Railroad Rumbblings

Tickets for the Masonic Dinner Dance, Informal, to be given by the Southern Pacific Square and Compass Club, as announced in last week's Rumbblings are out and may be had of Trainmaster Horton or Agent C. P. Huppertz.—Got yours?

Conductor A. R. Jones, trainman and Mrs. Henry Jones, arrived home Wednesday from their trip through Texas, where they visited the parents and other relatives of the Jones brothers. At Odessa, they dined at the restaurant operated by Walter Burnett, who at one time owned and managed the Star Cafe and City Market, here.

Station agent J. M. Frame of Ancho, arrived home on 12 Wednesday evening from a vacation spent in Texas. Mr. Frame has pictures of the bandits who attempted to rob the bank at Odessa, taken after death and another of the car, behind which one of the bandits sought shelter when killed. The car was riddled with bullet holes. Mrs. Frame and Mrs. Belknap are at San Antonio, but will be at home in time for the holiday season.

Operator Devine left yesterday for his old home in Colorado, where he will spend the holiday season. Operator George Young, who has been in charge of the Tularosa station for the past six weeks, is now on second track. The line-up now is, Boughner, First; Young, Second and Laverty Third tracks.

The moving of 100 car freight trains began this week, which are mostly composed of empties going west to be returned, loaded with bananas, oranges, etc., also vegetables from the coast regions.

Operator Devine, fireman Joe Phillips and caller Albert Roberts were out duck hunting last Sunday and brought back about 20 nice ones from Red Lake.

Section foremen S. W. Hale and C. E. Robertson have exchanged duties and the change took effect this morning, Mr. Hale going to Capitan and Mr. Robertson coming here.

After the smoke of the hunting season has cleared away, we arise to apologize for an oversight in case of fireman Bryan Cazier. We had him credited with a turkey when he should have been credited a big buck, in the bargain.—Beg your pardon Bryan.

Concerning the activities of Judge Hawkins, which included the Pecos river water system and the Elephant Butte Dam project, the Alamogordo News says that these matters, as well as the organization of the water system of the railway north of Alamogordo, which is now being vastly expanded to secure greater supply in Lincoln county, kept Judge Hawkins in Washington at times for long periods. The work which he has now taken up may well be advanced through his knowledge of department methods, and by his ability.

Mrs. Hebert gave a 6-table Thanksgiving Bridge Party last week with prizes won by Dr. Faget and Miss Kane.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wunsch left Saturday to spend several weeks with Mr. Coolidge and family at Topeka, Kas.

Dr. Nesbit is confined to his home—as a result of being accidentally shot in the foot last Sunday.

Word has been received from former patient Nolan that his physical condition is satisfactory, and he is now doing full-time duty on the Pacific coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Howson spent last Sunday at the Mesquero Indian Reservation.

Mrs. Foster left for her home in El Paso Tuesday, after spending several days with Dr. and Mrs. Tappan.

Rev. Swift has been appointed chairman of the Xmas program for the patients.

R. Merrill was in Carrizozo on business Wednesday.

Messrs. Mahla and Kussianovich spent last week-end in Roswell.

The Seamen's Social Club is preparing to send out Christmas cards and expressions of goodwill to their friends before the holiday season begins. The club has neat and commodious quarters, where its members congregate and devise ways and means to produce entertainments for the patients, so that their burdens may be lightened. Especially at the Christmas time, is the club more active in seeing that sunshine is scattered abroad over the Fort.

Presiding Elder to Preach

Rev. A. L. Moon, Presiding Elder of this district, will preach at the Methodist Church Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service. The quarterly conference will be held Saturday night at 7 o'clock.

C. D. Mayer Purchases the Glenn Flats

A deal was consummated this week whereby C. D. Mayer purchased the Glenn flats on east Alamogordo avenue. There are 7 flats in the building and the same was built about 15 years ago, by a Mr. Bush, who at that time was manager for the Ancho Brick Company, and afterwards purchased by Mr. Glenn.

Mr. Mayer will remodel the flats and do everything possible to make his tenants comfortable and to feel at home.

Next spring, he intends to plant shade trees along the front which will add to the pleasure and attractiveness of the surroundings. Mr. Mayer is to be commended for his progressiveness.

To Those Interested

We are publishing a letter from Senator Moon, so that the proposition of the location of the assembly ground for the M. E. Church South, will be before the people when the senator comes here, if we can bring him. We recommend that the White Oaks owners have ready a proposition which will be submitted to Senator Moon in person, or sent to him. We desire now to state that the activities of the Chamber of Commerce will continue through 1928 and we believe that all who are interested in maintaining these activities, should join in and assist with the various programs.

Board of Directors, Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce
 The letter follows:
 Senator E. M. Brickley,
 Pres. Chamber of Commerce,
 Carrizozo, N. M.,
 Dear Sir:—

Your communication of Nov. 25, received today. Rev. Ludlow was mistaken about my being a member of the location committee, whose duty it is to locate an assembly ground for the M. E. Church South, looking forward to the permanent location of same. I am the executive officer of said committee, so appointed by Bishop Moore, at the last conference at El Paso. Nevertheless, I take pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of the "Uncut Diamond" and another folder entitled "White Oaks." We would possibly be interested in White Oaks, but not in Glencoe, Hondo or Picacho. There are certain requirements that are absolutely essential: First, accessibility to railroads; Second, scenery, such as timber, mountains, etc. Third, abundance of water.

We contemplate a big thing wherever we locate. There is only one thing like it in Methodism and that is in North Carolina. The assembly in that state is six years old and there is something like a million dollars worth of administration buildings on the ground. According to last year's report, there were nearly fifty thousand students and others interested in the program of the Methodist Church, registered at the Junaluska M. E. Assembly in North Carolina.

We contemplate putting on the same program west of the Mississippi river as the Methodists are putting on east of the river. We are not in the market to buy land, but we expect the community in which we locate, to furnish land and water. Cloudcroft offered us six hundred and forty acres of land, but they

Capitan Notes

The Capitan merchants report business exceptionally good.

A large crowd attended the dance at the Capitan Hall Thanksgiving night. A traveling orchestra furnished the music. All report a good time.

The Capitan Grade teams played basketball at Lincoln Wednesday afternoon. Both teams proved themselves to be true sports.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Aboyta, daughters Otilla and Sara, went to Carrizozo for Thanksgiving, the girls remaining over for the week-end and returning to Capitan on Sunday.

The Capitan high school teams, girls and boys, will play Hondo high school on Hondo's court Friday afternoon, Dec. 2. They will also play Carrizozo at Capitan Saturday afternoon.

H. F. (Shorty) Dockery and Billy Sevier were in Carrizozo Monday, transacting some business and returning home in the evening.

John Bilbo, who has been in Capitan for sometime, left Tuesday for LaMesa, Texas.

Bill Weitslein's orchestra that gave the dance Thanksgiving night will give another dance at the Capitan Hall Saturday night, Dec. 3. Everyone is cordially invited.

The foundation of the new gymnasium is now ready for to begin construction of the building proper and we are looking forward to settled weather next spring, when the structure will be completed.

way of requiring us to build something like five hundred thousand dollars worth of buildings the first year. Under these conditions, I do not consider it an offer at all.

If the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce is interested, after my frank statements of facts, and desire that I come over to examine whatever they have to offer, they will have to assume the payment of my expense, as no money has been set aside for investigations. Otherwise, you may take it up with Dr. N. L. Lindbaugh, El Paso, as he is the chairman of the Locating committee.

I would suggest that you call the Executive committee of your Chamber of Commerce together and let me know their decision as soon as possible. Yours very truly,

Woman's Club

The Christmas Offering boxes will be placed in public places in order that you may add your contributions to the Community Christmas Tree which will be held Friday evening, Dec. 23. Do all you can to make the children happy.

A box for the names of children under school age will be placed in the post office. We want every child to share in the Christmas Joy.

Flossie Making Good

F. R. Zumwalt came up from Malaga, N. M., to spend Thanksgiving and the week-end with the home folks at Nogal. He was accompanied by his cousin, Miss Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Skinner and they returned on Sunday. Mr. Zumwalt is principal of the school at Malaga, where the enrollment is over the 100 mark. Beginning with Monday of this week, he engaged two more teachers which makes that number reach seven. The school is progressing nicely under his supervision and this is his second year in the Malaga school.

Mrs. W. B. Wagner and son, Kenneth, who had been here since Nov. 6, at the bedside of Mrs. Wagner's grandmother, Mrs. Thurza Buxton, who is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chloe Fisher, left for their home at Payette, Idaho, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hightower and children were in from their ranch Monday, making purchases and returning home in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stadtman, children, Mesdames Lotah Miller and Zoe Glassmire spent Thanksgiving at the home of John Doering on the Ruidoso.

Frank Maxwell received a carload of fine Rambouillet rams Sunday from Kansas, and took them to his ranch near the Gran Quivera.

Saw a Good Game

Messrs. Burkett and Riddle returned Sunday evening from Abilene, Texas, where they spent Thanksgiving and the week-end. They arrived there in time to see a good football game between Abilene and Cisco and the boys' home team won by a score of 3 to 0. They left there at 4:30 Sunday morning and arrived here in the evening at 7:15, covering a distance of 480 miles.

Mrs. R. H. Lee spent several days of last week with relatives and friends in El Paso.

Mrs. J. J. McCourt of Palos Verdes, Cal., who had been the guest of Mrs. W. C. McDonald for the past month, left for her home last Friday.

Mrs. Maggie Espey and mother, Mrs. Eliza Brown left Wednesday for Brawley, California, to spend the winter at the home of another of Mrs. Brown's daughters, Mrs. E. D. Richards. They will return in the spring.

Attorney Geo. Spence came in this week from Gallup and will remain until the latter part of next week, to attend to some

CHINESE EMBROIDERY IS FEATURED ON BLOUSE, BAG

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

WITH sumptuous velvets, gorgeous brocades, likewise cloth of gold and silver, as its media, the blouse is contributing no little to the present era of elegance in dress. The note of luxury also is expressed in that which is very new and chic—the blouse whose all-over exotic embroidery is developed in high colors and striking design.

Nothing handsomer in the way of a blouse has been brought out this season than that which is made of black satin whose marvelous embroidery is frankly of Chinese inspiration. The picture shows a blouse of this type. The fact of an embroidered wrist bag to match, presents a novel and fetching angle to the mode. As to the effectiveness of such an ensemble, little need be said, for the picture tells its own story.

The idea of the all-over embroidered blouse is being worked out in beautiful form, for the velvet two-piece frock. Fascinating models feature the blouse, which is of the same velvet as the skirt, with skillful embroidery bordering neckline, wrists and about the neckline, extending up and down a semi-front opening. Little repeat designs are scattered over the entire tunic. One such, recently displayed, is of almost green sheer velvet. The motifs and borders are done in oriental colorings which are intermingled with gold and silver threadwork.

In the present vogue for the embroidered blouse the home dressmaker with an artistic turn of mind should find inspiration for designing costumes which shall carry the distinction of fine handwork. The all-over repeat design is one way of accomplishing a unique effect. Perhaps it may be just a simple rosebud motif scattered here and there or a conventional patterning, or as is very effective, a single flower spray across the front of the blouse.

The blouse started all over with tiny gold or silver nailheads is also very modish. A black satin frock whose skirt is plaited or draped takes on a smart appearance if its blouse be thus polka-dotted with metal nailheads. With this wear a narrow satin belt which has been solidly encrusted with the nailheads—the effect is stunning.

Now that oriental embroideries are so featured in the mode, one can pick up lovely specimens of Japanese and Chinese handwork, in the form of panels and squares. These can be inset in the velvet or satin blouse with extreme effectiveness.

Another clever way is to set the embroidery pieces in with fagoting which is done with gold thread.

CANNING MEATS ON THE FARM

Adding Hot Gravy to Meat in Cans Before Canning in Steam Pressure Canner.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The canning of meats on the farm has become one of the most important methods of food preservation. Only meats that have been freshly killed and cleanly handled should be preserved in this way. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends that the steam-pressure canner should always be used. A high temperature of 250 degrees, equivalent to a steam pressure of 15 pounds per square inch, is required to sterilize meats properly and prevent spoilage.

Prepare for Canning.

After slaughtering, the meat may be prepared for canning as soon as the animal heat has disappeared. The directions below are given for canning roast pork, but they may be applied to similar cuts of beef or lamb. The meat should always be cooked and seasoned before it is canned—whether it is roasted, fried, baked or stewed—just as though for immediate serving, so that the flavor will be retained. It need not be cooked tender, but it should be cooked until the center is no longer red. Pack the meat as hot as possible. Remove all bones and fill up the jar or can with hot gravy stock, so that the sterilization period will not be longer than necessary.

Either glass jars or tin cans may be used for canning meats. Full directions for each step in the process in either case will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 1186-F, "Pork on the Farm," and also recipes for preparing the various parts of the hog in different ways for canning. The flavoring and proportions in these recipes may be varied to suit individual taste, but the length of time and temperature for the processing period of each meat or mixture should never be changed.

Piece for Roasting.

In the case of pork, the ham, shoulder or loin is generally used for roasting. Scrape the skin clean and wipe it with a damp cloth. If the ham is used and the skin is left on, cut with the point of a knife just through the skin so as to dice it, and trim with gloves and tufts of parsley if desired. Salt and pepper to taste should be sprinkled over the ham. Heat in a roasting pan from two to three tablespoonfuls of grease. Put in the roast when this is hot and seal it quickly all over to seal the pores and prevent loss of the juice of the meat. Add two small turnips to the roasting pan and from one-half to one cupful of boiling water. Leave skin side up and do not turn, but baste frequently. When cooked through and nicely browned, slice and pack in cans or jars to within one-half inch of the top of the can. Add the gravy from the roasting pan, or soup stock so that it barely covers the meat. Close the can or jar, and process it in the steam pressure cooker. No 2 cans or pint jars are processed for 45 to 55 minutes at 250 degrees Fahrenheit or 15 pounds of steam pressure. No 3 cans or quart jars from 65 to 90 minutes at the same pressure. In case the meat is fat, time for processing must be prolonged 10 minutes.

MARY GRAHAM BONNER STORY FOR CHILDREN

The reindeer were ready. The sleigh was ready. The great pack was ready, and Santa Claus was ready.

"We're going to the cities, of course," said Santa Claus, "but first we must go to many of the country places.

"We won't forget a single one, my beautiful reindeer.

"We're going to the farthest away farm house where there are children. "Yes, my beautiful reindeer, wherever there are children, we will go."

Off they started in the cool, frosty air.

Off they flew, off they hurried, off they dashed.

Never had the reindeer gone any more quickly. Never had they felt more like going.

Or, did they feel the same way every Christmas?

Certainly it was a beautiful way to feel.

But, any way, they had never felt more like rushing to the different houses than they had felt this year. Never had they felt more like hurrying.

Never had the presents seemed nicer.

Never had Santa Claus been more pleased with the work that he had accomplished in his shop throughout the year.

Never had the letters he had received pleased him more.

Never had the traveling seemed more exciting, or more comfortable. Never had the sleigh traveled with such lightning speed.

It was all quite perfect.

And then they began stopping at the out-of-the-way country houses.

Sometimes they would go to a house far, far, far from any other.

Almost the reindeer would never to themselves, for that was what Santa Claus always said.

On and on they hurried. There were the small places to visit and the big places, but now they were going to the far, far-away places which Santa Claus never forgot.

And as they sped over the snowy white country Santa Claus kept telling the reindeer to hurry and the reindeer kept hurrying more and more and more.

And every time Santa Claus came out of a house he made his same speech, which the reindeer did so love to hear:

"They were almost the nicest children I've ever seen—in that house."

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

He Always Knew.

have been able to tell there was such a house had not Santa said so.

But Santa Claus knew.

He always knew the houses where children lived.

No matter how far away they might be he knew about them.

And from house to house they went. And as Santa came back each time he would say to his reindeer:

"They were almost the nicest children I've seen—in that house."

The reindeer chuckled and grinned

PEANUT BUTTER CUP CAKES JUST A LITTLE DIFFERENT

Whether you are wishing for something just a little different in the way of a cake recipe, or just happen to have some peanut butter you would like to make use of in a new way, try these peanut butter cup cakes, which have been tried out by the bureau of home economics and found delicious.

- 6 tablespoons pea- 1 1/2 cups soft cut butter
- 2 tablespoons but or 1/2 teaspoon bak- ing powder
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cupful milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Mix the butter, peanut butter and sugar well. Add the beaten egg and the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Add the vanilla. Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

TERSE TRUTHS

Some men's natural bent seems to be patterned after a corker.

Some people find it easier to please others than to please themselves.

It goes without saying that the less said about some things the better.

The pace that kills wouldn't be so bad if it killed only the pacemaker.

Millions of people can't be impressed with the idea that they ought to "improve their souls."

RECIPES - - By NELLIE MAXWELL

For a simple luncheon or a supper the following salad is most appropriate:

Fruit Salad.—Pour a cupful of boiling water over one-half pound of dates and drain dry; cut into lengths and remove the stones. Add to the dates one cupful of finely diced apple, two slices of finely cut pineapple, sprinkle with salt and cover with two tablespoonfuls of French dressing and one-half cupful of finely cut celery. Let stand one hour, then serve with mayonnaise and whipped cream, using a cupful of cream to two tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Pineapple.—Peel medium-sized tomatoes, cut a slice from the top of each and remove the seeds and pulp. Sprinkle the inside of the tomatoes with salt and fill with shredded pineapple or finely sliced pineapple mixed with nuts and mayonnaise dressing. Arrange the tomatoes on lettuce, garnish with mayonnaise and half of a walnut meat.

Pineapple and Cucumber Salad.—Drain one cupful of crushed pineapple, add one cupful of finely sliced cucumber, and a teaspoonful of onion juice, mix with mayonnaise and sea-salt with salt and cayenne. Serve on lettuce garnished with narrow strips of red and green peppers.

Pineapple Cakes.—Take one water and cook until it threads. Pour over one egg white, beating well. When thick enough to spread, spread well-drained pineapple over the layer of cake and cover with the boiling frosting.

Sponge Cake With Pineapple.—Arrange small pieces of sponge cake in a bowl, pour over as much pineapple juice as it will absorb. Set in a cool place. At serving time invert on a platter and serve garnished with whipped cream.

Quince Pudding.—Take three pounds of quinces, acid them until tender, then peel very thin. Add sugar to make very sweet, with a little candied ginger or cinnamon. To a pint of cream add four eggs and the quinces. Butter a baking dish and bake until firm.

Sweetbread in Napoli.—Parboil a large sweetbread and cut into eight pieces. Cook in a hot frying pan with plenty of butter, add enough beef extract to give the sweetbread a glazed appearance. Cut bread into slices shape with a circular cutter and toast. Spread each piece with two table-spoonfuls of grated Parmesan cheese, seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with two tablespoonfuls of cream. Arrange one piece of sweetbread on each piece of toast and season with salt and pepper. Put into individual glass-covered dishes, having two tablespoonfuls of cream in each dish; cover each sweetbread with a fried mushroom cap, as the covers and bake in a moderate oven, eight minutes.

The French people excel in the preparation of the delightful confection called marrons glacés.

They are made by a very simple process. Blanch and boil a quart of chestnuts till tender, then drain and place in a shallow buttered platter, ready to have the candied sirup poured on them. Boil one pound of sugar and one-fourth pint of water until it threads from the spoon. Do not stir. Cool and while still warm pour over the nuts and let them stand in a warm place for thirty-six hours, then remove the nuts. Have ready a sirup made like the first with one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar added. Boil hard for seven minutes without stirring. Take from the heat and drop the nuts into it, place over the fire and bring the sirup to a boil, then stir carefully; skim out the nuts and drain them. When dry they are ready to pack away.

Roast Beef With Potatoes.—Mince cooked beef very fine. Butter a baking dish and put a thin layer of beef on the bottom, sprinkle with chopped onion and cover with a layer of mashed and seasoned potato, add another layer of beef, onion and seasoning and cover with potato. Moisten with milk, cover and bake until thoroughly heated. Remove the cover and brown.

Orange Juice for Young and Old.—If used daily will keep the body in good health.

CANNING SURPLUS CHICKEN

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Canning the surplus birds from the home poultry flock is oftentimes an economical practice. Either young or old birds may be canned by home methods. Plump well-fed hens two years old have as good texture and better flavor when canned than six-months-old chickens.

Prepare the chicken for canning as you would for cooking. Pick, singe, remove pin feathers, and wash the birds. Then disjoint and cut them in the usual pieces, and discard the entrails. Remove and discard the oil sac and the lungs and kidneys, and do not use the giblets and eggs for canning. Be particularly careful not to break the gall bladder. If this does happen, do not use that chicken for canning because it will have a very unpleasant taste. Trim off any large pieces of fat. If there is a great deal of fat in the jar, it is likely to cook out on the rubber ring during the processing and may cause it to slip, thus spoiling the seal. Cut the white meat in large pieces from the breast bone and shoulders. Leave the meat on the bones in the other pieces. Cut the neck off close to the body, and use it and the other very bony pieces, such as the back and perhaps the feet, after they have been skinned, for making broth to fill up the jars. Cover these bony pieces with lightly salted cold water, bring to the boil, and simmer for 15 minutes to make this broth.

Chickens should be packed hot into hot, clean jars. It may be prepared for packing in either of two ways. Simmer the pieces of chicken in a small quantity of water until it is boiling hot all through. Or sear the pieces in hot fat until they are golden brown, and then pour hot broth over them and let them heat through to boiling temperature. Do not roll the meat in flour before cooking, because this makes it more difficult to process effectively.

Pack the pieces of hot chicken in pint jars. Put some white and some dark meat into each jar, or pack all the white meat into separate jars if desired for some special use. Be sure, however, not to get so close a pack that the broth cannot circulate freely in the jar. Two four-pound birds, when cut up and cooked ready for packing into the jars, will fill five pint jars. Add a pint of prepared hot broth to each jar and enough hot ing broth to cover the meat. Adjust the rubber rings and covers and seal the jars.

Place the hot-packed jars immediately in a pressure canner, and process for one hour at 15 pounds pressure, or 250 degrees Fahrenheit. Begin to count time when the pressure gauge registers 15 pounds, not before.

When the hour is up, allow the canner to cool until the gauge registers zero before opening the pet cock.

A pinch of mustard gives a pleasant tang to any cheese dish.

Add a little kerosene to the water used to wash windows and the job will be easier.

Liver is a food especially recommended for anemic persons because it contains iron.

Mend and use that crippled furniture in attic or cellar, or give it away, or burn it in the fireplace.

Take the weight off your feet when getting meals by using a high stool at the kitchen sink and a chair at the kitchen table.

Children learn by doing. Unless they have a chance to help choose their clothes, to handle money and to make their own decisions while they are young, it will be harder for them when they are grown.

London.—Great Britain's efforts to break the United States monopoly of the British motion picture film market took another step toward realization when the house of commons passed the British film bill. The bill, which provides theaters must book a certain percentage of British films each year, was vigorously opposed by numerous theater owners, who asserted the popularity of their houses would be seriously impaired by the measure.

Lower Rates on Fruit

Washington.—The Interstate Commerce Commission affirmed its former decision that railroads must reduce rates on California fresh fruits other than apples and citrus products moving to the eastern half of the United States. By the finding railroads must make a rate on California fruit to the eastern half of the country of $1.60 per 100 pounds to replace the existing rate of $1.75. From California to Denver and Rocky Mountain territory, the roads must fix a fruit rate of $1.60 instead of the rate of $1.62 now applying. Railroads concerned in the traffic protested the decision sharply after its announcement last July, giving notice that they intended to appeal to the courts, and the commission allowed a rehearing.

Gamekeeper's Find

A gamekeeper near Aberdeen, Scotland, has had a remarkable experience among foxes. He discovered the lair of a fox among the heather; and after a good deal of hunting succeeded in trapping the old pair. A few days later he found on the ledge of a rock near the den five young fox cubs. It chanced that he had at home a cat, with kittens the same age as the

Among the lovely remembrances which Christmas brings to fair woman, or if it fails to bring, registers disappointment for someone, are dainty garter sets and shoe-trees. Now that the short skirt vogue is placing garters on display, there is a renewed enthusiasm for this item of feminine vanity. Likewise one's shoes must look the prink of perfection these days, which makes shoe-trees a necessity to keep them in shape. The lovely little hand-made flowers which adorn both garters and shoe-trees, are veritable works of art.

Dainty Handkerchief Case

Remembering that Santa Claus is sure to bring his usual quota of handkerchiefs to every member of the family, a case to put them in is a very timely gift. Aside from its usefulness a handkerchief case as here pictured adds a note of beauty to any boudoir. There is quite a lace craze on just now for things decorative about the home as well as for personal adornment. These perfumed lace cases come anti-padded in any desired tone or that.

but it is a willful ignorance for which they are held responsible. They not only go into captivity, but there is great mortality among those who drink (v. 14). The records everywhere show a much higher death rate among drinking men. Drinking degrades all classes (v. 15). The country itself was made a waste (v. 18, 19). So daring do they become that they defy the judgments of the Almighty (v. 19). 8. Moral confusion (v. 20). This woe is pronounced against those who try to adjust moral conditions to suit their sensual appetites. 4. Conceit (v. 21). The fifth woe is pronounced against the sin of self-conceit. Many today have become so affected by sin that they are unable to make moral discriminations. Having a false estimate of their own wisdom they plan and act without reference to God. 5. Perversion of justice (v. 22, 23). The sixth woe is denounced against those who are in places of justice as judges. Because of their lack of moral discrimination, and because of desire for temporal gain they cause justice to miscarry.

Whether you are wishing for something just a little different in the way of a cake recipe, or just happen to have some peanut butter you would like to make use of in a new way, try these peanut butter cup cakes, which have been tried out by the bureau of home economics and found delicious.

- 4 tablespoons peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cupful milk
- 1 1/2 cups soft wheat flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Mix the butter, peanut butter and sugar well. Add the beaten egg and the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Add the vanilla. Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

RECIPES - - By T

For a simple luncheon or a supper the following salad is most appropriate.

Fruit Salad.—Put a cupful of boiling water over one-half pound of dates and drain dry; cut into lengths and remove the stones.

Add to the dates one cupful of finely diced apple, two slices of finely cut pineapple, sprinkle with salt and cover with two tablespoonfuls of French dressing and one-half cupful of finely cut celery. Let stand one hour, then serve with mayonnaise and whipped cream, using a cupful of cream to two tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Pineapple.—Peel medium-sized tomatoes, cut a slice from the top of each and remove the seeds and pulp. Sprinkle the inside of the tomatoes with salt and fill with shredded pineapple or finely diced pineapple mixed with nuts and mayonnaise dressing. Arrange the tomatoes on lettuce, garnish with mayonnaise and half of a walnut meat.

Pineapple and Cucumber Salad.—Drain one cupful of crushed pineapple, add one cupful of finely sliced cucumber, add a teaspoonful of onion juice, mix with mayonnaise and season with salt and cayenne. Serve on lettuce garnished with narrow strips of red and green pepper.

Pineapple Cake Filling.—Take one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of water and cook until it thickens over one egg white, beating well.

When thick enough to spread, spread well-drained pineapple over the layers of cake and cover with the boiling frosting.

Sponge Cake With Pineapple.—Arrange small pieces of sponge cake in a bowl, pour over as much pineapple juice as it will absorb. Set in a cool place. At serving time invert on a platter and serve garnished with whipped cream.

Quince Pudding.—Take three pounds of quinces, scald them until tender, then peel very thin. Add sugar to make very sweet, with a little candied ginger or cinnamon. To a pint of cream add four eggs and the quinces. Butter a baking dish and bake until firm.

Sweetbread in Napoli.—Parboil a large sweetbread and cut into eight pieces. Cook in a hot frying pan with plenty of butter, add enough beef extract to give the sweetbread a glazed appearance. Cut bread into slices, shape with a circular cutter and toast.

Spread each piece with two table-spoonfuls of grated Parmesan cheese seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with two tablespoonfuls of cream. Arrange one piece of sweetbread on each piece of toast and season with salt and pepper. Put into individual glass-covered dishes, having two tablespoonfuls of cream in each dish; cover each sweetbread with a fried mushroom cap, on the covers and bake in a moderate oven eight minutes.

of sugar and one-fourth pint of water until it threads from the spoon. Do not stir. Cool and while still warm pour over the nuts and let them stand in a warm place for thirty-six hours, then remove the nuts. Have ready a sirup made like the first with one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar added. Roll hard for seven minutes without stirring. Take from the heat and drop the nuts into it, place over the fire and bring the sirup to a boil, then stir carefully; skim out the nuts and drain them. When dry they are ready to pack away.

Marionberry Confection.—The delightful confection called marionberry glaces. They are made by a very simple process. Blanch and boil a quart of chestnuts till tender, then drain and place in a shallow buttered plover, ready to have the candied sirup poured on them. Roll one pound of sugar and one-fourth pint of water until it threads from the spoon. Do not stir. Cool and while still warm pour over the nuts and let them stand in a warm place for thirty-six hours, then remove the nuts. Have ready a sirup made like the first with one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar added. Roll hard for seven minutes without stirring. Take from the heat and drop the nuts into it, place over the fire and bring the sirup to a boil, then stir carefully; skim out the nuts and drain them. When dry they are ready to pack away.

Recaloped Veal With Potato.—Mince cooked veal very fine. Butter a baking dish and pat a thin layer of veal on the bottom, sprinkle with chopped onion and cover with a layer of mashed and seasoned potato, add another layer of veal, onion and seasoning and cover with potato. Moisten with milk, cover and bake until thoroughly heated. Remove the cover and brown.

Orange Juice in Ideal for young and old and if taken daily will keep the body in good health.

great deal of fat in the jar, it is likely to cook out on the rubber ring during the processing and may cause it to slip, thus spoiling the seal. Cut the white meat in large pieces from the breast bone and shoulders. Leave the meat on the bones in the other pieces. Cut the neck off close to the body, and use it and the other very bony pieces, such as the back and perhaps the feet, after they have been skinned, for making broth to fill up the jars. Cover these bony pieces with lightly salted cold water, bring to the boil, and simmer for 15 minutes to make this broth.

Chicken should be packed hot into hot, clean jars. It may be prepared for packing in either of two ways. Simmer the pieces of chicken in a small quantity of water until it is boiling hot all through. Or sear the pieces in hot fat until they are golden brown, and then pour hot broth over them and let them heat through to boiling temperature. Do not roll the meat in flour before cooking, because this makes it more difficult to process effectively.

Pack the pieces of hot chicken in pint jars. Put some white and some dark meat into each jar, or pack all the white meat into separate jars if desired for some special use. Be sure, however, not to get so close a pack that the broth cannot circulate freely in the jar. Two four-pound birds, when cut up and cooked ready for packing into the jars, will fill five pint jars. Add a half teaspoonful of salt to each pint jar and enough hot-water to cover the meat. The jars should be packed in a water bath. The water should be brought to a boil before the jars are put in. The jars should be covered with the lid and the water should be kept at a boil for one hour. The jars should be removed from the water bath and allowed to cool. The jars should be stored in a cool, dry place.

What to Give at Christmas Time

Decorated Magazine Rack

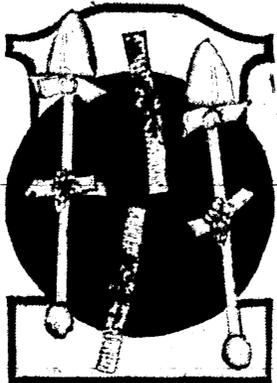

There's no end of handsome Christmas presents to be made which are sealing-wax painted. For example, here is this decorative magazine or newspaper rack, so charming for the living room. You buy the simple wooden frame, then paint it with sealing wax which has been dissolved in denatured alcohol. The color scheme for the rack pictured is geranium red for the outside, black for the inside. The flower is cut out of "illustrated" crepe paper and pasted on. And listen to this—the ornamental border design is the edge of a gold lace paper doilie—the center being cut away. It is glued on, then together with the flower it is gone over with transparent dissolved amber sealing wax.

Plaited Parchment Shades

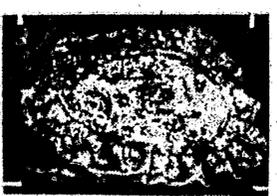

Santa Claus and his reindeers will have to work overtime to deliver the many sleigh loads of painted parchment lamp shades which are now "in the making." Clever women are buying these plaited shades undecorated, so as to give them the personal touch of hand embellishment. Many are "anying it" with "cellulose painting." One uses scissors instead of a brush, cutting out pictures from decorative crepe paper. These are then carefully pasted on the shade and finally gone over with a coat of transparent amber sealing wax paint. The finished work looks like genuine hand painting.

Christmas Remembrances

Among the lovely remembrances which Christmas brings to fair woman, or if it fails to bring, registers disappointment for someone, are dainty garter sets and shoe-trees. Now that the short skirt vogue is placing garters on display, there is a renewed enthusiasm for this item of feminine vanity. Aside from its usefulness a handkerchief case as here pictured adds a note of beauty to any boudoir. ISAIAH TEACHES RIGHT LIVING

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 5:1-23. GOLDEN TEXT—Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Please God. JUNIOR TOPIC—A Life That Pleases God. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Life That Pleases God. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Elements of Right Living.

1. Israel, the Favored Nation (vv. 1-7).

Their unique relation to God is presented under the figure of a vineyard. Observe:

1. God's peculiar favor (vv. 1, 2). God did for this nation what He did for no other nation in the history of the world. He evidenced it when He assigned the boundaries of Israel's inheritance (see Num. 34:1-13).

He gathered out the stones when the Canaanites were exterminated. The choicest vine which was planted therein was the Israelitish nation which had gone through the disciplinary process in Egyptian bondage. He built a tower in it when under David Jerusalem was made its capital city.

2. The obligation of the nation (v. 2).

The purpose of a vineyard is to bear fruit. The object of the husbandman in planting a vineyard and nurturing it is that it might bear fruit. The purpose of God in the selection and the blessing of the Israelitish nation was that it might bring forth fruit to His glory.

3. It bore only wild grapes (v. 4).

4. The desolation of the vineyard (vv. 5-7).

Since all efforts had been wasted, the owner of the vineyard now resolves to abandon it to the wild beasts of the forest.

11. The Sins Which Brought Ruin to the Nation (vv. 8-23).

The causes of this destruction are presented under six woes, each woe pronounced against a particular sin.

1. Monopoly and oppression of the poor (vv. 8-10).

The crime against which the first woe was denounced is that of the avaricious grasping after property which leads to the accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few. "Joining house to house" and "laying field to field" means the sin of the greedy monopolist who in the agricultural district takes the form of the land grabber, in the commercial centers, the form of the big men crushing out the small ones.

2. Dissipation (vv. 11-17).

The sin here denounced is drunkenness. Several features are connected with this one sin.

(1) Drinking made the life business of some (v. 11).

They get up early and continue until late at night, until their whole being is inflamed.

(2) The effort to give their hellish business a show of refinement (v. 12). This is why pleasing music is heard pouring forth from the dens of infamy over our land.

(3) Blindness to God's warnings and judgments (v. 12).

Their drinking and dissipation rendered them insensible to the dealings of Providence.

(4) God's judgments for such sins (vv. 13-17).

They went into captivity. The immediate cause assigned is ignorance, but it is a willful ignorance for which they are held responsible. They not only go into captivity, but there is great mortality among those who drink (v. 14). The records everywhere show a much higher death rate among drinking men. Drinking degrades all classes (v. 15). The country itself was made a waste (vv. 18, 19). So daring do they become that they defy the judgments of the Almighty (v. 19).

3. Moral confusion (v. 20).

This woe is pronounced against those who try to adjust moral conditions to suit their sensual appetites.

4. Conceit (v. 21).

The fifth woe is pronounced against the sin of self-conceit. Many today have become so affected by sin that they are unable to make moral discriminations. Having a false estimate of their own wisdom they plan and act without reference to God.

5. Perversion of justice (vv. 22, 23).

The sixth woe is denounced against those who are in places of justice as judges. Because of their lack of moral discrimination, and because of desire for temporal gain they cause justice to miscarry.

Treatment of Sin. Use sin as it will use you. Spare it not for it will not spare you. It is your murderer, and the murderer of the world. Use it, therefore as a murderer should be used.—Richard Baxter.

Fear of Mistakes. Some of us know what it is to be miserably afraid of making mistakes in our work. How graciously He meets this with "I will direct their work in truth."—Francis Kilgley Havergal.

Howe About—By ED HOWE

Ball Syndicate. WNU Service.

If you have trouble getting rid of it it is usually easier than submission to it.

Don't dismiss this with the sneering statement that it is more copy book stuff; it is a simple truth long neglected.

I am an expert in trouble; I only dispose of one to consider what is best to do about another.

This is my birthday. The front door bell rang just now. I expected a boy with flowers. It was a bill collector, I paid; I could have put him off, but he would soon have been back.

The door bell is ringing at this moment. I had visions of flowers against Old Hannah calls up that it is Mr. Adams.

Mr. Adams is the tax assessor. Business men do good preaching by fighting their competitors. One of their favorite ways of fighting a competitor is to behave better than he does.

Many an art gallery, orchestra, school, had been founded as a means; to get ahead of a competitor. An opposition editor in my town years ago was so good a man that he became governor of his state. He was so well behaved and capable that I was compelled to behave and work hard to prevent his ruining me, so he sincerely wished to do. Although he hated me he was one of the strongest influences in my life for good. He wished to butcher me, but really saved me.

Cora Harris is an old-fashioned sort of woman I have always liked. Lately she said, "the women are acquiring a great fund of wisdom, but it is of the wrong kind." That's one trouble with all of us: we are becoming smart necks, rather than smart.

Wisdom is a convenient and useful thing like a sharp knife, or a good hoe when you have a potato patch to rid of weeds. Why should not people acquire wisdom as they acquire any other valuable thing and not boast of it in foolish clubs? Why should not the people behave well as a matter of intelligent self-interest and not claim to be saving the world?

All the furious hell raisers, iconoclasts and reformers are actually weak men, and leave no real impression on times in which they have lived. . . . It is possibly true there is a brisk demand for the big hell raisers (for some people will not read unless they can read about outrages that never occur), but I care nothing for the patronage or respect of such. If I cannot gain the respect of reasonable and decent men, I shall do without it.

I know a widow who has plenty of bonds, but they pay no interest, and are of little value.

Therefore the widow and her children are in distress. But the men who manage her company are receiving enormous salaries, and do little work.

Many other women and children are being robbed by men in like manner. Widows should be extremely careful in investing their money for income.

After the farmers and coal miners have had relief, something should be done for widows and children who have been mercilessly robbed.

There are dozens of different notions as to the greatest thing in the world, and most people make a wrong guess about it. It is actually a very simple thing: taking care of yourself. I do not mean by this, narrow selfishness, but the selfishness which appreciates that a sick man is a burden to some one. A strong man physically is most apt to do good things. Half the desperate acts are committed as a result of auto-intoxication, probably. Most suicides begin thinking gloomy thoughts because of unnecessary bad health or conduct.

Writers speak of "the conventions"—the generally accepted habits of the people—with contempt. I have known men to fight the conventions all their lives, and die with their boots on.

Between my town and Nortonville there is a very good paved road, built in the conventional way.

It is the conventional way to Nortonville; the easiest, the most agreeable.

Why anyone should refuse to travel it, having an errand at Nortonville, I do not know.

An old gentleman in my neighborhood was specially noted for quietness and modesty while in active life. He had no bad habits, and was a model husband and father. At seventy-five he retired, became a great talker, smoked cigarettes and drank all the whisky he could get hold of.

The Koran, said by many to have been written by a god, defines spendthrifts as brothers of Satan. The extravagance of spendthrifts leads to dishonesty; to crime. Look up the records of criminals you know. Seven-tenths of them were spendthrifts.

The writing and doing of mankind does not make such difference: we need only consider its final conclusions, and these are so few they are easily remembered.

Gamekeeper's Find

A gamekeeper near Aberdeen, Scotland, has had a remarkable experience among foxes.

He discovered the lair of a fox among the heather, and after a good deal of hunting succeeded in trapping the old pair. A few days later he found on the edge of a rock near the den five young fox cubs.

It chanced that he had at home a cat with kittens the same age as the cubs, so he took two of them home and placed them beside the mother cat. She took kindly to her common enemy, and cared for them. The young cubs have become quite friendly with the kittens, and the cat is proving an excellent foster mother.

ATWATER KENT RADIO. Have you heard the big news of Radio? ENORMOUS demand, met by careful mass production in the largest radio factory, has lowered amazingly the prices of Atwater Kent Radio. The cities buy it. The small towns buy it. The farm families buy it. For a long time Atwater Kent Radio has had an overwhelming preference on the farm. Its natural tone, wide range, simple ONE Dial operation, sturdiness, freedom from trouble, have made it the radio that everybody wants. Its popularity makes possible the almost unbelievable economies of manufacturing on a big scale. These savings come back to you in the form of lower prices for 1928, effective NOW. Atwater Kent Radio is recognized the world over as radio's highest development. Only the vast momentum of a factory capable of turning out eleven sets a minute could produce quality at such a price. EDITORIAL COLUMN

A Message from Henry Ford

On Oct. 1, 1908, we made the first Model T Ford car. On May 26, 1927, our production of one model has reached 15,000,000.

These were important milestones in the progress of the Ford Motor Company. They were great days in the life of the automobile industry itself. Still greater days are just ahead.

I refer to the first official introduction of the new Ford car to the public on Friday, Dec. 2.

This new Ford car has not been planned and made in a day. Our engineers began work on it several years ago and it has been in my mind much longer than that. We make automobiles quickly when we get into production. But we take a long time planning them. Nothing can hurry us in that. We spent 12 years in perfecting our Model T Ford car before we offered it to the public. It is not conceivable that we should have put this new Ford car on the market until we were sure that it was mechanically correct in every detail.

Every part of the car has been tested in actual practice. There is no guessing as to whether it will be a successful model—it has to be. There is no way it can possibly escape being so, for it represents the sum total of all we have learned about motor car building in the lifetime of the Ford business.

The new Ford car is distinctly a new and modern car, designed to meet new and modern conditions. It is more than a new automobile. It is the advanced expression of a wholly new idea in modern, economical transportation.

The minute you see it—ride in it you will know that it is not a mere refinement of the Model T Ford, but a new car from radiator to rear axle. There is nothing quite like it in quality and price, anywhere.

The new Ford car has exceptional beauty of line and color, because beauty of line and color has come to be considered, and I think rightly, a necessity in a motor car today.

The new Ford car has durability and stamina because those two qualities are the very heart of motor car values. The Ford car has always been known as the car that will get you there and bring you back. This new car will not only do that, but it will do it in good style.

The new Ford car has unusual speed for a low-priced car. It will do 55 and 65 miles an hour. It has actually exceeded 65 miles an hour on road tests. It will be even easier to handle in traffic than the Model T. I call your attention especially to the safety accorded by the new brakes as an indication of this.

The price of the new Ford car is low in accordance with the established Ford policy. I hold, and have always held, that it is better to sell a large number of cars at a reasonable small margin of profit than to sell a few cars at a large margin of profit.

PERSONALS

Dr. F. H. Johnson and Joe Bickman left Monday for Las Cruces where they are spending the major portion of the week in duck and quail hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stadtman and Mrs. Lotah Miller left Saturday for Albuquerque and returned Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Wm. J. Langston and mother, Mrs. T. J. Riden, who were there to attend the funeral of another of Mrs. Riken's daughters, which occurred one week ago.

At the regular meeting of Carrizozo Lodge No. 30 I. O. O. F., Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for ensuing term of six months of the coming year: N. G., John L. Bryan; V. G., Herman Kelt; Secretary, Wm. J. Langston; Treasurer, S. F. Miller. Appointive offices will be filled before the first meeting in January, when installation takes place.

B. F. Kelly, Assistant Engineer of the Roswell District, was here Monday in conference with Road Foreman Chas. Grey.

About 1300 head of Block ranch cattle were shipped Monday by Fred Snyder to points in Texas, and Denny Spade contributed a car load of horses to the same shipment. Inspectors, Dr. C. E. Freeman and Al Hunter.

A Scotchman sneaked into a football game, bought a score card—and almost fainted because neither team scored.

The biggest cattle sale made in this county for many years was consummated last week, when R. E. P. Warden sold his entire lot of cattle amounting to over 3500 head. Shipments of these cattle will be made at different times, as cars for the entire lot cannot be furnished at one time.

make our own glass—we mine our own coal—we make practically every part used in the Ford car. But we do not charge a profit on any of these items. We would not be playing fair with the public if we did so. Our only business is the automobile business; our only profit is on the automobiles we sell.

We are able to sell this new Ford car at a low price because we have found new ways to give greater value without a great increase in our own costs. In view of the importance of the new Ford car and the character of it, we have taken great care in planning the manner of its introduction.

GENUINE NAVAJO INDIAN RUGS

AN UNUSUAL GIFT WHICH WILL LAST A LIFETIME

The Rugs of the Navajo Indians are unlike any other rugs ever produced. An art of weaving has been brought to a perfection with this tribe of the Southwest. The designs are of their own figures and symbols and are seen nowhere else. These Rugs are of a texture and quality that will outlast Oriental Rugs. The wool used is sheared from live sheep which insure strength and firmness. They will wear a lifetime and become heir looms. The time is not far distant when genuine Navajo Rugs will no longer be woven, as the old Navajos who do this work are getting fewer and the present generation does not take up the work. For this reason the rugs now on the market are much sought after by lovers of Indian Rugs.

RED CROSS VOLUNTEER WORKERS BIG FACTOR

Broader Industry in Home Chapter and in Field Development of Disaster Service.

Volunteer industry in the American Red Cross is on an upward trend, due to the broader demand for assistance in meeting disaster relief requirements. Men and women from Red Cross chapters in the last year exemplified their work for disaster victims a greater activity than in any year since the end of the World War.

This service was given without stint and with the finest of spirit, according to Red Cross officials. Volunteer Red Cross workers have served by the thousands with the local Chapters in garment production, printing, raised-type reading matter for the blind, in hospital service, as canteen workers and motor corps aids. Nearly all active Chapter workers are volunteers.

More than 90 per cent of the available reading material for the blind is produced by volunteer Red Cross workers. Volunteers produced 175,481 garments, 2,057,912 surgical dressings for hospital use, and 6,328 articles for emergency cloths maintained by Red Cross Chapters in various communities for disaster and other emergencies. The garment production, large as it was, did not include the thousands of garments made for the Mississippi flood sufferers by volunteers. Another important volunteer service is the preparation and sending of 30,000 Christmas bags to soldiers and bluejackets on duty in foreign stations.

Approximately 250 Chapters participate in Motor Corps service, while the growing interest of volunteers in health work constitutes an additional community safeguard in emergencies when the services of regular nurses might be overtaxed.

Volunteer service will be an important factor in the forthcoming eleventh Annual Red Cross Conference, held at the National Hotel, from November 11 to 14, in enrolling the 5,000,000 membership to be sought.

Number of Application 13
Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 21, 1927

Notice is hereby given that on the 21st day of November, A. D. 1927, in accordance with Section 26, Chapter 49, Irrigation Laws of 1907, the El Paso and Rock Island Railway Company by its agent, E. R. Wright of Santa Fe, N. M., made application to the State Engineer of the State of New Mexico for a permit to change from direct diversion to storage under its Permit No. 13 to appropriate the public waters of the State of New Mexico.

Such change is to be made from direct diversion under Permit No. 13 approved July 2, 1907 on the Bonito River, being North 63 degrees 45' East, 2250 feet of the West quarter, corner of Section 12, Township 10 South Range 12 East, to a storage reservoir, Station O of which is located North 49 degrees 19' East 138 6-10 feet of the East quarter corner of Section 12, Township 10 South, Range 11 East, N. M. P. M.

Any person, firm association or corporation deeming that the granting of the above application would be truly detrimental to their rights in the water of said stream system shall file a complete statement of their objections substantiated by affidavits with the State Engineer and serve a copy on applicant on or before the 20th day of December, 1927, the date set for the Engineer to take this application up for final consideration unless protested. In case of protested application all parties will be given a reasonable length of time in which to submit their evidence in detail or arrange a date convenient for a hearing or appoint a referee satisfactory to all to take testimony. Appearance is not necessary unless advised officially by letter from the State Engineer.

It is stated in said application that the applicant does not intend to change or increase the location or carrying capacity of its present pipe line but purposes to divert waters heretofore granted to it under Permit No. 13, through its existing pipe line with intake through the face of proposed reservoir, and that its application to change from direct diversion to storage and to change the point of diversion as herein before set forth is made subject to and in recognition of all prior rights to the use of water from said stream system.

Camel

The cigarette that knows how to "be itself"

There is no "pose" about Camel. It's just a good honest cigarette—the best ever—and it doesn't try to be anything else.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.

Don't Trust Your Butter To Luck

Market men and consumers are insisting on uniform color, now-a-days, and no real dairyman can afford to trust to luck any more. Keep your butter always that golden June shade, which brings top prices, by using Dandelion Butter color. All large creameries have used it for years. It meets all State and National Food Laws. It's harmless, tasteless and will not color Buttermilk. Large-bottles cost only 35c at all drug and grocery stores.

Big Projects on Foot for Harnessing Tides

The feasibility of harnessing the tides at certain places is so well understood that the French government has under way a project to develop a 7,000-horse power plant near Brest, writes Henry Williams, in the American Magazine.

England contemplates a $150,000,000 development in the Severn estuary; and the state of Maine has ratified a bill to develop tidal power in the bay of Fundy, to cost $100,000,000, which is expected annually to produce the equivalent of power from $10,000,000 worth of coal.

In the tide reservoir system as contemplated in the bay of Fundy and elsewhere, the gates are shut after the water has flowed in, and power is gained by letting the water flow out, operating turbine wheels, meanwhile, as the tide recedes. Part of the power thus gained may be used to pump some of the basin water into higher reservoirs, to be used to operate other turbines as it flows back again.

Aerial Signposts

For some time past the British air ministry has been considering the question of providing identification marks at points all over the country for the convenience of airplane pilots. The first of these novel "signposts" is shortly to be established near Weydown common, Hampshire, where the ministry has rented a piece of ground sufficiently large to enable the name "Hampshire" to be outlined against the turf in large white letters.

Up till now only aerodromes have been indicated by this method, but it is intended to develop the identification scheme until every town and village will have its name inscribed at a convenient spot. Airmen will then have no need to carry maps, since the whole of Great Britain, seen from above, will be one vast map.—London Answers.

SOUTH-WEST NEWS NOTES

Miss Margery Redinger, librarian at the New Mexico A. & M. college, has resigned.

Extensive improvements are to be made to the gas system of the Southern Arizona Power Company of Nogales.

The enrollment at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque has reached an increase of more than 40 per cent over that of last year.

The Most Noble Order of the Garter and the Honorable Order of the Bath are two of the latest fraternal organizations to be incorporated in New Mexico. Their home offices will be in Las Cruces.

Construction is soon to begin on a new and larger power plant at Roy, N. M., which will be capable of delivering 15,000 to 20,000 watts, it is announced by R. A. Pendleton, holder of the electric franchise in Roy.

Seven of the nine federal aid road contracts awarded by the highway department following receipt of the $500,000 debenture money are already under way. Actual construction is started on five projects and the contractor is moving in equipment on the other two.

Frank Boyer was killed, two others badly injured and another suffered minor injuries in crashes which marked the closing day of the Arizona state fair, which was given over to automobile races for the Southwest championship under A. A. regulations and rules.

October was a record month for cattle shipments from New Mexico, according to figures compiled by M. G. Keenan, secretary of the New Mexico cattle board. The number of cattle sent out of the state during the month was 133,052, which Mr. Keenan says is the largest number for any month in the last five years, and he believes one of the largest figures in history.

The recent industrial employment survey report issued from the office of the United States Employment Service of the United States Department of Labor at Denver states that "An upward trend was apparent in employment in Arizona during October, and further improvement is expected during November. While migratory labor was coming into Arizona in increasing numbers, there was a shortage of about 500 cotton pickers reported at the close of the month. A slight shortage of carpenters in the Salt River valley and a small shortage of unskilled labor in the Flagstaff district was also reported. Cotton harvesting, lettuce cultivation, and work in connection with citrus fruit and vegetables are affording employment to a great many men. An increase in livestock and dairying activities was apparent. Considerable employment was afforded in connection with the fall shipment of cattle and sheep. Producing metal mines operated on fairly satisfactory schedules; however, a small surplus of skilled metal miners exists. Building continues exceptionally active for this period of the year and includes several large projects. Municipal improvements and highway construction afforded employment to a number of men. Lumbering and logging continue normal. Building of logging spurs is under way in the Flagstaff district. Employment in connection with railroad activities was reported steady throughout October. The report states that "Employment increased slightly throughout New Mexico during October, due largely to the seasonal expansion in coal mining, cotton harvesting, and other fall agricultural work, and highway construction. There is an adequate supply of all classes of labor except for a slight shortage of cotton pickers in the southeastern section of the state. Producing metal mines are running on fairly satisfactory schedules, except copper mines, which are on a curtailed basis. Considerable metal-mining construction and development work was reported at the close of the month. Extensive oil prospecting is under way in a few districts, and favorable weather during the past thirty days permitted building and general construction to continue satisfactorily. Several large projects are under way, and building should continue quite active until adverse weather conditions interfere. Lumbering activities in the woods and mills continued fairly brisk, chiefly in the Bernillo district. Contracts for nine federal aid highway projects costing approximately $471,000, were let early in October, this work to commence in the near future; from present indications, there will be plenty of labor available for these new projects. Employment in the railroad shops, maintenance-of-way and train service departments was reported as steady during October with this same condition expected throughout November."

The story of coal from the mine to consumer will soon be released in motion pictures by the Southern Pacific railroad. A group of motion picture operators riding in a special train has just completed the filming in the Dawson district, the source of the Southern Pacific's coal supply.

A $10,000 day products factory is now being built at La Palma, Arizona's new city, in the heart of the San Carlos irrigation project. The factory will manufacture a very superior grade of brick, tile and clay products for all building purposes.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Section of Pittsburgh Is Shattered by Explosion of Gas Tanks.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

THREE huge storage tanks of the Equitable Gas company in Pittsburgh blew up and an entire section of the city, at the point where the Allegheny flows into the Ohio river, was wrecked. The total number of lives lost may never be known, but it probably was forty or more; hundreds of persons were injured. In the immediate vicinity of the gas works many large industrial buildings were totally ruined, as were a number of tenements where women and children were among the victims. The force of the explosion was felt throughout the city and nearly all the glass in the downtown section was smashed.

Cause of the disaster was found in the blunder of some one who ordered workmen to repair the largest of the three tanks while it was partly filled with gas. One man was using a blow torch when the huge basin, which stood 75 feet above the ground, was blown apart and a great sheet of flame shot a thousand feet upward. A second tank holding 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas and situated about 200 feet away was crushed in, its contents ignited, and a second mighty blast went up. A third tank, several hundred feet distant, of 500,000 cubic feet capacity and partly filled, was burst under by the force of the explosion and its contents added to the vast breath of flame that could be seen for miles.

THOUGH the Colorado coal miners' strike seemed to be slowly waning, the prospects for bloody fighting increased last week. After several days of intermittent picketing at the Columbine mine, the only coal property still operating in the northern Colorado field, its owners informed Gov. W. H. Adams that the pickets would be shot if they set foot on the property. Machine guns were mounted behind barbed-wire entanglements, and the gunners had orders to shoot any trespassers. A large band of pickets led by a woman were turned back Wednesday by these warlike preparations. Meanwhile the I. W. W., through their official paper, were calling for "all footloose rebels" in the country to flock to Colorado to aid the strikers.

Officers in charge of state police sent an appeal to the governor for fifty more men to meet any contingency. The situation was described as "acute" by William H. Young, a member of the state industrial commission.

Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania told representatives of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor that he would investigate charges they laid before him of the usurpation of power by coal and iron police and of partiality by state police in the strike district of the bituminous coal region. The committee which conferred with Governor Fisher made arrangements to see President Coolidge at the White House to discuss conditions in the bituminous fields of western Pennsylvania.

COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH was the central figure in a remarkable gathering of aviators in Washington. The men, and one woman, who have distinguished themselves by overseas air flights were entertained at luncheon by the President and then went to the Auditorium where before an audience of 8,000 "Lindy" received from the hands of Mr. Coolidge the Hubbard gold medal of the National Geographic society, a trophy that has been presented to only seven other men. Justices of the Supreme court, members of the cabinet, of the diplomatic corps, and of congress were in attendance, all joining in the cheering and applause.

The famous flyers present included Lieut. Lester J. Maitland and Albert Wagnersberger, sent to help from San Francisco to Hawaii; Clarence D. Chamberlain and Charles A. Levine, who flew from New York to Germany; Ruth Elder and George Haldeman; Bert Acosta; Berndt Balchen and George Noville, who flew with Commander Byrd to France; William S. Brock and Edward H. Schlee, who crossed the Atlantic to London and then flew by successive stages across Europe and Asia to Japan.

Capt. R. H. Macintosh and Bert Hincider, English aviators, started from Upavon, England, in an attempt to break the distance record for non-stop flights by Chamberlain and Levine by flying to Karachi, India, a distance of 4,000 miles. At this writing the outcome of the venture is not known.

Sir Alan Cobham, with a crew of six and accompanied by his wife, began a flight around Africa to show the possibility for communication between the various parts of the British empire by air.

IF THE story told by William J. McMillin, a Burns operative, is true, there was a deliberate and elaborate plot to frame the government in the Fall-Sinclair case and to force a mistrial. According to his statements he revolted at the plan of falsely accusing Assistant Attorney General H. R. Lamb of attempting to influence Juror Glasscock, and told the whole story to Clifford Pinchot, who in turn communicated it to the government counsel. McMillin was directed to "play along" with the Burns men and to report their activities to the district attorney. This he says he did, and the whole alleged plot was then revealed to the grand jury. That body also heard W. J. Burns, head of the detective agency, and his son, W. Sherman Burns, who declared the story told by McMillin was false. Justice Siddons, who presided at the Teapot Dome trial, appointed a committee of lawyers to determine whether those involved in the jury fixing scandal should be cited for contempt of court.

The government also undertook to bring about the punishment of Harry M. Blackmer, a millionaire oil man, who fled to France several years ago rather than testify in the Sinclair-Full conspiracy trial. An order entered by Justice Siddons directed Federal Marshal E. C. Snyder to seize $100,000 worth of Blackmer's property wherever it may be found within the United States and summoned Blackmer himself to appear on January 6 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt and his property confiscated.

CHINESE students and workmen created disturbances at Yung-kong, 150 miles southwest of Canton, making demonstrations against American workers and an American mission. The United States gunboat Asheville was sent there from Hongkong by the commander of the south China, patrol. The Chinese military forces arrested leaders of the mobs, but there was fear of further trouble.

The Labor party under Chang Fat-fu attempted to seize Canton and there was long continued street fighting. Martial law was declared and the gates of the foreign settlement were closed.

Nanking Nationalists gained a big advantage by the collapse of the radical faction at Hankow and its abandonment of that city. The region was immediately overrun by Kwang men belonging to the Nanking party. In the struggle of the southerners with the northern armies the former are reported to have met a severe defeat north of Mingkwang. However, Feng, the Christian general, won a three-day battle against Marshal Chang's forces in Shantung province.

WITH the aid of 102 lawyers, Mihail Manolescu, former secretary of state of Rumania, won acquittal in his trial by court-martial on charges of plotting to place former Crown Prince Carol on the throne. The defense, engineered by General Avarescu, bitterly attacked Premier Bratianu and his policies and the result of the trial was admittedly a severe blow to that dictatorial official. One of the defense witnesses, an eminent historian, declared: "One-fourth of the country is against Crown Carol, but Rumania is 75 per cent Carolist." The government fears an uprising of the Carolists, and hurriedly put through parliament the new national defense act which provides penal servitude and heavy fines for persons who "by word or deed" directly or indirectly seek to overthrow the present monarchical regime.

MOULAY YOUSSEF, sultan of Morocco, seventeenth ruler of his dynasty, died at Fez, chief of his four capital cities. He was the son of Sultan Moulay Hassan and succeeded his brother, Moulay Hafid, in 1912, holding his throne since 1923 under the French protectorate and residing usually in the French zone. He was only forty-five years old but had been in bad health for some time.

THE British government had rather an unpleasant time last week. Its coal policy was attacked in the house by the Labor-Socialist opposition which declared the government had neglected the difficulties of the industry and demanded immediate action to secure an efficient organization. The Laborites insisted on a reply from Prime Minister Baldwin and would not listen to Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the Board of Trade. They created such a disturbance that the speaker was obliged to order an adjournment. In the house of lords Viscount Cecil attacked the government's attitude toward disarmament, and asserted that its refusal to admit the principle of mathematical parity in naval strength with the United States "baugs, bolts and bars the door against any hope of agreement with America" on naval armaments. He blamed Winston Churchill for the failure of the Geneva conference. W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, announced that in view of the situation disclosed at Geneva it was not thought necessary to proceed with the three cruisers originally provided for in current naval estimates and therefore only one would be laid down.

ITALIANS, who deeply resent the new Franco-Yugo-Slav treaty, believe France is arming the Serbs against Italy and have been "demonstrating" before the embassy and legation of these nations in Rome. Dispatches explain that enormous orders for steel, leather and wood are being placed in Germany by the French on their reparations account. The goods are delivered to French agents at the frontier and shipped to Yugo-Slavia. The Germans are delighted over this development as each mark's worth of goods which is delivered to France frees them from delivery of a mark in cash under the Dawes plan.

OUR little tiff with France over tariff rates is virtually ended. French Minister of Commerce Maurice Bokanowski said that the United States had agreed, after the conclusion of a provisional agreement, to study the possibility of a reduction in American tariff rates based on a comparison of American and French costs of production.

ELEVEN cities have applied for the honor of having the Republican national convention next year. They are Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit, Cleveland, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, Seattle, Minneapolis, San Antonio, and Philadelphia. The winner will be picked by the national committee when it meets December 6. Just now it looks as if San Francisco would be selected, but Detroit also has strong backing. Chicago is said to have little chance because of Illinois candidates for the Presidential nomination.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, whose duty it often has been to decorate others, was himself decorated Thursday evening in Philadelphia, receiving the Union League's gold medal for distinguished public service and a certificate of membership in the club. The occasion was Founders' day, and the President delivered the chief address at the banquet. Two other Presidents, Lincoln and Johnson, have received the club's medal, and Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft were made honorary members.

FOUR men attempted to assassinate General Obregon, Presidential candidate in Mexico, with bombs, but the general escaped with cuts on his face from broken glass of his automobile windshield. Three of the assassins were caught, the being wounded by the police.

CHAPTER X

The Hidden Room

A few moments later Jack Bailey, seeing a thin glow of candle-light from the attic above, and hearing Lizzie's protesting voice, made his way up there. He found them in the trunk-room, a dusty, dingy apartment lined with high closets along the walls—the floor littered with an inconspicuous assortment of attic objects—two battered trunks, a clothes hamper, an old sewing machine, a broken-backed kitchen chair, a pair of dilapidated dress-suitcases and a shabby satchel that might once have been a woman's dressing-case—in one corner a grimy fireplace in which, obviously, no fire had been lighted for years.

But he also found Miss Cornelia holding her candle to the floor and staring at something there.

"Candle-grease!" she said, sharply, staring at a line of white spots by the window. She stooped and touched the spots with an exploratory finger.

"Fresh candle-grease! Now who do you suppose did that? It leads straight to the fireplace!" she murmured in tones of Sherlockian gravity. Bailey repressed an involuntary smile. But her next words gave him genuine food for thought.

"It's been going through my mind for the last few minutes that no chimney flue runs up this side of the house!" she said.

Bailey started. "Then why the fireplace?"

"That's what I'm going to find out!" said the spinster grimly. She started to rap the mantel, testing it for secret springs.

"Jack! Jack!" It was Dale's voice, low and cautious, coming from the landing of the stairs.

Bailey stepped to the door of the trunk room.

"Come in," he called in reply. "And lock the door behind you."

Dale entered, turning the key in the lock behind her.

"Where are the others?"

"They're still searching the house. There's no sign of anybody."

"They haven't found—Mr. Anderson?"

Dale shook her head. "Not yet."

She turned toward her aunt. Miss Cornelia had begun to enjoy herself once more.

Rapping on the mantelpiece, poking and pressing various corners and sections of the mantel itself, she remembered all the detective stories she had ever read and thought, with a sniff of scorn, that she could better them. She rapped on the wall above the mantel—exactly—there was the hollow echo she wanted.

"Hollow as Lizzie's head!" she said triumphantly. The fireplace was obviously not what it seemed—there must be a space behind it unaccounted for in the building plans. Now what was the next step detectives always took. Oh, yes—they looked for panels; panels that moved. And when one shoved them away there was a button or something. She pushed and pressed and finally something did move. It was the mantelpiece itself, false grate and all, which began to swing out into the room, revealing behind a dark, hollow cubbyhole, some six feet by six—the hidden room at last!

"Oh, Jack, be careful!" breathed Dale, as her lover took Miss Cornelia's candle and moved toward the dark hiding place. But her eyes had already caught the outlines of a tall iron safe in the goom, and in spite of her fears, her lips formed a wordless cry of victory.

But Jack Bailey said nothing at all. One glance had shown him that the safe was empty.

The tragic collapse of all their hopes was almost more than they could bear. Coming on top of the nerve-racking events of the night, it left them dazed and directionless. It was, of course, Miss Cornelia who recovered first.

"Even without the money," she said, "the mere presence of this safe here, hidden away, tells the story. The fact that some one else knew and got here first cannot alter that."

But she could not cheer them. It was Lizzie who created a diversion. Lizzie who had bolted into the hall at the first motion of the mantelpiece outward, and who now with equal precipitation came bolting back. She rushed into the room, slamming the door behind her, and collapsed into a heap of moaning terror at her mistress' feet. At first she was completely inarticulate, but after a time she muttered that she had seen "him" and then fell to moaning again.

The same thought was in all their minds, that in some corner of the upper floor she had come across the body of Anderson. But when Miss Cornelia finally quieted her and asked this, she shook her head.

"It was the Bat I saw," was her astounding statement. "He dropped through the skylight out there, and ran along the hall. I saw him, I tell you. He went right by me!"

"Nonsense," said Miss Cornelia, briskly. "How can you say such a thing?"

But Bailey pushed forward and took Lizzie by the shoulder.

"What did he look like?"

"He hadn't any face. He was all black where his face ought to be."

"Do you mean he wore a mask?"

"Maybe. I don't know."

She collapsed again, but when Bailey, followed by Miss Cornelia, made a move toward the door, she broke into frantic wailing.

"Don't go out there!" she shrieked. "He's there, I tell you. I'm not crazy. If you open that door, he'll shoot!"

But the door was already open and no shot came. With the departure of Bailey and Miss Cornelia, and the resulting darkness due to their taking the candle, Lizzie and Dale were left alone. The girl was faint with disappointment and strain; she sat huddled on a trunk, saying nothing, and after a moment or so Lizzie roused her to her condition.

"Not feeling sick, are you?" she asked.

"I feel a little queer."

"Who wouldn't, in the dark here, with that monster loose somewhere near by?" But she stirred herself and got up. "I'd better get the smelling-suits," she said heavily. "God knows I hate to move, but if there's one place safer in this house than another, I've yet to find it."

She went out, leaving Dale alone. The trunk room was dark, save that now and then as the candle appeared and reappeared the doorway was faintly outlined. On this outline she kept her eyes fixed, by way of comfort, and thus passed the next few moments. She felt weak and dizzy and entirely despairing.

Then—the outline was not so clear. She had heard nothing, but there was something in the doorway. It stood there, formless, diabolical, and then she saw what was happening. It was closing the door. Afterward she was mercifully not to remember what came next; the figure was perhaps intent on what was going on outside, or her own movements may have been as silent as its own. That she got into the mantel room and even partially closed it behind her is certain, and that her description of what followed is fairly accurate is borne out by the facts as known.

The Bat was working rapidly. She heard his quick, nervous movements; apparently he had come back for something and secured it, for now he moved again toward the door. But he was too late; they were returning that way. She heard him mutter something and quickly turn the key in the lock. Then he seemed to run toward the window, and for some reason to recoil from it.

The next instant she realized that he was coming toward the mantel room, that he intended to hide in it. There was no doubt in her mind as to his identity. It was the Bat, and in a moment more he would be shut in there with her.

She tried to scream and could not, and the next instant she was in a dead faint on the floor.

Bailey meanwhile had crawled out on the roof and was carefully searching it. But other things were happening also. A disinterested observer could have seen very soon why the Bat had abandoned the window as a means of egress.

Almost before the mantel had swung to behind the arch-criminal, the top of a tall pruning ladder had appeared at the window, and by its quivering showed that some one was climbing up, rung by rung. Unsuspectingly enough he came on, pausing at the top to flash a light into the room, and then cautiously swinging a leg over the sill. It was the doctor. He gave a low whistle, but there was no reply, save that, had he seen it, the mantel swung out an inch or two. Perhaps he was never so near death as at that moment, but that instant of irresolution on his part saved him, for by coming into the room he had taken himself out of range.

Even then he was very close to destruction, for after a brief pause and a second rather puzzled survey of the room, he started toward the mantel itself. Only the rattle of the door-knob stopped him, and a call from outside.

"Dale!" called Bailey's voice from the corridor. "Dale!"

"Dale! Dale! The door's locked!" cried Miss Cornelia.

The doctor hesitated. The call came again.

"Dale! Dale!" and Bailey pounded on the door as if he meant to break it down.

The doctor made up his mind. "Wait a moment!" he called. He stepped to the door and unlocked it. Bailey hurried himself into the room, followed by Miss Cornelia with her candle. Lizzie stood in the doorway, timidly, ready to leap for safety at a moment's notice.

"Why did you lock that door?" said Bailey, angrily, threatening the doctor.

"But I didn't," said the latter, truthfully enough. Bailey made a movement of irritation. Then a glance about the room informed him of the amazing, the incredible fact. Dale was not there! She had disappeared!

"You—you," she stammered at the doctor. "Where's Miss Ogden? What have you done with her?"

The doctor was equally baffled. "Done with her?" he said indignantly. "I don't know what you're talking about—I haven't seen her!"

"Then you didn't lock that door?" Bailey demanded.

"Then you didn't lock that door?" Bailey demanded.

The doctor's denial was firm. "Absolutely not. I was coming through the window when I heard your voice at the door!"

Bailey's eyes leapt to the window—yes—a ladder was there—the doctor might be speaking the truth after all. But if so, how and why had Dale disappeared?

The doctor's admission of his manner of entrance did not make Lizzie any the happier.

"In at the window—just like a bat!" she muttered in shaking tones. She would not have stayed in the doorway if she had not been afraid to move anywhere else.

"I saw lights up here from outside," continued the doctor easily. "And I thought—"

Miss Cornelia interrupted him. She had laid down her candle and revolver on the top of the clothes hamper and now stood gazing at the mantel fireplace.

"The mantel's—closed!" she said. The doctor stared. So the secret of the hidden room was a secret no longer. He saw ruin gaping before him—a bottomless abyss. "Damnation!" he cursed, impotently, under his breath.

Bailey turned on him savagely. "Did you shut that mantel?"

"No!"

"I'll see whether you shut it or not!" Bailey leapt toward the fireplace.

"Dale! Dale!" he called desperately leaning against the mantel. His fingers groped for the knob that worked the mechanism of the hidden entrance.

The doctor picked up the single lighted candle from the hamper, as if to throw more light on Bailey's task. Bailey's fingers found the knob. He turned it. The mantel began to swing out into the room.

As it did so the doctor deliberately snuffed out the light of the candle he held, leaving the room in abrupt and obliterating darkness.

"Doctor, why did you put out that candle?"

Miss Cornelia's voice cut the blackness like a knife.

"I didn't—"

"You did—I saw you do it!"

The brief exchange of accusation and denial took but an instant of time, as the mantel swung wide open. The

Grain Trade Periled by Railroad Rebates

Serious troubles were encountered by Chicago traders in the early nineties through the practice of accepting railroad rebates. The railroads of the time were keenly aggressive, and they inaugurated a war of cutthroat competition, giving rebates to heavy and regular shippers—a sort of bidding for business. At first the rebates were welcomed by shippers, who were flattered by the thought that they were getting something for nothing. The practice became such an abuse that more than one grain firm faced financial disaster because of it. No one ever knew just how great was the rebate that his competitor obtained and the whole situation added a trade hazard that was immeasurable. The rebates ran from 10 to 25 per cent of the published tariff. It was, of course, difficult for the concern that was able to obtain only 10 per cent rebate to

Tempted Fate Too Often

Sau Patch was a lad widely known for daring leaps and dives. Born in 1807 in Rhode Island, he became a cotton spinner in Paterson, N. J. A jump from a bridge into the Passaic river brought him such notoriety that he traveled about leaping from bridges and diving from tops of ships. He was killed in 1829 when attempting a jump of 125 feet into the Genesee river.

Metal Burial Caskets

A patent for the manufacture of metal burial caskets in this country was granted about the year 1850, and they were first made in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Providence, R. I.

next instant there was a rush of feet across the floor, from the fireplace—the shock of a collision between two bodies—the sound of a heavy fall.

"What was that?" queried Bailey, dazedly, with a feeling as if some great winged creature had brushed at him and passed.

Lizzie answered from the doorway. "Oh, oh!" she groaned, in stricken accents. "Somebody knocked me down and trampled on me!"

"Matches, quick!" commanded Miss Cornelia. "Where's the candle?"

The doctor was still trying to explain his curious action of a moment before.

"Awfully sorry, I assure you—it dropped out of the holder—ah, here it is!"

He held it up triumphantly. Bailey struck a match and lighted it. The wavering little flame showed Lizzie prostrate but vocal, in the doorway—and Dale, lying on the floor of the hidden room, her eyes shut, and her face as drained of color as the face of a marble statue. For one horrible instant Bailey thought she must be dead.

He rushed to her wildly and picked her up in his arms. No—still breathing—thank God! He carried her tenderly to the only chair in the room.

"Doctor!"

The doctor, once more the physician, knelt at her side, and felt for her pulse. And Lizzie, picking herself up from where the collision with some violent body had thrown her, retrieved the smelling salts from the floor. It was onto this picture, the candle light shining on strained faces, the dramatic figure of Dale, now semi-conscious, the desperate rage of Bailey, that a new actor appeared on the scene.

Anderson, the detective, stood in the doorway, holding a candle—as grim and menacing a figure as a man just arisen from the dead.

"That's right!" said Lizzie, unperturbed for once. "Come in when everything's over!"

The doctor glanced up and met the detective's eyes, cold and menacing.

"You took my revolver from me, downstairs," he said. "I'll trouble you for it."

The doctor got heavily to his feet. The others, their suspicions confirmed at last, looked at him with startled eyes. The detective seemed to enjoy the universal confusion his words had brought.

Slowly, with sullen reluctance, the doctor yielded up the stolen weapon. The detective examined it casually and replaced it in his hip pocket.

"I've something to settle with you pretty soon," he said through clenched teeth, addressing the doctor. "And I'll settle it properly. Now—what's this?"

He indicated Dale—her face still and waxen—her breath coming so faintly she seemed hardly to breathe at all, as Miss Cornelia and Bailey tried to revive her.

"She's coming to—" said Miss Cornelia, triumphantly, as a first faint flush of color reappeared in the girl's cheeks.

"No, Anderson," the spinster added, pointing toward the gaping entrance of the hidden room.

A gleam crossed the detective's face. He went up to examine the secret chamber. As he did so, Doctor Wells, who had been inching surreptitiously toward the door, sought the opportunity of slipping out unobserved.

But Anderson was not to be caught napping again.

"Wells!" he barked. The doctor stopped and turned.

"Where were you when she was locked in this room?"

The doctor's eyes sought the floor—the walls—wildly—for any possible loophole of escape.

"I didn't shut her in—If that's what you mean!" he said defiantly. "There was some one shut in there with her!"

He gestured at the hidden room. "Ask these people here."

Miss Cornelia caught him up at once.

"The fact remains, Doctor," she said, her voice cold with anger, "that we left her here alone. When we came back, you were here. The corridor door was locked, and she was in that room—unconscious!"

She moved forward to throw the light of her candle on the hidden room as the detective passed into it, gave it a swift professional glance, and stepped out again. But she had not finished her story by any means.

"As we opened that door," she continued to the detective, tapping the false mantel, "the doctor deliberately extinguished our only candle!"

"Do you know who was in that room?" queried the detective, fiercely, wheeling on the doctor.

But the latter had evidently made up his mind to cling stubbornly to a policy of complete denial.

"No," he said sullenly. "I didn't put out the candle. It fell. And I didn't lock that door into the hall. I found it locked!"

A sigh of relief from Bailey now centered everyone's attention on himself and Dale. At last the girl was recovering from the shock of her terrible experience and regaining consciousness. Her eyelids fluttered—closed again—opened once more. She tried to sit up, weakly, clinging to Bailey's shoulder. "The color returned to her cheeks—the stupor left her eyes. She gave the hidden room a hunted little glance and then shuddered violently.

"Please close that awful door," she said in a tremulous voice. "I don't want to see it again."

The detective went silently to close the iron doors.

"What happened to you? Can't you remember?" faltered Bailey, on his knees at her side.

The shadow of an old terror lay on the girl's face.

"I was in here alone, in the dark," she began slowly—"Then, as I looked at the doorway there, I saw there was somebody there. He came in and closed the door. I didn't know what to do, so I slipped in—there, and after a while I knew he was coming in, too, for he couldn't get out. Then I must have fainted."

"There was nothing about the figure that you recognized?"

"No. Nothing."

"But we know it was the Bat," put in Miss Cornelia.

The detective laughed sardonically. The old duel of opposing theories between the two seemed about to recommence.

The detective laughed sardonically. The old duel of opposing theories between the two seemed about to recommence.

"Still harping on the Bat!" he said, with a little sneer.

Miss Cornelia stuck to her guns. "I have every reason to believe that the Bat is in this house," she said. The detective gave another jarring, mirthless laugh.

"And that he took the Union bank money out of that safe, I suppose?" he jeered. "No, Miss Van Garder."

He wheeled on the doctor now.

"Ask the doctor who took the Union bank money out of that safe!" he thundered. "Ask the doctor who attacked me downstairs in the drawing room, knocked me senseless and locked me in the billiard room!"

There was an astounded silence. The detective added a parting shot to his indictment of the doctor.

"The next time you put handcuffs on a man, be sure to take the key out of his vest pocket," he said biting off the words.

Rage and consternation mingled on the doctor's countenance—on the faces of the others astonishment was followed by a growing certainty. Only Miss Cornelia clung stubbornly to her original theory.

"Perhaps I'm an obstinate old woman," she said, in tones which obviously showed that if so she was rather proud of it, "but the doctor and all the rest of us were locked in the living room, not ten minutes ago!"

"By the Bat, I suppose!" mocked Anderson.

"By the Bat!" insisted Miss Cornelia inflexibly. "Who else would have fastened a dead bat to the door downstairs? Who else would have the bravado to do that? Or what you call the imagination?"

In spite of himself Anderson seemed to be impressed.

"The Bat, eh?" he muttered, then, changing his tone, "you knew about this hidden room, Wells?" he shot at the doctor.

"Yes," the doctor bowed his head. "And you knew the money was in the room?"

"Well, I was wrong, wasn't I?" parried the doctor. "You can look for yourself. That safe is empty."

The detective brushed his evasive answer aside.

"You were up in this room, earlier tonight," he said in tones of apparent certainty.

"No, I couldn't get up!" the doctor still insisted, with strange violence for a man who had already admitted such damning knowledge.

The detective's face was a study in disbelief.
