ARREST ARREST; KILLED BY OFFICERS

Eudocio Guzman of Haver, a Wood Chopper in Victim. His Companion Under Arrest Charged With Assault With a Deadly Weapon.

Silver City, Aug. 20.—Eudocio Guzman was almost instantly killed in a gun battle which developed when officers attempted to arrest him and a companion in the hills east of Haver Tuesday. About twenty shots were fired on both sides during the fight.

The men were wanted for cutting a National forest drift fence, a very trivial offense indeed as compared with that of resisting an officer. Guzman had had a wood contract on the National forest and had been suspected of cutting the drift fence on different occasions. Monday J. R. McLaughlin, the forest ranger, came upon a freshly cut fence and took up the trail. This he followed until he came up to Guzman's horse standing beside the road. The rifle scabbard was empty and Guzman and companion had taken to the rough country.

Tuesday morning a warrant was issued for Guzman's arrest and ranger McLaughlin and Leslie Fleming started out to arrest him.

He was not at his home nor at his wood camp but had taken to the hills again. The officers took up the trail and meeting John Head of Santa Rita, who was hunting stock, asked him to accompany them.

About seven miles east of Haver they found the horses of Guzman and Acosta and as the country was rough they left their own horses and followed the trail. Not long ago the two men were discovered behind a large juniper tree which stood on a ridge and commanded the surrounding country. They were ordered to come out and submit to arrest in both English and Spanish. When they refused to comply the three officers spread out and started for the tree.

McLaughlin and Fleming had a six-shooter. Guzman fired at Head several times from behind the tree and Head returned the fire. In the meantime the other man was firing at McLaughlin, but keeping well behind the tree. McLaughlin returned this fire with nothing to show at. Suddenly Guzman fell backward from behind the tree, his gun being discharged in the air as he fell. Acosta then threw his gun out and walked out with his hands in the air.

Guzman lived 15 minutes. The bullet had struck him in the side, passing through his cartridge belt. His force was partly spent on the belt buckle and no place could be found where it had come out.

A coroner's inquest was held by Justice of the Peace McCann of Haver and the officers exonerated from any blame.

UNFAIRING BAROMETER OF WORLD BUSINESS

Watch the prices of wheat, corn, cotton and copper. Never mind the stock market. Keep your eyes glued on the quotations of the above four commodities. They will tell you unfailingly whether your job or your profits will be safe or in danger this fall and winter. If by November wheat remains above $1.10 a bushel if corn remains above 55 cents, if cotton does not drop below 11 cents a pound, if copper climbs to 14 cents draw a deep breath of relief. You will then know that the worst is over, that recovery has really begun.

If these commodities drop far below prices quoted, make sure that the finger on the door to your economic existence is well oiled. Also appoint yourself a committee of one to find ways and means of aiding the unemployed.—September Sunset.

C. D. MAYER LOCATES IN CARRIZOZO

C. D. Mayer, who has been a resident merchant of White Oaks since the early days of the gold boom, has decided to locate in Carrizozo as many friends and relatives of his have done before. Mr. Mayer owns the building in which the Patty Grocery & Meat Market has been conducted and Mr. Patty has, it is understood, sold out his stock to Mr. Mayer, who will conduct business along the same lines as has been the Patty policy. Foundation for a seven-room residence is being laid on Capitol avenue where the Mayer family will, after its completion, reside for the future.

Mr. Mayer is one of the old White Oaks residents, who has remained with the ship where others have deserted it long ago. His record for fair dealing with his fellow men, established years ago, is still an undisputed fact among his many friends in both places, therefore, he will be doubly welcomed by Carrizozo business interests and the public in general. Mr. Patty will move to Clovis, N. M., where he will locate in the same business as he was engaged in at this place.

CLEANING UP OF WAR CLAIMS TO START MONDAY

Claims of Veterans Against Government Will Organize Tomorrow Night.

Albuquerque, August 22.—The general plan of the Ex-Servicemen's Welfare association, which will be formed at a public meeting at the armory tomorrow night, was explained yesterday afternoon at a meeting of representatives from the various soldiers and charitable organizations in the city at the offices of the public health service.

L. A. Burr, government organizer from New Orleans, presided at the meeting, and explained the work of "cleaning up" all of the claims of ex-soldiers against the government which the new association will do.

It is proposed to make the new association an association of every one interested in soldiers' welfare. It was stated, and the meeting tomorrow night will be open to everyone, ex-soldier or not. The organization will have charge of the work of canvassing the entire county to search out every man who has a claim for money, medical attendance, education or of any other nature against the government as a result of his services in the late war.

Every man who has such a claim will be aided by the association in presenting his claim before the committee of the veterans' bureau, which will meet to pass upon these claims. The object of the association is to encourage the men to present their claims before the time limit expires.

The association is being formed as a result of the consolidation, under the Sweet bill, of the federal bureau of vocational training, claims and compensation, and public health. All of these bureaus are now combined in the veterans' bureau, which is seeking to find out all of the claims of ex-servicemen against the government. It was explained by Mr. Burr.

It was stated at the meeting that this clean-up squad will begin its trip through the state on September 12. The advance squad, which goes ahead organizing the clubs and setting dates for the appearance of the clean-up squad in each county, will leave here on August 24. The permanent headquarters of the association for this state will be in Albuquerque.

WAS KNOWN HERE

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 23.—Bennett Boyd, 18 years old El Paso youth, who was killed by Mexican bandits at Carrizozo Ranch, sixty miles south of Hatcher, N. M., August 18, died with his rifle in his hand, and wounded several of the attackers before he fell himself. This report was received in El Paso today by Bishop O. P. Brown, Mormon Leader, from a friend near the ranch.

According to Bishop Brown, the bandits previously had raided a commissary at Ojita, 15 miles from the scene of the Boyd murder. The storekeeper at Ojita, a half Indian named Stevenson Bank was slain and the place rifled.

The bandit gang then moved toward the Carrizozo place, where they found Boyd and a small party of cowboys engaged in a roundup. The bandits greatly outnumbered the Boyd party and at once opened fire. Boyd's companions were driven off all unhurt, but the youth stood his ground until he was mortally shot.

The Boyd family was well known by some of our people. Mr. John Carvens, who resides in the Water Canyon, was a close friend of the family for many years and tells of the beautiful ranch country which young Boyd was defending when he lost his life.

SPECIAL MEETING OF BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners was held at the court house, Carrizozo, N. M., on August 20, 1921.

Present: Ben Lujan, Chairman; A. L. Hulbert, Member; Dr. J. T. Stone, Member; R. M. Treat, Clerk.

In the matter of the change of road allowed Mr. Lorents at former meeting. This matter being re-considered by the board and it appearing to them that the petition which Mr. Lorents had presented to them was not a lawful petition, they hereby rescind their former decision and it is hereby ordered that Mr. Lorents open up the old road as the same was prior to the changing of said road. The Clerk is hereby ordered to notify Mr. Lorents of the action taken by the board.

The City budget being presented to the board, the same is examined and approved by the board. A road budget is made by the board and a copy ordered sent the State Tax Commission.

There appearing no further business before the board at this time, they adjourned until call.

Attest: R. M. Treat, Clerk. Signed Board of County Commissioners; Ben Lujan—Chairman.

BOTH DOMINANT PARTIES SELECT CANDIDATES FOR SENATORSHIP

Holm O. Bursum, Republican Candidate Will Oppose Judge Richard H. Hanna, of Santa Fe.

Both of the main political parties selected candidates for the senatorship last week. The republican convention was held at Santa Fe and the Democratic convention at Albuquerque.

Bursum Nominated by Acclamation. The only other candidate for the nomination in the republican convention was H. B. Holt of Las Cruces whose adherents claimed that the number of delegates for him was 40. After a few preliminaries, Holm O. Bursum was nominated by acclamation. Several of the counties had no representation, the most important of which was the republican stronghold of Valencia. The cause of there being no representation from Valencia is said to have been due to factional difference which had its origin in the opposition of Secretary A. B. Fall to H. O. Bursum as his successor.

Democrats Induce Hanna to Make Race. The Democrats held their convention at Albuquerque. There was considerable difficulty in getting a candidate to make the race. R. L. Young, of Las Cruces, who had been imported from various portions of the state to make the race, refused after he went to Albuquerque. R. H. Hanna was then nominated but declined. He afterward agreed conditionally to accept the nomination and to allow his name to be certified to the various county clerks as the nominee. Judge Hanna wishes to have a campaign fund of $20,000 available for the campaign in the state, and about half of that amount was pledged by the smokers for a number of the counties.

It was generally claimed by democrats that Hanna was the strongest man that this party could have put out at this time. He made the race for governor last year, but was defeated by Judge Mechem.

Both Parties to Make Whirlwind Campaign. An less than 30 days remains between now and election day, both parties will get down to hard campaigning at once and will open headquarters at Albuquerque.

HANNA TO RUN; $20,000 IS IN WAR CHEST

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 20.—Democrats today began work of completing a campaign fund of $20,000 to insure R. H. Hanna, nominated late yesterday, remaining in the race for United States senator in the special election, September 20.

Mr. Hanna declined the nomination in a speech before the convention because of financial reasons, but at the closing session of the convention last night agreed to permit the convention to certify his name on the ticket today to be required by law, and agreed to remain in the race if a campaign fund of at least $20,000 was raised.

More than $12,000 was pledged to the convention last night and the Democratic leaders today began a hunt to raise the remaining amount.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. E. E. Cole on next Tuesday afternoon, August 23, at 2:30 o'clock. The society is planning much work for the fall season and a most cordial invitation is extended to every woman in the church to be present.

The regular Bible study lesson will be conducted by Mrs. Higbee, after which a social session will be held.

STOCK DEALS THIS WEEK

The Carrizozo Live Stock Commission Company announce the following deals for the present week.

For Thomas Bragg, 35 steers; J. Robinson, 35 steers; Wm. Brazil, 10 steers; S. Crockett, 65 steers; J. Hicks, 120 steers; F. E. Burch, 20 steers; J. Ortiz, 14 steers; O. Z. Finley, 700 steers. More stock sales and deals of different kinds will take place next week.

BURSUM TO MAKE CAMPAIGN TOUR OF THE STATE

Intensive Fight Planned to Insure His Election.

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 20.—Sen. Holm O. Bursum's campaign for reelection will be of the intensive kind. It will have to be with only 30 days left in which to appeal for support to the voters of the fourth largest state. The senator will make a tour of the state, meeting old friends and getting better acquainted, and also making a number of speeches.

At the meeting of the executive committee, held on the day after the state convention, resignation of Geo. R. Craig, state chairman, was not tendered. This was taken as an indication that Craig will remain in the harness for at least a month longer and will be active director of the campaign. Time is too short now to have a new state chairman take over the organization.

The executive committee voted authority to Bursum and Craig to name a campaign committee to be composed of seven members. This committee will work in cooperation with the executive committee, but relieve the routine work.

On Thursday night, after the convention, an association of republican editors was organized, with Sid M. Wharton, of the American, Tucuman; president, and Frank Staplin, of the State Record, Santa Fe, secretary. The name of the organization will be the New Mexico Republican Editorial Association.

SCHOOL NOTES

(By Supt. E. E. Cole.)

The city schools of Carrizozo will open Monday, Sept. 5. Since the State Board of Education has adopted a new set of text books for the next six years, pupils are urged not to buy their books until the teachers can tell them what to get.

This change does not take place in the High School, yet several new, and more modern up-to-date texts will be used. Therefore, high school students had better wait until they find out what is needed. There is great freedom of choice in the high school yet certain groups of studies must be taken. For this reason the pupils should see Supt. Cole before school opens and arrange their work.

The superintendent will be glad to confer with parents, as well as pupils, during the next two weeks.

The school board is having made several desirable changes and improvements. A good election is in course of construction. All the rooms are well lighted and the health of the pupils will be well looked after.

Saturday, September 3, at nine o'clock in the morning, will be held the general teacher's meeting, at which every teacher is expected to be present. Other conferences with teachers will be held at other times during the day.

Last June, Supt. Cole received notice that the Carrizozo high school had again been placed in the accredited list of the State University, and that Miss Eva Wack and Miss Lillian Merchant, of the class of 1921, had been enrolled as students for next year, without any conditions whatever. Our high school course fully conforms with the minimum requirements of the North Central Association and our State University.

While at the Normal University, Supt. Cole secured several teachers for Carrizozo. A full list of the teachers of this city and their positions will be given next week.

WEDDED IN BERKELEY

In the city of Berkeley, Cal., last week, occurred the wedding of William Spence of Carrizozo and Miss Hortense Keithly of St. Louis, Mo., of which the Berkeley News says in substance:

A wedding which comes as a thrilling surprise to society in the east bay cities is that of Miss Hortense Keithly, a charming eastern girl, and William Aldrich Spence, which will be solemnized this evening at 9 o'clock. The ceremony will culminate a most interesting romance, which had its inception when the bride elect, a graduate of Wellesley College, visited a classmate, Miss Florence Spence, in New Mexico a few months ago. Miss Keithly was enroute home from a visit with relatives here at the time, and her betrothal to the classmate's brother was kept a secret until her arrival here a few days ago.

The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fry, kinsfolk of the bride-elect will provide the setting for the service this evening.

Miss Keithly was delightfully entertained during her visit here last year and made a host of friends. She is a daughter of Ora Keithly of St. Louis. Spence is the owner of a large cattle ranch in New Mexico, and following a month's sojourn at Carrizozo and other California points, will take his bride to Carrizozo to make their future home.

ROSWELL MAN DIES AS RESULT OF BITE BY RATTLESNAKE

Roswell, Aug. 19.—Harry J. Rice, aged 55 years, died at the St. Mary's hospital as the result of being bitten four times by a large rattlesnake. Mr. Rice had been in the habit of sleeping on the porch of his home and went to bed at the usual time on the evening of the accident, but was awakened in a short time by a clanging sensation on his leg and upon getting up found that he had been struck four times by a large rattlesnake which had crawled into the bed. He killed the snake and started him to the nearest neighbor who brought him to the hospital for treatment.

During the time he was en route to the hospital the poison had gone through his system and he died in a short time. He is survived by a brother and sister who live in Ohio.

INCREASED DEMAND FOR MEATS INDICATED

A statistician who has been examining the census figures concerning live stock and comparing them with facts of more recent date that are within his knowledge reports that the decrease of meat animals in this country is becoming alarming. He has found that the number of cattle for each one hundred of our population is one third less than it was in 1900; that the number of sheep similarly reckoned has diminished by nearly two thirds and that hogs are some forty per cent less numerous than they were some years ago. He believes that the shrinkage of live stock is going on at an increasing rate and points out that at the stock yards eleven per cent fewer creatures were slaughtered this year than during the census year. The Department of Agriculture, he says, has been overestimating the number of animals in the country for years, and he finds that the census returned 14,000,000 fewer sheep and 22,000,000 fewer hogs than the department estimated. As a natural result of these facts our export trade in meat is dwindling and last year we imported 175,000,000 pounds of fresh meat, mostly from Australia.—Youths Companion.

FOREST SERVICE SEES CHANCE FOR ROAD APPROPRIATION

Albuquerque, Aug. 21.—Officials of the forest service see possibilities of a speedy remedy of the present situation which has been caused by the failure of congress to make appropriations for their road work. A letter from the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce states that the Phillips-Dorrel bill and Townsend bill have been worked into one, and that this new bill will probably pass both the senate and house in the near future.

The fused bill provides for an appropriation of $6,000,000 for forest service road and trail work. This will be a great relief, as the southwestern district of the forest service has been without funds for some time with which to build and maintain trails or roads.

HOME AND VICINITY

Mrs. S. B. Boston, sister of Mrs. E. O. Prehm, is here on a visit from Emporia, Kansas. Mr. Boston is expected the latter part of the week.

Walter LaFleur is at Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he is in hope of being greatly benefited by the baths for an aggravated case of rheumatism.

Cashier W. R. White of the First State Bank and Prof. W. J. Klopp, Supt. of the Lincoln County High School of Capitan, were business visitors here on Wednesday.

Rev. Huffman, Clyde Peters and families started from here by motor Tuesday for Canyon City, Colo., to visit relatives. They will be absent about two weeks.

Don't forget "The Deacon's Second Wife" at the Crystal Theatre, Friday night, Sept. 2. The play will be conducted under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's Union and all characters will be of the home talent.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Snow, who have been visiting the O. J. and C. A. Snow families, left Sunday for their home in Stephenville, Texas, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Snow, who will stop over at Lubbock, Texas, to visit relatives and friends.

The Givens Brothers, who purchased the Bender chain of gold mines about one year ago, are now prospecting for gold near Parsons and the outlook, is encouraging. J. L. Read, engineer from Memphis, Tenn., was engaged to investigate matters and his report to the Givens Brothers was of the very best. The portion which will be developed was purchased from T. J. Grafton, whose residence is at the mouth of Bear Canyon. Mining activities are numerous now and this latest move on the part of the gentlemen mentioned means business from the word "go."

LUMBER MEN AND FORESTERS WANT NO FEDERAL LAWS

Meeting of Forestry and Lumber Men in San Francisco Says U.S. Should Let State Regulate Forests.

Albuquerque, August 22.—Federal forestry experts and private lumber operators who attended the meeting of the national forest policy committee of the United States chamber of commerce, which was held August 2 and 4 in San Francisco, seemed to agree that the forestry legislation of the future should come principally through the state, according to F. C. W. Pooler, district forester, who returned Friday from the meeting.

The forestry experts and the lumber operators agreed that the best protection for the private forests would come through the cooperation and interest of the lumber operators themselves. The general feeling, Mr. Pooler states, was opposed to compulsory legislation in the matter of fire protection in California, but was in favor of such compulsory legislation in Oregon and Washington. The reason for this is that in California the owners of the forest lands take a more active interest in the preservation of the forests than is shown by the owners in the other states.

The operators were in general opposed also to federal legislation, feeling that the forestry question was a matter more for state action than national, since each state is naturally more intimately acquainted with the needs of the forests within its boundaries.

Mr. Pooler, who represented New Mexico and Arizona at that meeting, told the committee that he favored state fire legislation, and the encouragement of active interests in fire protection among the lumber operators of the state.

He urged that forest owners be encouraged to leave seed trees on their lands at the time of cutting, in order that the forests might not be quickly destroyed. In California this has been done as a matter of regular practice by the lumber operators, since they seek to maintain the forests as a constantly productive state. New Mexico operators are more eager for a quick profit, and have been cutting trees of a very few inches in diameter. Mr. Pooler told the meeting. Another powerful reason for the leaving of seed trees is that in this state the growth of forests is slower than in California and the necessity for seed trees here is even greater than in California.

The system of exchange of federal stampage for tracks of cut-over private lands is also highly desirable in New Mexico and Arizona. Mr. Pooler advised the committee, due to the same desire on the part of the private operator to obtain quick profit rather than continuous production. He stated that he favored the continuous and increased usage of this plan, by which the government exchanges tracts of its stampage for the cut-over tracts in order that it may superintend the re-forestation.

The committee's meeting in San Francisco is one of a series of meetings of the National Forestry Policy committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce which have been held in centers of the forestry industry throughout the country. The committee meets with both lumber operators and federal foresters and after hearing their discussions of the forestry situation will report its findings to the national body.

The meeting was attended by about sixty or seventy men, both federal experts and lumber operators. The meeting was presided over by Ex-governor Paldes of California. P. G. Heddington, district forester of California, and Land Commissioner McAllister of the Southern Pacific, were in attendance at the meeting, as well as representatives from all the large operators on the Pacific coast.

The chamber of commerce committee was composed of twelve men, of whom six were federal experts and six were private operators.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

(Mrs. M. L. Blaney.)

County School Superintendent, Mrs. M. L. Blaney, returned from Santa Fe on Monday having been called there by State Supt. J. V. Conway, for the purpose of discussing educational problems.

The last teachers' examination for the year will be held in the office of the Co. Supt. of schools, August 26, and 27.

A meeting of the Lincoln County Board of Education is called for Aug. 23, to consider bids for transportation in School District No. 25. Those desiring to bid will please have sealed bids in this office by 10 a. m. August 23, stating kind of vehicle to be used and price per month required.

Teachers are requested to file teacher's certificates, Health certificates, and Institute attendance certificates in the office of the County Superintendent before salaries can be paid.

Estimates for the maintenance of schools in Lincoln County have been accepted with a few changes by the educational committee and will be mailed to the clerk of the District Boards within a few weeks.

A FEUD OF THE TENNESSEE MOUNTAINS

From somewhere on a nearby mountain a rifle's keen report split the air; a bullet whined like a mad hornet; Dale's hat jumped a little on his head.

The awakening was exceedingly rude. Dale wheeled, his gray eyes ablaze, and saw only a tiny cloud of smoke-mist rising from the laurels more than fifty feet away.

"Come out, you coward!" he roared. "Come out and let me see you," curiosity taking the place of anger in his voice. "I've always wanted to know just what a real highwayman was like!"

The muffled sound of a twig breaking a short distance off to his left next claimed his attention. He was being closely watched by a pair of the finest, clearest brown eyes he had ever seen. He saw her eyes first; he never forgot that.

She was standing on a low cliff beyond the sparkling creek that flowed beside the railroad, and she was partially hidden by a clump of blooming laurel. But Dale could see that she was about twenty; that every line of her rounded, graceful figure whispered of a doleful strength; that she was as straight as a young pine; that her chestnut-brown hair caught the sunlight, and that her face was oval-shaped and handsome—rather than pretty—in spite of its tan.

Dale took off his hat. There was a bullet hole in the very top of its high-peaked crown.

"Who's the robber?" he frowned.

The girl blushed.

"Maybe he ain't a robber," she said. "Maybe he thought you was somebody else. Anyhow, you ain't bad hurt, are ye?"

Dale smiled. "Oh, not seriously!"

"You ain't likely to be ef ye behave yourself."

A-4 that's how the hero and heroine of "The Clan Call" meet.

Out of the ordinary. But then they meet in an extraordinary part of the United States of America where live "the purest-blooded of all Americans, whom other and educated Americans left in the darkness of ignorance in order that they might send missionaries and educators to foreign countries—the greatest mistake of church and society since the Civil war."

But it's a fascinating country and a fascinating people. And this is a fascinating story of it and them. Of course it's a feud story. The hero is a city man, with an out-of-doors mind; the heroine a girl of the mountains. A feud in Tennessee between them, but love laughs at feuds, as it does at locksmiths.

Hapsburg (Charles Haven) Liebe is the man of all men to tell this story. Native of the Tennessee mountains, soldier, lumberjack, saw-fitter, patriot and self-made literary craftsman, he knows the land and the people. And his story is a labor of love.

CHAPTER I.

David Moreland's Mountain.

Clyde Williamson Dale, known to himself and a few close friends as Bill Dale, had held out a course of action almost before the northbound train had left the outskirts of the state capital behind. It occurred during the early part of the morning, and Dale had been out and about, and what others had done he could do. Indeed he had already done several things which other men might not have thought of doing and one of them was leaving a note, not haphazardly but literally, at the altar in a fashionable church. But he knew Patricia hadn't wanted to marry him any more than he had wanted to marry her.

It was only natural for him to think of coal now that he had cut loose for all time from the "net" in which he had always been a colossal midget, now that he must pull his own oars or virtually perish. He had heard coal talked since the day of his birth; to him coal and business meant exactly the same.

One of his father's associates had often spoken of a fine vein in the mountains of eastern Tennessee and often tried to persuade his father to look into it to no avail. Young Dale remembered that this vein lay not far from a long railroad siding called the Halfway Switch, in the vicinity of Big Pine mountain. The owners were mountain folk of English descent, his father's associate had said. Decidedly strange, thought Dale, that his father had never cared to investigate it.

The cinderly little train reached the long siding about the middle of a fine spring morning. Dale took up his bag, hastened out, and soon found himself standing alone in the heart of an extremely wild section of country.

When the noises of the little train and the fast mail it had just met had died away, there came the saucy chattering of boomer-anglers and the sweet twittering of birds. Dale caught the joyous spirit. He could have fairly shouted out of the fullness of his very human heart. Here all was unspoiled and unprofaned, and something whispered within him:

"They won't call you a savage here—make this your own country!"

From somewhere on a nearby mountain a rifle's keen report split the air; a bullet whined like a mad hornet; Dale's hat jumped a little on his head.

The awakening was exceedingly rude. Dale wheeled, his gray eyes ablaze, and saw only a tiny cloud of smoke-mist rising from the laurels more than fifty feet away.

"Come out, you coward!" he roared. "Come out and let me see you," curiosity taking the place of anger in his voice. "I've always wanted to know just what a real highwayman was like!"

The muffled sound of a twig breaking a short distance off to his left next claimed his attention. He was being closely watched by a pair of the finest, clearest brown eyes he had ever seen. He saw her eyes first; he never forgot that.

She was standing on a low cliff be-disappeared among the blooming laurels.

The man By Heck wore the poor clothing of a poor hillman. His hat, which had once been black, was all brim and yet all crown; his suspenders, which had been bought with a "coonhide," were redder than fire; his rundown cowhide boots seemed ridiculously short because of the great length of his slender legs.

When he had reached a point some three yards from Dale, he halted, placed the butt of his rifle carefully between his toes, and leaned on its muzzle; then he deliberately began to take eye measurements of the newcomer as that.

Dale didn't like the stare—to him it was impudent.

"Well, what's the verdict?" he asked sharply.

"Spoke like a man," drawled By Heck. "I reckon you must be up here a-lookin' for coal."

"How did you reach such a conclusion as that?"

"Just plain boss sense." The drooping mustache mulled the words somewhat. "The ain't but three things 'at can bring a city man here, mister," he drawled on, "and them's moonshine, stiller and health, and coal. You shore ain't got bad health, and you ain't got the cut of a revenuer, though a few minutes ago I thought mebbe ye was."

"And you shot at me!" said Dale.

"No," objected Heck. "I shot at yore hat. I allow hits at what I shoots at, mister. I wanted ye to turn yore face, so's I could see it, and ye did. As for that coal—"

"The Morelands, they owns the coal in David Moreland's mountain, and they won't sell it for no 'mount o' money. They lives off in the settlement, them and the Littlefords. They're every dang'd one fine folks. I'm a-goin' over there now. Want to go long? Say—dang my picture of I didn't fight to ax what might be yore name, mister!"

"Bill Dale," came quickly—"Bill Dale, Settlement? Sure! Lead the way, By Heck. Who's the young woman I was talking with when you came up?"

"Who? Her? That's old Ben Littleford's gyrl, her name's Babe. That's what they call her. She's got another name; but it ain't been used for so long it's been forgot, I reckon. She's the youngest one o' old Ben's children. She hain't like none o' the rest o' the Littlefords. My gosh, she's awful high-headed. She can read good, Babe can. Old Major Bradley, from down at Cartersville in the lowland, he spends his summers up here for his health, and he teaches Babe how to read. Fine feller, Major Bradley. Lawyer. Babe she has done read everything in the whole dang'd country. There's several bibles, and a book about a 'Pilgrim's Progress,' and a 'Baker's House' and 'Castle Alimack,' and a dictionary."

"But we'd better light out for the settlement, Mr. Bill, or we'll miss dinner, mebbe. I'm a plumb dang'd fool about eatin'; I eat twenty-two biscuits o' hour-bread this mornin' to breakfast, and a whole 'biled hamshank, and other things accordin' to it."

"They went down to the creek, crossed it on stones, and began to climb the low cliff."

"After an hour's travelling Heck stopped in the trail and put the butt of his rifle to the ground."

"From right here, Bill, no sartin' we can see every house in the whole dang'd settlement."

"They were standing on the crest of David Moreland's mountain. Below them lay a broad valley checked with small farms; and each farm had its log cabin, its log barn and its apple orchard. Beyond it all rose the great and majestic Big Pine, which was higher and more rugged with cliffs than David Moreland's mountain."

"The Morelands lives on this side o' the river, and the Littlefords lives on the other," drawled Heck. "They don't never have nothing to do with each other, but they don't hardly ever fight; they're all strappin' big men, and they fights so dang'd hard it don't pay. My gosh, Bill, every man o' 'em can shoot a goat's eyelash off at four hundred yards—I wisht I may drop dead ef they can't! Do ye see that big cabin right plumb in the middle o' the high half o' the settlement, Bill? Well, the boss o' the Morelands he lives there—John Moreland. That's whar you want to go, Bill, sence ye've got a oneyorable case o' the disease knowed as coal-on-the-brain. But I can tell ye aforehand, you ain't got enough money to buy that coal, don't matter how much money ye've got."

Dale was not looking toward John Moreland's home now. His gaze had wandered to the other side of the river. By Heck waited a full minute for a reply to his speech, then he spoke again:

"The gyrl, or the coal—is that what's a-botherin' ye, Bill?"

Dale's eyes twinkled. "Must I choose between them?" he laughed.

"Shore!" By Heck wasn't even smiling. "Shore! The Morelands and Littlefords hates each other worse nor a blue-bellied hawk hates a crow. The gyrl, or the coal, Bill?"

"Well, go down to John Moreland's, announced Dale.

"The mountaineer took up his rifle. 'Get me ef ye a word or two o' warnin','" he continued seriously. "Don't you offer to pay John Moreland to turn his grub, nor to 'steepin' in his bed, nor to 'clawin' his tobacker. Ef ye do, yore goose will shore be cooked with John Moreland. But ef ye was to brag on the vittles a little, John's wife a-bein' pow'ful handy in the kitchen, it wouldn't do a dang'd bit o' harm. Do ye understand it all now, Bill?"

Dale nodded, and they began the descent.

John Moreland's house was built of whole oak logs, which were clinched with oak splits and daubed in between with clay; the roof was of handmade boards, and a chimney of stones and clay rose at either end.

John Moreland himself sat on the front porch, and beside him lay a repeating rifle, two young squirrels that had been very neatly shot through the head, and a weary black-and-tan hound. He was an uncommonly big man, and about forty-seven; his eyes were gray and keen; his thick hair and full beard were a rich brown, with only a few threads of white. There was a certain English fineness about the man. One felt that he could trust John Moreland.

As the moonshiner and his companion reached the gate Moreland rose and pushed his hat back from his forehead.

"Hi, John," grinned Heck. "This here feller wants to stay with ye a few days, John. Seems to be all right."

"Come right in," invited the chief of the Morelands. He indicated the home-made chair he had just vacated. "Set down thar and rest, stranger. I'll be back in a minute or so."

He hastened into the cabin, carrying the squirrels with him.

"He's went to tell his wife to hatch up an extra good dinner, Bill," whispered Heck. "Pepper-cured ham, young chicken, hot biscuits, fresh butter, wild honey, huckleberry pie and peach pie and strawberry preserves—Bill, I can't hardly stand it. Blast my picture ef I couldn't eat two whole raw dawgs right now, I'm that dang-busted hungry. Well, I got to ramble on home. I live down the river half a mile, and my maw. Come to see me, Bill, and we'll go a-bishin'." So long, Bill old boy!"

John Moreland returned presently. The man from the city rose and proffered his hand.

"My name," he began, old habit strong upon him, "is Carlyle."

Before he could get any farther with it, John Moreland snagged the hand from him as though it were a thing of unspeakable contamination. His bearded face went deathly white with the whiteness of an old and bitter hatred.

His great fists clenched, and every muscle in his giant body trembled.

"What's the matter, man?" Dale wanted to know.

"Carlyle!" Moreland repeated in a hoarse growl. "You say yore name is Carlyle!"

"Yes," wonderingly, "but that's only a part of it. My name is Carlyle Wilburton Dale—Bill Dale. What's the matter?"

"Did you come from West Virginia?" sharply.

Dale gave the name of his home town and state.

"That's different. The mountaineer's countenance became lighter. "This man I'm a-thinkin' about, he was from West Virginia. I hope you won't hold nothin' ag'in me for a-min' up that way. I couldn't help it, shore, it seems. You'll know how I felt when I tell ye about it, Mr. Dale. I owe it to ye to explain. Jest a minute—"

He stepped into the cabin and brought out another chair, sat down heavily and crossed his legs. Dale, too, sat down.

"The mountain you had to come over to come here, Mr. Dale," Moreland began, his big voice filled with an old, old sorrow, "is knowed as David Moreland's mountain mostly because David Moreland is buried in the very highest place on top of it, him and his wife. He was my brother, and was the best brother a man ever had. It was allus the talk o' the neighborhood how much we liked each other. Up on't the time he was married I went with him whar he went, and he went with me whar I went. I'd fight for him, and he'd fight for me. It's hard to tell, even after this long time—"

"David, he was a strappin' big man, like all o' the Morelands. He was about yore size, and gray-eyed like you, and he had brown hair like you. When you walked up to the gate, it made me think o' him the day he was married; he was all dressed up in dark blue like you. . . . Then David he went up here one summer and found this vein o' coal. He got law'ful 'pession o' the mountain, and moved his wife up here. The rest of us lived over in the Laurel Fork country then."

"One day I got a letter from David, which said that a man named John K. Carlyle was a-goin' to buy his mountain and the coal, and said that his wife was pow'ful sick. A week later she died, and left a baby which died, too, accordin' to a old Injun by the name o' Cherokee Joe, who knowed my pap and knowed David. And a month later we was all dragged from our beds by this same Cherokee Joe, tellin' us that Carlyle had shot David. Carlyle, Cherokee Joe said, was a-drinkin' hard. The Injun seed the shootin' through a window."

"It was might' nigh to three days later when we got here and found pore David a-layin' whar he'd fell. We scoured the mountains for miles and miles around in a w'arch for the dawg who killed him, but we never found him. . . . The land up here trooked purty, and it belonged to us by David's death; so we all moved up here to live, and built us cabins."

"Major Bradley found out about the end o' my brother, and he wanted us to put the case in the hands o' the law. But we wouldn't do it. A Moreland never goes to law about anything. He pays his own debts, and he collects what is his due—"

John Moreland arose and paced the porch floor, which creaked under his weight. He stopped before Dale, and went on sadly:

"Now ye'll know why I was so much tore up when I heered yore name, the Carlyle part. John K. Carlyle killed the best man 'at ever lived. And mebbe ye'll understand why we ain't never had the conscience to sell the coal, which cost Brother David his life."

Moreland's guest sat staring absently toward a brown-winged butterfly that was industriously sipping honey from the heart of a honeysuckle bloom. He gave no sign that he had heard anything out of the ordinary, but in an odd, persistent way his mind seemed to connect his father, John K. Dale, with the story he had just heard.

John K. Dale had come originally from West Virginia, and he had flatly refused, time upon time, to make any investigation of the Moreland coal property.

The hillman interrupted young Dale's thinking:

"Addle, she's a-goin' to have dinner ready purty soon. Would ye like to wash, Mr. Dale?"

"Yes," was the answer, and in the tones of Bill Dale's quiet voice there was a shade of meaning that Moreland did not catch. "Yes, I'd like to wash."

"What was yore a-doin' here a-min' to 'ay gyrl?"

CHILD SAVED AFTER SEVEN HOURS.

Eureka, Calif.—Four-year-old Betty Jean Sanders of Garfield, Wash., girded with a big life belt, was tossed about on the oil-coated sea for seven hours after the sinking of the Alaska before she was picked up by rescuers.

The child was in charge of her grandmother. The woman placed the life belt about the little one and took her with her in one of the lifeboats.

The boat upset in launching, and the child was thrown into the sea.

CARRIZOZO OUTLOOK

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY AUGUST 26, 1921.

A FEUD OF THE TENNESSEE MOUNTAINS

From somewhere on a nearby mountainside a rifle split the air; a bullet whined like a mad hornet; Dale's eyes ablaze, and saw only a tiny cloud of smoke mist rising from the laurels more than fifty feet away.

"Come out, you coward!" he roared. "Come out and see you," curiosity taking the place of anger in his eyes. He always wanted to know just what a real highwayman was like.

The muffled sound of a twig breaking a short distance left next claimed his attention. He was being closely followed by a pair of the finest, clearest brown eyes he had ever seen. Eyes first; he never forgot that.

She was standing on a low cliff beyond the sparkling flow beside the railroad, and she was partially hidden by a flowering laurel. But Dale could see that she was a girl every line of her rounded, graceful figure whispered strength; that she was as straight as a young pine; that brown hair caught the sunlight, and that her face was as handsome—rather than pretty—in spite of its id.

Dale took off his hat. There was a bullet hole in of its high-peaked crown.

"Who's the robber?" he frowned.

The girl blushed.

"Maybe he ain't a robber," she said. "Maybe he was somebody else. Anyhow, you ain't had hurt, are ye?"

Dale smiled. "Oh, not seriously!"

"You ain't likely to be, of ye behave yerself."

A-4 that's how the hero and heroine of "The Clan Out of the Ordinary" rather. But then they meet in a part of the United States of America where lives the pi of all Americans, whom other and educated Americans darkness of ignorance in order that they might send misadventurers to foreign countries—the greatest mistake of society since the Civil war.

But it's a fascinating country and a fascinating people is a fascinating story of it and them. Of course it's a far here is a city many with an out-of-door mind; the hero the mountains. A feud intervenes between them, but it feuds, as it does at locksmiths.

Hapsburg (Charles Haven) Liebe is the man of all this story. Native of the Tennessee mountains, soldier, saw-fitter, patriot and self-made literary craftsman, he land and the people. And his story is a labor of love.

CHAPTER I.

David Moreland's Mountain.

It was a fine morning in the month of May. Dale had held out a course of action almost before the northbound train had left the outskirts of the state capital behind. It incurred facing big odds; but other men had faced big odds and won out, and what others had done he could do. Indeed, he had already done several things which other men might not have thought of doing and one of them was having a bride, not figuratively but literally, at the altar in a fashionable church. But he knew Patricia hadn't wanted to marry him any more than he had wanted to marry her.

It was only natural for him to think of that now that he had cut loose for all time from the "set" in which he had always been a colossal misfit, now that he must pull his own oars or virtually perish. He had heard coal talked since the day of his birth; to him coal and business meant exactly the same.

One of his father's associates had often spoken of a fine vein in the mountains of eastern Tennessee—had often tried to persuade his father to look into it, to no avail. Young Dale remembered that this vein lay not far from a long railroad siding called the Halfway Switch, in the vicinity of Big Pine mountain. The owners were mountain folk of English descent, his father's associate had said. Decidedly strange, thought Dale, that his father had never cared to investigate it.

The cindersy little train reached the long siding about the middle of a fine spring morning. Dale took up his bag, fastened out, and soon found himself standing alone in the heart of an extremely wild section of country.

When the noises of the little train and the fast mail it had just met had died away, there came the easy chattering of boomer-squirrels and the sweet twittering of birds. Dale caught the joyous spirit. He could have fairly shouted out of the fullness of his very human heart. Here all was unspoiled and unprofaned, and something whispered within him:

"They won't call you a savage here—make this your own country!"

From somewhere on a nearby mountainside a rifle's keen report split the air; a bullet whined like a mad hornet; Dale's hat jumped a little on his head.

The awakening was exceedingly rude. Dale wheeled, his gray eyes ablaze, and saw only a tiny cloud of smoke mist rising from the laurels more than fifty feet away.

"Come out, you coward!" he roared. "Come out and let me see you," curiosity taking the place of anger in his eyes. "I've always wanted to know just what a real highwayman was like!"

The muffled sound of a twig breaking a short distance off to his left next claimed his attention. He was being closely watched by a pair of the finest, clearest brown eyes he had ever seen. He saw her eyes first; he never forgot that.

"Sub-Section (B) All moneys received on account of the state from any source whatsoever, shall be paid into the treasury thereof.

"Sub-Section (C). The legislature shall not appropriate any money out of the treasury except in accordance with the provisions of this section.

"Sub-Section (D) On or before the 15th of January in each year next preceding the regular biennial session of the legislature, every department, institution and agency of the State, except the legislative department, shall submit to the governor of the state a detailed statement showing actual revenues and expenditures for the two fiscal years intervening since the last regular session of the legislature, together with estimates of appropriations required to meet the financial needs of such department, institution or agency, itemized as the governor may require.

"Sub-Section (E) On or before the twentieth day of every regular session of the legislature, the governor shall prepare, and shall submit to the legislature, a budget containing a detailed statement and estimate of all anticipated revenues of the state, and a complete plan of proposed expenditures for the state government during the ensuing biennium.

"Sub-Section (F) For the purpose of preparing his budget the governor shall have power to require any board, commission, officer or department to furnish him with any information which he may deem necessary.

"Sub-Section (G) At the time the governor submits his budget to the legislature, he shall also submit a bill, to be known as the "General Appropriation Bill," which shall contain all of the proposed appropriations of the budget clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall, immediately, cause said bill to be referred, together with the accompanying budget, to the appropriate committee, for its consideration. The governor may, before final action thereon by the legislature, amend or supplement said budget and general appropriation bill, to correct any oversight, or in case of an emergency, by delivering such amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said general appropriation bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of, or a substitution for, any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may effect.

"Sub-Section (H). The legislature may amend such general appropriation bill by increasing the items therein relating to the Judicial Department, but may not otherwise alter or amend such bill, except to strike out or reduce items therein.

"Sub-Section (I). Prior to the final action on the general appropriation bill, the legislature may provide for its salaries, mileage and necessary legislative expenses by special appropriation bills, specifically limited to such purposes, but before final action on the general appropriation bill, it shall not enact any other appropriation bill, except upon such recommendation of the governor.

"Sub-Section (J). The governor may, at any time, recommend to the legislature supplementary budgets and supplementary appropriation bills based thereon, all of which shall be subject to the same procedure as the original budget and the general appropriation bill.

"Sub-Section (K). After final action on the general appropriation bill, or on recommendation of the governor, special appropriation bills may be enacted, but every appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill, limited to some single work, subject or purpose therein stated.

"Sub-Section (L). In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 22 of Article IV of the Constitution, or be construed as preventing the governor from calling special sessions of the legislature as provided by Section 6, of Article IV, of the Constitution, or as preventing the legislature, at such special sessions, from considering any emergency appropriation or appropriations."

JOINT RESOLUTION PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE XIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO, ENTITLED "PUBLIC LANDS."

S. J. R. No. 11, Appr. March 12, 1921.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of New Mexico:

Section 1. That Article XIII of the Constitution of the State of New Mexico be amended so as to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XIII PUBLIC LANDS" "Section 1. All lands belonging to the State of New Mexico, and all lands granted, transferred or confirmed to the State by Congress, and all lands hereafter acquired, are declared to be public lands of the state to be held or disposed of as may be provided by law for the purpose for which they have been or may be

Child Saved After Seven Hours.

Eureka, Calif.—Four-year-old Betty Jean Sanders of Garfield, Wash., girded with a big life belt, was tossed about on the oil-coated sea for seven hours after the sinking of the Alaska before she was picked up by rescuers. The child was in charge of her grandmother. The woman placed the life belt about the little one and took her with her in one of the lifeboats. The boat upset in launching, and the child was thrown into the sea.

WILL BARE EARS HOW TO FIGURE COST OF CROPS

Many Must Lift the Puffs to Be in Fashion.

Little Ringlets Are Pinned On Side of the Head Far Above the Ears.

Some might call it legitimizing immodesty. But it really is only fashion's latest edict. You see, notes a Chicago fashion writer, it's the way of those who make the styles. They go from one extreme to the other.

When a well-known "movie" star came out with her hair bobbed it set a world of ladies thinking. They liked the effect, but they didn't like to part with their long tresses. So hairdressers thought of the "side pieces"—the earuffs—the things that men have ever since been complaining about and femininity, satisfied with the deception, with one accord wore its hair in a large mop over its ear.

And so the style remained for two years or more. Then, six months ago, it was announced that no more would the ear remain the mystery—it was to be bared for all the world to see. The modest ladies demurred. Bare her ankles or her knees, wear very little, held up by straps over the shoulders—but show her ears? Never!

But the hairdressers insisted. So they compromised. And now an official of the Chicago Hairdressing academy, comes out with the announcement that the ear must be shown, but she will lift the mop of hair that Americans seem to love—they may have it, but they must fit it—and the madame curls it in little ringlets and pins them on the side of the head far above the ears.

The entire ear or just the lobe of it may be shown, according to the contour of the face, but certain it is that the ear must no longer be concealed.

CHIC DRESS FOR SPORT WEAR

This smart sport dress of beige color cotton crepe with long straight lines is relieved from plainness by pleated side panels. The belt, neck and sleeves are finished with fagoting.

Beaded lace insets. Beaded lace insets are used on some of the new stockings for evening.

NEGLIGEEES FOR SUMMER DAYS

Cool Wearables That Are Switchingly Dainty for Home Wear During Sweltering Days.

The leisure hours of warm weather require cool negligees. Bewitchingly dainty for summer mornings, is a breakfast coat of batiste, in pink, blue, orchid or lemon, trimmed with pleated-edged points. The coat is cut to fall considerably below the hips and there is lengthened by a flounce of the material, with a double row of the pleated points. A long roll collar to the waist is also outlined with the pretty points, and short sleeves are likewise edged. A bit of grosgrain ribbon in a contrasting shade forms a slim girdle at the normal waistline and drops in long ends at the front.

Could anything be more wearable or cool when one sips one's morning coffee than a dotted voile coat with pretty ruching decoration? A white voile background is plentifully dotted in pink, blue or lavender dots and the coat is cut on the long fashionable lines so becoming to the average figure.

The lower flounce is set on by a cord and the ruching borders the bottom, collar and tiny turn-back cuffs. Big patch pockets adorn the front.

In organdie, plain and dotted fabrics are used. A white organdie frock embroidered in honey-dew dots makes a simple slip-on affair with two bands of plain white organdie on the skirt and a deep shawl collar and cuffs of white at the blouse. Buttonhole stitch

NOVEL AND MODISH BLOUSE

Of white and pale green is this novel and modish blouse. The sash is looped at the side in an unusual and attractive manner. It is artistic and should please the conservative dresser.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Taffeta frocks have snugly fitting bodices.

Entire lace dresses in brown, gray and henna are very good.

The surplice bodice worn with a fichu is quaint and very smart.

There is a most attractive parasol of silk with ruffles of tulle dotted thickly with big chenille dots.

Hand-painted flowers bloom on some of the newest sport suits. Their delicate hints suggest nothing so much as dresden.

Things that stand out in fashions for children are the straight line, the very short skirt and the sleeves which almost aren't.

For millinery, jet and steel ornamental novelties are being shown. Large medallions of solid sheets of jet are fringed with strings of jet or steel beads.

Among the Parisian conceits are round small pocketbooks which are not unlike a flower. The handles are clever imitations of stems and the purse itself is the flower. Blue corn flowers are used for the exteriors of some of them, with mauve silk as the lining. They are effective with summer frocks.

GRAY TAILORED SUIT CRAZE

One-Button Jacket Style, Snug-Fitting Coat Sleeves, Small Collar, Revers to Waistline.

There is at present a craze in Paris which amounts almost to a madness. It is for a gray tailored suit, one-button jacket style, snug-fitting coat sleeves, small coat collar and revers to the waistline, where the one button is placed in link form. There is a slight side flare to the coat, and it is about three-quarters fitting. These suits have appeared in such numbers on the street of Paris that the smart woman looks as if she had gone into uniform.

This suit has all the finish and neatness of a high-priced man-tailored suit. After having worn the dress for so many seasons this mannish tailored suit comes as a distinct novelty with the chic Parisienne.

The tailor who has made a phenomenal success of a very simple costume, is so busy taking orders that he stands in the middle of his reception room taking measurements as fast as he can, the women practically standing in line, each awaiting her turn.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

After the bath or cold shower what could be more soothing than a bath-coat of brushed cotton ratine loosely girdled? One smart model, cut with short sleeves and body in one, is pocketed and collared in self-material and piped with silk cord. A long silk cord girdle ties about the waist and is tasseled at the ends. These good-looking bathrobes come in purple, rose, Copenhagen or burnt orange.

If a roast is basted many times it will be much more juicy.

Cauliflower is delicious served with mayonnaise dressing.

It improves some canned corn to cook it a bit before serving.

Give the chickens plenty of green food.

All household plants are better for an occasional spraying.

A special cupboard for hanging saucers is a great dust saver.

Spinach with carrot balls is an attractive and wholesome mixture.

A well-waxed floor is guarded against the marks of heavy shoes.

Dried lima beans forced through a sieve can be used for croquettes.

Braised.

Burnt orange velvet baby ribbon woven or braided is forming the crowns of a number of velvet hats.

HOW TO FIGURE COST OF CROPS

Farmer Enabled to Compute for Himself Expense of Producing Various Crops.

REQUIREMENTS OF EACH CROP

If Practical Records Are Not Available on Labor and Material Expenses Close Estimates Can Be Made of That Section.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Figures from which the farmer can compute for himself the cost of production of corn, corn for silage, wheat, oats, and hay, under given conditions, are presented in a preliminary report on labor and material requirements of those crops, recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. These figures cover the normal hours of man labor and horse labor, and quantities of seed, fertilizers, etc., required per acre for each crop, as determined by surveys by the office of farm management and farm economics.

Apply Basic Factors.

The money cost is found by applying to these basic factors the current rates for labor, seed, etc. Inasmuch as it has been found that, in general, labor and material costs approximate 80 per cent of the total operating cost for these crops, it is easy to find this total when the labor and material costs are known.

The figures given represent average crop requirements for the regions where investigations have been made. If the farmer does not have precise records of labor and material expenditures for his own farm, he can estimate them pretty closely by taking the average for his own region as a basis and applying current rates for labor and materials, with due allowance for any unusual conditions that may exist in his own case. The method of computation is as follows:

1. Determine the total cost of labor and material per acre by applying current rates to the quantities of labor and materials obtained from the individual's own records, or, if such are not available, use those given in the table.

2. Determine the total operating expense per acre by dividing the cost of labor and material by the percentage figure given for each region.

3. Determine the total acre cost of production by adding the interest charge or the cash rent paid for the use of land.

4. To determine the cost per bushel or ton divide the total acre cost by the yield per acre.

The following example shows how this method worked out in figuring the cost of corn for silage on an Iowa farm:

	Amount.	Rate.	Cost.
Man-hours	27.8	$0.25	$6.95
Horse-hours	15.0	25	3.75
Seed, pounds	9.0	0.8	7.20
Fertilizer, tons	2.2	2.00	4.40
Gasoline, gallons	2.8	0.25	0.70
Cool, pounds	1.6	0.05	0.08
Twine, pounds	2.6	0.25	0.65

Total labor and material (80 per cent of operating expense).....25.71

Total operating expense (100 per cent).....32.14

Interest on 1 acre of land ($200 at 5 per cent).....10.00

Total cost.....42.14

Average yield per acre, 33 tons.

Average cost per ton, $1.28.

180 clubs with 23,450 members, of which 12,750 made reports from which the following totals have been compiled: Eggs set, 731,709; chicks hatched, 510,478; value of products sold, $84,781.32; value of stock on hand, $382,277.57; exhibits sold, 712; members exhibiting, 5,015; prizes received, $9,081.11. A feature of progress was the improvement in quality of fowl bred by club members.

SPRAYING CELERY TO PREVENT LEAF SPOTS

Application of Bordeaux Mixture Is Recommended.

Treatment Should Continue Throughout Growing Season and More Especially in Moist, Cool Weather—Apply With Pump.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Celery plants should be sprayed with bordeaux mixture every ten days to two weeks to prevent leaf diseases, which often seriously injure the crop for market purposes. These leaf spots occur generally in celery-growing districts in the United States during cool, moist weather. Home-made bordeaux, composed of 4 pounds bluestone (copper sulphate) and 4 pounds stone lime to 50 gallons of water, is the cheapest and best fungicide for the purpose. The spraying should be begun while the plants are still in the seed bed and continued throughout the season. The sprayings should be more frequent during moist, cool weather favorable to the development of the leaf spots.

Healthy Stalk of Celery.

and farther apart in dry, hot periods. Apply the mixture thoroughly with a pump which will give a very fine misty spray that will cover the plants but not run down the stalks and thus disfigure the stems.

Since the disease is carried over winter on the seed and in the soil where diseased celery was grown the previous year, it is important that new soil be used in the seed bed or the old soil sterilized by steam, hot water or formalin solution and that disease-free seed be planted.

DON'T CROWD GROWING CHICK

Where Space Is Limited Youngsters Become Overheated, Causing Outbreak of Colds.

Growing chicks must not be confined to crowded quarters at night. If they are, they will become overheated and this, in turn, will lead to the development of colds of which it is very difficult to rid the flock and which may be carried along through the summer and fall, causing a serious outbreak of colds in the laying flocks the following winter.

How can one tell whether or not the chickens have enough room? One of the best indications is the condition of the plumage. If the plumage is bright and clean it is a good sign that the birds are doing well and have room enough. If the plumage is soiled by droppings, it is an indication that there is not room enough for all of them on the roosts, with the result that some are compelled to rest on the floor beneath the roosts and thus become soiled.

A trip to the growing houses after dark will also determine whether enough room is being provided. If there is not space enough so that all the chickens can find room on the roosts, the quarters are too crowded and some of the chickens must be taken out. If all can find room on the roosts comfortably and if the house is well ventilated, the quarters are not crowded and the youngsters should do well.

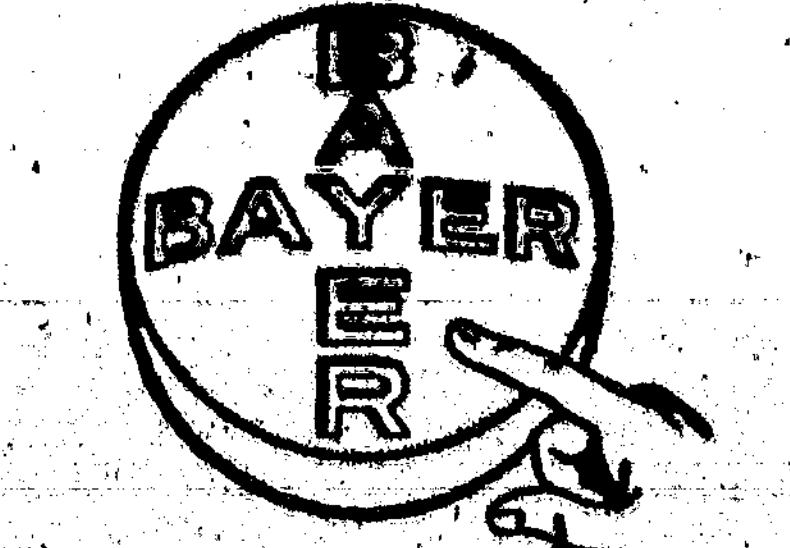

CONCRETE FLOORS ARE BEST

Promote and Protect Health of All Farm Animals and Increase Profits for Farmer.

A concrete barnyard makes a fine exercise lot in all kinds of weather and always affords a dry spot for the animals' bed. Every shower washes the surface clean and flushes the droppings into the manure pits. Concrete yards lighten the work of the housewife, as there is no mud to be tracked on the walks and kitchen floor. The use of rubber boots is unnecessary. On concrete floors not a particle of grain need be wasted. The way to the water trough is always dry, smooth and passable. Concrete floors promote and protect the health of farm animals and increase the profits of farming, stock raising and dairying.

They Weren't Cherries.

While going through the grocery department of one of our large stores recently I noticed a crowd around a demonstrator, but I paid no attention to what she was saying. On the table was a dish of what I thought were manischino cherries. I took one and put it in my mouth. With the first bite I had the crowd around me. I thought I was poisoned and could not understand the laughing and screaming of the crowd. Instead of a cherry, as I thought, it was a capsule containing coloring matter for oleomargarine that the lady was demonstrating. My lips, chin and waist were colored a beautiful yellow. I must have looked like the Yellow Kid. This cured me of the bad habit of sampling things. Exchange.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

New One to Her.

One of Kansas City's welfare societies provides a summer camp for children. Each child is given a thorough outing for $1 a week. Children are not accepted under the age of nine, but now and then a well-coached child gets by a few months younger. The other day a little girl with all the earmarks of seven years applied with a dollar at the camp. "How old are you?" she was asked. "Nine," replied the child glibly. "When were you eight?" This was an unexpected question. "Eight?" she stammered; "why, do you have to be eight before you are nine?"—Kansas City Star.

TIME NOT WHOLLY WASTED

Youth Missed Acquiring Academic Knowledge, but Probably Learned Something Worth While.

The pursuit of learning is not always an easy matter, as a young student found who set forth from his home to study at Edinburgh, for when he reached the port of Falmouth he found that, owing to having taken 200 days on the journey at sea, the term was over. Contrary winds and other contretemps accounted for the delay, during which the crew had to act about finding means of turning some of the corn they were carrying as cargo into bread. They found an old berry-mill—but the story is too long to tell. It is one of the pen's many yarns, and leaves the conviction that that student, if he is worth his salt, will not object to having lost some of the academic year learning of the ways of a barque on the ocean.—Christian Science Monitor.

Between Two Fires.

The young couple were dining out. In the middle of their meal a tall and beautiful woman passing near their table gave the young man a look of recognition and a smile.

So dangerous was the smile that the girl said, "John, who was that woman?"

John held up his hand. "Now, for goodness sake," he said, "don't get bothering me about who she is. I shall have trouble enough explaining to her who you are."

Bursum's Nomination

The nomination of Hon. Holm O. Bursum for the Senate last week in the ancient city of Santa Fe, means three things which stand out more prominently for the interest of New Mexico than the ordinary observer will recognize. First, his nomination was a showing of confidence on the part of the PEOPLE expressed through 600 delegates uninstructed, joined in making the nomination unanimous and waiving of data and applause that made the Capitol building tremble. Second, it meant that the people upheld the action of Governor Mechem in the temporary appointment of Mr. Bursum to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of former Senator, A. B. Fall. Third, it means that the people of the Sunshine State recognize in Hon. Holm O. Bursum, a friend who is acquainted with their wants because of the fact that he is interested in our industries and our good and welfare in general.

His record during the short time he served the State in his official position, was a complete exposition of what we may have in the future. His standing in the Senate, created through his convincing arguments to his fellow Senators concerning the needs of his people, makes him rank high and influential in that National body. This activity and recognition has aroused the righteous indignation of the Democrats who are already engaged in manufacturing slanders, material to use against Mr. Bursum whose only sin has been that of rendering assistance to our needy cattlemen, sheepmen and soldier boys. But the people know who has been their friend and they will elect him by a majority that will be a tribute to his fidelity and loyalty to deserving New Mexico.

Everything for QUALITY

THAT'S OUR IDEA in making
CAMELS—the Quality Cigarette.

Why, just buy Camels and look at the package!
 It's the best packing science has devised to keep cigarettes fresh and full flavored for your taste.
 Heavy paper outside—secure foil wrapping inside and the revenue stamp over the end to seal the package and keep it air-tight.

And note this! There's nothing flashy about the Camel package. No extra wrappings that do not improve the smoke. Not a cent of needless expense that must come out of the quality of the tobacco.

Camels wonderful and exclusive Quality wins on merit alone.

Because, men smoke Camels who want the taste and fragrance of the finest tobaccos, expertly blended. Men smoke Camels for Camels smooth, refreshing mildness and their freedom from ciga-retty aftertaste.

Camels are made for men who think for themselves.

PEOPLE.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

WESTERN

During the past week four deaths from pelagra have been reported at Dallas, Texas, marking the heaviest toll from the disease here in that period of time for several years, according to health officials.

Arthur Clayton, 44, a railroad conductor of Trinidad, Colo., ended his life at Los Angeles by leaping from the roof of a four-story apartment house. The police were told he had been in ill health and despondent.

Isador Tucker, pioneer merchant of Nebraska City, Neb., was shot by Police Officer Hanley, when the officer fired at a burglar whom he had just arrested and had broken away. Mr. Tucker is in a hospital with a bullet in his abdomen.

Twenty-nine years after the alleged commission of the crime, Estevan Tovar went to trial in District Court at Eagle Pass, Texas, on a charge of wife murder. A quarrel between Tovar and some of his associates recently brought to light the old case which had been forgotten.

Instead of scrapping the old battleship Oregon, the navy may present her to the state of Oregon as an historic relic. The Oregon was launched at San Francisco in 1893 and was the ship which Captain Clark sailed around Cape Horn in record time during the war with Spain.

Lieut. Jim Ingram, pilot with a "flying circus" showing at Davenport, Ia., at the Mississippi Valley fair, and A. B. Hall, staff photographer for the Davenport Democrat, were arrested on a charge of flying over the city within 2,000 feet above the business section. This is the first arrest there for alleged violation of aerial traffic laws.

Ramon Hernandez, 20, confessed, according to the police, that he entered the home of Mrs. Conrado Alaraz, five miles east of El Paso, stabbed her to death and clubbed her three infants as they slept. When asked why he killed the woman and attacked her children, he told the police, they say, that "the family would be better off dead."

WASHINGTON

The threat of civil warfare in Italy between the Fascist on one side and the Socialists and Communists on the other is rapidly dying out, according to all indications.

Henry Cabot Lodge, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, has been definitely selected by President Harding as a member of the American delegation to the disarmament conference.

Railroads of the country earned $31,780,000 net in June, which was a gain of $1,047,840 over net earnings for May, according to reports filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the carriers and made public by the American Railway Association. The earnings for June, the association said, represented 31 per cent annual return on railroad investment as compared with 24 per cent return for May, based upon the tentative values of railroads fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Ten years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for any person offering for sale or purchasing at less than face value any government bond or obligation, is provided in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Horrick of Oklahoma. The bill is offered as a means of bringing government securities to par and preserving the national credit.

Colorado flyings may be immediately chosen as a site for a vocational training center for disabled soldiers, according to a statement made by H. Allen Nye of Denver, who has been looking over the situation. Under present plans the new building will be large enough to accommodate at least 300 soldiers. The proposed site contains about 300 acres in the foothills.

Abill by Representative Stearns, Republican, Minnesota, to modify federal grades of spring wheat was reported favorably by the House agriculture committee. The measure provides that all foreign material in grading of wheat shall be counted as dockage and that moisture in excess of 14½ per cent shall be designated on the grade certificate and shall not affect the grade.

Railroads should reduce voluntarily their freight rates on live stock to 50 per cent of the present rates, but should not reduce rates which at present are less than 50 cents a hundred pounds, the Interstate Commerce Commission said in a report. The commission did not enter an order in the case, which was held open.

The Civil Service Commission fixed Sept. 15 as the date for the examination of applicants for the postmaster ship at Canon City, Colo. The incumbent's term expired July 30. The salary is $2,200 a year.

FOREIGN

A new epidemic of typhoid fever, particularly fatal, has been reported by the government. Canada, in return, has arranged to give preference to Jamaican sugar.

The German government has appealed to the German residents of Upper Silesia to keep cool and not start anything pending solution of the Upper Silesian issue by the council of the League of Nations.

In his annual report the chief medical officer to the ministry of health states that consumption in England is declining by over 20,000 cases during 1920, and that there were 10,000 fewer deaths from the disease.

Lady Bonham-Carter, daughter of former Premier Asquith, has refused an invitation to become a candidate for member of Parliament for Westminster, to succeed the late William Ashmead Bartlett Burdett-Coutts.

Forty-five seamen are believed to have been drowned following the wreck of the freight steamer Rhosau Maru, which was disabled by a typhoon and battered to pieces on the rocks off the Loochoo Islands. Only one of the ship's personnel is known to have survived.

The Trading Company, capitalized at 10,000,000 yen (normally about $5,000,000), and one of the largest firms in Japan, has announced that it is closing its doors at the end of the month. It has liabilities amounting to over 100,000,000 yen ($50,000,000 normally).

Robert Stolz, a Vienna composer, has broken the world's record for the income received from a single piece of dance music, according to the Neue Berliner. His "Salome Foxrot" has netted him 32,000,000 kronen in royalties. To figure out the worth of the foxrot millionaire in real money: an Austrian krona is worth about one-tenth of a cent.

Meatless days, bread and macaroni restrictions and sugar embargoes, which have been in force since the beginning of the war, have finally been abolished in Rome. Food cards are no longer needed to procure the bare necessities of life and gradually such luxuries as pastry, cakes, ice cream and other delicacies are being sold in their former quality and amount.

Frontier restrictions were carried to an extreme when they prevented an Austrian fire brigade from crossing the Italian border to fight a blaze. Some buildings on the Italian side of the Brenner Pass railway station caught fire and the Austrian town's firemen turned out. Italian gendarmes demanded their visas, and having none they were forced to watch the warehouses burn.

GENERAL

Charges that Mrs. Winifred Bagley, a nurse, was killed by electricity during an X-ray demonstration at the Pageant of Progress at Chicago, were made by a detective agency which investigated the case.

A mob of 1,500 or 2,000 armed men captured Jerome Whitfield, negro, near Kingston, N. C., charged with attacking a white woman of Jones county, and after hanging him to a tree by the roadside riddled his body with bullets.

Bootleggers are blamed for a bomb explosion that wrecked the residence of Ashbel W. Smith, state's attorney for Lake county, at Waukegan, Ill. Smith has been exceptionally active in prosecuting violators of the prohibition laws.

Information which the police believe will clear up seventeen gang murders which have occurred in New York, Detroit and Avon-by-the-Sea, N. J., was given to New York detectives by Bartolomeo Fontano, Italian barber. Terrified by secret threats of "being baked in an oven," Fontano gave himself up to the police and was charged with homicide. Six other men were arrested on Fontano's information.

Clarence M. Williams of Madison, a student, and Miss Minnie Bolles of Baraboo, Wis., were drowned when a steel rowboat capsized in Devils Lake, at Madison, Wis.

Workmen of the Keene-Strunk Coal Company at Helenwood, Scott county, Tenn., have found buried in the earth and petrified a giant six feet four inches tall. The fingers are perfect, with long, tapering falis. The hand is folded across the breast. On either side of its head are two horns each about four inches in length. Its weight is about 450 pounds.

Wasps on business here may be pests, but two women here owe their lives to wasp stings. Mrs. J. K. Mitchell, who lives near Hickman, Ky., was awakened by the stings, discovered her home was on fire and about to collapse upon her and adopted daughter. Mrs. Mitchell rushed to the girl's room, aroused her and assisted her to safety in the yard just as the house fell in. The wasps had built their nests in the attic of the house and the heat and smoke drove them out. One sting on Mrs. Mitchell's neck is the only sign visible of the attack.

Posing as revenue agents in search of liquor, three armed men ordered Donato Dentice, restaurant keeper at New York, to open a small safe and then fled with $4,000 worth of diamonds and other jewelry and $100 in cash.

Two men were killed instantly and fourteen injured, three probably fatally, at Knoxville, Tenn., when a motor truck in which they were riding overturned and plunged down a forty-foot embankment. One of the dead was identified at Chattanooga, a young farmer.

LATEST MARKET QUOTATIONS

Furnished by
U. S. BUREAU OF MARKETS
Washington, D. C.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

Fruits and Vegetables.

With limited demand and moderately increasing supplies the recent advances in potatoes held steady in most cities, but prices show some gains over last week's level. Potatoes in New York are $2.25 to $2.50 per 100 pounds sacked, and advanced 75c to $1 in other markets. Idaho potatoes were $1.25 to $1.50 in Kansas City, ranging from $1.25 to $1.50. Idaho potatoes were slightly stronger at shipping points, closing $2.25 to $2.40, and were steady in middle western markets at $2.50 to $3.

Hay.

Prices have advanced in central western markets because of light receipts and urgent demand for good hay. Poor grades neglected. Eastern and southern markets continue dull because of limited demand. Price changes are shown in the following quotations: No. 1 timothy, New York $15.00, Chicago $12.00, Cincinnati $12.50, Atlantic $7.50, Memphis $2.00, No. 2 alfalfa, Memphis $2.50, No. 1 prairie, Chicago $15.

Dairy Products.

Butter markets unsettled during the week but steadier at the close. Preliminary cold storage report shows butter holding at $22.00 per 100 pounds compared with 101,450,000 pounds a year ago and the five-year average of 55,589,000 pounds. New York 44½c, Chicago 40½c, Philadelphia 44c, Boston 44½c.

Live Stock and Meats.

Chicago live stock: Extreme fluctuations prevailed in the hog market during the past week. Supplies have been plentiful and continued heavy demand. Heavy hogs, average weight being over 250 pounds. Many were held over each market day. Cattle were generally weak at all grades. Trade was up 25c. Cows and heifers were steady to 25c higher. All feeders up 25c, and veal calves down 60c. Fat lambs 25c to 25c higher. August 12th Chicago prices: Hogs, standard weight, 100 to 125 lbs., $11; medium and good best steers $7.25 to $10; butcher cows and heifers $5.50 to $10; feeder calves $4.00 to $7.75; light calves $3.00 to $5.00; yearlings $3.25 to $5.25; fat lambs $8.00 to $10.50; feeding lambs $6.75 to $8.25; yearlings $6.25 to $8.50; fat ewes $4.25 to $5.25.

Once more the story of a new railroad line through Wyoming to the Pacific coast is revived. This time it is from Chicago, in the form of an alleged interview with officials of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, purporting to announce that the company is planning to extend its Chicago-to-Lander line west from Lander, Wyo., through Yellowstone park to the coast. This brings to mind that ever since the Yellowstone was created, half a century ago, various interests, including more than one railroad, have been attempting to obtain a foothold in it.

FREIGHT RATES TOO HIGH ON HAY

TRANSPORTATION RATES ON
HAY WILL PREVENT SHIPPING

WILL REDUCE HARVEST

DEALERS SAY "THOUSANDS OF
TONS WILL NOT BE CUT
THIS YEAR."

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

Washington.—Movement of hay from Omaha, Kansas City and other markets has been curtailed more than 50 per cent by increased freight rates, according to dealers who appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission in hearings on hay and grain freight rates. Because hay is a cheap commodity and moves longer distances than other products, the traffic has suffered more than others, witnesses said, and thousands of acres of prairie hay in the West will not be cut this year.

D. B. Tilson, traffic expert of the Kansas City hay exchange, said hay raised in the Imperial valley of California could be transported by water through the Panama canal to New York for $12.75 a ton against a freight charge by rail from Kansas City to New York amounting to $18.50.

N. C. Campbell, president of the Kansas City Hay Dealers' Association, testified that before the increase in rates last year Kansas City, said to be the largest hay market in the world, handled 40,000 cars of hay a season, much of which went to the South and Southeast, to feed stock used in producing cotton, sugar and other farm products. With the increase in rates the Kansas City market tonnage was reduced by half, he said, farmers being unable to use hay costing $30 a ton as a stock feed.

James T. Suttle of the transportation department of the Omaha exchange, told of conditions in Nebraska and surrounding states.

Quantities of hay will not be cut this year, he said, because freight rates have been so increased that the territory to which hay could be shipped at reasonable prices has been reduced and prices have fallen with the reduction of competition.

Attorneys for the carriers objected to the reading into the record of statements made by absent persons regarding the effect of freight rates, and were sustained by Commissioner Lewis.

Rate experts who will be put on the stand by the grain committee, it was indicated, will undergo lengthy cross questioning by railroad attorneys.

Rangers Kill Fence Cutter.

Silver City, N. M.—Endocia Guzman was shot and killed near Fierro, N. M. by Forest Rangers J. R. McClure and Leslie Fleming. Guzman and Gulesc Acosta were alleged to have cut a fence belonging to the government, and when the officers attempted to arrest them a gun battle followed, Guzman being killed. Acosta was arrested. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Police Discover "Drug" Route.

New York.—A drug route on which deliveries were made regularly after the fashion of milk and ice deliveries was disclosed here, when detectives arrested three men and seized a route book containing eighty-eight names from Yonkers to Lakewood, N. J. An automobile used in making deliveries and a quantity of narcotics were taken at the same time.

Officer Kills Mexican Smuggler.

El Paso, Texas.—An unidentified Mexican killed, one man wounded, two horses killed and the seizure by custom officers, headed by J. D. Reeder, of ten gallons of alcohol, fifty-six quarts and 333 pints of tequila and one gallon of a Mexican distillate, the name of which was unknown to officers, constituted the result of a pitched battle between Mr. Reeder's force of nine men and a band of Mexican smugglers.

Meat Cutters Seek Arbitration.

Omaha, Neb.—An effort to negotiate with the packers an arbitration agreement to take effect Sept. 15, when the present national or Alschuler agreement expires, will be made by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America. This was decided upon here by a conference of officers and delegates of the butcher workmen's union at the conclusion of a three-day session. The agreement was drafted it was not made public.

Americans Whip Spaniards.

Spain.—Sailors belonging to the crew of the American steamer Pocahontas handed out chastisement to a number of Spanish sailors in a free-for-all fight, which resulted from the Spaniards insulting the Americans by crying "Down with America." The Americans immediately tackled the Spaniards and forced them to draw their insult and then the American flag. Several of the Spaniards were so badly pummeled that they had to be taken to a hospital.

Little Matter of Tactics No Problem at All in the Mind of That Sergeant.

The squad was working out some tactical problems in the field. The scene was laid at Quantico on a particularly hot July afternoon.

Lieutenant (to sergeant)—It is presumed the enemy is advancing in the general direction of that hill. It is also presumed that your machine gun squad has been detailed to delay the enemy's advance as much as possible. Proceed to take the necessary action. Sergeant (wiping his brow)—It is presumed that we have advanced to the sheltered side of that hill; got our machine gun into action; wiped out the enemy and returned to our original position. Will that be all for this afternoon, sir?—The Leatherneck.

Not Acquainted With Shylock.

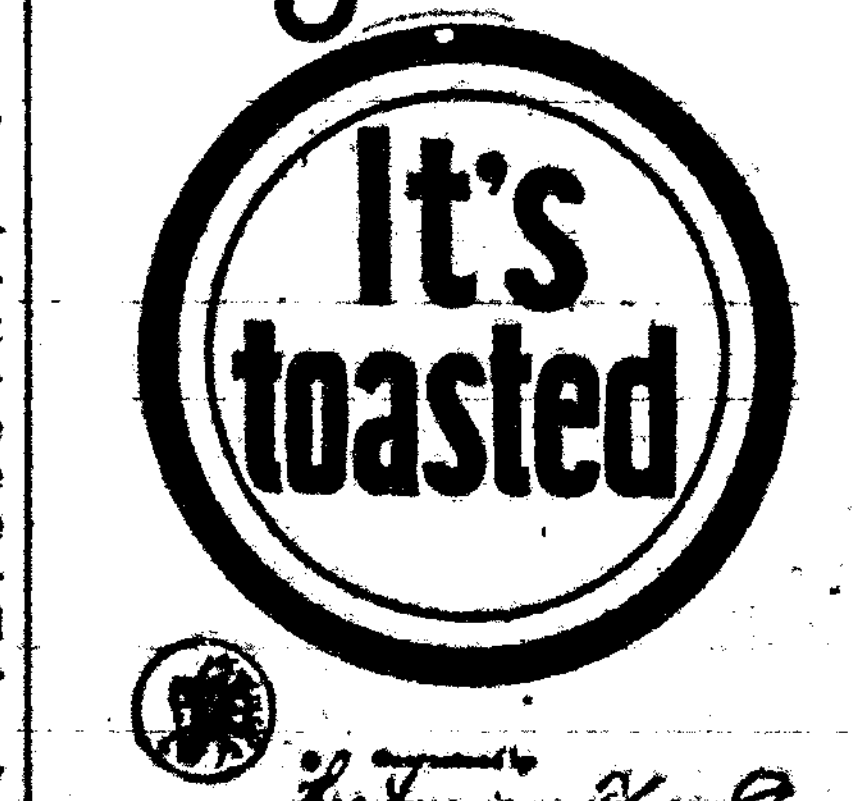

It was a debt case and attorney for the defendant made an impassioned plea for his client.

"Like Shylock of the Merchant of Venice," this gasping creditor demands his pound of flesh," he shouted. Attorney for the plaintiff rose at once.

"Who was this merchant of Ennis?" he demanded. "A little Ennis county merchant should not be regarded as an authority in deciding a lawsuit." "Case dismissed," gasped Judge Barnett.—Texas Newspaper Clipping.

Both Must Be Paid

It is just as essential to the public that we pay fair wages for the use of the dollars invested in our property, as it is to pay fair wages to our employees.

We cannot get the new money we need each year from investors to make improvements and extensions if we do not pay all expenses and earn a fair return.

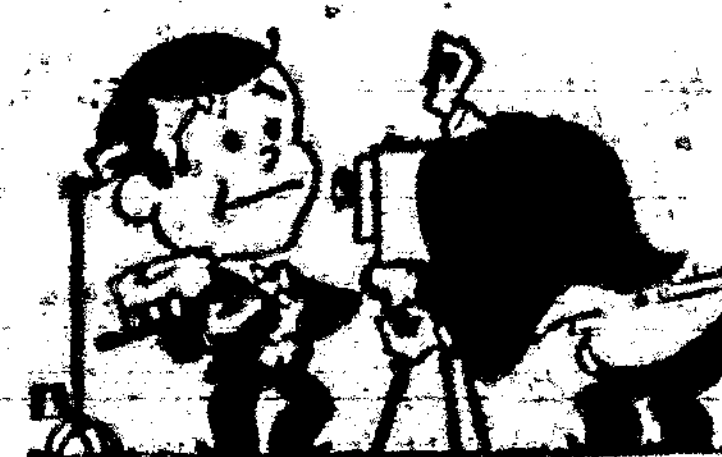

In order to extend and develop our system to meet the demands of the public for service, this company must obtain millions of dollars from investors each year.

It is to the public's interest, as well as to the interest of the employee and the investor, that the telephone company be prosperous.
