Dangerous In Washington

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, in an interview in the New York Times lately, made many observations upon the occasion of his retirement from Congress. Among other comments, the following is quoted from interview as it appeared in the Times:

"Is Congress the strong body it was years ago?" put in the correspondent, Uncle Joe replied:

"Yes and no. It has strong men now, but in the olden days, when public life offered greater attractions and honors, perhaps the men stood for more. Certainly they stood for greater independence of thought. They were not swayed by propaganda as now. Forty years ago there was no propaganda; certainly no organized agencies and lobbyists. Bills then originated in committees and represented the mature thought of the members. Now they are written and forced through Congress by outside organizations. The Constitution meant what it says. Now it is a thing to be shot at, after the agitators and legislators can not find any other way of getting what they think they want.

"There are so many lobbyists and legislative agents in Washington that the hotels have to be large to accommodate them. And you can't tell how much is behind their talk. Sometimes I think many of these agencies are created to provide jobs for the men who organize them. Forty years ago Sam Ward was the only so-called lobbyist here. He gave dinners and entertainments; always had plenty of good food and drinks and never asked any one to help him out. Now we have several hundred of the lobbyist organizations.

"These have not been a development for good. I am afraid of the present-day lobbyist and will have nothing to do with them."

Getting National Parks Ready for Vacationists

Washington, April 10. — The Department of the Interior announces to the American public that the national parks, of which there are 20, are being put in shape for summer tourists. Free camping grounds will be provided for those who wish to take their vacation outside hotels, although the hotels are increasing their facilities for handling visitors this year. The national parks are expecting to take care of between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 vacationists between the opening of the season and its closing. Some parks are open all the year, due to their being situated in an all year round outside climate. The park season, however, as a whole opens about the first of June and closes about the first of October.

Cost of Careless Campers

Washington, April 10. — With the approach of the vacation period, the U.S. Forestry Service is making every possible preparation to combat the evils of forest fires. The overwhelming majority of these fires are caused by carelessness of campers and hunters. The number of fires average 26,000 annually with an average loss of 7,000,000 acres of timber with a valuation of $16,000,000. This is a pretty high charge for carelessness.

Cattle Epidemic Investigated

Dr. E. P. Johnson of the State College, who has just returned from a trip through Lea county where he was called to investigate a reported epidemic of disease among the cattle of that section states that he found the report true. "A great many cattle in Lea county and across the line in Texas are dying from hemorrhagic septicemia," said Dr. Johnson, "and unless some active steps are taken at once the cattle industry in this section will suffer a severe setback." In several cases as many as 250 have been lost from the herd.

The early symptoms of the disease are that the cattle go off their feed, develop a temperature of 107 to 108 degrees, lie around in groups and get stiff. As the disease progresses the nose cracks due to the high fever. In the early stages of the disease the animal is constipated, but as the disease progresses this condition changes to diarrhea, and the animal weakens and dies.

"Vaccination," says Dr. Johnson, is the only resource."

White Oaks News

(By Mrs. Allen Lane)

Mr. and Mrs. Pfingsten motored to Lincoln last Saturday, returning Sunday evening.

Work at the Rita mine is progressing rapidly. A night shift has been put on and the tunnel between the Rita and North Homestake shafts will shortly be completed.

Wayne Van Schoeyk and D. L. Jackson made a business trip to Corona last week.

Miller Price has been ill for the past few days with a severe cold.

Mr. Pfingsten, teacher at the White Oaks school was on the sick list last week. Mrs. Pfingsten teaching in his place until he returned.

John Littell has gone to El Paso in search of employment.

School election was held on April 3. Robert Leslie was elected to fill vacancy caused by the expiration of Mrs. Cleghorn's term.

Carrizozo Woman's Club

The Club had a pleasant session on Friday afternoon, April 6th. The membership is increasing substantially and all seem to become more and more interested in the real object of Club work.

The program, under the Department of Legislation, Mrs. W. W. Stadman, Chairman, was as follows:

"Vocational Rehabilitation" — Mrs. W. W. Stadman

"The New School Code," Mrs. J. B. French and Louise Coe

"I Know a Bank," (Parker) Vocal solo — Mrs. Louis Adams

Double number (duet) "Marche Grotesque" (Sliding) Valse Gentile" (Nevin) Mrs. A. Ziegler, Miss Lorena Sager.

Home from the East

Mrs. Harry Robertson, one of the owners of the Helen Rae gold mine arrived home from Scranton, Pa., Wednesday morning. Mrs. Robertson had been in the east since last October with others who are interested in the mine and visiting relatives and friends over the state. Mr. Boone of the Lincoln State Bank conveyed her to her home in Nogal.

CLASS PLAY PLEASURES A BIG AUDIENCE

"The Farmerette," Class Play of the Carrizozo High School was given at the Crystal Theatre last night to a large and appreciative audience. The characters were well taken by the different pupils and showed the result of careful training on the part of each student and the good generalship of the director, Mrs. H. P. Clarke, who deserves a full measure of credit for the success of the play. Some very amusing characters were produced and provoked a good amount of laughter and applause from the big audience. On the whole, the play was exceedingly good and added to the good record of our schools that nothing they attempt falls short of decided success.

Visiting at Oscuro

Messrs. A. L. Hunter, Dr. Guido Ranniger, Earl Black and Judge Seth F. Crews were up from Oscuro last Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. L. H. Black and son Earl visited with the Dr. Ranniger family for the week, and the gentlemen above mentioned made the trip here where the Black family has many friends to visit for a day before returning to their home in El Paso.

Nogal News

We have had very nice weather for the past few days, with the exception of one or two rather windy ones. The few warm days of the past week seem to have put new life in the people.

Mrs. Harriet Robertson is expected to return from Scranton, Pa., soon, where she has spent the winter with relatives and friends.

The annual school election was held Tuesday, Apr. 3, in the Hotel at which two new members of the school board were elected: Jas. L. Gatewood and Joe T. Cochran.

Mrs. Thomas B. Zumwalt of the Nogal Mesa was a guest of Mrs. O. C. Davis last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. S. E. Barber of White Oaks was a guest at the C. D. Mayer home on Tuesday.

Mesdames W. R. Lovelace, J. T. Stone and R. Collins were down from Corona Tuesday morning, leaving for home in the afternoon.

The students at the Capitan high school gave their class play last Friday night to a large audience. After the play, dancing was indulged in until the stroke of twelve.

Mrs. Chas. Stimmel and daughter Mary Alice of Los Angeles are visiting at the B. L. Stimmel home.

The Misses Duffey, Fuller and Cannon, accompanied by Messrs. King and Scott, were over from Fort Stanton on Tuesday. Miss Duffey leaving for Philadelphia to attend the funeral of her sister, who died the day before her departure.

To Roswell and Return

Attorney and Mrs. H. B. Hamilton, Mrs. Geo. Dingwall and Mrs. Wayne Hamilton motored over to Roswell on Friday, visited relatives and returned Sunday afternoon.

Visited Tularosa Friends

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lemon, son Maurice and Miss Minnie Wahl, motored down to Tularosa last Sunday and visited with Mrs. Ellen V. Crutcher and parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. V. Nilsson. The party returned Sunday evening.

Geo. Freidenbloom, who for many years was a resident of this place was a visitor here Monday and Tuesday from Albuquerque.

The Misses Louise Sweet and Elizabeth Titsworth have returned to their studies at the El Paso School for Girls after a short stay with their home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ziegler, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Beck and Frank Lesnet motored up to the White Mountain regions Sunday, returning in the evening.

Shipping White Sands

According to the Alamogordo News, Mayor L. N. Jones recently received an order from Denver to ship 1200 pounds of white sands to that place and he is complying with the request. The order came from a Mr. McBride, who several years ago invented a machine for wool and fabrics using the sands as the cleaning material and will hereafter, order it by car loads.

Train Stalled in Sand

No. 1 passenger train was about five hours late in passing Alamogordo Sunday morning, and when the train got below Orogrande, all the trainmen had to get out and shovel a bank of sand from the track. People who had been up and down the road from Alamo Sunday stated there was a very high wind at El Paso and also Carrizozo. There was scarcely a breeze at Alamogordo, about midway between the two cities. — Alamogordo News.

Welcome the I. O. O. F.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve meals during the Odd Fellows' Association to be held here April 28, which is the first step in the direction of extending the welcome hand to the distinguished visitors and an act of recognition and appreciation for the good work being done by the local lodges of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs.

Let there be a general warming up to this movement and make the visitors feel that instead being regarded as strangers within our gates, we look upon them as brethren and reverence the principles for which the order stands. Let us give the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs the glad hand.

Exciting Runaway

Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock, two boys, Ben and Joe Rios had an exciting experience in a runaway. The lads had stopped at Mayer's grocery when a horse they had been driving about town for a short time took a notion to travel on his "own hook." After running north for one block, Ben, who had been driving, dropped the lines and grabbed a firm hold on seat. The horse ran to the corner of 3rd and Alamogordo avenue, turned west to the court house, where the wagon collided with a telephone pole, throwing the boys into the street. F. E. Richard happened to be near at hand with his truck and conveyed the boys to the office of a local physician where on examination it was found that there were no injuries beyond a few scratches and bruises.

Spring Listeners

C. A. Culter was down from his place of residence near Parsons on Tuesday where he lately moved from near the mouth of the Water Canyon. He says the snow is melting fast in the mountains and many small miners are preparing to "pan" in the canyons. Much of this kind of work is performed by placer miners in the early springtime and the same is found to be a lucrative following while the snow is melting, a good quantity of ore being washed down from the recesses of the mountains into the gorges and canyons.

Mrs. Cole's Condition Caused Grave Concern

Mrs. E. E. Cole, whose illness we reported last week, has gradually grown worse and following the advice of her physician, Dr. Cole wired to his two daughters, Mrs. Hamilton at Battle Creek, Michigan and Miss Margaret Cole at Washington, D. C., to hasten to her bedside. Mrs. Hamilton arrived yesterday and Miss Cole is expected today. At last reports an improvement was plainly noticeable.

Losers Pay Penalty

The losers at the last bridge game at the home of Mrs. Albert Ziegler paid the penalty of entertaining the winners and their husbands at the Carrizozo Eating House last Wednesday afternoon. Delicious refreshments were served.

Apartment with bath, running water; $30 per month—Carrizozo Trading Co.

Lincoln County High School

W. J. Klopp, R. S. Supt.
Capitan, N. M.

One of the snappiest three-act plays ever given on a Capitan stage was given by the Senior Class of the High School last week, when the class of 1923 gave the modern American comedy, entitled, "An Early Bird." There were fourteen characters and under the direction of Miss Mary Hancock, expert in the primary portion of the Lincoln County High School, who selected a comedy of the highest type. The Fort Stanton orchestra rendered music between acts, the intermissions being of brief periods. Owing to the efficient training, it was a difficult matter to determine the best individual character. The old athletic hall, now owned by Mrs. Lula Boone, is being torn down and a beautiful hotel on the Spanish Mission plan will be erected on the site. Plans for the erection of a modern gymnasium on the high school grounds have been proposed, the crowded condition of the school for past three years on account of it being the only accredited high school in the county, is necessitating more room. People are planning to erect homes here to accommodate incoming visitors and residents.

Board of Trade Building Destroyed by Fire

Last Saturday evening fire broke out at the Board of Trade building on Main street which for a short time threatened the destruction of the entire block. Mrs. Scott, secretary of the Board, was in Roswell at the time and returned as soon as notified. The hoan carts arrived as quick as possible but the flames gained such headway that the fire fighters had hard work to save adjoining buildings. Contents of the building, furniture and fixtures were totally destroyed. The loss was partly covered by insurance. Mrs. Scott wishes to thank everybody for their assistance and neighborly kindness.

Water and Air Sports
To Help Shriners' Fun

Washington, April 5 (Capital News Service).—With the formation of a Citizen Committee of one hundred, with City Commissioner Cuno Rudolph as chairman, to aid the local Shrine Committee in making plans for the entertainment of the three hundred thousand Masons and their families who will throng the Capital in June, great strides forward in perfecting the program have been made.

An aerial battle and a Congress of the Seas are two plans which are arousing much interest.

Washingtonians have been treated to nearly every spectacular type of aerial exhibition, but the air battle planned by the War and Navy Departments will include many new features. In the number of planes engaged and the evolutions they will present, the biggest air event produced in the Capital is promised. The "Congress of the Seas" will include twelve barges in aquatic procession along the Potomac, furnished by the Navy Department. In the line will be barges representing the following ships of historic or symbolic reference: Neptune's cave, Cleopatra's barge, Santa Maria of the Columbian caravels, the Half Moon of Hendrik Hudson, the Mayflower, a Viking's ship, a Chinese junk, the Claremont, the Constant of the Virginia colonial fleet, the Constellation, and two others yet to be selected. Several destroyers and torpedo boats will complete the procession.

Services at the regular hours next Sunday, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The evening service has been changed with the change of season.

B. Y. P. U. at 7 o'clock and Sunbeams at 2:30 p. m. Prayer meeting each Wednesday at 8 o'clock, the first Wednesday in each month being the regular conference of the church. The Lord's Supper was observed last Sunday, being the first Sunday in the quarter. The Sunday School attendance was the best for some time, being exactly equal to the enrollment. A special Easter and Missionary program was rendered by the Sunday School.

We invite you to worship with us.

Methodist Church

(L. W. Carleton, pastor)

Last Sunday we found a Sunday school with splendid interest. Morning hour a good attentive congregation much appreciated by the pastor.

The evening hour was turned over to the children and oh, those beautiful songs, piano solos and recitations were delightful. If you were not there you missed something.

If you old married children will attend our services it will mellow your hearts and loosen your sides. Watch this paper for our announcements.

The School Election

A lively contest was staged on Tuesday for the selection of two members of the school board to take the places of Mrs. F. E. Richard and Mrs. J. B. French whose terms are expiring. Three tickets were in the field and a total of 213 votes were cast. The two successful candidates were Mrs. L. A. McCall and Mrs. W. W. Stadtman, they receiving the highest number of votes cast.

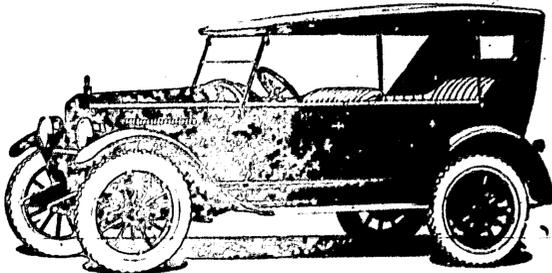

Mrs. McCall received 114 and Mrs. Stadtman 142. The ladies mentioned are fully qualified and will, with the remaining members make a strong board for the terms which they are to serve. Many problems will confront the new board such as will call for sober thought and careful consideration, but these matters will be handled with the required amount of wisdom on the part of the new organization. We congratulate the newly elected ladies and wish them the fullest measure of success in their undertakings.

F. J. Sager of the Exchange Bank, who has been ill for the past week is on the road to recovery.

Hidden Values Keep Essex
Young in Long Service

After fifty, sixty, and seventy thousand miles, Essex cars keep the dash and action of new cars. They stay tight and quiet. They keep their economy of operation and maintenance.

Service life that is not accidental. It results from hidden values which are fully revealed only in long hard service. Attention to detail extends to parts you never see. Fine roller bearings are used where economy means long life. For the weight carried the Essex frame is the sturdiest built, save one.

Quartermaster Essex make Essex cost less in the long run than the lowest priced cars, because of the difference in repair, maintenance and replacement costs.

Chassis and engine are lubricated with an oil-can—clean, complete, easy. Large size, require infrequent attention. Patented and exclusive to Hudson-Essex. A complete shock adjustment with average type, which require attention of metal washers or shims. Only Essex cars share this Essex feature.

Geo. Freidenbloom, who for many years was a resident of this place was a visitor here Monday and Tuesday from Albuquerque.

The Misses Louise Sweet and Elizabeth Titsworth have returned to their studies at the El Paso School for Girls after a short stay with their home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ziegler, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Beck and Frank Lesnet motored up to the White Mountain regions Sunday, returning in the evening.

Shipping White Sands

According to the Alamogordo News, Mayor L. N. Jones recently received an order from Denver to ship 1200 pounds of white sands to that place and he is complying with the request. The order came from a Mr. McBride, who several years ago invented a machine for wool and fabrics using the sands as the cleaning material and will hereafter, order it by car loads.

Train Stalled in Sand

No. 1 passenger train was about five hours late in passing Alamogordo Sunday morning, and when the train got below Orogrande, all the trainmen had to get out and shovel a bank of sand from the track. People who had been up and down the road from Alamo Sunday stated there was a very high wind at El Paso and also Carrizozo. There was scarcely a breeze at Alamogordo; about midway between the two cities. — Alamogordo News.

Welcome the I. O. O. F.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve meals during the Odd Fellows' Association to be held here April 28, which is the first step in the direction of extending the welcome hand to the distinguished visitors and an act of recognition and appreciation for the good work being done by the local lodges of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs.

Let there be a general warming up to this movement and make the visitors feel that instead being regarded as strangers within our gates, we look upon them as brethren and reverence the principles for which the order stands. Let us give the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs the glad hand.

Exciting Runaway

Tuesday morning, about 10 o'clock, two boys, Ben and Joe Rios had an exciting experience in a runaway. The lads had stopped at Mayer's grocery when a horse they had been driving about town for a short time took a notion to travel on his "own hook." After running north for one block, Ben, who had been driving, dropped the lines and grabbed a firm hold on seat. The horse ran to the corner of 3rd and Alamogordo avenue, turned west to the court house, where the wagon collided with a telephone pole, throwing the boys into the street. F. E. Richard happened to be near at hand with his truck and conveyed the boys to the office of a local physician where on examination it was found that there were no injuries beyond a few scratches and bruises.

Spring Listeners

C. A. Culter was down from his place of residence near Parsons on Tuesday where he lately moved from near the mouth of the Water Canyon. He says the snow is melting fast in the mountains and many small miners are preparing to "pan" in the canyons. Much of this kind of work is performed by placer miners in the early springtime and the same is found to be a lucrative following while the snow is melting, a good quantity of ore being washed down from the recesses of the mountains into the gorges and canyons.

Mrs. Cole's Condition Caused Grave Concern

Mrs. E. E. Cole, whose illness we reported last week, has gradually grown worse and following the advice of her physician, Dr. Cole wired to his two daughters, Mrs. Hamilton at Battle Creek, Michigan and Miss Margaret Cole at Washington, D. C., to hasten to her bedside. Mrs. Hamilton arrived yesterday and Miss Cole is expected today. At last reports an improvement was plainly noticeable.

Losers Pay Penalty

The losers at the last bridge game at the home of Mrs. Albert Ziegler paid the penalty of entertaining the winners and their husbands at the Carrizozo Eating House last Wednesday afternoon. Delicious refreshments were served.

Apartment with bath, running water; $30 per month—Carrizozo Trading Co.

Lincoln County High School

W. J. Klopp, R. S. Supt.
Capitan, N. M.

One of the snappiest three-act plays ever given on a Capitan stage was given by the Senior Class of the High School last week, when the class of 1923 gave the modern American comedy, entitled, "An Early Bird." There were fourteen characters and under the direction of Miss Mary Hancock, expert in the primary portion of the Lincoln County High School, who selected a comedy of the highest type. The Fort Stanton orchestra rendered music between acts, the intermissions being of brief periods. Owing to the efficient training, it was a difficult matter to determine the best individual character. The old athletic hall, now owned by Mrs. Lula Boone, is being torn down and a beautiful hotel on the Spanish Mission plan will be erected on the site. Plans for the erection of a modern gymnasium on the high school grounds have been proposed, the crowded condition of the school for past three years on account of it being the only accredited high school in the county, is necessitating more room. People are planning to erect homes here to accommodate incoming visitors and residents.

Board of Trade Building Destroyed by Fire

Last Saturday evening fire broke out at the Board of Trade building on Main street which for a short time threatened the destruction of the entire block. Mrs. Scott, secretary of the Board, was in Roswell at the time and returned as soon as notified. The hose carts arrived as quick as possible but the flames gained such headway that the fire fighters had hard work to save adjoining buildings. Contents of the building, furniture and fixtures were totally destroyed. The loss was partly covered by insurance. Mrs. Scott wishes to thank everybody for their assistance and neighborly kindness.

PRESIDENT HARDING

COL. W.B. GREELEY

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

TREES! Trees! Trees! Everybody seems to be talking trees these days - and not only trees but forests and forest conservation and reforestation and a national forestry policy and tree-planting and every other phase of the subject, from the practical to the sentimental. These are of course fitting topics for nationwide discussion along about Arbor Day time. In fact, there are many indications that the American people are getting awake to the fact that a country without trees is "baldheaded and boneheaded" and it is high time that they got busy on the nation's forestry problem.

President Harding is strong in his belief that a national forest policy is necessary, as is shown by his letter to Representative John D. Clarke of New York, chairman of the agricultural committee of the house, which held extensive hearings, had a bill drafted and sent it to him for an expression of his views.

The President's letter says in part:

"The federal government has made fine progress in its scheme of forest reserves, the development of methods of forest protection against fire and insect and plant pests, in promoting reforestation and methods of timber conservation, and in its research looking toward improved methods of timber utilization. Some of the states have formulated state programs along the same general lines and of recent years especially there has been a steadily growing interest on the part of private owners of forest lands. I am very glad, therefore, that the committee on agriculture feels that we have come to a time when definite provision should be made for larger co-operation between the federal government, the states and the private owners, with a view to working out a national policy covering the growth, protection, conservation and use of timber.

"When we remember that substantially one-fourth of the national area is forest land or potential forest land of little or no value save for timber production, the need of such policy becomes apparent. Already we have consumed or destroyed sixty per cent of our original timber wealth, and we are now using timber at a rate four times as fast as we are growing it. Millions of acres which were once covered with fine forests and which are suitable only for the growing of timber are now entirely barren. Prosperous communities built up while these virgin forests were being harvested have disappeared, transportation lines have been torn up, and social and industrial decay has followed. The growing of timber is the most practical use to which these lands can be put, and population and industry of these regions may be restored only by restoring the forests. To this end both federal and state governments may well lend every proper encouragement.

"As we have consumed our forest growth nearest to the centers of population and industry it has become necessary to ship the timber needed for constantly increasing distances at steadily growing transportation cost and inconvenience and with consequent increases in the price of lumber. This has added to our difficulty in meeting the housing problem and is bound to mean lower standards of housing and less adequate farm improvements. These are vital matters, striking directly at our sources of national strength. Regrowth of our forests on cut-over lands which are most suitable for that purpose in the more populous portions of the United States is therefore highly desirable.

"It is interesting to note that probably 100,000,000 acres of forest land, or nearly one-third of such land in the country, is owned in small parcels by farmers. It is desirable and proper that federal and state governments give the maximum encouragement to timber growing of this sort, especially by making available the information needed to grow the character of timber best adapted to the respective regions, by making tree planting material available at the lowest possible cost, and by concessions in taxation which would justify the farmer in setting aside some of his higher priced land for this purpose.

"The draft bill which you have presented contemplates co-operation between national and state authorities to protect timber from fire, the federal government to bear a part of the expense. I heartily concur in the policy of inducing all the forest states to pass satisfactory protection legislation, by providing that the secretary of agriculture may withhold co-operation with them in forest protection unless the requirements which he shall propose are adequately met.

"The taxation of privately owned forest lands is a matter of state policy and varies widely in different states, and it is suggested that the secretary of agriculture be given ample authority to study the taxation policies of the several states regarding timber lands and growing timber, together with their particular effects upon reforestation and to collaborate with proper agencies of the states in devising improved methods of taxing forest lands adapted to their conditions.

"Being firmly convinced that national leadership in conserving, protecting and encouraging the growth of our timber resources is absolutely necessary, I feel that legislation along the line proposed in the draft which you have submitted represents an important step in the perfection of a truly national forest policy."

Col. W. B. Greeley is head of the forest service of the Agricultural department, which has charge of the national forests. These number 149 in 23 states and contain 156,837,282 acres. The forest service runs the biggest lumbering and grazing business in the world. Forester Greeley, in his last annual report, has this to say, among other things:

"The problem has two main features. The first feature is the rising cost of timber products, which is due primarily to heavier transportation charges from more and more distant sources of supply. The cost of lumber is increasing in all the Eastern states; in practically every state west of the Great Plains it is increasing. The large sawmills of the country are in full migration westward to the last great virgin timber supply on the Pacific coast. During the past thirty years the pineries of the South have been the mainstay of the densely populated Central and Eastern states for softwood lumber. Their cut is dwindling. Every year scores of sawmills are dismantled.

"The second feature of our forest problem is the unproductive condition of immense areas of land which are not adapted to agriculture. The amount of unproductive land left in the wake of the sawmills or abandoned by the farmer has assumed enormous proportions. Our merchantable timber is being cut at the rate of four or five million acres annually, and enormous areas of logged-off land have accumulated which are not fit for cultivation but on which little or no new timber is being grown. What to do with unused and unproductive land is one of the most fundamental economic and social problems of the United States.

"The use of these vast areas of nonutilizable land for growing successive crops of timber would insure ultimately a supply of forest products adequate for all national requirements. It would go far toward maintaining a viable rural population and stable rural communities in the regions of inferior soil and limited agriculture."

Minnesota affords a concrete example of the foregoing generalities. Twenty years ago Minnesota was at the top of the lumber-producing states. Now it sends out of the state $90,000,000 a year for timber products and hauls lumber 1,000 to 2,000 miles from the west and south.

It would take a book to tell all of the activities of the country in respect to our friends the trees. Here, however, are some of the many:

The United States senate has appointed a committee which will this summer take a trip through the northwest to make a survey and recommend a conservation and reforestation policy. Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi is chairman. He says it is a crime for the government to delay longer in talking action.

Arbor Day this spring will see the planting of millions of trees. In addition many of the states will have a "Planting Week" in the fall, which is the best time to plant several valuable kinds of trees. Texas and Alabama led off with Arbor Day on February 22. Rhode Island will be the last to celebrate, on May 11.

Arbor Day originated in 1872 with J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska, afterward secretary of agriculture under Cleveland. Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association, calls upon all good Americans to begin to get ready for the celebration of the Arbor Day Centenary in 1972 by planting trees now.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, with its nation-wide membership of 2,500,000, will carry out a "National Garden Week Campaign," April 22-28, in which Arbor Day plantings and the planting of "Trees for Remembrance" are urged. Mrs. John D. Sherman, chairman of the department of applied education, is in charge of the campaign.

The American Tree association of Washington, D. C., is a new organization. Mr. Pack, after three years of endeavor to unite the foresters in a national forest policy, withdrew from the presidency of the American Forestry association and founded the new organization, which will devote all its energies to secure nation-wide planting of trees by the people. He is a man of means and a tree enthusiast who has made a scientific study of forestry. He is identified with the "Hall of Fame for Trees" and with the "Trees for Remembrance" movement. He was chairman of the National War Garden commission, 1918-19, and is author of "The War Garden Victorious." The association has no initiation fee and no dues; planting a tree makes the planter a member and entitles him to an engraved certificate and a place on a national honor roll to be featured at the centenary in 1972.

Mrs. Harding was awarded the first membership certificate, as she planted the Armitree elms in Washington. The association has just brought out two books by Mr. Pack: "Trees as Good Citizens" and "The School Book of Forestry." The principal purpose of the former is to simplify the problems of those who would grow shade trees; it covers all phases of the subject. Mr. Pack has also organized the American Nature association, which has begun the publication of the Nature Magazine, which is devoted in part to trees.

The Buonsville, N. Y., high school has planted 1,000 pines.

Various New York cities have ordered over 3,000,000 trees from the state conservation commission; Glens Falls takes 300,000.

The Illinois Forestry association, under President Henry C. Cowles, is drafting legislation providing for farm forestry courses in the state college of agriculture and for forestry demonstrations at the state experiment station.

Each post of the Woman's Relief Corps, G. A. R., will plant in 1923, a memorial tree for Clara Barton.

W. T. Cox, state forester of Minnesota, has planted 30,000 trees along highways; the program calls for trees along the 7,000 miles of the trunk highway system.

The California reawake lumbermen have decided to place their forests under scientific forestry management; this means that these forests will be perpetual.

Declares Tanlac Overcame Stomach Trouble, Restoring Health, Strength and Weight.

"I am now strong and happy and go about my housework singing, so I think it is only natural that I should praise Tanlac, since that is what has given me such splendid health," declares Mrs. J. Miller, 118 Johnston Ave., Kearney, N. J.

"For a year before I started taking Tanlac I was simply in wretched health from stomach trouble and a run-down condition. My appetite left me, I was eating scarcely enough to keep going, and was often so weak I could hardly do any housework. My food often disagreed with me, and I would have suffocating spells and heart palpitation that nearly drove me frantic.

"My mother had been helped wonderfully by the Tanlac treatment, and when she advised me to take it I started right in. It has built me up five pounds, my digestion is perfect, my appetite splendid, and I am always talking Tanlac now. It is simply grand."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

Two Hundred Anarchists Arrested.

Sofia.—More than 200 alleged anarchists have been arrested throughout the country in raids conducted by the police during the last few days. Sixty-three persons were arrested in Sofia when the police surrounded a meeting hall. One man, while trying to escape, killed a policeman and wounded an officer. He then committed suicide. One hundred and fifty arrests were made at Jagbol. In the fighting that followed the meeting one officer and several soldiers and anarchists were killed. The police station at Nova Zegora, in which some anarchist prisoners were confined, was stormed, two persons being killed. The Anarchist Daccaloff, who is alleged to have thrown a bomb at Premier Stamboullski in a theater not long ago, also has been arrested.

Want Candy Stores Closed.

Chicago.—With the advent of women into politics candy stores should be closed on election day, for the same reason that saloons used to be closed, according to a local precinct worker. During the recent majority election the worker was assigned to getting out the women vote in the Fourteenth Ward. He admitted that "the purchase of ten boxes of chocolates greatly assisted the work."

104 New Companies Formed

Rome.—During January 104 new companies were formed in Italy, with an aggregate capital of $0,701,000 lire, while eighty companies increased their capital, making the total amount invested during the month 242,643,000 lire. These figures are the highest reached in any month since the armistice.

Colorado Fat Lamb Movement.

About fifty per cent of the lambs on feed in Colorado this year has moved to market, according to the report issued by the Chicago and Denver offices of the U. S. Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates. This means that since January 1 shipments had amounted to about 770,000 head. Since January 1 approximately 35,000 lambs have been added to those already on feed at the first of the year. With these additional feeders the number still in the Colorado feed lots at this date, most of which are to go to market between now and the first of May, is approximately 765,000. Last year reports of carlot shipments show that the receipts of Colorado lambs at the six principal markets, Chicago, Omaha, St. Joseph, St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver from January 1 to April 1 totaled 785,000. These receipts included some duplications in count due to sheep unloaded at one market and afterward forwarded to another and counted as from Colorado at each market. From this it will be noted that the marketings are much heavier to date this year than last year.

Three Killed in Moonshine Battle

Hartan, Ky.—Three men and one woman were reported killed in battle between members of a federal posse and alleged moonshiners near Asher, Ky. Kelley Walker, deputy sheriff of Tejan, Bell county, Isaac Strong, George Strong and Mrs. Isaac Strong were listed as killed. Members of the posse were said to have surrounded the Strong home. Deputy Walker was killed instantly by a bullet when he exposed himself to a rifleman hidden in the building.

There is at Washington the division of the government that is ever free from criticism as to its motives, even when its decisions are unpopular.
The head of the judicial branch of government—the Supreme Court—has had from its organization the reputation of being absolutely fair and unbiased in its findings, and its members enjoy the entire confidence and respect of the people of the country.
The interesting story of the Supreme Court is told in one of the series on Our Government being mailed monthly to the people of this community. It is an interesting, brief history of the court and its relation to the other branches of the government.

DURING THE PAST WEEK

RECORD OF IMPORTANT EVENTS CONDENSED FOR BUSY PEOPLE.

WESTERN

Dicky Jensen, 5, and Dean McClain, 4, of San Bernardino, Calif., whose bodies were found in a packing box after they had been missing six days, died of starvation, according to the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury.

Art objects valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars were destroyed recently when a fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Mrs. Oliver Dwight Norton in Montecito, Calif. The home, one of the new places of Southern California, was built at a cost of $200,000.

Mrs. Esther Grant, said to be the wife of a Chicago broker, was found dead in her room in a hotel in San Francisco. Police say that Mrs. Grant committed suicide. Friends declared that she had said repeatedly that she would commit suicide when her resources were exhausted rather than accept employment.

A dog owned by A. V. Santon, Van Nuys, Calif., lost its life while searching a burning barn for its master's baby, safe in the house at the time. The dog had been taught to search for the child when asked the question, "where is the baby?" Someone asked that question while the flames were destroying the barn, and the dog dashed into the burning building.

Assessment of the 2 per cent license tax on oil production will be put on value of the oil at the well, according to a decision by the Montana State Board of Equalization. Payment of the 1 per cent tax, in effect until the last meeting of the Legislature, in some cases deducted from the field price the cost of pipe transmission and of railroad freight on the oil to refineries.

A married man cannot be sued for breach of promise. It was ruled in the Superior Court at Los Angeles, in finding for the defendant in suit for damages of $35,000 brought by Katie Hudson against Sam Kapper. The court announced the decision after Kapper's attorney had argued that "the promise to marry of a man already married was void and against public policy."

All street beggars in Los Angeles are professional mendicants and there is not a single case of need among them, according to the Los Angeles social service commission, which has opened its drive against begging on the streets with an appeal to the public to "meet them with jobs." Sixteen large charitable institutions and numerous small relief organizations, according to the commission, make it unnecessary for those in distress to beg on the street, but the professional mendicants prefer the easier and more profitable method of appealing to public sympathy on the sidewalks.

WASHINGTON

A warrant was issued for the arrest of John W. Clifton, prominent Washington attorney in connection with the case of Thomas Craven and Frank Lorian of Boston, arrested in New York for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

After months of antagonism and the delay caused by the test of its constitutionality, the packers and stockyards act is now established on a solid basis and its administration is contributing directly and effectively to the good of the live stock industry, Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture, announces in a statement just made public.

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Hayes has made tentative plans to visit Denver early next month to stimulate enforcement work in the intermountain country. It is probable that he will be accompanied by E. W. Yellowley, chief of the prohibition agents, and one of the headquarters' legal staff, and will hold conferences with state officials and prohibition agents.

Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, recently carried to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals his fight to prevent the trial in Washington on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of himself, three sons and four others. Counsel for Morse filed a petition for a writ of prohibition, which, if granted, would prevent any judge in the District of Columbia Supreme Court from proceeding with the trial.

Collections of income tax up to March 15, exceed $450,000,000, it was shown recently upon receipt of final returns from internal revenue collectors over the country. Collections for March 15, last year, were $335,000,000, showing an increase of more than one-third, which treasury officials regard as striking evidence of business prosperity throughout the United States.

A public market in San Francisco has installed "community scales" in order that consumers may weigh their purchases. This, the management says, eliminates weight shortages.

FOREIGN

Figures just published show that the population of Australia in December, 1922, was 5,564,000, an increase of 124,000 in the last year.

Monsignor Ernesto Filippi, former apostolic delegate to Mexico, from which country he was expelled by the Obregon government, has been appointed apostolic delegate at Constantinople.

Mexico's first pure-bred live stock show was opened recently by President Obregon. More than 600 head of stock were entered by breeders in the southern United States. The show was held under the auspices of the Pure-Bred Live Stock Association of the United States.

Among the regrets expressed by the friends and admirers of Sarah Bernhardt in Paris, the most frequent is that her wish to die behind the footlights was ungratified. "Mollere's" death in harness, facing the public," she frequently declared, "was an ideal end. I want to go that way."

The body of Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt was removed a few days ago from her late home on the Boulevard Pereire to the Church of St. Francois de Sales, in a nearby street, and thence conveyed to the cemetery of the Pere-Lachaise, the last resting place of hundreds of France's famous people of all times.

Beer—old ale with a kick in it—was responsible for the remarkable victory of White Bud, a 66 to 1 chance in the Lincoln handicap at London, according to the assertions of the mare's trainer. Several weeks before the race the trainer says, White Bud was given a daily ration of two pints of beer.

Prohibition has gone into effect in Constantinople under the instructions issued by the nationalist government from Angora. Any person found drinking alcoholic beverages will receive thirty strokes with the bastinado, a long pliable stick. Foreigners and traders selling liquor are liable to a fine of fifty Turkish pounds.

The census records in the employment of women in London show that 357 out of every 1,000 employed are in domestic service, 145 in the manufacture of clothing and that 125 do clerical work. Commercial and financial women employ the largest percentage of men. Out of every 1,000 102 labor for concerns of this kind.

Exports from the Philippine Islands to the United States in 1922 exceeded those of 1921 by more than $13,500,000, but the imports from the United States decreased approximately $20,000,000, according to figures just compiled by the bureau of customs. The total trade with the United States in 1922 amounted to $111,849,000, of which $64,110,000 was exports and $47,738,000 was imports. The total trade in 1921 was $124,480,000, the exports being $50,950,000 and the imports $74,130,000. British ships carried the largest portion of the total trade of the Philippines in 1922, their cargoes being valued at $67,780,000, while American ships carried goods valued at $62,000,000.

GENERAL

Participations of the Ku Klux Klan in Little Rock, Ark., city politics was indicated by the circulation of an alleged Klan ticket, according to which seven of the nine Democratic nominees for aldermen are acceptable to the organization.

A dividend check for $1,000,000 was signed recently and turned over to the trustees for the holders of common stock of the Coca Cola Company at Atlanta. This dividend paid denotes a $2-per-share-per-quarter payment, or an annual basis of $3 per share on 500,000 shares of stock.

Two men, one believed to be Louis Burston, manager of a motion picture producing organization bearing his name, were killed and a young woman possibly fatally injured, when an automobile in which it is reported they were racing a train was struck at a grade crossing near Pomona, Calif.

The Bower business block and the plant of the Mackenzie Rubber Company at Whitewater, Wis., were damaged $75,000 by fire recently. The Bower loss, $50,000, was covered by insurance.

With the voluntary surrender of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, arctic explorer and oil promoter, before federal authorities a total of twenty Fort Worth oil men have been arrested and arraigned before United States Commissioner George Parker on charges of fraudulent use of the mails. Dr. Cook was released on $25,000 bond. He is sole trustee and president of the Petroleum Producers' Association.

Three fires in towns surrounding Madison, S. D., broke out recently, causing a total loss of $93,000. The first fire occurred at Howard, in which a loss of $30,000 was incurred. At Flandreau, a town east of Madison, a large grade school building valued at $40,000 was completely destroyed. At Ramona, a small town twelve miles west, a fire destroyed a large opera house being used as a school building, the water works pumping station and in addition, partially demolished the municipal light plant of the city.

The search and seizure bill, drafted and passed by the House in 1920, which was designed to prevent the keeping of any apparatus or materials for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor or materials for such use, was defeated in the Iowa Senate by a vote of 23 to 13.

One of the most sensational trials held in Indiana since the Volstead act became effective, was brought to a close in United States District Court recently with the conviction of fifty-five persons on a charge of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws.

New Mexico State Items

Miss Laura Scharf of Carrizozo suffered a broken arm from a fall while skating on the Carrizozo rink.

Matt Jones, one of the old timers around Tucuman, committed suicide at the home of his daughter by taking strychnine.

In order to afford better protection for this city, Socorro has appointed the twelve members of the fire department special police.

The law offices of E. H. French, of Gallup, were badly damaged by fire recently the blaze starting from an overheated stove in one of the rooms.

Robert Logan, for several years in the employ of the Chino Copper Company at Santa Rita, was instantly killed when he was struck by a steam shoveler.

Over 400 pupils are now enrolled in the public schools of Mountainair, breaking all records for the past ten years. The actual attendance is over 300 per day.

The drill in the Florida oil well Deming logs passed the hard formation and the hole is now down over 3,300 feet. The odor of gas increases with the depth.

The big warehouse of J. J. White, of Mountainair, was destroyed by fire and will be a total loss. It is believed that the lime in the building caused the fire by heating.

Thomas Seales, of Fairview, closed a deal for the old Ivanhoe and Empire mines in the southwestern corner of Sierra county and will soon start development work on a large scale.

The beautiful ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. John Coffeen, twenty miles east of Troy, and one of the finest in that part of the state, was totally destroyed by fire recently and the loss will be over $15,000.

The Illinois Producers' Company has spudded in its new well east of Dayton across the Pecos river. The hole is started with a 15-inch bit and pay sand is looked for at the depth of about 1,000 feet.

Robert Small, an employe of the McKinley Land and Lumber Company at Breese, was badly scalded when the boiler at the mill exploded. He was taken to the hospital at Gallup, but is in such a serious condition that there is little hope of his recovery. Another man in the boiler room at the time, whose name was not learned, was badly burned on the arms.

Betty Paddock, eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Paddock, of near Dexter, was instantly killed when she was run over by the big school bus en route to the city schools. The little girl attempted to get on the bus before it had come to a stop and in some way slipped under the machine; one of the rear wheels passing over her body causing instant death.

L. B. Faus and Eddie Adams of Clayton were both badly injured near Segundo, Colorado, when the car in which they were riding skidded on a bridge approach, and the occupants were thrown over the banks of the stream. Mr. Faus was most severely injured, one of his hips being dislocated and three ribs broken. Mr. Adams suffered a broken collar bone and a dislocated shoulder.

The Producers and Refiners Company is going ahead rapidly with the work at its new well at Burnington in a manner that indicates confidence in production. Gas from the Ute Pasture well is being used for fuel and a big water tank has been erected near the site, which is kept full by the pipe line from the La Plata river. It is believed that a big flow of gas will soon be tapped, on the hole has now reached the depth of nearly 1,400 feet.

Twenty cans of specked trout were planted in the upper Gallinas river at Las Vegas by sportsmen of that city. Other streams near the city will also get a big supply soon.

Workmen on the Gabaldon ranch north of Bolen encountered oil at the depth of two feet while digging holes for fence posts. It is reported that water came in the holes and on the top of the water was a thin film of oil. The oil was skimmed off and found to be a good quality and burned rapidly when it was lighted. No oil-bearing structure has ever been located in that part of the state and it is believed that the oil may have been formed by decaying vegetation.

At the first annual convention of the eighth Rotary District held in Tucson, Ariz., approval for the organization of a club in Deming was secured and a big meeting of the business men of the city will be held soon to put the proposition over. As most of the merchants of the city are in favor of the club it is believed that it will be started with at least twenty-five members. A survey is being made of Silver City and Las Cruces and it is possible that clubs will be organized in both cities.

Freder Miller was elected president of the Chaves County Tariff Club which was organized at a big meeting of the merchants and livestock men at Roswell. The club starts with a large membership and will be affiliated with the other clubs which are being formed all over the state.

The Joyce Cattle Company, of Gladstone, will start work at once on the erection of a large dam on the ranch for the storage of water which will irrigate more than 10,000 acres. Two other dams will be built during the year.

FOURTEEN DEAD MANY INJURED

CYCLONE SWEEPS SEVERAL CITIES IN SOUTH—PROPERTY DAMAGE LARGE

TORNADO TAKES TOLL

STORM WRECKS HOMES AND LEAVES TRAIL OF CASUALTIES BEHIND

Alexandria, La.—The known dead in the tornado which struck Pineville and vicinity, across the Red river from Alexandria, reached fourteen with the arrival here of a train bringing the bodies of eight persons killed at Pineville and a sawmill settlement a mile east of that town.

Fifty or more persons were reported injured.

Pineville bore the brunt of the blow and suffered heavy property damage. Several persons were injured here. At least a score more persons were injured, some of them probably fatally.

The lighting system in Pineville was put out of commission by the storm, and it was impossible to learn the extent of the damage on account of darkness and the prohibiting of all vehicular traffic on the town's streets.

It was estimated that fifty to sixty houses were either completely demolished or badly damaged. Several mercantile buildings were also destroyed. Some of the injured were reported to be in a serious condition. The most seriously hurt were taken to the United States veterans' hospital at Camp Stafford, or brought to local institutions.

The main street in Pineville was strewn with wreckage from destroyed houses and telephone and telegraph wires. Citizens of Alexandria and Pineville assisted in clearing the streets.

Harvey L. Graham, superintendent here of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company, announced that officials of the Cumberland Telephone Company said they had restored their wires to Alexandria.

The railroad wires reported that the tornado struck Alexandria and hopped across the Red river to Pineville, cutting a swath 100 yards wide through the town.

Texarkana, Texas.—A tornado swept through Cass county, in the northeast corner of Texas, late, leaving a trail fifteen miles long on which were scattered the wreckage of twenty-five or more homes. The heaviest damage was said to be in Lavis chapel and Alameda communities and at a point two and one-half miles southwest of Atlanta, Texas.

No casualties have been reported.

Raleigh, N. C.—A dozen or more persons were injured by a tornado which cut a swath one mile wide and ten miles long south of Wendell in Wake county, wrecking 100 or more houses and doing damage to the amount of more than $100,000, according to reports here. Some of those most seriously injured were ordered removed to a Raleigh hospital.

Eldorado, Ark.—Several farm houses were blown off their foundations, one destroyed, one man injured and a saw mill blown away by the hail and wind storm which struck this city. A farm home, six miles south of here, was completely wrecked. The family escaped injury when they took refuge in a deep gully.

Klan Leaders Charged With Theft.

Atlanta, Ga.—Warrants were issued for N. N. Emroy, cashier of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, charging him with embezzlement of $90,000, and for T. J. McKinney, chief of investigating department, for $20,000, according to the sheriff's office. The warrants were sworn to by E. J. Jones, an associate of Emperor William J. Simmons. Associates of Simmons said other warrants might be taken out. They said the charges against the two officials followed a day of investigation at the imperial palace.

Noted Egyptologist Dies.

Cairo.—The earl of Carnarvon, is dead. His death was due to blood poisoning through the bite of an insect with the later development of pneumonia. Death occurred at the Continental hotel in Cairo. The physician's certificate giving the exact cause of death has not been made public, but the latest reports indicate that death was due to lobar pneumonia in both lungs, complicated with pleurisy.

Tennessee Police Chief Is Shot.

Jellicoe, Tenn.—It's a tough game this—playing hickety for six-shooters—wailed Chief of Police George Heatherly from his cot hospital. For the second time within a month Heatherly is hovering between life and death from bullet wounds. Four weeks ago he was the leader in a moonshine raid in which he was wounded three times and four men were killed. Braxton Perkins, 15-year-old brother of two of the slain men shot Heatherly.

Mothers Advise Their Daughters to Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Keep Them in Health

A Mother's Advice Prevents Operation

Corona, N. Y.—"I had a terrible pain in my left side and had to go to bed every so often. Doctors had told me I must be operated on, but I do not believe in the knife and would rather suffer than go through it. My mother also did not believe in it and she made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped her. It has also helped me for I am better and able to do all my work. I recommend your medicine and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. Hyson, Jr., 11 S. Railroad Avenue, Corona, N. Y.

A Sickly Child

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would droop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day!' I gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now she is a healthy, happy, hearty, strong girl and weighs 120 pounds. She has no difficulty in doing her 'gym' work, and she works at home every night and morn'g, too. I am a mother who can certainly praise your medicine, and if it will be of any benefit you may use this letter as a reference."—Mrs. Thomas E. Warrance, 621 W. Madison Ave., Mahoningtown, Pa.

Every girl wants to be healthy and strong, and every mother wants her daughter to do well in school and to enjoy herself at all times.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for young girls just entering womanhood. Mothers may depend upon it. Remember it is prepared from roots and herbs, contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they will work in a healthy and normal manner.

For nearly fifty years it has been used by women of all ages, and these women know its great value. Let it help your daughter and yourself.

Don't roll yourself by calling other people hard names.

Aim at the top. It may help you to land in the middle.

"This," we often hear people say, "is a very critical time."

Luck is a good thing to trust to—if you aren't hungry.

The Quivering Earth.

It has been pointed out that, in addition to the many tremors due to seismic, or earth-quake, influences, which modern delicate instruments detect, there are certain pulsations which seem to have some other origin. Some of these are diurnal, and are probably due to the influence of the sun and the weather on the ground. In wet weather the sides and bottom of a valley carry a heavier load than the bounding ridges; in dry weather the case is reversed. Even the transpiration of moisture by plants may produce perceptible effects upon the tilt of the ground. Thus the face of another earth is almost as sensitive to external influences as the skin of a living creature.—Exchange.

Sentences Passed on Humanity.

"Our judges have sentenced you to death," said a friend to Socrates. "And has not Nature passed the same sentence on them?" quickly responded the sage old philosopher.

Juvenile Evasion.

"It was drawing lesson and the task had been set the children to draw an imaginary river with a man sitting on the bank fishing. They all made brave attempts, except one little fellow, whose sketch showed no sign of the man.

"Why, Bobby," said the teacher, "where's the fisherman I told you to draw?"

"Well, you see, miss," answered the youngster, "I'm not very good at drawing people, so I've put up a notice. 'Trespassers will be prosecuted.'"

"Modern Athens"

"Modern Athens" is a name often given to Boston, Mass., a city remarkable for the high intellectual character of its citizens, and for its many excellent literary, scientific and educational institutions and publications.

Names of Similar Meaning. Margaret, Marquerite and Marjorie are all really the same, and mean pearl, being derived from the Greek.

What to Eat and Why A Natural Supply of Vitamin

The word "Vitamin" is new, but the thing itself is as old as the human race. It is the energizing, vitalizing, growth-producing element in the right food. Its absence is a serious fault of the wrong food. When the food is right, there is no need to go to the drug store for Vitamin.

Grape-Nuts, the famous ready-to-eat cereal, supplies the natural Vitamin from the wheat, and a further supply is included in the cream or milk with which Grape-Nuts is eaten.

Grape-Nuts is delightfully crisp and appetizing, with a flavor which is highly suggestive of the wholesome, health-building goodness which the food contains. Phosphorus and iron, as well as Vitamin, with a bran content to stimulate intestinal action, are supplied by Grape-Nuts. Many of our modern, "refined" foods lack these vitally necessary elements.

Grape-Nuts digests easily and is assimilated quickly, and is splendidly nourishing and energizing. You'll find better health and fitness in the natural way, with Grape-Nuts as a regular part of your diet.

There's genuine economy in Grape-Nuts—many servings of this exceptionally nourishing food to the package. At your grocer's—ready to serve. Grape-Nuts—the Body Builder. "There's a Reason." Made by Postum Cereal Co., Inc., Battle Creek, Michigan.

"DADDY, DADDY!"

SYNOPSIS—To the Three-Bar ranch, Arizona, owned jointly by Sandy Bourke, "Mormon" Peters and "Soda-Water Sam" Manning, a fine colt makes its way, in the last stages of exhaustion. Inscription on its collar says its name is Grit, property of P. Casey. Scouting a dead tragedy, Bourke and Sam mount and let the dog lead them. The two find a dying man, Patrick Casey, slumped under an overturned wagon. "Mormon" beside the wagon is his young daughter Molly, fifteen.

"Yore dad?" he asked, kneeling by the girl.

"Yes." She stood up, slight and straight, with limbs and body just curving into womanhood. "The hawsses was tuckered out," she said, "or Dad 'ud have made it. They didn't have no strength left, 'thout food or water. The d-d road jest slid out from under. Dad made me jump. I figgered he was 'goin' to, but his bad leg must have caught in the brake. We slid over like water slides over a rock. He didn't have a h-l chance." As she spoke them the onths were merely emphasis. She talked as had her father.

Sandy nodded.

"Got an ax with the outfit?" he asked. Then turning to Sam as the girl went round to the back of the fallen wagon and fumbled about perately, mere ghosts of words, taxing cruelly the last breath of the wheezing lungs beneath the battered ribs, the final spurt of the spirit.

"Molly—mines!"

"I'll look out for that, pardner," said Sandy.

The eyelids fluttered, the old hands fell away, the jaw relaxed, serenity came to the lined face, and no little dignity. For the first time the girl gave way, lying prone, sobbing out her grief while the two cowmen looked aside. The bay horse began to groan and writhe.

"Got to kill that cavallo," said Sam in a whisper.

"Wait a minute." The girl had quieted, was kneeling with clasped hands, lips mating silently. Prayer, such as it was, over, she rose, her fists tight closed, striving to control her quivering chin—doing it.

"We got to bury him, 'count of them d-n buzzards."

"We'll tend to that," said Sandy.

"Er you-all 'll take the davg on up to the hawsses."

"No! I helped to bury Jim Clancy, out in the desert; I'm 'goin' to help bury Dad. It's 'goin' to be lonesome out here—" She twisted her mouth, setting teeth into the lower lip sharply as she gazed at the desolate cliffs, the birds swinging their tireless, expectant circles in the throat of the gorge.

"See here, miss," said Sandy, while Sam crawled into the wagon in search of the dead miner's pick and shovel that now, instead of uncovering riches, would dig his grave, "how old air you?"

"Fifteen. My name's Margaret—Molly for short—same as my Ma. She's been dead twelve years."

"Well, Miss Molly, suppose you-all come on to the Three Star for a spell with my two pardners an' me? You do that an' mebbe we can fix things up and arrange about yore daddy. We'll come back an' git him an' we'll make a place for him under our big cottonwoods below the big spring."

Molly Casey gazed at him with such a sudden glow of gratitude in her eyes that Sandy felt embarrassed. He had been comforting a girl, a boyish girl, and here a woman looked at him, with understanding.

"Yore sure a white man," she said. "I'll git even with you some time if I work the bones of my fingers through the flesh to you. Thanks don't amount to a d-n 'thout somethin' back of 'em. I'll come through."

She put out her roughened little hand, un-fashion, and Sandy took it as Sam emerged from the wagon with the tools. The bay mare groaned and gave a shrill cry, horribly human. Sam drew his gun, putting down pick and shovel.

Sandy picked up the tools and moved toward Sam as the bay collapsed to the merciful bullet. The girl washed away as best she could the stains of blood and travel from the dead face while Sandy sounded with the pick for soil deep enough for a temporary grave.

The body would have to lie on the ledge overnight, nothing but burial could save it from marauding coyotes, though the wagon might have baffled the buzzards. The two set to work digging a shallow trench down to bed-rock, rolling up loose bowlders for a cairn. Lizards flitted in and out of the crevices as the miner was laid in his temporary grave, the girl dry-eyed again.

She had brought a little workbox from the wagon, of mahogany studded with disks of pearl in brass mountings. Out of this she produced a handkerchief of soft China silk brocade, its white turned yellow with age. This she spread over her father's features, showing strangely distinct in the falling light.

"I don't want the dirt pressin' on his face," she said.

From the dead man's clothes Sandy and Sam had taken the few personal belongings, from the inner pocket of the vest some papers that Sandy knew for location claims.

"Want to take some duds erlong to the ranch?" he asked Molly. "We can bring in the rest of the stuff later. Got to shack erlong, it's gittin' dark. Brought an extra hawss with us. Can you ride?"

"Some. I ain't had much chance."

"Don't know how the mine'll stand yore shirt. If she won't Pinto'll pack you."

"I'll fix that." She clambered into the wagon. Before she came out with her bundle they piled the cairn, a mask of broken rim-rock heavy enough to foil the scratching of the coyotes.

It looked to Sandy as if the girl had changed into a boy. The slender figure, silhouetted against the after-glow, softly pulsing masses of fiery cloud above the top of the mesa, was dressed in jean overalls, a wide-rimmed hat hiding length of hair.

"I reckon I can fool that hawss of yores now," she said. "I gen'ally dress thiseaway 'cept when we expect to go nigh the settlements or a ranch where we aim to visit."

The gray mare made no bother and soon they were riding down toward the strip of Bad Lands. Sandy let the colt go afoot for the time.

It was close to midnight when they reached the home ranch, riding past the outbuildings, the backhouse of the men where a light twinkled, the cook shack, the corral, up to the main house. There they alighted. Sandy lifted Molly from the saddle and carried her up the steps, across the porch, kicking open the door of the living room where the embers of a fire glowed. There was no other light in the big room, but there was sufficient to show the great form of Mormon, stowed away in a chair, asleep and snoring.

Sam struck a match and lit a lamp. He struck Mormon mightily between his shoulders.

"Gawd!" gasped the heavyweight partner. "I been asleep. But there's a little of hot water, Sandy. Where's the—what in time are you totin'?" A gel or a boy?"

"This is Miss Molly Casey," said Sandy gravely, setting down the girl. "Miss Casey, this is Mr. Peters. Mormon, Miss Molly is 'goin' to tie up to the Three Star for a bit."

Mormon, a little sheepish at the suddenly developing age of the girl as she shook hands with him, recovered himself and beamed at her. "Yore sure welcome," he said. "Boss hired you? Cowgirl or cook?"

Sandy noticed the girl's lip quiver and he slipped an arm about her shoulders. He was not woman-shy with this girl who needed help, and who seemed a boy.

"Don't you take no notice of him an' his kiddin'," he said. "We'll make him rustle some grub for all of us an' then we-all 'll turn in. I'll show you yore room. Up the stairs an' the last door on the right. Here's some matches. There's a lamp on the bureau up there. Give you a call when supper's ready."

He led her to the door and gave her a friendly little shove, guessing that she wanted to be alone.

"The kid's lost her father, lost most overthing 'cept her dawg," he said to Mormon. "Thought we might adopt her, soss of, then I thought mebbe we'd hire her—for mascot."

"Lost her daddy? An' me hornin' in an' tryin' to kid her? I ain't got the sense of a drowned gopher, sometimes," said Mormon contently.

"She's game, plain-though, ain't she, Sam? Stands right up to trouble?"

"You bet, Mormon, open up a can of greeneggs, will ye? I reckon she's got a sweet tooth, same as me."

Molly Casey was not through standing up to trouble. They coaxed her to eat and she managed to make a meal that satisfied them. Then she got up to go to her room, with Grit nuzzling close to her, her fingers in his ruff, twisting nervously at the strands of hair.

"Do you reckon," she asked the three partners, "that Dad knows he fooled me when he told me to jump? If I'd known he 'udn't git clear I'd have stunk—same as he would if I was caught. Do you reckon he knows that—now?"

"I'd be surprised if he didn't," said Sandy gravely. "You did what he wanted, anyway."

She looked at them gravely and went out.

"Botherin' about playin' square in 'jumpin'," said Sandy. "That gel is square on all twelve edges."

"How'd you come to know so much about gents?" asked Mormon.

"Me? I don't know the first thing about 'em," protested Sandy.

"No more'n any man," put in Sam. "Cept it's Mormon. He's sure had the experience."

"Experience," said Mormon, with a yawn, "may teach a man somethin'."

There was a touch of fire to her independence, a clasp on the shoulder of her pride the three partners recognized and respected.

"See here, Molly Casey"—Sandy used exactly the same tone and manner he would have taken with a boy—"that's yore way of lookin' at it. Then there's our side. You figger yore dad was a pretty good miner, I reckon? The last two words he says was 'Molly' and 'mines.' I give him my word then and there, like he would have to me, to watch out for yore interests. My word is my pardners' word. I'm willin' to gamble those claims of his'll pan out some day. Until they do, of you-all 'll stay on at the Three Star, atop Mormon stompin' in from the corral with dirty boots, ride herd on Sam an' me the same way, mebbe cook us up some of them biscuits once in a while, why, it'll be fine! Then there's yore schoolin'. Yore dad 'ud wish you to have that. I don't suppose you've had a heap. An' you sabs, Molly, that you swear no' often than a gel usually swears."

She opened her eyes wide. "But I don't cuss when I say 'em. An' I don't use the worst ones. Dad w'dn't let me. I can read an' write, spell an' cipher some. But Dad needed me more'n I needed learnin'."

"But you got to have it," said Mormon earnestly. "S'pose them claims pan out way rich and you git all-fired wealthy? Bein' a gel, you sabs clothes, diamonds, silks, catins an' feather fuss. You'll want to learn the planner. You'll want to know what to git an' how to wear it."

"If you did that—look my Daddy's place," she said, "why, we'd be pardners, same as him an' me was. When the claims pan out, half of it'll have to be yores. I won't stay no other way."

The finances of the three partners exchanged a conclusion, a mutual approval.

"That goes," said Sandy, putting out his hand. "Fo' all three of us. When the mines air payin' dividends, we split, half on 'count of the Three Star, half to you. Providin' you fall in line with the education, so's ta do yore dad yore'f an' us, yore pardners, due credit when the money starts comin' in. Sabs?"

"He kissed me while I was asleep, the d-d skunk," teased Molly.

"Where's the—What in Time Are You Totin'—a Gel or a Boy?"

about mules but not wimmen. No, air, that feller in the poetry who says, 'I learned about wimmen from 'er,' was braggin'. Now, this gel of Casey's 'ears like what her dad 'ud call a good prospect, but you can't tell. Fool's gold is bright enough, but you can't change it to the real sturr no matter how you polish it."

"Mormon, you warn't calculated to handle wimmen. This 'll gel is game as they make 'em, an' I reckon she's right sweet if she only sits a chance. Leastwise, I see several signs of pay dirt this afternoon—an' evenin' as I reckon Sandy done the same. She's been trillin' her dad all over h-l an' creatin', talkin' like him, swearin' like him, actin' like him. Never see

"What's the idee in pickin' 'em up?" asked Mormon aggressively. "She's as welcome as grass in spring. They ain't no one got a bigger heart than me fo' kids."

"No one got a bigger heart, mebbe," said Sam caustically. "Nor none a smaller brain. All engines an' no gasoline in the tank!"

"She's an orphan," went on Sandy. "She ain't got a cent that I know of. The claims her old dad mentioned ain't no good because, in the first place, they'd have to be worked if they was; second place, they're over to Dynamite an' the sharps say Dynamite's a flyver. All she has in sight is the dawg. Some dawg! Comes in from the desert an' takes us out to her an' 'Pat Casey—him dyin'. Ef it hadn't been fo' the dawg, she'd have stayed there, to my notion. Got some sort of idee she'd deserted ship of she hadn't stuck till it was too late fo' her to crawl out of that slit in the mesa. She's fifteen an' she's got sense. I figger we better turn in right now an' hold a pow-wow with the gel tomorrow."

"Second the motion," said Sam.

"Third it!" said Mormon.

And the Three Musketeers of the Range went off to bed.

CHAPTER III

Molly:

Molly came down next morning in the faded blue gingham. Sandy marked how worn it was and marked an item in his mind—clothes. He smiled at her with the sudden showing of his sound white teeth that made many friends. She was much too young, too frank, too like a boy to affect him with any of his woman shyness.

Molly had a snubby nose, a wide mouth, Irish eyes of blue that were far apart and crystal clear, freckles and a lot of brown hair that she wore in a long braid wound twice about her well-shaped head. She was a combi nation of curves and angles, of well-rounded neck and arms and legs with collar-bones and hips over-apparent, immature but not awkward.

Grit, entering with her, divided his attentions among the men, showing a moist nose at last into Sandy's palm and lying down obedient, his tail thumping amiably.

"Fo' a sheepsdawg," said Mormon, "he sure shapes fine."

Molly's eyes flashed. "He don't know he's a sheepsdawg," she protested. "He's never even seen one, 'less it was a mountain sheep, 'way up against the skyline. Don't you like him?"

"I like him fine," Mormon answered hurriedly. "Fine!"

"Er you-all didn't, we cud shack on somewhere. I cud git work down to the settlements, I reckon. I don't aim to put you out now. I've been thinkin' erbout that. 'Less you should happen to want a woman to run the house. I don't know much about housekeepin', but I cud 'larn. It's a woman's job, chasin' dirt. I can cook—same. Dad used to say my camp-bread an' biscuits was fine. I cud earn what I eat, I reckon. An' what Grit 'ud eat. We don't aim to stay unless we pay—some way."

There was a touch of fire to her independence, a clasp on the shoulder of her pride the three partners recognized and respected.

"See here, Molly Casey"—Sandy used exactly the same tone and manner he would have taken with a boy—"that's yore way of lookin' at it. Then there's our side. through the rear opening of the canvas tilt: "Man's alive, Sam. Caught a flirt of the pulse. Have to pry up the wagon. Grit that busted end of the tongue."

The girl handed an ax to Sandy mutely, watching them as Sandy pried loose the part of the tongue still bolted to the wagon, getting it clear of the horses.

"Think you can drag out yore dad by the lugs when we lift the body of the wagon?" he asked her. "May not be able to hold it more'n a few seconds. May slip on us, the levers is pritty short."

She stooped, taking hold of a wrinkled boot in each hand, back of the heel. A tear splashed down on one of them and she shook the salt water from her eyes impatiently as if she had faced tragedy before and knew it must be looked at calmly.

The two men adjusted the bowlders they had set for rollers and shoved down on the stout pieces of ash, their muscles bunching, the veins standing out corded on their arms. The wagon-bed creaked, lifted a little.

"Now," grunted Sandy, "snake him out."

The girl tugged, stepping backward, her pliant strength equal to the dead drag of the body. Sandy, straining down, saw a white beard appear, stained with blood, an aged, seamed face, hollow at cheek and temple, sparse of hair, the flesh putty-colored despite its tan. Grit teaped in and licked the quiet features as Sam and Sandy eased down the wagon.

"Whisky, Sam."

The girl sat cross-legged, her father's head in her lap, one hand smoothing his forehead while the other felt under his vest and shirt, above his heart.

"He ain't gone yet," she announced. The old miner's teeth were tight clenched, but there were gaps in them through which the whisky Sandy administered trickled.

"Daddy! Daddy!"

It might have been the tender agony of the cry to which Patrick Casey's dulling brain responded, sending the message of his will along the nerves to transmit a dual summons. His body twitched, he choked, swallowed, opened gray eyes, filmy with death, brightening with intelligence as he saw his daughter bending over him, the face of Sandy above her shoulder. The gray eyes interrogated Sandy's long and earnestly until the light began to fade, out of them and the wrinkled lids shuttered down.

Another swallow of the raw spirits and they opened flutteringly again. The lips moved soundlessly. Then, while one hand groped waveringly upward to rest upon his daughter's head, Sandy, bending low, caught three syllables, repeated over and over, de-
