LARGEST CIRCULATION IN THE COUNTY

ROMANS NOTES

(By Sept. E. E. Cole)

The Roman Catholics have taken up their sewing societies after the first of the year and have been progressing rapidly. Their ambition is to have an exhibit worth while when they are asked to put their work on display in the spring.

The girls consist of girls from the high school and the eighth grade. Several of the girls have shown such skill in their sewing that they have almost completed the required number of articles for the first year's credit in Domestic art.

The girls are now finishing their "back aprons," the fifth of the required number of articles. They are so proud of what they have accomplished that they want to have an "Apron Day" just as soon as the weather becomes warm enough so that they may all wear their own aprons.

On Friday, March 18, the eighth grade took four of the examinations sent out by the State Board of Education. The set will be finished next month. These are the examinations for admittance to the high school. We hope all will pass the test and enter the high school next September.

Two sets of Camp Fire girls went on a hike last Tuesday afternoon. The hike did not begin until the destination was reached and then the girls might be seen leaving the cars for the hills, either in pairs or groups. About six o'clock all gathered around the camp fire and never was supper more well-served.

Miss Young, the special teacher of the fifth grade, was absent from school last week on account of illness. She returned to her duties this week looking as if the illness had done her good. Mrs. J. E. Frisco substituted in her absence.

One of our teachers, Miss Ivy Lindsay, had written the following poem for the Camp Fire Circle, and has set the same to music. The poem, which was written and has been adopted as the song of the Camp Fire girls:

Building beauty, giving service,
This our aim, our law and guide;
When you find us you will notice
That our smiles we don't hide.

All together we are working
For the good of all so dear;
Worthy of the trust placed in us,
Never doubting, never fear.

Glorying work is ours,
A banner we with pride unfurl;
We are honored by the keeping
These the laws of the Camp Fire Girls.

Only Appointments for Maiden
-Only Allowed State Institutions.

Santa Fe, March 24.—All state institutions looked alike to the majority of the members of the fifth legislature in considering the needs to be provided for in the general appropriations for the 10th and 11th fiscal years, the first of which begins on Dec. 1, 1921. No allowance was made to any institutions for anything else than maintenance and deficiencies, except that the asylum for the insane, Mont. Las Vegas, received $5,000 to cover additional insurance, $5,000 for much needed repairs, while the school for the deaf and dumb, Santa Fe, received $10,000 for laundry and equipment. This latter was allowed for the reason that a larger amount had been given to the institution some time previously, but not used by the board.

The Agricultural College, Las Cruces, was voted three deficiency appropriations of $30,000 each, spread over the 9th, 10th and 11th fiscal years. Gov. McPherson, however, cut out the $30,000 for the 10th and 11th fiscal years, leaving available only the $30,000 for this year. These were the only items stricken from the bill by the governor.

Other departments and institutions are provided for as follows:

PRESIDENT MAKES CALL FOR A SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS TO CONVEY APRIL 11, 1921

Washington, D. C., March 23.—A presidential message convening congress in a special session at noon April 11, to receive such communications as may be made by the executive, was issued today by President Harding.

Many questions were come up. Tariff and tax revision will be the principal subject before the new congress, but many other important subjects, including the transportation problem, regulation of packing, and coal industries and immigration restrictions are expected to be taken up.

None of the subjects to be considered are mentioned in the call for the session, the text of which call is as follows: "Whereas, public interests require that the congress of the United States should be convened, in extra session, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 11th day of April, 1921, to receive such communication as may be made by the executive:

"Now therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, president of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and declare that an extraordinary occasion requires the congress of the United States to convene in extra session at the capital, in the city of Washington, on the 11th day of April, 1921, at 12 o'clock noon, of which all persons, who shall at that time be entitled to act as members thereof, are hereby required to take notice."

Governor, a total of $15,000, which includes $1,000 to cover cost of an industrial survey, needed to put an effective budget system into operation; $500 to pay expense of the lieutenant governor.

Secretary of state, a total of $3,600, including $500 to cover cost of canvassing elections for the 19th year only.

Attorney general, a total of $11,000, which includes a $1,000 fee for his assistant in former years there have been five assistants.

Traveling expenses, a total of $24,200, including $4,000 to staff and increases in pay.

Educational auditor, salary of $7,400, traveling and contingent expenses of $2,000. This is a new office created. A deficiency appropriation provides for the current year.

Treasurer, a total of $7,200, including all increase for one employee.

State tax commissioner, a total of $71,000, including $50,000 for an expert appraisal of mines and $18,000 for office contingent and traveling expenses.

Superintendent of public instruction, a total of $22,250, including raises to pay for assistant superintendent and several employees.

Department of public welfare, the newly created institution to handle the public health department bureau and the child welfare bureau, a total of $40,000.

The state corporation commission, a total of $24,250, including small raises for some employees.

State banking department, a total of $19,200, including raises for practically all on the payroll. A deputy in this department now takes care of the insurance work.

State engineer, a total of $10,000.

Board of water commissioners, expenses, $1,200.

Inspector of mines, salary and expenses, $4,000.

Family Badly Injured In Wreck Near Capitan

A serious accident occurred in a manner on Tuesday afternoon at the Salado Gap, about one mile west of Capitan. A. E. Hearn, agent for the E. P. & S. W. stage was returning from Fort Stanton with his family, where they had been visiting relatives when, an accident occurred, they met Robert Hurt, who was coming out to his ranch. As the car leaving the Hearn family approached Mr. Hearn, the latter's horse shied, throwing the car directly in front of the stage.

The collision killed the horse, wrecked the car which following the impact, rolled over the embankment, dropping a distance of thirty feet, a complete mass of wreckage and injured human beings. Mr. Hurt was seriously injured.

The horse fell, he was hurled to a height of several feet below the edge of the gulch and in that position, completely over his head, he was completely over his head. Dr. Price of Capitan was summoned but being absent on a call, Dr. Neal of Lincoln was called, but he hurried to the scene, where he met with an accident, and the doctor somewhat injured, says reports.

The victims of the wreck, seven in number, were taken to the Fort Stanton Hospital where nearly all were found to have bones broken. To the great extent of their injuries, we are unable to give an account at this writing; other than to say, their conditions are critical.

INTERESTING PROGRAM FOR STOCKMEN AT ALBUQUERQUE

Albuquerque, N. M., March 23.—The complete program for the annual convention of the New Mexico Cattle & Horse Growers Association in Albuquerque, March 29, 29 and 30, was announced today by the secretary of the association, who stated that inquiries for rooms, etc., indicate a large attendance at the convention.

The association committee meeting will be held Monday, March 28, at the association's offices in the Chamber of Commerce building. The convention sessions will be held in the district court room, post-office building, 201 street and Gold Avenue. Addresses of welcome will be delivered Tuesday morning by Governor Merritt Mechem and Walter M. Conroy, mayor of Albuquerque. The response for the association will be by March 14, Mayor of Silver City. The annual address of the president, T. H. Hilditch, and his address by C. M. O'Connell, vice-president of the American National Livestock association, on "Current Topics" will complete the morning program.

At the afternoon session United States Senator John O. Sweeney will open the program with an address on "Problems of the Livestock Man," in which it is expected that Senator Sweeney will outline the policies he thinks should be pursued by congress for the strengthening of the livestock industry in the nation. Col. W. H. Greeley, United States Forester, will also speak at this session, and Victor Sulberon, of Silver City, will deliver the report of the delegates to the American National Livestock convention. A feature of the Tuesday afternoon session will be consideration of the new constitution and by-laws of the association, which have been under consideration by a special committee during the past year.

The second day's session will include addresses by E. H. Griffin, president of the Apilone Cattle Growers association on "Future Markets"; by H. A. Jastro, of Hahonfield, who is chairman of the Markets Committee of the American National Livestock Association; by Frank G. W. Doster, United States District Forester, and by George H. Webster, of Cimarron.

The Wednesday afternoon session will be of special interest as it will include a complete discussion of legislation affecting the livestock industry by the recent legislature. J. S. Vaught, of Deming, attorney for the association, will speak on "New Laws Regarding Livestock Interests." State Senator E. M. Brickley, of Cimarron, will discuss relations between the banker and the stockman, and State Senator O. L. Phillips, of Marfa, will speak on "What the Livestock Industry Means to the State of New Mexico."

Speakers on the Thursday morning program will include T. W. Tomlinson, secretary of the American National Livestock Association, Mrs. M. F. Finley; J. E. Hain, chairman State Tax Commission; Dr. E. E. Price, of the United States Biological Survey; Dr. O. E. Troy, of Belton. The afternoon session Thursday will be the annual business session, including adoption of resolutions and election of officers.

There will be an evening session of the convention, but special entertainment events for the stockmen have been arranged by the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce for each evening of the convention.

GOVERNOR ISSUES QUARANTINE ORDERS TO PREVENT THE SPREAD OF INSECT PESTS

Santa Fe, N. M., March 23.—In order to prevent the introduction and spread of the alfalfa weevil, the alfalfa weevil and pink boll worm, insects which may become very serious pests in this state if they once get a firm foothold, Governor Mechem has issued three quarantine orders which are summarized briefly as follows, and which should be strictly observed. The Board of Regents of the Agricultural College are designated to enforce the orders.

Quarantine Order No. 1.—In order to restrict the chances of introducing the alfalfa weevil, the importation into the State of New Mexico of hay, straw, grain, alfalfa seed, nursery stock, vegetables or fruit from the states of Utah and Idaho, the counties of Uinta, Lincoln, and Sweetwater in Wyoming; Delta, Gunnison and Montrose counties in Colorado; and Malheur and Baker counties in Oregon. Quarantine Order No. 2.—In order to prevent the introduction of sweet potato weevil, the introduction of sweet potatoes and of sweet potato plants is prohibited from the states of Texas, Louisiana, Florida, Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama.

Quarantine Order No. 3.—In order to prevent the introduction and dissemination of the cotton boll weevil and pink boll worm, the introduction into the state of New Mexico of cotton seed, lint, waste, sweepings, and samples of cotton seed, seed cotton, ginned cotton, cotton ginning and quilling machinery, cotton bagging and cotton stickers' sacks, and all other things and materials which have been used in connection with growing, harvesting, baling, or manufacturing of cotton lint or cotton seed is prohibited from all states and foreign countries except Arizona and California. It also prohibits the importation of cotton in the state of Spanish moss from any state where cotton boll weevil exists and prohibits the transportation of cotton seed by seed cotton from any county in New Mexico where either of these pests have been found, into another county.

The new anti-gambling law which goes into effect in New Mexico on June 15 is quite drastic in its provisions and as it fixes a penalty on the owners of buildings in which gambling is carried on and gives the court power to close any such building and put the same under bond, it will be easy to enforce.

It expressly prohibits all games of chance played with dice, cards, punch boards, slot machines or any other gaming device for money or anything of value.

The new law expressly prohibits playing any game of chance for drinks.

The penalty for playing a game of chance for anything of value is a fine of $25 to $500 and not less than 30 days in jail, or both. For running a game or permitting gambling in a building the fine is not less than $500 or more than $1000, or imprisonment for from 3 to 6 months.

The court or any officer is authorized to subpoena witnesses and to compel them to testify as to any violation of this act.

The filing of an affidavit with the district judge by any person that gambling is being carried on in any premises makes it the duty of the officers to enter in and search those premises to arrest all persons found gambling and to confiscate all gaming devices.

Poker is evidently under the ban but there seems a possibility that bridge whist could be played for money, that being a game of skill rather than a game of chance. However it might be well for any person who intends to bridge to sound out the district attorney and the justice of the peace and the sheriff and the neighbors before placing themselves liable to six months in jail and the forfeiture of the cards and score books and the cancellation of the lease of the building in which they live and a few other decidedly unpleasant eventualities.

Draw and stand will soon be as dead as Pharoah and a world of poker interest is going to be lying around here. The law prohibiting gambling couldn't kill these kindly sports but wifey, armed as this new law arms her, will do the deed. When hubby sits into a game against orders or don't come home when he promised all she has to do is to call the sheriff. It is his duty to enter the building, arrest all persons therein, confiscate everything in sight and close the building until the owner puts up a bond that it will not be used for such purposes again. Poker has been dealt a death blow.

Chief of U. S. Forest Service makes visit to southwest

Albuquerque, N. M., March 21.—Col. William M. Greeley, Chief of the U. S. Forest Service, arrived at Albuquerque today at the headquarters of the Southwest District for a week of consultation with district officials on the plans of work and finances in connection with the National Forestry of Arizona and New Mexico for the coming year. The Forester is accompanied by Assistant Forester Ray Hoadley in charge of Operations, Assistant Forester E. E. Carter, in charge of Forest Management, and Inspector Kelley in charge of Forest Fire suppression, all of Washington, D. C.

Health Director Named

The public welfare department has announced the appointment of Dr. C. E. Waller, state health commissioner, as director of public health in the new welfare department. The director of child welfare has not yet been appointed. Mrs. Otter Warren of Santa Fe was elected president of the welfare board; Mrs. R. P. Donohoe, of Santa Fe, vice-president, and Dr. A. G. Shortle of Albuquerque, secretary.

Fish Hatchery Will be Selected

State Game Warden Thomas P. Ouble left today on an inspection tour of proposed sites for the state fish hatchery, for which $20,000 was appropriated by the state legislature. He is accompanied by John J. Bengard, superintendent of the hatchery at Del Norte, Colorado, and A. Gauger. A total of twenty sites have been offered in Santa Fe, Colfax, Mora and San Juan counties.

Craig Called to Washington

George A. Craig, of Albuquerque, an interim appointee of Federal Judge Rebert as United States District Attorney, left for Washington today in response to a telegram from Secretary of the Interior A. H. Fall, asking him to come for a conference, which it is rumored will concern the permanent appointment of Craig and the appointment of two assistants. The Mid-West Mica Corporation, organized under the laws of Missouri, has filed a foreign corporation statement here. It is capitalized at $20,000, of which $25,000 has been subscribed. Its business is mining mica and manufacturing mica products. The company's New Mexico office is given as La Madrona and its agent is Albert Otto of that place.

These get numerous deficiency appropriations for nearly all of the departments and institutions.

Medicine for Her

Mrs. W. J. "I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. It is very good for children and for a mother. After my first child I was weak and I feared I would not have any more children. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I have a nice strong healthy baby girl. I can honestly say that I did not suffer much more from my baby than I used to. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound years ago. I give all the credit to your medicine and shall always recommend it very highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANSEN, Milton, Wisconsin.

How can women who are weak and sickly expect or hope to become mothers of healthy children? Their first duty is to themselves. They should overcome the derangement of debility that is dragging them down, and strengthen the entire system, as Mrs. Jansen, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and then they will be in a position to give their children the blessing of a good constitution.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism. You may receive a doctor's bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

BUILDING THE HOME.

Synopsis—Discontented because of the homelike barrenness of his position as a school teacher in a Canadian town, John Harris determines to leave it, take up land in Manitoba, and become a homesteader. Mary, the girl whom he loves, declares she will accompany him. They are married and set out for the unknown country. Also McCrae, pioneer settler and advisor of newcomers, arrives as an invincible friend. Leaving his wife with the family of a fellow settler, Fred Arthur, Harris and McCrae journey over the prairie and find a homestead. Mary insists on accompanying him when he takes possession, and they begin their life work of making the prairie fertile farm land.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

That night, before the darkness had gathered too deep, they selected the site of their house on the very bench that McCrae had indicated. It was about an acre in extent, and stood halfway between the prairie level and the bottom of the coulee, where a small river was now running.

It was quite dark when they sought the cover of their little tent, and the wolves were howling far down the ravine.

The frost was out enough to admit to him plowing some sods. He plowed them, three inches thick and 14 inches wide, and cut them into two-foot lengths with his ax, to the sad injury of its cutting edge. These sods were then built into a wall like bricks, resting gently against the framework of poles, from which, however, they were separated by a padding of grass, which Harris cut in a slough with his scythe, and small willows from the ravine. This mattress of grass and willows prevented any earth shaking through into the house itself. A framework made of a heavy log was inserted in the south wall to leave space for a window, which should be bought when the family finances could afford such luxuries. For the time being it would be left open in fine weather and covered with canvas when the elements were gruff or unruly. The rag carpet, when no longer needed as a tent, would be draped in the doorway, pending the purchase of boards to make a wooden door.

For a roof grass was laid on the poles and covered tightly with sods. Then Harris found a sticky, yellow clay in the side of the ravine, and two or three inches of this he spread carefully over the sods, like icing on a great cake. The greasy clay soon hardened in the sun, and became so impervious to water that the heaviest rains of summer made no impression upon it.

By this time the snow was all gone, except in north-facing nooks along the ravine, and the frost was out of the sod in all places deep enough to admit of plowing. As the stock were taking no harm from the open air, thanks to the shelter of the ravine, Harris decided to delay the construction of his stable until after seeding and to proceed at once with the plowing of his land. He had also to make a trip to

"Not Even Hurt," He Answered, and She Fainted in His Arms.

Arthur's for seed grain, and to borrow a couple of sections of dog harness. With it all, by the middle of May he had sown 15 acres of wheat, and notwithstanding a heavy snowfall about the twenty-third, by the first of June he had added ten acres of oats. With his help Mary had planted a small garden of potatoes and vegetables, and a few flowers were springing up at the door of the house.

CHAPTER III.

The Shores of the Inifinite.

The summer was a season of great activity and development. Harris did not sow any crop after the first of June, but applied himself then to the construction of his stable, which was built after the same fashion as the house.

As McCrae had predicted, there was a considerable movement of settlers into the district, and at several points their tents or rude houses now broke the vast sweep of the horizon. Tom Morrison had found land to the settlement of his heart within three miles of the Harris homestead, and his big log house, 18x24, assumed the proportions of a castle by comparison with the smaller homes springing up around. Some miles to the east Dick Matheson, straight from the lumber camps of the Madawaska, had pitched his tent, and a few miles farther on was his friend of the abattis, John Burton. To the west were the Grants, and to the north Hiram Bliss and his wife, Eliza. A missionary had in some way spied out the field, and held weekly Sunday services at Morrison's house; and Dr. Bliss, when not in one of his unfortunate debauches, had his headquarters at the new town of Plainville, which consisted of Sempster's general store and a "stopping place," and which had sprung up near the junction of two streams in anticipation of the railway.

And so the first summer wore away and the first harvest was at hand.

Any disappointment which had been occasioned by backward conditions earlier in the season was effaced by the wonderful crop which now crowned the efforts of the pioneers. Of their finest eastern farms they had seen nothing to equal the great stand of wheat and oats which now covered them, neck-high, whenever they invaded it. The great problem before the settlers was the harvesting of this crop. It was a mighty task to attempt with their scythes, but there was no self-binder, or even reaper, within many miles.

Finally Morrison solved the problem for the whole community by placing an order, at a fabulous figure, for a self-binder from the United States. It was a cumbersome, wooden frame contrivance, gutted of the roller bearings, floating aprons, open elevators and sheaf carriers of a later day, but it served the purpose, and with its aid the harvest of the little settlement was safely placed in sheaf. The farmers then stacked their grain in the fields, taking care to plow double fireguards, with a burnt space between, as a precaution against the terrifying fires which broke over the prairie as soon as the September frosts had dried the grass. A community some 20 miles to the eastward boasted a threshing mill, and arrangements were made for its use after it had discharged the duties of its own locality.

When Harris' thrashing was done he found he had 800 bushels of wheat and 700 bushels of oats in cone-shaped piles on his fields. The roads were fine and hard, and no snow had yet fallen, so he determined to begin at once with the marketing of his wheat. His last cent had been spent months before; indeed, it had been spent only through the courtesy of the storekeeper at Plainville, who was also postmaster, and who had stretched the law to the point of accepting hen eggs as legal tender in exchange for postage stamps, that Mary Harris had been able to keep up the brave, optimistic series of letters written "home." So Harris decided that he would at once market some of his wheat. Most of the oats would be needed for his horses and for feed, and what remained would command good prices for new settlers the following spring, but some of the wheat must be turned into money at once. During the latter part of the summer they had lived exclusively on the produce of their farm: on vegetables from the garden, fish and ducks from the stream, prairie chickens, and an occasional rabbit from the fields. The wild geese had deserted them early in the spring, and returned only after harvest. But now they should have a change on their table. Mary had accepted the pioneer fare of the summer without complaint, but of late Harris had discovered a strange longing in her eyes, and more than once she had arrested herself in the words "I wish we had—" Then two plentiful little tears would steal softly down her cheeks, and she would bury her head in his arms as he soothed her with loving words and promised that "after thrashing things would be different."

So now he set out for Emerson with the best load his horses could draw. The first few miles he drove in silence, for there was a heavy weight at his heart as he thought of the little wife alone with the responsibilities of the farm. . . . That she would be faithful to every responsibility he knew beyond question. . . . But he was not quite satisfied. A strange moodiness had come over her, and even with him at home she had at times given way to fits of downheartedness which seemed altogether alien to her nature.

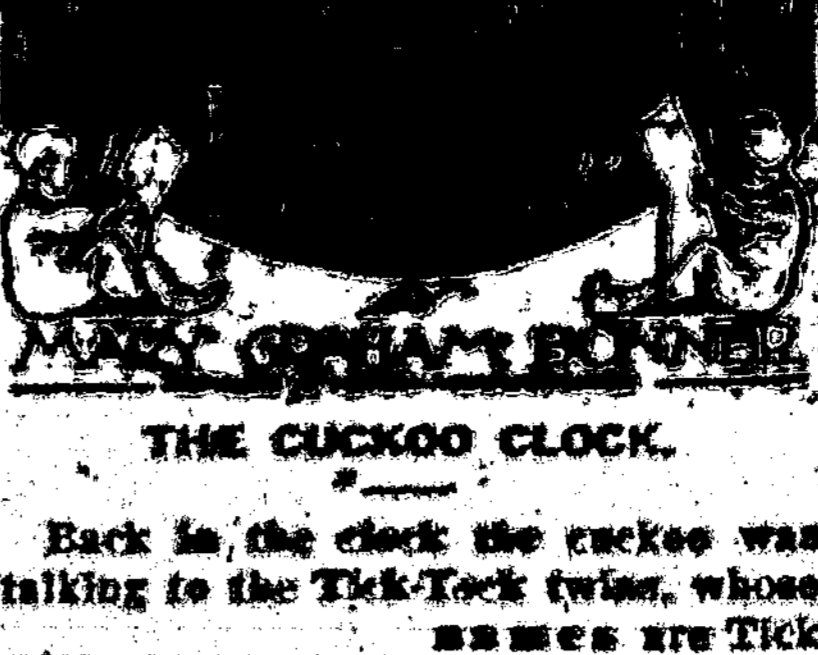

Ten days later he retraced his course in the teeth of a blinding blizzard. A dozen times he had been lost in the last 48 hours, but he had developed the prairie dweller's sense of direction, and had always been able again to locate the trail. The Arthurs would have detained him, almost by force, but the thought of a pale, patient face, wrung with an agony of anxiety not for itself, made him adamant in his resolve to go home at whatever cost. The roads were almost impassable; he left his lumber at Arthurs, but carried with him his windows, a few boards for a door, and a little bundle of dry goods. Everything else had gone by the way surrendered in exchange for food and shelter for himself and horses.

"Thank God, oh, thank God!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Considerate Hen.

A hen which deposits a fresh breakfast egg on her owner's bed, and then awakens him at the proper time to consume the fruits of her industry, is stated the Timber Trades Journal, is the prized possession of a sawmill employee at Bend, Ore. Retiring at 3 a. m.—the end of his working day—the man leaves open the window at his bedside. Shortly before 5:30 a. m. the hen flies in, nestles near her master's shoulder, lays her egg, and rising greets the sleeper quietly in the softest whisper.

THE CUCKOO CLOCK.

Back in the clock the cuckoo was talking to the Tick-Teck twins, whose names are Tick and Teck.

"I was greatly pleased," said the cuckoo Mr., "because a little girl came to lunch today, and she asked if she couldn't see me when I came out. But she happened not to have her head turned this way when I did come out, so after lunch was all over she was promised that she would surely see me."

"So she sat and waited for some little time until I should come out. And everyone waited with her. I was much pleased and much flattered."

"You see, the little girl wanted so much to see me that she was willing to wait that long for me, and yet there were many other things she was to see, for the family with whom I live have many interesting things to show."

"So I consider it was a great compliment when they all sat and waited to see me come out of my little house and cuckoo-cuckoo for them. I came out just a little bit after the half hour, as I always do."

"That is, I have out a little after the half-hour tickles and a little after the hour strikes. Not very much after, but just a little."

"I really wished I could have stayed out longer, so the little girl could have seen me better, but I couldn't have done that."

"They say that some of the real cuckoos aren't very popular with other birds. But then, there are plenty of creatures not so well liked as others."

"There are snakes for example, which aren't liked. I've heard folks who come here talk about snakes. You see, as I'm in the Cuckoo-room I hear a great deal of conversation, for the people talk during their meals."

"Then I've heard that snakes weren't popular, because they had a very queer odor about them, but that they can't send forth that odor unless they throw their tails over their backs."

"That sounds funny, but I suppose it is true. It is part of the information I pick up. You see, I don't get much, as I'm out but a few seconds at a time. But, then, I'm out twice during the hour, and so I hear people talk twice during the morning, twice at noon and twice at night."

"That makes six times all together. And though I have something to say every time I come out, I listen to what the others say, too."

"I've heard that trees aren't so dangerous if people aren't afraid of them, and attack them badly, but then I've been told that they do sting pretty badly, and it is well to leave them alone."

"I believe they do sting, though, from what I've heard."

"And I've heard the people say that though they stay in a day is hot and wet and rainy and rainy that the plants like it as they sit outside the window and have a beautiful time feeling the cool water falling on them."

"I've heard that two dogs of the young lady who was married from here not long ago were closed up in the room when the wedding party was going on, but that before the left got out of the room."

"And what do you suppose they did?"

"When all the guests were exiting downstairs for the lady and her husband to come along so they could throw rice over them, there were the two little dogs, sitting and watching her go."

"They had wanted to wish her good luck and happiness, for she had always meant good luck and happiness to them."

"Yes," said the cuckoo from the cuckoo clock, "I get a lot of news. And I enjoy it all."

"I'm glad I'm the cuckoo of the cuckoo clock."

"Tick," said the twin named Tick. And "teck," said the twin named Teck.

"We are glad we belong to the clock," Tick-Teck.

"We're glad we belong to it, too."

Their Amusement.

The Hennessy twins were the trial of the kindergarten. One day, when the teacher was asking the other children what they wanted to be when they grew up, her eye caught the twins up to mischief, no usual, and paying no attention to the subject under discussion, she turned quickly and said: "Micky Hennessy, what are you boys going to be when you grow up?"

"Lawyers," was the prompt reply. American Boy.

Appropriate Meeting Place.

Rev. Ambrose Dunkel, pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church, had occasion Sunday to make an announcement regarding a meeting of some of the young folk immediately after church. "The church is occupying a temporary building at Thirty-fourth and Central, so that mentioning a stove in his story must not be construed as lack of progress."

"The young folk who were to have met last Wednesday will meet in the chapel immediately after church. Mr. Wood will meet you at the stove in the chapel—a very appropriate meeting place."—Indianapolis News.

Range Cows and Coyotes Enjoy National Forest Trail

Albuquerque, N. M., March 16—That others besides stockmen and forest rangers appreciate the trails built by the Forest Service in the wilds of the National Forests, is attested in the story recently related by Forest Ranger Geo. Mutz of the Caye Creek District of the Prescott Forest in central Arizona. Cattle, coyotes, deer and other animals, wild and domesticated, says Mutz, seem to take delight in traveling the smooth tread of a trail recently constructed through a rough portion of this region which is described as being so rugged that travel is only comfortably achieved by airplanes and mountain goats.

"This is the first trail work done in this portion of the forest," says Ranger Mutz, "and it is apparently a great solvent for all of us residents here, both footed and two footed creatures. Often it is impossible to drive cattle from the trail and they will jog along ahead of one's horse for several miles, seeming to take delight in the unusually easy travel. Occasionally I see a deer disappear around the bend ahead of me; and coyotes—well, at night they literally patrol the trails in bands. Must be social proposition with them, and often they gather at the end of the trail near my station, giving us a big serenade. However, we don't especially delight in this demonstration and would just as soon take their appreciation for granted."

Perishing Meads With Veterans To Wage Fight On Illiteracy

(Capital News Service)
Washington, March 16, 1921—Denouncing as a "crime, a shame and a disgrace" the conditions that permitted more than 30 per cent of the young men of the draft age to be classified as illiterate, Gen. John J. Pershing, in a talk to the soldier patients at Walter Reed army hospital, Washington, made an appeal for such action as would impress upon communities the obligations the latter owed to the youth of the United States in education. His startling disclosures also constitute one of the strongest arguments for compulsory education, at least up to a certain age. This appeal by Gen. Pershing and the illiteracy to which he called attention, it is pointed out, emphasizes the importance of a federal department of education, one which would give moral and financial support to the states in their campaigns against illiteracy.

The Washington Post, in an editorial discussing the report of the House Committee on Education, through Chairman Feas, recommending the passage of the Department of Education measure, drives home some of the facts with respect to illiteracy contained in the report.

Baptist Church Notes

A special vote of thanks is hereby issued to all those who contributed to that great service, with all good things, on last week.
Interest continues to grow in every department of our work. Our Sunday School, especially, is doing excellent work; it continues to grow in numbers as well as in interest.
SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT
Instead of the regular Sunday morning Church services, the Sunday School will render an Easter program.
Subject for the pastor's evening address will be, "The Foundation of Christianity."—Don't fail to hear this address—COME.

"Purina" Made the Difference!

EQUAL in laying ability. But the hen on the right was fed a common grain ration while the other was fed Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Hen Chow. Grains have lots of material for yolk, but far too little for whites. As they can't lay yolks only, grain-fed hens lay fewer eggs.

Purina Poultry Chows Feed from Checkboard Bags form a complete ration, containing material for an equal number of white and yolks. They get the most out of your hens, and cut the feeding cost per dozen eggs.

More Eggs Guaranteed You get your money back! Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Hen Chow, fed as directed, don't produce more eggs than any other ration. Why should you put off a trial when we take the risk?

Methodist Church News

The large number at the funeral reception testified Mr. E. T. Cribb at the First Methodist Church last Monday evening was an eloquent tribute to the high esteem in which this good man who for the past seven years lived the unselfish life and wrought among us in Christian work is held. Short addresses were as follows:

Senator E. M. Brickley, one of our local bankers, spoke on "Mr. Cribb as a Business Man." Mrs. C. A. Hooper, for the Sunday School on, "Mr. Cribb in the Sunday School." D. S. Donaldson, chairman of the Church Board, on
 "Mr. Cribb as a Church Official." W.
 J. Langston of the I. O. O. F., on "Mr.
 Cribb as an Odd Fellow." Miss Florence
 Spence, president of the Epworth League on, "Mr. Cribb and the Epworth League." Miss Grace Moss, an officer in the Epworth League, on "Miss Cribb as a Willing Worker." Rev. O.
 C. Higbee, for the church, on "Mr. Cribb as a Preacher." On behalf of the church, the pastor presented a handsome traveling bag, as a loving token of esteem and appreciation.

Our prayers and best wishes go with him, as he enters his new field of labor in the holy calling of the Christian Ministry.

Immediately after taking of Class records, at about 9:15 next Sunday morning, the children of the Sunday school will render an Easter program to which all who are not duty-bound elsewhere, are cordially invited. Upon the conclusion of this program, the pastor will bring an Easter Message.
 We will have the Regatta in the evening, as planned. We will have special Easter music all of which will be in keeping with the occasion.

You'll save Money by remodeling now

You who have been waiting for lower prices before you laid that new floor, renewed those old walls and ceilings, re-roofed the house or barn, or built the residence—this message is directed to you.

Do you know that lumber and building material prices are down to average of forty per cent?

Do you know that you can repair or remodel cheaper than at any time in the past five years?

Do you realize that every day you wait not only inconveniences you but costs you real money?

Building material prices may come down more—we think not—but every day you delay in getting the new house deprives you of the use of it, and causes you to pay out money for house rent.

Every day you delay roofing the barn and the home, makes your property more liable to damage from storm. Every day you put off inside repairs the trouble increases and the total expense becomes greater.

Do your repairing and remodeling at the present lower prices and get the benefit now.

Come in today and let us figure your job.

Easter Holiday

"TIS Easter dawn," the lilies say,
"And Christ, our Lord, is risen to-day.
Let every heart be glad."
But in God's acre far away,
He lies, who once was blithe and gay,
My heart with dole is sad.

"What means the Easter dawn to me?"
I asked in gray despondency;
"My life is drenched and dead."
The lilies quivered as in pain,
"The one you love will live again,
And ever live," they said.

"Since Jesus lives, we cannot die,
For He came on earth to buy
A life eternal. There,
Within a mansion safe, they too
Now live, the dearest ones we knew,
Secure from pain and care."

"O lilies, teach my heart to sing
This anthem of your risen King,
That I may learn to live."
Their fragrant censers looked at me
In love, and whispered tenderly:
"Yourself more freely give."

Facts From Jerusalem

Easter, the Great Festival of the Orient, is interestingly Celebrated

The name of Jerusalem is repeated on Easter day by millions and millions of followers of the Christian religion as well as the Jews. If one stops to think how many times the word Jerusalem has been repeated during the 2,000 years that have passed since the appearance of the Nazarene on the platform of the world history, one must admit that there is no city in the world that can rival with Jerusalem in fame. The name of Jerusalem has become a familiar and sacred name to many a nation and many an individual.

In recent reports it was mentioned that Jerusalem has been covered by a white carpet of snow 29 inches deep, and that due to the excessive snow load one of the old olive trees in Gethsemane gave way and fell. The fall of this tree has again fulfilled another prophecy stating that Jerusalem will be delivered from the hands of the Turk when one of these trees should fall.

The Easter season is by far the busiest and most interesting one of Jerusalem. The setting in of spring makes it possible as well as pleasant for pilgrims and visitors from all parts of the globe to gather in the Holy city and see with their own eyes the place where scenes occurred that tended to bring about decisive turning points in the history of the human race.

One of these places is the Garden of Gethsemane. As the Hebrew name indicates, Gethsemane was an olive garden, with an "oil press" on its grounds. The present garden is situated on the western slope of the Mount of Olives, a little distance up from the Kidron valley. Although very much reduced in size, it still contains some of the olive trees that stood there when the Gethsemane scene took place. The place has been turned into a beautiful garden, and from to all parts of the world with flowers from Gethsemane glued on them. On Green Thursday before Easter the vast number of visitors walk down the slopes of Mt. Zion, on which the temple stands, cross the Kidron valley near Silt Miram, the tomb of St. Mary, and enter the garden after ascending a distance up the Mount of Olives. For lack of space to accommodate the visitors, they are allowed to remain a short time on the place, during which they can sing a hymn or read a passage from the New Testament and then make room for newcomers. Hymns characteristic of all Christian nations are sung in almost every civilized tongue in the quietude of the garden.

But the most attended festival is the celebration of the Holy Night. The celebration is world famous and yearly attracts visitors from all parts of the world. At one o'clock in the afternoon of the Saturday before Easter, the light is given out from the front chamber of the tomb by the Greek Orthodox Patriarch and is passed on by the anxiously waiting youth of Jerusalem. Every individual who carries a candle lights it from the light next to him and in a marvelously short time the light is passed on through the different parts of the interior of the church, out into the yard, up to the visitors on the flat roofs of the church, through the city and out into the churches of the whole country.

Before the war the Turkish military force used to police the occasion to prevent any disorder, but mostly to show that Islam is dominant even on the very sacred grounds of Christianity. But since the entrance of the victorious General Allenby, the policing was done by Tommies or Australians, who were participants in the celebration and whose presence was deemed essential only for preventing molestation by pickpockets.

Gordon, an English archaeologist, discovered a hill outside the Damascus gate which has the shape of a skull with holes arranged so as to form two eyes, a nose and a mouth. At the foot of the hill is a garden, and on one side of the garden is a tomb known as the tomb of the Holy Sepulcher. The tomb corresponds to the description of the tomb mentioned in the New Testament.

Green Thursday is celebrated at Jerusalem in the Holy Sepulcher with a very impressive service. The main celebration is in the streets of the city and the homes of the people. The children enjoy the game of trying to see how many eggs they can break by the ones they have, holding them in a vertical position. The broken egg becomes the property of the winner. Easter is the great festival of the Orient. On this occasion people have parties to which they invite their friends. Greetings and good wishes are exchanged both orally and in writing. The best Syrian candy and sweets, as well as the best dishes, are served on the Easter meal table in Syrian homes.

The Jaffa gate, which was made famous by the entry of General Allenby to Jerusalem, is the most important gate of the city. Alongside of the gate is the entrance, which was made by tearing down a piece of the ancient wall to form a suitable entrance for Wilhelm Hohenzollern in 1838. In front of the Jaffa gate, also called Hal el Kall, or the Gate of the Friend, three principal streets meet, namely, the Jaffa street, David street and the road to Bethlehem.

The place in front of Hal el Kall is the busiest section of the whole city. An observer of the life during Easter time sees a mixed human stream passing in and out through the "Gate of the Friend." This continuous stream is made up of representatives of all nationalities, tongues and creeds.

Hal el Kall is the center of traffic of the city. Here the vehicles stand in line ready to convey the natives, as well as the tourists, through the city and through the country. Camel caravans in their characteristic slow pace share the pavement with the modern motor-driven cars. A scene at the Jaffa gate during the Easter season has no equal in any cosmopolitan city in any part of the world, and impresses upon the observer the importance of the city and the fame which it owes to the occurrences of the Easter season 2,000 years ago.

Calvary was a hill on which criminals were crucified. The crucifixion was an old Eastern habit. The historical hill of Calvary, on which the three crosses of that Good Friday stood, has disappeared. On its site the Church of the Holy Sepulcher has been built by Helena, the wife of Emperor Constantine of the Byzantine empire, in the fourth century after the Christian era. On this place the celebration of the foot washing and the Holy Light takes place.

The foot washing is celebrated on Greek Thursday in the court of the church by the followers of the Greek Orthodox faith, representing the foot washing that took place in the room of Jesus 2,000 years ago.

OF MIXED BLOOD

Population of Scotland Made Up of Six Races.

Scottish Tribe, Originally Irish, Gave Their Name to the Country, According to the Historian.

The Scotch reached Scotland from Ireland and are not the descendants of Gaelic Celts who had been pushed north by a later (British) invasion of Britain. The first authentic information on Scotland dates from the time of the Romans, 73 A. D. Roman rule in Britain came to an end in 410, and Britain then ceased to be part of the Roman empire.

The population of Scotland is made up of Pictish, Irish, British, Saxon, Danish and Norman elements, all of them Indo-Celtic, the three first Celtic. The Picts contributed the bulk of the population, but were overthrown by the Scotts (Irish), who had settled in Dalriada, a part of the present county of Argyll. The Scotts then became the dominant people.

Byrthonic Celts dwelt in Strathclyde; their chief city was Dumbarton (Dun Breton, "Fort of the Britons"). Toward the close of the Eleventh century the Danes appeared and ravaged the coast settlements and the Isles. The Saxons first appeared in 428 in Britain. In the Eleventh century Norman refugees first crossed the border into Scotland.

The first Irish colonization in Scotland took place toward the end of the second century, but the kingdom of Dalriada was not effected until the close of the fifth. It is these Scotts who have given their name to Scotland. The relations between the two countries were very close and lasted 1,000 years, or at least up to the Reformation, and the early literature and civilization of Scotland belong to Ireland.

According to legend, the name Scotch is derived from Scotia, a daughter of one of the Pharaohs. The word is probably related etymologically to the German Schatz, and means "master, owners." Originally, and therefore in all medieval Latin texts down to the end of the Eleventh century, it meant only Ireland. Since that date it means specifically Scotland. The Scotch Gael never calls himself Scotch, but Gael, or, to indicate his country, Albanach. English-speaking Highlanders, even though Scotchmen, are Saxons in the mind of a Gael. In the Fifteenth century, when English became the predominant speech in the Lowlands, the English and non-Celtic Scotch called Gaelic "Eras." Since the Sixteenth century the name Scotch has been applied to the English spoken in the Lowlands. So, by a strange freak of fortune, Scotch, originally applied to a variety of Celtic, has come to mean Broad Scotch or Quaint English, a language of Germanic origin.

The distinction made between the Highlands and Lowlands of Scotland is correct merely so far as the physical configuration of the country is concerned, but incorrect if a racial significance is read into it. There is a mistaken notion that Scotland is a country of two races, Celtic in the North and Teutonic in the South, and that the latter element has displaced the former. No doubt the Lowland Scotchman is a person of very composite blood, but he is above all a Celt.—From a Paper by Dr. Joseph Dunn before Anthropological Society of Washington, in the Scientific American Supplement.

DISEASE-KILLER CLOVER WEEVIL

Natural Enemy of Parasitic Prevents It Developing into Serious Menace.

INSECT EXACTS LARGE TOLL

Pest Is Found in Practically Every Section of Country Where Clover Is Grown—Larvae Most Numerous During Spring.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture) If it were not for an ever-present fungous disease, which is a powerful natural enemy of the clover-leaf weevil, this pest would develop into a serious menace to one of America's most important crops—clover.

Like many pests now present in this country, the clover-leaf weevil was introduced accidentally from Europe, where it is well known. The first record of its occurrence as a pest in the United States was in 1881, when a severe outbreak occurred at Barrington, N. J.

The adult weevil lays its eggs on the stems of the clover plant, and in early spring the larvae hatch and begin to feed as soon as the clover starts its growth. Larvae are most numerous during April, but beginning with May there is a gradual falling off in numbers...

Both the larvae and adult weevils feed during the night and conceal themselves in the day under rubbish or in cracks in the ground. Usually they work on the underside of the leaves where they eat small holes and are not seen except by the careful observer.

A barn with two rows of stalls, facing a center feeding alley for the cows, and with pens for calves and young stock directly back of the cows and next to the outer walls, is probably the most practical arrangement.

"Ample yard space should be provided adjacent to the barn, for the cow herd needs plenty of exercise and should be turned out every day for at least a few hours. Small calves also need exercise, yet should not be required to withstand too much exposure.

To Push Gold Production

To show mining needs a western campaign is to open in behalf of the McFadden bill.

The McFadden bill provides a premium on gold used for other purposes than coinage. W. J. Loring, recently chosen head of the American Mining Congress, will organize headquarters in San Francisco for disseminating knowledge regarding the mining industry.

He will be aided by Fletcher Hamilton, State Mineralogist, and other leaders in the production of gold.

Many mines have been compelled to shut down owing to the increasing cost of production.

The miners wish to get the backing of the public in their plan to raise the price of gold for commercial purposes. The plan does to leave as it is, so the monetary system of the country will be unaffected.

THE man who speaks of life as being made up of "just one thing after another" as though it were simply a series of unwelcome and disconnected events, is mentally near-sighted. He fails to recognize the importance and necessity of viewing life as a whole. Success is a matter of properly valuing and emphasizing the various activities of living. Work and play, earning and spending and saving, all have their place in worth while living; and all are closely related one to the other.
