PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

A Preliminary Discussion by the Director of the Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico

On the 3rd Monday of September 1921, the people will have an opportunity to vote on eleven (11) proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of New Mexico as follows:

1. To permit women to hold public office.
2. To prevent aliens who are ineligible to citizenship from owning real estate.
3. To remove the limitation as to the number of terms for which the State Superintendent of Public Instruction may be elected.
4. To permit an exemption from taxation of $2,000.00 worth of property belonging to a soldier, sailor, marine or army nurse, who has served in the armed forces of the United States in time of war.
5. To permit the legislature to change the powers and duties of the Corporation Commission, to make binding any order of the Commission as to rates until otherwise provided by legislation, and to throw the burden of proving unreasonableness of rates.
6. To provide for a State Budget.
7. To provide for a "State Land Commission."
8. To establish maximum limitations upon tax levies.
9. To permit cities, towns and villages to vote upon bond issues at regular or special elections.
10. To remove limitation upon the number of terms for which a county superintendent of schools may be elected.
11. To make possible the early issue of a bond issue of $2,000,000 and to validate certificates of indebtedness and debentures authorized by the fifth legislature.

In this article it is our purpose to discuss only two of the proposed amendments, Nos. 6 and 8.

Proposed amendment No. 6 will change Section 3, Article XX, and Section 6, Article IV of the Constitution. It provides that all officers except the governor shall begin their terms as at present, and that the governor's term shall begin one month earlier than at present, that is on December 1st, following his election.

The opening of the legislative session will take place two or three weeks later than at present. The object of these provisions is to give time to the governor to study the financial needs and abilities of the state with a view to submitting a carefully prepared budget to the legislature. In fact the sole purpose of this amendment is to establish an effective budget system as a feature of the state's financial administration.

If the amendment is ratified the governor will have the power to collect information from state boards, departments, and institutions, hold hearings thereon and to arrange a budget for the guidance of the legislature. The executive will also submit a general appropriation bill with the budget, both to be presented no later than the 20th day of the legislative session.

It is our belief that the legislature will begin its consideration of the departmental and institutional requests. Through the governor all necessary data may be made available for the proper legislative committee. The items in the general appropriation bill, as submitted by the governor may be revised downward by the legislature, but no item can be increased. It should be kept in mind, however, that the governor may amend or supplement the budget and general appropriation bill and after final action upon the general appropriation bill, special appropriation bills may be enacted.

The proposed amendment would, therefore, permit the executive and the legislative branches of the government to co-operate in studying the needs of the state and in providing funds therefor. The ratification of the budget amendment will place New Mexico in line with other states where advances have been made in efficiency of governmental administration. Our state will also be in line with the Federal Government in the present efforts in Congress are successful as seems highly probable.

Hit and miss methods of handling public funds must be discarded. Upon the chief executive officer rests the responsibility of managing the public business, and upon his shoulders that responsibility is definitely placed by this amendment. Within two months in which to study the needs of the state, and after due consideration after hearing those interested the governor will be in position to present a well balanced appropriation measure based upon a budget prepared according to the relative merits of the various and several demands for revenue. Under the present conditions lobbying methods may secure for some departments or institutions more than it deserves. The budget plan embodied in the proposed amendment will, it is believed, distribute public funds, not only more economically, but also more fairly and more justly.

Amendment No. 8.

Proposed amendment No. 8, changes Section 3, Article VIII of the Constitution so as to place a maximum limitation of—

1. Six (6) mills for all state purposes and one on each dollar of the assessed valuation of all property subject to taxation in the state. Other limitations are also established as follows:
2. Five (5) mills for all county purposes and used excepting special school levies, special levies for health and special levies in specific classes of property.
3. Two (2) mills levied on all property in the state outside the foregoing limitations for state highways.
4. Fifteen (15) mills for general county school purposes, of which the levy in excess of ten (10) mills required the approval of the county commissioners and the State Tax Commission.
5. Five (5) mills for city, town or village purposes or uses.
6. One-half (1-2) mill for health purposes.
7. Five (5) mills for special district purposes.
8. Levies for payment of interest and principal of public debt are not included in any limitation.
9. Special exemptions from statutory limitations as provided by the fifth legislature will not be affected by the ratification of the eighth amendment.

The necessity for the adoption of maximum limitations upon tax levies, found in the rapid increase of taxes during the last five years. If the combined state and county tax rate is considered it will be found that the increase is startling. In only three counties has the increase been less than 50 (50) per cent. In eight or nine counties it has been more than one hundred (100) per cent. In the various county codes, the tax rate on all purposes increased from 25 to 70 per cent, the total tax rate amounting to nearly five (5) per cent a general municipalities.

MEXICAN RECOGNITION HINGES UPON SIGNING OF AGREEMENT; MUST GUARANTEE PROTECTION

Mexico City, Mex., May 31.—Recognition of the Mexican government by the United States is now but a question of a few hours, it is believed, at a result of negotiations between President Obregon and Gen. T. Sumnerlin, American charge d'affaires, relative to the memorandum of the American State Department.

It is also known that the document which may be signed by President Obregon is mostly a guarantee that certain requests of the United States will be complied with. Chief among these is ample protection for American lives and property in Mexico.

The State Department is understood to have championed no special American interests. Such guarantees are said to be not only for physical protection but for property rights.

President Obregon has emphasized that it is impossible for him to sign anything reflecting on the national honor and it is learned that the government of Mexico should guarantee it will be in such form as not to offend the susceptibilities of the Mexican people.

Newspaper reports that the president had requested Mr. Sumnerlin to call at the national palace for a further exchange of ideas, but the American charge d'affaires informed the correspondent he had received no invitation.

Mr. Sumnerlin still declined to discuss his conference with the president of last week or to divulge the contents of the memorandum he is understood to have had.

Washington, D. C., May 31.—Official comment was withheld on the possibility of early recognition of the government of Mexico should President Obregon sign the memorandum presented to him by George T. Sumnerlin, American charge d'affaires at Mexico City.

The memorandum was taken to Mexico City by Mr. Sumnerlin last week after he had discussed the question with Secretary Hughes. Unless such assurances are given, it was said recognition will not be extended.

school levies, special levies for health and special levies in specific classes of property.

Two (2) mills levied on all property in the state outside the foregoing limitations for state highways.

Fifteen (15) mills for general county school purposes, of which the levy in excess of ten (10) mills required the approval of the county commissioners and the State Tax Commission.

Five (5) mills for city, town or village purposes or uses.

One-half (1-2) mill for health purposes.

Five (5) mills for special district purposes.

WILSON BREAKS LONG SILENCE IN A MEMORIAL LETTER TO THE "STARS AND STRIPES"

We Shall Not Be Able to Enjoy the Day's Recollections Until We Have Made Sure the Duties Growing Out of the War Have Been Fulfilled, Says Former President.

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Woodrow Wilson today broke the silence he has maintained since he retired from the White House on March 4.

In a Memorial Day letter to the editor of the "Stars and Stripes," which was published today in that soldier periodical, he declared that the American people "shall not be able to enjoy the full pride of the day's recollections until we have made sure that the duties that grow out of the war have been fulfilled to the utmost."

"Are you sure?" he asked. "If we are not shall we not soon take steps to do whatever has been omitted?"

The full text of the former president's letter follows:

"Memorial Day has always been one of the most solemn and thoughtful anniversaries which we recalled great memories and dedicated ourselves again to the maintenance and purification of the nation, but this year it has an added and tremendous significance because the memories and sacrifices of the great world war are now among the most stimulating of the recollections of the day.

We celebrate the immortal achievements of the men who died in France on the field and in the trenches, far away from home, in order that both our own people and the people across the ocean might be delivered from the ugliest peril of all history. It is our privilege not only to indulge a high and solemn pride and grief for the heroes of that great struggle but also to re-dedicate ourselves to the achievement of the great objects for which that war was fought.

We shall not be able to enjoy the full pride of the day's recollections until we have made sure that the duties that grew out of the war have been fulfilled to the utmost.

"Are you sure? If we are not shall we not soon take steps to do whatever has been omitted?"

Cordially yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

PRICES OF FARM CROPS BELOW PRE-WAR AVERAGE

Washington, D. C., May 30.—The prices of six of the important crops on May 1 of this year were below the pre-war average prices for that date, according to figures collected by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture.

These crops are Corn, Oats, Barley, Flax, Potatoes and Cotton. The report showed that the prices of the three grains—wheat, rye, and buckwheat—were above the pre-war average prices. During April the average price of wheat declined from $1.65 to $1.23 per bushel. The report shows that in general the industrial crops, such as flax, cotton, and broom corn, are most depressed in price, and that food crops, such as wheat, rye, potatoes, and apples, show relatively less decline.

The prices in various parts of the country vary, with South Dakota being the center of the low-price district, the May 1 report shows. The average price of wheat in that state was 90 cents per bushel, and in some counties it was as low as 70 cents. Corn was selling at an average price of 23 cents per bushel in South Dakota, while the average price for the United States was nearly 60 cents.

The price of oats was 23 cents per bushel in South Dakota, the average for the United States being 36 cents. The report showed a big decline in the price of old potatoes, especially in Michigan, where the average was 20 cents a bushel, which was 20 cents below the average for the United States.

HON. HOLM O. BURSUM

United States Senator from New Mexico, Succeeding Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior.

From a homeless boy at nine to a seat in the United States Senate at 53 are the extremes in the busy life of Hon. Holm O. Bursum, the new Senator from New Mexico, who succeeded Albert B. Fall, elected from the Senate by President Harding to serve as Secretary of the Interior.

His such practical and gainful occupations as telephone operator, clerk in a western store, freighting contracts, railroad building, ending in sheep-raising on a scale such as only a successful herder could attain on the vast grazing lands of New Mexico.

Mining and merchandising also form links in the chain of his business endeavor, constituting him one of the capable, solid and esteemed citizens of one of the newest commonwealths of the Republic.

Senator Bursum took to politics years back, gaining influence and power in the Republican party councils and reaching the highest position of State Committeeman in the National Republican organization, which he has successfully held for several years.

When Senator Fall was called to a higher place the people of New Mexico had but one choice and Mr. Bursum was named at the first opportunity.

That no mistake was made in a ready in evidence. Congress is scarcely a month old, and Senator Bursum has introduced several bills, saving for their object distinct benefits to his state. One of these is a measure to aid stockmen and others in carrying loans with the Federal Loan Bank with provisions safeguarding the interests of both borrower and lender.

This makes a fair beginning in the way of proposed legislation, and those acquainted with Senator Bursum's force of character and business methods predict not only success in his legislative program, but a high place for him in the esteem of his fellow citizens and of the people of the nation.

Senator Bursum was born in Iowa, at Fort Dodge. His father died when the boy was two years old, and his mother died when he was nine. His early years were passed with relatives and friends who looked after him as most orphaned and homeless boys are cared for. His pace in business began and blossomed forth late.

A painful vocation when he took over freighting contracts to and from Fort Wingate, New Mexico in the days when the Santa Fe trail was little more than a bridle path through long reaches of mesa and uncharted desert.

He made good in his responsible and hazardous task and laid the foundation of a fortune that grew rapidly with the years, with new investments and in the growth of the new territory into a state. His business interests finally centered in sheep and cattle ranches near Socorro, New Mexico where for several years past he has carried on extensive operations in growing wool and beef.

Other ventures more or less in line, and up to the hour, almost, that Senator Bursum left for Washington, he conducted the large interests of his ranches in person.

Senator Bursum has always "stood well" in his town, county and state. He has always been one of the leaders in thought, deed and effective plan for the upbuilding of the local interests. He has given freely of his time, his money and his effort to the public welfare, and the answer is this: great in the respect and confidence of every good citizen of New Mexico. He has been told that his people expect much of him, and a few minutes talk with Mr. Bursum and a little understanding of his life career leaves one with the impression that they will not be disappointed.

Senator Bursum came to Washington with two little notices to arrange his business, his family were left behind at Socorro, chiefly because two of the four youngsters composing the family needed to complete terms already begun in the public schools.

Mrs. Bursum was Miss Lulu Moore, of Silver City, New Mexico. Two daughters are attending the University of California, and Holma O. Bursum, Jr., with the youngest daughter are with their mother at Socorro.

CATTLE CONDITIONS WORST IN 30 YEARS SAYS J. E. SAINT

Santa Fe, N. M., May 28.—The plains are seared, cattle are being shipped out by the car loads and others are dying on the browned ranges as the result of the prolonged drought in the southwestern corner of New Mexico, said J. E. Saint, tax commissioner chairman, who spent the last week in the stricken section.

"The situation never was worse," he said, "I've been running it and out of that country for thirty years, and while it may have been worse some time I don't remember it. There are three counties and part of Sierra are in awful shape. The plains are simply burnt up."

"I was told that 15,000 head had been moved out of Grant. I suppose a proportionate number has been moved out of Luna. Two of the biggest herds in Luna have been moved over into Mexico to get better feed."

"Hidalgo has better feed because it hasn't been overstocked as much as the other two counties. The feed there is dry, but there's more old grass there. It looked so to me from the train, though I didn't go out into the country."

Mr. Saint said that he was told by H. A. Jairo, Bakersfield, Calif., owner of the "Diamond A" outfit, one of the biggest in New Mexico, that he had shipped all his cattle that could stand shipping to California ranges.

Contrary to the report that the recent rains brought relief to these counties Mr. Saint said little fell on the plains, although the mountainous parts shared in the precipitation. The higher ranges were greatly benefited but those on the plains remained parched and dotted here and there by the carcasses of the cattle.

Mr. Saint said he had not heard that some of the smaller cattlemen were turning their cattle over to the banks and leaving the country as recent visitors in Santa Fe from the southwest section have stated.

BURSUM CLUBS BEING ORGANIZED OVER THE STATE

(Magdalena News.) Bursum Clubs, whose objects are to work, push and use every energy to send Bursum back to the U. S. Senate, at an election to be held in September, are being formed all over the state. Mr. Bursum's friends will use every honorable endeavor to return him, and while opposition will develop in spots, and other men will, no doubt, enter the race, it seems to be a foregone conclusion that Bursum will receive the endorsement of his party in the primaries, and thereby carry the state at the general election by a large majority.

Socorro formed a strong Bursum club last Friday night and Magdalena has circulated petitions for membership in a club there, and it was signed by every republican to whom presented, and also by a large number of democrats. Steps will be taken at once to organize the club, and it will start off with a very large membership. Reserve Quemado and other points in the western part of the county are busy organizing clubs, as well as all points up and down the Rio Grande river. Inside of the next ten days Bursum clubs will have been organized in every precinct in the state.—Magdalena News.

TOURIST TRAVEL INCREASING DAILY

(Magdalena News.) The tourist travel over the Ocean to Ocean Highway is increasing by leaps and bounds every day. This highway is proving as popular this season as ever before, and every car that goes over the route is a "booster" for the Highway, as well as for the service they receive at the filling stations, garages and hotels on the road. The Ocean to Ocean is recognized as the most direct, as well as the fastest and most scenic route between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast. Last week in a trip to Socorro from Magdalena we passed eleven automobiles, besides twenty-one of "Henry's" productions" and the return trip made after dark found nearly as many cars headed east. From all reports received from Auto Clubs and other sources the auto travel for this season has just begun, and it is estimated that double the tourists will make the trip this year than have ever made the trip in any season heretofore, and 99 percent of them are listed and have declared their intentions of making the trip over the Ocean to Ocean Highway. Also with the completion of the Lincoln county link in the Carrizozo-Socorro route, we will have hundreds of southern cars over this route that have heretofore gone over southern highways.

GOOD RAINS AROUND US

Incoming ranchmen from surrounding localities report good rains during the last week. Harry Aguayo came in from Nogal on Tuesday and told about a soaking rain in that region lately. Will Ed Harris and Mr. Townsen from White Mountain, others from Corona, Lincoln, Capitan, Arco and other places except this locality, have been visited with the precious fluid in quantities to insure the range from burning out during the heated season.

TYPHUS EPIDEMIC WILL NOT SPREAD, SAYS PHYSICIAN

Dr. C. E. Waller Returns From the Navajo Reservation Where, He Declares, the Situation is in Hand.

Santa Fe, N. M., May 28.—"I'm not in the least apprehensive that the disease will spread to other parts of the state," declared Dr. C. E. Waller, public health director, today, upon his arrival from the typhus fever zone, in the Navajo reservation in the northwestern corner of the state.

"The situation on the reservation, he said, is serious. Since his wife to the public health bureau, reporting 16 deaths, three more have been added to the casualty list. When he left there were seven or eight active cases in the infected area. He explained he 18 deaths previously reported had occurred during the last three months.

Believes Disease Confined. He believed the outbreak could be confined to the reservation. Vigorous steps have been instituted for its control and there are three Indian service physicians and two nurses on the ground. He believed the force adequate for the emergency.

The Indians are "deloused" when they become sick as the disease is carried only by lice, and placed in the hospital at Shiprock. "Contacts" also is deloused. "Waller believes this will result in stamping out the disease, but he said, the process is a slow one. Little Concerned.

"I had one boy pull his shirt-off and I showed him the lice crawling along the seams," he said, "and doggone if he didn't put it on as soon as I handed it back."

Waller said there was no danger in handling Navajo blankets as the lice carriers could not live more than four or five days away from the human body. He said ago the traders who handled the blankets first were disinfecting them and it would be folly if the Navajo blanket industry was ruined on account of the scare as the Indians now had little else for their support.

Police Enforce Order

Only part of the reservation is infected—an area fifteen miles square west of Shiprock and close to the Arizona line—and under his direction communication between this zone and the rest of the reservation has been restricted. Indian police are enforcing the order.

Situation Not Serious. Commenting upon the alarm raised by the outbreak in other parts of the state, Waller called attention to the fact that 200 persons died from diphtheria last winter and the epidemic caused little stir. He remarked the typhus was not any more dangerous than the diphtheria in the infected zone and less likely of being spread to the other parts of the state than the diphtheria. He said the scare was largely to the fact that the typhus fever was rare in New Mexico.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

(Mrs. M. L. Blaney.) Teachers are traveling in all directions to summer schools to make special preparation for their work the coming year. Las Vegas, Silver City and Berkeley are attracting the majority. A complete list will be published.

The Reading Circle books for 1920-1921 are for Second Grade certificates. For teachers holding second grade and higher certificates: "Twentieth-Century Rural School," E. E. Davis, published by Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, Ind., Price, $1.00; "A School Master of the Great City," Angelo Part, published by Mac Millan Co., New York, Price, $1.00.

The above books may be secured by writing to the Chas. H. Field Company, Albuquerque. Cash must be sent with order and books will be sent prepaid at the above prices, to all points in New Mexico. Safe delivery will be guaranteed for 5 cents additional. Books will not be sent on approval nor are they returnable.

Teachers' examinations will be held in the office of the County Superintendent on the following dates, June 10, 11, and June 24, 25, and July 8, 9, and July 22, 23.

On account of the large number of teachers attending summer schools of the County Institute has been waived.

SENATOR BURSUM DISTRIBUTES REPORT ON GEOLOGY OF THE TULAROSA BASIN

Santa Fe, N. M., May 28.—"Geology and Water Resources of Tularosa Basin, New Mexico" is the title of an exhaustive government publication issued some time ago, but being distributed through Senator H. O. Bursum at this time, because of the interest in oil development in that part of the state. The bulletin is replete with maps, half tones, tables and detailed geological analysis of the formations from the Texas boundary to the southern boundary of Torrance county, and between the summit of the Organ and San Andrea mountains on one side and the Sacramento and White Mountains on the east.

"You don't learn anything, Riles, do you? You don't know anything more about making money than you did 20 years ago."

"Well, maybe I don't, and maybe I do, but I can pay my way, and I can go back to Plainville when I like, too."

"Don't get hot," said Gardiner, with unshaken composure. "I'm just trying to put you wise to yourself. Don't make any difference to me if you spend your whole life sod-busting; it's your life—spend it any way you like. But it's only men who don't know any better that go on to the land now and then. It's a lot easier to make a living out of farmers than out of farming."

"Well, p'raps so, but that's more in your line. I never—"

"That's just what I say—you never learn. Now look at me. I ain't wearing my last suit, nor spending my last dollar, either, and I haven't done what you'd call a day's work since I came west. There's other things so much easier to do."

"Mennin'—"

"Oh, lots of things. Remittance men, for instance. These woods are full of them. Chaps that never could track straight in the old days, and were sent out here where there aren't any runs at all. They're not a bad bunch, brought up like gentlemen, most of 'em, play the piano and talk in three or four languages, and do their kind of stuff but they're simply dangerous with money. So when it comes to hand in the public interest they have to be separated from it."

"Sounds interesting," said Riles.

"Fit, too, especially when one of 'em don't take to the treatment and says for you with a gun. But my hat's all there. That's what comes of wearing a tall hat."

"Tell me," said Riles, his face lit up with interest. "How'd you do it?"

"I wouldn't do you any good," said Gardiner. "You've steered too many plow handles to be very nimble with your fingers. But there's often other game to be picked up, if a man knows where to look for it."

"Well, I wish I knew," Riles confessed. "Not anything crooked, y'know, but something like—well, something like you're doing. I've worked hard for every nickel I ever made, and I reckon if there's any money gold I've a right to get some of it."

"Now you're beginning to wake up. Though, mind you, some of it isn't as easy as it looks. You've got to know your business, just like farming or anything else. But you can generally land something to live on, even if it ain't a big stake. Take me now, for instance. I ain't doing anything that a preacher mightn't do. Happened to fall in with a fellow who owns a ranch up the river here. Cleaned him empty one night at cards—stood him up for his last cent, and he kind of took a notion to me. Well, he's the son of a duke or an earl, or some such thing, and not long ago the governor goes and dies on him, leaving him a few castles and bric-a-brac like that and some wagon loads of money. So he had to go home for the time being, and he wanted someone to run his ranch, who should he think of but me. Suppose he thought if I happened to bot it at poker some night I wouldn't lose it and that's some consideration. He's got 1,000 acres or so of land up there with a dozen cayuses on it, and he gives me 25 pounds a month, with board and lodging and open credit at the trading company, to see that it doesn't walk away in his absence. Besides that, I hire a man to do the work, and charge his wages up in the expenses. Got a good man, too—one of those fellows who don't know any better than work for a living. By the way, perhaps you know him—comes from Plainville part—Travers his name is?"

"Sure," said Riles. "He worked for Harris, until they had a row and he lit out. It kind of balled Harris up, too, although he'd never admit it. If he'd Travers there it'd be easier for him to get away now."

"Where's Harris going?"

"He ain't goin'! He's comin'. Comin' out here to a row days after me. I'm his kind of advance guard, spyin' out the land."

"You don't say? Well, see and make him come through with the expenses. If I was traveling with Jack Harris I wouldn't be sleeping in a hen coop like this. He's worth yards of money, ain't he?"

"Oh, some, I guess, but perhaps not so much more'n his neighbors."

"Nothing personal, Riles. You've got to get over that narrowness if you're going to get into the bigger game. I've been telling you about it. I don't care how much you're worth—how much is Harris bringing with him?"

"Couple of hundred dollars, likely."

"I wouldn't show my hand for that. How much can he raise?"

"Well, suppose he sold the old farm—"

"Now don't do any reckless supposing. Will he sell the farm?"

"Here he'll sell it if he sees some thing better."

"How much can he get for it?"

"I Won't Hold You to Anything—You Said Last Night, Riles."

the prairie in a buckboard long before this."

Riles shot a quick glance at Gardiner, but he was puffing a cigar and drinking in the warm sunshine with obvious satisfaction.

"So I might've been, but I thought we kind of made a date last night, didn't we?"

"Did we? Oh, yes; now I remember. But I thought perhaps you'd feel different about it in the morning. A man generally does. I won't hold you to anything you said last night, Riles."

Riles could not recall that he had said anything that committed him in any way, but Gardiner's tone implied that plainly enough.

"It ain't charged my mind," he said, "but I don't know if I said anything bindin', did I? I thought we was goin' to drive out to your place 't'day and talk things over."

"Well, I just didn't want you to lose any time over me if you thought things wouldn't work out," said Gardiner. "It takes more nerve, you know, than holding potatoes. But you're welcome to the hospitality of the ranch, in any case. I came in on horseback, so we'll get a team at one of the stables and drive out."

In a short time they were on their way. The road skirted the river, threading its way through the narrow belt of cotton woods and evergreens that found footing in the moist soil of the valley.

"It's all right, Riles," Gardiner was saying. "If you're prepared to stay with the deal we can pull it through—no doubt about that. That is, if Harris will sell his farm and come out here with the cash in his jeans. He won't do that, you better get busy on your homestead proposition right away."

CAPE FOR THE SUMMER

Favorite Old Wrap Still Holds Many's Attention.

Garment That Has Been Worn Through All Ages Is More Charming Than Ever.

Women have always loved capes, and in all ages have they worn them—in the days when court ladies of the empire covered the indiscretions of their India muslins with bright grass green capes, glitteringly embroidered in golden garlands; in other days when the prim Colonial Priscilla hid the soft whiteness of her kerchief under a demure gray cashmere cape, as she hurried by with downcast eyelashes; and in far desert countries where dark-eyed women, idling beside the sweatmeat booths in the bazaars, shrouded their dark beauty in the colorful brilliance of their burnouses—draped, silken capes. For every woman knows the infinite grace and glamour surrounding a cape and the wearer of a cape.

The crepe capes of today surpass in their charm and variety all the capes which have gone before them and inspired them. We see them designed in every color, for every hour of the day, for every variation or age, complexion or occasion. There are crepe capes of demure gray, collared with squirrel or mole and matching smart gray crepe town frocks; there are mahogany-brown capes, embroidered in silver to add picturesqueness to a mahogany restaurant frock; there are crepe capes of peach or pink, gray-blue or orchid, whitely collared with caracul for a debutante's summer evening wrap. There are capes of strawberry-red crepe to throw over one's white crepe tennis frock, when the wind freshens and the sun sinks behind the blue hills; there are capes with oriental burnous drapery, richly embroidered; capes with high rolling cuffs and capes with quaint narrow peasant's collars, tying with ribbons.—Vogue.

TASSELED TURBANS IN GRAY

Color in Numerous Shades Popular for Millinery, Furs, Shoes and Other Apparel.

A color which is very popular just now is gray. Years ago gray was gray and that was all there was to it, but now it has a myriad of names and tones. Moonstone, cloud, cinder, pelican and zinc are a few of them.

Many of the new draped and tasseled turbans are shown in this color, silk and soft duvetyns being the materials employed in the fashioning of these new shapes.

Gray furs such as squirrel and lamb are popular, too, and worn with a bright blue suit, a neckpiece and a jaunty chapen in one of these soft tints make a most pleasing combination. But blue is not the only color which combines artistically with gray; brown, so much in vogue this fall as a street shade, goes splendidly with it, too, opussum being used on many a beautifully fitted suit or coat.

Shoes are another part of the costume which has fallen under the spell of gray, and many of the newest outfits are coming in delicate tones of this color.

silks and are worn with gold tassel sandals. The silk does not merely shine, it burns with a white light.

Dressmaking Hint.

The fullness of skirts is often laid in pleats or arranged in godets at either side of the front, leaving the back plain. Bodices may show the softly bloused effects which give an indefinite line to the figure. Sleeves vary in treatment, some afternoon and evening gowns showing shoulder-caps while other types of models feature full length sleeves. Many high-necklines are introduced for daytime wear, with a disposition to accent the high effect at back.

Sofa Pillow Filling.

Here is a way of filling sofa cushions which many of the best upholsterers use: Take a piece of percale as wide as the pillow in question and twice its length. On this tack cotton batting a good 3/4 inch width from the edges. Form a bag by stitching on the machine. Turn so that the cotton will be on the inside, then fill the cushion with feathers. The effect will be as good as if down had been used.

The Scarf.

Scarfs have come to their own again and are used in the most unusual way. The trimming costars have them in various materials as panels for evening dresses. Worn as scarves, they lend "color" to an otherwise simple costume, and as a wrap for the throat they have their old time popularity.

Luminous Gowns in London Styles

Fabric That Does Not Merely Shine, But Burns With White Light.

Luminous dresses, lidescent hats and glow-worm gauze stockings have been created in London and Paris and are creating a sensation in ultra smart society.

Metallic effects in shot silks and changeable tussies have led to this new craze and not a little impetus has been given by the scientists who have been exchanging data with the fabric weavers and the dressmakers, which data goes to prove that "sweetness and light" are bound up with bright clear colors, that happiness and the genius of youth unfold in a radiant, gold-flecked atmosphere.

A dress worn at a theater supper during Grand National Race week was of spriged chambruse dusted with pale gold threads. In daylight this dress seemed to be merely a particularly happy blend of yellow and pink. But with candlelight the silk glowed and pulsated with living light, which seemed to radiate from it. This effect is produced by a phosphorescent quality imparted to metallic threads woven into the silk.

Luminous flowers and ribbon on gauze hats are likely to be even more popular than the radiant silk and are much less expensive. For evening wear they are distinctly becoming and seem to add mystery and charm to the face. Pale crushed silk roses or tiny wreaths of tulle buds emit a soft glow when in the half light. The stockings are woven of fine rainbow colored motorists, of Williamsport, Pa., waiting at a railroad crossing for a train to pass, found out the reason why the pilot of a locomotive is called a cowcatcher. On that part of the engine a middle-aged cow sat, taking in the view, if not enjoying the ride. When the motorists signaled the engineer the train stopped and the cow was assisted from her perch, none the worse for her experience. Where and how she was picked up, the train men did not know.

On Peruvian Railways.

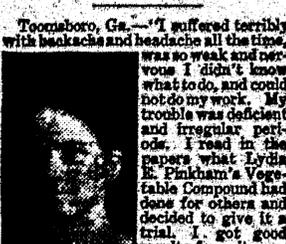

The railways of central Peru spread out in a Y, at the right-hand end of which is Huancayo, something more than 200 miles from Lima. At every railroad station, old women crowd through the cars selling the favorite nectar of the Incas, all purchasers drinking from the same cup, and generally several from the same filling. Nearly every traveler has his own supply of a more potent native beverage.

SO NERVOUS

How Miserable This Woman Was Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toombsboro, Ga.—"I suffered terribly with backache and headache all the time, was so weak and nervous I didn't know what to do, and could not do my work. My trouble was deficient and irregular periods. I read in the papers what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to give it a trial. I got good results from its use so that I am now able to do my work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. G. F. PHILLIPS, Toombsboro, Ga.

Weak, nervous women make unhappy homes, their condition irritates both husband and children. It has been said that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous dependency, "the blues," irritability and backache arise from some displacement or derangement of a woman's system. Mrs. Phillips' letter clearly shows that no other remedy is so successful in overcoming this condition as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Help That Bad Back!

Why be miserable with a "bad back"? It's time you found out what is wrong! Kidney weakness often causes much suffering from backache, lameness, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and kidney irregularities. Neglected, it may lead to dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease, but if taken in time it is usually easily corrected by using Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. Ask your neighbor!

A Colorado Case

Mrs. ANNE M. Adams, 404 Ninth St., Alamosa, Colo., says: "For a long time my kidneys made me miserable. Nights I was restless because of an ache through the small of my back and sides. When I got up morning I didn't feel refreshed and it was hours before the languid, dragged-out feeling wore away. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and kept on using them until I was cured."

On Verge of Nervous Collapse, Indiana Woman Was Almost Helpless.

HER FRIENDS DISHEARTENED TO OPEN UP IMMENSE FIELD

Troubles Disappear When She Takes Tanlac, and Nerves Now Are as Steady as Can Be—General Health Splendid.

"I was on the verge of a collapse and was actually afraid to leave the house, but I am overjoyed now at the way Tanlac has restored my health so perfectly," declared Mrs. Cora M. Jackson, 504 Mulberry St., Terre Haute, Ind.

"I was almost a nervous wreck, and at times for anyone to even talk to me upset me completely. Even at night I could not get easy and quiet and would lie wide-awake, hardly able to sleep at all, and often just got up out of bed, I was so restless. Nervous headaches often came on me and frequently lasted for days at a time. Then I had rheumatism so bad in my joints I was almost helpless. My legs and elbow's hurt fearfully and sometimes I just ached all over. There seemed to be no relief for me, my friends were all worried and I was almost disheartened.

But, happily for me, one of my friends suggested that I try Tanlac. I never will forget how I began to improve and now I think it is wonderful that I am feeling so well and strong. My nerves are just as steady as can be and I haven't a rheumatic pain about me. I am in just splendid health and wish everybody knew what a grand medicine Tanlac is."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Aims of the American Chamber of Commerce for the Levant Are Set Forth.

TO OPEN UP IMMENSE FIELD

Constantinople Destined to Become the "Chicago of Europe," Says New President of Organization—Opportunity for American Capital.

New York.—Constantinople is destined to become the "Chicago of Europe," according to an interview authorized by Mr. Lucien Irving Thomas, a director of the Standard Oil company of New York, which company has extensive interests throughout Asia and the Balkan states.

Mr. Thomas lately returned from a visit to Europe. "I learned, while in London, that I had been elected president of the American chamber of commerce for the Levant," said Mr. Thomas. "I refer to the newly-organized American section of the chamber, now maintaining headquarters in New York. It will co-operate with the long-established chamber of the same name which has its seat in Constantinople.

"The organization of this chamber is a timely movement to promote reciprocal trade relations between America and that great area—extending from Egypt to Russia, and from Persia to Italy—of which Constantinople is the center.

Gateway to Vast Empire.

"Very few people appreciate that Europe and Asia meet at the feet of Constantinople," continued Mr. Thomas. "The chain of waters, the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, made available for free commerce, open the gateway to vast empires of populous and fertile territories beyond. When we realize that Russia, a country considerably more than twice as large as the United States, has few seaports that are not ice-bound for the greater part of the year, except those situated on the Black sea, we may imagine what enormous traffic will flow through Constantinople when Russia, with a hundred million of her people nearby, gets into her commercial stride."

"Then consider Roumania, now with twice her former area—a country of great natural resources, with a present population of 15,000,000. Bulgaria too, noted for a sturdy and industrious population, has her commercial outlet on the Black sea. And even on the farther side of the Black sea is a group of states which eventually must occupy an important place in over-seas trade.

"Jugo-Slavia, now vast in area by comparison with Old Serbia, with substantial natural resources and a population of over 14,000,000 has, of course, one trade outlet via the Adriatic, and another via the Danube to the Black sea. Without any doubt the Danube is soon to play a much more important part in the trade of the Balkan states than it has ever done in the past.

Has Natural Wealth.

"Both Jugo-Slavia and Greater Greece will hold a more important position than now in the Levantine trade of the future. Egypt is growing into a land of commercial significance. While certain territories have been detached from Turkey since the war, there remains much fertile and valuable land. Turkey is rich in minerals of all kinds.

"The war and its aftermath upset exchange throughout the Near East, and this has made commercial transactions difficult for the present. But the natural wealth is there; and a population for the most part industrious. Trade must surely grow.

"A high official of an international bank, one who is recognized as having unusually broad and accurate knowledge of Ottoman financial matters, stated to me at Constantinople that in Turkey fully 65,000,000 in gold is hoarded by the people in 'stocking-leg banks,' and not deposited at all with the public bankers. In this connection it should be remembered that the oriental mind is accustomed to think, financially, in terms of 'hard money,' and that prior to the European war only gold and silver were in circulation, to any extent, in Turkey. There is evidence that great private wealth exists there today, in gold, silver and jewels, not to mention other valuables, and this wealth will come into the current market as trade returns to normal.

"The Levant offers a splendid opportunity for the investment of American capital, in a wide range of enterprises. One of the great openings of the present is for the construction of dwellings, warehouses, harbor improvements, and so forth. Constantinople alone has lost 25,000 to 30,000 houses by fire since the war began, and affords a magnificent opportunity for housebuilding activity. I know for a fact that the Turkish authorities would welcome anyone coming there for the purpose and that they would even be glad to offer concessions. The prevailing spirit is progressive. Modern industrial equipment, too, is now sought where formerly it was shunned. I recall that a long time ago, prior to the coming into power of the Young Turk party, a business telegram was intercepted by the Turkish authorities because it contained an offer to import some electric dynamo capable of 1,500 revolutions per minute. The offer was refused. It is said to have been a 100-horse power dynamo. The suggestion was regarded with some heat that Turkey had enough revolutions on her hands at the moment without encouraging these new-fangled trouble-makers.

Opportunities Are Great.

"Constantinople now has an inadequate system to provide substantial harbor craft for use in the waters around Constantinople. People living on the other side of the Bosphorus lack sufficient facilities for commuting to Constantinople.

"The development of roadways on the European side of the Bosphorus is another matter for business enterprise. If the Bosphorus is not the most beautiful body of water in the world, I should like to know where it is to be found. A proper driveway along the shores of the Bosphorus would rather tax the memory of a world-traveler to recall anything more charming.

Opportunities for housebuilding and other forms of construction are open in the other cities of the Levant as well as in Constantinople. There is widespread need for railroad construction and rehabilitation; while at the seaports modern docks and wharves and up-to-date freight-handling equipment must be provided.

"The Levant should become a growing market for American machinery and manufactures of all kinds. Imports from the Levant must be stimulated, too, in order to improve the exchange and credit situation on that the Near East can buy more from America. Tobacco, licorice, valonia, attar of roses, raisins, currants, dates, figs, goatskins, hides, furs, olive-oil, long-staple cotton, rugs, carpets, and oriental objects d'art are among the imports coming into the United States from the Levant. It will be the aim of the American chamber of commerce for the Levant to help establish trade connections between responsible merchants on either side of the ocean, and to furnish all possible information and assistance to those engaging in trade in this field."

THOSE IN MOVEMENT.

Officers of the American chamber of commerce for the Levant include, in addition to Mr. Thomas, president, the following: Chairman of the board Mr. J. M. Dixon of the Tobacco Products corporation; vice president, Captain J. F. Lucey of the Lucey Manufacturing company; treasurer, Donald Frothingham of the American Express company; secretary and managing director, Dr. E. E. Pratt.

Temporary offices have been established at 200 West Fifty-sixth street New York city, but it is expected that after May 15 the chamber will be located in the down-town district of New York.

Firms represented on the directorate of the chamber, or as life members, include:

American International corporation, E. L. DuPont de Nemours Co., U. S. Rubber Co., Guaranty Trust company of New York, General Motors company, Amory, Brown & Company, Great Lakes Trust company, Commercial Union of America, Lockwood, Greene & Company, Hammond Typewriter company, A. B. Farquhar company, Robert H. Ingersoll & Bro., Robert College, James A. Farrell, U. S. Steel corporation, Phelps-Dodge company, Brown Shoe company, International Western Electric company, H. J. Helms company. The membership covers a growing list of merchants, shippers, bankers, manufacturers and other business men of the United States.

GAINED AND LOST FORTUNES

English Dandies Played for High Stakes in the Latter Part of Eighteenth Century.

Almack's was one of the famous old gambling clubs of London. It was at its height in the latter part of the Eighteenth century, and the play there was enormous. It was not uncommon for the losses in a single night to amount to upwards of $100,000.

The young men, dandies all, who intended to play set about the matter with a great deal of ceremony. They wore straw hats with wide brims, flower and ribbon trimmed; the brims intended to keep the light from their eyes, and that the spectators might not see their emotions they often wore masks. They also often took off their ruffles and silk or satin coats and wore in their place a rough great-coat or else wound leather bands about their arms to protect the delicate lace and hues of their coats from the soil of the table.

At each player's side was a small table that held their tea, wine cakes and rolls of rouleaux or chips. Most of the players wore long curls, eye-glasses mounted on long sticks, were perfumed, powdered and painted like court ladies, and some of them even affected a mincing ladylike walk. But those who made the error of thinking them ladylike in their fighting ability made a mistake that often cost a life, for the gay young sparks would draw swords at the drop of a hat and meet death with a laugh.

Confusing Incident.

"How was your after-dinner speech received, dear?"

"Not so well. While I was talking one of the guests actually snored."

"You should not have stopped for a little thing like that."

"I had to stop. The other guest woke him up and wanted to know where he got it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

As the Boy Explained It, the Finding of Horse Was Really Quite Simple Matter.

Speaking of the development of the story-telling talent in youth, Richard Bennett, the actor, is fond of relating this incident:

Some years ago a prominent citizen of a town lost a horse. It was not such a horse. In fact, it was blind in one eye and maimed. But, perhaps as a relic, Bennett says, the prominent citizen wanted the horse. So he advertised, offering $5 reward for its return. The town half-wit, a boy of nineteen, with a barefoot, came one afternoon leading the horse, with a strap about the size of a shoestring, to the prominent citizen's door. The horse's owner was pleased.

"Nay," said he kindly, scenting a good narrative and perhaps an adventure, "now, my boy, here's your $5; and I'll give you another $5 if you'll tell me just how you found my horse."

"Well, all right," said the boy. "I jus' thought if I was that old horse where I would go, and I did and he was."

He got the extra five.—Kansas City Star.

Amount of Rouge This Damsel Would Require More Than Druggist Carried in Stock.

The drug store was quite near the dancing hall; but the druggist was not a dancer, and had been in bed many hours when he was awakened by the violent ringing of his night bell.

With sleepy words of complaint he pulled himself from his warm bed. "Mine's not to reason why, or some poor soul may do a guy," he murmured philosophically.

Throwing up his bedroom window he allowed the first cold gust of wind to rush past him, then put his head out.

Below he saw a young lady.

"What can I do for you, miss?" he inquired. "Is anyone dying?"

"Oh, no!" came back in sweet tones. "But I'm dancing at the hall close by, and I have quite fun out of rouge."

"Indeed?" snorted the disgusted chemist. "I am very sorry, miss, but I never keep enough rouge in stock to cover a check like yours!"

Then he banged the window down and returned to bed.—Chicago Daily News.

Better Way.

"The romantic wooer promises to die for a girl." "Well?" "The prosaic husband gets his life insured."

NEWSPAPERS HAVE VITAL INTEREST IN FOREST FIRE PREVENTION.

Denver.—A burning cigarette butt beside a woods-road in northern Maine may mean much to the business management of the Texas Daily Bugle. Sounds like a joke, but is it? The Daily Bugle, say specialists of the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, represents the newspaper industry dependent on forests for its existence; the smoldering cigarette portrays forest fires caused by human carelessness. Newspaper is made from wood. Fires destroy and lessen the supply of raw material with a resultant increase in the price of paper stock. Hence, the relation between the cigarette butt in Maine and the newspaper in Texas.

This is the day and age of newspapers. Newsprint is a 100 per cent forest product, but few persons see their next year's supply of newspapers in a grove of trees. They do not connect the passing of the penny paper with the burning of the forests.

With only fifty million cords of spruce left in the regions of centralization of the pulp and paper industry and about five and a half million cords ground into pulp every year, the problem is simpler than "How old is Ann?"

In spite of everything, within the next ten years, the pulp mills will be hard put to secure wood to keep their mills and machinery busy, if— And that is where we all come in. "If" we do not burn up any of the present supply, it will last that long. In this national forest district, 87 per cent of the forest fires are caused by man's carelessness—bonfires, camp fires left burning, cigar and cigarette butts, hot pipe ashes, engine sparks, etc.

The Decoration Day exercises, the program of which was published in this paper was carried out Monday afternoon in the following manner:

The cars assembled at the appointed place and proceeded to the cemetery, with ex-service men and speaker of the day, Rev. Huffman leading, followed by Flower Girls, relatives and friends of the deceased soldiers.

At the cemetery the speaker and ex-service men proceeded to the grave of Amos Aker, Civil War veteran, where after a short address by the speaker of the day, the graves were decorated and flowers distributed as follows: Harvey Hughes, decorated by Lillian Merchant, flowers dropped by Pedro Ananda, Charles Walter Beever; Amos Aker, decorated by veterans Dolan and Kahler; Richard Cecil Morgan, decorated by Ula Edmiston, flowers dropped for George Chaves, Wm. Randall Greer; Susano Sanchez, decorated by Eva Wack, flowers dropped for Robert James Hagee, Wm. E. Knowles; Gladney White, decorated by Mrs. C. A. Hooper, flowers dropped for Candido Montoya, Luis Moya.

For those who are buried in foreign lands, a large placard was erected bearing this inscription: "Over There." At the foot of the shaft, an assortment of trench tools were placed and flowers were dropped at this place by the Post Commander, for Benjamin I. Berry, Leland S. Bond, Jim Dearman and Roy Hamilton.

Baptist Church Notes

Summer seems to be a hard time on Sunday schools. We have had a falling off since the weather has been hot.

Our attendance at the evening preaching service has been holding in numbers remarkably well.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Subject Sunday morning, "Some Conditions of Discipleship," evening, "A Reception in Hell."

We bid you welcome to all of our services

First Methodist Church

The Pastor will preach at 11:00 o'clock a. m. Sunday on "Disarmament." A petition to the President and Congress will be submitted for the signatures of those present favoring reduction of military preparations.

Rev. J. B. Cochran of Albuquerque, Presiding Elder of the Albuquerque District, will be with us and preach at the 8:00 hour. If not duty-bound elsewhere, you will want to attend these services.

White Oaks Notes

The White Oaks Women's Social Club met at the home of Mrs. McFadden last Thursday. Cards, games, music and recitations were the orders of the afternoon after which refreshments of cake, coffee, ice tea was served. On account of the coming summer wherein some of the members will be absent from home, the club will meet every two weeks instead of weekly, as heretofore. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Smith.

NOTICE OF CONTEST

Department of the Interior.
United States Land Office.
Contest No. 10,112,
Roswell, N. M., May 4, 1921.

To Owen H. O'Neill, of Corona, N. M., (record address,) contestee:

You are hereby notified that James Beever, who gives Corona, New Mexico, as his post-office address, did on November 20, 1920, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Additional Homestead Serial No. 039293, made March 11, 1920, for Lot 1, SE 1/4 NE 1/4, Section 6, Township 1 South, Range 14 East, N. M. P. Meridian, and his grounds for his contest he alleges that said entryman has sold the lands embraced in his entries for the W 1/2 Sec. 6, Twp. 1 S, Range 14 E, to J. B. McKibben and on November 24, 1918, removed with his family to Australia. That he has wholly abandoned his additional homestead entry first above described and has failed to improve any part thereof. And, that said alleged default was not due to service in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps of the United States, or in the National Guard of the several states while in the service of the United States, or any military service rendered in connection with operations in Mexico, or along the border thereof or in mobilization camps elsewhere.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken as confessed, and your said entry will be canceled without further right to be heard, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office, within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, an answer below, your answer, under oath, specifically responding to these allegations of contest, together with due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.

Ford Producing 4,000 Cars a Day.

Present Production Greater Than for Same Period Last Year

Ford is building cars at full speed. And, according to an official statement from the factory at Detroit, the demand for Ford cars and trucks still exceeds the output, despite the fact that a new high level of production has been reached.

By the first of May the figures representing daily production were in the neighborhood of 4,000 a day, so the May schedule was set at 101,125 cars and trucks, not including the output of the Ford Canadian plant or any of the foreign assembling plants. The output mounted daily; May 12th brought forth 4,092, the greatest number that have been produced in one day so far this year. Since the month has 25 working days, present indications point to a new high record.

A comparison of Ford production figures for 1920 and 1921 discloses the fact that for April, 1921 the output was greater by 34,514 than for the corresponding month of a year ago. The output for May, 1921 will probably overshadow May, 1920 by between fifteen and twenty thousand cars and trucks. Approximately 43,000 men are at work in the Detroit plant of the Ford Motor Company. The factory is operating on full time, six days a week and three shifts a day.

"We were never in a better condition than we are right now," said Henry Ford recently.

TRAVELS IN EAST AFRICA

Aside From Learning the Dietary Habits of the Natives He Discovers Many New Herbs, Some of Which Cure Malaria.

London.—A remarkable East African journey of exploration has just been completed by the Rev. John Roscoe of Thetford, Norfolk, who describes his experiences in a London Daily Mail representative.

He has brought back curious knowledge and curious concrete things beyond even his own dreams. These things include fifty or so varieties of herbs—some of which seemed to effect miraculous cures of malaria and even the worst diseases—many native poisons, vast cases of fetiches, implements and instruments going back to 2000 B. C., and photographs innumerable of strange and grim ceremonies—some cannibalistic—many quite unknown hitherto.

The knowledge of ritual and custom is a yet stranger store. Mr. Roscoe, one of our greatest ethnologists, went out for the Royal society and the expedition was most generously financed by Sir Peter McKie, to whom both science and humanity owe great gratitude.

Tribes Who Live on Milk

Mr. Roscoe, who is in his sixtieth year, traveled many thousand miles in the interior on foot and—of all machines—by bicycle, using native paths. He found tribes who lived wholly on milk and nothing else whatever, unless a cow died, and after feeding on that a 12-hour fast was imposed.

So vast are their cattle herds that a king regarded 20,000 as a small flock. Another tribe lived wholly on bamboo tips and moat. In another the relatives always ate the dead, even if they died of smallpox; but these folk, which is hardly surprising, were less healthy than the others, whose women are described as "the fattest things ever seen" while the men are thin, very athletic and often well over six feet in height. "One of the cannibals stated in evidence that 'Englishmen were very tough, but Indians nice and tender.'"

The crown of the expedition was six weeks spent with the king of Bunyoro. He has become a Christian and so felt it possible to give Mr. Roscoe all his fetiches, an entirely priceless collection, which throws quite new light on ceremonies going back to 2000 B. C.

...of ceremonial, such a thing as no man ever saw before. Thousands of natives themselves came to see it—a sort of grand finale to ages of accumulated superstition. Since the king is also high priest and the great repository of tradition, he could give away the inmost mysteries and did: How to bring rain in a miracle that Mr. Roscoe achieved in a forest holy of holies and received native thanks; how to promote all sorts of prosperity—especially plenty of salt—and how to exorcise evil.

By his knowledge of local language and earlier visits Mr. Roscoe who was all alone, penetrated many prevalent beliefs and customs that have balked our rulers and our missionaries. For example, in one tribe girls are betrothed at birth and married at twelve or fourteen. If they are unfaithful before marriage they are killed.

In the next tribe girls may do as they will until after marriage. Many most elaborate laws of marriage, of morality, of divorce and of land tenure have been revealed in the course of the journey.

The discoveries include valuable commercial news, including an unknown graphite mine of high quality. Mr. Roscoe says he has material for five years' work at six hours a day.

Home Building Is Increasing

Movement all Over the Country Is Rapidly Attaining Large Proportions.

INDICATES HABITS OF THRIFT

Many Evils Both Economic and Social Are Resulting From the Overcrowded Conditions, Particularly in Larger Cities.

Washington.—It is a matter of importance that the scope of home-building operations in this country is attaining large proportions. Statistics show a steady gain in this department of the building industry and indications are at present that as the spring and summer advance, there will be still greater activities of this nature.

Effects of Home Ownership. Home ownership not only encourages saving, but it has a pronounced stabilizing effect on the character, habits and Gets $33 Back Lost a Year.

Catawqua, Pa.—About a year ago Charles Hotch, a machinist of this place, lost a purse containing $33, and although he advertised the fact extensively no responses were received. He gave up hope of ever recovering the money and was happily surprised one day recently when he received an anonymous letter inclosing $33, which the writer explained, represented the cash he had found and used in "an emergency, plus $2 for interest." Mr. Hotch has no clue to the conscience-stricken finder of the money.

JEWELWEED'S VISITOR.

"I am the Jewelweed flower, though I am sometimes known as the Touch-Me-Not flower, too."

"I have little seed pods and boys and girls love to pop open these pods, for then my seeds jump forth quite wildly and excitedly. I mean by my name of Touch-Me-Not that no one must touch me unless they want to be very much surprised!"

"I am orange yellow in color and I have reddish spots upon me. I have also sometimes been called the Wild Lady Slipper because I am shaped something like that. And sometimes I've been called Lady's Eardrops because my shape is something like a lady's eardrop, too."

"I'm hoping I will have a caller today. I'm expecting one, I know. And I hope I won't have to wait long. I haven't seen this caller for some time. It is most exciting to expect a caller. Very, very exciting!"

"They call me Jewelweed because in the early morning when I've taken my morning bath, as all good flowers do, in the Magic Dew Water which the Dewdrop Brothers bring around to us, I sparkle like Jewels."

"Oh, indeed I always take a morning bath. Sometimes when it showers I take an extra bath."

"And always, when my bath is over, I look for Mr. Sun and I ask him to make my jewelry look pretty."

"Then my pretty leaves look so bright and sparkling. Yes, that is one of the reasons for my name."

"I do hope my visitor will be along soon. I asked him to come as soon as he came up this way."

"I sent word by the Breeze Brothers to be sure to let him know that I was waiting for him and that I hoped he would come to see me as soon as he arrived."

"I do look forward to seeing him so much. How lovely he will look. I know about my visitor who is coming. My family and his family have been friends for years and years."

"And the families always keep up the friendship. It is nice indeed for creatures to be friends and friends for years. It is so foolish to be friendly one day and not the next. So foolish indeed."

"Ah, I believe I hear my visitor coming. I believe I do."

"My I come in, buzz, z-z-z-z-z-z, my I come in?"

"Oh, do," said the Jewelweed. "I am expecting you."

Then appeared Mr. Ruby-Throated Humming Bird who had just arrived from the South.

"Well," he said, "how glad I am to see you."

"And I am so glad to see you," said the Jewelweed. "You must have a cooling-sweet drink. I didn't let any other visitors take any of it. No indeed. There was the Bee who tried to get me to give him a sweet drink, but I kept it deep down in my very center dining room where even the Bee with his long, thirsty tongue can't get at it."

"I kept it for you, and you, with your tongue which can stretch out further than your long bill, will be able to get it."

"Dear Mr. Humming Bird, I am so glad you have come. And you will have some refreshment, will you not?"

"Indeed I will, thank you, Jewelweed," said the Humming Bird, "and it is indeed good of you to save your sweetness for me."

"Ah, our families have been friends for so many years," said the Jewelweed, "and I like to do as my family have always done."

"I must be off now," said the Humming Bird, "for as I have only just arrived I have a good many calls to make. There are a number of my flower friends who are expecting me to call as soon as I arrive. But may I come and see you again?"

"Oh, indeed yes," said the Jewelweed, "and you will always be welcome. Make your other calls, but come back again soon."

Accident Averted.

J. B. Frix of Richmond, Va., who is organizing the National Teachers' Training association, says that a little negro whom the other called "Young Bird" on account of the size of his mouth, was standing on the railroad track, and another one called out: "Hey dere, boy, git off dat track. Ef de engineer would come along and see dat mont of yone, he'd think it was a car shed and run his train right in!"

Flying High.

"This civil service stuff about mathematics seems rather intricate." "What is it?" "Examination for a government chauffeur." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Minds of too many men are filled with useless knowledge.

There are 12,000,000 negroes in the United States.

"Run Down" People Easy Prey To Serious Disease

When you get "run down" it merely means your system is disordered,—working poorly. If the disorder stays small, you may remedy it. But if it gets S.S.S. from your druggist right now. Then write us about your condition, addressing Chief Medical Advisor, 343 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia. We'll send you medical counsel free.

SARAH HAD GENTLY HINTED SYSTEM DID NOT WORK WELL

Remark Might Have Led Beau to Imagine She Disapproved of His White Clothes.

Englishwoman Found Some Disadvantages in Giving Instructions in the Sign Language.

Mrs. Morgan had a colored maid named Sarah. One Sunday afternoon the mistress saw Sarah's lover leaving the house clad in a suit of white flannel. A little later, when the maid appeared, her mistress said: "Sarah, that beau of yours should never wear white. He is so black that white clothes makes him appear all the blacker. Why don't you give him a hint?" "Why, Mis' Morgan," said Sarah, with animation, "I done give him lots ob hints, but he jes' natterly ain't got no sense an' didn't take 'em."

An English lady was talking about her cleverness in getting a Russian servant. "She can't speak a word of English, and I can't speak Russian," she finished. "But how do you manage, then?" asked her friend. "Oh, it's quite simple. I just wave my hands about and make faces, and if she doesn't quite understand, she goes off and does something else, so all the work gets done in time." Later on the friend called, hoping to catch a glimpse of the Russian treasure, and found the mistress in tears. "That dreadful Bolshevik," she wailed. "She came up to ask what she was to do next, and I made scrubbing motions, meaning the kitchen floor, or course, and she did it on my lovely polished dining table instead, and it is absolutely ruined! And now she's gunking in the kitchen, smoking my cigarettes, and I can't make her understand that she's not to take them!"

As Funny as Ever.

He had one of those long mustaches—one of the kind that, if you had been buying him a birthday present a few years ago, you would have thought of a mustache cup the first thing.

"Girl He Was Looking For." "Why are you so pensive?" he asked. "I'm not pensive," she replied. "But you haven't said a word for 20 minutes."

"Well, I didn't have anything to say."

"Don't you ever say anything when you have nothing to say?" "No," she said. "Will you be my wife?" he asked.

Everybody had been making fun of it, so one Sunday morning he shaved it off. The first person to get a look at his upper lip in 20 years was a neighbor girl about the age of four. As she came into the house she said: "Oh! Mr. Bowin, you look just as funny as ever."

Most men find it easier to get in debt than to get out, but some are unable to get in at all.

Golfer Harding Pays His Quarter

President Harding, the other day was eager for a game of golf, but it was too late to motor to any of the suburban clubs around Washington. He was reminded that for 25 cents he could play on the near municipal links, and the idea appealed to him. He is seen here paying his ground fee to the keeper of the public course.

PRETTY GIRL IS THIEF

17-Year-Old Miss Pleads Guilty to Robbery.

Betrayed by Married Man Who Used Her as Bait to Secure Victims to Rob.

New York.—The "most beautiful and innocent-looking girl" that the police remember ever having arrested is weeping for her mother in the Tombs. She is Katharine Zoebelin, seventeen. She pleads guilty to the charge against her. The charge is robbery, and it is the second offense. She was arrested when her whereabouts was discovered by the married man who used her as a bait to secure victims to rob. She still believes in him. "I did not want to do wrong," she pleads, "but I was hungry and he was hungry, too, and we had no money."

So she cast her prettiest glances at Samuel Darwo, and he followed her into a doorway. Then he was robbed of his jewelry and money—$6.

Her sweetheart, Michael J. Egle, was taken by the police. He told on her and they found her; and now she is weeping in the Tombs for her mother.

"When I was fourteen," she said, "I went to a theater one afternoon with a man much older than myself. He coaxed me away from school to the movies. He persuaded me to stay out until it was ten o'clock at night and I was afraid to go home."

"For three months I was just like a prisoner. Then I got out and went home and told my mother all that had happened."

"So now they say this is my second offense." And then she told of other trials that beset a pretty girl. "I have always been told that I was pretty. I once ran an elevator."

Men pinched my cheeks and called me 'sweetie' and invited me out to lunch so much that my father made me leave the work."

May Smell but Not Taste. Louisville, Ky.—Jury service in prohibition cases has lost its popularity, because instead of tasting liquor to see if it's the real stuff, they now are merely permitted to have a smell. Judge Evans held jurors were not expert judges of liquors.

Witch Doctors Steal Body. Johannesburg.—Two native witch doctors have just been sentenced to prison for 18 months each after they pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing the body of a European woman from a grave on the Swaziland border to make charms.

A Passing Landmark of Old Manila

This is a photograph of the famous old Bridge of Spain, Manila. It is now a departed landmark of the Philippines, for its place has been taken by one of the finest bridges in the entire Orient, the new Jones bridge. The Jones Bridge is named in honor of the late Congressman W. A. Jones of Virginia, author of the Jones law of 1916 which promised the Philippines independence upon the establishment of a stable government. The old Bridge of Spain is called "the mother of Manila's bridges." The original bridge was built of pontoons sometime between the years 1500 and 1600, being known as the Bridge of Boats. The stone bridge shown above was built about 1630. It was twice damaged by earthquakes, and was once partly demolished by a flood.

ASKS INDEPENDENCE WITH OR WITHOUT PROTECTION

Manila, P. I. — The people of the Philippines want independence in whatever form they can get it. Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, declared in an address before that body.

"Let the Americans in the Philippines and those in the United States know that the people of the Philippines covet their freedom, liberty and political emancipation so much that they will not hesitate to receive from the Congress of the United States complete and absolute independence without protection," Quezon said. "If the United States, dictated by its own interests, decides to extend protection to the Philippines, well and good. We would accept that as a solution of our problems. If not, let us have absolute independence in whatever form we can get it."

Mass Meeting, June 12

There will be a mass meeting on Sunday night, June 12, at which representatives of the Salvation Army from outside points will deliver addresses and a splendid musical program will be carried out. The week of June 6-12 has been set aside by the Advisory Board for a drive throughout the county for funds and cast-off clothing for the needy. This worthy movement should be responded to in the heartiest manner, as this organization has done much unselfish work in the past for the unfortunate among us. Funds, as well as cast off clothing will be gladly received at this office, the News office, or the Exchange Bank. A hearty response is needed during the drive and a big turn-out is urged on the night of the 12.

Walk-Over

For Men of Good Taste

This style appeals to men of good taste because its lines are straight and clean-cut. Men who like simplicity in attire as a rule seek the style of this shoe. It adds smartness to well-tailored trousers as only Walk-Over styles can.

Notes the style of the toe, the heavy stitching. There is a point to the inset of this shoe. See it in genuine Russia calf skin. $8.50
