

LOOT! ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Walk the Plank! AROUND the profession of piracy there have grown up many a legend, many a tradition which have more foundation in fiction than in fact.

In London he argued his vessel with 12 guns and sailed for Norway. On the way he was attacked by a Russian man-of-war but defeated it and took possession.

Then one day he attacked a Swedish vessel whose captain and crew escaped in a long boat and listened to spread the news.

Soon afterwards Derrake captured a Russian ship upon which the governor's sister was a passenger. After reproaching her for her brother's doings, the pirate leader cruelly stabbed her to death in the back.

This Week's Shortest Story: Hot dawg, spring has camel

Yea, verily I say It cometh in the spring of the year— The snow melteth, the grass groweth And the birdies sing in the trees.

See a good many advertisements boosting California and Florida for their famous golf courses during the winter.

Just a tip to you guys: Remember last year I said something about putting numbers on your golf balls, and turning all marked spheres you found in.

Getting to be quite a number of sharpshooters around here, too. A few months ago a forty or fifty was something to be real proud of.

"Presidente" Finley made a pilgrimage to Hot Springs some time ago, and to his great discomfiture that the enterprising city didn't have a golf course.

Last fall when the weather began to get cool and people began to talk about the high price of coal and the Christmas shopping, I remarked to myself that there would be no more golf for at least five months.

Well, anyhow, they had the rest, but as far as golf was concerned, they kept right on playing. True, there were times when the weather was pretty crummy, and there was one of the most ardent fans went out one day when the mercury registered about six below and it was snowing hard, and played around.

We have, once more, the Golf articles written by "Dad Gum."

NOGAL ITEMS By "Bill O'Fare"

The precipitation during the month of March has just about insured a splendid crop for ranch-ers, and good range for cattle and sheep. This fact has served to shorten the usually long faces of our hearty sons of the great Southwest.

A full force of engineers, surveyors and construction men have pitched camp on the S. P. property on the Bonito preparatory to surveying and locating a site for a large storage dam. When completed, this dam will insure sufficient water supply for railroad and city use along the S. P. line.

W. M. McDonald is preparing to do extensive development work on the Vera Cruz mining property near Nogal. A proposed tunnel to cut the veins at considerable depth is one fea-ture of importance to be under-taken by Mr. McDonald.

Hal Young has been confined to his bed for some time with a lame hip, but is improving rapidly with the approaching of warm weather.

Judge McDaniel is cooking for the crew of S. P. engineers on the Bonito, and we are inclined to believe that if the Judge dis-penses grub like he dispenses justice, considerable dyspepsia and other stomach ailments will prevail.

O. C. Davis has resigned his position with the Nogal Mercan-tile Co., and is now giving all his time to his filling station.

Floy Zumwalt has taken the position with the Mercantile Co. This obliging, courteous young pedagogue will no doubt prove as efficient at selling beans and bacon as he is at teaching read-ing, writin' and 'rithmetic.

Miss Dessie McDaniel of Las Vegas, formerly of Nogal, has accepted a position in the Post Office at Carrizozo.

The postoffice on the Bonito was discontinued indefinitely the first of April. The mail is now made up at Nogal and distrib-uted along the route.

If you wish to see, and exper-ience any difficulty in finding any of the Nogal citizenry, you can probably locate them gather-ed around the "garden seed" display in the Nogal store; a pretty good sign of spring.

Mrs. Johnny Littleton has all her household furniture for sale, and is preparing to move to Cal-ifornia, where she intends to make her future home. Nogal regrets very much to lose this worthy lady, and her many friends extend their good will and best wishes, and hope her and her children much success and happiness.

Glencoe Woman's Club

The Glencoe School closed with a program on Friday, Apr. 2, after a successful, though short, school term.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

EXCELSIOR

WE WERE in the Tyrol, five of us, three college students, en-thusiastic but inexperienced, a high-school boy and I. We were lodging at a quaint little hostelry clinging to the side of the mountain that overlooked Innsbruck.

I consented, though I had climbed mountains before and knew something of their habits and eccentricities. We started out after breakfast over an easy path, but the snowbanks seemed to recede as we went on. The path grew steeper as we climbed higher; the stones cut into our thin shoes, the precipices which we were forced to scale were dizzy and danger-ous.

Nancy and I were staying for a few days at the Sweetbriar at White Sulphur Springs. It's not a cheap place and we really could not afford it, but it's pleasant, even at fifty, to do some things one cannot afford.

To the young and inexperienced, suc-cess, financial and professional, seems only a step away. All that one has to do is to reach out and grasp it. But it's not so. Real success, like the snowbanks on the mountain back of Innsbruck, can be reached only through toil and struggle and a hard climb.

In the selection of these wonderful pictures and the musical program, the Woman's Club offers the patrons a triple-bill for the ordinary admission prices of 25 and 50 cents. The foregoing to the evening's en-tertainment follows:

Train Wreck Fired by Gasoline

A disastrous explosion was narrowly averted near Ypsilanti, Mich., when two freight cars sideswiped each other, and piled up over a 5,000-gallon gasoline tank car on the tracks of the Michigan Central. Thirty cars were burned, and one man, a fireman, who jumped, was hurt. Photograph shows the burning wreck.

OLD "SOUR DOUGH"

Old "Sour Dough" George Campbell Carson won his final contest against one of the largest smelting companies in the West for $20,000,000 in royalties on patent rights to an improved ore reduction process. Carson has no idea what he is going to do with the money which he won through the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals. "Court decisions are one thing and cash is another," said old "Sour Dough."

Reading Her Own "Obit"

This desire for omission does not always spring from the same source, however, as did the ideal expressed by a chronicler of an older generation who declared that a lady's name should only be published twice in her life—when she was married and when she was buried.—From an article in the Saturday Evening Post.

Should Wear Gown That Is Becoming

New Evening Frocks Afford Milady Opportunity to Display Charms.

Given the diversified choice that spring has offered, every woman may now choose her new evening frock strictly according to type, with particular reference to the concealment of her less lovely features, often painfully apparent in the robe du soir. The Parisian ideal of a beautiful gown, says a fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, is not one that is so handsome and ornate that it makes the onlooker forget the woman who is wearing it, but one that shows up to its best advantage every physical asset that woman possesses, and veils or hides every possible defect.

For instance, though the very short skirt is more than holding its own in present fashions and seems likely to continue through the coming season, the woman whom Nature has handicapped with thick ankles, though forced to wear short skirts in tailor-made gowns, will hasten to adopt all the tricks of the mode that modify this defect in her formal attire. She will follow the fashion of the robe de style or the broken hemline by pointed or oval draperies that fall below the level of the hem and veil just that thickness that would otherwise spoil a charming effect.

If she has the misfortune to be flat chested, now that graceful curves are appreciated, she will soften her corsage with a full jabot collar or cascade flounce. The fullness of a chiffon plastron, all tucks and plaits, will be finished by a soft cravat collar that falls in a soft bow and ends to break any severity of line. If she has not an attractive neckline she will conceal the fact with little floating scarfs or a cleverly adjusted bow collar. Thin arms will be veiled by gracefully full sleeves, and harsh hands will be hidden by long pointed cuffs that half cover them.

The formal afternoon gown in Paris at the moment is of bright, rich coloring, deep wine red being a great favorite with shades of hunter's green a good second, white black, especially satin, and used in conjunction with gold lace, is always a successful choice. For anything but the smartest restaurants the most successful dinner gowns are always black. They may be slightly décolleté and sleeveless, but should look well with one of the small black hats that give such indescribable chic to the dinner gown. The dress may be of satin or even chiffon or lace.

Gold sheath gowns covered with rich and elaborate embroidery in Persian or Chinese design carried out in beads and silks are very much in vogue.

Kiddies' Street Hats and Coats for Spring

Fine Stitching Adds to Beauty of Garment

One of the things that most cheapens the appearance of ready-made clothing—and of some home-made clothing, for that matter—is the conspicuously coarse stitching. The stitches may be too long or the thread too coarse; usually both faults are present. The most beautiful stitching is done with as close a stitch and as fine a thread as possible. It often pays, for the increased beauty of appearance, to take out coarse stitching on some conspicuous part of a dress or blouse and do it over properly.

An Afternoon Dress of Pale Rose Georgette

Showing a charming afternoon dress of pale georgette, panel in front, with wide rose ribbon shirred in rose effect. It also has a smart detachable cape. Large pearl buttons adorn the sleeve.

Wall Paper Designs Are Used to Tint Old Frocks

She wore a charming frock of pale lavender georgette with a border of morning glories in deeper tones of lavender and purple, trimming the full skirt and the blouse.

"Exquisite!" exclaimed her girl friend, as she removed her coat in the dressing room. "Wherever did you find it?"

"Whisper it softly," returned the admired one. "It came out of my imagination. You remember the white georgette of last year? You couldn't help remembering it. Everybody must have been tired of it. I conceived the plan of tinting it lavender, and a short time afterwards I passed a silk shop where I discovered so-called wall paper designs. That's the pattern you see transferred on to the dress."

A variety of materials lend themselves to decoration of this type—georgettes, satins, crepe de chine, silks of various kinds, velvets and, best of all, duvetyns. The patterns may be transferred on to any color but black and very dark ones. An entire dress may be decorated in a design or a single spray may be used on the shoulder or front of the blouse.

The home decorator also finds these wall paper transfers effective for sofa pillows, table covers, scarfs, curtains and zereens.

Use Quilted Petticoats to Make Attractive Bags

Quilted petticoats from France are used to make attractive bags for early spring. These bags may be had in light or dark backgrounds with the quaintest floral patterns. The stitching that gives firmness to the hems of the petticoats is used in the lower part of the bag and permits it to stand out in such a way as to avoid the appearance of bulk when the bag is overcrowded. Amber frames are used exclusively on these bags.

For the traveler nothing could be more welcome than one of the new oblong bags of levant calf in any one of the new colors. It is more lined, fitted with swinging purse and passport compartment. A two-tone pouch bag with long flat and tailored lines is of tan and brown leather. It is mounted on a leather frame, has a leather strap and is fitted with passport compartment, purse and mirror and is lined with tan moire. This bag may be carried with any of the spring colors because of its well-blended color combination.

Milady's Hat Should Fit Closely About Forehead

The framing of the face demands a great deal of thought in these days when the obviously picturesque in millinery is frowned upon and smartness is the end to be achieved.

There is much propaganda in favor of the large hat, but the small one has lost none of its prestige and is inevitably the choice for street and general wear.

First, last, and always, the hat must fit closely about the forehead and conceal most of the hair. But it must make a harmonious line with the rest of the costume. The draped crown of this season allows for greater versatility than we have been accorded in some time.

Many of the newer models are made entirely of silk, preferably tulle. This answers the demand for a hat that is light on the head and soft as to line.

Hats are less severe than during the winter, and the absolutely untrimmed felt is now not the only alternative.

Concerning Deer

Santa Fe, Mar. 31—That the so-called "black-tail" deer in the Gila forest of southwestern New Mexico in reality is not the real black-tail, but the mule deer, is the conclusion of the Sportsmen's Association of Southwestern New Mexico after a careful study of the subject. A few specimens of the Crook black-tail deer are reported in the vicinity of the Black range, and near the east fork of the Gila, but most of the deer formerly called "black-tail" have been definitely established as mule deer.

According to the report of the association in its annual bulletin, there is considerable danger that deer in that forest are increasing to an extent which will result in disaster sooner or later if steps are not taken to remedy the situation. Deer are not migratory and will stay in one locality just as will cattle, it is pointed out, which complicates the problem of over-grazing.

There are some areas in the forest in which the possibility of opening game-refuges during the hunting season for a year or two may prove of advantage, the association believes.

The money value of the game taken from the Gila national forest of southwestern New Mexico during the last hunting season was close to $10,000, it is estimated by the Sportsmen's Association of Southwestern New Mexico in its annual bulletin. This estimate is believed to be very conservative and is based on a value of $25 for each deer killed and $10 for each turkey.

Some of the non-resident hunters consulted during the season placed a value of a deer as high as $100. The Wisconsin state game commissioner estimates the value of each buck killed in that state at $30. The board of game commissioners of Pennsylvania places an estimate of $52 on deer.

Leadfield, the new mining boom town in Nevada, according to County Commissioner Brack Sloan, sells water for 10 cents per gallon and absolutely prohibits the use of the same for bathing purposes. What a heaven this must be for small boys!

Irving Berlin absolutely denies adoptin' his wife's religion, she bein' a Catholic. He says "I was brought up a Jew, a good Jew, the Jewish religion is good nuff for yours truly. 'Can' that noise about me turnin' Catholic—there ain't a Jew-Catholic on this earth an' I don't like to be misrepresented. Taint nothin' t' it, I'm tellin' you."

While engaged in conversation that E. H. Sweet the other day, he told this one. A number of traveling men were discussing race horses and the closest race they had ever seen. The argument grew intense as to who was the best race horse, Dan Patch or Man o' War. Suddenly a little, quiet man, spoke up and said: "Gentlemen, in all my experiences, the 'highest' race in all the world, is the Scotch."

Emergency Pantry Meets Home Need

By META H. GIVEN

(Home Economist.)

Efficiency and economy go hand in hand in the home as well as in the business world. The emergency pantry, latest innovation in the cuisine of the modern housewife is particularly indicative of the truth of this statement.

Meta H. Given.

This new sort of pantry—it may just be a shelf in the regular larder—does away with that bugaboo of the home maker, the surprise guest. Every woman has had the experience of welcoming an unexpected visitor when supplies were at low ebb and has searched high and low to find something presentable to put on the table. The emergency shelf in the pantry does away with such worries in short order.

A can opener and—presto—a veritable banquet can be prepared in a few minutes. The housewife may have her choice of many excellent meats, corn, tomatoes, mushrooms. If she is short of milk or cream, a can of evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk sterilized in the can and with sixty per cent of the water removed will do the trick. In fact she may have two hundred or more savory dishes ready to her hand.

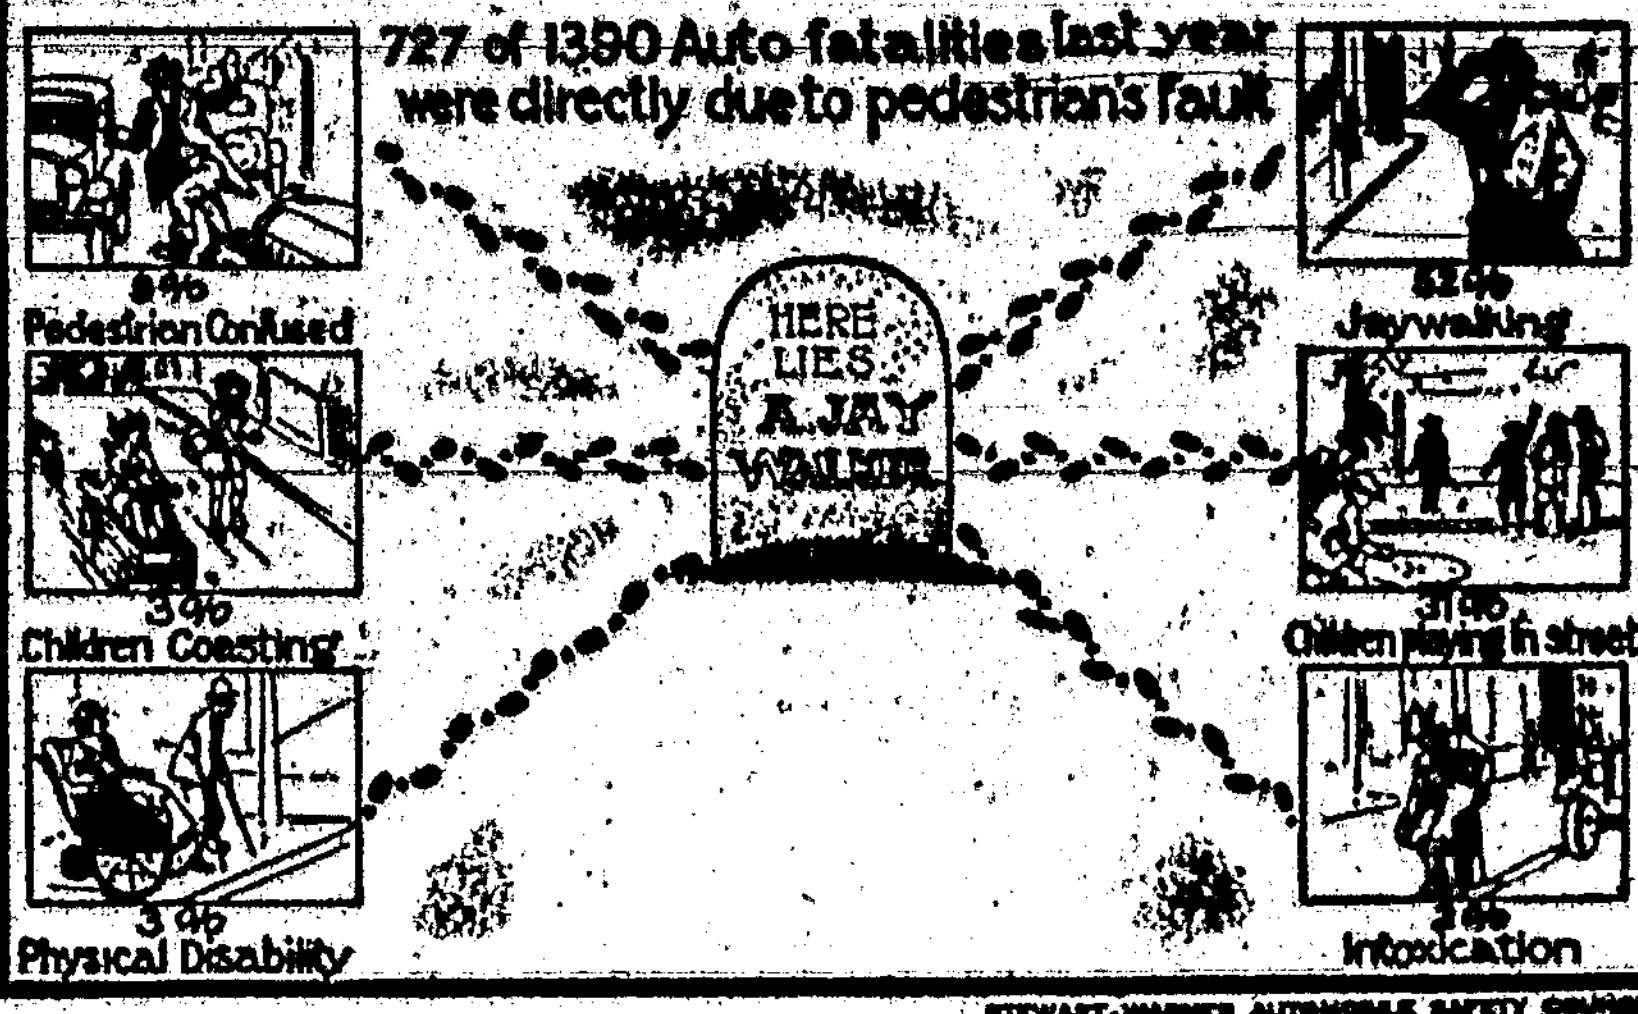

When the surprise guest does arrive the hostess naturally wishes to be hospitable. She doesn't want to be tied to the kitchen range half the afternoon. She wants to entertain as she has been entertained.

It isn't possible if she has to phone frantically for the butcher, the grocer and the baker.

But that's only one of the places where the emergency pantry comes in. Backed by a well-stocked emergency shelf, the wife can get together a splendid luncheon or dinner in a jiffy. The spontaneous wish that comes at the last moment to informally invite a few friends for lunch can be gratified at once with the aid of the new pantry.

Afternoon tea for the bridge club is an equally easy matter. A glass of preserves or jelly, a plate of bread and butter, tea, and a dish of cookies will meet the ordinary demands of the casual caller and a cup of evaporated milk will answer the milk or cream need.

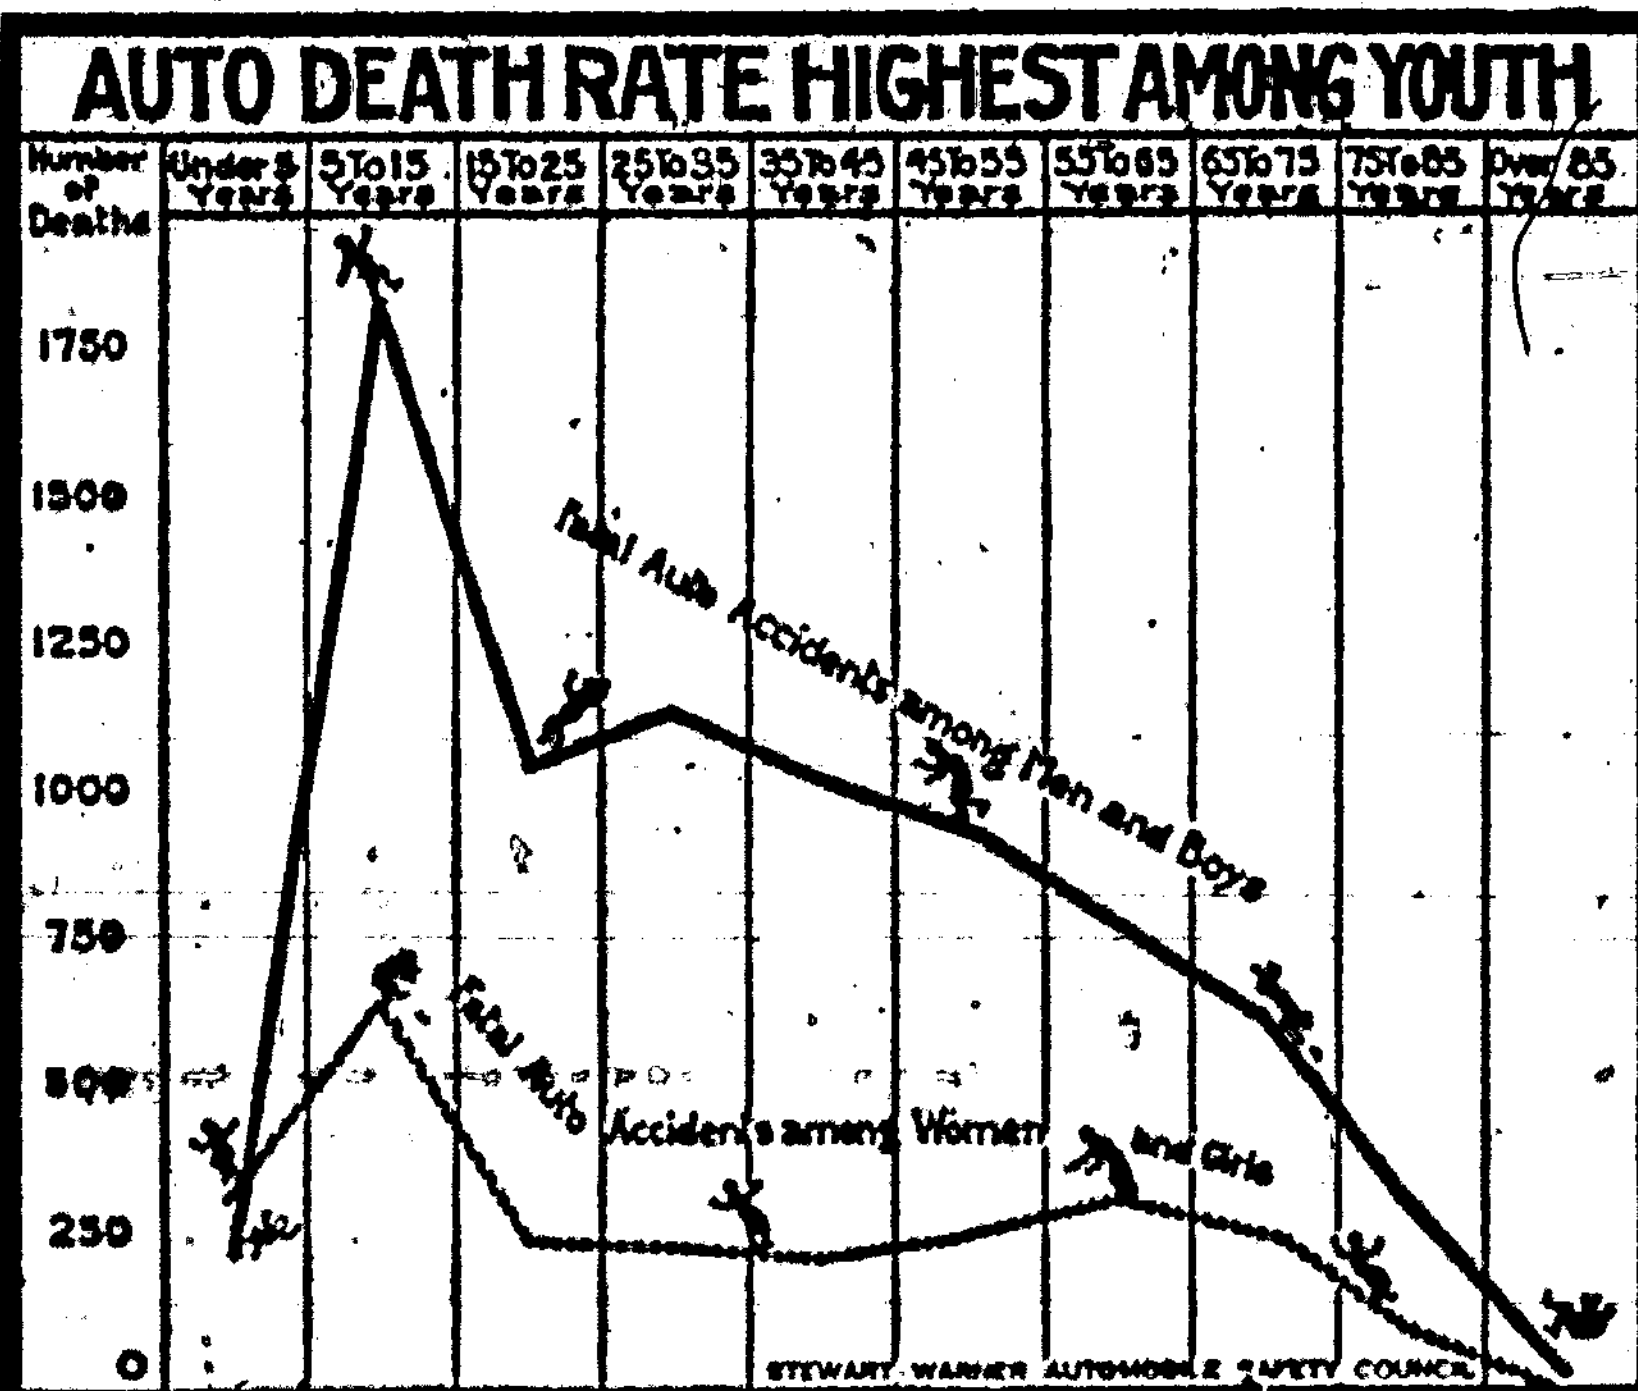

Jay Walker to Blame for Half of the Deaths by Auto

MANY a motorist whose car has figured in a fatal accident will be able to present a clear sheet to Saint Peter when his time comes, when one considers all the contributing factors outside of the driver's own fault. A total of 1,390 auto fatalities on record with the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, covering a period of seven months, shows that in 727 cases the fault was clearly the pedestrian's and cannot be put down to the driver, the weather or unavoidable circumstances.

The careless pedestrian's footsteps lead him to the grave by six distinct routes, says the Safety Council, and the most travel-worn of these is jaywalking. Sixty-two per cent of the 727 auto fatalities just referred to were due to straggling across busy streets without using the intersections. Children's playing in the streets was responsible for 31 per cent and coasting for another 3 per cent. Confusion on the part of the pedestrian, not hearing whistles and turning back in his tracks, brought about 9 per cent of these 727 deaths, while physical disability and intoxication rate 3 and 2 per cent respectively.

Youth of Nation Tops Death List in U. S. Auto Fatalities

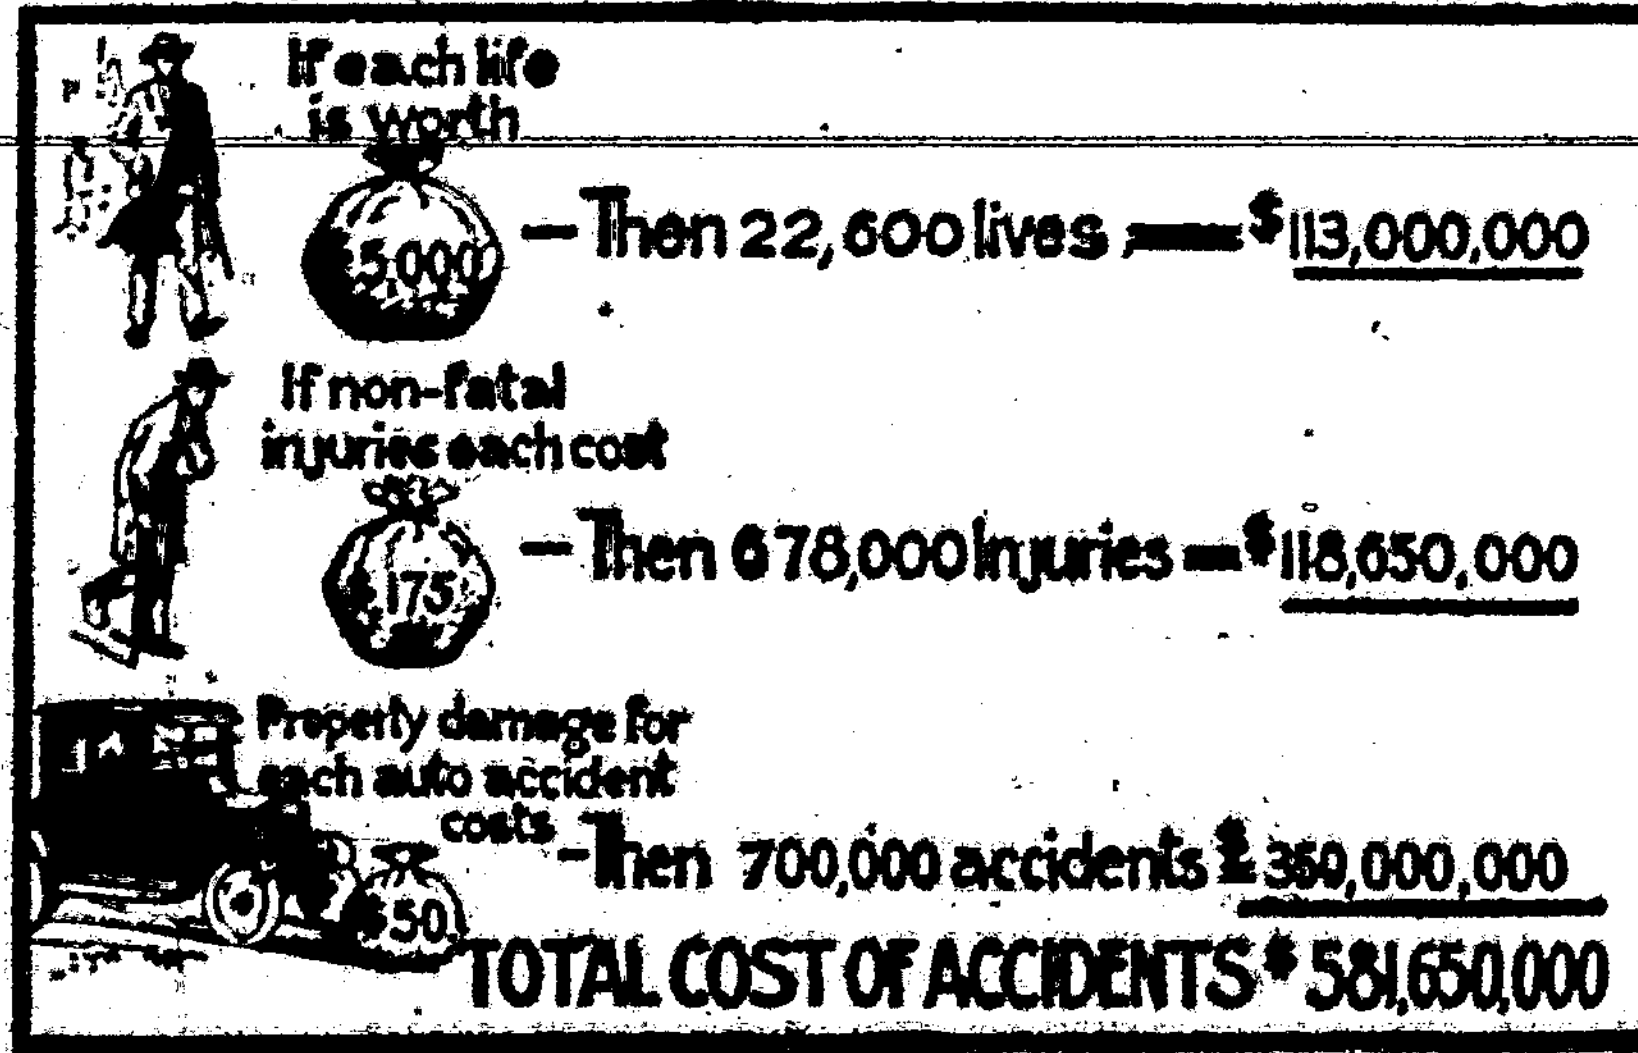

YOUTH pays the heaviest toll in annual automobile fatalities. From five to fifteen years is the period when the greatest number of fatal accidents occur, for both sexes. The chart shows the age distribution of automobile deaths for men and women as given in the latest mortality figures prepared by the government. These figures, says the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, emphasize the need for more playgrounds and increased safety education among school children.

Complete statistics are not possible, as only 85 per cent of the United States keeps mortality records. About 22,000 a year is generally conceded to be the annual number of automobile fatalities. For 8,821 males known to have been killed in one year there were only a third as many women, or 2,845, in spite of the fact that the male population is only 4 per cent greater than the female.

This chart does not take into consideration the 600,000 Americans who are injured annually by automobiles. Such figures are not available except in certain states, but that boys and girls again make up the bulk of such casualties. As indicated by the records of New York state kept for the first nine months of 1925. Here 11,768, or practically one-third of the 33,392 injured, were under fifteen years of age.

$600,000,000 a Year Loss Caused by Auto Accidents

CLOSE to $600,000,000 a year is the annual economic loss due to automobile accidents, both fatal and non-fatal. This appalling sum is only an estimate, as no complete figures on the number of automobile accidents in the United States are available, but it has been conservatively estimated that 22,600 less their lives each year by automobiles, and $5,000 a human life is the lowest value put on it by economists.

Of non-fatal accidents 678,000 occur annually, causing average cost of $175. Then, each accident averages $30 property damage, insurance records show. This makes the staggering total of $581,650,000 a year.

No account is taken here, points out the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, of the economic value of time lost by the injured due to delays caused by accidents or to minor property values, such as bent fenders, expense incurred while motor vehicles, particularly the commercial ones, are out of service, due to accidents. Were all these taken into the reckoning, the total figure would surely be doubled, or around $1,118,750,000.

Some idea of the enormity of this economic loss, most of which is avoidable, can be gained by such relationships as these: It is twice the cash income of the 1925 wheat crop; it is equal to about one-third of the much-discussed French debt to this country; and, finally, this loss would buy the entire city of Chicago at its present realty assessment valuation.

Beautify Carrizozo

The present is an appropriate time when thought and effort should be directed to the aiding of nature in planting trees, flowers and shrubs. Just a little effort and care on the part of the citizens of Carrizozo in the planting and culture of such ornaments, will certainly bring joy and satisfaction.

It is manifestly unfair to ourselves, and more particularly to those of the future to do that which will make this town more attractive. Nature is entitled to help from mankind.

Make Carrizozo so attractive that home shall be all that is desired and the town so beautiful to the visitor that he can truthfully say that nature and man have united in a wonderful work. There is no easier and better way to accomplish this than the direct individual effort in the propagation of trees, flowers and shrubs.

Owning Your Home

Folks who some years ago bought houses and settled down to live in them, made an exceedingly lucky strike. A lot of these folks are now getting their living quarters at a rate far below what the average renter is paying. Next Sunday he will conduct a Post-Easter Service and at the evening service, his subject will be, "The Kingdom of Heaven," in which he hopes to have a message helpful to his hearers. Murphy of the New Mexico Division of the Southern Pacific, paid us a visit the early part of the week and accompanied by Trainmaster Horton, held a conference with our Town Council with an eye single to the best interests of Carrizozo. Mr. Murphy's visit was met with a full measure of appreciation on the part of our people and we may rest assured of the fact that he has a warm place in his heart for us.

Honored Citizen Dies

Many of our people will remember the kind and courteous gentleman and father of Mrs. T. E. Kelley, Mr. A. R. Thompson of Alvarado, Texas, who visited here about one year ago and will regret to learn that he died in his home town on March 26. It has always been said that to learn the true merits of a man, one must refer to those who have been his nearest neighbors, so we are clipping a portion of an article from the Alvarado Bulletin, which gives a lengthy and detailed account of the activities of the esteemed gentleman, which we give in substance as follows:

Mr. Thompson enjoyed an extensive acquaintance as was possessed by any resident here. He was lovingly known as "Uncle Alfred." He was a man of great activity, enjoyed the companionship of his many friends and his greatest satisfaction was in rendering service to his family and acquaintances. Being a devoted Christian, he left the prized heritage of an honorable life to his beloved children.

After mentioning those left behind, the article says that the deceased had been a member of the Masonic order for fifty years and also a member of the Baptist church.—Mr. Thompson was a kind-hearted man and whom to meet was to do so with implicit trust and confidence. During his stay here he visited us many times and his cheerful disposition was an inspiration to us.

Perhaps because it is the most important, the putting grip has not yet been mentioned. The reason for this omission is that the natural putting grip is the best; provided of course that it takes the club back and forward at right angles to the line. It will be well, however, to test out some of the recognized grips. It is best to begin with your natural grip, whether the two-V grip, the Vardon or the Interlocking. And now comes a radical statement: The grip used in driving cannot be used without change in putting. The reason is that the club must come up in the middle of the left palm instead of lying along the base of the fingers. In order to keep the face of the putter at right angles, the positions of the hands on the shaft must be changed. Move the left hand a trifle to the left and the right hand toward the right. You may find that this must be continued until the hands are on opposite sides of the shaft. The only possible method is to test this out until the right positions are found. It may be that the best position will be with the left hand well down on the left side of the shaft and the right hand comparatively near the top.

The putter must be grasped only with a firm enough grip to control it. A tight grip will certainly interfere with the wrist action, the only one there should be during the putting swing. The chances are that this will be a two-handed grip, both hands and wrists doing an equal share of the work. This could be changed somewhat by extending the right fore-finger down the shaft and letting that finger do the major part of the work. Several notably good putters, including Walter J. Travis, use this method, but it never has become popular. Perhaps a better suggestion is to make the grip more left-handed by overlapping two or even all the fingers of the right hand over the left. This is very effectively used by many fine putters. Perhaps the best suggestion of all, however, is to make the put right-handed, using a grip that will be described in another article.
