FERGUSON FINISHES ALAMO-CRUCES ROAD

Road foreman Billy Ferguson came in yesterday from the Alamogordo-Las Cruces road which he has just finished from Alamogordo to the top of the Organ mountains. The road from there to Las Cruces is being made in good shape by a maintenance crew from Dona Anna county. The new road is a good one and satisfies a long-felt want, besides saving a drive of 67 miles over what had to be travelled on by the way of El Paso. In complimenting him on the new road, Mr. Ferguson said: "We were somewhat handicapped at times with bad weather and other obstacles, but with the encouragement and extended courtesies from the commissioners in both counties and also from the Alamogordo News and Las Cruces Citizen, I can't see how we could have done otherwise than give good service." The crew and equipment will remain here until orders are received as to where they will be wanted.

Hondo News

By Scribblers: Friday afternoon the Girls' basketball team of Hondo High School played the Capitan High School, winning the game 5-1. Saturday afternoon the Hondo girls were again victorious over Carrizozo 21-20.

Mrs. Louise H. Coe, principal of the Hondo School and Senator of New Mexico, has gone to Santa Fe to sit in the Legislature for the next sixty days. Mrs. Jess Thomason of Alamogordo is teaching in Mrs. Coe's place.

The Hondo girls' basketball team will go to Carrizozo this coming Saturday, Jan. 15, to return the game.

The dance given by Gus Lemp was a howling success.

Governor's Message

In the shortest and yet one of more than ordinary interest and importance, Governor Dillon addressed the Eighth State Legislature as follows:

To the Senate the House of Representatives: I submit for your consideration the biennial reports of the various state institutions, commissions, and boards.

I recommend: An election law which will preserve the secrecy of the ballot and honestly determine the will of the qualified voters of the state.

An effective prohibition enforcement law. That free textbooks be provided for use in the public schools, based upon a plan that will distribute the burden of the expense as equally as possible over a period of several years, and without resorting to any form of special taxation.

Changes in the automobile license law so as to provide for a flat three dollar license fee for all automobiles excepting motor cars and trucks used for commercial purposes, which should pay fees determined upon an equitable basis.

License plates for automobiles should be placed in the hands of county clerks for distribution and collection of fees. Under such an arrangement, citizens coming to the county seat to pay their taxes will be able to secure their automobile plates at the same time. This license plate business with the counties should be handled through the state highway department.

The collection of the gasoline tax should be placed in the hands of the state highway department.

An enforceable law restricting the use of automobiles owned by the state and its subdivisions, to official purposes only, and providing for a distinctive color for such automobiles as well as departmental designations.

The duties of the comptroller should be restricted to auditing activities only, so that this officer may be entirely relieved of the collection of any public moneys.

The amendment of the Workmen's Compensation law so as to extend its provisions to employees of the state and its subdivisions.

There should be no increase of any kind in the property tax, if some other just method of raising the necessary revenue can be devised.

In any event, the laws governing the assessment of property and the collection of taxes levied thereon should be so amended and strengthened as to properly distribute the tax burden upon all according to their respective abilities. This demands that assessment be made of all property at full, fair and uniform values, and a rigid enforcement of the laws governing the collection of taxes.

Mrs. C. A. Reece of Sapulpa, Okla., mother of Mrs. W. W. Stadman, came in the latter part of last week and will remain with her daughter's family until spring.

Mrs. Chloe White, who had been visiting relatives at Duran for several weeks, was a guest of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Skinner for a portion of this week.

Jepson moved ponderously away to do so, while Rodney, opening his big box in the hall, drew out the poinsettia and chrysanthemums and proceeded to arrange them in a gorgeous array. CHAPTER IX

An Invitation

That evening Laurie walked across the square to Doris' studio with a decision in his stride which definitely expressed his mental attitude. He had come to the conclusion that something must be done. What this something would be was still hazy in his mind, but the first step at least seemed clear. Doris must move.

"If I moved, how long do you think it would take him to find me?" "Weeks, perhaps months." "I moved here a few days ago. He appeared exactly forty-eight hours later. If I moved from here it would only mean going through the game of hare and hounds again."

"Information" Tired of Old Man's Stale Joke
The new sales clerk who was "learning all about the store" had been placed by her section manager next to an information booth with instructions to "stay there and hear the questions customers ask."

She took this as naturally as she had taken his first remark. "It's going to be very hard for you. I was wrong to draw you into it. I am realizing that more and more every minute."

"I will tell him," Sonya promised. Neither of them referred to the subject again.

"I've reached the point where I can't endure that any more." For the first time her voice broke. "Can't you imagine what that sort of thing would be? To get up in the morning and wonder if this is the day I'll see him under my window? To go to bed at night and ask myself if he is lurking in the shadows below, or across the street, or perhaps outside my very door? To know that sooner or later he will be there, that his coming is as inevitable as death itself?"

Wrestling Bouts in Japan
Every year the Japanese wrestling championship is decided at the Kokugikan in Tokyo, says the Pathfinder Magazine. Here the wrestlers from the east and west of Japan struggle for supremacy.

Too Much Service
"An elderly gentleman was having lunch in our grill," said the hotel manager, "and, as was customary when his water glass showed evidence of use, a passing waiter or bus boy refilled it. After the fifth or sixth refilling the diner let out a roar. 'Stop!' he cried. 'I've been trying to get that water glass to the proper level ever since I came to this table. My doctor ordered me to take a pill in a third of a glass of water. Now I feel like an overloaded water-wagon and I still have the pill to take.'"

Current Wit and Humor

"IT'S AN ILL WIND— There had been a blowout and the father of the family was perspiring and profanely changing tires. "I don't see why you have to talk that way," said his wife reproachfully. HOME-SEWING TIME IS NEAR; GORGEOUS EVENING WRAPS

YES, the time has come to plan for spring sewing. Now that all the holiday decorations are packed away for another season, the "thank you's" all written, the children back at school, too early for golf, too late for grand opera, what to do but sew, sew, sew! Surely all signs are propitious for a January sewing bee.

Modern Methods Add to Profits

Farm Income Can Be Materially Increased by Addition of Machines.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

That farm profits can be materially increased by the application of machinery and new methods is the conclusion of the advisory council appointed by Secretary Jardine in connection with the Department of Agriculture's study of mechanical farm equipment. After a year's work the council met with Secretary Jardine in Washington recently to discuss progress and future work.

Undeveloped Fields.
The report shows that there are undeveloped fields in many directions, over 400 projects being listed for study. Important co-operative work is now being done to develop machinery and methods to eradicate the European corn borer, which has become a national menace. Other outstanding projects which it is hoped will be undertaken soon are the further extension and application of the combined harvester which harvests and threshes grains in one operation, the development of bigger and better adapted power-driven units for corn planting and cultivation.

The council finds that too little attention has been given researches on farm mechanical equipment by state and federal experiment stations. More than four billions of dollars is now invested in this item and over three hundred and thirty million dollars was expended in 1923. On the average, power and labor costs of farm-crop production make up about 60 per cent of the total costs. These facts indicate that even minor improvements in farm machinery will result in large savings.

Jardine Approves Work Done.
Secretary Jardine expressed approval of the work done and stressed the importance of the co-operating agencies carrying it forward as rapidly as possible. Progress has now reached a stage where specific problems can be assigned to different agencies for solution.

The advisory council was appointed by Secretary Jardine in May, 1923, for the study of research in farm equipment. It is composed of representatives of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers, the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and representatives of the Department of Agriculture and has been working under the direction of J. R. Davidson, senior agricultural engineer of the department.

Egg Production Helped by Protein in Winter

It is generally recognized among poultrymen that winter eggs are the most profitable. However, the question that confronts many a poultry raiser is how to get winter eggs. Those who have been successful in the production of winter eggs declare that the solution of the matter is the feeding of an excessively rich protein diet to the laying flock. There is one fact that most poultry raisers overlook and that is, hens cannot lay eggs in winter unless they are adequately fed. Feed consumed by winter layers goes for the maintenance of the body and for the production of the eggs. However, body maintenance comes first with egg production occupying a second place, consequently unless a heavy diet is offered it may fall short of filling the requirements of egg production. Hens have more work to do in order to lay eggs in winter than any other time of the year; they must furnish fuel for keeping themselves warm.

Materials Suggested for Poultry House Litter

According to the Nebraska College of Agriculture, chopped or shredded corn or sorghum fodder makes ideal litter for the poultry house during the winter months, suggests Extension Circular 1415, Farm Poultry Houses, of the agricultural college at Lincoln. These materials do not break up as quickly as straw. The floor should be well covered at all times and the house cleaned several times during the winter.

A slope of about five inches in twenty feet of a hard surface floor will tend to keep the hens from piling the litter up in the back of the house. Windows near the floor at the back of the house will do the same thing, since a hen usually faces the light when she scratches.

Farm Hints

No farmer is a good citizen unless he is actively interested in the welfare of his community.

Lack of paint on the farm buildings not only makes them look ramshackle but it also lets them rot.

The successful feeder invariably feeds a variety—whether it be in our homes or in our feed lots.

The shrewd farmer makes the gas engine help him do the chores and thus saves time and money.

The man who gets the lower cost of production are usually the better men; that's why they get the lower costs.

Trees Suitable for Roadside Planting

Oaks More Generally Useful Than Other Kinds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Oaks are more generally useful for roadside planting than any other kind of tree, says the United States Department of Agriculture. There are species of this tree native to nearly all parts of the country. Maples are next in importance for a large part of the country, but as the most-used species are not well adapted for the purpose, the selection must be carefully made. The most promising trees for the cooler dry regions are the green ash, black locust, hackberry, thornless honey locust and poplars, with box elder, willows and poplars, for the extremes of cold and drought, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1482-F, "Trees for Roadside Planting." In warm, dry climates the eucalypts, gums, the palms, the Jerusalem thorn and the mesquite are good.

Success in roadside tree planting, says the bulletin, depends on properly locating the plants along the highway, selecting suitable varieties and adequately protecting them from thoughtless persons, roving stock and insects and diseases.

The best effects in roadside planting are usually produced by giving the predominant place to the common plants of the neighborhood, using introduced plants in subordinate positions. Next in desirability are plants from regions having similar growing conditions either in this country or abroad.

The bulletin gives the characteristics of the different regions throughout the country and suggests trees that may be expected to grow in each. A copy of the publication may be obtained free, as long as the supply lasts, by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Feeding and Management Chief Poultry Factors

Cold and roup are so common that the average poultry man is apt to look upon them as inevitable. That is a mistake. It is possible to avoid catarrhal disorders to a great extent if the housing conditions are right and general methods of feeding and management are what they should be. It is a great deal easier, moreover, to prevent colds and roup than it is to cure them after they get started. Take particular pains to see that the birds are not exposed to drafts either when they are on the floor or on their perches. Give plenty of ventilation but avoid exposing them to extremely low temperatures through failure to close the ventilating opening on the approach of cold waves. Do not take it for granted that the birds are safe from drafts when on perches, regardless of the type of house you may have.

Sanitary Barn Is Quite Essential for the Calf

Most calves get infection by eating dirt, filth in a dirty bucket, trough or sucking dirty, infected teats. Hence calves should have clean, individual feed buckets, troughs, stanchions, or clean udders to suckle. In large, clean pastures calves get relatively clean teats. But in dirty stalls, pens and lots all or nearly all the milk and feed is contaminated with manure. A cheap and simple shed with stanchions and clean buckets for milk and feed can be made with a little work. A calf should be kept in such a shed only while it eats. Then it should be on a clean, dry pasture. Such sheds must be cleaned once or twice a week or as often as they become filthy. This will cut down worm infestation and most infections and scour.

Blackhull Wheat Fails to Stand Cold Winters

Data collected at 13 experiment stations in the United States and Canada by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the states of both countries shows that Blackhull wheat winter-killed 13 per cent more than Kanred or Turkey wheat.

Over a five-year period, 1921-1925, the average survival of the Blackhull was 45 per cent. Under the same conditions the survival of Turkey was 69.5 per cent, and that of Kanred, 57.9 per cent.

Although Blackhull is classed as a hard red winter wheat and is a heavy yielding variety, many millers claim it does not mill as well as other hard wheats and therefore discriminate against it.

Cod Liver Oil Increases Winter Egg Production

Experiments with the feeding of cod liver oil added to mash for poultry have shown that it is very beneficial during the winter months. It acts to a considerable extent as a substitute for sunlight. The effects are to increase egg production, thicken the shell and decrease the danger from colds and other sicknesses. There is also evidence that the hatchability of eggs is increased by feeding cod liver oil.

The most important function performed by cod liver oil is to increase the assimilation of minerals, and it is to be explained that at the same time it makes better production of shell on the eggs. It also strengthens the growth of bone in the body.

FARM POULTRY

RIGHT CARE AND FEED FOR EGGS

In the summer the farm hen may forage for a supply of animal feed and garner all the available bugs, worms, and green feed needed to replenish worn-out body tissue and to produce an abundant quantity of eggs. But winter has come now and the bugs are gone. So has the green feed on many farms and the hen must be fed if she is expected to produce eggs in profitable quantities.

"Eggs are high-priced in the winter because so few farm hens are laying at this season," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at South Carolina State college. "The two usual reasons for low egg production are found in the poor producing power of the hen and also because she may not have the proper food and care. If the hen comes from a high producing strain and is not laying as she should, it is possible that she may not have a comfortable house, or that she is not free of parasites, and does not have the right kind of feed and other care."

Doctor Kaupp states that eggs are low in price during the spring months because everybody's hens are laying then. Eggs always go down in the spring and the farmers' organizations should store eggs at that season. In the winter eggs go up to 75 cents and $1 per dozen because the hens are not laying. Then the storage houses bring out the cheap spring eggs to sell at a good profit.

The poultry department has prepared extension circulars 155, 150 and 159 which tell how to put the farm flock on a paying basis. These bulletins are free and will tell how to cull and feed the birds for winter eggs. It should be remembered, states Doctor Kaupp, that laying hens must have mash before them at all times. The mash must contain crushed grains, minerals, fish or meat meal, or the surplus milk of the farm. Tender, green feed is also needed each day. Water should be constantly before the birds and the grain feed given them twice each day.

Most Poultry Diseases Can Easily Be Conquered

A broom, shovel, scraper and a spray pump with some crude oil or other good spray material will conquer most poultry diseases. The University of Nebraska lists these remedies as the best for most poultry diseases. Unfortunately, they also require energy and initiative on the part of the flock owner. It is much easier to put pills or dope in the drinking water after the fountains and clean up the house.

Of course, poultry yields to treatment the same as other live stock but why allow sickness to gain a foothold in the first place? Furthermore, the fellow who pins too much faith on bright-colored, strong-smelling medicines usually forgets to remove the cause of the trouble. A little study usually proves it to be over-crowding, poor ventilation, filth and vermin. Disease will cure the overcrowding, but it is an expensive method. Just plain prevention is all most poultry raisers need to avoid losses.

Profits Increased From Hens by Use of Lights

Tests at the Nebraska experiment station last winter on two pens of 50 leghorns each showed that electric lights increased the income from 90 hens $23.44. The hens in both pens were as near alike as possible and both groups were kept in ordinary houses.

Both pens received exactly the same care except that one was lighted at 5 o'clock each morning and the other was not. Pullets well matured and ready to lay by November 1 respond to lights all winter. Yearling hens that have molted late should not be forced before January 1. Morning light proved more practical from the standpoint of feed and management. Scratch feed was scattered in the litter at night so the hens could go to work in the morning as soon as an alarm turned on the lights.

Breeding Pens

Although the average poultry man cannot afford to trapnest his hens, he can greatly improve his flock by making a special breeding pen of his best male bird and a few choice hens or pullets. In choosing these breeders both egg producing and standard qualities should be kept in mind. By toe-marking or banding chicks hatched from this pen it will be found that the chicks hatched from the eggs from this pen will be superior to those from the general flock.

Dry Mash for Hens

The amount of dry mash that the hens eat is usually determined by the amount of scratch feed given to the flock. Satisfactory results are obtained by feeding twice as much scratch feed as mash during the winter months, the ratio being reversed during the summer and spring months. It is a good plan to give the heaviest feed late in the afternoon. Succulent feeds like alfalfa, clover, sprouted oats, etc., are rich in vitamins, and have an excellent effect on the digestive system.

SCHOOL OF AVIATION LIKELY FOR DENVER

Washington, Denver may get a reservoir officers aviation training school.

Secretary of War Dwight Davis, advised Congressman Edward Taylor that the war department would give serious attention to the possibility of establishing such a school.

At present, according to Bentley McMullin, 512 Boston building, Denver, who first petitioned Congressman Taylor to seek the location of such a school in Denver, reserve aviation officers from western Colorado are forced to travel to San Antonio, Texas, for training. Most of the annual allowance of time for training, he says, is spent on railroad trains instead of in the air.

McMullin said that if a training school could be established in Denver, citizens there would subscribe for the building of a hangar and other equipment necessary to make the present flying field entirely adequate for military use.

State Officials Resigning Offices

Santa Fe—Governor Cordova, sentenced from Taos county in 1923 to serve from 75 to 85 years in the state prison, Monday received a commutation of sentence from Governor A. T. Hannett to from 5 to 8 years. A full pardon to Crisosto Pena, sentenced to 60 to 70 years in the prison was granted on Christmas day by the governor. Pena was a trusty at the prison for nine years. Resignation from various of the state officers, effective the first of the year, were received and accepted today by Governor Hannett. Those who tendered their resignations were Kyle S. Crighton, Albuquerque, publicity commissioner; Roy M. Jackson, Astoc, publicity commissioner; Geo. M. Neel, state engineer and Col. Vincent J. Jaeger, adjutant general.

for spring. Quaint china patterns and grandmother prints, printed necks, and especially printed batistes and dimities. "They say" small figures will predominate, especially on the heavier weaves, though peering into the far future one sees big-flowered organdies.

Fabrics on the order of pongee, also English cotton reps and Scotch madras are favored for washable daytime frocks, likewise rayon mixtures.

Competing with the new prints is broadcloth in a range of detectable plain colors. This is an ideal fabric for sports and simple daytime frocks, for it launders perfectly. There are rosy silver cloth. Of course it is smartly befurred, for most of the evening wraps are. In this instance luxurious silver gray fox is the preferred trimming.

There is spirited rivalry between velvet, brocade and metal cloth for the formal wrap. When velvet is used it is in some gloriously illuminating shade, lavishly furred, shirred, draped and embroidered.

As to metal brocade, it fairly effervesces with what might be called jewel colorings, for there is the red of the ruby, the yellow of the topaz, the green of the emerald, the purple of the amethyst reflected amid the also printed broadcloths to be had. These, with novelty rayons, show mostly small patternings.

As to styling, the trend is toward something clever and "different" from the some-time-ago popular bungalow apron effect. There is a decided favor expressed for short sleeves. Some of the newest spring models introduce the bolero—if not actually, at least simulating it. Pockets are made much of, following the inspiration, no doubt, of winter styles.

It is "pockets" which give to this dress of saten print which you see in the picture a note of individuality.

slant of gold and silver weave. Quite often huge collars of shirred velvet usurp the place of furs on the gorgeous brocade wrap.

Charming for young girls are semi-wrappy coats styled either of cloth or silver or cloth-of-gold. Collars and cuffs of white rabbit emphasize their youthfulness.

Recent arrivals from Paris embody many decorative ideas which give promise of a continuance of elaborateness throughout the styling of evening wraps.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

Some of the First Acts of Republican Office Holders

The first of Uncle Ben Pankey on assuming charge of the State Land Office, was to take the sign down which read, "Keep from behind the counter."

When you go to see Uncle Ben, he'll not stand a mile away from you and talk to you through a megaphone. No! He'll want to get near enough to you to shake your hand, and ask you how business is, pretty much the same as Ben Franklin said to King of England on his first visit to that land, according to the lamented Bill Nye in his Comic History of the United States. Bill said that Ben Franklin hung his hat on the throne and asked the King how business was.

Uncle Ben Pankey wants every visitor to the Land Office to feel at home. We know of people who have called up Uncle Ben at about the retiring hour, to ask how he was getting along and in fifteen minutes he would be at the hotel to shake hands with his visitor.

The new Auditor, "Mike" Otero's first act was to look over a bill, or rather a warrant of expense (which is one and the same thing) and found that it was from the Gasoline Tax Collector under the old administration, and the amount of upkeep for his car for two months was $725.00.

Now, Mike has a car himself and knows that a bill for $725 is what he told the attorney general was "certainly stepping on the gas." If the official who handed in the warrant thought that Mike was easy enough to believe the bill a just one, he missed his guess, because Mike certainly knows his onions and will, like Uncle Ben, make one of the best state officials we have ever had, but in appealing to the decision of the attorney general, who is a Democrat, we predict that from a political standpoint, that official will consider the bill a just one, but let us hope not.

The new Governor, R. C. (Dick) Dillon started his job with a smile and goes ahead, doing the best he can and we predict, as we have done before, that he will make good in that important office, as he has in most things he has attempted. —Here's to you, new ones, everything looks fine!

Increasing Business

Increasing good business for the first half of 1927, is forecast by R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, who declared today that there is every reason to believe that the country will continue to enjoy the even prosperity that has attended general business in the last twelve months.

There is no evidence on the industrial horizon that would indicate anything but a promising outlook for the early months of the new year, Mr. Grant declared.

Within a few months, Dodge Brothers, Inc. will introduce a new line of motor cars, in no way conflicting with the market for Dodge Brothers present types, but occupying a considerably higher price field and produced in limited quantities.

Combining Dodge Brothers well known dependability with exceptional performance and striking beauty of appointment and design, these distinguished vehicles, we believe, will instantly set a new and higher standard in fine car practice.

Dodge Brothers will continue to produce their present line in maximum quantities to meet a demand which, during the year just ended, has called for an impressive total of 330,000 motor cars.

 Here, in a price class where average standards have been the rule, is now offered a car so far beyond all expectation that comparisons cease to exist.
 Seven superb models styled as low priced cars were never styled before and offering such marks of fine car distinction as: full crown one-piece fenders, bullet type lamps and "fish tail" rear deck modeling! New and supremely beautiful bodies by Fisher! And, above all, infinitely finer quality—the result of a host of additional improvements such as AC oil filter, AC air cleaner, co-incidental steering and ignition lock, larger 17-inch steering wheel, gasoline gauge and many, many others!
 All this is combined to a supreme degree in the long famous leader of the Chevrolet line—the coach. It would be a brilliant achievement for any manufacturer merely to design such a splendid car to sell at any reasonably low price. But to sell it at the amazing price of $595 is a feat of history making proportions. This one price reduction alone would suffice to center worldwide attention on Chevrolet. But due to economies of tremendous production plus the vast resources of General Motors, Chevrolet also announces striking price reductions on other models.

Quart of Water Cleans Kidneys

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys. The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys may net fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

Scientist Has Found Stars by the Billion

Prof. Frederick H. Sears of the Mount Wilson observatory recently completed counting the stars in the heavens. This seemingly impossible task he accomplished by mathematical calculations, although he could not see even with the most powerful telescope 07 per cent of them. First he divided the sky into squares. Then, 139 of these squares, he photographed all the stars included in each space with the great 60-inch reflecting telescope of Mount Wilson observatory, which collects 50,000 times as much light as the human eye. A count of the stars in the 139 squares showed 1,000,000,000. The 139 squares, however, represented only the 1-2,500 part of the sky and include stars only up to the twenty-first magnitude so he worked out a ratio between the stars of each succeeding magnitude and by an intricate calculation arrived at the final count of 30,000,000,000,000.

Tales of the Tots To avoid being swamped by them we hunch here a few child stories: "Mamma," said a little fellow fresh from Sunday school, "I knew what the three virtues are; they are faith, hope and cherry tree." A little Brooklyn lad explaining to his small sister the advent of the new baby said: "Why, God has only to wave His hand and down they come." David, a wee Winchester boy, was out walking with his nurse. It was near noon and seeing a horse standing by the roadside the nurse remarked: "I guess that horse is getting hungry for his dinner." "Yes," replied the little fellow, "he wants to have his prunes, doesn't he?" Boston-Transcript.

WONDERS

Uncle John was taking Douglas and Dorothy back to the city "under the river," so he had said, "in a train of cars." "How can a train of cars go under the river?" asked Douglas in a puzzled voice. "I don't believe I could ever be an inventor. It's hard enough to believe things really exist—and to have to think them all up. Well, it's beyond me." "Never mind, Douglas," said Dorothy, soothingly, "even if you can't be a great inventor, perhaps some day you can be a builder or an engineer and help make these marvelous things." Uncle John now led the way. "I am a little frightened," Dorothy said. "Can we see the water and the fishes?" "Oh, no," laughed Uncle John. "We are in great, enormous tubes that have been built under the river. We cannot see any water. We will just see this car—and the people in it until we reach the other side of the river." "Oh," exclaimed Dorothy, "my ears are buzzing. I am sure I hear the fishes talking or splashing with their fins!" "No," said Uncle John, "the fishes cannot be heard through these tubes, but there is a buzzing we sometimes get from being under the river, because of the air pressure so far underground. When they got out of the cars Douglas and Dorothy could hardly believe that they had been under the river and had seen no water at all! After they had walked a little Uncle John pointed to the route they had taken—actually under the water! On top were big boats and little boats, and now and again sea gulls dipped down on top, too. But as Douglas and Dorothy stood gazing in wonder, Douglas said: "We'd never believe, if we hadn't been just through it ourselves, that a tube could be built with trains running through and people sitting quietly in them, reading their papers—under this great, big river!" "Oh, look at the big boat," said Douglas suddenly, as they walked along and approached some enormous wharves. "Why that boat is out of the water," said Dorothy. "I should think it would topple over." "How can it stay out of the water?" Douglas asked and Uncle John said, "Come, we will ask this workman nearby." They did this and the workman answered: "Because it is in dry dock." "Well," laughed Douglas, "I can see that it is not in the water." "So can I," chuckled Dorothy. "It's here for repairs," said the man. "Can't they repair it in the water?" asked Douglas. "And how can they ever bring it in here? I should think it would get more broken by this than by anything else." "No," said the man, "because the boat comes in where there is water." "It does!" said Douglas. "Oh, do tell us how the water goes away. A boat needs so much water and how can it get rid of it?" "They get the boat in first, for here is the mending shop for boats." "Yes," said Douglas, "please do go on and tell us some more." "Then," continued the man, "they have to get the water out. They drain away all the water—all in a very short time, and then they put up a gate which keeps out the water. The gate is so closed that it can resist the water pressing on it from without." "And look at all the steps on either side leading down to the boat," said Dorothy. "Yes, those are needed," said the man, "for the workmen who are repairing the ship." "But after the boat is all mended and ready to go to sea again—then—then what do they do?" asked Douglas. "They open the gate, or, rather, they take it away, for it is a floating gate, and then the water comes in and the boat goes out!" And as Douglas and Dorothy looked at the huge boat in the dry dock with the steps leading way, way down to her keel and then saw the masts and decks above they said wonderingly: "It's strange how they can do such things with a great, enormous boat like that." "But then," Douglas added, "we mustn't forget the wonders we are living amidst!"

"My Ears Are Buzzing."

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Our Policy in Nicaragua Bitterly Attacked in Latin America.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

IF ONE were to believe the press in some Latin-American republics and the alarmists at home, affairs in Nicaragua are approaching a crisis that will be very uncomfortable for the United States. But the administration pursues its course steadily and without the least appearance of being worried. Rear Admiral Julian B. Latimer, commanding our naval forces down there, has established a neutral zone that embraces the entire east coast of Nicaragua and has notified both sides in the civil struggle that any troops of either faction that enter that zone will be disarmed. Though the zone includes Puerto Cabezas, where Doctor Sacasa set up his liberal government, Admiral Latimer's action last week happened to strike hardest at the Diaz forces, for they suffered a severe defeat at Las Perlas and hundreds of them were forced to retire to El Bluff, where they were disarmed by the Yankee gobs. The Conservatives fought desperately for three days but could not withstand the attacks of the Liberals, who were aided to have the help of 300 Mexican soldiers and officers.

Dr. T. S. Vaca, agent of the Liberal government in Washington, lodged with Secretary of State Kellogg an emphatic protest against the occupation of Puerto Cabezas by the Americans, asserting that it was unwarranted and that Doctor Sacasa was held in "practical imprisonment." At about the same time President Coolidge gave out a statement describing America's intervention as non-partisan and declaring that the only purpose in landing the bluejackets in Puerto Cabezas was the protection of the lives and property of American citizens. American marines, according to the President, have not molested Doctor Sacasa or any member of his cabinet. The Liberal president, it was pointed out, is now residing in a house lent by Americans at Puerto Cabezas. Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, after conferring with Secretary Kellogg and reading a cablegram from Admiral Latimer, issued a formal statement saying he did not believe it was the intention of the United States to intervene in the affairs of Nicaragua, but warning that the government should be "vigilant against being tricked into intervention."

"Naturally, we are interested in protecting our own people," the Borah statement continued. "But we should also bear in mind that to do anything more than is necessary to protect them is wholly unjustifiable. Those people have their own way of doing things, and not only this government but American citizens who go into these countries will have to take that into consideration. I am in favor of withdrawing our forces from Nicaragua just as soon as it can be ascertained that Americans are reasonably safe."

Senator Moses, also a member of the committee, is not so satisfied. He introduced a resolution calling on the State department for the correspondence leading up to the recognition of Diaz and relating to efforts to stabilize his government. It was presumed this would open the way to a general discussion of American policies in Latin America.

Newspapers in Mexico, Brazil and Argentina are bitterly attacking the policy of the United States in Nicaragua. In Buenos Aires the press calls it part of the fixed program of the United States eventually to annex all of South America. But they are angered by our refusal to admit their beef and alfalfa seed, and suggest a boycott on American coal in retaliation. Unfortunately Ambassador Peter A. Jay, who could explain it all to the Argentine government, has resigned and is about to come home with the body of his daughter, who died there.

GREAT BRITAIN, recognizing the changed conditions in China, has communicated to the powers its new policy in the Orient and asked them to take a corresponding stand. The program calls for revision of the Washington treaty and all other outstanding questions as soon as the Chinese themselves have constituted a government with authority to negotiate, and proposes that the powers should abandon the idea that "economic and political development of China can only be secured under foreign tutelage and should declare their readiness to recognize her right to the enjoyment of a tariff autonomy as soon as she herself has settled and promulgated a new national tariff. They should expressly disclaim any intention of forcing foreign control upon an unwilling China."

The plan calls for the immediate unconditional grants of surtaxes contemplated by the Washington conference, and opposes any attempt by the powers to dictate the purposes to which the yield from the surtaxes should be devoted.

In the State department at Washington the British plan was read sympathetically and in general with favor. France doesn't like it. The press in Japan was unanimously opposed to it, the objections being probably prompted almost entirely by commercial considerations. Large Japanese exporters to China foresee considerable losses in what has been a lucrative field for them, and they have great influence with the government.

Marshal Chang Tso-lin of Manchuria has arrived in Peking, occupied the imperial palace and is giving out orders as a dictator. Meanwhile the northern leaders are reported to be gathering huge armies about Shanghai to prevent the imminent capture of that city by the Cantonese armies.

AROUSSED by information that $100,000,000 worth of liquor had crossed from Canada into the United States during the year, and in response to loud protests in the Dominion and the United States, the government at Ottawa announced that it was determined to stop the rum running and to put into full effect immediately the treaty concerning it between Canada and this country. Hereafter any ships clearing from Canada with cargoes of liquor must prove beyond doubt that their cargo has been landed at the point for which clearance was granted, or else their bond for double excise duty will be forfeited. Where evidence is available that clearance papers are made out for fictitious trips, liquor cargoes will be seized and declared confiscated as contraband under the provisions of the Canadian customs act.

Holiday drinking in the United States resulted in the deaths of many persons due to the poisonous nature of the liquors, and opponents of prohibition cried loudly that the government was murdering American citizens. Treasury officials responded with the statement that the use of wood alcohol as a denaturant would not be discontinued, but that a new formula containing an unusually obnoxious compound would be substituted for some of the formulas in use hitherto. In other words, the liquor will be no less poisonous but will be so distasteful that, it is hoped, people will not be willing to drink it.

Rear Admiral Billard announces that "Rum Row" off the Atlantic coast has been entirely put out of business by the efforts of the coast guard.

THERE was widespread damage and great suffering, as well as several deaths, in the lowlands of Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama, resulting from the overflowing of the rivers following tremendous rainfalls. Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee were the worst sufferers, but elsewhere also the crop losses were heavy. In other parts of the country, notably Ohio, there were extraordinarily heavy snowfalls that brought traffic to a standstill.

Two volcanoes on Kamchatka peninsula are in eruption, and though no loss of life is reported the property damage is severe. The city of Petropavlovsk is nearly buried under lava and ashes. Further west on the Russian coast several fishing villages were obliterated by great waves and masses of ice hurled on them during a storm. Heavy loss of life was reported there.

LITIGATION over the estate of Jay Gould that lasted ten years and enriched many lawyers was brought to an end by a compromise agreement making a series of lump sum settlements and annual payments amounting in all to about $20,000,000 to the many beneficiaries.

The estate has shrunk from $90,000,000 to about $50,000,000. Attorney Samuel Seabury of New York, acting as spokesman for the attorneys concerned, said that Anna, duchesse de Tallibrand, had settled an $11,000,000 claim for less than $3,000,000. A desire to mend family differences actuated this settlement, Mr. Seabury said. He informed Referee O'Gorman that both Frank J. Gould and the duchess held the deepest affection for Helen Gould Shepard, one of the trustees, and felt that no matter how mistaken her course of conduct had been it had not been marked by any trace of dishonor.

AWARD of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation peace prize for 1929 was made to Elihu Root, former secretary of state, at a banquet in New York on the anniversary of Wilson's birth. The presentation was made by Norman H. Davis, president of the foundation, who said it was in recognition of Mr. Root's work in 1920 in the creation of the permanent court of international justice.

MAJOR DARGUE and his comrade in the pan-American army airplane tour, went up to Mexico City and were received by President Calles. They presented to him a flowery letter from President Coolidge and received an equally flowery missive for Mr. Coolidge. Naturally, there was in the documents no slightest hint that relations between the two governments were not entirely pleasant.

GREETED by a million people, the former Crown Prince Hirohito of Japan entered Tokyo and mounted the throne of his ancestors, succeeding to the imperial title on the death of his father, Yoshihito. At his first levee the new emperor read an outline of his policies, saying in part: "Conditions throughout the world have recently undergone signal changes. The thoughts of men are liable to follow contradictory channels. The economic life of the nation is occasionally marked with the conflict of varied interests. Accordingly it is important to fix one's eyes at the general situation of the country and unto the efforts of the whole empire in promoting the solidarity of the nation, in strengthening still further the foundation of the national existence and securing forever the prosperity of our people.

"Simplicity instead of vain display; originality instead of blind imitation; progress in the view of this period of evolution and improvement to keep up with advancing civilization; national harmony in purpose and action; beneficence to all classes of people and friendship for all nations on earth. These are the cardinal aims of man whereto our profoundest abiding solicitudes are directed."

CONSIDERABLE importance is attached to the signing on Wednesday of a treaty of friendship and arbitration between Germany and Italy. Though it is not an alliance, the pact is expected to bring the two countries again into amicable relations and to have a bearing on the shaping of the political alignment in Europe. It shows a spirit of co-operation and a desire to clear up the misunderstandings of the past year.

BUSINESS men of America formed a commission to investigate the agricultural problem and its relation to the economic life of the nation. Charles Nagel of St. Louis is chairman of the commission, which was created jointly by the national industrial conference board and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Nagel said that while information and suggestions would be sought from leaders in all fields of business and agricultural activity "the commission's findings and recommendations must be entirely its own, unaided and free of the bias of the policies and attitudes of either of the two organizations that have cooperated in organizing the commission."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MAKE YOUR MARK

ANY man who has encountered a grizzly in the open has had an experience that was interesting and instructive...

This American forest monarch, the biggest and strongest of modern wild beasts, is one of the few animals who believes in and practices advertising.

A full grown grizzly, when he has decided on what part of the hunting range he desires for himself, announces the fact by rearing himself against a pine tree...

Should another bear passing one of these trees decide that he, too, would like that particular hunting ground, he rears himself like his predecessor and makes his mark.

There is much of the spirit of challenge in all life. We all of us go about making marks and seeking to leave an impression of greatness...

The grizzly stretches to his full height. Too many of us make a mark that is far below our capacity and rest content to let that stand for the best we can do.

A measure half full is a dishonest measure, and a man is dishonest to himself who does not fill to his highest capabilities his place in the world and seek to get out of himself the best that is in him.

Better think too much of yourself than too little. Better yet, of course to estimate yourself for what you really are...

"L'etat, c'est moi!" "I am the state," said Louis XIV. Voltaire tells us that up to that moment he had been a king only in name...

He reached up to his full height when he made his mark for others to look upon. Victor Hugo, supreme as a word painter, the greatest novelist of modern times...

But to come back to the bear. He sets us a splendid example. He makes a high mark and then endeavors to live up to it...

We can do a great deal worse than to imitate the grizzly—be a bear and make your mark.

School Notes

By Jeanne Reilly:
The girls met their first defeat Saturday at Hondo. This is the first time we have lost a game in two years. The final score was 20-21. Hondo has the best team we have played and shows excellent coaching. We will meet them again Saturday night on our own court. Then, look out Hondo!

In courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dowdle of the Crystal Theatre, the game will not begin until 9 p. m. Go to the show: Come and see the game and remain for the big dance!
Semester examinations begin today. A report on same will be given in next week's issue. The Ciceronian society gave their first program last Friday. The program was well attended and all the numbers were well presented.

Stop in and see the new Champion Automatic Stitches. We can now sew soles on your shoes so there is no reason to send 'em away.
