Radical Changes At Local Shops

A conference of officials was held here yesterday and many changes made in working conditions in the local railroad shops. The change in plans eliminated eleven men, leaving but twenty-one in the shops. The storehouse has been closed and all time tickets will in the future be sent to Tucumcari, footed up and returned ready for payment of the men when pay days occur. The change will in no manner do away with Carrizozo as a division point, but the fact simply is that the "Big Mikes" can be run from Tucumcari to El Paso without attention, but crews will swing here as usual.

George Ferguson, who has been storekeeper, timekeeper and clerk to the division foreman, will now be official storekeeper in Tucumcari at the head of a force of clerks. Some of the men who have been let out, it is said, will be put to work at other points on the road. Mr. Ferguson left on No. 4 today to assume his new duties and leaves Carrizozo with regrets of people in general. He has always been a tireless worker for his company and also for the interests of his home town.

The entertainment-loving portion of our people will miss him, as Ferguson's "Joy-Makers" will be a thing of the past and orchestra work will fall to other hands. Mrs. Ferguson and the children accompanied him to their new home. Mrs. Ferguson, as well as her husband, will be greatly missed from our local circle. She was always identified in every movement for good, being connected with all societies for social and moral uplift. Tucumcari will be benefited by the addition of the Ferguson family to its directory, while Carrizozo will be the loser. We congratulate Mr. Ferguson on his promotion and wish the family in general the future happiness and prosperity they so richly deserve.

Carrizozo Woman's Club

The Carrizozo Woman's Club held a busy session last Friday afternoon at the Board of Trade rooms. Much business was transacted including the election of officers for the coming year. The Club accepted the invitation of Mrs. Albert Ziegler to meet at her home for the ensuing year and the first meeting will be held on the afternoon of January 10, at which time, the chairmen of the music and literary departments will report on interesting programs for the year.

Rebekahs Install

Coalora lodge No. 15, Order of Rebekahs held an interesting meeting last Friday evening at Lutz Hall and after the regular order of business was transacted, the following officers with the exception of Miss Minnie Wahl, who is absent from the city were installed:

Mrs. Monnie Glimmer, N. G.; Mrs. Rachel West, Secretary; Mrs. Lois Miller, Treasurer. Appointive officers will assume their duties at the next regular meeting. After the installation, refreshments were served.

Mrs. T. J. Moore left for El Paso last Tuesday where she will spend the remaining portion of the winter season.

Ancho School Notes

(By Mrs. P. H. Kersey)
All this week was spent on Africa by the sixth grade; on Monday they finished the lesson in the Text, on Tuesday they had a review of the Continent, on Wednesday they wrote a list of the countries, their capitals and leading products of the different countries.
The best salt maps were made by the pupils Thursday, on Friday they made a very fine product map which completes their study of Africa for this year. Monday they will take up Australia.

Jim and Fred Dale are in school after an absence of five weeks. They had planned on leaving for Arizona, but we are glad their plans are changed. They will continue school here.

Tuesday the fifth grade wrote a very interesting story of the Spanish Armada or fleet of 130 ships collected by Phillip of Spain in 1588 to conquer England. This was their history lesson.

Carol Wilson and Bill Hightower are inspectors. this week on cleanliness and politeness.

Among our visitors this week were Mrs. J. E. Wilson and Father Girma of Carrizozo.

The fifth grade is very pleased over their salt maps of North America, the first salt maps they have made. North America is the only continent they have studied so far this year.

Wednesday in English the pupils of the sixth grade each wrote an exciting composition on "A Trip around the World;" everyone had a different route!

89 Miles Additional New Standard Highways

Santa Fe, January 9.—The State Highway Department issued a call for bids on Tuesday morning on eight Federal Aid Projects, which total 89 miles of additional new standard highways for New Mexico. The projects for which bids are called and for which contracts will be let on February 7th the office announces will be published in the State Record at Santa Fe areas follows: Federal Aid Project No. 71, Chaves County, length of project

Want Foreign Unskilled Labor

Washington, Jan. 11 (Capital News Service).—Results of a two years' study of the immigration question made by the National Association of Manufacturers, have been made public, showing a basis, from the viewpoint of employers of large numbers of laborers, for a demand for a change in the present quota law.

The present employment situation, so different from what it was a year ago, when more than two million men were without jobs, is used as an argument, it being stated that industry and expansion, good times, and "the full dinner pail" must suffer if more unskilled labor is not made available through a change in the immigration laws. One of these changes, as outlined by the Association, calls for a fixing of immigration quota in terms of net numbers, rather than quotas. In support of this idea, figures are quoted to show that during the past year forty thousand Italians came to these shores, but that fifty-three thousand left. It is proposed to reject altogether the present literacy test, on the grounds that a good workman may be illiterate and a bad revolutionary immigrant perfectly literate. No proposals are included in the figures worked out which would change naturalization processes or exclude literacy from the qualifications of those applying for citizenship papers.

Many members of Congress are studying the report, but it is more generally regarded as the plea of a special interest (manufacturing) than a contribution to the American view-point on immigration and naturalization.

THE YAQUI

SYNOPSIS.—Seeking gold in the desert, "Cameron," a solitary prospector, forms a partnership with an unknown man whom he later learns is Jonas Warren, father of a girl whom Cameron wronged, but later married, back in Illinois. Cameron's explanations appease Warren, and the two proceed together. Taking refuge from a sandstorm in a cave, Cameron discovers gold, but too late; both men are dying. Cameron leaves evidence in the cave, of their discovery of gold, and personal documents. Richard Gale, a doctor, in Casita, Mexican border town, meets George Thorne, lieutenant in the Ninth cavalry, old college friend. Thorne tells Gale he is there to save Mercedes Castaneda, Spanish girl, his fiancée, wife of a man from Holan, Mexican bandit. Gale "roughhouses" Holan and his gang, with the help of two American cowboys, and he, Mercedes and Thorne escape. A bugle call from the fort orders Thorne to his regiment. He leaves Mercedes under Gale's protection. The pair, aided by the cowboys, Charlie Ladd and Jim Leah, arrive in safety at a ranch known as Forloro River, across the border. The fugitives are at Tom Belding's home. Belding is immigration inspector. Living with him are his wife and step-daughter, Nell Burton. Gale, with Ladd and Leah, take service with Belding as rangers. Gale being Belding's cause of his being a wanderer, a misunderstanding with his father concerning the man's business abilities Mercedes gets word to Thorne of his safety. Dick also writes to his parents in forming them of his whereabouts. Nell's personality and her kindness attract him.

Then Gale returned to his little fire, replenished it with short sticks of dead greasewood and mesquite, and, wrapping his blanket round his shoulders, he sat down to warm himself and to wait till it was time to bring in the horse and the man up.

The fire was inadequate and Gale was cold and wet with dew. Hunger and thirst were with him. His bones ached and there was a dull, deep-seated pain throbbing in his unhealed wound.

Judged by the great average of ideals and conventional standards of life, Dick Gale was a starved, lonely suffering, miserable wretch. But in his case the judgment would have hit only externals, would have missed the vital inner truth. For Gale was happy with a kind of strange wild glory in the privations, the pains the perils, and the silence and solitude to be endured on this desert land.

He had a duty to a man who relied on his services. He was a comrade, a friend, a valuable ally to riding, fighting rangers. Gale's happiness, as far as it concerned the toll and strife, was perhaps a grim and stoical one. But love abided with him and it had engendered and fostered other undeveloped traits: romance and a feeling for beauty and a keen observation of nature. He felt pain, but he was never miserable. He felt the solitude, but he was never lonely.

As he rode across the desert, even though his eyes searched for the moving black dots, the rising puffs of white dust that were warnings, he saw Nell's face in every cloud. The clean-cut means took on the shape of her straight profile with its strong chin and lips, its fine nose and forehead. There was always a glint of gold or touch of red or graceful line or gleam of blue that reminded him of her. Then at night her face shone warm and glowing flushing and paler in the campfire.

By and by Gale remembered what he was waiting for, and getting up he took the latter and went out to find Blanco Sol. It was pitch-dark now, and Gale could not see a rod ahead. He felt his way, and presently as he rounded a mesquite he saw Sol's white shape outlined against the blackness. Gale halted him in the flicker of a star and returned to his camp. There he lifted his saddle into a protected spot under a low wall of the mounds, and, laying one blanket on the sand, he covered himself with the other and stretched himself for the night.

Daylight came quickly. The morning was clear and nipping cold. He threw off the wet blanket and got up, wrapped and sniffring. A little brisk action was all that was necessary to warm his blood and loosen his muscles, and then he was fresh, tingling, eager. The sun rose in a golden haze, and the descending valley took on wonderful, changing hues. Then he fetched up Blanco Sol, saddled him, and led him to the thickest clump of mesquite.

"Gee, well have a drink pretty soon," he said, patting the splendid neck.

Gale meant it. He would not say till he had watered his horse. No three riders could keep Gale away from that well. Taking his rifle in hand, he saddled up the negro. From the lay of the land and position of trees seen by daylight, he found an arroyo and water course that the sun had hidden in the dark. And by careful work he was enabled to get closer to the well, and somewhat above it.

The Mexicans were leisurely cooking their morning meal. A slow wrath stirred in Gale as he watched the trio. They showed not the slightest indication of breaking camp. One fellow, evidently the leader, packed a gun at his hip, the only weapon in sight. Gale noted this with speculative eyes.

Then he saw two Indians on burros come riding up the other side of the knoll upon which the adobe house stood; and apparently they were not aware of the presence of the Mexicans, for they came on up the path. One Indian was a Papago, the other, striking in appearance for other reasons than that he seemed to be about to fall from the burro, Gale took to be a Yaqui. They came over the knoll and down the path toward the well, turned a corner of the house, and completely surprised the riders.

Gale heard a short, shrill cry, strangely high and wild, and this came from one of the Indians. It was answered by hoarse shouts. Then the leader of the trio, the Mexican who packed a gun, pulled it and fired point-blank. He missed once—and again. At the third shot the Papago stiffened and tumbled off his burro to fall in a heap. The other Indian, awayed, as if the taking away of the support lent by his comrade had brought collapse, and with the fourth shot he, too, slipped to the ground.

The reports had frightened the horses in the corral; and a vicious black, crowding the rickety bars, broke them down. He came plunging out with a splendid vaulting mount. The Mexican with the gun leaped to the back of the horse. He yelled and waved his gun, and urged the black forward. The manner of all three was savagely insane. They were having sport. The two on the ground began to dance and jabber. The mounted leader shot again, and then stuck like a leech upon the bare back of the roaring black. It was a vain show of horsemanship. Then this Mexican, by some strange grip, brought the horse down, plunging almost upon the body of the Indian that had fallen last.

Gale stood aghast with his rifle clutched tight. He could not divine the intention of the rider, but suspected something strikingly brutal. The horse answered to that cruel guiding hand, yet he swerved and bucked. He reared aloft, pawing the air, wildly snorting, then he plunged down upon the prostrate Indian. Even in the net the intelligent animal tried to keep from striking the body with his hoofs. But that was not possible. A yell, hideous in its passion, signaled this feat of horsemanship.

The Mexican made no move to trample the body of the Papago. He turned the black to ride again over the other Indian. Gale was horrified to see the Yaqui writhe and raise a feeble hand. The action brought renewed and more savage cries from the Mexicans. The horse snorted in terror.

Gale could bear no more. He took a quick shot at the rider. He missed the moving figure, but hit the horse. There was a bound, a hurried scream, a mighty plunge, then the horse went down, giving the Mexican a stunning fall. Both beast and man lay still.

Gale rushed from his cover to intercept the other riders before they could reach the house and their weapons. Then the frightened horses beat the corral bars, and in a thundering, quartered stream fled up the arroyo.

The fallen rider sat up, mumbling to his aunts in one breath, cursing in his next.

"Go, Greasers! Run!" yelled Gale. "That's what it is Spanish." At the point of his rifle he drove the two riders out of the camp. His next move was to run into the house and back out the backdoor. With a heavy stone he dismantled each weapon. That done, he set out on a run for his horse. Blanco Sol heard him coming and whistled a welcome, and when Gale ran up the horse was snorting war. Mounting, Gale rode rapidly back to the scene of the action, and his first thought, when he arrived at the well, was to give Sol a drink and to fill his canteens.

Then Gale led his horse up out of the waterhole, and decided before remounting to have a look at the Indians. The Papago had been shot through the heart, but the Yaqui was still alive. Moreover, he was conscious and staring up at Gale with great, strange, somber eyes, black as volcanic slag.

"Gringo good—no kill," he said, in husky whisper.

His speech was not affirmative so much as questioning.

"Yaqui, you're done for," said Gale, and his words were positive. He was simply speaking aloud his mind.

"Yaqui—no hurt—much," replied the Indian, and then he spoke a strange word—repeated it again and again.

An instinct of Gale's, or perhaps some suggestion in the husky, thick whisper or dark face, told Gale to reach for his canteen. He lifted the Indian and gave him a drink, and if ever in all his life he saw gratitude in human eyes he saw it then. Then he examined the injured Yaqui. The Indian had three wounds—a bullet hole in his shoulder, a crushed arm, and a badly lacerated leg.

The ranger thought rapidly. This Yaqui would live unless left there to die or be murdered by the Mexicans when they found courage to sneak back to the well. It never occurred to Gale to abandon the poor fellow. All the same, he knew he multiplied his perils a hundredfold by burdening himself with a crippled Indian. Swiftly he set to work, and with rifle over under his hand, and shifting glances spared from his task, he bound up the Yaqui's wounds. At the same time he kept keen watch.

The Indian's burros and the horses of the riders were all out of sight. Time was too valuable for Gale to use any in what might be vain search. Therefore, he lifted the Yaqui upon Sol's broad shoulders and climbed into the saddle. At a word Sol dropped his head and started onward up the trail, walking swiftly, without resentment for his double burden.

Gale, bearing in mind the ever-present possibility of encountering more raiders and of being pursued, saved the strength of the horse. Once out of sight of Papago well, Gale dismounted and walked beside the horse, standing with one arm band the helpless, quaking Yaqui.

Gale kept pace with his horse. He bore the twinge of pain that darted through his injured hip at every arched. In the heat of midday he halted in the shade of a rock, and, lifting the Yaqui down, gave him a drink. Then, after a long, sweeping survey of the surrounding desert, he removed Sol's saddle and let him rest, and took for himself a welcome rest and a bite to eat.

The Yaqui was tenacious of life. He was still holding his own. For the first time Gale really looked at the Indian to study him. He had a large head nobly cast, and a face that resembled a shrunken mask. It seemed chiseled in the dark-eyed, volcanic lava of his Sonora wilderness. The Indian's eyes were always black and mystic, but this Yaqui's encompassed all the tragic desolation of the desert. They were fixed on Gale, moved only when he moved.

Gale resumed his homeward journey. He held grimly by the side of the tireless, implacable horse, holding the Yaqui on the saddle, taking the brunt of the merciless thorns. In the end it became heartrending toil. His heavy chaps dragged him down; but he dared not go on without them, for, thick and stiff as they were, the terrible, steel-bayoneted spikes of the choyras pierced through to sting his legs.

To the last mile Gale held to Blanco Sol's gut and kept over-watchful gaze ahead on the trail. Then, with the low, flat houses of Forloro River shining red in the sunset, Gale flagged and rapidly weakened. The Yaqui slipped out of the saddle and dropped limp in the sand. Gale could not mount his horse. He clutched Sol's long tail and twisted his hand in it and staggered on.

Blanco Sol whistled a piercing blast. He scented cool water and sweet alfalfa hay. Twinkling lights ahead meant rest. The melancholy desert twilight rapidly succeeded the sunset. It accentuated the forlorn loneliness of the gray, wintry river of sand and its gray shores. Night shadows trooped down from the black and looming mountains.

CHAPTER VII

White Horses.

"A crippled Yaqui! Why the hell did you saddle yourself with him?" roared Belding, as he laid Gale upon the bed. Belding had grown hard these late, violent weeks.

"Because I chose," whispered Gale, in reply. "Go after him—he dropped in the trail—across the river—near the first big saguaro."

"Sure, Dick, sure," Belding replied, in softer tones. Then he stalked out; his heels rang on the flagstones; he opened a door and called: "Mother—girls, here's Dick back. He's done up. . . . Do what you can to make him comfortable. I've got a little job on hand."

Gale slept twenty hours. Then he awoke, thirsty, hungry, lame, over-worn, and presently went in search of Belding and the business of the day.

"Your Yaqui was near dead, but guess we'll pull him through," said Belding.

Gale told of his experience at Papago well.

"That rider who tried to grild the Yaqui under a horse's hoofs—he was a hyena!" concluded Gale, shuddering. "I've seen some blood spilled and some hard sights, but that inhuman devil took my nerve. Why, as I told you, Belding, I missed a shot at him—not twenty paces!"

"Dick, in cases like that the sooner you clean up the bunch the better," said Belding, grimly. "As for hard sights—wait till you've seen a Yaqui do up a Mexican. Bar none, that is the limit! Dick, if I'm not mistaken, this fellow was a chief. It was a waste of strength, a needless risk for you to save him, pack him back here. But, d—n the whole Greaser outfit generally, I'm glad you did!"

Gale remembered then to speak of his concern for Ladd.

"Laddy didn't go out to meet you," replied Belding. "I knew you were due in any day, and, as there's been trouble between here and Casita, I sent him that way. Since you've been out our friend Carter lost a bunch of horses and a few steers. Did you get a good look at the horses those raiders had at Papago well?"

Dick had learned, since he had become a ranger, to see everything with keen, sure, photographic eye; and, being put to the test so often required of him, he described the horses as a dark-colored drove, mostly bays and blacks, with one spotted sorrel.

"Some of Carter's—sure an you're born!" exclaimed Belding.

"Well, what shall I do now?" asked Dick.

"Stay here and rest," bluntly replied Belding. "You need it. Let the woman fuss over you—doctor you a little. When Jim gets back from Sonoyta I'll know more about what we ought to do."

Gale had received several letters from his sister Elsie, the last of which he had not answered. There had not been much opportunity for writing on his infrequent returns to Forloro River; and, besides, Elsie had written that her father had stormed over what he considered Dick's falling into wild and evil ways.

"Time flies," said Dick. "George Thorne will be free before long, and he'll be coming out. I wonder if he'll stay here or try to take Me edes away?"

"Well, he'll stay right here in Forloro River, if I have any say," replied Belding. "I'd like to know how he'd ever get that Spanish girl out of the country now, with all the trails over-run by rebels and raiders. It'd be hard to disguise her. Say, Dick, maybe we can get Thorne to stay here. You know, since you've discovered the possibility of a big water supply, I've had dreams of a future for Forloro River. . . . If only this war was over!"

The discovery that Belding plumed to was one that might very well lead to the making of a wonderful and agricultural district of Altar valley. While in college Dick Gale had studied engineering, but he had not set the scientific world afire with his brilliance. Nevertheless, his spattering of engineering skill bore fruit in the last place on earth where anything might have been expected of it—in the desert. Gale had always wondered about the source of Forloro River. He had discovered a long narrow, rock-bottomed and rock-walled gulch that could be dammed at the lower end by the dynamiting of leaning cliffs above. An inexhaustible supply of water could be stored there. Furthermore, he had worked out an irrigation plan to bring the water down for mining uses, and to make a paradise out of that part of Altar valley which lay in the United States. Belding claimed there was gold in the arroyos, gold in the gulches, not in quantities to make a prospector rejoice, but enough to work for. And the soil on the higher levels of Altar valley needed only water to make it grow anything the year round. Gale, too, had come to have dreams of a future for Forloro River.

On the afternoon of the following day Ladd unexpectedly appeared leading a lame and lathered horse into the yard. The legs of the horse were raw and red, and he seemed about to drop. Ladd's members were missing; he wore a bloody scarf round his head; sweat and blood and dust had formed a crust on his face; little streams of powder dust slid from him; and the lower half of his scarred chaps were full of broken white thorns.

"Howdy, boys," he drawled. "I shore am glad to see you all."

"Laddy, go in the house to the women," said Belding. "I'll tend to your horse."

"Shore, Tom, in a minute. I've been down the road. An' I found hoss tracks and steer tracks gold' across the line. But I seen no sign of raiders till this mornin'. Slept at Carter's last night. That rald the other day cleaned him out. He's shootin' mad. Well, this mornin' I rode plumb into a bunch of Carter's hosses, runnin' wild for home. Some Greasers were tryin' to head them round an' chase them back across the line. I rode in between an' made matters embarrassin'. Carter's hosses got away. Then me an' the Greasers had a little game of hide an' seek in the cactus. I was on the wrong side, an' had to break through their line to head toward home. We run some. But I had a closer call than I'm stuck on havin'."

Belding cursed Tom and deep in his throat, and the sound resembled muttering thunder. The shade of anxiety Shoup, on his face changed to one of dark gloom and passion. Next to his wife and daughter there was nothing so dear to him as his white horses. His father and his grandfather—all his progenitors of whom he had traced—had been lovers of horses. It was in Belding's blood.

"Laddy, before it's too late can't I get the whites away from the border?"

"I reckon we'd better stick here. Tom. . . . Dick, it's some good to see you again. But you seem kinda quiet. Shore you get quieter all the time. Did you see any sign of Jim out Sonoyta way?"

Then Belding led the lame horse toward the watering-trough, while the two rangers went toward the house. Dick was telling Ladd about the affair at Papago well when they turned the corner under the porch. Nell was sitting in the door. She rose with a little scream and came flying toward them.

"Now I'll get it," whispered Ladd. "The women'll make a baby of me. An' shore I can't help myself."

"Oh, Laddy, you've been hurt!" cried Nell, as with white cheeks and dilating eyes she ran to him—and caught his arm.

"Shore, Nell, it's only a scratch. My bronch throved me."

"Laddy, no horse ever throw you. You've been shot! . . . Mamma, here's Laddy, and he's been shot. . . . Oh, these dreadful days we're having! I can't bear them! Forloro River used to be so safe and quiet. Nothing happened. But now! Jim comes home with a bloody hole in him—then Dick—then Laddy! . . . Oh, I'm afraid some day they'll never come home."

The morning was bright, still, and clear as crystal. The heat waves had not yet begun to rise from the desert. Nell sat perched high upon the topmost bar of the corral gate. Dick leaned beside her, now with his eyes on her face, now gazing out into the alfalfa field where Belding's thoroughbreds grazed and pranced and romped and whistled. Nell watched the horses. She loved them, never tired of watching them. But her gaze was too consciously averted from the yearning eyes that tried to meet hers to be altogether natural.

"I'll be—be—pretty hard to leave Sol—when I go away."

Scientist Finds Portions of Human Skulls in Mounds Near Omaha.

RESEARCHES ARE IMPORTANT

Declares Peace-Loving Race Inhabited the Mid-West Section of America Prior to Time of Indians.

Omaha, Neb.—In an effort to obtain evidence to support his belief that Nebraska was inhabited 4,000 years ago by cannibalistic cave men, Dr. Robert E. Glider, doctor of science, known throughout the West for his desert landscape canvases, has begun excavating a short distance south of Omaha. Permission was granted him after a dozen years of effort to induce owners of the land to permit the excavations.

Finds Bones of Men.
The site of the excavations is marked by several eroded mounds which the scientist believes were community houses of the Omaha or Pawnee Indians. It is his theory that these mounds were built upon the foundations of the houses of the earlier tribe, possibly ancestors of the Mid-West Indians. In support of this belief, he has discovered that the upper structure—declared by him to have been built with mud and stone sides covered with thatch—had an entrance on the south, whereas the lower excavations clearly show entrances from the east.

Using the Darwinian accumulation theory—one inch of earth to each century—Doctor Glider calculates that he has reached the 4,000-years-ago surface level and there he has discovered portions of human skulls, arm and foot bones.

Peace-Loving Race, He Says.
His discoveries include ashes, declared by him to be roasted human bones. From this he evolves the theory that the early inhabitants were cannibals. Some thirty or forty implements of bone and wood he has found are almost identical with creations unearthed by European archaeologists, who have ascribed their age as preceding the historic.

"We have established the fact," declares the doctor, "that there lived in this portion of the North American continent a peace-loving race prior to the time of the Indians, as we commonly apply the term. I deduce this from the fact that the houses were large enough to accommodate from ten to twelve families and that the dwellings are separated by considerable territory. If the race had been warlike, the individuals would have felt a common desire for close association and would have built houses in groups for mutual protection."

MAY RUN OR RUIN THE WORLD

Scientist Explains the Force That Might Result From the Liberation of an Atom.

London.—By liberation of the atom man may some day control a force which will perform the entire work of the world, but if it gets beyond his control it may blow the earth and all its inhabitants to pieces, Doctor Ashton of Cambridge declared in a lecture before the British association. The chances of such a catastrophe are practically negligible, he explained.

"Professor Rutherford succeeded in arranging a collision between the central portions of two atoms. The result was the transmutation of the atoms into entirely different forms of matter. The possibility of such transmutation on any scale is of enormous importance. If the amount of hydrogen

1,766,118 Are Soviet Victims

Astounding Statistics Showing Executions in Russia Since November 7, 1917.

FARMERS AT HEAD OF LIST

Practically Half Total Number Executed Were Farmers—Stories of Religious Persecutions Borne Out—Murder 28 Bishops.

Washington, D. C.—Washington officials and members of the diplomatic corps are astounded at statistics received here tending to show that 1,766,118 persons were executed in Russia by the soviet government since it came into power on November 7, 1917, to the end of 1921.

This total is given in what are claimed to be official statistics which have been received here by the diplomatic representatives of a European country which is generally regarded as not unfriendly to the existing Russian government.

Farmers Lead List.
According to these statistics the persons executed were classified by the soviet authorities as follows:

Farmers, 815,000; intellectuals, 335,200; soldiers, 200,000; laborers, 102,350; officers, 64,050; gendarmes, 48,500; property owners, 12,930; police officers, 10,500; physicians, 8,800; professors and teachers, 6,775; priests, 1,215; bishops, 28.

The statistics did not indicate, it is said, whether the former Czar Nicholas and his family were included in the fearful list.

Some diplomats and officials said that while it is impossible either to confirm or refute it officially there was much information to support an assumption that the startling record of execution and wholesale assassination was approximately correct.

May Explain Famine.
The fact that practically half of the total number of persons executed were farmers had occasioned some surprise, and is interpreted by certain officials as indicating that the conditions among the Russian peasantry have been much worse than commonly believed, and as explaining to some degree the shortage of foodstuffs in Russia.

Stories of religious persecutions in Russia seem to be borne out by the execution of 28 bishops and 1,215 priests, and unofficial reports received by the diplomat furnishing the statistics are to the effect that more church officials have been executed by soviet authorities this year than in any preceding year.

73,000 Excess Over Deaths Last Year Falls to Only 9,000, Latest Records Show.

Paris.—Vital statistics for the first six months of this year show a decrease of 25,000 births and an increase of 23,000 deaths over the corresponding period in 1921.

The excess of births over deaths, which last year was 73,000, is only 9,000 this year. Births and deaths from January to July of this year numbered 326,000 and 387,000, respectively. In 1921 there were 412,000 births and 348,000 deaths.

WHALES MAY BECOME EXTINCT

Valuable Industry Overworked, Says British Expert.

Urges Legislation Against Further Hunting of Whales—Present Rate of Killing Will See Extinction in Another Decade.

London.—If the killing of whales continues at the present rate they will be exterminated before another decade, is the warning given by Sir Sidney F. Harmer, F. R. S., director of Natural history department of the British museum. Recent investigations carried out in the whaling areas has revealed this alarming condition, he says.

The whaling industry has survived since the time of Alfred the Great, despite the fact that there has never been a year known when scores of boats did not leave the ports of England, France, Spain and Scandinavia to hunt the sea animals, Sir Sidney declared in a recent address in which he urged legislation against further hunting of whales.

The Greenland variety of the whale is already thought to be extinct, and the hunting of the last few years has been confined almost entirely to the southern seas.

The profits derived from the killing of these cetaceans are enormous, and they increase yearly as the retail price of the oil and bone increases. A fat-tailed whale has a ton of whale-bone in its mouth, which alone is worth $10,000. It also produces about 30 tons of oil, worth about $100 a ton. In the season of 1915-16 the oil production from Antarctic whaling stations was 654,000 barrels, or about 34,000 tons.

During the war this oil was recognized as of vital importance in the manufacture of nitroglycerin. It is now used in the making of soap. The principal whales caught today

Is Winter Time Your Backache Time? Does Your Back Foretell Every Change of the Weather? Do You Feel Old and Stiff and Suffer Sharp, Rheumatic Pains? Then Look to Your Kidneys!

ARE winter months your backache months? Does every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you lame, aching and all worn out? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going another day?

Then look to your kidneys! Grip, colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidney. They overload the blood with poisons and impurities that the kidneys have to filter off. The kidneys weaken under this rush of new work; become congested and inflamed.

It's little wonder, then, that every cold finds you suffering with torturing backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

Don't wait! Delay may lead to serious or chronic kidney sickness. Realize that your kidneys have weakened in fighting the cold-created poisons and give them the help they need. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills today. Doan's have helped thousands at such times and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Good Folks:

MRS. J. P. MONDRAGON, Virginia Ave., Gunnison, Colo., says: "I caught a severe cold and it settled in my back and kidneys. My back was so sore I could hardly bend. When I tried to lift anything, or do any sweeping, I almost killed me. I had such dizzy headaches, I could hardly see. I went to a doctor and the pills he gave me didn't help. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills, so I purchased a box. They made my kidneys well and the cure they brought has been a sure one."

ROBERT JONES, 442 E. Meyers Ave., Cripple Creek, Colo., says: "Heavy lifting and catching cold while working out in storms put my kidneys in bad condition. My back began to weaken and hurt me. I never felt well and every once in a while I was taken suddenly by sharp piercing pains and could not move for a minute. My eyes blurred and when I put my arms above my head I felt an ache between my shoulders. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of this attack."

What is Good for the Goose Should be the Same for the Gander.

Considerable comment has been made on the article appearing in the last issue of this paper concerning the inaugural doings at Santa Fe the same being a clipping from the Albuquerque Herald, placing the blame on the Outlook for the substance of the same. As the article was a clipping from our esteemed contemporary and not our views in particular, we will not offer an excuse for the Herald, because its editor has enough courage to defend himself.

In regard to the prohibition movement (the Volstead law) and all evils which follow in its wake, we believe that it has caused more trouble than any one thing this country has ever tried to manage. It has fostered an army of paid hirelings whose business it is to arrest and convict violators of the law. They make it their business to hound the man in ordinary circumstances who violates the law, arrest and convict him, while the fellow in "silk stockings" is allowed to keep his cellar full and entertain his friends as often as he sees fit. The injustice that follows this practice causes the average citizen to lose his respect for the law. He sees that it makes a difference who does these things. He wonders why the law does not deal with one class as with another. In regard to the doings at the State Capital, as mentioned in the Herald, we are neutral, but we do not hesitate to say that laws like the Volstead act should be repealed or cease the practice of making a "goat" out of the poor man when those whom fortune has more abundantly favored are allowed to violate the law at their pleasure.

These conditions furnish rich soil for anarchism, bolshevism, and those who handle this form of propaganda lose no chance like this to spread the poison seed that will, in the future serve us tares in the field of our commonwealth. We are neither alarmists nor pessimists, but do say with a firm conviction and the courage to back it, that if this practice continues, it will cause more trouble in this country than any one thing that could befall it.

Our old friend, W. F. Paine, formerly representing the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. at Ft. Stanton for three years, visited friends here last week, after absence of two months. Paine was received with arms by people of the Ft. he has a host of friends.

The Y. closed its work and withdrew from the Nov 1 The Red Cross withdrawn two months so the Y. left the Fort without a warbler. As the boys draw no compensation, and most of them penniless, this was a monumental blunder when the Y. is spending thousands of dollars every year in foreign countries. The Y. has lost one of its best men and has not helped itself with the people of this community.

What is Good for the Goose Should be the Same for the Gander.

Considerable comment has been made on the article appearing in the last issue of this paper concerning the inaugural doings at Santa Fe the, same being a clipping from the Albuquerque Herald, placing the blame on the Outlook for the substance of the same. As the article was a clipping from our esteemed contemporary and not our views in particular, we will not offer an excuse for the Herald, because its editor has enough courage to defend himself.

In regard to the prohibition movement (the Volstead law) and all evils which follow in its wake, we believe that it has caused more trouble than any one thing this country has ever tried to manage. It has fostered an army of paid hirelings whose business it is to arrest and convict violators of the law. They make it their business to hound the man in ordinary circumstances who violates the law, arrest and convict him, while the fellow in "silk stockings" is allowed to keep his collar full and entertain his friends as often as he sees fit. The injustice that follows this practice causes the average citizen to lose his respect for the law. He sees that it makes a difference who does these things. He wonders why the law does not deal with one class as with another. In regard to the doings at the State Capital, as mentioned in the Herald, we are neutral, but we do not hesitate to say that laws like the Volstead act should be repealed or cease the practice of making a "goat" out of the poor man when those whom fortune has more abundantly favored are allowed to violate the law at their pleasure.

These conditions furnish rich soil for anarchism, bolshevism, and those who handle this form of propaganda lose no chance like this to spread the poison seed that will, in the future, serve as tares in the field of our commonwealth. We are neither alarmists nor pessimists, but do say with a firm conviction and the courage to back it, that if this practice continues, it will cause more trouble in this country than any one thing that could befall it.

Welcome Visitor

Our old friend, W. F. Paine, formerly representing the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. at Fort Stanton for three years, visited friends here last week after an absence of two months. Mr. Paine was received with open arms by people of the Fort, as he has a host of friends here. The Y. closed its work here and withdrew from the Post on Nov 1. The Red Cross had withdrawn two months previous, so the Y. left the Fort with a worker. As the Y. draws no compensation, and most of them penniless, this was a monumental blunder when the Y. is spending thousands of dollars every year in foreign countries. The Y. has lost one of its best men and has not helped itself with the people of this community.

Medina-Ulibarri

Miss Aurora Ulibarri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Modesto Ulibarri, a prominent merchant of Ancho, was married last Monday to Mr. Martin Medina, a member of the firm of Ulibarri & Medina, father Girma performing the ceremony. Many friends and relatives were present and after the wedding ceremony refreshments were served and at night a big baile was given. Mr. and Mrs. Ulibarri wish to thank all those who honored them with their presence.

B. Y. P. U. Program
(James Roselle, President.)

The B. Y. P. U. program for Sunday evening will be as follows: Subject, "Thanksgiving." Introduction by leader, Albert Lalone. 1. "Theme of the Letter," Mrs. C. H. Haines; 2. "Salutation of Thanksgiving," Josephine Lalone; 3. "Present Situation and Feelings," Gwendolin Climer; 4. "Jesus Our Example in Thanksgiving," Julian Lalone; 5. "A Study of Profit and Loss," Fred Lalone; "The Optimist," C. E. Haines; Special Music, Miss Marjorie Lalone; B. Y. P. U. Benediction.

There will be no preaching services at the church until further notice, but we have decided to make our Sunday School the best in the southwest. All we need is the assistance of you good people. We challenge the world to produce a better lot of young people and children than we have; to prove this, I ask any mother in town. If anyone doubts this, come out and see. We have a corps of teachers picked from the best people in town. Come and join the ranks—Help a good cause. Superintendent.

NOT HOW LITTLE—HOW MUCH

The only commodity this Company has to sell is Service.

It wants to see how much, not how little, Service it can offer its patrons.

Do you realize all the opportunities of Service you get with the telephone?

For instance:

The local manager is glad to make an emergency installation in cases of quarantined illness.

An emergency long-distance call having to do with sickness or death will get preference over everything on the line.

In an emergency the operator will put through a call for the police, the fire department or a doctor without you looking up the number. Just give your address and tell what the emergency is.

Particularly, do you know how much quicker and less expensive a Station-to-Station call is?

WHY DID SMITHSON CHOOSE THE UNITED STATES?

No one knows why James Smithson, an Englishman, bequeathed his fortune to the United States to found, at Washington, an "establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Whatever his reason, it is certain that his gift formed the basis of the most important scientific organization in the country. The story of the Smithsonian Institution is told in one of the series of folders and booklets on Our Government now being issued by this Institution.

If your name is not on our list you should drop in today and have it put on.

THE WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS

A BRIEF RECORD OF PASSING EVENTS IN THIS AND FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

IN LATE DISPATCHES

DOINGS AND HAPPENINGS THAT MARK THE PROGRESS OF THE AGE.

WESTERN

William E. Dixon liked Long Beach. He often said he hated to die and leave it to his wife to make funeral plans accordingly. In compliance with his request, his ashes were taken in an airplane 2,000 feet above the business district and cast into the air.

Discovery of "a cabin in a lonely cañon near Los Angeles," where Mrs. Clara Phillips, "hammer murderers," who escaped from the Los Angeles county jail Dec. 3, concealed herself for at least four days after the jail break, was announced at the sheriff's office recently.

Fred Hackett, racing automobile driver, was fatally injured at the Alamo truck, near Brawley, Calif., when his car turned turtle just after it started into second place at the close of a speed contest. His mechanic, A. W. Half, was seriously injured, but will recover.

Sheriff Larry Duggan has offered a reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of who-over placed dynamite on a window sill at Hibernia hall, Butte, Mont., while a New Year eve dance was in progress, the fumes of the burning fuse giving warning so the bomb was hurled from the building before explosion.

A report was received by the sheriff's office at Marshfield, Ore., that Mrs. L. A. Ferris, 40, was choked to death at her home near Myrtle Point, Ore., by her husband, a rancher, who then killed James Culver, a neighbor, who had attempted to interfere in Mrs. Ferris's behalf. Ferris, said to have been crazed by liquor, is reported to have fought off another neighbor who sought to overpower him, killed three dogs and fled from the ranch.

Eight union men convicted by a jury in Los Angeles, Dec. 20, of conspiracy to obstruct interstate commerce, in connection with the abandonment of Santa Fe passenger trains on the desert east of Los Angeles last August, were fined a total of $9,800 in United States District Judge Benjamin Hedges' court. The court characterized the actions of the defendants as "inexcusable and unjustifiable."

WASHINGTON

In the course of debate in the Senate, Senator Lodge announced to the Senate that he was "authorized to say" on behalf of President Harding that the administration is staunchly opposed to any cancellation of war debts.

Admission into this country of a number of Russian farmer peasants, expelled from Russia and now held in detention camps in Germany, is being sought by northwestern interests to furnish farm labor and colonists.

Senate warfare over the Borah proposal for a world economic conference reached a dramatic turning point recently when President Harding threw the full force of the administration against Senator Borah's plan as contained in an amendment to the naval appropriations bill and, in a letter read in the Senate, virtually asked for its defeat.

The West wants President Harding to look to it to supply the successor to Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall of New Mexico whose resignation, announced officially, will become effective March 4. However, the West has not yet brought forth its candidate.

The Brotherhood National Bank of Spokane was granted a charter by the comptroller of the currency according to word received by organizers of the institution. Capitalized at $200,000, it will be organized by local members of the sixteen railroad brotherhoods, it was stated.

A challenge to opponents of Henry Ford's proposal to take over the Muscle Shoals project to put forward a better offer was made by Representative McKean, Republican, Illinois, acting chairman of the military affairs committee, which considered the plan in an extension of remarks inserted in the Congressional Record. Mr. McKean insisted that the Ford offer would produce fertilizer for the farmer, and denied that acceptance would mean that only one-tenth of the power developed at Muscle Shoals would be used for manufacturing fertilizer products.

The nomination of Walter L. Cohen, New Orleans negro, to be comptroller of the port of New Orleans, which has been opposed by Senators Henshell and Broussard of Louisiana was considered briefly by the Senate commerce committee. No action was taken.

The nomination of Earl D. Livingston to be postmaster at Colorado Springs was sent to the Senate by the President. Other nominations are those of William D. Shury to be postmaster at Montrose, and Ira R. Wood at Rock, Colo.

FOREIGN

Five in the municipality of Novotna, a suburb of Manila, destroyed 400 pipe stacks, leaving 3,000 natives homeless.

Death at the hands of a firing squad will be meted out soon in Warsaw to Niewodomski, the assassin of President Narutowicz.

The Nippon Kinryu Sha, Ltd., a savings bank of Vancouver, which closed owing depositors $284,000, had $500 capital. It was stated that assets were about $200,000.

Nine men were killed when a fort near Trent, Italy, blew up a few days ago. The accident was caused by the accidental explosion of a shell which set off the other ammunition. Debris from the demolished fort was scattered for miles around.

A vigorous forty-eight-hour investigation revealed that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll of Philadelphia, millionaire draft dodger, who was reported to be trying to make his way into the United States disguised as a sailor, has not been seen at his former home in Eberbach for two months.

A great roving band of hungry timber wolves has devoured three men, according to meager reports sifting in from the snow-covered trails of the Sturgeon river country in Ontario. These reports told of a losing battle fought by two Indians after a white trapper had been downed and killed.

Sarah Bernhardt's condition continues to improve, it has been announced. Coincident with the improvement in the actress' condition, her aged butler, Arthur, who has been with her for forty-five years, has become seriously ill. He was stricken with pneumonia as a result of his long-night vigils to attend Madame Bernhardt's needs.

The dress rehearsal of Bacha Gully's new play, in which Sarah Bernhardt was to have had a part, took place with Henrietta Rogers taking the role originally assigned to the great star. Madame Bernhardt declared that she would surely appear to take her part, but the recent turn for the worse noted in her condition has made her appearance out of the question.

The thirtieth Congress expired recently in Mexico City in a turbulent session in which pistols were drawn and challenges to duels were made. Violent invectives were employed and physical encounters were barely averted. The feud between the Cooperistas and the Partido Liberal Constitucionalists broke out and the opposite sides of the chamber exchanged personalities. No one seemed to be concerned with several important bills, which failed to pass. George Prieto Laurens, youthful leader of the Cooperistas, and Israel Del Castillo, deputy from Caxaca, became extremely personal and had their pistols unlimbered for action when friends interferred.

GENERAL

Col. Rufus H. Lane was nominated by President Harding to be adjutant and inspector of marine corps, with the rank of brigadier general.

Appointment of Francis R. Wadleigh as federal fuel distributor to succeed Conrad E. Spens, who retired Jan. 1, was announced at the White House.

The appointment of Edward E. Koch as regional coal representative for the northwest region of the Pennsylvania railroad system was announced in Chicago by Vice President J. G. Rodgers.

Motor cars and trucks killed 1,092 persons in New York state in 1922. It was shown in the annual report of the National Highway Protective Society. Of these, 680 met their deaths on the streets of New York city.

A robber held up Mrs. Katherine Donovan, head bookkeeper of the Palmer House, Chicago, famous old hostelry of World's Fair days, knocked her unconscious and escaped with from $5,000 to $10,000 of the hotel's funds.

After shooting his wife and then himself, Louis Watkins of Springfield, Ill., overcame by remorse at sight of her prostrate, dyed, bound up her shattered arm and stopped bleeding artery, thereby saving her life. Both will live.

The woman "bookmaker" has appeared in New Orleans, according to the police. Mrs. Edward Clay was surprised in her husband's tailoring shop talking bets on horses, officers said. "I was just taking the bets for my brother," Mrs. Clay admitted, the police allege. Formal charges were lodged against her.

Two gifts of $1,250,000 each to the College of Medicine, University of Iowa, one from the general education board and the other from the Rockefeller Foundation, have been announced by President W. A. Jessup of the university, through W. R. Boyd, chairman of the finance committee of the State Board of Education. The money will be used to build a hospital and laboratory and to equip them. It was announced. The next session of the Iowa Legislature will be asked to appropriate $450,000 annually for the next five years to make the entire amount for the hospital $4,500,000.

Principals of the I. W. W. and their alleged efforts to organize oil field workers in the section of Breckenridge, Texas, where they are said to have about 600 members, were condemned in resolutions adopted by the local post of the American Legion of Breckenridge.

Payment of $1 a day to all men and women who have reached the age of 70 without having accumulated enough to provide for themselves was advocated by Frank E. Herbig, chairman of the old age pension commission of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

30 MISSING IN BRIDGE DISASTER

ONE HUNDRED ARE HURLED IN TO TORRENT AS CABLE SNAPS.

TOWN PANIC STRICKEN

STRUCTURE WEAKENED BY LOG JAM, FALLS FROM WEIGHT OF HEAVY TRAFFIC.

Kelso, Wash.—Several persons are believed dead and a number injured as a result of the collapse of a suspension bridge at Kelso, a few days ago. The structure was crowded with spectators watching a log jam as well as carrying its usual late-day traffic and it is estimated that from 100 to 150 persons and ten or more motor vehicles were precipitated into the Cowlitz river, swollen by recent rains, by the crash.

Many who were on the ends of the bridge escaped by clambering up its hanging portions, but two hours after the collapse, less than forty persons had been taken from the water. Four of these were injured seriously. No bodies had been recovered.

The steamer Covitz and several small craft cruised about picking up swimmers and disentangling some of the bridge's human freight which had become entangled in its wreckage. Twenty or more persons swam out or were picked up from the water.

Hubert Gray, one of the rescued, said he was in the middle of the bridge when it let go, but could not tell anything that happened between that time and his rescue from the river.

Kelso was in a wild tumult after the crash. Those apprehensive of safety of relatives or friends rushed madly from hospital to hospital and back to the bank of the river.

Adding to the general confusion the city's lights went out soon after the accident, due to a breakdown in a substation.

At one hospital an operation upon an accident victim was in progress as the lights flickered out.

The bridge, always crowded, was especially so at the time of the accident on account of men returning home from work.

Four cars caught into the bridge wreckage were visible above the water. There was the usual evening rush of traffic both ways across the bridge. Trucks and automobiles had been slowed down by the wagons and a bumpy automobile. Water mains supplying West Kelso were carried out by the crash and that settlement was without water.

The bridge was a timber structure of the suspension type. The accident was due to the breaking of one of the cables.

No attempt was made to move portions of the wreckage for fear bodies it was considered certain were held there would be dislodged and lost in the river.

Republicans and Free Staters Clash.
New York.—Irish Republicans contesting with Free Staters for possession of the Irish consulate picketed city hall, parading in front of the building with placards denouncing "Mayor Hylan's police." The unusual spectacle occurring in the homebound throngs were passing through City Hall park for Brooklyn bridge, attracted a great crowd. "What is Sir Basil Thomson's mission in the United States?" one banner was inscribed. Others read: "Sir Basil is here to teach Mayor Hylan's police 'black and tan' methods."

President Vetoes Pension Measure.
Washington.—Loss to civil and Mexican war pensioners of the large blanket pension increase proposed by Bursum was threatened through the veto of the bill by President Harding. The President returned the bill to the Senate, where it originated, with a message attacking it as a whole and specifically. He declared it would cost the government $109,000,000 annually and set a precedent entailing pension obligations of $50,000,000,000 within the next fifty years.

A MAN WHO BECAME FAMOUS

Doctor R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears above, was not only a successful physician, but also a profound student of the medicinal qualities of Nature's remedies, roots and herbs, and by close observation of the methods used by the Indians, he discovered their great remedial qualities, especially for weaknesses of women, and after careful preparation succeeded in giving to the world a remedy which has been used by women with the best results for half a century. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is still in great demand, while many other so-called "cure-alls" have come and gone. The reason for its phenomenal success is because of its absolute purity, and Dr. Pierce's high standing as an honored citizen of Buffalo is a guarantee of all that is claimed for the Favorite Prescription as a regulator for the female system.

Bobbie rushed up to the figure and touched her face and neck, then turned and said in a horrified tone, "Mother! She's wax!"
Mother smiled tolerantly and replied, "Yes, son; did you think she was real?"

IN DEATH VALLEY BIG-TYPE HOGS ARE FAVORITES

Surely Has Earned Name of "Place That God Forgot."

Heat Draws Moisture From the Human Body So That in a Few Hours Comes Insanity.

Death valley is so called because in summer it kills. A man plays out in three summers, usually.

The valley is gray and somber. From April to October it is hell. From October to April it averages very comfortable. Then come ducks, geese, quail, rabbits, blackbirds, jays, bobcats, rabbits, coyotes, badgers, bats, mice, rats, gophers, skunks and foxes, only to clear out as soon as summer begins again.

Souse a blanket in a tub of water and pull one end out dripping. It will dry thoroughly while you are scrubbing the other half. Dip a handkerchief in water and hold it up. It is dry in a minute's time. Jump into water fully clothed and you will be bone dry to the last thread in half an hour.

Ten minutes on the sand will bake an egg hard. Cut beef in thin strips, dip in brine and hang in the sun. It is jerky within an hour. Alfalfa cut in the field is cured and ready for stacking in less than two hours.

A large part of the valley is a borax marsh. Parts of this carry only a thin crust, but in the south the crust is so thick there is a road across it six miles long, on which they haul the 20-mule loads of borax.

Summer heat runs up as high as 100 degrees, highest on earth. At midnight it often touches 120. The only animal life found in the valley in summer is snakes and other reptiles.

The average humidity of Death valley is only .01 of 1 per cent. It sucks the moisture from a man's body fast enough to send him insane in a few hours without an abundance of drinking water. No man can bear to touch a rock with his bare hands in midday.

The first of many deaths recorded against Death valley and the one that first gave it the name, was when 30 men, women and children tried to cross it. A dozen escaped alive. Ten years later the bones, wagons, utensils, yokes, chains, guns, revolvers, even children's toys, were found. No rain had fallen on them in all that time. The Plute Indians had left them untouched from superstitious fear.—Adventure Magazine.

Up in the Clouds

Although men will tell you it's sport for sport's sake—that they fish for the love of fishing and hunt for the lure of the chase—to a woman it seems that their keenest enjoyment is in the talking over at the end of the day.

There was one such group of tired but loquacious fishermen, and the talk turned on hunting and dogs. One of the men, an Englishman, contributed this bit:

"We are having no end of trouble," he said, "about a dog in our house. You see its an apartment, and someone has a little dog that they always take on the roof for an airing. Its very annoying for the maida, you know, and we're complained to no end of people, the board of health and the police, but they persist in exercising him there."

"Perhaps," volunteered one of the fishermen, "its a 'sly' terrier."

"Well, now you know, I've never seen the dog."

Publicity

Not long ago a young author friend of the Woman's was a very modest young person.

"I do need more publicity," she said. "If you can feel the public half the battle is won and the publicity will do that."

So she secured much publicity. And the other day the Woman met her once more.

"I see you're getting lots of good publicity," the Woman said.

But the young author was a different person.

"Yes, I'm beginning to be appreciated at last," she said. "Its about time, too."

For the young author believed the publicity she herself was furnishing to the public. Publicity is very powerful. It even makes those who send it out about themselves believe it to be true.—Chicago Journal.

Accommodating

"The Imperial garage in town is the best place to get your car fixed," volunteered a resident of the Presbyterian Hill neighborhood, who had halted his wagon to address a motorist who was tinkering at his stalled stiver. "I'll hook ye on behind and drag ye in for $2."

"No!" snarled the other.

"All right! I'm a notary public. Swear ye in for half a dollar."—Kansas City Star.

Helpful

"As a book agent, will you explain something to me?"

"If I can."

"You seem to prefer selling dictionaries."

"Yes."

"Why is that?"

"I like a good thick book. As they try to slam the door you insert the volume and this gives you a gap wide enough to talk through."

PEAT HAS LOW VALUE AS SOIL FERTILIZER

Not to Be Compared With Stable Manure or Minerals.

Many Investigations of Subject Have Been Made by Department of Agriculture—Shows a Decided Lack of Uniformity.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Peat, in recent years widely advertised as a fertilizer is not to be compared with stable manure or with mineral fertilizers as a means of increasing crop production. This is the essence of a statement that has just been made by the United States Department of Agriculture as a result of many investigations on the subject.

Special processes, such as the "bacterization" of peat, occasionally are utilized to give it unusual fertilizing powers but tests have not substantiated these claims. An English investigator a few years ago reported good results with the use of "bacterized" peat, but experience in this country has not supported his theory. No laboratory process for the "bacterization" of peat has been discovered which materially improves it for fertilizer.

The peat or "humus" that has been marketed in this country as a fertilizer or plant stimulant has shown a decided lack of uniformity, but this is to be expected when it is known that peat deposits are the slow accumulation of layers of plant material of different kinds. The rather high percentage of nitrogen occasionally found in peat and muck is due not to the presence of available nitrogen, but the accumulation of nitrogenous material that is not available for the use of plants, the more soluble substances having been lost.

Some kinds of peat are very useful for stable litter and for composting. While peat is too bulky and too poor in available plant food to serve as a substitute for manure or mineral fertilizers, certain kinds of peat appear to be suitable in the growing of specialized crops or as potting soil in greenhouses. In the manufacture of mixed fertilizers the use of peat as a conditioner, as well as a filler, appears to have been satisfactory to the mixer. Several varieties of peat and muck soil are farmed, frequently showing high productivity for many kinds of truck crops or as grass land. Many peat deposits, however, are agriculturally unsatisfactory and some peats contain substances distinctly injurious to plants.

Omaha Bob, First Prize Poland China Boar.

White, Berkshire, Hampshire and Spotted Poland China. The Tamworth and the Yorkshire are the only breeds of the bacon type grown to any extent in this country and are the only ones included. The minor breeds given a place in the bulletin are the Mule-Foot, Large Black, Kentucky Red Berkshire, Cheshire, Essex and Victoria.

Most Profitable Hog

The big-type animals, says the author, are found in all breeds, but are more numerous in some breeds than in others. Owing to an increasing demand for cured hams and bacon of high quality, the type of hog becomes a matter of much importance. Hams weighing from 12 to 16 pounds are more likely to cure with high quality and flavor than lighter or heavier pieces. Neither hams nor bacon should carry excessive quantities of fat, but should be "well marbled." The opportunity for producing meat of this character is greater in the quickly grown big-type hog than in the distinctly small type. The most profitable hog is the one that can be grown to the required market weight in the shortest time. Well-bred and well-fed animals of the right type will make the market weight in from seven to ten months. The best market weight is generally from 175 to 225 pounds.

Copies of the bulletin may be obtained free by addressing the department at Washington, D. C.

SILAGE CART IS CONVENIENT

Considerable Time and Labor Saved by Use of Homemade Device, Says Iowa State College.

Building of a home-made silage cart to be used in distributing silage in the feed lot will save considerable time and labor.

Some men at Iowa State college have planned a cart which can be made from an old pair of cultivator wheels fitted on a gas pipe axle on which a heavy packing box has been mounted. By measuring your silage chute the cart can be made to run under the chute and filled directly from the silo.

Grain can also be distributed by means of the same cart and considerable lifting of heavy materials can be avoided in the feeding operations through its use.

LEGUMES QUITE BENEFICIAL

Furnish Rich Feed, Improve Soil and Are Drought Resisting—Alfalfa is Leader.

The leguminous plants are among the most important of field crops, for they furnish rich feed, enrich soil and are, at least some of them, the best drought-resisting plants known. The best-known legumes are alfalfa, clover, beans, cowpeas, soy beans, peas, lentils, lupines, lupine, medick, melilot, sainfoin, serradella, spurry, velvet beans, vetch, berseem, beggar weed.

WINTER BIRDS

"This evening," said Daddy, "I am going to tell you about some of the birds we see in the winter and of their ways."

"In the first place, of course, there are the Evening Grosbeaks. Mr. Grosbeak wears a fine suit of golden brown with touches of white and golden and black.

"Mrs. Grosbeak wears much the same kind of a costume, but her colors are a little paler.

"They whistle and shout and chatter and travel about looking for food.

"Then there are the Pine Grosbeaks. Mr. Pine Grosbeak wears a gorgeous rose-red suit, while Mrs. Pine Grosbeak dresses simply in a gray and yellow frock.

"They dearly love seeds and they come around every winter, looking for seeds in the pine woods. This has given them the name of Pine Grosbeaks.

"They're brave and they're cheery and they warble and call and sing ever so prettily.

"They love to be fed and will become very tame. They are particularly fond of the seeds of fruits such as sunnich and of grain.

"The Pine Grosbeaks are more usual than the others, but they both have ways that are much alike.

"You can't mistake Mr. Pine Grosbeak by his gay suit which isn't at all like a dull winter garment such as some of the creatures wear.

"Then there are the Blue Jays who come around, too. They are rather naughty birds, and chase squirrels and bully younger birds, but they are not even afraid of the eagle, and of course the eagle is a much bigger bird.

"They love acorns and nuts and will put some away for a hard time, for they believe in saving for a rainy day.

"Not that the Blue Jays mind rainy days. They don't mind any kind of weather.

"They never grumble about the weather. But you know there is an expression about laying something aside for a rainy day.

"It means that one is saving something for the time when good things will be scarce. Blue Jays do it. Those who put some of their money in savings banks do it, too.

"Then there are the nice Snowflake birds. They can easily be told by the amount of white feathers they wear.

"They come along, too, with the snowflakes and eat seeds which they say they always find have fallen from seed stalks in the late fall.

"They travel in large numbers. Their nests are of soft grass and moss—truly lovely nests, but they are only with us during the winter months.

"There are the Pine Finches, too, sometimes known as the Siskin family.

"They are very much like the Goldfinch family in their ways and in their song and in their call. And they look like the Goldfinch family, too, for in the winter time Mr. Goldfinch doesn't wear his bright gay suit which he wears when the summer is here.

"They love to eat seeds and birds.

"The Redpolls are something like the Goldfinches, too, in their ways, and the Redpolls are winter birds.

"They love to eat seeds which they, too, gather from old weeds.

"Mr. Redpoll wears a handsome rose-colored waistcoat and a beautiful greenish coat. Mrs. Redpoll doesn't have the rose-colored waistcoat part of the costume.

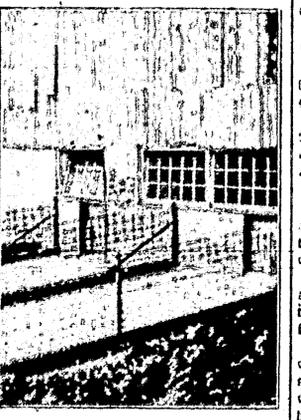

"And I'm telling you what the different winter birds like to eat. I think it is nice to have seeds and crumbs and such about in the winter time. The seed can be put out of reach of cats and so fixed that the snow won't easily cover it up though, of course, the snow can be fallen off when it has done that."

"Yes, Daddy, we'll take the hint," said Nick. "We're going to have food for the birds this winter and hope that many will come to visit us," added Nancy.

HOG HOUSE FROM OLD BARN

Necessary Sunlight Admitted by Ingenious Arrangement of Large Windows in Walls.

Ordinarily it is not considered good practice to house swine in a barn, because of the difficulty of getting the large amount of light which is necessary for the welfare of the animals. An ingenious arrangement which overcomes this difficulty is shown in the illustration. The barn is of the basement type with masonry walls. A section of ten feet wide along the south side of the basement is set off by partition and divided up into pens. Large windows are inserted at intervals in the upper half of the exterior walls, to admit sunlight. They are hinged at the bottom so that they can be opened to provide ventilation also. Doors three feet square are cut in the lower part of the wall to provide access to the runways outside, which are paved with concrete, making it a simple matter to clean them thoroughly with a hose.

TELLS OF GOOD RAT POISON

Department of Agriculture Recommends 20 Per Cent Mixture With Food as Bait.

Studies of barium carbonate as a rat poison made by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate that a 20 per cent mixture with food makes a satisfactory bait. With this percentage rats ordinarily need to eat only about one-third to three-eighths of a meal to get a fatal dose.

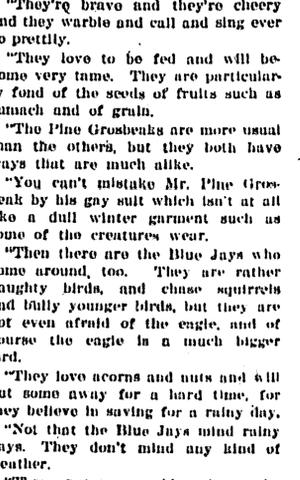

Experiments by various persons as to the deadliness of barium carbonate to other animals shows untrue the common belief that this material is poisonous only to rats and indicates that a bait which will be fatal to rats is more or less dangerous to small domestic animals also.
