Republicans Prepare To Name Leader

Marshals of Strength in Support of Different Candidates Hold Tightening Reins on Influences That Will Make Final Showing When Turned Loose on Convention Vote.

Chicago, June 11.—The Republicans are at peace with no danger of a split over the league of nations proposition. The resolutions sub-committee agreed unanimously on the plank offered by Elihu Root which denounces Germany, and upholds the action of the majority in the Senate in refusing to ratify President Wilson's peace program. This meets with the approval of all, including Senator Hiram Johnson, who is suspected by some of watching for something to "kick" about.

Lowden's chances are being speculated on from different view points; the Governor has refused the support of the 21 votes of the Chicago delegation headed by Mayor Thompson, on account of the position that notable took during the late war alleged to have been to a marked degree against the government. Whether this action will rally patriotic forces from other sources to his support; or whether this will lessen his strength, will be decided when the final vote is called. At the present writing, it is impossible to venture a gamble on the outcome of things, other than to say that the next President of the United States will be nominated before noon on Saturday.

Oscuro Woman's Club

Mrs. M. L. Blaney assisted by Mrs. Nettie C. Funk, entertained the Oscuro Woman's Club at the Blaney home near Oscuro, Saturday. After the regular business session, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. E. Howser, President; Mrs. Nettie C. Funk, Vice President; Miss Julia Jones, Secretary-Treasurer.

After the regular meeting a pleasant social session followed at which refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The reports showed a marked increase in interest in affairs of the club and a bright outlook for the coming year. The meeting adjourned subject to a call from the President.

Notice of Second Teachers' Examinations

The second examination for Teachers' Certificates and Reading Circle Work will be held in the office of the County School Superintendent, Carrizozo, N. M., June 25, to 28, 1920.

Mrs. M. L. BLANEY, Co. School Supt.

New Council Meets

The Board of Trustees of the City Council met Monday night with Mayor Rolland in the chair and all members present except Councilman Taylor. Bills were read, approved and ordered paid amounting to $725.18, the larger portion of which was for the erection of the new street lights.

Wm. Brady was elected Town Marshal with an increase in salary to $50 per month. The marshal was instructed to engage teams to remove trash accumulated in the east part of town, and to have ordinances governing the dumping of trash published in the Carrizozo News and that the same be also published in the Carrizozo Outlook.

Dr. M. G. Paden was appointed City Health Officer; E. D. Boone was elected as City Treasurer; and the following committees were appointed by the mayor: Streets, alleys and Sanitation; F. E. Richard, Ben Lujan, Finance, Julian Taylor, S. L. Squier. Said committees to serve at a reasonable expense to the city.

The petition of O. Z. Finley to have light pole at the corner near the Baptist Church removed and swung above street was denied.

The town clerk was authorized to purchase and keep in reserve 24-100 Wt Daylight lamps to replace any that might become disabled.

The health officer was instructed to investigate places where cows are kept and to see that such places are kept strictly sanitary. The council adjourned.

Red Cross Representative Visits Carrizozo

Miss Wickert, Field Representative for the Rocky Mountain Division of American Red Cross, was here this week and accompanied by Mrs. J. B. French, Secretary of the Home Service Section, visited the different districts throughout the county. She left Wednesday on No. 4 for Estancia, where after a review of the work done in that section, she will return to the headquarters in Denver. Miss Wickert complimented Mrs. French on affairs of the Lincoln County Chapter in general.

Juvenile Birthday Party

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Harry Norman entertained the little friends of her daughter, Frances Louise, in honor of her 2nd birthday. The major portion of the afternoon was spent in games and amusements of different kinds, pleasing to the childish heart, during which time refreshments of fruit, candy, ice cream, and cake were served. Those present were: Lois Stadtman, Francis Charles, Kieth Stadtman, Maud Warden, Buck Simmons, Floyd Stadtman, Martha Warden, and Frances Louise Norman.

Don't forget the dance Saturday night—Ferguson's "Jazz Joy Makers", at K. P. Hall.

Automobiling, Outing; Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Sale and Miss Grace Jones left Wednesday for the Eagle Creek Club grounds to spend one month at east at the White Mountain paradise. Fish are biting good now, and the attraction is calling many of our people to the coolness of the mountain forests. Mr. Sale's cabin is finished and many more are under course of construction.

A fishing party composed of E. M. Brickley, sister Miss Ella Brickley, daughter Ruth and Miss Ula Edmiston left Saturday for a fishing trip on the Bonito. They were successful in landing some nice trout, and were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Reddy.

W. G. Robertson, of the Helen Rae Gold Mines at Nogal, came in last week from a stay of several months in Scranton, Pa., where he has been attending to matters of business in connection with mining enterprises in which he is interested in this locality.

Mrs. R. L. McLean and children came up from El Paso Wednesday and accompanied the W. W. McLean family to their mountain home on the Bonito Thursday where they will spend about two months, in the coolness of the forest paradise.

Mrs. George Buchanan and daughter Helen left for El Paso, Tuesday after one week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Buchanan, during which time they spent a short season on the Ruidoso on a fishing trip.

Mrs. Elizabeth Spencer, mother of A. T. Spencer of the Bar W ranch arrived on No. 4 from Dallas, Texas, Thursday. Mrs. Spencer will visit with her son's family for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Boone returned Wednesday from their wedding trip, and left again on Thursday for their ranch home near Capitan.

Mrs. Lena Morgan, proprietress of the Bonito Inn at Lincoln was a Carrizozo visitor Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Mrs. O. C. Davis of Nogal, who has been in Tucson, Arizona, for the past several months, has returned to her old home.

Mrs. George Dingwall spent a portion of the present week with her sister, Mrs. Allan Johnson of El Paso.

Mrs. Austin Wooten and baby are visiting the L. R. LaMay family on the Nogal Mesa this week.

Mrs. J. W. Frame of Ancho, and daughter Mrs. B. E. Penix of Corona were visitors Saturday.

P. G. Peters of the Capitan Mercantile company was a Carrizozo business visitor on Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. L. S. Smith are camping and fishing on the Bonito this week.

Miss Gladys Wilson is home from Las Cruces College for her vacation.

Mrs. M. D. Martin of Toyah, Texas, is visiting the Rev. A. C. Douglas family this week.

A. H. Norton of Jicarilla was a Carrizozo visitor Tuesday.

Notice Extraordinary

The Southwestern Fish & Game Protective Association, through the efforts of Messrs. T. E. Kelley and S. L. Squier have succeeded in having a special permit issued by the Indian agent of the Mescalero Agency to the association which will give those holding association club cards, the right to fish on the North Frong of the Ruidoso, a valuable addition to the privileges and benefits they already have. A warning is hereby issued to parties taking advantage of this new opportunity: You must first, be a member of the club; second, you must have your license with you or you will be ordered off the grounds by the Indian guards, who are constantly stationed along the stream as a protection to those holding rights and as a preventive to illegal fishing and hunting.

The case against Dale Kreigh of Glencoe, N. M. and B. B. Ginsberg of Roswell, N. M., in which these parties were under indictment for violations of the New Mexico State Game laws, was brought to a successful conclusion on May 27 when Ginsberg appeared before Justice of the Peace W. T. Coe of Glencoe and entered a plea of guilty. Mr. Kreigh had previously plead guilty and a fine of $50.00 and costs was imposed in each case. Local Forest officers were instrumental in working up the evidence and the case was prosecuted by Mr. Whatley, Assistant to District Attorney Hamilton.

Miss Taylor Injured

Wednesday afternoon the Misses Ada Corn, Winnie and Grace Taylor while out riding, met an experience that resulted in a painful injury to one of the young ladies. They had encircled the main streets several times when at about 4:15, they came south on El Paso avenue. As the car passed the office of Wm. Reilly, the tire on the right wheel exploded which caused the car to turn abruptly to the right. Before the ladies could check its speed it crashed into the one belonging to the Lincoln Light & Power Company which stood in front of the company's office.

The shock broke the windshield, one portion of the shattered fragments striking Miss Winnie Taylor on the left arm just above the wrist, inflicting an ugly, painful wound. The young lady was cared for as well as possible until Mr. Wright of the Light Company took her in his car and hurried to a local physician where medical aid was administered. The accident, while painful, we are glad to say, is not serious.

Commissioners Meet

The Board of County Commissioners met Monday, and sitting as a Board of Equalization, continued their labors until Thursday at noon. Proceedings will appear next week.

Big Storm In Northwest Kills Seven

Seven Dead and 100 Injured Is Toll of Big Storm Which Raged In Northwest This Week. Dangerous Winds and Electrical Displays Leave Havoc in Their Path.

St. Paul, June 9.—Seven persons killed, more than 100 injured and property losses that will aggregate hundreds of thousands of dollars, were the tolls taken by the terrific wind and electrical storm that swept northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota last night.

Partial restoration of wire communication today discussed a slowly mounting death list, and fears were expressed tonight that final reports from isolated sections might increase the casualties.

Lincoln County Teachers' Institute

The Lincoln County Teachers' Association will meet at the Carrizozo High School on the 28th of June and continue for 12 days, ending with July 10. Teachers over the county have been duly notified together with programs sent to each address. A good sized gathering is expected, therefore, those who have rooms for rent during the above period will please notify the County School Superintendent. Those who have rooms and those who can afford the visitors with rooms and board, will kindly advise Mrs. M. L. Blaney of the fact so that arrangements can be made for the comfort of the teachers during the time the Institute is in session.

Delegates Return

John A. Haley, Brent Paden, Rev. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. O. Z. Finley, and Mrs. L. M. Scott returned last Saturday from Roswell, where they attended the Democratic convention. They were successful in bringing about the sanction of the League of Nations, without reservation, and absolute prohibition. These reforms as endorsed by the convention, it is said, were due to the untiring efforts of the Lincoln County delegation which voted as a unit on matters of importance.

Distinguished Guest

Mrs. L. W. Stewart of Douglas, Arizona, is visiting friends in White Oaks this week. Mrs. Stewart was a resident of that place for years previous to locating in Douglas and has been dividing the time of her stay between the "Oaks" and Carrizozo. She was first a guest of Mrs. F. J. Sager and after her return from White Oaks she will be the guest of Mrs. Albert Ziegler for the week-end.

"No need to," said Trevor briskly. "I've got these three missionary chaps here for witnesses to the fact that we went up in perfectly good faith, that I was forced to a bad landing and got fearfully cut up and burned and that I was only just backing out of death's door when they turned up and found you intact."

"Why, White Man!" exclaimed Andrea, "how could you get them to tell that awful lie?"

"Easily," answered Trevor promptly. "They wouldn't know it was a lie. You see, these missionary chaps will still believe a native; they can't afford to concede the immutable fact that a black consistently makes only one constant effort in his life—an effort to give always the answer that he thinks it will please you most to hear. Why, I don't even have to fix it up with my people. You'd believe the lie yourself if you could understand half they will say."

Andrea's lips drooped and she shook her head. "No," she said slowly. "No, I wouldn't." She was sitting with her elbows on the table, her cheek against the back of her clasped hands and her eyes following the white man's nervous movements with a sort of wounded wonder.

"So, you see, we can fix it," he concluded. "These clergymen are the only people in this black country that I could have trusted you with and who will strike just the right family note in your precious world-of-the-things-that-aren't-done-you-know. I have worked my best for you. I've made them come a hundred miles through country they have always thought impossible."

Andrea sat back and let her hands fall to her lap; for a moment she bowed her head and looked down at them, then she raised her gaze to his face. Her own, while it had been half-hidden, had suddenly lost its look of exuberant youth. It was so pale, that her eyes seemed too large for it. They dimmed its outlines.

"White Man," she said, "do you mean it?"

"Mean what?"

"I have seen you kill beasts and men," said Andrea, "but even so, I couldn't have believed it of you." Her voice grew dulled, like water running over silken moss. "I couldn't have believed that you would hurt me so!" She cast her arms out across the table and dropped her face upon them.

With a self-accusing cry, Trevor sprang to her, picked her up and carried her to the couch. She lay in his arms without resisting; her body had surrendered to a laxity that let him pile furs under her head and arrange her limbs as he would. She was listless; too tired to fight; too broken to weep. He knelt beside her and took both her hands in his. "Now that you are no longer an irresponsible child," he said, "now that your stripped self is here to listen, I will tell you how I love you. The child in you might forget; the woman never. I love you in body and in spirit. I love you so that I am ready to stand up and deny freedom. I love you enough to give you myself and the world—a world of starlit nights and silent spaces that I've worshipped so long alone. Yes, I love you enough for that, and I have to. God help me, for you are in my heart and I can never, never get you out."

Andrea looked as if blood were being transfused into her veins with each word. She felt her youth coming back with the sure surge of an advancing tide. Her eyes grew bright and then frightened. "White Man!" she gasped. "Take me quickly; I feel myself growing young again!"

He leaped to his feet, caught her up in his arms and shook her; then he surrendered. "Young or old," he said, "what difference does it make? I love your youth as I already love your old age. Put your arms around my neck, look into my eyes and tell me you love me, too."

Clinging to him, her head thrown back, her eyes in his, she said, "I love you."

"Again," commanded Trevor. "I love you."

"And now, my little sweetheart, my own girl, just once more."

"Ah!" begged Andrea. "Don't make me say it again; let me love you."

Five minutes later Trevor reluctantly opened the door on the cool and cried, "Bishop!"

One of the three white men sprang to his feet. "God bless my soul," he exclaimed, "where did you come from? When did you get here? My dear chap, what's happened to your face?"

Trevor, forgetful of his damaged appearance, put his hands to his lips gullily, as though he feared that some mark had clung there to betray their recent occupation; then he remembered his singed and bandaged condition. "Oh, that!" he said. "Nothing—nothing to speak of. Won't you come in? I'll see your companions later."

The bishop entered the hut and raised his eyebrows inquiringly as Trevor closed the door. "Mosquitoes?" he murmured and politely didn't wait for an answer. "Charming quarters. Quite the comfortable thing." Then he caught sight of Andrea who was half-sitting on the corner of the table and swinging her free leg. Once more his eyebrows went up but this time with a snap that would have carried them over the back of his head had they not been rooted.

"The bishop of Moma; the Honorable Andrea Pellor," said Trevor in businesslike tones.

"So pleased, my lord," said Andrea with a smile that turned into a rippling laugh. "—I beg your pardon," she stammered. "—but a—surprise doesn't go well with your face."

It was true; the bishop's astonishment seemed to have startled his features separately, scattering them over his countenance at grotesque angles. "Andrea," he gasped, "Andrea Pellor!"

"Yes," said Trevor, "that's the name. Now, bishop, if you'll sit down, I'll soon be able to satisfy you that the arguments I used to get you here are more than justified."

"Andrea Pellor!" repeated his lordship.

"You have it correctly, bishop," assured Trevor. "Won't you take this chair?"

The bishop's eyes gradually gathered themselves to a single focus on Andrea's face. "Young woman," he said, "do you know that the entire world has been perturbed for weeks as to your whereabouts? Do you know that your family has been suffering agonies of suspense as to your fate? Do you know that the man to whom you are betrothed has offered a thousand pounds for your discovery alive?"

Andrea glanced triumphantly at Trevor. "A thousand pounds," she murmured.

"Alive," he countered, also murmuring.

The bishop rapped on the table with his knuckles. "Do you know all these things?"

Andrea slipped from the table and stood before her inquirer. "It's quite natural," she said in a clean-cut tone Trevor had never heard her use before, "that you should be a little excited. Of course, I'm dying to hear all the news about the world and dear old Aunt Gwen and things in general, but do let's sit down. It always seems so greedy to me to gossip standing."

She turned from him to the chair that Trevor held for her and motioned the suddenly tamed prelate to another. His lips had snapped shut at the shocking aspersion that he came bearing tit-bits on his tongue and he sat down on the extreme edge of the indicated seat as though by his pose he would register a continued but silent protest.

"You wouldn't think to look at him," said Andrea to Trevor, "that in half an hour he'll be taking comfort out of that chair and out of a good cigar and out of a long drink." Her eyes laughed at the bishop in just the way to take the edge of her words.

He slowly smiled and just as slowly slid back into the depths of the chair; his hands, without the aid of his eyes, found the box of cigars that Trevor held out to him and his lips formed, in reply to a murmured inquiry, the following words, "A small one, please—not at all mahogany." Then he turned to Andrea and said in a louder voice, "Now tell me all about it."

"There really isn't much to tell," said Andrea. "I was tired of dancing and climbed down the cliff from the hotel. It must have been about four o'clock in the morning. I found this white man—his real name is Robert Oddman Trevor—tinkering with an airplane and I asked him to take me with him and he did." She dropped her eyes. "Now he's agreed to marry me."

Trevor turned white-lipped from the door where he had been giving an order to Bahatub. "Andrea," he said, his eyes blazing with anger, "you will please keep out of this conversation until you are called upon for a few responses." He turned to the bishop. "Please overlook Miss Pellor's impudence," he continued. "There is only one reason why I should marry her and she is that in that we love each other beyond the power of the words to express."

"But, my dear man," said the bishop. "I know who Lady Andrea is, only too well; the question is who on earth are you? I take it I'm not wrong in thinking that you have got me here with the idea of persuading me to perform a ceremony which will show" me with him-light for the next six months."

"Nine days is the accepted limit," murmured Andrea and added hastily, "I was just speaking to myself."

Trevor ignored her. "Your question," he said to the bishop, "is a natural one." He went to the high desk, took certain papers and, flushing slightly, handed them to the bishop, who glanced over them with undigested interest.

"So," he said finally, "you are a retired officer of the Royal Flying Corps, a D. S. O. and you also hold the croix de guerre!" He tapped a devil's tattoo on the arm of his chair and gradually the furrow on his brow cleared and he smiled. "Unexceptional credentials; but as I am in peril of becoming a very much interested third party, I can not refrain from asking if you are in a position to render such financial comfort to this young lady and to her family as I believe it has reason to expect from her original betrothed."

"I am not buying Andrea," said Trevor quickly. "Millions for herself if she needs them; not a cent of tribute for the family. Not to waste your time further," he continued, "I wish to say that I consider you entitled to the thousand pounds' reward offered for her discovery alive and am prepared to hand you the sum in gold at once. If you have any scruples as to taking it personally, there is surely no reason why you should not accept it for your mission. In return you will marry us immediately by the rites of your church, which you doubtless know will be accepted as legally binding in my own country."

"If you refuse," said Trevor grimly, "you and your companions will be detained, forcibly if necessary, as witnesses to a ceremony performed in accordance with native custom."

"What!" exclaimed the bishop, aghast.

"This isn't an argument," said Trevor dryly; "it's a proposition, quite fair and above-board. You take it or leave it—inside of five minutes."

The bishop turned to Andrea. "Would you—?" he stammered and stopped.

"I am quite indifferent as to method," said Andrea quietly. "No ceremony can add to the pledge that I have made in my heart. He has my love. He can have my body and soul for the asking."

The bishop was silent for a moment, his eyes fixed on the sudden glow that illuminated Trevor's face; then he said, "Well, my dear, that settles it—settles it finally, in fact, that I can't help but perceive that you are both equally in haste to repeat at leisure."

He arose with a resigned sigh. "Five minutes are soon up," he said to Trevor. "Will you agree to take time out while I talk to my associates?"

"Most certainly," answered Trevor gravely and opened the door for his lordship.

In ten minutes the associates were persuaded; in half an hour, with the assistance of the diamond magnate's engagement ring, Andrea and Trevor were made man and wife according to the ancient usage of the Church of England; and just five minutes after that, Bahatub announced dinner. It was high time, for in spite of the toast that she had had with her tea, Andrea was faint and pale with hunger. Nothing short of the stimulus of the excitement of being married for the very first time in her life could have saved her from collapse.

That was a great and merry dinner. The toasts that were drunk to the bride were many, some hearty, some witty; but the one that stood out above all others was that in which she pledged herself. She stood, glass in hand, and looked down at the kindly, encouraging faces of the four men.

"This, the sworn-song of the Honorable Andrea Pellor," she said in a voice that started a bit gaspingly but soon steadied to a clear flow, "who worshipped false gods flippantly during twenty-five years of her life, who traveled blindfolded through a beautiful world to the feet of a Calif of Gold and mercifully died on a certain beach at four o'clock of a morning. She drinks with you to Andrea Robert Oddman Trevor, the happiest woman—the happiest woman—the—"

Trevor leaped to his feet, put his arm around her and patted her on the shoulder. "There, there!" he soothed desperately, his face flushed with embarrassment.

"Kiss her, you duffer!" roared the three divines in one voice.

CHAPTER XIV.

They were all early to bed, the word having gone out to break camp at dawn for safari. The bishop and his companions were northward bound, Andrea and her man headed for the south and the coast. In the cold mist of the morning they parted with tight handshakes and earnestly murmured "God-bless-you's."

Incidents following rapidly one after the other, kept Andrea's mind off the coming encounter with her old world until she was actually on its verge. Late one afternoon they came upon the bay and Trevor waited expectantly for her to recognize the scene of her ravishment. He was disappointed, for the thin, insignificant strip of yellow sand tucked under the red cliff diminished by distance to the proportion of a railway embankment, meant nothing to her inexperienced eyes.

At last he pointed it out to her. "Behold," he said, "the beginning and the end of all things."

"Why," exclaimed Andrea. "Is it really the beach—our beach? How it's shrunk!"

"It has," said Trevor solemnly. "The erosion on this bit of coast is a foot for every hundred years. We'd better hurry if we want to make a landing."

He chartered two sailing boats from a Greek fisherman and in an hour the beach had broadened, the cliff had risen to almost imposing heights; while they were still well off the shore they shot into its shadow. The boatman chose a landing at the foot of the Cliff road, a quarter of a mile away from the steep path by which Andrea had made her descent. As the safari began to form on the beach Trevor turned to Andrea. "We're going to your old hotel, you know. It's really the only one. If you prefer, I can send for a motor-car for you and myself; but we'd have to wait half an hour."

Andrea caught her breath as she realized that it was only minutes before she would be in collision with a world. Her eyes ran down the line of their marching column already on the edge of an incongruous setting, but still impressing with that subtle dignity which the free and half-naked black takes with him everywhere and which is born of his absolute indifference to standards not his own.

"Let us go down at the head of our men," she answered.

"You are right," said Trevor, pleased at her shrewd judgment. "We mortals," he added, "don't always recognize the importance of fighting an atmosphere with an atmosphere. To go in as cock of our own walk is a thousand times better than a motor-car and the back door."

Andrea nodded. "I felt it but I could not put it in words like that."

As Trevor, the white head of a quarter-mile-long and glistening black serpent of humanity, swung in between the gateposts of the hotel's imposing portals, the ever-opportune Marguerite stretched his neck, raised his barrel-head and brayed. Above that raucous cry sounded the spontaneous and uncontrollable peal of Andrea's silver laughter.

The groups of men and women—all but one—on the hotel veranda stopped in their various occupations as though paralyzed; drinks paused halfway to thirsty lips, cigarettes burned unconscious fingers, knitting needles poised instantaneously—all but one pair. The manipulator of the exception was a dear but very proper old lady wearing a cap of filmy lace on her plentiful white hair and enough filmy lace on her person to make the porch chair, in which she sat, look like a stall at a Red Cross bazaar. She was knitting a vast khaki-colored sweater and at the sound of Andrea's laughter she gave no sign beyond pursing her withered lips while she methodically finished off the stitch upon which she had been engaged.

That done, she raised a pair of beady black eyes so wonderfully alive that it seemed impossible they belonged to her wrinkled face and flashed one look at Andrea and one at Trevor. "Well, my dear," she said calmly, presumably to the former, "it's a relief to have you back apparently alive and well."

No sooner were the words out of her mouth than she was swept into Andrea's impetuous embrace. "Oh, Aunt Gwen! Oh, you old dear!"

The lady defended herself with considerable energy and was heard to grumble that even kissing had degenerated into a rough pastime. Having rescued herself from Andrea's arms, she said, "Now that that is over you will please go to your room and change from that outlandish circus costume; you'll find everything as you left it except for a new lock on the door."

Andrea glanced at Trevor and leaped over to whisper imploringly in her aunt's ear.

"Your husband?" enunciated the old lady clearly. "Well, that's a relief, too; but I prefer to meet him elsewhere and after you have presented documentary evidence. By the way," she added with ominous emphasis as she resumed her knitting, "Harry is still here."

"I should say I am," exclaimed a youth in the trim uniform of the Flying Corps, as he stepped out from the hotel door. "Hello, Mister Andy." Then his eyes fell on Trevor. A slow smile of happy welcome spread over his face. "Well, I'll be d—!" he exclaimed fervently. "If you know, Trevor, I've been saying from the first, 'Cheer up the flying-machine.' Come in and let me watch you have a drink."

Trevor, quivering under the pressure of the central he had summoned to carry him through the trying moment and filled with an immediate love and admiration for Aunt Gwen, paused to direct his following to a nearby vacant lot.

"Is that marriage tip straight?" asked Harry.

"Straight as the good bishop of Mores and two other missionary Johnnies could make it," replied Trevor.

Harry was thoughtful for a moment, then he said, "Well, Trevor, I don't know how you're fixed for proof but you know that through less years and fat, I'm for you from the break in bark. As one sportsman to another, I congratulate you on hitting one over on that up-country animated leather-sack of vintage wines. By the way, you realize I've got to wire him."

"Of course," said Trevor. "The sooner the better. Don't worry about Andrea's food and raiment," he added flushing. "The truth is, I'm pretty well healed with the needful."

"You Americans generally are," said Harry admiringly. "Sort of jolly national tradition."

Twenty-four hours later the diamond magnate, perennially flushed as to face and heavy of paunch made his impressive arrival.

When he had washed and otherwise attempted to freshen his perspiring person he sent out a call for a family conference, it took place in the Trevor's sitting room. Harry was there representative of the house of Pellor and his bride. The sole male representative of the house of Pellor opened the proceedings with the following speech: "Hammar," he said, "on the part of my sister I wish to offer you an unqualified apology. It seems that she was—er—suddenly carried away by an impulse in conjunction with a flying machine, but you will be glad to know that Trevor here has—er—has played the man all through and you are permanently relieved from any further responsibility in the matter. I don't think there's another half thing to say beyond repeating the apology due you from my entire family."

"Not a thing to say, you young sycophant of a whipper-snapper!" thundered the red-faced magnate. "Do you think I came down here to listen to your maiden speech, accept a dirty apology and get out with my tail between my legs? Well, I didn't, I came down here to show this interloping vagabond of a scavenger where he and his wife—don't get off."

A gleam crept into Trevor's eyes, the same gleam that had shone there when he had shot MacCloster, but it turned into his slow assuring smile as his gaze met that of Andrea and took note of her alarm. He remembered that only ten minutes before he had promised on the honor of a lover to be seen only and not heard.

"Aren't you a bit late for that?" asked Harry, unperturbed. "They seem to be running before the wind ahead and with a fair lead." He lit a cigarette and snapped the dead match through the open doorway.

"You think so, do you?" said the magnate, his eyes snapping malignantly. "You've probably never heard of the shipping ring, but I'll tell you this—the line that takes these two—two—two whatchumay-callums as passengers is ruined. They'll stay in Africa till they rot."

Andrea stifled a yawn. "Robert," she said in her coolest and best society voice, "if Sir Hammar is going to force us to wait here for one of your own steamers to put in—I think you'd better collect that thousand pounds reward."

It was the end. The magnate gasped, sprang up and fled, pursued by a smoke arrow propelled from Harry's rounded mouth, Aunt Gwen purred her lips but kept on knitting she could not, however, altogether hide the lough that was in her snapping eyes. Andrea dropped on her knees beside her.

"Oh, Aunt Gwen," she begged, "won't you please let me introduce Robert? He's the dearest, most thoughtful, strongest and weakest man that a lucky girl ever loved."

That night when all the hotel was in darkness and silence, Andrea and Trevor stood together by the coping at the edge of the cliff and looked across the moonlit bay to the far-away line of the sea. Behind them was the dark, massed shadow of the Bougainville trellis; at their feet and before them stretched an open world, bathed in kindly and opalescent light.

Andrea's eyes started at the top of the zigzag path and followed it deliberately down the cliff-side until they reached and swept the gleaming crescent of the beach; then they rose and stared at the placid moon. Nine weeks, no more, had passed since last this scene had held her, yet into them was packed the germ of all her life almost to the exclusion of preceding memories. She felt a walling within her of all the major emotions and frightened, turned from them to hide her face against Trevor's shoulder. Her arms slipped up around his neck and clung to him.

"Oh, White Man," she whispered, "my Wonder Man, plunderer of my heart, if desire to give is any measure, how far you have led me along the shining road!"

"Are you a careful driver?" asked the nice old lady.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the chauffeur. "I don't want to get hit by a railroad train any more than you do."

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL MENTION

Mrs. Ira O. Wetmore entertained the Carrizozo Bridge Club last Thursday afternoon. The hostess served a delicious two-course luncheon to her guests after the bridge game, at which Mrs. Samuel Allen held the high score. Club members present were: Mesdames Ziegler, French, Leon, Squier, Dingwall, Lemon, Allen, Sager; club guests were: Mrs. Stewart, of Douglas, Arizona, Mesdames Crawford Nash, Reilly and Miss Evelyn French.

Ed Comrey of Ancho was in town Monday and Tuesday, advocating an active campaign against "loco" among cattle and horses. He says the stockmen should establish a fund whereby X-Ray examinations could be held so that treatment could follow each important discovery at the different stages of the disease. Mr. Comrey will place his proposition before the stockmen for their consideration.

Rev. A. C. Douglas, Mrs. C. E. Hooper and Miss Marie Davis, left for El Paso Tuesday to attend the Methodist Church Sunday School Institute which convenes at that place Tuesday afternoon, and lasts eight days. The Institute opens with a lecture after which the work of instruction begins. The sessions of the Institute will be of a vast amount of benefit to those who attend.

Mrs. Clara Bacot entertained the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal Church Tuesday afternoon at the office rooms of Wm. Reilly. The time was spent pleasantly during which refreshments were served. Mrs. Walter LaFleur will entertain the Guild on the afternoon of June 22.

Miss Robana Corn left Tuesday for Lakewood, N. M., where she will visit with relatives for about three weeks after which she will be joined by the balance of the Corn family, and together they will go on an extended trip to different points in Texas.

Miss Nadine Thompson, daughter of Mrs. J. M. Caldwell came in on No. 4 Wednesday from Las Cruces, where she has been attending the Loretta Academy. She will spend her vacation with the home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDaniel came up from Alamogordo Sunday to make Carrizozo their future home. Mr. McDaniel is a barber, and has accepted a position at the shop of O. J. Snow.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reilly, daughters Jack, Herndon, Jean, and Mrs. Samuel Allen, Miss Odell Smith and Mr. Clinton Enyeart, spent Wednesday fishing on the upper Bonito and were highly successful.

George Titsworth of the Titsworth Company, Inc. of Capitan, was a Carrizozo visitor on Wednesday.

Glencoe Notes

Miss Helen House of Salt Lake City, Utah, is spending the summer with Mrs. H. P. Clarke.

Mrs. S. M. Johnson has left her mountain home, to join Dr. Johnson in Washington, D. C.

The Ladies' Club met at the home of Mrs. D. N. Bonnell last week.

There is a new arrival at the J. F. Allison home.

A number of Glencoe people spent Sunday fishing on the upper Ruidoso.

Mrs. Wilbur Coe has been attending the institute at Roswell.

Mr. Arthur of Alamogordo was a visitor here Sunday.

MAD CHRONIC BRONCHITIS FOR TWENTY-SIX YEARS NOW WELL AND HAPPY

THESE ARE WORDS READING
The experience of Mr. E. J. Tom, walk, 1458 Ross street, LaCrosse, Wisconsin, is chiefly remarkable on account of the length of time he was afflicted.

He writes: "I have been suffering with chronic bronchitis for twenty-six years and every winter I would catch cold and become so hoarse I could not speak for six or eight weeks. I could get only temporary relief.

"This winter I was taken with Grip and was in awful shape. A fellow workman advised me to take PE-RU-NA. By the time I had used three-fourths of a bottle, the hoarseness was gone, also that tired feeling. I am on my second bottle. Hereafter PE-RU-NA will be constantly in my house. It is the best medicine ever put up for the purpose."

For any disease due to catarrh or catarrhal conditions, PE-RU-NA is equally dependable. Coughs, colds, catarrh of the head, stomach trouble, constipation, rheumatism, pains in the back, side and loins, bloating, belching gas, indigestion, catarrh of the large and small intestines, are some of the troubles for which PE-RU-NA is especially recommended.

PE-RU-NA can be purchased anywhere in either tablet or liquid form.

Jimmie Fargas, 8, and Dan Morando, 10, the world's youngest yeggs, were caught redhanded. Patrolman O'Neill captured the kindergarten cracksmen after they had looted a safe of $15 at Oakland, Calif.

James Merwin Drake, automobile racer of Del Monte, Calif., was killed, and his mechanic, Claude McDonald, was injured at Hanford, Calif., when their automobile ran into the inside fence during a race.

Although Luther Davis, giant negro, admitted to Oakland police of having robbed hundreds of spooners in "lovers' lane," only two of the holdups were reported to the police. Davis had 'em hypnotized, police say.

Frank Zelen, proprietor of a garage, was killed in an explosion which wrecked his house in Omaha. His partially burned body was found two hours later. Police have not determined the cause of the explosion.

Ralph Erickson, manager of a motion picture theater at Des Moines, Ia., identified Sherry Scott, arrested in Omaha, as the man who robbed him of $900 and a diamond ring. Scott and J. H. Rogers, a companion, posed as millionaires oil men.

On a complaint filed by Federal District Attorney Allen, United States Judge T. C. Munger ordered 105 cases of catsup in the possession of the Swift Packing Company at Lincoln, Neb., destroyed. It was alleged the catsup was adulterated.

More than $200 worth of cut flowers assembled at the First Baptist church at Atchison, Kan., for use in decorating graves of veterans, were stolen. The flowers had been purchased by public subscription. It is believed they were hauled away by thieves in a motor truck.

Stepping off a moving Northwestern train as it was leaving the union station at Omaha, Charles McFadden of Oakland, Calif., alighted directly in front of an oncoming railroad motor car and was ground to death. McFadden had boarded the train to say good-bye to his wife and daughter, who were en route to Carroll, Iowa.

Two prisoners burned their way out of the city jail at Tacoma, Wash., and escaped. The prisoners wrapped oil-soaked rags around the end of a long pipe and placed the flaming mass against the wooden ceiling of their cell. A hole was burned through the ceiling and into the city controller's office. The men crawled through this opening and made their way to the street.

WASHINGTON.
Senate investigation of pre-convention financing campaigns for the presidential nomination will be continued after the Republican convention and before the Democratic convention, under present plans of the committee.

Next year's naval budget was fixed at about $498,000,000 under a complete agreement on the naval appropriation bill reached by Senate and House conferees. The original House bill carried $425,000,000 and the Senate about $467,000,000.

The $440,000,000 sundry civil appropriation bill, the last of the regular annual government supply bills, was passed by the Senate and sent to conference.

A favorable report was ordered by the Senate territories committee on the House bill creating a Hawaiian home commission for the development of lands in the insular possessions.

Increased salaries for postal employees amounting to approximately $36,000,000 for the first year, effective July 1, were recommended in a report to Congress by a joint congressional commission.

The Senate has reconsidered its action in passing the Nolan-Johnson 25 a day minimum bill applying to government employees and, on motion of Senator Thomas, Democrat of Colorado, rescinded the passage.

The Senate passed the Senate bill authorizing the state of New Mexico to use the proceeds from the sale of 1,000,000 acres of state owned land for reimbursing Grant, Lamo, Hodge and Santa Fe counties and Silver City in the payment of interest on bonds issued thirty years ago to aid the building of railroads.

The United States is in no danger of exhausting its coal supplies in the near future, for about 7,000 years' supply is available, H. M. Darling of the bureau of mines told the twelfth annual convention of the International Railway Fuel Association. He estimates the supply of minable coal at 2,538,087,100,000 tons. Last year's consumption, he said, was 530,000,000 tons.

Washington.—House and Senate conferees on the army appropriation bill tentatively agreed to fix the appropriation for the Army air service at $52,000,000, of which $4,000,000 would be used for new equipment and $3,250,000 for research work. The House bill fixed the appropriation at $47,250,000, and the Senate increased it to $48,000,000.

Race rioting in Waukegan, a suburb of Chicago, between sailors from the Great Lakes navy training station and negroes, which for a time threatened to assume serious proportions, was brought under control after 300 additional police guards had been hurried to Waukegan in motor trucks. A number of shots were fired from the Sherman house, a negro hotel, after negroes had surrounded the building.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

FIVE-YEAR-OLDS WILL TALK

And Surely This One Came Near to "Spilling the Beans" for Poor Mamma.

After looking at all the rugs in the store, the customer decided that she thought she liked the pink one with the purple roses best.

"But I'd like to see it in my room," she said. "I suppose you'll send it up on approval?"

"Well, madam, it's—er—hardly usual," murmured the proprietor. "But in the circumstances, perhaps—"

The customer's five-year-old daughter, who had stood silent during the long inspection, now tugged violently at her mother's skirt.

"Oh, mamma," she piped in her fatally clear treble, "hadn't you better warn him to be sure and get it there in time? Our party's tomorrow, you know."

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything late upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and threw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish this if you like that it may help some other woman."—Mrs. MARY STRANDEK, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich.

WALTER ALLOWED FOR COBB

Walth Tarkington's Amusing Illustration of Student Life in Munich Before the War.

"Munich before the war," said Booth Tarkington, the famous novelist, "was an earthly paradise. For ten cents in a Munich beer garden you would get a quart mug of ambrosia beer and a brace of incomparable frankfurters—a meal which you would consume to the music of Wagner and Beethoven, played by a vast and magnificent orchestra.

"Of course, in Munich the art students—poor fools—sometimes drank too much. They tell a story there about a Missouri student.

"Another large beer and two frankfurters for Student Cobb of Missouri," a Munich waiter sang out one night.

"Only give Student Cobb one frankfurter," said the manager of the garden. "Student Cobb sees everything double."

"I've already attended to that," said the waiter. Cobb ordered four frankfurters."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J.

"Land without a Worry"

Picture a land where they have no peace treaties or politics, no candidates or elections, no income taxes or poor houses; where the landlord, the butcher and baker don't enter into the scheme of things, and worry is unknown. That's Guam—a little island in the South Pacific, under the nominal rule of a governor sent there by the United States and guarded by a force of U. S. Marines. The island is daily coming into more prominence, as it is to be fortified as a base for the Pacific Fleet.

The sun works overtime for Guam, the land is fertile. The 12,000 natives exact a living from the soil with a minimum of effort. They raise only enough for their own needs. They farm a little, go fishing occasionally and delight in the pastime of "coconut watching," which means, according to those who have visited there, lying on their backs and watching the coconuts grow.

When war and a destructive typhoon came the Government passed a labor law, compelling every able bodied man to cultivate a bit of land. The easy-going natives didn't object—they worked in groups so that they might talk and be sociable. They have a simple Christian creed and are devoted in their worship. Since the island was ceded by Spain to the United States, some twenty years ago, education and sanitation have improved 100 per cent.

In recent years the Government reports that all who have lived under the spell of this land of promise, wish to return there as soon as possible.

Much Building Planned

Demand for homes, farm and business buildings has forced a building campaign despite the prevailing high price of materials. New houses are under construction and new business houses are also being built.

Building is a mark of the country's growth and progress. Vacant houses are things of the distant past and the problem has been to provide enough shelter to keep the newcomers protected.

Last summer building was almost at a standstill, as it was anticipated that prices of materials had reached the high level and would soon come down. Prices of lumber at retail have declined from 8 to 10 percent, quotations being issued by some dealers. Contractors have taken a brace and are beginning to lay plans for greater activity during the summer. "We received quotations carrying a 10 per cent general reduction in all all grades of lumber," said one of the prominent lumber dealers.

Millions Work in Mines

The magnitude of the mining industry may be grasped when one realizes that more than 6,000,000 men are engaged in the mines of the world. Of this number 3,800,000 are employed in the coal mines and 2,200,000 in the metal mines. In addition, millions more are engaged in allied industries dependent directly upon the mines for coal and metal, according to the Engineering and Mining Journal.

If it had not been for the lure of the metal mines, the west would not be the highly developed section of the U. S. that it is today. Our whole prosperity hinged on mining in the early days, and now prosperity in the mining industry is the barometer of general prosperity in many western states.

The west should stand as a unit for same labor, legislative and taxation policies, encouraging to the development of this great industry.

Pull Together for an American Merchant Marine

The war resulted in the creation of a great merchant marine—10,000,000 tons of American ships which cost us $3,000,000,000.

Everybody agrees that we must keep this fleet on the seas.

If we fall back to pre-war conditions—when only 8 per cent of our foreign trade was carried in American ships—

We shall be in the position of a department store whose goods are delivered in its competitor's wagons.

Congress is considering legislation which will perpetuate our war-built merchant marine.

Until this is done the ships we have should not be sold to face conditions which, prior to the war, resulted in the decline of our merchant marine to insignificance.

This Committee calls attention to these facts because a right solution of our shipping problem is vital to the future prosperity of shipbuilding, but equally vital to the safety and prosperity of the nation.

According to reports received in Clovis, N. M., the Santa Fe budget provision for an $80,000 office building in that city has been approved by the officials of the road. While the site has not been selected, it is expected it will be built at the lower end of the main street.

The Roy Co-operative Company of Roy, N. M., will begin the erection of a large grain elevator soon, which is to cost nearly $10,000. Plans are already made for the excavation and it is expected that the new structure will be completed in time to take care of the fall crop.

Eleven persons were seriously injured when Santa Fe passenger train No. 908, bound from El Paso to Albuquerque, struck a stretch of track undermined by high water near La Joya, fifty miles south of Albuquerque. The baggage and smoking car was telescoped and a chair car was derailed.

New Mexico is showing her heels to all other states in the Federal Public Health Association membership drive. According to the latest reports received at the health department, the state has already given more than 200 per cent of its quota of new members. The quota, however, was only 11 members.

Two hundred and eighty sets of harness have been received by the Arizona Highway Department from the government; it was announced by State Engineer Maddock, who added that road camps had been instructed to make no more purchases and that inquiries had been sent each county engineer as to his requirements.

Between 40,000 and 50,000 cases of eggs, 80 dozen to the case, were produced in the Sale River valley in 1919, according to figures made public by the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce. The statement said the eggs sold at an average price of 40 to 50 cents a dozen, reaching an approximate total of $200,000.

The New Mexico Dental Association will hold its annual meeting at Albuquerque June 21, 22 and 23. The local dentists will form the committee on arrangements and all the sessions will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, where visiting dentists from Denver and other cities will give a three days' postgraduate course.

The Apache county road bond election carried for the bonds by a large majority, according to word received by State Engineer Maddock at Phoenix from B. Y. Peterson, clerk of the Apache County Board of Supervisors. Peterson said in his message that the county expected to be ready in the near future to match $150,000 federal aid for highway construction.

R. Barnum, a postoffice employe of Silver City, N. M., has a White Leghorn hen which has established a record by laying what may be termed a real double egg. While gathering the eggs in the hen house a few days ago, Mr. Barnum found an egg which was nearly the size of a goose egg, and upon breaking the shell discovered on the inside an ordinary sized egg, perfectly formed, and enclosed in a hard shell.

Complete extermination of what was considered one of the largest prairie dog "towns" in the West has been reported to the predatory animal inspector's office at Phoenix by the Chiricahua Cattle Company of Cochise county, southeastern Arizona. More than 100,000 prairie dogs were estimated to have lived on the company's ranch of more than 20,000 acres until the management started an offensive campaign against them.

G. W. P. Hunt, former governor of Arizona, whose nomination as minister to Siam was confirmed by the Senate, is expected to sail from San Francisco for Siam June 19.

A temporary injunction, issued by the United States District Court in New Mexico, restraining the state council of defense and certain officials of that state from interfering with the sale and circulation of the Hearst magazines in New Mexico, was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Paul. The injunction was obtained by the International Magazine Company, of which W. R. Hearst is a stockholder. The action started early in 1918.

To punish her 7-year-old daughter, Concha, for disobedience, Mrs. Augustine Oliva, wife of a cotton picker in the Scottsdale district, near Phoenix, is alleged to have held her daughter's feet in a trash fire and wrapped burning clothes about them. The child's screams attracted Mexicans, who summoned a deputy sheriff. The woman told officers, they said, that she did the act to punish the child because she had refused to draw a bucket of water.

DEATH WAS NEAR

Florida Woman in Critical Condition From Drops; But Doan's Brought Recovery

"Drops brought me right down to the shadow of the grave," says Mrs. Ida B. Atwell, 204 William St., Key West, Fla. "For fifteen years I was a hopeless wreck, struggling between life and death. The pains were so severe in my back I screamed in agony. My head ached so severely I thought my skull was being crushed. Black specks floated before my eyes, and I had to grasp the bed to keep from falling."

"The kidney secretions burned and scalded and I could pass only a few drops at a time. My body bloated. The pressure of so much water on my chest almost smothered me. My feet also swelled and large seas of water hung beneath my eyes. My skin had a shaly, white appearance and anywhere I pressed a dent would remain for hours. I became a nervous wreck."

"A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and oh! I felt so happy when I found they were helping me. Continued use of Doan's completely cured me." Sworn to before me.

Acid Stomach Makes the Body Sour

Nine Out of Ten People Suffer From It

It sends its harmful acids and gases all over the body, instead of health and strength. Day and night this ceaseless damage goes on. No matter how strong, its victim cannot long withstand the health-destroying effects of an acid stomach.

Good news for millions of sufferers. Chemists have found a sure remedy—one that takes the acid up and carries it out of the body; of course, when the cause is removed, the sufferer gets well.

Bloating, indigestion, sour, acid, gassy stomach ailments all removed. This is proven by over half a million ailing folks who have taken EATONIC with wonderful benefits. It can be obtained from any druggist, who will cheerfully refund its trifling cost if not entirely satisfactory. Everyone should enjoy its benefits. Frequently the first tablet gives relief.

Nerve Wasn't What He Lost.
As Benson walked along the busy street he was stopped by a shabby individual. "Excuse me, sir," said he, "but I wonder if you could lend me a quarter?"

Benson was startled and demanded to know why the quarter was needed. "Haven't you a job?" he demanded. "No, sir," whined the shabby individual. "You see, I'm a slate roofer by trade. But I can't work at it because I fell off a roof and lost my nerve."

"Oh, no, you didn't!" said Benson, as he walked on quickly. "Your nerve's all right!"—Honolulu Post.

By-Laws of The American Legion

Article 1. NAME

1. The Post existing under these By-Laws is the Benjamin I. Berry Post of the American Legion of New Mexico, State Post No. 11.

2. The object of this Post is set forth in the Constitution.

Article 2. MANAGEMENT

1. The government and management of the Post is entrusted to an "Executive Committee" of seven members to be known as the Executive Committee.

2. The Executive Committee shall consist of seven members to be elected at a meeting of the Post called for that purpose and thereafter at the annual meeting of the Post, in addition to the officers of the Post as ex-officio members. The Executive committee shall hold office for one year or until their successors are chosen.

3. A vacancy existing in the Executive Committee from any cause other than the expiration of a term shall be filled by a majority vote of the entire committee. A person so appointed shall hold office for an unexpired term of the member of the committee whom he succeeds.

Article 3.

POWERS OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

1. The Executive Committee shall have charge of the government and management of the Post; and shall direct and control such sub-committees as may be appointed. It shall have power to admit by ballot candidates for membership in the Post, a majority vote of those present being required for election. It may expel or suspend any member of the Post by a two-thirds vote of the whole Committee for any violation of the By-Laws or rules or for conduct improper and prejudicial to the welfare of the Post or the American Legion. But no member shall be suspended or expelled without being given one week's written notice of the charges against him and of the time when he can submit to the Committee a written answer to the charges.

2. The Executive Committee shall prescribe the rules for the use of the Post Headquarters and any other buildings used by the Post, and may modify or revoke the same; it shall fix penalties for violations of the rules and have power to enforce the same and also to remit such penalties.

3. There shall be a Chairman, one or more Vice-Chairmen, a Secretary and a Treasurer of the Executive Committee who shall be elected at a meeting of the Post duly called for the purpose and thereafter at the annual meeting of the Post and shall hold office for one year until their respective successors have been chosen. The officers shall be ex-officio members of the Executive Committee.

4. The Chairman of the Executive Committee, and in his absence the Vice-Chairman, shall preside at all meetings of the Post and of the Executive Committee. In the event of their absence, such meeting may elect their presiding officer.

5. The Secretary shall give notice of all meetings of the Post and of the Executive Committee and shall keep the minutes of such meetings. He shall conduct the correspondence and keep the records of the Post including lists of the names, addresses and previous military or naval organization of the members. He shall furnish the Treasurer the names of all persons elected to membership and shall also advise him of all transfers or changes affecting membership. He shall notify all candidates of their election.

6. The Treasurer shall, subject to the control of the Executive Committee, be charged with the collection and custody of the funds of the Post, including all dues, and shall keep its accounts and report thereon at each regular meeting of the Executive Committee. His accounts shall be audited annually. He shall pay all bills when audited and approved in such manner as the Executive Committee shall prescribe.

Article 4.

MEMBERSHIP

1. All persons shall be eligible to membership in this Post who are eligible to membership in the American Legion under the Constitution of the New Mexico State Organization of the American Legion, including non-residents of this town or state.

2. Any person eligible to membership as aforesaid may become a member of this Post upon his election by the Executive Committee and payment of dues for the current year, and upon signing an enrollment card for enrollment as a member of the American Legion.

3. Each candidate for membership must be proposed by a member of the Post. He must give his name, address and brief statement of his military or naval record, including organizations in which he served during the World War.

4. If any elected candidate shall not within 60 days after his election pay to the Treasurer his dues, his election shall be void.

MILLION-DOLLAR SWINDLE REVEALED TO COUNTY GRAND JURY AT SAN FRANCISCO.

PAIR LOSES $900,000

FICTITIOUS LAWSUITS, TELEGRAMS AND DEEDS USED IN BIG CONSPIRACY.

San Francisco, June 3.—Details of an alleged swindling conspiracy whereby Edward Wineman and his wife, Catherine, of San Luis Obispo, were relieved of $900,000 in property and cash has been revealed to the county grand jury by Kay McKay, San Francisco and Seattle promoter...

The activities of the ring were conducted in San Luis Obispo, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles, and the Winemans were moved between these cities as the needs of the conspiracy dictated, according to the statement.

The plot started last November, according to McKay's statement to the jury, when the alleged conspirators offered to purchase the Bunker ranch in Solano county from the Winemans for $300,000.

A series of fictitious lawsuits, telegrams and deeds then were woven into the conspiracy, according to McKay's alleged statement, until the Winemans were stripped of $900,000 in property and available and borrowed money.

According to McKay, Wineman was induced at one time to borrow $125,000 from a San Francisco bank to meet the demands of the conspiracy and at another time was kept secluded in Los Angeles so that relatives should not approach him.

He finally succeeded in sending a letter to his sons, and disclosure of the supposed conspiracy followed.

Grand larceny warrants were sworn out against McKay, Hillman and Walsh. Hillman was arrested and released on bonds. McKay was kept under surveillance here and Walsh has disappeared. Hillman is a wealthy resident of Pasadena.

148,000 Unclaimed Bags.

New York.—There are still on Governors Island 148,000 barrack bags, 6,000 trunks and boxes and thousands of other pieces of unclaimed baggage of American soldiers, sailors, marines and others in the military service. The army authorities have issued a call to former service men to reclaim their lost property.

Killed in Cavern.

San Bernardino, Calif.—James Fuller, a railroad man of Las Vegas, Nev., and James Morton, 24, of Scranton, Calif., are dead as the result of a cavern of a tunnel of a tale mine near Death Valley Junction, which they had entered to escape the desert heat, according to a message received here.

Railroad Men on Trial.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Forty railroad men who participated in the recent strike of switchmen are on trial in the United States District Court here. They were charged with violation of the Lever act by interfering with the transportation of necessities of life.

Strikers Assault Taxi Driver.

Denver.—Subterfuge and plotting in which a pretty girl is alleged to have figured as a decoy, with a man garbed in the uniform of a Canadian soldier, resulted in a severe beating for Edward Bell, a manager for the Champe Taxicab line, at the hands of a crowd of thirty striking taxicab drivers or their sympathizers, according to statements made by Bell and employing taxicab owners. The beating occurred at East Sixth avenue and Quebec street, at about midnight. Bell said, when his "fare"—the supposed Canadian soldier and his pretty "girl"—ordered him to stop the machine. The moment he stopped a crowd of men rushed upon the machine from dark spots along the street.

Grasshoppers Eating Corn.

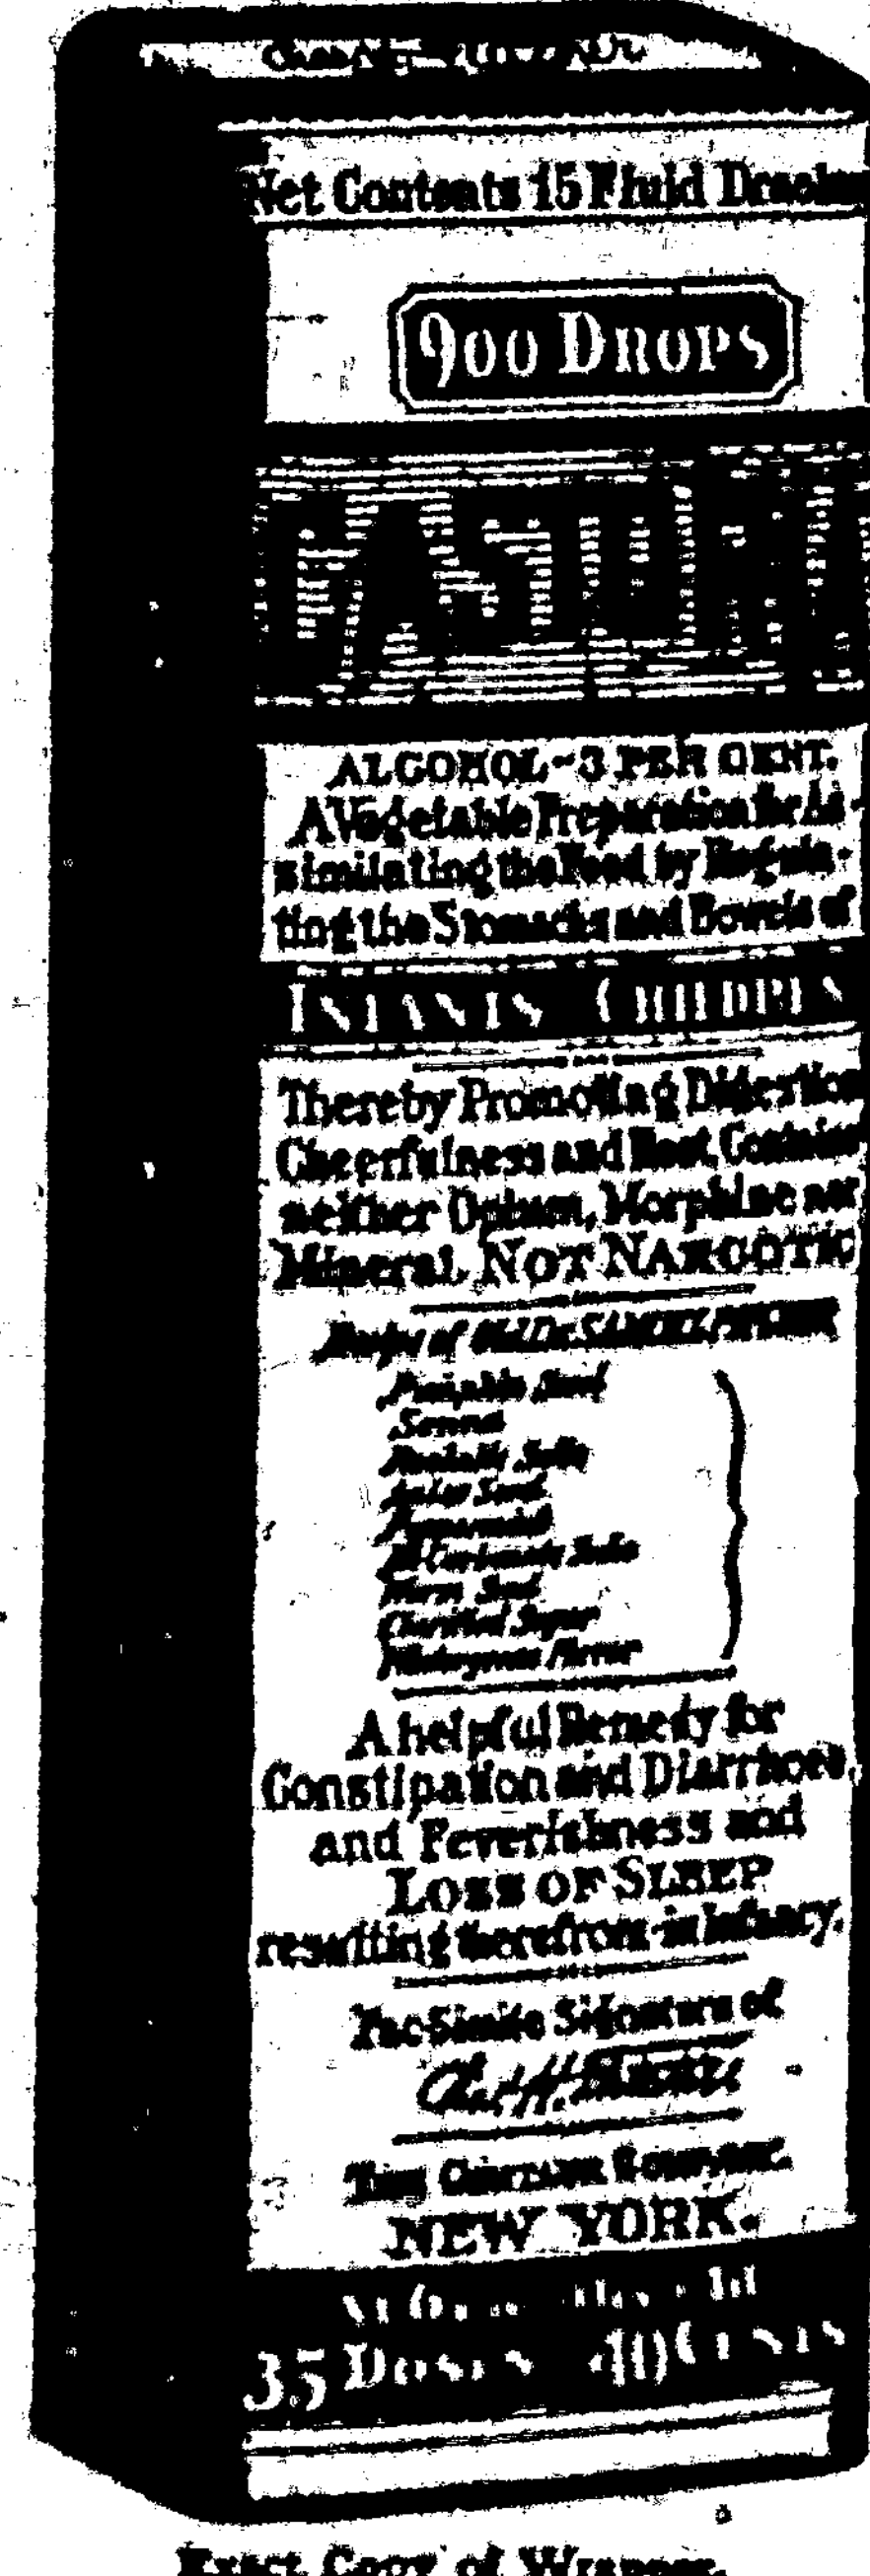

Austin, Texas.—Grasshoppers are seriously damaging crops in Hall and Childress counties, Texas, according to reports made public here by the state agricultural department. They destroy seton and corn as fast as the plants come up, the report said.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no sight so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance. When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember its just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's

Do the People Know? Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's?

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callous. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callous right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humpbug!—Adv.

If a man has no means of forgetting his trouble, he will make more.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots. There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles. Freckles are a natural skin blemish...

The pleasure is all yours when the other fellow hands you money.

Harvest 20 to 45 Bushel to Acre Wheat in Western Canada

Think what that means to you in good hard dollars with the great demand for wheat at high prices. Many farmers in Western Canada have paid for their land from a single crop. The same success may still be yours, for you can buy on easy terms.

Farm Land at $15 to $30 an Acre located near thriving towns, good markets, railways—land of a kind which grows 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Good grazing lands at low prices convenient to your grain farm enable you to reap the profits from stock raising and dairying.

Learn the Facts About Western Canada

—low taxation (none on improvements), healthful climate, good schools, churches, pleasant social relationships, a prosperous and industrious people. Rheumatism Back on the Job With Its Old-time Fury

No Let-Up in Its Torment. If you are afflicted with Rheumatism, why waste time with liniments, lotions and other local applications that never did cure Rheumatism, and never will? Do not try to rub the pain away, for you will never succeed. Try the sensible plan of finding the cause of the pain. Remove the cause, and there can be no pain. You will never be rid of Rheumatism until you cleanse your blood of the germs that cause the disease. S. S. S. has no equal as a blood purifier, scores of sufferers say that it has cleansed their blood of Rheumatism, and removed all traces of the disease from their system. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at your drug store and get on the right treatment to-day. If you want special medical advice, address Medical Director, 102 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.
