CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1921

PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

NEW MEXICO GETS $1,189,823 UNDER NEW ACT

Federal Aid Law Signed by President Last Week Will Make Employment For Quarter of a Million Men; Congressmen Montoya Advised Federal Road Funds Available at Once.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Congressman Nestor Montoya was informed today by Acting Forester E. E. Carter that the first appropriation of the $2,500,000 of the $15,000,000 appropriation for the construction of the forest roads and trails has been made by the secretary of agriculture on the basis of area and value of national forest lands. As a result of this appropriation $1,189,823 has been set aside for expenditure in New Mexico under the terms of the law.

Seven million dollars of the appropriation for the fiscal year 1922 will be apportioned about January 1, 1922. From the data now available New Mexico's apportionment will be about $235,000.

The remaining $5,500,000 of the whole appropriation is, under the terms of the act, to be distributed by the secretary of agriculture upon the basis of acreage, value of resources, and other similar factors. This apportionment has not yet been made but you will be advised promptly as soon as the secretary approves the further distribution.

All States Will Receive Federal Aid For Roads

Seventy-five million dollars becomes available as federal aid for roads construction in the various states, the money to be spent under the supervision of the Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, under the federal highway act, signed Friday by the president. In addition, $15,000,000 is appropriated for national forest roads. The $75,000,000 represents the federal government's appropriation to the work of building highways in the various states and must be matched, dollar for dollar, by funds from the state treasuries, except in states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public land.

The $75,000,000 appropriated is for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and $25,000,000 of the sum is available immediately, the balance becoming available on January 1, 1922.

Of the above sum New Mexico will have available for roads $1,189,823.34. Of the appropriation of $15,000,000 for the improvement of national forest roads $5,000,000 is made available for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and $10,000,000 for the following fiscal year.

The federal highway act in a general way remedies the federal aid act of 1916, but contains several new features. Administration of the act by the secretary of agriculture, and under him the bureau of public roads, remains unchanged.

Apportionment of the fund to the states is almost the same as in the previous act, the fund being divided into three parts, one part apportioned according to population, one according to mileage of rural and star mail routes. A new feature is the stipulation that no state shall receive less than one-half of one per cent of the total fund which in this case amounts to $265,625. This stipulation will increase the amount received by four of the smaller states, I. e., Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

Change in Use of State Allotments.

There is considerable change, however, in the manner in which a state may use its allotment. Each state must select a connected road system not exceeding 7 per cent of its road mileage for improvement with federal aid. This system will be divided into two classes, one of which will be known as interstate highways and the other as intercounty highways. The interstate highways must not exceed three-sevenths of the system selected; on them not more than 60 per cent of the state's allotment can be spent without the joint approval of the secretary of agriculture and the state highway department. The intercounty highways, which consist of the remainder of the system selected, will receive the remainder of the state's allotment.

Except in states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public land, the amount of federal aid received on any project must not exceed 50 per cent of the estimated cost. In states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public land the 50 per cent allotment is increased by an amount equal to one-half the percentage of unappropriated public land in the state. Before any funds can be paid to a state, the state must appropriate money, under the direct control of the state highway department, to match the federal allotment, and for the maintenance of federal aid highways.

All highways in the interstate system must have a surfaced width of at least 18 feet, unless a narrower width is deemed permissible by the secretary of agriculture. In case a federal aid highway is not properly maintained by a state, the state will be given 30 days notice by the department; at the end of that time if the highway is not in good condition or maintenance the secretary of agriculture will maintain it out of the state's allotment and refuse to approve any new projects, until reim-

A POPULAR STORY OF GOVERNOR MECHEM

The following little anecdote relating to Gov. Mechem, is going the round of the eastern press:

"Merritt C. Mechem was elected governor of New Mexico at the first election at which women had the ballot. He was largely supported by the new voters; one of his pre-election promises, which particularly pleased them, being that he would, if elected, appoint a woman upon every state board. When the time came for the fulfillment of that promise, certain gentlemen objected. The governor heard their objections without comment, then leaning back in his chair, said: 'I can best answer you with a story. A Navajo chief had taken to himself six wives, polygamy being an old-time custom of that tribe. The Indian agent heard of it, sent for the chief, explained the government's prejudice in the matter, and ended with the ultimatum that the chief should decide which one of his spouses he wished to retain and tell the remaining five that they were no longer his. The chief pondered the matter for some time, then was blessed with an idea. He looked up happily, 'You sell 'em, he said.'"

NATIONAL GUARD NOW EQUALS REGULAR ARMY

Washington, Nov. 14.—With a total of 132,000 men enrolled, national guard units recognized by the federal government have reached a strength almost equal to that of the present regular army, it was announced today by the war department.

Nevada Is Behind. Organization of new units, to bring the national guard up to its authorized strength of 222,377 men is being prosecuted vigorously by all the states, with the single exception of Nevada, and 54 additional units, with a strength of 6059, which received recognition during October.

All states now are working strenuously on their units, and even Nevada may "get into line" after the proposal of the war department is made clear in that state.

The rapid growth of the national guard is attributed largely to the co-operation of the regular army. Officers of the regular army have been ordered to assist in the formation of the militia and have shown an energy in the work which proves their conviction of the Webley plan for ample protection without the expense of a great standing army.

THE HOME TOWN PAPER

When the evening shade in fall's at the endin' o' the day, An' a feller rests on labor smokin' at his pipe o' clay, There's nothin' does him so much good, as fortune up or down, As the little weekly paper from his ol' home town.

If it ain't a thing of beauty an' its print ain't always clean, Yet it straightens out his temper when a feller's feelin' mean; It takes the wrinkles off his face and drives away the frown, That little weekly paper from his ol' home town.

It tells of all the parties an' the balls of Squash Pie Row, Bout who spent Sunday with his girl, an' how the crops 'll grow; How it keeps a feller posted 'bout who's up an' 'bout who's down! That little weekly paper from the ol' home town.

Now I like to to read the dailies an' the story papers, too, An' at times the yaller novels an' some other trash—don't you? But when I want some readin' that will drive away a frown, I want that good ol' paper from my ol' home town.

Mileage Sufficient to Encircle Earth.

Encirclement is made by the state. The roads to be paid for by this money, if placed end to end, would encircle the earth and extend from New York to San Francisco on the second lap, the total mileage of the roads under construction and completed being reported by the bureau of public roads as 27,000 miles on October 31. Of this mileage 9,555 miles is in projects which are entirely completed and the contractors discharged. The balance of 17,445 miles is in projects which are still under construction, but which were 63 per cent complete on October 31. In these projects there is therefore the equivalent of 12,000 miles of completed road, so that the completed roads to date totals over 21,000 miles.

The average cost per mile of the roads built with federal aid has been between $17,000 and $18,000. More than half the money has been spent for roads with the highest types of surface, such as concrete, brick, and bituminous concrete, but a very large mileage of roads of the cheaper type, such as gravel and sand-clay, has been built where types would withstand the wear of the traffic.

Prior to five years ago the federal government took no active part in the road construction of the country. Today about one-half of all the roads that are being built are being aided by the government financially, and the construction is subject to the inspection of the government.

ROAD BILL SIGNED; MEANS INCREASED AID FOR STATE

New Mexico road boosters may rejoice. The Phipps-Dowell bill which allows $75,000,000 for road improvements has just been signed by the president, according to word received yesterday by the bureau of public roads.

Under the terms of the bill the state will receive government aid for main highways in proportion to its area of public land. P. H. Everett, senior highway engineer and other members of the road bureau here estimated that under the terms of the bill the government aid will approximate 50 per cent on all approved projects in the state. Improvements requested by the state department, however, must be approved by the bureau of public roads as heretofore.

GOV. MECHEM APPOINTS BOARD TO INVESTIGATE

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 14.—A special committee of five was appointed by Gov. Mechem today to investigate conditions at the asylum for the insane at East Las Vegas. The governor acted under authority of an act of the last legislature providing an appropriation for making institutional survey.

The committee is composed of Dr. J. G. Cornish and Dr. M. K. Myllyer, of Albuquerque; William G. Hayden, of East Las Vegas, temporary chairman; Benjamin M. Reed, Santa Fe, and C. N. Blackwell, Santa Fe.

Request is made that the committee go to East Las Vegas at the earliest moment and begin the study of conditions.

NATIONAL GUARD WILL GET HORSES AT ONCE

Santa Fe, Nov. 6.—Horses will be sent the national guard organizations which still have not received them, at once, Adj. Gen. Henry R. Brown, was advised today by the war department.

These organizations are Troop A, Estancia; Troop C, Deming; Battery A, Roswell; headquarters company, street engineers, Las Cruces.

He was also advised that Battery A's guns would be shipped from Fort Sill. These are the famous French 15's which played a big part in winning the world war.

VIOLATORS OF PROHIBITION LAWS FINED

Santa Fe, Nov. 8.—Fines have been imposed by Judge Colin Nebbett, U. S. District Court, upon one defendant who had pleaded guilty to charges of violating the general prohibition law. They are: August Houquilla, $25 and costs; Isaac Torres, $300 and costs; Maniquas Ponce and Francisco Godoy, $500 each and costs.

FORT COLLINS, COLO., MAN WILL LEAD TO LAS CRUCES AUDIENCE BY WIRELESS

Nathan I. Reiter, secretary of the Agricultural Science Club, of which L. E. Prudential is president, announces that arrangements are being made for a series of lectures on agricultural subjects to be delivered by wireless telephony by officers of experimental stations located within the radius of the apparatus in Las Cruces.

Robert C. Stockdale, chairman of the program committee, has called a meeting for 8 o'clock the evening of December 5 at the Temple of Agriculture, where the local operator will receive a 20-minute talk by a lecturer to be selected by the extension service at Ft. Collins, Colo. Members of the staff of the State College and student body, the Irrigation District, Farm Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, agricultural and engineering clubs and farmers of the county will be in attendance.

The Farm Bureau Marketing association is receiving market reports from Kansas City, Denver and West Coast points. The service covers eggs, poultry and sweet potatoes.

WHITE OAKS ITEMS

Sam Wells has been in, Captain the past summer; he came over to White Oaks Saturday and Sunday on business.

John Little spent a few days at the week in El Paso.

Mrs. H. S. Hanner and Mrs. Floy Jones spent the week-end in Carrizozo.

Mrs. Laura Bales Paine spent Saturday and Sunday at the Price home.

SCHOOL NOTES

(By SUPP. E. E. COLE)

A Camp Fire business meeting was held last Thursday.

The Boy Scouts held their regular meeting last Thursday night.

Scout Paul Wack is color sergeant for this week.

The chorus is now learning "Smiles" and "Trippoli."

Miss Hilary Cooper, class of 1922 is giving valuable assistance in the chorus as an alto.

When Herbert Tennis left Carrizozo a year and a half ago as an eighth grade student, he took the examination for the ninth grade of the Long Beach, California, high school and passed easily. Herbert is now one of the editorial staff on the students' paper in the same school.

In a race issue of the college paper of the State College of New Mexico, we noticed that Rufus Branum, captain of company A of the college battalion. This is one of the highest positions which can be given in the military branch of the college.

At the University of New Mexico, last week, Eva Wack, class of 1921 in the Carrizozo high school, with Tom Weston, another freshman, tied the university champions in a tennis game, much to the surprise of everybody.

In the Armistice number of the Carrizozo Outlook, published last week we announced the appointment of Miss Uta Edmlston, another graduate of the Carrizozo high school, to a fine position in the banking department of the United States government, at Dallas, Texas.

What is the matter with the graduates of the Carrizozo high school? Nothing at all.

Two very interesting and well-played games of basket ball were witnessed, last Saturday, by a large crowd at the ball park; Vaughn contending with Carrizozo.

The girls' teams played first and the game was fast and furious. Our girls won by superior team work and speed. The final score was 37 to 10.

In the boys' game the first half was very close and both teams seemed closely matched, the score being 7 to 9 in favor of Vaughn. At the beginning of the second half the visitors gained a lead which they kept to the end of the game. The final score was Vaughn 33, Carrizozo 17.

Line-up, Girls' team: Jeanette Johnson, forward; Ida Bullion, forward; Charlotte Elliott, jumping center; Jennie Rustin, running center; Ada Corn, guard; Grace Taylor, guard.

Boys' team: Harold Massey, forward; Clayton Hust, forward; William Johnson, center; John Boyd, guard; Max Taylor, guard.

A game will be played on the home grounds, between the teams of the Corona and Carrizozo high schools, next Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. November 19 is the day.

MRS. MILLER ASKS FOR FULL HEARING

Mrs. Miller, in a letter to Mr. Conway, relating to the request for her resignation, asks that she be given an opportunity to hear charges the Board has to make against her and to answer them. She states that during the Board meeting last Saturday, November 5, Mr. Earl Douglas, assistant superintendent of Public Instruction, came to her with a request that she resign her position as State Director of Vocational Education. Her reply was that "she would take this under advisement." She says she returned this answer because her appointment as State Director of Vocational Education, which carries with it the position of Director of Vocational Education, did not come from the Board but came from Mr. Conway as State Superintendent of Public Instruction, as provided in the laws of New Mexico and she felt that she is responsible to him. The Board has not informed her of any specific charges against her either personally or in connection with her work. But newspaper reports linked this request for her resignation with charges made in an audit of the department recently made by Traveling Auditor, A. G. Whittier.

It seems, as Mrs. Miller states, that in common justice to her, she be given an opportunity to hear and answer any charges made against her. Mrs. Miller states that the records in her office are open to inspection and that she is ready at any time that Mr. Conway may suggest to appear before him and the Board. The cause of education requires a complete, open and thorough investigation and Mrs. Miller says she, for one, shall certainly welcome it.

WOLF IS GARELY MAKING HIS LAST STAND IN AMERICA

Washington, Nov. 17.—The wolf is gamely making his last stand in America. Bloody fanged from cattle growers' stock, and fighting for his existence against the best traps, rifles, poisons and hunters, he has been cut down in number until today it is estimated by the United States Biological Survey, that there are probably less than 500.

Hunters are fast getting his pelt, through exciting the romantic adventures. In Northeast Wyoming, three hunters are now intently studying a drive to clean out what is believed to be less than 50. Since the drive began last spring 24 have been killed.

The old system of laying bounties in the hands of wild animals has been found after years of study and experience to be a failure. Dr. A. K. Fisher, in charge of economic investigations of the Biological Survey says: "Since 189 million dollars have been spent on bounties" he declared and there has never been a case where the bounty did any apparent good.

The old bounty men, he declared, are in the game more for the money and the living they could get out of it, than for the purpose of ridding the country of wild animals. It was found by adding that the bounty men would save one or two pairs of wolves, to make more wolves, for more bounties.

In the beginning of the government's drive against the hunters, Dr. Fisher charged, some of the bounty men proved untrustworthy. "Some of them would write up here saying if they could only have the tip of a shark, or the tip of a kangaroo's tail, they could surely lure game into their traps. That was pure superstition."

Although the wolf has attacked many persons, and hunted man in packs in the steppes of Russia, another part of the world, there is no single case on record, Dr. Fisher reports, where a wolf has attacked a human being in America.

Typhoid Fever in New Mexico in 1921.

Santa Fe, Nov. 14.—Typhoid fever is a prevalent disease in New Mexico during the summer and autumn months. From June to November it is one of the most prevalent diseases in the state, but during the remainder of the year is not frequently encountered.

In order to keep track of the typhoid fever the State Bureau of Public Health maintains a map of each county in which the number of cases in each month are graphically displayed by pins of different colors. A study of this map shows some interesting facts:

The counties of Lea, Torrance, Hidalgo, Sierra, Lincoln, Chihuahua, Harding and Luna have not reported any cases of typhoid fever since June, 1921. This does not necessarily mean that there were no cases occurring but simply that none were reported.

A small outbreak occurred at Pecos in Otero County, one case occurring in June and six in July. There were no other cases in the county as follows: July 3, August 1, October 1.

A review of all the conditions yields the conclusion that in New Mexico typhoid fever is primarily caused by typhoid infection from sanitary privies, with occasional sharp outbreaks resulting when a typhoid fever carrier is employed in a dairy. Water supplies are of secondary importance as a source of typhoid fever and these water supplies are being steadily improved through the activities of the Division of Sanitary Engineering and Sanitation.

The great problem with respect to typhoid fever, therefore, is a problem of sanitation, and the control of milk supplies. This is being done quite effectively in those counties having full-time county health departments.

CO. SCHOOL SUPT. HONORED BY WOMAN'S FEDERATION

County School Superintendent, Mrs. M. L. Blaney, has been honored by the State Federation of Woman's Clubs with the appointment as State Chairman of the Department of Education. The appointment came from Mrs. F. W. Parker, president of the Federation, who, by virtue of her office is Chairman of the State Executive Committee. Again, has wisdom in appointment been made and bestowed according to merit been demonstrated.

CARRIZOZO MASONS WORK AT VAUGHN

Nine members of Carrizozo Lodge, No. 41, A. F. & A. M., took No. 4 for Vaughn Monday evening and gave the initiatory work to candidates in the first and third degrees. A good crowd greeted the Carrizozo Masons; there being about eighty in attendance. After the degrees were accomplished, a magnificent luncheon was served. Those mentioned were R. E. Lemon, S. P. Miller, P. A. English, George Ferguson, C. P. Huppertz, John A. Ukey, J. P. Dennis, D. A. Saunders, R. Bogie. They returned on No. 2 Tuesday morning.

TO ORGANIZE NATIONAL PARK ASSOCIATION

Representatives of New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Oklahoma and Kansas Invited to Take Steps Regarding New Public Playground.

Las Cruces, Nov. 12.—Governors and representatives of New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Oklahoma, and Kansas will meet in Las Cruces, December 3 to organize the Southwest All-Over National Park Association, looking to the establishment of a new public playground in Southern New Mexico.

Judge W. A. Hawkins of Alamogordo, who issued the call this afternoon, will preside. With him will be James G. McNary, president of the First National Bank, of El Paso, vice and acting chairman; D. A. Bandoen, general manager of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, secretary and Major R. F. Burgess and H. B. Stever, of El Paso; Tom Charlis and Dr. H. L. Kent, of Alamogordo, and Dr. H. L. Kent, of Brook and F. French of Las Cruces, members of the temporary committee.

In addition to the governors and congressional representatives of the five states mentioned, the organization committee has addressed letters to presidents of A. & M. College, members of commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s and other public bodies in the south, urging them to send delegates to Las Cruces.

Reports received this morning from Santa Fe are that the chamber of commerce of the capital city is heartily in favor of establishing the new park in the part of New Mexico.

Judge Hawkins and Major Burgess have been assigned to draw the bill to be presented to congress, will request the inclusion of the Mesquite reservation, the northern portion of the White Sand district and lava bed and Elephant lake (Lake H. M. Hall) and the U. S. irrigation dam.

The bill will be drawn to protect the rights of the Indians as to royalties on timber and minerals; in other words, to create a beneficial interest in lands they do not enjoy except by executive order.

The reservation and granulated system deposits and lava beds will be connected with the lake by a highway about 20 miles in length.

Frank T. French, chairman of the local committee, said this morning that the invitations sent out by the officials of the temporary organization will be supplemented by personal letters to the heads of civic and other organizations in cities and towns throughout the southwest.

A vigorous publicity campaign will be made to bring this important matter of a national park to the attention of the people in the southwest and elsewhere in America. Mr. French added, and nothing will be left undone that in the opinion of the committee, should be done to promote the park movement.

H. H. Brook, president of the Elephant Dam Irrigation District, said in an interview with the Outlook that he year-round park in Southern New Mexico would offer to the farmers of the Southwest and Western states as well as those in other parts of the country a means of enjoying themselves with other national parks already placed. The establishment of a national park, he added, would attract additional tourist travel from all parts of the country.

Dr. H. L. Kent, president of the New Mexican College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, said that the farmers and ranchmen of Oklahoma, Nebraska and Kansas would undoubtedly lend their influence to the new park proposal.

Radio Signals Flashed 11,000 Miles When Powerful Station at Annapolis Gets in Touch With Japs at Iwaki

Washington, Oct. 29.—The American navy's powerful radio station at Annapolis, it was learned Saturday, has been in direct communication with Japan, exchanging wireless signals with the powerful new Japanese station at Iwaki, 11,000 miles distant.

Listening in for reports from San Diego, the navy's station on the Pacific coast, an operator at a desk in the navy department here heard a call he at first thought was the one he had been waiting for. The signal was faint and the instrument tuned for San Diego's sound wave.

The operator discovered it was not San Diego calling. The only other station on that wave is known as "Jap" at Iwaki in Japan. He began calling "Jap" and almost immediately a reply came back in international code saying:

"This is Jap," we hear strong. How do you hear us?"

The operator here replied that he heard "Jap" call plainly and asked if "Jap" had any news. A reply in the negative followed by several Japanese words flashed back. The Washington operator could not understand the words and then the connection was lost.

Naval experts were astounded that the connection was made, and now attribute it to an atmospheric condition as efforts made here to call Iwaki from here have failed.

CHAPTER XV.

Two days before Bill Dale was tried in court at Cartersville, the new Elizabeth Littleford alighted from an afternoon train at the Halfway switch. She was dressed in a smart and neatly-fitting suit of dark blue, with lacey white at her throat and at her wrists; who wore a hat of dark blue relieved by a touch of white. In one of her strong and well-shaped, gloved hands she carried a traveling bag of black leather.

A big and sunburned young man in boots and corduroys hastened to her. He raised his broad-brimmed hat, stilled, took the bag, and pressed her hand as though he was very glad to see her.

"Bill Dale!" she cried joyfully above the roar of the passing train. "Bill Dale, it's you!"

"Sure, it's me!" laughed Dale. "How good you look! I can hardly believe it's you."

"But it is," she smiled. "Tell me: what do you think the outcome of your trial is going to be?"

Dale noted that her English had improved, and it was gratifying to him. As for the trial—

"I don't know," he said. "But Major Bradley thinks I'll come clear. He believes that somebody that was hidden on the mountainide above an shot hall to save me. By Heck hinted that he knew that this was the case; and he intimated that I would stand a better chance of acquittal than anybody else would stand, and that if I received a sentence the right man would come forward with a confession. I have an idea that by Heck himself killed Adam Ball that is, if I didn't do it."

"And Cole Moreland wasn't it fine for him to do what he done for you, Bill Dale? How are you getting along with the mine?"

"First rate," Dale answered, brightening at once. "We're shipping now. And we're getting a smashing price for every ounce of it."

"I see," said the young woman. He went on:

"All of the boys and girls of the Morelands, except the very little ones, are in school at Cartersville, and they're learning fast. When our boy-loved capital is paid back, the Moreland families are going to buy farms lying near Cartersville and go to them. A big lowland farm close to good schools and a good little town—well, there are worse places on earth. Pitty poor David Moreland can't know about it."

"I'd say!"

She hung her head. She was thinking, as she had so often thought before, of her own heighted people.

"And the Littleford?" she murmured. It had slipped past her lips. Dale and the Morelands owed the Littlefords nothing.

Dale understood, and he gave her a sympathetic glance.

"A few of the boys and girls of the Littlefords are going to school in Cartersville, perhaps one from each family," he told her. "It is rather expensive, you know, on account of the boarding, and they can't afford to send all their children. However, I think—ultimately your people will have their chance for education, too."

"But it won't do much good to educate one out of each family," said Elizabeth. "They'd come straight back here when they got through with their schooling, and soon forgot—I mean forget—all. If they make their learning pay in anything, they'll have to stay where they can use it."

She began to stare absently toward the well-shod feet.

"Are you ready to go?" Dale asked.

Elizabeth Littleford raised her head with a slight jerk and said rather awkwardly:

"Has the valley changed much?"

"Not very much," answered Dale. "There's a new log church, where an old minister named Ashby Cross preaches the gospel of straight walking and human kindness every Sunday. Henderson Goff isn't here any more, but he sent me his address in case we wanted to call the mine! The Torroys have gone back to Jerusalem Cove and Hutton's hill, and the Balls are as quiet as mice. These, I believe, are all the changes worth mentioning."

"Together they set out and walked, without saying much, to the crest of David Moreland's mountain, and there they halted. The autumn sun, a great red ball of fire, was just setting beyond the majestic Big Pine.

Dale pointed to a long, moss-covered alab of brown sandstone.

"That's it down there and rest," he suggested. "You're tired, Babe. I know. Don't mind my calling you 'Babe,' do you?"

She looked at him as though she were surprised at his asking that. They sat down.

Bill Dale suddenly leaned toward her and took one of her hands; and he didn't take it as Jimmy Fayne had done—as though he were afraid of it. "You know I love you, don't you, Babe?"

"I've been believing it," she told him after a moment of painful silence. She was a trifle pale now. "But it—Bill Dale, it somehow don't seem just right for you to love me. Because I'm such a pore little nobody. I'm as ignorant as sin; and I ain't—haven't even got good manners. But—but if you love, if you're sure you do, tell me why!"

There came another minute of painful silence.

"Because," said Dale, speaking slowly, "you have always seemed to be one of my own kind. You seem real to me. I was so sick of artificialities in women that I loved you the moment I saw you. I know you are primitive, but I am primitive, too. And you weren't calling yourself 'Ma-a-m-m-m' to a d-d doodle."

"Major Bradley," he went on, "feels sure that I will be acquitted. If it turns out like that, I want you to marry me at once. Tell me—will you, Babe?"

How boyishly impatient he was. Was he afraid he would lose her by waiting?

"You love me, don't you, Babe?" he pursued.

She faced him with the sudden, queer light of a tragedy in her eyes.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you reached a verdict?"

They had. Elizabeth Littleford's head swam as she bent forward to catch the foreman's words—

"Not guilty!"

A wild shout rose from the leathery throat of the happy By Heck. The Morelands and the Littlefords cheered until they were hoarse. Sheriff Tom Flowers had difficulty in quieting the tumult. Bill Dale shook hands until his shoulders ached. The Balls and their relatives, bitter with resentment and hatred, stole out, were given their rifles, and went toward the big hills with the eye of the militia hard upon them.

Then the Morelands and the Littlefords and the Hecks, with Dale and his tall-riding-man-Hayes, came out, and they, too, started for the big hills.

Dale had hired a horse and a side saddle for Ben Littleford's daughter, and the two rode in each other's company on the journey home. When they were well into the mountains, Dale drew his horse over close to that of his companion.

"As soon as I can build and furnish—" he began, when Elizabeth interrupted:

"We're ridin' too fast. We're too much ahead of the others. One of them Balls—might try to pick you off with his rifle gun."

"Not much danger of that," Dale replied. "The Balls have already been warned about sniping; your father told them that their very name would be scoured off the earth if there was any sniping. Besides, by Heck is acting as advance guard somewhere ahead of us."

He continued, "As soon as I can build and furnish a little house out near the mine, I want you to marry me, Babe. Will you?"

Elizabeth Littleford seemed not to have heard.

"Will you, Babe?"

She faced him sadly. He saw in her hazel eyes the same queer light of tragedy that he had seen there a day or two before; and now, as then, he wondered what it could mean.

"Tell me, Babe!"

Her head fell forward. The sunlight found glints of gold in her thick chestnut-brown hair. She was silent for a moment; then her voice came dull:

"I'd better not marry you, Bill Dale."

Dale sat up straight and rigid in his saddle and stared hard at her solemnly beautiful profile. He could hardly believe that he had heard correctly. He knew she loved him. She had told him that she loved him. Then why wouldn't she marry him? He tried to reason it out, and the attempt made his brain ache; he was unable to reason. He knew only that she was all of the future to him, all of the world to him, and—that she had refused to marry him.

When they were within two miles of home, Dale went suddenly white and caught her almost rudely by a wrist.

"Is it Jimmy Fayne?" he demanded hotly.

She gave him a reproachful glance and said nothing. He hung her hand from him angrily.

Dale did not speak again until they had entered the broad valley that was home to him. Somehow he felt limp now. The great wave of anger had passed.

"I guess you are too good for me," he said. There was weakness in his voice, and it was the first weakness she had ever known in him.

"Will you always think of me as the finest and most beautiful woman in the world?" she asked.

"Always."

"It's the best I can hope for," murmured Elizabeth.

"What do you mean?"

"It's the best I can hope for," Elizabeth repeated as though she were talking to herself.

They rode on in silence.

"Whatever it is you're a-grievin' about, o' course, Babe Littleford she went back to yore home town this mornin', Bill. Sort o' quare, I thought, 'at you never went with her over to the switch. Sort o' quare, too, 'at she never rid over on the little logyne insid o' walkin'. But mebbe she was afeard o' gittin' her fine city clo's all smutted up. Say, Bill, old boy, I wish I may drop dead in my tracks ef you don't look like a d-d corpse. I got to be h-i-l, or you wouldn't griev about it. Smatter? Babe?"

Dale rose and glared at By Heck.

"I'm going to have the truth; By now get that. Did you, or did you not, kill Adam Ball to save me?"

By Heck realized that he would have to be very cunning if he evaded the question now. Bill Dale, his god, would not be put off longer.

So By Heck answered: "I wish I may drop dead this minute and turn into a cross-eyed mink with a green tail and pink eyes. I wish the devil may take me and spend ten thousand eternities a-steking red-hot, pepper-coated pitchforks in me and not let me have any tobacco; I wish I may be struck blind and deaf and dumb and paralyzed and ha' my tongue cut out and my ears and toe-nails torn off—ef I killed Adam Ball to save you or anybody else."

And then, having answered, he favored Dale with an odd look, took up his rifle and strode out of the office humming:

"When I die, don't bury me deep. Put no tombstone at my head and feet. Put a bear's jawbone in my right hand—"

"But he's the biggest liar in the state," muttered Dale, turning back to his desk.

He closed his desk, and he didn't work any more that day. Babe Littleford had gone without even bothering to tell him good-bye!

the hills, of the feud between her people and the Morelands and of how she had hated the bloodshed. She told of the coming of Major Bradley, of her burning thirst for education, of the old trainman who had thrown her a newspaper each day, and of the coming of Bill Dale.

"I was lonesome," she continued, "and nobody ever seemed to understand how I felt. That is, until Bill Dale came. After I met him, I couldn't see anything but him; he seemed to me like somethin' I'd had and lost. . . ."

"Then," said Mrs. Dale, "why did you refuse to marry—"

"Walt—you don't know it all," Elizabeth interrupted her. "There was the killin' o' that heathen, Adam Ball. I went to 'tend the trial because I knew I could clear your son if Major Bradley couldn't. You see, Mrs. Dale, I happened to know who did kill Adam Ball, and I meant to tell if it was necessary."

"On the mornin' of the killin' Bill had started up the river by himself. It was dangerous for him to go off like that, on account o' them Balls and Torroys. Back in the Big Pine country there is a tall, thin man named Sam Heck. He's a big eater, an awful liar, and a worshiper of Bill Dale. Sam heard my father say it was dangerous, and he whispered: 'I'll jest sneak through the laurels and yard Bill from behind him.' I heard him say it, Mrs. Dale."

"So he went sneakin' along the foot o' the north end o' David Moreland's mountain, with his rifle in his hand, to guard your son. Bill didn't know he was bein' followed, because Heck is as crafty as a cat. I got nervous about Bill, so I went into the laurels and followed Sam Heck. When I overtook him, he was standin' behind a clump o' sheep laurel and lookin' toward the river."

"I whispered, 'Where's Bill?'"

"He said, 'Be still, Babe!' And then he thumbed his rifle's hammer back without a sound."

"I looked toward the river and saw Bill Dale a-walkin' up the nearest bank, and I saw Black Adam slip behind a tree not far away. Bill saw Adam, and he slipped behind a tree, too. Adam shot at Bill's hat, and teased Bill. Bill shot at Adam's hat—and then Adam Ball jumped up growlin' like he was done for, and fell all a-twistin' to the ground. But he wasn't lit. He put his gun out by the tree to kill Bill as soon as he showed himself. It was one o' his old tricks."

Elizabeth Littleford raised her head slowly and went on in a voice that was much shaken:

"I had always talked against killin', and yet I stood there and begged Sam Heck to finish him. The rest happened in no time. Ball was already a-lookin' along his sights. Bill Dale was nearly out in the open. I— I faltered, and they came a rush of words: 'I wouldn't marry him without tellin' him, because it wouldn't be fair to him; and if I told him, he— he wouldn't have me. The woman he marries mustn't be a s-savage.'"

She stopped and stared at Mrs. Dale almost defiantly. Her head was high, and her hands were clasped in her lap so hard that they trembled.

"I think you have made a mountain out of a molehill, my dear," the older woman said gently. "What you did was right, not wrong; any good woman would have done just what you did, Elizabeth, I am sure."

Elizabeth Littleford faced Mrs. John K. Dale squarely. There was a strange glow in her eyes.

"But I haven't told you everything," she murmured—"I took Sam Heck's rifle from him, and killed Adam Ball myself."

"Will You Always Think of Me as the Finest and Most Beautiful Woman in the World?" She Asked.

CHAPTER XVI.

Confession.

If the impulsive, fighting Bill Dale could have heard across the intervening miles the conversation that took place in his old home the next evening, he would probably have followed Ben Littleford's daughter by the next train if he had had to hold it up at the point of an honest blue gun in order to get aboard it.

John K. Dale and his wife had gone into the library with Elizabeth at her request. The three sat down facing each other. The younger woman was ill at ease; she was glad that the lights were subdued and soft. When the silence had become heavy, she straightened in her chair and blurted out falteringly:

"Bill asked me to marry him, and I wouldn't do it. I—I thought maybe I—I ought to tell you."

The Dales exchanged glances; then they looked back at Elizabeth Littleford. Dale smiled a fatherly smile. Mrs. Dale's eyes narrowed. The old stiffness rose within her and began to make stubborn war against her more recently acquired common sense.

"Have you quarreled?" she asked.

"No."

"Well," old Dale said bluntly, "what's wrong?"

"It isn't his fault," Elizabeth told them. "I'm a savage," she went on desperately. "And he isn't my kind."

John K. Dale retired very early that night. When the sound of his footsteps had died away, his wife bent toward Elizabeth and said curiously:

"Why did you call yourself a savage?"

Elizabeth told of her early life in the hills, of the feud between her people and the Morelands and of how she had hated the bloodshed. She told of the coming of Major Bradley, of her burning thirst for education, of the old trainman who had thrown her a newspaper each day, and of the coming of Bill Dale.

Gladstone Explains His First Budget.

We owe to the late Duke of Argyll an account of the cabinet meeting in 1853 at which Mr. Gladstone, then forty-three years of age, explained the proposals of the first of his series of famous budgets.

"He came into the room," writes the duke, "with a large, flat, shallow official box, very old and shabby, covered with drab-colored leather. He sat on a chair nearly fronting the window, whilst we all sat in a kind of loop around him. Opening the box on his knee, so that its lid stood upright and afforded a rest for any paper placed upon its edge, he began a conversational exposition, which endured, without a moment's interruption, for more than three hours." The speech in which Mr. Gladstone laid this budget before the house lasted close upon five hours.

Cheerful Ward Means Much.

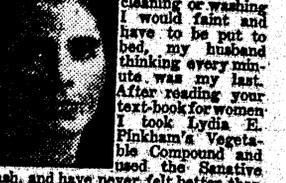

Have you ever had your day suddenly turn sunbiny because of a cheerful word? Have you ever wondered if this could be the same world, because someone had been unexpectedly kind to you? You can make today the same for somebody. It is only a question of a little imagination, a little time and a little trouble. Think now, "What can I do today to make someone happy?"—old person, child, servant—even a boss for the day, or sugar for the day. Way set—

THIS WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Brings a Ray of Hope to Childless Women

Lowell, Mass.—"I had anemia from the time I was sixteen years old and was very irregular. If I did any house cleaning or washing I would faint and have to be put to bed, my husband thinking every minute was my last. After reading your text-book for women I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sarsaparilla Wash, and have never felt better than I have the last two years. I can work, eat, sleep, and feel as strong as can be. Doctors told me I could never have children—I was too weak—but after taking Vegetable Compound (I strengthened myself so I gave birth to an eight pound boy. I was well all the time, did all my work up to the last day, and had a natural birth. Everybody who knew me was surprised, and when they asked me what made me strong I told them with great pleasure, I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never felt better in my life. Use this testimonial at any time."—Mrs. ELIZABETH SMART, 142 W. Sixth St., Lowell, Mass. This experience of Mrs. Smart is surely a strong recommendation for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is only one of a great many similar cases.

The Great Obstacle.

"Wife has been pestered at me considerably of late to sell out and move to town," said Gap Johnson of Hampden Ridge, Ark. "The children yelled like catamounts for the change whenever they happened to think about it. And I was pretty nigh on the point of doing so last month, but just then some feller told me it was almost impossible to raise dogs in town."—Kansas City Star.

Muriel came running to her mother, crying:

"O-o-o mamma! Did you hear the ladder fall down just now?"

"No, dear. How did the ladder happen to fall down?"

"Well, papa was washing the window and it slipped, and when it fell it broke three flower pots. I told daddy you'd be cross."

"Oh, dear," cried the mother, "I hope your father hasn't hurt himself."

"I don't think he has yet," replied the child. "He was hanging onto the window all when I came away to tell you about the flower pots."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

FRANCES E. WILLARD MUSEUM

Little Schoolhouse Near Janesville, Wis., Dedicated to Memory of Great Temperance Leader.

Log cabins and marble palaces, courthouses and round towers are now and again turned into museums in the memory of some historic person. More rarely the building is a schoolhouse, but such is the case with the new Frances E. Willard museum.

GREATER STRENGTH Fewer Spoonfuls

BIGGER SAVINGS

The value of baking powder is based on its leavening strength. You can't judge it by the size of the can—or by the amount you get for your money. You must estimate it by the amount of baking powder used in each baking and the results you get.

is the greatest value ever offered in Baking Powder,—it has greater raising "force"—it goes further than many of the other brands. You use only a rounded or heaping teaspoonful where many others call for two teaspoonfuls or more.

But Baking Powder is not all you'll save when using Calumet. You save baking materials. Calumet never fails. The last level teaspoonful is as powerful as the first. Calumet is perfectly manufactured—keeps perfectly—and is moderate in price.

You save when you buy it—You save when you use it

Carrizozo Is Growing— We Want WATER!

Carrizozo has reached the point where something must be done to secure water for the city. That we are growing and growing fast, is a certainty, therefore, we must have water, not only for use in the homes, but in case of fire, we are almost entirely at its mercy. True, the E. P. & S. W. has furnished the only means available for this purpose; it is also true that we owe what amount of water we have to this courteous corporation, but the supply is insufficient to meet our daily needs. In conversation with one of our leading citizens this week, we were informed that water rights must first be secured. This accomplished, bonds should be issued for funds with which to pipe the city, the cost of same falling, of course, on the property owners, who will be the ones benefitted by the project.

People in general desire this great boon to our community, but it takes some effort to launch the movement. We boast of our three banks, five garages, our commodious Carrizozo Eating House, Carrizozo as the County Seat, the two new Lincoln-Socorro county roads, our many business enterprises such as grocery stores, gent's furnishing goods houses, hardware, drug and millinery stores, bakery and cafes, the wonderful resources in the mountains hovering over us, the unexcelled stock raising country surrounding us, and many other things of which we are proud, but when it comes to the water proposition, we must back up.

As the situation now is, and always has been, we owe a debt of gratitude to the railroad for what we have. Shall we continue to accept this aid which the company gladly renders without exercising efforts of our own for self-reliance and benefit? Let us hold a meeting of the citizens of Carrizozo and talk this matter over. Let us put in a few hours in exchanging ideas and formulating plans whereby we may be able to secure what the city sorely needs—WATER. This is not a fleeting editorial that will die with this issue. We have started this movement and we are going to keep the same before the people until something is done.

So long as I find the proportion of public revenue properly devoted education is increasing. I desire to be counted among those in public life ready and anxious to struggle with the problem of raising the necessary revenues.—President Harding.

In China talkative women are divorced. And still we send missionaries to China.—Ex.

Our elevator boy says: "Newspaper guys sure are funny. Whenever they meet an outsider they always ask, 'What do you know?' and the other always answers, 'Nothing' the next day the paper is filled with news."

Carrizozo Lady Honored

Santa Fe, N. M., November 14—Mrs. W. C. McDonald, widow of former Gov. McDonald, and always a prime favorite with Santa Fe people, is a visitor in the capital from her home at Carrizozo and being entertained by various friends here. Miss Louise Mackel was hostess at a charming bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. McDonald at the Bishop's Lodge Thursday afternoon, the guests being Mesdames Laughlin, W. J. Barker, G. W. Prichard, James A. French, T. N. Espe, R. V. Boyle, J. B. Read, John T. Murphy, L. A. Gillett, Francis Wilson, and W. C. McDonald.

Mrs. N. B. Laughlin and Mrs. Wm. J. Barker announce an "at home" to receive friends from three to five p. m., on Thursday, the 17th, in honor of Mrs. McDonald, who will be a guest at the Laughlin home during the week and perhaps longer. No invitations.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS
Is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRHAL MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be "lost forever." HALL'S CATARRHAL MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring nature in restoring normal conditions.
Curelers free. All Druggists.

Methodist Church Notes

The Sunday School attendance has increased one hundred per cent during the month. We began a contest Sunday, between the men and boys, the women and the girls. This contest is to last four weeks and at its close, the losing side will entertain the winners.
Our attendance is increasing at the regular services. Messrs. Charles Scott, Ernest Dingwall, G. B. Herion and Louis Adams, ushers, will welcome you at the door and see that you are comfortably seated. We are making the song service a special feature, with Mrs. Donatson at the piano, Dr.
Cole and Mrs. Conkin in charge of the program.

Gifts That Will Please

Of Canvas and Ribbon • Fadeless Flowers

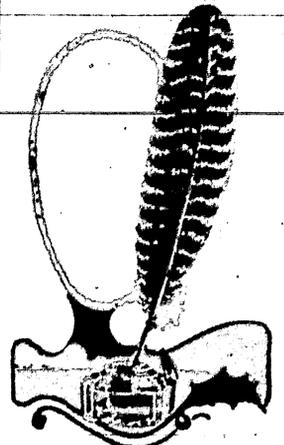

It goes without saying that bags of all sorts are among those gifts that are always welcome. There are many new ones this year made of coarse canvas, or unbleached linen and trimmed with narrow satin ribbon and ribbon flowers. Baby ribbon may be drawn through the interstices of the canvas. Drawing threads out of either the canvas or linen makes it possible to weave wider ribbons over and under the remaining threads, in borders or ornaments. Flowers cut from cotton or linen, in various colors, are applied to the linen bags and buttonhole along their edges with cotton floss or yarn. A case for holding playing cards and a bag which may be put to various uses are shown above in gifts suited to either men or women.

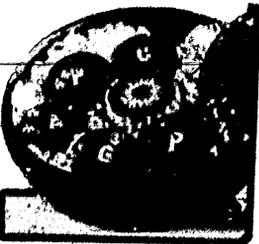

Flowers made of points cut from paper tape and coated with colored sealing wax, are among the novelties that add to the cheerfulness of home and Christmas this year. A cluster of them in several different colors, in a vase that is also coated with the wax, makes a very pleasing bouquet for the living room or dining table. The colored wax is a substitute for paint and a small alcohol flame beeches the brush for making the fadeless blossoms.

A Decorative Pen

For the writing desk or as a companion piece to the guest book, a pen with a feather quill for a handle makes a beautiful gift. Natural feathers are as marvelous and beautiful in their markings as flowers and these in neutral colors can be tinted if one wishes to brighten them. Many kinds of feathers, including those of the ostrich, are used for these decorative pens and they make a gift suited to every grown-up.

Sweets for Christmas

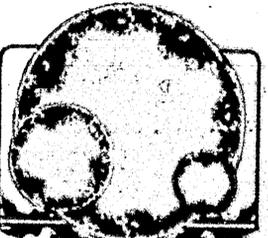

You cannot think of anyone who will not be delighted to receive a gift like that illustrated here. It is a half-dozen glasses filled with jelly, preserves and marmalade, very attractively arranged in a wicker basket. The tin covers of the glasses are lacquered with black lacquer and a white gummed letter is placed in the center of each one. A spray of fruit or blossoms painted on the lid with sealing wax, together with the letter, tells the kind of jelly or preserves the glass contains, an apple, with a spray of apple blossoms and the letter "A," or currant with a cluster of currants and foliage and the letter "C." Sealing wax in several colors simulates shirred ribbon on the center glass which contains marmalade.

Christmas Candles

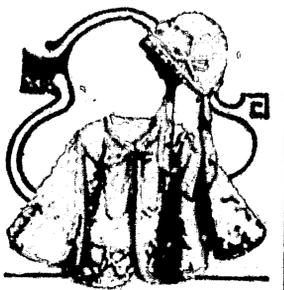

This year's candle shades made of gay silks or of crepe paper are shown in such variety that every one may be pleased. Sparkling silver tinsel streamers over some of them, adding a holiday glitter to the pretty colors through which the light gleams. A shade decorated in this way is shown at the right of the two pictured. At the left a foundation of plain paper is covered with ruffles of crepe paper in two alternating colors, in this case white and green and has daisies made of paper set about it.

Oil Cloth Table Sets

No housewife will fail to enjoy the new table sets of oilcloth with their cheerful borders of gay flowers and fruits. They are much handsomer than the stenciled pieces and many women use them for the dinner as well as the breakfast table. These sets consist of a centerpiece, plate doilies and smaller doilies. The fruits and flowers in the set pictured are in their natural colors and the oilcloth is a deep cream color.

Santa Remembers Baby

Santa Claus never forgets the babies and each year presents their little belongings made in new and pretty ways. This year "lightning-gales" and bonnets seem even better than their predecessors. A set to match is shown above, made of fine flannel and trimmed with narrow satin ribbon gathered along one edge and feather-stitched down. A frill of narrow lace finishes the cap.

For Little Garments

Hangers for wee garments make a lovely gift for young children, especially when they look like dolls. Here two are dressed up to represent a girl and a boy doll and a third is simply covered with ribbon and decorated with ribbon flowers. Little celluloid doll heads, wide and narrow satin ribbon and wire hangers with a little lacustrine sewing are all that is needed for the doll hangers.

Southwest News

From All Over
New Mexico and Arizona

The Fortales Valley banner sweet potato yield is 1300 to 1500 bushels on four acres, a showing of nearly 400 bushels to the acre, on the Kenya place one mile east of Portales, N. Mex., raised by G. E. Clark and Claude Jones.

Wagon Mounds, N. Mex., is one of the largest producing communities in the state is proven by the fact that the Santa Fe hills out to other points an average of a little over five cars of livestock and produce, grain, beans, etc., every day. This exceeds any previous shipping records of the town, and local merchants and shippers claim that the heaviest shipping has not yet commenced.

A meeting of the county board of education was held at Mosquero, N. Mex., and $5,000 worth of bonds of school district No. 1, Abbott, were sold at par, the buyer to pay cost of printing the bonds. The same company also submitted the lowest bid for the erection of a fine new hollow tile school house, and was awarded the contract and will commence immediate work on the same.

"Wonderland Topics" will be the name of the official publication of the Automobile Club of Arizona; it was made known at Phoenix in connection with the announcement of prize winners in the club's music contest, which has attracted state-wide interest during the past several weeks. The first prize, consisting of $10 cash and a $12 membership in the club, goes to Anna Anderson of Orangewood, near Phoenix, Arizona.

Sunday dancing has been stopped in Hermosillo County, N. Mex., according to Sheriff Tony Ortiz. For some time the sheriff's force has been obliged to give up their much-needed day of rest on account of the many dances which have been held all over the county on Sunday. The sheriff has issued instructions to the justices of the peace all over the county, forbidding them to issue any more licenses for Sunday dances as they have been doing in the past.

Definite steps looking to the establishment of a public playground in New Mexico were taken at Las Cruces, when the Southwestern National Park Association of the Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce selected El Paso as executive headquarters. Secretary Fall's original suggestion was to convert parts of the Mesquero and Lincoln forest reserves into a national park, and connect them by a highway with the Elephant Butte dam and lake. It is expected that part of the Alamo forest reserve will be added when the bill for the park is drawn.

Governor Thomas E. Campbell, of Arizona, is in receipt of a letter from Governor D. W. Davis, of Idaho, informing him that the active co-operation and backing of the United States Chamber of Commerce has been obtained for the reclamation policy being urged upon the national government by the League of the Southwest, of which Governor Campbell is president, the Western States Reclamation Association and other organizations which are working in the interests of a comprehensive national reclamation policy. The surplus motor vehicles turned over by the War Department to the Department of Agriculture for distribution among the various states for road building purposes have been distributed through the bureau of public roads. Up to July 1, last, a total of 22,577 motor vehicles had been so distributed, 302 of such were allotted to Arizona.

Clay McGonagill, world champion roper, is dead. He passed away at Casa Grande, Ariz., and was buried in Carlsbad, N. Mex. Here one of the famous characters of the southwest dies—a wiz with the rope and the bronco, who has been a phenom ever since the old days when he used to perform at the territorial fair in Albuquerque.

The judgment of the Maricopa county Superior Court in convicting Tomas Roman of murder and sentencing him to death has been affirmed by the state Supreme Court of Arizona. The court held that none of the alleged errors in the trial of the case on which counsel for the defendant appealed the case were material or prejudicial to the defendant.

Imports to and exports from the United States through the district of Arizona during October were valued at $93,891, according to a report made public by Charles L. Fowler, collector of customs at Nogales, Ariz. The exports and imports going through Nogales were valued at $687,062, those through Douglas at $149,100, and those through Yuma, Naco and Lochiel $59,329.

Eleven hundred and thirty ears of corn were entered and exhibited at the second annual Valencia County corn show, held at Los Lunas, N. Mex. The first prize for the best corn grown in the Rio Grande Valley was won by Mr. Patrocinio Gabaldon of Los Chaves, a farmer over 65 years of age.

Announcement has been made that the International Smelting Company will blow its one reverberatory furnace at its Miami, Ariz., smelter about November 20, after a shutdown of six months, due to the small demand for copper.

ARMS MEETING IS RAY OF HOPE

LLOYD GEORGE SAYS WASHINGTON CONFERENCE IS "RAIN-BOW IN THE SKY."

WORLD WANTS PEACE

ENGLISH PREMIER SPEAKS MIND AT BANQUET OF LORD MAYOR OF LONDON.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

London.—The Lord Mayor's banquet assumed more than national importance when the premier, replying to the mayor's toast to the cabinet ministers, followed the custom of such gatherings at the historic Guild hall of speaking his mind regarding foreign affairs.

The tradition has been that the premier must touch only on foreign politics, but in response to the Lord Mayor's suggestion that the guests, anxiously awaited news of the Irish conference, Mr. Lloyd George expanded the statement made early in his speech that the Washington conference is like a rainbow in the sky and then passed to Ireland.

He declared there was a better prospect of Great Britain's proposals to Ireland being accepted today and of Ireland accepting the invitation to enter the British commonwealth as an equal than for years, but that the conference was still in a critical stage. Beyond this he refrained from divulging the results or the possibilities of the conference.

In his opening remarks, the premier alluded to the economic troubles afflicting the world, such as followed the Napoleonic wars. He expressed the conviction that the force of the economic war already spent and followed with a recital of numerous symptoms indicating a revival was coming, particularly the fact that "in every land the slackness that seemed to overcome labor is passing away."

"The world is settling down to work," he said, "and it is work alone that will fill the depleted tills which will enable purchasers to come to the markets. The blue sky is beginning to emerge. The Washington conference is like a rainbow in the sky. For, without the assurance of peace, restoration of business is impossible."

"This conference comes none too soon. So far, the war has not had the effect which every sane man anticipated in arresting the growth of armaments."

"Man is the most unteachable of all animals. If you inflict punishment on any other animal he learns the lesson. But, take the late war; it was the most terribly destructive in history. For that devastation competition in arms is largely responsible. That lesson was scoured deep into the flesh of the world, and yet no sooner are we out of it than the nations spend their substance in devising and amazing fresh engines for war; fresh subjects spring up to justify war."

"Twenty-five years ago Lord Salisbury expressed the satisfaction which the people felt at the peaceful solution which had just been reached of our last serious difference with the United States. Every man who is a man of British blood has been taught to regard a serious quarrel with America as unthinkable. That attitude is in itself a guarantee of peace between the two countries."

Mayor Ejected from Street Car. St. Paul, Minn.—L. C. Hodgson, mayor of St. Paul, was forcibly ejected from a street car here after refusing to pay an extra fare for riding one block beyond a fare limit terminal. The mayor announced that he would bring the matter before the city council and demand an understanding with the street car company regarding "loop" terminals.

Alles Halt Invasion. Paris.—The allied council of ambassadors sent to Belgrade a note demanding the immediate withdrawal of the invading Jugo-Slav troops from Albanian territory. The troops must be withdrawn outside the limits recently defined by the ambassador's council as the Albanian boundary line. Meanwhile the executive council of the League of Nations has been summoned to meet in Paris Nov. 18 to consider the invasion.

To Put Music in Libraries. St. Louis.—Resolutions providing for the opening of musical sections in public libraries throughout the country in an effort to advance musical education were adopted by the National Federation of Musical Clubs, in session here. Other resolutions adopted urged Congress to pass a pending bill which would create a national conservatory of music.

Discontent Causes Crimes. New York.—The country is passing through a crime cycle, according to William J. Flynn, famous detective and head of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice. Discontent, he declared, caused by hard times and the abnormal conditions created by the war, is responsible for the wave of lawlessness manifesting itself in crimes such as the daring train robbery at Jackson, Ill., and the recent $1,000,000 heist of a mail-truck in the streets of New York.

FAULTLESS STARCH

FOR SHIRTS COLLARS CUFFS AND FINE LINEN

He Was Doing His Best. Mother was teaching 5-year-old Bobby geography. She had come to the Sahara desert. "Now, say it—Sahara," she prompted him. "Hara," replied Bobby. "No, not Hara—Sahara, don't you see?" said mother patiently. "Now say it." Again Bobby replied, "Hara." That kept up for some time, until finally Bobby, worn out, exclaimed indignantly: "Well, mother, didn't I say Hara?"—Youth's Companion.

MOTHER! CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works, all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels; and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

HERE'S GENUINE NEW YORKER

You Can Always Tell Him—He Knows His Home City Like the Proverbial Book.

The man who was born in New York and had lived there all his days gave a satisfied chuckle. "Yes, I know the old town as few know it. It's going to be a great pleasure for me to take you around, old man. This, of course, is Grant's tomb. Ha, ha!"

The westerner looked his surprise. "I laugh because it's so commonplace—so shopworn, so to speak. But while you're my guest you shall miss nothing from the usual to the most uncommon . . . by George."

"What is it?" "Look—that big purple machine, with all the people. Looks like a delegation of visiting Elks . . . or . . . what in the name of time can such a big, clumsy—" "New York city sightseeing bus!" yelled the man with the ballshoo. "Takes you anywhere you want to go to see the sights."—Judge.

Tough on the Babies.

A paragraph worthy of publication in "Whizz Bug" appeared recently in the Genesee (Idaho) News. It was in the nature of a "paid local" inserted by the members of the Genesee medical fraternity. Under the caption, "Eight Months Warning," appeared the following: "After October 1 all babies C. O. D. Signed, W. H. Ehlen, M. D., H. Rouse, M. D.—Pullman (Wash.) Herald.

No Power. "How long have you been indisposed, my poor fellow?" asked a fair visitor at a hospital of a big negro who was strapped up in bed with an injured back. "Dis ain't no poge 'fall, miss," answered the patient in tones of disgust. "Dis am merely de careless manner in which dem forgetful doctors went away and left me yestiddy."

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

AFTER THE FOOTBALL GAMES

Man Who Had Been There Knew There Would Be Only One Distinctive College Color.

They were talking of their absent sons, and the fact that each of the fathers had a boy in a different college did not prevent them from amicably discussing their prospects.

"It won't be long," said one of the fathers, "before the athletic season opens, and then I think we'll hear something from the Orange and Blue." "Yes," said another, "and there'll be some shouting done by the Blue and Gray."

"Of course," said the third father, "and as my boy has gone to Princeton, I'll have to put in a word for the Black and Orange; but it doesn't make such a great deal of difference. The boys are bound to come under the same colors in the end."

"No," said one. "Can't be arranged," said the other. "Oh, yes, it can!"

"To which colors do you refer?" "Black and Blue."—Philadelphia Ledger.

How Could She Help It?

"How did this vase get broken, Mary?" "It fell off the pedestal, ma'am." "How did you upset the pedestal?" "I never touched it. The chair bumped into it, ma'am."

"And did you push the chair?" "I did not, ma'am. It was the table done that. All I did was to push the sofa up against the table. An' goodness knows I can't see what's a goin' to happen that far off!"

The avarice of the miser may be termed the grand sepulchre of all his other passions.

This little bit of advice may help you regain your Health, Strength and Vitality

Thousands of people suffer from nervousness. They are run down and miserable without knowing the reason why.

They do not stop to think that much of their trouble may be caused by drinking tea and coffee which contain the drugs, thein and caffeine. When you over-stimulate the system for any period of time, the result may be nervousness with its many accompanying ills. You may fail to sleep properly and your sleep does not refresh you as it should.

Postum, made from scientifically roasted cereals, will help you to overcome all these conditions. For it contains only healthful substances, instead of drugs, as are found in tea and coffee.

Postum helps build sound nerve structure, by letting you get sound, restful sleep.

In flavor, Postum is much like high-grade coffee. In fact there are many people who prefer Postum for its savory flavor alone.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Serve this rich, fragrant beverage for the family. See how the children will like it, and how much better everybody will sleep at night.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.
