PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

Marihuana In Prison

(Las Vegas Optic)

Marihuana, classed as a narcotic under the federal laws, may be bought within the prison walls by prisoners when they have the price was the startling bit of testimony given the other day by Robert Leslie, prisoner, in the second day of the investigation by penitentiary commissioners into the food strike of July 19, when Martin Baldonado was killed and five other prisoners wounded under fire of the guards ordered by Placido Jaramillo, superintendent.

Chairman L. A. Hughes announced at the opening of the session that conditions brought out in this investigation, are so serious as to demand a further inquiry into the management. He referred specifically to food, or lack of it; possession by the prisoners of an abundance of material to construct ladders to scale the walls as related by the captain of the guard, and the fact that employes in responsible places do not know what their duties and positions are.

Another high light revealed that the next grand jury of Santa Fe county will be asked to indict a guard in Tower No. 1, from which was fired the shot which killed Baldonado.

Best Game Season in Years

The hunting season breaks soon! It looks like the best in years! With the coming of September migratory waterfowl enter the open list and other game follows in succession, according to Morris Ackerman in the Albuquerque Herald.

The recent mild winter, game sanctuaries and refuges, restocking, better game laws will make 1922 the greatest of all hunting years.

Of big game there is the Virginia deer, the white tail, is on the rapid increase. I've been knocking around quite a bit on this hunting stuff and I refuse to join those calamity howlers who tell you that hunting is on the well-known wane or in words similarly expressed.

Last year there were upward of 200,000 deer killed in the United States. In Canada the number of deer killed was greater. Does it look as if the deer crop were going out of business? It does not! Deer are on such an increase in many places, to such an extent that the situation is growing alarming; especially is this true in New England and New Brunswick.

Some states were "cleaned out" of game several years ago, states where deer were a curiosity, now have loads of game and conditions are getting better.

Game commissions in every state predict that this will be the best hunting year ever. Now is the time to plan your trip, to clean up old Betsy, line your sights and fit your ammunition. If you are going big game hunting, above all things, do not delay in making arrangements with your guide.

New Telephone Company

The Capitan Telephone Company, lately incorporated, is enjoying a splendid patronage composed of the business interests of Capitan and Carrizozo. The new directories, lately printed, will be in the hands of subscribers by the first of next week. Principal stockholders are the merchants of Capitan and Mrs. Ethel Read of that place is manager.

Formal Announcement

At the request of his many friends in the Republican party, Mr. F. E. Richard, proprietor of the Carrizozo Transfer & Storage Company and member of the Carrizozo Town Council, hereby announces himself as a candidate for the office of County Commissioner from this precinct, subject to the decision of the County Republican Convention. Mr. Richard came here when the town was in its infancy, "grew up," as the saying goes, with the place, adding his energy and means to the good and welfare of the community. At first he worked in the local railroad shops, remaining in the employ of the company for about five years. Being thus associated with the railroad men, he enjoys the friendship of his old shopmates and is, therefore, the better acquainted with their needs. His trustworthiness to all concerned led him into other callings and for several years after leaving the shops he did public trucking which he still pursues as a side-line to the Transfer & Storage Co., which he established two years ago, one of our thriving business enterprises.

He has twice been chosen a member of the Town Council on account of his business ability as everybody is ready to admit that if a man is successful in his own business, he will in a like manner, handle the affairs of the taxpayers. When first approached concerning his candidacy, he hesitated, but finally consented after being repeatedly urged, to allow his name to be brought before the convention and if nominated, he will make the race. If nominated and elected, Mr. Richard will make Lincoln County one of the best commissioners it has ever had. Now, more than at any other time, the county needs clear-headed, considerate, painstaking business men for its commissioners and Mr. Richard will be equal to the emergency. His nomination and election would mean much to Lincoln County.

Stay at Home or Go to Church

Piqua, Ohio, Aug. 30.—Only milk wagons, the electric plant and prescription druggists will do business here tomorrow under the terms of a "blue law" proclamation issued today by Mayor A. W. Dewees. There will be no gasoline sold, no movies, no soda water, cigars, groceries, candy, delicatessen goods and Sunday papers will be unobtainable. Restaurants will be open at meal time only.

"The blue law proclamation stands and so far as I am concerned it can stand forever," the mayor said today. "The order will take effect at midnight and stand 12 hours. The police will enforce the law to the letter."

As the matter now stands, the people can do one of two things: go to church or stay at home. The ministers are jubilant.

Water Right Secured

(Corona Maverick)

F. M. Clough, E. P. & S. W. representative, was in Corona Tuesday in conference with the Corona Water Users' Association in regard to furnishing water to the town. The water right was granted. We are informed that the water pipe is now enroute and as soon as it arrives will be laid across the street from the railroad water pipe to the corner opposite the old Bond hall where a hydrant will be installed.

Parties desiring may have the water piped to their home at a reasonable rate per gallon.

Educational News

(Mrs. M. L. Blaney)

The following telegram will explain the reduction of teachers' salaries:

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 29.

Mrs. M. L. Blaney, County Supt., Carrizozo, N. M.:

"The Tax Commission has ruled maximum allowance for all expenses per room including salary for rural schools having three rooms or less is nine hundred ninety dollars for first or higher grade certificate; eight hundred ten dollars for second; six hundred thirty for third, for nine months terms as provided in chapter eighty-three, laws of 1919."

Van L. White, Sec'y Tax Commission.

In a reply to a telegram to the State Department of Education for assistance, we found that everything rested with the Educational Auditor and the State Tax Commission.

It would seem that the State Tax Commission had taken advantage of the teachers, as they did not advise the County Superintendents nor the Educational Auditor that they were contemplating such a reduction. All salaries for teachers, janitors, etc., have been reduced before the budgets were sent to the Auditor. Teachers were carefully checked up and salary stated accordingly. This will place many teachers in a very difficult position, as rooms and board were not reduced, neither was clothing.

The reduction does not affect the schools employing four or more teachers, but the smaller schools in rural districts where teachers must furnish their own reference books, live in isolation and spend of times one-fourth of a month's salary to reach the school, and teach from six to eight grades and a little high school if the rural children are to have any work above the eighth grade.

School will begin Monday, providing the teachers can see their way clear to make a living or to be given one by the patrons.

Caught in Cellar

Last Sunday morning, manager F. E. Richard and John Martin of the Carrizozo Transfer & Storage Co., in order to accommodate one of their customers, unlocked the ice cellar, when a noise on the upper floor attracted their attention. Certain that thieves had entered the place during their absence, an officer was summoned, who, on searching the cellar, found two boys aged 13 and 15 who had gained entrance to the building by taking out part of the foundation. They had stolen several boxes of soda water, one-half barrel of grape juice besides numerous other things of a soft nature from the warehouse. They were jailed and on Monday afternoon taken before Judge Wetmore, who postponed their cases, and on good future behavior, mercy may be extended.

Pleasant Outing

Mrs. E. H. Sweet, daughters Marguerite and Louise are enjoying a pleasant outing at the Eagle Creek Club Grounds.

The Misses Lois and Lucille Jones spent last week with Tucumcari friends and returned accompanied by the Gibson sisters who are visiting for the present week at the Jones home.

Attention, Voters!

The Lincoln County Non-Partisan Political Conference held a meeting at the court house in Carrizozo, N. M., on Thursday, August 24, 1922, for the purpose of adopting rules and regulations to govern the organization.

Members of bonafide labor organizations, producers, such as farmers, stockraisers or other qualified voters who may be recommended by the investigating committee will be admitted to membership upon the payment of fifty cents for annual dues.

This movement is being sponsored throughout the United States with the aim of electing men and women to the various offices who are favorable to organized labor and the producer.

Working MEN and WOMEN, WAKE UP!!—Vote for your interests. You need not look out for the other fellow; he is taking care of himself. It is time to get together and elect officials favorable to the interests of Working People. You will not be misled if you vote for a support, the candidates endorsed by your organization, because they will investigate all candidates nominated by the Republican and Democratic parties and will not endorse any candidate who is unfavorable to Organized Labor.

All qualified voters of Lincoln County eligible to become members of this organization and wishing to do so, are requested to send their applications to the Secretary as soon as possible, as only members will be allowed to vote at the meeting which will be called for the purpose of selecting and endorsing candidates.

W. C. Pittman, President.
L. J. Adams, Secretary.

The meeting was called to order by Precinct Chairman Geo. Spence, and on motion the chair with Messrs. A. L. Burke, Joe Romero, Mesdames J. E. Farley, C. A. Barnhart, Ben Lujan, constituted a committee who offered the following names as delegates which were unanimously chosen by the convention: A. L. Burke, E. H. Sweet, Geo. Spence, A. J. Redland, Wm. Gallacher, H. B. Hamilton, Wm. Spence, A. J. Lutz, C. D. Mayer, Fred Lalone, M. M. Nogal News

We are anxious for more rain; the past week has been very hot and dry.

Mrs. R. A. Rhodes was called away on business to Roswell the past week; and, while absent Velma Davis filled her position postmistress of Nogal.

Mrs. Lela Williams and daughter Miss Johnny Spillers returned to Santa Rosa, after a pleasant visit with her daughter, Mrs. S. H. Nickles.

Mrs. T. J. Moore left last Tuesday for Albuquerque, where she attended the wedding of her niece, Miss Zetta May.

Messrs. R. C. Skinner and A. B. Zumwalt, with their families, have returned from Artesia, N. M., where they engaged in a successful revival meeting of the Nazarene Church at that place.

Saturday afternoon was a very busy one for Nogal; also it was election day. A good many farmers were in and report the need of rain. Nogal has had several good showers, but not in sufficient amounts to relieve the dry situation.

Fake Sandstorm—No Real One in "The Sheik"

The great wind machine was working its hardest in a desert sandstorm scene of "The Sheik" which Geo. Melford was producing for Paramount and which will come to the Crystal Theater next Wednesday, Sept. 6. The millions of particles were swirling at a high rate of speed as Agnes Ayres and Rudolph Valentino, the featured players, were engaged in a dramatic scene wherein he rescues her from marauding Bedouins.

"Stop that engine," called Melford. Obediently the mechanic switched off the airplane motor which was raising so much dust; but the sand continued to fly.

"What the deuce—" began Melford. "Didn't I tell you to stop that sandstorm?"

Then everybody realized that a real sandstorm had come up during the artificial one. They crawled under cover and for five minutes the air was almost unbreathable.

"If we'd waited for five or ten minutes," grinned the producer, after the storm had passed, "we might have saved a lot of gasoline!"

"The Sheik" was adapted from Edith M. Hull's novel, by Monte M. Katterjohn. The supporting cast is excellent.

(By W. J. Klopp, Supt.)

The Lincoln County High School has been thoroughly renovated and is now ready for registration of pupils on Sept. 4. With a High School Faculty of College Graduates, a College Graduate for the Primary Department and the other grade teachers highly qualified for their respective positions the Lincoln County High School should be able to even surpass the commendable record of last year. Prospects for an overflow in attendance look very favorable in spite of the terrible economic conditions now prevailing in Lincoln County.

Harry L. Smith from El Paso, Texas, a graduate of the State Agricultural College will teach the Vocational work under the Smith-Hughes plan, and will also have charge of Ceramics and athletics. He comes highly recommended by the State Department of Education.

Miss Mary Hancock will have charge of the Primary work and is considered as a specialist in this work having been grade supervisor in the Louisiana schools.

Miss Lesa Porter of Kentucky is expected in a few days to take the work of the Commercial department which made such an enviable record last year. Advanced classes will be registered in this department.

Mrs. Minnie Besse, a genius in organizing musical clubs and conducting grade entertainments will fill the vacancy left by Miss Bryan, who expects to attend college this fall. Mrs. Besse will also conduct the academic glee club music.

The superintendent has the promise of prominent lawyers in the state to give a series of lectures in Commercial Law in connection with the Commercial Department. The Federal Board of Health under the direction of Major Warrar of the Fort Stanton Hospital will offer a series of lectures in connection with the High School Hygiene course for Seniors.

The public will be interested to know that the Lincoln County High School has again received the honor of being retained on the accredited list of the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges receiving a higher rating than before. I am also pleased to announce to the public that the president of Oklahoma State University offered to all L. C. H. graduates free tuition for a period of four years. This is a saving of nearly $400 to each individual student. Williams College of Williamstown, Mass., accepted our credits and will enter our graduates to all courses without examination or condition. This comes from one of the most conservative colleges in the east and reflects credit upon the standards of our High School.

It is desired by the superintendent that all former pupils bring all their books of last year, which they wish to sell, to his office no later than Monday. Mark them as follows: Value, name and address; this mark should be placed on the inside cover and also upon a separate slip placed inside the book for record. After books are sold money will be refunded with a charge of 5 per cent for handling same and this amount to be deposited in the treasury of the Athletic Association.

LABOR LEADERS IN FRONT RANK OF EXECUTIVES

In General Ability and the Power for Organization, They Are Recognized as Having Few Superiors in the World of Business.

Eighteen thousand dollars a year for a labor leader and a contract for life shows that some unions are paying as big salaries to their executives as do the large business interests. Salaries of from $5,000 to $10,000 are by no means infrequent, writes John W. Harrington in the New York Sun.

The head of the Dockbuilders' union, for instance, whose compensation is $1,000 a month, is the highest paid labor representative in New York city and probably in the country. At least no leader of the working classes has come forth so far to admit that he is getting more, and a search of the archives of the unions fails to reveal anything like so huge an honorarium. Although this appears to be the top notch in the way of salaries the dockbuilders in the district from Philadelphia to Boston, including those of New York city and neighborhood, believe that they are getting the worth of their money, and insisted on his having that amount, although like Caesar, he several times declined the honor.

Headquarters Uplifted. Once a labor headquarters was a dark and dingy place reeking of stale pipes and of staler beer fumes. Its floors were caked with grime and its walls were dirty and dingy. Now the chief officer of the dockbuilders has a bright and airy office and does business in an atmosphere of good deeds, file cases and high power business efficiency. Clerks, stenographers and cashiers are under his eye, and everywhere are the devices which make for attending to large affairs. If one were suddenly translated to his presence one would think that he was talking to the manager of one of the large corporations or a bank president. He works from 10 to 18 hours a day and says he often works 20. Any one seeing him cheerfully violating the eight-hour law may well realize that he is worth a good deal of money to any interest to which he might devote himself, for he transacts business like lightning.

Nominally, he is the representative of the Dockbuilders' union, which is connected with the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, a part of the American Federation of Labor, and from that organization he draws his large salary, voted to him unanimously over his veto. Those who compose this well-established union were getting $3.20 a day before the war. In 1913, and now they have $7.50, which is a gain of slightly more than 100 per cent.

They are giving, therefore, less than one day's work a year to the salary of their representative. In return for this he keeps things running smoothly, and sees that work is an regular and steady as possible and gets what they consider fair wages for them without their having to lose heavily by strikes in getting it. He is as willing to order a strike as any labor leader, but he regards it as a last resort. Neither does he believe in stopping work for days and weeks on important jobs while some detail of jurisdiction is being considered.

His salary is more than that of Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor, whose stipend is now $10,000 a year. It was for a long period $7,500, and before that it had been advanced from $5,000 shortly before the European war. The veteran leader accepted this amount under protest, saying that it was more than he needed to live on, and that the fact it had been raised to so large an amount might be used against organized labor.

So far nobody has used it very much, for the consensus is that, considering the duties, Mr. Gompers earns that much and probably a great deal more. For practically forty consecutive times this veteran leader has been chosen for high post in the organization against all comers. Now nearing the age of three score and ten he is still considered at the height of his powers as an executive.

Gompers' Long Hours. Judged on the basis of the number of hours he works a day Mr. Gompers is the equivalent of several men. He carries a heavy burden at the offices of the federation, which, by the way, owns its building and has an elaborate organization to maintain. As the grand supervisor of the federation he directs its policies and also makes frequent journeys throughout the country. As a speaker on public occasions he is heard often in cities far from Washington. He is also the editor of the American Federationist, the official organ of the federation, as well as a frequent contributor to magazines.

The salary of the organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who makes his headquarters in New York city, is understood to be $4,500 a year and traveling expenses. Warren E. Stone, the head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, one of the top men on the salary list of American labor, gets $10,000 a year. He is considered one of the ablest of the diplomats of the kingdom of toil and his duties take him to all parts of the country and require close application.

The head of the Longshoremen's union is credited with a salary of $7,500 a year. There have been rumors that he received a good deal more, but this figure is generally accepted in labor circles as the actual amount. As organizer of the dock workers he has done much important work for his organization and is regarded as one of the most aggressive of leaders.

ON THE LEVEL

The way to reach the man who tells Amid the dingy workings; Is not by stratagems and spoils, Or oily smiles and smirking. You give him model homes and such, Or clubs in which to revel; It isn't coddling that he likes, Or lordly condescension. Such methods will not stop his strikes, Or banish all contention, You must be fair and square and just, A man among your brothers, Before old doubtings turn to trust, Or ancient hatred smothered. Whatever motive yours may be, In time he's sure to find it; He looks through every deed to see The spirit that's behind it. And though he may misunderstand, Repel at first, and doubt you, He'll warmly grasp the proffered hand When he is sure about you. The boys within the breaker shed, The miners, deep below them, Are slow of faith and hard of head, You're simply got to show them; And prove your varied aims and ends Are not those of the devil— For man and master can be friends— If both are on the level. —Bertram Dobson in the Coal Age.

cepted in labor circles as the actual amount. As organizer of the dock workers he has done much important work for his organization and is regarded as one of the most aggressive of leaders.

The head of the International Typographical union gets a salary of $5,000 a year and traveling expenses. Until a comparatively short time ago his services were required with only $3,600 a year. Many of the printers thought he was worth considerably more, but it was not until recently that the increase was given. He has many activities which keep him constantly on the wing. From his headquarters in Indianapolis he makes frequent trips where his services are required in the settlement of strikes or in the making of laws.

The labor leaders of the new order, who occupy responsible positions, are getting from $4,500 to $10,000 a year and have to devote their entire time to their tasks, although the indications are that before long there will be more labor leaders who will command pay as high as that of the head of the dockbuilders' union.

Judging the matter of compensation for labor leaders from the point of view of Mr. George E. Holmes, the general manager of the Industrial Relations Service, an expert on organization, their positions are about the equivalent of that of plant employment manager and would command on the side of capital from $4,000 to $10,000 a year.

"A plant manager who was held responsible for the production made by 3,000 men," continued Mr. Holmes, "would be worth from $15,000 to $25,000 a year, according to the results which he obtained. It is difficult to make exact comparisons, as the labor leader is not held to such strict accountability as is the plant superintendent. There is no reason why, however, the labor leaders who work along constructive lines and have high ideals should not have every dollar which those who retain them are able to pay.

"If it can be shown that an $18,000 man builds up rather than tears down, that he seeks to promote good relations between employer and employees and that he has large vision and looks to the future, he should certainly be compensated for the value of his services.

Worth $100,000.

"I should say that, considering the general abilities and the power for organization which Samuel Gompers has, that he would be worth $100,000 a year to large interests which could afford to pay him all that he is worth. He is worth that to the American laboring man, for he has the qualities of a statesman and has a wide knowledge of men and affairs. His work has been educational and he has built for the future.

"His services cannot be valued merely in terms of dollars and cents, and, for that matter, neither can the work of any man. The principle is the vital factor to consider in valuing men. If a labor leader stands for Americanism and seeks to advance the interests of all whom he represents, not merely by getting them more money, but by making them more useful citizens, he is certainly worth a large salary and should get it."

PROUD KITTEN

"Aphro," said Daddy, "was a very proud kitten. She had always had a deal of fun. She had played with Patsy, the dog, and they had always had ever so good a time together.

"If Patsy didn't begin to chase Aphro, quite soon, Aphro didn't like it, and commenced doing all sorts of things to make Patsy notice her.

"Aphro had a lovely bed. It was a nice box filled with soft white cotton. Not only was it a very comfortable, cozy, soft bed but it was a very pretty bed, too.

"Aphro felt she was a lovely sight in her white cotton bed. She was quite fond of herself in any case!

"She had a toy mouse made of catnip which was her favorite playmate, and she often took it to bed as a little girl will take a doll or a Teddy Bear. At one time Aphro had taken part in a play given by her family of grown-ups. She had taken a most important part in the play, though all she had had to do was to be held by a lovely grownup known as Ada and to wear a little red skirt.

"Ada took the little red skirt off right after she had acted her part—of being held for a few minutes during the play. Aphro thought that was kind because she wouldn't have wanted to wear the little skirt any longer. It would have been in her way and would have been quite annoying. But Aphro was proud to think that she took part in the play. They didn't have Patsy in the play. That also pleased Aphro for she was quite a bit jealous, too.

"She had grown to be very fond of Patsy, but when Patsy had first come she had been awfully jealous and sulky and had not liked Patsy at all.

"But after a time she had seen that the grownups were fair in their petting and that Patsy wasn't going to hurt her.

"Patsy was hardly more than a puppy and Aphro was only a kitten, so they were both young and liked to play and did become good friends as soon as Aphro got over being silly and jealous.

"But she was still a little jealous, you see, to be glad that she was in a play in which they didn't have Patsy!

"After the play was over she would put her paws on Patsy, and Patsy would put her paws on Aphro and they would pet each other a little, and then they would play.

FLOCK TO CANADA

Immigrants of High Order Settling on Western Plains. Removal of Restrictions Necessary During the War Has Shown World's Faith in Dominion's Future.

For a period during the late war, and for a while after its close, there was put into operation by the Canadian government legislation restricting certain classes and people of the countries which were not lined up with the allied nations from being admitted to Canada. This was quite necessary, and the reasons for it will be so apparent that they need not be given. However, the time came, in the early summer of this year, when it was deemed possible to remove some of these restrictions. It was found that there were many who came under their ruling that were of a class that Canada needed and who needed Canada. The restrictions, doubtless, were drastic, but were needful. The news of their removal, broadcast, has met with such a response as to give ample evidence that they had not killed interest in Canada, and that faith in the Dominion as a country where a new existence, happy and fruitful, was as complete as ever.

As has been stated by one writer dealing with this subject, "the opening of the doors a little wider has but disclosed the dammed-up state of the stream, which, given freer release, is pouring in fuller force over the Dominion."

As to the moral effect of the legislation that enabled these restrictions to be carried out, it showed that while Canada was seeking settlers, its lands and its homes were not intended as a shelter for those unable to meet the standard set as Canada's laws of civilization, the concessions which have removed these restrictions still have in view the maintenance of this standard, and those who are still allowed in are subject to the same requirements that have prevailed for years.

As pointed out by the writer previously quoted, "Canada has successfully impressed on those countries from which she draws her people that her prime and crying need is for those who will go on land, and of those entering the country the bulk is composed of agriculturists. Every country which has formerly contributed to Canada's population has resumed its mission to its shores.

"The lowering of the barriers has had a farther-reaching effect than the entry into the country of many formerly debarred by reasons of financial stringency. It has had a moral effect. The restriction was rightly regarded as an indication of Canada's internal economic condition, and many persons and families of comfortable means contemplating Canadian settlement were discouraged from doing so. In the removal is seen the first blush of the dawn of better days, and consequently many of those arriving are in a condition to establish rapidly and securely.

"Though Canadian immigration falls broadly into the two classes, British and American, many European peoples have contributed in a large measure to the agricultural development of the Western provinces, and it is gratifying to note the same healthy interest in Canada evinced by the most desirable of these.

"Amongst those from the European countries are Serbians, Poles, Swiss, Roumanians, Dutch, Jug-Slavs, French, Danish, Norwegians, Swedes, Finns and Lithuanians. All have constituted fine, desirable citizen-building material, as the few detentions and lesser deportations bear testimony. Furthermore, the disturbed industrial conditions of the New England states have resulted in the commencement of an exodus of French-Canadian families back to their old homes, which may reach an appreciable size.

"On all sides this awakening of interest is evident. It is a new faith borne on the crest of the wave of brighter prospects, the dawn of a fuller realization, in the continued inability of many other countries to emerge from the economic slough into which the war plunged them, of the desirability of Canada as a country more rapidly throwing off its post-bellum depression, and its great place in the world's immediate future.

"British migration is of a healthy and desirable order, of sturdy composition, and frequently heavily capitalized. Many Scottish farmers have already arrived this year.

Typhoon Disaster 60,000. Amoy, China.—Swatow's death toll in the typhoon of Aug. 2 is conservatively estimated at 60,000, according to latest reports. The storm was one of the worst disasters which ever visited this part of the globe. The property damage will run into many millions, the Standard Oil Company alone suffering a loss of $100,000. No foreigner was seriously injured in the storm, which almost obliterated the native section of Swatow.

El Paso Toll Collector Freed. El Paso, Texas.—Adolph Dieterich, El Paso street railway bridge toll collector, who was arrested in Mexico after being reported missing with approximately $1,600, has been released on orders from Mexico City. Dieterich told friends he had made arrangements to go to Mexico City. He steadfastly refused to tell what had become of the money, which was classed as United States government funds.

Colorado Crops Increase in 1922. All farm, garden and orchard crops in Colorado this year will have a farm value of slightly more than $100,000,000, according to present indications, at present prices and what apparently will be prevailing prices at market time. Production of most of the major crops grown in the state apparently will be somewhat larger than last year and production of potatoes, fruits and market garden crops will be considerably higher than for 1921. Price of staple field crops are much the same as those of 1921, but prices of potatoes and late orchard crops are not yet established.

Wheat again holds first place among Colorado crops in acreage, with nearly 2,000,000 acres planted. Reports of county assessors to the State Immigration Department show more than 1,500,000 acres of winter wheat and about 450,000 acres of spring wheat, and the reports are not complete. It is not possible to estimate accurately at this time what part of this has been or will be harvested. Hay ranks next to wheat in total acreage, when all varieties of hay are taken together. Corn holds third place.

U. S. Purchases Embassy Building. Mexico City.—The United States government has purchased the embassy building which it has been occupying for some time and adjacent land for the erection of embassy offices and the extension of gardens. This is taken as a sign that recognition is not far off. It is stated semi-officially that Minister of the Interior Calles, the strongest man in the Obregon cabinet, will resign shortly because of the dissatisfaction over the concessions which must be made to obtain American recognition.

"They Would Pet Each Other." "They would pet each other a little, and then they would play." "I should say that, considering the general abilities and the power for organization which Samuel Gompers has, that he would be worth $100,000 a year to large interests which could afford to pay him all that he is worth. He is worth that to the American laboring man, for he has the qualities of a statesman and has a wide knowledge of men and affairs. His work has been educational and he has built for the future." "His services cannot be valued merely in terms of dollars and cents, and, for that matter, neither can the work of any man. The principle is the vital factor to consider in valuing men. If a labor leader stands for Americanism and seeks to advance the interests of all whom he represents, not merely by getting them more money, but by making them more useful citizens, he is certainly worth a large salary and should get it."

"UPON MY HONOR!"

SYNOPSIS.—During the height of the New Orleans carnival season Jachin Fell, wealthy though somewhat mysterious citizen, and Dr. Ansley, are discussing a series of robberies by an individual known as the Midnight Masquer, who, invariably attired as an aviator, has long defied the police. Joseph Mallard, wealthy banker, is giving a ball that night, at which the Masquer has threatened to appear and rob the guests. Fell and Ansley, on their way to the affair, meet a girl dressed as Columbine, seemingly known to Fell, but masked, who accompanies them to the ball. Lucie Ledanois, recently the ward of her uncle, Joseph Mallard, is the Columbine. At the ball, Bob Mellard, son of the banker, again proposes to her and is refused. He offers to buy some of her property. A Franciscan monk interests her. He turns out to be Prince Gramont. In his library Joseph Mallard and a group of his friends are held up and robbed by the Midnight Masquer. Lucie Ledanois, the heiress of an old family, is in straitened circumstances. Joseph Mallard's handling of her funds has been unfortunate. Fell is an old friend of her parents and deeply interested in the girl. Henry Gramont, really the Prince de Gramont, is enamored of Lucie. Lucie talks with Fell about her affairs and the Masked Masquer. Gramont's chauffeur, Hammond, servant in the A. E. F., lives with him. He was the original Midnight Masquer, and Gramont had assumed the role. Where Hammond had been a robber for financial gain, Gramont, of course, is not. He arranges to return the "loot" to those whom he has robbed. Gramont and Hammond put the jewels and money in individual packages to be returned the next day. An explanation is included in each. Bob Cachere, an individual of unsavory character, appears to be associated with Jachin Fell. He has a peculiar interview with one Memphis Izzy Gumbert, a notorious infamously crook, in which there is significant reference to a mysterious "boss." Lucie summons Gramont to her home.

For a moment Gramont found himself unable to speak. He was thunderstruck by the sight of those unmistakable boxes. A glance at the calm features of the girl showed him that there was nothing to be concealed from her, even had he wished it. He was further stunned by this realization. He could not understand how the packages had come here. Recovering his voice with an effort, he managed to break the heavy silence.

"Well? I suppose you know what is in those parcels?"

She nodded. "Yes. One of them was opened, and the note inside was discovered. Of course, it gave a general explanation. Will you sit down, please? I think that we had better talk it over quietly and calmly."

Gramont obeyed, and dropped into a chair.

He was absurdly conscious of his own confusion. How had Lucie come into the affair? This staggered him above all else. Was she behind the theft of the loot? It must be. How long had she suspected him, then? He had thought Jachin Fell the sole danger point—he had never dreamed that this gray-eyed Athene could be tracing down the Masquer! He tried to visualize the situation more clearly and his brain whirled. He knew, of course, that she was fairly intimate with Fell, but he was not aware of any particular connection.

He glanced up at her suddenly, and surprised a glint of laughter in her eyes as she watched him.

"You seem to be rather astonished," she observed.

"I am," Gramont drew a deep breath. "You—do you know that those boxes were taken from my car?"

She nodded again. "Certainly. They were brought to me."

"Then you had someone on my trail?" Gramont flashed a little as he put the question to her.

"No. I have been chosen to settle affairs with you, that is all. It has been learned from the note in the opened box that you were not criminal in what you did."

She leaned forward, her deep eyes searching him with a steady scrutiny.

"Tell me, Henry Gramont, what mad impulse brought you to all this? Was it a silly, boyish effort to be romantic—was it a mere outburst of bravado, as the note explained very clearly. But why, then? Why? There must have been a definite reason in your mind. You would not have taken such dangerous chances unless you had something to gain!"

Gramont nodded slightly. A slight smile touched his lips. "You're not going to send me to prison, are you?"

"I ought to!" The girl broke into a laugh. "Why, I can hardly yet believe that it was really you who were guilty of those things! It mortified me, it stunned me—until I realized the truth from the note. Even the fact that you did not do it for criminal ends does not relieve the sheer folly of the act. Why did you do it? Come, tell me the truth!"

Gramont shrugged. "The truth? Well, my chauffeur, Hammond, was the original Masquer. I caught him in the act—you remember I told you about him? After taking him into my employ, I became the Masquer."

"Why did you do it?" persisted the girl.

"Call it bravado, my dear Lucie. Call it anything you like—I can't lie to you! I had a motive, and I refuse to admit what it was; that's all."

"Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

"Not particularly." He smiled. "I had a good end in view, and I accomplished it. Now that I'm all through, now that I've finished playing my little game, you happened to discover it."

"I think you've been very silly," she said with a disconcerting calmness. He regarded her for a moment, steadily. "And you have displayed a fearful lack of judgment!"

"Silly! Well—perhaps. What are you going to do with those boxes?"

"I'll put them in the mail. I'm going downtown for luncheon, and will do it then. They'll be delivered this afternoon."

He nodded. "I had meant to have them delivered tomorrow; it makes no difference. You're the boss. It will give the good people a little more reason for jubilation tonight, eh?"

A sudden laugh broke upon his lips. "I'm beginning to see the humor of it, Lucie—and I know who put you next to me. It was Jachin Fell, the old fox! I suspected that he was on my trail, and I thought that he had managed the theft of those boxes. In fact, I was preparing to give him a big surprise this afternoon. But tell me, Lucie—are you angry?"

She looked at him steadily for a space, then a swift smile leaped to her lips and she extended a pardoning hand. Her gesture and words were impulsive, sincere.

"Angry? No. I think you've some good reason behind it all, which you won't confide to me. I can read you pretty clearly, Henry Gramont; I think I can understand some things in you. You're no weakling, no romantic, flustering crackbrain. And I like you because you won't lie to me. You've a motive and you refuse to tell it—very well! I'll be just as frank and say that I'm not a bit angry. So, that's settled!"

"Now what was the big surprise that you just mentioned you were going to give poor Mr. Fell this afternoon?"

Gramont's eyes twinkled. "You remember that I thought he suspected me of being the Masquer? Well, I was going to him to propose that we enter business together."

"Oh! As bandits?"

"No, as oil promoters. I'm out of Mallard's company, or shall be out of it soon. The minute I'm out, I'll be free to go into business for myself. It

Colored Messenger Couldn't See Where the "Sport" Came In In That Kind of Fishing.

In a government office in Washington one day a Californian was discoursing on the sport of fishing on the Pacific coast.

"We all get out in small motorboats," said he, "and fish with a long line baited with flying fish. Anything less than a hundred-pound tuna isn't considered good sport."

A colored messenger had been listening with great interest to this conversation.

"Excuse me, boss," he said, wide-eyed, as he stepped up to the group, "but did I understand you to say that you were fishing for hundred-pound fish in a little motorboat?"

"Yes," said the Californian, "we go out frequently."

"But," urged the messenger, "ain't you all afeared you might ketch one?"

Woman Probably Convinced That at That Moment Her "Jinx" Was Strictly on the Job.

I was very busy upstairs with some necessary writing, and, glancing out the window, beheld Mrs. "Stay-Forever," a neighbor, coming up the walk. Calling my small daughter, I told her to tell the visitor I was not at home. She descended the stairs to do my bidding and I tipped softly to the top of the stairs to hear the conversation.

"Mother home?" inquired Mrs. Neighbor.

"No, ma'am," said my faithful child. At this unfortunate moment the heavy blue beads I wore around my neck broke and rattled down in the hall like a heavy hailstorm. My small daughter glanced at the dancing glass particles and, looking up in consternation, cried, "O, mother you broke your pretty blue beads!"—Chicago Tribune.

Bishop Probably Had Read That "Much Shall Be Forgiven," but Really, Professor Jones!

An English clergyman now visiting this country tells a story of an eminent Church of England ecclesiastic now dead, who on the occasion of the gathering of the British association, invited the members to an entertainment at his place. But he sent no card to one member of the association, who, thinking that he was the victim of an oversight, mentioned the matter to a mutual friend.

"I will speak to the bishop and make that right," said the friend. "It was a mere accident."

He did speak to the bishop, to this effect:

"By some mischance, Professor Jones has not been invited to the entertainment. Of course you mean him to come?"

"No, indeed, I do not," said the bishop. "Nothing can induce me to ask under my roof a man who has defied the execution of Socrates!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Much Tried Man.

A Chicago man, whose hobby is the clipping and collecting of humorous advertisements, especially those appearing in the "want" columns, has recently added the following to his collection, an advertisement that appeared in a paper in that city:

"WANTED—A loud, second-hand phonograph for reprisals."

Two to Consider.

"Be mine and I shall be the happiest of mortals." "No, I'll remain as I am. I also want to be happy."

Fred Probably Knew.

"I notice you don't use a lip-stick?" "No, Fred said it was very bad taste."

Just Dimly Remembered.

I had not seen my friend and her small son for a year, so when I saw him playing in his grandmother's yard I said: "Aren't you Charles Smith?"

"Yes, I am," said Charles.

"My, how you've grown!" I said. "I was at your house the night the stork brought you to your mamma."

"Oh, yes," he nodded, gravely, "and you stayed all night. I can just barely remember it."—Exchange.

Uncle Jachin" she exclaimed. "Yes—it's just as we thought; it's all a joke. No, it was not a joke, either, because he had some motive behind it, but he won't tell me what it was. I'm terribly glad that you opened one of those boxes and found the letter—if you had gone to the police it would have been perfectly dreadful."

"I never go to the police," said Jachin Fell with his dry chuckle. "You are quite satisfied that there is nothing serious in the affair, then?"

"Absolutely! He told me that he had accomplished his purpose, whatever it was, and that it's all ended. He just gave me his word that the Masquer was dead forever. Now, aren't you glad that you confided in me?"

"Very," said Jachin Fell. "Very glad, indeed!"

"Now you're laughing at me—never mind! We're going to lunch downtown, and we'll mail those boxes on the way, by parcels post. Is that all right?"

"Quite all right, my dear. Did your gown come for tonight?"

"It's to come this afternoon."

"I don't care to have you offer any reflections on my actions, Mallard," said Gramont, evenly.

Announcement

With the endorsement of many Republicans, both men and women, I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the Representative from New Mexico in the United States Congress.

I believe that the judgment of the people in electing a Republican administration has been sufficiently vindicated; therefore, I will stand with the National Administration in its efforts to make the United States a factor in promoting world peace and world justice.

If elected, I will attempt to represent consistently the interests of all the people of New Mexico with special attention to the Reclamation Bill; the tariff schedules; the extension of necessary credits to farmers and stock raisers; the just liquidation of the debt the nation owes to those who defended it during the late war.

I highly endorse the Budget System, because I believe that, as we begin to get results from this system, the tax burdens will be lessened without reducing the efficiency of the government.

I will, further, work for all possible federal aid which will help the state to progress in matters of health and child welfare; and I will favor an amendment to the Constitution, if necessary, to make a child labor legislation effective.

If I am the choice of the Republican Convention for this office, I shall consider it an honor and an opportunity for service.

THE DURABLE FINISH

You Wouldn't Wear Rags to a Party

Unless You Wanted to Create Unfavorable Comment

Yet, an unpainted house causes almost as much unfavorable comment as a breach of common courtesy.

You owe it to your house, yourself and your neighbors, to paint up.

But don't confuse cheapness and economy. Many paints sound cheap because of the price per gallon. Pratt & Lambert's is economical because of the price per job and per year.

Economical because Pratt & Lambert's carries more oil, goes farther and lasts longer, for linseed oil is the life blood of your paint.

There's no secret or mystery about good paint. Pratt & Lambert's is good because good lead, good zinc and good oil are put into it, the best that money can buy. Cheaper paints are made by putting cheaper things in, yet with a lower price per gallon, you have a higher cost per job.

It costs only 1-4c per square foot to use Pratt & Lambert's on the average job. Measure your house and come in; ask us to prove our statements. If you want a painter, call up, we can recommend good men for your work.

HOUSE PASSES COAL QUIZ BILL

THE WINSLOW MEASURE GOES THROUGH WITH LITTLE OPPOSITION.

CALLS IT "SUBTERFUGE"

GARRETT SAYS BILL HAS NO TANGIBLE VALUE IN PRESENT SITUATION.

Washington.—The administration bill for creation of a federal commission to obtain all facts possible relating to the coal industry and on which miners and operators were denied representation, was passed by the House, 219 to 65. Three separate attempts were made by Representative Bland, Republican, of Indiana, to amend the bill so as to put representatives of the miners and mine owners of the commission, but all of them failed.

The House voted down a proposal by Representative Denison, Republican of Illinois, to reduce the commission membership from nine to five, but the next moment, by an overwhelming vote adopted an amendment by Representative Bankhead, Democrat, of Alabama, cutting the salary of commissioners from $10,000 to $7,500.

On the heels of this it put through, virtually without objection, an amendment by Representative Moore, Democrat, of Virginia, reducing the appropriation for the cost and upkeep of the commission from $500,000 to $300,000. Chairman Winslow of the Interstate Commerce committee, who handled the bill through the House, announced that the committee was not opposed to the smaller amount.

Four Republicans voted against the bill and twenty-four Democrats supported it. It now goes to the Senate, where the Borah commission bill, slightly different in some provisions, is pending.

For a time Republican leaders were thrown off their feet by action of the rules committee in voting to present the Bland bill, with its provision for miners and operators' representation as a substitute for the Winslow measure. President Harding's opposition to this proposal was set forth.

The committee failed, on a tie vote, to reconsider its action, but later it reported a rule giving the Winslow bill the right of way, and opening it to amendment.

There was no pronounced opposition to the bill as finally whipped into shape for passage. Mr. Winslow declared that the fact-finding commission was desired by the President, as the leader of the American people.

Opposing the bill, Representative Garrett, Tennessee, the Democratic leader, argued that it offered no relief for the present or similar situations.

"It is intended as a subterfuge bill, costing half a million dollars," said Mr. Garrett.

The Crepe Frock

Georgette Affords New Development in Summer Clothes.

Material Enters Field as Rival of Oldtime Lingerie Dress; Promises to Be Favorite.

There is a new development in summer clothes, cites a correspondent in the New York Tribune. It lies in the sheer georgette crepe frock which, entering the field as a rival of the oldtime lingerie dress, it promises to gather unto itself many of the followers of the frock of batiste, handkerchief linen or voile.

That there is always something new under the sun is proved every season in Paris. Dressmakers are creating exquisite types of lingerie dresses that are distinctly new. They are in washable styles, but are made of georgette crepe instead of cotton or linen, and, in addition to their dainty frills of fluted lace, they are often delicately embroidered with beads. In former summers chiffon was used for informal evening wear or dressy afternoon frocks. Gowns of this material were made with flowing draperies or ruffles. Now they are in simple chemise effects trimmed with ruffles and valenciennes lace, as well as with cotton and porcelain beads so much in evidence at the present time.

Two shades are favored, one known as biscuit and the other, a similar shade, only darker, known as pain d'epice, or burnt bread, shade. Laces are dyed in shades to match the skirt. The wide open sleeves, ending in bishop cuffs, are extremely attractive. This is an exquisite frock and ideal for a hot summer day.

LATEST FASHIONS IN VEILS

Face Coverings That Are Thrown Back Are Popular; Fancy Meshes, for Fall Wear.

Outing veils that are worn thrown back from the face are at the height of their glory. It is notable that while brilliant colors are shown there are many more of the beige tones exploited and worn. It is not in the heavy mesh that these veils are seen, but women seem to prefer the lighter mesh that does not give the effect of a sheet.

Fancy meshes are forerunners of the veils which will soon be shown in the shops for autumn—all of the novel weaves used in combination. Some of these meshes are already on view. These combination meshes that were brought out last autumn and which have lasted through the winter and spring still will be good for the next season.

These are the striped effects in combination meshes, the flit used with the hexagon or octagon, or perhaps not in the allover striping, but in the border pattern of mesh combination.

LACES MAKE ANNUAL APPEAL

Filet and Irish Designs Are Being Used on Blouses, Summer Gowns and Lingerie.

Filet and Irish laces for blouses and summer gowns and lingerie are making their annual appeal to the woman who believes in and values the softening effect which laces always produce. These edges are also being sought in black and white. Flannings in periwinkle, orchid, dandelion, in all shades of blues and browns, are extremely modish. The woman clever with her needle, but who is too busy to spend all her time in the sewing room, is purchasing the semimade tunics of Spanish lace.

MAKING COAT LINES STRAIGHT

Early Fall Showings by Makers Stress the Silhouette; Modification of Recent Seasons.

Early fall showings of apparel manufacturers give some insight into next season's styles. All makers are stressing the new silhouette, which is essentially straight. It really is not a new silhouette as much as it is a modification of the silhouette of recent seasons. The coats are large at the top and through the shoulders, but are straight from the waist down. They do not taper in, as did the dolmans of two seasons ago.

Sleeves still are the important feature of the coats and wraps and are of greater proportions than they were on the spring garments. The sleeves are being set in extremely deep armholes, some of them extending below the hip line, says Dry Goods Economist. Voluminous cuffs in fancy styles are liked, but the need of something warm and practical has not been overlooked, for inner sleeves of the lining are gathered snugly at the wrists to keep out wintry breezes.

The top coats are made on swag lines of heavy men's wear materials. Double-faced stuffs are very smart for sports and motor coats. Mixtures with plaid backs are made on mannish lines with odd patch pockets, belts and inverted plaits. Very often collars of some durable fur are added, making them suitable for wear all through the winter season. Breast pockets cut in sailor fashion are seen on many models. In the main the coats are beltless.

except for the knockabout coats and conservative street coats.

The sleeves are really the important feature of the new coats. With the simplicity of the straight lines of the rest of the coat it looks as if the designers had given all of their attention to the sleeves. Sometimes tight bands of fur at the wrist merely accentuate the wide bell sleeve. Tassels, embroidery and fringe are all used to embellish sleeves, which in their size and shape are already ornamental.

Fine Points in Fitting Hats.

The fancy for placing the trimming of the brim, and leaving the lines of the crown perfectly plain, makes it necessary to make sure that these lines suit the shape of the head, for they are not disguised in any way. Too small a crown will make the face look broad, while an exaggeration of the size will give a "top-heavy" look which is strictly to be avoided. These are the fine points of millinery which are so well understood by the modiste of reputation, who insists on almost as many fittings as her sister, the dressmaker.

Higher Waistline.

There is a gaining preference for the higher waistline. Some of the designers stress the normal waist, which appears to be high after the hip line belt of the season.

Worn Over Silk Bling.

In Paris bouffant frocks of organ die embroidered net or batiste are worn over silk slips of a deeper shade.

Choice light feeder steers were sold from $7.25 to $7.50. Stockers are quoted from $5.25 to $6.25 for a good grade.

Hogs.

Receipts, 934. Bulk ranged from $7.50 to $8.00, with one load of coarse heavy stuff selling at $6.60. Packers' receipts were thrown out of loads at prices called fully steady with Saturday, the news selling for $6.25 to $6.50 and the stage for $6.25 to $6.50.

A good demand prevailed in the pig section of the market and quotations of living stock. The demand for good hogs was under those of a week ago, dealers assert that they are well in line with the river values.

Sheep.

Receipts, none. Fairly decent lambs sold for $12.40 toward the close, but few of the top grades were considered "sold" at the time of purchase and packers then stated that $12.40 would have been their limit on even choice grades of living stock. The demand for good ewes is strong with quotations ranging from $5.25 to $6.50 and from $6.50 to $6.75 for choice handweight stock.

Stomach Trouble Had Him Nearly Fast Going, Declares Mower.

"Tanlac has helped me to gain ten pounds," said J. H. Mower, 157 Park St., Akron, O., well-known railroad man.

"My stomach was in such bad fix that for several days at a time I could hardly retain any food. I had no appetite and often the very sight of food made me sick. I was intensely nervous, too, could not rest at night, felt tired and worn out all the time, and lost weight and strength until I was almost a wreck.

"Tanlac has made me feel like a different man. My appetite is enormous and I haven't a sign of indigestion left. I never felt stronger. Tanlac certainly does the work."

"Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement."

If Walla Walla says so, it must be so

No law of limitations blocks justice in this case

All the way from Walla Walla comes a communication that we believe holds some interest for the general smoking public. At least, it gave us a thrill which we want to pass on if possible.

Dear Sirs:

If a gentleman owes a debt he pays it, or, lacking the ability to do so, he at least admits that he owes it.

For many years I have been indebted to you, and up to the present time have made no acknowledgment of the same. It is now time that the obligation was first incurred (it has long since been outlawed, but then it has been a continuing obligation, and the statute of limitations does not run against a gentleman's debt.

I was past fifty when I first knew the assuring claim of the great Old Nicotine and for a year or two I founded around among all sorts of brands of tobacco before I found the right one and settled down. Now when my friends ask for a pipette I hand over my pouch and they say "Edgeworth" and I grin and say "Oh-huh."

As I write, a pipette of Edgeworth is going up in smoke, and for that reason I feel a little more kindly toward my fellow man.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) A. J. GULLA.

As you see, it isn't so much that another smoker has found that Edgeworth just suits his taste as it is that this veteran prosecuting attorney, way out in Walla Walla, should postpone duties to his State, his family, and his private affairs to sit down and write us a note of appreciation.

We liked his letter and are proud of the tobacco that inspired him to write it. Almost every mail brings us grateful letters from Edgeworth smokers—uncalled for, unsolicited, and unexpected.

Perhaps it is too much for us to believe that Edgeworth smokers as a whole are generous, big-hearted fellows who never miss an opportunity to boost their fellow men. Perhaps it isn't.

At any rate, if you aren't an Edgeworth smoker, we want to put you in a position to qualify as one. We should like to send you free samples—generous helpings of both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed.

Just jot your name and address down on a postcard and we will send the sample immediately. If you will also include the name and address of your tobacco dealer, we shall appreciate your courtesy.

Edgeworth is sold in various sizes to suit the needs and means of all purchasers. Both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed are packed in small, pocket-size packages, in handsome tin humidor, and also in various handy in-between sizes.

For the free samples address Larus & Brother Company, 44 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants: If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus & Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one- or two-ounce carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

Explaining it. "Insect" he bellowed. "Why do you call me insect?" His wife smiled sweetly. "Because when I married you I got stung."

Moment of Suspense. Young Walton had been wooing Miss Truelove for a long time—years and years it seemed to her father.

At last the couple stood before the altar, and the clergyman put the fatal question:

"Will you, Henry Walton, take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife?"

"This was too much for Miss Truelove's little brother Jimmy, who had watched the progress of the long courtship from various points of vantage during the years.

"Gosh, pa!" he gasped out, excitedly. "Suppose he won't!"

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF LINCOLN COUNTY

We invite you to join us in seeking from the coming state convention of our party the nomination of Stephen B. Davis as Republican candidate for United States senator.

We respectfully submit to you the following practical considerations which convince us that Judge Davis is the strongest candidate our party can choose:

For nearly twenty-five years Judge Davis has lived in Las Vegas, San Miguel county, which is also the home of Senator A. A. Jones, who will be the democratic nominee. As against a republican candidate from another county and another section of the state Senator Jones, by reason of his long residence and personal acquaintance, will inevitably make some inroads into Republican majorities in this section of New Mexico and will command a substantial portion of the independent vote of the district.

Judge Davis will receive not only the full republican party vote of his home county, the largest in our state, out of which he will come with the largest majority ever given a Republican candidate, but he will also receive similar majorities in the Republican counties of Mora, Guadalupe, Colfax, Rio Arriba and Taos, and, by reason of his acquaintance and personal popularity he will carry by substantial majorities such counties as Union, San Juan and others which in recent elections have been fighting ground.

We submit that this support, which he will unquestionably receive, is sufficient to insure his election, even should he receive no more than normal republican majorities in other sections of New Mexico.

Although an active and useful member of the Republican party throughout his twenty-four years of residence in New Mexico, Judge Davis has never been involved in any factional difference in or out of his home county which could militate against his success as a candidate. Without wavering in his party loyalty he has maintained a liberality of view and an independence of action that mark him as a man of courageous character.

Judge Davis came to New Mexico twenty-four years ago with a degree from the Yale law school—and nothing else but a determination to make his way. By sheer ability and unwavering integrity he has won his way to the top of his profession, and has left a record on the way of steadily increasing usefulness both as private citizen and public officer. His record and his qualifications will commend him to the whole people of New Mexico.

These are practical reasons which prove the wisdom of nominating Judge Davis for the senate. Without reflection upon the qualifications or trespassing upon the claims of any other candidate for the nomination, we repeat our conviction that Judge Davis is the strongest candidate for senator our party can nominate, that his nomination will mean at once his election and increased majorities for our entire state and congressional ticket, and that when elected his service to our state will be of the highest order and greatest usefulness.

In choosing a senatorial candidate the purpose of our party is to elect a republican senator from New Mexico. Judge Davis can and will be elected. We ask your co-operation in enlisting the support of your county convention and of the delegates it will choose to our state convention, for the nomination of Judge Davis.
