10,000 FEWER WAR VETERANS AT G.A.R. RALLY THIS YEAR

Indianapolis, Ind., July 17.—When the Grand Army of the Republic holds its annual reunion this year, more than 10,000 of the civil war veterans who attended the encampment of 1920 will be counted among the missing, as the ranks have been depleted to this extent through the last year.

The total membership of the G.A.R. today is $3,155, while its membership in 1920 was 103,258.

The total membership is scattered among 4,445 posts in every state.

Property valued at $2,075,027.

Property owned by all posts is valued at $2,075,027, including real estate worth $802,341.

Members of the old Confederate states total approximately 2,200.

The G. A. R. was organized in Illinois in the spring of 1866. Who its originators were is a matter of tradition rather than of record, says the report made to the national encampment in 1869 by N. P. Chipman, then adjutant-general of the national organization.

"There can be no doubt that the late Col. B. F. Stephenson, of Decatur, Ill., was one of the prime movers," says Chipman's report. Being recognized as such, he organized the first post at Dakota, Ill.

40 Illinois Posts in 1866.

By July, 1866, there were 40 posts in Illinois, representatives of which met in convention and organized the state department. Stephenson was by common consent the provisional commander-in-chief, and posts were organized in other states resulting in the first national encampment being held in Indianapolis, Nov. 20, 1866.

After the Indianapolis convention, Chipman records that "posts seem to have sprung up as if by magic in all parts of the north," but he adds there was no record of progress. Ter states were represented at the Indianapolis encampment, 31 states in 1867, 24 in 1868, 27 in 1869, having 2,050 posts.

"At the 1867 encampment a mutual life insurance scheme was proposed. It being said then that the G. A. R. had 240,000 members. In 1867, it had been said that the state department 'claimed to represent a constituency of over 200,000.' But there is no authentic record of the number for this early year, the insurance proposal containing an estimate, it is thought and the '67 estimate being regarded as the number of union soldiers living in the jurisdiction of the state departments represented at the convention. For instance, the adjutant general's report at the 1870 encampment, when there were 39 departments, says it is 'absolutely impossible for me to furnish anything like a correct report of the present membership.'

Membership in 1890, 409,489.

In 1890, however, reports taken as authentic state that the membership was 409,489, the highest mark recorded.

From 1878 to 1890, the growth was rapid, being from 12,000 to 85,000 annually. Since 1890, the decline has been constant, except for a 3,000 gain in 1905, said to be due to prospects favoring pension legislation.

The 1920 national encampment, voted to meet every year as long as a single member survived. Brig. Gen. John L. Clem, addressing Army and Navy club, Washington, D. C., claims himself the youngest G. A. R. member.

He is thought by G. A. R. officials to be 71 years old, having enlisted as a drummer boy at the age of 11 years. The question of who is the oldest member always brings up hundreds of claimants and no reliable record has been obtained.

5,000,000 BUSHELS GRAIN FOR ARMENIANS AND SYRIANS

Chicago, July 17.—Five million bushels of wheat and corn for the destitute widows and orphans of Armenia and Syria will be collected by the Near East Relief in co-operation with various agricultural organizations according to an announcement today by Alonso E. Wilson, who has been designated the national campaign director with headquarters in Chicago.

The present campaign is a continuation of the plan by farm organizations to reduce the surplus of American grain by giving it away, thus tending to boost the price of the grain remaining.

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas is chairman of the committee in charge. Area headquarters will be established in several cities, including Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other big centers.

MRS. E. W. PARKER PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY AT SUMMER HOME IN CLOUDCROFT

Was a Pioneer Settler of White Oaks Section of Lincoln County, and Was Greatly Beloved by all Old Residents.

The death of Mrs. E. W. Parker occurred from acute gastritis at her home in Cloudcroft, Tuesday morning at 1:00 o'clock, after an illness of only about 24 hours. Funeral services were held in El Paso after which interment was made Wednesday in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Parker was born in New York state in 1848. With her husband she came to New Mexico in 1882 and settled at White Oaks, where she resided until a few years ago, and where there are many old neighbors who will regret to hear of her death.

Mrs. Parker was well known and highly respected by the people of Lincoln county. For the past eleven years she maintained a home in El Paso and has spent eleven consecutive summers at her summer home in Cloudcroft.

Her husband died a year ago last February. The deceased leaves a survivor in her immediate family, a son, James H. and Frank W., both of El Paso and Orogrande and Morris B. of Hollywood, Calif. In response to news of the mother's critical illness Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Parker and daughter went to Cloudcroft and accompanied the remains to El Paso.

The Parker Bros. are interested in the Oro Iron Co., operating at Orogrande.

LARRAZOLO SAYS VILLA IS GOOD HOSE

Francisco Villa, former Mexican bandit leader, royally entertains his guests on his enormous ranch at Sanulillo, Durango, Mexico, whether they are American or Mexican, according to J. M. Larrazolo, son of his former governor of New Mexico.

"The former bandit leader has settled down to a peaceful existence," said Mr. Larrazolo. "He is the most meretricious worker on his ranch. He works about the ranch, repairing farming implements in overview of all work done by the laborers of which there is a large number, and personally supervises the cultivation of his wheat fields.

"Almost the entire ranch is planted in wheat, which as soon as it matures and is cut, is piled preparatory to thrashing after which a different product is planted in the soil that becomes fertilized when the wheat stubble is plowed under.

Villa experiences no difficulties with his guests although a number of pseudo industrial and advertising representatives, in reality news-mongers, picture cameramen and the like have given him trouble, Mr. Larrazolo declared.

Peaceful on His Ranch.

Larrazolo asserts that Villa's workmen "receive the best and kindest of attention, are well fed and clothed and sleep in good quarters."

"He asserts the men are well paid and from all indications are living a contented existence.

NEW BREED OF POULTRY DEVELOPED BY UNCLE SAM

Washington, D. C., July 18.—Lamens is the name given to a new breed of poultry that has been developed at the Experiment Farm of the United States Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md. It has been named by Secretary Wallace after the originator, Harry M. Lamson, senior poultryman of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

It is a white fowl with red earlobes that lays a white-shelled egg. White Plymouth Rock, Silver Gray Dorking and White Leghorn were the breeds used as foundation stock.

The fowls are larger than Leghorns, with long, deep bodies, well feathered, and comb and wattles of medium size. This new breed is not ready for introduction and neither eggs or fowls can be secured. When a sufficient stock of birds has been raised specimens will be sent to State agricultural colleges and experiment stations to test their adaptability to different sections and conditions.

Mrs. F. E. Richard and daughter Vera, have returned from El Paso where an operation was performed on Miss Vera's eye and specialists say that one more will restore the sight.

BURSUM FAVORS UNINSTRUCTED-AIR PURSUIT SQUADRONS TO BE ORGANIZED

Albuquerque, N. M., July 17.—Chairman George R. Craig, of the Republican state committee, announced today that a meeting of the executive committee would be called within the next few days to fix a date for the meeting of the entire state committee, which will fix a date for the Republican State convention to nominate a candidate for the United States senate in the special election of September 20. Chairman Craig said he thought the executive committee meeting might be held Saturday of this week, if the date suited the convenience of members, with whom he is now in communication.

Mr. Bursum Favors Uninstructed.

At the same time Chairman Craig made public a letter from Senator Holm G. Bursum, stating in effect that a Republican national committee for New Mexico, if favored a short campaign and suggested that the state convention date might be set between the 15th and 20th of August. In this letter, Senator Bursum says that while he would feel highly honored should the delegates from the several counties favor his nomination, he strongly favors an open and free convention and to that end does not favor instructed delegations.

Senator Bursum also says that while he expects to attend the convention he will be unable to take any part in the pre-convention campaign, feeling that he must remain at his post of duty.

Santh Fe, N. M., July 14.—Two companies of a pursuit squadron, air service, have been authorized for the New Mexico national guard by the War department. Adjt. Gen. Henry Wolf Brown announces.

Allocation of these air service units to this state will be of the greatest benefit of the general public, and especially of the young men eligible for service in the guard, Gen. Brown feels.

Details of personal of these units have not been received but it is likely that each company will be made up of about 65 enlisted men. The equipment for each company will be some 15 planes, it is believed.

Headquarters of the eighth army corps, area, Fort Sam Houston, advises that in consideration of the location will be considered as base.

The present distribution of reserve officers throughout the state.

National defense, including coast defense, and case of mobilization.

The present location of regular air service stations and air stations already established for forest patrol work.

Transportation facilities and courses of supply and repair.

The system of proposed highways throughout the United States.

The facilities, either municipal or private, that already exist throughout the country.

The existence of flying clubs and like organizations throughout the country.

Proximity to mechanical population and to commercial enterprises that might be able to supply the proper classes of personnel.

The interest taken and the civic pride shown in securing units at certain localities.

Size of cities and possibility of their supporting units assigned.

The preservation of units in their entirety in corps areas or states so far as possible.

Climate and geographic conditions in various sections of the country.

Concentration of as many units as practicable on single airbases and consequent reduction in airbases.

HOOPER WILL URGE PEOPLE TO PUT $5 BILLIONS IN SAVINGS INTO BUILDING OF NEW HOMES

Washington, July 17.—Plans for relieving the estimated shortage of 1,000,000 homes throughout the country through the diversion of a greater proportion of the nation's $22,000,000,000 in savings deposits into home building are under consideration by Secretary Hoover.

The commerce secretary considers there has been a tendency during the past few years for the savings of the people to find their way into commercial paper, bonds and similar securities, rather than into home building, while a critical housing situation has developed, with about 117 families for each 100 homes.

The chief reliance of the country in the necessary financing of home building, in the opinion of Mr. Hoover, must be the savings institutions. With a total of $22,000,000,000 available from these sources, he believes, it will be found after eliminating the building

110 FOREST FIRES IN STATE SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

Only 31 Covered More Than 10 Acres, Reports Disclose.

Albuquerque, July 17.—New Mexico has had a total of 110 forest fires since the first of the year, according to a report issued by the district office of the forest service this morning. Of these 31 have covered more than 10 acres, and 44 were put out before they burned one-fourth of an acre.

"The fire season is now over," officials of the office said. "Fire fighters of New Mexico have made a good record, but it is not as good as that of Arizona fire fighters. In that state they have had twice as many fires since the first of the year, and they kept the number of class C, or big fires as low as the number in New Mexico."

Half of the fires in the forests of New Mexico, the report shows, were in the Gila and Dattil national forests. The Dattil leads the list with 31 fires, 13 of which covered more than 10 acres, nine of which covered more than a quarter of an acre and less than ten, and nine, less than a quarter of an acre.

The Gila forest comes next with 22 fires, 13 of which were put out before they had burned a quarter of an acre. Seven more did not reach 10 acres in extent, and only two covered more than ten acres.

The smallest number of fires was in the Carson national forest. This forest had seven fires, three over ten acres and three less than a quarter of an acre in extent.

In the Lincoln forest there were 11 fires in the season. Of these five were large, and five of the middle class. There have been 10 fires in the Manzano forest since the first of the year and half of them were put out before they had burned one-fourth of an acre. Only three of them were large.

In the Santa Fe national forest there have been 31 fires altogether. Five of these were large, and eight, more or less than a quarter of an acre in extent.

In Arizona, while the report from that state is not complete, there have been around 200 fires this year. Of this number, only 35 have covered more than 10 acres.

and loan associations and actual savings banks, which devote about 60 per cent of their deposits to home building, that the savings departments of national banks, state banks, trust companies and insurance companies comprising more than one-half of the total, probably not loan more than 10 or 15 per cent of their saving assets to housing.

Mr. Hoover has suggested that 40 or 50 per cent of the nearly $100,000,000 of deposits in postal savings banks could be diverted to this purpose as well as a larger proportion of the savings deposits of national banks through amendment of the federal reserve act.

"I believe," Mr. Hoover said, "that we could have a very much more stable economic system if we had a more regular proportion of our savings available for home building. There is, in fact, no other economic fund than our savings institutions from which our home building can be safely secured."

WHEAT FOR A BUSHEL OF FLOUR COSTS 85; RETAIL GROCER GETS $25, SAYS

Washington, July 11.—Restriction of credit decreased demand from European consumers and family distributive methods were given today by the principal cause of agricultural depression.

Decreased credit was ascribed by C. S. Barrett, chairman of the national board of farm organizations, to operation of the federal reserve system in conjunction with "those of the steel, coal and money trusts."

Mr. Barrett urged the commission to inquire into these operations and into what he said was the declared association with them of the United States chamber of commerce.

Several witnesses proposed legislation to permit use of government funds to finance farm exports.

O. A. Thomas, a statistician for the national board, gave the commission a number of instances of increases in cost sustained by farm products as a result of the current methods of distribution. Wheat for a bushel of flour, he said, was purchased from the farmer for $5, from the miller for $7 and from the retail baker for $25, when he sells bread at ten cents a loaf.

Corporations claiming exemption are required to file returns setting forth their reasons for such claims, accompanied by evidence in support thereof. If, because of lack of com-

HARDING'S VETO OF BONUS ALONG SAME LINE AS GRANT'S

Washington, July 17.—President Grant's veto of a Civil war soldiers' bonus bill in the spring of 1875 on similar grounds to those by President Harding this week in opposing the 1921 bonus was called to the attention of the president in a letter just received from Gen. C. C. Sniffen, who was Grant's secretary, later made paymaster.

"The purpose of this note is to call to your attention a pocket veto of President Grant's of H. R. 3341, 'An act to equalize the bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the union,'" wrote General Sniffen. "The veto was based on the ground of the insufficiency at that time of funds in the treasury to meet the extraordinary outlay required under the bill."

Words of the Civil war president fitting almost exactly with those used by President Harding before the senate were quoted by the general as follows:

"The passage of this bill at this time is inconsistent with the measures of economy now demanded by the necessities of the country."

Fail to Find Committee Report.

Upon receipt of the letter at the White House efforts were made without success to find the committee report on the bonus bill of 1875, which apparently had been overlooked by the president as well as all members of congress, in discussion of bonus legislation. Estimates ranged from $20,000,000 to $100,000,000.

The bill provided for the payment to every "non-commissioned officer, musician, artificer, wagoner and private soldier, sailor and marine, including those borne upon the rolls as slaves and Indians $3.33 a month for all the time served during the war."

Previous bounties paid by states or the federal government were to be deducted and no bounties were to be paid to soldiers who served as substitutes in the draft or who were captured prisoners at the time of enlistment.

The measure passed the house and was sent to the senate shortly before the end of the short term of 1875. President Grant literally put it in his pocket when the senate passed it, and when he went to the capital on the forenoon of March 3 to deal with the last legislative work of the session, he sat down in the president's room there and wrote his veto message as follows:

"House bill 3341 is herewith returned without my approval for the reasons, first, that it appropriates from the treasury a large sum of money at a time when the revenue is insufficient for current wants and this proposal further drains on the treasury. The issue of bonds, authorized by the bill to a very large and indefinite amount, would seriously embarrass the refunding operations now progressing, whereby the interest of the bonded debt of the United States is being largely reduced.

"Second, I do not believe that any considerable portion of the ex-soldiers who, it is proposed, will be beneficiaries of this appropriation, are applicants for it, rather, it would result more in a measure for the relief of claim agents or middlemen who would intervene to collect or discount the bounties granted by it. The passage of this bill at this time is inconsistent with the measures of economy now demanded by the necessities of the country."

plete data or other reasons than illness or absence, it is impossible to file a complete return on or before July 31, a tentative return may be filed reporting the approximate fair value in order that an initial assessment may be made, thus avoiding penalty.

The penalty for failure to file a return within the time prescribed is an added assessment of 25 per cent of the amount due, unless it is shown that the failure was due to reasonable cause and not to neglect.

In addition to the added assessment a fine of not less than $1,000 is provided for failure to make a return on time. For willful refusal to make a return, willful evasion of the tax, willful refusal to supply information requested by the Commissioner, or attempting in any way to evade the tax and payment when due, the penalty is a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

With a view to the prompt collection of the capital stock tax and for the convenience of the taxpayer he well as the government, the Bureau suggests that corporations submit checks with the returns for the amount of tax due. This method is appealing to corporations as it lessens liability to penalty.

Harris told his story with such coherence as he could. He and his son had come up into the hills to arrange for the purchase of a property which they had become interested in through a third party, Gardner. They carried with them a large sum of money as proof of the sincerity of their intentions. At this little cabin they were to be joined by Gardner and by another, named Riley, who also was taking an interest in the property. As they waited in the cabin, and as he, Harris, slept after his long drive, they were suddenly set upon by outlaws. Allan shot one down—the body still lay in the doorway—but was himself badly wounded, and had not spoken since. Harris had encountered another, but after a severe fight the robber had escaped. The little black bag in which the money was carried was gone with all its contents. Although he had waited all night in great anxiety, Gardner and Riley had failed to appear, and it could only be supposed that they too had met with foul play. But some hours after the assault one of the party had returned, dismounted from his horse at some distance, and stolen softly up to the shanty. Harris had followed him, and, taking him by surprise, had been able to make him prisoner.

Sergeant Grey looked from Harris to Allan, and then to the prisoner, who seemed to lie in a semi-conscious condition amid his bonds and gags. "You were foolish to come into the hills with so much money alone," he said. "I would have been at your service for the asking, and this would not have happened. But now that it has happened, the first thing is to provide for the wounded man, and the next is to place this suspect in custody. I know a rancher's house a few miles down the valley where you and your son will have the best attention."

The mounted policeman made a brief examination of Allan, but he could not find the man in the gray dawn, for the lantern now had no oil. "He has not bled very much," he said. "He has a strong frame and ought to have a fighting chance. I will just have a look at the scene of the crime, and then we will move him."

He made a hurried survey of the cabin, more satisfying himself that the man in the doorway was quite dead, and then, with Harris' assistance, quickly found the horses and harnessed them to the buggy. He also found another horse near the roadway, saddled and bridled. "We will make the prisoner ride his own horse," he said. "While you take your son in the buggy."

CHAPTER XII.

Converging Trails.

Beulah Harris raised her arms above her head and drank in the fresh mountain air that flooded through the open window.

They had been great times—wonderful times—these weeks spent in the freedom and harmony of the Arthurs' household. Mr. and Mrs. Arthurs—Uncle Fred and Aunt Lillian, as she now called them—had opened their hearts and their home to Beulah from the first. Indeed, the girl was often conscious of their gaze upon her, and at times she would look up quickly and scrutinize a strange, wild look of yearning in their eyes—a look that they tried very hard to hide from her. They wanted to leave her free to live her own life—to shape her career, for a time at least, wholly in accordance with her impulses.

The arrival of her mother at the Arthurs' ranch had brought fresh joy to Beulah's life. She saw the color coming back to the old face, the frame straightening up a little, the light returning to the eye, the spring returning to the step. She had not thought that her mother, after 25 years of unprotected submission, had still the nerve to place a limit on that submission, and the discovery had surprised and delighted her. True, Mary Harris let it be known that she was only on a visit, and in due course would return to her home; but Beulah knew the old heart, and things could never again be quite as they were.

And then a woman caught her ear, and in the trail she saw two men on horseback, a mounted policeman and another, and behind them other men driving in a buggy. By intuition Beulah knew that a mischief had occurred. Quickly she drew on her simple clothing and hurried down to the door. The little party came into the yard, and the policeman rode up to the door. The other horsemen sat with their backs to the house; his hands were chained together in front of him. "Good morning, Sergeant Grey," said Arthurs. "You're early out." The sergeant saluted. The salutation was intended for Arthurs, but at the moment the policeman's eye fell on Beulah, and even the discipline of the force could not prevent a momentary turning of the head. "I've a badly hurt man here," he said, "a man who will need your hospitality and care for some days. There was a shooting up the valley last night. His father is here, too, unhurt physically, but on the verge of collapse, if I am not mistaken."

"We will bring both of them in at once," said Arthurs. "Beulah, will you call Lillian, and your mother, too? They may be needed. But who is the hurt?" he continued, turning to Grey. "A prisoner. It seems the older man overpowered him. Not let us get this poor fellow in."

The policeman beckoned and Harris drove the buggy up to the door. Arthurs glanced at him with a casual "Good morning," but the next instant his eyes were riveted on the visitor. "John Harris!" he exclaimed, taking a great stride forward and extending his long arm. "Hlan, John, I'm glad to see you, but not in these troubles."

Harris took his hand in a silent clasp, and there was a warmth in it that set his heart beating as it had not for years. "It's hard, Fred," he managed to say in a dry voice, "but it's good to have you by."

Arthurs bent over Allan, who was half sitting, half lying, in the buggy. His face was sapped and gray in the growing light. Tenderly the three men lifted him out. "Take him straight upstairs," said Arthurs. "It will save moving him again." Both spare rooms in the house were occupied, but Arthurs led the way into Beulah's, and they laid the wounded boy on the white bed.

Arthurs heard Beulah in the hall. "Take off his clothes, Gray," he said, and turned to the doorway. "Where's your mother, Beulah?" he asked in a low voice, closing the bed room door behind him. "Dressing." The girl looked in his face, and drew back with a little cry. "What's the matter, Uncle Fred? What's wrong?"

"A friend of mine has been hurt, and an old friend of your mother's."

Beulah returned to the house to minister to her brother, but Mrs. Arthurs stopped her on the stairs. "Your mother knows," she said. "They are both in the room with Allan."

Her first impulse was to rush in and complete the family circle, but some sense restrained her. For distraction she plunged into the task of preparing breakfast.

At length they came down. Beulah saw them on the stairs, and knew that the guilt was bridged. "Allan is better," her mother said, when she saw the girl. "He has asked for you." And the next minutes Beulah was on her knees by the white bed, caressing the locks that would fall over the pale forehead.

"How did I get here, Beulah?" he whispered. "How did we all get here? What has happened?" "You have been hurt, Allan," she said. "You have been badly hurt, but you are going to get well again. When you are stronger we will talk about it, but at present you must lie still and rest."

"Lie still and rest," he repeated. "How good it is to lie still and rest!" Later in the day the pain in his wound began to give much discomfort, but he was able to swallow some porridge with pure cream, and his breath came easily. His father stayed about the house, coming every little while to look in upon son and daughter, and Allan's great constitution gave evidence of winning the fight a deep happiness came upon John Harris. He was able to sleep for a short time, and in the afternoon suggested a walk with his wife. Beulah saw that they were arm in arm as they disappeared to the trees by the river.

They were not the eyes she had known. They were the eyes of a man who had been crushed, who had been powdered between the wheels of fate. The old masterful quality, the old indomitable will that stirred her anger and admiration were gone, and in their place were coils of sorrow and ashes of defeat. For a moment she held back; then, with arms outstretched, she fell upon her father's breast.

And then he felt his strength return. He drew her to him as all that remained in the world; crushed her to him; then, very gently, released her a little. "He found his fingers threading her fine hair, as they had loved to do when she was a little child."

She sank to her knees beside him, and at last she looked up in his face. "Forgive me, my father," she whispered.

He kissed her forehead and struggled with his voice. "We all make mistakes, Beulah," he said. "I have made mine this 25 years, and there—there is the price!"

His words turned Beulah's thought to Allan, and the necessity for action brought her to her feet. "We must save him," she cried. "We must, and we will! Is the policeman gone? We must have the best doctor from Calgary." Looking about she found that Grey and Arthurs had left the room. They had slipped out to leave father and child alone with their emotion, but she found them at the front of the house.

She seized the policeman by the arm. "You must get us a doctor—the best doctor in the country," she pleaded. "We will spare nothing."

"My guest, Miss Harris, Sergeant Grey," said Arthurs, and the policeman deftly converted her grasp into a hand shake.

"Mr. Arthurs has told me the injured man is your brother. He shall wait for nothing. And the sooner I go the sooner you will have help."

So saying he rode down to the gate, thanked the cowboy who had been keeping an eye on the prisoner, and the two started off at a smart trot down the trail.

Beulah returned to the house to minister to her brother, but Mrs. Arthurs stopped her on the stairs. "Your mother knows," she said. "They are both in the room with Allan."

Her first impulse was to rush in and complete the family circle, but some sense restrained her. For distraction she plunged into the task of preparing breakfast.

At length they came down. Beulah saw them on the stairs, and knew that the guilt was bridged. "Allan is better," her mother said, when she saw the girl. "He has asked for you." And the next minutes Beulah was on her knees by the white bed, caressing the locks that would fall over the pale forehead.

"How did I get here, Beulah?" he whispered. "How did we all get here? What has happened?" "You have been hurt, Allan," she said. "You have been badly hurt, but you are going to get well again. When you are stronger we will talk about it, but at present you must lie still and rest."

Newest of Wraps

ORGANDIE FOR SUMMER WEAR

Heavy Black Satin Reversed With Harding Blue, Affords a Winsome Two-in-One Garment.

It is interesting to note the enthusiasm with which women are greeting the newest wraps. Every week, new models are shown in tricotine, twill cord, normandy, bolivia and velours. To cover one's afternoon gown there is a delightfully swagger wrap of heavy black satin reversed with Harding blue satin and heavily fringed at the bottom knee deep. The nicest part is that one may reverse this wrap for evening occasions to the light side, thus making it a sort of two-in-one model.

And the fringe lends graceful effect, swaying gracefully when the wearer is in motion. A big collar caresses the shoulders and is tied in front with long sash ends. Just the thing for motoring is a brand new wrap of plaid wool, fringed at the bottom and deeply collared, and cut in plain material. This model wraps itself close about the figure, thus insuring warmth and beauty.

Among the slender coat wraps there is one in tobacco brown, excellent for street wear, developed in loose wrap-like lines, shirred at the waistline, girdled by a narrow belt and touched here and there by silk stitching. For dressy occasions is a coat of gray tricotine, in Tuxedo style, with facing extending from neck to hem. For added attraction the revers are scalloped deeply and the turn-back cuffs also follow this example. A narrow string girdle is tied about the hips, giving the low line so fashionable this season.

Black satin and navy tricotine combine effectively in many top coats for daytime occasions, and in almost every one there is a hint of embroidery that lends a subtle charm all its own.

AN 'OFF-THE-FACE' ROLL BRIM

Opal blue taffeta is featured in this winsome "off-the-face" roll-brimmed hat which is meeting with favor among the carefully dressed women.

Crepes de Chine. It is possible now to have suit, blouse and hat of crepe de chine, and the effect for summer and early fall is good. A cana is a handy garment to throw over the crepe de chine suit for warmth, if needed.

Self-trimmed. The self-trimmed dress is having its day. Incrustations, appliques, flutings are all very good. The latter are simply pressed into shape and allowed to fall loose.

MADE-OVER "BARGAIN" GOWNS

Slight Alterations Will Enable the Transformation Where There Are Objectionable Features.

Quite frequently shops offer excellent values in dresses that are extremely stylish or that have some feature about them that blocks their sale. One's first impulse is to reject such a model, but experience has taught one canny shopper that models of this type are possible after they have been revised at home or by a reliable tailor or seamstress.

An unbecoming neck-line, a sleeve that is the wrong length or does not fit well, even the introduction of a conspicuous color in some way may be altered with gratifying results. Eliminating objectionable details, a dress with a very full circular skirt proved to be rather a drag on the market at one shop, principally because brilliant green cloth with steel buttons had been inserted at the sides, so that in the swing of the skirt a hot too generous display of hosiery would result. The cut of the skirt was extreme enough to give pause, but plus the spectacular touch of green it was voted impossible by the women to whom it was offered, until along came a woman with a vision that could see black satin substituted for the green, and the severe renascence neckline could be softened by opening the front of the plain bodice and inserting a V of some flattering delicate material—change, which, while very slight, altered the entire spirit of the gown.

Now that stores of contrasting material are voted smart, one might be tempted to select a gown which could be altered by changing the sleeves. Of course, any changes one's originality might suggest would be helpful to the woman who to her dismay finds that the model she selected has been selected by her nearest neighbor or her dearest enemy.

Lace Cap for Baby. Pretty lace caps for babies are easily made by using white lace allowed and drawing in the fullness at the back with ribbon run through a tiny hem. The edges of the bonnet are trimmed with lace ruffles and the long strings are made of fine insertion about three inches wide. Some pretty caps are made from scraps of lace and embroidery of all kinds and shapes, sometimes with three or four different kinds in one cap, edged with narrow ruffles of lace or finished with a possum of lace or ribbon.

Fretty Gifts. A quickly made gift is a branch of foliage painted in the new style with colored silver or gilt paint. Fussy willows or catkins left over from former years are charming from afar, while one is welding the paint brush in these new artistic effects one can think smart and new. A book end, for example, that has become tarantled first with crimson and then touched up with purple in the past, surely is not.

Governor Asks $500,000 to Aid Pueblo Sufferers.

Denver.—Governor Shoup has issued a proclamation in reference to the Arkansas valley flood sufferers, calling upon the people of the state to contribute a fund of not less than $500,000 for the purpose of partially relieving these suffering fellow citizens and placing them on the way to self-support.

In his proclamation Governor Shoup cited the facts that in Pueblo 7,000 persons are in absolute want, that the flood utterly destroyed 600 homes and wrecked as many more, and that the unusual nature of the tremendous damage to the business and farming interests in the Arkansas valley was such as to preclude the possibility of collecting any insurance.

Simultaneously with the issuance of Governor Shoup's proclamation, the directors of the Denver Civic and Commercial Association made public a statement in regard to the Pueblo flood catastrophe, calling for "further and substantial responses by the citizens of Denver and Colorado."

Many Hurt As Bus Tips Over.

New York.—Fifty-two persons were injured—two of them perhaps fatally—when a sightseeing bus skidded and overturned near Coney Island. Twenty-seven women, numbered among the passengers, suffered shock and hysteria. The accident occurred when the bus chauffeur, John Callahan, made a sharp turn to avoid collision with a touring car.

Crop Reduction Forecast.

Washington.—Forecasts of the country's principal farm crops, made by the Department of Agriculture from their July 1 condition, indicate there will be no record-breaking production in any crop, with the possible exception of corn. Conditions during June caused a reduction in the production forecasts of every crop as compared with last month's estimates.

Death Wins Race With Salmon Packer

Seattle, Wash.—Capt. L. A. Pederson, wealthy Alaska salmon packer, won a race with death recently from Unalak pass, Alaska, to Seattle, but death conquered finally when he died in a hospital after an operation for which he had hastened here. Captain Pederson was taken ill in Unalak pass. He chartered a whaling vessel and sent a wireless message to the Seattle-bound steamer Victoria to pick him up in mid-ocean. In Seattle he was rushed to the hospital for the operation.

Convict Kidnaper Is Killed by Poss.

Hood River, Ore.—Luther Fagan, who shot T. J. Miller here and kidnapped Miller's wife, daughter and a 10-year-old boy named Anderson, was shot and killed by a posseman, after he had been surrounded in a thicket. His prisoners were not injured. Fagan recently was given a pardon from the state penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence for attacking Miss Louise Watkins, Miller's stepdaughter.

Finds Cause For Hot Summer.

Yale, Calif.—The extraordinarily warm weather of the summer is caused by an unusual deposit of meteors on the sun, increasing its radiation, and effective surface temperature, in the belief of Prof. T. J. See, government astronomer at the Mars Island navy yard. Professor See stated this belief in a statement issued here. He said it was based on extensive research work of recent years.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
 by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear or imperfect hearing, and when it is actually closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be removed and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also some loss of the brain is caused. Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous passages.

 tobacco that goes into Camels.

That's why Camels are the choice of men who know and love fine tobacco. They know what makes Camels so smooth, so fragrant and mellow-mild.

They'll tell you that the expert Camel blend of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos makes a ciga-

NEAT TRICKS IN GARDENING

One of Best is Laying Beards Over Row of Seeds to Start Them and Hold Moisture.

There are a great many little tricks that should be learned and practiced by the gardener.

WAR ON INSECTS

STATE TOMATOES THE BEST QUALITY FRUIT

Plants Are Thin, Free of Growth and Keep Clean.

In Pruning Remove All Side Shoots and Suckers, Leaving Only Main Stem—Small Saplings Are Good and Inexpensive.

It generally pays to stake and prune the tomatoes grown in the small home garden because by this method the fruit is held off the ground and is clean; a larger number of tomato plants can be grown on a given space than if the plants are allowed to grow in the natural way.

Tomato Vines Tied to Stakes Provide Cleaner Fruit Than Those Permitted to Trail on the Ground.

leaf. Pinch out the side shoots, but be careful not to injure the blossom or fruit clusters.

Tomato stakes should be from 4 to 6 feet long and 1 to 1 1/2 inches through at the thickest part.

It is abstinent, more than abstinence, that make the heart grow fonder.

A woman who is not dangerous isn't worthy to be a woman at all.

The man who courts trouble is lucky to get off with merely a breach-of-promise action.

There isn't much difference between sight and vision except when you make the mistake of calling a woman one when you mean the other.

It is abstinence, more than abstinence, that make the heart grow fonder.

When a woman needs sympathy, cry with her. When a man needs it, swear with him.

Half the world don't know how their better halves live, and if they are wise they won't try to find out.

A love affair is always more interesting than a marriage, for the same reason that romance is fuller of possibilities than a biography.

HAD SOMETHING IN COMMON

Lawyer's Sharp Questioning Finally Drew Material Answer From Old Lady on Witness Stand.

Philander C. Knox used to tell the story of a Pennsylvania lawyer, known throughout the state for his sharpness, who once met his match in a very unexpected quarter.

An old woman was being cross-examined by him as to how the testator had looked when he made a remark to her about some relative.

"I don't remember. He's been dead three years," she answered, testily.

"Do you mean to tell me that your memory is so bad that you cannot go back three years?" demanded the attorney.

"The witness was silent.

"Did he look anything like me?" the lawyer finally ventured.

"Seems to me he did have the same sort of vacant look," responded the old lady.

There Are Cases and "Cases."

Two lawyers had been talking in front of the courthouse for some time. Finally one said: "I must be going now, I have a case to finish."

But the other stopped him saying: "Oh, come on, take me with you. I'm awfully dry."—Chicago American.

It's a touching farewell when a man gives you the tips of his fingers instead of a vigorous handshake.

When red, rough itching with hot baths of Cuticura Soap and touches of Cuticura Ointment. Also make use now and then of that exquisitely scented dusting powder, Cuticura Talcum, one of the indispensable Cuticura Toilet Trio.

FEW EYES REALLY NORMAL

Just as One is Right or Left-Handed, So It Is With the Organs of Vision.

Very few people realize that they are as much right-eyed or left-eyed as they are right or left-handed.

Sit down in a chair and fix your attention on some subject on the other side of the room. Quickly hold your finger up right in front of the object, and instantly shut your eyes. Then without moving your head or your finger, open your eyes one at a time. If, when you open your right eye, you find your finger directly in front of the object, you are right-eyed.

If you are right-handed you will most probably find that you are right-eyed.

This is due to the fact that of the two halves of your brain one is slightly more developed than the other. And the organs and limbs on that side of your body which is controlled by the more developed half are able to carry out your wishes more easily and quickly than those of the other side.

One Last Request.

Sage was all dressed up, but downcast. A Red Cross worker at a base hospital over there, returning from a lecture delivered by Miss Margaret Wilson saw his lugubrious expression and asked him how come.

"I'm all put out, Miss Harriet. I've got myself all dolled up to ask Miss Margaret a important question and while I've gettin' ready she's done gone."

"What was the question you wanted to ask her, Sam?"

"I was goin' to ask her: 'Miss Margaret, yo' gets where yo' papa is at; won't yo' please ask him kin I go home.'"—American Legion Weekly.

Not Altogether Useless.

"Young man, you couldn't even buy my daughter's clothes."

"I could help."—Life.

Sunday School is doing fine, in spite of the hot weather. Four more have merited the S. S. Manuel Certificates by completing the first part of the Manuel. We will advance with the second part of the book next week.

We had good audiences both at the morning and evening services and the three O'clock meeting at Nogal was fairly attended.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

I will not announce the subjects for next Sunday's preaching services at this time, more than to say, that each will be appropriate. There will be preaching by the pastor at White Oaks next Sunday afternoon at three O'clock. There are many strangers in town over Sundays; come to our Church, B. Y. P. U. and Sunday School services.

LAST MONTH, on a bet WITH THE boys up home, I SPENT a night, ALONE IN the old, HAUNTED HOUSE, AND WHEN I heard, MOANS AND moans, I SAID "The wind," AND TRIED to sleep, I HEARD rappings, AND SAID "Rats," AND ROLLED over, THEN I heard stops, AND IN the light, OF A dying moon, A WHITE spook rose, I WASN'T scared--much, BUT DIDN'T feel like, STARTING ANYTHING, BUT THEN I caught, JUST A faint whiz,

OF A familiar, AND DELICIOUS smell, WHICH TIPPED me off, SO I gave the ghost, THE HORSE laugh, AND SAID "Ed, YOU FAT guy, MAKE BUM ghosts, BUT BEFORE you fade, LEAVE WITH me one, OF YOUR cigarettos, THEY SATISFY," THAT spicy, delicious aroma of fine tobacco, both Turkish and Domestic, makes you almost hungry for the "satisfy-smoke."

Buy a pipe—and some P.A.

Get the joy that's due you!

We print it right here that if you don't know the "feel" and the friendship of a joy'us jimmy pipe—GO GET ONE! And—get some Prince Albert and bang a howdy-do on the big smoke-gong!

For, Prince Albert's quality—flavor—coolness—fragrance—is in a class of its own! You never tasted such tobacco! Why—figure out what it alone means to your tongue and temper when we tell you that Prince Albert can't bite, can't parch! Our exclusive patented process fixes that!

Prince Albert is a revelation in a makin's cigarette! My, but how that delightful flavor makes a dent! And, how it does answer that hankering! Prince Albert rolls easy and stays put because it is crimped cut. And, say—oh, go on and get the papers or a pipe! Do it right now!

A motor car collision near Topeka, Kan., in which two motor cars, six cases of dynamite and a large quantity of nitroglycerine figured, brought death to M. A. Ross, an oil well shooter, and his wife and the injury of four other persons. The explosives played only a minor part, however, for, although it was scattered along the highway for a considerable distance, it failed to explode. The victims were killed and injured by the crash of the machines.

FARMER SLAYS BUSINESS MAN

KILLS YOUNG MERCHANT AT JULESBURG IN JEALOUS RAGE OVER WIFE.

SHOOTS WRONG MAN

MURDER COMMITTED IN LAW OFFICE AS TWO MEET—SHOOTER SENDS TO MARSHAL.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

Julesburg, Colo., July 14.—Following accusations he had made, that Ralph Rozell, prominent young clothing merchant here, had endeavored to induce his wife to go with him to an all-night party, J. J. Baker, a prosperous young rancher residing near Julesburg, shot and killed Rozell here. The shooting occurred in the law office of Charles F. Hoffman and George T. Henry, where Baker found his victim consulting the lawyers on private business.

The two law partners and E. J. Frederick, a justice of the peace, were witnesses of the shooting, but were unable to check Baker before he had fired five shots from an automatic pistol.

According to information gathered by O. S. Humberstone, sheriff of Sedgewick county, Baker shot the wrong man when he picked Rozell as the one who had endeavored to entice his wife away from home. The shooting, Sheriff Humberstone said, evidently grew out of an incident that occurred when a man and a woman drove up in an automobile in front of Baker's country home and sought to induce Mrs. Baker to join them.

Believing he recognized Rozell as the man who made overtures to his wife, Baker is said to have gone to Rozell's home and told Mrs. Rozell of the incident, threatening vengeance upon Rozell. Mrs. Rozell assured Baker that he was mistaken, but when he drove into town, found Rozell in the law office and shot him to death. Sheriff Humberstone said that he had uncovered evidence that convinces him that Rozell was not the man in the automobile.

A coroner's jury summoned by Coroner G. F. Ewing held that the shots were fired by Baker with felonious intent. District Attorney Roy T. Johnson, who conducted the examination of witnesses at the inquest, said he would file a direct information in the District Court, charging Baker with murder in the first degree.

After shooting Rozell, Baker walked out of the law office to the street and surrendered to Town Marshal W. P. Cunningham, whom he met coming toward the building. Rozell, who was 30 years old, had been engaged in the clothing business here for two years. He was the son of W. M. Rozell, a leading citizen of McCook, Neb. Baker is 34 years old and has four children.

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to fifteen days in all they have lived before they were born. I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody." Mrs. C. W. Bantz, 181 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to childless wives. Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. Janssen, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. H. Held, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by backache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness. Women everywhere should remember that most of the common ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Blood Is the Sap of Life; Keep It Pure

You grow by good blood as a tree grows by sap. Rich blood, robust man. Good sap, sturdy tree. Keep the blood healthy and wholesome; poor, impoverished blood cannot nourish the body or remove the waste as nature intended. When your blood is impure, itching, flaming skin eruptions often break out, and your body gets run down and weak—easy prey for disease. To be safe, keep the circulation wholesome.

For this S.S.S., the famous vegetable blood remedy your druggist keeps, is excellent. Start enriching your blood with S.S.S. today, and write about your condition to Chief Medical Advisor, 838 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

"Life as I See It." I suppose we are prone to claim that the world hasn't given us justice. In some directions I haven't had it. In some others I don't want it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the following statement: "That one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease." Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, each with a full description of its uses. However, if you wish first to test the great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., One Hamilton N. Y. for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Hears at the Agency. "Do you know of any cook who will remain in the country?" "Several. They are buried there!"

It isn't much consolation to the homely woman to know that every fairer has a silver lining.

THE USE OF

FAULTLESS STARCH

THE GREEN SNAKE.

"Of course," said the Green Snake to the Snail, "there are some creatures who never have liked snakes, who never will like snakes, and who never want to like snakes."

"They do not care to hear about snakes, they do not want to speak of snakes, and they even get much upset if they see a snake."

"I can understand that they wouldn't want to see the poisonous snakes, but there are hardly any poisonous snakes in this land, hardly any at all, and they are off from here, way, way off from here."

"But I should think that now that the summer is here and now that the weather is hot it would be pleasant for people to think of me."

"What makes you think that?" asked the Snail.

"Of course," said the Green Snake, "I know that creatures who don't like snakes at any time won't want to think of me and of my family now, but still, for those who do like snakes I should think they would want to think of me."

"You see, I am a little Green Snake, a pleasant little Green Snake, and I should think it would be pleasant to think of a green snake on a hot summer day."

"Green is such a cool, nice color. I should think people would like to think of me and of green cucumbers. Both very pleasant thoughts for people. And I give them quite free of charge."

"Good of you," said the Snail, "very good of you."

"You know," said the Green Snake, "some very unfair things get around about snakes. Now, take the Milk Snake, for example. That's the family name of certain snakes. Many of them have been killed because people think they steal milk from the farms."

"But there is no truth in that, not a scrap of truth."

"Snakes don't care for milk at all. A snake would have to be actually passing away with thirst to be willing to swallow any milk."

"And that unfair story has gone around so much about the Milk Snake."

"It is an unfair story," said the snail. "I'd go about and try to undo the harm the story has done, but I move so slowly that I'd not be of much help. Still, whenever I get the chance I will tell creatures that that story about the Milk Snake is quite untrue. As a messenger I'd never be of much use."

"That is true," said the Green Snake, "but do what you can. Everything helps, you know."

"Why are you so fond of the color of green?" asked the Snail. "It is not only because it is a cool summer color, is it?"

"Not only," the Green Snake said. "I am a little snake, it is true, and I have to look out for myself."

"You know I can't scold you about moving slowly, for I'm one who moves slowly too."

"The green snake never gets about quickly, and so I think it is well to have a suit that matches the plants I am apt to be near."

"Then, if I keep still, creatures don't know I'm about, and I save myself from many narrow escapes in that way, or rather, I should say, I don't have the narrow escapes that I otherwise would have if I were not of the green color."

"Now, I am a well meaning enough creature. I would like to talk about the creatures that don't mean well."

"There's the Poison Ivy family. They love to do harm with their three-pointed leaves which go together in all the family groups."

"Then there is the Fly, who is a cross creature, going where he isn't wanted and not caring a bit about whether he carries sickness with him or not. No one should torture or pull at his legs, or anything mean like that, but it is well to get after him with one good swat."

"And the Mosquito, too! He's a mean one! Oh, what a mean one he is. Yes, I don't think snakes should be disliked so much, when there are other creatures worthy of being disliked. That's what I think, Mr. Snail."

Mistaken.

Billy—Father, you know that pie in the pantry you told me not to eat. You said it would give me a pain.

Father—Yes, what about it?

Billy—Well, it didn't.

TOOLS NAMED FOR ANIMALS

There are quite a number of tools which are named after animals, and it is interesting to find out the connection between the instrument and the animal after which it is named. In some cases the connection of ideas is evident and it is obvious why the tool is so named, observes a writer in London Answers.

The "monkey wrench," for instance, which is a spanner with a movable jaw, capable of adjustment, can, by a little stretch of imagination, be thought to possess some likeness to a monkey's profile and, true, it deals with "nuts."

The "donkey engine," which is capable of lifting great weights, may be considered smaller in disposition to the animal noted for its stubbornness and strength. We can see how the mechanical "crane" got its name. In the distance it looks somewhat like that long-necked and long-legged bird.

It is also natural that in a country like the United States, where large herds of cattle are found roaming wild, the wedge-shaped iron frame in front of a locomotive should be called "cow-catcher." The carpenter's "horse" is naturally so called because it has to carry so much on its back.

The derivation of the tailor's "goose" is not very evident, but no doubt some long-forgotten, imaginative and poetically minded tailor, in a burst of inspiration, called his smoothing iron a "goose" and the name has been used ever since by his more practical successors.

The rivet used to support a vessel over the fire, with its long, thin legs, is naturally called a "spider," and it is obvious why a spiral instrument or iron screw is called a "worm." Also we can all see why the large iron poker which, being made red hot, is used for lighting fires, is called a "salamander."

It is not easy, however, to see the connection between a crab—a fat, clumsy animal—and the pillar used as a winch; and why a capstan is called a "crab" is difficult to imagine. Again, the bar of iron sharpened at one end and used as a lever for raising weights is named a "crowbar," for no evident reason, and I would gladly take my hat off to the man or woman who can explain to me the derivation of the name "buck-saw," "catboat" and "hill-wheel."

Flying Gas Cloud.

A cloud of glowing gas has been discovered flying through space at a speed of 1,125 miles per second.

Readers may be relieved to know that it is travelling away from us, but even if it were coming our way there would be nothing to fear, as many thousands, perhaps millions, of years must elapse before it could reach us. How it manages to remain intact while travelling at such a dizzy speed is a mystery. Equally mysterious is the manner in which it was able to get up such a speed.

The most probable explanations are that it has been shot from some gigantic sun belonging to a universe of stars far beyond those we can see, or that it is a gradual accumulation of gas or gases which ultimately will be formed into stars such as we see around us at night.

Copper and Calcium in the Air.

It is reported that Prof. Hartley of Dublin has photographed, in ordinary air, spectroscopic lines due, among other things, to copper and calcium. It is believed that they arise from fine dust consisting of these substances, projected into the atmosphere by road vehicles, and by smoke and the sparks of trolley wires. It is from the latter that copper is supposed to come. The quantity of copper thus found is extremely slight. Indeed it is only the delicacy of the tests that renders it appreciable. Lines due to lead, carbon, iron, manganese, nickel and magnesium have also been detected, but the quantity of these substances is even less than that of the calcium and copper, the lines of which are always prominent in the spectra.

Wireless Storm Warnings.

American mariners are to receive storm warnings by wireless from all parts of the world under arrangements perfected by the shipping board with most of the high-power radio stations in different countries. Manning agents and masters of shipping board vessels were notified that the warnings would be sent broadcast on schedules furnished by the ship's radio operators. Because of the number of vessels still on the seas without radio equipment, the warnings are to be passed on from ships receiving them by other means when such vessels are sighted.—Scientific American.

He Was Engaged.

On the Friday evening when the great strike had been planned to take place an old lady got into an omnibus. She handed the conductor her fare and said, anxiously: "Are you coming out this evening?"

The conductor shook his head and answered with great politeness: "I'm afraid I can't, miss. I've got to get home to my old woman."—London Tit-Bits.

The Good Old Days.

Do you know that it wasn't so long ago that when a clothier sold a pair of pants the crease had to be pressed out before the customer would wear 'em? The good old days were days of happy knees and patched seats, but there was considerable attendance upon the prayer meetings then.—Keene's Post.

420 Scientists Die in 3 Years

Victims of Starvation Under Persecution of Bolshevik Regime in Russia.

INTELLIGENCE NOW A CRIME

Aged Philosophers Are Left to Fate in Dirty Prisons at Will of the Reds—Many Great Professors Among the Victims.

New York.—Several letters from scientists living under the Bolshevik regime in Russia and other documents describing the conditions under which the Russian scientists are living at present are made public by A. J. Sack, director of the Russian information bureau in the United States, representing in this country the Russian democratic anti-Bolshevik forces. This material came to Mr. Sack through Prof. Boris Sokoloff, a leading member of the party of Socialist-Revolutionists and deputy to the First All-Russian constitutional assembly. Professor Sokoloff is now in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The statement says that according to official Bolshevik statistics 420 Russian scientists died of starvation during the last three years.

The names of the Russian scientists who wrote these letters were not given, as this, it is said, would expose them to Bolshevik persecution. Describing the conditions under which the scientists are now living in Russia, Professor X, writes:

"These years have been one continuous horror. . . . We were declared by the Bolsheviks to be parasites and drones, and we were deprived even of that miserable food allowance which the workers and the soldiers have been receiving."

Government by Falsehood.

Professor of Philosophy U, writes that he looks upon the tragic situation "with interest calmly, as befits a philosopher. Just as calmly as I consider the fact that in my room the water is freezing and that I am eating oats, instead of bread and meat. All these discomforts of soviet Russia I regard quite calmly."

"But there is one aspect of life under the soviet rule which compels me to deplore that rule. This is their boundless falsehood. Every day, on the pages of their silly newspapers, in their speeches, in their books—there are falsehood and deceit everywhere."

Professor V, writes:

"No, there can be no understanding between me and the Bolsheviks. I am an old, feeble man, hardly able to move, with feet swollen with sores from the cold and hungry winter. Yet they are keeping me in solitary confinement."

Aged Scientist Tortured.

Finally, Assistant Professor X, writes:

"It was hard to watch the sufferings of Ergraph Stepanovitch (Professor Federoff, the crystallographer). Aged, gray, emaciated from hunger, he had grown so weak the last few days that he was unable even to get up from bed. I came to visit him. I brought him a little stale bread, which I had difficulty in obtaining, for I had no money. He grasped the bread eagerly. He took a bite, and then he stopped: "You are young, better eat yourself; as for me, it is time for me to die."

"And vainly did I try to urge him to take some bread and gruel. . . ."

The first issue of the Journal, Science and Its Workers, published recently by the Committee for the Improvement of the Condition of Scientists in Petrograd, contains in its introductory article a list of Russian scientists who died of hunger and destitution during the last few months of 1910. This list cites the following names: Prof. V. A. Bernatsky (physicist), V. L. Bernatsky (zoologist), Prof. S. A. Vengerov, Prof. N. A. Gexechus, N. L. Hecker (physicist), Prof. D. I. Dublago (astronomer), V. A. Molzalevsky (historian), Prof. V. V. Polozivov (botanist), Prof. E. S. Federoff (crystallographer), Prof. P. K. Sternberg (astronomer), and A. A. Shakhmatov (academician).

"If this process of the dying out of scientists," says the journal, "will continue at this rate our country will be entirely deprived of its brain. The

COULD BEAT HANCOCK SHUCKING HIS CORN

At Least J. A. White Would Beat So, After Being Relieved of Dyspepsia by Tanlac.

"My wife and myself have had stomach trouble," says Mr. J. A. White, residing on the Lexington Pike, R. F. D. No. 6, near Lexington, Ky. "and have both been nervous and run down."

"We could not see anything without suffering afterwards and could not sleep at night. We were regular nervous dyspeptics. We tried many remedies without permanent benefit until we heard of Tanlac. I got this medicine and began using it. We noticed immediate results. We are both greatly improved by Tanlac. We give all credit for the change of health to Tanlac. It is a remarkable medicine."

"I personally feel so good that I could beat any of them shucking corn. I meant it and believe I could have beat 'em all."

Of all the maladies that afflict humanity chronic dyspepsia, such as Mr. and Mrs. White suffered from, is probably the most prevalent, and hours might be consumed in describing the suffering, mental and bodily, of the victims of chronic dyspepsia.

A morbid, unreal, whimsical and melancholy condition of the mind, aside from the nervous physical suffering, is the usual state of the average dyspeptic, and life seems scarcely worth living.

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, was designed especially for overcoming this distressing condition and millions of people have taken it with the most astonishing and gratifying results. It seems to go straight to the spot, toning up and invigorating every organ of the body.

Duck Refuges in Marsh Areas

Uncle Sam's Biologists Declare The Wild Fowl Must Have Further Protection.

ARE OUSTED BY DRAINAGE

Results of the Study, During Three Summers, of the Ducks and Canada Geese That Breed in Bear River Region of Utah.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Washington.—Although legislative measures for the protection of wild fowl have multiplied, and have added to the restrictions on hunters, these regulations have not been sufficient to maintain these game birds in their former abundance. Regions that once were the summer homes of myriads of wild ducks have been drained and placed under cultivation, and extensive areas where the birds at one time bred are now populous farming communities.

These changes, say biologists of the United States Department of Agriculture, have crowded out the former feathered residents and have reduced in a corresponding degree to several their numbers.

Realization of these facts has led recently to encourage waterfowl. A number of extensive marsh areas have been made permanent refuges under the guardianship of the Department of Agriculture, and many private preserves, some formed by artificial means, have been established where the birds are protected while nesting. In addition, in a number of cases, rigid local restrictions have been placed upon hunters.

Investigating the Ducks.

As a means of co-operating in such efforts to maintain and increase the number of waterfowl, the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture has undertaken investigations of the general conditions under which wild ducks live and thrive, coupled with counts of the birds found in areas varying in character. During three summers, field studies were made dealing with wild ducks in the Bear river marshes in Utah, a report of which has just been published by the department in Department Bulletin 630, Wild Ducks and Duck Foods of the Bear River Marshes, Utah.

During the three seasons devoted to this work 12 species of ducks and the Canada goose were found breeding in the region included in the Bear river marshes, which cover an extensive area at the northern end of Great Salt Lake. In an enumeration made during May and June, 1910, of the 11 species of breeding ducks 3,600 pairs were counted, and it is believed that this number represents between 60 and 100 per cent of the total number of breeding ducks occurring here that season.

Vast Number in One Region.

Allowing five young reared to maturity as the average for each pair, and considering 1910 as an average season, the bulletin states that, at a conservative estimate, between 23,000 and 30,000 wild ducks, native to the marsh, are to be found there at the close of the breeding season.

It was found that, in addition to the large number of birds reared on the Bear river area, many other ducks came in after the nesting season to remain there until fall. That birds from the Bear river section range widely after leaving these marshes has been shown by records of ducks that have been banded and released there and subsequently were shot elsewhere. Records thus obtained show that birds released near the mouth of Bear river in migration cover the region from Oklahoma to Texas and west to California. The department urges the establishment of a greater number of preserves where wild fowl may breed and rest unmolested and find an ample supply of food.

FARMERS ARE WORKING HARDER

And using their feet more than ever before. For all these workers the use of Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic, healing powder to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath, increases their efficiency and insures needed physical comfort. Allen's Foot-Ease takes the friction from the shoe, keeps the shoe from rubbing and the stockings from wearing, freeness the feet, and prevents tired, aching and blistered feet. Women everywhere are constant users of Allen's Foot-Ease. Don't get foot sore, get Allen's Foot-Ease. More than One Million five hundred thousand pounds of powder for the Feet were used by our Army and Navy during the war. Sold everywhere.

New York Zoo Has Albino Rattlesnake on Display

New York.—The Zoological park in the Bronx has on exhibition a white rattlesnake found in the Berkshire hills. The snake is about twelve inches long, has pink eyes and is said to be an albino. It is about a year and a half old. At the park it is regarded as a great curiosity since in the last twenty-one years there has been no report of such a white rattler. The snake is transparent when held to the light. Raymond L. Dimars, curator of reptiles, discovered the snake. He was unable to capture it when it ran into a rock pile. He made another trip and met an amateur snake hunter, Moe Smith of Sheffield, Mass., who promised to see that the snake was captured and fulfilled his promise.

Extravagant Costume Worn by Mrs. Wilkinson of England.

"Temperance Queen," Who Never Wears Same Gown Twice, Gives the French a Sensation.

Paris.—No longer afraid of being called profiteers, the owners of "war millions" are now bringing them out for the "grand season."

The result is that Paris is witnessing a carnival of flamboyant extravagance unequalled, according to many critics, since the days of Nero.

Mrs. Smith Wilkinson, English "temperance queen," who for three weeks has made Paris sit back and gasp, appeared at the Pre Catalan restaurant last Saturday night with her third husband, who is twenty-four years old, wearing on her head a gaudy crown composed of more than a thousand pearls and rhinestones.
