

Woman's Club Adopt Motto and Emblems

Representative Organization of Carrizozo Women Meet Last Friday. Suggestions Offered and Motto Chosen; Also Club Flower and Club Colors. Aims and Objects of Society.

Last Friday afternoon the Carrizozo Woman's Club met in regular session. The meeting was well attended considering the fact that other gatherings of women were held about town which would naturally draw from an assemblage of this nature. The principal object of interest at this meeting was the selection of a motto, flower and club colors. Members of the club had been requested to offer suggestions to which they readily responded. The following mottoes were suggested: "One Another, Help One Another," "Harmonious Endeavor for Noble Advancement," "For Home, Fireside and Social Purity," "Our Mental Attitude To-Day, Determines Our Success To-Morrow," "In Harmony Lies Success," "The Temple of Knowledge is in Our Very Midst" and others of a like nature.

Flower suggestions were as follows: Cactus, Pink and White, White Carnation, Cosmos, Chrysanthemum, Shasta Daisy and many others. For Club colors, yellow and white, pink and white, pink and green, blue and gold were suggested. The matter was turned over to a committee, and after carefully considering the different suggestions, reported as follows: Motto for the club, "One Another, Help One Another"; Club Flower, White Carnation; Club Colors, Purple and Gold. The aims and objects of this important club, heretofore appearing in these columns are substantially as follows: To resist all efforts to weaken the Volstedt act, to urge the passage of the Smith-Towner, Shepherd-Towner and Fess bills, to remove constitutional limits on service of state and county school superintendents, to assist in bettering the salary condition of school teachers, to enter protest against closing of the Gallinas forest to prevent 100,000 small trees from perishing, state censorship of moving pictures, to support the state health department, the anti-tubercular association, and girls' welfare board. All this and many other reforms principal among which is the supporting of the movement for children's welfare.

There will be a called meeting of the executive committee which is composed of chairmen of the different departments of the club, at the office of County School Superintendent, Mrs. M. L. Blaney, on the afternoon of November 29 and all interested are urged to attend as matters of vital interest to the club are to be considered.

White-Oursley

In the city of El Paso, November 12th, with the Rev. Hinton performing the ceremony, occurred the marriage of Lawrence W. White, cashier of the First State Bank of Capitan, N. M., and Miss Josephine Oursley of Houston, Texas. The couple had planned the wedding in this manner so as to serve the Capitan people with a nice surprise, but it seems that the secret leaked out in some unaccountable manner according to the Capitan Mountaineer which says:

"The funny thing about this happy union was, L. W. was not as slick as he thought he was in keeping it so entirely secret. Just before they arrived on the night of the 12th, inst. the young folks of the town got a tip that it had all happened and that he was on his way home with his bride, so they slipped into his house and were waiting for the gentleman and wouldn't leave until he had 'set 'em up.'"

The bride was formerly an Iowa girl but has for some time been a resident of Texas. Mr. White being an old Iowan himself, accounts for his past attentions to the former Miss Oursley in the Hawkeye state, where their courtship resulted in the nuptial knot being tied on the border. Since locating in Capitan and assuming control of the bank, Mr. White has made many friends both at that place and surrounding towns principal among which is Carrizozo, and the bride, while unacquainted here, will find that our people will become her friends at first sight. The Outlook extends its congratulations to the newlyweds, wishing them a world of undisturbed happiness.

52,000 Head of Cattle Shipped Out of State In Month of October

Fifty-two thousand cattle were shipped from New Mexico during the month of October, according to an announcement of Frank Clark, director for the New Mexico Cattle Sanitary board. Most of these have gone to market at Kansas City, Denver and Fort Worth.

Between 7,000 and 8,000 have been sent to Chihuahua, Mexico, for grazing and some have been sent to pasture at Pecos and Toyah, Tex. The pastures near Albuquerque are now green and, according to the director, the prospects for a heavy shipment of cattle in November are bright.

The absence of Dr. Cole's School Notes, which are read weekly with so much interest, may be accounted for by the fact that he has spent the present week at the Teachers' Convention in Albuquerque. Again, our schools have been closed in order that the teachers might have the liberty of attending the convention which many of them did.

71 Cross Hot Sands In Shrinedom

(By Albuquerque Herald)

"Who is that fellow in the yellow gown tied to the pole?" asked a pedestrian at Second street and Central avenue this morning shortly after 9 o'clock.

The inquirer was informed that the man was but one of 71 candidates here to cross the hot sands leading into Shrinedom. Between 9 and 11 o'clock other oddly-dressed men appeared on the street, some in company with guards.

At 11 o'clock the candidates were out en masse and formed the comedy section of the parade which was held on the streets and which ended at the Masonic temple. The parade was headed by the Shrine and Indian School bands and then a body of Shriners, the novices following in costumes rivaling circus clown suits. The camouflage iron cage brought up the rear and picked up Shriners as it went toward the temple.

Following the buffet luncheon for nobles and novices at the temple at noon there was a business session and then the ceremonial proper. The ceremonial ended with a dance for all candidates, Shriners and their wives at 9 o'clock tonight.

While the ceremonial was under way, wives of the Shriners and Candidates were entertained at an auto ride and luncheon at the Alvarado at noon. Among those who crossed the "Hot Sands" from Carrizozo were Messrs. S. G. Allen and L. B. Crawford. They, as announced last week in company with J. W. Johnson of Bogie received the 32nd degree at Santa Fe after which the two first named gentlemen journeyed to the Duke City where they crossed the "sands." Their feet will be somewhat sore when they return, but otherwise they will be all right.

Termination of the Luttrell Trial

The case of Pascual Luttrell vs. State of New Mexico, which has attracted so much attention for the past week, ended Wednesday morning, by the case being appealed to the Supreme Court. On convening of court, attorneys Prichard & Marshant notified the Judge that since the testimony had been offered, a very important witness had been withheld on account of the party in question, not desiring his name to be connected with the case. The deposition stated that the new witness saw the entire affair from a nearby place in the ally and on this ground, attorneys made an appeal to the higher court after Judge Mechem pronounced sentence on Luttrell which was from 20 to 25 years in the state penitentiary. After filing the appeal the prisoner was remanded to jail and bonds placed at $10,000, which it is claimed will be furnished shortly.

Golden Wedding

On the 27th day of November, 1920, the Golden Wedding of Judge and Mrs. Seth F. Crews will take place at their home in Fairfield, Illinois, and their many friends in this locality have received invitations to the affair, which if it were possible for all to attend would give each guest an experience of pleasure beyond what we could describe here. Only those who have been recipients of the hospitality of the Crews home can understand just what pleasure would be experienced at the Golden Wedding. Many things of vast importance might drift entirely out of the mind, but to those who will have the opportunity of taking part in the fiftieth anniversary of Judge and Mrs. Seth F. Crews will be furnished with a loving experience that will remain fresh in "Memory's Golden Frame," as long as time shall last. On the eve of this pleasant event, we offer our humble congratulations.

Attempt Made To Wreck Train

(Albuquerque Herald)

The finding of a heavy bolt tied to a rail three miles north of Albuquerque at 10 o'clock Saturday morning is probably all that prevented the wrecking of east-bound Santa Fe train No. 10 of that day and prevented probably death and injury to passengers and railroad crews, it was learned today.

The bolt was tied to the rail with a large rag and according to Santa Fe Station Master Ed Sinclair, who was the first official notified of the matter, the bolt would probably have sent half the train into the ditch, had the engine run into it.

Mrs. French Entertains

Mrs. J. B. French entertained the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club at her home last week. Bridge playing was the order of the afternoon which was followed by the serving of refreshments. The Club meets every two weeks, the next lady to entertain being Mrs. Elizabeth Gumm, who will be hostess of the Club Thursday afternoon, December 2nd.

State Educators Convene At Albuquerque

Many Valuable Recommendations Made as Association Shows a Marked Increase in Interest and Membership. Child Welfare to be Placed State Department of Education.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 23. —A change in state educational administration vitally different in its provisions from the present order of things, was suggested at the State Educational convention which convened here the first of the present week. The council which is the governing body of the Association elected officers as follows: L. C. Rhodes, Raton, chairman; W. O. Hall, Silver City, vice chairman; Mrs. M. L. Blaney, Carrizozo, secretary.

The resolutions offered at the preliminary session at the High School Auditorium by Walter McFarland of East Las Vegas, were adopted at the first session of the convention, the substance of which are as follows: Providing for the appointment of a board of education composed chiefly of members of the state teaching force; certificate requirements for teachers; better salaries and the passage of a pension law; that child welfare department be placed under the state department of education and the passage of a strong child labor law with a fine for the employment of a person under the age of 17, with a forced school attendance up to the age of 18. The convention is by far, the most important of any heretofore held in the state.

It will be observed by the above information, that Lincoln county has been honored by the election of our county school superintendent, Mrs. M. L. Blaney, to the office of secretary of the council which is the governing body of the convention. We also have at the convention, Dr. E. E. Cole, whose advice as an important educator will be of valuable assistance on matters of the most vital importance to the deliberations of that educational body. Other teachers from Carrizozo are: Mrs. Elizabeth Gumm, the Misses Fordson, Neff, Herron, Burton, Humphrey and Mr. Cazier.

Harding Favors Paid Government Advertising

"Newspaper advertising is a commodity, and where the government requires it, as it often does, it should be paid for as other commodities are.

"We are growing daily into wider use of publicity, but we MUST NOT add to free service imposed upon the press when that which is clearly advertising is covered by purely business methods.

It is extremely important to encourage the weekly press. The great publications of general circulation and the daily press in well populated centers are firmly founded and commercially established. The weeklies are no less important to the communities they serve though their publication is much more difficult."—Warren G. Harding.

The House of Whispers

"YOU HEARD WHISPERS?"

Synopsis.—Circumstances having prevented Spalding Nelson, clerk, from joining the American forces going to France, he is in a dependent mood when he receives an invitation to dinner from his great-uncle, Rufus Gaston. On the way to the house he meets, under peculiar circumstances, a young girl, apparently in trouble, to whom he has an opportunity to be of slight service. She lives in the same apartment building as Rufus Gaston, and he accompanies her to the house. Gaston and his wife are going to Maine for a trip and want to leave Nelson in charge of the apartment. He accepts. Gaston and his wife tell their great-nephew of mysterious noises—"whispers"—which they have heard in the house. On his way to the Gaston apartment the next Sunday Nelson again meets his accidental acquaintance a few days before, Barbara Bradford. She urges him not to allow the fact of their being acquainted to be known. At the apartment Nelson meets the superintendent, Wick, and instinctively dislikes him. In a wall safe he finds a necklace of magnificent pearls, worth a small fortune. Next day Nelson finds the pearls have disappeared from the wall safe. His first idea of informing the police is not acted upon because of peculiar circumstances. He has been discharged from his position without adequate explanation or reason, and feels himself involved in something of a mystery. He decides to conduct an investigation himself. That night Barbara signals from the window of her apartment which is opposite his, and they arrange a meeting for next day. In the morning he finds a note in his room, asking him why he had not informed the police of the loss of the jewels. Barbara tells Nelson her sister Claire had some years before made a runaway marriage with an adventurer, from whom she was soon parted, and the marriage had been annulled. Claire is engaged to be married and someone knowing of her escapade has stolen documents concerning the affair from the Bradford apartment.

"Oh, no, she must never know. Dad did not want her over told anything about it. We talked it over, Claire and I, and decided to put a personal advertisement in the papers. It simply said, 'Liberal reward and no questions asked for return of important papers.'"

"Were there any answers?"

"Yes and no. One morning there was a second note."

"Delivered like the first?"

"Yes, I found it, too, on the floor of my bedroom. Here it is."

More amazed and perplexed than ever by the growing ramification of the plots of the thieves that seemed to involve us both, I took the paper and read:

"Ten thousand is our price for the papers. Pay it or you'll never marry Thayer."

"Did you go then to meet the man in the park?"

"Not until after I got a third note, more threatening than the first and second. Claire and I talked it over and over, trying to think who could have taken the papers. We only kept two servants now, Sarah and Mary, and they both have been with us since we were children. It could not have been either of them. They think as much of us as our own mother does."

"Do you suppose the man that she married may have learned of your father's death and have returned from France to try to blackmail her?"

"We thought of that. The notes did not come from him. They do not read as if a Frenchman wrote them."

"Who could it be?" I said more to myself than to her.

"Then there was another note," she went on. "It demanded that Claire wear a red carnation and meet the writer in the park and bring ten thousand dollars. That was the time I first met you. Your presence must have frightened them off, for we had no more demands until night before last."

"Did you have ten thousand with you that night I first met you?"

She shook her head.

"We haven't ten thousand dollars in the world. Outside of our furniture and our jewels and our motor, we have very little. If all the bills we owe were paid, we'd have almost nothing at all."

"What did you propose doing when you met the man—or men?"

"I didn't know. I was going to try to plead with them to give me the papers. I would have promised anything to have gotten them back."

"But the man—the men—might have harmed you."

She smiled incredulously.

"Hardly. There was little danger of their attacking me there in the park so near the avenue, with people constantly passing, and besides, I carried this."

She reached again into the pocket of her habit and brought forth a vicious-looking automatic.

"It was Dad's," she said. "He taught me to shoot with it, though I don't think either of us thought then there would come a time when I might need it."

"What did the last note say?"

"Here it is."

This was written and folded as the others had been, on the most ordinary kind of writing paper. It read:

"Unless we got the money Wednesday, Thayer gets the papers Thursday. No wedding then for yours. Same bench at six-thirty."

"What can I do about it?"

"I'll go in your place," I suggested.

"Oh, no, I couldn't permit that."

"Let me explain," I hastened to say.

"I'm in this mystery as deep as you are. Only last night I discovered that all the Gaston jewels which had been left in my custody are gone."

"Not stolen!" she cried. "The Gaston pearls!"

"Yes," I replied, "the pearls, too."

"Why, they are worth two hundred thousand dollars, at least. What have you done about it? Have you notified the police?"

"No, as yet I have told no one of the robbery but yourself."

"Why not? You must notify the police at once."

I hesitated. It was hard to explain my actions without telling her the whole miserable story, without admitting to this girl on whom I was most eager to make the best of impressions that I was a young man out of a position, discharged in disgrace. Yet she had given me her confidence. It was only fair to her and to myself that there should be no secrets between us. I began at the beginning. I told her of my coming to New York and how I had seen my great-uncle Rufus only once or twice. I related the departure of Roller and Birge for the war front and told her how eager I had been to go with them. I even went into detail as to the reason I had not gone with them, my debt to the mother.

She did not seem greatly interested in the first part of my narrative but when I began telling of the proposition the Gastons had made to me and of the mysterious warnings each of them had separately given me, I could see her interest kindling.

"There is something wrong in that apartment house," she explained. "We have had nothing but trouble ever since we lived there. I wonder if there is anything in the theory that evil deeds make bad karma, which spreads its effects all about. I know I feel there is a sinister atmosphere about the whole place."

"I'm beginning to feel it, too," I said bitterly.

I told her then of my unexpected and unwarranted discharge without explanation the day before.

"How do you account for it?" she asked perplexedly.

"You must have some enemy, some malicious person, who has spread some terrible tale about you."

"I haven't any enemy in the world," I replied, yet even as I spoke there flashed across my mind the malevolent glance the scar-faced man had given me in the restaurant a few evenings before.

"I wonder," said Miss Bradford thoughtfully, "if the same people who are trying to blackmail us are not trying to involve you with us in some way?"

"Why should they?"

"They may have been watching and have seen you enter the houses with me twice. They may think that you and I are friends and that you were there in the park purposely that first time."

"Even so," I replied, "that doesn't explain this."

I pulled from my pocket the note I had found on the floor of my bedroom and showed it to her.

"Where did you get that?" she gasped in astonishment.

"Last night I heard footsteps and whispers. I thought at the time I was dreaming. This morning I found this note on the floor."

"You heard whispers," she cried excitedly, "whispers that seemed to come from up near the ceiling?"

"I thought I heard them. I wasn't sure."

"I know," she said, shuddering. "I've heard them—twice."

We looked at each other despairingly. We both of us realized that we must be surrounded with some potent evil force working to accomplish our ruin. The motive in the anonymous letters that Miss Bradford had been receiving had plainly been blackmail. But what was the motive in my own case? Why had someone stolen the Gaston pearls and then in an anonymous letter to me spoken of the theft? I wondered, too, if the successful attempt to discredit me at my place of business had not originated from the same mysterious source.

Was my great-uncle Rufus to blame? The suspicion of him rose in my mind and would not be downed. I recalled the unusual pretext on which he had sent for me after having paid no attention to my existence for nearly a year. I recalled his curious warning and that of his aged wife. I remembered that they had insisted on leaving the jewels behind against my urging, and that they had been insistent on my having the combination of the safe. Could it be possible that they also had some grudge against the Bradfords, their neighbors, and in some way had got hold of Claire Bradford's secret?

"I think you said," I asked Miss Bradford, "that your family and the Gastons were not acquainted in any way?"

"No," she replied, "we don't know them at all. Why do you ask that?"

"I was wondering if it could be possible that my great-uncle Rufus could have had any hand in all this. He's a queer, secretive old chap."

"It's probable that he and my father might have known each other. Both were in business here in the city for many years. I never remember, though, of hearing Dad speak of him—wait, yes, I did once."

"When was that?"

"It must have been six or eight years ago. There was something in the papers about Mr. Gaston retiring from business."

"What was it he said?" I asked eagerly, wondering if some old feud between the two men might not give us a clue to unravel the web of mystery.

"As nearly as I can recall his words were, 'I see that old pitter Gaston has retired with his ill-gotten gains.'"

"To whom was he talking?"

"I don't remember that, probably some man who was visiting at the house. Dad always used to have a lot of men about."

"Did he say anything else?"

"That's all I remember, but I don't think the Gastons could have anything to do with it. This threatening my sister is more the sort of thing a discharged servant would do."

"Yes," I admitted, "but find the discharged servant. Yours have been with you for years."

"Oh, what are we going to do?" she cried in desperation. "If I don't get those papers back, we'll all be ruined."

Under Ordinary Circumstances I Would Have Hesitated to Examine Them, but Now I Feel No Scruples.

They'll give them to my sister's fiancé. Her engagement will be broken. My mother will die of disgrace and shame."

"Don't be discouraged," I cried, trying to inspire in her a confidence I was far from feeling myself. "This is only Sunday. We have until Wednesday evening. I'll find some way of trapping those rascals and making them surrender those papers. Leave it to me."

In spite of my reassuring words, distress was still written on her countenance. As I debated how best to comfort her, she glanced at her wrist watch and exclaimed:

"I must be going. They'll be alarmed about me if I stay longer."

"When am I to see you again?"

"I don't know. That's hard to arrange. My sister and I are so much together."

"Can't I telephone you?"

"No, that wouldn't do at all. Mother and Claire would both want to know all about it and hinder—"

"Besides what?"

"I don't trust that girl at the switchboard. I think she listens to everything that is said."

"They are a prying lot," I admitted, "including Mr. Wick, the superintendent."

"I don't like him a bit."

"Not I, but we must communicate with each other somehow. If you find out anything more you must let me know at once. If I learn anything, I'll let you know, and I'm going to discover a lot."

"There's always our windows," she suggested, "they are close together. I can signal you when I'm alone, and we can talk."

"I'll be there in my room every evening from ten o'clock on," I said, "waiting to hear from you. I'll put a handkerchief on the sill when I'm there."

"And I'll do the same."

Having reached this understanding, I walked with her to the park entrance within sight of the house. All the way we had been talking over the puzzling circumstances of the anonymous notes and of the strange way in which they had been found on the floor. Miss Bradford had spoken again of the whispers she had heard.

"The voices were vague—just like a ghost's might be," she said.

"Yes," I admitted, "that's what they sounded like. But there aren't any ghosts. If those whispers were real, some human being was making them. I'm going to find out who it was, and when we've learned that, we'll have learned a lot about—"

I hesitated.

"About whom?" she questioned.

"I don't know yet," I answered.

I was wondering about my great-uncle Rufus.

CHAPTER V.

I was determined to let the disappearance of the jewels alone until I had found some way of getting the Bradfords out of their troubles. The key to the mystery surely lay in the notes that had been found on the floor in both apartments. If I could discover how the notes had been put there and who put them there, I would be on the trail of the miscreants.

The placing of the notes indicated the necessity of a confederate in the apartment house. Could it be that one of the employees was in league with the plotters? Was one of the Bradford servants betraying them? Was my aged great-uncle in hiding somewhere, playing malevolent pranks on us? How had that note gotten into my own apartment? Nobody had access to the place but myself—yes, and Mrs. Burke, my great-aunt's trusted old laundress. I determined to return to the apartment and lie in wait for her until she came in to do up my room. In the week that I had lived there I had not even laid eyes on her, although each evening when I came in I found my bed neatly made.

While I awaited her arrival I busied myself with studying anew the different rooms in the apartment, hoping ever to find some new clue to the methods by which the anonymous notes had been delivered. I went to the back of the house and looked out of the rear windows. An ornamental ledge of stone, perhaps eighteen inches wide ran along apparently on the level of the flooring. Any agile person might easily have crept along it if they dared risk falling six stories to the ground, but there was no means of access to it save from either my bedroom or the sitting room or from the corresponding rooms in the Bradford apartment. Certainly no one from my apartment had been slipping mysterious notes into the other apartment. Could the converse be true? Was there some unbalanced person in the Bradford family who was doing it? Could it be one of the servants, or possibly Claire Bradford? She always had been flighty, according to her sister's description. Had her troubles unbalanced her to such an extent that she was playing mysterious hysterical pranks on all of us?

I sat down at my uncle's desk. The pigeonholes crammed full of papers caught my eye. Under ordinary circumstances I would have hesitated to examine them, but now I felt no scruples. Old Rufus had warned me that there was some mystery about the place. The pearls had strangely disappeared. I faced the accusation of having stolen them. Surely I was entitled to examine anything and everything in my efforts at solving the mystery.

Pigeonhole after pigeonhole I examined without result until at last I came to a little leather-covered diary. I read it with interest, noting that it was for the present year and that the last entry had been made only the day before he had departed for Maine. About six weeks previous to the present date I found this amazing entry:

"Heard whispers last night."

A week later there was another entry, "Whispers again." There could be no question as to what he meant. The ghostly noises that had been heard by both Miss Bradford and myself had been heard by him, too. No wonder the old man had been so terrified. Other entries in the book recorded hearing the whispers at intervals of about one week.

Nelson and Barbara agree to meet frequently.

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything late upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I threw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish this if you like that it may help some other woman."—MRS. MARY STENDER, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich.

VICTIMS RESCUED

Kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles are most dangerous because of their insidious attacks. Heed the first warning they give that they need attention by taking

The world's standard remedy for these disorders, will often ward off these diseases and strengthen the body against further attacks. Three sizes, all druggists. Look for the name Gold Medal on every box and accept no imitation.

Never run up a bad bill nor run down a good neighbor.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT.

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pains in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Santa Claus' Letter Box

Continuing until Christmas, we propose to give the little tots the opportunity of addressing a letter to the patron saint, and we will devote as much space to the cause as the same will permit. Therefore, the "letter box" is now open to the children who will please be as brief as possible in order that we may give place to every little letter that comes in. Letters will be published from now on until Christmas. Please have ALL LETTERS IN BY WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Dear Santa Claus:-
Please, dear Santa, I would like a doll with sleeping eyes and real hair. Also would like a doll buggy with rubber tired wheels, and a doll bed.

REVA LUCAS.

Dear Santa:-
Will you please bring me a doll buggy with a long handle, that I can pull. If you will please bring it I will be very happy, and will promise not to break it up.

MARTHA WARDEN.

Dear Santa Claus:- I'm a little white-headed girl with brown eyes, and I want you to please bring me a doll with black hair and blue eyes, and just anything else you would care to bring me. Thompson wants a "choo choo" train.

We sure will be glad when Christmas comes.

Lovingly,
RUTH KELLEY.

Dear Santa Claus:-
Please bring me a big doll and a doll buggy, and if your load is not too heavy you can bring me a little stove, some dishes, a little piano, and some candy.

FRANCES LOUISE NORMAN.

Dear Santa Claus:-
I would like a tricycle, doll, doll buggy and cradle. Other presents I will leave to you but don't forget these!

LOUISE BACOT.

Dear Santa Claus:-
I would like a Big Doll, Red Cart, a set of dishes, a Story Book, a Rocking Chair, Nuts and Candy.

GEORGIA LESNET.

Dear Santa:-
I would like a big doll, red cart, a set of dishes, rocking chair, story book, nuts, and candy.

NADINE LESNET.

Dear Santa Claus:-
No candy for me--please bring a tire for my Bikel

FULTON DUGGAR.

Dear Santa Claus:-
I wish for a bicycle, one that a ten-year-old boy can ride; also wish the wheel would be a "Capital." That's all I want for Christmas.

MAURICE LEMON.

Dear Santa Claus:-
I want a little airplane like the one Daniel rides in, candy, nuts, picture-book, Xmas tree, marbles, and tell Daniel to come home and help us eat the Big Turkey.

VADEN ELLIOTT.

Dear Santa:-
Please bring me a piano, a rubber ball to bounce, a little wagon, candy, nuts and fruit.

Thanksgiving Program at White Oaks School

A splendid program, arranged by Mrs. L. Baird Payne and Mrs. Edna C. Burnett, was carried out at the White Oaks school Friday evening, November 19th. The characters were well represented and showed the effects of good training from the teachers mentioned. After the program, refreshments were served which were followed by a social dance, making an evening in which White Oaks people and a goodly number of visitors took part. The program follows:

PROGRAM

1. Welcome Song
2. Thanksgiving Song,
Spanish-American Children
3. Recitation.....Lloyd Harmon

Western Man For the Cabinet

That the west is entitled to a cabinet position under the new administration is a foregone conclusion that should by all means materialize.

Among those being discussed are Herbert Hoover, Congressman Mondell, of Wyoming; Governor Campbell, of Arizona; and Senator Fall, of New Mexico; all men of high character and ability.

Franklin K. Lane, a Californian, was Secretary of the Interior, who took broad national views, and stood for progressive policies in relation to the west and its development and such a man is needed.

The great era of expansion for the western states and Alaska includes reclamation, irrigation and hydro-electro power projects on a gigantic scale, of vast importance to the entire nation.

Familiarity with great natural resources, faith in our possibilities are not enough. The executive and administrative ability to actually get great projects under way and complete them, require abilities of the highest order and experience backed with actual knowledge of western needs and conditions.

Outlook want bring results.

More Action, Less Talk

The home shortage in Iowa is estimated at 35,000 dwellings. Crowded conditions and renting in partnership make fighting disease difficult, according to E. H. Hands, the state housing commissioner.

Drastic legislation to meet the housing condition in the United States has been recommended to Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, member of the senate committee which investigated the housing problem throughout the country. It will then take more legislation, however, to build houses—the main thing we must have is confidence in the future of our country and a realization of the fact that it is going ahead and not standing still.

Western sawmills are now furnishing lumber practically at cost of production in order to encourage building and start normal activity. Lumber and shingle shipments soon may be moving from the Columbia river and Puget sound to the Atlantic seaboard and Gulf ports by the all-water route.

Lumbermen in Oregon and Washington have begun to realize that this will be necessary to get cheap lumber into eastern markets. It is estimated that it will cost less to load a carload of lumber on board a vessel in Portland, ship it to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, for instance, and then transport it overland as far west as Chicago than it can be hauled from Portland to Chicago direct by rail. In the meantime lumber price have dropped some 40 per cent over a year ago. A little more action and a little less talk about house shortage is what the country needs to furnish homes for people.

How Long Distance Service Is Constantly Guarded

As carefully as the sentinel guards the camp of his comrades in time of war, we guard your telephone talks over the long distance telephone lines.

Your telephone is sheltered in home or office, but the wires connecting it with telephones in other cities and towns cross bleak mountain ranges and storm-swept prairies subject constantly to the ravages of the elements.

Day and night the wire chiefs watch the circuits, testing them, keeping them clear and preparing in cases of emergency to rush repairmen to the scene of trouble.

Every morning at 6 o'clock, before the day's business begins, tests are made with delicate apparatus, and with it the place can be determined within as least 100 feet where a loose wire, a broken cross-arm or even a broken tree branch hanging in the wires, may be causing trouble.

Every month repairmen go over all the circuits. Cross-arms damaged by lightning are repaired, poles or wires loosened by the wind are strengthened, broken insulators are replaced and all other needed repairs are made. Even overhanging trees are trimmed up properly.

To insure the public against sudden breaking of poles, carrying down with them perhaps a score of wires, at regular intervals pole-to-pole inspections are made. Every pole is tested, decayed wood scraped away and a record made of the condition of each pole placed on file so that replacements may be made as needed.

Carefully, constantly and unceasingly the long-distance lines are guarded to provide immediate service.

The Gold Miner's Problem

H. M. Parke, director of the Oregon State Bureau of Mines and Geology, in discussing decreasing gold production said the decrease "is not due to any material lessening of the available gold remaining to be mined, but to the fact that the gold mining industry has suffered more heavily than any other from the general increase in commodity costs in recent years.

"Increase in the expense of all other industries have been counteracted by a proportional increase in the price of the product. This relief has been impossible for the gold miners because the price of their product is fixed by statute."

The McFadden bill, now before congress for the relief of the gold industry, provides that an excess tax of $10 per ounce be placed on manufactured gold in order that the gold producer may receive from a fund derived from the tax a premium of $10 an ounce for newly produced gold. The price of gold for coinage would remain the same, the our standard of values would not be upset.

LATE MARKET QUOTATIONS

Western Newspaper Union News Service. DENVER LIVE STOCK. Cattle.

Heavy supplies of stock have been received on all divisions of the live stock market. A fairly good demand has prevailed on most classes of stock.

The sheep market has been slow, and prices on some kinds of sheep are inclined to be lower. Supplies on the cattle market have been good.

An active market prevails in the hog division and offers meet with a ready clearance. Fair supplies of stock have been offered on the market.

Buyers have been looking for good killing animals, but little stock of this kind has been offered. The market on steers brought $8.80, with indications that fancy stock would bring up to $10 or possibly $10.25.

Hogs.

Large supplies of hogs have been received on the market. The bulk of the offering was fair, with only a few loads of choice stock on hand.

Sheep.

Heavy supplies of sheep have been received on the market. Demand for all classes has been good. Fat lambs sold up to $11.00 flat, with fair grades selling at $11.00 to $11.50.

SEVEN MILLION LOOT OF ROBBERS

LOSS IN MAIL ROBBERY GREATEST IN HISTORY OF NATION.

SAVE $800,000 BONDS

$900,000 BONDS RECOVERED—POSTAL INSPECTORS FIND MAIL BAG IN SCHOOL HOUSE.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 18.—The loss in the transcontinental fast mail train robbery between Omaha and Council Bluffs has been given as approximately $3,500,000.

That the loss in the robbery is the greatest in the history of crime in this country, was the intimation of a federal officer working on the case when he intimated that newspaper guesses of the loss thus far were too conservative.

It is officially known that one of the pouches contained $750,000 in bonds, and unofficially that another held $800,000 also in bonds.

There were ten pouches altogether, and if this ratio were upheld the loss would exceed $7,000,000.

Postal inspectors from a score of cities have been rushed to Omaha. Thirty of the most highly trained inspectors in the service are working on the case.

L. J. Patterson, superintendent of mails at Council Bluffs, said no important announcement might be expected for some days. He admitted the estimated loss of $3,500,000 was substantially correct.

Merle Phillips, 20 years old, mail sorter on the train, sticks to his story that he merely stood watch on the locomotive while two others did the actual robbing.

Phillips at one time in his various confessions is related to have said that his parents know of his intention to rob the mail car, and that at least six persons besides himself were implicated.

Williams, however, whom Phillips pointed out without hesitation as one of the men, was able to prove such a good alibi that he was immediately released.

Phillips at one time in his various confessions is related to have said that his parents know of his intention to rob the mail car, and that at least six persons besides himself were implicated.

Youth Admits Theft.

Denver.—Julius Josephson who has been arrested on charges of embezzlement of $6,000 from the American Bank and Trust Company, where he was employed as bookkeeper, has confessed to police that he was guilty of the theft and explained how he took the money and lost it gambling.

$400,000 Jewelry Station.

New York.—An extensive search has been instituted for three men who entered a fashionable residence in East Nineteenth street, bound and gagged Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer, wealthy director, and her two servants, then escaped with jewelry and furs valued by the family at $400,000.

Storms Wreck Pacific Ships.

San Francisco.—Storms off the coast of Oregon and northern California drove the steam schooner G. C. Edinger, ashore at Albion, Calif., and prevented the tug Storm King from making an attempt to float the schooner Joan of Arc which has gone ashore at Port Orford, Ore.

Boy Killed by Unknown Driver.

Denver.—With his head crushed and both arms and legs mangled, the body of Edward Von Arb, 14-year-old boy, was found by Paul J. Killoran, a passing motorist. The boy had been struck by an unknown autoist, who sped away without lending aid to his victim.

Southwest News

From All Over New Mexico and Arizona

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

The Pinto bean industry is growing rapidly around Estancia, N. M., where several million pounds of beans now are stored.

Dawson is probably the first town in New Mexico to start a night school for the miners and other laborers in the town and after the first month has been completed the school has been pronounced a great success.

The Arizona Cotton carnival at Mesa is over for this season, and there is probably not a person to be found who will venture to say that it was not worth while from every standpoint.

Marshall I. Sikes, said to be wanted by the police at Madison, Wis., for forgery, was arrested at East Las Vegas, N. M., and is being held pending arrival of an officer from Madison.

Jockey S. Lambert was killed at Phoenix when his mount, Iron Man, stumbled and fell in the head of the stretch in a race at the State Fair grounds.

There are only 259 convicts now in the New Mexico state penitentiary. This number may be considered 259 too many, but for all that it is said to be the lowest enrollment at the pen in ten long years or more.

A press dispatch last month telling of the detention at Nogales, Ariz., of Charles Losey and his wife in connection with the death here of A. J. Born, resulted in reuniting father and son, separated for years.

With fifteen state fairs in the past, each one annually marking another onward step in the progress and prosperity of the state, Arizona set a new record with the opening of the sixteenth annual state fair when the big main gates of the fair grounds swung open to admit the crowds of enthusiasts who constituted the interested spectators of the gigantic six-day programs of sports and exhibits.

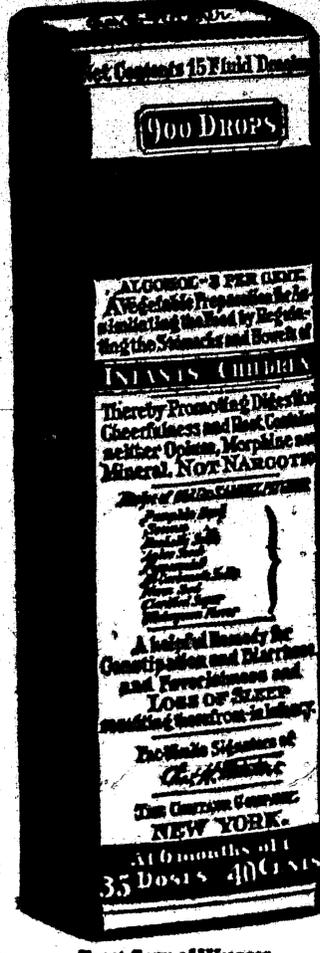

The agricultural conditions in Roosevelt county, New Mexico, during the past season are the best ever known, and the acreage of grains was the largest in the history of the county. The growing of sweet potatoes is rapidly becoming one of the principal industries of the county and the new warehouse which was recently built has a storage capacity of over 4,500 bushels.

Judge Samuel L. Pattee of Tucson, sitting in the Biabee deportation trials at Douglas, wiped the court clean of all these criminal cases on motion of E. N. French, county attorney, who moved that all the remaining cases be dismissed.

Suit has been filed in the United States District Court at Phoenix, Ariz., on behalf of J. D. Hurt of Denver against Dr. E. B. Perrin of Flagstaff and several members of his family in an action involving $110,000 and a large acreage of land in northern Arizona.

The Columbus State Bank at Columbus, N. M., closed its doors because of heavy withdrawals. The liabilities are placed at $300,000 by J. L. Greenwood, its president, who announced that he will turn over his personal holdings to satisfy all claims.

The biggest auditorium in Arizona, so described by the architect, is nearing completion at Camp Stephen D. Little, near Nogales, where the Twenty-fifth Infantry is stationed, having been built completely by hitherto uneducated negro soldiers in the Twenty-fifth Infantry studying in the army vocational school at the post, under direction of Maj. Eruptions of the Skin Cause Torturous Itching

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disorder, you are well acquainted with the itching, burning, and these conditions are the effects of the germs that attack the skin. This disease was caused by an impure or diseased blood, and there is no real and genuine relief which your rough skin needs until the impurities are removed.

Back Given Out?

There's surely some reason for that lame, aching back. Likely it's your kidneys. A cold or strain oftentimes congests the kidneys and slows them up. That may be the reason for that nagging headache, those sharp pains, that tired, worn-out feeling. You may have headaches and dizzy spells, too, with annoying bladder irregularity. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands. Ask your neighbor!

A Wyoming Case

Mrs. Julia M. Gordon, 522 O'Neil St., Cheyenne, Wyo., says: "Several years ago I was suffering with a dull, heavy ache through the small of my back, and sharp pains would cut through my kidneys. I was always tired out and languid. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved me quickly and strengthened my kidneys."

A girl is anxious to be given in marriage and a woman is glad she isn't sold.

A woman's fondest hope is to stay young. She often resorts to paints, powders and cosmetics to hide her years. Some women pay large sums to so-called "Beauty Doctors" in the belief that money will buy youth. Others wear girlish dresses, thinking they can fool the world about their age. But no one is deceived. The more you try to hide your age, the more it shows.

There is but one thing that holds old age back, and that is health. Sickness and weakness bring old age early in life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a building-up medicine for women. It makes them healthy and strong when they suffer from women's troubles. It keeps them looking young by keeping them well. It is a woman's tonic for the frail, the delicate and those who are nervous, dizzy and who have headaches and dragging pains. Favorite Prescription is altogether vegetable and without a particle of alcohol. It is safe to take. Try it now. In tablet or liquid form at all druggists, or send 10c for trial package of the tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y.

Fire, which swept the department store district of Sacramento, Calif., caused a loss estimated at $1,500,000. Four firemen were injured fighting the flames, one perhaps fatally.

The robbers who pillaged the Burlington railroad's transcontinental fast mail at Omaha and secured loot variously estimated at from $20,000 to $1,000,000, have dropped completely out of sight.

High rents caused two southern California parsons, the Rev. M. O. Deweese of a Los Angeles Methodist church and the Rev. Warren Elsing of a Presbyterian church at Van Nuys, a suburb, to move their families into their churches.

Bloodhounds from Alblon, Neb., have been used in an effort to run down Dennis Chester, who escaped from a Burlington train near Broken Bow, while en route from Great Falls, Mont., to Kansas City, where he is wanted in connection with the shooting to death of Florence Barton, daughter of a wealthy shoe manufacturer.

The loss in the Burlington mail car robbery at Council Bluffs, Iowa, will total at least $3,500,000. It was made known when additional postoffice officials came to assist in investigations and a check of the insurance on the pouches was made. The sack which was found had been ripped open contained $900,000 in government bonds, the investigators said.

Mrs. Mildred Harris Chaplin, motion picture star, again became Mildred Harris. Judge York at Los Angeles granted her a divorce from Charlie Chaplin, world famous screen comedian. An agreement, by which she will receive approximately $200,000, was approved by the court. It provided that $50,000 should be paid to her at once and $7,500 within one year. The settlement agreement specifies she shall not use the name of Chaplin professionally.

In the midst of a traffic jam with hundreds looking on, Dewey Morgan, jitney driver, was shot to death on Kansas City's busiest corner. V. P. Miller, jitney passenger, has been arrested and has admitted the shooting. Morgan was shot five times in the back. Miller told police he shot Morgan because the latter had lured his wife from her home. Police had difficulty in saving Miller from the crowd, which threatened lynching. Morgan owned several livery and jitney motor cars. Miller drove one of these cars for Morgan at night.

The internal revenue bureau confirmed reports that a crusade against home brewing of alcoholic beverages is planned by the government's prohibition enforcement agencies.

John Burke, treasurer of the United States, a former governor of North Dakota, has submitted his resignation, to become effective Jan. 1, when he will become president of an automobile body manufacturing company.

The Japanese population of the three Pacific states—California, Oregon and Washington—has increased at a lower rate since 1910 than it did between 1900 and 1910, figures announced by the census bureau show. In Hawaii, however, there was a decided increase and nearly half the total population of the islands is made up of Japanese.

An insurance policy on the life of a person who commits suicide is payable, if all conditions of the policy are complied with, the supreme court ruled at Washington, in sustaining lower court decrees in a suit brought against the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company by Isabel H. Johnson, beneficiary under a policy obtained by her husband.

The 1919 death rate in the death registration area of continental United States, embracing 81 per cent of the total population, was shown in statistics made public by the Census Bureau to be the lowest recorded for any one year. The rate of 32.9 per 1,000 of population showed a drop of 3.1 per 1,000 from the unusually high rate of 1918, resulting from the epidemic of influenza.

FOREIGN

The city magistrate and the chief of police of the native city of Shanghai have issued an edict against the extravagant styles now being worn by Chinese women. It warns against aping foreign styles, with the display of ankles and bare arms.

Erivan, capital of the Armenian republic, has been evacuated, communications between the great railway junction of Alexandropol and Tiflis, capital of Georgia, having been cut, completely isolating Armenia from the outside world.

The postal convention making all the countries of North, Central and South America and Spain one postal territory was signed by the delegates of Spain, the United States and the other countries concerned at Madrid. The convention, which also provides for free transport of correspondence from any signatory nation to another signatory nation, will come into force Jan. 1 next.

The treaty concluded by the Italians and Jugo-Slavs at Rappallo settling the dispute over Fiume and other territory on the Adriatic littoral has been approved by the United States, Great Britain and France, Premier Giolitti announced. Under this agreement Fiume is to be an independent state and Italy relinquishes her claim to part of Dalmatia, which will be annexed by Jugo-Slavia. A commercial treaty will be negotiated later.

A young man, wearing the uniform of a French lieutenant, recently obtained 780,000 francs (nominally about $157,000) from the French ministry of finance on presentation of a payment order purporting to have been issued by the quartermaster of the army of occupation at Mayence. The order proved to be a forgery. The police arrested Henri Platel, 21 years old, a tailor. They say Platel confessed to the crime, adding: "Some say it is hard to obtain money from the government. It's easy."

The defeat of the Ventzelistas in the Greek elections leaves the Lloyd George cabinet in England as the only war government in Europe which has survived the world conflict. Russia is not taken into consideration, as the soviet regime at Moscow has not been recognized by the allied powers. The war governments of the following European nations have fallen: France, Italy, Belgium, Portugal, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Serbia. The war government of the United States also has gone by the defeat of Governor James M. Cox, who was pledged to carry out the policies of President Wilson.

"School Week" will be observed throughout the nation the week of December 5-11, as the Commissioner of Education is designating the first full week in December as "School Week."

Six firemen were seriously injured in Milwaukee in a $400,000 fire which gutted a four-story building occupied principally by the Milwaukee Seed Company. The firemen were injured when the rounds of an extension ladder collapsed.

A prison guard and a convict were shot and two other guards badly beaten at the Missouri state penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo., when four convicts made an unsuccessful attempt to fight their way to freedom. The men were captured before they could get outside the prison wall.

Chicago's police force today was given the biggest shakeup in its history by Chief Charles C. Fitzmorris, recently appointed to succeed John L. Garrity, whose resignation was requested by Mayor William H. Thompson. Abolishment of the special squads did away with the homicide squad, the bomb squad, the rifle corps, the burglary squad, the "silver details" and numerous other special organizations created by Garrity.

Mrs. George A. DeButte, 58, wife of the president of the Melbourn Savings Bank at Marshalltown, Iowa, was burned to death in the furnace at her home. After missing her, Mr. DeButte began a search and found his wife's body wedged in the furnace door. She had been ill for some time and is believed to have committed suicide.

Declaring that the Navy Department would "go the limit" to uphold the authorities of the Naval Academy at Annapolis in their efforts to stamp out hazing at the institution, Secretary Daniels announced that instructions had been issued that no hazing would be tolerated and that any member of midshipmen would be dismissed if necessary to end the practice.

Three years ago Miss Anna Nyquist, whose home is in Stanbaugh, Mich., began a training at Augustana hospital in Chicago. She became a graduate nurse. After receiving her diploma, she entered the elevator, fainted and fell forward. Before the operator could step the car, the beam at the top of the elevator door had crushed her head. She died a few minutes later.

Help the Cattlemen And the Sheepmen

If ever there was a time when the sheepmen and the cattlemen needed assistance it is right now. During the recent campaign, political orators told us that our stockmen were not paying sufficient amount of taxes, in face of the fact that there never was a time when they needed a reduction as they need it now. A few days ago, representatives of both industries appeared before the State Tax Commission asking for a reduction in taxes on the grounds that livestock and wool were both on a decline and the matter was taken under consideration. The cattlemen asked for a 25 per cent reduction under the 1920 valuation while the sheepmen requested a 30 per cent decrease.

The sheepmen represented that the demand for lambs is small at the same time declaring that they could not get advances from banks for feeding lambs and that they brought but nine cents and that wool in the grease 22 cents. The sheepmen claim that their taxes have reached the highest figure on record in this state for 1920 at $6.15. These appeals are not made in the sense of begging, but faced with rapid declines in prices they are only asking what is justly due them. What would our political opponents have done with these appeals had they been given the reins of state government, after accusing them of tax dodging, the thoughtful man could easily guess, but the Republican party, which has always been the friend of the stockmen, will undoubtedly come to their relief. Not only should it come to their relief in lessening taxation, but also in preventing foreign nations from dumping ship loads of wool and frozen lambs on the American market as they are preparing to do shortly. Now, that the war is ended, foreign nations are knocking on the doors of our prosperous country with decks piled high with products which, if allowed to be distributed without restraint, can only result in damage to our industries, chief among which are our cattle and sheep interests. Let us await the result with the most ardent confidence in the party which is soon to be in power.

C. H. HAINES, Prop., Carrizozo, New Mexico

It is reported from New Guinea that two white men and ten native carriers are missing and are believed to have been killed and eaten by the natives on the Fly River. The missing men were hunting birds of paradise in Dutch New Guinea. A marching party reported that on visiting a native village on the Fly river the villagers fled. Some booklets stained with blood, a photograph, some clothes, and other evidence of the white men were found.

Rats have eaten up about $13,000, the whole of the savings of a farmer in the village of Sackingen, in Baden. The farmer, who had stored his wealth in a flour bin, discovered on opening it that all that was left of his fortune was a number of bits of paper.

Little Frank Patty suffered a broken arm Monday morning while attempting to crank a Ford car. The injured member was attended to by a local physician and Frank is getting along nicely.

Women Help in Forest Fire Fighting

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 24.—Women helped in the hazardous game of fire-fighting during the past season in the southwest, according to the forest officers of several of the Arizona and New Mexico Forests. Some were stationed on the lookout towers of lonely high peaks, others were working remote forest telephone exchanges thru many hours when the danger was acute, and others were on the very fire line itself, leading or fighting the fires with the hastily assembled crews. Forest fire fighting has generally been conceded a full sized man's job, but the long annals of the Forest Service throughout the west are filled with stories of women taking a helping hand at the various phases of the game. The past season in the southwest was no exception.

On the Rincon mountains, a part of the Coronado Forest in Southern Arizona, the high Spud Rock Lookout point was "manned" during the fire season by Mrs. Lyle B. Smith, wife of the local Forest Ranger. Mrs. Smith, in addition to her lookout duties, cleaned out a number of miles of trails in the vicinity of her tower. She had occasion late one night during the season to make a search of ten miles, with a fire guard and tools, across the mountains for a reported fire.

On the Santa Fe Forest another ranger's wife, due to a critical season and the inability to get properly qualified guards, occupied during the daylight hours the Barrillio Peak Lookout, riding each day from the San Geronimo station five miles distance. This woman was Mrs. D. E. Aarhison.

Mrs. D. B. Whiteside, of Diener, New Mexico, acted as guard and lookout on Mt. Sedgwick on the Manzano National Forest in Northern New Mexico this year. She has a ranch at the base of this mountain and has assumed the duties of lookout formerly performed by her late husband at this place. Mrs. Whiteside has had considerable experience fighting fires both during the time that her husband was a guard and later, and has successfully fought more than one fire single handed.

Forestry Public Problem

The lumber industry is faced by many serious problems today. Western states are favored with the greatest forests in America and their timber products go to all parts of the world. The day is here when we must utilize our forests to the fullest extent. The problem is one of public interest and it involves questions as to future timber supply and utilization of logged off land.

A bill has been introduced in congress providing $25,000 a year for the establishment and maintenance of a forest experiment station in co-operation with the University of California. The purpose of this department would be to study the natural history of trees for the purpose of cultivation of forest trees for timber and other purposes, as well as to carry experiments and investigations independently or in co-operation with other branches of the Federal government and with states, counties, universities and

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure, and for circulars and testimonials.

John's Thanksgiving.

By Willis Brooks.
John Eddy shamed the jaggard night.
So early was his day begun.
He breakfasted by candle light.
And toiled afield till set of sun.
Then by the glow a lantern shed
His cows were milked, his stock was fed,
And all his evening chores were done
Before he tumbled into bed.
One autumn morning, on his way,
The parson stopped and urged him to
To come to church Thanksgiving
Day
That John at last resolved to go.
But to the parson's deep regret,
He still denied Creation's debt.
"What thanks," said John, "do farmers owe
For working hard for all they get?"
In church that day John Eddy dreamed
He saw the sun in splendor rise,
Yet from a thankless world, it seemed,
No welcome want to greet the skies;
No chirping insect voice was raised;
The birds in heedless silence
gazed;
And there, before his wondering
eyes,
A morning came unsung, unpraised.
Then rolling thunder shook the land:
"Ungrateful world!" it seemed to say.
And from above a mighty hand
Swept down and bore the sun away.
Too late the field and forest vied
In pleading song; in vain they cried
For one sweet hour of blessed
day,
Which tardily they glorified.
John Eddy, waking, spoke as one
Who entertained a novel thought:
"How little man himself has done!
How much for him has Nature wrought!
What lavish gifts of sun and shower
Thanksgiving comes, or come it ought,
To fructify the field and flower!
Not once a year, but every hour."

Another King Who Is About to Lose His Crown.

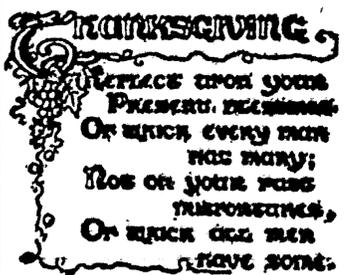

origin of our national Thanksgiving day, may be looked upon as merely a local observance, being held by the Plymouth colony only. They were the forerunners of less local celebrations in Massachusetts and gradually in other colonies, for in 1630 a public Thanksgiving day was observed in Boston by the Bay colony, and again in 1631.

During the next fifty years there were as many as 22 public Thanksgiving days appointed in Massachusetts, usually in October or November, after the gathering in of the harvests, or to celebrate some public benefit. It did not become a regular holiday until a long time afterward.

In 1789 Washington issued the famous Thanksgiving proclamation recommending Thursday, November 26, as a national day to be devoted to prayer and Thanksgiving. Washington's example was followed by other Presidents.

In 1863 President Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday in November as the national Thanksgiving day. Since then the day has been observed annually without interruption.

A Day of Nature.

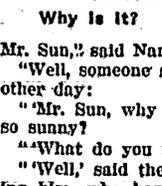

Thanksgiving day is our one national festival that turns on home life. It is not a day of ecclesiastical saints. It is not a patriotic anniversary. It is not a day celebrating a religious event. It is a day of nature. It is a day of thanksgiving for the year's history. And it must pivot on the household. . . . Remember God's bounty brought the year. String the pearls of His goodness. Give this one day to thanks, to joy, to gratitude.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER
COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

MR. SUN'S HAPPINESS.

"It seems to me," said Daddy, "that I have told a good many stories about Mr. Sun lately, but he has had moving picture shows as you know, and he has been shining a lot and talking a lot, and so I like to keep you posted on all these things. "And by keeping you posted on all these things I mean that I like to keep you informed of them, or in other words let you know what is going on."

Why is it? "We'd like another story about Mr. Sun," said Nancy. "Well, someone said to Mr. Sun the other day: "Mr. Sun, why is it you're always so sunny?" "What do you mean?" he inquired. "Well," said the one who was asking him, who happened to be Billie Brownie, by the way, "you are always so happy."

"Oh," said Mr. Sun, "I see now what you mean. I was wondering at first just what you did mean by asking me how I managed to be so sunny all the time."

"He is the sun and so he cannot help but be sunny. But I see you do not exactly mean that. You are wondering how my disposition always stays happy and sunny, or rather how it happens that it always is sunny and happy. Isn't that what you mean, Billie Brownie?"

"Just what I mean," said Billie Brownie.

"Well," Mr. Sun answered, "it is because I have so much to make me happy. I shine over such a wonderful world."

"One time early in the summer I went to bed after I had a birthday party. I was very glowing. My robe was red, of course, and as I left I saw Mr. Crescent Moon coming up to the sky. I felt a warm breeze from Mr. Wind blow over my face and I heard him say:

"We've had a hot day, Mr. Sun, but it has been a beautiful summer day for all that. The land and even the sea has sent up waves of heat, but you've helped to make the flowers grow and everyone is glad."

"And the very next day when I had been watching a great many hollyhocks coming out I saw that they were all the most glorious full blooming flowers at last. There were yellow hollyhocks and red ones and pink ones and cerise ones and purple ones and ones of reddish purple mixed, and some were almost black and some were orange and others were white. They were of all colors."

"I have always been very fond of hollyhocks and I was delighted when I saw them come out."

"And I saw black butterflies and golden butterflies and some of them had handsome spots on their wings and they were sipping honey from the flowers. And there were white butterflies, too. And some of my friends, the Red and Pink Rambler Rose families, hadn't left."

"Then when the summer flowers left asters took their places, and now the trees are turning red and all is a beautiful autumnal scene."

"Ah, Mr. Sun has so much to make him happy. In the spring he sees all the leaves bursting open on the branches of the trees, he sees the blossoms and the early spring flowers arriving."

"Then he sees the summer flowers and then he sees the autumn ones, and the leaves turning red and golden and brown."

"And he sees the dear little squirrels having a feast and he sees old Jack Frost and his brothers and friends painting the windows with their magic frost brushes."

"And then he shines down on sleighing parties and coasting parties and on the white, glistening snow."

"Dear me, Billie Brownie, I cannot help but be sunny and happy. All through the year there is so much to make me joyous and bright and beaming and glad!"

A Feast.

Another Royal Suggestion
Griddle Cakes and Waffles
From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

THERE is an art in making flapjack-pancakes, griddle cakes or waffles, call them what you will. But it is an art very easily and quickly acquired if you follow the right recipes. The secret, of course, is Royal Baking Powder.

Griddle Cakes
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
3 eggs
3/4 cups milk
1 tablespoon shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients; add beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening; mix well. Bake immediately on hot griddle.

Waffles
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
3 eggs
1 tablespoon melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; add milk to yolks of eggs; mix thoroughly and add to dry ingredients; add melted shortening and mix in beaten whites of eggs. Bake in well-greased hot waffle iron until brown. Serve hot with maple syrup. It should take about 1 1/2 minutes to bake each waffle.

OLD TALE RETOLD

Origin of the American Thanksgiving Day.

Will Bear Repetition. Annually see Something of Which Every Citizen May Be Proud.

The ancient Thanksgiving did not, as some have fancied, skip down the ages to find its home in America. In one way or another it seems to have always been observed. Throughout Europe, before the Reformation, special days were set apart as days of religious thanksgiving. The American Thanksgiving day is traced back to the Pilgrims.

Shortly after the landing of the Pilgrims, while searching for a suitable place in which to build their homes, they one day came upon some deserted Indian huts, in which they found some baskets filled with corn. From this supply they succeeded in saving enough to plant their first year's crop.

In the spring of 1621 the seed corn was sown and its growing watched anxiously by the people of the little colony. To their great joy, the harvest of the following October was a bountiful one. Governor Bradford ordered a three days' feast in celebration thereof. Wild turkeys, geese, ducks and water fowl, corn bread and vegetables no doubt formed the chief constituents of their feast, not to speak of the five deer brought in by a tribe of friendly Indians.

This festival is supposed to be the first real Thanksgiving day from which we date our celebration. This celebration, although without doubt the

WHY GIVE THANKS

Surely One Needs Only a Few Moments' Reflection to Realize the Causes for Gladness.

It is written of Plato that, "looking through the dim spectacles of nature, he gave thanks to God for three things: First, that he was created a man and not a beast. Second, that he was born a Greek and not a barbarian. Third, that he was born a possible philosopher."

If this represents the pagan ideal of gratitude, it is in marked contrast to the Christian ideal. A thankful spirit has no place in true thanksgiving to God. The Pharisee who went up to the temple to pray and thanked God that he was not as other men, was recently rebuked by Christ for his presumption. The last place for one to display his egotism should be before the throne of God. "Whoever will be great among you, let him be your minister," said Christ. It is a time for true humility of spirit.

Now that this nation has grown rich beyond the dreams of the austere pioneers, do Americans of today recognize the source of their manifold blessings, and will they with true humility acknowledge their gratitude to the giver of all good gifts, "forgetting not all his benefits?"

America is today the richest and most powerful nation of the earth, and it is this very opulence that leads the people, most liberally blessed of all, to neglect to remember the source of good. In days of opulence and power men are prone to put their trust in themselves and to underestimate those influences that have made them great.

Ingratitude has been called the most popular sin in the world, because it is the result of selfishness, or egotism or ambition or whatever the case may be. Nations, being an aggregation of individuals, in their days of power have a tendency to trust in themselves and to disregard the laws of God.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

RADIUM'S USE IN SURGERY HARE FEARED BY IGNORANT

Its Rays So Powerful That They Can Destroy the Useless or Diseased Tissue.

Harmless Little Animal Figured Largely in the Superstitions Which Are Considered of the Past.

The use of radium in hospitals is becoming more and more demanded by the medical profession. The Scientific American, in telling of its medical and surgical uses, explains that it is a tool and not a medicine. The radium gives off three rays, known as the alpha, beta and gamma rays. The first, about 85 per cent of the total ray force, can be stopped by tissue paper; the second will penetrate 35 millimeters of lead, while the third has a vibration similar to the X-ray. This ray is the one used in surgery.

The rays are sent into the body, and so powerful are they that they can penetrate to a great depth, and there destroy the useless or diseased tissue. As the good tissue has a greater resistance than the bad, the highly skilled operative can bear the gamma rays on the afflicted part until they begin to destroy the good tissue, when the treatment must stop.

Awful.
"Grandpa, when I'm grown up can't I get married?"
"My child, I regret to see you anticipating trouble so early in life."

Among old superstitions none was more prevalent than that relating to the hare's foot, which was carried for luck. Pepsy notes in his diary that his hare's foot lacked a joint, and that he would obtain a proper one. It was usual for fishwives on the east coast of England to carry a hare's foot in their creel, but they were very angry when the children shouted: "Yo've a hare's fit in yer creel."

"To kiss the hare's foot" means to go without dinner. If a hare ran along a village street, the people said there would be a fire. If a hare crossed a fisherman's path when going to sea, he turned back. Seeing a hare was said to be the cause of that unhappy deformity, harellip. It was thought that a witch could turn herself into a hare, and that a hare could only be shot with a silver bullet.

There will be "big doings" at the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen on the night of Dec. 4.

The dance given at the Lutz Hall last evening was well attended, and everybody reports a good time.

A portion of the teachers returned yesterday from the Albuquerque convention and the balance will be in the latter part of the week.

Co-operative Association Buys the Sanitary Market

The Carrizozo Co-operative Association held a well attended meeting Tuesday night at which Mr. E. O. Ames of California addressed the assemblage. Mr. Ames pointed out the benefits derived by co-operation, giving examples of the movement in other places and spoke of the possibilities of the venture here.

There having been several propositions brought to the executive board to sell stores, the matter was taken up and after careful deliberation, the Sanitary Market, Reily & Lujan, Props., being the best under consideration, the purchase was made and papers made out to close the deal.

The secretary-treasurer, Frank Gauchat, reported a good sum subscribed above which has been heretofore published with best of indications for the future. The new enterprise will assume control of the Sanitary Store as soon as proper invoicing can be made, and the business turned over. The aims and objects of the Co-operative association have been made public through the columns of the press, therefore as the public are so well informed of their good intentions, it is needless to further dwell upon them. The deal leaves Carrizozo with no increase of stores in the grocery line and the new order of arrangements will start out with the brightest of prospects.

Notice

On the 17th day of December, the regular meeting of the Woman's Club will take place and following the meeting the ladies will conduct a bazaar for the sale of fancy articles, 15 per cent of the proceeds to go to the Club and the balance to the owners of the articles. Mrs. Ed. Harris will be in charge. Refreshments will be served with Mrs. Truman Spencer in charge.

Mrs. Geo. A. Ulrich read a paper on "Community Mothers" at the last meeting which was greatly enjoyed by all present and the same will be repeated at the next meeting when a greater number of the members can be present.

The place for holding the meeting and bazaar will be announced later.
