

DISTRICT FOREST OFFICIALS VISIT THE LINCOLN FOREST

In Company With Supervisor Arthur, They are Making an Inspection Trip To Different Places on the Lincoln Forest This Week and Next.

Supervisor Arthur and Lumberman Strickland went to Gallinas Monday night where they met District Forester F. C. W. Peeler and Engineer Long, both of the District Office at Albuquerque. After spending a short while on the Gallinas District of the Forest they expect to visit the White Mountain, Captain and Ruidoso Districts before returning to Alamogordo. Mr. Peeler's visit is of an administrative nature while Mr. Long will inspect the various roads and trails constructed by the Forest Service during the past year or two, including the Alto-Eagle Creek road, the North Eagle Creek Trail and the Pine Lodge Trail, as well as assist with the location of roads and trails proposed for construction within the next few months. After arriving in Alamogordo, like inspection will probably be conducted over the Sacramento Division.

Deputy Supervisor Karchner left Friday morning for a two weeks' trip over the Sacramento Division of the Forest.

As an illustration of the destructiveness of mankind the local Forest Service office cites the fact that during the present spring pine fires have occurred on the Lincoln Forest burning a total of 101,200 acres. While in every instance the co-operation received from permittees and other Forest users in the suppression of the fires was very satisfactory, in an effort to secure greater care with fire and more complete co-operation on the part of the school children throughout the Forest the Supervisor's office has started a "Flag Contest" in which 12 schools with an enrollment of 196 pupils have enlisted. The school obtaining the greatest number of "points" at the close of the fire season will be presented with a standard U. S. 5x10 flag, while the pupil obtaining the largest number of "points" individually will receive a "pine tree" flag with an honorable mention embroidered on it. The rating will be based on the following: Each fire discovered and put out—10 points; each fire reported to a Forest ranger—5 points; each person warned against throwing down, lighting matches, cigarettes, etc.—10 points; each camp fire extinguished—10 points; each person outside of school and of age from whom assurance is received that they will do everything possible to prevent fires in the National Forests—10 points.

During the water shortage on the Ruidoso District Ranger Messer and his permittees succeeded in securing the use of an old pump engine and a tank whereby sufficient water was provided for the stock on the Perry Canyon—Hale Lake range. In addition, for several years the Forest Service has endeavored to secure the utilization of come back range on the Ruidoso District by tank water development. The tank is now an actual fact, its construction having been secured through co-operation between the permittees.

GREAT GAME LAST SUNDAY

The Republicans and Democrats played a game of base ball last Sunday in the presence of a large audience at the local ball grounds. As in all other affairs of public importance, it was the opinion of all concerned that the event would lose its popularity without a keynote and the following was adopted: "Fighting." Wayne Van Scoyck of White Oaks umpired the game and Dr. Blaney kept the score. It was a grand sight—in fact it was an awful sight. A goodly number of ladies were present and naturally, their admiration was for the Republicans who were by far, (of course) the best looking set of men.

Mayor Rolland did the pitching for the Republicans while Senator Brickley filled the same position for the Democrats. At the end of the 4th inning the score stood 5 to 2 in favor of the Republicans and Democratic stock fell to alarming figures, but then???? the tale is woe! It ended with a score of 17 to 10 in favor of the Democrats. Seven innings were played and enough time was consumed to play 40 games of baseball. Everybody needed a shave after the game and had the town been wet, we cannot predict as to what might have happened. Many

TO WAGE FIGHT ON LOW SCHOOL LEVIES—CONWAY

Enter to Leave Taxation With County Commissioners Than Tax Commission, He Believes.

Santa Fe, May 7.—State School Superintendent John V. Conway in an interview today, declared himself for the defeat of the constitutional amendment holding levies for school purposes under 15 mills.

"Here are my arguments for leaving the mileage the way it is," he said. "It is safer to leave these matters to the county commissioners, who are the creatures of the people, than the tax commission which is the creature of one man. There's a whole lot of difference between an elective and an appointive officer. One is responsible to the people and the other to one man."

"Give People Freedom." "The people of the country ought to be allowed to tax themselves just exactly what they want for the schools—or for any other purpose. For the schools they ought to be allowed to go as far as they want to go."

Mr. Conway then referred to the agreement between the education association's legislative committee and the senate educational committee by which the former gave up their demand for the $1,200 salary minimum for first-grade teachers on condition that the present limit for school levies—12 mills—would not be lowered. The proposed amendment lowers this limit. It makes the maximum 10 mills although it can be boosted 5 mills provided the consent of the tax commission is obtained.

Mr. Conway said Governor Mechem told him that fair treatment for the institutions could be expected from him, and, he believed, his successor in the chief executive's office.

Mr. Conway added that the educational association would undertake an active campaign for the defeat of the levy-limiting amendment and probably the other at the election of September 20.

professional plays were made such as mauling, fanning out and cutting bases in which the Democrats figured to a high percentage. The Mayor pitched a good game and with proper support, the result would have been different, but we were a little bit sorry for the enemy and hated to see him lose everything, so we just let him have it to make him feel good.—did'nt we, boys?

SOCORRO ROAD WORK BEGINS IN EARNEST

The Lincoln County Board of Commissioners headed by chairman Ben Lujan, has begun the Lincoln-Socorro road work in dead earnest. Road Supervisor, Gonzalez and a good force of workmen began at a point near the old Indian Tank which connects with the new road made by Socorro County neighbors last fall and are coming in this direction as fast as possible.

The point where the work began is about 50 miles north of here. It will be but a short time now, until Lincoln County will insert the link which will give us a good highway from Socorro to Carrizozo. This added to the advantages we have in the direction of Roswell, will turn the tide of travel over this route which has been going in other directions, simply for the lack of accommodations which this important improvement will furnish.

GAME COMMISSION MET AT SANTA FE TO SELECT A SITE FOR A STATE HATCHERY

Santa Fe, N. M., May 9.—The state game commission held a meeting in Santa Fe today after having visited the available sites for the proposed fish hatchery and possibly the site that will be used will be decided upon at this meeting.

Forest Protection Week

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

I desire to call special attention to the following proclamation recently issued by the President of the United States, designating May 22-28 as Forest Protection Week:

"WHEREAS, the destruction by forest fires in the United States involves an annual loss of approximately $20,000,000 and the devastation of approximately 12,500,000 acres of timber-land and other natural resources; and

WHEREAS, the present deplorably large area of non-productive land is being greatly increased by 33,000 or more forest fires which occur each year; and

WHEREAS, the menace of a future timber shortage threatens to become a present economic fact seriously affecting our social and industrial welfare; and

WHEREAS, a large percentage of the forest fires causing the annual waste of natural resources may be prevented by increasing care and vigilance on the part of citizens;

THEREFORE, I, WARREN G. HARDING, President of the United States, do urge upon the Governors of the various States to designate and set apart the week of May 22-28, 1921, as Forest Protection Week, and to request all citizens of their States to plan for that week such educational and instructive exercises as shall bring before the people the serious and unhappy effects of the present unnecessary waste by forest fires, and the need of their individual and collective efforts in conserving the natural resources of America."

In compliance with the President's request, I, M. C. MECHEM, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby designate and set apart the week of MAY 22nd to 28th, 1921, as Forest Protection Week in the State of New Mexico.

I respectfully urge all citizens who are interested in the protection of our forests and timber industry, to launch a campaign of education during this week, which will tend to place before the public mind the fact that the present appalling waste of our timber resources through fires and often wanton destruction, through exploitation by commercial interests with no thought or effort at reforestation, may in the near future bring us face to face with an utter exhaustion of that important national resource.

I hereby invite and appoint the officers of the U. S. Forestry Department in New Mexico to take charge of this campaign, and I trust they will receive enthusiastic cooperation on the part of the general public.

The Boy Scouts of America have already offered their services to the President in the tree saving movement, and I invite the Scout Leaders in New Mexico to interest their army of Boy Scouts in this National event.

Witness My Hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico, this 5th Day of May, A. D. 1921.

M. C. MECHEM, Governor.
MANUEL MARTINEZ, Secretary of State.

SCHOOL NOTES

(By Supt. E. E. Cole.)

Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, president of the Normal University at Las Vegas, spoke at the Methodist church last Sunday evening. He discussed the "Songs of Solomon," showing the book to be a beautiful love story—a story of a maiden who was faithful to her absent lover in spite of the soft words and artful blandishments of King Solomon.

On Monday morning, Dr. Roberts visited the High School and gave an "Intelligence Test." Such a test is made up of questions carefully graded so as to test the quickness of perception, how readily an idea can be grasped, how quickly something hidden can be dug out. A chart for the interpretation of the answers was left with Supt. Cole.

Last Saturday, the Boy Scouts, under the leadership of Assistant Scout Master Cazier, went to Water Canon, east of town. They report a delightful time in that most beautiful mountain canon.

On the same day, the fifth grade, accompanied by the teacher, Mrs. Vaughn, made a picnic trip to the Bar W ranch. The talk of the class is that they did not want to return to town at all.

The Baccalaureate Sermon for the Class of 1921 will be preached at the Methodist church next Sunday, May 15, at eight o'clock in the evening. All are most cordially invited to be present.

Tickets for the Class Play, "Mr. Bob" are still on sale at Rolland's drug store. "Mr. Bob" is given on two nights, Monday and Tuesday, and is completed each night. It is not a play given one night and completed the next. Be sure to come on the night named on your ticket. The green tickets are good for Monday night only. The pink tickets are good for Tuesday only. If you have bought for one night and find you cannot go on that night, but can go on the other night, go to Rolland's drug store and exchange them. The tickets are only 25 cents and each ticket calls for a reserved seat. Get your tickets early as we are expecting two crowded houses. If you get a good seat you must buy early. The performance will begin at eight o'clock. Remember the date, May 10 and 11, at Crystal Theatre.

Commemorative exercises will be held in the Crystal Theatre on the evening of May 18, at 8 o'clock. The following is the program:

- Invocation, Rev. William Huffman.
- Music, "Stars Brightly Shining," Emil Bronte, Girls' Glee Club.
- Salutatory, Lillian Merchant.
- "Appreciation," Laureen Wilson.
- Valedictory, Eva Wack.
- Address, President David S. Hill, State University.
- Music, "O Beautiful May," Harris, Girls' Glee Club.
- Presentation of Diplomas to Seniors and Graduates of Eighth Grades, Supt. E. E. Cole.
- Flower Girls, Dollie Richard and Lorene Stimmel.
- Benediction, Rev. C. C. Higbee.
- We wish to announce, at this time, the honors of the Senior class. During the last four years Miss Eva Wack has made an unusual record having 18 1/2 credits, 6-8 of a year's work more than necessary for graduation. The number required for graduation is 16 credits. Miss Lillian Merchant has 18 1/2 credits and Miss Laureen Wilson has 15 credits.

IMMENSE OIL CONSOLIDATION ENTERS NEW MEXICO FIELD

Company With Millions Worth of Producing Wells and Refineries Sends Whole Board of Directors Into the State.

State Record: The coming of the Consolidated Texas Production Company into the New Mexico prospective oil fields assured the development of that industry in the state on a scale surpassing anything ever anticipated by the local prospectors who have been operating in the past and assures large and systematic drilling operations in nearly a dozen counties of the State.

For the information of the readers of the State Record, as to who composes this company we take the following from the Oil Weekly of Texas of April 30:

"Organization of the Consolidated Texas Production Company with a capital of $20,000,000 has been completed and headquarters will be maintained in the Praetorian building of Dallas. The officers of the company are: J. Lighthouse Berte, president of the International-Shipping, Commission of New York City, president; E. I. Means, vice president and general manager; William J. Lee, of New York City, vice president; John C. Kollar of Dallas, vice president; Geo. L. Kollar of Dallas, vice president and chairman of the board of managers; Frederick Porter of Dallas, secretary; and W. A. Nason of Dallas, treasurer.

"Holdings of the following companies have been taken over by the consolidated Texas Production Company: Kellers Brothers Oil Corporation of Dallas; Trinity River Oil Company; Inspiration Oil & Refining Company; Northeastern New Mexico Oil Company; Goose Creek Petroleum Company of Texas; and several other small companies."

New Mexico First Considered. The interest in this new consolidation is taking in its New Mexico holdings is evidenced by the fact that after its organization eleven of the principal officers and directors came directly to New Mexico and have spent all of the present week at Santa Fe and other points making arrangements to develop their holdings here and to acquire more land and leases.

The holdings which the new company acquired in this state through the Northeastern New Mexico Oil Company and the Mid-Continent Oil, Gas & Refining Company includes over one million acres of land and is located in the following counties: Colfax, Mora, Lincoln, Santa Fe, Bernalillo, Torrance, Guadalupe, Doña Ana, Quay, Curry, Socorro, Sierra, Dona Ana, Lincoln, Otero, Eddy and Lea.

Other Holdings. Although the property of the Consolidated is scattered throughout eight states, but the most valuable of its holdings are in Mexico where its property is valued at over $10,000,000. In Texas it has nearly $4,000,000, in Oklahoma over $3,000,000, in Arkansas, Wyoming and Kentucky about one half million each, with smaller holdings in Louisiana, and Tennessee.

The total valuations placed on the Consolidated holdings by experts being $25,517,236, but the incorporation being for $20,000,000, its stock will be worth considerably above par from the very beginning.

WHITE OAKS NOTES

The Woman's Club of White Oaks met at the home of Mrs. Wayne Van Scoyck last Thursday afternoon. A large crowd greeted the hostess and the social hours were pleasantly spent at card playing, and the affair featured with a "stunt game." A delightful luncheon of hot tomatoes, shrimp sandwiches, coffee and grape juice was served.

The program scheduled to be given by the pupils of the White Oaks School, under the direction of Mrs. L. Baird Payne, the Principal, on the night of May 21, will be carried out at the Town Hall. All classes of the Grammar School will take part in the exercises. The program will begin with the Eighth Grade Commencement Exercises at 7 o'clock and will last until 8, after which, a beautiful Operetta will be given by the school, entitled, "Mid Summer Eve."

The program will be followed by a dance. Ferguson's "Joy-Makers" will furnish the music and refreshments will be served promptly at 12 o'clock. This entertainment will attract a large crowd, so don't forget the date, May 21.—Come.

DR. FRANK H. ROBERTS, HEAD OF STATE NORMAL AT LAS VEGAS, LET OUT

Alleged Cause One of Politics and Because He Selected R. S. Tipton as One of His Staff.

Las Vegas, N. M., May 6.—By a vote of three to two, the board of regents of the New Mexico Normal university today elected Jonathan H. Wagner, former state superintendent of education, president of the institution thereby ousting President Frank H. H. Roberts. His tenure of office will begin June 1, when Doctor Roberts will receive a two months "vacation" and his connection with the school cease.

The ousting of Doctor Roberts as president was accomplished by the votes of Jose D. Sóna, Mrs. Hidalgo and John Veeder. Dr. David Boyd, former president of the State university and Attorney John W. Morrow of Raton, supported Doctor Roberts.

Boyd and Morrow resign. It was rumored here last night that Doctor Boyd and Mr. Morrow had filed their resignations as members of the board to Governor Mechem. This rumor could not be confirmed.

The Santa Fe New Mexican says: Las Vegas made a fight to keep Dr. Roberts and sentiment against making the big school a political football is running high. Those citizens are particularly angered who raised a guarantee of $3000 against a summer school deficit, and the guarantee has been withdrawn. The student body is much depressed and disappointed at the outcome.

The choice of a faculty is of course in Prof. Wagner's hands. His first action is expected must necessarily be the discharge of Mr. Tipton, who is a well qualified educator but of the wrong political complexion.

Educator Thirty-two Years. Dr. Roberts has been president of the Normal university since 1910, according to Who's Who. He had been in school work since 1889 and from 1889 to 1903 was president of the Wyoming State Normal school. In 1903 he began to teach at the University of Denver, and after taking his position with the New Mexico Normal university was an extra-natural professor of the University of Denver. In 1905 he went to Europe for the University of Denver to make a study of municipal government. He has written very many books dealing with subjects of history and civil government and is a member of many educational clubs and societies.

Mr. Wagner had his first educational experience as a teacher in Indian schools, according to Who's Who. Then he came to New Mexico and for two years was superintendent of the schools at Las Cruces and held the same position for five years at Santa Fe and in 1917 was elected state superintendent and at the end of his term last year went to Tucson, Ariz., to take a position as superintendent of one of the school districts in the city at a salary said to be in excess of what he will receive as president of the Normal university.

Mr. Wagner previously had been mentioned as a possibility for the presidency of the Silver City Normal, the Agricultural college, and the state Normal university, as a success or to Doctor Boyd. At that time, it was said, his appointment was not made because of objections to the man it was believed Governor Larrazolo would appoint as his successor as state superintendent.

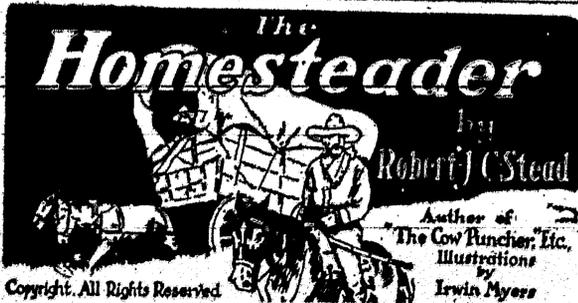

CARRIZOZO WOMAN'S CLUB

The Carrizozo Woman's Club met in regular session Friday afternoon, May 6, at Lutz Hall. In the absence of the President, Mrs. R. E. Blaney presided. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, only a few members were present. Minutes of last meeting not being available, the minutes of meeting prior to April 16, were read and approved. A letter from the Secretary of the State Federation of Women's Clubs was read by the Secretary and some slight changes made in committee chairman.

A new Parliamentarian was elected. Mrs. Blaney then extended an invitation to the Club to meet at her home in Otero on June 6. Mrs. Albert Ziegler then took charge of the meeting and carried out a musical program of several numbers and Mrs. E. E. Cole read a splendid paper on art, all of which furnished an entertaining meal to the meeting. For the benefit of those who may wish his services, a piano tuner will be here May 16. Notify Mrs. Ziegler.

PRINTERS AND BINDERS ON STRIKE FOR 41-HOUR WEEK AT ALBUQUERQUE

Albuquerque, May 6.—The two largest commercial printing plants in Albuquerque closed Monday morning as a result of demands of workmen for a 44-hour week and for wage increases affecting part of the men. The plants closed are those of the Central Printing company and Albright & Anderson.

"Nothing wrong at home, I hope, Mr. Harris," said the young neighbor, noting his troubled appearance.

"Well, she's gone. Left through the night. We—well, I tell you, George— we had a little disagreement, but I'd no notion she'd take it so much to heart."

"Don't you believe a word of it," said George. "I know Jim, and I know Beulah, and if anybody else hinted what you've said you'd want to use that rifle on them."

"That proves you don't know Beulah," said Allan. "As for Jim—I was never able to get below that smile, and I saw more of him than you did, George."

"Well, I hope you find a way out," said George sincerely. "It would have been like her to come over to our place, but she isn't there. Maybe you'll find her at Morrison's."

"That's possible," said Harris. "We'll go over there, anyway."

Mr. Guthrie received his guest cordially, albeit with some wonderment as to which member of the family might be sick, but delicacy forbade a direct question.

"They're all well at home, I hope?" said Mr. Guthrie at length, feeling that the custom of the community had been sufficiently honored.

"Yes, all that's there," said Harris. "All that's there? I didn't know any of your folks were away. Perhaps Mrs. Harris is down East? I'm sure a summer amid the orchards of her old home would be a delight to her and, of course, Mr. Harris, you are able to gratify yourself in these little matters now."

Harris received these remarks with a mixture of feelings. The minister's reference to his financial standing excited with it a certain gratification, but it concerned poorly with his recent conversations with his wife and with his present mission.

"And Beulah," continued the minister, conscious that his first shot had gone wild. "She's a fine young woman now. I see her in church occasionally. In fact, I was speaking with Mrs. Burton, the choir leader, a day or so ago, and Beulah's name was mentioned between us."

"It was about Beulah I came to see you," said Harris, with averted eyes. Then in a few words he gave his version of what he knew and what he suspected.

"I fear I can add nothing to your information," said Mr. Guthrie. "They haven't been here, and, as you say, if Beulah contemplated marriage, I think she would have called on me, Travers, too. I know a little, and thought him a decent chap. But we must find the girl and talk this over quietly with her. Is there any place in town she would be likely to go to? What about Mrs. Goodie's boarding house? I will just call up on the telephone. I can make inquiry without the necessity of any explanations."

Inquiry at the house of Mrs. Goodie brought a strong ray of light out of the darkness. Beulah had been there during the morning, and had explained that she was leaving on the west-bound train, which even now was thrumming at the station. On hearing this, out a word Harris sprang into the buggy, while Allan brought a sharp cut of the whip across the stiffened horses. They reached the railway station half a minute too late; the train was already pulling out, and as Harris eyes followed it to disappear into the distance, plainly saw Jim Travers swing lithely onto the rear platform. With an oath the farmer reached for his rifle, but Allan wrenched it from his hands before any onlookers noted the action. "Don't be a fool!" he whispered, and started the horses homeward.

CHAPTER VIII.

Into the Farther West. During the drive homeward Harris' thoughts persistently turned to the share his wife had had in Beulah's departure, and his feeling toward Mary grew more and more hostile. He resolved, however, that there should be no open breach between them; he would neither scold nor question her, but would impress her with his displeasure by adopting a cold, matter-of-fact, speak-when-you're-spoken-to attitude toward her.

Under the circumstances it was not remarkable that Harris' work began to loom larger than ever in his life. The space left vacant by his daughter he filled with extra energy driving the great plows through the mellow summer-fallow. A new tank-train was engaged and the rumble of the engine was heard up and down the fields from early morning until dark. From his wife he held aloof, speaking with strained courtesy when speech was necessary. She, in turn, schooled for years in self-effacement, hid her sorrow in her heart, and went about her work with a resignation which he mistook for cheerfulness, and which confirmed him in his opinion that she knew more of Beulah's intentions than she had cared to admit. Only with Allan his relations remained unchanged; indeed, the attachment between the two grew deeper than ever. The young man avoided any reference to Beulah; what he felt in his own heart he kept to himself, but the father shrewdly guessed that he laid the whole blame on Travers.

Meanwhile Mary plodded along with her housework, toiling doggedly from five in the morning until half-past nine or ten at night. Beulah's departure had left all the labors of the home upon her hands; her husband had made no suggestion of securing help, and she had not asked any. One of two postcards she had had from Beulah, but they brought no great information. They came in the open mail; her husband was welcome to read them if he chose, but as he had sought his own company exclusively since Beulah's departure she made no attempt to force them upon him.

At last one morning came a letter, a big fat letter, left in by a neighbor passing by, as the custom was for any settler going to town to bring out the mail for those who lived along his route. She tore the envelope open nervously and devoured its contents with hungry eyes.

"My Dear Mother: Here I am, in the shadow of the Rockies. That may sound poetical, but it's a literal fact. It is still early in the evening, but the sun has disappeared behind the great masses to the west, and the valley which my window overlooks is filling up with blackness. The Arthurs are pure gold, and I have told them everything. They don't blame anyone, not even father. How is he? Slaving as usual, I suppose."

"Well, I must tell you about my trip. When I left the house that night I had no idea where I was going, but the simplest thing seemed to be to go first to Plainville. You've no idea how heavy that suitcase got, but I took my time, as there was nothing to gain by reaching town before daylight. When I got there it struck me it might be a good plan to have some breakfast, so I walked round to Goodie's boarding-house. After breakfast I went over to the station, and asked what the fare was to Arthur's station; I found

I had enough money for the trip, and I bought a ticket without further ado. "The homestead rush is on here in earnest; the trains are crowded, mostly with Americans, and the hotels are simply spilling over."

"I wanted to ask some one about Arthur's, and I didn't like to inquire in the hotel. There was a lot of drinking going on there. But near the door were two young men talking, and I overheard one of them mention Arthur's name. Picking myself together, I asked him if he could tell me where Arthur's lived."

"Yes, miss," he answered, lifting a big hat and showing when he spoke a clean set of teeth. "It's twenty-five miles up the river. Were you expecting him to meet you?"

"I explained that I had intended to drop in on them by surprise, but I had had no idea they lived so far from town."

"Oh, that's not far," he said. "Can you ride?"

"Everybody here rides horseback. It's the standard means of locomotion. And the women ride astride. I was a bit shocked at first, but you soon get used to it. But twenty-five miles is different from a romp round the pasture-field, so I said I was afraid not."

"Well, he just couldn't keep away from me that evening. He showered me with questions about you and father, which I answered as well as I could, but I soon found I couldn't keep my secret, so I just up and told him all. He was very grave, but not cross. 'You need time to think things over, and to get a right perspective,' he said, 'and our home will be yours until you do.'

"We drove home the next day, up a wonderful river valley, deep into the heart of the foothills, with the blue mountains always beckoning and receding before us. Mrs. Arthurs was as surprised and delighted as he had been, and I won't try to tell you all the things she said to me. She cried a little, too, and I'm afraid I came near helping her a bit. You know the Arthurs lost their little girl before they left Manitoba, and they have had no other children. They both seemed just hungry."

"There's nothing so very fine about their home, except the spirit that's inside it. I can't describe it, but it's there—a certain leisurely way of doing things, a sense that they have made work their servant instead of their master. And still they're certainly not lazy, and they've accomplished more than we have. When they left Manitoba in the early days, discouraged with successive frosts, they came right out here into the foothills with their few head of stock. Now their cattle are numbered in thousands, and they have about a township of land. And still they seem to live for the pure happiness they find in life, and only to think of their property as a secondary consideration."

"Now I really must close. Mrs. Arthurs sends a note, and I'm quite sure it's an invitation. Oh, mother, what could be lovelier! Now, don't say you can't. Father has plenty of money; let him hire a housekeeper for a while. The change will do him good. 'Love to you, dearest, and to Allan, if he still thinks of me.' "BEULAH.

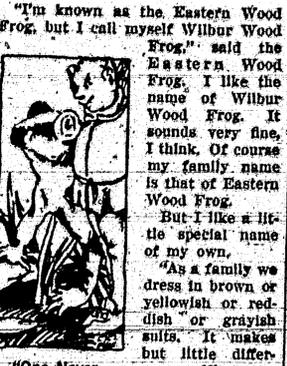

"P. S.—I forgot to mention that Jim Travers left Plainville on the same train as I did. He could hardly believe his eyes when he saw me there. I told him I was going west on a visit, but I don't know how much he guessed. Said he was going west himself to take up land, but he wanted to call on some friends first, and he got off a few stations from Plainville. Between you and me, I believe he changed his plan so that the incident—our being on the train together, you know—could not be misunderstood if the neighbors got to know of it. It would be just like Jim to do that."

With Beulah's letter was a short but earnest note from Lillian Arthurs, assuring the mother of her daughter's welfare, and pressing an invitation to spend the autumn in the glorious scenery and weather of the foothill country. Mary Harris read both letters over again, with frequent rubbing of her glasses. Love, for her daughter, desire to see her old friend once more, and growing dissatisfaction with conditions at home, all combined to give weight to the invitation so earnestly extended. "If I only could! But it would cost so much."

Quite Likely. American women bathers with an inclination to emboypoint, it is stated, have taken to painting dimples on their knees. The report that a fashionable New Yorker who sees not care for the water has created the necessary illusion by having a lobster painted on her toes is probably premature.—From Punch, London.

Excellent Philosophy. Little is like a game of whist. I don't enjoy the game much, but I like to play my cards well and see what will be the end of it.—George Eliot.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER WILBUR WOOD FROG.

"I'm known as the Eastern Wood Frog, but I call myself Wilbur Wood Frog," said the Eastern Wood Frog. "I like the name of Wilbur Wood Frog. It sounds very fine. I think, of course, my family name is that of Eastern Wood Frog."

"But I like a little special name of my own. 'As a family we dress in brown or yellowish or reddish' or grayish suits. It makes but little difference. We may have spots and we may not. We're not very fussy about the way we look."

"We, Mr. Wood Frogs, are smaller than the Mrs. Wood Frogs, and that is the way it is apt to be in the Frog World. My ears are smaller than my eyes, and I believe people have bigger ears than eyes. That is one of the many differences between my looks and the looks of a person in case you wanted to be able to tell us apart. I'm glad to give all information asked for."

"Well," said Peter Gnome, who was calling on the Eastern Wood Frog. "I don't believe any one would ever mistake you for a person—or a person-for-you."

"I don't believe so," said Wilbur Wood Frog. "Still one never knows, and it is well to be prepared. That is why I give forth the information. You can never tell when you may need it. We're very small creatures. We love the woods. We grow, of course, larger as we get older. I'm not very old now. I can swim well, but I don't like anything as well as I do the woods."

"I'm fond of the woods, too," said Peter Gnome. "Sometimes I jump out when people are picking flowers," said Wilbur. "For they may also have been picking me by mistake. I am a fine creature, but I'm not a flower."

"I don't suppose they would have wanted you as a flower," laughed Peter Gnome. "but you must admit that when you get in with the moss and the leaves you don't look unlike the wooded ground itself."

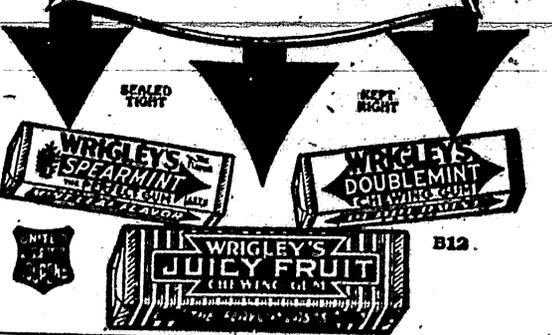

"A good protection for me, too," said Wilbur. "I believe in being protected. 'Sometimes in the spring we talk hoarsely to each other, but we're not great on making a noise. We're like toads in that way.' "Frogs are great creatures for making a lot of noise. 'They love to chatter and croak and goog-a-room all the time. We love the woods so much that we sleep under the leaves all winter and under the logs, too. And when spring appears up we get."

"Even the eggs are laid in little wooden places where there are tiny puddles and pools. Thousands of eggs are laid, too. And they all become woodfrogs later on, but they must be tadpoles first, of course. 'I'm supposed to be a nice looking little creature, quiet in appearance and modest at all times.' "I think you are one of the nicest little fellows I've ever met," said Peter Gnome. "I can't begin to tell you how I admire you."

"I love to see you hopping about in the woods. I think it is so nice that you love the woods, for to my mind there is nothing much nicer than woods of trees and moss and shadows, and with the sunlight peeping through here and there."

FAMOUS OLD CHURCH GONE! HAD A TRICK WORTH WHILE

Flames That Consumed Historic Washington Edifice Also Destroyed Relics That Were Priceless. St. Paul's parish church, in Rock Creek cemetery, the oldest church in Washington and one of the oldest in the United States, was recently destroyed by fire. The interior of the building, valuable memorial windows, old relics and paintings were burned, and the four walls of the structure, erected in 1770, were all that was left of the historic edifice. Among the historic relics destroyed by the fire was a large folio Bible, which was contained in a glass case near the chancel. The Bible was bought in 1727, was used for many years and was paid for by the congregation with tobacco. With the Bible, also destroyed, were two large folio common prayer books, the price for which, according to records at the church, was a quantity of tobacco which was to bring not less than $10 per pound. The first Easter service to be held in the present territory of the District of Columbia took place at old St. Paul's church, Rock Creek, in 1791.

Society Beggar Knew How to Get on the Soft Side of Mrs. Gobsa Golde. "Charly begins at home," said Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts of the International Reform bureau of Washington, "but no truth is so disregarded as this one. 'Two beggar women met on the street one day. 'Fine coat you've got there. Where did you land it?' said the first beggar woman. 'Old Mrs. Gobsa Golde gave it to me,' said the second beggar woman. 'Is that so? I've begged it Mrs. Gobsa Golde's hundreds of times, and she never gave me a cent. How did you work her? 'Well, you see,' said the first beggar woman, stroking her new coat complacently, 'I didn't tell her I was begging for myself. I pretended I was begging for the heathen.' Right-Thinking. Let the words of my mouth, be acceptable in thy sight. O Lord, my strength, and my Redeemer.—Psalm, XIV, 14. Some men find it easier to get drunk than sober.

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children. Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Have You Tried It? Everybody has read the above headline; how many believe it? Have you a little one in the home, and has that dear little mite when its stomach was not just right felt the comforts that come with the use of Fletcher's Castoria? You have heard the cry of pain. Have you heard them cry for Fletcher's Castoria? Try it.

Just help baby out of its trouble tomorrow with a taste of Castoria. Watch the difference in the tone of the cry, the look in the eye, the wiggle in the tiny fingers. The transformation is complete—from pain to pleasure. Try it.

You'll find a wonderful lot of information about Baby in the booklet that is wrapped around every bottle of Fletcher's Castoria.

Report of County Nurse

During the school term, 1560 children have been examined. The schools over the county were found in good conditions, in most places. Mrs. Blaney has built some fine school buildings and her teachers are up to date. Contagion has been kept well under control, whooping cough being the most prevalent. Some few cases of scarlet fever have been discovered, but have been promptly taken care of. Parents have observed my instructions and responded to my work. The children have all been vaccinated, Diphtheria at Ancho, was checked in a short time. The success in public health work is to keep constantly at it. The High School girls have done some good work in the nursing classes. The children across the track did nice work at the public health meeting. The handkerchief drill with recitations by Mary Vigil and the singing that followed, and the recitations by Byrd Loughrey and Richard Patten, the singing of "America," all of which furnished splendid entertainment for those present. The pupils in the Spanish-American school are doing fine under the leadership of the teachers, the Misses Hughes and Craddock, who are untiring in their efforts.

Santa Fe, N. M., May 11.—United States District Judge, Coffin Neblett fined Ophir Brown and Torrey Williams, motorists of Oklahoma, $50 and costs for violation of the national prohibition laws by transporting whiskey. Brown and Williams were motoring from El Paso via Albuquerque and Carrizozo for Oklahoma, prohibition officers grew suspicious and searched their car finding 190 quarts of whiskey in it. The men were arrested and the car seized, both liquor and car will be confiscated.

Two other violators of the prohibition laws appeared before Judge Neblett. One was Ramon Ortiz, of Albuquerque, who was sentenced to 90 days of Sananda, who was fined $100 and costs.

"Nothing wrong at home, I hope, Mr. Harris," said the young neighbor, noting his troubled appearance.

"Yes, there is something wrong," said Harris, trying vainly to conceal the bitterness in his voice.

"Who, Beulah? I can hardly believe that, Mr. Harris. It was only last night I was talking with her."

"Don't you believe a word of it," said George. "I know Jim, and I know Beulah, and if anybody else hinted, what you've said you'd want to use that rifle on them."

"That proves you don't know Beulah," said Allan. "As for Jim, I've never able to get below that smile, and I saw more of him than you did, George."

"Well, I hope you find a way out," said George sincerely. "It would have been like her to come over to our place, but she isn't there. Maybe you'll find her at Morrison's."

"That's possible," said Harris. "We'll go over there, anyway."

But Morrison's knew no more of Beulah's whereabouts than did George, and inquiry at other homes in the neighborhood was equally futile.

Mr. Guthrie received his guest cordially, albeit with some wonderment as to which member of the family might be sick, but delicacy forbade a direct question.

"They're all well at home, I hope?" said Mr. Guthrie at length, feeling that the custom of the community had been sufficiently honored.

"Yes, all that's there," said Harris. "All that's there? I didn't know any of your folks were away. Perhaps Mrs. Harris is down East? I'm sure a summer amid the orchards of her old home would be a delight to her and, of course, Mr. Harris, you are able to gratify yourself in these little matters now."

Harris received these remarks with a mixture of feelings. The minister's reference to his financial standing carried with it a certain gentleness, but it concerned him with his recent conversations with his wife and with his present mission.

"And Beulah," continued the minister, conscious that his first shot had gone wild. "She's a fine young woman now. I see her in church occasionally. In fact, I was speaking with Mrs. Burton, the choir leader, a day or so ago, and Beulah's name was mentioned between us."

"It was about Beulah I came to see you," said Harris, with averted eyes. Then in a few words he gave his version of what he knew and what he suspected.

"I fear I can add nothing to your information," said Mr. Guthrie. "They haven't been here, and, as you say, if Beulah contemplated marriage, I think she would have called on me, Travers, too. I know a little, and thought him a decent chap. But we must find the girl and talk this over quietly with her. Is there any place in town she would be likely to go to? What about Mrs. Goode's boarding house? I will just call up on the telephone. I can make inquiry without the necessity of any explanations."

Inquiry at the house of Mrs. Goode brought a strong ray of light out of the darkness. Beulah had been there during the morning, and had explained that she was leaving on the west-bound train, which even now was humming at the station. On learning this, out a word Harris sprang into the buggy, while Allan brought a sharp cut of the whip across the splintered horses. They reached the railway station half a minute late; the train was already pulling out, and as Harris' eyes glowed in his anger and vexation they plainly saw Jim Travers swing lithely onto the rear platform. With an oath the farmer reached for his rifle, but Allan wrenched it from his hands before any onlookers noted the action. "Don't be a fool," he whispered, and started the horses homeward.

CHAPTER VIII.

Into the Farther West. During the drive homeward Harris' thoughts persistently turned to the share his wife had had in Beulah's departure, and his feeling toward Mary grew more and more hostile. He resolved, however, that there should be no open breach between them; he would neither scold nor question her, but would impress her with his displeasure by adopting a cold, matter-of-fact, speak-when-you're-spoken-to attitude toward her.

Under the circumstances it was not remarkable that Harris' work began to loom larger than ever in his life. The space left vacant by his daughter he filled with extra energy driving the great plows through the mellow summer-fallow. A new tank-train was engaged and the rumble of the engine was heard up and down the fields from early morning until dark. From his wife he held aloof, speaking with strained courtesy when speech was necessary. She, in turn, schooled for years in self-effacement, hid her sorrow in her heart, and went about her work with a resignation, which he mistook for cheerfulness, and which confirmed him in his opinion that she knew more of Beulah's intentions than she had cared to admit. Only with Allan his relations remained unchanged; indeed, the attachment between the two grew deeper than ever. The young man avoided any reference to Beulah; what he felt in his own heart he kept to himself, but the father shrewdly guessed that he laid the whole blame on Travers.

Meanwhile Mary plodded along with her housework, toiling doggedly from five in the morning until half-past nine or ten at eight. Beulah's departure had left all the labors of upon her hands; her husband made no suggestion of aid and she had not asked on two postcards she had had had, but they brought no mention. They came to the her husband was welcome them if he chose, but as he his own company excluded Beulah's departure she attempted to force them upon it.

At last one morning came a big fat letter, left in by passing by, as the custom of settler going to town to buy mail for those who lived route. She tore the envelope nervously and devoured it with hungry eyes.

"My Dear Mother: Here I am, in the shadow of the Rockies. That may sound but it's a literal fact. It is in the evening, but the sun peered behind the great mountains west, and the valley which down overlooks is filling up with mists. The Arthurs are pure. I have told them everything, don't blame anyone, not even How is he? Slaving as usual."

"Well, I must tell you trip. When I left the house I had no idea where I was the simplest thing seemed a first to Plainville. You've no idea how a suitcase got, but I took my there was nothing to gain to town before daylight. Well, there it struck me it might plan to have some breakfast, walked round to Goode's boarding-house. After breakfast I went over to the station, and asked what the fare was to Arthurs' station; I found

Life is like a game of whist. I don't enjoy the game much; but I like to play my cards well and see what will be the end of it.—George J. Hill.

But, mother, isn't there anything that I can do today? "Yes, you can go to school, and be wiser about it than."

I had enough money for the trip, and I bought a ticket without further ado. "The homestead ranch is on base of same; the trains are crowded, mostly with Americans, and the hotels are simply spilling over."

"I wanted to ask some one about Arthurs, and I didn't like to inquire in the hotel. There was a lot of drinking going on there. But near the door were two young men talking, and I overheard one of them mention Arthurs' name. Pulling myself together, I asked him if he could tell me where Arthurs lived."

"Yes, miss," he answered, lifting a big hat and showing when he spoke a clean set of teeth. "It's twenty-five miles up the river. Were you expecting him to meet you?"

"I explained that I had intended to drop in on them by surprise, but I had had no idea they lived so far from town."

"Oh, that's not far," he said. "Can you ride?"

"Everybody here rides horseback. It's the standard means of locomotion. And the women ride astride. I was a bit shocked at first, but you soon get used to it. But twenty-five miles is different from a romp round the pasture-field, so I said I was afraid not."

"Well, he just couldn't keep away from me all evening. He showered me with questions about you and father, which I answered as well as I could, but I soon found I couldn't keep my secret, so I just up and told him all. He was very grave, but not cross. 'You need time to think things over, and to get a right perspective,' he said, 'and our home will be yours until you do.'

"We drove home the next day, up a wonderful river valley, deep into the heart of the foothills, with the blue mountains always beckoning and receding before us. Mrs. Arthurs was as surprised and delighted as he had been, and I won't try to tell you all the things she said to me. She cried a little, too, and I'm afraid I came near helping her a bit. You know the Arthurs just what they are."

WILBUR WOOD FROG.

"I'm known as the Eastern Wood Frog, but I call myself Wilbur Wood Frog," said the Eastern Wood Frog. "I like the name of Wilbur Wood Frog. It sounds very fine, I think. Of course my family name is that of Eastern Wood Frog."

"But I like a little special name of my own. 'As a family we dress in brown or yellowish or reddish or grayish suits. It makes but little difference. We may have spots and we may not. We're not very fussy about the way we look. 'We, Mr. Wood Frogs, are smaller than the Mrs. Wood Frogs, and that is the way it is apt to be in the Frog World. My ears are smaller than my eyes, and I believe people have bigger ears than eyes. Chicks should never be crowded in brood coops, for crowding will cause them to become overheated

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, to many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one remedy for that chronic eye disease able to cure in all its stages, and that is Cataract. Hall's Cataract Cure is the only positive cure now known in the medical fraternity. Cataract being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The physicians have no more faith in the cure of cataract than they do in the cure of cancer. Send

First Methodist Church

We had a great day at the first Methodist Church last Sunday.
 The Sunday School attendance was at its height; our Superintendent, after a few week's absence, was again in his place.
 A splendid audience greeted us on "Mother's Day." Through the courtesy of the Epworth League, a box of white Carnations had been provided. They were provided for the older mothers, whom they planned to bring to the services. The Epworth League devotional was led by Miss Grace Moss. A business meeting will be held Wednesday evening and final arrangements made for an outing in the near future. Work of the tennis court was begun this week. A large audience listened to the helpful and scholarly address of Dr. H.

 H. Roberts, in the evening. Next Sunday we expect to surpass our efforts of the past for individual work. There are classes and opportunities in the Sunday School and Epworth League for all. At the morning service the pastor will resume the education-theme to which he was giving his attention before the revival meeting began. In the evening the Baccalaureate sermon will be delivered to the High School Graduating Class. All are cordially invited.

JEWELS THE MODE

Vogue for Ornaments Results in Use of Many Pieces.

Marked Demand for Novelty Designs to Enhance the Beauty of American Women.

One might suppose that after the continued craze for the wearing of so much jewelry would be a reaction. But this reaction has not come. The vogue for a great deal of jewelry does not fit in with the present-day standards of dress, which are of the simplest. It would appear that the love of barbaric ornamentation of the cave woman must find expression today as it did long ago. Jewelry, both with the Parisienne and the American woman, becomes more and more elaborate and an increasing number of pieces are worn at one time.

The demand for novelties of all sorts as well as for jewelry still is great. It seems that no piece of jewelry can be too fantastic to find favor. The snake design still continues very fashionable. The newest snake bracelets are made of diamonds and colored enamel. It is considered smart to wear a set of snake ornaments consisting of a bracelet and a belt made of gold and enamel, or the belt may be made entirely of gold.

Beautiful necklaces also are shown in this same form composed entirely of diamonds with a huge diamond pendant suspended from the snake's mouth. The necklaces and bracelets are very flexible.

The ideas exploited in purses are legion, not only in regard to the shape, the size and the material but the way in which different leathers and silks are put together. Flat envelopes are made almost like small writing cases. These may be of the softest of leathers completely covered with elaborate silk embroidery. Both sides of the purse are alike. Black-and-white combinations frequently are seen in this type of purse; that is, the case may be of white leather with a scroll embroidery in black satin, or of black embroidered in white.

THE HARDING BLUE SWEATER

This winsome sweater, in the new Mrs. Harding blue, is very likely to be the craze this summer.

SPRING FASHION NOTES

The newest riding habit has a fitted coat with flaring skirt. Motifs of dull wool embroidery appear on tricotine dresses.

A suit of gray wool gabardine is trimmed with green linen. Narrow patent leather belts are worn with the overblouse.

Double stitching is used as trimming on tailored serge suits. Blouses and belted jackets of linen are worn with woolen skirts.

Waistcoats are elaborately embroidered, and in vivid colors. Fancy checked linen and taffeta silks are combined for dresses.

The junior's gingham dress has a panel front and rounded neck. The waistline of the suit-coat is sometimes marked by stitching.

Large plaids in three-color effects are seen among spring suitings. The afternoon frock may have a V-shaped neck filled in with lace.

Blouse-gilets are made of brocade, and have high collars faced with satin. Neckwear will be seen in such colors as rose, orange, henna and tomato.

Spring coats boast scarfs of self-material finished with looped-leather fringe.

ECONOMY TO HAVE MANY HATS

Summer Headgear Given Time to Rest Between Times Will Make Better Appearance.

One thing to remember in the summer, even more than in the winter, is that several hats worn successively give much better results than one hat worn until it is gone and then another one. For if you give your hats time to rest between times, they look far better. Brush them and sometimes wipe them off with a damp cloth and when they get damp dry them carefully, keeping the brim shape either by flattening it down on a table or by rolling it to the proper curve with the fingers.

RECORD OF IMPORTANT EVENTS CONDENSED FOR BUSY PEOPLE.

WESTERN

Francis M. Goodwin of Spokane, Washington, has been nominated by President Harding to be assistant secretary of the interior.

"He spanked me so hard that for a long time I couldn't sit down," testified Mrs. Irene Gerstad, known on the screen as Irene DeVoss. She was granted a divorce in Los Angeles from Harry W. Gerstad, welder of the Hietty palm. In addition, Gerstad, a motion-picture camera-man, was ordered to pay her $30 a week.

Dancing in the cafes of San Francisco's once-famed uptown tenderloin ceases May 1 by an order promulgated by the police commission. The order forbids further dancing in the Pup and Black Cat cafes, the last two of a score of establishments in the once-noted district, and leaves only a few resorts, all in the Barbary Coast, where dancing is permitted.

Carl Nordlander, 16 years old and an orphan, was found asphyxiated in his room in San Francisco. The police version of his death was that he lost his life through his devotion to art. Lacking the prepared charcoal which artists use for drawings, he apparently had been charring in a gas jet splinters of wood to finish a drawing which was found uncompleted in the room, but had retired without turning the jet entirely off.

Tugged for a journey of several thousand miles by boat and rail, Tommy Bradford, 9, and his sister, Margie, 6, are on their way to their father in Calgary, Alberta. They were shipped by the prosecuting attorney of Seattle, Wash. Held as security for a bond bill, according to information reaching the prosecutor from the father and the American consul at Calgary, the children had been with Mrs. H. E. Sloan at Bay since she brought them from Calgary last summer. Mrs. Sloan gave them up as soon as an officer called. A collection was taken up to aid the children in their journey.

WASHINGTON

Secretary Denby has asked for $25,000 for use in obtaining a historical pictorial record of the American fleet in foreign waters during the war. Should the money be provided, the secretary said, Burnell Poole, an artist, would be engaged to do the work.

By direction of President Harding the federal reserve board has undertaken a special inquiry into the problem of deflating industrial values without serious injury to the agricultural interests. It is understood that some steps to aid agriculture in connection with the deflation trend may be taken by the board in the near future.

After having reposed with moth balls for a number of years, the principal articles of dress uniform formerly worn in the navy have been restored to use by an order of Secretary Denby. It authorizes the wearing, on stated occasions, of the frock coat, full-dress trousers, cocked hat, dress sword and sword belt and epaulets. Special full dress dinner dress and mess dress uniforms were not restored.

The House judiciary committee ordered a favorable report on the Volstead bill permitting organization by farmers, ranchmen, dairymen and fruit growers for purposes of collective marketing. The secretary of agriculture would have supervisory powers.

A brigade of "railroad artillery" has been sent to the Hawaiian islands for the better protection of that distant post. This force has in large part already arrived and as its name indicates, is intended for instant mobilization in case of emergency. The great problem of the army so far as the island of Oahu and Pearl Harbor are concerned is to safeguard them from sudden attack in the event of war.

A vacation trip to the Pacific coast for President Harding late this fall is being urged by some of his friends, and is understood to be receiving favorable consideration. The President is said to have indicated that if he finds opportunity for a vacation this year he will spend it in the Northwest. The northwestern trip first was suggested as part of a trip to Alaska, but it has been indicated that the President has little hope of getting that far away during the present summer.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has granted authority to the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railroad companies to issue $250,000,000 of joint fifteen-year convertible gold bonds at not less than 5 1/2 percent, and authorized the company to issue and pledge $55,000,000 of other bonds to aid in securing the joint bonds. The issue was authorized to enable the two roads to retire joint bonds amounting to $215,227,000, issued in 1901 for the purpose of purchasing the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad.

FOREIGN

The Tivoli gambling establishment, one of the largest of the kind ever operated in Mexico, has closed its doors in compliance with orders from Governor Barrios of Chihuahua. The place has been in operation since the first of the present year and during that time paid $306,000 gold in license fees to the state government.

Physicians of Dublin, regardless of politics, have ignored the order of the government military authorities to report at once the arrival in hospitals of persons suffering from gunshot wounds. Thus far no proceedings have been taken against them. The order was intended to aid the military in identifying their attackers, many of whom escape though wounded.

Reports from Paris from an authoritative source say the Council of the League of Nations has decided to award the Aland Islands to Finland. Sweden insisted on ownership of the islands, but the decision states that "Finland's right is incontestable." The soviets refuse to recognize the allocation of the islands to anyone except Russia, as they control the entrance to Petrograd.

Rene Viviani, special French envoy en route home, in a wireless message of congratulations to the American Legion, its national commander, Col. F. W. Galbraith, Jr., and General Pershing, invited the legion men to visit France and declared he never would forget the "courageous soldiers" of America. "Among the great people who love them, they will find anew the image of the great country which they honor," the message concluded.

Dr. Koudish, Russian Soviet representative at Constantinople, who was given a British passport visa to go to London to confer with Leonid Krassin, Soviet minister of trade and commerce, was assaulted and beaten by a Russian colonel while dining with his wife in a restaurant. The colonel exclaimed: "How dare you drink champagne among the victims of Soviet Russia!" British police who were called in told Koudish: "You are free to strike back." He demanded British official protection.

Riccardo Zanella, leader of the Flame people's party and head of the communistic faction in the Italian elections, by a coup d'etat, occupied the city hall at Fiume. Count Caccia-Dominioni, the Italian minister, left Fiume aboard a torpedo boat destroyer owing to the rioting. The frontier has been closed by a brigade of infantry. When the Autonomists claimed they had won the election by more than a thousand votes, Zanella and his forces stormed the city hall and ejected the old administration.

GENERAL

Filling stations in the Middle West have dropped gasoline from 25 to 22 cents a gallon, it was announced by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Gasoline at tank wagons is now 20 instead of 23 cents.

Plans for recruiting harvest hands in Kansas this season were discussed at a conference of heads of employment agencies in the various cities and the labor department of the industrial court. It was estimated 40,000 to 50,000 men would be required to gather the 1921 crop.

Reports from districts swept by a violent windstorm shows that the counties of Hamilton, Webster and Adams were visited and the property damage is considerable. Fifty farms within a radius of twenty-five miles of Hastings, Neb., were swept. On a number of farms the barns and outbuildings were completely destroyed and the houses damaged. On several farms horses and sheep were either killed or injured. In the vicinity of Guide Rock the wind took the form of a tornado, unroofing several houses and in one or two instances completely destroying them.

Cutt off from the fortune of George M. Oyster, the widow, Mrs. Cecil Ready Oyster of Syracuse, N. Y., will wage a bitter legal battle for a large part of the estate, it was predicted here when word came from Atlantic City that Oyster shortly before his death had executed a codicil to his will by which the society girl he married January 15 was disinherited.

With the definite selection of "Boyle's thirty acres," adjoining Montgomery park in Jersey City, as the site of the arena for the Dempsey-Carpenter heavyweight championship bout July 2, training plans of the contestants were laid accordingly. It is generally understood that the champion will select Atlantic City, while the Frenchman will train on Long Island.

Miss Lucia Russell Briggs, daughter of Lebaron Russell Briggs, president of Radcliffe College, and dean of the faculty of arts and sciences at Harvard, has been chosen president of Milwaukee Downer College at Milwaukee, Wis. She succeeds Miss Elin C. Sobin. Miss Briggs is a graduate of Radcliffe, and since 1915 has been connected with the English department at Simmons College.

Papers filed in the county clerk's office at Buffalo, N. Y., state that Ethel J. Mahan, owner of a grocery store, became so worried over fear that the government would confiscate her business, because of possible errors in her income tax report, that she lost her mind. She was committed to the state hospital for the insane by Acting Judge Ottaway.

Gives Tanlac Credit For Splendid Health

T. J. PARKER, 4246 Juneau Street, Seattle, Wash.

"I used to think all the Tanlac testimonials were exaggerated, but I have felt thankful a thousand times I ever believed in it strong enough to give the medicine a trial," said T. J. Parker, well-known salesman for Gately's Clothing Store, residing at 4246 Juneau St., Seattle, Wash.

"Several years ago I commenced having periodic spells of sickness and a few months ago I had an attack that I thought would finish me. When I did finally get up, I was scarcely able to go. I had no appetite and what little I forced myself to eat caused so much gas on my stomach I could hardly get my breath.

"At night I was often so bloated I couldn't breathe while lying down and just had to sit up and struggle for air. At times I had cramps so bad I could hardly endure it.

"My liver was sluggish and sometimes I got so dizzy I would nearly fall. I felt tired and miserable all the time, couldn't even sleep and for days at a time I wasn't able to go to work.

"Well, a friend of mine finally got me to try Tanlac, and it certainly has done a good job for me. My appetite is fine now and although I am eating just anything I want and as much as I please, my stomach never gives me the least trouble. I have picked up in weight, my strength has come back to me, and I am now enjoying the best of health.

"All the men at the store know Tanlac put me back on my feet, and I am glad to give this statement for what it may be worth to others."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Didn't Seem to Mind.

Yesterday I met an old schoolmate of mine who used to rank high in her studies but was rather untidy. I was surprised to learn that she was married (though I concealed it) and still more surprised that she was the happy mother of six boys.

"I should think you would be dead, so much work," said I.

"Oh, no," she smiled. "Come and see me some time. You'll find a house just like you'd expect me to have."

"O, no, not that bad," I protested, and nearly died of mortification a second later.

She only laughed merrily and renewed the invitation.—Exchange.

Come!

"How's the new Flubdub baby?"

"Well, I didn't tell the proud parents this, but they could make a fortune hiring him to a cartoonist as a model."

No man with a splendid rotund voice ever whispers.

They'll Do That.

Trumpeter Steadman—I never pay old debts. I forget them.

Private Beldel—But how about new ones?

Steadman—Oh, I let them get old.—Sparks.

A Lady of Distinction

Is recognized by the delicate fascinating influence of the perfume she uses. A bath with Cuticura Soap and hot water to thoroughly cleanse the pores, followed by a dusting with Cuticura Talcum powder usually means a clear, sweet, healthy skin.—Adv.

Force of Habit.

"And how did your love letter affect the pretty teacher?" "She gave me a general percentage of thirty."

When it Hurt.

"Did you hurt yourself much when the branch broke?" "No; not until I reached the ground."

SIMPLE TAILORED COSTUME

This nobby costume is a tailleur of tan tricote serge, belted with a narrow strap of russet leather. No fuss and feathers, but graceful in line.

Short Silk Coat a Novelty Light Weight Outer-Garment Fashioned Either in Tuxedo or Brief-Boxy Fashion.

Short silk coats lined with charmeuse and fashioned either in tuxedo or brief-boxy fashion are a novelty.

These coats belong in the category of bodices rather than of wraps, although they are worn over delicate blouses. Rarely, however, is the coat removed.

The sleeves may be soft-in, raglan or kimono, according to the fabric employed and the length of the coat.

One pretty model is of bright blue Canton crepe. The coat just clears the top of the hip and is cut in flaring box shape. It has the high color characteristic of these models. In lined with apricot charmeuse with the lining brought over as the outside facing instead of having the coat fabric turned in as the inner facing, and effecting a piping of the apricot against the blue.

A straight skirt of white viyella sateen with three-inch hem falling to within nine inches of the ground, and a blouse of heavy white crepe de chine on simple tailored lines with inch-wide streamers of jade green velvet pendant from the base of the rather high V-neck complete this typical costume scheme.

The hat shown with this model was a short-backed poke in a rough braid of sage and bright blue, trimmed only with a sach of apricot ribbon that was tied in a huge floppy bow on one side. A similar costume for more mature women—though maturity is dabbling recklessly this season into all color schemes that fashion's palette affords—had a tuxedo coat of tete de negre taffeta lined in silver gray charmeuse. The skirt was a side-plaited model of pearl-gray cashmere with three-inch wide rows of tete de negre silk braid running vertically from the waist to hem down the front breadth on either side of the narrow side plaits that gave ample room for the wearer's substantial figure.

Household Hints.

Egg yolk in warm water removes coffee stains. Pastry requires a hotter oven than any other food. Silk, not cotton, should be used when baking velvet. Mushrooms and tomatoes stewed together are delicious. Linseed oil on a soft rag will polish fireplace tiles. Roller shades of printed chintz are best for the sun parlor. Beans will take the place of meat for two meals each week. Canned pineapple combine well with canned pears for a salad. When making cherry salad add cherry juice to the mayonnaise.

Eggs Stuffed With Cheese.

Mash some cream cheese, isolate with heavy cream and season highly with salt and cayenne pepper, then make into balls three-fourths of an inch in diameter. Wash and dry some eggs, make an incision in each, and stuff with cheese balls. Serve as an accompaniment to dressed lettuce or any light dinner salad.

Absence of Disease Isn't Health; You Need Vitality, Energy

You may have no particular disease, and yet fall far short of enjoying real health. To be actually healthy you must be sturdy, alert, vigorous, a-sparkle with enthusiasm and the joy of living—fairly bubbling over with vitality and energy. Are you thus?

If you are well, yet listless and unambitious, it is because you lack some quality that would fill you with vim and drive, and rouse times out of ten the sole cause of this lack is found to be disordered, weak blood.

Wholesome blood is the very fountain source of that energy which puts spring into your muscles, snap into your step and sparkle into your eyes. If you want all this, begin right now to enrich your blood stream.

You will find, as thousands of others have found in the last fifty years, that S.S.S. is an excellent remedy to do this for you, one that removes the poisonous impurities and helps build your blood into a rich, nourishing supply. S.S.S. is an herb compound, discovered by the Indians, and still made as they made it.

THIS WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Brings a Ray of Hope to Childless Women

Lowell, Mass.—"I had anemia from the time I was sixteen years old and was very irregular. If I did any house-cleaning or washing I would faint and have to be put to bed, my husband thinking every minute was my last. After reading your text-book for women I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sensitive Wash, and have never felt better than I have the last two years. I can work, eat, sleep, and feel as strong as can be. Doctors told me I could never have children—I was too weak—but after taking Vegetable Compound I strengthened me so I gave birth to an eight pound boy. I was well all this time, did all my work up to the last day, and had a natural birth. Everybody who knew me was surprised, and when they asked me what made me strong I told them with great pleasure, 'I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never felt better in my life.' Use this testimonial at any time."—Mrs. ELIZABETH SMART, 142 W. Sixth St., Lowell, Mass. This experience of Mrs. Smart is surely a strong recommendation for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is only one of a great many similar cases.

Appearances Are Deceitful! "You are a fortunate man," said the automobile tourist. "How's that?" asked the farmer. "You are monarch of all you survey." "I guess you are wrong, stranger. I still see nine installments on that tractor you see, my hired man won't pay a bit of attention to what I say and there's a mortgage on the old home place."

ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE DOES IT When shoes pinch or corns and bunions ache, get a package of ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes. It takes the sting out of corns and bunions, gives instant relief to aching, swollen feet. 15¢ a box. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores. Made by Allen's Foot-Powder Co., Lowell, Mass.

Find the Cause! It isn't right to drag along feeling miserable—half sick. Find out what is making you feel so badly and try to correct it. Perhaps your kidneys are causing that throbbing headache or those sharp, stabbing pains. You may have morning lameness, too, headache, dizziness and irregular kidney action. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands of ailing folks. Ask your neighbor!

You Will Observe. He who learns in this old life To depend upon himself, Though he meet with troubles rife, Ere he quits acquires the prize.

Teach Kids How to Swim, Play

4,000 Centers Keep Boys Out of Mischievous and Help Them to "Keep Fit."

WONDERFUL RESULTS SEEN

Summer Activities on Playgrounds Eliminate Swearing, Cheating and Stealing Among Children—Fair Play Prevails. New York.—More than 4,000 playgrounds and recreational centers in the United States are helping to keep boys out of mischief, teaching girls swimming and other athletics and showing adults how to benefit themselves physically and mentally by play. The effect they have in keeping boys out of trouble with the police is emphasized in reports which have come to the Playground and Recreation association from all over the country as one of the most important results of the establishment of playgrounds in cities. These facts are given in the year book of the association just made public.

The chief of police of San Francisco believes the establishment of neighborhood recreation centers is a constructive measure toward suppressing the crime wave. He asked the community service to extend its recreation work because he believed that the wrong use of leisure time had much to do with the increase in crime.

Cure for "Bad" Boys. Granville Lee, supervisor of the Portland (Me.) recreation commission, says that bad boys behave themselves better during the playground season and also that there are fewer street accidents to children because of playgrounds. The playground directors of Bay City, Mich., have discovered that summer activities on the playgrounds have practically eliminated all swearing, cheating and stealing among the children. They note with satisfaction that the spirit of fair play has helped to put the playground bully where he belongs and boast of an appreciable falling off of delinquents.

MANY GERMANS QUIT BATHING

Find Hot Water a Luxury Because of the Shortage in Supply of Coal. Berlin.—The hot bath has become such a luxury in Germany, owing to the shortage of coal and the manner in which the government regulates the distribution of fuel, that many persons have ceased bathing. Others have gathered courage for an icy sponge daily, but this is not popular, for the houses are generally cold, and exposure in cold rooms after a chilly tub paves the way for colds and pneumonia. Ordinarily a family can afford hot water once every two weeks. Public baths, where once a plunge or a tub was available for a few pfennigs, have been forced to close or raise prices beyond the reach of workmen and salaried workers.

RIVER PACKET DAYS RECALLED

Attempt to Revive Mississippi Traffic Brings Stories of "Good Old Times."

VOYAGE PLEASANT AFFAIR

There Was Great Rivalry Between Boat Owners and Crews and Many Exciting Races Were Puled Off—Robert E. Lee Famous. New Orleans.—Memories of old days on the Mississippi when stately packets plied in the passenger traffic are revived by the resumption of traffic between Pittsburgh, Pa., and this city by way of the Ohio. Barges have carried freight traffic on the great river for many years since the packets were driven out by railroad competition. In the days of been helpful in establishing friendships among the employees, and between them and their employers, and in lessening the popularity of crap shooting. Many different organizations are promoting this work, with the result that a 42 per cent gain is reported for last year.

MARK TWAIN THE MISSISSIPPI PACKETS

very celebrated for their "cats," their famous races, their pilots and even for their poker games. It used to be no uncommon sight to see from 15 to 30 passenger vessels, from the palatial packet to the weather-beaten tramp, leave the New Orleans landing daily for up-river points. Voyages Were Pleasant. A river voyage in the olden days was a pleasurable affair if the boilers did not blow up or the vessel hit one of the shifting sandbars, mudlumps or hidden snags. A comfortable berth, watermelon parties, well-stocked bars, stud and draw poker games for the patrons of that form of amusement, and last but not least, the antics of the negro roustabouts, all combined to make things pleasant for the traveler. Saturday was usually the sailing day for up-river packets from this port. There was great rivalry between boat owners and crews, and usually from one to a dozen boat races were pulled off as the vessels chugged up the river. It was then that boilers blew up with marked frequency.

THE MOST FAMOUS OF THESE RACES WAS RUN BY THE NATCHES AND THE ROBERT E. LEE, TWO OF THE LARGEST OF THE RIVER PACKETS.

So keen was the rivalry that early in the seventies it was planned to have them race from New Orleans to St. Louis. No passengers or freight were carried and for weeks the coming race was the chief topic of conversation along the river. The Robert E. Lee was in command of Captain Cannon, while Captain Leathers was master of the Natches. No stops were made except for fuel. The trip to St. Louis was made in just a few hours over three days, an unheard of record then, with the Robert E. Lee the winner by a small margin.

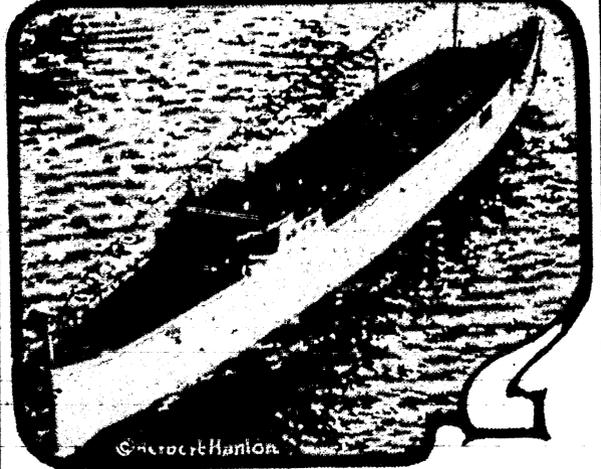

PROMOTERS ARE CURIOUS

Promoters now are figuring whether human nature has changed from the olden days, whether a person will be content to idle the time away on long trips which he could make in a fraction of the time by rail; whether they "have time" to take quiet pleasure. Freight rates, interstate commerce commission hearings, uniform bills of lading and other prosaic commercial matters figure in the traffic side of the question. The passenger business is regarded as a gamble.

THOMPSON WAS SURPRISED BY THE REQUEST FOR HIS NAME AND ADDRESS.

Some time later he was summoned to one of the hospitals of the city. There he discovered that the one who had asked for him was the beggar whom he had befriended some time before. The old man told him that he had sent for him to disclose to him the resting place of a great treasure. He said that he, Killrain, being the only survivor of the company and about to die, did not wish the secret to perish with him. Thus it was that Thompson came into the knowledge of the story and sailing directions to locate the island. Being convinced that the story was founded on truth, he has spent eight years in search of it—so far without success. Lately, some people in Tahiti have discovered what they believe to be a new clue and are preparing to fit out an expedition to go to the island. Athens, the Greek capital, enjoys bright sunshine on an average of 304 days of the year.

HUNT CHURCH LOOT

New Party Formed to Seek Treasure of Bandits.

Wealth of Gold and Precious Stones Taken From Church in Peru During Revolution and Buried. Papeete, Tahiti (Society Islands).—Interest has once more been aroused in the treasure reputed to be buried in the island of Pinaki, one of the coral islands to the eastward of Tahiti, and a new association has been formed in Tahiti to seek for the treasure. The story is that during a revolution in Peru 90 years ago a church was looted of a rich treasure of gold and precious stones by four men, who succeeded in getting it to the coast where they buried it in a safe place, afterward making their way to Papeete. They scuttled their schooner on the Australian coast and coming ashore in the guise of shipwrecked sailors, started for Sidney overland. Two, only, by name, Killrain and Brown, arrived in Sidney; the other two having been killed in a fight with bush natives. Such is the story of the burial of the treasure. The tale of the attempts for its recovery begins in 1842 or 1843 when one day on the streets of Sidney a man by the name of Thompson was accosted by an elderly beggar seeking alms. On giving the man a small sum

"Have you read it?" "Oh, no! I wouldn't dare read it, as my duties require me to be enthusiastic in recommending it to customers."

The Responsible Party. Jimmie's report card was full of distinctly poor grades and the mother was scolding him about them. She even threatened to deprive him of picture shows if they were not made better. "Why, just look at Teddy's—" she said. "Almost every one of his grades was excellent." Jimmie's downcast face became even more so. "Well, it's your fault my grades aren't as good as his," he declared. "My fault," ejaculated his mother. "What nonsense! How did you get that?" "Well, his father is a widower and the teacher is looking for a husband," came back his perfectly lucid answer.

Extensive improvements are going on at the Carrizozo Eating House, under Mr. Sweet's management. The entire structure is being remodeled and steam will be furnished from the round house for heating purposes. Bath rooms are to be on both floors. Mr. Sweet assures us, that he will give Carrizozo a hotel second to none in surrounding cities. The railroad company will shortly erect a large sand house at a cost of several thousand dollars. This improvement will greatly benefit and relieve present conditions, as sanding engines is a matter of much importance in these mountain regions. Other improvements for the near future for Carrizozo, are pending.
