Project 39 in Otero County Will Form Important Link in Alamogordo-El Paso Road.

Santa Fe, July 30.—Project statements covering nine new federal aid projects have been prepared by the state highway commission and are being submitted for the approval of the Albuquerque office of the bureau of public roads, department of agriculture. These projects are distributed among the seven counties of Otero, Colfax, Lincoln, Eddy, Hidalgo, Sandoval and Grant, the last named having three. They have an aggregate mileage of 142.5 miles, but no estimates of cost have been made as yet.

These roads, listed in their numerical order, are as follows:

Project No. 39, in Otero county, 6 miles, beginning at the south end of project No. 49, between Valmont and Escondida and extending south nearly to Oregrande. This is an important link in the highway between Alamogordo and the city of El Paso.

Project No. 41, in Colfax county 16 miles, through the Merino valley to the Taos hill or pass, on the Colfax-Taos county line.

Project No. 42, in Lincoln county 18 miles, between Hondo and Picacho. This project begins at the west end of project No. 20, which is between Border Hill and Picacho.

Project No. 33, in Eddy county, 38 miles, extending north from the New Mexico-Texas state line via. Blue Springs and Frijoles. This is on the highway between Carlsbad and Van Horn, Texas.

Project No. 34, in Grant county, 24 miles, extending from Cliff to the northern boundary of the county.

Project No. 35, in Grant county, 13 miles, running south from Silver City to the end of the present project No 47, between Silver City and Cliff.

Project No. 36, in Grant county, 7.5 miles, extending down the Mimbres valley over Robin Hill to the foot of San Lorenzo hill, connecting with project No. 56, which is the Santa Rita-San Lorenzo road.

Project No. 37, in Hidalgo county 21 miles, connecting with the east end of project No. 44, which is the Lordsburg-Steins road, running through Lordsburg to the Hidalgo-Grant county line. With this project extended through the town of Lordsburg, no road will be constructed through the limits of the town.

Project No. 38, in Sandoval county 3 miles, connecting at the north end of project No. 36, which extends from the Bernalillo-Sandoval county line to the town of Bernalillo, running through the town of Bernalillo to connect with the Santa Fe Trail.

WHY LIMIT THE TAX RATE?

(N. M. Taxpayer's Association.)

In answer to the question "Why limit the tax rate?" one may well ask another—"What will be the result if we don't fix a limit?" A tax payer has only to look at his tax receipt to note that he is paying twice as much as he paid five or six years ago on the same property. In some of our incorporated cities, towns and villages property owners are paying between four and five per cent of the assessed value of their property, for state, county and local purposes. The state and county tax rate exceeds two per cent, in nearly all the counties in the state, and approaches three per cent in several of the counties.

A table is submitted below showing the following: Column I, the tax rate per $1,000.00 of assessed value in 1915; Column II, the tax rate per $1,000.00 of assessed value in 1920; Column III, the per cent increase in 1920 over 1915. In 1915, it will be noted that the rate for state and county purposes ranged from $8.22 in McKinley County to $15.60 in Eddy County in 1920, Grant County in spite of its wealth of resources bore a state and county rate of $16.49, while San Juan county is burdened with the heavy rate of $31.65. It should be remembered that city, town, village and school district levies are piled on the top of these extraordinary rates.

A tax payer has only to study his receipts to discover how his tax burden has increased the past five or six years. Will it stop increasing in most counties of the state it will be higher in 1921 than ever before. Where will it stop? If the tax limitation amendment is ratified there will be a limit—a reasonable maximum which will offer some assurance against the confiscation of a man's property for taxes.

OLD TIMER HERE

Frederick N. F. Hunt, Carrizozo's first postmaster with his family, arrived here last Saturday on their way to Livingston, Idaho, where they expect to locate. Mr. Hunt's first act after landing here, was to hunt up his old friend, A. H. Harvey, with whom he had spent many lonesome times when the town was but a flag station. He built the first home in this city which is still in a good state of preservation. He was driven over the city and expressed surprise at its growth in 15 years. His children were all with him, the eldest of whom was born in Carrizozo. He ordered the Outlook mailed to him, so as to keep in touch with the rapid growth of his old home town.

NO MORE ARMY PLANES FOR FOREST FIRE WORK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—Use of army airplanes for fire protection in western forests will be discontinued next summer, secretary Weeks announced today, because "the large reduction now being made in appropriations" permitting expenditures "for only the most necessary strictly military needs." Mr. Weeks wrote secretary Wallace, who had asked army aid in protecting timber land near Prescott, Ariz. The war secretary said it would be impossible to detail either aviators or planes to work in 1922.

PELLAGRA EVEN IN NEW MEXICO; HISTORY OF STRANGE DISEASE

Santa Fe, August 1.—The appeal of President Harding for help in fighting a possible epidemic of pellagra in the cotton belt again calls attention to a disease which has spread with great rapidity in the southern part of the United States and has extended even to New Mexico. In one county in this state there are a score or more cases. It is rumored and right in the capital. Santa Fe, three cases were reported this year, and one reported on June 25. The patient was a women, only 26 years of age.

Pellagra was formerly considered a disease affecting only the poor peasants of Italy and was supposed to be due entirely to disease maize they had eaten. There is a great deal more to be said about pellagra today with the experiences of noted observers narrated in medical works.

Pellagra is termed "deficiency" disease, with manifestations of gastro intestinal disorders, skin lesions and a tendency to changes in the nervous system.

The disease appears to have been endemic in Spain by 1735, and the first description is by Cazal in 1761 who named it "mal de la rosa," It existed in Italy in 1750 and was given the name of "pellagra" meaning rough skin. It had appeared in northern Italy, and had gone into Roumania and into France by the 18th century. It is quite probable that there have been sporadic cases in the United States for the last fifty years," says Osler and McCrae in one of the books on medicine just issued.

There are two theories as to the cause of the disease—one is that it is due to the diet, a lack of vitamines—the other attributes it to an infection of some kind. The disease occurs in any age, usually between 20 and 40 years. The negro is more susceptible than the white and women are more likely to get it than men.

The disease occurs particularly in the spring and sometimes in autumn. The symptoms include sensations of heat in the mouth and loss of taste, stomatitis in common; there is nausea and sometimes vomiting; the skin resembles an ordinary sunburn, there may be puffy swelling; the "burn" may be seen on the hands face, feet and neck.

There may be headache and vertigo; confusion, dullness, lassitude feelings of anxiety and depression change in the disposition and hallucination of sight and hearing. These may progress to profound depression and ultimately to dementia. Mania occurs sometimes with suicidal tendencies.

Dr. Osler and McCrea say of the prognosis: "In the United States the outlook is regarded as serious, if not as regards death, certainly as regards ultimate recovery. In Europe where the disease has existed for a long time the prognosis is more favorable, and in Italy in some years the mortality was only 4 per cent."

Improvement in the living conditions and sanitation are important points in the prevention of the disease. Corn is considered as a possible cause of the disease and the amount should be restricted. A sufficient amount of milk, eggs, meat and vegetables, especially beans, is important.

ARMY WILL BE REDUCED TO 150,000 BY JULY 31; ALL TROOPS TO BE REDISTRIBUTED

Washington, D. C., July 27.—In accordance with a decision of congress when it refused to appropriate funds for pay of a larger army force after October 1, reduction of the army to a peace time strength of 150,000 men will be accomplished by July 31.

Secretary Weeks announced that with the reduction general redistribution of the troops will be made with pratical abandonment of seven of the great war time army cantonments the placement of many organizations on the inactive list and the skeletonization of others.

Many Seek Discharge.

The many resignations caused the secretary to revoke his order before the month ended. He said that the applications already received would bring the enlisted strength to the 150 000 mark by July 31.

PHONE COMPANY TO RAISE RATES ALL OVER STATE ON SEPTEMBER 1

Santa Fe, July 29.—Exchange rate increases that will bring $20,000 additional annual revenue are listed in schedules effective on September 1 filed at the corporation commission's office today by the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company.

The company says these will not cover the deficit which for 1920 was $53,000, based on 8 per cent return although toll rates were increased during the year.

The Albuquerque residence rate for one, two, three and four-party service is raised 25 cents per month and in Santa Fe and Roswell the one party residence rate is raised 25cts.

Clovis and Las Cruces get 50-cent raises in one and two-party business rates and the one-party residence is raised 25 cents at these exchanges.

The one-party residence rate is raised 25 cents and four-party residence service established in place of the two-party service at the same charge in Deming and Tucumcari.

For the following Class A exchanges the one-party business is increased 50 cents, the one-party residence rate 50 cents, and four-party residence service established at $2.

Alamogordo, Belen, Bernalillo, Cimarron, Hagerman, Lake Arthur, Los Lunas, Portales, Santa Rosa, Springer, Texico and Tularosa.

The one-party residence rate is raised 50 cents and four-party service established at $2 for Artesia Carrizozo, Fort Sumner, Magdalena and Socorro and the two-party business service for Socorro and Magdalena annulled and the $60 combination rate at Artesia eliminated.

The business rate is made $3.50 and the one-party residence rate $2.50 and four-party service established at $2 for San Antonio and San Marcial and the business rate increased 50 cents at Farmington and Aztec.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

(Mrs. M. L. Blaney.)

The schools of Lincoln County will open Monday, September 5th.

The Lincoln County Board of Education met in the office of the county superintendent, Wednesday, Aug. 3. Bids for the erection of a new school building at Jack's Peak were opened. All bids rejected on account of insufficient funds. Without any intimation of consolidation the Board of Education consolidated Baca Canon school with School District No. 1. The county superintendent not being entitled to a vote except in case of a tie could do nothing but protest. Mrs. Blaney's protest was based on the fact that the mountainous roads are too bad for auto transportation and to cover twenty miles a day over bad roads in a hack is not practical, for small children. The following teachers' contracts were approved: Misses Harriett Brown, Minnie Pittman, Lena Pettit, Lucile Barri, Bessie Frits, Cynthia Maryfield, Maria Sanchez, Bettie Stuart, Helen Butcher and Mrs. Mabel J. Burleson.

The law requires that teachers have Institute Attendance certificates. Most of the teachers have their certificates. Those who have not may secure same by attending the five day Inspirational Meeting to be held in Roswell the week beginning August 22nd. For further information address C. C. Hill, Roswell, New Mexico. Teachers having attended eight weeks of Summer School last year are excused from Institute attendance this year.

The teachers of the Des Moins schools are to be congratulated on the work accomplished in the citizenship classes conducted afternoons and evenings during the vacation. These teachers are giving their time without any renumeration which manifests a spirit of true patriotism.

Notice is hereby given that a teacher's examination will be held throughout the state of New Mexico on Friday and Saturday, August 26 and 27. The examination will be conducted by the county superintendents or their authorised representatives. This will be the last examination held for the teachers this summer.

AEROPLANES AND BIG RAINS

Aeroplanes are common sights in Carrizozo, now; just so with wonderful refreshing rains. Yesterday, not long after a "sky pilot" had bid adieu, the heaviest rain of the season, fell. We are regularly visited by blessed rain, which is by far the most welcome of the two.

NEW POISON IS DISCOVERED FOR FIGHTING RATS

Biological Survey Chemists Here Produce New Poison From Waste Material; Is Fatal Even in Small Doses

Albuquerque, Aug. 1.—Officials at biological survey here believe they the laboratory of the United States have discovered a new poison which will enable them to destroy rats and possibly other rodents effectively. No poison method for the destruction of rats has ever been accepted before for general field use by the bureau of biological survey.

Experiments with the new poison have been going on for some time but actual use on rats was not tried until a few days ago. The results so far have been highly satisfactory, it was stated yesterday by H. E. Williams, who, with S. E. Piper, has perfected the new poison and the method of using it.

The new poison is of extremely virulent kind, and is absolutely odorless and tasteless. These two qualities make it especially valuable for use against rats, which are quick to detect the presence of strychnia or other common poisons. It is thought that the new poison may not be practicable for use upon other rodents because of its extreme virulence and the danger to game which might eat it. Experiments conducted in the laboratory seem to indicate that the poison proves fatal to every kind of animal, even when taken in minute quantities.

The poison can be manufactured in large quantities at almost no expense, since it is a derivative of matter which is at present only refuse. Manufacture on a large scale will not be started for some time, it was stated yesterday, as the bureau wishes to complete a series of experiments looking to the further perfection of the method before it is standardized and placed in the hands of the bureau's field men for general use.

The new poison will be used chiefly upon barley, which has given the best result in experiments so far. The poison seems successful also when used upon cheese or flesh baits, but the barley has given best results and will be much cheaper for extensive use.

The bureau of biological survey has been searching for a number of years for a cheap, efficient poison for use against rats. The old strychnia formulas were not of great value in the destruction of rats on a large scale, chiefly because of the bitter taste and perceptible odor of the poison. Both of these handicaps, are eliminated, however, with the new poison, and the cheapness of the material from which the poison is derived will render the process an inexpensive one. Field work on an experimental scale will probably be begun shortly.

REPUBLICANS TO NOMINATE ON AGUST 18TH

537 Delegates in Convention at Santa Fe to Choose Senatorial Candidate

Santa Fe, July 30.—By unanimous vote of the republican state central committee at the meeting here this afternoon, Santa Fe was chosen as the place to hold the state convention to nominate a candidate for United States Senator, for the special election on September 20. The convention will be held on Thursday, August 18 with 537 authorized delegates. This apportionment of delegates is on the basis of one delgate for each 100 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for the republican candidate for congressman in the last general election.

The business of the committee was transacted in a few minutes. A letter of invitation was read from the Las Cruces chamber of commerce, extending to the committee a cordial invitation to designate Las Cruces as the convention city. Mrs. Frank W. Parker was the only member present from Dona Ana county, and the name of the city was not formally placed in nomination before the convention.

Endorse Equal Rights Amendment.

Following a few remarks by Judge Reed Holloman, of Santa Fe, the committee adopted a resolution offered by Mrs. R. F. Asplund endorsing the proposed constitutional amendment No. 1, to give to women the right to hold office without restriction.

SAVES FOUR HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS.

Dawes Expects to do It for Taxpayers Despite Opposition.

By Harry Hunt

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The $112,512,000 saving reported by Budget Director Dawes as trimmed from sums appropriated by congress for and bureaus during the fiscal year, is operating the various departments only a beginner.

Dawes hopes to be able to save four hundred millions during the year by cordination of the purchasing machinery of the government and by stopping the use of hidden assets and "revolving funds" such as enabled the shipping board alone to spend last year $200,000,000 more than appropriated for it by congress and what the fleet earned, too.

The first steep toward acheiving this greater saving was taken in the issuance of a presidential order stopping for the present all sales of surplus property owned by any department of the government.

The next will be an order establishing regional zones for all materials owned by the government and the issuance of new rules governing all sales and purchases of government supplies.

Under the old system, where there was no compulsory coordination between departments, the government not only lost millions by one department selling at low prices materials which another department would be purchasing in the open market at high prices, but in many cases receipts from sales instead of being turned into the treasury, were used by the bureau or department for expenditures over and above the sums appropriated.

Dawes has estimated that in recent years the government has been spending through the use of these hidden assets and revolving funds established by congress, not less than $500,000,000 a year more than congress has provided.

Dawes has found cases where surplus materials held by one department declining to purchase from sur-ualt, at the time when another department, declining to purchase from surplus stocks, has been paying from $35 to $40 per unit for the same article in the open market.

This is the condition Dawes is determined to correct. Since the bureaus and departments have declined to coordinate voluntarily, he is bringing to bear presidential orders that will make such coordination compulsory. In the case of revolving funds, established by law, he will take the situation up with congress, point out the wastes and losses that have resulted, and ask legislation to end the evil.

TO STUDY FOREST PROBLEM

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 1.—The United States Chamber of Commerce has become actively interested in the present forest conditions, the future timber supply of the United States. Through its committee on National Forest Policy, it is attempting to get first hand knowledge as to present forest conditions in the United States in order that it may determine more closely the present and future forest needs of the country.

This committee is holding a series of meetings throughout the United States at which it interviews lumbermen, foresters and others who can give it intimate knowledge of forests and forestry. The first meeting was held in New York on June 27 and 28 to discuss eastern forest problems. From there the committee left for the Lake States where several meetings were held. The Rocky Mountain region was next visited and at the present time, meetings are being held at Pacific coast points. The last meeting on the coast will be held in San Francisco, August 3-5, where the forest problems of the southwest will be discussed.

The United States Forest Service is giving this movement its support both by allowing the committee access to its files and through its members, some of whom are appearing before it. District Forester Pooler, in charge of the local office, who is to tell the committee of southwestern forest problems, will appear before the committee in San Francisco, Aug. 3.

As a result of its studies the committee will make a report to the Chamber which may be the basis for a referendum.

The importance of the work of this committee to the United States is exceedingly great both because of the thorough way in which it is attacking the problem and because of the large influence which the United States Chamber of Commerce has. The committee report is, therefore, awaited with a great deal of interest throughout the country.

"Oh, it's Sergeant Grey," she said, with a tone of relief. "I am Beulah Harris. And I've just been getting myself engaged to your prisoner here. Oh, it's not so awful as you think. You see, we knew each other in Manitoba, and we've really been engaged for quite a while, but he didn't know it until tonight."

For a moment the policeman retained his reserve. He remembered the girl, who had already cost him a deflected glance, and he reproached himself that he could doubt her even as he doubted, but how could he know that she had not been passing in firearms or planning a release?

"What she says is right, sergeant," said Travers. "She has just broken the news to me, and I'm the happiest man in Canada, jail or no jail."

There was no mistaking the genuine ring in Travers' voice, and the policeman was convinced. "Most extraordinary," he remarked, at length, "but entirely natural on your part, I must say. I congratulate you, sir." The officer had not forgotten the girl who clung to his arm the morning before. "Hang me, sir," he continued, "there's luck everywhere but in the mounted police."

He unlocked the door of the cell. "I ought to search you," he said to Beulah, "but if you'll give me your word that you have no firearms, weapons, knives, or matches, I'll admit you to this—or—drawing room for a few minutes."

"Nothing worse than a hat pin," she assured him. "But you must come, too," she added, placing her hand on his arm. "You must understand that."

He accompanied her into the cell, but remained in the doorway, where he suddenly developed an interest in astronomy. At length he turned quickly and faced in to the darkness.

"Speaking, not as an officer, but as a fellowman, I wish you were damned well—that is, very well—out of this, old chap," he said to Travers.

"Oh, that's all right," Jim assured him. "You couldn't help taking me up, of course, and for all your kindness you would quite cheerfully hang me if it fell to your lot. But it isn't going to."

"I stand ready to be of any service to you that is permissible."

"The inquest is to be tomorrow, isn't it?" asked Beulah. "I think you should be at the inquest, Jim."

"That's right," said the sergeant. "You may throw some new light on the case."

"I've just one request," said Travers. "You know Gardiner?"

"I've heard of him."

"Have him at the inquest."

"As a juror or witness?"

"It doesn't matter, but have him there."

"All right. I'll see to it. And now, Miss Harris, if you will permit me, I will bring your horse for you."

Grey took a conveniently long time to find the horse, but at last he appeared in the door. Beulah released her fingers from Jim's and swung herself into the saddle.

"Sergeant Grey," she said, "I think you're the second best man in the world. Good night."

The sergeant's military shoulders came up squarer still, and he stood at attention as she rode into the darkness.

CHAPTER XIII.

An Inquest—and Some Explanations.

The inquest party consisted of the coroner, who was the doctor that had already attended Allan; Sergeant Grey, six jurors, selected from the townspeople; the manager of the bank, whose suspicions had first been communicated to Grey; Travers, and Gardiner. In the early morning the policeman had ridden out to the ranch for Gardiner, but had met him on his way to town. News of the tragedy had reached him, he said, and he was hurrying in to see if he could be of some assistance to Travers in arranging for a lawyer, or in any way that might be practicable. Grey told him that as yet no formal charge had been laid against Travers; that he was merely held pending the finding of the coroner's jury, and suggested that if Gardiner would accompany him to the inquest he might be able, not only to throw some light on Travers' character, but also on his whereabouts on the night of the tragedy. To this Gardiner readily agreed.

It was noon when the party reached the Arthurs' ranch. They swung into the yard amid a cloud of dust, the jingle of trappings, and the hearty exchange of greetings between Arthurs and his acquaintances from town. Gardiner was introduced to Arthurs, and shook hands without removing his gauntlets. Then the rancher walked over and shook hands with Travers. There were no signs of handcuffs now, and an outsider would not have known that the young man's position differed from that of the others present.

After the meal Gardiner joined them again, and the party, which now included Arthurs and Harris, proceeded up the valley to the scene of the tragedy. It was a great shock to Harris to find that the victim of Allan's gun was his old neighbor, Riles. He stood for a long time as one dazed by the discovery, but gradually out of the confusion a horrible fear took shape in his mind. Allan had shot this man, with whom they had an appointment at this spot; had shot him down, as far as could be shown, without excuse or provocation, before he had so much as entered the door. The body proved to be unarmed, and from its position had evidently fallen into the building after receiving the fatal charge.

Harris' evidence was first received. He found it difficult to give his story connectedly, but item by item he told of his acquaintance with Riles in the eastern province; of their decision to come west and take up more land; of the chance by which they had fallen in with Gardiner, and the prospect he had laid before them of more profitable returns from another form of investment; of how his hesitation had finally been overcome by the assurance that all he need do was have his money ready—he was to be under no obligation to go any further in the transaction unless entirely satisfied; of the offer wired by the New York capitalists; of the sale of his farm for a disappointing sum, and their journey with the money to the old shanty up the valley, where they were to be met by Riles and Gardiner, and also, as they expected, by the owner of the mine, with whom they would open direct negotiations, producing the money as proof of their desire and ability to carry out their undertaking; of how they hoped the owner would be induced to accept a deposit and accompany them back to town, where an option would be secured from him for a period sufficient to enable them to turn the property over to the New York investors at a handsome profit; of how he—Harris—wearied by the long ride in the bright, thin air, had gone to sleep confidently with Allan at his side, and of how he had suddenly been awakened by a shot and heard Allan spring to his feet and rush across the floor of the old building. Then there had been another shot—a revolver shot this time—and everything was darkness, and he could hear only something struggling at the door. Then he told of his own fight; of how they had fallen and rolled about on the rotten floor, and how, in desperation, he had not hesitated to use his teeth on the hand of his assailant, who had finally broken away and disappeared in the darkness. Then he told the rest of his story; of his vigil with Allan, of the loss of the money, of the capture of Travers, and finally of the arrival of the policeman on the scene.

"Didn't it seem to you a foolish thing to go into the hills with all that money to meet a man you had never seen, and buy a property you had never examined?" asked the coroner.

"It wasn't foolishness; it was stark, raving madness, as I see it now," Harris admitted. "But I didn't see it that way then. It looked like a lot of easy money. I didn't care what the coal mine was like—I didn't care whether there was a coal mine at all or not, so long as we made our turnover to the New York people."

"But did it not occur to you that the whole thing—coal mine and mine owner and New Yorkers and all—was simply a scheme hatched up to induce you away into the fastnesses of the foothills with a lot of money in your possession?"

A half-bewildered look came over Harris, as of a man gripped by a new and paralyzed thought. But he shook his head. "No, it couldn't have been that," he said. "You see, Riles was an old neighbor of mine, and Mr. Gardiner, too, I knew for a good many years. It wasn't like as if I had been dealing with strangers."

"We will go deeper into that matter after a little," said the coroner. "It's very fortunate Mr. Gardiner is here to add what light he can to the mystery. We will now adjourn to the room where the younger Mr. Harris lies and hear his evidence. It would be unwise to move him for some days yet."

"I can't tell you how it happened, Doctor," he said, turning his eyes, larger now in his pale face, upon the coroner, "but I think I got very homesick—I guess I was pretty tired, too—and I began thinking of things that had happened long ago, back when I was a little child, in a little sod shanty that the old shack in the valley some way seemed to bring to mind. And then I guess I fell asleep, too, but suddenly I sat up in a great fright. I'm not a coward," he said, with a faint smile. "When I'm feeling myself it takes more than a notion or a dark night to send the creeps up the back of my neck. But I own I sat up there so frightened my teeth chattered. I had a feeling that I was going to be attacked—I didn't know by what—maybe by a wild beast—but something was going to rush in through that old blanket hanging in the door and pounce on me."

The sweat was standing on Allan's face, and he sank back weakly into the pillows. Beulah placed a glass to his lips, and the doctor told him to take his time with his story.

"As the minutes went by," Allan continued, after an interval, "that terrible dread grew upon me, and my sense of danger changed from fear to certainty. Something was going to attack me through that door! I raised my gun and took careful aim. I saw the blanket swing a little; then I saw the fingers of a man's hand. Then I fired.

"Perhaps I am a murderer," he continued, simply, "but before God I know no more why I fired that shot than you do."

There were deep breathing and shuffling of feet as Allan completed this part of his statement, but only the coroner found his voice. "Most remarkable evidence," he ejaculated. "Most extraordinary evidence. I have never heard anything so obviously sincere and at the same time so altogether unexplainable."

"Perhaps it's not so unexplainable," said a quiet voice; and Mary Harris made her way through the circle of men to the side of the bed. She sat down on the coverlet and took the boy's hand in hers. It mattered not how many were looking on; he was her little boy again.

"You will understand, Doctor, and some of you men are parents," she began. "Allan will be twenty-five years old this coming winter. A little less than 25 years ago my husband was obliged to leave me alone for a considerable period in our little sod shanty on the homestead where we had located down in Manitoba. There were no near neighbors, as we count distance in well-settled districts, and I was altogether alone. I stood it all right for the first day or two, but my nerves were not what they should have been, and gradually a strange, unreasoning fear came upon me. I suppose it was the immensity of the prairies, the terrible loneliness of it all, and my own state of health, but the dread grew from day to day and from night to night. I tried to busy myself, to keep my mind active, to throw off the specter that haunted me, but day and night I was oppressed with a sense of impending danger. We had no wooden door on the house; we hadn't money to buy the boards to make one, and all my protection was a blanket hung in the doorway. I used to watch that blanket at night; I would light the lantern and sit in the corner and watch that blanket. My fear gradually pictured to itself an attack through that doorway—I didn't know by what; by white man, or Indian, or wild beast, or ghost, or worse, if that is possible; my mind could not balance things; nothing seemed too unreasonable or terrible to expect. So I took the gun, and sat in the corner, and waited.

An Egyptian Orchestra.

A full Egyptian orchestra was composed of twenty harps, eight lutes, five or six lyres, six or seven double pipes, five or six flutes, one or two pipes (rarely used), two or three tambourines (seldom used). If vocalists were added, which was not necessarily the rule, they would number about three-fourths as many as the harpers.

Land of the Sugar Maple.

The finest and most abundant growth of the sugar maple is found in the New England states, New York, northern and western Pennsylvania and westward throughout the region of the Great Lakes to Minnesota. In the southern Appalachians it grows well were climatic conditions are similar to those farther north.

GROW MORE FOOD FOR FAMILY USE

Necessary to Save Shipping Costs on Water in Face of Lessened Returns.

BEST TO GROW NECESSITIES

Specialized Farming Has Created Peculiar Conditions — Poultry Is Quickest Meat Supply to Produce on Farm.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"The American farmer is not going to be able this year to pay freight on water," said a department official. "Water makes up a large part of fresh fruits and vegetables. The answer is that he must grow his own table food. He must also study the possibilities of substitution. This applies to vegetables, fruits, poultry, eggs and dairy products which must be transferred from commercial channels to home consumption if they are to come within the reach of the average farmer's family.

Peculiar Condition Created.

"Specialized farming has created conditions of which comparatively few persons are aware. The grain farmer in many instances buys even his potatoes and green vegetables; the fruit farmer buys his dairy products; and even the man who raises milk for creamery, condensary or cheese factory is likely to send his cream or milk away, feed the skim milk or whey to the calves, and not make his own butter. This year, just as far as possible for him to alter his system in a single season, the department officials advise that he get back to the old plan which was aptly described as 'living at home.' This means not so much remaining on the farm as it does deriving every practicable product for consumption from the farm.

"The average American farmer knows how to raise other crops than those on which he specializes, but it has seemed good business, or at least expedient, to devote his energies to very few or even a single cash crop and buy his necessities, just as is done in other specialized industries. The grain farmer is perfectly capable of raising his own potatoes, his green garden stuff, and melons, tomatoes and other garden fruits, to take the place of orchard fruits which in many parts of the country have been killed by the late freezes. If the farmer has a piece of really good garden ground he can add materially to the variety and wholesomeness of the farm food supply with scarcely any expenditure except for seeds, and seeds, fortunately, are lower this spring than for several years.

Poultry Most Important Meat Supply.

"The same may be said of poultry. With the increased freight rates this year, the general farmer's principal meat supply will come out of his poultry yard, either in eggs or in table chickens and other fowls. Poultry is the quickest meat supply to produce, and the farmer will do well to build up a small flock as rapidly as possible. The increased freight rates on butter and eggs, together with the farm money shortage due to the disappointing returns from last year's crops, will make it advisable for many farmers' wives to return to the butter-making arts which they learned as girls from their mothers and, which have been largely discontinued as farmers became specialists.

"Fruit is likely to be scarce in large and important farming regions, but its place can largely be taken by vegetable products. Two things are clear. In the first place, the average farmer, as it stands now, cannot afford to pay freight on the water which makes up the larger part of both fresh and canned vegetables and fruits. In the second place, under existing conditions he can raise those things cheaper himself than he can buy them, and he can make many substitutes out of the garden and poultry yard if he sets out to do it. He has the material for the crops, while he is short of money. It is not good business to run in debt except for essentials of production."

The Department of Agriculture will be glad to give information and advice to those who wish to diversify their home-grown food supply.

TEMPORARY PASTURES ARE BEST FOR SHEEP

From 10 to 14 Days Is Long Enough on Same Ground.

Basis of 1 Acre to 25 Animals Is More Satisfactory Than Seeding Larger Areas—Smaller Lots Are Convenient.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

For health and for economical use of the pasturage it is undesirable to keep sheep on the same ground more than from ten to fourteen days, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, in discussing the question of raising sheep on temporary pastures. The most generally useful size of lot is one acre to 25 sheep. This area, on an average, furnished in experiments 14 days' feed.

Sheep Are Valuable Weed Destroyers and Will Keep Fence Rows, Roadways and Waste Places Clean.

Arranging the size of lots on the basis of one acre to 25 sheep is more satisfactory than seeding larger areas and using hurdles to permit advance to fresh feed each day. Less labor is necessary, and by going to entirely new ground after ten or twelve days the danger of picking up parasite larvae on ground grazed over earlier is prevented. With a one-acre lot for 25 ewes, or correspondingly larger ones for larger flocks, it is an added advantage if their length is two or three times the breadth.

With a heavy crop of forage that would last longer than was considered safe to hold the flock on the same ground, a short piece of cross fence can readily be put down to divide the pasture into two parts. The smaller lots are also convenient with purebred flocks to provide for the separate pasturing of smaller lots of ram and ewe lambs.

Movable fencing is not likely to be satisfactory for the outside-lot fences unless the whole area to be used lies in a long strip with side fences, when only two end pieces need to be in place at one time for the ground being grazed.

STANDARDS FOR CONTAINERS

Hamper, Round-Stave Basket and Market or Splint Basket Lack in Uniformity.

Three important shipping containers in need of standardization at the present time are the hamper, the round-stave basket, and the market or splint basket, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Investigations in all parts of the United States where these packages are used have shown a serious lack of uniformity in capacity, shape and strength which could be corrected by the adoption of standards which have been prepared by the bureau of markets.

These standards have been written into a bill, H. R. 4900 now before congress. Its adoption should go a long way toward eliminating the 15 styles and sizes of round-stave baskets, 25 styles and sizes of splint baskets as well as the 50 styles and sizes of hampers. The bill provides for five sizes of splint baskets, 4, 8, 12, 16 and 24 quarts; five sizes of round-stave baskets ½-bushel, ⅝-bushel, 1-bushel, 1½-bushel and 2-bushel, and six sizes of hampers, 8, 16, 20, 32 and two styles for 48 quarts.

The green cabbage worm can be killed with an arsenate of lead spray in which laundry soap has been mixed to make it adhere to the leaves. This treatment will also kill the cabbage looper and other cabbage worms. Nicotine sulphate or kerosene emulsion and soap should be used against the harlequin cabbage bug and plant lice or "aphis."

Plan Greatest Dam in World

Project [illegible] the Colorado River Bigger Undertaking Than Panama Canal.

COST WOULD BE $800,000,000

Propose Developing Hydro-Electric Power on Huge Scale for Distribution Over Wide Area of the Southwest.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The "world's greatest electrical project" is the way some engineers describe the Southern California Edison company's plan for impounding the waters of the Colorado river and developing hydro-electric power on a huge scale for distribution over a wide area of the Southwest.

Edwin O. Edgerton, special counsel for the corporation, formerly president of the California state railroad commission, states the project ultimately would involve $800,000,000, or twice as much as was spent on the Panama canal.

4,350,000 Horsepower.

Generation of a peak load of 4,350,000 horsepower and an annual average load of 2,600,000 horsepower from four development projects along the river will be possible by a flow controlled by a 500-foot dam at the head of Glen canyon, Arizona.

There the main dam would create a lake almost 200 miles long, extending up the nearly level basin of the Colorado to the mouth of the Fremont river. From this point, the river descends 2,800 feet in 400 miles.

At Glen canyon dam, according to plans, a uniform flow of 18,000 second feet would pass through turbines and thence through a power canal for 50 miles, to the mouth of the Little Colorado. This would give a net head of 800 feet and would generate 1,240,000 horsepower.

From the Little Colorado to Kanab creek, a net head of 700 feet could be secured in 85 miles, which would generate 1,000,000 horsepower.

Additional Power Secured.

In the 145 miles between Kanab creek and the Arizona boundary line, at Diamond, a net head of 800 feet could be secured by two high dams. The river would deliver to switchboards about 1,240,000 additional horsepower, according to Southern California Edison engineers.

The fourth development would cover the 120-mile stretch between the Arizona boundary and the Cottonwood valley. This would afford a 500-foot head and deliver 780,000 horsepower.

It is [illegible] that among the results of the project would be:

Absolute flood control.

Provision for irrigation of 2,250,000 acres, of which 1,000,000 acres would be above the canyons.

Three hundred miles of the river made navigable.

The area which could be served with power includes Arizona, Nevada and Utah, more than one-half of Colorado and New Mexico, one-fifth of Idaho and Wyoming and three-quarters of California, with possibly large areas in northern Mexico.

Power would be used for the electrification of steam railroads, as well as for commercial, agricultural, mining and municipal uses, thus saving 90,000 barrels of fuel oil a year.

Find Nation's Oldest "Flat"

Apartment House 1,000 Years Old Is Discovered in New Mexico.

HOUSED NEAR 10,000 PERSONS

Scientists Say It Will Take Five Years to Unearth Remains—Discloses Civilization Comparable With That of Today.

Santa Fe.—Evidence that a race once dwelt in the Chaco canyon, in New Mexico, possessing a degree of civilization comparable with our own has been unearthed by archaeologists working under the direction of the School of American Research of Santa Fe. The discoveries to date—it will be fully five years before the entire find is disclosed—consist of an apartment house containing about 1,000 rooms, together with domestic implements.

Strangely enough, there is no trace of the people—and the scientists say there must have been fully 10,000 of them—in the way of burial ground or skeletons. It is conjectured that the inhabitants left the valley in leisurely fashion, as there are no evidences of flight, when at the very zenith of their development. This exodus is estimated to have taken place fully 1,000 years ago, and, so far as the investigators have been able to learn, the people stepped out of history when the janitor turned the key in the gigantic apartment house they vacated.

As Big as Two City Squares.

The shifting of sands which hid the structure for centuries gave scientists their first clue to the existence of a hitherto unknown race. Excavations disclosed a building equaling in extent about two ordinary city squares and so well constructed as to defy the ravages of time. Its curved front swings in an arc of 700 feet, and the 50,000,000 pieces of stone which form its walls bear every evidence of having been quarried and carefully cut. All that is known now is that the community consisted of approximately 10,000 persons and that they cultivated some 3,000 acres of land.

Construction of the Best.

The walls of the building are re-enforced by heavy timbers just as steel rods are used today for that purpose in concrete construction. Excavation in the inner court revealed an amazing labyrinth of kivas, cists, shafts and variously walled spaces.

The floors and ceilings were constructed by first laying heavy supporting timbers across from wall to wall. Upon these were laid smaller logs, placed closely side by side; over these came thin cedar slabs, next a layer of cedar bark and finally a solidly packed layer of earth. Some of the rooms show a remarkable state of preservation of both masonry and timbers.

This old colonial home in West Town, Pa., is the home of Thierry Van Castile Phillips—"Squire" Phillips, since he recently was elected justice of the peace, member of an old and well-to-do American family, descended from the Polish Grand Duke Sakrovolaski Phillipi Moro, who fled to America generations ago. The eldest son of this duke went to England upon the death of his father, who had accumulated millions in the United States, and assumed the title of Grand Duke Moro de Moro, to which he was entitled. His last descendant died recently, and the title, with his fortune, descended to the West Town 'squire. But the 'squire has refused it.

THIS GIRL RESENTS HERO STUFF

"Makes Me Tired," Says Girl Who Balked Burglar.

With Her Father's Revolver She Made Thief Drop His Plunder, but He Outran Her.

Fort Worth, Tex.—Rose Breedlove, a nine-year-old girl at Alba, near Fort Worth, who stopped a burglar with her father's six-shooter after he had gathered up the silverware in the home of her parents, says "hero stuff makes her tired." After one day of it she has declared a strike against having her picture taken, publicity, and explaining to visitors.

One day the family was away from home, leaving Rose playing with her dolls alone in the big house. She saw a burglar enter, and she hid under the covers of her bed, but left a peekhole through which she saw the intruder ransacking the place.

When he gathered up the silverware she could hardly restrain herself. When she saw him walk across a section of the floor just varnished, which her mother had warned her not to step upon, she slipped from her hiding place, got her father's big weapon and went into the dining room and holding the pistol in both hands, ordered the robber to hold up his hands, which he promptly did. After compelling him to replace the plunder, she ordered him into a closet, but instead he slipped through the kitchen door and fled, with Rose in hot pursuit, clad only in her nightie. But the burglar man could run faster and got away.

The family returned a few minutes later to find Rose in the yard still holding the gun and regretting her failure to capture the man.

NEW DEFENSE FOR HONOLULU

Big Guns to Be Rushed by Rail About Island of Oahu—Plan New Fort.

Honolulu, Hawaii.—Two important announcements of further plans for the defense of Oahu, the island on which Honolulu is situated, were made recently by army headquarters here. One calls for formation of a railway artillery battalion and another contemplates the establishment of a new fort to command the entrance to Pearl harbor, the navy's great base six miles from this city.

Twelve-inch mortars will be used by the railway battalion and the tracks of the Oahu railroad will be utilized to transport them. To strategic points on the island not touched by the railways at present, spur tracks will be laid, so that, in case of emergency, heavy guns may be rushed to any section of the coast line as fast as locomotives can haul them. The railway mortars have a range of 15,000 yards.

Small Girl About Right, if Bad Man Did His Full Duty Without Fear or Favor.

As Mason Mount, superintendent of the Howe button factory, of Petersburg, was reading his evening paper, his little daughter, Mary, age six, was playing on the floor. Tiring of play, she crawled to her father's knee and asked him:

"Does the bad man get all the people who are bad?"

The father, not looking up from his paper and a little provoked by the interference, replied, "I suppose."

The child studied for a minute, and then said:

"Does he burn them all up? Some little boys told me he did."

Again the father replied that he supposed he did.

Again the child, not satisfied, asked the father where they went after he burned them all up.

The father, irritated, replied that he supposed they all went to ashes.

The child studied for a few minutes, and then said: "Gee, he must have an awful job carrying out ashes."—Indianapolis News.

Not Very Serious.

Mary Garrett Hay, of the National League of Women Voters, said in a New York address:

"We women are out to fight the bosses. The bosses have a bad time coming. They think we are not to be taken seriously. In their eyes we are like the young bride in the anecdote.

"A young bride wept bitterly on her husband's return from his first business trip.

"'Why, darling, what's the matter?' he asked.

"'Oh, I know you don't love me truly,' she said. 'You wrote me a letter every day you were away—that I admit—but in your sixth and ninth letters you didn't send me a single kiss. Boo-hoo!'

"'I know I didn't, love—I know I didn't,' said the young bridegroom. 'You see, on the sixth day I had beef steak and onions for dinner, and on the ninth I'd been smoking a nasty pipe.'"

"No, I do not," replied the man almost savagely.

Eatonic Works Magic

"I have taken only two boxes of Eatonic and feel like a new man. It has done me more good than anything else," writes C. O. Frappir.

Eatonic is the modern remedy for acid stomach, bloating, food repeating and indigestion. It quickly takes up and carries out the acidity and gas and enables the stomach to digest the food naturally. That means not only relief from pain and discomfort but you get the full strength from the food you eat. Big box only costs a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we cannot cure by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Send for circulars, free.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

By W. J. Klopp, Supt.

Supt. W. J. Klopp has returned from his vacation and is now ready to meet all prospective pupils who desire to enter the High School this fall and take up the matter of registration. A new department has been added to the curriculum in charge of a highly competent teacher. One who is a college graduate and a graduate of the Gregg School of Chicago; she has also taught this work for several years and has been affiliated with one of the large business firms of Chicago.

The following teachers have been employed for the ensuing year: W. J. Klopp, B. S., Pd. B., Supt.; Melville Peters, B. S., E. M., Manuel Training, Athletics; Miss Stella Wyatt, B. Died in Flower of Youth

Lloyd Leslie Harmon, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harmon of White Oaks, died at a local hospital in this city, July 28, following a difficult operation in which his strength was too weak to resist the opeation. He was 15 years of age and had lately graduaned from the school in White Oaks He was of a quiet manly disposition and had many friends in the community. The funeral services were conducted at the Congregational Church in White Oaks last Friday afternoon, the Rev. C. C. Higbee of the Carrizozo M.E. Church conducting the same and interment made in the local cemetery at that place. The surviving relatives have the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

First Methodist Church

There was quite an increase in the attendance at Sunday School last Sunday, also in the offering. The evening Epworth League and preaching services also registered improvement. Many are returning from their vacations; we have missed them during their absence. Glad, however, that anyone may have the privilege of a helpful vacation and on returning, take up the work with renewed vigor. The sermon subject for Sunday morning will be, "For What do You Live?" Evening, "Wilful Wanderers." The latter, is the third study of the fifteenth chapter of St. Luke, covering verses 11, to 24. If you will give this passage of Scripture careful study, you will find the exposition still more interesting and helpful.

Baptist Church Notes

August 2, being the Pastor's birthday, a large circle of friends planned a surprise for him at the Church Tuesday evening. The pastor was invited out for a ride and on his return found the Church filled with admirers, who administered a "pounding" to their leader after which Rev. and Mrs. Huffman were the recipients of many presents for which they wish to heartily thank the donors.

Next Sunday evening, there will be a special service for Odd Fellows and Rebeccas, with a special sermon based on the parable of the "Good Samaritan." Special music will be arranged for the service. Come and enjoy this service with us.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Alaskan mineral production for 1920, amounting to $23,303,000, showed an advance of more than $3,500,000, as compared with 1919, according to a summary issued by the Geological Survey. The gain in 1920, it is said, was due entirely to the increase in the copper output, which advanced from $8,763,000 in 1919, to $12,960,000, although only eight copper mines were operated in Alaska in 1920, as against eleven in 1919. TOKIO WANTS FORTS RAZED

JAPAN ACCEPTS INVITATION AND MAY SUGGEST DISMANTLING DEFENSES.

U.S. TO LEAD MOVEMENT

PREMIER HARA MAY BE REPRESENTATIVE TO CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

Tokio.—According to the Asahi, the Navy Department is drawing up a project for the disarmament conference designed to foresee all eventualities and by which, before engaging in a general discussion of limitation of armaments, Japan would propose recognition of the freedom of the seas and especially recognition of the principle of dismantling defenses of the islands of the Pacific, considering the establishment of powerful American naval bases in Hawaii and Guam might constitute the starting places for an attack against Japan.

A continuation of these bases, the newspaper asserts, might necessitate the navy recommending that the government make an addition to the eight capital ships at present provided for in the eight battleship, eight cruiser program.

The fundamental idea is described as being the removal of possible offensive menace by both sides. The project will be subjected to all active and retired officers at a conference of the Navy, War and Foreign departments.

Washington.—Japan's definite acceptance of a place in the disarmament conference, which has reached the State Department gives consent to a discussion of Far Eastern questions in connection with the conference, but suggests that problems which concern only particular powers or which can be regarded as closed incidents be omitted.

There was every evidence of satisfaction over the reply in official circles, and it was indicated that the way now was regarded as clear for the preliminary negotiations which will fix the time and place of meeting and details of procedure.

A comprehensive consideration of the conference program before the delegates assemble also was suggested in the Japanese note, and now is regarded as assured. The attitude of officials here has been that such a discussion would be in place once all the invited powers had accepted invitations.

A portion of the Japanese reply which attracted attention was a paragraph declaring it the sense of Japan that during the conference "problems such as are of sole concern to certain particular powers, or such matters that may be regarded accomplished facts, should be scrupulously avoided."

Two Aviators Killed.

Boundary Arbitration Rejected.

Washington.—Proposals for submitting the boundary dispute between Costa Rica and Panama to special arbitration at The Hague, laid before the State Department by Narciso Carey, Panamanian secretary of foreign relations, have been rejected by Costa Rica. The attitude of the United States has not been publicly expressed, Octavio Beeche, Costa Rican minister here, in a statement declared Costa Rica holds the controversy to have been legally determined by the White award.

DEMAND FOR TANLAC BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Amazing Success Achieved by Celebrated Medicine Not Only Phenomenal, But Unprecedented—Over 20,000,000 Bottles Sold in Six Years—Foreign Countries Clamor for It.

Never before, perhaps, in the history of the drug trade has the demand for a proprietary medicine ever approached the wonderful record that is now being made by Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this country and Canada. As a matter of fact, the marvelous success achieved by this medicine is not only phenomenal, but unprecedented.

The first bottle of Tanlac to reach the public was sold just a little over six years ago. Its success was immediate and people everywhere were quick to recognize it as a medicine of extraordinary merit. Since that time there have been sold throughout this country and Canada something over Twenty Million (20,000,000) bottles, establishing a record which has probably never been equalled in the history of the drug trade in America.

Fame Is International.

The instant and phenomenal success which Tanlac won when it was first introduced has been extended to practically every large city, small town, village and hamlet in North America. Its fame has become international in its scope and England, Japan, Mexico, Cuba, Hawaii, Alaska, Porto Rico and many European countries are clamoring for it.

From coast to coast and from Great Lakes to the Gulf, Tanlac is known and honored. Millions have taken it with the most gratifying and astonishing results and have pronounced it the greatest medicine of all time.

Tens of thousands of men and women of all ages in all walks of life, afflicted with stomach, liver and kidney disorders, some of them of long standing, as well as thousands of weak, thin, nervous men and women apparently on the verge of collapse, have testified that they have been entirely relieved of these distressing symptoms and restored to health and happiness by the use of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Get Many Silly Complaints.

Every day the postmasters in the larger cities receive countless letters of complaint. Not unnaturally among so large a number there are many of a frivolous nature. For example, one woman wrote that the carrier who delivered her letters was engaged to a woman twice his own age, and requested that he should be asked to break off the engagement or be dismissed.

DESERT ISLE IN BIG CITY

Woman Writer Satisfied With Her Residence in "Hell's Half Acre" in Philadelphia.

Katharine Haviland Taylor, the novelist, says she's found a desert island and peace right in the middle of Philadelphia. It happened quite accidentally. Recently she went apartment hunting with very little knowledge of the residential districts of Philadelphia. She found an apartment and rented it because there were two limousines out in front, and so she judged that the street was all right. One of those limousines belongs to a broker of rags and paper, she learned later, and the other to an Italian peanut vender. She had moved into the historic district called "Hell's Half Acre."

"But I'm glad I was misled," says Miss Taylor. "I am not bothered by social obligations and I have lots of time for work. We're never bored. Shooting privileges go with every lease, and my vocabulary is enlarging all the time."

Miss Taylor cannot be persuaded to move, for she is convinced that in this retreat she will be able to do more and better work than if she were living in a neighborhood socially "correct."

Not Getting Care.

"How's you're garden getting along?" "It's terrible. I simply can't get the wife to hoe it."

AFFIXED CAN TO CAR PEST

Effective Way by Which Sweet Young Thing Got Rid of a Too Common Nuisance.

The Sweet Young Thing did not object when the man alongside read her newspaper over her shoulder, but she drew the line when he commenced to read a note which she undertook later to pencil to an Equally Sweet Young Thing, who was at the moment out of town. The man followed every word of the note with interest until the Sweet Young Thing calmly wrote:

"I was about to tell you the reason why Dot broke off her engagement to Terry, but I cannot do it now because a man sitting alongside me is reading everything I write."

The man alongside turned his head the other way quickly and fidgeted in embarrassment, and at the next station he got out. Then the Sweet Young Thing wrote:

"That finished him, dearie. And as I was about to say when he interrupted me, Dot broke it off because—" etc.—New York Sun.

Billie Brownie

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PUSSY CATBIRD.

"Me-ow, me-ow, me-ow, me-ow," said Mr. Catbird as he sat on the fence.

"Look for the Cat."

"Ha, ha," he continued, "I have had the best time in the world. Such jokes as I've played on the children. Such jokes! They thought I was a cat."

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "you know I've always called you Pussy Catbird, for you do sound most astonishingly like a pussy-cat at times."

"That's true, you have often called me that," said Mr. Catbird. But then you know I'm really just Mr. Catbird. The children were completely fooled.

"They really thought there was an old cat somewhere around.

"You should have been here a few minutes ago, Billie Brownie."

"I wish I could have been," said Billie Brownie, "but you see I don't like to be around when the children are, I like to be here when I can just watch them and when they can't see me.

"I'm a bit shy, you know. But I'm not shy with birds."

"No, I know that," said Mr. Catbird.

"But tell me what happened, Pussy Catbird," said Billie Brownie.

"Well, I was sitting on the fence, this very same fence upon which I'm now sitting and some children were playing in the yard nearby.

"While they were playing I made all sorts of queer sounds just like a cat.

"You know how I can take off the various sounds of a cat?"

"I most certainly do that," said Billie Brownie.

"They didn't know where the cat could be, and they began to look for the cat.

"I almost fell off the fence laughing when they started to look for the cat.

"Then when they were looking by the cellar stairs and under the old tree yonder I took great chances that they might see that I was not the cat, and I made the same sounds again.

"They kept saying to each other:

"'Well, I'm sure I heard a cat that time,'

"I really and truly almost fell off the fence laughing. Then they came back and went on with their games. They saw me sitting here and I had my beak tight and looked as though I hadn't made a sound."

"I know," said Billie Brownie.

"Then I sat very still, of course, and one of them said:

"'Well, all I can see is that gray bird with the black cap.'

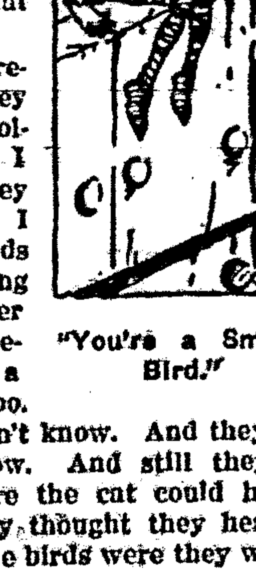
"Of course they meant they could see me, and I was the one making all the sounds like a cat.

"They finished playing after a time and began to dig in the garden, transplanting the lettuce and hoeing the beans and watering the vegetables.

"Then I began to make sounds like the different birds and they would turn to one another and say:

"'What song is that? Whose voice was that? Do you know what bird that could have been?'

"And they'd look about and not see any of the other birds, for hardly any birds were around then, and I sat, looking so quiet and meek.



"You're a Smart Bird."

"And then I heard one of them say:

"'I still don't see any other creature but that gray bird.'

"I thought surely then that they knew I was fooling them, but I found out they didn't know I could make sounds like a cat and sing like the other birds and something like a mocking-bird, too.

"But they didn't know. And they've all gone off now. And still they're wondering where the cat could have been which they thought they heard, and where all the birds were they were unable to see.

"Ha, ha, ha, that is the greatest joke—to think I fooled them all."

"Well, you're a smart bird, there is no mistake about that," said Billie Brownie, "and I can tell you I admire your smartness."

"I fooled them, I fooled them," chirped Mr. Catbird. "They didn't know the catbird when they saw him, nor did they know him when they heard him at his little jokes!"

A little girl was combing her hair. It "cracked" and she asked her mother why it did.

The Summer Hat Crown of Glory

Hats to suit every face, hats appropriate for every occasion and hats that are, above all, seasonable for the time of year during which they are to be worn, is the ideal that modistes have had in mind for many months, the object toward which they have been steadily working. And, writes a style authority, judging from the millinery that is presented for the midsummer season, their ambitions have been realized.

Those who design and make clothes deserve a great deal more of public approbation than they ever receive. They are criticized time and again for forcing the sales of costly and unseasonable merchandise and for showing models much in advance of the season for the sake of obtaining new business and making the clothes which women already have appear a pace behind fashion.

The most fault-finding person in existence could not justly accuse milliners of not having done their very best this year to keep dress in its logical place in regard to the season. For the sunny months they have made an extensive showing of typical summer hats. They have made the wide-trimmed hat, that so becomingly shadows the face, rival the smaller hat to a degree not seen before.

Large Capelines Vie With Toques.

So much publicity has the wide hat recently received that women might be led to believe that the small hat was about to pass from the realm of fashions. This is not so. Even if it were we would be no better off, for we still would be following one line in fashions without the variety that we should have, and the difficulty of finding a becoming hat would be as great as ever.

Hats prepared for the midsummer are of infinite variety, from large capelines to tiny toques. The tendency recently has been toward larger hats, it is true, but it would be futile to say that they are going to be universally adopted, because they are not becoming to every woman. It means a great deal to a woman to have a becoming hat. The whole world is likely to appear a little more pleasant to her, and it certainly has an excellent effect on her disposition.

In order to make it possible for each woman to have her friends say, "You could not have a more becoming hat," we must have shapes, sizes and trimmings suitable for the fluffy coiffure, for simple, smooth hairdressing and for every type of face. And, above all, there must be hats of every color, for color is very important in making headgear becoming.

Then, they must not all be of fabric. The fabric hat is excellent, and at the moment is preferred to any other, but here again we must be careful to avoid monotony—and a pretty straw hat may be found much more beautifying than one made of silk or ribbon. We too often hear that "they are wearing" such and such a thing. For instance, "They are wearing fabric hats." But the woman who wants to be individual and be becomingly dressed will use her own judgment after having informed herself regarding the trend of fashion, and this summer she will take advantage of the great variety of things offered her.

Large Proportions and Novel Types.

The thing that probably strikes the eye first in viewing the new millinery is that the dimensions of hats in general have increased. They are either higher, broader, or both. Some of the real summery ones are of huge proportions. Among the small types are two new forms recently launched at Paris, in extraordinarily high crowned effects after the 1830 style. These are shown in dark hunter's green straw—and by the way, there is a strong tendency toward these dark in millinery.

One such model was trimmed with a huge rosette of straw placed at the side back, and another with tall upstanding quills made of eagle feathers. Ever so many smartly dressed women are affecting these curious tall-crowned hats.

Next after the size one is impressed by the lighter colors, especially in the nets, chiffons and organdies, which are so suitable for hot weather. Among the light colors are lovely Parma violet shades and soft citron hues.

Lovely models of organdie may be embroidered in many hues that are in contrast to the color of the organdie, but blend beautifully with it. An example of this is seen in the embroidered hat.

No. 4—Blue Crepe de Chine With Pompon of Ostrich. No. 5—Model Showing Veil of Black Net Embroidered in Colored Cellophane. No. 6—Tailored Hat of Black Straw and Crepe de Chine.

Another charming model is developed in mauve organdie and trimmed with cherries in cerise and mauve, and a hat of blue georgette crepe of a soft shade with a crown of dyed straw lace.

One is in French blue taffeta, white organdie and blue tagal straw. The crown is of the straw, showing that the modiste is quite impartial in her use of materials, combining several in one model.

Among the lovely things sent to America is a hat developed in coral pink crepe de chine trimmed with a large scarf of metal embroidered in pink silk.

Some good-looking hats are in sailor shape and faced with very bright colored changeable taffetas—for instance, a sailor of black taffeta, the brim faced with changeable red taffeta, trimming the hat with folded bands of red and black.

Models in Silk and Straw.

Following in the wake of the craze for certain types of tailored things, very smart tailored styles in hats have recently come into unusual prominence. These are made in both crepe de chine and straw. Occasionally taffeta facings in brilliant colors are noted, and especially desirable is changeable taffeta, which gives a marvelous color tone.

One of the most popular of the tailored models is a hat in shiny black straw trimmed with a braided band of bright green crepe de chine. This was brought out earlier in the season and its popularity has increased.

Veil-trimmed hats have in no wise lost their prestige, for the most extraordinary styles in veils are just now being launched by leading milliners. A number of harem styles are copied from the Syrian and Egyptian headdresses.

An Egyptian type is in black net embroidered in colored cellophane.

Folds of tulle or lace, scarfs and scarf ends often are attached to one or both sides of a hat and looped gracefully. Such trimming is softening to the contour of the face and likely to prove most becoming.

You will see that we have quite as much choice in the matter of trimmings as we have in shape, size and coloring. A few of the unusual forms such as the straw rosette and eagle feathers have been especially noted.

But for the midsummer the trimming that one sees in profusion is flowers. There is little novelty about them and it is true that they appear on the most commercial hats.

One of the smartest handbag models was of black faille, very thin. It opened flat to reveal the white moire lining and a compartment for bills and cards, one for a small change purse, one for a mirror and another for a powder puff—a great deal to be tucked away in such a small space.
