Supt. Pratt Dies

Alamogordo, N. M., April 11—R. R. Pratt, 45, president of the New Mexico School for the Blind here, died shortly before eight o'clock tonight, following an illness of about 19 days with pneumonia and heart disease.

President Pratt, who was well known throughout the state and El Paso, had rallied Sunday, and it was hoped he would recover, but he succumbed tonight, after a relapse.

Prominent in Masonic, civic and social circles, President Pratt had been head of the school for the blind since 1909, and had gained a wide recognition for his school.

A native of Delaware, he was educated in Pennsylvania, and was connected for a time with a school for the blind in Pittsburgh. The school here, which consisted of but a single building when he took charge in 1909, has grown until it now occupies five buildings and has an enrollment of 87. A sixth building is under construction.

President Pratt is survived by his widow, of Alamogordo, and his mother, in Delaware. His widow's father, Dr. C. E. Woodbury of Boston, Mass., was here at the time of President Pratt's death. The funeral, which was attended by the many friends of the family, was held Wednesday afternoon and the remains were interred in the local cemetery.

Easter Week

Woman's Club Notes

The second annual convention of the Fourth District New Mexico Federation of Woman's Clubs, which met at Alamogordo last week was a great success from the opening session Friday morning until the close of the District Musicals on Saturday night. Not only the Alamogordo Woman's Club, but the Commercial Club, the Civic League, the Business Men's Club and Alamogordo as a whole, did themselves proud in their effort to entertain every visitor. Space forbids us mentioning all the valuable numbers, but these meetings are a great source of pleasure, inspirational and educational.

The trip to the White Sands with a picnic, supper, music and addresses will live long in the memories of the some 225 men, women and children who enjoyed the same. The visit through the modern sawmill was an innovation to many, and the Lyceum number was an added treat.

The club reports from the entire district showed marked progress in this great work. The Luncheons, Tea and Dinner were creditably presided over and were glowing successes; the music was a special treat.

The Carrizozo Woman's Club was honored by having two of its members nominated for office, namely: Mrs. R. E. Blaney for president and Mrs. T. A. Spencer for vice president of the Fourth District. Neither of these two ladies were present to accept or reject the nomination, so their names were left on the ticket to fill the regulation of District, requiring the nomination of two candidates for each office. The delegates' report will be given next week.

Those who attended from Lincoln County were: Mesdames T. E. Kelley, Paul Mayer, Maggie Wetmore, Geo. Dowdle, C. A. McCammon, L. A. McCall, J. E. Farley, M. L. Hunt, R. E. Blaney, J. B. French, S. H. Nickles, H. B. Hamilton, B. Stimmel, Misses Lois Snyder and Alene Thompson, Messrs. M. B. Foreman, Albert Ziegler, H. B. Hamilton, L. A. McCall and children, Carrizozo; Mrs. Geo. Titworth, Captain; Miss Charlotte Rice, Fort Stanton; Senator Louise Coe, Hondo; Mrs. J. H. Mims, Glendale; Mrs. Ben S. Burns, Three Rivers; Mrs. Dixon, Hondo.

The Musical Study Club will meet with Mrs. T. E. Kelley Thursday evening, April 20. All members are urged to be present.

Geo. Messer, Jr., Dies

Word was received here last Sunday morning of the death of Geo. Messer, Jr., son of forest ranger Messer of the Gallinas Station. There were conflicting causes given for the death of young Messer, therefore, the exact cause is not known at this writing.

The first message that came asked Undertaker T. E. Kelley to come to the Gallinas station and embalm the deceased, who died of ptomaine poisoning, but another message said his death was due to a ruptured blood vessel.

The news came as a sad surprise to the friends of the family here, and the sympathy of the community is extended to sorrowing relatives.

The remains were interred in the cemetery at Corona, attended by the many friends of the family in that locality.

Music Week in New Mexico

A Proclamation by Governor Dillon issued this week from the Executive Office at Santa Fe, is in substance, as follows:

In 1924, "Music Week" was officially endorsed by the President of the United States and launched as a nation-wide crusade for music. In the brief period of three years, the great movement has attained marvelous and substantial growth and is now being observed in every state in the union.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the value of music is not confined to recreation and entertainment alone; it is recognized as an economic asset in the field of industry, where it renews and relaxes the tired workers; it was employed as a healing agency to our shell-shocked soldiers in the recent war; it is daily utilized in hospitals where it serves to allay and combat nervous and mental disorders; in penal institutions it is an aid in reclaiming moral delinquents; every state institution, whether educational, penal, reformatory or industrial, also public and private schools, should place on their program instructions in music, vocal as well as instrumental. Patriotic songs inspire a love of country.

It is the high aim of "Music Week" workers, not merely to stage public entertainments for a period of one week, but to awaken the desire and induce a permanent habit on the part of citizens in general, to develop the faculty of song and melody with which they are inherently endowed and to give wholesome and refined recreation to our boys and girls, thus replacing in many instances, diversions which impede their best development.

Now, therefore, I, R. C. Dillon, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby proclaim the first week in May, 1927, as Music Week in the State of New Mexico, and I hereby announce the meeting of the New Mexico Federation of Music Clubs in the City of Santa Fe beginning Sunday evening, April 10, 1927.

I urge all citizens to encourage and support the music workers and co-operate with them in their praiseworthy undertaking in the cause of music.

Done at the Executive Office, this 9th day of April, 1927.

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico.

R. C. Dillon, Governor.

Attest:
Jennie Fortune, Secretary of State.

Passed to Rest

Word has been received from Thomas Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles to the effect that his mother, Mrs. Geo. L. Ulrich died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Foster at New Orleans, La., the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Ulrich had been a resident of Carrizozo since 1906, but left here about two years ago to make her home with her son at Los Angeles, during which time her health gradually failed, until two months ago, she decided to go to New Orleans.

After her arrival at that place, she was obliged to go to a hospital, where she remained for most of the time until her death.

Mrs. Ulrich was for many years not only a prominent resident of this place, but was an active worker for the betterment of Carrizozo. She was the organizer of the Civic League and was its first president. One afternoon in the spring of 1920, several ladies were invited to the home of Mrs. Ulrich for the purpose of organizing the Carrizozo Woman's Club and to this estimable friend and neighbor Carrizozo owes a debt of gratitude for planting the seed from which has grown the present organization, on whose roster she holds the place of past President.

Mrs. Ulrich was kind, noble-hearted, generous, charitable and held a warm place in the hearts of her many friends here and elsewhere. In her early days, she was much given to literary work and besides editing society columns for some of the large dailies at different places in the east, she composed many beautiful poems of a sentimental nature. In the local affairs of Carrizozo, she was always found in the front ranks and deeply interested in the welfare of the town in general. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Foster and Miss Anna Scherrer of New Orleans and one son, Thomas Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles, Calif., to all of whom, the sympathy of this community is extended.

"Life is but a working day,
Whose tasks are set aright
A time to work, a time to pray
And then a quiet night.
And then, please God, a quiet night,
Where palms are green, and robes are white
A long drawn breath, a balm for sorrow;
And all things lovely on the morrow."
—Christina G. Rossetti.

Miss Marguerite Sweet will entertain the Carrizozo Bridge Club in the parlors of the Carrizozo Eating House, Saturday, April 16.

SMART COMPOSE FOR SPRING; OMBRE AND BASKET WEAVE

ALMOST every plaited skirt has a jacket accompaniment, which accounts for the youthfulness of the silhouette these days. Not only is this two-piece combination developed in a strictly tailored way, but it is particularly accomplished through a soft graceful feminized styling.

is perhaps as wise, if not the wisest investment one can make. Consider the fate of the dainty Easter frock—without the accompaniment of a timely cloth topcoat, what's the answer? Not only during spring's capricious weather is a modish long-coat a "friend in need and indeed," but it does not outlive its usefulness the whole summer through.

sleeveless, others are sleeved to the wrist, some fasten this way, others that, according to fashion's whim. The girlish frock in the picture is typical of the trend of the mode. In creating this attractive two-piece model, the stylist has expended quite a collection of leading ideas. First of all, there's the compose theme—skirt of one color, jacket of another. The flat collarless neckline so popular in the advance styles, adds to the modishness of the jacket. To fasten the jacket or blouse over to one side, is considered the proper thing, too. That's why this little jacket reflects the supple movement, with the addition of a few buttons to preserve a neat semi-tailored effect.

Loosely woven basket-cloth in perfected colorings is a likable material for this season. As to the making up of this fabric the simpler the more effective is the prevailing sentiment, a fact to which the coat to the right in the picture bears striking testimony. In the rounded corners at the hemline one sees a vitally new viewpoint. A bit of ombre fur for collar and cuffs adds charming finesse. If one is seeking the very latest in the way of a spring coat then by all means choose basket cloth in beige or any neutral tint. For summer the all-white basket cloth is foretold. The mode is also high-lighting lovely blended ombre weaves, a decorative note being insets of solid colored cloth, as shown in the styling of the teen. It is a fact, the sheer jacket suit, usually tailored of georgette, is the deceler cri from Paris, and as for velveteen jackets, see them in every color at any fashionable outdoor event. Recent imports feature plaid tartan jackets with cloth skirts, also it is expected that short jackets in solid colors will be worn over open-pleated skirts.

coat to the left in the picture. Narrow belts add much to the youthfulness of the silhouette. A very new and clever mode is the cashmere coat having trimmings of plaid tartan instead of fur. There is even a plaid tartan boutonniere to give an added touch of color. Real snake-skin trimming for cloth coats is the latest sensation.

On Easter Dawn

THE chords of music are freighted with the perfume of the lilies; the songs that are sung catch inspiration from these sweetest of flowers—the entire genius of Easter is that of the lily. What could the day be without them! As hope opens, and life brightens, and love becomes more enduring, it is the lily that brings these sentiments to their finer fruition. For the lily is the evangel of the flowers at Easter-tide, and church and home and heart are filled with their beauty and fragrance.

Rejoicing on Easter Sunday

THE heart of Christendom rejoices on Easter Sunday. The entry into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday, the agony of Christ in the garden, the crucifixion and burial on Good Friday—all these are past. Death is swallowed up in victory. Christ the Lord is risen today!

If, as has been suggested, the word Easter is derived from Oster, which signifies rising, then is Easter Sunday, both in name and reality, the feast of the resurrection.

It is more probable, however, that Easter gets its name from Eostre, a Saxon deity, whose feast was celebrated every spring about the time of the Christian festival. A compromise was thus effected, Christians accepting the pagan name and pagans accepting the Christian significance of the day.

Easter is a movable feast. It falls on "the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the twenty-first of March, and, if the full moon happens upon a Sunday, Easter day is the Sunday after."

In earlier days Easter was called the Paschal feast, for it was kept at the same time as the Pascha, or Jewish Passover.

So much for the origin of the name. Easter Sunday today is celebrated by young and old alike.

For the children there are rabbits and Easter eggs—and the unrestrained joy of egg hunts in back yards and in public parks.

For the grown-ups there are new suits, new hats.

But surely Easter holds more than this for us. It is not a day of happiness alone, nor of outward show alone. It is a day of victory.

Just as our Saxon forefathers celebrated Eostre and the victory of things physical, so we celebrate Easter and the victory of things spiritual. The heart of man is filled with the beauty of spring's flowers that have sprung from death to life.

The soul of man is triumphant, for it is filled with a spirit which dieth not.

Christ the Lord is risen!

Biblical Story of the Resurrection

IN THE end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary, to see the sepulcher.

And behold there was a great earthquake, for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone from the door and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning and his raiment white as snow.

And for fear of him the keepers did shake and become as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear ye not, for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

He is not here, for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

And go quickly and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead, and behold, He goeth before you into Galilee; and there shall ye see Him; lo, I have told you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulcher with fear and great joy; and did run to bring His disciples word.

And as they went to tell His disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came, and held Him by the feet, and worshiped Him.

Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid; go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

Then the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them.

And when they saw Him they worshiped Him, and some doubted.

And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and earth.

Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost;

Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen.

Easter Festival Time of Romance

ASTER has always been the time of budding romance. In all ages numerous festivals have offered opportunities for the swains to press their suits upon the ladies of their choice. There was the "sugar cupping" to which only the unmarried came. The youths and maidens, armed with a cup and sugar or honey, came to the flower-decked well, and dipping the sugared cup into the well, murmured an incantation to the spirit that dwelt there, and then drank the water. The incantation is a secret, but it is believed that the object was to make a wish, and promise allegiance to the spirit, if the wish were fulfilled.

It has long been considered a necessity, on Easter day, to wear something new; otherwise the rooks, envoys of human misery, might cause your best clothes to tear. To avoid this the young people of European villages go to the market to buy a small article of wearing apparel. The custom of giving presents, especially gloves, is common in New England. In France the custom of wearing something new prevails to such an extent that every woman considers herself very ill treated indeed if she has not a new cap to wear on Good Friday, and a new hat to wear on Easter Sunday. As a consequence, these days are called the feast of caps and the feast of hats.

On the continent of Europe there are numerous parades, attended by great pomp and splendor. In comparatively recent times the nobleman of the district, accompanied by his suite, rode in state through the town scattering coins pell mell, the peasants standing by, loudly applauding such splendor. In Spain there is the custom of the Easter king, who, wearing a tin crown and flourishing a kitchen spit as a scepter, furnishes a ribald counterpart of the English Lord of Misrule. There is also an ostentatious hanging and burning of a stuffed figure of Judas. After the fire is out the merry-makers dance over it, stamping and scattering the ashes of the enemy.

Don't Rock the Boat

This is a good time not to take too much for granted one way or the other in the Chinese situation. All sorts of stories are coming out of the Orient. Every Chinese faction has a propaganda bureau all its own, and the European powers interested in China of course have a way of censoring the news which comes from their correspondents. There can be little doubt that the situation in China is bad. Just how bad it is only time can tell. It might be that the Cantonese will sweep on to Peking during the present year, and then again it is possible that the so-called nationalists will get set back again.

It is therefore not a good time to enter into any rash undertakings and it is consoling to know that the administration at Washington is not one which is apt to go off on a tangent on this or any other proposition. The government is of course taking such steps as are necessary to protect American lives and American property in China. In so doing the government is only performing its duty. But it will not embark on any definite and sweeping policy in China until it is sure of all the facts.

It is significant to note that with all the trouble in China and the world wide concern it has caused, there has been as yet no effort to call the League of Nations in to iron out the trouble. The league, as has been suspected, can only act when Great Britain and France want it to act, and in the Chinese situation these two powers prefer to work things out without any league interference. — National Republic.

Sheppard-Towner Work

About three weeks ago, three little children of San Miguel County died in violent convulsions from eating tubers of wild parsnips, or water hemlock (also known as cowbane and death-of-man.) In Spanish it is called "Yorba del paco," which is one of the most poisonous plants in the country. Five other children were poisoned at the same time, but survived. In a Massachusetts paper we read of a young man in New Hampshire dying of the same poison. About five weeks ago there was a report in Hygeia describing 17 cases of poisoning from this cause. Thus we have a record, within a short time, of 26 cases and 4 deaths.

Because the root of this plant resembles parsnip so closely, and has a pleasant flavor, it is a distinct menace to children. Nurses and school teachers and parents should warn the children under their care against eating any unknown substance of whatever nature.

My health club work in Lincoln county is progressing nicely. Several parents have manifested their interest in the work by attending the meetings. It is hoped that more parents, mothers in particular, will take the time and effort to attend these they close—they are now more than half over. The next meeting in Carrizozo will be held at the Santa Rita School at 1:30 p. m., Saturday, April 23. There will also be one at the Public High School Building on that same date at 8:30 p. m. At each meeting the "Baby's Bath Demonstration" will be given. I repeat it—Visitors are welcome.

Khedive's Ex-Chef Gives Cooking Tip

Great chefs are born, not made. Rarely if ever do they rise to the heights in their profession by dint of perseverance. In Europe and the East a chef with the true gastronomic instinct is treasured and treasured jealously. He expects and obtains the treatment of an ambassador. His wishes are the order of his master, to be obeyed of to friends in the cafes and bazars.

Such a chef is Haroutoun Gedojina, sometime chef to the family royal of the khedive of Egypt, now the owner of a bizarre gold coast restaurant in Chicago. In his forty-three years as a chef extraordinaire, Haroutoun's word has been law in the cuisines of three Egyptian princes and one princess, the mother of the khedive. When Lord Kitchener was sirdar of Egypt, before the trouble in the Sudan, Haroutoun cooked for him.

One of Kitchener's favorite dishes, according to Haroutoun, was schisch-tabb, a dish made from milk-fed baby lamb. Prince Jamel, another of his masters, was particularly fond of dried cream and honey, a preparation which is one of Haroutoun's zealously guarded secrets. Prince Saad Pasha was a keen admirer of a confection Haroutoun makes entirely out of flour, butter and nuts.

In many of his admirable dishes, Haroutoun uses evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk sterilized in cans and with sixty per cent of the water removed. Because of a homogenizing process through which evaporated milk is put, the fat globules in the milk are broken up into microscopic particles and distributed throughout the milk, where they remain in homogeneous suspension.

This breaking of the fat globules gives a distinct buttery flavor to every drop of the evaporated product, a flavor which ordinary market milk does not have. Haroutoun says he uses evaporated milk in preference to market milk in the preparation of all sorts of baked dishes, as well as in cooking.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

Labor is wholesome for all. Joy by it is sustained, and it diverts the greatest sorrow. It means that the good God made it for each of us.

THE FAMILY MEAL

All rich cakes, puddings, pies and preserves should be eaten sparingly after the age of sixty. All green vegetables, such as spinach, peas, lettuce and cress, should find a place in one meal each day. These are especially valuable for growing children and equally valuable for the aged.

Orange Sauce.

Mix one cupful of sugar, rind of one orange and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch; when well blended add two cupfuls of boiling water and cook until thick and the cornstarch taste is removed; then add a tablespoonful of butter, one-third of a cupful of orange juice and a pinch of salt. Serve hot over plum or cottage pudding.

Fruit Sandwiches.

Finely chop well-washed figs, add a small quantity of water and cook in a double boiler until a paste is formed. Sweeten to taste and flavor with grated lemon peel; cool and spread on slices of buttered raisin or nut bread. Press together in pairs and cut into four small triangles. Garnish each with a large seeded raisin.

Prune and Nut Sandwiches.

Remove the stones and finely chop one cupful of prunes, add one-half cupful of chopped English walnuts, moisten with mayonnaise dressing and use as a filling between thin slices of buttered bread. Cut into any desired shapes and serve with coffee.

Chicken Pie With Oysters.

Cut into pieces a nice fat chicken, put into a saucepan, cover with boiling water, season highly with salt and pepper and stew until it is tender. Line the sides of a baking dish with a nice rich crust. Remove the largest bones from the chicken and place the meat in layers with oysters, salt and pepper and pieces of butter. Pour in half the chicken broth and some of the oyster liquor. Cover with a top crust and bake.

Banana Salad.

Take one cupful of grated fresh coconut, one pint of cubed apple, one cupful of finely cut celery, one small onion cut into fine cubes; mix all well and moisten lightly with the milk of the coconut, let stand until well chilled, add a light seasoning of French dressing, and when ready to serve add plenty of mayonnaise.

THE NOISY HOUSE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

ALTHOUGH perhaps we now may scold her, we would not have her one day older. We would not have her one day wiser. For love is, after all, a miser. And would that we might keep her always.

Still loudly romping through the hallways, still filling all the house with clatters when we have such important matters, still wearing shoes and tearing dresses.

And overwhelming with caresses—Although we try to rearrange her, we really would not want to change her.

For once there was no noisy laughter; there came a time, and long, long after, we went on tip-toe, lest we wake her. For fear some passing breeze might take her.

Out of our house and our embraces. Yes, you will find upon our faces the record of those days of praying. Those nights of watching—when her playing had ceased, and left the awful stillness.

That hangs about a house of illness. God grant, although she now may riot, that not again our house is quiet.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21: Aaron Sapiro, Messiah of the Famous, Was a Theological Student.

AT TWENTY-ONE I was a student at the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati. I stayed eight years at the theological school, but I left before my course was finished because I believed strongly that any church must be an instrument of special science, to further human welfare, rather than an instrument for the preaching of a fixed and changeless creed. I told them so and I told them I could not go on.

"During the last half of this period I paid my way by tutoring at the University of Cincinnati, where I also held the salaried position of student assistant in history.—Aaron Sapiro."

TODAY—Mr. Sapiro is the idol among coast farm and fruit growers, and the inspired leader for hundreds of thousands of farmers in other parts of the country. He is the acknowledged authority and organizer of the co-operative movement for growers and by his great genius has saved farmers millions of dollars yearly. Entirely under his leadership and legal counsel there have been organized co-operative associations in this country and Canada having a total membership of over half a million farmers and fruit growers.

Mr. Sapiro is a wonderful example of what talent and determination can accomplish in America. He started life in an orphan asylum.

Do You Know

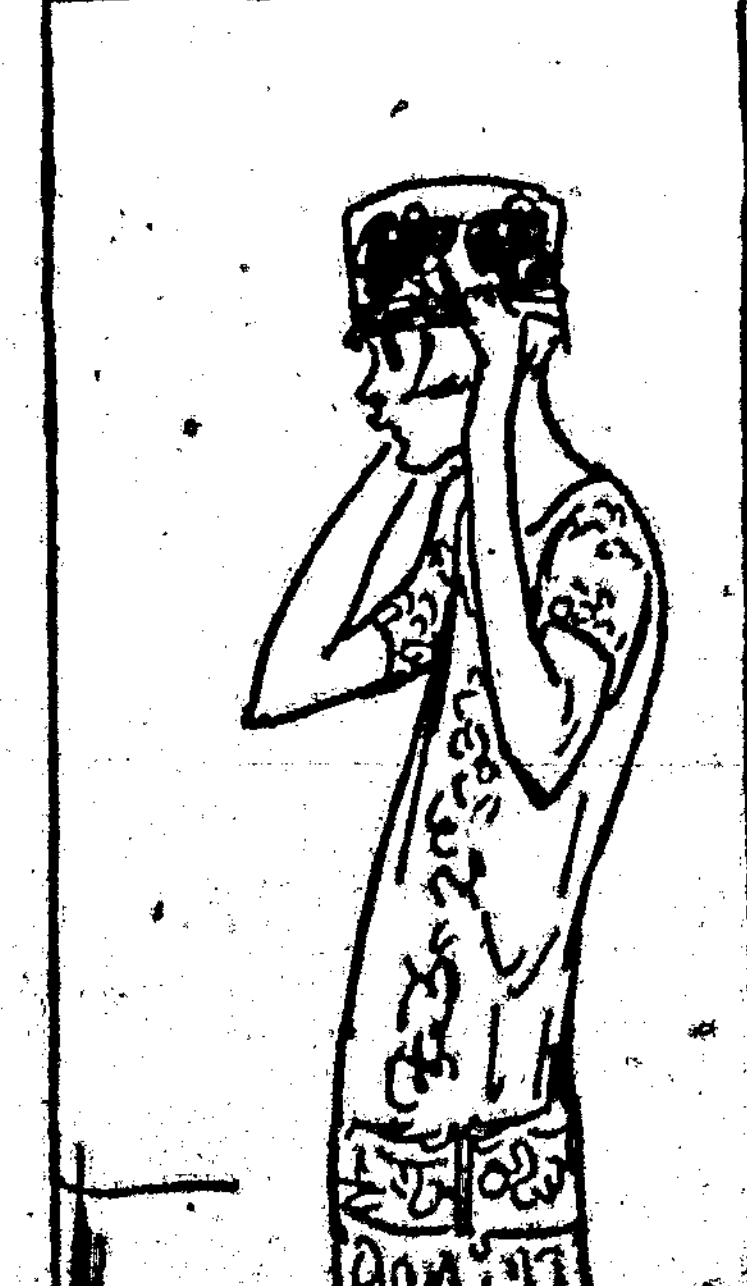

That: ~?~?~

"CROCODILE Tears" is an allusion to the old superstition that the crocodile sheds tears and moans and sighs like a person in distress. And it is a fact that the crocodiles do emit loud and plaintive noises quite like the mournful howling of dogs. Hearing these noises credulous travelers naturally associated tears with these cries.

And so the phrase "crocodile tears" has come to mean tears of shame or hypocritical sorrow.—Anna S. Turnquist.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MORE SIGHT SEEING

Far down in the city Uncle John took Douglas and Dorothy one day. "We are going to see a city market," he told them.

They did not quite know how a city market would be different from a country market for they were quite sure the village store, not far from their home in the country, had been pretty well filled with meats and vegetables and fruits.

But they had never imagined a market could be like the one they met at last saw. Such quantities of things! How could there be enough people to eat them all!

"I should imagine," said Dorothy, "that there would be a great deal left over at the end of each day. There couldn't be enough people shopping to buy all these things. And there are so many vegetables and meats and provisions which should be bought today."

"Well," said Douglas, after a moment, "I don't wonder Dorothy is interested in this market. I have never seen anything like it. I was so busy before watching the chickens and turkeys for sale that I hadn't half looked about me. Gracious, what an enormous place!

"And how different it is from a country market even if these things came from the country."

"Yes," said Dorothy, "they say now in the country that they can't get all the best things because so many must come to the city."

"Isn't it funny," said Douglas, "that in the Wonder City even the country things come here, too, like the vegetables and the turkeys and the chickens?"

"And even like Douglas and Dorothy," laughed Uncle John. "They came from the country to the city."

Both the children laughed and as they left the huge market Dorothy said:

"Don't mother be surprised when we write her and tell her of the size of this city market!"

Uncle John took them for quite a sight-seeing trip that day. He took them to Irving place and Gracery park in order to see some of the older spots. But they had not gone far when a young man rushed by them and then suddenly turned around, for he knew Uncle John.

"Wouldn't you like to bring the children to see the great electrical building?" he asked.

"Would you?" he added, turning to them.

"Would we?" exclaimed Douglas. "How exciting!" said Dorothy. "We never quite know what is going to happen," she added, "in this city. We think we are to have a quiet walk and then a wonder pops right up. It seems."

They looked then about the building which was like a magic place to the children. Everything was cooked, made, lighted by electricity. It seemed as if all one had to do was to press a button, say "High-cock-a-lorem" or some magic word and something happened as if in a dream.

There was a stove which cooked delicious things to eat, by electricity. There were irons to dry clothes in the same way, and electricity for sweeping—heat—lighting—everything of which one could think, it appeared.

Later, when it grew dark, they saw the building lighted up. How unreal it all seemed!

After they had left and were on their way along the street they passed the home of Washington Irving—who wrote of the days when New York was young, and there still were fields and rough roads—and no shiny pavements and crowded streets. His home, so quaint, standing there in the half-darkness, gave Douglas a queer feeling.

"Do you know, I feel like Rip Van Winkle," he said. "I feel as if I had been asleep for twenty years and had just awakened to see all these wonderful things—electric lights, tall buildings and subways."

"You see," explained Uncle John, for Dorothy looked puzzled, "Rip Van Winkle was a character in a story by Irving—whose house we have been looking at. Old Rip went to sleep for twenty years, and Douglas feels as if he had been asleep that long."

So once again Dorothy had to place Douglas until he squealed to show him that he was still wide awake!

Capitan News

A meritorious effort was the presentation of "That's one on Bill" by the Senior Class Friday night. The class gave an account of themselves that will not, at least, tarnish the glittering record of the class of last year. The players showed unusual talent and the action was marked with much vivacity and animation. T. W. Clark filled the role of "Duffy," easy-going and too rich to work; Oscar Robertson played the part of "Bill," nephew of the rich "Uncle Jimmy," played by Wallace Ferguson. Ima Guthrie "Patricia Pansy LaGloria," the movie queen was a success throughout the play. Mary Ferguson, Mary Hale, Inice Jones, Warren Rockwell and Joe Evans proved their cleverness as actors. Evans played the part of a hard-hearted pugilat and won great favor and applause. Judges in a y judge and critics may criticize, but to what purpose when the audience take matters into their own hands? "Hands" it was, for when the curtain dropped on the play, the palms beat for the most vociferous demonstration of the Senior class of Capitan. The play was coached by Miss Marguerite Nichols, Commercial teacher. The class has been asked to give their play at Fort Stanton for the benefit of the patients.

About 10 o'clock Tuesday morning a smoke was discovered out north of town. Some of the students and several others of the town hurried to the scene finding Mr. Sam Bigger's house in flames. They managed to keep the barn from burning, but the house was destroyed in a few minutes time. The Biggers suffered a great loss.

We expect Miss Julia Sundt, Sheppard-Towner nurse to be with us Wednesday. The students look forward to Miss Sundt's visits.

Miss Jean Berry, one of our popular students is out of school on account of sickness.

Last Sunday the Capitan boys and the Carrizozo boys played a hard fought game of baseball intermingled with mud and wind. The game was fast and furious with a tie score up until the 8th inning, when the Capitan pitcher's arm gave way and during the 9th-9th inning the score ran up 14-7 in Carrizozo's favor. There was good sportsmanship on both sides. There will be a return game on the Fort Stanton diamond Saturday, April 16, at 2 p. m.

The Freshmen are busy practicing their play, "Go Slow Mary." They are putting forth their greatest efforts in order to make it better than the Senior play. It will be given in the near future.
