High School Dramatic Club Offers Repertoire

On next Tuesday night, March 11th, at the Crystal Theatre, the Dramatic Club of the Carrizozo High School will give, as an evening's program, three short plays: The Exchange, The Darky Wood Dealer and My Cousin Timmie. Miss Nannie Lee Meux, teacher of English, director of the Club, has done all the training on these plays.

The entertainment is given for the purpose of raising money to pay off indebtedness on playground equipment and to provide more. The purpose is a most worthy one and we hope the people of Carrizozo and the surrounding country, in their liberality and appreciation, will fill Crystal Theatre. The plays are clean, wholesome comedies, full of fun and fine moral points. A delightful evening's entertainment.

Eaker-Taylor

At the Methodist parsonage last Friday night, with the Rev. W. R. McPherson performing the ceremony, Elmer Eaker and Miss Grace Taylor were united in marriage, the attendants being Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rohde of Capitan, Mrs. Rohde a sister of the groom.

Much could be said in complimentary terms concerning the many good qualities of the young couple. They were reared in Lincoln county, attended our schools, interested themselves in our general welfare, socially and otherwise.

The bride is a daughter of County Commissioner R. H. Taylor. Her quiet, courteous, unselfish disposition, coupled with her many additional and becoming qualities has made her an unsolicited amount of friends and admirers as she grew from childhood to womanhood among us.

The groom shares with his charming wife the friendship and esteem of the entire community. From his boyhood on, he has been of a clear-headed, straightforward disposition, beginning at an early age in the employ of Rolland Brothers, where he continued in the capacity of drug clerk until a short time ago when he entered into the study of telegraphy at the local E. P. & S. W. station where he is awaiting promotion which he hopes soon to make. Few, if any of his many friends, will speak of him, or to him, by any other name than "Red," as by that familiar name he is known by every one.

The happy young couple have the best wishes of the community in general.

Miss Dessie McDaniel attended the Roswell basketball tournament. She reports an enjoyable time, having taken in the sights and rooted for Carrizozo.

Mrs. J. M. McDaniel, Mrs. A. B. Helem and John McDaniel, visited the Frank McDaniel ranch Tuesday.

Roy Hust, Anna and Albert Helen, 8th grade pupils, take examinations Thursday. Here's hoping they pass.

C. L. Lumpkins, foreman of Helen Rae mines, returned to town Saturday, after a month's absence.

ASSURE ROAD EXTENSION THAT WILL HELP COUNTY

FINE NEW ORGANIZATION STARTED LAST TUESDAY

Road Boosters Live Commercial Club Organized

Tuesday morning, a party of road boosters composed of the County Commissioners and Messrs. E. A. Sweet, A. D. Brownfield, G. T. McQuillen, C. F. Huppertz, S. F. Miller and A. L. Burke, motored out to the Carrizozo-Socorro Highway where road foreman Wm. Ferguson is about to finish the work as far as Gallacher's Indian Tank ranch. The party drove over and viewed the new road until they reached the camp, arriving about noon, and were invited into the dining tent where Miss Mors, daughter of Mr. Ferguson, had a fine dinner prepared for the hungry boosters, who eagerly devoured same with becoming compliments and thanks.

After partaking of the hospitality of the camp, the party, accompanied by Mr. Ferguson, journeyed on, passing through the "Hoot Owl" canyon in the Oscuro mountains, which was a difficult yet well designed piece of road work cut into the side of the mountains, winding like a huge serpent, down through the canyon to the lands below. On they drove until they reached the crest of the mountain overlooking the "Jordado Del Muerto" (Journey of death) so named by early Spanish settlers, now known as the "Jornado Flats," where they turned back, this being the terminus of Mr. Ferguson's work in Socorro county. The party reached home about 4:30 p. m.

This work has been going on since October, 1923, under an appropriation of but $6,000, and how Mr. Ferguson has been able to construct such a wonderful highway from an appropriation of that amount is almost beyond comprehension. There were 5 bridges constructed and the same number of culverts made, and let us say right here, they are good, strong and no pains has been spared in the work. All this enormous amount of work, covering a stretch of about 40 miles through a rough region, where blasting was necessary in many places, filling in others, dangerous passes strengthened, where walls of heavy boulders were put in and nicely leveled, with but ten men in command, caused the Carrizozo boosters to open their eyes in wonderment. But they are real men and real workers, every one of them.

Now, for the finish! There is a sum of $1900 coming to Lincoln County from the gasoline fund, created by the state, through taxation, this being our share of the total fund collected in 1923, and after making our application to the Highway Commission, the same will be turned over to our road fund and this amount will finish the road from the Gallacher ranch right into Carrizozo. In view of this fact, Mr. Ferguson was instructed to proceed with the work, under guarantee by the commissioners, and the road will soon be connected up as far as the Jornada Flats, Socorro County must then do her share in completing a portion of 15 miles of road on the Jornada Flats which will connect us with Socorro, Magdalena, Carthage and San Antonio. The Commissioners will leave for Santa Fe in a few days to apply for the amount needed to complete our part of the highway.

The 8th grade have done considerable review work in preparation for the state examinations which were taken Thursday and Friday.

Report cards for the 4th, 6 week period were given out last week. Perhaps parents too often neglect to give the proper scrutiny to the results the child brings home on his card. If satisfactory grades are not obtained, the parent should consult the teacher with a view to remedying this condition.

The last snow, which has long since departed, brought its usual quota of snowball fights and much hilarity, the small boy not being much of a respecter of persons when it comes to snowballing, the dignity and reserve of a teacher not always sufficing to be adequate protection.

The Senior Class play, "The Hoodooed Coon" will be presented March 22nd. The cast in this play are working hard and we are promised a good entertainment.

FAMOUS LANDMARKS

No. 1—Bunker Hill Monument, which should need no explanation to good Americans. The battle was fought June 17, 1775, just about a month after Lexington and Concord, with all Boston watching it from the housetops. Really the battle was fought on Breed's Hill, as both battle and monument are misnomers. The monument is 221 feet high and 30 feet square at the base.

No. 2—Modern memorial to Joan of Arc in front of the old house in Domremy, where this national heroine of France was born in 1412. Her victories at Orleans and Patay over the English resulted in the crowning of Charles VII at Rheims in 1429. The Duke of Burgundy captured her next year at Compiègne and sold her to the English, who burned her at the stake in Rouen for a witch.

No. 3—Maclean's Cross on the island of Iona (Icolmhill) in Argyllshire, Scotland, is an ancient sculptured Runic relic of the Druids. It and St. Martin's Cross are the only ones left of 360 once on the island. A ruined monastery dates back to 863 A. D.

No. 4—The grave mound at Marathon, Attica, Greece, where rest the heroes who in 490 B. C. won a decisive battle of the world. Eleven thousand Athenians and Plataeans defeated 100,000 Persians and saved Greece from Darius. A Greek soldier ran the 18 miles to Athens with the news of victory and dropped dead in the market place—hence "Marathon" race of the Olympic games. The mound is 48 feet high and 206 feet in diameter.

No. 5—This memorial marks the spot where the blind king of Bohemia, his bride-in-law knotted to his knights, charged to his death against the English under Edward III at Crecy, France, in 1346. The Black Prince (the second Prince of Wales) here won his spurs and assumed the crest and motto of the blind king—"Ich Dien." It was an astonishing victory, 28,000 English defeating 100,000 French and their allies, under Philip VI.

No. 6—The Lion of Waterloo on its 300-foot mound, which marks the site of this decisive battle of the world June 18, 1815. Napoleon had escaped from Elba the year before and Waterloo...

learned the... of the... effect of various... under... to... him. The... 21,000 men... the... 28,000... the... of... where six... later...

No. 7—The Wallace Tower at Sterling, Scotland, where Sir William Wallace (1274-1305) marshalled the victorious Scots for the battle of Stirling Bridge September 11, 1297. This national hero of Scotland was in 1305 betrayed to the English and was executed on a charge of treason.

No. 8—Pompey's Pillar at Alexandria, Egypt, the only remaining important relic of that ancient city's splendor. It is a misnomer. An inscription shows it was erected in 302 A. D. in honor of the Roman emperor Diocletian (245-313), whose statue once stood on its 49-foot summit. It was probably a landmark for sailors.

No. 9—The Bastille Monument, Paris, which marks the site of the infamous state prisons, stormed and destroyed by the people in the revolution of 1789. Lafayette sent the key to George Washington. This "Colonne de Juillet" (Column of July) particularly marks events in the revolution of 1830. The Place de la Bastille also saw fierce fighting in the revolutions of 1848 and 1871.

No. 10—Memorial at Lucknow, India, to Sir Henry Lawrence and the heroes who died with him in the mutiny of 1857-8, which was caused by the issue to the Sepoy army of a rifle which used greased cartridges. The siege and relief of Lucknow are famous in history.

WOMAN TELLS OF HUNT FOR TIGERS

King of Beasts Landed 15 Feet After Being Shot.

Miss Gertrude Emerson, who went tiger hunting in Indo-China and who tells her story in "Asia," never got a shot at the tiger she hunted, but she was one of those to whom the prospect of killing is the least, not the greatest, lure of the hunt.

The bait, a bullock, was slain and wired strongly to a tree so that the tiger might not be able to carry it away. Although the first bullock was devoured and had to be replaced with another, the hunting party visited the tree at intervals for several nights without success. Tigers were known to be in the neighborhood, for the party heard them at night—the heart-pumping cough of tigers. They gave no long-drawn snarl, no roar, but three and sometimes four hoarse coughs in quick succession.

Then one night just as a violent storm began to slacken the hunters set out on foot. The men had each an acetylene lamp fastened to the front of his cap. The grass was taller than their heads as they struck off through it in diverging lines like the spokes of a fan.

"I could just see the little glimmering lights and a blur of white faces dwindling to pinpoints. At what moment would my electric torch be reflected from a pair of green eyes? One of the men let out a blood-curdling yell, and we all ran stumbling towards him. He had stepped on a wild pig. Our eyes and ears were strained to the least unaccountable quiver in the darkness of wet grasses swishing like endless waves and closing in like the sea over our heads. For sheer sense of danger that wild stalking through the night was as thrilling as anything in my life."

But they missed the tiger and only lost themselves. It was the day after Miss Emerson had to leave that the quarry was obtained. Early in the morning as the hunters were about to return from another vain visit to the bait they became aware of a flurry among the birds and monkeys. They craned their necks and held their breath.

"The tiger cautiously slipped into the opening, walked up to the bullock, put his nose down to it and then stared straight over the top of it as if he had heard or smelled something. The moment had come to fire. The tiger jumped straight up 15 feet into the air, but instead of falling backwards he came down square on his feet and in two leaps had vanished into the jungle. The stained earth showed that he was badly wounded. A trailing party armed with knives and a stout rope went after him. A hundred yards from the bait they came upon him dead. With a bullet through his heart he had still run a hundred yards in the dense jungle! Our tiger, whose footprints I had seen and whose voice I had heard, even though I never looked him square in the eye, was a true king of beasts."

Paper Saws to Cut Wood

Circular saws are made of paper, for use in making veneer and fine furniture, and are turned out in a factory in England. Thin plates of wood cut by these saws are so finely finished that cabinet makers do not have to plane them at all before they are used. Such saws were originally shown at an English exposition and were driven by an electric motor. They are manufactured from a special type of compressed drawing paper.

Indeed, compacted paper of such hardness has been made in England that it has even been utilized in place of building stone. Experiments in the manufacture of car wheels from compressed paper have been made in the United States for a number of years, but the product has never competed seriously with the ordinary steel wheels. It is only in the production of certain articles as the veneer saws that any advantage is found.—Scientific American.

Her Future

A careful housewife upon entering the kitchen after a party found apple peelings on the floor, flour on the stove and candle grease sprinkled around liberally. The girls told her they were peering into the future, whereupon she asked if they wouldn't peer into the future for her a little. They said they would, and somewhat sheepishly inquired what it was she wished to know.

"I just want to know who is going to help clean up this mess," said the careful housewife.

To Study Mineral Wealth in Alaska

Survey of 36,000 Miles of Wilderness Planned.

Washington.—In its latest search for valuable mineral wealth the government is sending a party of expert geologists and topographic engineers on a midwinter expedition to the tip of Alaska on the Arctic, to survey some 36,000 square miles of uncharted wilderness, rugged mountain chains and large stretches of undulating treeless plains.

A few days ago the geological survey told of the plans to send, at the expense of the Navy Department, a small party of government technicians to northern Alaska to survey lands embraced in the navy's largest petroleum preserve, but little could be gathered from the brief announcement as to the hazards and hardships this little band of men probably will face.

Southern Portions Surveyed.

Much of the region south of the reserve already has been surveyed by a party under direction of Dr. Phillip S. Smith, leader of the party now on its way to the Far North, and portions east of it also have been examined by J. M. Meritt, another member of this winter's expedition.

The present party, in addition to Doctor Smith and Meritt, will consist of William T. Moran, geologist; Gerald Fitzgerald and R. K. Lynn, topographic engineers, and several assistants. It will enter the region from the south, starting in midwinter when some of the transportation problems are least difficult. It will be left on its own resources for at least six months, and tons of supplies will have to be transported, mainly by dog-sled, for 400 miles, even before reaching the reserve.

At Tanana, dog teams will be purchased and packers, camp hands and dog-team drivers will be employed. From Tanana the technical members of the party will go forth with four teams, comprising 30 dogs, followed by slower freight teams. From Tanana the route leads down the Tanana river to Tanana, thence along the trail overland nearly 150 miles to the little mission of St. John's-in-the-Wilderness. From here the route will follow the Alutka river, a tributary of the Koyukuk, which rises in the high, rugged mountains that form the southern border of the naval reserve.

About 150 miles up the Alutka, the northern limit of timber lands, the party will establish a headquarters camp, from which it will explore the adjacent regions.

Will Kill Own Food.

From here on for a distance of 400 miles, over a vast stretch of tundra, the expedition will have to use Kerosene for cooking food, which will consist of moose, mountain sheep, carbon, ptarmigan, fish and the small black bears of northern Alaska, the latter to contribute materially to the provisioning of the dog teams.

These explorations will determine the most feasible pass across the mountains, and when found the party will move northward to the drainage basin of some tributary of the Colville river. Here two canoes will be cached with enough supplies to last four men a period of three months. The expedition will then push along to the west.

By this time the summer season will be near at hand and sledging no longer will be possible. One party of four will then return to the cache on the headwater stream of the Colville, while the other remains on the tributary of the Meade, each awaiting the break-up of the streams, after which the rest of the journey will be made by canoe.

After the ice breaks, the parties will descend the streams, mapping them

Dancer Sides London

by Hair Glow in Dark London.—A dancer at one of London's night clubs recently introduced the latest effort of the colorist, namely, hair which glows with a phosphoric kidney-cases in the dark.

Nothing could be detected when the ballroom lights were on, but when they were switched off the dancer could be distinguished by the greenish silvery halo around her head.

The effect is produced by a lotion containing some luminous property, recently brought into England from India.

and the surrounding country in addition to making geological researches. The Colville party later will make a portage across country to the Chipp or Ispikling river and descend it to Dease inlet, a bay lying about twenty-five miles east of Point Barrow. Meade river also enters this inlet and when the two parties meet here the survey of the region will have been practically completed. Return will be by way of Point Barrow, Nome and Seattle.

In Dory, He Starts 10,000 Mile Trip

Leaves Honolulu Without Nautical Chart or Anchor.

Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands.—No nautical event of recent times in Honolulu excited more widespread interest than the departure from here recently, of Ira C. Sparks for the Holy Land. He is a landlubber of Peru, Ind., and he embarked alone in a 23-foot dory, which he built with his own hands. To reach a Palestine port he must cross several of the seven seas and cover a distance of more than 10,000 miles. He set sail without anchor or nautical chart.

So interested were the United States naval authorities in the remarkable adventure which Sparks has undertaken that, when it was learned he had nothing with him to mark his bearings on the great expanse of ocean, a special navy seaplane scouted for Sparks' small craft and found it the second day after his departure from Honolulu, making the way slowly westward, 75 miles off shore. A nautical chart and a message of good wishes and good will, sealed in a water-tight can, were dropped into Sparks' boat from the seaplane.

Known as Fanatic.

Seaplanes from the naval air station here kept in touch with Sparks until after the third day, when he was reported still moving along toward the west, being about 125 miles away from his starting point when (day) sighted.

Sparks is known here as a religious fanatic. He first came into public notice just a year ago when he was discovered in a packing box on a trans-Pacific liner, as the vessel was nearing Honolulu. Sparks had shipped himself in the box as freight. He was taken off the ship here and kept in jail a few days, but his cheerful and kind demeanor won the friendship of the local authorities and he was permitted to go free. He got a job as carpenter at the Pearl Harbor naval station and began laying his plans for continuing his journey to the Holy Land.

With his earnings he bought a whale-boat, but, when he tested it, he found it unseaworthy. He blew it up with dynamite and then set about building his own boat. In this work he was assisted by experienced navigators, who designed the dory for him and gave him advice in the matter of outfitting the craft for the long cruise.

Finds Himself a Hero.

When the hour approached for casting off Sparks found himself a hero, not only of the hardened habitues of the water front but of hundreds of other people of Honolulu who were at the dock to bid him Godspeed. Hurling the sail and hauling in the line, Sparks bade adieu to Honolulu.

"I hate to leave you boys!" he called to a group of stevedores.

"Where is your anchor?" some one asked.

"I don't need one; I am not going to stop until I get there," was the reply.

Sparks had on board when he left here 50 gallons of water and enough hardtack and other food supplies to last him 100 days. His route is via the Marshall Islands and New Guinea, thence to Asiatic coastal waters. He carries no clearance papers or passports. It is said clearance papers only apply to vessels of 500 tons and upward.

It was in deference to a request of his parents, who live at Peru, that Sparks deferred several weeks starting on his long voyage. They had pleaded with him not to attempt the big adventure, but it is said he finally obtained their consent.

"I have faith that I shall succeed," Sparks said.

It is the expressed opinion of some experienced navigators here that faith may carry him through the many dangers of the deep. As to what he plans to do should he reach the Holy Land, Sparks seemed to have no very clear idea. The "call" came to him to go, and the work will be provided when he reaches there, he asserted.

heights of 500 miles or more above the earth. There is thus a reasonable hope for getting positive knowledge of very high altitudes through Doctor Goddard's experiments.

London Stock Exchange Now Has Coat of Arms

London.—After having been in existence for 180 years, the London Stock Exchange has realized that it is just as important as most of the other great city corporations which have their coats of arms, so the trustees and managers have decided that the stock exchange shall have a coat of arms all its own.

The College of Heraldry has submitted a design to the authorities and should this be approved the great bargaining house in Threadneedle street will have its own heraldic insignia.

Threw Old Gems Away

Here's the best yarn that has come out of a British drawing room for some time. A great aristocrat and political leader gave a big dinner party. All sorts of people were there. The wife of a new-rich was sitting opposite the wife of a labor leader. Somebody talked about jewelry.

Mrs. New-Rich spoke up: "I clean my diamonds with ammonia, my rubies with Bordeaux wine, my emeralds in Danzig brandy, my sapphires in fresh milk. And you, dear-friends?" So saying she turned condescendingly to the labor leader's wife. "Oh, I don't clean mine," said the latter silkily. "When they are dirty I simply throw them away!"—Detroit News.

Insomnia victims have found strange cures, such as counting imaginary sheep passing through a gate, but an inn keeper in Europe, when she discovers one of her guests has not slept well, turns his bed so it will face in another direction. She maintains from her long experience in catering to the comfort of travelers that some are "East and Westers," while others are "North and Southerners," or "West and Easters," when it comes to sleeping.

ROCKET-LIKE DEVICE MAY YIELD DATA OF UPPER AIR

Meteorologists Interested in New Experiments.

Washington.—Investigation of the temperature, pressure, density, and composition of the upper air at very high altitudes above the earth are of scientific value to meteorologists. For this reason, and not because of any fancied possibility of communicating with the moon, the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture is interested in the efforts of Doctor Goddard, of Clark university, to perfect a rocket-like device which will lead to information on these points. The type of rocket used in such investigations is intended to carry equipment for recording the facts of the upper air, for taking samples of the atmosphere, and, most important of all, for bringing them back.

Practically nothing is actually known at the present time of the atmospheric conditions more than twenty miles beyond the earth's surface. Such facts as are known about this 20-mile layer of atmosphere have been learned by means of balloons which can be sent no higher.

Aviators have only penetrated about seven miles above sea level—not much more than the height of the highest mountains. From two frequently observed upper-air phenomena—shooting stars and the aurora—entirely contradictory deductions have been made by reliable scientists respecting temperatures in the upper atmosphere. The facts in the matter cannot be determined until the very high atmospheric layers can be explored.

A study of rockets was made at the time of the World war, by means of which the underlying theory of this type of experiments was developed. It is considered entirely feasible to perfect properly devised rockets to

75% of disease avoided through internal cleanliness

WHY run the risk of sickness? Keep clean internally. When you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste. These poisons, absorbed by the blood, attack all parts of the body. The first results, headache, biliousness, a feeling of "heaviness," etc., serve as warnings of a graver danger. If this intestinal poisoning continues unchecked, you become the victim of some serious organic disease.

This is why intestinal specialists state that constipation is the primary cause of three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation
Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication
Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine
Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless. Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

RIGHT now let's get together. Forget all party differences. Forget private grudges. In fact, to win and get ahead, we've got to forget everything except this one fact, "United we Stand, Divided we Fall."

The "better roads" movement and the organization of the new Chamber of Commerce, the latter having been advocated by this paper last week, are two of the finest movements possible, but hearty co-operation is most essential to both movements.

When men fight amongst themselves, to the detriment of their community, they show poor business judgement, a lack of the proper spirit without which spirit, no community can survive.

So let's all get behind these two movements, and any others that will tend to better our condition, and with a united effort, get Carrizozo on the map as a progressive town.

An outbreak of rabies among coyotes, bobcats and dogs exists in Colorado on the southern end of the San Isabel Forest and its adjacent areas. This is the first time the disease has made its appearance in the State since the inauguration of predatory animal control and eradication work. To check the spread of the disease a systematic eradication campaign against all predatory animals and stray dogs is being carried out by the United States Biological Survey in co-operation with the State and local organizations. Three hunters and one biological assistant have been placed in this area and more hunters will be added if necessary. A fourth hunter has been detailed to prevent the spread of the disease eastward to Pueblo.

Giving the Telephone Life

YOU can talk across the continent as if face to face. Your telephone is the latch to open for you any door in the land.

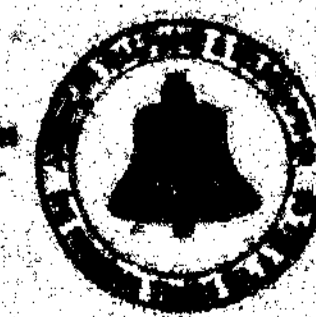

There is the web of wires. The many switchboards. The maze of apparatus. The millions of telephones. All are parts of a country-wide mechanism for far-speaking. The equipment has cost over two billion dollars, but more than equipment is needed.

There must be the guardians of the wires to keep them vital with speech-carrying electrical currents. There must be those who watch the myriads of tiny switchboard lights and answer your commands. There must be technicians of every sort to construct, repair and operate.

A quarter of a million men and women are united to give nation-wide telephone service. With their brains and hands they make the Bell System live.
