Mayo Brothers to Locate Hospital in New Mexico

The Aztec Independent: It was reported in Aztec on good authority the first of this week that the Mayo Brothers had representatives throughout the southwest the past winter to select the best location for a hospital for tuberculosis, pulmonary gassed patients, who cannot be successfully treated at Rochester, Minn. After several months spent in investigation it is reported that they decided that Aztec, N. M. was the most feasible place on account of its being the ideal altitude, neither too cold nor too warm and the freedom from the winds for which Aztec is noted.

County Health Picnic

There will be a County Health Picnic at the Alto Schoolhouse on May 27, held at 9 until 4

The plan is to hold a pre-school clinic in the morning, at which time competent state, government or county physician will examine the kiddies, a nurse will weigh and measure them, and a sub-registrar will register the babies' births not already recorded.

The County Health Physician will vaccinate all children whose parents wish the same done at 50 cents charge for material used.

There will also be a baby's layette exhibit, also a baby's bath demonstration. Health pamphlets and layette patterns will be distributed.

Local physicians and nurses are cordially invited to attend, and to assist in the work.

In the afternoon from 2 until 4, a snappy health program will be given with local and county people taking part.

Everyone interested is invited and also ask that you bring your lunches and we will dine together as one family on the natural lawn, on the velvety banks of Eagle Creek in the heart of the White Mountains.— Julia Sundt, Co. Nurse.

Injured Boy Still Unconscious

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thornton were up from their home near Oscura Wednesday and told about Ralph Slight, who it will be remembered, fell from his horse and was injured last week, since which time, he has failed to recover consciousness. He was taken to the Masonic Hospital at El Paso Tuesday morning for further examination, but no report has been made on his condition, further than according to Dr. Safford of the hospital, there is little hopes for his recovery. Sympathy for the parents of this estimable young man is expressed on every hand.

Commencement Exercises

Last Sunday night at the Crystal Theatre, the exercises began with the Baccalaureate sermon, the same being preached by the Rev. Ira Young of the Episcopal Church.

Monday night, the Senior Class presented the play, "That's One on Bill" to a crowded house and Wednesday night, the Eighth Grade exercises were held with the same rousing reception from the local people. The stage was decorated on all occasions with class colors and in the Eighth Grade exercises, the diplomas were presented to the twelve graduates by Supt. Helm.

Last night, the Commencement program of the Carrizozo High School was carried out, the class address being given by Dr. S. P. Nannings of the State University of New Mexico. The ending of the week's exercises marked one of the busiest weeks for teachers and pupils that has ever been experienced and the manner in which every program was carried out, was an evidence of what perseverance with the right motives and zeal will accomplish.

Hondo Notes

The closing of the 1926-27 school year marks the most successful term of the Hondo school. The High school has been accredited by the State Department of Education for three years' work, and we are very proud to have had 10 Juniors this year. We hope to have a much larger enrollment next year and shall continue to teach at least three years of high school work.

The program for the commencement week was as follows: May 17, Grade program; May 18, Eighth grade commencement, Miss Mary Fritz County School Supt., and Dr. Crile of Roswell, delivering splendid addresses. Music was furnished by the Hondo high school glee club. Diplomas were given to 7 graduates, Lupis Chavez, Iva Lawing, Albert Bonnell, Cora Flores, Ewing Kope, Demetrio...

Entertained the Eighth Grade in Novel and Befitting Manner

Last Saturday afternoon, the Eighth Grade Graduates assembled at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Blaney for the purpose of attending a picnic at the Bar W Ranch, being notified in advance that they were to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Spencer.

At about 2 o'clock, a big chuck wagon drove up, decorated in the class colors, red and white and was filled with members of the class, the teacher, Mrs. Blaney, and honor guests, Prof. Helm, Mrs. M. I. Hunt and Miss Marjorie Rolland. Some of the boys rode ponies and every member of the class represented some western character. Some were dressed as cowboys and cowgirls, while others characterized Kit Carson, Big Foot Wallace; others took the roles of Jack Holt, the Vanishing American, Father Becknell of the Santa Fe trade fame, girls represented Lois Wilson, and other female characters seen so often on the screen and little A. N. Spencer assumed the role of Billy the Kid.

Games of various kinds were played during the afternoon and in the shooting contest which was done by cork shooting at bird targets, B. T. Dingwall won the prize, which was a camera. In the character guessing contest, Miss Marjorie Rolland won the prize.

Promptly at 6 o'clock the big chuck wagon was lined up, a campfire started to roast the wienies, after which, the call, "come and get it" was sounded and all present partook of roasted wienies, buns, sandwiches, baked beans, pickles, stewed tomatoes, etc., winding up with ice cream, cake and lemonade. Those present were provided with caps in class colors, red and white. As a fitting finish to a well-spent afternoon and evening, Mrs. Blaney, class, and visitors were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and attended the Ramsay show. Thus ended one of the most novel and interesting picnics Carrizozo has ever seen.

May 19, the high school Juniors presented "Ted Drops In," a comedy in three acts. A large crowd enjoyed the skillfully acted play, each player being a star in his role. Several of the teachers who have been here this year will be back with us next year. Much new equipment will be purchased, the library enlarged and it is hoped that we shall have an even more pleasant...

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Kellogg Curtly Refuses to Discuss Mellon Letter With England.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WHEN Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in a recent letter to President Hibben of Princeton university stated that "all our principal debtors are already receiving from Germany more than enough to pay their debts to the United States," there was immediate protest in England against the accuracy of the statement in so far as it applied to Great Britain. Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill and others made heated speeches, but it was not supposed that the government would take formal notice of the matter. Last week, however, Washington was surprised to receive from Great Britain a long note attacking Mr. Mellon's letter and asking that the United States government "take steps to remove the unfortunate impression that has been created by the issue of this statement."

Secretary of State Kellogg conferred with President Coolidge and others and then handed to the British ambassador this decidedly curt reply:

"The government of the United States regards the correspondence between Mr. Mellon and Mr. Hibben as a purely domestic discussion and does not desire to engage in any formal diplomatic exchanges upon the subject."

Mr. Mellon, believing the attacks in the British note should not go unanswered, gave out a statement justifying and explaining at length the position he has taken in the discussion.

Diplomatic circles in London were as much surprised by the British note as was Washington. In government opposition circles there was an inclination to suspect that the note was meant largely for home consumption and for the benefit of the Conservative party, which has difficulty in explaining the budget deficit.

AMERICAN correspondents in Geneva say that the underlying idea of all delegations (except the American) at the League of Nations economic conference which opened last week is that the most practical step toward world reconstruction and general prosperity would be the cancellation of all war debts and reparations. Some of them also had schemes for the limitation of production of wheat, corn, cotton, copper and other goods, chiefly produced in the United States.

FACTS and problems of commerce and trade on the Western continent were brought out and discussed in Washington where both the third Pan-American commercial congress and the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States were in session. President Coolidge was chief speaker at a joint session of the two bodies and set forth the development of trade between the United States and the countries of Central and South America. He said that not only has the United States purchased more from Latin American countries than it has sold to them, but it had for a long time been the chief foreign purchaser of their products.

Next day the Chamber of Commerce heard reports from the principal sections of the country, all showing present prosperity with prospect of its continuance, except in the case of the farmer. His plight, in the Middle West and the cotton-growing part of the South, was described as discouraging.

FLOOD conditions in southeastern Arkansas, northeastern Louisiana and western Mississippi grew worse steadily during the week. The water, pouring through new crevasses on the Mississippi, inundated a region about 5,000 square miles in extent, only a few narrow ridges being left above the surface. Most of the population already had been gathered at concentration points, but many hundreds were left stranded on the levees and small high places. The rescue of these unfortunates was being carried on as rapidly as possible, being directed by the scores of navy aviators sent there by the government. Civilian Dictator Parker was in general charge of the rescue operations and was doing splendid work. Secretary Hoover returned to Washington long enough to report to the President, and the result was a call for another $5,000,000 subscription to the Red Cross relief fund. The spread of disease in the flooded states was the cause of great anxiety and of such precautions as could be taken.

"We have definite reports of 23 cases of typhoid fever in the refugee camps, and there probably are many others," said Dr. William R. Redden, medical director for the American Red Cross. "And the worst part of the health problem is to come in a week or ten days, when the disease has had an opportunity to manifest itself. The health problem will increase as the waters recede."

A hundred thousand persons were immunized with typhoid and smallpox antitoxin, and the Red Cross obtained from the army ten mobile laboratories for the purification of water.

President Coolidge has indicated that he did not think it necessary to call a special session of congress for providing for relief and rehabilitation in the Mississippi valley. Senators Copeland of New York and La Follette of Wisconsin disagreed with him and both of them appealed to him by wire to call congress together. They asserted that funds from private resources would not be sufficient and that the flood victims were entitled to look to congress for assistance.

When Mr. Hoover returned from the capital he was accompanied by Secretary of War Davis, who was asked by the President to make a comprehensive study of the problem of food control, in conjunction with the army engineers, and to submit recommendations for remedial legislation prior to the opening of the next congress. A food-control conference also was held at Peoria, Ill., with numerous experts and officials in attendance. The people of the Middle West are so aroused by this disaster, described by Senator La Follette as the greatest in our history, that the national and state governments may be led at last to provide adequate protection against a repetition. Patchwork measures and hasty tactics in the past have combined to make unified food control impossible, according to those who have studied the subject. The federal government is held primarily responsible.

NINETY-FOUR men were entombed in the Everett mine near Fairmont, W. Va., by an explosion. At the time of writing 22 bodies had been brought out by the rescue crews, and it was thought certain that all the rest of the unfortunate miners had perished, for fire was raging in parts of the workings.

where most of the liberals are concentrated. "Mr. Stimson told me," said General Moncada, "that the United States government intends to restore peace in Nicaragua immediately and to use force if necessary to do so." A number of the general's staff declared that if the United States formally ordered the liberals to lay down their arms and cease firing, they would be compelled to accept. But, he added, so long as the United States attempted to lay down terms, which included the continuance of Diaz in office, the liberals would fight for "constitutionality and justice for Nicaragua."

MARSHAL CHANG TSO-LIN'S Peking government executed the Chinese Reds caught in the raid on the Russian embassy grounds, and the other day it was reported that the Russian propagandists nabbed at the time were to be tried by court-martial. The Moscow government thereupon transmitted to Peking a strong note warning Chang that if the Russians received the same sentence as the Chinese Communists, Russia would "immediately take the inevitable steps." The trials were postponed and a conference of Chinese officials was held at which, according to rumor, it was decided that the Russians should be deported. Mrs. Michael Borodine, the captured wife of the Soviet adviser to the Cantonese government, presumably will have a separate trial.

Miles Lampson, British minister to China, has reported to his government that the Hankow faction of the Cantonese has offered to oust the Reds and make common cause with the Nanking moderates if the powers will cease further action against it. The offer was made by Foreign Minister Eugene Chen himself, but the London officials were suspicious that it was a ruse to gain further delay. Some persons of persons in Peking, apparently desirous of creating the impression that there was lack of harmony in the American government over its Chinese policy, sent out the report that Minister MacMurray had resigned. This was flatly denied in Washington and the administration showed considerable irritation over this and other false press stories from foreign sources. At present Mr. Coolidge does not see that any advantage could be derived by sending another note concerning the Nanking outrages, and he does not believe the other powers have agreed to follow up the former note and press for compliance because conditions in the ranks of the Nationalist party are too chaotic.

PREMIER POINCARÉ electrified France by the announcement that the government was planning the construction of a vast system of fortifications on its northern and eastern frontiers, so powerful and extensive that another invasion would be next to impossible. The northern gateways will be adequately safeguarded and the eastern gates at Verdun, Toul, Metz, Belfort and Strasbourg will be modernized. The plan also envisages the establishment of fortified works straight south to the Mediterranean.

EIGHT army aviators, the "good will" flyers who have been touring Central and South America, returned last week to Washington. President and Mrs. Coolidge and numerous officials went out to Bolling field to welcome them home, and to each flyer the President presented a certificate for the distinguished flying cross. It was announced, too, that posthumous award of the cross had been made to Capt. C. E. Woolsey and Lieut. J. W. Benton, who were killed when their planes crashed at Buenos Aires.

DETACHMENTS of the Arkansas National Guard were sent to Little Rock by the governor to avert threatened race riots as a result of the lynching of a negro. The victim of the mob had been identified as the attacker of two white women. After a few hours of strenuous work the militiamen gained control of the situation.

POULTRY FACTS

COCCIDIOSIS IS CAUSING LOSSES

Coccidiosis is a parasitic disease of chicks over two weeks old and is causing unnecessarily large losses to poultrymen, states J. J. Black, assistant poultry pathologist, New Jersey agricultural experiment station.

The disease is picked up from contaminated soil or from brooder houses—that have not been properly cleaned. The parasite that causes it may be carried on the feet of attendants or on feeding vessels.

Coccidiosis may be prevented by raising chicks in confinement, using a concrete slab for a run in front of the house, advises Doctor Black. Only new equipment, or that which has been disinfected by a high degree of heat should be used. When a person is entering the poultry house, he should slip on a pair of rubbers kept for that purpose or clean and disinfect his shoes in a box of wood shavings saturated with a pure, coal tar disinfectant.

It has been found that losses from coccidiosis may be checked by cleaning the brooder as soon as disease makes its appearance. A small amount of litter should be used and the brooder cleaned every day for three days and then every third day until losses stop. All visibly affected chicks must be removed and the carcasses of those that die should be burned. It is of great value to keep the floor of the brooder house warm and dry. This prevents the development of the parasite.

California milk mash is advised for feeding. It consists of dry skim milk or dry buttermilk, 40 pounds; wheat bran, 10 pounds; yellow corn meal, 30 pounds; ground barley or rolled oats, 20 pounds.

This mash should be furnished as soon as disease appears. Grain is fed twice daily, but is restricted to one-third the amount of mash consumed. This system of mash and grain feeding is continued as long as there is any indication of the disease. The grain is supplied in the usual manner. The change back to the regular ration is made gradually. All mashes should contain 2 per cent of cod-liver oil.

Where liquid milk is used, all mash and water are withheld, and grain is fed sparingly—a little in the morning and more at night. It is often difficult to get the chicks to consume enough liquid milk, especially if it is not of good quality.

Habits of Guineaes

For some reason the mother guinea does not seem to realize that her little ones are frail creatures, unable to withstand extremes of heat and cold, moisture and long tramps afield. Their habits seem to be about as senseless as their noise, which probably accounts in a large measure for their culture having been neglected. They make their nests in remote places, under hedges, bushes, brush heaps or wheat shocks, and if their nests are disturbed they will move to another place.

Poultry Items

Wood shavings make better poultry nests than hay or straw.

The first of the roosts in the morning and the last to roost at night are the best layers.

This is the season when mites and lice multiply so fast that one of 'em becomes a grandma of hundreds in just a few days.

Poultry should always be fattened before killing. This means better quality, more weight, and a considerably higher price per pound.

For fattening broilers a good ration is made up of seven parts of corn meal by weight, three parts wheat middlings, and one part bran. Wet with milk until it will pour like batter, and feed to the birds in shaded pens.

Mold is one of the commonest troubles in sprouting oats, and moldy feed is dangerous.

Follow directions and handle the incubator correctly if the best hatch of livable chicks is to be secured, say poultry workers.

Hens must eat plenty of mash, if they are to lay their best. Have you made enough hoppers room so that every hen can get their fill? There should be a foot of space for every five or six hens.

Keep the chicks that are raised in a brooder pretty close to the heat during the first three days.

High-priced seeds that produce high yields are cheaper than low-priced seeds that produce low yields.

It takes 21 days for a hen egg to hatch, about 26 days for ducks, from 30 to 34 days for a goose egg, and 28 days for turkey eggs. The time may vary somewhat according to season.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

FARMER COMES TO TOWN

"I wish to buy some stocks and bonds. Nothing speculative. Public utility stuff preferred."

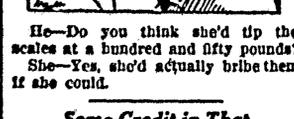

"Aren't you the farmer I boarded with last summer?"

"I am."

"Beg pardon, but last summer you talked dialect."

"That was for the summer boarders, my friend. I am talking finance now."

SHE'D BRIBE THEM

He—Do you think she'd tip the scales at a hundred and fifty pounds? She—Yes, she'd actually bribe them if she could.

Some Credit in That

Boasting is a thing most men despise; But if you have that bent, Better to boast about your rise Than brag of your descent.

Infested

A conversation with an old Dartmouth farmer's wife turned on an empty house in the neighborhood. "I am surprised," said the visitor, "that such a fine place should stand empty so long."

"Ah, sir," replied the old lady, "it's a fine house, but it's festive with rats." —London Tit-Bits.

Considerate

Miss Thirtyodd—Oh, Mr. Blunt, this is so sudden. —Mr. Blunt—I know, but I thought you could stand surprise better than suspense.

Rainous

Mrs. Crawford—Is that all you have left of the beautiful dinner set you got as a wedding present? Mrs. Crabshaw—Yes; the breaks were against me.

Comforting Picture

Vera—I'm going to have the baby's picture taken today. Henry—Have it taken when he's asleep. I'd like to know what he looks like that way.

GOOD FOR EXTRA SHOTS

He—Why does she have all her pins in the form of arrows? She—So that Cupid will have plenty of ammunition, I suppose.

Fear the Band

We have a brand new radio, And folks, 'tis simply grand To turn a little dial or two, And hear a whole string band.

No Chance

Jerry—Saw Bull today. Ted—What did he say? Jerry—Nothing. His wife was with him.

Sidewalk Conversation

"Pardon me, madam," said the polite motorist, "I splashed one of your stockings."

"Would you kindly splash the other one?"

The Danger Signal

"How do you like your efficiency expert?" "Fine! He says I have too much work to do." —Thrill Magazine.

Her Come-Back

He—Now that we are married, perhaps I might venture to point out a few of your little defects. She—Don't bother, dear. I am quite aware of them. It was those little defects that prevented me from getting a much better man than you are.

Enough Said

Mr. Brewster—You had beauty and brains when I married you, Jane. Mrs. Brewster—Well, I had beauty, but I couldn't have had brains, Jane.

Slowing Up?

OVERWORK, worry and lack of rest, all put extra burdens on the kidneys. When the kidneys slow up, waste poisons remain in the blood and are apt to make one languid, tired and aching, with dull headaches, dizziness and often a nagging back-ache.

A common warning of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning secretions. Doan's Pills assist the kidneys in their eliminative work. Are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

Mrs. F. E. Watson, 7 High St., Lynn, Mass., says: "The time came when I found myself in bad health. The kidney medicines were useless and caused me much suffering. My back ached constantly and I had attacks of dizziness. Doan's Pills were prescribed for me and I shall never again be grateful to them."

Time-Saving Way of Tinting

For perfect tinting of dainty underwear, dresses, etc., the easiest way—and by far the best way—is the use of real dye. It tints in cold water, you know; just dip the garment and it takes whatever tinge you wish to give it. A matter of minutes.

Real dyes will get such smooth and even tones as shame the streaky, wishy-washy work of synthetic preparations for the purpose! Diamond dye in original powder form is only fifteen cents at the drug store. To your own diluting. Then dip to tint—and you'll have an effect that's beautiful. And if you want the tint permanent, just use boiling water! Diamond dyes do a perfect, "professional" job of dyeing, too; the drugist has sample shades and simple directions. SUCCESS

By SIDNEY J. DURGOWNE

"As a man thinketh, he is," my friend; So if you would win Success, You must THINK and WORK to that very end, And you'll have Success—no less.

When you are ready, you'll find it there, Waiting outside your door, And you can take just as big a share As you deserve—but no more.

Success doesn't come to those who shrink, It's not at your beck and call— You must add to your "thinking" some darn good work And EARN Success—that's all.

So THINK Success—But don't stop there, Pitch in and work for it, too; There's nothing too great to do and dare To help you "put it through."

If you'll "use your dome" to THINK Success, And your hands and heart and soul To tackle the job and WORK for Success— You're going to reach your goal!

But don't let a thought of failure in, And shut every fear-thought out; For there's one thing sure—no man can win Success through distrust and doubt.

You've got to KNOW you can and will, And value yourself at par Whatever the job you have to fill; AS YOU THINK AND WORK— YOU ARE.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

THE MEASURING WORM

IF YOU are sitting on the piazza of a farmhouse and see one of those little creatures known as the measuring worm looping its way over your clothing, brush it off right away. If you don't you are likely to die before your time—as any country-bred person can tell you. They will probably laugh at the superstition as they recount it, but, nevertheless, watch how quickly they brush off a measuring worm if it gets on them.

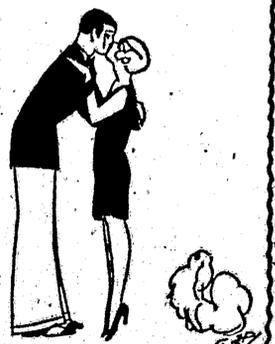

This old superstition arises from that association of ideas with things, so common with our prehistoric ancestors, and so natural to the human mind in all ages—not by any means excepting this age.

The little larva of the geometrical moth has feet only at bow and stern, so when he moves he draws up his hind feet, places them close to his front feet and then sends his front feet on ahead for a fresh foothold; apparently measuring off the person upon whom he crawls in slow and solemn manner.

Why is he making this peculiar motion, so different from the method of locomotion with other worms? The submerged, primitive mind arises from the "unconscious" and answers, "He is measuring out the life of man"; "He is measuring for a shroud." It is useless to argue that he may be measuring you for a new suit of clothes; for the primitive mind's natural tendency is to look on the dark side of things and regard the unusual as the threatening. The writer has heard children cry with awe: "Brush off that measuring worm! If you don't, when he takes his last measure you die."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BONFIRE PARTY

The fairies had really been very busy, but Nick and Nancy enjoyed hearing about them as often as possible.

Around the Bonfire.

"The brownies, you know, love lots of excitement and lots going on all the time.

"They're always happy jumping about and enjoying life.

"So they sent out an invitation to the fairies which read:

"The Brownies of Brownieland request the pleasure of the company of every one of the Fairies of Fairyland to a bonfire party on Thursday evening.

"The Brownies expect no replies, as they expect every fairy will just come."

"The fairies were much excited when they received this invitation.

"The Brownies' parties were always such fun, and a bonfire party—well, that was wonderful!

"The fairies hadn't thought of bonfires somehow for a long time.

"Now, the Fairy Queen said that they would have to arrive at the Brownies' party in some unusual manner, as that would please the Brownies.

"She suggested that they should engage some hopping toads to pull their chariots to the party.

"The fairies thought that was a splendid idea, and they engaged the hopping toads.

"The hopping toads were much honored at being chosen to take the fairies to the Brownies' party.

"When the great big bonfire was lighted the Brownies entertained the fairies by doing a lot of fancy dances around the bonfire.

"The hopping toads were allowed to stay and watch the bonfire, too.

"It was the most beautiful blaze, and how the fairies did love seeing it!

"But of course they were very careful not to go too near the fire.

"After it had died down and only the red embers remained the Brownies sang songs, and the fairies joined in the chorus.

"And then, to the huge amusement of all, what should the hopping toads do but get up and do a special dance of their own!

"They wanted to feel that they were a part of the party, too.

"It was all the fairies could do to say 'good night' when it came time to leave, for they had had the most glorious time at the Brownies' bonfire party, and they thought the Brownies were the most wonderful party givers that ever lived.

"The Brownies were delighted that the fairies had had such a good time and were so pleased, for they thought that it was all a Brownie could ask for—to please the fairies."

A Special Dance.

Half Hour to Go

Uncle John walked into the sunroom as Richard sat on the floor adjusting his mechanical toys.

"Well, Dick, you're a good boy this morning, I hope," said the uncle, cheerily.

"I don't know, Uncle John," answered the boy, doubtfully. "There's half an hour yet."

Dick looked at the clock and saw that it was just half-past eleven.

"Beware, my son, beware!"

"Stay away from Peterman's! It has killed your whole family!"

"DON'T walk through it. Don't smell it. Don't touch it. Go hungry for days first."

She's right. Peterman's Roach Food exterminates every roach in your house. Nothing is left but a little dry dust.

Some housewives make the mistake of fighting cockroaches with spray. Those cockroaches roaches stay in. They live down behind baseboards, under the floors. No spray can possibly reach them, or their young, or their eggs.

Only a powder can exterminate them. Peterman's Roach Food is the right powder. Just one roach gets a little powder on his legs. Back to his nest he goes. He crawls over the others and eggs. Every roach he touches dies and disintegrates.

Here is the right insecticide for each insect:

PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD exterminates cockroaches.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD exterminates ants.

FLYBANE kills flies and mosquitoes.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY exterminates houseflies.

PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD protects against moths.

You must have a specific insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We know that is true. We have had nearly 50 years' experience.

Peterman's has the right insecticide for each insect. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

Vitaglass in Greenhouse

To force an earlier start in his garden this year, W. Kerr Russell, M. D. D. S. of Edinburgh, planted seedlings under vitaglass in his greenhouse. He reported that the vitaglass plants germinated before the others and showed much taller and sturdier growth. Mr. Russell is part author of "Ultra-Violet Radiation and Actinotherapy." He suggests that greenhouses be equipped with vitaglass and that the glass would be especially adaptable in the raising of early strawberries.

Abraham Lincoln has always been our favorite American statesman, but since learning from no less a historical authority than our Mr. McKee himself that James Madison did more than any of our great Americans to introduce and popularize long trousers to take the place of knee breeches, we feel, what with our legs and all, that perhaps we have underestimated this great man's service to his country.—Ohio State Journal.

Popular Denver Woman Recovers from Illness

Amazing Improvement in Mrs. Wells' Health Surprises Friends. Looks better Than Ever. Says Tanlac Deserves Credit

Thousands of Colorado men and women suffering from nervousness and run-down condition and who are facing a life of pain and despair will discover a way to get quick relief in the experience of Mrs. Belle Wells, 3241 W. Gill Place, Denver, whose recovery from a long siege of suffering surprised her closest friends. "If you never feel well and just drag through the days, tired and fagged out; if your stomach rebels at taking food and you spend hours doubled up with pain caused by indigestion; if you are losing weight and feel old—watch out! Get relief before it is too late. "A nervous breakdown caused all my trouble. Indigestion, terrible dizzy spells and being unable to sleep sapped my strength. "Frantically I sought relief. Nothing helped me. Then after reading about Tanlac I tried this wonderful tonic. The first bottle gave me an appetite. Indigestion disappeared. I arose in the morning refreshed, my nerves calmed down and dizzy spells vanished. I took on weight.

"Today, I look younger and feel better than I have in years, thanks to Tanlac. It restored my health. I will never be without this tonic."

Mrs. Wells is only one of thousands who have found relief from pain and gained new strength taking Tanlac which is made from roots, barks and herbs. Heed this advice. Keep well, keep youth and health—take Tanlac.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

ART OF RECUPERATION

THE idea prevails that when one is inclined to lag a bit in one's field of routine duty one needs a season of absolute idleness, as if loading were the open sesame to perfect rest and the fairyland of youthful dreams.

Generally speaking, no thought can be more erroneous and misleading. There is nothing quite so befoggling and injurious to the active mind as a sudden cessation of its energy or curtailment of its habitual effort.

Rest is not to be found in indolence but in a change of activity, where both body and mind perform a new form of work.

When the thinker becomes tired and feels that he cannot proceed another step in the direction he has been so long pursuing, he is in need of change in his mental environment, where he will encounter new thoughts in new settings.

The brain requires a new diet, a savory dish of some sort which will be easily digested and leave a pleasant taste.

Frequently a radical change in reading will work this transformation in a day or two, and rekindle the slumbering fire from live embers hidden in the ashes.

If you are worn out in the tiresome chase of letters, turn while to figures, where you are compelled by the mere novelty of the change to conjure up some long-forgotten rule in algebra. Should that fail to satisfy, take a peep into the body of your old Latin reader, or dip into astronomy, where you are forced to think in new dimensions and move out into the immeasurable vastness of which our own little globe is but a speck no larger than a grain of mustard seed.

In a little while you will find that this novel operation of the mind gives rest to your thinking faculties, broadens your vision, refreshes and strengthens your whole being.

Life assumes a new meaning. The dull skies become golden and glad-some. Browning faces wear winsome smiles, and in the very joy of your new existence you go back to your old, dry humdrum work, which in some way realizes that you are the master to whom it must yield in the future with utmost complacency.

Mother's Cook Book

In a sense, love is everything. It is the key to life, and its influences are those that move the world. Live only in the thought of love for all and you will draw love to you from all. Live in the thought of malice and hatred and malice and hatred will come back to you.—Trina.

MILK DISHES

MILK, the best of all foods for children, is always a good foundation for any number of desserts, wholesome alike for old and young, and for those of weakened digestion.

A smooth, good custard is made by using a pint of milk with two eggs, adding a pinch of salt and such flavoring as suits the taste. If one wishes a custard thick enough to mold, add three to four eggs to a pint of milk. The more egg the more nutriment, so it is a dish to be recommended for those who would be built up.

Baked Custard.

Beat four eggs slightly, add a half cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, a half teaspoonful of grated nutmeg or cinnamon, and one quart of milk. Set into the oven in a pan of water and bake until firm enough to cut with a knife, and the knife comes out clean. Overcooking will curdle or coarsen the custard, making it less digestible and far less attractive in appearance. A perfect custard should be as smooth and even grained as cream. Remember to remove the custards from the water pan when taken from the oven, or they will continue to cook in the hot water. Set into cold water to chill and serve well chilled.

Ginger Custard.

Line buttered custard cups with strips of Canton ginger, then pour in carefully a thick custard, using four eggs, a pint of milk, one-third of a cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt and two teaspoonfuls of the ginger strip. Lacking the strip, flavor to taste with orange or lemon. Beat the eggs very slightly, add sugar, salt, milk and flavoring, then strain into molds. Set into hot water and bake until firm. Serve with a spoonful of the strip over the top of each.

Caramel Custard.

This is a custard which is particularly well liked. It may be made by adding the caramel (melted sugar until brown) to the custard prepared as above or the sugar may be browned and poured into the molds; have them hot and turn until the bottom and sides are well coated with the caramel, then turn in the custard and bake as usual. As it is well to remember that caramelizing sugar destroys some of its sweetness, more sugar should be used than is usual.

Do You Know That?

THE expression "A little bird told me" is based on the popular idea that the bird from its point of vantage in the upper air found out all sorts of strange and mystical things and then revealed them to those who understood. This is a very old idea and we even read of it in the Bible, Ecc. 10:20: "Curse not the King, nor in thy thought; and curse not the rich in thy backsliding; for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter."—Anna S. The Community Spirit

As an example of what the Carrizozo community spirit really is, one need but take a glance at the names and amounts subscribed in stock to cover the indebtedness of $3,500 which rested on the Community Hall before Mr. Brickley of the First National Bank took the same into his charge and gave the citizens an opportunity to take shares.

In the short space of one week's time, the entire amount has been taken up and in fact, it is over-subscribed. Mr. Brickley made no effort to get this money together, other than to make the announcement that the same was open and the people whose names appear in the list, did what is shown, of their own free will and accord.

We have sometimes heard it said that the people of Carrizozo were ungrateful, that there was a lack of proper community spirit, that they catered to things of other places rather than to support matters in their home town, but this and countless other things could be mentioned that would prove such statements to be without a shadow of foundation.

Now, the Community Hall matter is on a solid foundation and will soon pay for itself with the revenues coming in from the different entertainments which will be held there. Moreover, every citizen has had a chance to become one of the stockholders, as long as the list was open. Neither would Mr. Brickley allow one or a few to take up the amount, but in deference to the people as a whole, no amount larger than $500 was allowed to be subscribed by one person. Thus, is the community spirit still with us and may it ever remain.

Firestone Dealers

Have Purchased 100% More GUM-DIPPED TIRES

(This Year Compared With Same Period Last Year)

THE demand from car owners for Gum-Dipped Tires has given Firestone Dealers a large increase in volume enabling them to sell these tires to you at the lowest prices in history.

On the cars of motorists everywhere, these wonderful tires are delivering unheard-of long mileage with greater safety and comfort.

The Firestone Balloon Tread, scientifically designed three years ago, and unchanged today, follows the contour of the tire carcass with no excess rubber at the edges to cause "shoulder breaks". Narrow rider strips permit the tread to yield to depressions and cling to the road, preventing skidding. This tough, pliable tread has the wear-resisting qualities for thousands of extra miles.

Such a tread must be placed on a carcass with the qualifications to withstand the terrific flexing that this design permits. The Firestone carcass is made of cords dipped in a rubber solution which not only saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord, but unifies sidewalls with carcass, avoiding separation under the extreme flexing.

Many Firestone Dealers are prepared to offer you a liberal allowance for your old tires, on a new set of Gum-Dipped Tires to start the motoring season.

To meet a demand for a low price tire and tube, Firestone designed and manufactures, for Firestone Dealers only, Oldfield Tires and Tubes, which carry the Standard Manufacturers' Guarantee.

TWO WOMEN FOUND HELP

Their Sickness Banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Nina Matteson, Box 205, Oxford, N. Y., writes: "If it had not been for your medicine, I could not have done my work as it should have been done. Mother told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had read in different papers what it had done for different women. She wanted me to try it. I bought a bottle at first; then I bought two others. Now I am feeling quite strong again."

Mrs. Ernest Tanguay of Adams, Mass., says she was ill for four years and could not sleep nights or go out on the street. She read about the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking eight bottles she was able to do all her work and go anywhere and is quite herself again.

This dependable Vegetable Compound is a household word in thousands of homes. The fourth generation is now learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than half a century, this reliable medicine has been used by women with very satisfactory results. If the Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

Heals Eczema in 7 Days or Less Or Your Money Back

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used. Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers that are discharging are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped, the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles. You can obtain Moore's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. Your druggist can supply you at any time.

Cleansing Mercury
The bureau of standards says that a simple way to remove dirt from mercury is to shake the mercury vigorously with some cane sugar, after which the metal is filtered off through a pinhole in the bottom of a paper cone. The whole operation may be repeated if necessary. Instead of filtering through a pinhole, the mercury may be squeezed through several thicknesses of cloth.

STORY FROM THE START

John Selwood, gentleman gambler and manager of a stage line at Sleepy Cat, comes upon a settler whose wagon has mired in a creek. He helps get the outfit clear, after picking up a girl's shoe and seeing and being attracted by the supposed owner thereof in Fyler's (the settler's) wagon. Moses McCracken, a youth, is robbing $500 in a Sleepy Cat gambling den. Selwood forces the swindlers, Bartoo and Atkins, to return the money. Fyler opens a dry goods store, with "Big Haynes" running a mock auction of worthless goods in the place. Selwood learns the girl whose shoe he picked up is Christie, Fyler's daughter. Selwood makes Christie's acquaintance and warns Fyler that Atkins is a crook. The storekeeper refuses to believe it. Starbuck, attracted, tries to ingratiate himself with Christie. The girl's mind is poisoned against Selwood. Fyler is beaten and robbed. Christie, seeking Doctor Carpy, meets Selwood and informs him that Atkins has thrown her father out of his store, claiming to own it. Fyler is not badly hurt.

"He'll be pretty sore tomorrow morning. But that won't mean anything. Did Starbuck get those fellows out of the store for you?" Little escaped Selwood. She turned her face quickly to one side. "No," she said, looking down, "he did not."

"What's the matter?" "I—" "Well?" "I'm afraid I can't explain. I only wish—she spoke from the heart—I might never see him again!" "Well," exclaimed Selwood, "if that's the situation I won't ask any more questions. So be wouldn't do anything?" "No," blurted out Christie, now angry at the recollection, "not unless—"

"Unless what?" She clasped her hands. "Unless I'd do something I refused to do—"

An explosive, like a pistol-shot, escaped the listener. "I promised to ask no more questions," said Selwood, but I've got to ask just one. Is he fit to live—or isn't he?"

"Frightened, she looked up. 'I'm making it worse and worse—I didn't mean to—please don't be so terribly angry. I see I must say what I hoped I might escape—he said he would help father—if I would marry him!'" Selwood did not laugh. His distress was too evident. "And you refused?" was all he said. "What did your father say?"

Christie changed the subject instantly. "Wherever we go we couldn't find a kinder friend—father said this morning. It's when trouble comes that real friends count. And your influence would be good on father." Selwood started a little. "I'm so afraid now of his running with these awful gamblers, down in River street." Selwood looked away. Christie spoke on very seriously; "Of all men in the world I think gamblers are meanest—don't you?"

Selwood coughed. "To tell the truth," he said simply, "I never thought much about it. But," he added, pausing, "I guess maybe you're right. I'll be going. You'll remember to do just as I've told you? And please don't say anything whatever to your father about the matter till it's all over."

They walked together to the tent, then he turned his steps, reflectively, up-street in the direction of Fyler's store building; this he sauntered circumspically about, inspecting each side with deliberate care and walking away from it thoughtfully. It looked like a hard nut to crack. He walked thence to the hotel, went upstairs, followed the narrow, low corridor to his room, unlocked the door, and went in. He lighted a lamp, adjusted the wick and the shade, and sat down on the side of his shabby bed. On the wall opposite him hung a framed woodcut of a missionary padre. In the silence Selwood looked long and thoughtfully at the old print. A cloud had long hung over the story of his own life, a cloud that Selwood had always felt might possibly be lifted by this old man—if he were yet alive. The uncertainty of this was one reason that helped to paralyze Selwood's resolve to find him.

Tonight the gambler acted with his natural determination. He rose, took the picture from the wall, turned down the wick of the lamp, blew it out, and with the woodcut under his arm, returned to the hall. Carrying the picture to his office, he wrote and painted on a sheet of paper a sign and, returning to the hall, hung the picture on the wall beside his desk—about the most conspicuous place in the room. Underneath the picture he tacked the written sign:

For reliable information as to the whereabouts of this old padre I will pay one hundred ounces of gold dust.

Bill Pardaloe watched him put the portrait up. He read the sign haltingly at least twice before he turned to ask a question. "Where is he?" "If he's alive," answered Selwood, "he's wandering somewhere around the mountain country among the Indians."

Pardaloe studied again the features of the long-haired old man in the print. "Won't any other padre do?" he snorted, picturing to his imagination the good times latent in one hundred ounces of gold dust. "No other padre," said Selwood unfeelingly. "Will do."

"What do you want with him?" demanded Pardaloe. The answer was prompt and decisive. "That's my business. Get hold of Bob Scott, Bill, and bring him to here."

For ten years John Selwood had wanted to meet—yet lived in a certain dread of meeting—this padre; he had finally resolved to face him and, if it must come, to know the worst. Other frontiersmen, drawn by Pardaloe's talk, crowded up to look at the picture. Selwood rid himself of the first rush of questioners and retired to his room, with Pardaloe, who had reappeared, bringing Scott. "There's been a mean deal put over this trader, Fyler," Selwood began, addressing both men. He told them the facts in the case, about which they had already heard the town talk. "And after robbing him of his stock of goods," continued Selwood, "they called him out of his tent, knocked him on the head, and took all his money, to make things easy for themselves. Fyler's girl is an innocent sufferer. Now this is what I called you both in for. I'm going to clean those fellows out of Fyler's store tonight. Will need some help. Do you two want to join me? There'll be a fight. Take it or leave it, just as you like—no harm done either way."

Scott ventured an amiable inquiry—he was, after all, the more prudent of the two adventurers—that Selwood had called to his aid. "What kind of firearms have them fellows got in there?"

"Atkins is a little dangerous," said Selwood, for he felt he must be reasonably honest. "It's no use denying, Atkins is handy with a Colt's. Bartoo carries a bottle. He may not wake up until it's half over. He and Big Haynes use shotguns. They're as likely to hit each other as to hit us. What do you say?"

Pardaloe was ready. "I'll take the old gun along," he mused in cheerful anticipation. Selwood was firm. "No artillery on this job."

Pardaloe protested with some violence. Selwood overbore him, threatening that if he persisted he should be left wholly out of the venture. "I'll meet you at the barn at twelve," said Selwood finally. "See Abe Cole, Bill and get a sledge-hammer. I'll bring a couple of axes from the barn. By the way," he added, "here's something I want you two to do before you go."

The three men passed unnoticed through the hall, and Selwood stopped them outside. He pointed to the big sign over the wide doorway:

One Man Carried Three Common Axes.

good advertising to lose. "Well," he continued with an acid touch, "I'm advertised! Everybody along the Mountain divide knows I'm a gambler. Why advertise if any longer?" "Yes," growled Pardaloe, "they know you're a gambler. But if you haul down your sign how's everybody going to know where to find you?" he demanded triumphantly.

"Better for some of 'em if they didn't find me," retorted Selwood indifferently. "Stop your talk, dash it. Bring out the ladder and pull down the sign."

CHAPTER VII

An Early Morning Party
Filling in for one of his men, Selwood sat dealing at the large faro table near his desk. It was two hours since he had left Christie. In that interval she had had another visitor at the tent. Her father had already awakened, when Christie was called to the tent door by a voice and, looking cautiously out, saw Starbuck standing in the moonlight. "I didn't want you to think I went away with any hard feelings," he said, explaining himself calmly to Christie and throwing into his words that touch of sympathy and interest that was always able to summon Christie listened with reluctance. But as her father was at no loss for words, he was soon heard by her father, who, raising his voice, called him, over Christie's protest, into the tent.

He marched with dignity out of the tent. Fyler kept up a weak fire of reproach. Christie was used to such things on more subjects than one, and only continued to listen silently. What thoughts were in her mind, her father, least of all, could have surmised. She gave him some refreshment presently, and he fell into an uneasy sleep. That moment seemed to rouse her from her apathy and signalize her resolve.

She rose cautiously but hurriedly, she carefully lowered the wick of the lantern, blew out the light, and stepped with as little noise as possible to the tent door. Wrapping herself in her shawl, and winding her scarf about her head and neck, she pushed open the fly and stood alone out in the moonlight.

Once started, Christie did not hesitate. She walked swiftly along the street, hardly knowing which way to look in her quest, but determined to follow it. The only place where she hoped she might make a successful inquiry was at the big barn; and toward this she directed her steps.

She was being trailed, though she did not realize it. Believing herself unobserved and unseen, she pursued her course, and it was only when Bob Scott stepped out of a shadow in front of her that she was frightened.

"Were you looking for somebody, lady?" he asked. Christie jumped, but Scott's inoffensive manner reassured her. She had seen him in company with Selwood at the store, and some instinct told her he meant no harm.

"I am looking for some one," "Who is it?" "He's the superintendent of the freighting line."

"I guess I know who you mean. He was down to see your father tonight." "Oh, she cried in confusion. "I don't mean Mr. Starbuck."

Scott was confident. "I don't, either. You mean John Selwood. If you do want to see him, I think I can find him. But I'll have to be gone a few minutes. Now, here's the barn"—he pointed to the big structure close at hand. "If you'd walk down with me and wait a few minutes in the office, I'll have him here."

Still in fear and trembling, Christie accompanied her guide to the barn office. Two formidable-looking dogs rushed to the door as Scott opened it. Admonishing them, he turned with a quiet grin. A lighted lantern on the desk revealed the interior to Christie. "If you can sit here for five minutes," said Scott, "these dogs will guard you better than anybody in Sleepy Cat could do it. Just get them a little." Christie made friends cautiously with the two dogs. "We call one Choo," explained Scott, "and this is Sweetheart. They're Mr. Selwood's favorite wagon dogs—half bull and half mastiff—and if anybody tries to come into this office while I'm gone, they'll eat 'em up. Are you willing to wait with them?"

found you. Are you in business here, Mr. Selwood?" "Why—yes." "What is it, may I ask?" He answered haltingly—glad it was dark. "Well, I'm mixed up in different kinds of business here—that's what got me into trouble with your father." He spoke with a laugh—or tried to. "I run this Russell and Wentworth freighting outfit," he continued. "I suppose if I called myself anything, it might be a mining man. What has happened?"

She was so confused and overcome now that she could hardly summon the words she wanted. "Nothing has happened. I feared what might happen—tonight. You didn't tell me," she ventured, "just what you were going to do about the store?" Then she added, disconnectedly, "Mr. Starbuck came over again."

Selwood looked keenly at her. "What did he want?" "First he said," she began brokenly, "he wanted to turn the store back to father."

"Was that all?" "No." "What else?" "If—what?" "The same condition he named before."

"If you'd marry him, eh?" "Yes." "Well, what did you say?" "I said—what I said before. Then he made a threat. He said that anybody who went near the store without him would get killed."

"And you wanted to let me know?" She fingered the fringe of her scarf, but looked steadily at him. "To be careful," she said. He took her back to the tent and parted with her, hard as it seemed to do, at the fly. "Why did you want to warn me?" he asked. "To repay your kindness." They spoke in low tones.

"Well," Selwood said lightly, "if I get hurt, you'll know it was while I was trying to follow your advice." He was still laughing as she slipped hurriedly into the tent. Shortly after three o'clock that morning two men with the barest of shifts for disguise, and followed by two dogs, whining and leaping at their heels, left the stage barn. One man carried three common axes, of the heavy type used in the tie camps along the river; the other carried a sledge of a size and weight that would have rendered it useless in the hands of an ordinary man. But Pardaloe, Scott, and their companion in the adventure were not ordinary men; the first was a giant in physique, the second dangerous in encounter, and the third fertile in resource.

As the two men neared Fort street, Selwood, stepping out of the shadow of the building, joined them. He wore like the others, a bandanna tied with little ceremony across his nose; a flat wagoner's hat shaded his eyes. "You brought the right dogs?" asked Selwood, looking at them. "I did," muttered Pardaloe, as Choo and her mate taggled themselves up between his legs. "In any one of 'em gets killed, somebody's got to get dumped right down on the rock pile along with 'em."

Fort street was quiet as a graveyard—not a soul was stirring and the party reached the store unobserved. They halted in the shadow thrown on the north side of the low building. Selwood tiptoed to the corner and inspected the front doors—they looked substantial. The whole front was exposed to the blaze of the moonlight, and it appeared like suicide to attempt a forcible entry. Every aperture, he well knew, was barred or nailed and would give only before a determined assault.

Men of Genius Who Shied at Matrimony

Sir Joshua Reynolds, the portrait painter, lived and died a bachelor, although he had a very trying sister to keep house for him. Yet he was the most companionable of men. He was said to be in love with Angelica Kauffmann, the beautiful Royal Academician, but there is no proof of this.

Turner was another artist bachelor. He had an unfortunate love affair in his early youth which probably embittered his whole life. Yet another bachelor artist was Sir Thomas Lawrence. Many women thought he was in love with them because he was so charming, but he always stopped short of matrimony. Handel, composer of "The Messiah," remained a bachelor to the end. He had two love affairs. The parents of his first love made the stipulation that he should give up composing music. Handel seems to have preferred music to a bride. A second love affair followed the same course—London Tit-Bits.

Blackened Character

The city of Pueblo, Colo., is on account of its smelting and refining works, one of the smokiest cities in the world. One winter a traveler stepped from a train at Denver, and walking up to a policeman, asked him the way to a certain hotel. The officer cast a scornful eye on the man, who was covered with soot and grime, so that he looked like a chimney sweep, and ironically inquired of the stranger if he were a coal miner.

"No," said the dirty one, "I am not a coal miner nor a charcoal burner. Neither am I in the coal business. More than that, I am not a negro minstrel."

Hard to Place Derivation

The derivation of the word "cafeteria" is obscure. It comes from the same root as the French word "trafic," which means "coffee," but is used to mean "restaurant." The Italian word, "caffeteria" is applied to a coffee-pot, a coffee shop or the proprietor of such a shop. The term "cafeteria" was first applied to a self-service cafe in Chicago by a man from New Mexico, so it is said, although this term of restaurant originated in Los Angeles in 1905, when Miss Helen K. Mosher made the experiment.

Many Married in Cave

Twenty-six marriages have been performed in the Lary caverns of Virginia, according to the Dispatch Independent.

CHIC BLACK AND WHITE EFFECTS; CUTE GINGHAM ROMPER SUITS

Reverse the order of black-and-white and you have white-and-black. The mode is doing just that.

Adorable for summer frocks are the white-with-black georgettes printed in entrancing floral patterns.

Cuffs are elaborately black embroidered, or later still, beaded; hats of white violets or for mid-summer, the transparent black or white wide brimmed capeline—these are all included in fashion's white-with-black program.

A modern playground, where children of the well-to-do are wont to congregate presents rather an appearance of a Lilliputian style-show, with miniature mannikins all "dotted up" in fetching frocks and rompers, with cunning socks to match and amusing little sweaters, or perhaps a protecting capote, with possibly a hat other, it will be because the designer preferred to work out the combination by using black as a trimming on white.

A fascinating effect results when the hemline is embellished (see the figure to the left) with myriads of hem-attached black chiffon petals piled one upon another, so that when milady steps her frock expresses a very "poetry of motion."

Even their little tin dolls and shovels, their jumping ropes, dangle 'n' everything seem selected from the standpoint of fitting into the color scheme.

Mother does not say any more of her child's simple play frock: "I'll just run it together in a hurry." She goes about her sewing preparedly—seeks the latest patterns, studies up on newest embroidery and applique ideas. As to choosing materials, that is the most important thing of all.

SOUTH-WEST NEWS NOTES

The Lake Pleasant dam project, which will irrigate 29,000 acres of land along the Agua Fria river, will be completed September 1.

Horticulturists from all parts of Arizona and from adjoining states attended the annual meeting of the State Horticultural Society held in Phoenix.

The resignation of A. M. Morris as superintendent of Bunker Hill mines at Tombstone has been announced. He will be succeeded by F. H. Soderstrom of Bisbee.

More than a score of government officials attended the first official conference of the recently appointed federal Colorado river commission, which convened in Yuma last week.

Home training courses for teachers of rural schools will be given by the Flagstaff Teachers' College in cooperation with the State Department of vocational training from June 20 to July 22.

There will be no special session of the Arizona Legislature until the first Monday in January, 1929, Governor Hunt told newspaper men in Nogales, when questioned regarding the calling of a special session.

Eleven thousand tons of structural steel will be unloaded at Flagstaff, Ariz., freight depot during the construction of Lee's Ferry bridge, according to estimates of State Bridge Foreman M. H. Hasler.

Sheepmen of southeastern New Mexico will raise 85 per cent of their lambs this year unless conditions now unforeseen transpire within the next few weeks, according to veteran stockmen of this section.

Operations of an alleged counterfeiting gang were said to have been brought to an end with the arrest of Jose Arminger in Tucson by Sheriff Jim McDonald and a United States secret service operative.

The spring wool clip of both whites and Indians in northwest New Mexico is said to be larger than usual. Buyers are paying 28 to 30 cents, and it is said that these prices will rule on contracts for fall delivery.

Approximately one thousand high school students of the state gathered on the campus of the University of Arizona, at Tucson, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 5-7, for the thirteenth annual University Week program.

Endowment of a foundation for a college under the Jesuit order of the Catholic Church, to be erected on North Central avenue as soon as architect's plans are completed and approved, was announced in Phoenix recently by Mrs. Ellen A. Brophy. The initial endowment by Mrs. Brophy will be $250,000, and the prominent church woman has also provided a 25-acre site for the college.

More than 23,800 predatory animals, including wolves, lions, bears, coyotes, bobcats, foxes and jaguars, have been killed in Arizona by state and government hunters and co-operative stock men since October 1, 1918, when the supervision of the United States Biological Survey first replaced the old bounty system, which was more expensive and less successful, according to a report of the Arizona Cattle Growers' Association.

Warron McArthur, Jr., was elected president of the Arizona Pageantry Association at a meeting of the group held in Phoenix for the purpose of electing officers and appointing directors. Other officers chosen are Russell P. Kyle, vice president; Perry Williams, treasurer; P. G. Spillbury, secretary, and Mrs. Thomas McRae, director extraordinary. The Pageantry Association will be in charge of the annual state-wide historic pageant to be held at the Casa Grande ruins early in November.

That the reward offered by the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' Association for information leading to the arrest and conviction of cattle or horse thieves has proved effective was the declaration of T. P. Talle, president of the state association in an interview given out in Las Vegas. During the last annual convention of the association members in Albuquerque, a reward of $250 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of cattle thieves was posted by the association.

A special dispatch to the Santa Fe New Mexican from County Treasurer Robert S. Blatchford of Catron county states that $500 has been contributed by citizens of that county to be used in fighting the Rio Grande county bill of the last legislature in the courts. This bill, which was passed by both houses of the legislature and signed by the governor, abolished Catron county and distributed its territory between Socorro and Grant counties. Attorney General Robert C. How has already contended that it was unconstitutional, in an opinion.

Preparations are nearing completion for the extension of the Ute Park branch of the Santa Fe railroad into the Moreno valley, a rich mountain farming district of Colfax county, which is noted particularly for its head lettuce production.

Remarkably good ore has been struck on the property of the Hassayampa Gold Mining Company, which is located fifteen miles east of Kirikland and one and a half miles southeast of the ground of the big operations in that district of the Arizona Metals, Inc., according to Prescott reports.

Lesson for May 22

PETER HEALS THE LAME MAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—Neither is there salvation in any other for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.—Acts 4:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Heals a Lame Man. JUNIOR TOPIC—Gifts That Money Cannot Buy. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Giving Our Best for Others. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Gifts That Are Better Than Money.

1. Peter Healing the Lame Man (Acts 3:1-10).

1. The place (vv. 1, 2). Peter and John were on their way to the house of worship. This man had been placed at the entrance of the place of worship where he might receive the sympathetic attention of worshippers.

2. The man (v. 2). This beggar was infirm from his birth. He was now more than forty years old (4:22) and had brought his ailment with him into the world. When he saw Peter and John he asked alms.

3. The method (vv. 3-5). (1) The man's attention gained (v. 4). Peter and John commanded him to look on them.

(2) Peter commanded him in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth to rise and walk (v. 6).

(3) Peter took him by the right hand (v. 7).

This was meant to give impetus to his faith—not strength to his ankles.

4. The man's response (v. 8). Strength came to his feet and ankles; he leaped and shouted praises to God.

5. The effect (vv. 9-11). The people were so filled with wonder and amazement that they ran together to behold this wonderful thing.

(1) This helpless beggar had to be carried to the temple gate. Men and women out of Christ are so helpless that they need to be brought where the light of God can be applied to them.

(2) Peter taking the man by the hand shows the manner of helping the lost.

(3) Peter Witnessing Before the Multitude (2:12-20).

Though this miracle directed the attention of the people to Peter and John, Peter immediately turned their attention from himself to Christ. He told them that it was faith in Jesus Christ whom God had glorified and whom they had deliberately betrayed and crucified that had healed this man.

(4) Peter in Prison for Christ's Sake (4:1-4).

It was his fidelity to Christ that brought him this persecution. Observe: 1. The leaders—priests and Sadducees—in this persecution (v. 1, 2).

The priests were intolerant because these new teachers were encroaching upon their functions.

2. The result (vv. 3, 4). Though they were held in bondage by chains, Christ continued to work. The number of believers had greatly increased.

(5) Peter Witnessing Before the Sanhedrin (4:5-21).

1. The inquiry (vv. 5-7). This inquiry admitted the reality of the miracle. They wanted to know what it signified.

2. Peter's answer (vv. 8-12). Being filled with the Holy Spirit, Peter calmly and graciously answered. He showed them that they were not on trial as evildoers but for doing good to the helpless and needy man.

Since they could not deny the miracle he boldly declared that it had been done in the name of Jesus Christ whom they had crucified and God had raised from the dead.

3. The impression upon the Sanhedrin (vv. 13-22).

(1) They marveled (vv. 1-13). They saw that Peter's behavior and words were as unusual as the miracle.

(2) They took knowledge that Peter and John had been with Jesus (v. 13).

(3) They forbade them to speak in Christ's name (v. 18).

(4) Peter and John's reply (vv. 19, 20).

They expressed their determination to obey God rather than men.

(5) Their release (v. 21). Seeing the people were on their side, there was no way to punish them.

(6) The Church at Prayer (vv. 23-31). As soon as Peter and John were set free, they hastened away to their fellow disciples and told them their experience. They praised God for deliverance and prayed for boldness to speak the Word of God.

DIXIE COW BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Red Lady is Record Breaker.

Red Lady, a pure-bred Jersey cow, has just completed the highest dairy record ever made by any cow south of the Mason and Dixon line. This cow yielded 1,028.51 lbs of butterfat and 10,008 lbs of milk in an official 365-day test. This great record follows one in which Red Lady produced 800.24 lbs. of butterfat and 17,105 lbs. of milk in 365 days.

Mr. R. L. Shuford of Newton, N. C. is the breeder and owner of this remarkable cow. Mr. Shuford's daughter is shown holding the animal.

Both Red Lady and her sire, Oakwood D's Fox, have won the solid gold Medal of Merit, the highest award that is offered by the American Jersey Cattle club.

Good Qualities of Iogold Oat

Plant Resulted From Single Specimen of Kherson Selected at Ames, Iowa.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A new selection of the Kherson oat is being distributed for the first time this season to Iowa farmers under the name of Iogold. It was developed in the co-operative experiments of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station. Iogold resulted from a single plant of Kherson selected by Prof. L. C. Burnett at Ames, Iowa, in 1900. After being tested in nursery experiments for a few years it was considered of sufficient promise for advancement to the plant experiments, where it has been grown continuously to date.

Outstanding Characters. The outstanding characters of Iogold are high yielding power, stiffness of straw, and resistance to stem rust of oats. The average acre yield of Iogold is 65.3 bushels as compared with 64.3 bushels for Iowar, in the nine years for which comparable data are available. In comparison with other important varieties developed in the co-operative experiments, it resists lodging as well or better than the Richland (Iowa No. 105), although 3 or 4 inches taller, and is the equal of Iowar in yielding power. In the severe stem rust epidemic of 1920, it showed less than 2 per cent of rust infection, whereas most other varieties showed from 80 to 100 per cent of infection. For growing on land where lodging and rust usually affect oats, it is believed that Iogold will prove superior in ability to stand up and produce a high average yield. Among 21 varieties of oats grown in a uniform oat rust nursery in 1920 at approximately 60 experiment stations in the United States and Canada, Iogold showed the highest degree of rust resistance of all varieties.

Produced for Purpose. Iogold was produced for a special purpose. Richland has been a very satisfactory variety for low, rich soils, where taller varieties frequently lodge, and where rust usually occurs. However, it has not been altogether satisfactory on the uplands, especially on the more worn and thinner soils where it has been entirely too short in the straw for convenient harvesting with a grain binder. The Iogold has been bred particularly to replace Richland under these conditions. It also produces an excellent quality of grain. The kernel is slightly plumper than that of the Richland. Iogold is the result of 20 years of breeding, and should prove one of the most valuable of the improved varieties developed by the Iowa agricultural experiment station in co-operation with the bureau of plant industry of the Department of Agriculture. There may be some slight objection to the yellow color of Iogold, but as oats are consumed largely on farms, the color is not especially objectionable.

Proper Feed for Brood Sows Before Farrowing

Proper feed before and after farrowing will have a great deal of effect upon the size and vigor of the litters raised this spring. A good deal of care should be taken not to make the ration too fattening. It would be better if there was no corn in the ration. However, this would not be economical on most farms; so as much as one-third of the grain ration may be corn if necessary. The remainder may consist of ground oats and middlings or bran. A small amount of linseed oil meal will help. All grain should be ground if not too expensive, as it will be found cheapest in the long run. Besides the grain the brood sow should have some kind of roughage.

Most Profitable Plan to Sow Spinach in Rows

While old-fashioned gardeners always broadcast the spinach seed, it is much better to sow it in rows, thin it and give the individual plant a chance to develop. It will give much finer leaves much more quickly. Plant some of the "long-standing" types now offered by the best seed houses. The Danes, who provide much of our best garden seed, have developed spinach and the King of Denmark type was the forerunner of other fine European spinaches that have made it practically a new vegetable. Then, too, varieties have been developed that stand the heat better than the old-timers.

Agricultural Facts

Try gas on ground hogs.

At present 60 per cent of a tree is wasted in its conversion into lumber.

Plant lima beans on your poorest ground.

Mangels should be sown about the same time as early corn.

The largest share of the eggs received in New York city come from the corn belt, where farm flocks predominate instead of commercial flocks.

One of the most profitable forms of permanent improvement on a farm is to drain the low, wet places in otherwise tillable fields.

In order to avoid injury to the breeding ewes at this time of the year, it is an established practice among shepherds to remove the ram from the flock.

PERSONALS

Henry Lutz, Sr., arrived home last Friday from Chaves county, where he had been doing clerical work for the State Highway Commission. Work has been temporarily suspended until June 1, after which time, there will be a resumption of work and renewed activity will be noticeable all over the state. Mr. Lutz will remain at home until that time.

W. H. Broadus, Optometrist, came in according to his announcement and after enjoying a good practise in fitting glasses, left for Corona, to fill his dates there Friday and Saturday.

Road Foreman (has F. Grey having finished the reconstruction and surfacing the highway between here and Corona, leveled up the streets of Carrizozo and took machines to Tularosa and is coming this way with reconstruction and surfacing the highway between that place and Carrizozo.

Mrs. J. E. Farley and granddaughter, Virginia, (Ginger) arrived home Tuesday from Redonda Beach, Calif., where they visited for a week with the I. D. Baker family. They had a pleasant visit and "Ginger" lost sight of nothing of importance on the trip.

After Road Foreman Grey and his helpers graded down the humps and bumps of the principal streets, Mayor McQuillen had the fire hose on the streets where the grading had been done to settle the dust. Thanks, Mac, your act was much appreciated.

Miss Alene Thompson, teacher of music, will leave the latter part of next week to attend the summer term at the American Conservatory of Music at Chicago.

Mrs. Marie Keeler will leave shortly to join Mr. Keeler at Houston, Texas, where she will spend the vacation period, after which she will teach in the Houston high school, at which institution she has signed a contract for the fall and winter term.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ferguson were here from their home on the Nogal-Mesa, the latter part of the week. Billy is going to have a good crop of apples this year and plenty of good vegetables. The more delicate fruit, such as peaches, apricots, etc., were all caught by the late frost.

Mrs. Gregorio Pino and sister-in-law, Mrs. Beatrice Gallegos were White Oaks visitors yesterday, returning home in the afternoon.

"That's One on Bill" was staged at the Crystal Theatre Monday night by the Senior Class of the Carrizozo High School and with all due credit to class plays of the past, it must be said that the parts were taken in nearest to professional accuracy of any seen before local gatherings. As a verification of this, a certain professional man, who visits our town each month, made the unsolicited remark, that the play was given in the best manner of any local talent he had ever heard in the many cities he had visited.
