STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FORMED AT STATE CONFERENCE LAST WEEK

Secretaries of Chambers of Commerce in New Mexico Chose First Annual Meeting; Many Plans for Betterment of Civic and State Work Adopted.

Albuquerque, N. M., April 30.—Col. George E. Breece, president of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, was chosen to head the New Mexico state Chamber of Commerce organized yesterday at the conference of secretaries of representative chambers throughout the state. T. S. Shilling, of Gallup; F. O. Tracy, of Carlsbad, and W. B. Holt, of Lordsburg, were chosen vice presidents. H. B. Watkins, secretary of the Albuquerque chamber, will occupy that position in the state organization. L. S. Wilson, of Raton, was named treasurer.

"I believe that the organization of a state chamber on a broad line can be accomplished in this state," Colonel Breece declared in his acceptance of the presidency of the organization. "What we need in New Mexico is co-operation and a state chamber will prove a most useful organ toward reaching that goal. I believe that when the plan is put before the business men of the state it will meet with their instant approval."

Colonel Breece concluded by pledging the organization his time and took out the first sustaining membership, pledging $500 a year toward maintenance of the chamber.

Conference Closed Friday.
The first conference of chamber of commerce secretaries to be held in New Mexico was called Friday by local secretary H. B. Watkins. Representatives from eighteen cities attended the conference which, aside from completing the organization as the state chamber, adopted many plans of co-operation for the benefit of their respective cities and those of the entire state. An instructive discussion of technical problems confronting the chamber secretaries was also held.

Facility Plans Adopted.
Plans for general and co-operative publicity were adopted and the strengthening of the road bureau of each city, accomplished. Through understanding reached at the conference, the condition of all roads in the state will be known in each city promptly upon any change. In conjunction with this service of co-operation, many schemes were worked out for the general increase of service to be given to the tourist from the moment his automobile crosses the state line into New Mexico.

Secretaries Association Formed.
Feeling that the interchange of ideas on commerce questions as they confront the secretary will be productive of great benefit to the secretaries in their meeting their many difficulties, a temporary organization of secretaries was formed, headed by Burton Bunch, of Silver City, who was chairman of the conference here.

The organization will be perfected this fall at the first general meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce, which will probably be held at Santa Fe on September 6, during the Santa Fe Fiesta.

Park to Park Highway.
Arrangements will be made by the chambers of commerce of the cities in New Mexico to send a representative to the meeting of the Park to Park association at Salt Lake city June 16, endeavor to have the routing of the Park to Park highway so that its course through New Mexico may extend from Gallup, via Albuquerque to Santa Fe and Taos into the San Luis valley of Colorado.

This route will afford the tourist an opportunity to visit the great historical monuments, pueblos and prehistoric ruins on the way across the state and the great fifty-mile square area of which Santa Fe is the center and which offers not only some of the most picturesque scenery in the world, but contains the spots of the greatest and most ancient historical interest in connection with the colonization of the United States.

SCHOOL NOTES (By Supt. E. E. Cole.)

Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, President of the Normal University at East Las Vegas, will preach at the Methodist Church in Carrizozo next Sunday evening, at eight o'clock. Dr. Roberts is well known in Carrizozo as a fine school man and a good preacher, and will have a crowded house on the evening of May 8.

Baccalaureate Sermon.—The first event of commencement week will be the Baccalaureate sermon, which will be preached by Rev. C. C. Higbee, of the Methodist Church. The services will be in the Methodist Church at 8 o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to be present.

Class Play.—The seniors of the Carrizozo High School will give the class play of the year at the Crystal Theatre, Monday and Tuesday nights, May 16 and 17. "Mr. Bob" is the name of the play. It is a very fine and popular class play, ingeniously constructed and full of comic situations. "Mr. Bob" is a nickname for Marjorie, a college chum, who visits Katherine, Katherine's cousin, Philip, expects a man and calls Mr. Brown "Mr. Bob." Marjorie supposes Mr. Brown to be Philip and general confusion of identities results. This is cleverly sustained throughout the play.

"MR. BOB"
(A Comedy in Two Acts.)
Philip Royson, Charles Scott, Robert Brown, clerk of Benson and Benson, Will Johnson, Jenkins, Miss Rebecca's butler, Rebecca Luke, a Maiden Lady, Lillian Merchant, Katherine Rogers, her niece, Lauren Wilson, Maxton Bryant, Katherine's friend, Eva Wack, Patty, Rebecca's maid, Elton Herron, Guests, Lois Jones and Claire Adams. Save May 16 and 17 for this event. The price per ticket will be only 25 cents. That is reasonable enough. Anyone can come on this price. We would rather have two full houses at 25 cents than only one house at 50 cents. We want everybody in town to hear this play. Every seat in the house will be a reserved seat without extra charge. Buy your ticket early and get a good one. Tickets will be on sale at Rolland's drug store, Monday noon, May 9.

Commencement Exercises.—The regular commencement exercises will be on Wednesday night, May 18. Instead of 19, as has already been announced. This is necessary in order to be sure of President Hill, of the State University of New Mexico, delivering the commencement address.

The Camp Fire girls had a candy sale at the High School building last Monday and cleared $4.60.

The Camp Fire girls had their last ceremonial of the school year with their guardians, the Misses Herron and Fordon, on Thursday afternoon, at the "Wigwam."

The "Art Exhibit" of the schools will be held on Thursday, May 19, the day after commencement, at the various rooms in the school buildings. This will show the work of the year—drawings, color work of all kinds, basket making, weaving, clay modeling, sewing by the Domestic Science department and wood work by the Manual training department. This day was selected at a late date because President Hill of the State University will visit the schools on May 19, after giving the commencement address on the night before.

MRS. FALL WILL REPRESENT WOMEN OF NEW MEXICO

Santa Fe, N. M., April 28.—Mrs. A. B. Fall, wife of the secretary of the interior, represents New Mexico at the national conference of the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers associations which opened yesterday at Washington, D. C.

GOVERNORS WILL PRESS GRANT OF LANDS TO STATES

Santa Fe, N. M., April 28.—Edward E. Young, secretary of the League of Public Land States, returned from Cheyenne, Wyo., Wednesday evening where he went for a conference with Governor Robert D. Carey, who has been president of the league since Governor Larrasolo resigned last year.

This conference no doubt marks the real beginning of a persistent campaign for the session of the remaining government lands to the states that will not end until that object is accomplished.

At this conference of the president and secretary of the league the following preliminary plans were agreed to:

That a convention of the governors of the eleven wholly arid states, be called to meet at Salt Lake City, Utah, some time during the first half of June. The exact date will be fixed and the call issued in the near future.

At this conference the governors will be prepared to speak to subjects or read papers on subjects, assigned to them by President Robert D. Carey, of the League of Public Land States. It is probable that among the topics to be so treated will be the discriminating long and short railroad haul which is hindering the development of the west and the Rocky Mountain states; the cession of all public lands, to the public lands states, without mineral or other reservations; advocating the appointment of a congressional investigating committee to ascertain the present annual cost of administering the public domain and to learn the exact deficit of such administered year; the appointment of a congressional committee from both branches of congress to visit the west and personally inspect the public lands which the western states are asking the government to cede to the states.

It is also expected that permanent headquarters of the League of Public Land States will be voted on and will be established either in Utah or New Mexico. Gov. Carey, of Wyoming, as the new president of the League, agreed to attempt to raise some money for the League's needs in Wyoming, Montana, Colorado and Arizona, and asked Secretary Young to raise New Mexico's quota of funds for the same purpose.

President Carey, of the League, is a big western, patriotic, American, who has a broad grasp of the needs of the west and the country, said he: "If our League can show the west that its interests are common and identical throughout, we will be able to form a close and efficient working organization. If we live to be old men and succeed in having the public lands ceded to the states, we can truthfully express the sentiment uttered by R. R. Livingston when together with James Monroe, they succeeded in completing the treaty which resulted in the Louisiana Purchase: "We have lived long," said he, "but this is the noblest work of our lives."

There are about two hundred and twenty millions acres of unreserved, unappropriated public lands in the west withheld from the states by the federal government, and which cannot be taxed for the benefit of the states. At the average price of $10 per acre the value of these lands would amount to more than $2,200,000,000.

If this vast property should come into the possession of the states it would tend to the reduction of taxes, all the way from the village up to the state taxation. There were no public lands in the original thirteen states. If the west is to be "free, equal and independent," it must also own the full acreage within its state lines.

WOMAN APPOINTED MAJOR IN N. MEX. NATIONAL GUARDS

Santa Fe, N. M., April 28.—New Mexico now has her first woman national guard officer and probably the only one in the country. Mrs. James Baca, wife of former adjutant general and stenographer in the office, was today commissioned by Adjutant General Brown as his assistant, with the rank of major in the New Mexico national guard. She is entitled to wear the uniform and to receive the military salute. Her appointment was explained as due to her unusual detailed knowledge of military affairs.

LEAVES FOR ENGLAND TO CLAIM ESTATE

(Albuquerque Journal)
H. Culley, formerly of this city and more recently of California, has gone to Northumberland, England, where he will take possession of the ancestral Culley estate, known as Coupland Castle. Mr. Culley served in the Red Cross as a representative in the field during the war, and was stationed on the Mexican border. He was intense in patriotic work and was first chairman of the San Miguel Red Cross. His son, Matthew Culley, left here in the first draft service and is in the Albuquerque forest service.

The fortunate Mr. Culley, is the father-in-law of our former Miss Ida Grumbles of Carrizozo and her many friends will congratulate Mrs. Culley on the good fortune of the family.

MRS. SECREST ENTERTAINS

On the afternoon of April 29, Mrs. James Secrest entertained at her home in Ancho, in honor of her guest, Mrs. K. W. Treat of Pueblo, Colorado. The Secrest home was handsomely decorated, the color scheme being orange and white. The afternoon was spent in fancy needle work and as a diversion, the guests engaged in what was called an "Automobile Contest." This feature of the entertainment was of a geographical nature, each contestant offering a description of a certain portion of the country which corresponded to the name of a certain automobile. The prize was captured by Mrs. Thos. Straley, the honor guest prize being awarded to Mrs. Treat.

After the contest, a salad course with hot chocolate was served. Those present on this pleasant occasion were: Mesdames K. W. Treat, Pueblo, Colorado; E. C. Corn, O. L. Blanchard, Edward Corn, Carrizozo; Max Smith, H. M. Belknap, James Pennington, James Cooper, F. L. Dunn, Beulah Wilson, Thomas Straley Sr., Thomas Straley Jr., and the Misses Sadie and Myrtle Straley, Ancho.

FUNERAL OF S. P. COLLIER

The remains of Stephen P. Collier were interred in the White Oaks cemetery last Friday morning with the Rev. C. C. Higbee of the Carrizozo Methodist Church conducting the services. Deceased was born at Sedalia, Mo., July 24, 1858. He came to New Mexico in 1880, locating first at Las Vegas, afterwards coming to White Oaks where he lived until the day of his death.

He leaves 5 children, 3 daughters and 2 sons. Mesdames Cleghorn and Gallacher of White Oaks and Mrs. T. L. Haisley of Oklahoma City; Messrs. Clyde Collier of Oklahoma City and J. B. Collier of Arizona, and 2 brothers, E. T. Collier of Carrizozo and Gus Collier, who is now in South America. Having been a resident of this locality for so many years, the deceased had many warm friends who extended their sympathy to the surviving relatives.

Oscuro Items

Last Saturday evening, the Woman's Club of Oscuro entertained at the school house in honor of the husbands of Club members and said husbands' friends, Miss Layer, one of the Carrizozo school teachers gave an interesting address on "China" and as she was at one time a missionary to that country, her talk was much appreciated. Next came a piano duet by Mesdames Prude and Burns which was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Wood. The next number on the program was a "Playette" by the school children, entitled, "The Sniggles Family," after which refreshments were served. 45 people were present.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Raffety left last Thursday for California to spend several months at principal places along the coast.

Mrs. H. P. Edwards of El Paso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thornton, has been visiting the home folks here. She was accompanied by the new baby, who was the center of attraction at the Thornton home.

AN UNDERTONE OF OPTIMISM IN ELEVENTH RESERVE DISTRICT IS SHOWN IN DALLAS BANK REPORT

Financial Situation is Fraught with Uncertainties, But a Hopeful View is Taken of the Future; Markets are Working Themselves into a More Favorable Position.

Dallas, Texas, May 1.—Conspicuous among the favorable features in the business situation in the Eleventh district during March, outlined in the monthly review issued April 15 by the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas, is increased sales by department stores of approximately twenty-five per cent, galas in some of the more important wholesale lines, as compared with February, a slight increase in bank clearances and building permits, and an increase in the sale of commodities, principally wool, are indicated by the summary. Other conditions shown to be prevalent follow:

While the improvement is not as rapid and great as might be desired, and the financial situation especially, is fraught with uncertainty, there is an undertone of optimism which, in view of March developments, seems justified. Markets for the principal commodities produced in the district continue irregular although they are working themselves into a more favorable position.

New Mexico to Practice Forestry.

Albuquerque, N. M., April 30.—Among the progressive acts passed by the last legislature, is the law providing for the practice of forestry on the state timberland. It provides for the retention of these lands in state ownership and for the cutting of the timber in such a manner that the lands will be permanently productive.

The importance of this legislation is apparent from the fact that the state owns several hundred thousand acres of timberland which should permanently remain in timber in order to regulate the flow of the streams used for irrigation and in order to aid in keeping New Mexico a lumber-producing state.

It has been rightly said that without her forests, New Mexico would have serious floods which would wash away much of her agricultural land; would certainly lack a fuel supply, and in fact, become a veritable desert. Forests are, therefore, especially important to the prosperity of the southwest and it is much to the credit of the legislature that it was far-sighted enough to make certain of the preservation of the state-owned forests.

According to District Forester Pooler of the U. S. Forest Service, the practice of forestry by the state made possible by the passage of this law, should ultimately be extended to include all the timber lands in the state which are not capable of being cultivated. "In our open yellow pine lands which comprise the large bulk of the timber lands in the state, timber can be raised while the lands are grazed if the grazing is properly regulated," said Mr. Pooler. "If the lands are to be used to their full extent they should raise both timber and grass and I hope that, in the not very distant future, conservative cutting will be done on most of the lands in the state. Of course, the U. S. Forest Service has practiced forestry on its lands within the state for the past fifteen years and will continue to do so. For this reason there will always be some timber available in the state but it is of importance both to the state and to the nation as a whole that the remainder of the true forests should be kept producing timber. Besides, forests are so important in regulating the flow of surface and underground waters that their wholesale devastation would certainly cause millions of dollars of damage, especially in the Rio Grande and Pecos Valleys."

W. K. MOORE DIES

Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, W. K. Moore, contracting painter, died at his home in the west portion of the city after an illness of short duration. The funeral services were held this morning at the Methodist Church, Rev. C. C. Higbee conducting the same. He leaves a wife, who is a daughter of ex-county commissioner, Robert Taylor. The family have the sympathy of the community.

RETAIL PRICES SEEM TO BE THE STICKING POINT IN THE NATION'S READJUSTMENT PROCESS, IS THE CLAIM

Complete Business Recovery has been Slower than Predicted, the Federal Reserve Board Says, but April has Given Evidence of an Improved Feeling Developing.

Washington, May 1.—Retail prices appear to be the "sticking point" in the country's readjustment process, the Federal Reserve board said tonight in its April review. Other factors regarding readjustment were said to be high transportation charges, wages and coal and steel prices.

Increasing appreciation of the nature of the readjustment process in business circles and the community, however, the board said in forcing attention to the factors delaying business recovery, and is promoting discussion with a view to removing obstacles.

Complete Business Recovery, the Board Continued, has been Slower than was Predicted, Nevertheless, it Added, April has Given Evidence of an Improved Feeling Developing.

While there is still some uncertainty as to when an end of the readjustment period may be expected and the business and industry in some sections are still beset with difficulties, some factors of uncertainty are either being eliminated or are diminishing.

The fall in wholesale prices, which has been continuous, it declared, appears to be in a process of arrest, having shown a greater degree of stability during April.

Extreme unevenness in price reductions, however, the board said, is one feature in the industrial situation. While in many important lines of the wholesale trade pre-war prices exist, in other lines commodities are being sold at twice or even more than twice the 1913 value. The same unevenness exists, the board explained, between raw materials and the finished products.

Raw cotton, the board declared, is lower than the 1913 level, and wool is about a third higher, but cotton prices are at least 20 per cent higher than in 1913 and woolen clothes are approximately twice as high.

In the hide and leather industry the discrepancy is greater, the board asserted, the price of skins being one-third under pre-war levels, while the price of shoes is twice as high as in 1913.

While labor has been participating in the re-adjustment process, the board continued, the participation has been uneven.

The agricultural situation was characterized as generally favorable, although the fruit-growing sections suffered from the cold wave.

Little demand for coal is reported, the board said, but petroleum production has gained. A continued increase in the manufacturing industry of the alkali mills was reported.

BILL TO PUT U. S. ON BUDGET BASIS PASSED BY SENATE

Washington, April 27.—The first step toward the accomplishment of the administration's plan to put the government on a budget basis was taken by the senate today in passing the McCormick budget bill creating a bureau of the budget under the treasury department.

This bureau under the provisions of the bill would prepare and consolidate the fiscal estimates of the various government departments; and submit them to congress in one general appropriation bill, instead of several as at present.

The bill was passed without a roll call. It now goes to the house, where a measure having a similar purpose has been introduced by Representative Good of Iowa, chairman of the appropriation committee. Early adoption of one or the other is expected.

The McCormick bill provides for the appointment of a director of the budget by the president with a salary of $10,000 a year and an assistant director at $2,000. It also abolishes the offices of the controller-in-chief and controller of the United States.

In its essential features the bill is the same as that in the last congress, but the provisions which have been removed have been principally with the proposed method for removing the controller.

As the bill stands the controller can only be removed by a joint resolution of congress, which the president must approve. Formerly all that was necessary was a concurrent resolution of congress leaving the executive no authority in the matter.

"WILL STOP HIM!"

Synopsis.—Disappointed because of the seemingly barren outlook of his position as a school teacher in a Canadian town, John Harris determines to leave it, take up land in Manitoba and become a "homesteader." Mary, the girl whom he loves, declares she will accompany him. They are married and set out for the unknown country. They select a homestead, build a home and begin their life work of making the prairie fertile farm land. Returning from selling his first crop, Harris finds his wife despondent almost to insanity from loneliness and without the immediate expectation of becoming a mother. A son is born to them, to whom they give the name of Allan. The story now jumps forward twenty-five years. Harris is prosperous and all for getting rich. Mary is toil-worn and saddened over the change in her husband. Allan works with his father. Beulah, the pretty daughter, is rebellious at the shut-in farm life. Jim Travers is an unscrupulous hired man. And he is secretly in love with Beulah. Harris and his son clash with Jim and the latter. Beulah quarrels with her father and prepares to leave home secretly.

"Mother, this is too much!" the girl exclaimed.

Her mother started and looked up. "You're leaving us, Beulah?" she asked. There was no reproach in her voice, nor even surprise, but a kind of quiet sorrow. "I couldn't let the poor brutes suffer," she explained.

"Yes, I'm leaving," said Beulah. "I can't stand it any longer."

The mother sighed. "I've seen it coming for some time," she said, at length. "I suppose it can't be helped."

"You're so passive," returned the girl, with a touch of impatience. "You make no want to fight. Of course it can be helped, but it can't be helped by always giving in."

"Your father has met one of his own motto at last," said the mother, and the girl fancied she detected a note of pride, but whether of father, or daughter, or both, she could only guess. "Well, it's all very sad. Your father is a good man, Beulah. . . . I should send you back to your bed, but somehow I can't. I—I don't blame you, Beulah."

upstairs John Harris was awakened by the whine of the cream separator. A quiet smile stole across his strong, still handsome face. "Beulah has decided to be sensible," he whispered to himself.

In the morning the Harris household was as quiet as usual. The farmer and his son gave their attention to the horses while Mary prepared breakfast, and it was not until they were seated at the table that Harris noticed his daughter's absence.

"Where's Beulah?" he demanded.

"I don't know," his wife replied.

"Ain't she up yet?"

"I don't know."

Harris rose from the table and went upstairs. He entered his daughter's room without knocking. The bed had not been slept in, and a strange apprehension suddenly tightened about his chest. He returned quickly to the kitchen.

"Mary, I want to know where Beulah is."

"I can't tell you where she is, John. She left here last night."

"Left here? Do you mean that she has run away?"

"Not just that, perhaps, but she has gone, and I'm not looking for her back for a while." The mother's voice was dry, and she talked in the restraint of subdued emotion.

"And you know she was going?"

"I know before she left. I didn't."

"No. You didn't think it was worth mentioning to me. Just a matter we could talk about any time. I suppose you thought I wouldn't care."

"Well, you didn't seem to care very much, John. You gave your orders and went to bed. Beulah could obey or get out. You might have known she had enough of your own spirit to soon settle that question. She settled it just as you would have settled it if you had been in her place."

"Oh, of course, I'm to blame for the whole thing," said Harris, and his throat was thick as he spoke. His daughter was very dear to him, and that she would leave home had never entered his head. Why should she? Wasn't he a good father? Didn't he give her a good home, with plenty to eat and wear, and a little money to spend from time to time, and no questions asked? What more could a man do than that? Already his heart was crying out for his daughter—the cry of broken strings which never know their strength until they break. And, lost gentleness should be mistaken for weakness, he clothed his real feelings in sharp words to his wife.

"Of course, you must take her part. I suppose you advised her to go. It was an awful thing for me to tell her she must do her work, but a small thing for her to run away. Well, I hope she likes it. If she thinks I'm going to hitch up a buggy and go chasing around the neighborhood, begging her to come back, she's mistaken. She's gone of her own free will, and she can come back of the same, or not at all."

"I wouldn't look for her back too soon," remarked Allan, "Looks to me as though this thing had been figured out ahead. Jim went yesterday morning; Beulah goes last night. Just a chance if they ain't married by this time."

"So that's it, is it?" exclaimed Harris, jumping up from his untouched breakfast. There was a fierce light in his eye and a determination in his face that boded ill to any who opposed him. He seized his wife roughly by the shoulder. "And you were a party to this, were you? You wouldn't even stop at that? Well, I'll stop it. I'll stop him, if I do it with a bullet. I'll show him whether any hired man—any hired man—can take a matter of his own family."

His wife had risen, and was clinging to his wrist, half for protection, half in supplication. "Now, John, please, don't be rash. You don't know that Beulah's gone with Jim, and you haven't a word of proof of it."

"Proof! What more proof do I want? When did ever Beulah carry on like this before? Didn't she always do as she was told? And haven't they been thick as molasses this while back? Wasn't it ever waiting time with her that Jim got fired, and not a word of admission of the real facts from him? What more do you want than that? You thought I wouldn't be interested in that, either."

"I didn't know it," she protested.

"And I don't believe it. I don't believe either Beulah or Jim had any such thought in their head. But even if they did, Jim Travers is as decent a young man as there is in Plainville district, and you've nothing to be ashamed of except your own temper, that drove them away in the way they went."

"I won't listen to that kind of talk from you any longer," said Harris sternly. "I'll chase the young rascal to earth, if it takes all summer. And unless you can clear yourself of being mixed up in this—well, there'll be something to settle on that score, too. Hitch up the drivers, Allan, and be quick about it."

"You're not going to leave your plowing, are you?" asked his wife. The words sprang to her lips without any misgiving. It was such an unusual thing for her husband, on any account, to leave the farm work unfinished. The practice on the Harris homestead was work first, all other considerations second.

"That's enough of your sarcasm," he snapped. "I would think when our name is threatened with a disgrace like this you would be as anxious to defend it as I am. How is it you go back on me in a moment like this? You're not the woman you once were, Mary."

"And you're not the man you once were, John," she answered. "Oh, can't you see that we're just reaping what we have sown—the crop we've been raising through all these years? Beulah's very life has been crying out for action, for scope, for room, for something that would give her a reason for existence, that would put a purpose into her life, and we've not tried to answer that cry. I blame myself as much as you, John, perhaps more, because I should have seen the danger signals long ago. But I was so busy, I didn't think. That's the trouble, John, we've been so busy, both of us, we haven't taken time to keep up with her. We've gathered some property together, and our acres have grown in proportion, but that which was more to us than all the property in the world we have lost—because we valued it less. The tears were slowly coursing down her cheeks, and her thin, work-worn arms were stealing about his neck. "Don't think, dear," she whispered, "that I'm indifferent, or that this hurts me less than you, or that I would shield myself from one iota of my just blame, but let us face the fact that it has been our mistake rather than Beulah's."

He removed her arms, not ungraciously. "I never thought it would come to this," he said. "I thought I humored her every way I could. As for our hard work—well, work makes money, and I noticed Beulah could spend her share."

"You don't understand, John. It wasn't the work. It was the making a god of work, and giving it so much of our lives that there was none left for her. That's why she looked somewhere else—if she has looked somewhere else."

"Allan works as hard and harder than ever Beulah did, and Allan doesn't feel that way about it."

"That's true," she admitted, "but Allan's ambition is work. He works and is satisfied, but Beulah thinks, and is not satisfied. It's the difference in their nature, and we didn't take it into consideration." In every phrase she tried to link his blame with hers, that the burden might unto instead of separate them.

"If she'd thought a little more before this mad prank it would have been better for everybody," he said. "Well, she'll have plenty of time to think yet." He stepped to the kitchen door, and from the nail above took down the repeating rifle.

"You're not going to take that!" she cried. "Don't take that, John. It can't possibly do any good, and it may do a lot of harm."

"I won't do anything foolish," he answered, "but I'll take it along, just the same."

Allan, with the drivers harnessed to the top buggy, was now at the door. Without saying good-by to his wife Harris joined him, and the two set off on their search. Almost at the gate they met George Grant, who had come over to haul water for another day's plowing. He stopped in some surprise at the turnout.

"I guess we won't be plowing today," said Harris. He hesitated before George's questioning look, and a certain sense of family shame came upon him. But it was evident that he could hardly search for Beulah without mentioning her departure, and he might as well make a clean breast of the affair.

ROOT AND SALAD CROPS IN FAVOR

Can Be Cultivated With Hand Tools and Take Up Comparatively Small Space.

FRESH THINGS ALL SUMMER

Specialists Suggest That Plantings Be Made a Week or So Apart to Obtain Succession of Various Kinds of Vegetables.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Where garden space is limited plant root and salad crops. No garden, large or small, is complete without them, but they are particularly adapted to small back-yard gardens. Among the root crops are radishes, beets, carrots, parsnips, salsify or vegetable oyster, and turnips. Salad crops include lettuce, common or wild cress, dandelion, Cos lettuce or romaine, Chinese cabbage, and others. They require little space, because they can be planted in rows from 10 to 18 inches apart, and cultivated with hand tools. Many gardeners make only one planting of these crops, but the garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture suggest that several plantings of them be made a week or so apart, in order to have a succession of those vegetables.

Radishes are one of the first and best vegetables that come from the garden in spring. They should be planted as early as possible, whether for market or home use. For the home supply small amounts should be planted, and at least two or three plantings made with varieties that mature at different times.

Food Value of Beets.

Beets are one of the most important crops for the home garden. Seed can be planted just as soon as the soil is in condition to work. When the plants crowd one another in the row, thin them out when they are young, and cook them as greens. Later, when they are about an inch in diameter, both leaf stems and young beets can be cooked together. When the beets are larger the leaf stems become tough and woody. As a rule two plantings should be made, one extremely early and another in about four weeks.

Salad Plants Can Often Be Grown in a Small Space Where Some Other Crop Has Been Gathered.

Carrots should be planted just a little later than beets, and as soon as the plants are up they should be thinned. A second thinning will leave the plants one and one-half to two inches apart in the row and give a supply of small carrots, known as baby carrots, for use on the table. The tops of the carrots cannot be used for greens.

Parsnips and salsify are more in the nature of winter crops; that is, they are grown during the summer and kept for winter use. A section of row 20 to 30 feet long generally will produce all the parsnips or salsify that the average family will want.

While it is true that too much lettuce often is planted at one time, not enough attention is given to keeping a continuous supply. Lettuce plants grown in the hotbed or cold frame, or in a box in the house, can be planted in the open ground just as soon as the danger of the last frost is past.

Fresh Things All Year.

By making a study of the different kinds of salad crops offered in seed catalogues one can easily have a continuous supply from the earliest springtime until the late autumn, and even into the winter. Water cress, for instance, is grown commercially in ponds or spring-fed streams in sections where the water naturally contains large amounts of lime. By starting water cress from seeds sown in a box in the house or by getting a bunch of cress in the market and using the stems for plants, it is easy to grow a bed of water cress without the aid of a stream or pond.

Chickory, or endive, is one of the finest of the winter salads. The roots are grown during the summer, and then dug in the fall and packed in the cellar in boxes of moist sand, the roots being placed rather close together in the box with the crowns or tops near the surface. A covering of straw is placed over the box, and the soil around the roots kept moderately watered. Fresh, young leaves will be formed beneath the straw, and as they are grown in comparative darkness, these are white, crisp and tender.

NICOTINE SULPHATE IS LESS EXPENSIVE

Dusting Found Effective in Controlling Pests.

Insects Hard to Reach With Ordinary Sprays Caught by Floating Dust Settling on Under Side of the Leaves.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

To the sorrow of some of the insect pests which feed on the under side of plant leaves and so escape the effect of poison sprays, the bureau of entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, has been conducting experiments with nicotine sulphate applied in dust form. Mixed with kaolin to give the poison bulk, 40 per cent strength nicotine sulphate did remarkable work in controlling meadow, cabbage and pea aphids, onion thrips and western cucumber beetles. All these

Hand Dust-Guns Are Effective on Small Areas.

Insect pests are hard to reach with ordinary sprays, but the floating dust settles upon the under side of the leaves as well as on the surface. The experiments show that much larger areas can be treated in less time than is required by spraying. Moreover, the equipment necessary to apply the dust is much less expensive than a spray outfit and its cost of application is less than by the older method. It weighs less than spray and is more conveniently handled. It can be mixed with arsenate of lead or sulphur for use against insects and fungous diseases.

FRUIT FOR AVERAGE FAMILY

Everbearing Strawberries Should Find Place in Every Garden Where There is Space.

Plenty of vegetables for the table should be the first consideration of every home gardener, but fruit trees and some bush fruit should be planted, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It does not take a very large space for growing enough fruit and berries of the different kinds to supply the average family.

Everbearing strawberries, which were a novelty a few years ago, are now being planted by thousands of gardeners, and they should find a place in every garden of the temperate region where space will permit. Strawberries, however, can be grown under a very wide range of climatic and soil conditions. The same is true of the blackberry and the dewberry.

Raspberries are more limited as to distribution, and will not withstand the heat of summer in the South or the extreme cold of the North. Their planting is confined almost entirely to the temperate regions, the Central and Eastern states and the Pacific Northwest. Certain varieties of the red raspberry that are practically everbearing, or that at least produce both a summer and fall crop of fruit, are now being developed. Raspberries, blackberries, and dewberries do well when planted along a fence.

SETTING OUT NUT TREES

Nut trees, such as walnut, hickory and oak, develop a deep taproot and few lateral feeding roots during their first year.

They cannot ordinarily be transplanted to the field so successfully as other trees, so that planting the nuts or acorns on the permanent site usually is considered preferable.

GROWING MUSCADINE GRAPES

Best Results Obtained by Training to Trellis, Using Three Wires Instead of Two.

The muscadine grape will produce the best results when trained to a trellis, using three wires instead of two as in training the "hunch" varieties. Posts should be at least eight to nine feet in length, and set two to three feet in the ground. The wire should be two feet apart on the posts, which should be sixteen feet apart. The vines should be set at least twenty-five feet apart in the row.

Excellent Saw Station. A ration which is excellent for sows with pigs is corn, grain and alfalfa. The hay can either be mixed in a rack or ground at a small cost and mixed with grain feed.

500 Idle Ships in James River

Problem of Disposal Probably Will Reach Congress Early in the Session.

HAVE VALUABLE MACHINERY

Marine Men Say Engines Could Be Taken Out and Installed in Other Vessels—Skeleton Crews Have Little to Do.

Norfolk, Va.—What to do with about 500 wooden and steel ships lying idle in James river is a question that will probably reach the floor of congress within a short time.

The wooden ships are mostly anchored in the vicinity of Claremont. There are as many as six moored together, side-by-side, so close that it is possible to step from the deck of one ship to another without any danger of falling overboard. Skeleton crews are employed and the only work they are required to do is to keep the decks and fixtures clean and stand watches. They are called upon sometimes to daub a little paint on the sides of the ships, but five hours out of the day they have nothing to do but play checkers, cards or indulge in any other pastime they see fit.

There is valuable machinery in the ships that marine men say could be taken out and put to use in other vessels. Most of the ships are equipped with the best of engines, and the government, it is claimed, could realize considerable money out of their sale. Shipbuilders say the engines could be installed in barges that could be used to transport freight between Baltimore and Philadelphia and Norfolk via the inland waterway, or in freight carriers operating between New York, Providence, Boston and Norfolk.

Constructive Plan Offered.

One shipbuilder makes this suggestion:

"Strip the machinery from the wooden ships, then organize a corporation, or several corporations to build steel hulls or barges on a comparatively inexpensive plan and install the engines in them. These barges would be invaluable for coast-wise trade or even for trade with Cuba and could be operated at a cost much less than the present steamships.

"Of course it will take money to put such a plan in operation, but it does not require a large financial outlay. The steel hulls can be built in any one of a half dozen shipyards on Hampton Roads and with the prospective reduction in the cost of labor and the decrease in the cost of material, competition would be keen for the building of these craft."

There is little chance of any of the wooden ships ever being of any material service again, because only a few of them would be worth the expense of repairing of sea trade. A good many of the ships are already beginning to show decay and it would not be surprising if several of them were abandoned altogether within a year or so. It is the opinion of marine men that when the government begins to discard the wooden ships completely they will be blown up with dynamite, as if they were a menace to navigation.

The people of Claremont are divided on the benefit the town has derived by the location of the fleet near that town. The anchorage occupied by the ships is referred to as the "boneyard."

"Many go in but none come out" is the way Robert Minter, a veteran river man who has resided near Claremont since a few days after the Civil war, refers to the "boneyard."

Last Days of the Monitor.

Minter's opinion is shared by others, because all the old inhabitants of Claremont, City Point and other James river landings remember the fate of seven monitors that the government decided to discard 25 years ago. Among these monitors were the Catskill, Mahopac, Ajax and Cacoonica. In their day they were looked upon with the same respect as the present day dreadnaught. They were the backbone of the American navy.

There came a day, however, when the government found it a burden to keep these ships in active service, so they were sent up to the James river. For seven years they lay at anchor off City Point. Then they were sent further up the James river to a point about five miles below Richmond. There they almost rotted to pieces, and when they began to leak the government ordered them to Norfolk to be thrown on the junk pile.

The newest place for "laying up" idle ships is the York river. This his-

Fake Fire Alarm Brought 44,000-Word Sentence

For turning in a false fire alarm, a fourteen-year old boy of Houston, Tex., was sentenced, in juvenile court to write 1,000 times before April 21 the following:

"I realize that it is against the law to turn in a false alarm and understand why. It costs the city a large sum every time fire engines respond to a call. Moreover, every time there is danger that some one may be hurt."

His accomplice got a similar task. Each must write 44,000 words as his punishment.

Justice Swift in New Jersey

Trials of Bandits and Major Criminals Rushed on the Day of Arrest.

IS FOUNDED ON GALVANISM

Wheels of Court Move Quickly—Famed Not Only for Accuracy and Relentlessness, but for Fairness and Efficiency.

Trenton, N. J.—interesting light has been thrown on the operation and speed of "of Jersey justice," as a result of recent convictions for murder and other crimes. While misdemeanors and felons have increased in New Jersey, as elsewhere in the country in the last year or so, state records show that there have been few disagreements of juries, and prison sentences have been extended to maximum limits in order to discourage violations of the law.

One feature of New Jersey law that few, if any, of the other states have, and which is said to have been a prime factor in giving the state its traditional reputation for lightninglike court procedure, is a provision that a jury in a first degree murder trial may designate life imprisonment instead of the death penalty for the convicted person. This has resulted in many quick convictions for life imprisonment where, otherwise, there might have been jury disagreements.

Quick Bandit Trials.

Cases like that of the Union county bandits, Charles and John Krebs and Martin Shannon, who were sentenced to serve from 55 to 75 years each, and who were tried, convicted and were beginning to serve their sentences within 148 hours of their capture, are occurring daily in New Jersey, the present so-called "crime wave" apparently furnishing an excellent test for the efficiency of its courts.

"Jersey justice," named from Maine to Florida, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and even overseas, not only because of its speed, its accuracy and its relentlessness, but also because of its fairness and efficiency, was not established overnight. It is scarcely a tangible thing. It may be best described as "a state of mind," the people demanding that their law officers be efficient above everything else. Thus prosecutors, grand juries, judges, petit juries and all other branches of the administration of justice, which lead the criminal to prison and the murderer to the death chair, are just so many wheels and gears and belts in an almost perfectly working "machine" whose motive power is the people.

Tradition has had much to do with making "Jersey justice." Beginning with the early days of the settlement of the state, when many crimes were punishable by death, the Calvinists brought into east Jersey distinctive views of religious and civil matters which probably were the roots of "Jersey justice."

New Jersey differs in no great respect from other states as to the general legal procedure for the punishment of crime. Lynchings and crime against accused persons, however, are rare. Officers of the law, from the highest judges down, are well paid, and every effort is made to keep politics out of the courts. At present there are more than three-score life prisoners in the state prison here and eight out of every ten convicts are in for long terms.

Safeguards for Innocent.

While "Jersey justice" is swift, the innocent are safeguarded through a system of appeals, reprieves and stays, the latter sometimes operating to save convicted persons from the death chair. The case of Frank P. James and Raymond W. Schuck, convicted of killing David S. Paul, a Camden bank messenger, is an illustration. After their arrest the trials of the murderers were expedited and the same day they were sentenced they were in the deathhouse here "candidates" for the chair.

In July, 1904, three young negroes, Aaron Timbers, William Austin and Jonas Simms, entered the home of a farmer named Biddle, near Burlington, bound Mrs. Biddle and attacked her. Within a few days all three were captured, tried, convicted and had begun sentences of 49 years each in state prison.

"Bill" Framer, a Camden holdup man, who terrorized women, was recently captured and tried and convicted the next day. The evening of that day he was on his way to prison to begin a long term.

Woman Kills Big Wolf.

Groton, N. D.—Mrs. Bert Fetters, a farmer's wife, armed with an ax, won a fight with a large gray wolf here one Sunday, when she cornered the animal in a hog house and killed it. A dog pack had been fattened when the woman joined the chase.

MUSIC FESTIVAL IN DENVER.

Denver.—The governor of Colorado, the mayor of Denver and all citizens of this city have joined hands and are co-operating as one mighty unit to make Denver Music Week the greatest community effort ever attempted in this city. All through the state thousands of people are planning to come here for the festival May 15th to 20th. John Clark Kendall of Greeley, Colo., will bring a fifty piece orchestra from the State Teachers College to participate in the program. Fifty-four thousand school children will take active part in Music Week. They will hold concerts in seventy-four public schools, and a chorus of three thousand voices will give the feature school program at the city auditorium. This chorus will be augmented by the teachers chorus of 100 voices, which will sing "The Death of Joan of Arc."

Top city band organizations will give concerts on the streets, while other concerts, under the direction of the Federated Woman's Club, will cheer those folks in city hospitals, charitable homes and other institutions. Six hundred music teachers will hold pupil recitals during the week, while big and little business alike will participate in some part of the huge music week festival.

Fire Sweeps Block in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md.—Nine alarms were sounded for a fire that swept the lumber yard, mill work plant and office buildings of John F. Thomas & Sons, covering a square block in the southern section of the city. One fireman was injured. The flames menaced surrounding properties, including a public school building and the Martin Luther Evangelical church. The loss is heavy.

Papermakers Call on Foresters for Aid.

New York.—"Pulp-wood costs and values have now reached a point where foresters can prove to paper manufacturers that they must seriously consider plans for the growing of their future supply of timber," said R. S. Kellogg, secretary of the News Print Service Bureau of New York, in a recent address at the Cosmos Club before the Washington section, Society of American Foresters.

"A survey of the situation shows the urgent need of immediate and large-scale efforts to provide a permanent supply of raw material for the basic industry of paper making. To say that the United States last year produced 8,800,000 tons of wood pulp means little to the ordinary reader, but the problem takes on a more concrete aspect when it is realized that 6,000,000 cords of wood, chiefly spruce and hemlock, were used to make this quantity of pulp. The magnitude of the industry is also more fully appreciated when it is known that the United States in 1920 produced 7,800,000 tons of paper, or 147 pounds per capita.

Mysterious Explosion in Detroit.

Detroit.—Police are investigating a mysterious explosion which caused the death of two persons, injured a score of others and caused property loss running into the thousands, here. The explosion occurred in a small shed in the rear of a soft drink parlor. Lawrence Burnett, 5 years old, at play in the yard of his home near the shed, was buried beneath the wreckage and killed. Mrs. Hermann, wife of the owner and who is supposed to have been in the building, was blown to bits.

NOT TO BE MADE TO ORDER MIGHT HAVE MADE TROUBLE

Songs and Emblems That Live in the Heart of a People Must Have Foundation.

To wait for a state flower or a state song to discover itself and make itself appropriate might be an interminable and disappointing vigil. Centuries could intervene. It is not mere restlessness that asks for a flower to be chosen or a song to be written ready to hand, declares the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Posterity may find substitutes that are better, the fruit of happy circumstances, but we in our day may have at least our ready-made symbols to feed the romance in our souls.

Ancient people acquired these spiritual emblems and patriotic lyrics through a long and at times painful history. Something stirring has to happen to give them birth. Then our soldiers who were in the great war find the poppy the all-significant floral insignia of their heroic days and have adopted it as the visible reminder of them. Ten million silken poppies are to be worn in America on Decoration day.

Bursum to the Fore; Will Aid Stockmen And Mining Interests

Senator Holm O. Bursum, has made a splendid beginning as a true representative of New Mexico and her interests, which at this time, more than at any period in years, stands in need of the helping hand. He has offered an amendment to the federal reserve act, to enable the purchase of paper based on live stock as security to federal banks. A special fund known as the "Live Stock Loan Fund" is the embodiment of the amendment. This fund is to be created by the return of the Secretary of the Treasury, to the reserve banks, of the net earnings of such banks for 1920 and annually until such accumulation reaches five million dollars.

This fund is to be used only for paper based on live stock, and no paper shall be purchased which matures in less than six months or more than two years. All loans so purchased shall bear six per cent interest with an additional two per cent to bank endorsing the loan. In the event of the passage of this act, it shall be in force immediately, which means that many millions of dollars will be available for the relief of our stock interests.

His next effort is to suspend the present requirements on mining claims where a claimant now is required to perform labor or make improvements to the amount of $100. Under this act, said requirement is suspended in the United States and Alaska, for the years of 1921 and 1922. Provided, however, that the claimant shall file or cause to be filed in the office where his location notice is recorded, a notice of his desire to hold said claim under this act. This must be done before December 31, 1921. These measures with others in which New Mexico is directly interested, are receiving the support of our new Senator which shows how safe our interests are in his hands.

Congressman Montoya

The "National Republican" of Washington, D. C., recently published the portrait of the Hon. Nestor Montoya which was followed with a sketch of his life and political career, as follows: "Congressman Montoya, represents the whole State of New Mexico. He is President of the New Mexico Press Association, Ex Speaker of the House of Representatives, and was State Senator for 25 years. He was one of the framers of the Constitution of New Mexico. He was Chairman of the Draft Board during the war, was a member of the Council of Defense and had two sons in the service with the A. E. F. He is a newspaper editor of much importance and is fluent in both the English and Spanish languages."

Subject for the morning sermon will be, "Consecration." For the evening "Mother." We will have a special musical program for the evening service. Will you not come and be with us on these occasions?

 pleased to learn that there is at least one medical discovery that science has been able to make in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors

Restoration of free tolls through the Panama canal to American shipping will be taken up by the Senate oceanic affairs committee, of which Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, is chairman. Two would limit the free toll privilege to American coastwise shipping, while another would give the privilege to all ships flying the American flag.

GERMANS WILL ASSUME DEBT

BERLIN GOVERNMENT IS WILLING TO PAY ALLIED OBLIGATION TO UNITED STATES.

HUNS SUBMIT TERMS

BILLION MARKS PLACED AT DISPOSAL OF ALLIES TO PROVE GOOD FAITH.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

Berlin, April 27.—Germany, "in the event the United States and the allies so desire, is willing, according to the extent of her ability and capacity, to assume the allied obligations to the United States," says a clause in her counter-proposals.

Germany offers to pay 50,000,000,000 gold marks, the present value of which, converted into annuities, totals 200,000,000,000 gold marks. The payments, under this proposal, would be made according to her ability.

"With the acceptance of these proposals," says the German note, "Germany's other reparations and obligations will be annulled and all German private property in foreign countries released."

As evidence of her good faith, says the note, Germany is prepared immediately to place at the disposal of the reparations commission 150,000,000 marks in gold, silver and foreign exchange, and $50,000,000 gold marks in treasury notes, redeemable within three months in foreign-exchange or foreign securities.

Germany suggests the appointment of an unbiased commission to fix the total sum of her war reparations, which she pledges to accept as binding and to carry out in good faith.

The text of the clause in the note stating the amount Germany is ready to pay reads, as follows:

"Germany declares herself ready to engage to pay for reparations a total of 50,000,000,000 marks gold at their present value. Germany is equally ready to pay this amount in annuities adapted to her productive capacity up to a total of 200,000,000,000 marks gold."

Germany proposes in the note the issue of an international loan, the proceeds to be placed at the disposal of the allies. On this loan Germany would pay interest at 4 per cent and provide for amortization. The amount of the reparations total not covered by this international loan would be provided, to the limit of Germany's capacity, by payments in goods, materials, etc.

"Germany is disposed," says the note, "to allow the allied powers to participate in Germany's economic and financial amelioration. Germany will co-operate with all her efforts in the reconstruction of the devastated regions, so that she may acquire herself as quickly as possible of the sums remaining unpaid."

Washington.—Events here indicated clearly the United States, in replying to Germany's counter-proposals on reparations, would be guided almost, if not wholly, by the decisions of the allied governments as to whether the new propositions put forward by Berlin were of such a nature as to form the basis for further negotiations.

As the allied governments were in possession of the text of the German proposals, which was made public at Berlin, it was not thought that a reply would be long delayed.

Troubles Laid to Unwise Central.

Chicago.—Financial difficulties of the New York Central railroad, advanced as one reason for asking wage reduction before the railroad labor board, were declared to be due to unwise management in an exhibit filed with the board by the railway unions. The exhibit, which was presented by W. J. Lauck, economist for the employes, detailed the financial history of the road, and Mr. Lauck, in a supplemental statement, declared that in the face of $128,540,677.75 overcapitalization, the New York Central should seek to blame its financial difficulties on labor wages.

Tornado Kills Twelve.

Jackson, Miss.—More than a dozen persons are reported to have been killed and a score injured in a tornado at Braxton, eighteen miles from here. Braxton is a town of about 500 inhabitants in Simpson county on the Gulf & Ship Island railroad.

Baseball Letter Smashed.

Buffalo, N. Y.—With the arrest here of Thomas Martin of 375 Walnut street, police and Department of Justice officials believe that they have broken up a nation-wide baseball lottery which was conducted through United States mail. Seventeen cities have been found to contain men believed to be his agents, and it was through the arrest of an agent named Oshers, in Cincinnati, that the local authorities learned that Buffalo was the headquarters for the alleged lottery.

Declares She Would Like To Put a Bottle Of Tanlac In The Hands Of Every Sick Man, Woman and Child In This Country — Never Saw Its Equal.

MRS. EMMA REIFENSTEIN, 337 Webster Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

"I am sixty-seven years of age, but in all my experience I have never known a medicine like Tanlac. Think of it! At my age to gain twenty-five pounds in weight, but that is just what I have done," said Mrs. Emma Reifenstein, of No. 337 Webster avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.

"If I had it in my power," she continued, "I would put a bottle of Tanlac in the hands of every sick man, woman and child in this country, for I know what this wonderful medicine would do for them. For almost two years I was almost a nervous wreck. I did not dare to leave the house or even go up town unless my husband went with me. I was afraid to even cross the street and had a feeling of dread all of the time.

"My stomach was weak and easily upset. For days at a time I would go without solid food. I could not rest at night to do any good and felt tired and worn out all of the time. Some days I could hardly drag myself across the room and was so weak and miserable I was ready to give up.

"My health is fine now and I eat anything I want and never have a touch of indigestion. I have never slept better than I do now. My recovery is the talk of our neighborhood, as it was generally believed I could not last but a few weeks longer. This grand medicine has brought me health and happiness and I just can't say enough in its praise."

Mr. J. Reifenstein, in commenting on his wife's statement, said: "Yes, her recovery has been a happy surprise to us all. A few weeks ago I had no idea she would be able to pull through, but now she is in better health than I have ever seen her and the credit is due to Tanlac. We have been married fifty-two years today and I don't believe I have ever seen her looking any better."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Blood Is the Sap of Life; Keep It Pure

You grow by good blood as a tree grows by sap. Rich blood, robust man. Good sap, sturdy tree. Keep the blood healthy and wholesome; poor, impoverished blood cannot nourish the body or remove the waste as nature intended. When your blood is impure, itching, flaking, skin eruptions often break out, and your body gets run down and weak—easy prey for disease. To be safe, keep the circulation wholesome.

For this S.S.S., the famous vegetable blood remedy your druggist keeps, is excellent. Start enriching your blood with S.S.S. today, and write about your condition to Chief Medical Advisor, 838 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW OMAR LIFTS HIS VOICE

Arizona Post, However, Strikes Different Note From That Struck by the Great Persian.

Omar Khayyam said that he could dine on a loaf of bread and a jug of wine; with Her beside him and feel content in the wilderness—but he only meant that he liked the desert and his old tin Lizzie, and the crooked roads that make you dizzy, that start 'bby' place and lead nowhere, and just keep going and never care. He liked the mesquite and the greasewood smell and the long hot days that feel like h—; the red sunsets and the cool moonlight and the soft, sweet air of the desert night—for Omar Khayyam was a wonderful man, who lived his life on an easy plan, with his girl and his wine and a big silk tent—'M', or 'my! What a life he spent. . . . The desert is here like it always was—but you can't Khayyam any more, becuz—in these dry days when every home brew is on the list of the things taboo, old Omar Khayyam and his jug of juice would soon get locked in the calaboose.—Salome (Ariz.) Birth Rate of France Increases. Vital statistics show that the birth rate increased in France in 1920. At Marseilles, for the first time in years, the number of births greatly exceeded the number of deaths. At Chalons-sur-Saone total of births for the year was 689 and that of deaths 520 only, whereas the figures for 1919 had been: Births, 420, and deaths, 571. In Toulon the number of births exceeded by 118 that of deaths, something that has not happened in 30 years. From Orleans satisfactory figures have also been complicated, and at Dieppe the number of births exceeded by 30 per cent the number of deaths.

An Airplane Brake.

The newest idea for airplane wheels is to mount upon the periphery of each wheel a number of little wheels. This arrangement, says the Popular Science Monthly, helps to retard the forward motion of the flying machine on making a landing. The little wheels, brought successively into position by the force of impact, tend to check the plane and bring it to a quick and smooth stop.

Some FACTS About

FORD

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Production Vs. Sales.

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921, and how many have been sold to retail customers, in the United States:

	Produced	Delivered to Retail Customers
JANUARY,	29,883	57,288
FEBRUARY,	35,305	63,643
MARCH,	61,886	87,221

Total Production 127,074 Total Retail Sales 208,032 showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceeded production by 80,958 cars and trucks!

April regulations already specify 107,719 additional cars and trucks, and the estimated April out of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts clearly show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce, and were it not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks, therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having your FORD car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone 80 or drop us a card.
