RECORD OF CONGRESS FOR WORK PERFORMED NEVER BEEN EXCELLED

Washington, Dec. 15.—The extra session of the Sixty-seventh Congress adjourned November 23, after being in session since April 11, with the exception of a month's recess late in the summer to enable the Senate Finance committee opportunity to consider the new tax message, without interruption of regular sessions. When President Harding addressed the opening session April 11, he urged the enactment of the following laws:

A resolution declaring a state of peace between the United States and Germany; a budget system; an emergency tariff to benefit the farmers; a permanent tariff providing ample protection to home industries; a new tax system which should lessen the burden of general taxation and do away with the "excess profits taxes"; a paring of appropriation bills and caution in incurring new obligations to the end that national expenditures might be greatly reduced; federal aid in building of public highways; development of the merchant marine; coordination of the various government agencies handling relief for ex-service men; the enactment of a maternity and infancy welfare law; creation of a department of public welfare; action to punish lynchings by federal statutes; encouragement of cable, radio and aviation service.

When the president's requested program was presented, it was regarded as more than the Congress could accomplish during the time of its special session. As to how well it headed the requests of the President and how diligently it has applied itself during the seven months (less one month's recess) of its deliberations the following tabulation of the most important laws enacted will show:

Peace resolution stopping "state of war" between the United States and the Central Powers.

Establishment of a federal budget system.

Farmer's emergency tariff.

Agricultural Credits act, providing a $1,000,000,000 revolving fund to be used by the War Finance corporation to finance agricultural and live stock interests.

Amendment of the Farm Loan Bank act whereby the funds available for farm loans were increased $25,000,000.

Capper-Tilchner act to regulate "grain exchanges" and all dealing in "futures" in the grain trade.

"Packers Act" providing for federal legislation of all meat packing establishments, stockyards and other live stock industries.

Immigration restriction law.

Protection of American owned cable and radio service.

Long List of Things Done.

Creation of the veterans' bureau which consolidates all ex-service men agencies under one head and "speeds up" the handling of all claims, in addition to increasing the benefits and privileges of disabled ex-service men.

Reorganization of Philippine financial system and extension of Philippine credit in order to save the islands from bankruptcy as a result of government of the islands under the Wilson administration.

Amendment of the Edgo act to facilitate the organization of corporations to promote America's foreign trade.

Maternity and Infancy Welfare act.

Appropriation of $75,000,000 for state aid in building public highways.

"Anti-beer" act, strengthening the enforcement of the federal amendment providing prohibition.

Re-organization of the Indian bureau.

Enactment of a new tax measure which makes a reduction of $70,000,000 in federal taxation this year and of $800,000,000 next year, the bulk of which will be lifted from the "average citizen."

Cut over $300,000,000 from appropriations requested by various federal departments and boards. The bulk of this cut was made in appropriations asked by the Navy and War departments and by the U. S. Shipping board.

This record is indisputable, proof that instead of being a "do-nothing" Congress, no previous session of any space of time, or during any one session, enacted as many important laws in the interest of the taxpayer and public welfare.

HOW GOVERNMENT CROP REPORTS ARE MADE

Over 200,000 Reporters Contribute Estimates Based on Knowledge of Local Conditions.

The time is 2:14 p. m.; the place, the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. In an anteroom several men are standing around a table each with one hand upon it, holding a large sheet of paper. The quarter hour strikes. There is a race for the door. A moment more and telegraph wires into virtually every city and town in the United States are ringing with the message of estimated crop conditions.

At the last meeting of the General Assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, made up of delegates from the principal countries of the world, it was freely conceded that the United States Department of Agriculture has developed the most complete and accurate system of agriculture statistics ever devised. The work of crop estimating is so systematized and safeguarded that no one in or out of the department can know what a given crop report will be until the estimate is completed a few minutes before its release and in that short interval looked doors and disconnected telephones prevent anyone from obtaining advance information.

Reports Come From Every Town.

There are approximately 200,000 voluntary crop reporters located in all parts of the United States. A trained statistician or field agent is also placed in each State or group of similar States and supervises the work of gathering statistics in the territory under his charge. At the end of each month each field agent tabulates the crop information received from his reporters, averages and summarizes the data, and reports the result to the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Local reporters in every township or other small civil unit in every county in the United States report direct to the department every month crop conditions under their observation. Each county, also, is represented by a county reporter, who reports his personal observations, the reports of neighbors and others, and information received by interviews and over the telephone.

The monthly reports cover acreage, condition, yield, total production, stocks on farms, progress of farm work, wages, supply or deficiency of labor, fertilizers, and seeds. These reports are made for about 60 crops, which represent about 95 per cent of the total agricultural production in the United States.

The reports of field agents on the speculative crops are mailed direct to the Secretary of Agriculture in special envelopes. These are separated from other mail in the Washington post office and are delivered by messenger to the Secretary or his first assistant, who places them, with the seals unbroken, in a safe, to which he alone has a key. The reports are then locked in the safe until the morning of the crop report day. The returns on speculative crops from the voluntary reporters come direct to the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates and are tabulated on copy-right sheets for each crop.

Strict Precautions to Observe Secrecy.

On the evening before crop-report day all telephones are disconnected. The next morning all doors are locked and guards are stationed at the outer doors to prevent anyone entering or leaving when the crop-reporting board is in session. The sealed reports of field agents and crop specialists in the custody of the Secretary are turned over to the chief of the bureau, and the crop-reporting board begins its work. The board is composed of the Associate Chief of the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, three of his most experienced assistants, and usually one or more field agents.

Each member of the board is supplied with a separate sheet for each crop. On the sheets are shown for each State, in parallel columns, the estimates of the crop specialists and State field agents, the average of reports from the township or local reports, and the average of returns from special reporters, together with the report for the previous month, for the same month of the previous year, and the 10-year average for the same month. The chairman of the board reads the comments of the field agents and crop specialists, the reports of the Weather Bureau for each State, and such other data as may be available.

With this information before him, each member proceeds, independently and without consultation with other members, to make his individual estimate of the crop condition for each State. The chairman then lists the individual estimates in parallel columns and reads them. They are discussed by the board, and a single figure is adopted for the crop report. This figure is not an average of the figures of the individual members of the board, but a figure upon which all the individuals agree after hearing what factors influenced each member in forming his judgement. As a general rule, there is surprising unanimity of judgement, and little difficulty is had in reconciling differences.

As fast as the figures are determined by the board, they are turned over to a force of expert computers,

EDUCATIONAL NEWS

(By Mrs. M. L. Blaney)

The scholastic census for the present year shows 2704 children between the ages of five and twenty-one, 1976 of these children are attending school in this county.

The Captain, Ft. Stanton, Lincoln, Tinnie and Picocho schools were visited the past week and each one found busy with the business of obtaining an education. A better spirit of co-operation of directors, parents, teachers and pupils could not be desired, and success is certain under such conditions.

The Captain school, under the direction of Miss Stella Wyatt, the Home Economics teacher, has ventured to place within reach of all the pupils a "Cafeteria" lunch and to make this self supporting as well as self-sustaining. The Menu is prepared the day before it is to be served, and posted in the several rooms of the school, where children are requested to leave their order with the teacher for the following day, thus avoiding waste. The lunch is prepared and served by the pupils of the Home Economics classes, supervised by the teacher. Parents are co-operating by sending in articles of food which are weighed and credit given children who are allowed to "boast it out."

Miss Belle Norton of Encino, who last year started a class in home-making is reaping the results of patient labor. The class planted gardens last spring and as a result of the same, received a box of canned goods and jelly made by the pupils, and of such quality as to make grandma envious.

As evidence of the interest manifested in education, ten children rambled their way from San Patricio to Lincoln to pursue the subjects taught in the ninth and tenth grades under the efficient teachers, Mrs. Mabel J. Burleson and Miss Harriet Brown. Miss Minnie Dee Fleming, the leader of the Lincoln Glee Club has been very ill with typhoid but is rapidly regaining her health, we are happy to report.

To the Junior Red Cross membership we may now add the following names: Mrs. Lizette Virden, White Oak; J. W. Wilforth, Niles Oja Casey and Amelia Valdez, Hondo. Many children are placing their names on the service roll.

If you have any doubt about the season just past into the schools at Tinnie and Picocho and note the activities of the children in preparation of the Christmas program and the gifts being constructed for the various members of the family.

I shall visit Ancho, Corona, Brown and Gallo schools this week which completes the first visit to all the rural schools in the county.

$75,000,000 FOR PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

Seventy-five million dollars becomes available as federal aid for road construction in the various states, the money to be spent under the supervision of the Bureau of Public Roads Department of Agriculture, under the Federal Highway act, signed recently by the president. In addition, $15,000,000 is appropriated for national forest roads, $75,000,000 represents the federal government's appropriation to the work of building highways in the various states and must be matched, dollar for dollar, by funds from the state treasuries, except in states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public lands. The $75,000,000 appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and $25,000,000 of the sum is available on January 1, 1922.

The Federal Highway act in a general way resembles the Federal Aid act of 1916, but contains several new features. Administration of the act under him the Bureau of Public Roads, remains unchanged.

Apportionment of the fund to the states is almost the same as in the previous act, the funds being divided into three parts, one part apportioned according to population, one according to area, and one part according to mileage of rural and star mail routes. A new feature is the stipulation that no state shall receive less than one-half of 1 per cent of the total fund which, in this case, amounts to $385,000. This stipulation will increase the amount received by four of the smaller states, i. e., Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Changes in State Allotments.

There is considerable change, however, in the manner in which a state may use its allotment. Each state must select a connected road system not exceeding 7 per cent of its road mileage for improvement with federal aid. This system will be divided into two classes, one of which will be known as inter-state highways and the other as inter-county highways. The inter-state highways must not exceed three-sevenths of the system selected; on them not more than 60 per cent of the state's allotment can be spent without the joint approval of the Secretary of Agriculture and the state highway department. The inter-county highways, which consist of the remainder of the system selected, will receive the remainder of the state's allotment.

Except in states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public land, the amount of federal aid received on any project must not exceed 50 per cent of the estimated cost. In states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public land the 50 per cent allotment is increased by an amount equal to one-half the percentage of unappropriated public land in the state. Before any funds can be paid to a state, the state must appropriate money, under the direct control of the state highway department, to match the federal allotment and for the maintenance of federal old highways.

All highways in the interstate system must have a surfaced width of at least 16 feet, unless a narrower width is deemed permissible by the Secretary of Agriculture. In case a federal-aid highway is not properly maintained by a state, the state will be given 30 days notice by the department. At the end of that time if the highway is not in good condition of maintenance, the Secretary of Agriculture will maintain it out of the state's allotment and refuse to approve any new projects until reimbursement is made by the state.

Work for Quarter Million Men.

It is estimated by engineers of the United States Department of Agriculture that the federal old roads under construction on October 31 were giving employment to about 250,000 men, either directly on the actual road construction, or indirectly in the production and transportation of the materials which enter into the construction.

The new act, just signed, will, it is stated, keep these men at work, so far as weather conditions will permit, and thereby prevent the unemployment situation from becoming more serious. Without the new appropriation many of the states would soon have been forced to curtail their work for lack of funds.

Last Friday, Dec. 9, the Carrizozo High School Basketball Team defeated Corona and played two games in which both the boys' and girls' teams were victorious. The girls won by a score of 15 to 7, and the boys by a score of 38 to 24.

The following day, Dec. 10, they went to Vaughn, but the result was somewhat different. The girls won by a score of 25 to 5, the boys losing by 38 to 19. The boys are gradually gaining and the girls are always right!

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ziegler returned Tuesday morning on No. 2 from Trinidad, Colo., to which place they accompanied the remains of Mrs. Leok for interment. They were met in Trinidad by their daughters, Mrs. Charles Coplin and Mrs. John Gutknecht, the last named daughter returning home with her parents for a short visit.

SCHOOL NOTES

(By Supt. E. E. Coils)

CHRISTMAS

'Tis the time of the year for the open hand; And the tender heart and true, When a rift of heaven has cleft the skies; And the saints are looking through; Margaret Sangster.

Quite extensive preparations are being made in the schools of Carrizozo for the Christmas exercises. The programs of the two primary rooms and the first three grades will be given Thursday, December 23, before recess in the afternoon. Those of the higher grades will be given after recess. This is to enable parents to visit the rooms of all their children. The training for Christmas programs has high educational value for both mind and heart; come and make your kiddies happy.

The Camp Fire girls met at the home of their Guardians last Monday evening for their monthly ceremonial meeting. After the work part of the program was over, the girls made candy and then sewed on dolls for the kiddies. There were two new girls present who will be initiated soon after Christmas. Friday and Saturday of last week the Carrizozo High School teams went to Corona and Vaughn, playing two games with Corona on Friday night and two with Vaughn the next day. At Corona, Carrizozo won both games; girls 15 to 0; the boys, 39 to 24. At Vaughn, the girls won, 25 to 5, but the boys lost to Vaughn, 38 to 10. The teams were accompanied by Mesdames T. A. Spencer, E. S. Corn and several other citizens.

We are in receipt of HIGH LIFE, a weekly High School paper published at Long Beach, Cal., Polytechnic High School and pleased to note that Herbert Tonnis, a former Carrizozo high school boy, has been promoted from the position of circulation manager to that of Herbert showed promise of his ability while he was a member of the Carrizozo schools.

At the regular meeting of the Boy Scouts on Friday night, the following special program was given:

How to tell directions by the watch, Ed McCarty; How to tell directions by the stars, Paul Wack; To find the height of a flag pole, Albert Leland; How to find the height of a tree, Albert Roberto; To find your latitude by the stars, Wayne Richard; How to trail man or other animals, Will Kahler; Indian club drill, Boy Scouts.

NEW CHANGES IN REVENUE LAW BEARING ON INCOME TAXES

The following statement is issued by Collector of Internal Revenue, B. C. Hernandez, District of New Mexico:

"Enactment of new revenue legislation has brought to the office of Collectors of Internal Revenue a flood of inquiries regarding various provisions. The Revenue Act of 1921 became effective November 23, 1921, unless otherwise provided for."

"To avoid error in the preparation of their returns and later difficulties with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, taxpayers are advised to carefully note the changes and when they become effective."

"The excess profits tax is repealed as of January 1, 1922. The rates for 1921 are unchanged."

"The surtax for the calendar year 1921 are unchanged, and range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent on the amount of net income in excess of $1,000,000. For the calendar year 1922 the surtax rates range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 30 per cent on the amount by which the net income exceeds $200,000."

"The exception allowed for a dependent is increased from $200 to $400. Married persons living with husband or wife and heads of families are allowed a personal exemption of $2,500 (instead of $2,000) unless the net income is in excess of $5,000, in which case the personal exemption is only $3,000. The act provides that in no case shall the reduction of the personal exemption from $2,500 to $3,000 operate to increase the tax which would be payable if the exemption were $2,500 by more than the amount of the net income in excess of $5,000. This is to overcome the disparity in the case of two taxpayers, one of whom is just within the lower $2,000 exemption and the other just within the higher $2,500 exemption."

"Single persons, and married persons not living with husband or wife, are allowed an exemption of $1,000. Non resident aliens are allowed a single personal exemption of $1,000. Excesses having excess income for 1921 of $5,000 or over are required to make a return, regardless of the amount of net income."

"Provision is made for the repeal as of January 1, 1921 of the tax on stockholders of a personal service corporation as such. After that date such corporations are to be taxed in the same manner as other corporations."

"The income tax on corporations for the calendar year 1922 and thereafter is increased from 10 to 15 1/2 per cent. The $2,000 exemption heretofore allowed corporations is to be granted only to those corporations whose net income is $25,000 or less."

"Many persons are under the impression that the taxes on ice cream, soft drinks, etc., monthly returns of which are required, have been repealed with the enactment of the new act. These taxes remain in force until the end of the calendar year 1921."

"No change is made in the tax on admissions, except that after Jan. 1, 1922 there will be no tax whose admission is 10 cents or less. Effective Jan. 1, 1922 the following taxes are also abolished on musical instruments, sporting goods, chewing gum, portable electric fans, thermos bottles, fur articles, pleasure boats and pleasure canoes, unless sold for more than $100, toilet articles, medicines and numerous articles of apparel."

"On and after Jan. 1, 1922 the tax on various works of art is reduced from 10 per cent to 5 per cent, the tax on candy from 5 per cent to 3 per cent and the tax on carpets, rugs, trunks, valises, purses, furs, etc., from 10 per cent of sales price in excess of specified amounts to 5 per cent of sales price in excess of specified amounts."

"The tax on parcel post packages is eliminated effective Jan. 1, 1922."

"The new act provides that no taxpayer shall be subjected to unnecessary examinations or investigations, and only one inspection of his books of accounts shall be made for each taxable year unless the taxpayer requests otherwise, or the Commissioner notifies the taxpayer in writing that an additional inspection is necessary."

"The period for filing returns on the calendar year basis is from Jan. 1 to March 15, 1922. This year, as last, the tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15."

"Copies of the revenue act may be had by application to this office."

MAYER FAMILY COMPLETE

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mayer came up from El Paso where they have been residing for the past six months. Mr. Mayer being connected with a garage at that place. They left Tuesday for Corona, where Mr. Mayer will assist in closing the business of the year for the Stockmen's State Bank, after which he will be a permanent fixture at the First National Bank of Carrizozo. We welcome the Mayers to our city, and will soon see the smiling face of Mr. Mayer at the window of the First National. Miss Bertha Mayer has closed the old Mayer Grocery store at White Oak and has joined her father and mother in Carrizozo. We now have the entire Mayer family with us, which as a whole, makes a valuable addition to our growing and thriving population.

ART EXHIBIT

Beginning the week of December 16, an art exhibit, consisting of 23 pictures, will be held at the court house every afternoon from two to five o'clock. There will be no charge and it is desired that all school children come and enjoy these pictures. We also extend a special invitation to parents and friends. This exhibit is given by the Educational Department of the Woman's Club of Carrizozo, of which Mrs. M. L. Blaney is Chairman.

ENCAMPMENT AT ALAMO

The following named Old Fellows left today for Alamo to attend the encampment: W. J. Langston, Calvin Carl, J. H. Farris, B. Zimwald, C. H. Haines and Ira Messie. The last three named being candidates to receive the advanced degrees. They will return Saturday night.

RARE WORKS OF ART

Rare specimens of artistic wax work such as has attracted much attention at World's Fairs, typifying true peasant life in Old Mexico, may now be seen at this office. The old artist, now dead, was the recipient of many medals at different expositions in many other countries. His son, Francisco Vargas, Jr., an artist of gaining fame, is continuing the work of his father and his work is equally as good. The fruit and vegetable carvings, done in salvia, continue to be wonderful resemblances to true life. They will also be exhibited at the Woman's Club Art Exhibit.

A Christmas Dash for Happiness

A Tale of Old Detroit
By Bernice Stewart
IN THE DETROIT FREE PRESS

Old Detroiters used to say that young Claire Beauvais was beautiful beyond all believing—and arch, as behoved her French name. They told, too, how her father was a brave, impatient man, possessed of no little vanity. He had won many a victory over the Indians and the English, in company with La Forest, warden of the great La Salle, and with Tony, Cadillac's right-hand man. He had fought with Du Luth, as well, and his name was one which made those earliest inhabitants of Detroit flush with pride. Even when his warring days were over and he had settled down on the river bank, his prestige was such that people would step aside to let him pass as he came striding down the roadway.

Claire had a temperament not unlike her father's. Their wrangles and their reconciliations were known all up and down the river. Yet they were passionately attached to each other and devotedly loved by the whole community. In particular was the fair Claire loved by one Beauclerc, a little, dart young Frenchman who hunted more for the sport of the chase than for the profit of his pocket-book at the fur trading post. When Claire Beauvais would see Philippe Beauclerc's tall, straight figure at Claire's elbow walking down St. Anne street, now known as Jefferson avenue, his brow would darken threateningly. But he would find himself commenting secretly, despite his anger, "Dieu, what a pair!" and he would add: "Male, it isn't permitted for a good French father to let his daughter make a fool of herself for a penniless hunter just because he has the looks of a young god."

Then Claire would be hurried home. There was no man to quell the storm before it broke, for Claire's mother had withstood the rigors of the Michigan winter for only three years. So the old warrior and his gay young daughter would rage at each other for fifteen minutes and then fall into each other's arms. Peace would be made. Claire would go to bathe her eyes, brush back the rebellious gold of her hair and come back charmingly dutiful to precede over the icecaps and to welcome the other young men who came during the course of the evening to pay their respects to her in the presence of her sharp-eyed father—officers of the Fort in their swaggar uniforms, skilled trappers, a tradesman or two and men who owned many acres on which they raised Indian corn and wheat. Among the latter group there called now and then rickety old Va-de-bon-Coeur. He was a shrewd old Frenchman whose broad hands down on the Rouge river bank outspanned every other suitors. In spite of his physical unattractiveness, he was possessed of a good, kind heart and capacity for endless devotion. Clair Beauvais always shrugged a little when he looked in old Va-de-bon-Coeur's direction, as if to shake off an unpleasant impression, but as the old fellow talked Beauvais generally would throw out and say to himself, "He's really not half bad; he's really surprisingly good for an old man. And rich, think! how he could lavish wealth on my little Claire! Fancy, two estates for the girl, her own and his, one at each end of the village. She might be as rich as she is beautiful. And he's really remarkably kind and wise."

After their guests were gone the storm would break again. One night after this had been going on for more than a year the Seigneur of Beauvais determined that matters would have to come to a reckoning.

"This nonsense must stop!" His big brown fist came down on the heavy oak table. The red fire-light played over his tall, warrior-like figure, glinting on the buckles of his uniform and gilding the silk of his hunting knife and under his bushy brows little red flames danced, reflected in the pupils of his great black eyes. Claire rose from the small chair where she sat by the hearth, defiance in every line of her lovely little figure.

"You've got to settle down, you're too many unaccounted fellows laughing after you. A dozen have asked me for your hand. And when I tell you, you only get me off. You've snatched your sugar at a dozen chances. Why! Ah! for that languishing beauty in a rascally hat. I'd like to see you settle down with Va-de-bon-Coeur. He's richer than all the rest of your dandies put together. Mais, I won't insist, I'm no ogre. Choose for yourself—but you must choose now. You're willy-nilly long enough!"

Claire stepped close to him, threw back her head. "I won't marry anyone but Philippe Beauclerc! And you know it!"

"Ugh!" the deer slayer. Bah, he couldn't win you in a fair fight."

"Oh, couldn't he! Give him a chance—"

"Snooze, I will! We shall have a public match at Noel time and if he isn't wiped in the dirt you can have the moon-struck fool!"

"Tres bien!" Claire was defiant and joyous. It was plain that she had no doubt of her lover's prowess.

But on second thought the old warrior decided he could not pick out the husband of his "petite ange" through a public brawl. So, thinking shrewdly of old Va-de-bon-Coeur, he decided on a race with sleighs Christmas day. "And whoever wins," he concluded, "you shall marry him and he shall have all your lands."

Now in the village good horses were a great luxury. Va-de-bon-Coeur had his stables full of the best ponies that money could buy. But Philippe had but one horse, unused to being driven with a sleigh, a good, sure-footed boy, excellent for hunting, but for courier racing—Claire sighed doubtfully.

Sieur Beauvais decided on a race of sixteen miles on the ice of L'Anso Crucis, the shallow little bay on Lake St. Claire. A twisted tree on the far side was selected as the eight-mile turning point.

The contestants commenced to train their ponies. Old Va-de-bon-Coeur was out every morning, lashing his choicest black stallion up and down the street, as he leaned forward in his light steel-rimmed cutter that had been sent from the East. Officers were seen impatiently nudging their oracles to more careful grooming of their fine roan manes. Even the tradesmen bought horses, the best they could afford, and went flying along the snowy roads.

Only Philippe Beauclerc remained aloof from the general excitement. As usual, he was gone into the forests at dawn, where it was said he spent the day hunting with the Indian chief, Menotepah. Whenever he rode he was seen astride the same pony that had always borne him. It was known throughout the town that he had not even purchased a sleigh. It was wondered at, for his devotion to the fair Claire was an open secret. Wasn't he going to race? The villagers cast compassionate glances at Beauvais's lovely little beauty. Her preference for him was an open secret, too.

At length Christmas morning dawned. Night after night was held in the old church of St. Anne the crowd collected on the bank of the bay.

A little apart from the crowd stood Claire Beauvais and her father. Claire looked like an etherealized holly berry in great red dolman. Her eyes flashed with excitement and her little round chin was held up proudly out of her great collar. The good old Seigneur strutted about with a self-important air, giving orders and waving genial salutations to the townsfolk.

There were 12 contestants, of every kind and condition. There were cutters, jumpers, trailers, pungs, sleds and carioles. The impatient drivers were scouted in devious ways; some in leather doublets, some in furs, some in military manner, some in great woollen blanket-coats of rich color. And in all that group of contestants none was more impatient than old Va-de-bon-Coeur, completely muffled in lavish furs of gray-brown racoon. His cutter alone in the sunlight and his big, black horse was curried until he gleamed as if he were oiled.

But why were they waiting? Why was Lady Claire's face like a stricken flower, pale cheeks, downy eyes, that seemed to be seeking something beyond the excited crowd, down the long frosty road? Instinctively the hushed crowd followed Claire's glance. Instinctively they, too, looked and wished for the absent Philippe Beauclerc.

When there swept around the corner and up to the astounded crowd, the most curious equipage that their eyes had ever beheld. Philippe Beauclerc, looking like some glorious savage clad in shaggy black buffalo robes, held taut the home-made reins of blue hide that guided a curious pony. He was small and shaggy and spotted like a quail. His neck was long and his head was lean. His hind legs seemed shorter than his fore legs. Beside the well-groomed horses of the other contestants he was a grotesque parody. The cutter was rudely wrought of ironwood. But the driver's face was stern and eager. He glanced toward Claire. Their look held. Claire smiled. Then they were off on the signal of the Seigneur.

The crowd loosed its pent-up laughter as they saw Beauclerc's lean, dappled beast fall behind pace by pace. The other ponies were skimming on like swallows in the wind. But leading them all was old Va-de-bon-Coeur's black stallion. There was a sympathetic shudder for Claire. But she, seeming not to mind, was smiling like a dainty witch.

Va-de-bon-Coeur's black stallion was the first to dash up to the blasted oak. He was flecked with foam. His quivering flanks were streaked with the lashes of the old man's whip. It was plain he was well spent but his driver allowed him not a moment's respite. Off they sped again. Then two soldiers came galloping in, neck to neck. The others followed in quick succession.

Close on the heels of the last sleigh came Beauclerc, his shrewy little pony as stout and fresh as when he first set out, his reins still drawn taut. He wheeled about deftly, then loosened the leather ribbons. The ugly pony stretched out his long, thin neck and leaped forward.

He gained on the last horse, passed him. Sailed by the second, the third, passed the rest of them, was neck and neck with the leader, Va-de-bon-Coeur's panting black stallion. Farther and farther he stretched out his hoofs till he dashed by the leader.

On the bank the eager crowd craned their necks. Their eyes opened with incredulity when in the flying shape that was dashing toward them they recognized Beauclerc and his uncouth speckled nag. Off in the distance, far behind him, straggled his vanquished rivals. Instinctively the onlookers glanced toward Claire and, though she was hiding her rosy cheeks behind a great muff, they could see that her eyes glowed with the light that was never on land or sea.

The spectators surged up about the victor's sleigh. There was a torrent of welcoming cheers for the tall dark hero. But he had no ears for their exclamations. He was running to the little knoll where Claire stood beside her father, who in spite of himself was looking rather relieved and joyous. They watched Claire as she put out her hands to the good looking but breathless youth who enclosed them in his own so eagerly. They watched him bend above them with grace of a cavalier. And as he did so they heard the old Seigneur exclaim: "Merci! where did you get that wind-shod demon?"

Philippe Beauclerc's answer came back, laughing. "Oh, that's old Menotepah's Indian pony. I've been training him for weeks in the forest."

QUOTATIONS
U.S. BUREAU OF MARKETS
Washington, D.C.

Chicago May wheat advanced 1 cent, closing at $1.15; Chicago May corn unchanged at 84¢. Domestic and foreign growth conditions were the market feature. It is reported that of the 17,500,000 acres in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, about 50 per cent has not germinated. Foreign demand at present board based on a declining demand slow. Domestic and seaboard demand for corn continues good. Closing prices in Chicago: No. 2 yellow, 82¢; No. 2 white, 81¢; No. 2 mixed, 81¢; No. 2 hard winter, 81¢; No. 2 mixed corn, 81¢; No. 2 yellow, 82¢; No. 2 white, 81¢; No. 2 mixed, 81¢; No. 2 hard winter, 81¢. Closing future prices fractional higher for the week: Minneapolis May wheat, closed at $1.22½; Kansas City May wheat, $1.08½; Winnipeg May wheat, $1.12½.

All butter markets except Chicago steady to firm; Chicago declined sharply under heavy supplies of practically all grades. The following consistent gains for more than a week, which Chicago prices were higher than at New York. Storage butter moving better in all markets. The weekly imports included around 135,000 pounds from Denmark. Closing prices $2 scores: New York, 44¢; Chicago, 45¢; Philadelphia, 45¢.

Potato markets slow. New York round whites up 1¢ to 8¢, shipping points, at $1.85-1.70. Wisconsin stock weaker at $1 per 100 pounds warehouse cash to growers. Most eastern markets steady. New York Philadelphia stock 15¢ in Pittsburgh at $1.95; weak in Baltimore at $2. Maine Green Mountains down 5¢ in Boston at $1.50-1.35. Sacked northern round whites, 15¢; sales, Chicago, up 10¢, at $1.60-1.50; bulk stock, $1.70-1.50.

Barrel prices generally steady, boxed apples higher. Maine No. 1, 44¢; No. 2, 42¢; No. 3, 40¢; No. 4, 38¢; No. 5, 36¢; No. 6, 34¢; No. 7, 32¢; No. 8, 30¢; No. 9, 28¢; No. 10, 26¢; No. 11, 24¢; No. 12, 22¢. Extra fancy Jonathans up 6¢ to 7¢ in Chicago, at $2.25-2.30 per box.

Live steers in eastern city markets. New York Danish closed strong, at $4.00 in New York and Baltimore, up 8¢ in Philadelphia, at $4.00; up 4¢ in Cincinnati, at $3.95. Northern and New York stock with supply heavy lost 10¢ to 15¢ in Chicago, at $4.20-4.40; up 2¢ to 3¢ in western New York shipping points, at $4.00 bulk per ton. Massachusetts yellow onions weaker 1¢ to 2¢, shipping points, at $5.50-5.75 per 100 pounds. Philadelphia stock not closed $6.25-6.50, compared with $5.50 a week ago. Middle western yellow weaker in Cincinnati at $5.25-5.50. Red varieties steady in Chicago at $5.00-5.50. California browns up 25¢ in Chicago, at $5.00-5.50.

Live Steer and Hogs. Chicago hog prices declined 1¢ to 25¢, light hogs declining least. Beef steers and fat cows and heifers mostly 25¢ to 50¢ higher, those selling in the lower sections of the market 10¢ to 15¢ advancing most. Stockers and feeders firm to 20¢ higher. Fat lambs and hogs generally 50¢ higher, feeding lambs up 25¢ to 30¢; bulk of sales, $5.00-4.95; medium and good beef steers, $15.00-16.00; butcher cows, $10.00-11.00; $2.50-2.60; feeder steers, $5.00-5.50; light and medium weight veal calves, $5.00-5.25; fat lambs, $9.25-10.75; feeding lambs, $2.00-2.15; yearlings, $3.00-3.15; fat cows, $3.00-3.25.

The general trend of eastern wholesale fresh meat prices was upward. Lamb shows net advance of 1¢ to 2¢, mutton, 1¢ to 2¢. Veal up 1¢ to 2¢. Light pork joints firm to 3¢ higher. Heavy joints declined in Chicago in most cases an advance of 10¢ to 15¢ cents and in spots as much as a quarter.

Hay. Offerings of all feedstuffs plentiful. Demand generally light due to open weather. Most markets indicate increased offerings of wheat feeds for December shipment. Stocks of cottonseed and linseed meal and other high priced feeds about normal for the season of the year. Corn feeds in good supply. Alfalfa meal and best pulp quiet. Peas most feeds fairly firm. Good, December 24, Dec 24, 1914, 11.50; 11.25, Minneapolis; 30 per cent cotton seed meal, 24, Memphis; white hominy feed, 22.50, St. Louis; gluten feed, 32.50, Chicago; 11.50, Kansas City; linseed meal, 24, Minneapolis.

DENVER LIVE STOCK.
Cattle. The local cattle market experienced a fairly active season of trading. Supplies were of good proportion but demand was such that the stock was moved easily at figures which in most cases showed an advance of 10¢ to 15¢ cents and in spots as much as a quarter.

A big proportion of the supplies were of feeder cattle so the effect of the strike was not felt as strongly here as at other points. A good representation of country buyers was in the yards looking for feeder stock, and many traders were reporting a clearance. Quality of feeders was good. In the feeder section values advanced 10¢ to 15¢ cents and even a quarter in spots. Heavy steers from Mankato were sold for $2.50 at 10¢ to 15¢ of cattle sold from $5 to $5.50. Some heifers were sold for $4.25 and some feeder cows for $4.10. Common Gunnison yearlings brought 35¢.

Hogs. The supplies of stock were fairly heavy and it was feared that if the stock was not moved a congestion might result with the arrival of other supplies. Only one load of hogs was sold and brought 35.50.

Small killers paid the top prices, buying one load for $2.75. Bulk ranged from 25¢ to 30¢ and heavy throwouts were being quoted from 25¢ to 35¢.

Packers were urging shippers to get into communication with their market representatives before they bring more hogs, as the market is bound to be rather uncertain for the next few days.

Sheep. Trading in the sheep department was good and active. Rather heavy supplies of stock were moving well from the start of the season. A fair offering, numbering better than 2,000 head, was received, and a big part of this total consisted of shaggy stuff, although there were a few shipments of through stock.

A good demand prevailed from the country buyers that were in attendance, and as the supplies were limited almost entirely to the feeder class, the effect of the strike of packing employes was not felt to a great extent.

Big Expenditure for Luxuries.
Washington—Federal tax returns have been given curious applications in connection with problems now before the conference on limitation of armament. Statisticians for the government have labored hard to bring the relative figures as to military expenditures and the amounts spent by the people of the country for amusements and minor luxuries out so sharply that their significance would be seen at a glance. One set of tables shows that, against $418,000,000 spent for the army, the people expended $34,000,000 in soda and confections and $25,000,000 for perfumery, jewelry, silk stockings and other articles for personal adornment. The smokers paid out $1,131,000,000 for tobacco in all forms. Baseball fans, theatergoers, cabaret-frequenters and those attending concerts paid $807,000,000.

Russian Children Seek Homes.
New York—Fifty Russian war orphans arrived here on the steamship Polonia, seeking homes in the United States. They will be distributed by the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee among distant relatives and families willing to adopt them.

Wholesale Destruction of Liquor.
Pittsburg, Kan.—Federal prohibition agents working with local authorities in an anti-liquor drive the last ten days have destroyed 8,000 gallons of whiskey, 2,000 gallons of home brew and 1,000 gallons of corn mash. Five stills also were seized.

Two Barges Lost at Sea.
Boston—The loss of the barges Governor Robey and Carrie Clark with six men aboard, off Nantuxet in a storm, was reported by the tug Neptune on her arrival at New York, according to word received by the agents here. The barges were in tow of the Neptune from Norfolk for this port.

Pays $150,000 for Pictures.
New York—John McCormack, the singer, has paid $150,000 for the "Portrait of a Man" by Franz Hals. The Hals painting, from the collection of Count Zamoyski, Polish minister to France, is on its way to this country. The total of paintings bought abroad by Americans this year already runs into millions.

Bulletproof Motor Cars.
San Francisco—Three armored motor cars equipped with bulletproof metal plates have been turned over to San Francisco police to aid them in combating automobile bandits. Police officials expect soon to have a total of ten armored cars and three machine guns.

Adopt Stringent Resolutions.
Philadelphia—Resolutions urging legislation prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to women, and calling for a better standard of dress were adopted by the National Council of Women. Among resolutions adopted was one favoring legislation giving the name of the father to children born out of wedlock and legalizing inheritance from both parents, and another declaring that the marriageable age of consent for girls should be not less than 18 years and preferably 15.

WOMEN'S FASHION

Disruptive Note

Despite Small Size They Contain Compartments Combining Usefulness With Ornamentation.

A handbag or purse is an important accessory of the modern woman's outfit. The French woman looks upon this article principally for its decorative value, while her American sister considers it more from the standpoint of utility.

The most distinctive note in the new purses lies in their diminutive proportions, but despite their small size they contain numerous necessary compartments, thus combining usefulness with ornamentation.

To achieve the compact effect mentioned above without sacrificing the various essential compartments, designers of bags have been forced to tax their ingenuity to the utmost. That they have succeeded in their task is evident from the lovely things now being offered.

There are bags in pouch shapes, considerably smaller than the purses of past seasons; bags with draw-strings, and last, but perhaps best liked, the envelope purse. The latter is being shown in numerous different shapes, the square and oblong effects being especially prominent.

In bags evolved from dress materials, duvetyne and felle silk as well as cre and satin striped duvetyne are in the vanguard. Velvet and moire, although used to some extent, both seem to have been relegated to a less prominent place.

Fur, too, plays a large part in purses. Not only are entire bags made from it, but those of silk or duvetyne have fur applied as a trimming. This is especially true of the pet of the moment, which has been used in every conceivable way on this season's clothes.

One model of tan duvetyne has the

SMART GIRLISH DRESSES AND HATS

Tendency to Use Big Sashes on Afternoon and Evening Attire—Demand for Fur Turbans.

On the more girlish evening and afternoon dresses, notes a Paris fashion writer, there is a tendency to use big sashes of tulle or of chiffon liberally furnished with bows and ends, regardless of any type of pattern. They suit the gown and the wearer—that is all. And that they succeed in doing admirably. Here again the sash and its ends are apt to supply the only sparkles of color on the whole, the rest of the gown being either of white or of black and serving merely as a background for the display.

The habit of placing one big flower at the side of the waistline is another one that has found great favor with designers. It is apt to be very much of a modern art flower, with single huge petals made of velvet in startling colors. On an evening gown, the flower often repeats a suggestion of color in another part of the gown and by that process makes the color take a most effective position in the whole design.

Hats of the middle season are also things of compromise; many of the extraordinary shapes that threatened to pass away with the compromise usually leaves us with the points that we liked most.

The little fur turbans are to be greatly in demand, especially for wear with these suits and wraps that are trimmed with fur. A matching toque of the same helps to lighten the effect of the trimming and keep the whole cool.

Blouse Effect the Feature

These blouses from folds, while the blouse is worn beneath the dress and allowed to cover a considerable portion of the bag.

Broadtail and baby lamb are frequently used for the envelope shapes, while molaskin, which is more pliable, finds a place in the pouchy effects and drawingstring bags.

Revival of Hair News

Hair bows are found to be reviving, despite the prevalence of bobbed heads, and buyers have put in stocks for the school trade. Both plaids and stripes are chosen. In narrow ribbons, grosgrains, three-quarters to two and one-half inches wide are still leading. As to colors other than black, which is said to be more in demand than ever, the fuchsias and purples stand out pre-eminently. Aside from these, the principal activity is in brown and black.

Steels in Brassieres

A good way to prevent the steels in brassieres from breaking through is to attach a piece of white binding tape on the wrong side of the brassiere over the steels. This keeps them from breaking through and they wear twice as long. It also preserves the other undergarments and looks neat on the right side.

Hats Draped With Lace

Many hats show no other trimming but elaborate veils. Large shapes in black velvet or hatters' plush are draped with black lace in Spanish style, the lace usually being draped over the shoulder.

Furs Have Appeared

Fur-bordered and fur-collared suits and dresses are appearing. A bright red duvetyne, bordered with black caracul, was seen recently.

FOR THE GROWING DAUGHTER

Skirts May Be Arranged to Be Low-Cut; Finish Shoulders of Waist Without Sewing Up.

When little daughters outgrow their petticoats so rapidly, that mother seems all the time making new ones, try finishing the shoulders of the waist without sewing them up; that is, make shoulder-straps, lapping them at the top and closing with buttons and buttonholes. It is then easy to let the skirts down by adjusting the straps. Instead of buttoning, a small clasp pin may be used to fasten them. This is a far better plan than to turn down some of the material where the skirt is sewed to the waist. Another very good plan which may be used in conjunction with the open shoulders, is to make a wide hem and run a tuck on the wrong side of it, which will take up a part of the hem; then, when it is desired to lengthen the skirt you have only to pull out the tuck.

USING GRADE NOT PROFITABLE

Misbranding Frequently Occurs Through Ignorance, Rather Than Intent to Cheat.

CAUSES OF IMPROPER GRADING

Specialists Point Out That Grower or Shipper Who Ships Inferior Farm Produce Soon Learns Error of His Way.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sixty per cent of the commercial potato crop in the United States is now bought and sold upon the basis of United States potato grades, according to the bureau of markets and crop estimates, United States Department of Agriculture, and every producer contributing to that quality of graded stock is vitally concerned with the elimination of dishonest grading practices. Growers and shippers whose honesty cannot be relied upon soon find it difficult to market their crops anywhere, for the news that they are undependable travels quickly in marketing circles. But in its larger aspect of concerning the whole body of producers and shippers who conduct their business on a basis of co-operation with the dealer, the misuse of a grade is a really serious matter for it tends to jeopardize the mutual feeling of confidence which is the very essence of business dealings.

Flagrant Case of Misbranding

Several instances of the misuse of United States potato grades have come to the attention of the department. In New Jersey a growers' organization was found placing in sacks labeled "U. S. Grade No. 1" potatoes that were actually field run of poor quality. Fully 25 per cent of the potatoes in each bag were culls and only a small percentage of the remaining 75 per cent would have graded No. 1.

A short time ago a jobber in a southern city ordered a car of U. S. Grade No. 1 Round Whites from a shipper in a northern state. Upon arrival, inspection showed that the two top layers of sacks contained stock that was sound and up to the grade requirements in every respect. But the potatoes in the bottom layers of sacks were badly smeared with dry rot from contact with decayed stock, these layers evidently being of stock that had been reconditioned at shipping points. The potatoes had to be resorted at the receiving point, and the shipper suffered a heavy monetary loss.

Blemished Stock Picked Out

In a trip through the Minnesota potato district a representative of the department recently reported that in one house where a grading machine of the shaking screen type was used the screen was padded with burlap, leaving only about one and one-half feet of screen at one end uncovered. The manager stated that this was to prevent bruising the stock, and he seemed to be much surprised when it was pointed out that the burlap interfered with the proper sizing of the potatoes.

It was also reported that in some instances shippers were of the opinion that No. 1 stock was procured simply by running the potatoes through a sizing machine. In these cases it was necessary to call attention to the fact that blemished stock must be culled out by hand; also that when there is a heavy run of undersized stock, much of it may be carried over the grade if the potatoes are run through too rapidly.

Specifications of the federal grades can be had upon application to the bureau of markets and crop estimates, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. The bureau will also be glad to advise growers and shippers with regard to detailed grading methods.

SOILS NEED STABLE MANURE

Fertilizer Loses—Up Clay and Acidic Sand to Retain Moisture Needed by Plants.

The chief virtue of sandy soil is that the roots of plants can pass through it readily; its chief fault is that it dries out too quickly. Clay soil holds water well, but it tends to pack and harden. Both types of soil need stable manure—It loosens up clay and helps to hold moisture.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE HAS LARGE GROWTH

Farmers Received $99,000,000 for Crop in 1920.

Any Fertile Soil Capable of Producing Good Yields of Other Crops Will, if Properly Handled, Prove Satisfactory.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The sugar-beet industry of the United States, produced more than 1,000,000 tons of sugar and the 106 factories, 27 of which were in operation in 12 states, paid American farmers more than $99,000,000 for their beets in 1920.

In a comprehensive new bulletin, No. 906, "The Sugar Beet Industry in the United States," the United States Department of Agriculture says that almost any fertile soil capable of producing good yields of other crops will, if properly handled, produce good sugar beets. This statement, however, is restricted by considerations of climate, moisture, and topography as related to the question of producing enough beets of the requisite sugar content within reasonable hauling distance to maintain a sugar-beet factory.

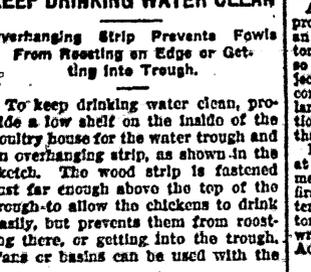

The bulletin reviews the history of the sugar-beet industry from the first mill, built in 1870 at Alvarado, Cal.; analyzes soil, climatic and topographic requirements; and deals at length with the necessary equipment, best methods of planting and cultivation; the important relation of the sugar-beet to the live stock industry; the management of parallel and rotating crops; the labor problem; insect and disease enemies of sugar beets; and the business of selling beets to the sugar manufacturers. "The successful production of sugar beets on any farm depends to a great extent upon the temperament of the farmer and upon his attitude toward the production of this crop," says the bulletin, adding that the man who handles cows, especially dairy cows, is more inclined to take up the growing of such an intensive crop as sugar beets and is more apt to succeed in this line than the grain or forage crop man.

A list of more than fifty department publications on different phases of the beet-sugar industry is included in the bulletin, which may be had free upon application to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

KEEP DRINKING WATER CLEAN

Overhanging Strip Prevents Fowls From Roosting on Edge or Getting into Trough.

To keep drinking water clean, provide a low shelf on the inside of the poultry house for the water trough and an overhanging strip, as shown in the sketch. The wood strip is fastened just far enough above the top of the trough to allow the chickens to drink easily, but prevents them from roosting there, or getting into the trough. Pans or basins can be used with the same arrangement, although if a trough is made for the purpose, it will fit in better and, during the winter months, the ice will be forced upward and there will be no danger of breaking. This arrangement will be found excellent for feeding the flock hot mash and other feeds, also.—Dale R. Van Horn of Nebraska, in the Farm Journal.

CLEAN UP ALL GARDEN TRASH

Insects and Disease Spores Live Over Winter in Stalks, Vines and Other Rubbish.

Much of the success of next year's garden depends on cleaning up the trash left from this year's crop, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Insects and disease spores live over the winter in stalks, vines, and stubble. Weeds and vegetable debris should be raked into piles and burned or carried off as soon as it is convenient to do so. Pieces of cabbage, carrots, potatoes, and other vegetables which have been left on the ground in the harvest should be raked up and destroyed to avoid attracting insects and rabbits. The rabbits, tempted by these tilths, may remain to bark the fruit trees and damage bushes. Time given to this work at a period of year when other matters are not pressing will be well repaid in the spring and summer.

SODIUM FLUORID GETS LICE

Mixed With Road Dust It Has Been Found to Be an Excellent Remedy by Experts.

A combination of sodium fluoride and road dust, mixed one part of fluoride to four parts of dust, is an excellent remedy for body lice on fowls, according to investigations by poultry experts at the University of California. Sodium fluoride costs 40 cents a pound and that quantity is sufficient to treat 100 hens.

STUNG FOR THE LAST TIME

Never Again, Says This Marine, When He Thinks of That Four-Dollar Taxi Bill.

"What's all your hurry?" asked one marine of another who was hurrying down the street in Washington. "Oh, nothing in particular," said the cynic, "only the other night I takes my girl to the movies."

"Yes, yes, go on!" "She was wearing a brand new pair of shoes and when she gets inside the theater her feet starts to ache and she takes her shoes off."

"Ah, ha! The plot thickens!" "Well, when she gets her shoes on, she can't get 'em on again, and after the show it cost me four bucks to get her home in a taxi."

"Stung!" said the interested friend. "What are you going to do about it?" "I'm going down to the five-and-ten-cent store to buy her a shoe-horn. Safety-first!"—The Leatherneck.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Advertisement.

MOTHER! CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Methodist Church Notes

(L. E. Conklin, Pastor)

Sunday morning the pastor will preach and special music will be rendered by Miss Loreen Stimmel. Sunday evening beginning promptly at seven fifteen the following musical program will be rendered: Vocal solo, Raymond Lackland; Violin solo, R. C. Pitts, accompanied by Geo. Ferguson at the piano; Vocal solo, Miss Ula Edmiston; Offertory, E. H. McCarty.

Last Saturday afternoon, Rev Conklin united in marriage John W. Minlon and Miss Jewel Lowrey, both of Ft. Stanton. The bride will remain temporarily in Carrizozo, while the groom, who is a soldier, has been ordered to report for duty at another post.

There will be a Christmas tree at the Church Saturday evening Dec. 24, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to take part. There will be a program of music and recitations. If you will assist us in making it a success, please notify the committee, Mesdames C. A. Hooper, R. E. Lemon L. E. Conklin.

About seventy-five people, including Methodists, business and professional men, in fact people from all walks of life, gathered at the parsonage last Thursday evening and left a variety of eatables and drinkables that would grace a King's table. They afterwards repaired to the church and rendered a program to the entertainment of all. The preacher was heard to say, he wished conference would come every 3 months and that he would be returned every time.

NOTICE OF PROOF OF WILL

In the Probate Court of Lincoln County, State of New Mexico. In the matter of the last Will and Testament of James Thomas Stone, deceased.

Public notice is hereby given that there has been filed in the office of the Probate Clerk of Lincoln County, New Mexico, a paper in writing purporting to be the last Will and Testament of James Thomas Stone, deceased, late of said County and State, and that the proving of the said last Will and Testament will take place before the Probate Judge of said County on the January 14th, term of said Probate Court and on the second term, the same being January 4th, or as soon thereafter as a hearing can be had before the Court.

At said hearing and proving of said Will and Testament, the heirs at law of said Decedent, James Thomas Stone, and also all other persons who may or have an interest in the estate of said decedent, will be given an opportunity to object against the approval of said Will and Testament by the Court.

Witness my hand and seal this 14th day of December, 1922.

R. M. TREAT,
County Clerk & Ex-Officio Probate Clerk.

Notice of Contest

Department of the Interior
U. S. Land Office
Roswell, N. M.
Contest No. 10,478 Dec. 5, 1922
To John T. Hunkle, of El Paso, Texas.

You are hereby notified that Etta L. Williams, who gives Archo, New Mexico as his post-office address, did on Dec. 2, 1921, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your 114 and 114-1/2, Entry Serial Nos. 6112 and 6111, made Sept. 21, 1914, and Oct. 22, 1919, for E1 and W1 Section 22, Township 4-S, Range 11-E, N. 1-P, Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that you have never established residence upon said entry and have never resided thereon, that you have never cultivated nor improved any part of said entry and that you have abandoned said land for more than six months last past and that you have never earned title thereon. That your absence from said land was not due to your services in military or naval organizations of the United States nor in the National Guard of any of the several States.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken as confessed, and your said entry will be cancelled without further right to be heard either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown before your answer, under oath, specifically responding to these allegations of contest, together with due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail.

You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire further notices to be sent to you.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS
 is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and allowing Nature to restore normal conditions.

Frank Parinece, 74 years old, formerly president of an omnibus company in Chicago bearing his name, died in Los Angeles after an illness of many months. His philanthropy identified him with many charity work interests.

Running away from the Security State Bank at Robbinsdale, a suburb of Minneapolis, with rolls of currency under either arm, a bandit who a few minutes before had robbed that institution, was shot and killed by the justice of the peace at Robbinsdale, Minn. Six persons were killed in a bandon collection between the coastbound Portland-Spokane limited and westbound Oregon-Washington limited trains of the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation Company, two miles east of Celilo. Twenty-two persons were injured.

A jury in the District Court at Scottsbluff, Neb., rendered a verdict acquitting Mrs. Paul Tachina of the charge of first degree murder. Mrs. Tachina admitted shooting and killing Fred Reisbeck, July 17 last, but said she did so to protect her husband from attack.

Jack Bankey, prominent oil man, formerly of Tulsa and Los Angeles, was found dead in his apartments at a local hotel in Fort Worth, Texas. Police said he had killed himself by shooting. He was one of the successful operators in the west Texas oil fields.

Davis Sandies, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sandies, who had a needle removed from his heart on Nov. 7, is what surgeons said was one of the most remarkable operations ever performed in the Northwest, died at a hospital in Minneapolis. The needle pierced his heart when he fell on a sewing basket.

While playing with a roller towel at his farm home, ten miles north of Huron, S. D., Everett Medjler, 13 years old, twisted the towel about his neck, slipped on the bathroom floor and fell, breaking his neck. He was dead when his sister, the only other person in the house at the time, reached him.

WASHINGTON

The net imports of peanuts during the first eight months of 1921 were only 29,040,000 pounds, as compared with 117,650,000 pounds during the same period of 1920, according to statistics compiled by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. (Net imports are total imports minus re-exports.)

Patrons of the foreign money order service will be saved in the aggregate large sums of money through a plan adopted by the Postoffice Department, which will enable all of the international money order offices in the United States to be advised daily, if necessary, as to the fluctuation in foreign exchange. Third Assistant Postmaster General Glover, who has made a special study of this subject, has worked out a combined conversation table for use in issuing money orders payable in European countries, a copy of which has been placed in every international money order office in the country.

The greatest need in education in the United States today is "a square deal for the country child," John J. Tigert, commissioner of education, declared in a statement issued in connection with the opening of "American Education Week." While no child is denied an education in America, he said, "the opportunity is by no means equal."

The Russian famine is spreading and now threatens 23,000,000 people, ex-Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana reported to Secretary Hoover in Washington. After the conference, it was indicated that Congress would be asked by Mr. Hoover to provide funds by which large quantities of grain and food supplies can be sent to the stricken territory.

A petition more than a mile in length and containing about 200,000 individual signatures as well as the signatures of presidents of women's organizations with a total membership of more than 2,000,000, was presented to Secretary of State Hughes recently, approving the objects of the conference on disarmament and urging continued work to the end that peace throughout the world be assured for the future.

Formerly a somewhat neglected vegetable has gained in popularity quite steadily the past half-dozen years. Shipments in 1918-17 were less than 5,000 cars, but each year since then the 5,000 mark has been exceeded, and last season the total was 15,578 cars.

Voluntary railroad proposals for inauguration of a 10 per cent decrease in freight rates on practically all items, such as and orchard products in the United States, outside of New England, have been accepted by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Two men, alleged to have held up the Maricopa Bank at Logan, N. M., and escaped with $1,500, were captured by a posse near Gallatin, twenty miles north of the scene of the robbery. They are McCluskey and Eric near Gallatin.

PLEDGE AGAINST WAR SIFIC MATTERS—TO HAVE "COOLING OFF PERIOD"

PLACED AGAINST WAR SIFIC MATTERS—TO HAVE "COOLING OFF PERIOD"

WASHINGTON.—A mutual pledge not to go to war over disputes in the Pacific without a "cooling off period" of discussion is the basis of the new four-power treaty proposed as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

Discussions of the proposals among arms delegates are well advanced, although none of the governments concerned—the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France—have given final approval. A suggestion that the Anglo-Japanese pact be revoked has gone to London and Tokio. Possible controversies over the Pacific islands, exclusive of the Hawaiian group, and Yap, would come under the new agreement. Yap is to be the subject of a separate treaty, negotiations for which are nearing completion, and Hawaii is to be considered part of the American mainland.

Problems of China or other portions of the Asiatic mainland are not to be touched by the proposed treaty, nor will it contain provisions relating to Pacific fortifications or the naval reduction program. It is possible, however, that all of these questions may come simultaneously to the point of a decision. By the American delegates, the project is regarded as establishing neither an alliance nor an entente, but merely applying to the Pacific islands the principle of the thirty-year Bryan peace treaties to which the United States is a party. A public statement setting forth that position probably will be made in the near future by Secretary Hughes.

For the present, the authorized American spokesmen prefer to say nothing about their conversations which have been proceeding behind the curtain of "executive sessions." Apparently, the negotiations have been kept within a narrow circle centering in the "big three"—Hughes, Balfour and Kato.

An evidence of optimism with which high American officials view the general situation in the conference was given by President Harding, who declared in an address that the negotiations promised to "succeed beyond our fondest hopes." He predicted that the conference would usher in a new day in international amity.

All outward indications point to a merging of the Pacific questions with the naval ratio problem so far as the final decisions of some foreign nations are concerned. No reply from Tokio regarding the naval plan is expected until the Japanese government is ready to make some expression on the four power proposal. It is possible that in the final analysis, the questions of Shantung and China generally may also become interwoven in the general scheme before a definite settlement is reached.

Thus, it would not surprise close observers if the whole range of controversies were gathered under one understanding, to be translated then into several formal instruments of agreement.

Both Japanese and Chinese reflected optimism over the Shantung negotiations after another meeting in which Japan offered to give up the public property in the leased territory of Kiaochow as another step toward meeting Chinese position.

MAKES MERRY WITH PUBLIC POLICEMAN SAW THE LIGHT

In His Book, "Windmills," Gilbert Cavanaugh Pokes Fun at Many Venerable European Institutions.

Gilbert Cavanaugh admits a misunderstanding of his pacifist attitude toward the war in his preface to the American edition of "Windmills," but avows firmly that "the attempt to remove militarism and military conceptions from among human preoccupations is a good cause and I will serve with the only weapon I know how to use—the pen—which they say is mightier than the sword or even the howitzer. Having applied myself to this service before the outbreak of the great war, which for me began in 1911, I was not to be diverted from it by the panic confusion of those who were overtaken by the calamity rather than prepared for it."

With a solemnity which is grotesque, he recounts in "Sannys Island" the wars between the Finnish empire and Fatterland. The reader will recognize many European institutions and events at which Mr. Cavanaugh is poking fun. A second reading reveals more of his "allusions," remarks the Springfield Republican.

Country's Timber Situation.
The original forests of the United States have been estimated to contain 622,000,000 acres, which has been reduced by cutting, cultivation and burning to 137,000,000 acres. Sixty per cent of the original timber is gone. The consumption is five times greater than the production. Our tremendous consumption of lumber has been a potent factor in elevating our standard of living and it is urged that we do not curtail our consumption, but rather increase our production.

Absence of Illumination on Automobile Perfectly Justified Under the Circumstances.

A certain town depends entirely on electricity for its lighting, and as one large generating station sufficed for the whole town, an accident at the station suddenly plunged the town into darkness one night.

The manager of the station was at his private house at the time, but he at once set out in his car for the works. In his haste, however, he forgot to switch on the electric lights on his car, which, were, of course, generated off a dry battery and the car's accumulator.

On his way to the electric power station he was stopped by a policeman, who asked him why he had no lights. The manager did a little quick thinking, then answered, half-humorously: "Of course my lights are out! Haven't they fallen all over the town?"

The policeman touched his hat, and said: "Beg pardon, sir, I forgot! Go straight ahead!"

Real Rest Depends Largely Upon the Depth of Your Sleep

A warning to "light" or "poor" sleepers

The deeper and sounder you sleep the better you feel. Five hours sound refreshing sleep does you more actual good than ten hours restless, disturbed sleep.

This is because the final conversion of food into vital tissue and nerve cells goes on more rapidly when the physical and mental forces are at rest.

You can't get sound, refreshing sleep if your nerves are agitated with tea or coffee. Both these drinks contain caffeine, which is sometimes very irritating to the brain and nervous system.

If you want to know the joy, vigor and stamina that comes to the person who gets sound, beautiful sleep, why not stop taking tea or coffee for a while, and drink delicious, invigorating Postum instead.

Thousands of people everywhere have found that this was the only thing they needed in order to bring about these very happy results.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this delightful cereal beverage of coffee-like flavor, for a week. Perhaps, like thousands of others, you'll never be willing to go back to tea or coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk; for those who prefer to make the drink with the usual hot water) prepared by boiling for 20 minutes.

Top of World 50 Miles Away

Writer Tells Some Interesting Facts in Connection With Recent Aviation Feats.

OF LITTLE SCIENTIFIC VALUE

Attempts to Go Higher Than MacReady's Record-Breaking Flight Would Not Be Productive of Worthwhile Results.

Washington.—The "top of the world" still waits to be reached. Lieutenant MacReady's record-breaking flight to a height of nearly eight miles left the "ceiling of the earth" still at least forty miles away.

How near the aviator may come to what is practically the upper limit of the atmospheric layer surrounding the earth we may not know in this generation. But the meteorologist and the astronomer tell us that both Major Schroeder after his flight of 38,190 feet and Lieutenant MacReady after his 40,800 were speaking only figuratively when they spoke of having attained the "top of the earth."

Layer Fifty Miles Thick.

The layer of atmosphere, many say, is at least fifty miles thick.

Aviators now have the means of taking sufficient oxygen along with them for their engines and for themselves, and the heat that keeps their bodies from freezing. They lack only denser air to fly upon at great heights. But this, of course, they will never have.

Let there be another solution: The faster plane capable of rising still higher on an ever-thinning ocean of air.

It will be a problem forever increasingly difficult. The higher man rises, the thinner will be the air upon which he must depend for buoyancy.

Indeed the air gets thinner even in greater proportion than the increased height of the flight. For though MacReady had risen through but one-sixth of the air cushion that cloaks the earth, he had left behind him four-fifths of the air.

From the surface of the earth, where the total pressure upon his body was fifteen tons, he had risen to a height where the pressure was but three tons. And had he gone three times as high he would have reduced the pressure to 80 pounds.

No Interest at Poles.

Any higher airplane flights than those that have been taken by these two men will have little scientific value. Their observations will give scarcely more information than that to be had from a balloon sent up with various pieces of recording apparatus. But neither did the poles of the earth have great scientific interest. Yet men sought and attained them. And so long as the astronomer and the meteorologist make known the existence of an ocean of air beyond any called thus far, there will be a struggle to fathom its depth.

But for the present that fathoming will be done only from observation and deduction to be made upon terra firma. Among the best of the methods that are used to determine the upper limit of the blanket of air about the earth is called the "twilight method."

Twilight has been defined as the time after sunset when day seems to be continued into the night because of the sunlight that still shines upon the upper air.

It has been determined that twilight lasts until the sun is about eighteen degrees below the horizon, and with this as a known value, and the radius of the earth given as 4,000 miles, it is not difficult to solve, by the methods of trigonometry, a right tri-

Stewart's Life Romance Bared

Speedometer Man Really Was Terence O'Brien, One-Time Clipper of Horses.

ALSO WAS MINING PROSPECTOR

Litigation Over $5,257,343 Estate Left by Manufacturer Leads to Barling of "Family Skeleton"—Eccentric About Money.

Chicago.—Litigation over the $5,257,343 estate left by the late John K. Stewart, founder and president of the Stewart Manufacturing company and the Stewart-Warner Speedometer company, bared a "family skeleton."

Search of records of the Surrogate court in Riverhead, L. I., in which one of the two wills made by the Chicago millionaire was filed, revealed that his name was really Terence O'Brien. Under this name he had been a mining prospector in the West, always without much success.

From prospecting O'Brien turned his hand to clipping horses, following county fairs. In Seattle he met Arthur and Michael Conlon. Together they invented a horse clipping machine. This contained a flexible shaft, which served as the basis of future automobile necessary appliances.

Soon Brings in Big Profits.

This shaft was patented for O'Brien by a lawyer named Stewart and soon it began to pay large profits. It was placed on the market as the John K. Stewart speedometer, the name of the lawyer furnishing part of the title and that of a race horse, "John K.," furnishing the remainder.

O'Brien later decided to adopt as his own the name of the device he had placed on the market, and from that time on was known as John K. Stewart.

With the acquisition of his fair fortune O'Brien, now known as Stewart, left the West and moved to Chicago, introduced the speedometer and soon his wealth grew to great proportions. He purchased a residence at 5217 Sheridan road and bought a mansion at Center Point, L. I., to which he later moved with his wife and two daughters, Marlon and Jean.

He was in his early forties when he died, leaving an estate of five to seven millions.

Both Stewart and his widow, who died nine months after his death, were eccentric in handling money. First a clerk in the office of the Speedometer company discovered some deposit slips on Chicago banks calling for $1,800,000 which it was not known that Mr. Stewart possessed. This money was found in six banks and turned into the estate. Shortly afterwards Leonard H. La Chance, now chairman of the board of directors of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer company, and trustee of the Stewart estate, received a bill for $7.50 for the rent of a safety deposit vault of which he knew nothing.

Daughters Get Estate.

In the safety deposit vault $250,000 more was discovered. At another time a suitcase which Mrs. Stewart, who died in Aiken, S. C., had left in a hotel there was opened and $630,000 in currency, in $5,000 and $10,000 gold certificates rolled out. This suitcase also contained $290,000 in certified checks. The suitcase had been carried around the country without more than the usual care.

The fortune left by Stewart was originally divided between his two daughters, but Jean died October 10 last, while still a child. Marlon married Robert B. Honeyman Jr., of New York City, and inherited the entire estate.

It was her action in filing, through her father-in-law Robert B. Honeyman, a New York lawyer, a suit charging incompetence and general mismanagement of the estate, that led to the discovery of the romance of her father's career.

U. S. MUST SAVE WORLD—HARDING

PRESIDENT DELIVERS STIRRING ADDRESS TO CONGRESS IN PERSON.

SYNOPSIS OF SPEECH

URGES MANY REFORMS IN ADMINISTRATION POLICIES BY NEW CONGRESS.

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)

Washington.—Stressing the great and far-reaching contribution which the American people must be prepared to make toward the economic and financial rehabilitation of a world still staggering under the disordered conditions bequeathed by war, President Harding voiced a solemn warning in the message he delivered in person to Congress that "no permanent readjustments can be effected without consideration of our inescapable relationship to world affairs in finance and trade."

"We should be unworthy of our best traditions if we were unmindful of social, moral and political conditions which are not of direct concern to us, but which do appeal to the human sympathies and the very becoming interest of a people blessed with our national sympathies," the President said.

The President emphasized that in the main the contribution of this republic to restore normalcy in the world must come through the initiative of the executive branch of the government, but the best intentions and most carefully considered purposes would fail utterly if the sanction and co-operation of Congress were not cheerfully accorded.

For the first time in years, since the grim shadows of the World War first began to gather over the American people, Congress listened to a presidential message that was almost entirely devoted to the grave domestic issues confronting the American nation, and which slipped over, except in the most general way, the serious international questions facing the American people.

The synopsis of President Harding's message to Congress follows:

Mr. Speaker and Members of the Congress.—It is a very gratifying privilege to come to the Congress with the republic at peace with all the nations of the world. More, it is equally gratifying to report that our country is not only free from every impending menace of war, but there are growing assurances of the permanency of the peace, which we so deeply cherish.

For approximately ten years we have dwelt amid menaces of war or as participants in war's actualities, and the inevitable aftermath, with its disordered conditions, has added to the difficulties of government, which adequately cannot be appraised except by those who are in immediate contact and know the responsibilities. Our tasks would be less difficult if we had only ourselves to consider, but so much of the world was involved, the disordered conditions are so well-nigh universal, even among nations not engaged in actual warfare, that no permanent readjustments can be effected without consideration of our inescapable relation to world affairs in finance and trade.

Indeed, we should be unworthy of our best traditions if we were unmindful of social, moral and political conditions which are not of direct concern to us, but which do appeal to the human sympathies and the very becoming interest of a people blessed with our national good fortune. It is not my purpose to bring to you a program of world restoration. In the main such a program must be worked out by the nations most directly concerned. They must themselves turn to the heroic remedies for the menacing conditions under which they are struggling, then we can help and we mean to help.

We shall do so unselfishly because there is compensation in the consciousness of assisting, selflessly, because the commerce and international exchanges in trade which marked our high tide of fortunate advancement are possible only when the nations of all continents are restored to stable order and normal relationship.

In the main the contribution of this republic to restore normalcy in the world must come through the initiative of the executive branch of the government, but the best intentions and most carefully considered purposes would fail utterly if the sanction and the co-operation of Congress were not cheerfully accorded.

I am very sure we shall have no conflict of opinion about constitutional duties or authority. During the annals of war, when necessity seemed compelling, there were excessive grants of authority and an extraordinary concentration of powers in the chief executive. The repeal of wartime legislation and the automatic expirations which attend the peace negotiations have put an end to these emergency excesses, but I have the wish to go farther than that. I want to join you in restoring, in the most cordial way, the spirit of co-ordination and co-operation and that mutuality of confidence and respect which is necessary in representative popular government.

Encroachment upon the functions of Congress or attempted dictation of its policy, would be one of the most serious offenses that could be committed. It is essential to the maintenance of our government, and it is one of the most important messages that I have to deliver to you in no less a message to all our people for whom you speak most intimately. Ours is a popular government through political parties. We divide along political lines and I would ever have it so.

Summary of the main points as follows:

First.—The imperative need of "elastic and flexible" tariff legislation which would enable the President through the federal tariff commission, to meet effectively the changing trade and industrial conditions, not only in this country, but abroad.

Second.—The urgent necessity of a "general policy of transportation of distributed industry, and of highway construction to encourage the spread of our population and to restore the proper balance between city and country."

Third.—The strong desire of the administration for further revenue revision and "renewed consideration of our tax program," despite the inevitable divergence of opinion in seeking the reduction, amelioration and readjustment of the burdens of taxation.

Fourth.—The expressed opposition of the administration to the abrogation of certain commercial treaties proposed by the Jones merchant marine act on the ground that to denounce them would "involve us in a chaos of trade relationships and add indescribably to the confusion of the already disordered commercial world."

Fifth.—The expansion of the American merchant marine under an administration plan to be later submitted to Congress which, while contemplating no greater draft on the public treasury than is provided by the Jones act, "will appeal to the pride and encourage the hope of all the American people," in American shipping flying the American flag.

Sixth.—Early enactment of the foreign debt funding that the administration may be cloaked with ample authority to deal with the $11,000,000,000 foreign indebtedness to the United States which is now denied it and which is hindering readjustments among our debtors and accomplishing nothing for ourselves.

Seventh.—Systematic encouragement of agriculture by the development of adequate distribution and marketing facilities for agricultural products and the adoption of co-operative marketing programs for that purpose.

Eighth.—The early termination of a "great volume of unproductive and wasteful transportation" and a revision of "the existing scheme of adjusting freight rates," with adequate legislation to meet the serious railroad problems so vitally affecting the welfare of the American people.

Ninth.—Recommended a congressional appropriation to purchase food for the starving Russians.

Tenth.—Suggested the advisability of a constitutional amendment to prohibit the issuance of tax free securities.

Eleventh.—Declared both corporations and labor unions should be regulated and supervised in the interests of public welfare and suggested quasi-judicial tribunals to settle labor disputes.

Touches on Conference.

Agreeable to your expressed desire and in complete accord with the purposes of legislative branch of the government, there is in Washington, as you happily know, an international conference now most earnestly at work on plans for the limitation of armaments, a naval holiday and the just settlement of problems which might develop into causes of international disagreement.

"It is easy to believe a world hope is centered on this capital city. A most gratifying world accomplishment is not improbable.

A hearty reception was given the President by what was said to be one of the largest audiences ever jammed into the House chamber. Demonstrations of a minute each occurred when he entered and again when he concluded, the audience standing and applauding. Applause also broke into his address frequently, especially from House members when he discussed administration policy and with special volume when he advanced his plan for a tribunal to weigh disputes between capital and labor and declared labor organizations should not be permitted to exact unfair terms of employment or subject the public to actual distress."

The audience, which also included the cabinet, diplomatic corps and many high officials, responded warmly when with feeling the President urged aid for starving peoples of Russia and proposed a gift of 10,000,000 bushels of corn and 1,000,000 bushels of seed.

At the Top of the Stairs.
During my service in the army I was one day corporal in charge of quarters. One of my duties was to escort the officer of the day on his tour of inspection, proceeding first into the men's quarters and loudly calling them to attention.

This particular day I preceded him up the stairs to the upper floor of our barracks, and when about half way up loudly shouted, "Attention."

Upon reaching the top of the stairs I discovered the colonel and a dozen other officers of the regiment rigidly standing at attention. They had picked the place out as a quiet one to set some gas mask drill, and burst out with a wild shout of laughter when they saw me and the second foolery in the rear.—Chicago Journal.

Slow to Learn.
"How long have the Gawklers been rich?"
"Oh, long enough to get used to a butler."
"That's ambiguous."
"How so?"
"I know an old gentleman who made his pile in the first Yukon gold rush, and he still gets fussed when his butler catches him sitting around the house in his sock-feet."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Beautiful Woman is Always a Well Woman

San Antonio, Tex.—"After a serious illness, when my strength seemed as though it would not come back to me, I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic. I had seen it recommended so highly that I felt I could not go far astray. This medicine did all for me that could be desired. It restored me to perfect health and strength in a comparatively short time and I am just as strong and well as can be. Favorite Prescription is a splendid tonic and builder for women and it is a pleasure to recommend it." Mrs. Hattie McLane, 303 Bowdoin St.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has made many women happy by making them healthy. Get it at once from your nearest druggist in either tablets or liquid; or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial pkg. tablets and write for free medical advice.

Virginia Boy, 7 Years Old, Arrested as Horse Thief

Roanoke, Va.—Russell Smith, seven years old, was arrested recently on a charge of stealing a horse. The boy was turned over to L. E. Watson, probation officer. This is the youngest offender of the law who has been arrested here in 20 years, it was said.

Game Kicked About Street

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Diamond rings worth $5,000, tied in a linen handkerchief, were kicked about the streets and trampled by residents of Tarantula two days before Joseph DeNanne of Tarantula picked up the bundle in Center street. The diamonds were lost by Mrs. Joseph Klein of Tarantula one Monday morning, when she was shopping. The jewelry was turned over to the owner by DeNanne. Mrs. Klein was offered $500 reward.

WILL STUDY SLEEPING SICKNESS

First Organized Investigation of Disease to Be Made.

Expedition Conducted by Four Physicians and Two Veterinary Scientists Will Study Sickness in Tropical Africa.

London.—An expedition formed by the Tropical Diseases Prevention association soon will leave to make the first organized attempt to investigate on the spot the treatment of sleeping sickness, as distinct from the question of the mere transmission of the disease.

The expedition will be conducted by four physicians and two veterinary scientists, and it is expected the work will occupy two and a half years. It is sought to carry out the work in different centers with the sanction and support of the governments interested, and it is hoped that it will result in a general system of vaccination whereby all individuals arriving in a danger zone will be inoculated and so gradually rendered immune.

The expedition will first work in Uganda. It will probably proceed later to the Belgian Congo, and it is hoped to extend the work to Rhodesia and the Sudan, where there is a big epidemic of the disease.

The sleeping sickness has been prevalent among the natives of West Africa for 100 years. It is generally attributed to a parasite carried by a species of the tsetse fly which infects cattle. The disease has caused heavy mortality among the natives of the Congo and Uganda for many years, and is greatly dreaded by Europeans in the parts of Africa where it exists. Its origin has been the subject of much medical research.
