harnessed his team and, instead of riding one of the horses, walked behind, driving by the reins, and accompanied by the girl, who had proclaimed her ability to steer the car.

With the aid of the team and Dave's larriat the car was soon righted and was found to be none the worse for its deflection from the beaten track. Irene presided at the steering-wheel, watching the road with great attentiveness and turning the wheel too far on each occasion, which gave to her course a somewhat wavy or undulating order, such as is found in bread-knives; or perhaps a better figure would be to compare it to that rolling motion affected by fancy skaters. However, the aim of her direction corresponded with the mean of the trail and all went merrily until the stream was approached. Here was a rather steep descent and the car showed a sudden purpose to engage the horses in a contest of speed. She determined to use the foot-brake, a feat which was accomplished, under normal conditions, by pressing one foot firmly against a contraption somewhere beneath the steering-post. She shot a quick glance downward and, to her alarm, discovered not one, but three, contraptions, all apparently designed to receive the pressure of a foot—if one could reach them—and as similar as the steps of a stair. This involved a further hesitation, and in automobiling he who heitates invites a series of rapid experiences. It was quite evident that the car was running away. It was quite evident that the horses were running away, too. The situation assumed the qualities of a race, and the only matter of grave doubt related to its termination.

Then they struck the water. It was not more than two feet deep, but the extra resistance it caused and the extra strain it excited in the horses resulted in breaking the larriat. Dave clung fast to his team and they were soon brought to a standstill. Having pacified them, he tied them to a post and returned to the stream. The car sat in the middle; the girl had put her feet on the seat beside her, and the swift water flowed by a few inches below. She was laughing merrily when Dave, very wet in parts, appeared on the bank.

"Well, I'm not wet, except for a little splashing," she said, "and you are. Does anything occur to you?"

Without reply he walked stolidly into the cold water, took her in his arms and carried her ashore. The larriat was soon repaired and the car hauled to the ranch buildings without further mishap.

Later in the day he said to her: "Can you ride?"

"Some," she answered. "I have ridden city horses, but don't know about these ranch animals. But I would like to try—if I had a saddle."

"I have an extra saddle," he said. "But it's a man's. . . . They all ride that way here."

She made no answer and the subject was dropped for the time. But the next morning she saw Dave ride away, leading a horse by his side. He did not return until evening, but when he came the idle horse carried a saddle.

"It's a stradd-legger," he said when he drew up beside Irene, "but it's a girl's. I couldn't find anything else in the whole diggins."

"I'm sure it will do—splendidly—if I can just stick on," she replied. But another problem was already in her mind. It apparently had not occurred to Dave that women require special clothing for riding, especially if it's a "stradd-legger." She opened her lips to mention this, then closed them again. He had been to enough trouble on her account. He had already spent a whole day scouring the country for a saddle, she would manage some way.

Late that night she was busy with scissors and needle.

CHAPTER II.

Doctor Hardy recovered from his injuries as rapidly as could be expected and, while he chafed somewhat over spending his holidays under such circumstances, the time passed not unhappily.

A considerable acquaintanceship had sprung up between him and the senior Elden. The rancher had come from the East forty years before, but in turning over their memories the two men found many links of association; their persons known to them both; places, even streets and houses, common to their feet in early manhood; events of local history which each could recall, although from different angles. And Elden's grizzled head and stooping frame carried more experiences than would fill a dozen well-rounded city livers, and he had the storyteller's art which seems to spill dramatic effect by a too strict adherence to fact. But no ray of conversation would he admit into the more personal affairs of his heart, or of the woman who had been his wife, and even when the talk turned on the boy he quickly withdrew it to another topic, as though the subject were dangerous or distasteful. But once, after a long silence following such a diversion, had he betrayed himself into a whispered remark, an outburst of feeling rather than a communication.

"I've been alone so much," he said. "It seems I have never been anything but alone. And—sooner or later—it gets you—it gets you."

"You have the boy," ventured the doctor.

"No," he answered, almost fiercely. "That would be different. I could stand it then. But I haven't got him, and I can't get him. He despises me because—because I take too much at times." He paused as though wondering whether to proceed with this unwanted confidence, but the ache in his heart insisted on its right to human sympathy. "No, it ain't that," he continued. "He despises me because he thinks I wasn't fair to his mother. He can't understand. I wanted to be good to her, to be close to her. Then I took to booze, as natural as a steer under the brandin'-iron roars to drown his hurt. But the boy don't understand. He despises me." Then, after a long silence: "No matter. I despise myself."

The doctor placed a hand on his shoulder. But Elden was himself again. The curtains of his life, which he had drawn apart for a moment, he whipped together again rigidly, almost viciously, and covered his confusion by plunging into a tale of how he had led a breed suspected of cattle-rustling on a little center of ten miles with a rope about his neck and the other end tied to the saddle. "He ran well," said the old man, chuckling still at the reminiscence. "And it was lucky he did. It was a strong rope."

The morning after Dave had brought in the borrowed saddle Irene appeared in a sort of bloomers suit, somewhat wonderfully contrived from a spare skirt, and announced a willingness to risk life and limb on any horse that Dave might select for that purpose. He provided her with a dependable mount and their first journey, taken somewhat gingerly along the principal trail, was accomplished without incident. It was the forerunner of many others, plunging deeper and deeper into the fastnesses of the foothills and ever into the pines of the very mountains themselves.

His patience was infinite and, although there were no silk trappings to his courtesy, it was a very genuine and manly deference he paid her. She was quite sure that he would at any moment give his life, if needed, to defend her from injury—and accept the transaction as a matter of course. His physical endurance was inexhaustible and his knowledge of prairie and foothill seemed to her almost uncanny. He read every sign of footprint, leaf, water and sky with unfailing insight. He had no knowledge of books, and she had at first thought him ignorant; but as the days went by she found in him a mine of wisdom which shamed her ready-made education.

After such a ride they one day dismounted in a grassy opening among the trees that bordered a mountain canyon. In a crevice they found a flat stone that gave comfortable seating and here they rested while the horses browsed their afternoon meal on the grass above. Both were conscious of a gradually increasing tension in the atmosphere. For days the boy had been moody. It was evident he was harboring something that was calling through his nature for expression, and Irene knew that this afternoon he would talk of more than trees and rocks and footprints of the wild things of the forest.

"Your father is getting along well," he said, at length.

"Yes," she answered. "He has had a good holiday, even with his broken leg."

"You will be going away before long," he continued.

"Yes," she answered, and waited.

"Things about here ain't going to be the same after you're gone," he went on. He wore no coat, and the neck of his shirt was open, for the day was warm. Had he caught her sidelong glances, even his slow, self-deprecating mind must have read their admiration.

"You see," he said, "before you came it was different. I didn't know what I was mixin', an' so it didn't matter. Not but what I was dog-sick of it at times, but still I thought I was livin'—thought this was life, and, of course, now I know it ain't. At least, it won't be after you're gone."

"That's strange," she said, not in direct answer to his remark, but as a colloquy on it as she turned it over in her mind. "This life, now, seems empty to me. All my life seems empty to me. This seems to me the real life, out here in the foothills, with the trees and the mountains, and—our horses, you know."

She might have ended the sentence in a way that would have come much closer to him, and been much truer, but conventionality had been bred into her for generations and she did not find it possible yet freely to speak the truth.

"It's such a wonderful life," she continued. "One gets so strong and happy in it."

"You'd seem get sick of it," he said. "We don't see nothin'. We don't learn nothin'. Really, I'm right, an' I bet you could read an' write better'n me when you was six."

"Did you never go to school?" she asked, in genuine surprise. She knew his speech was ungrammatical, but thought that due to careless training rather than to no training at all.

"Where'd I go to school?" he demanded, bitterly. "There ain't a school within forty miles. Guess I wouldn't have went if I could," he added, as an afterthought, wishing to be quite honest in the matter. "School didn't seem to cut no figure—natch'ly 'lucky."

"But you have learned—some?" she concluded.

"Some. When I was a little kid my father used to work with me at times. He learned me to read a little, an' to write my name, an' a little more. But things didn't go right between him an' mother, an' he got to drinkin' more an' more, an' jus' makin' h— of it. We used to have a mighty fine herd of steers here, but it's all shot to pieces. When we sell a bunch the old man 'll stay in town for a month or more, blowin' the coin and leavin' the debts go. I sneak a couple of steers away now an' then, an' with the money I keep our grocery bills paid up an' have a little to rattle in my jeans. My credit's good at any store in town," and Irene thrilled to the note of pride in his voice as he said this. The boy had real quality in him. "But I'm sick of it all," he continued. "Sick of it, an' I wanna get out."

"You think you are not educated," she answered, trying to meet his outburst as tactfully as possible. "Perhaps you are not, the way we think of it in the city. But I guess you could show the city boys a good many things they don't know, and never will know."

Irene makes a promise full of momentous consequences.

FURNISHES JOY FOR KIDDIES

Fountain in New York City Square Put to Eminent Practical Use in the Summer.

In New York, immediately south of the arch which divides Washington square, there is a circle of concrete walk. Inside that circle, like the watermelon riddle, there is a circle of green grass, and inside that circle of green grass there is a small circular pool of clear, sparkling water fed by a thin, geyserlike fountain. From early morning until nine o'clock at night in summer you can hardly see this pool for the ring of noisy, ecstatic children gathered about it, shutting off its view. For the kiddies of the nearby East side have discovered a very practical use for the fountain. They bathe in it.

On a hot day the little pool is full of small, sun-burned boys, who are not restrained by the lack of bathing suits. Some take the trouble to remove their coats and outer trousers and leave them on the edge, but others plunge right in regardless of dress. Their mothers, who often accompany them, do not seem to object. As one remarked the other day, "It saves the wash," but whether she referred to her son's clothes or to the boy himself was not made clear.

Occasionally a policeman registers a protest. He orders them out of the pool and disperses the crowd of admiring onlookers, but as soon as his back is sufficiently distant they are all at it again, having as much fun as ever. Stimulated by the shouts of their delighted audience, the young swimmers perform the wildest kind of acrobatic stunts.

Not Infallible.

Human judgment cannot be infallible, no matter how broad the mind or keen the intellect. Appearances are so deceptive that even the most experienced judge of character may fail to reach as good an estimate of a man as the humble ignorant scrub woman, who cleans out his offices daily. Many successful men realize this great lack in themselves, and appreciate the power that is in the hands of a devoted wife and real helpmate. They would not think of entering into a partnership or a big business deal without first arranging to hear the opinion formed by her whom they have learned to look up to and confide in.

And, indeed, a man can scarcely pay a higher tribute to a woman than the trust he shows in her instinct.

Friktion a Necessity.

Progress needs brakes as well as motors. Progress is not a matter of levels, but of hills and valleys. Brakeless progress is the uncontrolled machine on the steep downgrade. You are the master who holds the control. Make your life keen, thoughtful and considerate. You will find much fellowship that will suggest friction, but you will also be able to turn that friction to account if you see things in the right perspective. Some folks will grow no matter what happens. Let them grow. They must have a safety valve. You do your part and you will learn where to apply the friction that makes life go.—Exchange.

Crucial's Agency.

The moment that a young crocodile breaks its shell it is so all intent and purpose as active as it is at any time during its life. It will make straight for the water, even if it be out of sight and a good distance off, and it will persist to pray with eagerness and agility during the first week of its free existence.

French Kat Chrysanthemum.

The chrysanthemum is served as a salad in French households.

BILIOUSNESS Caused by Acid-Stomach

If people who are bilious are treated according to local symptoms, they seldom get very much better. Whatever relief is obtained is usually temporary. Trace biliousness to its source and remove the cause and the chances are that the patient will remain strong and healthy.

Doctors say that more than 70 non-organic diseases can be traced to an Acid-Stomach. Biliousness is one of them. Indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour stomach, flatulency and gas are other signs of acid-stomach. EATONIC, the marvelous modern stomach remedy, brings quick relief from these stomach miseries which lead to a long train of ailments that make life miserable if not corrected.

EATONIC literally absorbs and carries away the excess acid. Makes the stomach strong, cool and comfortable. Helps digestion; improves the appetite and you then get full strength from your food. Thousands say that EATONIC is the most effective stomach remedy in the world. It is the help YOU need. Try it on one money-back-if-not-satisfied-guaranteed. At all drug stores. Only 25 cents for a big box.

These Balance Men.

I profess no special partiality for any critic, who, holding balance in hand, weighs eagerly whatsoever of learning comes to his counter. I question whether he is not taking less of the quality of the wares than of the fashion of his scales, never questioning their accuracy nor his own levity. Still it must be admitted that these balance men are not without their usefulness, being convenient for appraising market values.—A. Bronson Alcott.

SCHOOL NOTES

(By Bupt. E. E. Cole)

Miss Marjorie Branum, a special student, is taking typewriting in the Commercial department.

At the literary society of the High School, last Friday, Miss Florence Spence, assisted by Miss Hilary Cooper, gave us a very delightful piano duet. The young ladies were compelled to respond to a very enthusiastic encore.

A large number of students have joined the club taking Current Events. This is a very fine little weekly paper containing the events of the day boiled down into small mass. We do not see how we could do without Current Events.

The Freshmen are to entertain the Eighth Grade some time this week. How much better is such an event than the old class scraps and fights of the past!

The Basketball supplies are here and we shall soon be ready to actively begin work in this department. Tularosa High School wants a game with us and we shall soon be ready for them.

The supplies for the lower grades are here and both teachers and pupils are anxious to begin work with that kind of material which makes their activities correspond with manual training in the grades.

Some of the supplies for the department of Physics have come and the class has already begun laboratory work. The new table for laboratory work in physics has been made by the Manual Training department and looks like a fine piece of parlor furniture in oak.

The subscriptions for the Red Cross, the Junior Red Cross, are coming in rapidly. Some of the grades have already come over the 100 per cent mark. This, too, has come voluntarily. The superintendent has urged the teachers to be in the form of an invitation; not in any way in the form of compulsion.

The wisdom of the Junior Senior form of the High School is seen in the splendid attitude of the present Eighth Grade. It is seated with the four upper grades of the school and has all their privileges. The present eighth grade has six boys and seven girls and all are making good, not only in their studies but also socially. We should like to see the seventh grade included in the Junior-Senior high school.

There is one distressing circumstance in connection with the school. The Manual Training department occupies about two-fifths of the room when it should have the whole room. The Home Economics department uses about two-fifths of the same room when it should have the whole room for the stoves, the tables and many other things which go with this department. Besides this, another part of the room is used for class recitations part of the day. The laboratory for Chemistry and Physics should be a large room by itself, instead of crowded into a recitation room. The same can be said of the Commercial department. Even the little office is used as a recitation four periods of the day. All this prevents the very best work in these departments.

"How much?" asked the man as he stepped from the elevator in the Federal building.

"Hub?" returned H. N. Wadleigh, the elevator man.

"How much?" again asked the man as he pulled a large roll of bills from his pocket.

"What for?" Wadleigh inquired.

"Why, for the ride up to the third floor?" said the stranger.

Wadleigh thought he was being kidded, so replied: "Oh, I guess $1.50 will cover it."

The man reached in his pocket and got the amount.

"Say, where are you from that you have to pay for elevator service?" the elevator pilot asked.

"My name is Carl John Joseph Aaron Peterson, and I have lived in South Dakota for ten years," he said. "My sister's child is going to be christened Carl John Joseph and I'm going to be there," came the detailed answer.

Praises Japanese Music.

The song which Japanese workmen sing when raising the roof tree of a new building ranks with the purest music in the world, according to Henry Eichhelm, a Boston composer, who is spending a year in Japan studying oriental music, says the New York Evening Post. He said in Tokyo: "The orientals have evolved by the process of elimination a perfect philosophy, a perfect art and a perfect music. If we could think as orientals think we would realize the absolute simplicity and perfection of their art life." As he goes about Japan he takes notes on the primitive music of laborers and on the sound of temple bells, with their beautiful overtones, with the view of making them themes for his compositions.

"FIDDLE-FIT"

Keep Liver and Bowels
Clean and Active with "Cascarets"

Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, sour, gassy stomach—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed fermenting food in the bowels.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will have you feeling clear, rosy and as fit as a fiddle by morning. They work while you sleep.—Adv.

WANTED TO SEE THAT PIG

"Animal" Had a Strange Fascination for the Thirsty Easterners of a Century Ago.

The present prohibition law is much more stringent than was the dry law of Massachusetts of 100 years ago, when the "Striped Pig" gained its fame. At that time the law read that liquor could not be secured, save in 15-gallon lots. That gave the "pig" its chance.

An enterprising resident attended the military muster on the Readville fair grounds, and established a side show. A banner before the tent flouted the likeness of a red and black pig, which, a sign said, could be seen for four pence. Many men went in to see the strange animal, and returned many times. As the law did not prohibit the exhibitor from giving away liquor he gave each patron a generous glass of the forbidden drink from a large stock he had laid in. The "Striped Pig" became famous over night. Songs were written about the animal, a beverage was named after it, and a burlesque play in New York adopted the absurd title.

Origin of "Tommy."

The English Tommy is no stranger. The custom was in England at one time to supply every British soldier with a small pocket manual. In it were entered the name, age, date of enlistment, the length of service, the wounds and the medals of honor of the individual soldier.

The war office in sending out forms for information used the hypothetical name "Tommy Atkins," just as we might have said "John Smith" in America. In this way "Tommy Atkins" came to designate the English soldier. It happened in the same way that "Jack Tar" came to designate any British sailor.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Cabinet Takes Over Rule of Nation Pending Recovery of the President.

HIS ILLNESS NOT REVEALED

Doings of the Industrial Conference—Army is Not After "Reds"—League of Nations Comes Into Being—Anti-Bolshevik Armies Closing In on Soviet Russia.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Because of the certainty that the resumption of his official duties by President Wilson will be long delayed, the cabinet has taken matters into its own hands and is virtually running the government. For the first time since Mr. Wilson became the chief magistrate, it is performing the functions allotted to it by the Constitution. Each member of the cabinet is handling all executive matters within its jurisdiction, and all other questions that come up are passed on by the full cabinet. The most important decisions are submitted to Mr. Wilson for his approval, through Admiral Grayson.

Specifically, the industrial and economic situation which has been brought to a crisis by the steel strike is being handled by Secretary Baker. Secretary of Labor Wilson is looking after the threatened coal miners' strike, and Secretary of Agriculture Houston is doing what he can to avert the sugar famine.

The president's physicians and everybody at the White House have combined to keep from the public the real character of his illness. Admiral Grayson told the cabinet what it is, but pledged it to secrecy. All the people are permitted to know is contained in the official bulletins, which report Mr. Wilson's continued improvement, with occasional slight setbacks such as headache, and restlessness due to swelling of the prostate gland. The story that he had a lesion of the brain has been vigorously though unofficially denied, but it is admitted that his complete recovery is contingent on keeping him absolutely at rest in mind and body. The truth appears to be that he has had no cerebral attack but is suffering from a general nervous and physical breakdown.

Apparently irreconcilable differences between the several groups are cropping out in the industrial conference, as might have been expected. In the first place, Mr. Gompers, as head of the labor group insisted that the conference should arrange for arbitration of the steel strike. His resolution was doomed to defeat, and the vote was deferred by order of the conference until the steering committee should bring in its report on collective bargaining. This also was a matter on which agreement seemed almost impossible, for labor insists on the right of workers to bargain through the unions and to pick its representatives from outside the plant or industry if it wishes; while capital declares the employer should be required to deal only with committees of his own employees. Furthermore, capital says the plant must be recognized as the unit, while labor demands that the industry be recognized as the unit. In these questions it seems that capital has the support of a considerable part of the public group.

The farmers' representatives, who are classed among the capitalists, presented a statement of principles in which these demands of the agriculturists are set forth:

1. Such returns as will fairly compensate them for their capital invested, their technical skill, their managerial ability, and their manual labor.
2. That they and their families have social, educational, and political opportunities equal to those engaged in other industries.

Attorney General Palmer has been attacked in congress for his apparent laxity in dealing with the "red" menace in the United States, but if the department of justice is not doing all it might in this respect—and it may be—the army is certainly active and achieving excellent results. This is especially true of the central department under General Wood, which has to deal with one of the worst regions, that including Gary, South Chicago and the surrounding towns. Repeated raids have been made on the radicals there, great quantities of their propaganda material have been seized and some of the ringleaders arrested and held, presumably for deportation, since they are mostly unnaturalized foreigners.

The steel companies claimed steady improvement in conditions, from their standpoint, though the strikers asserted most of the returning workers were unskilled. Allen steel men in large numbers are engaging steamship passage back to Europe.

Despite their wartime agreement to work at the present scale until peace is officially declared or until March 31, 1920, the soft-coal miners of the country, about 600,000 in number, have been ordered out on strike on November 1. Secretary of Labor Wilson took immediate steps to avert the strike, and at last reports was hopeful of success. The miners demand a five-day week, a six-hour day and a general wage increase of 50 per cent. The miners now receive $9 to $10 a day and the mine laborers $5.

The strike of the longshoremen, followed by that of the teamsters and chauffeurs, in New York threatened the metropolis with a serious food shortage, for shipments were left to rot on the docks. The collapse of the strike was foreshadowed by the vote of several of the local unions to return to work, and the firm stand taken by the railway administration in dealing with the express company employees.

The League of Nations came into being on October 13, Great Britain, France and Italy having ratified the treaty. Steps were taken at once looking to its regular organization, and goodness knows there is enough for it to do.

The United States is still outside the league and the contest in the senate continues unabated. Considerable time and much vehement language were devoted last week to debating the proposed Shantung amendment. As we expected, it was voted down, but almost every senator who spoke in opposition to it, said he favored a reservation on the same lines. Senator Shields of Tennessee, Democrat, declared himself in favor of the Lodge reservations and the Johnson amendment giving the United States as many votes in the league as Great Britain. The administration forces let it be known on Wednesday that they were determined to vote for rejection of the treaty with the Lodge reservations, and the opposition at once prepared to retaliate with a resolution declaring the war at an end and restoring the status of peace.

The senate allies are disturbed over the American situation because the many commissions provided for in the treaty must be organized very soon. The formal exchange of ratifications of the treaty which will put it into effect was delayed by the allies in consequence.

One of the big jobs of the League of Nations will be to settle affairs in the Baltic states. Though General von der Goltz submitted to his government and resigned, a large part of his army remained in Courland and, with a force of Russians, has been making a determined attack on Riga. The Letts rallied to the defense of the city and were aided, according to report, by a British fleet. The most recent dispatches at this writing say the Russo-German forces were being slowly forced back. The Poles took part in the scrap, attacking the Germans in the rear, capturing Kovno and threatening the German lines of communication.

At the same time the anti-bolshevik armies in Russia were steadily crushing the life out of the soviet government. Denikine kept up his advance on Moscow, capturing Orel and other important points. The army of the northwest under Yudenitch took Luga and pressed on toward Petrograd, whose fall was imminent. This army, it was said, was working in close understanding with Admiral Kolchak whose Siberian troops were pushing the bolshevik back to the European border. These three commanders have rejected all overtures from Germany, maintaining their connection with the allies.

An official dispatch from Archangel said the North Russian forces were pursuing the bolshevik in the direction of Onega after occupying their fortified positions along the railroad, capturing guns and prisoners and destroying an armored train. In fact, they seem to be doing very well without the help of the British and American troops that were withdrawn.

Meanwhile the British fleet in the Baltic was very busy. The supreme council having declared a blockade of all Russian bolshevik ports, a number of German vessels were seized. Then the British warships moved on Kronstadt. After a severe bombardment it was evacuated by the bolshevik and the fleet entered the harbor. All neutral nations have been asked to join in the blockade of bolshevik Russia.

Lieutenant D'Annunzio seems to have adopted a more yielding attitude in regard to Fiume, which he still holds. He has sent to Premier Clemenceau an appeal to take the initiative in obtaining from the allied governments a Declaration making Fiume an open port. The present Italian plan contemplates an independent buffer state at Fiume with the extension of Italian control over the strip of coast from Fiume to Trieste so the new state shall abut on Italian territory on that side and not be surrounded by Jugo-Slavia influence. The danger of war over this problem is fading. D'Annunzio sent word to Paris that he had drafted a manifesto urging both Serbs and Italians to recognize mutual national rights and to "maintain the bonds of brotherhood which have been sealed by blood."

Prices of food throughout the United States have fallen almost 25 per cent, according to Attorney General Palmer. But housewives, also throughout the United States, are asking why, if this is true, they are forced to pay as much as ever or more when they visit the retail dealer.

The cost of leather and of footwear has dropped 20 per cent since the middle of August, says the president of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association. But the consumer is still paying exorbitant prices for his shoes, and the association president explains that the shoes now being manufactured at reduced cost will not be marketed before next April.

The tremendous hubbub about reducing the cost of living and punishing the profiteer has dwindled until it can scarcely be heard with the aid of a microphone.

MAN-MADE SUITS

Garments Modeled by Male Tailors in Greater Demand.

Work Regarded Superior to That of Women, Due to Certain Knack for the Work.

"This costume is the style you want, madame, but it is considerably more expensive than the one at which you have been looking," said an assistant at a big shop. "Oh, yes, the material is the same, but the cut of it is much better, and it is man-tailored throughout."

It sounded as if the last part of the sentence ought to be sufficient to explain everything, and there is no getting away from the fact that garments which are "man-tailored" have a great superiority in appearance over women's tailoring work—and, of course, are much more expensive.

It is not a matter of sex prejudice or imagination, for there are few trades which are so fully open to women as various branches of tailoring. Rather is the superiority due to the greater physical strength of men and a certain knack for the work which is natural to some men.

"Tailoring is not exactly a trade which anybody can learn," was the opinion of a leading tailor. "High-class tailoring is a real art, and some men are born for it in the same way that others are born to paint great pictures. Very often the tailor's gift is hereditary from father to son."

"There are three main reasons why women tailors are inferior to men in the work which they turn out. Women have not sufficient physical strength to do the heavy pressing which makes or mars a garment; they cannot approach men where 'cutting' is concerned, and the general finish of women's work is not so good as that of men—in total effect rather than detail."

"Until comparatively recent years tailoring was purely a man's trade, but now there are scores of women engaged upon it. The bulk of wholesale work, consisting of average price men's suits and women's costumes, is done by women, so far as the actual making is concerned. The cutting of such garments is usually done by machine."

"Certainly the superiority of the 'man tailored' suit or costume is not a fallacy. Women can do excellent work, but they are not such good tailors as men in the results they achieve. Their work is less definite. Moreover, it is a certainty that if you took a tailoring expert into a mixed crowd of men and women he would unerringly select which garments had been 'man tailored' and which were women's work."

FALL MOTOR COATS OF LINEN

Natural Colored Material Best for Traveling—Does Not Show Dust and Soil Marks.

With the return of linen to sartorial uses, very smart linen tailored wear of all sorts is appearing. Especially good looking are some well cut linen motor coats for fall wear.

When one goes somewhere by automobile on a dusty day one of these light dustcoats will be far more comfortable over a dainty frock than the new motor coat, which will almost certainly prove warm on such a day.

Linen coats are shown also for autumn traveling and their smart style attracts women of fastidious taste. And the fresh, indescribable smell of them makes one recall long past childhood days when one started somewhere on a journey and wore one's new linen duster. A coat of genuine linen will not crumple up and look soggy in rainy weather; it is cool on a hot day and gives considerable warmth on a damp, chilly day. The natural linen color is best for motor-ing and traveling since this color does not show traces of dust and seems to be immune from soil marks.

FASHIONGRAMS

Mouffon sport hats are popular. Many of them are lined with velvet.

Kollinsky and caracul lead in furs this year. Squirrel and mole come a close second.

Dragonfly blue is a color that is seen much in combination with the new fall colors.

A remarkable gown recently displayed was a black satin, embroidered in peacock shade.

Metals are stressed by every one—be they metals in cloth, brocades, net, lace or embroidery.

A divotyn coat features green, red and orange yarn embroidery. The coat itself was of cordovan color.

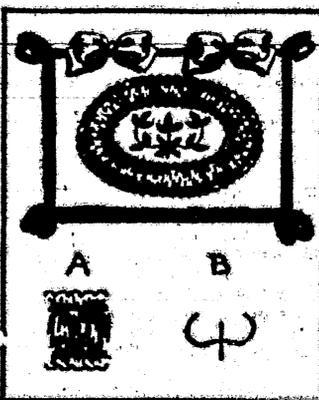

A smart blouse which recently had an awe-struck audience about its place of display was a terra cotta satin one cut above the hips back and front with long panels to the knees at the sides.

There are many departures from the smart ecruque overblouse. One of the newest and most attractive is a blouse which extends long waisted below a girdle and has a bouffancy at the hips either of lace or of gathered fabric.

Old Kid Gloves.

You can cut up old kid gloves and use them for any of the following purposes: Doll or baby shoes, pillow covers, little traveling case articles or novelty belts.

To Make Nightdress Sachet

New and Dainty Nightdress Sachet.

This dainty nightdress sachet is a novel style, and can quite easily be carried out from our illustration. It is made of soft white silk, and edged with a pale pink silk cord, which is arranged in two little loops at each corner. The opening is at the top and ties together with pale pink ribbon strings. In the center in front there is an oval ruche of pale pink silk, with a piping upon each side, and pinked out at the edges.

Diagram A of the illustration shows the way in which the silk should be prepared, and it is sewn in its place after the manner of applique work. Within the oval a pretty little floral design is embroidered in various shades of pale green. Diagram B gives the way in which the material should be marked out prior to working the design.

The case is lined with thin soft white silk, and has an interlining composed of sheets of cotton-wool, cut to fit and well sprinkled with some sweet-smelling sachet powder.

A pretty handkerchief sachet, or one for gloves can be made on exactly the same lines, but of course in a different shape and size.

Favors Early Publicity For Presidential Aspirants

(Republican Publicity Association)
Washington, Oct. 30. — The Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., today gave out the following statement from its Washington Headquarters:

"Although the Republican Publicity Association takes no part in the nomination of candidates and gives no special attention to conventions or elections, it appreciates the desirability of securing early and widespread publicity of the views upon public questions of all men who are active or tentative candidates for presidential nomination. In a republic such as ours, where the voters express themselves directly at the polls, either by marking ballots bearing the names of individual candidates or the names of delegates to the conventions pledged the support of certain candidates, there can be no intelligent expression of public opinion unless the voters of the party thoroughly understand the principles and policies which the candidates support.

The Republican Publicity Association is firmly convinced that the welfare of the country will be promoted by early dissemination of the opinions held by presidential aspirants and a frank and friendly discussion of the same, pro and con, in order that those who shall be nominated shall be thoroughly representative of the deliberate judgment of the majority of the members of the party. Truly representative government will be promoted by a frank and complete statement of political principles before a candidate is nominated. Open covenants openly arrived at is a principle that may well be followed in framing a covenant between a proposed public servant and the public whom he is to serve.

"For these reasons, the Republican Publicity Association commends the political innovation inaugurated before Senator Poindexter in announcing eight months before the National Convention his candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination, accompanied by a frank and exhaustive statement of his political views. We believe that Senator Poindexter is to be congratulated upon his courage, frankness, and thorough Americanism in an able and modest presentation of his views upon pending political questions. We hope that others will follow the same policy, and the Republican Publicity Association will undertake to give as wide distribution as practicable to such statements of principles as may be announced by any who become active candidates, or whose nomination may be actively urged by others."

FOR SUCCESS IN WINTERING BEES

Some of Best Apiarists Place Honey Gatherers in Cellars or Special Repositories.

ALL HIVES ARE PROTECTED

Provide Abundance of Stores of Good Quality and Shelter From Wind and Cold—Of Great Importance to Have Good Queen.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Bees in the more-northern parts of the United States for many years have been placed by some of the best beekeepers in cellars or special repositories during the coldest parts of the winter. There has been a growing feeling, however, that if outdoor wintering is practicable, in most cases it gives better results, and there has been a decided change from cellar wintering to outdoor wintering within the past decade. The difficulty seems to be that the methods of cellar wintering practiced have not been satisfactory and it seems probable that if as much attention had been given to the perfection of the methods of cellar wintering as has been given to an improvement of the methods of outdoor wintering, there would not have been as great a change to the outdoor methods as has taken place.

The placing of bees in a cellar is only another way of putting insulation about the hives, the only difference being that in the cellar all of the hives are protected alike and the protection is placed about the apiary instead of around hives in groups or singly. It follows that the principles which apply to successful outdoor wintering apply equally to the protection of the bees in the cellar.

Essentials to Success.

As in the case of outdoor wintering, the essentials to success in caring for a normal colony of bees from the end of one season's honey flow to the beginning of the next lie in providing three things in abundance: (1) Stores of good quality, (2) protection from wind and cold, and (3) room for the rearing of brood at appropriate times. These factors must not be lacking at the right times, and if any one is omitted it may prevent the bees from gathering the crop of the following season. These three factors do not apply equally throughout the period of relative inactivity, but as certainly as anyone of them is decreased, just so certainly will next year's crop be reduced.

In practicing cellar wintering it is unnecessary to leave so much honey with the bees during the time that they are in the cellar, and it is not necessary during that period to leave room for the rearing of brood. During the coldest part of the winter the bees need especially protection from cold and wind, although enough good stores must be in the hive to keep them through that period in good condition. Probably a large part of the failure of beekeepers in practicing cellar wintering comes from the fact that before and after the bees are in the cellar the important factors of stores and breeding room have not been adequately supplied. Before the bees are put into the cellar they must have room for breeding and stores in abundance, and after they are taken out these two factors must be present in greatly increased abundance.

Necessity of Strong Colonies.

As in the case of wintering outdoors, it is wasteful to attempt to winter weak colonies. It is difficult to set standards of colony strength at this season, but it is unwise to attempt to winter colonies that are not strong enough to have brood sufficient to fill three or four Langstroth frames two months before the first killing frost. If the colonies in the apiary are not of the proper strength, it is wise to unite until the proper strength is reached.

It is of the greatest importance that every colony have a good queen in order that brood rearing may continue in the fall and may then again proceed rapidly in the spring. Usually it is best to requeen at least every two years, but if good wintering is practiced the colonies will come out of winter quarters so strong and will build up so rapidly in the spring that the queens will soon wear out, making it safer to requeen every year. To get the best results from requeening, all young queens should be introduced so that they begin to lay about two months before the first killing frost.

POSSIBLE TO DOUBLE PRODUCTION OF COWS

Success of Dairymen Due Greatly to Quality of Animals.

Farmer Should Eliminate Low Producers From Herd and Feed Remainder According to Production—Adds to Profits.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dairymen in the United States are divided into three classes—those who ultimately fail and abandon the business; those who eke out a limited existence, and those who succeed. Invariably, the success of the progressive dairyman is principally due to the quality of his cows. He climbs to freedom from financial worry on the backs of big producers.

It is impossible for the average dairy cow of the United States even to approach the remarkable production record of Duchess Skylark Ormsby, who produced in a year 1,205.00 pounds of butterfat, equivalent to three-fourths of a ton of butter. But it is possible for dairymen, the country over, to double the present production of their herds. To increase the production of the average dairy cow from 100 to 320 pounds of butterfat a year would not be difficult, according to dairy experts, and would increase net profits out of proportion to production costs.

This should be the aim of every progressive dairy farmer. He should eliminate the low producers from his herd and feed the remainder according to known production. He should improve the foundation stock with the idea of making the daughters yield as much more milk than their dams as possible. This practice in a few generations would greatly increase production, decrease the cost of feed and add much to the profit and pleasures of dairy farming.

Stork Welcomed in Holland.

A stork is treated with great respect in Holland. The house selected by the stork for a resting place is considered fortunate, and special facilities are provided by the householders to enable it to build a nest comfortably. At The Hague many of these birds are maintained at public expense.

The Correct Word.

"Old Brown won't live long; he has one foot in the grave already."
"You mean one foot in the grave."
"No—he's going to be cremated."

BOYS BOOST PUREBRED PIGS

Increase in Number of Breeders in Indiana County Credited Largely to Club Influence.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The increase in the number of breeders of purebred animals in Clay county, Ind., is largely credited to the influence of the local pig club. Two years ago there were less than ten breeders of purebred hogs in the county, but at present registered hogs can be found on more than 100 farms. The boy and girl members of the club are the pioneers in the keeping of purebred hogs. Recently ten big-type Poland China gilts, of excellent quality and valued at $50 each, were issued to the members of the club by the local county agent.

Not Had Fair Chance.

The dewberry has not had a fair chance on many farms. It has been considered only as a wild plant with little thought as to what it would do under cultivation.

DOESN'T STIMULATE GROWTH

Admonition Frequently Heard From Authorities Is Not to Feed Pigs Too Much Corn.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Do not feed pigs too much corn while they are young. This is an admonition we frequently hear from authorities on pig raising. Here is the reason why: Corn is a fat-producing feed and does not stimulate growth. What is needed is a protein feed; that is, one which ranks high in protein. Protein makes muscle and stimulates growth. Tankage will do very well, but often it is impossible to secure it.

Moss in Pastures.

Pastures that have moss in them do but little good; sometimes the hogs do them a lasting good by rooting them up and down; the cultivation and aeration stimulates them.

Select Seed Corn.

It is urged on farmers not only to select seed corn early and to take the best care of it; but to put away enough for two years' planting.

RESCUE OF STARVING MEXICAN GOATS

The island of Guadalupe, off the western Mexico coast, is inhabited by goats only—some 50,000 of them. This year they are starving, owing to lack of rain there, and many of them are being shipped to the foothill ranches of southern California. A cargo of these goats is here shown arriving at San Diego.

The Earth Will Tremble

There will be an event staged in the near future at the Boone ranch about two miles from Capitan that will long be remembered by those who attend. Joe Stratton and Ed Harris will manage the affair and Brown & Dalton will furnish the music—providing there are plenty of refreshments in sight. The following named gentlemen have been appointed to assist in entertaining the crowd that will surely come:

Al. Hightower, Guy Warden, Ed and Harry Comrey, George Murray and Smith Brothers. Good old fashioned cow boy dancing will be the order of the evening, supervised by M. M. Duke, and prizes will be awarded to the best "prancers". This event, the promoters say, will have the circus and carnival "skinned a mile."

RELIEF SHIP HELD UP BY ARCTIC ICE

Attempt to Reach Mission in Northernmost Alaska Again Fails.

REACH WITHIN 69 MILES

Dr. Marquis Brings Back Piteful Tales of the Havoc Wrought by Influenza—Whole Villages Are Wiped Out.

Newport.—Turned back by an impenetrable ice-field within 69 miles of his goal, Dr. John A. Marquis, general secretary of the board of home missions of the Presbyterian church of the United States, was forced to return to New York without reaching his destination at Point Barrow, Alaska, the northernmost mission in the world operated by the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Marquis left New York June 23 and sailed from Seattle July 7 to Nome, where he boarded the United States coast guard service steamer Bear, to reach Point Barrow, but for the second time within two years this doughty little craft with its hardy crew was unable to buck the terrific ice jam of the arctic. For eight days the sturdy boat battled, but finally on August 15 it was forced to turn back. The supplies for Point Barrow were unloaded at Point Hope, 350 miles south of that town. From here it is expected that sledges will be able to carry some of them to the needy people at Point Barrow.

"Last year," says Dr. Marquis, "the Bear was able to get within 25 miles of Point Barrow, but the steady winds this year had forced the ice masses down farther south than they had been for years.

"Massive fields of ice were reached when we were at latitude 70 1/2 degrees, Captain P. H. Uberroth, U. S. N., in charge of the Bear, declared the ice was the worst known since 1820."

Dr. Marquis went to Alaska to see about the appeal from the people there for the erection of a hospital at Point Barrow and also to study the opportunities for Presbyterian mission and school work generally in Alaska, particularly since the influenza epidemic last year wrought such havoc. He returns with interesting stories of the work and with pitiful tales of the terrible havoc wrought by the "flu," which in some sections wiped out whole villages.

On leaving Seattle July 7, Dr. Marquis took passage to the Aleutian islands and thence to Nome. At Nome passage was taken on the Bear and for six weeks Dr. Marquis was on this government vessel. From Nome Dr. Marquis went to St. Lawrence islands and thence to Siberia. Leaving Siberia, the next stop was at the Diamede islands, and then to Cape Prince of Wales, the westernmost point of the American continent, about four hours west of Seattle.

Upon this trip the vessel's coal supply ran low and the Bear had to put back from Cape Prince of Wales to Nome for re-coaling. Leaving Nome the vessel began its journey to Point Barrow. Kotzebue sound was entered and stop was made at the village, where the Society of Friends had excellent missions, and then the Bear went north to Kivalina, where no mission fields are established, but which a few missionaries visit at intervals. From this point Dr. Marquis went to Point Hope, which until recently was one of the most famous whaling stations in the arctic regions. From there the great but futile attempt northward was made toward Point Barrow.

Dr. Marquis on his return trip gave special study to the conditions as left by the influenza epidemic. As a result he brings back with him pitiful stories of the terrible ravages wrought by this epidemic among the Eskimos.

In Nome alone, says Dr. Marquis, over 50 per cent of the Eskimo population was wiped out almost overnight, and in other sections of the country whole villages of igloos were swept away. In one town of 300 only thirteen adults were left alive, and small villages of twenty igloos or so with all inhabitants frozen stiff. In one case one little girl and a baby were found alive in a village. This child had kept herself from freezing to death by remaining wrapped up in bed with the baby beside her. The condensed milk which sustained her life she also took to bed with her. There had been no fire in the villages for days and the temperature was 50 degrees below zero.

According to Dr. Marquis, the Eskimos showed practically no resistance to influenza and went down almost without a fight. Among the foreigners the mortality was about the same as in similar communities in the United States.

SUGAR FROM AIR, LIGHT AND WATER

New York.—During the present agitation over the high cost of living it is interesting to note several recent discoveries made in the field of synthetic chemistry. Dr. Winthrop John Vanleuven Osterhout, Ph. D., professor of botany at Harvard university, has hit upon a plan of making nutritious food from sunlight, air and water.

Although this process of food making is as yet confined to the laboratory stage Prof. Osterhout points out that many discoveries remained some time in the laboratory stage before they could be placed on a commercial basis. As an instance he cites the many doubters of the practical value of electricity, and the long uphill road Edison had to travel before he gained recognition commercially.

Ancient the production of nutritious food in the laboratory Prof. Osterhout, who is in no sense a visionary, but whose manner would indicate a practical hardheaded business man, says: "Analyzing food we learn that the three chief components are sugar, fats and protein. Until recently it was impossible to manufacture sugar synthetically, but now we have solved the riddle in several different ways. Iron rust exposed to the prismatic rays of the sun through water makes formaldehyde, since the rays of the sun acting upon the rust as a contact agent, mixed with the carbon dioxide of the air and water makes this powerful chemical. From formaldehyde certain forms of sugar may be obtained. Other ways of making sugar synthetically are through the employment of ultra-violet rays, radium and electricity.

"Part of our research work at Harvard's botanical laboratory has been to observe the process by which the plant transforms the carbon dioxide gas and water together into sugar, and later into starch, either of which forms can be preserved.

"So much for obtaining sugar. Protein is composed of amino acids. It has been found possible in the laboratory to take the carbon-dioxide of the air, water and ammonia, which is also found in the air in small quantities, to form a simple kind of protein. Now through the combination of sugar and protein, both of which have been manufactured in the laboratory, the necessary fat is obtained, with the resultant nutritious food.

The Great Obstacle.
"Of course one of the greatest obstacles standing in the way of the production of food through this method is in the present cost of making sugar, which can only be manufactured as yet in small quantities. Our greatest competitor in this important field is the plant itself, which thus far under-sells the synthetic method."

Prof. Osterhout, who has taught at many of the large universities throughout the United States, and has attained an international reputation as a man of science, is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. In addition to many other scientific and research societies he has been a professor of botany since 1913.

ROAD BUILT OF EPSOM SALTS

Texas to Have Unique Highway Ten Miles Long, Say State Highway Officials.

Austin, Tex.—A road of epsom salts is an attraction Texas can soon hold out to tourists, according to the state highway department.

Ten miles of highway out of Rockport is being surfaced with a material which analyzes more than one-fourth epsom salts. The material is obtained from salts where constant evaporation of salt water has left salt strongly impregnated with salts, among which the epsom variety predominates.

Highway engineers declare the mixture forms an excellent road surfacing material, as the salts absorb enough moisture from the air to keep the roads damp, free from dust and firm on the driest days. One trouble, however, is that the road becomes very slippery during wet weather, but this is overcome by adding a small proportion of shell and regulating the slope of the surface.

GERMANS ARE AFTER TRADE

Workmen Labor 14 Hours a Day to Be Ready.

London Merchant Finds Empire Is Non-cooperating Foes of All Nations.

London.—"Germany is out again to beat the world," said the senior member of a city firm.

"I have just returned from a visit to one commercial connections in Switzerland. I met there the chairman of an important firm of machine manufacturers. He was obviously a German, with his square head and bad French, and for once I pretended to be pro-German, and spoke with him in his own language.

"He let the cat out of the bag. All the labor in the Schwarzwald and in South Germany, where the allies have no representatives, he told me, has returned to recognize the eight-hour day.

"The men are working furiously, without pressure of any sort, up to fourteen hours a day to be ready to enter the world's markets again at the first opportunity.

"This German chairman of a Swiss concern simply chuckled with glee when he said: 'Our good German workmen know their hands. They do not want this easy day of eight hours; they want wealth, and they will have it.'

"Germany is recuperating after the war faster than any other nation. Simply because, instead of giving way to the reaction of peace and demanding the impossible by means of strikes, she is working as hard as human strength and brain allow to regain her old commercial position and again be the pre-war Germany.

Germany is out to provide the cheapest world market, and our eight-hour industrial day will spell disaster for us if we do not wake up."

NO LONGER MISTRESS OF SEAS

Great Britain's Supremacy Passing Into New Hands, Says Naval Expert.

In Great Britain fear is being felt that the trident of the ocean is passing into new hands. This at least is the note sounded by Archibald Hurd, the naval expert, writing in the London Daily Telegraph.

"It is an arresting fact," he says, "that, judged by the strength of its battle squadrons in active commission, this country's supremacy has at least temporarily passed away.

"The United States has now in commission 31 battleships, and Washington plans to have 20 next year, the reduction in number being balanced by the increased power of some of the ships now approaching completion.

"We have in a similar state of readiness 22 battleships and five cruisers, and, in accordance with the order published with reference to reduction to a reserve basis, our instantly ready battle force will fall at an early date to 16 ships, 10 of them forming the Atlantic fleet and the other six cruising in the Mediterranean. It may be somewhat of an affront to our national pride that we should have reached this secondary position at sea."

Mr. Hurd consoles himself with the reflection that the British admiralty is saving money.

Electro-Therapeutical Brush.
A novel electro-therapeutical brush, instead of being connected to the usual battery, carries its own tiny generator. This generally supplies an infinitesimally small current of 50 to 200 volts, and is operated through a chain of gears by working a little lever placed beside the handle of the brush.

WOULD BE FRIEND IN NEED

Grateful Colored Man Promised to Go if Services Should Be Needed.

"The race riots in Chicago remind me of the same sort of excitement that ran around Atlanta when I was living there as a young man," said George McDaniel of Metro, Cal., recently.

"My brother and I were both medical owners of smooth and virgin sheepskins. We shared the same office and lunched at the same counter.

In the midst of wild confusion, one day, a wounded negro rushed into our office and begged for protection. This was freely granted, for we had no race prejudices, in spite of our Southern upbringing. We also poured salt on the negro's bruises.

"Yo' shunn been good to me," said the grateful darkey, turning to my brother—who, by the way, is now practicing in Los Angeles—"an' I'll member it, doc. Say, if yo' ever kills anybody mah friends and, I'll get you out if we have to bust the jail to do it."—Los Angeles Times.

"Why are you so prejudiced against Bertie?"

"He was a snicker during the war," said the discharged doughboy.

"It's true that he didn't go to France, but he claims he kept the home fires burning."

"So he did, the lounge lizard! He kept 'em burning under a chafing dish presided over by the girl I left behind me!"

Fairies, Elephants 'N Everything

The Al. G. Barnes big four-ring wild animal circus will be soon at Carrizozo. The show is touring this way and is scheduled to spread its great canvas here November 5.

Every wagon, car and calliope received much gold leaf and silver, together with gallons of the brightest high quality paints. An entire new wardrobe of rich laces, silks, satins, velvets and tons of jewels were made. The show, which is primarily an animal exhibit, will have many new animals and more thrilling acts.

As an opening feature a fairyland fantasy is presented, "Alice in Wonderland." Barnes has taken Lewis Carroll's character of Alice from Wonderland and transported her into the realistic realms of his jungland. The arenic setting represents a park in which is a rustic bench. Alice falls asleep on the bench; fairies appear, waving their wands, whereupon a king in regal splendor arrives as if by magic. He, wishing to impress Alice, orders his royal jungle to come forth. Then begins a pageant of wondrous beauty. Queens, kings, rajahs, pashas with their royal equipage, elephants with their mahouts in typical jungle outfitings, caravans of camels, herds of zebras, droves of llamas, hundreds of ponies and den upon den of wild beasts are in the procession. Following the pageant, arenas and sawdust circles become a jungle joy as almost every species of wild and domestic beasts perform some circus feat. Beautiful girls and handsome men put the animals through their work and many bands furnish the music.

Forty human clowns and hundreds of animal clowns with a brand new bunch of laughs will be there. Bill Taft, well known for his original newspaper clown stunt—Alfred Powell, the female impersonating clown whose curiosity is his—or her—undoing. Al Crooks, with his giraffe that never took a drink and his whiskey mule and a retinue of assistants, are the human fun makers. Monkeys, bears, elephants, in fact almost every species of animals have one or more names among them who cut capers in the quality is determined according to the size of their bump of humor. There will be a parade of unusual beauty at 10:30 a. m. Doors open 1 p. m. and 7 p. m.

SAYS KAISER IGNORED U. S.

BERNSTORFF TESTIFIES BEFORE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE IN BERLIN.

U. S. NOT CONSIDERED

TELEGRAM TO BERNSTORFF IS READ AND CAUSES GREAT SENSATION.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—President Wilson's peace offer was a matter of little concern to the German emperor, according to the evidence presented before the subcommittee investigating the war.

The incident caused a sensation, and occurred during the examination of Count von Bernstorff, former ambassador in Washington.

The Socialist deputy, Dr. Sinsheimer, turned toward Von Bernstorff and said:

"The Kaiser's telegram to which you refer, dated Jan. 16, 1917, and addressed to Herr Zimmermann (foreign secretary) says literally 'his majesty instructs me to thank you for your communication. His majesty does not care a bit about President Wilson's offer. If a breach with America cannot be prevented, it cannot be helped. Events are developing.'"

There was much excitement at the hearing when the message was read. Dr. Karl Helfferich, former vice chancery, whispered "nonsense!"

Under cross-examination, Von Bernstorff quoted the German emperor and General Ludendorff on his (Bernstorff's) return from Washington. The emperor said Von Bernstorff had failed on two points—first, in attacking the British to confiscate the trunk with a Swedish diplomat's papers thought to contain his Mexican telegrams, and, second, by permitting the United States to send James W. Gerard to Germany as ambassador.

Ludendorff accused him of attempting to make peace by agitating against the submarine warfare, and declared that the U-boat war would bring peace in three months. He then told the former ambassador that President Wilson's peace proposal could not pass the Reichstag; it would be championed only by the Socialists, adding that a "rotten peace" was impossible. Replying to another question, the former ambassador said:

"Without America's help the entente could not have vanquished Germany. If we succeeded in preventing war with America a peace of understanding would at least have been possible."

Japs Strengthen Frontier.

Seoul, Korea.—An official report received at the Japanese army headquarters says that a large number of Koreans from the northern frontier districts threaten to invade Korea by crossing the river Tumeungang. The army authorities are preparing to march about ten battalions of troops from Yongsaid to strengthen the frontier guard.

Wants Home Guard Armed.

Washington.—A bill authorizing the War Department to issue rifles, pistols and machine guns to the states for home guard defense has been introduced by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, who said the legislation was designed as part of a plan to protect communities against violence by radical elements.

Police Wound Two.

Youngstown, Ohio.—One man was fatally wounded and another seriously injured when police broke up two alleged attempts at arson by striking steel workers here. A group of striking Serbians and Italians held a secret meeting in Brier hall and decided, it is alleged, to burn the houses of several men who continued to work. Learning of the plan, police lay in wait for the strikers. Three Serbians were set fire to one house before they had caught and a group of three Italians was surprised attempting to fire two houses.

Ships Strike Mine.

Stockholm.—Three hundred and forty-six lives were lost when two Bolshevik destroyers in an attack on Estonian and British destroyers in the Gulf of Finland Tuesday struck mines and were sunk, according to an Estonian official communication. Four destroyers fitted for mine laying, the communication adds, left Kronstadt for the object of supporting a landing of troops.

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

It isn't age, it's careless living that puts men "down and out." Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit.

The kidneys are the most over-worked organs in the human body. When they break down under the strain and the deadly uric acid accumulates and crystallizes look out! These sharp crystals tear and scratch the delicate urinary channels causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and often do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

One of the first warnings of sluggish kidney action is pain or stiffness in the small of the back, loss of appetite, indigestion or rheumatism. Do not wait until the danger is upon you. At the first indication of trouble go after the cause at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haslem Oil Capsules, imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They will give almost immediate relief. If for any cause they should not, your money will be refunded. But be sure to get GOLD MEDAL. None other is genuine. In sealed boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

An Abuse.

Cornelius Vanderbilt said at a dinner party in New York: "A number of Fifth avenue firms have ceased to give free samples of dress materials to their lady patrons. 'It appears,' Mr. Vanderbilt added, 'that certain ultra-fashionable lady patrons would secure a free sample of dress material and make an evening gown of it.'"

Not "Romantic"

Little Susan's auntie writes love stories occasionally for magazines. The other day she did a mystery 'one and told the family about it. Little Susan passed the news on to her little friend. "Yes, it was a story all right," her mother heard her say, "but it wasn't a romantic one — not nearly so romantic as most she writes are."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE FRIGATE BIRDS.

"How-do-you-do, Golden Plummer," said Mr. Frigate Bird. "Can't you stop?" But the bird flew on for he had an engagement with his mate.

"Oh, well," said Mr. Frigate Bird, "I do not mind if he will not talk, for I have things to talk about. I heard the other day that there were insects who feel and who see and who smell things near at hand. We can do those things, too."

"But I also heard that different ones had different ways. I was told that and I was supposed to be surprised, but I know about insects, most certainly I do."

"I guess birds are pretty well up on the subject," said Mrs. Frigate Bird.

"On what subject?" asked Mr. Frigate Bird. "Do you mean, my love, up on the subject of air, up on the subject of clouds, or up on the subject of high branches of trees?"

"I mean none of those things," said Mrs. Frigate Bird, "though we are up on all of those, or in all of those very often. But I mean birds are pretty well up on the subject of insects."

"To be sure, to be sure," said Mr. Frigate Bird.

"It is the same way with people," said Mrs. Frigate Bird, "or that is, I suppose it is."

"What do you mean?" asked Mr. Frigate Bird.

"I mean that people know a great deal about food. When they come out into the vegetable garden they know what they want for dinner and what they want for supper, and they know when they go into the barnyard that they want eggs for breakfast."

"They know when they go a-marketing what they want. They know all sorts of things about the kinds of food which they eat."

"And so do we. Therefore, I say we are up on the subject of insects and bugs, and so are all birds. We know which ones taste well for breakfast, which we like best for dinner and which we do not eat for supper."

"What do you mean when you say there are kinds which we do not eat for supper?" asked Mr. Frigate Bird.

"I mean those which we especially love for supper, which we just like so much we can hardly tell how much, in fact, we do not eat them, do you see?"

"I understand," said Mr. Frigate Bird.

"I must say," continued Mrs. Frigate Bird, "that I care more for the insects which are good to eat and I care more for the fact that they are good to eat

"What Do You Mean?"

shan I do care what their family history may be."

"So do I," said Mr. Frigate Bird.

"I suppose it is the same way with children and with grownups," said Mrs. Frigate Bird.

"What a wise bird you are," said Mr. Frigate Bird proudly.

"Thank you for the compliment," said Mrs. Frigate Bird.

"We are very famous for something," said Mr. Frigate Bird.

"What?" asked Mrs. Frigate Bird.

"We can eat a thing while it is falling—that is, we can catch something which is dropping—go down and catch it while it is still falling, and so make it fall into our beaks."

"Ah, yes, we can do that," said Mrs. Frigate Bird. "Is that making us famous?"

"It has something to do with our fame," said Mr. Frigate Bird. "People think that is an interesting thing about us."

"I am glad they do," said Mrs. Frigate Bird. "But the interesting thing to me is that we actually eat the things and can taste them and enjoy them and swallow them and still have beautiful thoughts of our nicely-filled tummies."

"That, of course," said Mr. Frigate Bird, "is the most important thing. Still it is nice to be famous for something which gives us such great pleasure."

"That is nice," agreed Mrs. Frigate Bird.

NERVES GAVE OUT

Serious Kidney Trouble Had Made Life Miserable, But Doan's Removed All the Trouble. Haven't Suffered Since.

"I had such severe pains in my back," says Mrs. Albert Arkroyd, 304 W. Indiana Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., "that they almost doubled me up. Many a day I could not do my household work and at every move it seemed as if my back would break in two. My feet and ankles swelled until I had to wear large-sized slippers and sometimes I couldn't stand up."

"I had dizzy spells and dreadful headaches and fiery flashes passed before my eyes. Had a heavy weight been resting on my head, the pain could not have been more distressing. The least noise startled me, I was so nervous. I couldn't control the kidney secretions and the pain in passage was awful."

"It began to look as though my case was beyond the reach of medicine until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. The first box benefited me and four boxes cured all the troubles. I have had no further cause for complaint."

Doan's before me. Thos. H. Walters, Notary Public.

Col. Dan Morgan Smith, Commander of the 358th Infantry, known as the "Battalion of Death," will make a number of addresses in New Mexico. He will speak at Carrizozo in the Methodist Church Nov. 7 at 7:30. Col. Smith started in the drive of St. Mihiel with more than 1100 men. He came out with a few over 300. But his men were not given in vain, for the command won its Sobriquet, "Battalion of Death," because of the effectiveness of its assault on the Hun lines.

The speaker will tell his audiences of the war as he and his men saw it. He will recite incidents of the trenches, the march, the attack and the result of battle.

Col. Smith will tell his hearers how the soldiers stand on the question of prohibition, he will urge enforcement of the state and national dry laws; he will answer a lot of false statements put out by the wets. One of them will be that under prohibition churches will not be able to get sacramental wines.

World prohibition as the next step in temperance reform will be one of the principal subjects of his address. Col. Smith will have much to say about the program of the League for co-operating with temperance organizations in all lands to the end that all lands may be made dry. His address is free and all are invited to attend. His story is a thrilling one and Col. Smith is a brilliant speaker. Be sure to hear him.
