PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

GREATER DEMAND GIVES BOOST TO LUMBER PRICES

Local Retailers Announce Advances of 25 to 35 a 1,000 feet.

Albuquerque, April 3.—The lumber dealers of the city last week announced a raise of from $2 to $5 per thousand feet in different grades of lumber. The reason given is an increased demand for building materials. The raise follows a series of reductions last fall, which brought prices to rock bottom.

With the raise in lumber here, prices are still from 30 to 40 per cent lower than they were last year at this time. Two grades of common lumber, as quoted by the Gibson Saw Lumber company, now sell at $27 and $28, while a year ago they sold for $50 and $58. Flooring lumber which now sells for $90, they say, then sold for $120. These figures are on 1,000 feet.

The advances went into effect here on Thursday and Friday. Dealers here say that they do not expect any further raises and believe the price now to be stable, but that there is a possibility for further fluctuations.

For people who are planning to build, Kenneth Baldrige, of the J. C. Baldrige Lumber company stated yesterday, the raise will be insignificant.

In explaining the cause of the raise, D. W. Faw, of the Gibson-Faw company, said yesterday, that increased building activity all over the state and in other parts of the country has brought about a greater demand for lumber.

Not all grades of lumber are affected by the increase in prices, according to the dealer. One or two grades of native lumber have actually taken another drop, while some grades have remained stationary.

The American Lumberman of Chicago, in its issue of April 1 says:

"The noise of hammer and saw is increasing throughout the country attended by a slow but sure gain in bookings of orders for lumber. Sales not only by manufacturers to retailers but by retailers to ultimate consumers, are expanding, although the market is not spectacular. Most retail lumber companies now conduct service departments to aid their customers in planning homes, and reports from all over the country indicate that they were never busier than they are today. People everywhere are thinking of building and while in many cases their desire for homes has not yet resulted in the starting of construction, the number of operations in progress is steadily increasing. Purchases of lumber in the meantime are increasing, accompanied by a price advance here and there on specific items for which there exists a strong demand. Generally speaking, the market remains firm and there is every indication that the volume of trade will continue to expand."

MOVE U. S. LAND OFFICES TO ROSWELL, 3 ARE DROPPED

Roswell, N. M., April 6.—Under a ruling made by the United States land commissioner, the land offices in Tucuman and Ft. Sumner will be discontinued and the records will be brought to the office in this city. This means that the territory now included under jurisdiction of the Roswell district will be enlarged to almost twice its present size and will extend from the southern boundary of Lea county, taking in part of Union county as a northern boundary and including practically all of eastern New Mexico. It is also reported here that the offices at Clayton will be discontinued and the records of that office transferred to Santa Fe.

On April 15, W. G. Cowan and Kenneth Foster, receiver and register of the land and office, who have held the position for eight years, are slated to go to make room for the new Republican appointees, A. Y. Flowers, of Lake Arthur, has the Republican endorsement for register and Jack Miller and Will Staehard, of this city, are in the race for receiver.

NEW MEXICO'S TAX PAYING ABILITY

(State Taxpayers' Association Bul.) Some statistics have recently appeared, intending to show that New Mexico's per capita of taxes levied is low when compared with other states. For instance, it is shown that Nevada has a per capita tax of $65.35 while New Mexico's levy is $31.16 per capita. The taxpayers' Association, however, insists that it is easier for Nevada to pay $65.35 per capita than for New Mexico to pay $31.16 per capita. In support of this contention, reference is made to the Internal Revenue statistics. In Nevada, for instance, for the fiscal year 1921, there was collected as income and profits taxes for the government an average of $15.60 per capita, while in New Mexico for the same year the per capita collections amounted to only $4.92.

As all taxes are paid from income, the conclusion is that New Mexico, on the basis of income, has a "tax-paying ability" less than one-third of Nevada. In other words Nevada's per capita of taxes levied is a little more than twice that of New Mexico, but Nevada's tax-paying ability is more than three times that of New Mexico.

In the table below is given in Col. I, the per capita of internal revenue receipts; in Col. II, the per capita of taxes levied; and in Col. III, the ratio of per capita receipts to per capita taxes.

States	I	II	III
	Per Capita	Capita levied to	Ratio
	received	rec.
Arizona	$16.22	$12.58	3.67
Colorado	41.97	23.41	1.35
Connecticut	35.44	51.26	.76
Florida	15.25	17.01	1.07
Iowa	41.41	19.69	2.87
Illinois	32.02	59.97	.55
Indiana	38.04	26.67	1.43
Iowa	41.12	15.70	2.58
Kansas	55.15	21.97	1.76
Louisiana	22.00	27.31	.85
Massachusetts	24.80	67.18	.36
Michigan	38.28	74.25	.55
Minnesota	48.33	23.56	1.48
Mississippi	38.50	5.02	7.67
Nebraska	40.40	18.27	2.21
Nevada	63.35	15.60	4.10
N. Hampshire	24.53	23.29	1.48
N. Hampshire	34.52	23.29	1.48
New Mexico	31.16	4.92	6.23
N. Dakota	49.45	4.71	10.50
Ohio	25.68	49.60	.72
Oregon	52.40	25.83	1.48
S. Carolina	17.60	15.99	1.04
S. Dakota	55.61	7.93	7.01
Vermont	25.25	18.04	1.40
Washington	53.59	25.85	1.99
Wyoming	37.07	16.71	2.22

According to the foregoing the indication is that North Dakota, Mississippi, South Dakota and New Mexico have the heaviest burdens when the "tax paying ability" is concerned.

FOREST SERVICE MAKES PAYMENT TO NEW MEXICO

State Receives $21,500.00 As Its Share of Proceeds From National Forest Business for 1921.

Albuquerque, April 3.—Complete payment of the 25 per cent of the receipts of the national forests in New Mexico for the last year was made a few days ago when a voucher was received by the state treasurer from the department for $29,000. The first payment of 1921, amounting to $23,500 was made by the forest service last September.

The delay in making the complete payment was caused by the deferred grazing fee payments which were authorized by the forest service upon the petition of the stockmen of the southwest. Grazing fee payments were extended several months in order to give the stockmen a chance to pass through the readjustment period before having to meet the land rental bills.

The $21,500 paid the state not only includes the state's share of the grazing fees, but also of such other revenues as timber sales. The amount for the past year which the state received is about $26,000 less than normal. This is mainly due to the timber slump, most of the state mills not being in operation last year.

The money received by the state from the forest service is apportioned to the 19 counties in New Mexico which have national forest lands within their boundaries. The funds are used for road and school purposes in the various counties.

EDUCATIONAL NEWS

(By Mrs. M. L. Blaney)

The "Attendance Banner" will be awarded to Miss Lizzie Virden's room at White Oaks for two weeks and then sent to Mrs. Cora Curry of Glencoe for two weeks, as the average for both schools was 96 per cent attendance for March.

The State Eighth Grade Promotion Examination will be held April 20-21st. Questions will be mailed to teachers one week before the date of the examination. Teachers are requested to follow instructions carefully, packing and mailing papers as directed. The returns are classed as first class matter and must be sealed and postage paid accordingly. All Eighth Grade pupils will be expected to remain in school until the close of the term even though they have taken the State Examination and received a passing grade. Your work is not complete until the close of school.

We trust that the wave of the "flu" which has been passing over us is exhausted and that the schools will be able to continue without further interruption. Teachers are requested to follow instructions of the "Health Chart" sent out by the State Health Department.

The County Board of Education has control of all the rural districts and will be glad to consider any suggestions offered for the improvement of such schools. Changing districts, consolidation and the establishing of High Schools is the business of said board, therefore apply to them for assistance.

The entertainment given by the Carrizozo High School Glee Club was a success and such entertainments should be encouraged by the public, as they are of such quality as cannot but help benefit the young people of any community.

It is the business of the teachers of the county to see that the school property is taken care of. The practice of leaving the windows open, doors unlocked and open, thus exposing the interior to the weather is to incur undue expense.

As announced at the Lincoln County Teachers' Association at Capitan, the Lincoln County Teachers' Institute has been waived in favor of the Summer School. If your certificate expires Sept. 1, 1922, do the Reading Circle work or the Summer School for renewal.

Phipps—Massie

Last week, Shirely Phipps and Mrs. Nora Massie sprung a complete surprise on their friends by taking a train for El Paso and being quietly married at one of the local churches in the border city.

The groom is in the employ of the E. P. & S. W. in the work of bridge construction. He enjoys the confidence of the company and the friendship of all with whom he is associated. The bride has been one of the teachers in our schools for several years, and admirers here are many, all of whom wish the newlyweds the greatest measure of happiness in their new life.

Wets Plan to Fight 18th Amendment

New York, April 6.—Leaders of the association against the prohibition amendment, had completed today arrangements for a membership rally to be held tonight in Carnegie hall. Announcements of the meeting detailed the purposes of the association as follows:

"To get the Volstead act out of the law and keep it out. To oppose the passage of similar tyrannical laws and to enforcement of the 18th amendment, so long as it remains in force, left to the people of the several states under the concurrent clause.

"To work patiently, lawfully and patriotically for the repeal of the prohibition amendment and to preserve the constitution of the United States from further mutilation by an organized fanatical minority. Pending the accomplishment of the above program to favor and encourage obedience to the law as is now effective."

New Lumber Firm

The Western Lumber Company, Inc., successors to the Foxworth-Galbraith Co., have stepped into the advertising arena with the opening of springtime. Messrs. Stewart & English, who compose the new firm, are too well known for square dealing business methods for us to offer any praise in their behalf. These gentlemen bought out the old firm with a strong faith in the advancement of Carrizozo, the foundation of which must be building. They are worthy and deserving. Consult them when in need of estimates or advice.

On Two Occasions

Mrs. J. B. French entertained the two Carrizozo bridge clubs this week, one on Tuesday, the other on Thursday. Bridge was played exclusively on each occasion after which the hostess served refreshments.

Wireless Sets to Give News to Ruidoso Campers

Roswell, April 5.—Wireless telephone receiving sets will be installed this summer on the Ruidoso and in the Capitan mountains at Pine Lodge for the convenience of campers. In this way, news from Roswell and other sections can be received both in the Ruidoso valley and at Pine Lodge.

Each night local and telegraphic news will be sent out from the Roswell distributing station and in this manner summer campers in the mountains may get the latest news. Tests were recently made in the Capitan mountains and concerts from Denver and Kansas City were received, together with news from Roswell.

Walter LaFleur's Birthday

Last Tuesday evening Walter LaFleur, Jr., entertained the members of his school class, the occasion being his thirteenth birthday. Different kinds of games were played, songs and recitations rendered after which refreshments were served. Those present were: Jeanne Riley, Betty Barnhart, Vera Richard, Louise Sweet, Lorena Dinwiddie, Mary Louise Tuton; Stacy Rustin, Fred Tuton, William Moss, Raymond Lackland, Raymond Sterling, Albert Roberts, Miller French, Fred Lalone, Kastler Taylor, Donald McLean, Don English, Roy Richard, Merlin Climer.

Radio Ghosts In Big Boiler; Negro Hikes

Greenville, Ala., April 6.—While cleaning the boiler in the plant of W. T. Smith Lumber Co. of Chapman near here, E. Cooper and Bert Harrison with a negro named Soap Monroe, who were inside it, heard a band playing "Dixie." Another tune also was heard but the men were unable to ascertain what it was. The notes were distinct and audible, they say, coming down the metal smoke stack.

The phenomenon is not understood generally but it is supposed that the metal smoke stack acted as a receiver, the guy wires being the antennae, and a wireless radio concert which was being sent out was received. No music was being played in that vicinity. The negro being of a superstitious character, could not grasp the situation and made a hasty getaway.

The Parliamentary Study Class of the Carrizozo Woman's Club will meet with Mrs. Ellen V. Grutcher on the evening of April 15, at 7:30.

Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Kemper left yesterday for Silver City and the Mogollon district where the Dr. will supervise the work of cattle dipping. They will be absent about six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Emerson of Nogal were in town last Saturday.

Senator E. M. Brickley spent Saturday and Sunday in the Ruidoso country.

GEOLOGIST FAVORS HUECO BASIN SITE AS OIL WELL TEST

(By L. H. Davis, in El Paso Times.) Prof. Fayette A. Jones, of Albuquerque, N. M., noted geologist and former president of the State School of Mines in Socorro, N. M., is registered at Hotel del Norte, having returned Monday from a visit through the region east of the Huelco mountains and west of the Guadalupe mountains, in the northern part of Hudspeth county, Texas. His investigation was in the interest of eastern oil people and directed particularly to the section around the test well of the Cactus Oil company, southwest of Orange, N. M., and Crow Flat.

In a general way he intimates that he found the field a promising one for exploration for oil. On his return he met G. W. Thiesen, the president, and stopped at the well of the Huelco Basin Oil company, and states that he regards the site well chosen and that if the well is completed to proper depth that it should bring in a production, as the structural features are very favorable for oil.

The proximity of this well to El Paso, he says, makes this test of great importance to this city and would, if production is obtained, be invaluable to the future of El Paso. He intimated that the parties for whom he is making the geological examination and report may during the spring and summer start drilling operations in the field visited by him.

Prof. Jones returned recently from an extended year and a half trip through South America, visiting nearly every part of that continent in the interest of a California company. He explored the oil fields of Columbia and Venezuela.

"South America is a continent of wonderful resources," he says, "it is a virgin field much like the western part of the United States was about 60 years ago. Nearly every American and foreigner who went to that country and stayed with it has made a fortune. It is the best country for young men I know of. If I were a younger man I would go there right away and live."

"The South American countries are peaceful, and foreigners are welcome and protected. The so-called revolutions we often hear and read about are small affairs and don't amount to anything serious. South America is the coming field for enterprising Americans and the wonder is that we have not cultivated closer intercourse and trade with it."

Prof. Jones is the author of several works on the mineral resources of New Mexico, with which he is probably the best informed man in the country. He will revisit the Huelco field again soon.

N. M. WILLING TO ACCEPT A WATER ALLOTMENT

Mechem Says State Stands Ready to Abandon Her Previous Contention For Unrestricted Use.

Denver, Colo., April 5.—Governor M. C. Mechem of New Mexico, in a statement to the Colorado river commission today declared New Mexico was willing to abandon her previous contention for unrestricted use of the waters of the river and, in the interest of compromise, was willing to accept an allotment of water based on acre feet.

"If a compact is desirable—and we all admit it is—it is a reflection on us if we cannot reach a decision satisfactory to all," he declared.

Presents a Formula.

Governor Mechem presented a formula for consideration of the commission. In it, estimating the total flow at Laguna dam, which is above the Gila river, at 16,400,000 acre feet, Governor Mechem outlined the upper states' requirements as follows: Wyoming 1,460,000 acre feet; Colorado, 3,340,000; Utah 3,000,000; Nevada, 240,000. Deducting these allowances from the total flow and allowing for a return flow to the river from the upper states of 30 per cent, Governor Mechem estimated the net surplus from the river, after the demands of the upper states had been taken care of at 3,324,800 acre feet.

Governor Mechem proposed allotments for the lower states as: Arizona, 1,765,000 acre feet and California, 3,376,500 acre feet. With the return flow from Arizona, Governor Mechem estimated that after all allotments had been taken care of there still would be available 3,517,300 acre feet of water for Mexico from the Colorado river.

"The making of a pact between the seven states interested in the water of the Colorado river," said the governor, "has great advantages even if some of us must yield some of our rights. There can be no contract unless there is mutual yielding of all for the good of all."

Charles A. May, state engineer of New Mexico, and Frank Burdick of San Juan, N. M., outlined irrigation conditions in New Mexico for the commission.

Emmett D. Boyle, governor of Nevada, who has been accompanying the commission, declared Nevada's interest in the development of the Colorado river was as great as any other state, because the development of power from the river would bring a large increase of wealth to Nevada and result in great development in that state. He paid a tribute to Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission and declared while "diffERENCE of political philosophy may exist, in the ultimate analysis the good sound principles of western fairness will prevail."

Hoover Can Be Trusted. "Herbert Hoover," he declared, "can be trusted to deprive no posterity of its heritage. Some states may have to give up some of their dreams of realization, so that men, women and children in other states may not have to have a cloud of little on that which they have won as the result of great effort."

Closing the hearing, Chairman Hoover declared the problem of the Colorado river waters was "one of great conflicting views." He urged that there be "co-operation in the west to put down the extremist viewpoint" so that a compact acceptable to the seven states in the basin, might be agreed upon.

Enough Water For All. In a statement before the hearing began the chairman declared: "There is enough water for all in the river. The problem of the commission is to secure a compact that will satisfy all the states and prevent them from having to go into the court over the waters of the Colorado river."

The commission left this afternoon for Cheyenne, where hearings will be held tomorrow morning.

BOON TO MANKIND

Science of Canning Food of Immense Practical Value.

Few Discoveries or Inventions, It is Pointed Out, Have Been of Greater Benefit to Humanity.

Though less spectacular, the science of canning was a discovery only equaled in importance by such inventions as the telephone, the wireless and the airplane.

Pickling or drying were the only methods of preserving foods that were known up until about a century ago. In 1785 the necessities of war prompted the French government to offer a reward of 12,000 francs for a better method of food preservation.

This discovery has added immeasurably to the wealth of the world, because it has meant that at times of harvest the surplus crops, which it is impossible to get to market before they spoil, have not had to go to waste, but have been preserved for use at other periods of the year when Nature is producing less and when, but for the science of canning, we would have to subsist on much less attractive fare.

But the process of canning not only benefits the world at large; it has very definite advantages for each of us as individuals. For that much-talked-of Mr. Average-Man-in-the-Street and his Housewife-in-the-Kitchen, "canning" eliminates the seasons. In effect, it "makes summer last all the year 'round," and in midwinter brings us the crops of midsummer.

And canning also eliminates space or sectionalism, for those of us who live in the interior may still enjoy oysters, crabs, lobsters and other sea foods whenever we wish; and those of us who live in the eastern states may nevertheless have access to the delicious fruit crops of California and Hawaii. And so on the world over, The pioneer in Alaska, and miner in the mountains of South America, the explorer in the Antarctic, men and women everywhere on the fringes of civilization, all have at hand—thanks to the can—the same wholesome appetizing foods that are served to the most exacting guest in an exclusive New York hotel.

Because the science of canning has so done away with time and space—with respect to food—the can has come to be known as a modern genie of the home. The housewife whose pantry shelves are well-stocked with canned foods is able to choose her meal from whatever corner of the world her whim suggests.

Sacrifice Worthy of the Name. The word "sacrifice" gains new meaning when we think of the story that is told about the three hundred children of an Armenian orphanage.

So small amount of food had reached the American relief workers in charge of the orphanage that they could give almost nothing even to the three hundred. Each child got only a small piece of bread and a few walnuts twice a day. Of course the food did not nearly satisfy their hunger, but it was enough to keep them alive.

When the children learned that there were hundreds more in the nearby villages who could receive nothing at all they voluntarily gave up the walnuts. Before each meal they dropped their nuts into a sack in one corner of the room, and when it was full some one of them would carry it to the frantic crowd in the street. Could there be a more generous sacrifice than that?—Youth's Companion.

Airplanes' Good Record.

Probably the most remarkable thing about civil aviation in the past year has been that not one passenger has been killed, or even seriously injured, in a British airplane throughout 1921. And this, although during the summer, between 400 and 500 people a week were crossing the channel by air, and although well over 1,000 a week were being taken up for joy rides in this country. For this we have to thank not only the skill of the pilots and airplane mechanics, but the aeronautical inspection department and the controller of aerodromes and licenses, who have made sure that only first class men and machines have been allowed to carry passengers.—London Opinion.

Easter Egg of Death.

The city of Paris, a few years before the war presented the late czar of Russia with an Easter egg containing jewels to the value of $10,000. The same year one of his revolutionary subjects bent him an egg stuffed with dynamite, timed to explode at a certain hour. The weight of the egg aroused suspicion, and a tragedy was averted by the secret police opening the egg and discovering its contents.

Paris Taxes Abitute.

The higher above the pavement Parisians live the higher taxes they pay. In place of the unpopular levy on pigs, the hair carpets and elevators of apartment houses will be taxed. The more stair carpet or elevator you use the more you pay.—Scientific American.

DORA YOCUM.

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decorative Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil War, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward, the boy was to remember his words with startling vividness. In the schoolroom, a few years afterward, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislike for arithmetic, "Recitations" and German is in sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness in the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady who in his bitterness, he denigrates as "Teacher's Pet."

CHAPTER VII

He never saw her again. She sent him a "picture post" from Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, which his father disengaged from the family mail, one morning at breakfast, and considerably handed to him without audible comment. Upon it was written, "Oh, you Ramsey!" This was the last of Milha.

Just before school opened, in the autumn, Sadie Clews made some revelations. "Milha did like you," said Sadie. "After that time you jumped in the creek to save her she liked you better than any boy in town, and I guess if it wasn't for her cousin Milt up in Chicago she would of liked you the best anywhere. I guess she did, anyway, because she hadn't seen him for about a year then."

"Well, that afternoon she went away I was over there and took in everything that was going on, only she made no promise on my word of honor I wouldn't even tell Albert. They didn't get any wire from the uncle about the touring car; it was her cousin Milt that jumped on the train and came down and fixed it all up for Milha to go on the trip, and everything. You see, Ramsey, she was turned back a couple of times in school before she came in our class and I don't know how old she is and she don't look old yet, but I'm pretty sure she's at least eighteen, and she might be over. I didn't think such a great deal of this Milt's looks myself, but he's anyway twenty-one years old, and got a good position, and all their family seem to think he's just fine! It wasn't his father that took in the touring car on the debt, like she said she was writing you; it was Milt himself. He started out in business when he was only thirteen years old, and this trip he was getting up for his father and mother and Milha was the first vacation he ever took. Well, of course she wouldn't like my tellin' you, but I can't see the harm of it, now everything's all over."

"All—all over? You mean Milha's going to be married?"

"She already is," said Sadie. "They got married at her Aunt Jess and Uncle Pur's house, up in Chicago, last Thursday. Yes, sir; that quiet, little Milha's a regular old married woman by this time, I expect, Ramsey!"

When he got over the shock, which was not until the next day, one predominant feeling remained: It was a gloomy pride—a pride in his proven maturity. He was old enough, it appeared, to have been the same thing as engaged to a person who was now a Married Woman. His manner thenceforth showed an added trace of seriousness and self-consideration.

Having recovered his equipoise and something more, he entirely forgot that moment of humble admiration he had felt for Dora Yocum on the day of his flattest prostration. When he saw her sitting in the classroom, smiling brightly up at the teacher, the morning of the school's opening in the autumn, all his humility had long since vanished and she appeared to him not otherwise than as the scholar whose complete proficiency had always been so irksome to him.

"Look at her!" he muttered to himself. "Same old Teacher's Pet!"

Now and then, as the days and seasons passed, and Dora's serene progress continued, never checked or even slowed, there stirred within him some lingerings of the old determination to "show" her; and he would conjure up a day-dream of Dora in loud lamentation, while he led the laughter of the spectators. But gradually his feeling about her came to be merely a dull oppression. He was tired of having to look at her (as he stated it) and he thought the Lord that the time wouldn't be so long now until he'd be out of that old school, and then all he'd have to do he'd just take care never to walk by her house. It was easy enough to use some other street when he had to go down town.

"The good old class of Nineteen-Fourteen is about gone," he said to Fred Mitchell, who was still his most intimate friend when they reached the senior year. "Yes, sir; it's held together a good many years, Fred, but after June it'll be busted plum up, and I hope nobody starts a move to have any reunions. There's a good many members of the old class that I can stand and there's some I can't, but there's one I just won't! If we ever did call a reunion, that ole Yocum girl would start in right away and run the whole shebang, and that's where I'd resign! You know, Fred, the thing I think is the one biggest benefit of graduating from this ole school? It's never seen' Dora Yocum again."

This was again his theme as he sat by the same friend's side, in the rear row of the class at Commencement, listening to the delivery of the Valedictory. "Thinks she's just sooblime, don't she?" he whispered morosely. "She wouldn't trade with the President of the United States right now. Never mind! Just about a half-an-hour more and that's the last of you, ole girl! Yes, sir, Fred; one thing we can feel pretty good over: this is where we get through with Dora Yocum!"

Ramsey and Fred had arranged to room together at Greenfield, the seat of the state university, and they made the short journey in company the following September. They arrived hilariously, anticipating pleasurable excitements in the way of "fraternity" pledgings and initiations, encounters with sophomores, class meetings, and elections; and, also, they were no absolutely without interest in the matter of girls, for the state university was co-educational, and it was but natural to expect in so broad a field, all new to them, a possible vision of something rather thrilling. They whispered cheerfully of all these things during the process of matriculation, and signed the registrar's book on a fresh page; but when Fred had written his name under Ramsey's and blotted it, he took the liberty of turning over the leaf to examine some of the autographs of their future classmates, written on the other side. Then he uttered an exclamation, more droll than dolorous, though it affected to be wholly the latter; for the shock to Fred was by no means so painful as it was to his friend.

Ramsey leaned forward and read the name indicated by Fred's forefinger.

DORA YOCUM.

When they got back to their pleasant quarters at Mrs. Meigs', facing the campus, Ramsey was still unable to talk of anything except the lamentable discovery; nor were his companion's burlesquing efforts to console him of great avail, though Fred did become serious enough to point out that a university was different from a high school.

"It's not like havin' to use one big room as a headquarters, you know, Ramsey. Everything's all split up, and she might happen not be in a single one of your classes."

"You don't know my luck!" the afflicted boy protested. "I wish I'd gone to Harvard, the way my father wanted me to. Why, this is just the worst nansance I ever struck! You'll see! She'll be in everything there is, just the way she was back home."

He appeared to be corroborated by the events of the next day, when they attended the first meeting to organize the new class. The masculine element predominated; but Dora Yocum was elected vice president. "You see?" Ramsey said. "Didn't I tell you? You see what happens?"

But after that she ceased for a time to intrude upon his life, and he admitted that his harassment was less grave than he had anticipated. There were about five hundred students in the freshman class; he seldom saw her, and when he did it was not more than a distant glimpse of her on one of the campus paths, her thoughtful head bent over a book as she hurried to a classroom. This was bearable; and in the flattering agitations of being sought, and even hunted, by several "fraternities" simultaneously desirous of his becoming a sworn Brother, he almost forgot her. After a hazardous month the roommates fell into the arms of the last "frat" to seek them, and having undergone an evening of outrage which concluded with touching rhetoric and an oath taken at midnight, they proudly wore jeweled symbols on their breasts and were free to turn part of their attention to other affairs, especially the Affairs of the Eleven.

However, they were instructed by the older brethren of their Order, whose duty it was to assist in the proper maneuvering of their young charges, that, although support of the "varity teams" was important, they must neglect neither the spiritual nor the intellectual by-products of undergraduate doings. Therefore they became members of the college Y. M. C. A. and of the "Lumen Society."

According to the charter which it had granted itself, the "Lumen Society" was an "Organization of male and female students"—so "advanced" was this university—"for the development of the powers of debate and oratory, intellectual and sociological progress, and the discussion of all matters relating to philosophy, metaphysics, literature, art, and current events." A statement so formidable was not without a hushing effect upon Messrs. Milholland and Mitchell; they went to their first "Lumen" meeting in a state of fear and came away little reassured.

"I couldn't get up there," Ramsey declared. "I couldn't stand up there before all that crowd and make a speech, or debate in a debate, to save my soul and gizzard! Why, I'd just keel right over and hat to be carried out."

"Well, the way I understand it," said Fred, "we can't get out of it. The seniors in the 'frat' said we had to join, and they said we couldn't resign, either, after we had joined. They said we just had to go through it, and after a while we'd get used to it and not mind it so much."

"I will!" Ramsey insisted. "I couldn't any more stand up there on my feet and get to spoutin' about sociology and the radical metempsychosis of the metempsychal boozium than I could fly a flyin' machine. Why, I—"

"Oh, that wasn't anything," Fred interrupted. "The only one that talked like that, he was that Blenkins; he's a tutor, or something, and really a member of the faculty. Most of the others just kind of blab-blahed around, and what any of 'em tried to get off their chests hardly amounted to terribly much."

"I don't care. I couldn't do it at all!"

"Well, the way it looks to me," Fred observed, "we simply got to! From what they tell me, the freshmen got to do more than anybody. Every other Friday night, it's all freshmen and nothin' else. You get a postal card on Monday morning in your mail, and it says 'Assignment' on it and—and then it's got written underneath what you had to do the next Friday night—oration or debate, or maybe just read from some old book or something. I guess we got to stand up there and try, anyway."

"All right," said Ramsey. "If they want me to commit suicide they can send me one of their ole 'Assignments.' I won't need to commit suicide, though, I guess. All I'll do, I'll just fall over in a fit, and stay in it."

And, in truth, when he received his first "Assignment," one Monday morning, a month later, he seemed in a fair way to fulfill his prophecy. The attention of his roommate, who sat at a window of their study, was attracted by sounds of strangulation. "What on earth's the matter, Ramsey?"

"Look! Look at this!" Fred took the card and examined it with an amazement gradually merging into a pleasure altogether too perceptible:

ASSIGNMENT
Twelve-Minute Debate, Class of 1918.
Subject, Resolved: That Germany is both legally and morally justified in her invasion of Belgium.
(Debaters are notified that each will be held strictly to the following schedule: Affirmative, 4 min., first. Negative, 4 min., first. Affirm., 2 min., second. Neg., 2 min., second.)
Affirmative, R. MILHOLLAND, '18
Negative, D. YOCUM, '18.

The "Lumen Society" Debate, R. Milholland vs. D. Yocum.

Bond Issue Supported; One "Doubting Thomas"

The election on Tuesday passed off quietly, the Citizen's Ticket being elected with little or no opposition. The vote on Mayor and Town Trustees resulted as follows: Taylor, 87; H. Lutz, 1; L. B. Crawford, 2; T. E. Kelley, 3; Town Trustees, Richard, 94; G. T. McQuillen, 91; Fred Lalone, 91; C. H. Lutz, 88; T. E. Kelley, 1; E. M. Brickley, 1. The Bond Issue, thanks to the good judgment of the property owners, would have passed unanimously, had it not been for one vote cast either by mistake or else the proud possessor of the weapon used it against himself and his home town. However, we feel a sense of relief in the belief that the voter made an error; we believe firmly that he, or she, fully intended to vote in a manner that would make it unanimous. In the election of Mayor and Town Trustees, the people expressed themselves in a decisive manner and backed up the ticket nominated at the mass meeting as shown by the small amount of scratching done. The new Mayor and the Council will have the support of The Outlook in every movement for the public good, and we are glad to know that the people rallied to their support in the same manner as they did the Bond Issue.

program at the Baptist church
Friday afternoon and evening.
They left on No. 3 Saturday afternoon for Alamogordo, where they were to take part in an all-day program of similar nature.

Secretary J. W. Bruner of Albuquerque was not able to make the long auto trip from Roswell, hence was not present at the Rally at the Baptist church last Friday. He had a very serious operation recently.

Rev. J. W. Evans, pastor of the Baptist church at Capitan,

Hardings to Visit Alaska

THE GLACIER

HARDING'S SON

Harding & Mrs. Harding

FIELD NEAR JUNEAU

GOVERNMENT RAILROAD

THE President and Mrs. Harding have planned a vacation trip to Alaska this summer. According to tentative plans made long in advance they will leave Washington in June and will not return until about the middle of September. It's quite a journey, you know, from Washington to Alaska and back and there are reasons why the President wants a month or more to look around in the Land of the Midnight Sun.

According to the original plans, the presidential party will go by special train to the Pacific coast, probably alighting at San Francisco. Seattle will be a port of call. Thence the route will be through the Inner Passage and on to Alaska. Presumably Juneau, the territorial capital, will be visited. Access to the government railroad, now practically completed, can be had either at Seward, its southern terminus, or at Anchorage, on Cook Inlet. The road runs from Howard straight north to Fairbanks, about 400 miles. Mayflower, the presidential yacht, is likely to be sent through the Panama canal to be of service somewhere along the coast.

A wonderful vacation trip, worth the while even of the President of the United States of America! And the President is known to be a lover of the beautiful and majestic in nature and a loyal friend of our national parks and of such scenic enterprises as the National Park-to-Park highway. Incidentally an effort is being made to get the President to visit on this trip one or more of the national parks and the proposed "President's Forest," on the North Rim of the Grand canyon.

In Alaska—"The Frozen North" we used to call it—the President will have a chance to see various things that are far out of the ordinary. There isn't space here to catalogue them, but here are a few that any man would be glad to see:

At Kotlikan a stream plunges through the center of the town. And in the stream is a salmon-run where millions of salmon are to be seen making incredible leaps to ascend the rapids.

Juneau is the Alaskan capital. There the President can take an automobile and drive 11 miles right to the edge of Mendenhall glacier. It'll be summer weather. He can pick flowers by the way. He'll see vegetable gardens, strawberry beds and wheat fields surrounded by giant forests and overtopped by peaks white with everlasting snow.

Of course the President will strike somewhere the Yukon—one of the great rivers of the world—and grandly scenic for the greater part of its 2,300 miles.

The President is likely to run across a big herd of reindeer anywhere from Point Barrow to the Alaskan peninsula. There are now about 225,000 of these "Camels of the Frozen North." One of these days we are likely to be eating reindeer meat instead of beef; several thousand carcasses are to be shipped in from Nome this year.

The seal rookeries on the Pribilof Islands should be worth seeing; there were 552,718 of these curious animals according to the seal census of 1920, and they are increasing, although Uncle Sam takes more than 25,000 seals a year.

Secretary Albert B. Fall of the Interior department, according to the tentative plans, is to accompany the President. Under the circumstances that is to be expected.

The Alaskan problem is one of many ramifications. The basic fact around which the various phases of the problem revolve is put in a nutshell by the question, "What's the matter with Alaska?"

"Too much government by too many bureaus too far away," is one of the many answers to the question. Though Alaska has a governor (Scott O. Hoon) and a legislature and a territorial delegate to congress (Dan A. Sutherland), it is really governed by Washington bureaus and apparently almost every executive department has a hand in that government.

You see, nearly all of Alaska's natural resources are directly or indirectly controlled by the federal government. About 90 per cent of the land is still in government ownership. Coal and oil development is under government leases. Water power and fisheries and timber are under federal control.

And the activities of the many bureaus of the several departments dovetail, overlap and conflict in a bewildering tangle. Owing to the divided authority and the limitations of statutes and appropriations, there would be tangle, even were co-operation the watchword of all concerned.

As the result Alaska has not been doing well. The population has fallen off. The commerce has decreased. The country is not being developed. The fisheries are not prospering. The postoffice department can hardly be said to function. Ocean transportation is inadequate and costly. With oil and coal of her own Alaska is importing both.

Various plans have been proposed for Alaska's relief. A number of bills has been introduced in congress. One bill would put the administration into the hands of an Alaskan development board. Another would give the President authority to reorganize all federal activities.

The Interior department has many activities in the governing of Alaska. It is Secretary Fall's idea that the way to develop Alaska is to vest absolute authority in the President and to concentrate in the Interior department all functions pertaining to the development and use of natural resources and to construction work.

Of course this idea is not at all pleasing to many officials of bureaus in other departments. Then there is another proposal which complicates the political phases of the situation: The proposed reorganization of all the executive departments. This reorganization would regroup the various bureau activities and bring about a wholesale transfer of bureaus among the departments. The contemplated transfer under this reorganization is that of the forest service in charge of the national forest from the Agricultural department to the Interior department.

ending June 30, 1921. He goes into detail and says generally, among other things:

"The report of the governor for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1921, emphasizes, as the paramount need of Alaska, liberalized laws and more flexible rules and regulations thereunder, with a concentration of authority and responsibility and an administration co-ordinated and brought closer home. Capital and people are required to develop the resources of the territory and until it is made easier for these two necessary factors to obtain a foothold the territory will not progress. The difficulties of administration are great owing to distances and inadequate transportation and mail facilities. Under the present long-range system of government individual initiative has been baited and the pioneer spirit nipped. To promote efficiency by minimizing relays, the governor earnestly recommends that the administration be centralized at Juneau, the territorial capital, to the fullest extent possible, while governmental supervision is maintained at Washington. To further this end, after he proposed consolidation of bureaus under one departmental head, he suggests that each essential bureau station a representative at Juneau, empowered to act upon all matters not affecting public policy. Obstructions met by capital seeking investment and by people in quest of homesteads have been lessened somewhat in recent years, but by no means removed; both capital and people, if it is urged, are entitled to a fairer chance than they have ever had in the past.

"In conclusion, the governor submits the following recommendations:

"A co-ordinated and simplified system of government, with bureaus having jurisdiction in Alaska consolidated under one departmental head at Washington.

The stationing at Juneau of an authorized agent of each essential bureau exercising administrative functions in Alaska with power to act upon matters not affecting federal policy.

"A centralization of executive and administrative business in Alaska to the fullest extent consistent with continued governmental supervision. An appropriation of $200,000 to supplement the fund of $155,000 now available for the purpose of constructing an administrative and executive building at Juneau on ground owned by the government and to provide quarters therein for the territorial legislature and the Alaska historical library and museum.

"Liberal mining and land laws framed to meet distinctive and divergent conditions in Alaska and regulations under such laws that will tend to stimulate enterprise and encourage settlement.

"A colonization plan to be worked out in conjunction with the operation of the government railroad to bring under cultivation the vast area of agricultural land in the interior.

"Improved transportation facilities and more equitable freight rates, through private enterprise, if obtainable, and under governmental regulation and control, or, as an alternative, through the operation of vessels of the United States shipping board and the establishment of a mosquito fleet to meet local needs.

"More liberal mail subsidies to enable the postoffice department to function in Alaska and thus aid in the solution of transportation problems.

"Continued conservation and safeguarding of the fisheries of Alaska.

"Uninterrupted construction of roads and trails throughout the territory and necessary appropriations to carry forward the comprehensive plans of the Alaska road commission, working in co-operation with the territorial road commission; and the transfer of the work in the territory of the bureau of public roads to the Alaska road commission as a further step toward co-ordination, efficiency and economy.

"Allotment of a fair percentage, at least one-half of the net revenues derived from the Pribilof Islands, which are in Alaskan waters, to the general fund of the territory.

MARY GRAHAM BONNER
THE BARNYARD

"Cluck, cluck," said Mrs. Hen, "what a day it is for hens and chickens." "What do you mean by that, cock-a-doodle-do?" asked Mr. Rooster.

And Red Top, the Rooster said, "Cock-a-doodle-do, what in the world do you mean by that?"

"Well," said Mrs. Hen, "it is a very fine day, a beautiful day in fact, a regular summer day in reality. And so I say it is a day for hens and chickens, for hens and chickens are so fine and no day is too fine for them."

"What a lot of nonsense you talk," said Red Top. "Cock-a-doodle-do, what a lot of nonsense. Just because hens and chickens are fine you think they must have fine days for them?"

"Not exactly that," said Mrs. Hen. "I don't exactly mean that. But I mean that this day is very fine."

"The day is very fine whether you mean it is or not," said Red Top.

"Yes," agreed Mrs. Hen, "that is so. But it is fitting and suitable and right and proper that fine chickens and fine hens should have fine days for themselves once in awhile."

"So I say this is a regular day for hens and chickens."

"You didn't say 'regular' before," crowed Red Top.

"Then and now are different," said Red Top.

"But no matter," he added, "the whole idea is so silly. Do you mean to say that you think this day is fine just for the chickens and the hens?"

"I suppose you think that Mr. Sun and the South Wind and all the other creatures that helped to make this day so beautiful thought of nothing else but you and the chickens and the other hens. I suppose that is what you think?"

"And why not?" asked Mrs. Hen. "That is a nice, pleasant thought."

"But it hasn't any sense to it," said Red Top. "There are the flowers to be thought of and the farmer's crops and the boys and girls and the grown-up people and the trees and the birds. Gracious, it is a fine day for all of them and for all of us, not only for the hens and chickens."

"But I didn't say it was a nice day only for us," said Mrs. Hen. "I said it was a nice day for us, but not only for us. I don't mind if the other creatures share the nice day too. I don't mind in the least."

"It wouldn't make much difference if you did," said Red Top.

"Not a bit of difference, quack, quack," said Sir David Duck.

"Not a bit of difference, we can all share the day, quack, quack," said Mrs. David Duck.

"Not a bit of difference," said Mrs. Indian Runner Duck, and the little ducks all said,

"Quack, quack, it wouldn't make a scrap of difference."

"The children have all gone wild-strawberry hunting," said Dash, the dog, "and they're going to get lots and lots of delicious wild strawberries because their mother has promised to make a wild-strawberry short-cake. What a good time they will have and they have worn their very oldest clothes so it won't matter if they get stains or not."

"I wish my mother would make me something to eat, grant, grant," said Pinkie Pig.

"Yes," said Master Pink Pig, "I wish mine would too." "And I'd like it if my mother made me something to eat too," said Sammy Sausage.

"If only mine would think of me," said Brother Bacon, "squeal, squeal, if she only would."

"Oh dear," said Red Top, "every one is thinking of themselves. Well, 'Lots and Lots' I might as well too. I'll crow my finest crowing song too. I'll crow my finest crowing song and make them all jealous. But one thing at least I mean to say. And that is that this fine day isn't for one of us any more than it is for another. It is for all of us!"

"Cock-a-doodle-do, this fine day is for everyone of us!"

Flying Field Planned for Denver.
Denver.—Denver will soon have the largest and most modern flying field in the entire West, officials of the Colorado National Guard and the Forty-fifth air squadron have announced. The field will be equipped at a cost of more than $1,000,000, according to Lieut. J. P. Skediant, who is in charge of recruiting personnel for the organization.

Denver will thus become one of the largest air centers in the entire country, he said. "It is probable we will get an air mail service at an early date. A limited number of especially skilled airplane men will be employed at full time and at prevailing wages at the field. In addition, a complete organization for training purposes will be maintained. The organization will be divided into the following branches: Airplane motors, airplane mechanics, radio telephony and telegraphy, photography, area gunnery, meteorology, aerial navigation, map reading and general recognition, airplane instruments, personnel equipment and miscellaneous.

"Positively every man, officers as well as enlisted men, will be given all the flying observation training they desire."

The division covers several states adjacent to Colorado. It was declared that Denver offers the best flying advantages in the entire area.

Music Week May 15 to May 21.
Denver.—Indication that Denver Music week, May 15 to 21, will draw a large state attendance is coming through the enrollment of outside musical organizations in the various contests. The Greeley community chorus of 150 voices, one of the largest in the state, has notified officials of Denver Music week that it would compete in the choral contest. In addition, Greeley has promised to send its Philharmonic orchestra of forty pieces and it is considered probable, will also send the Greeley Municipal band.

Efforts to Save Armour Girl Fail.
Chicago.—Gwendolyn Armour, 6-year-old daughter of Philip D. Armour III, died from a form of septicemia after a week's illness, during which the millions of the Armour family, the skill of a dozen physicians and a dozen nurses and the resources of the entire city of Chicago were unavailing in the fight with death. Never in Chicago's history have such heroic efforts been made to save a life.

Jury Allows One Dollar Damages.
Chicago.—A jury decided here that Miss Ethel Jay French had been damaged to the extent of $1 by John Wood Brooks-Ladd's failure to marry. Ladd, who is said to be a member of a wealthy Boston family, was sued for $50,000. Miss Jay French declared he "had used her body and mind, and left her a physical wreck," despite his alleged promises to marry her. Both sides declare they are pleased with the verdict.

Guaranteed.
A timid middle-aged lady with an intense horror of dentists has her teeth put in first-class condition. The dentist informs her they will remain so the rest of her life without causing any more trouble.

Some thirty years or so later the lady has more trouble with her teeth and goes to the same dentist.

Old lady is delighted—I thought you told me I would never again have trouble with my teeth, so long as I lived.

Deaf, perplexed—I did, madam, but I never thought you were going to live forever.—Science and Invention.

Chicago.—A jury decided here that Miss Ethel Jay French had been damaged to the extent of $1 by John Wood Brooks-Ladd's failure to marry. Ladd, who is said to be a member of a wealthy Boston family, was sued for $50,000. Miss Jay French declared he "had used her body and mind, and left her a physical wreck," despite his alleged promises to marry her. Both sides declare they are pleased with the verdict.

Alaska Leads U. S. in Wealth

Largest Percentage of Income Tax Returns Come From That Territory.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA NEXT

Southern Agricultural States Are Well Down the List—New York Leads in Total Returns—Millionaires Decrease.

Washington.—Interesting bits of information relating to American incomes are included in the Treasury department's report covering returns for the calendar year 1919, which has just been made public.

Contrary to popular opinion the largest percentage of returns according to population was not from the wealthy industrial centers, but from Alaska and the District of Columbia. The territory's showing—17.17 per cent—was explained by the number of individuals operating their own business, while that of the District of Columbia—18.40 per cent—was believed to have resulted from the high ratio of government employees with salaries of more than $1,000 a year.

The southern agricultural states invariably were far down the list. Mississippi citizens made returns comprising only 1.33 per cent of the total population; North Carolina, 1.45 per cent, and Alabama, 1.74.

New York led in total returns with more than $5,000,000.

Sources of Revenue.

The analysis made by the treasury of the sources of income showed that those in the $1,000-$2,000 class obtained 77 per cent of their personal revenue from wages and salaries, 8.8 per cent from rents and royalties, 1.4 per cent from dividends and 4.7 from interest on investments.

This was contrasted with the taxpayers with incomes of $1,000,000 who drew only 1.34 per cent from salaries, 23 per cent from partnerships, 11 per cent from sale of real estate, stocks, etc., 6 per cent from rents and royalties, 38 per cent from dividends and 11 per cent from interest on investments.

Deductions permitted by the government also showed a wide variance, amounting to 7.47 per cent for incomes between $1,000 and $2,000 and 20.43 per cent for incomes of $2,000,000 and over.

Agriculture in Lead.

Agriculture and related industries comprised more than 81 per cent of those making returns, "trade" 20 per cent and public service 22.

Corporations reporting "no net income" totaled 110,644; the aggregate deficit in this class was $95,000,000.

Seventy-one per cent of the firms engaged in mining and quarrying declared they had made no profit in 1919, against 46 per cent in agriculture and related lines and 18 per cent in textiles.

Interesting changes in the financial status of certain taxpayers were noted in the report. One group of 581 each who reported incomes of under $100,000 in 1914 was reorganized in 1919 so that only 189 remained in that bracket; 189 returned incomes of up to $800,000, 205 up to $1,000,000 and eight over that figure.

On the other hand 57 selected taxpayers, who paid an income of $1,000,000 and over in 1914, dwindled progressively to 23 in 1919; eight of those "lost" dropped back to the $100,000 class.

IODINE LEADS AS ANTISEPTIC

Especially Preferred by Physicians Engaged in Industrial Work, Conference Board Finds.

New York.—Iodine still holds first place as a skin and wound disinfectant in surgical technique, particularly in the industrial medical field. Such objections as have been raised to it were against the danger of burns and the discomfort it causes rather than against its efficiency as a sterilizing agent. In spite of the great popularity attained by chlorin compounds in the treatment of war wounds, iodine still holds its general popularity and favor in medical circles in the treatment of cuts and various injuries in civil life.

Air "Chatter" Now Popular

Wireless Telephone Receiving Stations Are Rapidly Growing in Number.

MILLIONS BY END OF YEAR

Washington Keeps No Record of Receiving Stations, but Officials Estimate Huge Number Will Soon Be in Existence.

Washington.—Before the end of 1922 there will be installed throughout the United States a minimum of 1,000,000 receiving apparatus to pick up the "chatter" that is being broadcasted daily through the air by radio, so government officials in Washington estimate.

The Husband Given a Washday Sentence

Judge George E. Halloway of Washington, W. Va., established a precedent when he sentenced James Alexander to duty at his wife's washday. Alexander was arrested on his wife's complaint that he failed to support her and that he was dependent on her earnings from washing clothes. Arraigned in court, Alexander pleaded lack of employment and was sentenced to help his wife do the washing until he found steady employment.

ment of cuts and various injuries in civil life.

The Conference Board of Physicians in Industry, which acts as adviser to the National Industrial Conference board, 10 East Thirty-ninth street, on medical problems in industry, recently investigated the extent in which iodine is used as a wound disinfectant in industrial work, the strength in which it is used and the method of preliminary cleansing of the wound before the application of iodine and dressings.

Replies were received from 65 physicians, all of whom were doing industrial work or surgery closely allied to industry. Forty-five replied that they used a solution of five per cent strength or less and twenty used U. S. P. or greater strength. A few industrial physicians said they did not use iodine, or only sparingly. These men preferred such disinfectants as dichloramin-T, picric acid, Dakin's solution and similar products. The objection to iodine was that it caused burns too frequently.

Several physicians emphasized the importance of having the skin perfectly dry before iodine is applied.

SHOULD DO THAT, AT LEAST

Ex-Judge Landis Advises to Elderly Men Who Had Forgotten Agony—Lengthy Prison Term.

In trying cases Judge Landis had a style all his own. Of all men he hated a liar most and some of his best shafts of wit were directed at men so caught lying on the stand. One of his best examples of ready wit occurred about twelve years ago, when he was sentencing a group of defendants for olcomargarine "moonshining." One defendant was a man past sixty years of age.

"Your sentence," said the judge pointing his finger at the old man, "will be five years."

"Why—why, I can't serve that. I'll be dead before I can get through a sentence like that," declared the old man.

The judge leaned back for a second, then a twinkle appeared in his eye. "Well," he said, leaning forward confidentially, "well, perhaps you can't, but do the best you can, anyway."

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs. It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses. It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Advertisement.

Not Flattering

I am unused to children and besides knowing no lullaby songs I have no voice to carry a tune. I offered to care for a neighbor's child one afternoon. The child grew tired and asked me to rock her and sing. I began bravely but she stopped me and said: "You don't need to sing, I dear. Your songs make me wider awake."—Exchange.

MOTHER! CLEAN

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

So Different From Her Own.

"I do enjoy those films with children in 'em," remarked a tired-looking little woman. "When the children rump around on the screen they don't make a particle of noise."

A UNION OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Healthy Housewife—Happy Home

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Helped Form Many

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.

Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that makes their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.

Had Nervous Spells

Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been going down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM HEARSH, Horatio, Arkansas.

Boxwood Hard to Obtain.

In this country we once used tons of the Turkish and Persian boxwood for engraving, but this finely textured wood is now difficult to obtain and very high priced. Ordinarily we use 3,000 tons of it annually.

Watch Cuticura Improve Your Skin.

On rising and retiring gently smear the face with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. It is wonderful what Cuticura will do for poor complexion, dandruff, itching and red rough hands.—Advertisement.

Advice is like castor oil—It is one thing to prescribe it and another to take it.

Reading, Pa.—"I was a nervous wreck and could hardly do my housework. I always had to have help or I would never have got it done. Through the advice of friends I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my nerves and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier for my blood and I am feeling fine and doing my work all alone. I can recommend these medicines to any one, for they certainly helped me. I suffered for five years and Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines pulled me through."—Mrs. WALTER U. STOVER, 1218 Mulberry St., Reading, Pa.

Recommends the Vegetable Compound

New Orleans, La.—"I have found relief from my troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I praise it wherever I go. I could not do my work as it should be done for I would sometimes have to lie down because of the pains I had. A friend induced me to take your Vegetable Compound and I have got great results from it. I keep house and am able to do all my own work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine."—Mrs. T. FOWLER, 1916 N. Derbigny St., New Orleans, La.

The "Strike" is On.

The customer called the waiter. "There's a chunk of wood in my sausage," said he. "I expect to be served with the dog, but I'll be hanged if I'll eat the kennel, too."

Wales and His Fine Indian Tiger

The prince of Wales' first big game hunting expedition to the wilds of Nepal on the southern slope of the Himalayas, India, was of unusual success; his royal highness bagging as fine a specimen of a tiger as the best of professional hunters ever hoped for. Like all genuine sportsmen the prince proceeded to have his picture taken with his prize.

Developing Radio Operators.

Washington has never witnessed anything like the way the wireless telephone has caught the imagination of the American people. All such matters come under D. B. Carson, commissioner of navigation in the Department of Commerce, Washington, who is literally deluged with applications for licenses for sending stations, especially the big broadcasting plants.

The big growth has come within the past month since the few successful demonstrations on a large scale of the wireless telephone. Prior to this the department conducted propaganda to interest amateurs to break into the game, so the nation would have a reserve of radio operators who knew the game. Now it can hardly answer the thousands of queries that come in.

Manufacturers of receiving apparatus for the wireless telephone report that they cannot begin to fill the orders and are doubling their output every few weeks, while the turning out of homemade apparatus is being undertaken by the inventive American boy.

Farmer Will Benefit Most.

As government officials in Washington see it, perhaps the biggest benefit from this new and marvelous development will accrue to the farmer in reducing his isolation. Some months back the Department of Agriculture began broadcasting market reports through postal stations at six points. Since then three state universities and a half dozen newspapers have taken up the proposition.

Less Manila Hemp Produced.

Manila, P. I.—Total production of Manila hemp in 1921 was 692,822 bales, compared with 1,051,001 bales in 1920, a reduction of about 30 per cent. The decrease in production is ascribed to the poor demand, especially in the United States, which is the chief consumer of hemp.

HE MAKES A JOKE OF DEATH

Radio Operator on Doomed Ship Grim Humorist to Last.

Talks as If He Were Going on Land in Port Instead of to Bottom of Sea—Not a Soul Saved From Vessel.

New York.—The grim humor of a wireless operator, who laughed at death and sashed bits of wit into the ether as his ship, the Norwegian steamer Grottoft, with thirty persons on board, wallowed and slowly sank during a mid-Atlantic hurricane, was recorded on the radio log of the Danish steamer Estonia.

Each detail of the ship's plight, each call for aid, was supplemented by the jesting comment of the radio man, whose identity is still unknown.

He talked as if he were going on a lark in port instead of to the bottom of the sea. His last message, a disjointed one, was a series of witticisms—with death as the butt of the joke.

The Estonia, itself hard hit in the 110-mile gale, made a valiant but unsuccessful effort to reach the Grottoft, which first sent out calls for aid when about 700 miles east of Cape Race.

The Estonia at that time was forty-eight miles west of the disabled Norwegian and steaming in an opposite direction. Capt. Hans Jorgensen ordered his ship about and it steamed slowly toward the Grottoft.

Meanwhile Radio Operator Hansen engaged the operator of the Grottoft in conversation. The latter sent out first the following—a stereotyped lisp of the seas.

"God pity the poor sailors on a night like this." Then followed a series of "ha, ha."

"And say," he continued, "the old man thinks this calm will be over by midnight. We sure need some breeze."

An hour later an urgent call for aid was sent out by the Grottoft, and its operator jested again.

"Well, the steward is making sandwiches for the lifeboats. Looks like we were going on a picnic."

Again a half hour later he went: "The old wagon has a flat like a run-down heel. This is no weather for a fellow to be out in without an umbrella."

"Hold on," returned the Estonia's wireless, "we'll be alongside soon." The Grottoft did not reply until forty minutes later.

"We are sinking stern first. The boats are smashed. Can't hold out any longer."

"The skipper dictated that— He ought to know—where did I put my hat—sorry we can't wait for you, pressing business elsewhere—"

Six hours after picking up the first call from the Grottoft the Estonia reached its reported position, and though it cruised about for four hours, failed to find even a trace of wreckage.

The number of hours the fog along the Atlantic coast is greater toward the north, and has amounted to as many as 1,000 hours per year.

1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTER" is of the best quality obtainable. Even the insoles are cut from standard outsole leather.
2. "FOOT-FITTER" are the only shoes in the world having full length vamp and sole leather box toes. This feature prevents slipping at the tip and makes a smooth outer and inner surface.
3. The insoles are abraded channeled so that they sit tightly against the outsole. There is no need or room for a cork filler. A small piece of duck is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The Callkin inside counter pocket is of great value, for it saves the wear on the socks. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTER" heels are 1/2-inch longer than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with 3-oz. duck. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, this keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape.
7. Edmonds "FOOT-FITTER" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTERS" because they fit the foot snugly. Built on combination lasts they support the foot like a doctor's bandage—"FOOT-FITTERS" give Comfort, Service and Appearance.

Notice of Contest
Department of the Interior U. S. Land Office Roswell, N. M. Contest No. 10,482 March 17, 1922

To William A. Dodson of Carrizozo, N. M., Contestee: You are hereby notified that Rufus Hughes who gives Carrizozo, New Mexico as his post-office address, did on March 4, 1922, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Homestead entry, Ser. No. 02444 made August 2, 1920, for All of Section 33, Township 5-S., Range 10-E., N. M. P. Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he stated "entryman has never established residence on said entry. That he has never resided thereon. That he has never cultivated or homesteaded any part of said entry. That entryman has abandoned said land for more than six months last past and has never earned title to said land. And that said absence from the land was not due to the entryman's employment in the military or naval organizations of the United States or the National Guard of any of the several states."

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken as confessed, and your said entry will be cancelled without further right to be heard, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically responding to these allegations of contest, together with due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail.

You should state in your answer the name of the postoffice to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.
