

FRON ON RECLAMATION PROPOSITIONS

Senators Give the Western Governors Little Encouragement For The Appropriation of $250,000,000.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Governors of western states and representatives of the western states reclamation association conferred today with senators and representatives to urge government aid for reclamation of western arid lands.

Little encouragement was given to the delegation which was told that strict economy was being practiced by congress and that authorization of no new projects or large appropriations other than those absolutely necessary was contemplated.

Among those who urged federal aid were Governors Bamberger, of Utah, Hart of Washington, and Larrazolo of New Mexico. Other speakers were Governors D. W. Davis of Idaho, chairman of the reclamation association, T. E. Campbell, of Arizona, and former Senator Catron of New Mexico. All urged passage of the bill of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, which has been reported favorably to the senate proposing appropriations of $250,000,000 for irrigation projects. It was suggested that if direct appropriations were not favored by congress a bond issue be authorized.

Neither Dead Nor Even Sleeping

Much has been said by the Carrizozo papers in the past concerning the New State Oil & Gas Company and much remains to be said in the future and because we have not spoken about the doings of this important company for the past few weeks is by no means an evidence that it has ceased operations or for one moment diverted its attention from the purpose for which it was organized.

The members of the New State Oil & Gas Co. are business men of Carrizozo and at the close of the old year their respective lines of business demanded a certain amount of their time which they were compelled to give and this has kept them temporarily out of the field, but from now on, they will be actively engaged in the work of securing leases from those who well understand why they have not been visited of late. In the meantime, the company has secured many leases from parties knowing the temporary inability of the members to visit them, have appeared and closed deals on the strength of their faith in the proposition and the men at the head of the movement. From now on the work will be pushed with renewed vigor and those wishing to keep in touch with the movements of the company will do well to watch the papers. The oil boom is coming; watch our smoke.

Apron and Candy Sale Highly Successful

As previously announced in this paper, the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal Church conducted an apron and candy sale this afternoon at the office rooms of Mr. Wm. Reilly, the same being successful from both a social and financial standpoint. The aprons sold rapidly the supply being exhausted before the affair had fairly started. The candy suffered the same fate. Cake and coffee was served to patrons who gathered to partake of the spread prepared and served by members of the Guild. The affair lasted throughout the afternoon. The "Joy Makers," Ferguson, Pitts and Bamberger furnished their usual display of musical talent and Mr. John Brannick added his contribution to the joyful affair by rendering several well selected solos accompanied by the "Joy Makers." The sale netted about seventy dollars, and the ladies of the Guild are to be congratulated.

New York Dentist Killed With Hatchet

New York, Jan. 14.—The body of J. D. Hanania, a dentist, who had been murdered with a hatchet, was found in his office today by his mother.

A man recently released from Sing Sing prison on parole after serving a term for a murderous assault on a member of the dentist's family, is being sought by the police. They learned that a man answering the description of the convict was seen climbing down a fire escape of the building shortly before the body was found.

The chief county medical examiner said it was the most brutal murder he had seen in all his experience.

Strange Malady Like Cholera in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 14.—Five hundred of the 2,000 inhabitants of Shiavook, Tulsa county, are seriously ill of a strange malady which has baffled the physicians, according to reports to the state health department here. Several deaths have occurred. In the opinion of one physician, the disease is a mild form of cholera. It begins with an attack of dysentery and causes a losing of weight, according to the report. The state health department will send three physicians and 10 inspectors to the town tomorrow.

Aviatrix Is Killed

Casper, Wyo., Jan. 14.—Maud Toomey, 23, was so seriously injured that she died and Lieut. Bert Cole, pilot, was less seriously injured as the result of a fall of 500 feet in an airplane today as the machine was attempting to land at the Casper hangar.

Jury Finds Harry New Guilty

The jury in the murder case of Harry New just terminated at Los Angeles rendered a verdict with the following clause: "We find him sane and guilty of murder, but we are not sure even now whether he is sane or insane and we do not want the responsibility of deciding it, so we return to have the court investigate it." This is the most remarkable verdict turned into the courts in the knowledge of jurists from the fact that the jury dodges the issue of insanity by throwing the burden back to the shoulders of the court after admitting the sanity of the defendant and following this with a verdict of guilty in the first clause.

The case which has occupied the attention of the people along the coast for some time is one in which the defendant while pleading guilty on the charge of murdering his sweetheart, his attorneys have from the first battled with the argument that New was insane at the time of the crime. There being an endless amount of money on the side of the defense, has caused much speculation as to what the findings of the jury would be and now that the jury has finished in such queer fashion it will be a hard matter to decide just what the court will do, or what the outcome of the entire case will be. He showed no signs of emotion on being led back to jail and when asked as to what he thought of the verdict he said: "It didn't jolt me any."

New Mex. Tax Commission Fixes Valuation on Lands

Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 15.—The state tax commission has fixed the minimum valuation of grazing lands in New Mexico for 1920, ranging from $2.25 an acre in regions of light rainfall to $3.75 an acre in districts where there is more annual rainfall.

The state is divided into eight districts for assessment purposes, as follows:

- First—Colfax, Mora, San Miguel and Union counties, $3.75 an acre.
- Second—Quay, Curry, Roosevelt, Lea, $3.75.
- Third—Guadalupe, De Baca, Chavez, Eddy, $3.25.
- Fourth—Otero, Lincoln, Torrance, Santa Fe, $3.
- Fifth—Taos, Rio Arriba, San Juan and Sandoval, and Socorro north of base line, $2.25.
- Sixth—Bernalillo, McKinley, Valencia, $2.25.
- Seventh—Socorro, south of base line, Grant and Sierra, west of range 6 west, $3.
- Eighth—Sierra, east of range 6 west, Hidalgo, Dona Ana and Luna, $2.75.

Enormous Increase

The crop reports for Arizona for 1919 show a gain of $30,000,000 over those of 1918. The total value of all crops, except livestock, is placed at $51,758,000, of which the total amount for cotton is $27,000,000.

Prof. Hall of Silver City Normal Here

Prof. W. O. Hall, president of the Silver City Normal, visited our city Wednesday and Thursday of the present week, in the interest of education. Dr. Hall gave a very interesting talk at the schools which was well received. He finds that in his tour of this section of the state, less than 2% of the pupils are contemplating entering the teaching profession. Dr. Hall was the guest of Dr. Cole of the Carrizozo schools and Mrs. M. L. Blaney, County School Superintendent. In another portion of the Outlook, appears an article under the head of "Remarkable Opportunity" which should be read by every teacher in Lincoln county. Dr. Hall is one of the kind of educators, who besides leaving pleasant remembrances with those he comes in contact, creates a standing invitation to repeat his visit.

Pankey Buys 24,000 Acres Of Land West of Santa Fe

Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 15.—Twenty-four thousand acres of land have been purchased from the La Majada land grant by Lieut. Gov. B. F. Pankey for approximately $7,000.

This new property, with the adjoining Caja del Rio grant, acquired by Mr. Pankey some time ago, gives him a 94,000 acre ranch just west of Santa Fe.

Mr. Pankey has leased the grant to Kansas City oil men for development.

Negroes Ask State For Free Nation

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Establishment of a separate state under the protectorate of the United States for the segregation of the nation's negro population was advocated before the house judiciary committee today by representatives of the negro race.

Dr. Moses Madden, of St. Louis, told the committee a state should be established along the Rio Grande on territory ceded by Mexico and the state of Texas, and that it should be inhabited and administered entirely by negroes under the general protection of the United States.

China Hog Brings $35,000 At Auction

Noblesville, Ind., Jan. 15.—Chief's Best, a spotted Poland China hog, brought $35,000 in a sale this week. The hog belonged to Frank Wise and was purchased by Wycoff and Simazon, representing an Iowa state breeders' association. A sow brought $8,000 at the sale. Forty head which were sold brought a total of $64,380.

Over From Glencoe

Will T. Coe was over from Glencoe Wednesday. Mr. Coe always brings good news from his locality concerning stock and range; the present conditions being far better than usual.

ARRANGEMENT COMPLETED FOR DRY LAW

Everything In Readiness to Turn Wheels of Water Mill January 16. Fruit Juices? No!

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Prohibition commissioner Kramer completed organization of the machinery for the enforcement of constitutional prohibition after the amendment and the enforcement law become effective at midnight tomorrow night. Commissioners have been appointed for practically all states as well as for the districts into which the country has been divided for purposes of enforcement of the law.

The export of intoxicating liquors will cease with the coming into force of the amendment. An enormous amount of whisky has been sent out of the country within the past few weeks, but large stocks still remain in bonded warehouses and its disposition will be watched closely to prevent illegal sales.

Lucky Oil Fans

About nine months ago, a certain J. W. Smith, of Dexter, Kansas, a close friend of B. L. Stimmel wired that he was at the head of an oil company and had reserved two shares, thinking his friend might take the advantage of what he, Mr. Smith, considered a good bet. Shortly after the receipt of the message, Mr. Lin Branum stepped into the office of the Live Stock Commission Company. Mr. Stimmel made mention of receiving the wire, whereupon Mr. Branum asked if he might be a chance taker, to which Mr. Stimmel agreed and the money was at once dispatched to Mr. Smith. Nothing more was thought of the matter until the first of the present week when these gentlemen received the news that a good flowing well had been obtained on the holdings and another was under headway in which they have the fondest hopes of a gusher.

Happy Reunion

The Straley sisters of Ancho, who have for the past three months been at El Paso, came home about the first of the year to welcome their brother Spurgeon, who had just arrived from foreign service. Spurgeon has had an experience which as he puts it, has been worth more than money to him. He was, for a long period stationed at a certain port in Siberia after which he visited Japan, China and was fortunate in being among those of our boys who were treated to a pleasant sojourn at the beautiful, dream city of Honolulu. Spurgeon says that the service was to him more of a grand opportunity than one of service. He feels proud of the fact that he was able to do his part in the world war and would gladly repeat what he has undergone in the service of his Uncle Sam.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

Night had settled when Dave left the office. A soft wind blew from the southwest; June was in the air. June too, was in Dave's heart as he walked the few blocks to his bachelor quarters. What of the drab injustice of business? Let him forget that; now it was night . . . and she had called him Dave.

He dressed with care. It was not until he was about to leave his rooms that he remembered he must dine alone; he had been dressing for her, unconsciously. The realization brought him up with something of a shock. "This will never do," he said. "I can't eat alone tonight, and I can't ask Irene, so soon after the incident with her mother. I know—Bert Morrison."

He reached for the telephone and rang her number. Her number did not answer. He thought of Edith Duncan. But Edith lived at home, and it was much too late to extend a formal dinner invitation. There was nothing for it but to eat alone. He suddenly became conscious of the great loneliness of his bachelor life. The charm of bachelorhood was a myth which only needed contact with the gentle atmosphere of feminine affection to be exposed. He took his hat and coat and went into the street. It was his custom to take his meals at a modest eating-place on a side-avenue, but tonight he directed his steps to the best hotel the city afforded. There was no wisdom in dressing for an event unless he was going to defeat his course somewhat from the daily routine.

The dining hall was a blaze of light. Dave paused for a moment, awaiting the look of a waiter, but in that moment his eye fell on Conward, seated at a table with Mrs. Hardy and Irene. Conward had seen him and was motioning to him to join them. The situation was embarrassing, and yet delightful. He was glad he had dressed for dinner.

"Join us, Edden," Conward said, as he reached their table. "Just a little dinner to celebrate today's transaction. You will not refuse to share to that extent?"

Dave looked at Mrs. Hardy. Had he been looking with Conward and Mrs. Hardy alone he would have excused himself, but he had to think of Irene. That is, he had to justify her by being correct in his manners.

"Do join us," said Mrs. Hardy. It was evident to Mrs. Hardy that it would be correct for her to support Mr. Conward's invitation. "Yes, you are very kind," said Dave as he seated himself. "I had not hoped for this pleasure." And yet the pleasure was not unmingled. He felt that Conward had outplayed him. It was Conward who had done the gracious thing, and Dave could not prevent Conward doing the gracious thing without himself being ungracious.

After dinner they sat in the lounge room, and Conward begged the time with stories of sudden wealth which had been practically forced upon men crue to her therefrom was very obvious.

Edden was glad when Mrs. Hardy remembered that she must not remain up late. Her physician had prescribed rest. Early to bed, you know. Dave had opportunity for just a word with Irene before they left.

"How did this happen—tonight?" he asked, with the calm assumption of one who has a right to know.

"Oh, Mr. Conward telephoned an invitation to mother," she explained, "I was so glad you happened in. You have had wonderful experiences. Mr. Conward is charming, isn't he?"

Dave did not know whether the compliment to Conward was a personal matter concerning his partner or whether it was to be taken as a courtesy to the firm. In either case he rather resented it. He wondered what Irene would think of this "ennobling" business in the drab days of disillusionment that must soon sweep down upon them. But Irene apparently did not miss his answer.

"We shall soon be settled," she said as Mrs. Hardy and Conward were seen approaching. "Then you will come and visit us?"

"I will—Reenie," he whispered, and he was sure the color that mounted to her cheeks held no tinge of displeasure.

CHAPTER X.

Edden lost no time in making his first call upon the Hardys. Irene received him cordially, but Mrs. Hardy evinced no more warmth than propriety demanded. Edden, however, allowed himself no annoyance over that. A very much greater grievance had been thrust upon his mind. Conward had preceded him and was already a guest of the Hardys.

Dave knew Conward well enough to know that purpose always lay behind his conduct, and during the small talk with which they whiled away an hour his mind was reaching out acutely, exploring every nook of possibility, to arrive if it could at some explanation of the sudden interest which Conward was displaying in the Hardys. These explanations narrowed down to two almost equally unpalatable. Conward was deliberately setting about to capture the friendship, perhaps the affection, of either Mrs. Hardy or Irene. Strangely enough, Edden was more irritated by the former alternative than by the latter. Perhaps this attitude was due to subconscious recognition of the fact that he had much more to fear from Conward as a suitor for the hand of Mrs. Hardy than as a rival for that of Irene. Conward as a prospective father-in-law was a more grievous menace to his peace of mind than Conward as a defeated rival.

The more he contemplated this aspect of the case the less he liked it. To Conward the affair could be nothing more than an adventure, but it would give him a position of a sort of semi-parental authority over both Irene and Edden.

When at length Mrs. Hardy began to show signs of weariness Irene served coffee and cake, and the two men, talking that as an intimation that their welcome had run down, but would revive itself if not too continually drawn upon, left the house together. On their way they agreed that it was a very delightful night.

Dave turned the situation over in his mind with some impatience. Irene had now been in the city for several weeks, and he had had opportunity for scarce a dozen personal words with her. Was he to be balked by such an insufferable chaperonage as it seemed the purpose of Mrs. Hardy and Conward to establish over his love affair? No. In the act of undressing he told himself, "No," sulking to the word such vigor of behavior that in the morning he found his shoes at opposite corners of the room.

Several days passed without any word from Irene, and he had almost made up his mind to attempt another telephone appointment, when he met her, quite accidentally, in the street. She had been shopping, she said. The duty of household purchases fell mainly upon her. Her mother rested in the afternoon.

"How about a cup of tea," said Dave. "And a thin sandwich? One can always count on thin sandwiches and delicate morsels of cake. Their function is purely a social one, having no relation to the physical requirements."

"I should be very glad," said Irene. They found a quiet waitress. When they were seated Dave, without preliminary, plunged into the subject nearest his heart.

"I have been wanting an opportunity to talk to you—wanting it for weeks," he said. "But it always seemed—"

"Always, seemed that you were thwarted," Irene completed his thought. "You didn't disguise your annoyance very well the other night."

"Do you blame me for being annoyed?"

"No. But I rather blame you for showing it. You see I was annoyed too."

"Then you had nothing to do with—bringing about the situation that existed?"

"Certainly not. Surely you do not think that I would—that I would—"

"I beg your pardon, Reenie," said Dave, contritely. "I should have known better. But it seemed such a strong coincidence."

She was toying with her cup, and for once her eyes avoided him. "You should hardly think, Dave," she ventured—"you should hardly conclude that—that has been, you know, gives you the right—entitles you—"

"To a monopoly of your attentions? Perhaps not. But it gives me the right to a fair chance to win a monopoly of your attentions."

He was speaking low and earnestly, and his voice had a deep, rich timbre in it that thrilled and almost frightened her. She could not resent his straightforwardness. She felt that he was already asserting his claim upon her, and there was something tender and delightful in the sense of being claimed by such a man.

"Marriage Means So Much More to a Woman Than It Does to a Man. You Don't Think So, but It Does."

"I must have a fair chance to win that monopoly," he repeated. "How did it happen that Conward was present?"

"I don't know. It just happened. A little after you telephoned we he called up and asked for mother, and the next thing I knew she said he was coming up to spend the evening."

Dave dropped into a sudden reverie. It was not so remarkable as it seemed that Conward should have telephoned Mrs. Hardy almost immediately after he had used the line. Conward's telephone and Dave's were on the same circuit; it was a simple matter for Conward, if he had happened to lift the receiver during Dave's conversation with Irene, to overhear all that was said. That might happen accidentally; at least it might happen innocently enough. The fact that Conward had acted upon the information indicated two things: first, that he had no very troublesome sense of honor—which Dave had long suspected—and second, that he had deliberately planned a confabulation with Dave's visit to the Hardy home. This indicated a policy of some kind; a scheme deeper than Dave was as yet able to fathom. He would at least guard against any further eavesdropping on his telephone.

He took a card from his pocket and made some figures on it. "If you should have occasion to call me at the office at any time please use that number and ask for me," he said. "It is the accountant's number. There's a reason."

The cups were empty; the sandwiches and cake were gone, but they lingered on.

"I have been wondering," Dave ventured, at length, "just where I stand with you. You remember our agreement?"

She averted her eyes but her voice was steady. "You have observed the terms?" she said.

"Yes, in all essential matters. I come to you now, in accordance with those terms. You said, and now we would know. Now I know; know as I have always known since those wonderful days in the foothills; those days from which I date my existence."

"I realize that I owe you an answer now, Dave," she said frankly. "And I find it very hard to make that answer. Marriage means so much more to a woman than it does to a man. . . . Don't misunderstand me, Dave. I would be ashamed to say I doubt myself or that I don't know my mind, but you and I are no longer boy and girl. We are man and woman now. And I just want time—just want time to be sure that—that—"

"I suppose you are right," he answered. "I will not try to hurry your decision. I will only try to give you an opportunity to know—to be sure, as you said. Then, when you are sure, you will speak. I will not reopen the subject."

His words had something of the ring of an ultimatum, but no endearments that his lips might have uttered could have gripped her heart so surely. She knew they were the words of a man in deadly earnest, a man who had himself in hand, a man who made love with the same serious purpose as he had employed in the other projects of his successful life. Had it not been for some strange sense of shame—some fear that too ready capitulation might be mistaken for weakness—she would have surrendered then.

"I think that is best," she managed to say. "We will let our acquaintanceship ripen."

He rose and helped her with her light wrap. His fingers touched her hand and it seemed to him the battle was won. . . . But he had promised not to reopen the subject.

In the street he said, "If you will wait a moment I will take you home in my car."

EATS IN PECULIAR POSITION

Flamingo Forced to Contortions Because Its Upper Jaw, Not the Lower, is Movable.

Nature has so created the beautiful flamingo that he does some things both backwards and upside down. For one thing, he eats with the crown of his head on the ground. In the bottom of some shallow stream. From one glance at his jaw one would think it was badly broken. Instead, his bill is in perfect working order, only things are reversed with it, and his lower jaw is securely fixed, while his upper jaw is movable. Both portions of his big beak are arranged in a series of thin plates, like the bills of all members of the duck family, so that he can easily sift the nice squirming things he likes from the soft mud.

Flamingoes frequent salt marshes, and when these become dry will then go long distance to find others. Florida used to be the birds' happy hunting ground and many lovely members of the family could be met in other countries. Very few of them are left now, and those surviving are very shy of the hunter, and seldom seen. Very few are left in this country, and bird lovers predict that in a few years more they will become extinct.

Red Hair.

A perturbed correspondent of the Indianapolis News raises an interesting question. Do women, he wishes to know, shun red-headed men and, if so, why? His own hair is of the hue sometimes thoughtlessly and inaccurately described as carrot colored. Hence the query is of vital personal importance. He has given the matrimonial question "serious consideration," but each time has been met with discouragement due, he believes, solely to the tinge of his hair. The matter is one calling for the thoughtful attention of the philosopher and the sociologist. If women generally are fretting on the matrimonial offers of red-haired men, the future of the race is threatened. Was it not a red-haired man who fired the first shot in the American war against the Hun? Society cannot afford to lose the red-head temperament because of the perplexing perversity of marriageable women. The red-head will be needed for the next war, or if there is no next war, whenever and wherever trouble is brewing.

Money in Seaweed.

All along the coast of Norway seaweed is gathered and burned. This seaweed grows in veritable forests, and is not of the common grass variety. In fact, there are actual trees of it five or six feet high, with stems like ropes and leaves tough as leather. They begin to sprout early in the year and cover the ocean bed with a dense, impenetrable brush.

As a source of income the seaweed industry now surpasses the fisheries, and it is more valuable than agriculture, even in one of the leading farming districts of Norway. Owners of land abutting on the seashore reap a great harvest.

After the weeds have been burned the ashes are exported to England, where valuable chemical substances are extracted from them. The most important of these products is iodine.

The Brighter Side.

"Well, did the captain of industry see you?"

"No," replied Mr. Gadspar. "You heard up well under the disappointment."

"Yes. You should have seen his private secretary. It was a pleasure to be turned down by such a rare combination of feminine tact and loveliness." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

who were now regarded as the business framework of the country. As these worthies strolled through the richly furnished room, leisurely smoking their after-dinner cigars, Conward would make a swift summary of their rise from liverman, cow puncher, clerk or laborer to their present affluence, occasionally appealing to Dave to corroborate his statements. It was particularly distasteful to him to be obliged to add his word to Conward's in such matters, for, although Conward carefully refrained from making any direct reference to Mrs. Hardy's purchase the inference that great profits would be

Denver Stock Show

Everybody is getting ready to take in the 14th Annual National Western Stock Show at Denver, which opens Saturday, January 17, with the Students' Judging Contest, when the judging teams from several western agricultural colleges will compete. The show proper will open on Monday morning, January 19, with judging in all of the departments. The entries are all in and the management is having one of the greatest problems it has ever struggled with to find room for the hundreds of exhibits that are seeking admission. Altho over $100,000 was spent during the past year for the purpose of enlarging facilities the annual show has grown so rapidly that the problem of finding room continues to be the pressing one.

Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois has promised to visit the Stock Show during the week. Gov. Lowden is one of the best stockmen of the country and has made a wonderful reputation as governor during the past two years. He will probably be the guest of the show association on Thursday and Friday of the Show Week. The fact that he is being actively pushed for the nomination of president of the United States makes him a personality of more than usual interest.

Shirly Lenain of Encinosa spent Tuesday in town.

New Mexico and Arizona

Excitement is running high in the Chloride-Kerwin-Arizona oil field. Gas is bubbling out of the ground continuously and oil sediments form on top of the water in the water holes in that locality.

The annual meeting of the New Mexico Public Health Association, which was to have been held in Albuquerque, N. M., on Jan. 5, has been postponed until Jan. 27, according to an announcement made by the executive secretary.

The eyes of scouts for the big oil companies and others equally as much interested in the striking of oil in New Mexico are now turned toward the McEee well southeast of Tucuman. It will be the first deep well in the state to strike the formation at which, following geologists' predictions, oil is expected to be found.

January 10 and 20 has been selected by the Arizona Daily Newspaper Association as the dates on which the meeting of the association at Nogales will be held. On the dates mentioned, publishers or representatives of publishers of Arizona and El Paso newspapers will gather at Nogales for the third meeting of the association.

The fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1919, shows that the land office has transferred to the state treasurer the net sum of $1,002,430.78. This does not include the unused balances of the maintenance fund.

A formal invitation was sent to General Pershing by the Chamber of Commerce, to spend Friday, Jan. 30, at Phoenix, as the guest of the city. J. B. Shumate, acting president of the Settlers' Ditch & Reservoir Co. of Taos, N. M., has filed with the state engineer application for extension of time to complete irrigation works to Dec. 20, 1920, and beneficial use of water till June 28, 1921. This project proposes to divert water from Aguayo do la Petaca, a tributary of the Rio Grande.

The New Mexico National Guard will be reorganized, Adj. Gen. James Baca has announced. The boundary between New Mexico and Arizona is not a true north and south line, but is about a mile out of line at its southern extremity, it was stated by Col. James H. McKittrick, state historian. ## Watch the Little Pimples; They are Nature's Warning

Unightly and Disfiguring Signs of Bad Blood.

Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from Nature that your blood is sluggish and impoverished. Sometimes they foretell eczema, boils, blisters, and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

They mean that your blood needs S. S. S. to cleanse it of these impure accumulations that can cause unlimited trouble. This remedy is one of the greatest vegetable compounds known, and contains no minerals or chemicals to injure the most delicate skin.

Go to your drug store, and get a bottle of S. S. S. today, get rid of those unsightly, disfiguring pimples, and other skin irritations. It will cleanse your blood thoroughly. For special medical advice free, address Medical Director, 41 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Complicated Accounts. "I can't see 17 cents worth of milk and sugar in an ice cream soda," exclaimed the man who persists in talking about what he can't help.

"Retainer," said the store manager, "you must pay for labor, as well as material."

"The labor of drawing the soda isn't so much."

"No. But think about the labor of making change."

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not scorch the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

SEEMED TO BE LEFT OUT

American Found It Somewhat Hard to Tell Just Where the Flowery Kingdom Was.

The system under which the old diplomacy functioned in China was to grant concessions to foreign nationals for railways having industrial or political advantages. Often concessions were obtained merely for future trading purposes or to block the game of some other national. About 1912, William F. Carey of the Sierra-Carey Railway and Canal company went to Peking, and in a short time obtained five concessions.

Each one of these was a development project. It was Mr. Carey's debut as a concessionaire, Elias Bent writes in Asia Magazine. And it is related that in making himself acquainted with the mysteries of the situation he visited the charge at the Russian legation. As the two stood looking at a map the Russian interpreted China's geography. He explained that the Yangtze valley was English (meaning that it was a British sphere of influence), that Yunnan was French, that Kukien and Manchuria were Japanese, and that Mongolia was Russian.

Mr. Carey stood silent a few moments, intently inspecting the map, and then looked up.

"But where is China?" he asked.

Music's Magic.

Flatbush—You know music has a wonderful influence over us.

Bensonhurst—I know it.

Flatbush—Did you ever feel the power of a singer over you?

Bensonhurst—Oh, yes, often; I married one you know.—Yonkers Statesman.

The fool who "rushes in where angels fear to tread" sometimes proves himself to be an angel in disguise.

Unhappy Faculty. "Some people have a faculty for saying the wrong thing."

Let the Money Work

The Muskogee Times-Democrat
 narrates a sad story about a certain Mrs. Murphy, who went to her fruit jar bank one day and found that someone had taken the savings of many years, to wit, eight hundred dollars.

The money in the fruit jar was idle. It was out of circulation.
 It was rendering no service to anyone.

Yet there are hundreds of persons in every community who are handling money in the same foolish unproductive way.

Whatever is said about banks, money placed in them is more safe and a basis of credit.

Bank deposits add to the credit of the individual, the bank and the community, in resources and stability.

Always a certain percentage of deposits are loaned out to carry on industries, business enterprises and to employ labor.

On top of this banks are reaching out to help the farmer enlarge his herds, improve his equipment and increase production.

What One Sees When Sauntering Around

Dropping in at the office and sales rooms of Garrard & Corn one day this week, a newspaper man on the hunt for news
 "N Everything" experienced a surprise that at first was hardly believable. The store room was filled with the most complete stock of tires and automobile accessories he has ever seen contained in a room of that size. The firm has just received a large shipment of the famous Mc-Creary tires of all sizes from 30 to 36 x 4 1/2 and a guarantee goes with every tire for a 6000 mile service. The McCreary tires handled by Garrard & Corn, who are the exclusive agents, are in a class to themselves; the cotton fabric used is from the longest fibro in the world and consequently the strongest. Beside this, the entire structure is HAND MADE. The casings are moulded in one piece which offers the most intense resistance to violent attacks from rough roads, a trouble so common to automobile owners and one which has heretofore been so hard to overcome.

The inner tubes are made of the toughest of material and instead of being a mere film, they are about 1/4 of an inch in thickness and BUILT FOR SER- VICE. The McCreary Tires and inner tubes are newcomers in Carrizozo and in making their initial bow to the automobile public they hold aloft the 6000 mile guarantee backed by the manufacturers and Garrard & Corn the dealers—What more could we want? While the guarantee is 6000 miles, some have offered sworn affidavits to the effect that they have had twice that amount of service and are still going. The news hunter's curiosity being excited made further inquiries which Mr. Garrard responded to with his usual kindness and courtesy. Accessories innumerable were shown to the news fiend, from the smallest screw to the largest part of the automobile and a full, complete line of automobile necessities.
 "Every Little Accessory Had a Movement of Its Own." "What a wonderful automobile Santa Claus shop" mused the news guy, as he bid Mr. Garrard goodbye, thanking him for advance favors of courtesy. 2t

LAMBS FATTENED FOR MARKETING

From 3 to 5 Months Is About Right Age Under Ordinary Farm Conditions.

MAKE HIGHER RATE OF GAIN

During Heat of Summer They Are More Liable to Losses From Parasites—Breeder Also Gets Use of His Money Earlier.

Under ordinary farm conditions lambs should be made ready for market at from 3 to 5 months of age. When young they make a higher rate of gain and will put on the same amount of flesh for less cost than when they are older. Then, too, they will make but small gains during the heat of summer, and at this time parasites are most troublesome and they are thus more liable to losses from this cause. Risk of accidents is always higher when the lambs are held for a long time. More feed is saved for the breeding flock, and less labor is needed if the lambs are sold early. Better prices are obtained in the spring because of not having to meet the competition of the western lambs that are marketed during the summer and fall, and in addition the grower gets the use of his money sooner by pushing the lambs to a marketable condition as fast as possible.

Teaching Lambs to Eat.

Every effort should be made to keep the lambs growing from the start. The first essential is to teach them to eat. Liberal feeding of lambs dropped before pastures are ready is profitable under any ordinary grain prices. This is best done through the use of a small inclosure known as a "creep," to which the lambs have access at all times, but into which the ewes can not come. The creep should contain a rack for hay and a trough for grain, so arranged that the lambs can not get their feet into them.

All feed given, especially ground feed, should be clean, fresh, and free from mold. The lambs will begin to nibble at the feed when from 10 to 15 days of age. Pea-green alfalfa of the second or third cutting is one of the most reliable feeds. Flaky, sweet bran probably ranks next. For the first few days these are the ideal feeds. A little brown sugar on the bran at first will make it more palatable. Linseed meal is also good when mixed with bran. Until the lambs are 5 to 6 weeks old their feed should be coarse ground or crushed.

Corn Ration for Lambs.

The Ohio experiment station has found that for young lambs that are to be marketed a grain ration of corn is of about the same value as one of corn 5 parts, oats 2 parts, bran 2 parts and oil. Oil meal is especially relished by lambs at this time and would be

HORSERADISH IS GOOD CROP

Quite Profitable if Farmer Can Prepare Grated Article and Sell at Retail.

Horseradish is a profitable crop to grow if one can prepare the grated article and sell it to retail customers. In this way the entire profits remain with the grower. The preparing and bottling may be done during the winter when outside work is at a standstill.

LITTLE SIFTING WINDS HURT

Air Getting Into Barns Through Small Cracks and Hitting Inactive Animals Is Harmful.

The little sifting wind that gets in through a small crack is the one that does the damage in the barn and hay barn, striking the inactive animal in a single spot. Stop these little cracks, thus insuring the comfort of the animals and saving feed.

especially valuable in promoting growth rather than fat.

Such feeds as middlings are too floury for extensive use. Rye is less palatable than oats or barley. Soy beans may replace the linseed meal if they cost less. Cleanliness is an important factor in keeping the lambs growing. Always feed in an empty trough, and if it becomes soiled scrub it out with limewater.

HANDY RACK HANDLES EVERYTHING ON FARM

Especially Useful in Carrying Crops to Market.

No Danger of Load of Produce Slipping After It Has Been Placed Inside of Boards—Big Saving Made in Hauling Seeds.

Several farmers here have a handy rack for handling almost everything on the farm. Especially are they meant for crops which are taken to the market or cellar in crates or boxes. The best and cheapest one I have seen is 14 feet long, 6 feet wide, with sideboards 14 inches high, writes H. E. Rogers of Ohio in Farm and Home. The floor is solid of matched lumber one inch thick. The two stringers which run lengthwise are 4 1/2 by 6 1/2 inches and 14 feet long.

Around the outside there is a piece 2 by 2 which is used for holding the sideboards in place when they are wanted. Along the sides there are four holes in the floor next to the strips, which take one-half inch iron bolts fastened to the bottom of the sideboards. This makes everything hold solid and there is no danger of a load of produce slipping after it is inside the boards. The side and end boards are held together by a short rod bolted on the end boards with a ring in the end. Another bolt comes through the side board with a hook in the end of it. These two join and are easily turned up tight.

On this rack, with no sides on, we hauled onions, and put on 75 bushel crates. This rack on a low wagon is hard to beat. There is hardly a place where either a rack or a box is used that this sort of rack will not do the business of both. When thrashing there is a rack with no holes to let your legs down through when you don't look where you step. In hauling seeded grain, such as clover, a tight rack means a mighty big saving in the seeds that are bound to shell.

FEEDING SKIM MILK TO PIGS

Resume of Many Tests Made for Purpose of Ascertaining Most Economical Method.

A good many tests have been made for the purpose of ascertaining the most economical way of feeding skim milk to hogs. A resume of the work done along this line at the Indiana, New York, Iowa, Wisconsin and Ontario experiment stations shows that young pigs, that is, pigs weighing less than 100 pounds, may be fed as much as three pounds of skim milk per pound of grain, and by grain we mean any one of the cereals fed singly, or a number of them together. As pigs grow older the amount of skim milk should be reduced to about two pounds per pound of grain. The reason for this is that less protein is required as the pigs grow older and still less is required during the fattening period.

SERIOUS NEW PEST OF WHEAT

Helworm Has Done Much Damage in Virginia and Other States—Plant Only Clean Seed.

The helworm is a serious new pest of wheat which has recently done much damage in Virginia, and to a lesser extent in West Virginia, Maryland and California. The disease may be recognized in the threshed grain by the presence of hard, dark-colored galls, about one-half the size of a wheat kernel, which are easily overlooked or mistaken for dust, cockle seed or bit-burnt wheat. Plant only clean seed wheat from fields which have not been infested. The loss in some Virginia fields amounted to as much as 40 per cent.

Protection for Poultry.

Excellent Hog Feed.

After an unsuccessful attempt, he escaped from a German prison and gave the information to the allies.

Peddlers Join in Singing.

The Breston onion seller, writes a correspondent, was, up till the war, a familiar figure in the Highlands of Scotland.

One day, in Calithness, I was playing some of Theodore Botrel's songs on the piano, when to my surprise a pair of lusty voices joined in.

Two onion sellers, hearing me from the road, had come up to the window to enjoy the melodies of their homeland.

We kept up a concert for over half an hour, to the extreme delight of all the small boys in the vicinity.

A Drop in the Bucket

Every householder's expenses are divided into a number of items; food, rent, clothing, fuel and light, house-furnishings, insurance, education and amusements, sickness—and the telephone.

Of all these items of expense, the telephone bill is one of the least, being a very small per cent of the total cost.

For a trifling sum at most you have constantly at your command millions of dollars worth of property and the service of skilled workers.

In business the cost of the telephone is frequently an even smaller proportion of the overhead expense, than in the household.

It only needs an emergency to bring it home to any subscriber that the telephone is worth many times its cost.

In the face of today's high costs the telephone is a bargain; and a daily economy for every subscriber.

News From The Duran Drilling Project

Mr. Otto Fallin, Treasurer of the Corona-Tularosa Basin Oil Company now drilling at Duran was in town Saturday and tells of the great possibilities of the project which was attempted a short time ago. Mr. Fallin says that in beginning, the boiler used was to some extent defective but the company wired for a new one and are drilling with the defective one until the good boiler arrives. The geologist, Mr. C. B. Fay, who located the spot where the drilling is in progress claims that the first oil strata will be reached at the depth of 700 feet. His observations have led him to the scientific fact that 3000 feet must be drilled before the final strata is reached which contains the paying quantities of oil.

With the new boiler, rapid progress will be made; the company have the men, tools and equipment necessary to complete the project and the work will be pushed with vim and vigor after the old boiler is discarded. Mr. Fay is an experienced geologist and will be on the ground to give instructions as the drilling proceeds. The OUTLOOK will give the readers the news as the work continues. The land adjacent to the drilling is being taken up as fast as the deals can be consummated; of the 64 tracts Mr. Wetmore lately put on the market, but few remain and those wishing a hand in the game should get busy.

Should women be put on trial for their faults? And should they be tried by men? Are their so-called weaknesses due to the mediocre demands of men? Do women know how to stick to ideals that are not social assets? What is the type of girl that invariably becomes an old maid? Do men put a premium on virtue?

These are a few of the questions that are discussed and answered in a tremendously stimulating article called "Supply and Demand." Every women in America owes it to herself to read it.

Albuquerque, Jan. 14.—The next meeting of the executive board of New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' Association will be held in the Carlsbad Armory at Carlsbad, New Mexico, February 4 and 5, 1920.

This is the last executive board meeting of the year and coming as it does just after the Annual Convention of the American National Live Stock Association at Spokane, Wash., to promises to be one of unusual interest to all stockmen whether they are as yet members of the association or not, as delegates from the state association will attend this meeting and give a detailed report of the many questions of importance to livestock men which will be discussed at the National Convention.

It is the desire of the association that all stockmen who are interested in the industry in which they are engaged attend this meeting. Anything of local import brought before this meeting will have the utmost consideration of the executive board as well as all state and national questions of the day.

Plans will also be made at this meeting for the annual convention of the association which will be held in Roswell, New Mexico some time the latter part of March, date will be fixed definitely at this time.

blems. President Hall believes the State Normal should serve all the educational interests of the state, and merely those who are able to be present at school, and this is his way of doing this. Address: "Service Bureau, State Normal School, Silver City, New Mexico."

HURRICANE: "Champion of Destruction"

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

OSSESSING a longer arm of destruction than the mightiest of volcanoes, and leaving in its wake a no-man's land, rivaling war's scars across the face of Europe, the hurricane is chief among natural forces contending for the title, "champion of destruction."

To fight the hurricane offensively is folly. For ages mankind has been able to wage only a defensive war against its terrifying "drives" and these efforts have been, until modern times, pitifully feeble. Man's only defense is to be forewarned. That it has been possible in the present generation to reduce death toll of hurricanes to a minimum, is due to the marvelous service maintained by the United States weather bureau.

The headquarters of the weather bureau, located quite to one side of main-traveled thoroughfares in the national capital, are the nerve-center of this unique organization which extends across the continent and also far out to sea, since many vessels cooperate with the bureau by making daily reports to it.

Great Storm Sighted.
Early in September a hurricane, destined to devastate a wide area bordering the Gulf of Mexico, reared its head like a great monster a thousand miles to the southeast of the United States, among the islands of the Caribbean. As to what gave it birth not even the scientist knows. The forces that propagate all of these storms are shrouded in mystery. This particular hurricane was born in remote tropical waters, probably about September 5. A few hundred miles north of this center of disturbance the sea was relatively calm and passengers on steamers passing this way had no intimation of the terrific force that was generating off to the south. Likewise, the southland of the United States lay placid, in part bathed in sunshine and in part shaded by far-stretching blankets of clouds, many of them so fleecy that to the casual observer they carried no suggestion of the coming storm. But the hurricane in the tropics gathered strength quickly and flung itself in fury over the slender chain of islands constituting the Florida keys.

In the face of every such rising peril the meteorologist upon whom rests the responsibility for making daily forecasts, stands like one facing a thief in the dark. Beyond the mainland coast and a few scattered stations in the West Indies, he has no means of learning of the changing atmospheric conditions in those seas to the south and east, save chance reports from ships. Early reports of this hurricane were meager indeed. The first intimation of the coming of disaster was received September 8. The daily forecast for that date stated that a tropical storm had appeared to the southeast of Key West. But as to its extent, or its course, the chief forecaster at that time could only conjecture.

Despite his long experience in his profession, it was inevitable that the forecaster should be anxious—every meteorologist who is forecasting at such a time is anxious. He had been on duty in seasons past when not a single hurricane appeared. But in other years between July and October more than one such storm had left a trail of devastation across many states. The forecaster knew that millions of dollars worth of cargoes, about to sail from the Atlantic and Gulf ports, might be lost if he failed to make a proper forecast and issue adequate warnings. The fate of whole cities rested on his decision. As he turned from his study of the telegraphic reports received from the eastern and southeastern section of the country, he joked a little—but in the manner of one whose joviality was a trifle forced, perhaps—about his repeated hard luck at being on duty "every time one of these storms hove in sight." There was an unmistakable tenseness in his manner as he studied the map, pointing to the low barometer area that was moving steadily toward the southern states.

Weather Forecast Correct.
The next chapter in the hurricane's brief history is told in the weather report of September 9: "The tropical storm was central Tuesday night and a little south of Key West where the barometer read 29.08 inches with a wind velocity of 60 miles an hour from the northeast. The storm is apparently moving northwestward, and will pass into the Gulf of Mexico during Tuesday night."

How speedily and decisively the forecaster had acted in the face of the oncoming peril is indicated by the next sentence: "Warnings to shipping and other interests have been regularly sent since Monday morning when storm warnings were first displayed on the south Florida coast."

The following 48 hours were laden with grave responsibility for the staff of the weather bureau. It was theirs to decide at the earliest possible moment consistent with accuracy in what direction the storm now moving with increasing power and rapidly would travel as it came nearer the mainland. On Wednesday, September 10, the report read, "The tropical storm passed Key West, Fla., about midnight Tuesday night with the barometer reading 29.81 inches, and estimated wind velocity of 110 miles an hour from the east." Here was evidence that one of the most violent storms of recent years was about to strike at some point on the Gulf coast.

This report revealed the meagerness of available information at this date regarding the progress of the hurricane: "Tonight the storm is probably central in the Gulf of Mexico, not far from latitude 26, longitude 85, still moving northwest, and northeast storm warnings are ordered on the Gulf coast from Carrabelle, Fla., to New Orleans, where the winds will probably be strong on Thursday night. Advice has also been issued to this section to prepare for possible very dangerous winds by Friday."

Defensive War Starts.
And so man's defensive war against the mighty force of nature was on. With all its scientific data regarding the course of previous storms, instantly accessible and with reports from all available points of observation tabulated and recorded on the weather map, the weather bureau foretold many hours in advance the peril that threatened the Gulf coast. Thus the people were forewarned.

It will be recalled that storm warnings were displayed regularly on the south Florida coast since Monday morning. How accurate the weather bureau's forecasts had been is shown by the press dispatches dated Wednesday night, September 10: "Lower Florida was paralyzed today as a result of the violent hurricane that passed over that section last night. Not a house in this city (Key West) escaped damage; 830 frame buildings practically were razed, two church edifices wrecked, and five retail stores overturned. The damage is estimated at more than $2,000,000. Shipping off the coast met with disaster. Several small vessels were sunk and others were driven to the reefs."

By this time the weather bureau, in its fight to keep destruction and death at the minimum, was able to act with more definiteness, even though there was no adequate means of ascertaining atmospheric conditions in the center area of the Gulf of Mexico. The report of September 11, flashed over the wires from Washington, read: "The tropical storm is apparently central tonight in the Gulf of Mexico with latitude 27 degrees and longitude 88 degrees. Absence of reports forbid the definite location of the storm center, and it is therefore impossible at this time to state the portion of the mainland that it will first reach, although it is fairly probable that it will be west of the Mississippi river. Storm warnings are displayed from the Louisiana coast eastward to central Florida and on the northwest coast of Texas."

While the hurricane was moving on its northward course additional news, brief but vivid, filtered in from points in its wake. September 11 the Associated Press representative wired: "Nine members of the Ward line steamer Corydon crew of 36 men were brought to this port this afternoon by the schooner Island Home. They had been adrift on an upturned lifeboat, without food and water for three days. One of the crew, according to their story, had become crazed, from suffering and privation Wednesday night, and sprang overboard."

In these hours the thoughts of the chief forecaster instinctively turned to Galveston, which in the past had suffered terribly from similar storms. Dispatches from that city indicated that the tide was rising rapidly. Water was flooding the low places on the island and people were fleeing the city. A 30-mile northeast storm was blowing. But for the weather bureau's timely warnings which had reached Galveston before the gale struck the city, millions of tons of cargo and scores of ships would have put to sea and would have been lost.

In the next 24 hours the storm burst upon the Texas coast in full fury. While the papers the next few days were filled with accounts of the damage and death caused by the hurricane the fact of greatest significance, and which the public has come to take almost as a matter of course, only partially realizing the skill and responsibility involved, was that the weather bureau had been able to anticipate this storm long enough in advance to prevent a loss that probably would have totaled thousands of lives and millions of dollars in shipping.

LIKE DYED LACES

Vogue for Color in Every Type of Feminine Garment.

Decoration is Being Generously Used for the High Lights of the Costume.

It may sound at first like painting the lily to talk about dyed lace, but in the tremendous vogue for brilliant color in every type of feminine garment it is not a bit surprising. After the first shock it is pleasant, in fact, to see a georgette blouse, for instance, in what is called "new" blue veiling, an underblouse of tomato red fillet lace allowed to show in the front in fillet fashion.

Lace is being used extensively for the high lights of the costume. It appears, for example, in silver to lighten up a frock of navy blue georgette. The stiff silver lace encircles the hips, giving the fashionable outstanding line, and is veiled by just one layer of the soft georgette. It edges the neck and short sleeves of the same frock.

Cafe au lait Lyons lace is used as a foil in a blouse which is lined with black chiffon and has a girdle of black net tying in a bow at the back. One of the loveliest of evening gowns is entirely of gray lace with the inevitable bright color touch in the orange ostrich pompon at one side.

Perhaps fillet lace lends itself best to dyeing, but all the fine laces are no exception to the new ruling. Sometimes, several laces are combined on one blouse. Fillet lace dyed a bright orange, for example, makes flounces over the shoulders of a shadow lace blouse dyed brown with sleeves of net in the same dark brown.

To lighten up the darker laces, the navy blue, black and brown tinsel ribbons are used. Little folded flowers of it, tiny bows and narrow twisted girdles, all serve to add to the freshness of the dyed lace blouse or frock. Beads, too, are being used to bring out the richness of dyed lace. Often they contrast with the lace, repeating the deep color of the chiffon lining or they work out the pattern of the lace itself. Metal threads are also used to bring out the lace pattern from its dusky background. Where a whole blouse of lace would be too thin and delicate to top the suit skirt, jumper blouses are made of velvet on silk duvetyne to bring the dyed laciness down to earth.

FOR THE WINDOWS AND BEDS

Simple Curtains and Quilts Add to the Beauty and Cheerfulness of the Home.

Unbleached cotton makes pretty curtains and bedspreads.

Two widths of the fabric can be used for a double-size bedspread, and one-half for valance. This may be made plain or gathered. Bands may be sewed on the lower edge of valance, and also on the seams. Pillow shams trimmed to match are attractive.

There is nothing very new in plain white scrim curtains, but trim these with pink, blue, green or yellow black gingham, and you will have unusually pretty draperies.

The same idea carried out in bureau scarfs is very good.

Linen-colored crash banded with chambray make very pretty dining-room draperies.

When becoming curtains pull several threads, just as is done for hemstitching. This will make it easier to cut and hem them evenly.

It must be borne in mind that in order to obtain artistic and restful rooms plain colored or bordered curtains should be used with figured wallpaper (especially large) designs. On the other hand large-figured draperies can be used very effectively with plain wall covering.

Soft Vs. Stiff Collars.

The movement started at a university to promote the use of soft collars as a means of fighting the high prices demanded by laundries will not exert. It was stated, any harmful effect on the collar trade. The same profit and a little more, it was explained, applies to soft as to stiff collars. The element of competition, however, is one that big concerns do not particularly like. Soft collars and soft shirts, it seems, have always been easier to manufacture, and consequently encourage competition from small firms.

Lace Blouses in Evidence

Majority Are Fashioned Not to Be Worn Transparent, but Over Bright-Colored Lining.

Lace blouses are in evidence. Most striking of these are the ones that are made up not to be worn transparent, but over an opaque bright-colored satin or silk lining. Once we thought of the lace as a convenient means of showing the flesh tones of arms and throat beneath. With these new blouses the bright lining is used as a means of showing the beauties of the lace of the blouse. Sometimes, however, in place of the opaque satin or silk there is a slip of colored georgette that is slightly transparent, while at the same time it does not show off the design of the blouse.

A new sort of blouse is seen in the belted jersey sport blouses that sell for about ten dollars. They slip over the head, this being made possible by the deep V closing. They are finished with a wide belt section that comes slightly below the normal waist line, being pulled down over the skirt.

Some of the new lace blouses are finished at the arms and collar with fine drawwork mull in cream or ecru to match the tone of the lace.

Batik continues to be popular in blouses and usually the batik blouse is left severely untrimped. A heavy crepe de chine in tones that include the nasturtium range and some grayish greens, is extremely attractive. Hand-painted velvet is seen in some of the new short-sleeved overblouses. The effect is somewhat like that of batik. One blouse of this fabric was of deep rose painted in tones of blue and purple.

Underbitch Trimming.

Underbitch trimming is being shown on some of the advance hat models. In one unusual hat a plume passes through a slash in the brim and fastens to a wide band of velvet which encircles the throat.

Berger Again Denied Seat in Congress

Washington, Jan. 12.—Victor Berger, socialist representative-elect, from Milwaukee, was denied a seat in the house today for the second time.

The vote was 328 to 6 and was on a resolution by Chairman Dallinger of the elections committee, which was offered immediately after Berger appeared and asked that he be sworn. Berger was denied personal hearing and there was only brief discussion, Chairman Dallinger speaking for his resolution and Representative Mann, republican, Illinois, urging that Berger be seated because he had been elected by the people of Milwaukee.

Those voting to seat him were: Mann, Herreld, republican, Oklahoma; Griffin, democrat, New York; Sherwood, democrat, Mississippi, and Voigt, republican, Wisconsin. Representative Sabbath, republican, Illinois, voted present.

Berger declared in a statement after the vote that the house action "was one of the worst attacks on the representative form of government ever witnessed in this country."

"It is really a denial of the right of people to elect the citizen of their choice," he said.

Representative Voigt, who was the only member to vote to seat Berger the first time, spoke in favor of seating him today. "I am more firmly convinced than ever," he said, "that Berger is entitled to a seat. If he is a traitor then there are 25,000 traitors in the fifth Wisconsin district.

"There are," a score of members shouted.

Will Run Again

Milwaukee, Jan. 10.—The socialist committee of the Fifth Wisconsin congressional district within half an hour after receiving the news that Victor L. Berger had been excluded from congress, a second time, renominated him. The statement was made that he would be a candidate of the party at a special election to be demanded by the governor.

PARABLES of TRAVEL

Mr. Brown, who was a big man at home, set out to "See America First," as all the advertisements advised him to do. He went to a certain city and stopped at a great hotel. Just before leaving he tried to pay his big bill with his personal check. "Sorry, but I do not know you, Mr. Brown," said the cashier. "You must be identified." "Identified?" quoth Mr. Brown indignantly. "How can I be? I am a stranger in a strange city." And so Mr. Brown's troubles began, and the pleasure of his whole trip was marred.

If Mr. Brown's funds had been in American Bankers Association Cheques, identification would have been easy by counter-signing a cheque in the presence of the cashier, and the cashier would have been glad to accept the cheque the same as money in payment of the hotel bill. A. B. A. Cheques are universally accepted in payment of travel expenses, and are cashed by 50,000 banks.

MR. AND MRS. BEAVER.

"It's so nice to have the same mate forever," said Mrs. Beaver. "That is what I think," said Mr. Beaver. "And I suppose because beavers do think that way we always do stick to our mates," said Mrs. Beaver.

"Our home is such a nice one," said Mrs. Beaver. "How I do like an underground entrance; not underground, but underwater, I should say! Then we have a nice passageway or hall which leads to our home, where you and I can be so comfortable and where the children can have such a happy, nice playroom.

"Then you are such a great builder. Ah, I cannot understand the creature who doesn't want her mate to be a great success. It's so fine to be able to look up to one's mate. And you can build canals and dams and houses, you can knock down trees and you can carry mud and stones and twigs and sticks.

"You don't have to employ workmen. You can do everything yourself, and you're not ashamed to. You have had your own ways for years and years and years, and you've been able to do everything for yourself. And so people, after a time, come to admire you, as after a time they will admire those who work and accomplish things and who aren't ashamed to try.

"That's why the beaver family are so much admired. And one of the reasons, I do believe, that make beaver mates so happy and so loving and so true is because we're such a busy family. That, I believe, is the secret of the whole thing.

"I believe you're right," said Mr. Beaver.

"We've made use of what has been given to us. We have been able to use our flat tails as rudders when we swam or when we were diving for anything, and we can make a great noise with it as we splash it on the water if we're warning that danger is near.

"We learned how to use our front feet as hands and we can swim along holding up to us the mud we have gathered and take it along where we go and where we need it.

"And when it is cold during the winter, and so many ponds freeze, we have sense enough to put our food away ahead of time, and so we have it ready in our underwater houses.

"We don't wish for it after the cold weather comes, but we arrange about it before hand, just like people who put pennies and things in a bank so when they are ill or have something happen they've got something to help them with.

"Yes," said Mr. Beaver, "I think we deserve a little of the praise we get from people, and if we do sometimes destroy too many trees and if we are too fond of cornfields in the summer—all creatures have their weaknesses!

"But the thing you said, Mrs. Beaver, is the truth! Beavers have the great intelligence to know when they're happy, which is more than lots of creatures do. And one of the great secrets of it, I quite agree with you, is, that we're such a busy family and we don't waste our time waiting for something to turn up.

"And the night time is when we like to work best, isn't it, my love?"

REFUSE SEATS TO SOCIALISTS

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE TAKES DRASTIC ACTION ON SOCIALISM.

MUST PROVE FITNESS

GENERAL ASSEMBLY WILL EXCLUDE ALL RADICALS FROM SESSION.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Five Socialist members of the Assembly of the New York State Legislature were denied their seats at the lower branch's opening meeting of the 1920 session. A resolution questioning whether they could be loyal to their oaths of office when bound to act subject to instructions of the Socialist party, was quickly passed 140 to 6 after Speaker Sweet with dramatic suddenness ordered the sergeant-at-arms to bring the Socialist members before the bar of the House.

The session was dragging as the clerk was calling for routine resolutions when Speaker Sweet interrupted him. The Socialists, August Claessens and Louis Waldman of New York county, Samuel A. DeWitt and Samuel Orr of Bronx county and Charles Solomon of Kings county, were ushered before the speaker's desk in the pit of the House.

"You are seeking seats in this body—you who have been elected on a platform that is absolutely inimical to the best interests of the state of New York and of the United States," the speaker said.

"That platform is the doctrine of the Socialist party. It is not truly a political party, but is a membership organization admitting within its ranks enemy aliens and minors."

Quoting from the section of the constitution of the Socialist party that requires all members to be guided in all their political actions by the constitution and platforms of the party, the speaker continued:

"It is interesting to note that Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled soviet ambassador became a member of the Socialist party upon his entry into this country and took part in its deliberations. It is therefore quite evident that you, in spite of your oath of office, are bound to act subject to instructions received from an executive committee which may be made up in whole or in part of aliens or alien enemies, holding allegiance to governments or organizations whose interests may be diametrically opposed to the best interests of the United States."

As soon as the speaker had finished Majority Leader Simon I. Adler offered the resolution declaring vacant the seats of the Socialist members.

Two Bronx Democrats, William S. Evans and J. Fairfax McLaughlin, voted in the negative as did four of the Socialists.

Resume Collection of Duty.

Brownsville, Texas.—For the first time since 1913, Mexican customs agents at Matamoros, opposite Brownsville, are collecting import duties on practically all purchases on the American side in excess of 1 or 2 pesos in value. Ninety per cent of the Matamoros retail trading is done in Brownsville. Mexican customs officers say the return to virtually normal production in Mexico caused resumption of import duty connection. It is understood the order affects all border points.

Mayor Arrested for Shortage.

Denver.—H. O. Womack, known in Denver as Major Womack, U. S. A., has been arrested in Fort Worth, Texas, by Department of Justice agents, charged with irregularities in his accounts of the army stores in the Denver Auditorium, where army supplies have been sold to the public. The complaint was made by the state finance officer at Omaha.

Twins Make Two in Census.

Washington.—Lucio and Simplicio Goding, famous "Siamese" twins, will be enumerated in the census as two persons, although they are a unit physically, under a ruling by Director Rogers. The twins are 11 years old, natives of the Philippines, and are living in Washington.

Would Consolidate Roads.

New York.—Consolidatory consolidation of the railroads into a few great corporations before they return to private control, with the public and labor, as well as capital, represented in the management of the systems, was advocated by Director General Klines in an address before the New York City Bar Association.

ARMISTICE!

Constipation, Headache, Colds, Biliousness, Surrender to "Cascarets"

Bring back peace! Enjoy life! Your system is filled with liver and bowel poison which keeps your skin sallow, your stomach upset, your head dull and aching. Your meals are turning into poison gases and acids. You can't feel right. Don't stay bilious or constipated. Feel splendid always by taking Cascarets occasionally. They act without griping or inconvenience. They never sicken you like Calomel, Salts, Oil or nasty, harsh Pills. They cost so little too—Cascarets work while you sleep.—Adv.

Reasonable Deduction.

"Jurd Loop is norating around that as he was going home from the store tuther night he was attacked by a passel of screech owls," related a citizen of the Fiddle Creek (Ark.) neighborhood. "He says he beat off the first batch with a club, but they whooped and bellered till a lot more, forty or so, popped out of the darkness and tore into him. He 'tows they'd have ripped and clawed him to death if he hadn't slid into a holler log."

"Just as I've said a dozen times," cried the acquaintance to whom the episode was told, "that there cuss knows whur a bone-dry still is at!"—Kansas City Star.

The Initiatory Ultimatum.

"The last shall be first," quoted the earnest citizen. "I don't doubt it," replied Senator Sorghum. "It's the only way I can explain the manner in which an ultimatum always seems to start such a long line of talk."

Truly Surprising.

Backache and Kidneys

Backache of any kind is often caused by kidney disorder, which means that the kidneys are not working properly. Poisonous matter and uric acid accumulate within the body in great abundance, overworking the sick kidneys, hence the congestion of blood causes backache in the same manner as a similar congestion in the head causes headache.

You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish, irritable, have spots appearing before the eyes, bags under the lids, and lack ambition to do things.

The latest and most effective means of overcoming this trouble, is to eat sparingly of meat, drink plenty of water between meals and take a single Anuric tablet before each meal for a while.

Simply ask your druggist for Anuric (anti-uric-acid) if you aren't feeling up to the standard. If you have lumbago, rheumatism, dropsy, begin immediately this treatment with Anuric.

The physicians and specialists at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., have thoroughly tested this prescription and have been with one accord successful in eradicating these troubles.

Patients having once used Anuric at the institution have repeatedly sent back for more. Such a demand has been created that Doctor Pierce decided to put Anuric in the drug stores of this country, in a ready-to-use form.

Omaha, Nebr.—"I ached all over and felt so badly that I could not sleep at night, my bladder seemed weak, gave me considerable trouble, and caused stinging sensations. I read an advertisement of Dr. Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) and purchased a bottle. It was only a few days before I felt wonderfully relieved, and all the soreness left me. I am glad to endorse such a worthy medicine and always shall recommend it."—MRS. W. C. ZESCHEMAN, 1832 N. 17th St.

Let The People Vote On The Peace Treaty

The much discussed peace treaty to all appearances will be compelled to run the gauntlet of dirty politics before the people will obtain the relief which is so much needed. It is unfortunate that a measure so important should be ignored and turned over to forces of politicians to tear into shreds in a merciless, mud slinging campaign. Naturally, the party now in power will favor it unamended while the opposite party will assail it unless reservations be made and the measure thrown to the mercy of ranting politicians with eyes single to greed and gain, will put the whole matter to ridicule through ignorance and idle gossip.

Thus awaiting our play of politics, European strife continues. Awaiting our play of politics, central Europe hungers and dies. Awaiting our play of politics, innocent Armenians are murdered in cold blood. Awaiting our play of politics, Russia runs rampant with anarchy and bolshevism. Awaiting our play of politics, our people are looted with the high cost of living and social unrest; and we are still at war with Germany. Let the matter drop from politics and let the great American people decide it by the inalienable right of suffrage. Gag the mouths of the soap box orator, the wild eyed pessimist and the professed patriot (for revenue only) and let the American court of justice settle the question. This great court with no bit in its mouth to turn it in this, that, or the other direction, will be ready to act in a commendable manner and one in which sober careful deliberation will direct to the right conclusion. Then would the matter drop entirely out of the political arena leaving no place for the soap box fiend and the evil designing politician to cover up a rotten past by distracting attention to matters of "Shall we beat peace with the world?"

New Mexico's Budget For Education, 1919-1920

The school budget for New Mexico for the present school year ending June 30, 1920, amounts to $3,748,875, says the Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico. For comparison, it may be stated that the expenditures for the state fiscal year ending November 30, 1918, were $2,688,706.80 and for the previous fiscal year, $2,338,945.56. Of the total of three and three-quarters millions that will be expended during the present year, nearly $3,000,000 will accrue from the 1919 state, county and district school levies. It may be mentioned in passing that more than one-third of the taxes levied in New Mexico are devoted to the public, elementary and high schools.

The budget of $3,748,875 for elementary and high school education does not include buildings that may be constructed from the sale of bonds, an estimate for which would exceed perhaps $1,000,000. The budget covers $2,392,618 for salaries of teachers, principals and district superintendents, $533,395 for other operating expenses, $186,797 for repairs and replacements, $498,543 for interest and sinking funds, for permanent improvements and first equipment, and $142,547 for general expenses of county boards including the county superintendent's salary and expenses.

During the year ending November 30, 1919, there was expended for the support of the ten state institutions established for educational purposes, $1,153,488, of which $485,000 was appropriated from proceeds of state tax levies. For elementary, secondary and higher education, therefore, New Mexico will spend this year approximately $5,000,000 of which $3,500,000 will come from direct taxes, the remainder from land grants and permanent funds and from institutional earnings.

SCHOOL NOTES

By Supt. E. E. Cole

The attendance during the storm of last week was quite good, that of the high school being over ninety per cent while that of the lowest grades was over sixty per cent. The attendance of the week just past is up to normal.

Miss Esther Seale, teacher of the sixth grade, spent the Christmas holidays with her sister at Artesia. While there her sister was taken fatally ill. Miss Seale has the sympathy of the students and faculty in her great bereavement. She returned Sunday and resumed her duties in the school room Monday. In her absence Mrs. J. B. French had charge of her work.

Monday of this week the mercurial barometer, made by the class in physics, registered 24.6 inches. This is 5.4 inches lower than it stands at sea-level. Counting that the barometer about fall one inch for each thousand feet that you ascend above sea-level, the altitude of Carrizozo is 5400 feet above sea-level. Last week the barometer stood at about 24.41 inches. We find that the height of Carrizozo is in the neighborhood of 5300 feet. Of course the average of a large number of experiments will give just about the right altitude.

The class in physics has also proved the truth of Boyle's Law—that the volumes of gases vary as has the pressure.

The fourth year Spanish class expects to finish Don Quijote this week. The next books to be read are Isaac's Maria and El Cid. Students cannot expect to find them as interesting as the Quijote, but they always look forward to a new story with pleasure.

Miss Machen reports that on Wednesday the cooking class baked cakes for home use, for which they furnished their own materials. On Thursday and Friday the girls followed the recipes for making berry muffins and baking powder biscuit.

Miss Laura Scharf has enrolled in the commercial department.

The Misses Machen, Holland, Florence Spence, Lassie Ayres and Scharf have enrolled in the night class in shorthand.

Miss Sullivant also reports that a number of students are voluntarily staying after school hours to put in extra time on typewriting.

On Monday morning Dr. Coale, the evangelist, with his singer, Mr. Brillhart, made a very welcome call at the high school. Supt. Cole had previously arranged for the seventh and sixth grades to sit with the high school. This being the regular time for chapel exercises, the visitors were given the entire first period. Mr. Brillhart entertained the pupils with a trombone solo, playing the always popular "There's A Long, Long Trail" and responded to a very hearty encore with "Beneath Thy Window."

Dr. Coale spoke three quarters of an hour; every sentence freighted with wisdom and advice which ought to be very helpful to our students. Life is what we make it. We are the master gardeners of our own lives. Start right. It is one thing to do; it is another thing to do. Do not fog your brain by cigarette smoking; you need the highest powers of your brain. When a boy cheats his teacher he cheats himself. Success is in proportion to application. Gray matter does not carry you far; the use of it does. Purpose to be somebody. Think strongly, accomplish masterfully, attempt fearlessly. If you are afraid to start you never get anywhere. Dare to aim high, then aim high. Doubt and fear are the enemies of knowledge. Thought fearlessly allied to purpose gives creative force. Achievement of whatever kind is the crown of effort; the diadem of thought. Your vision is the promise of what you shall one day be; your ideal is the prophecy of what you shall some day unveil. Vigilance in watching for opportunity, tact and daring in seizing upon opportunity, force and persistence in crowding opportunity to its utmost possible achievement—these are martial virtues which must command success.

Mr. Brillhart then sang Life's Railway.

EX-KINGS EYE DANUBE STATES

Federation Is Formed on Paper by Plotters in Switzerland.

DETAILS ARE NOT COMPLETE

Exiled Rulers, Seeing the Hopelessness of Their Cause, Now Center All Their Plotting on One Great Scheme.

Berne, Switzerland.—From "the playground of Europe" of before the war, Switzerland has become "the plotting ground of Europe" of after the war.

To the credit of the Swiss it must be said they resent in the extreme degree the abuse that is now being made of their country and their hospitality by the exiled rulers and statesmen of erstwhile empires and states, but they are as helpless in the matter as they are innocent.

Keeps Everybody Busy. While they cannot keep their little country from being converted into an incubator, however, they can at least try to keep the plots being brooded therein from actually hatching, and the Swiss secret service, together with its gendarmes, its policemen, its detectives and its public officials generally, are putting in quite a few sleepless nights to this end.

Now that the gradual readjustment of Europe has left no doubts in the minds of certain exiled rulers, like ex-King Constantine of Greece and some of the former rulers of German states, of the hopelessness of their cause, all of the plotting in Switzerland has come slowly to center on one great scheme, a scheme that is not only considered possible, but that is considered by many of the great minds and authorities of Europe as being absolutely imperative and inevitable.

This is the constitution of a Danubian federation to replace the old dual monarchy, and which, according to its backers, is the only thing that can insure the life of the half-dozen or more states into which the old Austrian-Hungarian monarchy has been divided.

Whether this Danubian federation has its center north of the Danube with what is left of Hungary and Austria as a basis or whether it has its center south of the Danube with Serbia and Roumania playing the leading role; whether it be monarchical or re-

UNIQUE CEMETERY TEACHES LESSON

Exhibit at Montana State Fair Sent People Away Thinking.

EPITAPHS DRIVE HOME TRUTH

Greater Convenience and a Larger Measure of Comfort in the Farm Home the Big Lesson Conveyed by Miniature Graveyard.

Washington.—It was a neat little country cemetery, much like most little country cemeteries, yet there was something queer about it. There was an arched gateway and the customary weeping willows by it. The clipped hedge was like most cemetery hedges. The tombstones were about the averpublican in form, together with half a dozen other possibilities or ramifications, are generally considered unimportant. All that is regarded as vital and imperative is that such a confederation be constituted and that it be organized in full harmony with and support of the allies.

Hungary and German Austria, as they will exist when the peace conference finishes its work, will be dead states—their own people and statesmen admit that. Poland and Czechoslovakia are merely gambling bets. But Serbia and Roumania are considered as the two big future bets of south central Europe.

On the other hand, there are just as many supporters and just as many plotters in Switzerland who would like to see Vienna regain some of its past glory as the center of the new Danubian confederacy; Budapest is equally well represented, while there are plenty of others who can demonstrate from a dozen standpoints, why Warsaw is inevitably destined as the future great center of middle European life.

age run of tombstones. But, withal, there was something queer—even shocking. Then you discovered what it was. These were truthful tombstones. Consoling platitudes—"Too pure for earth," and that like—found no place. Instead, there were such epitaphs as these: "Mother—walked to death in her kitchen;" "Sacred to the memory of Jane—she scrubbed herself into eternity;" "Grandma—washed herself away;" "Susie—swept out of life with too heavy a broom."

The people who saw that cemetery—and there were thousands of them—may have been shocked for the instant, but they came away with the thought that one might be better for seeing such a cemetery. For, you see, it was a miniature cemetery, three feet square, and it was part of an exhibit at the Montana state fair. Such levity with the most solemn thing that mankind knows could not be justified merely on the theory that the things said were true—but those who saw it came away with the belief that it was justified by way of keeping just those things from being true. And that was the purpose of the exhibit, placed there by the agricultural extension department of the State Agricultural college of Montana. It was meant to emphasize the need for home conveniences, for lack of which many a farm woman has gone to her grave before her time.

Drive Truth Home. There were other exhibits designed to drive home the same hard truth. One was a model showing a bleak farmhouse on a bare hill. At the bottom of the hill ran a little stream, and by the stream were barns and cattle. Struggling up the hill toward the house with two heavy pails of water was a bent old woman. And the legend was: "Convenient for the cattle—but not for mother." Then there was a farmhouse with the water supply as it should be, the woman in the yard sprinkling her flower beds with a hose. And the inscription read: "Convenient for mother—and the cattle, too." Another model showed a kitchen as it should be, and another, a kitchen as it should not be. And there was the legend: "A long-distance kitchen shortens life."

The lesson taught by the exhibit is one that the state agricultural colleges and the United States department of agriculture are trying to teach by every means at their command—greater convenience and a larger measure of comfort in the farm home.

Don't look for any escalator to do your climbing for you.

CROP VALUES TRIPLED

Production for Year 1919 Broke All Records.

Worth Almost Three Times as Much as Average for Five-Year Period.

Washington.—The value of crops produced in the United States this year is nearly three times greater than the average annual value during the five years preceding the outbreak of the European war, according to the report of the secretary of agriculture. "On the basis of prices that have recently prevailed," says secretary, "the total value of all crops produced in 1919 is $15,478,000,000, compared with $4,222,000,000 for 1918; $18,479,000,000 for 1917; $9,854,000,000 for 1916; $6,112,000,000 for 1915; and $6,829,000,000 for the five-year average, 1910-1914. These values represent gross production and not net returns to the producer. The value of live stock on farms in 1919 was $6,850,000,000, compared with $6, $24,000,000 in 1918; $6,736,000,000 in 1917; $6,021,000,000 in 1916; $5,900,000,000 in 1915; and $5,318,000,000 for the five-year average, 1910-1914.

"This increased financial showing, it is again necessary to emphasize, does not mean that the nation is better off to that extent or that its real wealth has advanced in that proportion. Considering merely the domestic relations, the true state is indicated rather in terms of real commodities, comparative statements of which are given in foregoing tables. The increased values, however, do reveal that the monetary returns to the farmers have increased proportionately with those of other groups of producers in the nation, and that their purchasing power has kept pace in the rising scale of prices."

Passing of Mrs. Bond

Many Outlook readers will be sad to learn of the death Mrs. J. T. Bond formerly of Corona, but who resided before her demise, at San Diego, Calif.

Last December Mr. and Mrs. Bond received the sad news of the death of their son Leland, who was killed in an engagement in France. The shock seemed too great for the parents to bear and they returned to San Diego, thinking the change would divert their minds from their intense grief.

On the 6th of January, however, Mrs. Bond was seized with a severe illness which with the best medical aid obtainable, she died on the following day, January 7. Mrs. Bond leaves a husband, four sons and one daughter to mourn her loss; Archie, Jesse, Elwood of El Paso, and Mrs. Gladys Kelley of San Diego. Mrs. Bond had a host of friends in Lincoln county who will mourn her loss and sympathize with the bereaved family.

Beginning with Monday in response to a request of a committee composed of Rev. Douglas, O. Z. Finley and D. S. Donaldson, the business houses in general closed their doors from 2:30 to 3:30 in the afternoon to allow employees who were so disposed, to attend the services, at which Rev. Coale preached each afternoon during the week. The Episcopal Church held services at the Methodist Church last Sunday night and will again next Sunday, unless other arrangements are made. This the Episcopalians did in deference to the movement. Dr. Coale is a good speaker and intensely interesting. Mr. Brillhart, his choir director, is a valuable help-mate for the Evangelist. The meetings will continue until Sunday night at which time it will be determined as to the advisability of continuing the meetings to a further date and if so, the public will receive due notice of the same.

County Sheriff R. A. Duran, accompanied by Ben Lujan of the Sanitary Market, returned from Las Vegas Tuesday, where they journeyed the latter part of last week. The sheriff's mission to Las Vegas was to place in the Institute of the feeble minded, Dr. Flower of Carrizozo and Stephen Raymond of Tinnie, they being ordered conveyed to that place by Judge Mechem during his official visit to our county last week. Mr. Lujan made the trip to visit his sister, Miss Alice, who resides at Las Vegas.

Last week Joe Stratton took a flying trip to El Paso in order to meet his old time friend and secretary, Ed Hannon, who now has the agency for a fireless cooker for bakery uses only. Ed explained the virtues of his fireless apparatus to Joe and furnished proof of the fact that he had installed four at the city of Fort Worth and had a nice bunch of orders for other places. After the usual exchange of courtesies the president and secretary formulate plans for 1920 for the society of the B. N. of the Crystal Theatre. Fines were imposed on some and strict rules laid down for members who are regular attendants. Ed will pay his Carrizozo friends a visit in the near future.

Mr. Wm. Reily, who lately severed his connection with the Carrizozo Live Stock Commission Co. has opened an office in the old Trading Company building, where he will conduct a regulation stock commission business. His office is already fitted up and he is now ready for business. We will now have two live stock commission firms in Carrizozo the members of which will work in harmony and engage in friendly, neighborly competition.

T. R. Wellband, the genial oil boomer of Oscura, was up from our neighboring town Tuesday and in a general talk he informed us that while Oscura has nothing in particular to report at the present time, it is by no means a sign that there is a lack of activity at that place. There are many projects under headway when completed will furnish good news for everybody in this locality.

Reily & Lujan have added some new fixtures to the Sanitary Market. A new counter 15 feet in length was installed this week also a Toledo non-computing scale adorns the meat counter of their place of business, all of which gives the store an additional appearance of neatness, convenience and accuracy.

Mrs. Harry Norman and children, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Richard Mickle, arrived Friday on No. 3 from Tucumcari. Mrs. Mickle remained for a few days' visit but left for Tucumcari Wednesday of the present week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Baker returned from El Paso Saturday after spending the week-end with friends at the border city. While there, they took a circle through old Juarez.

Ben Stimmel, Jr., who recently hurried to Prescott, Washington, on account of the death of his sister, Mrs. Falster, returned to Carrizozo Wednesday of this week.
