CHAPTER XIII—Continued.

"And then at last it came. I didn't see anything, and I didn't hear anything, but I knew it was there. I still remember how frightened and yet how cool I was in that last moment. I held the gun to my shoulder and waited for it to thrust itself against the blanket. In another moment I am sure I should have fired. But before that moment I heard my name called, and I knew my husband's voice, and I came out of the nightmare."

"Most extraordinary," the coroner repeated, after a silence. "It seems to account for the shooting of Riles, but it leaves us as much as ever—more than ever, I should say—in the dark concerning the disappearance of the money, and the part which has implicated the young man Travers in the affair."

The banker gave his evidence. It was not unusual, he said, for considerable sums in bank notes to be handled among speculators and land buyers, but the amount withdrawn by Harris was so great that it had left him somewhat ill at ease, and as Sergeant Grey had happened his way he had mentioned the matter to him.

During the hearing of the various witnesses Gardiner had attempted an air of impersonal interest, but with no great success. His demeanor, studded though it was, betrayed a certain anxiety and impatience. He was dressed just as he had dismounted from his horse, having removed only his hat. But he smiled contentedly when asked for his evidence, and told his story calmly and collectedly.

It is quite true that he was associated with Riles and Mr. Harris in the coal mine investment. He was acting for the owner of the property, but had seen that a large profit was to be made from the turn-over, and had been glad to place the opportunity in the way of two old friends.

"I feel a grave responsibility in this whole matter," Gardiner protested, with some emotion. "I feel that I am, at least indirectly, responsible for the serious loss that has befallen Mr. Harris, and for the injury to his son. But when you have heard the whole circumstances you will agree that the situation was one I could not possibly have foreseen. Let me give them to you in some detail."

"The day before yesterday, in company with Riles, I met Mr. Harris and his son, and found that their money had arrived. The remittance was not as large as they expected, but I believed that I could raise some money privately, and that we would still be able to put the deal through. I advised against losing any time, as I knew that if the owner should meet anyone else interested in a proposition of a similar nature we would find it much harder to make a bargain with him. It was arranged that the two Mr. Harrises were to drive ahead, taking the money with them, and that Riles and I would follow. We were to overtake them at the old building where this unfortunate tragedy occurred. As it happened, I had a sick horse at the ranch, and as I was delayed in getting some medicine for him, Riles suggested that he would ride out to the ranch—that is, where I live—and wait for me there. Up to that time I had no suspicions, and I agreed to that."

"Well, when I reached the ranch, I could find nothing of Riles, and, on further search, I could find nothing of Travers, who was working for me. Their riding horses were gone, and so were their saddles and bridles. I found that Travers had taken his revolver out of the house. I confess my suspicions were then somewhat aroused, but I found myself with the sick horse on my hands, and I could not very well leave the place. Of course, I never thought of anything so bad as has happened, or I would not have considered the horse, but I admit I was at a loss to understand their conduct. But when I heard, early this morning, what had happened, it was all clear to me."

During the latter part of this evidence Travers had fixed his eyes on Gardiner, but the witness had steadily avoided him. Jim was now convinced that he was the victim, not of a coincidence, but a plot. Of course, he could give his evidence, which would be directly contradictory to that of Gardiner, but he was already under suspicion, and anything he might say would be unconsciously discounted by the jurors. But he began calmly, a quiet smile still playing about his thin lips and clean teeth.

"I am sorry I cannot corroborate all the last witness has said," he commenced. "I did not leave the ranch with Riles; on the contrary, I was riding down by the river when I saw Riles and Gardiner ride by. Gardiner was talking and I heard him mention Mr. Harris' name. I worked for Mr. Harris not long ago, but I did not know he was in this part of the country. I heard Gardiner say—"

"Well, what did you hear him say?" asked the coroner. "That is what we are anxious to know."

"I heard him say something about Mr. Harris losing all his money that night, in the old shanty up the river road. 'Strange things have happened up there, Riles,' he said. That made me suspicious, and I hurried back to the ranch, determined to follow them. I found that my revolver had been taken. I armed myself as best I could, and set out. When I came near the building which Gardiner had mentioned I dismounted and approached it carefully. It was very dark. Suddenly I was attacked from behind. A sack was thrown over my head, and I was overpowered, and bound, and I don't know how long I was kept in that condition, but when at last the sack was removed I was in the presence of Sergeant Grey."

With the progress of Travers' narrative all eyes had turned to Gardiner, but whatever his inward emotions, he outwardly showed no signs of discomfiture. "This seems to be a day of strange tates," he said to the coroner, "and the last we have heard is stranger than the first. Of course, it is quite absurd on the face of it. The suggestion that I would be a party to robbing Mr. Harris of $20,000, and so balk a transaction in which I stood to make a profit of more than twice that amount, is too ridiculous for discussion. I didn't say so before, because it didn't seem to bear on the case, but I have at home a telegram which I received a few days ago from the New York Investors, offering me a personal commission of 20 per cent on the transaction if I was able to get this property for them at the price they had offered. So, from a purely selfish point of view, you see where my interests lay. But there are other reasons for this fine tale which you have just heard. To spare the feelings of some present, I intended

"Have I Got to Die on End, Like a Murderer?"

to say nothing of them, but if I must tell what I know, why, I must tell what I know. This man Travers was a farm hand working for Harris on his farm back in Manitoba. Harris is—or was—well-to-do, and Travers accordingly mustered up an attachment for his daughter. This the young lady, it seems, was foolish enough to return. They—"

"That'll do, Gardiner," interrupted Travers, in a quiet, vibrant voice. "You are getting away from the subject."

"On the contrary, I'm getting close to the subject—a little too close for your comfort, it seems."

"I am not investigating any family closets," said the coroner. "You will have to show the connection between these matters and the inquiry we are making."

"I will do that in a moment, sir," Gardiner returned. "But I cannot show the connection until I have shown the events that are connected. Travers had trouble with Harris and had a fight with Allan. Then he and the young lady ran away. They have both been in this part of the country for some time. But Travers' plan to inherit the Harris property was upset on account of the girl quarreling with her parents, and his ardor seems to have cooled off noticeably. But he was as keen for the property as ever. Riles was a weakling in the hands of a man like Travers, and no doubt he betrayed the fact that Harris was taking his money with him into the hills. Then the two of them framed up the plan which has resulted in the death of one and the arrest of the other."

During these exchanges the sympathies of the jurors seemed to year from side to side. The theories propounded were so contradictory that opinions wavered with each sentence of evidence. But a new bolt was ready for the shooting.

"Mr. Coroner," said Beulah, rising and pointing at Gardiner, "will you

"I should be glad to," said Gardiner, "but the fact is I have a sore hand. When I was giving the horse medicine the night Travers left me alone the brute nipped me a little, and I have been keeping it covered up since."

"Make him take them off," said Beulah.

"Why should you be so insistent?" said the coroner. "Surely it makes no difference."

"Only this difference. You have heard my father's evidence of the fight in the old house. The man with whom he fought will have tooth marks in his hand. Make him take them off. Or if you won't—look at these hands!" She seized Jim's hands in hers and held them up before the coroner and the jury. "Any tooth marks there? Now make this other man show his."

Mourning as Worn in Paris

Lighter Weight of Material and Shorter Period is the Tendency in France.

For several months a tendency has been noted in France to wear lighter mourning than formerly, and while many women are not only cutting short the duration of it, they frequently adopt for deep mourning materials which formerly would have been completely discarded. The long crepe veil, at one time so generally in use, is seldom worn in front except for the day of the funeral service.

The present fashion has largely done away with the blouses, keeping only the frocks, which naturally follow the general line of the season. Materials at present used for the first period of the mourning are wool reps, gabardine, and even velours de laine and duvetyne trimmed with English crepe. For the second period, the same materials are combined with crepe georgette, and for the last period of mourning mouseline and crepe georgette are much used, embroidered with dull beads. For this period, afternoon dresses may be made of crepe macrolain, crepe de chine, cachemere de soie, these naturally for home or small receptions, and made with a very modest décolletage and short sleeves. A particular detail to be noted is that the décolletage are outlined with white to make dull black a little more flattering.

Costs are either in cape form or with sleeves set in, and frequently have a collar of English crepe. According to the strict rules of mourning, furs should not be worn; yet black lynx and broadtail are now admitted and considered as correct mourning furs.

As to hats, the small band of smooth crepe or English crepe, formerly considered as the sign of widow mourning, is worn today for all kinds of deep mourning, even on the day of the funeral.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Yolk of eggs are "well beaten" when thick, light and lemon-colored. A bit of thyme added to the filling for a fowl will give a good flavor. An electric iron outfit in the sewing room is a great convenience. Even a spoonful of cereal is worth saying to thicken soup, gravy or sauce. The best-shaped utensil for deep fat frying is a cast aluminum kettle with an oval bottom. Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff and dry and add to two cupsful of plain mayonnaise. This makes a deliciously fluffy dressing. If you have difficulty with your cake becoming stale, try cutting out a portion right across the middle first and put the two sides that are left together. A good dressing for fruit salad is made by adding to one cupful of plain mayonnaise three tablespoonfuls of sweet whipped cream and three-quarter cupful of grated coconut.

FLAVOR

FLAVOR OF MEAT

FLAVOR OF MEAT

FLESH OF FEMALE IS Milder

Exercise toughens fibers and connective tissues and lessens amount of fat—Do Not Feed Female Onions or Garlic.

Desirable quality in the flesh of poultry intended for table use depends on the flavor of the flesh; on the texture; on the amount of fat; on the proportion to the weight of the bird; and on the distribution of both the flesh and the larger masses of fat over the carcass. Other things being equal, the flesh of the females usually is milder than that of the males, say home economic specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Caponizing makes the flavor of cocks more delicate; tends to produce finer and less tough muscle fibers, and increases the size of the masses of meat, especially in the breast.

Effects of Age on Flavor.

Age tends to increase flavor, at first advantageously, but later usually disadvantageously. Most very young birds have a flavor too mild to be satisfactory for stewing or fricassees, but make splendid eating as broilers or fryers. The delicacy of flavor usually is lost in decidedly old birds. As the bird grows older, the proportion of flesh to bone usually increases, at least up to the period of full maturity. Often the large masses of flesh found on such birds can be utilized more satisfactorily than the smaller ones found on young and scrawny chickens.

Exercise affects the flavor and texture of poultry flesh, as in any kind of meat. It toughens the fibers and the connective tissues, and lessens the amount of fat. It may also affect the distribution of flesh on the carcass, increasing the naturally strong, tough muscles rather than the less-used, tender ones. In some birds, notably chickens, the exercise can be controlled. Almost any poultry, however, can safely be penned for a few days before killing.

TO PREVENT POTATO LOSSES

Serious Damage Results From Careless Handling at Harvest Time—Avoid Breaking Skin.

Growers and shippers are responsible for much of the loss that results from shipping diseased potatoes, since a large part of such losses can be controlled, if not entirely prevented, in the field, according to specialists of the bureau of markets of the United States Department of Agriculture.

COAL ASHES AS FERTILIZER

Their Use Is Mainly to Loosen Up Soil and Make It More Workable—Most Useful on Clay.

Coal ashes have little value as fertilizer, their use being mainly to loosen the soil and make it more workable. They are most valuable on heavy clay soil, but should be screened to take out coarse material before they are applied, and should be spread evenly over the surface and thoroughly mixed with the soil. Wood ashes have fertilizing value, but should be applied before they become leached.

YIELD FOR MILK DOE

Western Canada Farmers Report Over Bountiful Harvest.

Favorable Weather and Fertile Land Combine to Push Record into the Hands of Agriculturists.

There are those in nearly every state in the Union who have relatives or friends, or someone they have known, who are residents of some of the provinces of Western Canada. They have gone there to carry on the profession and occupation of farming. Their progress has been carefully watched and such news as may come from them or the country that they have taken part of possession of will be read with interest. Important news just now is the condition of the crops. Newspaper correspondents and government representatives are now in a position, after making a careful survey of conditions, to announce that the crop conditions in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta carry the promise of an early and bountiful harvest and farmers view the outlook with utmost pleasure. Good growing weather has prevailed since seeding, and all cereal crops are well advanced. Wheat headed out big long, heavy heads, and big yields are indicated; predictions are being made that the record production per acre in 1915 will be exceeded. Harvesting began in some sections in the early part of August. An interesting feature of the situation is the fact that there are no bad reports from any part of the country from the Red river to the Rocky mountains and from the international boundary to Peace river. There will also be good fruit, vegetable and root crops.

Swiss Toggenburg Hornless Milk Goat.

Most remarkable has been the germination of most of the grain. Marquis wheat sown on May 11 was fully headed out on June 30.

Considerable advancement has taken place in the last few years in the growing of corn. Sunflowers are also being grown quite extensively. Both these do wonderfully well. On July 4 the writer was shown a twenty-acre field of corn that had reached a height of upwards of five feet, while a five-acre field of sunflowers close by, was entering for a keen race skyward. Both will doubtless be used for ensilage, to which will be added a splendid crop of alfalfa or sweet clover, which also have proved very successful. Now that corn, sunflowers, sweet clover and alfalfa have taken a liking to the country, it will mean a period of reconstruction in many farming districts, and mixed farming will supersede the period of "grain maling" that, no matter how fertile the soil, no matter how generous it may be in giving forth from its great storehouse of all the properties that have given to Western Canada its well-earned name of the wheat granary of the world, too much may be asked of it; the departure from this into the sphere of more intensive farming, covering many generalities not before indulged in, will add dollars per acre to the value of this productive land. Those who have watched the progress of Western Canada, have been looking for the day when corn and such like can be grown successfully. It has now arrived.

SECURE BEST HARVEST HELP

Rovers are Usually Efficient but They Are Liable to Leave Before Crops Are All In.

Getting help for the harvest work is a problem which is best faced weeks in advance. Grain, and orchard harvest seasons bring to many sections large numbers of traveling help who start with a crop in the South and work north with the season to the Canadian border. These workers are usually efficient through long experience, but they are likely to feel the urge of the road and leave before the farmer gets his crop all harvested, obliging him to pay a much higher rate to secure the remainder of the crop before it spoils. Wherever efficient local help can be obtained, it is to be preferred to the rovers.

SELECT HARNESS WITH CARE

Especially Careful That Rains, Brushing and Various Straps Are Heavy and Strong.

Select harness with care. See that it is well made. Make sure, especially, that the reins, breeching, holdback straps, legs or traces, belly bands and other straps are sufficiently heavy and strong for the work required. A runaway team cannot be controlled with weak reins, nor will weak traces and straps stand heavy work.

PROTECTION AGAINST RADIUM

A physician using radium has to insulate himself thoroughly from its effects. Dr. Bichere of the French Academy of Medicine says they must wear gloves lined with lead, and spectacles containing lead salt; they must handle the radium salts with pliers and sit at the table lined with lead. He is perfecting a lead protector for the heart and lungs, but advises operators to wrap themselves in thin lead sheets.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRHAM BONNER

CIRCUS DINNER.

"I'm glad I'm not the housekeeper for the circus," said Mrs. Elephant. "What did you say?" asked Lady Horse. "I said that I was glad I didn't have to do the housekeeping for the circus," repeated Mrs. Elephant. "And why are you glad of that?" asked Lady Horse. "Why," said Mrs. Elephant, "I just think of the job it would be to get food enough for all of us here. Just think of the lot one would have to take out with one to market. It is a wonder they do not borrow my trunk to carry the lot in."

"There are so many, many elephants, a great, great, great many horses. There are camels, giraffes, bears, dogs, pigeons, deer, hares, lions, tigers and all sorts of other animals. There are monkeys and there are members of the Kangaroo family and there are many others. Just think of the job of getting enough food for all of them! Just think of that, Lady Horse."

"And then there are people, the clowns and the performers. They must eat, too!"

"And think of how much we eat. The exercise we do, too, makes us very hungry, very hungry indeed."

"Of course, I suppose, it gets to be a habit to be a housekeeper for a circus, but I am sure I'm glad I haven't the job. I'm much happier doing my tricks, picking up logs and waving them about, standing on my hind legs and doing the various tricks expected of me."

"I'd hate it if I had to go to the shop and say to the shopkeeper: 'I'd like a million oranges and apples and pounds of steak for the clowns and the performers.'"

"I don't believe they'd eat all that amount," said Lady Horse.

"I don't suppose they would, but you see how hard it would be! I wouldn't know how much to get them."

"I wouldn't want to get too much for we need all the room we can have, there are so many of us, and we don't want too big a storehouse."

"And I wouldn't want to get too little of anything, for I know that that wouldn't be nice."

"I like to get enough to eat myself and I know that other feel the same way about it."

"Oh, I'm very glad I don't have to do the housekeeping."

"I suppose," said Lady Horse, "no one would speak of it as the housekeeping, for it isn't a house that is being looked after but a circus tent and all its people and animals."

"I think it would doubtless be more correct to speak of it as circus-tent-keeping."

"Doubtless it would be more correct. Dear me, I could get the right word all right, but, oh, dear, what a job to get all the food!"

"It is so much nicer not to have any of the cares of housekeeping or circus-tent-keeping on my elephant shoulders."

"I am so glad I don't have to bother. I am so extremely glad of that."

"Yes, Lady Horse, we get fed and fed, well. We have no complaints to make and we are all well-looking after."

"We are well treated and we like the circus. I enjoy the tricks. I have to do."

"So do I!" said Lady Horse, "and I have such a beautiful young girl riding me at every performance. She dresses in lovely pink clothes. Such beautiful clothes!"

"And her clothes are covered with sparkles, too. She is so lovely! And I am proud that I am ridden by her. But I believe my dinner is ready now. So I must eat it and not talk any more."

"So must I!" said Mrs. Elephant, "and how glad I am that I didn't have to get the dinner ready, nor did I have to get the food in the first place."

"Yes, my dinner is ready, too. Thanks for a pleasant chat."

"Neigh, neigh, you're welcome," said Lady Horse.

TELL-EM-TO-SHE ME, SAYS TOWNS

Every Time I Sit Down to a Juley Steak Now I Give Thanks to Taniac, He Declares.

"Every time I sit down to a juley steak now I give thanks to Taniac for taking me off that milk and wash diet I had to live on for a year," said Joseph H. Towns, the well-known and popular proprietor of the Sanitary Meat Market, of Marshall, Mich.

"I had stomach trouble of the worst sort and was going down hill so fast I thought I would have to give up my business. I was so nervous and worried I dreaded to see night come, as it meant little for me and then in the morning I was so fagged out I dreaded to go to my market."

"The money I spent for Taniac was the best investment I ever made. I never dreamed a medicine could do the work it did for me. Three bottles was all I needed to make me as sound as a dollar. I never felt better or more like working in my life than I do right now. I eat anything I want, my stomach is in good shape and I am brimful of energy. I sleep all night without turning over and get up in the morning as happy as a boy."

"Not only has Taniac made me feel fit and fine, but I have also gained twenty-five pounds in weight—if any body wants to know more about what I think of Taniac, let them come to me and I will be glad to tell them. It certainly hasn't an equal."

Taniac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

THE CONNECTING LINK

One of the instructors in a preparatory school which professes to tutor youths desirous of entering college recently had an interesting time with a lad who was tackling biology.

"What," asked the tutor, "is the connecting link, if any, between the animal and the vegetable kingdoms?"

"I think I know," said the boy. "It's hash!"

ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE DOES IT

When those blisters of corns and bunions ache, get a package of ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes. It takes the sting out of corns and bunions, gives instant relief to smarting, itching, swollen feet. 2,500,000 pounds of powder for the feet were used by our Army and Navy during the war.

NOTHING NOVEL ABOUT THAT

Old Joe Had Tried "Electricity" and Found It Was No Cure for Rheumatism.

Old Joe Carter had suffered from rheumatism until, he declared, he had "no patience with it," but he was always eager to hear of possible remedies, and when his sister in Mobile wrote that she knew of a cure that had been tried with great success, and would tell all about it on her next visit, old Joe was all excitement.

"Now, Mary, he exclaimed to his sister, eagerly, a few minutes after she had reached the house, "you-all tell me 'bout dat cure for rheumatism! I was so anxious I could hardly wait for you to get home!"

"Well, Joe," began the sister, "it's electricity and—"

Before she could continue Old Joe interrupted:

NO LOSS IN THAT VENTURE

Darkey Got More Out of Garden Than Ever the Owner Was Lucky Enough to Get.

Not long ago a couple of negroes who had long before been neighbors in a southern state rather unexpectedly met in Philadelphia. Of course they talked of old times in the South and one of them remarked:

"How 'bout dat truck garden, Joe? When I left you had just taken it over. Did it pay?"

"Well," said Joe, "I didn't have nothing to complain 'bout."

"I always had a mighty pore opinion 'bout dat truck garden," continued the other darkey. "You remember I told you before you got it that you would never get your money back."

"But I did get my money back," returned the other. "I made more out of that garden than the owner ever did."

"You don't say so?"

"I shore does," continued the other, "I got the rent out of it, and that's what the owner never got!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Got Them, Anyway.

The eccentricities of scientists are like those of artists, says Dr. Charles F. Isherwin of the United States public health service. There is, for instance, the classic example of Dr. Elio Metchnikoff of the Pasteur Institute, who became famous for the discovery of the so-called bacillus of long life, the microbe which makes butter milk sour. The doctor was, quite naturally, very particular about grapes and he was so careful that he washed each grape separately in his water glass. Then he drank the water in which he had washed them.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A great indoor sport for thoughtless people

One of the surest ways to become physically incapable of doing your best work is to get only snatches of sleep—broken by disturbing dreams.

If your sleep is being disturbed by drinking tea or coffee, you may be sowing the seeds of a nervous breakdown.

Do not wait until your nerves are affected by the drugs, tea and coffee, in tea or coffee. Protect your strength, vitality and endurance.

Have sound, restful sleep, and wake refreshed and fit for any task.

Postum, the delicious cereal beverage, with its golden-brown richness and coffee-like taste, will let Nature restore your coffee-irritated nerves, and bring you sound, refreshing sleep.

Postum is wholesome and acts in a normal way. It possesses the advantages of a hot drink, without the ill effects of tea or coffee.

Drink Postum for a week or two. See what a difference it will make in you!

There's a Reason.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarette aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

Precinct Primaries Baptist Church Notes First Methodist Church

Monday night, the Republicans of this precinct met in the District Court room to select delegates to the County Convention to be held in Capitan Saturday, August 13, which will in turn name delegates to the State Convention to be held in Santa Fe on Aug. 20. The meeting was called to order by precinct chairman, Geo. Spence. A. H. Harvey was elected chairman and J. B. French, secretary. On motion, the chairman appointed a committee of four, who presented the following list of names which was adopted by the meeting: A. J. Rolland, E. H. Sweet, G. H. Hains, Ben Lujan, Wm. Kahler, A. H. Harvey, A. L. Burke, I. O. Wetmore, J. Brown, J. Romero, Ed Long, Ben Stimel, Geo. Spence, S. Baca, J. B. French, Wm. Brady, S. F. Miller, A. Luevas, Mesdames J. E. Farley, Elizabeth Gumm, J. B. French, A. Vega, A. L. Burke, F. E. Richards, B. Lujan.

Each attending delegate will be allowed two proxies in case of absentees.

August 7th, was a red letter day for the Carrizozo Baptist Church. The evening service to which the Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges attended in a body on an invitation extended by the pastor, was much enjoyed by all. The special music rendered on this occasion, was very good and much appreciated.

Interest continues to grow at Nogal, where the pastor presches first and third Sundays of each month at 3, p. m.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Church will serve cake and ice cream at the Wetmore Hall, August 16, at 3, p. m.

Subject for Sunday morning, "God Provides." Sunday evening, "Safety of the Believer."

The pastor will preach at White Oaks next Sunday at 3, p. m. A hearty invitation is extended to the public to attend all of the above services.—COME.

Berkeley, Cal. It had a face like a man, a tall like that of a squirrel, hands resembling those of a human being and jabbered a distinctive lingo. It is about a foot tall and dark brown. University of Calif. Scientists will be asked to define its species.

Last Saturday afternoon, an automobile drove up to the partridge house load-d with canned goods and numerous other table furnishings which were left on the kitchen cabinet. Since then several parcels of eggs, vegetables, etc., have been brought by others who were desirous of being counted in on the "pounding." Such generosity on the part of members and friends of the Church, is an undeniable testimony that Christian work is appreciated in this community. The pastor and family appreciates these tokens of kind thoughtfulness.

The text for NEXT SUNDAY morning is: "I Am Thy Shield And Thy Exceeding Great Reward." (Gen. 15:1.) We will have the 4th study of the 15th chapter of St. Luke at 8:00 o'clock in the evening, the subject being, "A Pious Potter."

Notice is hereby given that John W. Dale, of Ancho, N. M., who, on Octo-

Right You Are, Doctor

Dr. S. M. Johnson, Harold P. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke, came in from Ruidoso Tuesday, and left Wednesday for Roswell. Dr. Johnson will spend a few days with his family at White Mountain Inn, after which he will return to Washington, D.C., where he has an office and where the major portion of his time is spent in promoting highways and securing left-over machinery from the war department which is being shipped out to the states free of charge. He recently secured 22 new 10 ton tractors of the caterpillar type for New Mexico, one of which is now in Roswell to be used in Lincoln County. He is actively engaged in securing early action by Congress, on a new appropriation of $100,000, to aid the state in road construction.

He commented favorably on the growth of Carrizozo and the general atmosphere of push and progress in everything. He was pleased with the renovation of the Carrizozo Eating House and renewed his acquaintance with its genial proprietor, Mr. E. H. Sweet.

A modern tale of romance, the characters of which might fit an earlier century.

The Clan Call

By Hapsburg Liebe

Located in one of those feud sections of the South, where one meets that oddly blended blood of Puritan and Cavalier; where God-fearing men recognize few laws excepting those of their own making; where they read the Bible, pray for their enemies and then go forth heavily armed prepared to kill on sight; where the sufferings of the women, mother-love, wife-love and sister-love are working a change in code and gradually subduing primitive instincts.

One of the most fascinating settings for romance and adventure, it has been too much neglected. Hapsburg Liebe helps to supply the deficiency with this charming story.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remediation. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane of the Eustachian Tube.
When this tube is inflamed, you have a running ear, or the ear is plugged, and when it is cured, the hearing is restored. The hearing cannot be improved by any other means, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, deafness will be destroyed forever. Some deafness is of an acute nature, and some is of a chronic nature. We will give you one hundred dollars for any case of deafness cured by our method, if you will send us your name and address, and we will send you our method of curing deafness, and you can see for yourself
if it is not the best method of curing deafness.

Here's why CAMELS are
the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper —secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

French Cling to Old Ways

Progressive Housing Work of Rebuilding Area Devastated by War.

DON'T TAKE TO NEW IDEAS

Hard to Convince Inhabitants That What Was Good Enough for Their Grandfathers Is Not Good Enough for Them.

New York.—Model cities and villages will soon be springing up in the war districts of France, provided the inhabitants can be convinced that what was good enough for their grandfathers is not good enough for them. There is the rub. The civic idealists, many of them Americans, who set out with a vision of model towns rising from old ruins are running up against the same quibbles of human nature encountered by Sir Christopher Wren, when he tried to rebuild a London beautiful after the great fire of 1666, remarks the Literary Digest.

If left to themselves Jean and Jeanne would rebuild their homes and shops exactly as they were before. German artillery reduced them to dust and tender memories. A shopkeeper fears that his customers will not find his shop unless it is the replica of its predecessor. And madam would like to have her spinning wheel set as it was when she stopped spinning in the summer of 1914.

Habits are Strong. The habits of centuries are strong among the folk. Nevertheless, the reconstructionists are hopeful. Outline of plans for model towns to replace those destroyed have been appearing off and on in French and other periodicals for some time, and one of the latest projects will be tried out as an experiment, with the financial backing of an American committee. This plan was prepared under the auspices of the French organization known as La Renaissance des Cités, which is seeking to have spring up on the ruins of northern France communities which shall combine modernity with the charm that is so striking a characteristic of French towns many centuries old.

La Renaissance des Cités has already helped over 200 towns in northern France to prepare reconstruction plans. In addition, it is doing educational work of various kinds in the spot of the communities in the devastated lands—amounting about 2,000. In order to further the work of reconstruction, La Renaissance des Cités decided to create a model village. After studying more than 1,500 towns and villages throughout the devastated areas, it finally selected the village of Pinon, on account of its having a population typical of northern France, both from the farming and industrial points of view, and also on account of its being near Paris on direct rail and road routes, which will make it easy of access both to Frenchmen and foreign visitors.

Natives Grumble. Pinon was completely destroyed in the war. At least one member of practically every family that lived there before the war has returned.

Radio Control of Ships Next

Successful Steering of Iowa From Another Vessel Leads to New Tests.

PLAN TO EQUIP OTHER SHIPS

Battleship Runs Without a Hitch Five Miles From Operator During Bomb Tests—Army and Navy Officers Call It a Scientific Triumph.

Washington.—The performance of the battleship Iowa under radio control during recent aerial bombing tests may lead to revolutionary changes in naval development, officers think. Without a person on board, the Iowa was maneuvered from the battleship Ohio, five miles away, with the utmost precision and there was not a hitch in the mechanism in more than two hours while the Iowa was being bombed.

It was a scientific triumph. Her Iowa was a real "Flying Dutchman," a counterpart of that mythical creature of the sea, as she obeyed the will of Capt. F. L. Chadwick on the Ohio, almost hull down on the horizon. The invisible, magic fingers of the radio reached out across the sea to whirl the Iowa's steering wheel, operate the fuel oil and water supply valves and start and stop the ship.

So perfectly did the control function that the officer on the Ohio maneuvered the Iowa away from the attacking air forces at the moment the bombs were being released, varying the speed of the target vessel at will. Officers Much Impressed. Army and navy officers who witnessed the test were much impressed by the possibilities of development of the radio control idea for use in future wars.

It was said to be apparent that radio control might eliminate some loss of life in such enterprises as "block ship" operations as when the British undertook at Zeebrugge and Ostend to battle up German submarines. The "block ship" of the future, it was pointed out, might sail serenely into an enemy harbor without a soul on board and be sunk to obstruct its channel by the electrical explosion of her magazines.

Already the navy is working out plans for shifting control at will from a surface vessel like the Ohio to aircraft, either heavier or lighter than air. The radio control device on the Ohio is so simple, officers say, that little difficulty is anticipated in adapting it for use in an airplane or dirigible.

When this development is worked out the controlling aircraft will be able to work at an altitude of 10,000 feet and above, safe from any gunfire from below, and steer the controlled vessel anywhere on the sea within fuel radius.

To Equip Other Ships. A movement is afoot to install radio control on at least one more obsolete battleship and two old destroyers to serve as targets for aerial bombing practice and further experiments with radio control. Extension of experiments to the possibility of applying the radio control idea to aircraft also is under consideration and it is within probabilities that giant crewless bombing planes, loaded with high explosives could be launched against naval vessels, cities and forts with no costly sacrifice of trained officers and men.

The entire radio control idea, a post-war development, in its present application is in its infancy, naval officers believe, and they expect great developments in the efficiency and scope of the control within the next few years.

Mismanaged Fame.

"Did Bacon write the Shakespeare plays?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Stormington Barnes. "Whoever wrote 'em showed carelessness in not employing a press agent to look after his personal interests."

Practical Interchange.

"A soft answer turneth away wrath," remarked the expert in quotations.

"True," replied Mr. Dustin Stax; "but in regular business a soft answer isn't as valuable as a hard bargain."

Maybe So.

IS RICH DISTRICT

Upper Silesian Cities in the Heart of Coal Fields.

So Important That Germany Guarded Them With Jealous Care During the World War.

"Four cities of Upper Silesia, which are reported to have been seized by Polish insurgents who feared that the bulk of Upper Silesia was to be turned over to Germany, are experiencing real war for the first time since they became cities," says a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society.

The cities are Tarnowitz, Beuthen, Koenigsbute and Kattowitz. Though they are situated practically at the meeting point of pre-war Russia, Germany and Austria-Hungary—a rather precarious position on the outbreak of the World War—so valuable is the mining and industrial district, which surrounds them that Germany took care to keep them outside the zone of hostilities.

"The four cities lie within a few miles of each other and in the heart of the coal fields for which the country is famous. None is more than five miles from the old Russian border, now the boundary of Poland; and all are almost equally close to the old Austrian line, now that of Czechoslovakia."

"Of these cities, Beuthen alone is of appreciable size. The others are the direct result of the development of coal mines and metallurgical industries in the vicinity after the middle of the century; and Beuthen itself received a great impetus from mining and industrial development. It is the capital of a district, and has a population of about 68,000. When Silesia was a part of the old kingdom of Bohemia, Beuthen was capital of the duchy of Beuthen. The title, duke of Beuthen, is one of the medieval titles among the German nobility.

"Koenigsbute, with nearly 70,000 inhabitants, is the metropolis of the Upper Silesian mining district and may be considered the Silesian Pittsburgh. It lies only three miles, south of Beuthen. In Koenigsbute is situated the largest iron works in Silesia. Half the population is said to consist of Poles.

"Kattowitz, three miles south of Koenigsbute, is supreme as a coal market. It is perhaps the strongest Polish center among the Upper Silesian cities. Zinc, as well as coal, is mined in the neighborhood. The place was only a village in 1815. Its population is now about 45,000.

"Tarnowitz, a few miles north of Beuthen, is the smallest of the group. Its inhabitants number close to 15,000. In addition to iron works it has other metallurgical factories and lime kilns. It is also a Polish center and its vote in the plebiscite is reported to have been markedly adverse to Germany.

"When the World War broke out the Russians were able to push through the German-Russian frontier in its northern portion, but the line which ran a few miles west of the Silesian coal cities held firmly. Only twice was this rich and important district in danger of passing from German hands; when the Russian offensive against Austria advanced to Cracow, less than 50 miles to the east; and when the Cosacacs made a raid into Posen, a short distance to the north, threatening to cut off the Upper Silesian 'outcrop.' On both occasions the Germans, realizing that one of their most important centers of munitions manufacture was endangered, drove the attackers back."

Church for Animals. One of the good things which have gone to extremes seems to be the "First Church for Animal Rights," which was organized recently in New York. Its plan to include regular Sunday services, a school for children in the cult and an "animal Bible," composed of Scripture passages inculcating humanity to animals. The purposes of the new church are announced to be the teachings of the oneness of life and the awakening of humane consciousness; the championship of the rights of animals, these rights being defined as similar to the human rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; the development of the character of youth through humane education and the attitude toward human organizations and animal societies as their spiritual fountain head.—Baltimore American.

Harmful Principle of Poison Oak. It is known that the poisonous principle which makes poison ivy so noxious to susceptible persons is toxicodendrol, a substance that is insoluble in water but soluble in ether and alcohol. So active is it, says the Journal of American Medical Association, that 0.003 milligrams applied to the skin will start painful inflammation.

The poisonous principle of poison oak has just been discovered by Dr. J. B. McNair, and called by him lobinol. Inflammation is caused by actual contact with the resinous sap of the plant, but this contact may result through the intermediary of such objects as clothes, shoes, croquet balls or even smoke. And it may be transferred by the fingernails or hands from one part of the body to another.

Not Altogether Immune. "After all, a farmer's life is a very independent one."

"Maybe it is," replied Farmer Corn-tassel, "so far as food and shelter are concerned. But it has got to be a farmer has to have his troubles with fat tires and so-called self-starters the same as ordinary people."

CANARY ENDS USEFUL CAREER

Considered the Most Valuable Employee of Bureau of Mines.

Used to Detect Presence of Carbon Monoxide in Mines—"Baldy" Survived Five Explosions.

Washington.—"Baldy," hero of the mines, is dead. After surviving five explosions, in the last of which he was overcome nine times while engaged in rescue work, he has won his reward. The bureau of mines considered him probably the most valued employee it ever had.

In underground fires or explosions the life of the miner depends almost entirely upon the behavior of these "hero birds." The rescuer ventures into an exploded mine with a flame safety lamp in one hand and a cage runny in the other.

The bird, in the presence of even the smallest amount of carbon monoxide, puffs its wings and flutters.

The Pacific. To any meditative Mexican rover, this serene Pacific ocean, which must ever after be the sea of his adoption, rolls the midnight waters of the world, the Indian ocean and Atlantic being but its arms. The same waves wash the shores of the new-built Californian towns, let yesterday planted by the recent race of men, and leave the faded but still gorgeous skirts of Atlantic lands, where from Abraham, while all between them milks ways of steel lanes, and low-ters. If sufficient gases are present the bird drops, seemingly lifeless. The rescuer then steps back to good air and is usually able to revive the bird by quick action.

Such was the work of "Baldy," and when he started to grow old he was finally sent to the Pittsburgh station from the bureau's rescue car, which had been his home for three years. It was intended that he should live the rest of his days in song and contentment.

Then came another explosion and it was necessary to draft "Baldy." Nine times he fluttered unconscious to the bottom of the cage and nine times was revived. The experience was too much, even for a veteran like "Baldy," and he developed fatal pneumonia.

After a rescuer has once used a canary, it is explained, he places a very complete dependence in it. Often when a rescuer has become nervous or has a real or imaginary headache, the sight of the bird, steep on his perch, reassures him.

ing endless, unknown Archipelagoes and impenetrable Japans. Thus this mysterious Pacific zone, the world's whole hells about; makes all counts one day to it; seems the tide-beating heart of earth.—Herman Melville.

No Hopes. She—When I marry, I hope my husband will die young; I want to be a widow.

POSTCARD 14 YEARS ON WAY

Missive Sent From York, Pa., on February 18, 1907, Arrives in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia.—When William H. Fiss, 5540 Walnut street, received a postcard recently which was mailed just ten and a half years before he thought a record for slowness of mail delivery had been established. But David J. Spangler, 1421 North Redfield street, can go him one better, for he received a card posted on February 18, 1907, more than fourteen years ago, by a woman who has been dead for more than twelve years. Spangler's antique exhibit was sent from York, Pa., by his grandaunt, arriving in this city on June 23 last. It was addressed to him at 42 Frazer street, the home from which he moved in 1903.

"I guess some persons who are awaiting mail," Mr. Spangler remarks, "will take courage after this."

For a Church Supper.

"When taking out food in dishes or tins to church dinners and suppers or to your neighbors, try writing your name on a piece of adhesive plaster and stick it onto the dish or tin, and you will find that you will have no more trouble in losing your dishes, as it will not be washed off easily."

POSTCARD 14 YEARS ON WAY

Missive Sent From York, Pa., on February 18, 1907, Arrives in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia.—When William H. Fiss, 5540 Walnut street, received a postcard recently which was mailed just ten and a half years before he thought a record for slowness of mail delivery had been established. But David J. Spangler, 1421 North Redfield street, can go him one better, for he received a card posted on February 18, 1907, more than fourteen years ago, by a woman who has been dead for more than twelve years. Spangler's antique exhibit was sent from York, Pa., by his grandaunt, arriving in this city on June 23 last. It was addressed to him at 42 Frazer street, the home from which he moved in 1903.

"I guess some persons who are awaiting mail," Mr. Spangler remarks, "will take courage after this."

For a Church Supper.

"When taking out food in dishes or tins to church dinners and suppers or to your neighbors, try writing your name on a piece of adhesive plaster and stick it onto the dish or tin, and you will find that you will have no more trouble in losing your dishes, as it will not be washed off easily."

Home Canning Made Easy

Won't the fruit and vegetables that you put up this summer taste good next winter? Home-canned food is better, it saves money on your grocery bill.

Modern devices have made canning easy. You run no risk of spoiling if you have the right equipment.

This season we have given much care to the selection of canning supplies.

- Preserve Jars—several makes and all sizes.
- Jar Rings—that keeps tops tight.
- Canners
- Sterilizers
- Cookers
- Preserving Kettles—Aluminum and Enamelled.
- Jar Racks
- Wrenches
- Lifters
- Funnels

Get your canning needs early while our stock is still complete.

A Winchester Paring Knife with keen blade and comfortable handle will be handy during the canning season.

TALK ABOUT dime novels. THEY SENT Jim down. TO TEXAS to investigate. SOME OIL wells there. WHICH THEY might buy. IF JIM said OIL. AND HE was to report. BY WIRE in secret code. NOW—ENTER the villain. A SLIPPERY crook. GOT WIND of it. AND TRAILED Jim down. COPIED OFF his code. AND BRIBED a boob. IN THE telegraph branch. SO THE crook could get. THE EARLIEST word. AND CORNER stock. AND WORK a hold-up. IT LOOKED like easy coin. BUT JIM got wise.

AND THREW away his code. AND WHEN he sent. THE FINAL dope. HE FOILED the villain. THE MESSAGE just said. "CHESTERFIELD." AND HIS directors know. THAT ALL was well. WITH THOSE oil wells. FOR OIL men know. THAT "CHESTERFIELD" means. "THEY SATISFY."

YOU'LL know you're "atruck it rich" when you discover Chesterfields. You'll say "they satisfy." A wonderful blend—the pick of Turkish and Domestic tobacco—put together in the Chesterfield way—that's why "they satisfy." And the Chesterfield blend can not be copied!

Did you know about the Chesterfield package of 10?

For Men of Good Taste

This style appeals to men of good taste because its lines are straight and clean-cut. Men who like simplicity in attire as a rule seek the style of this shoe. It adds smartness to well-tailored trousers as only Walk-Over styles can.

Notice the style of the toe, the heavy stitching. There is a poise to the insole fit of this shoe. See it in genuine Russia-calfskin. $8.50
