BUSINESS CONDITIONS IMPROVE

Important changes for the better are seen in the credit situation. Advance in Cotton Prices is Taken as a Good Omen; Employment Shows a Slight Increase.

Washington, Sept. 30.—American business conditions improved decidedly during September in the view of the Federal Reserve board, which made public tonight a distinctly optimistic review of conditions for the month. Important changes for the better were seen in the credit situation, "distinct encouragement" in many basic business lines and strong liquidation, including increased ability of business to settle its accounts.

"The wholesome improvement," which the board's correspondents found in almost every section appeared to have been based largely on the advance in cotton prices. As a result of the higher cotton values liquidation has taken place and wholesale and retail trade has been buoyed up, the report said.

Marked improvement in the credit situation was cited by the review as the noteworthy feature of business during the month, the board declared that "taken in all, from a financial standpoint the month has been in the main a period of distinct encouragement."

The board noted only a slight increase in employment in the thirty days, but added that while the end of the harvesting and crop movement season might tend to increase the number of unemployed, this was likely to be offset by a growth in demand for labor on the part of manufacturing industries.

"Railroads have begun to increase the number of their employes in some extent, especially in the fuel and the iron and steel industry, and the fact that building contractors have reached a record figure for this year promises partial employment in that service during the autumn."

There has been a steady and reasonably heavy movement of agricultural products to distributing and export centers, the board reported. Prices of most of these have advanced to an extent, although a drop in livestock quotations was seen, attributed to local marketing conditions.

FOUR AMENDMENTS OVER, SHOWING OF PRACTICALLY COMPLETE COUNCIL

Nos. 1, 2, 4 and 11 Are Ratified, But Other Proposals Are Hopelessly Defeated.

Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 3.—The defeat of all proposed constitutional amendments except No. 1, 2, 4 and 11 at the September 20 election is indicated by returns from all but 12 precincts received at Secretary of State Martinez's office.

The same precincts show Holm O. Bursom's plurality considerably below 500 by which he himself claimed he was elected United States senator and even below the 7,000 claimed by republican newspapers.

The unofficial vote with the 12 precincts missing gives:

Bursom (R)	20,468
Hanna (D)	31,146
Smith (I)	2,892

The missing precincts are in Hidalgo, Catron, Quay and Rio Arriba counties and probably will make no changes in the results except possibly on proposal No. 4. Quay and Rio Arriba already have piled up majorities against No. 4 that can't be overcome by the other two, Catron and Hidalgo favor it.

DEER AND TURKEY SEASONS

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 4.—In New Mexico the deer and turkey seasons were shortened and changed to No. 20 to 28. This same season is also made for tassel-eared gray squirrels. Although there were not many changes in actual closed seasons in New Mexico, the new law places game administration on a sound basis. Game matters are placed in care of a commission, which among other things may close seasons in any locality on any species, and may prohibit all hunting in periods of extreme forest fire danger, at such times and places as may be necessary.

FIVE SCIENTISTS OF DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE TO CONSIDER THE PROBLEM OF LAND UTILIZATION

Washington, Oct. 3.—Appointment of a committee of five scientists of the department of agriculture to consider the entire problem of land utilization, especially with respect to the country's future requirements was announced today by Secretary Wallace.

In appointing the committee Secretary Wallace suggested that, as the basis of the work to be undertaken, careful consideration should be devoted to the country's present crop production, home consumption and foreign demand, relating the land now under cultivation to present and near-future demands. It seems to the secretary that this study should be followed by a more careful survey and classification than has yet been made of lands which can be brought under cultivation in the future, and the conditions necessary to make it profitable under the plow.

The suggested survey would indicate the arid lands of the west suitable for irrigation, swamp lands which can be reclaimed by draining and the cut-over timber lands of the various sections. In studying the cut-over lands consideration will be given to their possibilities both for cultivation and for reforestation.

The personnel of the committee of five is as follows:

Dr. L. C. Gray, Agricultural Economist, Office of Farm Management and Farm Economics, chairman.

C. V. Piper, Agronomist in Charge, Forage Crop Investigation, Bureau of Plant Industry.

C. F. Marbut, Scientist in Charge, Soil Survey Investigation, Bureau of Soils.

E. B. Carter, Assistant Forester, Forest Service.

At the present time a little less than half the total national area is in farms and only about one-quarter of the total area is improved land. Many persons, deceived by these facts, assume that there is an unlimited reserve supply of farm land such as the cane, however; by far the greater part of the 1,000,000,000 acres not yet in farms probably can never be used for the growing of crops, and that part of the reserve land which may be regarded as potential farm land can be brought into use only at heavy expense for clearing, drainage, irrigation or fertilization.

Population increases, land does not. The acreage of improved farm land per capita, for instance, has declined an ever-increasing rate since 1890. By 1950 the total population, at a normal rate of growth, probably will be about 150,000,000. This would require an addition of 240,000,000 acres of improved land if the present per capita acreage of improved land is to be maintained.

This situation presents the national problem of how best to use drainable, irrigable, cut-over and lands of inferior quality that heretofore have been rejected as unsuitable—whether they should be brought under the plow or reserved temporarily or permanently for forests or grazing.

The rate of expansion of our national area also is an important factor for consideration. Despite the impending demand for a large expansion of the land basis of American agriculture, there are many reasons why we should consider most carefully before encouraging any considerable expansion of land under cultivation during, say, the next three years. The shrinkage in the volume of farm exports, the many indications of a probable increase of agricultural imports into this country and the present depression in developed agricultural areas raise a serious question as to the wisdom of an immediate policy of stimulating the expansion of farm acreage.

ROMERO TAKES OFFICE TODAY AS U. S. MARSHAL

Santa Fe, Oct. 1.—Scoundino Romero, Republican of Las Vegas, San Miguel county, took office this morning as U. S. marshal of New Mexico. He succeeds Andy H. Hudspeth, Democrat. Mr. Romero was succeeded in office eight years ago by Mr. Hudspeth.

"I expect to run the office in a business manner and treat all alike," said Marshal Romero. He then announced his appointments. James J. Gonichey is named chief deputy. Mr. Gonichey is reappointed. The office deputy is to be appointed later.

Field deputies were appointed as follows: Lee Wilkerson, of Alamogordo; Miguel Romero of Las Vegas; John E. Brady of Hondo, Lincoln county; Henry Cifre of Las Vegas. Mr. Cifre was chief deputy when Mr. Romero was U. S. marshal.

GAME REFUGES CREATED BY THE STATE GAME COMMISSION

There has recently been approved by the State Game Commission the creation of Eighteen Game Refuges within the State of New Mexico. In addition eight streams and nine areas on the Rio Grande have been closed against fishing and nine areas on the Rio Grande have been closed against the hunting of migratory birds. The Game Refuges have been chosen for the purpose of providing safe sanctuaries in which game may breed and replant adjacent hunting ranges; the waters are closed for the purpose of protecting the job for spawning and to prevent undue depletion and the bird areas are designated as rest grounds for migratory birds to provide havens in which they can rest and feed without molestation.

Hunting within these bird and game refuges and fishing in the closed waters constitute a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $25.00 nor more than $50.00 or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than 30 days nor more than ninety days or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Court. Of local interest is the creation of the White Mountain Game Refuge in Lincoln County described as follows:

"Beginning at the junction of the north and south forks of Eagle creek in approximately Sec. 21, T. 15, S. R. 13 E., N. M. P. M., thence up the north fork to a point about one-half mile above the lodge of the Southwestern Forest, Fish and Game Protective Association thence leaving the north fork and proceeding in a northerly direction to the Rio Bonito and White Mt. trail, thence along this trail to the Lookout cabin, continuing to fire lookout point and on to saddle between said point and White Mountain Peak; thence down tributary to north fork of the Rio Ruidoso continuing down north fork to point where low saddle permits easy access to the north fork of Eagle Creek; thence through this saddle to the south fork of Eagle Creek and down the Creek to the place of beginning containing an area of 5105 acres more or less within the Lincoln National Forest and Mesquero Apache Indian Reservation."

Any person who shall willfully and maliciously break, injure, remove or destroy any monument erected for the purpose. Or who shall willfully or maliciously injure, damage, remove or destroy any building or guide board or any monument or notice posted in the direction of the State Game Warden or the State Game Commission,

HARDING URGES GOVERNORS AND MAYORS TO AID NATION'S IDLE

Machinery Should Be Set Up in Each Community for Correction of Economic Conditions, He Says.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Governors and mayors throughout the country were asked by President Harding in a public statement today to organize for the correction of economic conditions along lines worked out by the unemployment conference here.

The conference, the president declared, had demonstrated that developments could not be met properly without such local cooperation. He announced that central agency would be maintained here to give national coordination to the rehabilitation effort.

Harding's statement follows: "The conference which I recently summoned to Washington, advise as to the unemployment situation has demonstrated that an unusual volume of unemployment exists and that the securing of the recuperation of trade the situation cannot be met in any other way than by a much more than usual organization throughout these states and municipalities where unemployment has reached considerable proportions.

"The conference has recommended a plan of organization which has had the support of commercial, manufacturing, professional and labor representatives of the country. It is slightly necessary that more accurate knowledge should be had, through such organization, of the volume and necessities of the unemployed. It is essential that the cooperation of all sections of each community should be brought into action behind such organization to provide work and assistance that we may pass through the coming winter without great suffering and distress. It is of national importance that every community should at once undertake such organization in order that the nation may be protected as a whole. Moreover, the thorough commitment to such a task is sure to start a thousand activities which will add to our common welfare.

"I, therefore, appeal to the governors and mayors of the nation that they should take the steps recommended by the conference.

"In order that there may be unity of action by all the forces which may be brought to bear, whether government or private, the unemployment conference is establishing an agency in Washington through which appropriate cooperation can be promoted, and through which reports of all progress and suggestions may be given general circulation and cooperation I trust this agency may be supplemented in this endeavor."

Final plans for the central employment agency are practically completed, conference officials said, and Secretary Hoover is to make an announcement tomorrow outlining the character of the organization. Colonel Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York, is under consideration for appointment as head of the agency.

SECRETARY FALL VISITS HIS HOME

Will Leave for Washington This Week But Expects to Be Back in New Mexico Soon.

Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall, accompanied by his private secretary, H. G. Clunn, and M. W. Reed, chief engineer of the Indian Service, passed through Alamogordo Saturday on the way to Senator Fall's home at Three Rivers, where the party will spend several days resting before going on to Washington.

Secretary Fall has been on a tour of the Indian Reservations in the west, and generally his coming was unannounced on the several agencies prior to his arrival. He has been seeking information at first hand relative to the situation. While in Albuquerque Secretary Fall gave out the following interview to a representative of the Herald:

Not Recreation Trip.

"My trip through the west has not been a recreation or rest trip," he said. "I have been working hard and covering ground all the time. My plan has been to travel quietly, only leading officials with whom I wished to confer know of my arrival at any place in advance.

"The publicity which I have got has been mostly from stunts which were trumped up at different places, such as the national parks, where there are large crowds who only are interested in that sort of thing. The work I have been doing has not had much publicity.

"About my plans for my department and work in the west I am not saying anything. As soon as I would some one would try to block my plans for their own interests, or to step in and claim glory for things which they have nothing to do with.

"A great deal of this sort of thing is done in Washington, by members of congress who take credit for things which they have not accomplished at all. The administration is trying to do things in a business way, and only in that way can it accomplish what it wants to.

Legislative Chances.

"There is a republican administration and a republican congress, so that the two should work together on a definite program. When a member of congress rises to do things by himself, he is blocking instead of helping the accomplishment of the national program.

"There will be no legislation push-matter what politicians have promised, nothing will go through congress until the administration has mapped out a complete program."

Mr. Fall stated that the president alone was responsible for the $50,000,000 roll loan for cowmen. No one else, he said, had anything to do with it.

"As to the McNary bill," he said, "I can safely say that there is no one in New Mexico who knows anything about it, in spite of what some men may have said. The original bill has been lost completely, and only a few men in Washington know of the contents of the substitute for it."

Mr. Fall stated that he would probably be back in New Mexico again soon, and would at that time visit Albuquerque again. He also stated that if he returned he would look over flood conditions at Hatch, N. M. as he has been requested to do by the people of Hatch.

DIPHTHERIA MENACE NEEDS WATCHFULNESS

Santa Fe, Oct. 4.—Watch out for diphtheria this winter!

This is the warning of the health officers who have received word that a neighboring state is nearly "chuck full of it" and that the demand for anti-toxins to fight diphtheria is unprecedented all over the country.

"There have been outbreaks in various parts of the state," said a doctor today, "and I think it is reasonable to presume there will be many cases of the disease this winter when it is usually worse than in summer."

The health department recommends the use of anti-toxin for the first month of treatment, and toxin-anti-toxin for further administration, or for more remote protection. The toxins may be used on children after six months of age, it was stated.

100,000 IS OFFERED FOR REMEDY THAT WILL RELIEVE CANCER

New York, Oct. 2.—A prize of $100,000 for the discovery of a medicinal remedy to relieve cancer has been offered by an anonymous donor through the Cosmopolitan Cancer Research Society of Brooklyn. It was announced today. The reward will be known as the Cosmopolitan cancer prize and was made in anticipation of the observance of national cancer week, October 30 to November 3, when physicians, surgeons, chemists and scientists will hold nation-wide clinics and conferences dealing with the disease. Requirements of the award call for method of treatment, formulas, and full information with therapeutic proof in at least fifty cases.

WORTHY OF ACTION

"I, therefore, appeal to the governors and mayors of the nation that they should take the steps recommended by the conference.

"In order that there may be unity of action by all the forces which may be brought to bear, whether government or private, the unemployment conference is establishing an agency in Washington through which appropriate cooperation can be promoted, and through which reports of all progress and suggestions may be given general circulation and cooperation I trust this agency may be supplemented in this endeavor."

M. E. MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The W. M. S. of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. E. D. Buono Tuesday, Oct. 11. The Bible study lesson will be given by Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Hupperts, and Mrs. Prehm. A full attendance is desired.

The Chicken-Pie Supper given Friday evening proved to be one of the most successful ever given by the Society. It was not only a feast of good things to eat, but a feast of flowers and music; and, with ten young ladies who assisted the older ladies in serving made the evening one of pleasure. Let no one ever again say that this is a "God forsaken country." The beautiful sweet peas which adorned every table was the gift of Mr. Brubaker, the Forest Ranger on the Mesa; and the dahlias and cosmos were the gifts of Mrs. J. B. Dinwiddie and Mrs. McCall. The flowers were the most profuse and gorgeous seen here in many a day. The music was furnished by Ferguson's "Joy Makers," and Raymond Lackland. What more could one wish?

All over town people responded with liberal donations toward the supper and appreciation to all who aided in making the occasion one of profit and pleasure. Special thanks is extended to the "Outlook" and "News" and to Mr. Frank Lesnet, who made the attractive posters, and to Mr. Ziegler for the loan of dishes also the Boy Scouts Charles Ross and Kessler Taylor, who used their cars in carrying.

shall upon conviction thereof be punished by imprisonment for not more than six months or by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or both at the discretion of the court.

By order of the State Game Commission, Thomas E. Gable, State Game and Fish Warden.

DEER AND TURKEY SEASONS

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 4.—In New Mexico the deer and turkey seasons were shortened and changed to No. 20 to 28. This same season is also made for tassel-eared gray squirrels. Although there were not many changes in actual closed seasons in New Mexico, the new law places game administration on a sound basis. Game matters are placed in care of a commission, which among other things may close seasons in any locality on any species, and may prohibit all hunting in periods of extreme forest fire danger, at such times and places as may be necessary.

"LET'S BE FRIENDS!"

Synopsis.—Young Carlyle Wilburton Dale, of "Bill Dale," son of a wealthy coal operator, John K. Dale, arrives in Cartersville, Tennessee, abandoning a life of idleness and incidentally a bride, Patricia Clavering, at the altar—determined to "make his own way in life." He meets "Babe" Littleford, typical mountain-bred girl, "Bye" Heck, a character of the hills, takes him to John Moreland's home. Moreland is chief of his "clan," which has an old feud with the Littlefords. He tells Dale of the killing of his brother, David Moreland—years ago, owner of rich coal deposits, by a man named Carlyle. Dale believes the man was his father. Dale makes his home with the Morelands. Talking with Babe, Dale is ordered by "Black Adam" Hill to leave "his girl" alone. Dale whips the bully. He arranges with John Moreland to develop the coal deposits. Ben Littleford sends a challenge to John Moreland to meet him with his followers in battle. Moreland agrees. The two clans line up for battle. A Littleford fires the first shot. Babe, in an effort to stop the fighting, crosses to the Moreland side of the river, and is accidentally shot by her father and seriously wounded. The fight stops and Babe is taken to the city. Doctors announce she is not seriously hurt. Dale meets an old friend, Bobby McLaurin, who has married Patricia Clavering. Dale's father admits he killed David Moreland and offers him funds to develop the coal. Dale declines and gets funds elsewhere. He realizes he loves Babe, who goes to live with Patricia to be educated. Henderson Goff, a coal man, appears in the scene.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued.

He didn't wait for a reply, but turned away with Bye Heck. He went to the home of the Hecks ostensibly to have his fortune told—really, to eat his dinner. The old woman didn't let him, but her inborn spirit of hospitality wouldn't permit her to refuse to let him sit at the table. She was most even with him when, after shuffling and reading the cards, she told him that it would be wise for him to look out for a big, tall, grey-eyed young man with an oak tree in one hand and a couple of cliffs in the other.

Dale told Major Bradley and John Moreland of that which Goff had said to him at the gate. The major suggested forthwith that he go to meet the man; it couldn't possibly do any harm and there was a chance that he would learn something of Goff's intentions.

No Dale went. Goff was already there, waiting. He was sitting on a stone on the Moreland side of the river, whittling idly. When he saw Dale approaching, he smiled and nodded, rose and pocketed his knife.

"I want to make you an offer for that coal," he said at once.

"All right," Dale replied. "If your offer is big enough, it will be considered. But no shyster price is going to get that coal, Goff."

Goff frowned uneasily.

"You don't know coal, Mr. Dale. You don't know the business of mining or I've got you sized up wrong. Thousands of men have gone busted trying to do things they weren't used to doing. There's a big chance, too, that the coal isn't what it looks to be on the surface. You'd better take a sure thing, and avoid a possibility of loss. I'll give you five thousand, spot cash, for that coal."

Dale shook his head. "You'll have to come heavier than that, I know, if you get the Moreland coal."

"And an extra thousand for yourself!"

Dale laughed a low, queer laugh. "You amuse me, Goff," said he. "Seems to me you've mixed your calling in life. What a peach of a king, villain you'd make in melodrama! You wouldn't have to act, either; you'd have to be just your natural self. And you make me mad, too, Goff. Because I'm on the square with the Morelands and everybody else—now, get that!"

The corners of the shyster coal man's mouth came down.

"Oh, boss—don't pass me that victrola stuff. Every man has his price, high or low. You've got yours, and I've got mine. I'll give you five thousand, spot cash, if you'll persuade John Moreland to sell to me for five thousand, and nobody'll ever know you got a rakedown from me. It's all the coal is worth, that ten thousand, well, yes?"

"Go easy, friend," Goff said very complacently. "There's no use in getting sore. I want the coal, that's all. If I can't get it by fair means, I'll get it in another way. Oh, I don't mind telling you; one man's oath is as good in court as another man's. If you don't take me up at ten thousand, I'll give you so much trouble that you'll be glad to sell it to me later for half that amount. The Balls think they own a big interest in that coal! There's a lot of them, too, and they can keep you from working the mine. Well, I can't waste time in dickering with you. What do you say?"

"I say," and Dale smiled an odd little smile, "that your brain appears to be perfect, except that you've overlooked one or two important details. For instance, there's the law, I know."

"The law—now don't go and fool yourself!" exclaimed Goff. "The state couldn't afford to keep a hundred men here, month in and month out, just to protect your little mine. My patience is about gone, Dale—for the last time, what do you say?"

"I say that I'll beat you at any game you put up against me," very quietly. "Furthermore, I say that you are a coward and a scoundrel, and that you haven't got the insides in you

"It was a nine-rail fence, By," impatiently cut in John Moreland. "You've done told that so much 'at it's dang night wore out. S'pose ye go back thar to the orchard ahind of the house and see what Cale and Luke's a-doin'; hey, By?"

Heck nodded and went toward the orchard. He knew they didn't want him to overhear what they were going to say, but it didn't offend him. It wasn't easy to offend the good-natured Heck.

Moreland turned to Dale. "Well?" Dale turned to Hayes.

"We're going to begin the building of the little railroad at the earliest possible moment. And because I don't know anything about the work, I'm going to ask you to take the lead. Now, there may be some fighting. I don't want you to go into this thing blindly, you see. If you're going to withdraw at all, do it now."

"I'm not a stranger to fighting," Hayes replied smilingly. "I've been through half a dozen coal strikes. I think you may count on me, Mr. Dale."

"Then lay out a plan for immediate action."

"I'd suggest," acquiesced Hayes, "that we send to the little town in the lowland for a supply of picks and shovels, axes and saws, hammers, drills, and explosives. In the meantime, you and I can stake out the way for the track."

It sounded businesslike, Dale thought.

Within the hour John Moreland and his son Caleb started for Cartersville on foot, and in the older man's pocket was money sufficient to buy the things that were needed.

Dale and Hayes set out for the north end of David Moreland's mountain, and each of them carried a hand-axe for making stakes.

It was not often that the quiet Hayes permitted himself to go into raptures over anything; however, he went into raptures over the Moreland coal. It was, he declared, one of the best propositions he had ever seen. It was no wonder that Henderson Goff was determined to get possession of it, he said.

Then they went to work. By sundown two days later they had chosen the route for the narrow-gauge railroad and set stakes accordingly. Hayes told his general manager that with a good force of men the last rail could be put down within two months.

During those two days they had several times seen Henderson Goff in company with Black Adam Hill and some of his relatives. Once they had come upon Goff talking earnestly with Saul Littleford, the big, bearded, gaunt brother of the Littleford chief. Hayes reminded Dale of this, and said to him further:

"Goff will have the Littlefords on his side the first thing you know! Maybe some of the Littlefords, as well as some of the Balls, know about this coal before David Moreland got his mountain by state's grant at a few cents per acre. If you'll take my advice, Mr. Dale, you'll make friends of these two sets just as quick as you can."

Dale thrust his hand-axe inside his belt and turned to the mining expert.

"I don't know, I was thinking of that same thing when you spoke," he replied. "And I believe I can manage it, now that Miss Littleford's accidental wounding has given the old feud such a big blow. I'm fairly sure I can manage it so far as Ben Littleford is concerned; it's John that's going to be hard to bring to law. He should be home this evening, if he's had good luck, and I'll tackle him as soon as he comes."

Together they started across David Moreland's mountain, walking rapidly, with Dale leading.

Darkness came down on them when they had covered half the distance. The great hemlocks and poplars looked spectral and gaunt in the early twilight. The almost impenetrable thickets of laurel and ivy whispered uneasy things, and their seas of pink and snowy bloom looked somehow ghostly. Now and then there was the pattering of some little animal's feet on the dry, hard leaves of bygone years. A solitary brown owl poured out its heart in weird and melancholy cries to the night it loved. There was the faint, far-off haying of a hound, and the soft swish of a night hawk's wings.

Men from the core of civilization must feel these things of the wilderness.

Suddenly Dale drew back and stood still. In the trail ahead, standing as motionless as the trees about him, was the tall figure of a man. It was almost as though he were there to bar the way.

The two went on slowly. The figure didn't move. Dale spoke, and the form came to life. It was Bye Heck; he was leaning on the muzzle of his rifle.

"It's you, is it, Bill, old boy?" He yawned sluggishly. "I was a-waitin' here to see. I reckon I must ha' went to sleep a-standin' here on my feet! I've got news, Bill."

"Out with it."

"I've been a-trailin' Henderson Goff all day," Heck said in guarded tones. "He's there at the Moreland place to believe they're already millionaires."

"I knew that," said Dale. "That's not news."

"But that ain't all," Bye Heck went on. "Goff's got Saul Littleford, too—lock, stock, bar! and sights. He owns Saul jest the same as I own my old spotted 'coon dawg Dime. Saul he gits him a job a-bein' mine boss, and what other Littlefords 'at will stick gits jobs a-diggin' the black-diamond at two dollars a day. Asides, all of 'em is to have a big lot o' money when the dividin'-up time comes, says Goff."

"Much obliged to you, By," Dale acknowledged. "Let's go; 'bout face, By—I'm goin' to tie a hard knot in that villainous game of Henderson Goff's."

They reached John Moreland's cabin less than an hour later. Moreland and his son had just returned from Cartersville, and Dale learned through Hayes that the two hillmen had shown good judgment and some business sense in making their purchases.

When the evening meal was over Dale drew John Moreland out to the cabin yard, where the many old-fashioned flowers made the night air sweet with their blended odors. For a moment Dale stood looking toward the very bright stars and thinking; then he told the big man at his side of Goff's plan concerning the Littlefords, and strongly urged the making of friendship between the two clans.

"The snake!" mumbled John Moreland.

He appeared to be worried about it. He folded his arms, walked to the gate and back to Dale without uttering another word. It was hard for him to throw down completely the hatred of years upon years. Had it been any other person than Bill Dale, a fighter after his own heart, who had asked it, he never would have considered it; he would have said quickly:

"We'll thrash the Balls and the Littlefords, too!"

The younger man read something of the other's thoughts.

"With the help of the law," said he, "we might whip them all. But it would mean a great deal of bloodshed at best. The Littlefords are Babe's people, I know. I like Babe. You like her, too, or you never would have gone with her to the hospital—now don't you?"

"I reckon I can't deny," the Moreland leader muttered, "at all, like Babe Littleford. She ain't like none o' the rest of 'em, Bill."

Dale went on:

"All there is to do to enlist the Littlefords on our side in this; you go to old Ben and say to him: 'Let's begin now; let's be friends, you people and my people, you and me.' He'll be glad you did it. Then it will be easy sailing for us. The Balls never would dare to attack such a force as the Morelands and the Littlefords combined. Don't you see? I admit it will be something of a sacrifice on your part. But a man-like you can make sacrifices. Any man who is big enough to go down on his knees and ask the blessing of the Almighty on his enemies is big enough to make sacrifices. Come—let's go over and see Ben Littleford now; won't you?"

The mountainer didn't answer.

"You won't throttle the cause born in David Moreland's good heart on account of a little personal pride—"

"I'll ax John in," he finally decided, "but he'll haf to make the first break at a-bein' friends. Me axin' him into my house is a purty durned good start toward friendship, ain't it?"

He arose, took up the lamp, walked to the front door and opened it, and called into the night:

"Won't ye come in, John?"

"I reckon I will, Ben," was the lazy answer. "Fo' a minute, anyhow. But I reckon I can't stay long."

Moreland followed Littleford into the best room. Littleford put the lamp beside the worn leather-bound Bible on the table, and they sat down. They looked steadily at each other, and Dale saw plainly that both were ill at ease. Surely, thought Moreland, he had done a great deal when he had come into his old enemy's house. Surely, thought Littleford, he had done a great deal when he had asked John Moreland into his home.

"You wonderful place, my own country,"

"Code of Hammurabi." The "Code of Hammurabi," a set of laws made by King Hammurabi of Babylon, 1868-1816 B. C., was found in 1801 A. D. in a stone eight feet high. The code contains 280 sections dealing with all sorts of questions. The law of bribery was stated thus: "If a man bear witness in a case for gain or money he shall himself bear the penalty imposed in the case." Breaking into mud brick houses was punishable by death. The old law of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" was annulled by him long before the same law was stated by the Hebrews in the old Mosaic law.

Successful Experiment. By affording a means to keep it warm enough to remain liquid, Belgian experimenters have succeeded in using African palm oil to drive an internal combustion engine.

"The Snake!" Mumbled John Moreland, "know you won't!" Dale said earnestly. Moreland straightened.

"You mean well," he said slowly. "I think you're one of the very best men in the world, Bill Dale. You often make me think of poor David himself. But I'm a-reared ye ain't quite satisfied, Bill. I've seen my own son die from a Littleford's bullet. To go and offer to be friends with a man who might be the same one 'at killed my to fight me a fair man's fight. If you'll only pocket that thing you've got in your hand, I'll mow down half an acre of meadow bush with your body."

The other turned red, then white, then red again. Bill Dale's words had lashed him keenly. His eyes became like hard black beads, and he began to raise the wicked-looking pistol as though he meant to fire.

Then there was the sound of a breaking twig behind him, and a voice drew out:

"Drop it, Mister—drop the funny little gun, or the middle o' Tarment in your po'tion right now!"

It was the moonshiner, Bye Heck, and his rifle was leveled. Goff dropped the pistol. Heck grinned, advanced slowly, took up the weapon that the hillfolk call a "coward's gun" and tossed it into the river.

"Now git—cut the mustard—light a rag away from here," he ordered, "afore I let Bill Dale loose on yo!" Goff went away rapidly.

"I wonder if you heard him say anything that would make you valuable as a witness," muttered Dale, "in the event we want to have him arrested?"

"I heard you tell him 'at he was afraid to fight ye a fair man's fight, and 'at of he'd pocket that thing he held in his hand ye'd mow down twenty acres o' meadow bush with his low-down body—that'd be rallyable in co'te wouldn't it?"

Dale smiled. Then he frowned.

CHAPTER IX.

A Signal Victory.

The mining man Hayes, the major and John Moreland were waiting at the gate when Dale, accompanied by the moonshiner, returned to the cabin. Dale was the first to speak. He told briefly of that which had taken place at the blow-down sycamore, and at the last of it Bye Heck straightened proudly.

"I be da-judged if I hadn't ha' pumped him so full o' lead 'at he couldn't enough o' men got around him to tote off his corpse, ef he hadn't ha' dropped the coward's gun." Bye Heck declared as fiercely as he could.

"Gives me a seed in the cap 'at Bill Dale was a-goin' to be a right peckler's friend o' mine, god, and I has a habit o' takin' keef o' my friends. Now thar was my Uncle Bill, him what could jump a stream-rail

I refused to have the operation. My husband asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would not help me. For the first four months I could do but little work, had to lie down most of the time, was nervous and could eat hardly anything, but my husband was always reminding me to take the Vegetable Compound, which I did. Sickly, ailing women make unhappy homes, and after reading Mrs. Natalie's letter one can imagine how this home was transformed by her restoration to health. Every woman who suffers from such ailments should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It is surely worth while.

(National Republican)
The New York Times says the effort of President Harding to supplant a Democrat job holder, the Surveyor General of the Land Office, with a Republican appointee "shows the impolity and absurdity of injecting partisan politics into the administration of a non-partisan office."
"The Democratic job holder, who, running true to form, wants to retain his place on the public payroll 'until death do them part,' has written to the appointing power that he could not understand how the policies and plans of the administration can in any way change or modify the formal duties of a Surveyor General, and declares that he 'stands on his record.'"

This particular Utah Democrat, Mr. Thoreson, was perhaps not moved by these pure and lofty sentiments at the time he was given the place he holds, presumably not because of his qualifications or experience as a Surveyor General, but as a piece of political pap. Once within the sacred precincts of the civil service, he has drawn a ring around himself in a Richelieu, and defies the administration to get rid of him.

There has been too little cleaning of the Augean stables at Washington and in the federal service throughout the country. Public officials holding appointments made on political grounds ought not to wait to be invited to step out of the road when a change comes in National administration. No business or Government can be successfully conducted through agents out of sympathy with its policies and purposes and without interest in its success.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless this inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; this case out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any

ONE BRAND- ONE QUALITY- One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.
Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigarette aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Here's another. We put no useless frills on the Camel package. No "extra wrappers!" Nothing just for show!

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

One thing, and only one, is responsible for Camels great and growing popularity—that is CAMEL QUALITY.

British Peers Selling Estates

Claim Action Is Forged Upon Them by Taxation and Death Duties.

MUST SEEK SMALLER HOMES

One Big Landed Proprietor After Another Is Dividing and Selling His Holdings—In Some Families for Many Centuries.

London.—England's great estates are crumbling under the weight of taxation and death duties and one big landed proprietor after another among the nobility is dividing and selling his holdings, many of which have been in the hands of single families for centuries.

The latest indication that peers are finding it necessary to seek smaller homes comes in the announcement of the duke of Portland that he may have to abandon his palatial mansion, Welbeck, Abbey, in Nottinghamshire. This is only one of the residences of the duke, who owns some 200,000 acres in England.

Duke Expresses Fears.

"For centuries past landed estates have been handed down from generation to generation," said the duke, addressing his tenants on the occasion of the coming of age of his son Lord Francis Cavendish. "Landlords and tenants have lived on terms of mutual trust and affection. I fear, however, that the state of things is passing away, for with the present weight of taxation and the extremely onerous death duties, the future may become very uncertain for all landed proprietors. If this is good for the country, I certainly do not complain.

"With regard to my own case, it may not be possible for me and my family to continue to reside at Welbeck, but I fear that there can be little doubt that those who come after me will not be able to do so."

Many Connections Severed.

On all sides historic houses are finding new tenants and ancient families are severing their connection with the soil. The duke of Devonshire sold Barons' house in 1919 and Stone house, the property of Baroness Kinloch, was disposed of recently.

Others who have sold their properties recently include the duke of Bedford, the duke of Westminster, the duke of Rutland, the duke of Grafton, the duke of Marlborough, Lord Leconfield, Lord Beauchamp, Earl Bradford, Lord Aberdeen, Lord Lovat, Lord Harrington, Lord Harlech, the countess of Warwick and Sir Richard Bulkeley.

Runnymede, a meadow on the bank of the Thames river, in Surrey, site of the historic battle where the barons wrested from King John the Magna Charta in 1215, was up for sale but aroused sentiment compelled its withdrawal. Attacking the government in the debate on the corn production acts repeal bill, Lord Lincolnshire in the house of lords declared the present ministry was preparing to sell the crown lands and said nothing remained but "to pawn the crown jewels."

THE BEES.

"We've been having a fine old time all summer," said the Crickets to the Bumble Bees, "and if you would stop eating honey for a few minutes we'd tell you about it."

"You'll have to tell us as we get the honey," said the Bumble Bee, "for we haven't time to stop."

"Well," said the first Cricket, "we've been spending all of the summer in a summer-cottage with some very nice people. Yes, we've been in their living room all summer.

"We've seen tableaux which they have given. We've seen the children dress up in every sort of a costume you can imagine. We've seen everything in the world, or, rather, every kind of an entertainment which they have had here.

"We've been singing, too, and have helped to make things lively.

"They've liked having us around. But why are you so busy, Bees?"

"Because," said the Bees, "we do not like being idle. We have so much to do. Autumn is coming along and then the Queen Bees will rest in their sheltered winter homes and the rest of us will just stop work. So we work while we can for we will have to stop before long, and we want to fill our little lives with work.

"That is what we like to do.

"Some of the honey bees must have plenty of food all winter. They must have that. Buzz, buzz, buzz, they must have that.

"Old Man Wasp is busy digging at his hole so as to make it a little bigger.

"No is going to take Mr. Spider in there with him, too. Mr. Spider isn't going to visit him, of course, except as a part of the refreshments.

"Yes, we must go on working for there is a great deal for us to do."

"Dear me," said the second Cricket, "I wouldn't like to be as busy as those Bees." The Bees were now working harder than ever and paying no attention to the Crickets.

"I wouldn't care to be as busy as all that. Of course it is all very well to be busy. But after all, one does want to sing and keep things cheerful."

"I should say so," said the first Cricket. "Think of what a nice summer we have had. We've been in the home of such a nice family, such a merry, happy family, and they weren't working all the time.

"Goodness me, they had their games and their good times. And so do we. But the Bees work too hard.

"Yes, they work a great deal too hard. They should sing more and have more fun."

"They should," said the second Cricket, "and I quite agree with you. But then they have their own ways and they probably won't change them."

And the Bees kept sipping of the honey and the first Bee said: "Buzz, buzz, buzz, I must keep on working."

And the second Bee said: "Buzz, buzz, buzz, I mustn't let anything stop me from working. I have plenty to do, plenty to do."

"And the third Bee said: "Buzz, buzz, buzz, there is lots to do. For others it is all right to rest, but for us it is better to keep busy."

"Then, too," said a fourth Bee, with a naughty little wink, "it is fun to be busy as we are, for it is fun to gather honey. Even if we must have the honey it is fun to have the work of gathering honey to do."

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," said all the bees, "we must work but it is pleasant work that we have to do."

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," they said, "we will never spend our time in idleness."

"But," said the first Cricket, "we won't work so hard for we like a good time and a cheery song too well."

"We won't work so hard that we can't sing," said the second Cricket. "We will never do that."

WONDERFUL GAIN IN WEIGHT REPORTED

Young Women Only Weighed 74 Pounds—Now Weighs Over 100 and Is Gaining Every Day.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 74 pounds, I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day," said Miss LaRue Davis of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 70 pounds and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac.

"Oh, I feel so different now. Even my complexion is improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly get enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand and I can truthfully say it is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine.

A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system, they remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

MOTHERI MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Turko Sell Armenian Girls. Geneva.—The allegation that at least 1,000 Armenian girls who were carried off to Turkish harems were ultimately sold into white slavery throughout the world, was made in a report presented to the League of Nations assembly by Mademoiselle Averaceo of Rumania. Her report said it had been learned that the Turks, after carrying off the Armenian girls to their harems, doped them with opium to weaken their will and to kill all desire to return home.

Record Tonnage Through Canal. Washington.—Despite the world-wide trade depression which held during the fiscal year 1921 a new high record was established for American tonnage passing through the Panama canal, according to official reports received here. In a total of 2,592 ships traversing the waterway, 1,212 were American, exclusive of government-owned and chartered vessels. The nearest competitor to the United States was Great Britain, whose flag appeared on 970 ships carrying 3,722,000, against 5,170,000 tons freighted under American colors.

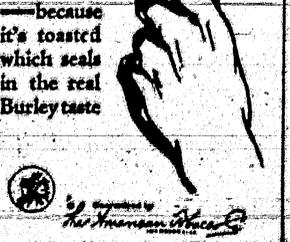

Urge Tax Cut on Small Incomes. Washington.—Reductions in the normal tax rates on individual incomes of $15,000 or less and a graduated tax of from 10 to 20 per cent on the incomes of corporations in place of the suggested flat rate of 15 per cent, were proposed in amendments to the Republican tax revision bill offered in the Senate by Senators Walsh, Massachusetts, and Gerry of Rhode Island, Democrats, on the finance committee.

Rogue U. S. Agents Sell Cars. Tacoma, Wash.—Alleged widespread swindling activities by men representing themselves to be government agents were revealed by Capt. George A. Hunt of the military intelligence office at Camp Lewis. Army motor cars and trucks have been represented for sale at various points through the middle West and deposits on them have been collected, said the captain. The purchaser was told delivery would be made following payment of the remainder to the Camp Lewis authorities.

Home of the Roumanian Embassy

This is the Franklin Ellis home in Washington which the Prince and Princess Bibesco will occupy as the Roumanian embassy. This home is noted for its large ballroom. It has been occupied for the last few years by Colonel and Mrs. Robert M. Thompson of New York. It is located just off Sheridan square.

Bottom of North Atlantic. The bottom of the North Atlantic ocean is one of the widest and most even plains in the world. If the sea were drained off, a wagon might be driven all the way from Valentia, on the west coast of Ireland, to Trinity bay, in Newfoundland.

From Valentia the road would lie down hill for about 200 miles to the point at which the bottom is now covered by 1700 fathoms of sea water. There would come the central plains, more than 1,000 miles wide, the inequalities of the surface of which would be hardly perceptible, though the depth of water upon it now varies from 10,000 to 15,000 feet.

Personal Inspection. An Irish captain inspecting his company noticed that one of his soldiers had neglected to wash either the back of his neck or his ears. "Hi, you!" he called to him; "you haven't washed yourself at the back! Right about face and look at yourself!"—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Literal Youth. The young man always took everything literally. He was most serious in his wooing. "May I kiss you, June?" he asked. "Mother's in the drawing room," she answered. "Oh, that's all right. Your father can kiss her," he replied.

Related Justice. It has always seemed to us an injustice that Adam and Eve should get all the blame for original sin and no credit for the virtues, which are equally original.

Questions and Answers. Question—It is the name of a tree and yet it is part of your hand. What is it? Answer—Palm.

Question—There was a little boy in a house, there were no windows or doors. How could he get out? Answer—He broke out with the measles.

Question—This same little boy had a calendar and a bed in the house. How could he get food and water? Answer—He ate the dates on the calendar and drank the water from the springs in the bed.

Commissioners Meet

The Honorable Board of County Commissioners met Monday and continued their labors, finishing Thursday night. Much work was scheduled for this meeting, but the Commissioners were equal to the task. The new budget system had a try out which it is hoped will facilitate matters, and reduce taxation. The proceedings will appear in the OUT-LOOK next week.

Nogal News

We have never seen the mountains so beautiful as they were this summer; with colder weather for the past few days, we can already see spots of red and gold on the distant mountain sides. So far, Nogal has escaped the icy hand of jack frost.

O. C. Davis, our weather observer, says we have had 52 inches of rainfall this summer.

The Nogal school is prospering under the leadership of Mrs.
Nickles. There is an enrollment of 37, the average attendance for September being 33. Patrons, pupils and teacher, are working together for they believe that to have a good school, all must lend support and encouragement. New books are the order of the day with no opposition.

The new route to Parsons seems to delight the people of the Mesa who are coming in to see if they can have their mail by this route instead of the White line. Postmistress Mrs. Rhoda wants good mail sacks and each one numbered.

Notice to Automobile Owners and Drivers

The law governing operation of motor vehicles is very stringent and penalties for violation are very severe. The new law limits speed to 35 miles per hour on public highways; 15 miles per hour in limits of towns and villages; prohibits driving by children under 14; and provides for arrest without warrant, of all violators. There has been two very serious accidents in Dona Ana County, recently, both caused by violations of this law. To prevent injuries and deaths, the sheriffs have been notified to arrest violators of this law and they will be prosecuted and punished accordingly. Your observance of this law may save a life and will obviate prosecutions.

District Attorney,
Sept. 30-Oct. 21.

Messrs. Speck and White Purchase Brazel Ranch

A deal was consummated this week in which W. W. Brazel sold his ranch near the Water Canyon to C. M. Speck and S. J.
White. These gentlemen have been with us but a short time during which they have gained the confidence of our people and the above deal shows that they have come to stay. Mr. Speck left Monday on No. 4 for Chicago to attend to matters of business importance and will be absent about ten days. After his return, the Speck and White families will move to their new possessions. The deal takes in 1500 acres of fine grazing land and a herd of range cattle.

We make two deliveries; 9:30 a.m., and 3:30 p.m.—Please have your orders ready for these two deliveries—Mayer's Cash Store.

Waiting in the blind while the ducks circle over your decoys—it takes a hard-hitting, evenly distributed shot pattern to bring down that canvas back or mallard.

A perfect shot pattern is the result of the right gun and the right shell.

Winchester shot guns and loaded shells are famous for their patterns of uniform spread and hard-hitting delivery. No duck gets through a Winchester pattern.
