Forest Service Needs Rangers

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 5.—In order to fill vacancies in the ranger force of the Forest Service, the U. S. Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for forest ranger on Oct. 25th. In Arizona the examination will be held at Clifton, Flagstaff, Prescott, Roosevelt, Safford, Snowflake, Springerville, Tucson, and Williams, and in New Mexico at Alamogordo, Albuquerque, Magdalena, Santa Fe, Silver City, and Taos. Persons desiring to take the examination may secure application form No. 1312 from the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., from the Forest Supervisor at any of the examination places above mentioned, or from the District Forester, Albuquerque. The Commission urges that applicants secure this form immediately.

The work of the forest ranger is largely out-of-doors, in mountainous regions, and the Forest Service is particularly anxious to secure men who like mountain work, and can take care of themselves and their saddle-horses in remote regions. Applicants must be able-bodied, and are required to pass a medical examination; and must be between the ages of twenty-one and forty years. Persons entitled to preference because of military or naval service are exempt from age requirements. Rangers must be capable of performing such manual labor as fighting forest fires, and building cabins, trails, and telephone lines. They must have a common school education, and know the rudiments of compass surveying, timber scaling, estimating, land laws, and the livestock industry. A good fund of common sense and experience in kindred of work such as engineering or lumbering, materially help the applicants.

Sir Philip Gibbs Revels In Dreams

To the Sun and New York Herald: Sir Philip Gibbs asks, "Is Europe Dying?" and after a careful summary of conditions today throughout Europe answers from the viewpoint of England as follows:

There is only one cure for the woes of Europe and our own, not easy, but bound to come unless we are looking for downfall. It is the reconciliation of peoples burying of hatchets, wiping out of old villainies and cooperating in a much closer union of mutual help under the direction of a league of nations, made democratic and powerful by the free consent and ardent impulses of the common folk.

There must come new leaders before that can happen, new enthusiasm for the ideals of life, a new spirit of unselfishness and service for the common weal, and just now we do not see them coming.

One may concede that the report of conditions in Europe today furnished by Sir Philip Gibbs is an understatement of the truth and yet not agree with the conclusions set forth.

When again the conscience of the world awakens it to a sense of its obligations "the free consent and ardent impulses of the common folk" will bring about "the reconciliation of peoples, burying of old hatchets, wiping out of old villainies" and even cooperation "in a much closer union of mutual help" without the necessity for any such adventitious aid as that contained in a league of nations; but now conscience sleeps while hunger gnaws.

The world, if it is to survive, must eat. Voices in the air, visions on the far horizon, dreams, ideals, all lofty and inspired thoughts contribnte their quota to the world's advance by setting up goals toward which we should strive, but the world, like Napoleon's army, crawls on it's belly, and if the necessities with which to sustain life be lacking not only can there be no advance, but instead the world will die, howsoever beautiful may be the picture of its future state visualized in the minds of the idealists

In our eagerness to crush that hateful thing typified by the word Prussianism we utilized the inspiration of lofty ideals, just as we used all of our material resources, and in the enthusiasm of vidtory permitted our dreamers to attempt to settle all differences in the world, to make all things conform to their mental picture of what the world should be.

Even the "wets" are distrustful of Cox. He seems to be assured only of the votes of George White and First Cousin Roosevelt.

Old Timer Leaves.

A. C. Wingfield, or "Gus," as his best friends speak of him, left Tuesday morning for Manatee, Florida, where he will conduct a meat market. Mr. Wingfield was what we generally term an old-timer in this locality. He came to the town of White Oaks in the time of the gold boom in 1887, entering into the mining business, in which he remained for nineteen years. During this time he was connected with the Little Mack, North and South Homestake, and at one time leased the Old Abe gold mine. He came to Carrizozo in the year of 1906, entering into the meat business in which he continued until about nine months ago when he retired and since that time has been dealing in some of the many oil ventures in Texas. Mr. Wingfield's many friends in this locality will be sorry to learn of his departure after so many years among as, but will wish him the best of everything.

Carrizozo School Notes

(By Supt. E. E. Cole)

The Camp Fire Girls had a candy sale, the early part of this week, and netted the neat little sum of about ten dollars, The money will be nsed to buy equipment.

On Friday last week the eighth grade, with Mrs. Gumm, had a "hike" to Indian Rocks. At the same time the ninth grade, with Misses Herron and Fordon, had a "weinie roast" at the Bar W ranch. Both trips were made after school Friday afternoon.

At the beginning of this school-year, we wish to extend to Mr. Burke, of the Outlook, and Mr. Haley, of the News, our thanks for the column each week of last year, to be devoted to school news. It has been a great help to us in getting our school items before the parents and the public.

The pupils themselves are very anxious to have us print, each week, the names of those who belong to the Honor Roll. The Honor Roll contains the names of those pupils who were neither absent nor tardy during the past school month. The following is the Honor Roll for September:

Corona Notes

W. C. Jackson, sheep and cattle buyer, was in town last Monday looking over the prospects of getting some good fat range cattle for shipping east.

D. J. Nutter, formerly of Roy, N. M., has accepted a position with the Corona Trading Co. He is to take the place of Mr. Barre, who intends to leave here soon. Mr. Nutter is accompanied by his wife and little daughter.

Mrs. B. N. Long was a business visitor in town last Saturday.

A novel event was held here last Friday by the local school in the form of a kite flying. Many kites were entered in the event and many of them were of excellent construction. Three prizes of pocket knives were awarded to the young gentlemen that flew his kite highest. The first prize went to James Simpson, second to Norriss Jefferies and third to Euell Norton. We are very glad to see the teachers take an interest in the sports of the younger folk and hope to see more contests of different kinds at various times.

George Clements, Jr., Mrs. Ruben Boone and Miss McDonald came up from Carrizozo last Saturday to take in the dance we had here. Mrs. Boone and Miss McDonald spent the week-end end with Mrs. P. H. Kersey, returning to Carrizozo the follow-Monday.

Did we have a Dance last Saturday night? Well, you will have to ask the crowd that was in attendance. We haven't the the heart to say; but from the size of the crowd we feel safe in saying that it was SOME dance! The music, furnished by the local Orchestra, was up to the expectations and a little bit more. One of the best crowds that has been seen for a long time was present, and joy was unconfined. (Going to have another one next Saturday, too.)

Miss Charlotte New, one of the local teachers, has undergone a minor operation at Dr Stone's Hospital last week. She was able to resume her duties Monday morning.

Harold Beeth was up from Beeth's Spur last Saturday and reports things are progressing nicely at the present time. They are getting out three to five cars of ore per week, and are thinking of putting on a night shift at an early date.

Sleep, Sleep, Peaceful Sleep

Last Sunday afternoon at the stroke of four, occured the passing from what we call life of Mrs. Ethel Weekly Cribb. Mrs. Cribb had been in ill health for some time past, and in spite of the heroic efforts of her faithful husband, who sought diligently for every means of benefit, she gradually weakened, passing away at the time mentioned above. Rev. Douglas, pastor of the Methodist Church of which the deceased was a member, was at Conference at the time of her death, and being notified, took the first train for here. The train was delayed, however, and in view of the fact that it would not arrive here until 6:30 on the day of the funeral which occured Monday, Rev. L. S. Smith of the Baptist Church was requested to preach the funeral sermon, which he gladly did.

A quartet of ladies composed of Mesdames C. A. Hooper, S. L. Squier, R. E. Lemon, and Miss Ula Edmiston, sang beautiful selections, which were: "Lead Kindly Light," "Asleep in Jesus," "He Leadeth Me," which were among the favorite hymns of Mrs. Cribb. Rev. Smith preached a sermon full of love, sympathy, and consolation. His text was: "I would not have you ignorant, brethern, concerning those who are asleep; that you sorrow not, as those who have no hope." His beautiful tribute to the Christian life of the deceased, and his words of comfort and condolence to the loved ones left behind, were as from a tounge touched by a coal from off the altar of God. At the grave, the quartett sang "Nearer My God to Thee" as the casket was lowered to its last resting place in Mother Earth.

To attempt to do justice to a life of Christian fidelity like that of Mrs. Cribbs, is beyond the power of human hands to pen; although she suffered long, she endured with heroic bravery born of a strength beyond what human eyes couid behold At times when her condition would permit, she penned beautiful poetry, many of her selections being published in the different Church papers and periodicals. During the late war, Mrs. Cribb penned an answer to Col. John McRae's poem, "We Shall Not Sleep" the title of which was, "Our Answer" which was published in this paper on May 9, 1919 which read as follows:

On Flanders fields the poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row,
Where sleep the noble dead. You paid
The highest sacrifice; you made
The fight supreme against the foe.

And as you fell, to us who live
You flung the torch and bade us give
Our best to keep it bright;
Nor break the faith with you who fight
No more where Flanders poppies blow.

'Twas not in vain that it is so.
We'll keep the sacred flame aglow.
So sweetly sleep; and know we share
The vision that you saw out there
On Flanders fields, where poppies blow.

To the sorrowing husband and relatives, the keenest sympathy of the entire community is extended.

County Commissioners Meet

The Board of County Commissioners met in regular session Monday and completed their labors Wednesday afternoon. A good budget of business was transacted, as is generally so at the quarterly meetings.

The crisis was reached the following summer. They met afterwards in a cafe. Hunt was haggard, unkempt. He had fallen off in weight, and his sunken face, bloodshot eyes, trembling fingers, were signs of the terrific strain he had undergone. Fitzhugh, in marked contrast, never appeared more fresh or more self-contained. They had ordered champagne, and when they clinked their glasses he smiled reassuringly at his white-faced companion. It was only the bare flicker of a smile that vanished as suddenly as it came. Fitzhugh did not often smile in those days.

"How much did you say we had netted, Hunt? Tell me again. It's music to my ear."

"Three millions and over, Dan. Three millions and over. Dan—" Hunt leaned impulsively across the table, seized his friend's hand, wrung it with fervor— "Dan, if ever I try to advise you again, I—Dan, I'll never try to hold you back again as long as I live!"

CHAPTER XIII.

Selling his long line of spring and summer wheat, Fitzhugh bought three million bushels of the September option. He was now become known as the greatest of the bulls. Every big buying order was laid to him. His appearances in the pit grew more infrequent. He distributed his commands among six or seven different brokers. Crops were universally bad. The United States had not yet felt the European demand, but it would come soon, and he knew it would be heavy. He knew wheat would rise still higher, and he gradually increased his holdings in September to six million bushels.

Then came the cry from Europe—an insistent cry—the cry for bread. He received a code-cable from his agent in Liverpool: "Can negotiate five million wheat. Name price."

He sold his six millions at an advance of twenty cents a bushel, and in one vast swoop bought in eight million bushels of July. And Hunt so far forgot his pledge as to remonstrate.

"Aren't you forcing your luck, Dan? It seems to me—"

"And it seems to me," cut in the "plunger," looking up from the work on his desk, "that I know just what I'm doing. That wheat cost seventy-five cents. It'll go up to a dollar before July."

"But what if it doesn't?"

"But it will. It'll go to a dollar if I send it to a dollar. And I'll send it to a dollar. And then—I"

"Huh!" Hunt started. "You don't mean—"

"Never mind. I'll tell you later."

He told him then, however; had so intended doing when he entered his office that morning. It was quite the biggest thing thus far in his career, and of late he had worked on it, quietly, indefatigably, vouchsafing Hunt, because he was not for a while sure of it, hardly more than a hint of what he was planning. He had stationed correspondents in all the European markets. He had held many secret conferences with two Packingtown millionaires, big gamblers both, who played a hidden game. And now, this morning, the thing which had been building these months past was no longer nebulous to his vision. It stood forth vividly, nakedly, complete and beautiful in every detail.

"Today," said he, leaning across the flat-topped desk and regarding his auditor fixedly, "you and I own, and I control, approximately eight million bushels of July wheat. Within two months I shall control fifteen million bushels. By July I expect to control over forty million bushels."

"But, Dan! How the dickens—"

"Marsh and Allport are in the pool."

Hunt subsided, nodding understandingly.

"You've seen the harvesting returns, Hunt? You know America's crops are going to be small. Same in Europe. French crops are poor; Germany's worse. Argentine's will be the smallest for the last ten years. Europe will have to look to America for her wheat. But America won't be able to give it to her. There'll be mighty little wheat in Chicago by July; and that little will be locked tight in my pool. Do you begin to understand?"

The way Hunt chewed and puffed at his cigar proved that he understood. Yet he dared not utter what he already knew.

"Symington Otis is bearing the market," he said, his hands gripped tightly round the arms of his chair. "He knows you're long on July wheat, too, and—" He checked himself, struck by a sudden thought: "I'm hanged if you're not doing this to beat him!"

Fitzhugh's iron jaw tensed. "He thinks I'm doing it alone. He'll fight me for all he's worth. So much the worse for him."

Hunt gave full vent to his excitement: "Where's he going to get his wheat? That's what I want to know." He shoved back his chair, unable longer to restrain himself, unable longer to keep unvoiced the thing uppermost in both their minds. "We can do it, Dan, we can do it! We'll corner the market!"

Daniel shook his head. "I will corner the market."

Hunt pounded his fist into his open palm. "And smash Otis!" he cried, exultantly. "You owe him one, Dan. Smash Otis!"

"Smash Otis?" Daniel laughed. There was no mirth in the laughter. "Smash Otis, you say? If Symington Otis gets in my way I'll—crush him!" And with a spasmodic movement his fingers contracted, and from wrist to shoulder beneath their tweed covering the rippling muscles of his arms stood out in cords.

• • • • • • •

Otis was planning another of his celebrated bear raids. He was resolved it should be the mightiest he had ever led. He gathered in money from every available source. Realizing the market disfavored him, he was determined to conquer it by sheer force of capital.

His first onslaught, started in April, made little if any impression, and he redoubled his attack. Still the enemy showed no sign of weakening. Again and again he charged, but every rush was met and repulsed. He was overwhelmed with buying orders. They swamped him from every side. He stopped, puzzled. He had not accounted his opponent half so powerful. Otis, however, was not the hesitant sort of general. Marshaling his heavy artillery, he dashed upon the battlefield, fighting with the implacability that from the beginning had characterized his long career in financial warfare. This charge, too, was easily buffeted. But no white flag was shown. Beating a retreat, the grim old warrior gathered his forces together for a fresh onset. The next clash, he decided, would be the decisive one.

By the middle of June Fitzhugh was all but clear of the pit.

When Fitzhugh formulated the pool to corner July wheat it was understood that, no matter what might arise, he was to be free to follow the dictates of his own judgment. For this and other reasons the names of the Packingtown millionaires were never disclosed, and few know the main fount of his mammoth resources.

His marvelous vitality gave continual wonder to his associates. He was made of iron. He would work eighteen hours a day, dispatching with sureness and speed the thousand pressing duties that crowded upon him, taking his meals on the wing, and requiring of the twenty-four but four or five hours for sleep. Most amazing of all, he displayed never an ill sign of the red-hot tension under which he worked, but seemed to thrive on it. He was always fresh and eager for each day's tasks.

His last battle with Symington Otis was the most spectacular of the final trilogy. It began on the morning of July first and lasted for three terrific days. As the gong sounded on that first morning Fitzhugh appeared in the pit, girded for the fray.

With the stroke of the opening gong Otis' lieutenants began to sell wheat. There were three of them, with orders to sell half a million each. Then came an unfathomable surprise: Fitzhugh sold wheat! Bushel for bushel, he sold as fast as his adversaries.

The price reeled and dropped dizzily. The preceding day it had closed strong at one dollar; by eleven that morning it was unsteady at ninety-six and a half.

At the height of the furious conflict, Fitzhugh, who was the core of it, became aware of some one tearing at his arm and yelling in his ear:

"Dan! Dan! Have you gone crazy?"

Beholding Hunt screaming at the top of his voice, he wrenched loose from the mob surrounding him and, seizing his subordinate under the armpits, lifted him clear outside the pit.

At the close of the day's session wheat had dropped to ninety-four and an eighth, where it swayed uncertainly. Otis had sold two million bushels, Fitzhugh had sold a like amount.

"Good-day, gentlemen!"

There was no answer beyond an uneasy cough from Hunt. Fitzhugh looked at the three stony faces silently condemning him.

"In good truth," he laughed, "a Daniel come to judgment!"

But when he sat at his desk the vertical lines were between his brows. He took a deliberately long time to light a cigar, then, extinguishing the match and depositing it carefully in an ash tray, he settled himself comfortably in his chair and said:

"You all remember it was agreed in the beginning I was to run this thing, and I shall run it in my own way or not at all."

"But confound it, man," exploded Marsh, who had been holding his tongue with difficulty, "what in the name of common sense do you mean by selling?"

"Who owns the most wheat—Symington Otis or us? How long will his crowd last if they try to outsell us? Don't you see?"

"I'll make it clearer. Suppose Otis' crowd knocks July wheat off fifteen or twenty points. Very well. Immediately they stop selling—perhaps before—I'll begin buying. Then, as an elastic band that has been stretched to its utmost, July wheat will spring back. It'll go to a dollar. It'll go beyond a dollar. I'll see to that!"

"I don't like it," said Marsh sourly.

"Mr. Otis," continued Daniel, and there was a hard ring in his voice that caused Hunt and Allport to exchange meaning glances, "thinks he has me on the run. He's boasting how he licked me in today's skirmish, of how I turned tail at the first fire. But wait till he springs my pitfall. Wait! I've got him!"

The discussion lasted until nearly nightfall. By grace of his power of persuasion no less than by his dominant personality and strength of purpose, Fitzhugh finally induced the others to admit that his course was the best one. When they went out through the quiet, brightly lighted offices the four were on very amicable terms; and the hot words of discussion that had frequently passed between them were quite forgotten.

"There's one thing," Fitzhugh said in parting, "I want to impress upon you three. When we have defeated Otis, I want to deal with him in my own way. Remember that"—looking keenly into each face. "I want to deal with Symington Otis in my own way."

Promptly next morning Otis renewed the combat. It occupied every minute of that day's session, and, as on the preceding day, raged with a tit-for-tat uproar. When the closing gong sounded he had sold, altogether, over four million bushels of July wheat: wheat of which he owned not a grain, but which he expected to buy later—and deliver as promised—at a lower price than he had sold it for. And, the same as yesterday, his opponent had sold with him, bushel for bushel.

Otis was flushed with the elation of his obvious victory.

"It's all over," he confided to a friend that evening, as he sat down smilingly to a well-ordered dinner. Otis was living at his club these days, his wife and daughter having gone abroad for the summer. "All over but the shouting. Tomorrow I'll finish him. He'll be snapped out of the Chicago wheat pit like a gnat—just as I once told him a long time ago."

Simultaneously with the dawning of the third day of battle Otis took the aggressive. And simultaneously there came a surprise. His promises of wheat were gobbled up as fast as they were offered. Buying orders poured in from all sides, deluging his traders. He increased his selling. The buying likewise increased. He began to fight desperately, flooding the pit with his selling commands. But it was as though he poured sand in the ocean.

Fitzhugh had not appeared on the "floor" since the first day. From his private office he sent orders to a dozen or more brokers. All these orders were, "Buy July wheat." All were to take effect this morning. He cabled his representatives in Liverpool and Paris. These cablegrams also read, "Buy July wheat." They, too, became effective this morning. In all, he issued instructions to purchase twelve million bushels, or approximately double the amount he had sold on the prior two days.

The market that morning was like a kite in a windstorm. It zigzagged crazily. Shortly, however, it steadied, hung stationary an instant, then bounded upward. Up, tugging determinedly, it climbed with a rapidity that outstripped its falling the day before. Otis gave orders to cease all selling. Like a released spring, the price leaped higher still. At the close of the day's session it stood at a dollar and twenty-five cents, with a tendency to mount beyond.

The next day was Sunday. Monday's trading increased in frenzy. The price ascended more and more stiffly. Otis did nothing. He dared not cover his promises by buying. By so doing he would put up the price on himself. He dared not sell, for every bushel he sold would be sold at a loss. Word passed swiftly from mouth to mouth that Symington Otis, the big bear, had fought his final fight and was down at last.

THE ANIMALS TALK.

"My baby did not drink with her trunk until she became a little older than a baby!" said Mother Elephant. "At first she drank with her dear little elephant mouth and then with her trunk as is the way with elephants. And when she used her precious little mouth when she was but a baby elephant she would throw her trunk over her head in such an adorable fashion."

"Of course," said Mother Hippopotamus, "all baby elephants do the same, don't they?"

"Ah, that may be so," said Mother Elephant. "But to every mother her own child seems the most wonderful in the world even if the child may do just the same as every other child has done. Isn't that so, Mother Hippopotamus?"

"Yes, that is so. I am the last creature to deny that, for, in fact, I couldn't deny it. I couldn't because I agree absolutely with what you say."

"So I couldn't deny what you say, could I?"

"You couldn't, it is true," smiled Mother Elephant.

"We," said Mother Hippopotamus, "are amphibious."

"Well, you may be," said Mother Elephant. "You may be, it is very true, and then again you may not be. That also might be just as true."

"Why? pray tell," asked Mother Hippopotamus.

"Well, my dear Hippo," said Mother Elephant, "if I said something you didn't understand I am sure your answer might very well be confusing and confused and all such things."

"So you don't know what I said; that is, you don't understand it?" asked Mother Hippopotamus. "Well, you're amphibious yourself, so you should know what I mean."

"I am," said Mother Elephant, "and yet don't know it? I am still more puzzled and confused. Do, pray, explain to me, and now that you tell me I am amphibious or whatever you call it, too, I am even more curious.

"Is my beautiful child elephant amphibious also?"

"Yes," said Mother Hippopotamus.

"Then tell me at once what it means," said Mother Elephant. "I am sure it must mean something fine if my dear baby is it, too."

Mother Hippopotamus grinned, one of her enormous and extremely funny grins.

"I will tell you," she said.

"I am waiting to hear," said Mother Elephant.

"When a creature is amphibious," said Mother Hippopotamus, "it means that that creature can live in both the water and on the land. Now an amphibious animal means one, as you'd imagine, who lives on the land and yet can live in the water, too, or the other way about. I am an amphibious animal and so are you and so is the baby elephant, and so is old Mrs. Rhinoceros and Mr. Tapir and Mr. and Mrs. Seal and their family. We're all amphibious because we can live on the land and in the water. Is it not so? When you were free did you not spend a great deal of time in swamps, and is not that the reason why you receive an oil bath once a year so your skin won't crack?"

"That is the reason," said Mother Elephant, "and they will give an oil bath to the baby, too, for though the baby has never been in the jungles it will have skin like its mother as it grows up.

"We make very nice mothers; we care for our children and we look after them as do the little monkey mothers though we are so much bigger. But we look after our young in much the same way and feed them very carefully at first. We don't feed them worms as the birds feed their young. Nor do we feed them peanuts. We give them good nourishing drinks of a sort of milk. Well, so I'm amphibious and didn't know it! Well, I'll teach the baby that word. Yes, my lovely baby will know it and will also hear of how her mother used to live in the far-off swamps!"

SIX MONTHS I COULD NOT WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Me Strong and Able to Work—I Recommend It To All My Friends.

Bayonne, N. J.—"I had pains in back and legs so that I could not stand caused by female trouble. I felt so tired all the time, had bad headaches, and for six months I could not work. I was treated by a physician and took other remedies but got no relief. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me very much. I am well and strong and now able to do my work. I cannot thank you enough and I recommend your medicine to my friends who are sick."—Mrs. SUSIE SACATANSKY, 25 East 17th St., Bayonne, N. J.

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for over forty years, and today hold a record for such wonderful success as does Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

80 Years Old —Was Sick

Now Feels Young After Taking Eatonic for Sour Stomach

"I had sour stomach ever since I had the grip and it bothered me badly Have taken Eatonic only a week and am much better. Am 80 years old," says Mrs. John Hill.

Eatonic quickly relieves sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, bloating and distress after eating because it takes up and carries out the excess acidity and gases which cause most stomach ailments. If you have "tried everything" and still suffer, do not give up hope. Eatonic has brought relief to tens of thousands like you. A big box costs but a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

Notice, Lady Voters!

The Woman's Club has arranged to hold an instruction meeting Friday afternoon, October 8th, at 4 o'clock, at the Court House. Be sure to attend.

An Open Letter.

Ladies and Gentlemen:- As voters and taxpayers, it is due you to know what the people who are seeking your preference at the polls on the second of next November, have to offer in return for that preference, what qualifications they may possess to warrant you in placing them in the office they seek, what assurance they can give that as public servants they will efficiently administer your affairs, if elected.

The time for blind partisanship in the selection of county officials has passed. Ability to perform the duties efficiently and impartially is of first importance and a realization of this fact impels me to address you this message. As candidate of the republican party for assessor of Lincoln County, I ask your support in the coming election and in return for such preference, I submit the following for your consideration:

The duties of the assessor's office are not new to me; in Socorro County I served as a member of the Board of County Commissioners two years, and as deputy assessor at different times over four years. In this county during the past eighteen years my business has been such as to keep me in close touch with all the county offices. My occupation as surveyor has made me acquainted with the character and condition of lands in every part of the county; I am familiar with conditions in the county and the various lines of industry all of which will enable me, if elected, to give you efficient service. I have no friends to favor or enemies to punish and if I am elected I assure you that I will serve you faithfully and impartially.

I earnestly ask your support.

CLEMENT HIGHTOWER,
Hondo, N. M.

R. G. C. Jenkins, who, with Mrs. Jenkins, are visiting Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Cole, are highly pleased with this section of New Mexico. Mr. Jenkins took a trip to El Paso and spent a few days returning the middle of the week.

Mrs. Jenkins came here feeling quite ill and in view of that fact, thought it would prove a sad drawback, but she has recovered completely and is now enjoying the pureness of the mountain air and climate in general. Mr. Jenkins is a conductor on the Union Pacific running west out of Omaha, Nebraska. The Jenkins family will remain for another week, after which they will visit California before returning home.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Look Out for Rheumatism As Winter Approaches

So many cases of Rheumatism come from a tiny disease germ that infests the blood, that physicians are beginning to realize that this source of the disease is becoming quite prevalent. Of course a disease that has its source in the blood cannot be reached by local remedies applied to the surface.

One remedy that has given splendid results in the treatment of Rheumatism is S.S.S., the fine old blood remedy that has been sold by druggists for more than fifty years. S.S.S. acts by driving out of the blood the disease germ that causes Rheumatism, thus affording real relief.

Begin taking S.S.S. today and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice, without charge. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 151 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

MOB BREAKS UP CELEBRATION

'DOWN WITH ENGLAND'

POLICE CALLED IN TO DISPERSE MOB THAT HAD TAKEN POSSESSION OF MEETING.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

New York, Sept. 30.—Police were called to Carnegie hall to eject a crowd of men and women who forced their way into the building during the tercentenary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims. The intruders carrying banners with anti-British inscriptions created disorder with shouts of "Hurrah for America," "Down with England."

The disturbance reached such proportions that it was impossible for the speakers to continue, and it was decided to adjourn.

A group of women who said they were members of an organization known as "The American Women Pickets for the Enforcement of America's War Aims" led the intruders. Some of the banners they carried bore the names of British delegates to the tercentenary celebration and characterized the delegates as "British spies."

The disturbance started when the British anthem, "God Save the King" was reached. Several boys and girls in a chorus of the musical program left the stage, saying they would not sing the number and that they did not know it was on the program.

When the piano and organ that accompanied the chorus broke into the strains of the British anthem shouts arose in various parts of the hall. The instruments continued, however, and part of the chorus and audience started singing the words of "America." At this time many of the chorus left the stage.

When the music stopped Samuel Gompers tried to speak, but his voice was drowned in the uproar and he gave up the attempt. The meeting then was called off. Immediately after several of the women went to Mr. Gompers and apologized for interrupting his speech. They said the demonstration was not directed at him. Mr. Gompers made no reply.

Secretary of State Colby was scheduled to speak, but he had not arrived when the disturbance began.

Mrs. Gertrude Corliss, president of the American Pickets, declared after the meeting broke up that "This organization knows there is a plot to make the United States a part of the British empire and that this Sulgrave institution is a party to it."

The chief motive for the demonstration, the women said, was to protest against "inveigling American boys and girls into singing the British national anthem," which, they said, was "a treasonable act."

Lumber Takes Another Drop.

Kansas City, Mo.—Reductions in retail lumber prices ranging from 10 to 20 per cent, according to grade of the product, have been announced by all retail lumber dealers here. The reduction is the fourth this year and makes a decline of 20 to 40 per cent from the peak prices of last May, the dealers say.

Hundreds of Ships Tied Up.

Washington.—More than 750 merchant ships are tied up in British ports and several hundred in Japanese harbors, according to official dispatches from London. Low rates and general slump in ocean traffic are said to be the cause. Only twenty-six shipping board vessels are laid up in American ports, it is understood.

Unnatural Flavor.

A girl from Gotham was visiting a friend "up the state," who was trying to run a model chicken farm. The girl was much interested in all that was shown her, particularly a line of incubators, in front of which she made this observation:

"So you have incubators? Very nice, indeed; but I am afraid that artificial chickens can never taste like natural ones."

Wasted Effort.

Vice Presidential Candidate Coolidge was commenting on a rival political party. "It reminds me," he said, "of the little boy who hurt his finger.

"'How did you do it?' cried the anxious mother.

"'With a hammer,' sobbed Willie.

"'But I didn't hear you cry.'

"'I didn't know you were in the house,' was the reply."

Could Leave It to Him.

"I must break the engagement, and yet I don't want people to say I jilted him," said Maud.

"I have it. Invite him to tea," suggested her friend.

"Yes?"

"Make some of your tea biscuits."

"Yes?"

"And he will break it himself."

The Main Question.

"Should Lefthook or Plexus win that prize fight?"

"Lefthook should have the best of the argument."

Punishing the Missus.

"Does Friend Wife call you often during office hours?"

"She used to," said Mr. Gilpping, "but I cured her."

"How?"

"I hired an office girl to answer the telephone, who has a voice like a cooing dove."

The County Ticket

The Lincoln County Republicans in Convention assembled have placed in nomination a ticket with which it can well appeal to the people for support. The Convention used the best judgment possible in the selection of candidates, and while like other bodies of this nature, there were contests for certain offices which were strongly fought out on the floor but they all ended in a good-natured manner as shown by the fact that the losers were good losers, and joined in the unanimous voice of the big Convention which conclusively showed that harmony would be preserved at all hazards for the good of the party.

The County Ticket is in every way worthy of the public support. The candidates who appear thereon are qualified in every detail to perform the duties of the different offices to which they ask the people of this County to elect them. R. A. Duran, the present incumbent as Sheriff, Mrs. M. L. Blaney, present incumbent as County School Superintendent, are finishing their respective terms, and their records are open books to the people for their inspection. Sheriff Duran has framed a letter to the voters with a statement of his expenses, etc., which points to the fact that his administration has been economical, and asks support if the people beleive that he has served the County as becoming an official in his station.

Mrs. M. L. Blaney's record while in office has been a continual display of wisdom, economy, and impartiality. School Districts in the Rural localities have been wonderfully improved. Many new and convenient school houses have been erected, transportation of pupils made more certain and convenient, and everybody satisfied — what more could we want? For Treasurer, William Gallacher, with his vast amount of acquaintanceship and many good qualities will appeal to the people as the ideal candidate for that office. For County Clerk, the people could do no better than to place Will T. Cox in the position of public confidence, to which he asks the people's support. For Assessor, Clement Hightower is the candidate and a man who is fully capable to assume the duties of the office which is a very important one. Here the people's interests must be taken into consideration so as to equalize taxes to the justice of all concerned, and such interests will be taken care of by the gentleman who seeks the people's suffrage.

For County Commissioners, the people will certainly rally to the support of the gentlemen who are candidates on the Republican ticket. Benj. Lujan is a live, energetic business man, who will conduct the affairs of the County in the same good and economical manner in which he attends to his own business, and with the same measure of success. Dr. J. T. Stone, who through his profession, has many friends through the County, and by virtue of the fact that his cool-headed, business-like manner of conducting affairs of an important nature is well established, will make him a good associate of Messrs. Lujan and A. L. Hulbert, the latter being a successful rancher near Lincoln. Here is a good combination with which to form a board of County Commissioners. A business man, a stockman, and a professional man, coupled together, includes the interests of our county in general.

Chas. Felton Grey of Oscuro, who is a candidate for Representative of the three counties, Lincoln, Otero and Socorro, and Henry Lutz of Carrizozo as a Representative for Lincoln County are gentlemen who are well known, well qualified, and will be elected to these positions by a handsome vote which they justly deserve. In connection, we would not overlook the candidacy of Benson J. Newell for this District as District Attorney. He is capable, concientious, fair dealing, young lawyer with a vast amount of experience and should be elected by the largest majority ever given a candidate for that important office.

Verily, the Ticket is worthy of public support!

New Mexico Boy Gets Rhodes Scholarship

State College, N.M., Sept. 30—At a meeting of the board or examiners for Rhodes scholars from the State of New Mexico recently held in Albuquerque, John V. Hopkins of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts was elected Rhodes scholar for the 1921-22 session at Oxford University, England. This is the first year that State College students have been eligible for Rhodes scholarships. Formerly, applicants must have studied Greek and Latin, which are not taught at the College. This requirement was abolished a few months ago, with the result that the first State College candidate successfully passed the examinations.

Mr. Hopkins was prominent in all forms of college activity. He played fullback on the 1919-20 football team, took an active part in the literary and debating society, and was a member of the Student Commission. His home is in Magdalena, N. M.

He sails for England some time next summer, to take up his work at Oxford in October, 1921.

Chas. Felton Grey

Chas. Felton Grey was born in Chicago, but remained there only long enough to secure such education as was afforded by the Public Schools, High Schools and an engineerng course at the Chicago University.

At the age of 17, that was 14 years ago, he came to Lincoln County. He believed that New Mexico was the land of opportunity, and he has never changed his mind.

He spent three years as an erecting engineer for the Fairbanks-Morse Mfg. Co., and then decided that he wanted, for his own a part of the land. He secured the way that the majority of the people secure theirs, by the sacrifice and labor that go with homesteading a 320 acre tract.

His experiences were just those of the ordinary man of this State. His opportunities for studying conditions were increased by the fact that he is a licensed surveyor and in that capacity has studied and examined much of this section of the State. He knows that with the coming of capital, seeking honest investment and large returns, this State is destined to become one of the most prosperous in the Union.

In 1917 he went into the Mercantile business in Oscuro which he is still operating. His references are those who have transacted business with him and among whom he has lived.

His platform as the Republican candidate for member of the Legislature is simple. Everything that will help, not hamper, the turning of the natural resources of the State to the use of the people that will assist in bringing more people to build and enjoy life in this favored land.

Recent Carrizozo Flyer Meets Disaster

Fort Bliss, Texas, Oct. 5, 1920
The 'LINCOLN STANDARD' aeroplane that visited Carrizozo about a month ago was wrecked at El Paso, on October 4. The engine had just been overhauled at 11:20 and the motor was tested for about ten minutes before the plane took the air. After arising the engine began to sputter, but the plane was kept under control for about 15 minutes when the engine began to act better. They then began doing stunts and had wandered away from the field when the engine stopped. In landing outside the field one wing was broken and the machine landed on its nose, tearing itself up quite badly. The two men escaped with slight scratches.

The Farmer's Worst Enemy—Rats.—The Farmer's Best Friend—Rat-snap

These are the words of James Baxter, N. J.: "Ever since I tried Rat-snap I have always kept it in the house. Never fails. Used about $3.00 worth of Rat-snap a year and figure it saves me $300 in chicks, eggs and feed. Rat-snap is convenient. Just break up cake, no mixing with other food." Three sizes, 35c, 65c and $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Rolland Bros., and Kelly & Son.

Mrs. A. G. Bennet, formerly Mrs. May H. Rhodes, left on No. 4 Thursday for New York City to join her husband, who is now in that city in the interest of the Pass City Coal Co. and other business activities. It has always been said that a woman could never keep a secret, but Mrs. Bennet proved an exception to the rule, as the couple have been married for some time and even their nearest friends knew nothing of the marriage until a few days ago. Luke Rhodes, son of Mrs. Bennet, will leave shortly to join the folks in the east. It is hoped, however, that they will return to White Oaks before the coming summer.

Big Doings at Alamo.

Wednesday night there were some big doings at Alamogordo in I. O. O. F. circles. Nine members of Carrizozo Lodge No. 31 journeyed to that place where the Alamo Drill Team, with the aid of the Carrizozo Odd Fellows initiated four candidates. Those who "rode the goat" were: Messrs. Hale, Hutchinson, Ashe and Rev. L. S. Smith. The Alamo Odd Fellows gave their visiting brethren a royal welcome. They escorted them over the city until 5 o'clock when a bountiful supper was served. After the initiatory work was performed a social smoker and lunch was indulged in. The local members are high in their praise of their entertainment at the hands of the Alamo lodge. Those attending from here were: Messrs. Hutchinson, Hale, Smith, Carl, Langston, Foreman, Miller, Ashe and Roselle. The Rebeccas did the serving at the supper which will long be remembered by those who were fortunate in taking part in the well arranged affair.

"LAND OF PLENTY"

Western Canada a Country of Marvelous Fertility.

Literally Hundreds of Miles of Wonderful Grain Fields Delight the Eye —Yields Will Run Well Over a Billion Dollars.

A trip through the wheat fields of Western Canada may lack the inspiration, such as one may find working insidiously through his being as he traverses the mountain areas of Canada, rich in the variety of color and depth of shades that they cast, wonderful in their magnitude, their grandeur, restful, even although the streams that flow from their sides come down with a swish and a swash creating a noise that makes one's ear drums beat their last beat. Then as we rest beside the lakes in the clouds and see the calm and peace which they enjoy in the midst of nestling hills, we wonder if there's another world. Care has vanished; all we want is to dwell upon the scene. But it was not the intention to speak of mountain scenery, roaring torrents, placid lakes, and restful haunts. Rather, we were about to speak of the other kind of inspiration that is aroused as one traverses Western Canada's immense plains, gridironed with railroads and splendid highways, along whose borders and away back are to be seen the most wonderful grain fields. The crops of wheat, oats, barley, flax, and corn—yes, corn—have just been harvested, the threshing machines are busy, the elevators are ready—the thirty and forty thousand-bushel elevators, with three, four, and five and more at nearly every station along the thousand miles of railway that serve this immense new area of agricultural land. There is not a more inspiring sight than these grain fields. They lead one to pause and reflect, get one into a mental arithmetic strain, and the mind wanders as it gathers the great length of figures that represents the Western Canada grain crop of 1920. A pencil and paper are needed, for the value will run into and over a billion dollars. At least, that is what those who profess to keep themselves posted as to values believe.

The wheat crop alone will run over 250,000,000 bushels, and if you figure this at $2.60 per bushel, the price it is selling at as we write, there you have $700,000,000 alone. Then there is the oat crop, with a yield of one hesitates to say the quantities in bushels, for the threshers are reporting yields of 110 and 120 bushels per acre, where but 60 and 90 bushels were expected, but their value, apart from that of barley and rye and flax, will carry us over the billion dollar mark.

Of course all this means—but we had almost forgotten to speak of the cattle and horses, the sheep and the pigs, the dairy and many other farm products, the increase and production of which this year will bring in many more million dollars—all this means that there will be a rush of buyers to Western Canada this fall, during the winter, and next spring.

A certain amount of satisfaction is derived by those "back home here," whose friends are writing them indorsing the statements that are appearing in the press of wheat yields of thirty, forty, and fifty bushels to the acre; of oats yielding anywhere from sixty to 120 bushels per acre. Districts have not been specially favored. Travel anywhere, eight hundred miles east and west, four hundred miles north and south, and it is the same story, splendid yields, good acreage, excellent prices, easy marketing, but labor a little scarce.—Advertisement.

No Doubt About It.

"We have called on a very serious matter, sir;" said the spokesiady of the group who had invaded the Petunia tavern. "It is rumored that the piano tuner and the woman with him who are your guests are not married."

"Mizzus Chinn and ladies," replied the landlord, "if you'll excuse me, you're barking up the wrong tree. Them folks are married, all right enough. Ever since they have been here they've both found fault with everything the other'n has done.

"If you'll step to the foot of the stairs now you can hear 'em yelling and cussing as usual. There ain't any doubt about their being married."—Kansas City Star.

Gen. Weygand of Royal Lineage

Military Genius Directing the Poles Said to Be Son of King Leopold of Belgium.

CHIEF AID TO MARSHAL FOCH

Influence of Former Belgian King Raised Weygand From an Obscure Boy to High Position in French Military Circles.

Brussels.—Gen. Maxime Weygand, the military genius who directed the Poles in their spectacular victory over the Russians, and who is now generally credited with a large share of Marshal Foch's achievements in the World war, is a son of the late King Leopold, of Belgium, according to persons who are intimately acquainted with Belgian court circles and the secrets thereof.

Rumors in Paris and Brussels regarding the paternity of the famous soldier were run down today with the following result:

It was former King Leopold's influence that raised Weygand from an obscure boy of unknown parentage to such a high position in French military circles that he was chosen chief of staff to Marshal Foch, commander in chief of the greatest army the world has ever seen.

General Weygand was born in Brussels in 1866. The names of his father and mother are not contained in the birth records, nor is the place of his birth given. He was first heard of under the care of a rich Brussels manufacturer who was a close friend of the former Belgian king.

Regarded as Orphan.

Young Weygand was then said to be an orphan. When he was eight years old he was adopted by a French family of the name of Weygand. The head of the family was employed by the Belgian manufacturer. The family was poor, but money was supplied to give the boy an excellent education. This aroused comment among the neighbors and gave rise to the query: "Who is furnishing the large sums to send the orphan to a high-priced school?"

The adopted boy received the name of his foster parents. Young Weygand, who was brilliant in his studies, showed a preference for military affairs. The friends and neighbors of the Weygand family were astonished when the youth entered the famous French military academy at St. Cyr. He was admitted as a foreigner, although he had been adopted by a French family.

Lieutenant Colonel at Twenty-Six.

Weygand displayed the same brilliance at St. Cyr that marked his earlier educational course. He passed into the French army after his graduation. He rose to a lieutenant colonelcy, receiving his post in 1912, when he was only twenty-six years old.

At the outbreak of the World war Lieutenant Colonel Weygand was made chief of staff to Foch. He planned Foch's brilliant stroke when that general was commanding an army corps at the first battle of the Marne.

Lieutenant Colonel Weygand was promoted to a major general in August, 1916, and became France's representative on the supreme war council. Later he was president of the inter-allied military committee at Versailles.

General Weygand was the constant companion of Marshal Foch, who described him as "a man with a head and soul—the kind you can rely on."

All biographies of General Weygand and also his most intimate friends are extremely reticent on the subject of his origin.

Improves Ellis Island Welcome

HARSH ATTENDANTS LET OUT

Freedom and Sunshine Being Planned for New Arrivals—Kind and Decent Treatment Are Now Demanded for Immigrants.

New York.—Sweeping changes are being made at America's gateway—Ellis island—by Immigration Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, who proposes to make the big immigration station more comfortable for the newcomers to the United States.

Freedom and sunshine are being planned for the new arrivals by the commissioner, who has just announced plans for improving conditions in general on the island.

Larger buildings are to be asked for, he says, sanitary conditions are to be improved, additional cots provided for those unable to get beds and many other conveniences for the immigrant are to be installed.

Harsh Attendants Discharged.

Kind and decent treatment for all new arrivals has been demanded by Commissioner Wallis, who has already announced the discharge of some of the veteran attendants for alleged harshness or inefficiency in receiving immigrants. Their places have been filled by more courteous, attentive and younger men.

"I propose to make this receiving station representative of all America promises," he said.

One of the latest improvements by Commissioner Wallis has been the supplying of warm milk to mothers with babies.

Wants Radicals Removed.

Commissioner Wallis has appealed to Washington to remove the alleged radicals and anarchists detained at the island for deportation, because of crowded conditions at the immigration station.

"They are a defiant lot and should be deported," he explained. "They occupy a room that could accommodate a couple of hundred immigrants."

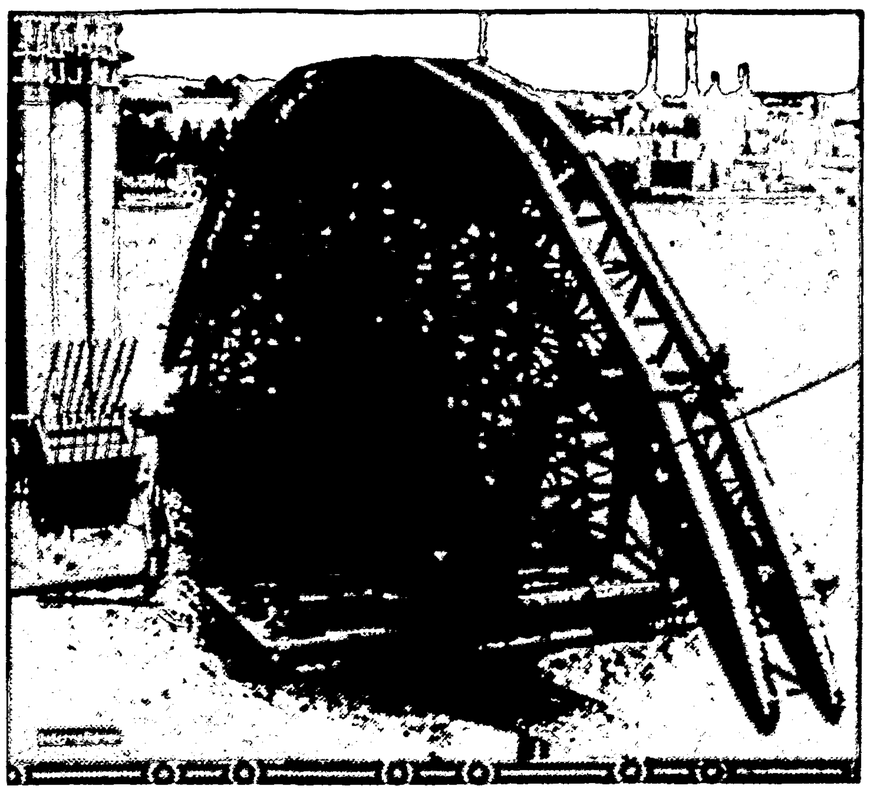
Railroads have also been asked by the commissioner to provide better transportation facilities for the immigrants and stop employees from "grafting" from the newcomers. He also wants them to be properly fed while being detained for entrainment.

While funds are not immediately available for improvements at the island. Commissioner Wallis states he will ask congress to raise funds by public subscription, if the necessary money cannot be provided by the government.

Small Boy Rescues Baby Girl.

Coal City, Ind.—A small boy who was let down into a well on a rope at the home of J. W. Free, rescued the one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morris of Hymera from drowning. The child fell into the well when she stepped on a movable cover in the platform. A bruise on one arm, caused by striking a bucket which was hanging in the well, was the only injury suffered by the baby. Mr. and Mrs. Morris were visiting at the Free farm.

New Span for Washington Bridge



An interesting engineering operation in connection with the construction of the Key bridge, at Georgetown on the Potomac, which connects the state of Virginia with Washington, was the placing of this huge 200-ton span. It was built over a timber frame erected over three scows lashed together and anchored near the Virginia shore. When the tide was at flood, the scows and their high-soaring cargo were towed between the central piers of the bridge.

The Thinnest Thing.

The thinnest thing in nature is the black spot that appears on a bubble before it bursts. That black spot is the center of a number, usually five, of concentric rings on the skin of the bubble, which form as the skin weakens. The thickness of these rings decreases by regular steps toward the center, and there the bubble is so thin that it cannot reflect light, and therefore appears black. It is about seven molecules thick. But mica has been split by man into layers only one molecule thick.
