There are three booths; the first is the Marcel booth, the second, is the booth for facial massaging and the third, is the booth for shampooing. The facial booth has a reversible chair and a Violet Ray machine. The shampoo booth is equipped with a sink, electric hair-dryer and latest patent drain-board. Rolland's Drug Store Robbed

Sometime between the hours of 12 o'clock Saturday night and 3 o'clock Sunday morning, Rolland's Drug Store was entered by cutting a hole in the glass in the front door. The thief took $12.00 in money, a watch, knife and before leaving, made himself a malted milk. Mr. Rolland thinks that the calm intruder ran off several records on the phonograph. Sheriff Kelsey apprehended the thief, who gave his name as James Bland and was pleased to inform Sam that he was from Orange, Texas. The Sheriff recovered the stolen property except the malted milk, which the kind-hearted official allowed him to keep. He was bound over to await the action of the district court.

After they were well covered with the dewdrops they began to shake all over just as every bird does when he takes a bath.

They still perched on the branches of the snowberry bush and bathed now in the hot sun.

Soon their little feathers were quite dry and they began to sing.

And, truly, I think their song was one of gladness because of their dewdrop bath!

But partly, without a doubt, it was because they had a feeling they would be taken care of during the long, cold, snowy winter.

By EVELYN GAGE BROWNE

Don't be like the twins who keep howling. The very same kind of a "bawl"— Each one of them yelling so loudly, You can't hear the other at all.

But resolve to get out of the chorus. And make yours a solo part; Then when you go after an order, Must put in a bit of your heart.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

By JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Daniel Chester French Was Embarking on His Career.

ABOUT this age I was relieved of my sister, which I exhibited. It won favorable notice and procured me an order for a similar portrait by a Chicago lady, the first commission I received. It was just a few years after that I began work upon my first public statue, "The Minute Man." I have always enjoyed my work. When I get interested in a subject I lose all track of time and thoroughly enjoy myself. I am not like my old friend, St. Gaudens, who took things more seriously. He actually fought his work, studying it from every angle, worrying with it, puzzling over it. I have never worked that way and I used to feel guilty—as though I were having too good a time.—Daniel Chester French.

TODAY—Mr. French is one of America's most distinguished sculptors, the creator of "The Minute Man," an historical piece of work that is familiar to every American. At the time Mr. French proposed his plans to the memorial committee in charge of erecting the statue in Concord as a revolutionary memorial, French was totally unknown as an artist and practically self-taught, the only thing in his favor being that he was a native of Concord and that all he asked in financial returns was four hundred dollars for expenses. His design was accepted and Mr. French set to work without even the help of a model. The artistic ability of the sculptor was first discovered when his step-mother found him carving a turnip into a caricature of a frog dressed in clothes. His career was decided upon then.

POULTRY

CHICKEN POX IS VERY CONTAGIOUS

Chicken pox (sometimes called sorehead) is a very contagious disease. It makes its appearance in the form of irregular whitish patches or festers which later develop into brown spots or crusts (resembling a scab or sore) on the comb, wattles, eyelids, and around the beak and nostrils. In severe cases these patches or sores increase in number to such extent that the birds have difficulty in opening their eyes and beaks, and if neglected many will die.

The best way to prevent birds from this as well as many other diseases, is to keep all roosting quarters clean, dry, and well disinfected. During the summer, when the disease is most common, mix 8 pounds of powdered sulphur with each 100 pounds of dry mash, allowing the birds to eat all they want. Chicken pox usually attacks late-hatched chicks more often and more severely than early hatched ones, which makes it advisable to hatch as early in the season as possible.

If, however, a flock becomes infected in spite of all precautions, no time should be lost in treating the birds by applying a liberal quantity of carbolic vasoline to the affected parts. This treatment after a short time will cause the patches or crusts to soften and drop off, when the tissue or core underneath should be painted with a solution of iodine of a 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid. Five pounds of fine-powdered sulphur mixed with each 100 pounds of dry mash is also beneficial in effecting a cure.

As soon as the disease takes its appearance spray the houses and coops thoroughly with some good disinfectant (preferably some wood preservative or coal-tar preparation), and send the drinking fountains and feed dishes thoroughly with boiling water. Repeat every two or three days until after all the birds have fully recovered.

Poultryman Should Cull

All Loafers From Flock

Because egg prices are going down and feed prices are going up, poultrymen cannot afford to keep "star-boarders," according to the poultry department at the New York State College of Agriculture, which says that about 25 per cent of the hens in the average farm flock in New York state are loafers that do not pay their own way, and at the same time eat food and occupy room in the poultry house that the laying hens should have.

For several years poultrymen from the college have spent much of their time during the summer months culling poultry for the farmers in New York state, and last year a total of 252,000 birds were handled. The men who do the culling are trained poultry judges, and the cost of the service to the farmer is about one and one-half to two cents for each bird handled.

On the basis of the number of birds actually discarded, the cost to the poultryman is about five or six cents a bird. The department says that it costs 20 to 30 cents a month to feed a hen, therefore, the saving for the farmer is evident.

Any farmer in the state may have his poultry culled by a poultryman from the college by applying to his local farm bureau agent or by writing directly to the poultry department at the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Poultry Notes

Sell broilers and fryers promptly. Keep the poultry house clean and the birds are more likely to keep healthy.

Chicks to be used as breeders or layers should be provided with plenty of green range.

Chickens with good capacity and good appetites are the ones that fill the egg basket.

Produce clean eggs so none will have to be washed to give a good appearance.

Eggs that have been washed will spoil quicker than those that have not, so produce them clean at the start.

A green feed is essential to egg production. To raise green feed successfully is one of the greatest problems of the poultryman who wishes to have eggs when the price is high.

Market the surplus cockerels or keep them separate from the pullets for most satisfactory growth.

The young chickens should be kept comfortable. Get them on perches early, as crowding retards growth and causes crooked breast bones.

A hen cannot very well feed mites at night, like in the daytime and have much time to lay eggs. Sanitation, plus good feeding and management are all essential for best results.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

WHO IS YOUR HERO?

A SHORT time ago the police of a great city picked up on the street a desolate and hungry boy. He was ragged and thin. When they searched him at the station house the only thing they found in his pockets was a bit of crumpled paper upon which had been written as the title "My Heroes" and underneath were listed these names: Theodore Roosevelt, General Pershing, Jesse James, Tracy the Bandit, Captain Kidd.

A strange and interesting list and yet there are comprehensible reasons for the presence of every name that filled this youthful individual's list of fame.

We begin to choose our heroes very early in life. The story of "Jack and the Beanstalk" has furnished many a boy with his first ideal of bravery.

"Robinson Crusoe"—the characters of James Fenimore Cooper—even the overdrawn adventures of the old "yellow covers" and "The Nickel Library" and Cap Collier's creations thrilled many of us to ambitions which faded away with boyhood.

One thing is certain: No boy ever worshipped a man as a hero unless in his opinion he had done something extraordinary, something that really entitled him to admiration.

If we pick our heroes for the purposes of imitation we should be very careful. Not many men in all history were desirable of imitation in all the details of their lives. Every great man has some weakness.

Who is your hero? Why is he your hero?

Do You Know That?

"Oil on Troubled Waters" or to "Pour Oil on Troubled Waters" is a very old phrase meaning to pacify or to soothe.

We find the phrase mentioned in Bede's Ecclesiastical History which was written in Latin in 753 and later translated in 1563. It appears that St. Aidan had given his blessing to a young priest who was to set out by land, but return by water, to convey a young maiden destined to be the bride of King Oswald. St. Aidan gave the young man a jar of oil to pour on the sea if the waves became stormy. A storm did arise and the young priest poured the oil on the waves and they did actually become calm. Bede says he had the story from "a most creditable man in Holy Orders."—Anna S. Turnquist.

The South Favors Protective Tarrif

The Solid South has at last shaken off the chains that have so long bound it to party lines, and, according to advices from our eastern states, the wool growers of Texas and the Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association of the same state which is also represented by auxiliaries in other states have decided to make a levy of 1/2 of 1 percent in the way of tax, and the funds to be derived are to be used in organization and educational work for the purpose of electing senators and representatives who are favorable to the Protective Tarrif.

The campaign which was instituted in Texas, is spreading over the entire South as well as other states where the wool growing industry is thriving under protective tarrif.

For generations, people have voted against what they really believed to be right, just because an issue was embodied in the platform of another party which they had been accustomed to affiliate with, but now, the leading men of the South are coming forward and proclaiming that the Tarrif is the only hope for the future protection of this valuable industry, and the movement is growing rapidly.

The motive is this: To have the issue taken entirely out of politics, so it is said—but where did the Tarrif originate—and what party has continually advocated it?

The Republicans are willing for the sake of the protection of the industry, that it be taken out of politics—but the fact will ever remain, the Republican party is the father of it.

This is always the case with the Democrats—when they are bound to admit the safety and soundness of a Republican issue—they want to take it out of politics.

The Rugs of the Navajo Indians are unlike any other rugs ever produced, an art of weaving has been brought to a perfection with this tribe of the Southwest. The designs are of their own figures and symbols, and are seen nowhere else. These Rugs are of a texture and quality that will outlast Oriental Rugs. The wool used is sheared from live sheep, which insures strength and firmness. They will wear a lifetime and becomes heir looms. The time is not far distant when genuine Navajo Rugs will no longer be woven, as the old Squaws who do this work are getting fewer, and the present generation does not take up the work. For this reason, the rugs now on the market are much sought after by lovers of Indian Relics.

Provided, further, that in the event said applicant ceases to operate his business or occupation continuously before the expiration of three months from date of application he shall be termed an itinerant vendor or peddler and the deposit made with his application shall be applied in accordance with the rate of tax hereinafter provided for the occupation of itinerant vendors, hucksters and peddlers. HATS TO MATCH FROCKS; THE DRESSY BATHING SUIT

HEAPS of fun-making clothes for the "kiddies" these days. Little folks' styles are so cunning, sewing becomes a pastime rather than an irksome task.

Painted flowerets are used in preference to embroidered ones. We've been hearing about a certain young woman who was indignant because some careless bystander had splashed drops of water on her bathing suit.

Cunning Combination for Tots.

so many yards for the dress plus an extra yard for the hat. The ensemble of hat and frock which the winsome little girl in this picture is wearing is styled of printed dimity.

which it is made, one appreciates the fact that "looks are often deceiving." Of superbly colorful taffeta, this or that bathing suit? Yes, and quite impractical would this be, were it not that taffeta is now so processed as to render it perfectly waterproof.

A Dressy Bathing Costume.

few "perky" bows of tiny ribbon give it a milliner-made look. For the quaint wee bonnet and dress shown below to the right, the chosen medium is dotted voile.

It is a three-piece ensemble denoting smartness in its every detail. The rubber cap trimmed with daisies and the rubber shoes testify to the fact that care has been taken, as it should be, in the selection of accessories which "complete the picture."

Prices for Beef Cattle Highest

All Classes and Grades Have Participated in Advance Since 1920.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Beef cattle this season have sold the highest for the season since 1920 when prices were on a high level because of war inflation, according to a review of the spring cattle market issued by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Slaughtering Was Less. During each of the past five years production for the first four months exceeded that for the same period a year previous, but this year proved to be an exception. Beef produced from cattle slaughtered under federal inspection during the first four months of this year was 3 per cent less than was produced in the same period of 1920.

The generally higher average prices for slaughter cattle during the past few years have been accompanied by increased total and per capita consumption of beef, indicating an increasing consumptive demand for this product. With total beef consumption increasing in population, with consumers adjusted to the heavy beef consumption of the last few years, and with the present trend of potential supplies downward, the outlook for the industry appears very favorable.

Period of Overproduction. The cattle industry for a number of years has been passing through a period of overproduction which has resulted in curtailment, liquidation, heavy market receipts, and consequently a high slaughtering ratio to numbers remaining on farms and ranges. This has temporarily increased the tendency to market cattle at younger ages, resulting in a more rapid turnover.

Carefully Inspect and Repair Farm Equipment. Much of the loss and annoyance from breakage may be avoided by carefully inspecting and mending weak parts of the farm equipment before the rush work begins.

Standards for Honey Attracting Attention

Will Aid the Beekeepers in Grading Their Product.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) All exhibits of honey at the Ohio state fair this year will be judged according to the United States standards for honey as given in the United States Department of Agriculture Circular 410-C, "U. S. Standards for Honey."

A New Way to Make Jellies Without Staining Fingers—Without Long Hours of Boiling—Without Depending Upon Berries or Fruit Being in Season.

One of the most interesting and yet one of the simplest new products in the food field is called minute jelly. It is pure fruit or berry juice already boiled down and concentrated. To this concentrated juice, fruit pectin in the right amount has been added.

Killing Potato Beetles by Using Poison Spray. Potato beetles multiply with such rapidity that the loss of a few days' time in getting at them with a spray may mean thousands to kill instead of tens.

Good Pasture Grass to Help Milk Production. Good pasture grass holds a place in the list of delicacies for dairy cows which no other feed can quite fill. It does have a wonderfully stimulating effect on milk production after a cow has gone through the winter on dry feed alone.

Agricultural Items. You can prevent hog cholera by vaccination; you can't cure it. The outlook for dairying is better than it has been for some years. Where live stock is kept and manure is available, ten tons per acre as a top dressing to wheat will often double the yield.

Centenarian Last Man of Grand Army Post

Washington post, G. A. H., of South Boston passed out of existence, when his last surviving member, John Connors, died at his home at the age of one hundred one.

A Sound Sleeper. "Day had to throw water on Sam Johnson's face at his wife's funeral," volunteered a recent mourner. "Danzo? He done fainted?" asked a friend.

Sliding Scale. From a foreign paper comes the story that an American publisher cabled to Dean Inge: "Will you write your life? Offer two thousand pounds."

Nature Faker. Popular Science Monthly—"A certain South American insect has a white light at its head and a red light at its tail."

Plain Statement. "Why did you excuse those two women jurors?" Fond Parent—"Oh, yes, but nobody can understand just what it is he's saying."—Detroit News.

Fast Speaker. Friend—"Does the baby talk yet?" Fond Parent—"Oh, yes, but nobody can understand just what it is he's saying."—Detroit News.

If one pair of English sparrows increased without hindrance for ten years, it would have over 275,000,000,000 descendants. Usually, the proud manner goes with a quick perception of when it should be employed.

"Only Girl's" Idea of Lover Not Flattering

District Attorney Wallace, discussing the punishment recently meted out to immoral plays, said at a luncheon in New York:

"These people expected praise and pelf. They got instead—well, what they got instead must have made them feel worse than the young bond salesman."

"The young bond salesman sat nervously to a pretty girl at a dance: 'I'm all shot to pieces over Helen. Can't sleep or nothing. I'd give the world if I could find out whether she cures for me or not.'

"Helen often speaks of you," said the pretty girl. "She calls you her 'good resolution.'"

"By gosh, but that makes me happy," said the bond salesman; and then he added, "I wonder what she means by that?"

"She tells me," laughed the pretty girl, "that she means you're always broke!"

American Patents. Let anyone think Americans have gone the limit with inventions, the United States is still issuing about 35,000 patents a year.

Buried Like Royalty. At the burial of former mayor James Baker of Guildford, England, recently, his aldermanic robes were buried with him.

For Love. He—"Sylvia's going to marry for love this time?" She—"Well, she can afford to retire."—Life.

Ginseng grown in Manchuria was once reserved as a rare and potent medicine for the exclusive use of the imperial household in China.

It is the easiest thing in the world to apologize when you are in the right.
