Veteran Railroad Man Passes Away

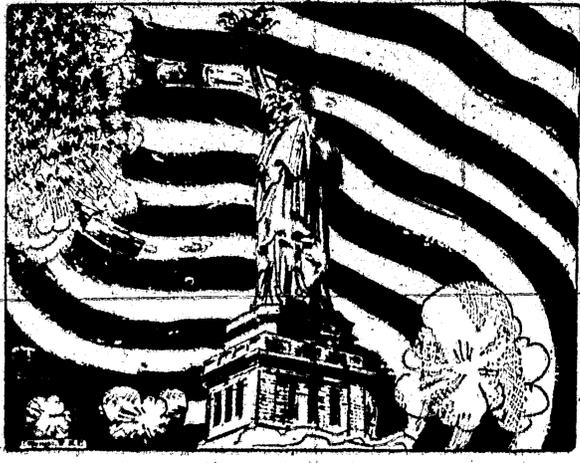

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, F. F. Mudge, aged 74, former manager of the Southern Pacific Club House and veteran railroad man, died at a local hospital after an illness of about 5 days, following an attack of the heart.

Mr. Mudge entered the service of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad when a young man, served on that and other roads of the east until he came west and was yardmaster at Deming, N. M. for many years, afterwards coming to Carrizozo about twenty years ago, holding a like position in the local yards until he was given charge of the clubhouse, where he continued until he was pensioned with several others shortly after the S. P. took over the road from the E. P. & S. W. He traveled much since retirement, most of which time he spent with his daughters in Buffalo, N. Y. He had returned from a visit to old Mexico a short time ago and was feeling splendid, but the high altitude he had been away from so long, was the cause of ill effect on his heart, according to the attending physician.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at the local cemetery and the remains laid to rest by the side of those of his wife, who died here several years ago. The services will be conducted by the officers of Carrizozo Lodge No. 30 I. O. O. F., in which order the deceased was an honored member. His daughters, Mesdames Bernatein and Flowers, granddaughter, Eleanor Flowers and Mrs. James Ord, a friend of the family, who resides in Silver City, are here to attend the funeral. His son, who resides in Nebraska and another daughter in Chicago, were unable to attend. Mr. Mudge was a friendly, courteous and conscientious man, a kind father, ideal neighbor, much loved by his many friends and associates. Peace to his ashes.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and friends are requested to be at the Odd Fellow Hall Saturday afternoon, at 3:30, to attend the funeral of Mrs. F. F. Mudge.

Independence Day

Boy Scout Notes

By Eli Goodreau: No trouble or expense has been spared in making the Eastern New Mexico Boy Scout camp sane and safe in every way, and every precaution will be made to maintain a strictly sanitary camp. Any registered scout in good health who has the consent of his parents and Scoutmaster may attend one or all of the 10-day periods. A local Scout leader will accompany each troop of scouts to camp and supervise their activities while in camp.

All food will be prepared and served in a well screened kitchen and dining room. James Lovelace (colored), head cook for the New Mexico Military Institute will again have charge of our mess; with a fine equipped kitchen and his assistants, James promises us a great variety of well cooked food.

Water has been piped into the mess hall from a fine spring just back of the camp. This cold mountain water tastes the very best.

For living quarters there are 14 bunk houses, each house will hold 8 scouts. Cots, mattresses and plenty of windows will promote health and comfort.

In regard to swimming, there is a special crib and instructor for beginners. Scouts will be taught how to avoid water accidents. Water safety will be stressed and instructions in Red Cross Life Saving will be given. A good instructor will supervise at all times.

A doctor will be in camp at all times, he will have his office in the health cabin, the other room of this cabin will take care of any patients. It is equipped with suitable furniture and medical supplies. The Scout oath and law will be the rule of the camp. No firearms will be allowed.

Girl Scouts

The Girl Scouts met June 9, at the home of Ruth Brickley, with twelve members present. After the meeting, refreshments were served. We adjourned to meet at the home of Mary Elma and Ellen Ludlow, on July 6. All members are urged to attend. Scribe.

Geo. Jeffreys Sells Steers

Lovelace-Wetmore

With the evident intention of springing a surprise on their home friends, which worked out in perfect manner, Morgan Lovelace and Mrs. Maggie Wetmore were united in marriage in El Paso, Tuesday evening with the Rev. Dr. T. V. Neal, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performing the ceremony, the same being solemnized at the pastor's home on Montana street. While in the Border City, the happy couple were guests of Mrs. Lovelace's sister, Mrs. H. L. Allison.

The bride and groom are both so well known over Lincoln County, that they need no introductions to our people. The bride is the owner and proprietor of the Wetmore Apartments, has always been one of the foremost of our Carrizozo ladies in society circles. Always pleasant, extremely generous and charitable, it would naturally follow that her friends would be numbered by the amount of her acquaintances. The groom has always been one of our leading stockmen, whose possessions are ranches near the town of Corona. He is a quiet, progressive business man and like his esteemed wife, enjoys the confidence and friendship of our people, as a whole.

After the wedding, the newlyweds departed on an extended motor trip through California, where they will spend a month, at least, during which time, they will visit relatives at different places over the state. On their return, they will settle down to home life in Carrizozo, so we are informed and the best wishes of our community in general, is extended.

New Farm Relief Bill Pending

The West is in a compromising mood regarding farm relief legislation and is willing to accept a bill providing improved facilities for co-operative marketing in place of the McNary-Haugen bill, Rep. Winter of Wyoming, Republican, told Pres. Coolidge last week.

He suggested a new and modified farm relief bill, the Curtis-Crisp measure, or the McNary-Haugen bill shorn of its 'price-fixing' features' as those likely to win approval from both the government and the people. - Kansas City Star.

The Star Market has installed a new American slicing machine and several other latest devices in machinery for use both in the kitchen and in the meat market. Bacon will be sliced to the thickness to suit everybody.

On Sunday, July 10, at 10:15 a. m., the beautiful chapel recently completed will be consecrated by the Right Rev. Frederick B. Howden D.D. Bishop of New Mexico and southwest Texas. Up until a recent date there was no Protestant Chapel, and the long felt need has now been supplied by the present Chaplaincy.

The little church is beautifully furnished in Walnut throughout, and is now complete in every detail of its furnishing. The ceiling is in pressed steel of ecclesiastical design, and finished in old ivory. The woodwork is in walnut, while the floors are varnished leaving the wood of natural color. The altar was made to order in solid walnut by the W. & E. Schmidt and Co. of Milwaukee, who specialize in church furnishings, at the cost of $300. It is furnished with 2 seven branch candelabras in solid brass, and two brass vases which are memorial gifts. THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine, and you can use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."

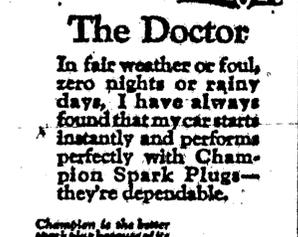

Mrs. E. Daugherty, 1348 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

Sparrow Sweeps Fields

One of the most efficient sweepers of the fields is the vesper sparrow, which we may recognize by the white outer tail feathers, says Nature Magazine. Many dwellers of the grass, insect larvae, leaf hoppers, army worms, young grasshoppers, are devoured during the summer; and innumerable weed seeds make up their fall and winter diet.

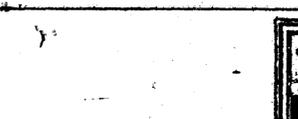

All blows the wind that profits nobody.

Glorious Past Nothing to Modern New Yorker

New Yorkers know less about their own city than the residents of any other city in the world, in the opinion of Frederick Lewis, who has been surveying a score of America's "big towns" for the Woman's Home Companion. It is significant of the city's ignorance of its own history, he points out, that the Dutchman Petrus Stuyvesant is always called Peter, and the Englishman Henry Hudson is always called Hendryk.

Long before the battle of Lexington, patriotic New Yorkers fought the British regulars at Golden Hill, and this was the first bloodshed of the War of Independence. But New York promptly forgot all about it, just as she has forgotten most of her great men and left it to other cities to honor them, Mr. Lewis adds.

"Who in New York knows that Central park was planned by a committee consisting of George Bancroft, the historian, William Cullen Bryant and Washington Irving? Who cares that George Washington once went picnicking on the grounds of the Jumel mansion with Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Alexander Hamilton? Who ever visits the Hall of Fame?"

"It isn't that New York is indifferent or forgetful. It is not indifferent to the present nor forgetful of the future. The trouble seems to be that the future is always so enticing that New York has not time or taste for the past."

French Thrift

One of the outstanding characteristics of French thrift is the degree to which holdings of bonds and stocks are disseminated throughout the various elements of the population. A recent report of the federation of holders of securities shows that state securities are held by 1,320,000 persons and railroad securities by 930,000. These figures seem the more extraordinary when it is recalled that in France there are less than 12,000,000 families.

Old New England Farms

In the contest to see which town in New England has the oldest farm, Stratham, N. H., enters the Wiggin farm, which has been in the Wiggin family since the king's grant in 1631. In all that time the house has been handed from father to son without warranty deed.

Holding that facts presented were too meager to establish the crime of murder, Acting Governor James H. Kerby in Phoenix denied the request for the return to California of Roy Billingsley of Globe, Ariz., for the alleged murder on May 30 of William Cullinan, a member of the San Francisco police force.

The Industrial Employment Survey report recently issued from the office of the U. S. Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor at Denver states that industrial activities and employment in Arizona during May were considered satisfactory, except in copper mining which continues on a curtailed basis. The labor supply is reported ample for all demands. Harvesting of the wheat crop was started in May; harvesting of the cantaloupe crop in the Salt River and Yuma valleys expected to start in June. Cultivation of the cotton crop is employing many laborers. Metal mining, other than copper, continues quite active, with considerable new construction and development work under way. A surplus of metal mine labor exists. Building and general construction are quite active in many sections of the state and include a $1,500,000 improvement program at Grand Canon, a tourist camp consisting of twenty-five cottages at Flagstaff and work on the Coolidge irrigation and power project. Construction labor ample. Employment in connection with new highway and maintenance work is increasing with an ample supply of labor available. Surplus of transient workers reported at Flagstaff. Railroad workers were steadily employed during May. The report states that employment in most seasonal lines in New Mexico increased during May to a summer basis, particularly in agriculture, lumbering, building, general and highway construction, and railroad activities. Resident labor is fairly well employed; however, there is a small surplus of transient workers. The farm labor supply is ample to meet increased demand for this class of help. Building and construction under way, or indicated to commence in the immediate future, includes several churches and public school buildings, a five and one-half mile four-inch water pipe line, a concrete intake and a 100,000-gallon steel stand-pipe at Magdalena, a $74,000 sewer system at Alamogordo, and electric power plants at Lovington and Aztec. Considerable new equipment is being installed in numerous metal mines. Activities at the metal mines, other than copper, and particularly in connection with new construction and development work, are increasing; labor in connection ample. Work is expected to start on several new highway projects during June. The 1927-28 Federal Aid and State highway programs will approximate $4,000,000 and authorized highway maintenance work for these two years will approximate $2,000,000; sufficient labor available. While railroad shops and maintenance-of-way forces were slightly increased during May, the supply of railroad workers of all classes is equal to the demand.

Reports from the different peach growing sections of New Mexico indicate that the crop this year will be only 50 per cent normal. In the Pecos valley and Mountain Park districts the crop was practically all destroyed by late frosts.

Facing a loss of $25,000 as the result of a disastrous fire which swept the Plaza, reducing it to ashes, members of the Plaza committee of Miami, Ariz., Lodge No. 1119, E. P. O. M., announced that plans are already on foot to rebuild with a bigger and better plaza than the old one.

Scene of Washington's Funeral Ceremonies

General view of historic Christ church in Alexandria, Va., and the churchyard—where many notable figures of Revolutionary times lie buried. On the left is the rectory which through the years has been occupied by many famous Episcopal clergymen. The church was completed in 1773. Washington and Robert E. Lee were among its worshippers, and Washington's funeral services were held here in 1799. In the churchyard are buried contemporaries and friends of Washington, including several who acted as pallbearers at his funeral. The church has a number of relics of Washington's time.

CITIZENS OF NORTH CAROLINA FIRST TO DEFY KING GEORGE

Proclamation of Freedom Made at Mecklenburg More Than 152 Years Ago.

In spite of doubting Thomas Jefferson and the reluctance of certain less interested Virginians to admit that anything good ever came out of North Carolina, no sufficient reason now exists for questioning the proud boast that the citizens of Mecklenburg county, in the latter state, did first defiance in the face of Great Britain in the form of a declaration of independence just thirteen months and fifteen days before the Continental congress in Philadelphia saw fit to make the same decisive move. The date was May 20, 1775, the place was Charlotte, N. C., and the immediate provocation of precipitate action was the arrival of the express with the news of the shooting down of Capt. John Parker's Minute men by British regulars under Major Pitcairn on Lexington common.

It was in 1810 that a newspaper reprint of what was said to be the declaration itself—a document containing several of the phrases of its own famous paper—was called to the attention of Thomas Jefferson by John Adams. Writing to Adams from Monticello, Jefferson said he believed it spurious, because up to that moment he had never heard of it, though he lived in the adjoining state of Virginia. He called attention also to the circumstance that the witnesses appealed to were, most of them, dead.

Jefferson's Mind Open. However, Jefferson was careful to add that he based his opinion on negative evidence which positive evidence was perfectly competent to overthrow. One of the most valiant collectors of this evidence has been Archibald Henderson, who is otherwise known as the American familiar of Bernard Shaw. Another—furiously assailed when he first collected the data—was Dr. George Washington Graham, who has written a whole book on the subject. The controversy was heated and acrimonious.

On the affirmative side it extended to the insinuation that one of the Virginia champions of Jefferson's priority had used his position as minister from this country to the Court of St. James to abstract from the British colonial archives a copy of the Cape Fear Mercury, which was material evidence because it contained the text of the Mecklenburg declaration printed within the month after it was issued. It was known that such a copy had, in fact, been sent to Lord Dartmouth by Josiah Martin, the royal governor of North Carolina at the time. Martin described it as "the late most treasonable publication of a committee in the county of Mecklenburg explicitly renouncing obedience to his majesty's government" and added that it "surpassed all horrid and treasonable publications that the inflammatory spirit of the country has produced." On the negative side there were charges of forgery and mendacity—the manufacture of history out of whole cloth.

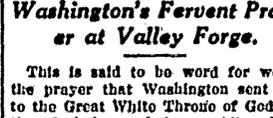

Events Leading to Action. Assuming the evidence as sufficient, the story of what happened becomes a part of a well-connected series of events in the province whose position between two ostentatiously aristocratic neighbors has sometimes, it is said, deprived her of due consideration. In March, 1774, Governor Martin had dissolved an unruly assembly, in August of that year a convention had met under the governor's nose in New Bern and sent delegates to the Continental congress. For the rest of that year the separate counties had been busy with meetings and preparations, and in April, 1775, the assembly which met by the authority of the crown—the last one—was also a conven-

APPEAL TO HEAVEN IN THE DARK HOUR

Washington's Fervent Prayer at Valley Forge.

This is said to be word for word the prayer that Washington sent up to the Great White Throne of God in that dark hour of the republic when his barefoot army shivered in the snows of Valley Forge: "Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; and entertain a brotherly affection and love for each other and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large; and finally, that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

So the prayer ran—so wonderful then and still more wonderful now when there are those in the land who seek not only to sow the seeds of hatred and dissension but who also in their blindness shake their fists in the face of God.—Los Angeles Times.

Independence Not Bought.

As a matter of fact, even Jefferson at this date was not an open advocate of independence, nor did Patrick Henry in his "singing resolutions" (as Jefferson called them), adopted in Virginia after the Lexington bloodshed, take so rash a stand.

The man of the matter is that the declaration of independence which Mecklenburg, N. C., issued one year ahead of time and the revolution which Virginia started a century ahead of time had back to wait till the country at large was ready for the real thing. They were dramatic gestures, not things accomplished. Nevertheless, the Virginia affair cost many lives of patriots and some of those who were not so counted, and some of ink have been spilled over the North Carolina outbreak.—New York Times Magazine.

Gathering of the Citizens. At Charlotte, some fifty miles away, the messenger appears to have found an assembly of the leading citizens of Mecklenburg summoned from the various "companies" throughout the county by the colonial commandant, Thomas Polk. According to the received chronology, the messenger arrived May 10 and threw the gathering into a fever. The secretary, John McKnitt Alexander, says they "sat in the courthouse all night, neither sleepy nor hungry nor fatigued," and in the morning passed a set of resolutions prepared by Ephraim Brodard.

In the resolutions occurred the following declarations: "Resolved . . . That we dissolve us with the mother country and absolve ourselves from allegiance to the British crown; and

"Resolved, That we do hereby declare ourselves a free and independent people; that we are and of right ought to be a sovereign and self-governing people under the power of God and the general congress."

It should be noted that the text is taken from Judge Francis X. Martin's "History of North Carolina," which text is supposed to be the same that was printed in the lost Cape Fear Mercury, for even the more ardent North Carolinians do not deny that the original document was destroyed in 1800 when Alexander's house was burned.

Sought Only Their Rights. Returning again to the story: These resolutions were read to the people outside the courthouse by Colonel Polk and received with "shouts and hurrahs." In accordance with a provision in the resolutions themselves, they were transmitted to the Continental congress, where the persons approached said that the "subject of the resolutions was premature to be laid before the congress."

"Butch" Bedbug, burglar, starts his night's work.

Millions of others are starting, too! Be ready for them!

MAKE NO MISTAKE! There's only one way to exterminate bedbugs. That's with a liquid. Don't waste time shooting a spray of kerosene. No spray can possibly reach their young and eggs.

Bedbugs are in the woodwork, along the baseboards—not in the bed clothes, as you may have thought. Don't waste time using a powder. Bedbugs don't eat. They suck. That's why only a liquid can exterminate them.

Peterman's Discovery is the right liquid. It soaks down into their nests. It will exterminate all bedbugs, all their young and eggs in any house in 48 hours.

Here is the right insecticide for such insects!

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY, Liquid—exterminates bedbugs.
PETERMAN'S LIQUID SPRAY—kills flies and mosquitoes.
PETERMAN'S BEACH FOOD—sterilizes bathing beaches.
PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD—exterminates ants.
PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD—prevents moth damage.

You must have a special insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We have had nearly 50 years' experience. We know that is true.

National Affairs

Written for this paper by Frank P. Lister

The fiscal affairs of the United States continue to be well managed by the firm of Coolidge, Mellon and Company, according to latest reports. Secretary tells us that the budget surplus at the end of the fiscal year will reach $690,000,000 and may total $850,000,000 which is certainly a surprising and satisfactory figure. At the same time, Ogden Mills, under secretary of the treasury informs the country that during the fiscal year, there will be a cut of a billion dollars in Uncle Sam's national debt. These figures are staggering to the layman, but they spell not only economy and efficiency in administration of the government, but a general prosperity. For unless business was good, there could be no such surplus and no such reduction in the national debt.

As Mr. Mills states, the policy followed by the administration in the matter of debt reduction is the time-honored American policy, the one which has been adhered to since it was adopted by Pres. Washington and his great Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton.

That it is a sound policy is proved by the history of the United States and the present high credit of Uncle Sam the world over. The steady reduction of the present indebtedness has been helped by the unexpected surpluses which have been found at the end of each fiscal year and these surpluses have of course been due to effective economy in the government and general business prosperity. It is significant too, to note that this debt reduction and increase in the surplus has come during an era of tax reduction, proving that Secretary Mellon was right when he declared that lessening the burden of taxation on business would increase productive enterprise and the general amount of taxes collected.

During the last fiscal year the Treasury Department retired $873,000,000 of the public debt and the fact that the debt reduced during the present fiscal year will total a billion is a matter for national congratulation and business encouragement. For as the Under-Secretary well says, this means fewer government securities for the investor but it spells an enormous saving in interest charges and consequent relief to the taxpayers. And Mr. Mills continues: "How great the relief is, is strikingly illustrated by the fact that interest payments next year will be less by $23,000,000 than they are during the current fiscal year, due entirely to debt reduction and refunding operations."

The saving of $23,000,000 in this way is quite an achievement in itself. There were some people who thought that Congress should have reduced taxes to a greater degree and so have eliminated the surplus. But it can now be pointed out that this surplus, in its application to the national debt has saved this great amount of interest which would have been necessarily furnished by the taxpayers. In short, surpluses now, applied to the national debt, rapidly reduce the debt, and mean greater reduction in interest charges and consequently less taxes in the future. This is certainly sound business judgment.

GENUINE NAVAJO INDIAN RUGS

AN UNUSUAL GIFT WHICH WILL LAST A LIFETIME

The Rugs of the Navajo Indians are unlike any other rugs ever produced, an art of weaving has been brought to a perfection with this tribe of the Southwest. The designs are of their own figures and symbols, and are seen nowhere else. These Rugs are of a texture and quality that will outlast Oriental Rugs. The wool used is sheared from live sheep, which insures strength and firmness. They will wear a lifetime and become heir looms. The time is not far distant when genuine Navajo Rugs will no longer be woven, as the old weavers who do this work are getting fewer, and the present generation does not take up the work. For this reason, the rugs now on the market are much sought after by lovers of Indian Relics.

HOWE ABOUT—

By ED HOWE

(Copyright by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Bill Johnson has written a book called "These Women," and manages to make a good suggestion (I have not seen one before in years). . . . The good suggestion is, ante-nuptial agreements. That is, before marriage let the proposed husband and wife talk things over, and make agreements for the future, in presence of witnesses, and in legal form. If either party has unusual notions, let them be discussed at a time when separation may be accomplished without scandal or alimony.

I know a woman who was divorced from her husband ten years ago, and it is a source of gratification to me to know that she is one of the most popular women in the town where she lives. It is a very unusual case; divorced people somehow seem to have far on them.

It is generally said of a man I know that he is losing his mind. . . . The trouble is, he is letting himself go; talking the mach about trifling things, bothering his acquaintances too much with his opinions, and in a little manner. Little faults he hid years ago, he now boldly displays. . . . Men do not go crazy; they become meaner.

I heard a railroad man grumbling the other day. A cement road had been built beside a railroad track connecting two populous towns. On the completion of the cement road, a line of automobiles was put on, and the railroad robbed of most of its passenger business. . . . The railroad man was grumbling because his company had been compelled to pay 24 per cent of the expense of the cement road.

Another of my notions is, we should assert our civil rights as we have asserted our religious rights, and cause the politicians to treat us as respectfully as the churchmen treat us.

When a show or a book is half way good, it goes big. Too much is not expected of authors or readers.

Soon after people begin hearing of a man rather regularly, they begin picking at him.

Everyone likes the literature of protest. And every protestant is unreliable; he protests too much; conditions are never as bad in anything as he says they are. . . . Protest is like sentiment; it is always over-done. . . . Protestants should at least be truthful and reasonable, but rarely are.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

President and Household Are Established in the Black Hills.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PRESIDENT AND MRS. COOLIDGE, two colts, five canaries and all the necessary household attendants are now established for the summer in the South Dakota State Game Lodge, in the Black Hills. And the executive offices of the national government are established in the new high school building at Rapid City, 52 miles away. Even though Mr. Coolidge should not regain the favor of the farmers—and he is not unlikely to—he will certainly have a delightful and restful vacation in surroundings that are entirely to his taste. The lodge is on the shores of a lake surrounded by picturesque mountains, and is so secluded that comparative privacy is assured. The Chief Executive planned to make the automobile trip to Rapid City frequently to attend to the more pressing business of his office.

On his way west the President stopped a few hours in the Calumet region of northwestern Indiana to help in the dedication of Wicker park, the war memorial of Lake county. In his address he spoke of the prosperity and growth of the country in a material way, but he mildly chided the nation for delinquencies.

"In spite of all this progress," he said, "we are still a great distance from what we would like to be. Our delinquencies are sufficient to require us to put forth all our efforts to work toward their elimination. Although our government is sound and our courts are excellent, too many of us disregard the obligations of citizenship by neglecting to vote, and violence and crime are altogether too prevalent. The number who are lacking in religious devotion is altogether too large.

"While we have reached the highest point in material prosperity ever achieved, there is a considerable class of unskilled workers who have not come into full participation of the wealth of the nation."

One of the bursts of applause greeted the President's reference to Col. Charles Lindbergh when he said:

"The ideals which we seek must be practical. We are lavish in our admiration of realties. When one of your Western young men is the first to fly from America to Europe our country halls ring with a popular acclaim so spontaneous, so genuine, as to disclose the true values of our national character."

South Dakota as a whole welcomed the President warmly as the special train made its way across the broad prairie, hesitating at the farm centers long enough to give the inhabitants a glimpse of the Chief Executive and his charming wife. The official welcome was staged at Pierre, the capital, where the President and Mrs. Coolidge were prevailed upon to change their program slightly, leaving the train and taking their place at the head of a parade which went through cheering crowds in the business section. Governor Bulow, Senator Norbeck, Representative Christopherson, committeemen, legislators, newspaper editors, farmers, and business men from all the central section were on hand to greet the President and escort him from town to town.

NEW YORK went completely daffy over Col. Charles Lindbergh when he flew there from Washington. The city gave him a reception never before equaled. As the young master of the air said, it was "the reception of Paris, Brussels, London and Washington rolled into one." Millions of the inhabitants of the metropolis stood in a line stretching from the Battery to Central park as the presidential parade passed, mostly cheering the hero and struggling for opportunity to see him. From all the buildings along the route paper confetti was hurled until it appeared as if the marchers were passing through a heavy snow storm. At the city hall Mayor Walker greeted the colonel as the son of one immigrant to the son of another, and pinned on his coat the city's gold medal of honor: the aviator talked briefly to the throng through the microphone; his mother was called to the front and introduced to the roaring crowd, and the procession resumed its march to Central park. At the Eternal Light at Madison square there was a pause while Lindbergh laid a wreath at the base of the memorial. At the Mall the colonel was met by Governor Smith who presented him with the state medal of valor.

Colonel Lindbergh spent most of the week in New York and was entertained extensively, though he found some time to rest. Early Thursday morning he unexpectedly flew down to Washington and returned to New York in a few hours with his transatlantic plane, and on Friday he flew in it for St. Louis, where another rousing welcome was accorded him lasting three days. Lindbergh says he hopes to visit many American cities in the "Spirit of St. Louis" for the purpose of boosting commercial aviation. To date he has signed only one contract—for a book describing his flight to Paris.

Chamberlain and Levine spent a jolly week in Germany waiting for their plane to be repaired. They visited various cities and were handsomely entertained. Commander Byrd had his Fokker monoplane America all ready at New York for a flight to Europe with Bert Acosta as his companion but was delayed by adverse weather conditions. Hope for the rescue of Nungesser and Goll sprang up when reports came that fares had been seen in the wilds of northern Quebec, but unhappily the stories were soon discredited. Commander de Pinedo, Italian "four continent flyer," completed his tour, returning from the Azores to Italy via Portugal and Spain.

Lieut. F. B. McConnell and C. Anderson of the army were killed during air maneuvers at Langley field when their plane crashed and burned.

SOVIET RUSSIA'S rage over the murder of her ambassador to Poland, following the break with Great Britain, was enough to cause grave concern to European statesmen, and it was aggravated when the Polish court before which the assassin of Yuliot was tried found the youth, Boris Kowode, guilty but sentenced him to life imprisonment instead of death and requested the President of Poland to commute the sentence to fifteen years. Kowode's lawyers turned the trial into one of bolshevism and its terrorist activities rather than one of the slayer. The Soviet rulers seem actually to be trying to intimidate the enemies of communism, for they are executing scores of men many of whom they accused of being spies in the pay of other governments, and then gloatingly announcing the executions to the world. They also decided to exile many thousands to Siberia. The Russian territorial army reserves, numbering some 500,000, usually called out for three weeks' practice, have been notified they are to stay in the service four months, and as most of them were being concentrated along the Polish frontier Poland was frankly alarmed. Members of the League of Nations council, which met in Geneva, considered taking formal collective action denouncing Russian communist propaganda abroad, but abandoned the plan at the request of Poland.

THE league council discussed the prospects of the projected disarmament conference and decided the second reading of the preparatory plan should be held early in November. Only Herr Strassmann, German foreign minister, criticized the lack of progress.

"I regret the inability to advance a solution for the problem, and even if the second reading does not result in failure, a solution seems delayed to the distant future. The covenant of the league says all nations must reduce their armaments," insisted Herr Strassmann, noting the German government's thesis that if the rest of the powers consent agree to reduce their armaments to the level imposed on Germany by the Versailles treaty, then Germany should be permitted to arm herself to the same level.

Germany notified the ambassadors' council that the forts on its eastern frontier had been demolished, as required, and demanded that the Rhine-land occupational forces be reduced accordingly. France agreed to this provided Marshal Foch be permitted to examine the forts and found the German statement to be correct.

WHILE negotiations for a compromise between Chiang Kai-Shek, Chang Tso-Lin and the governor of Shanxi province were proceeding, the Nanking Nationalist army continued its advance toward Peking and captured the important city of Hsichow near the Shantung border. The southerners, according to reports, "committed robbery and outrage in wholesale fashion." Gen. Feng Yuh-shang has pledged allegiance to the Hsankow faction of the Nationalists and has been given command of its drive on Peking. Roger Green of the Rockefeller Foundation at Peking, accompanied by 29 physicians and nurses, has gone to Hsankow to help in the care of some 12,000 wounded soldiers gathered in hospitals from the Hsankow battlefields. Antagonism against the Japanese is steadily increasing in southern China and it is still feared they are planning to reoccupy Shantung province in order to prevent the Nationalists from driving out Chang Tso-Lin. Representatives of the Japanese communities in Manchuria have sent to Tokyo demands that the government prevent the civil war from entering Manchuria and Mongolia and that all Japanese investments and nationals there be protected.

IN THE recent elections in the Irish Free State the government secured 46 seats, a net loss of 7, in the Dail Eireann; Finian Fall (De Valera's party), 44; the Sinn Fein, 5; Labor, 22; Farmers, 11; Independent, 14; National league, 8, and Independent Republicans, 2. President Cosgrave will have only seven fewer seats than at the dissolution. It is believed he will annex ten members from the farmers and independents and be stronger than before the election. Eamon De Valera says his 44 will refuse to take the oath of allegiance to the king. If they hold out, another election is probable.

WEDNESDAY was a busy day for Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury. He took in almost $400,000,000 in income and other tax payments, due on the completion of the second quarter of the calendar year. He took in about $80,000,000 paid by the debtor nations of Europe on American war loans. He sold $2,000,000 of new treasury 3 1/2 per cent bonds. Then he paid off maturing short term securities aggregating $375,000,000 and paid $70,000,000 in interest on various issues of the Liberty bonds.

The receipts went to swell the $600,000,000 surplus for the fiscal year expiring June 30, next, and the retirement of Liberty bonds and refinancing involved in the transaction means the reduction in the annual interest on the public debt many millions of dollars. Great Britain turned in $47,575,000, which was its ninth semi-annual payment of interest. France paid $10,000,000 "on account." Italy paid $5,000,000, and smaller payments were made by the other debtor nations.

NOBLES of the Mystic Shrine gathered in great numbers at Atlantic City for their annual meeting, and 100,000 wearers of the fox took part in a mammoth night parade along the five-mile Boardwalk that was said to be the largest procession ever seen in the resort city. Clarence M. Dunbar of Valenciano temple, Philadelphia, R. I., was elevated to the office of imperial potentate to succeed David M. Greenwald.

THIRTY-NINE of the 208 cadets graduated from the West Point Military academy last week have requested service with the air corps. The War department has announced. Under a department interpretation of the air corps act, commission cannot be granted in kind of peace to any person not a qualified flyer and the 39 cadets, therefore, will undergo training before receiving the second lieutenant commissions bestowed upon them at graduation.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COOLER

Harry had been playing so hard all day that he was actually and really ready for bedtime to come.

Everyone that day had felt the heat and probably all the other little boys had felt just as Harry had.

But not until the time to leave the playground did the game end.

So, in the smallest little minute you ever knew, he went sound, sound asleep.

But in his sleep he was just as hot as ever, and he could still not stop playing from pride.

The game was never-ending, it seemed to him, until suddenly one of his playmates saw a beautiful fairy, dressed in cool silver and green, carrying a wand of green with silver stars, and on her head was a crown made of green with silver stars, too.

"Little boys," said the fairy, "you are all so hot and so tired, and not one of you will dare admit it."

"But I will see that you all get fine and cool. We are planning to take a trip today, and we want all you little boys to come, too."

They all just scampered along after the beautiful fairy, and she led them down to the little creek behind the playground.

There they found lots and lots of other beautiful fairies, all wearing their coolest gowns of green and silver.

All the little fairies cried out to the small boys and said:

"Welcome," in chorus.

And the little boys cried back: "Welcome, many times, lovely fairies, we are beginning to get cool now, and we were so hot."

"Our trip must start," said the little fairy who had gone for the small boys in the first place, and at once they all saw lovely sail-boats appearing.

They were quite different, though, from any other sail-boats any of the boys had ever seen.

They all climbed in the boats, and suddenly they went down under the water, and way out beyond the creek into the river, and from there into the sea.

They went in these sail-boats way under the water until they reached the bottom of the sea.

The strange thing about it was that it seemed so natural to be under the sea, and it was just as easy to breathe as up on land.

Finally, after they had been going along for a very long way, the fairy who was leading the party said:

"Here we stop."

The small boys saw spread before them on the bottom of the sea, long tables of soft green seaweed with delicious and strange looking dishes of food.

The dishes were very beautiful shells of all sorts and the food—well, it was the most marvelous any of the boys had ever had.

The crabs and the turtles waited on the table and all the other little fishes who lived in that part of the bottom of the sea joined in the merry-making.

Harry was just about to get up to make a speech of thanks, when at that moment his mother called him, and as Harry sleepily awoke he knew it was all a dream—but for one thing—it was cooler, and it must have been the fairies who had seen to that.

ANSWERED: three vital questions you have asked about used car allowances

1 "What is my present car worth?"

Answer: Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: that is what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

2 "Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances that differ materially?"

Answer: Your used-car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

3 "Is it true that the largest allowance offered means the best deal for me?"

Answer: The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not. An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car. Remember that after all you are making a purchase, not a sale.

Air Is Thirsty, Too In the summer climate of Death valley, California—one of the hottest and driest on earth—the traveler finds it impossible to drink enough water to slake his thirst, says Nature Magazine. A thirsty air takes tremendous toll of the water stored in irrigation reservoirs, which must be designed to make allowance for this loss. On the other hand, it is the thirst of the air that enables the fruit growers to dry their products out of doors in the long, rainless summers. W. N. U., DENVER, NO. 26-1927.

Housekeeping moves in a circular track of cooking and dusting and sweeping. The small who must carry his house on his back. The housekeeper carries her house on her mind.

THE NUTRITIOUS SOUP

The primary purpose of soup is to stimulate the stomach and prepare it for the heavier food which will follow. All soups, if hot, are stimulating, but not all soups are nourishing. Soups which consist of meat extractives, water and seasoning, are purely stimulating. They are inevitable because they stimulate a jaded appetite and warm the stomach.

A cream soup, however, is a meal in itself; with bread it will make a good, substantial meal. Such soups should be served when the rest of the meal is to be light. They are good for the heavy worker, the active children and those who cannot digest heavier meats; so the creamed soup is an all-round good food for every member of the family.

All vegetables combine best with milk in cream soups if cooked, mashed and added hot. After cooling they are harder to blend. A potato soup can be so very good and it can be so very poor that they would never pass for relations.

Cream of Potato Soup.

Adding an onion and a few celery tops to the potatoes while cooking will give a better flavor than to have them added to the milk. Peel six potatoes and cook with a small onion and a few celery leaves in salted water. When the potatoes are soft, put them through a sieve or ricer. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter, add two of flour and cook until well blended; add a half cupful of the potato water and the potato; when boiling hot add a pint of top milk, or this cream will make a richer soup. Cook in a double boiler for half an hour. Add a tablespoonful of butter bit by bit and serve at once.

Mixed Vegetable Soup.

Take one quart each of good beef stock, one quart of water and one cupful each of chopped onion, carrot and celery, one-half cupful of turnip, a sprig of parsley, a half cupful of cabbage. Parboil the cabbage, turnip and onions five minutes, then drain. Fry the onion and carrot in a tablespoonful of butter, then add the hot stock and water and one cupful of strained tomato and cook with a teaspoonful each of sugar, salt and pepper. Serve without straining.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MOTHERS AND BABIES

IN THE great war this country lost 34,625 killed in action, 215,459 wounded, and 13,905 who died of wounds. That was a record for 10 months of warfare.

In the same time the record shows that more mothers died from child-birth than there were fighting men killed, and many more babies died than there were soldiers and sailors wounded.

During the war the infantile birth rate went down in the country and the child death rate went up.

During the years that Belgium was being war-wrecked and torn to pieces the birth rate went up and the infant death rate decreased.

The reason for this difference is that this country gave no special attention to the care of infant life, while Belgium established 700 maternity centers where mothers and their little babies are assured the kind of care and attention that give them the highest possible chance in the fight for health and life.

The United States is perhaps of all the world the most intense in its study of ways and means for the saving of minutes and dollars. Every year millions of dollars' worth of equipment is junked because some genius has found a better or a cheaper way of doing the job.

Yet we placidly continue to throw away approximately 300,000 lives a year because nobody seems to be enough interested in the conservation of mothers and their offspring to better our horrible record of suffering and death.

Every baby is a potential man or woman. Under proper conditions he would grow up to be worth in actual dollars to the community and his family from $20,000 upward.

Is it good sense, or good economy even, to let that baby die just from lack of care?

Would not a dollar invested in his rearing, in making a strong, healthy man of him insure pretty good returns?

Isn't it foolish to let him die by the thousand when he could just as well be saved?

And as for the mothers, if this country owes anything to anybody it owes to the mothers.

Every suffering mother is a disgrace.

Every mother that needlessly dies in giving birth to a new citizen is a reflection on the charity, decency and citizenship of every other dweller in this country.

Our sense of what is respectable should lead us to provide for the mothers.

Our judgment as to what is profitable, if no better emotion urges us, should lead us to make life and health more certain for the children (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

FARM POULTRY

WATCH MARKETING EGGS AND POULTRY

"Poultry production is running wild without chart or compass, stimulated by past profits, by a tendency to shift from other nonpayment branches of agriculture to poultry raising, and by optimistic statements of those who sell supplies to poultrymen."

This is a statement of Prof. James E. Rice, head of the poultry department of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., commenting on trends in the poultry industry.

Recent figures showing the enrollment in the correspondence courses in poultry husbandry offered by the college, bear out this statement.

Nearly five hundred New York state farmers are studying the four poultry courses, and an analysis of this figure shows that approximately fifty are studying the general management of a laying flock to one who is taking the course in marketing of eggs and poultry.

"This may indicate," say college authorities, "that the poultrymen are a great deal more interested in producing eggs and poultry than they are in marketing them so they can compete with the high-quality products shipped to eastern markets by midwest and far west producers."

"Better marketing and curtailed production," according to Professor Rice, "are necessary to save the New York state poultry industry from a serious depression."

Dirty Eggs Expensive to Careless Poultryman

Dirty eggs, especially numerous this time of year, cost farmers and poultrymen from one to three cents per dozen because of the lower grade to which they are placed, according to E. H. Menefee of Purdue university, who is investigating marketing of poultry and eggs.

Three principal causes may be assigned for the large volume of dirty eggs, Menefee found. They were: too few nests, resulting in the hens hiding their nests in dirty, wet places; unclean nests, and allowing hens free range in wet weather.

Dirty eggs can be eliminated by providing a sufficient number of clean, roomy nests, at least one to every four or five hens. These nests should be placed in a darkened part of the house to prevent egg eating and floor eggs. Do not permit hens to roost to the nests at night and change straw or shavings of frequent intervals. The wet range is the most common cause of dirty eggs. Keeping hens confined to the house in wet weather until noon, and gathering of eggs before they are let out will keep eggs clean.

Ducks Not Particular Where They Leave Eggs

Ducks lay heavily during the laying season. However, they are not particular as to where they leave the eggs. It is no uncommon sight to see duck eggs scattered here and there in the yard or bog lot. As a result of this thoughtless attitude on their part, many eggs are eaten or destroyed by dogs, swine or the ducks themselves.

The proper method of handling the ducks in order to get all the eggs laid is by keeping the ducks confined in a duck house, or an abandoned stall of the barn during the night and until eight or nine o'clock in the morning.

Poultry Items

Tobacco in some form is now generally used as a remedy for intestinal worms in poultry.

Remove all males four to five weeks of age. Furnish perching space early to prevent crowding.

You can't have thrifty chicks unless they get sunlight—either direct, or through these glass substitutes. Window glass attracts out the life-giving violet rays.

The demand for fresh duck eggs is never oversupplied.

"The best hens and roosters to keep and to breed from," says one poultryman, "are the bright, nervous, talkative kind, but not the 'squawkers.'" These are signs of vigor, and vigor means eggs.

It is the general practice not to keep breeding ducks more than three or four years, although people have kept them with good results until they were eight years old.

Heavy egg production, like heavy milk production, can only be secured by liberal feeding of a well-balanced ration.

Only three chicks should be placed in the brooder house for every square foot of the floor space. A house 10 by 10 feet will hold only 300 chicks.

Scratch feed, mash, wet scraps, and milk, properly fed, under common-sense methods make it possible to bring poultry into egg production successfully.

Effective Smile Not Produced to Order

A smile must be spontaneous or it is worth less than nothing. The wooden smile of commerce, produced with the mouth only, is very sad. It makes one think of the stone pile and the chain gang. When people are happy they smile with their eyes. Some things must spring up of their own accord and only people with a profound misunderstanding of human nature try to turn them out mechanically. The pleasant thing about a bird's song, or the first words of a baby, or a smile, is that they come freely and usually unexpectedly. So many articles are turned out by punch-presses and lathes these days that people imagine that laughter can be manufactured like machine screws.

GOLF

15-Value of Preliminary Knowledge.

It is a real pity that the beginner at golf cannot first go through a course of instruction that will show him the value of a correct swing before he ever hits a ball. It would make him a better-than-average player before ever he has played a game. It would cut off years, perhaps a lifetime of futile efforts to master something of which he knows nothing; not even the knowledge that he cannot teach himself but must go to another for instruction.

It is the sheerest folly to copy any golfing form until it is learned that the club must be at right angles to the line of flight while it is in contact with the ball; that at no time until the player is ready for some of the strokes of advanced golf can the club go over the line either on the backward or forward swing; that rhythm of the swing must culminate in perfect timing when the club meets the ball; that the body must keep a perfect balance all through the swing; that no successful stroke can be made by babying the ball and that more than 50 per cent of a good game is played by that part of the anatomy located above the eyes.

The most important thing to know is that the length and accuracy of the shot depends on the facing and speed of the club head for a foot or more back of and through the ball. Take any straight line anywhere there is room enough to swing a club. Imagine this line is the line of flight pointing toward the hole. Make a mark on the line at a point where there is at least a foot or more back of and in front of the mark. Sole the club on this mark, with the face at exactly right angles to the line of flight. All that is easy. Especially it is easy to understand that a board at right angles to the line, brought straight forward on the line and hitting the ball will force the ball straight along the line. That is exactly what it is necessary to do with the face of the club. Swing the club, slowly at first, and try to keep the face at right angles for a foot or more of space in the middle of which the ball is supposed to be. And absolutely anchor the knowledge that the swing is incorrect if the club head goes over the line at any point. That is a simple lesson that the majority of golfers do not know. "For man is man and master of his fate."—Idylls of the King. This is the spirit that we find set forth in Henley's "Invictus":

Out of the night that covers me, Black as the Pit from pole to pole, I thank whatever gods may be For my unconquerable soul.

It matters not how strait the gate, How charged with punishments the scroll, I am a master of my fate; I am the captain of my soul.

Few men, however, are satisfied to be masters of their own fate; they wish to be masters of the universe and its fate as well—as Epictetus puts it:

"When it is in our power to take care of one thing, and to apply to one, we choose rather to take care of many, and to lumber ourselves with many; body, property, brother, friend, child and slave; and by this multiplicity of incumbrances we are burdened and weighed down. Thus, when the weather doth not happen to be fair for sailing, we sit scrawling ourselves, and perpetually looking out, which way is the wind? North, what have we to do with that? When will the west wind blow? When itself, friend, or Aeolus please; for Jupiter has not made you dispenser of the winds, but Aeolus."

Just as Descartes arrived at his philosophy of belief through first doubting everything, even mathematics, so a man becomes master of his fate through being able to say sincerely:

Conduct me, Jove, and thou, O Destiny, Whichever your decrees have fixed my lot.

Or through meaning what many millions say by rote, meaninglessly: "They will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."

Epictetus points out Diogenes as an example of a man who was master of his fate and captain of his soul: "Not because he was of free parents, for he was not; but because he was so himself, because he had cast away all the bundles of slavery, nor was there any way of getting at him, nor anywhere to lay hold on him to enslave him. Everything set loose upon him, everything only just hung on. If you look hold on his possessions, he would rather let them go than follow you for them; if on his leg, he let go his leg; if on his body, he let go his body; on acquaintances, friends, country, just the same. But he would never have forsaken his true parents, the gods, and his real country."

Mrs. G. E. Butler of Dallas, Tex. will arrive Sunday to spend the summer with Mrs. James A. Borders at Eagle Creek.

Washington Made But One July 4 Speech

Probably few people know that George Washington made only one Fourth of July speech. There is an interesting story by Henry Olney about this speech in the current issue of the National Republic magazine. The original copy of the address, delivered at Lancaster, Pa., is now in the Library of Congress at Washington. Concerning this Fourth of July address by the Father of the Country Mr. Olney says in part:

"The diaries of George Washington contain only one reference to the making of a Fourth of July address. This entry was made on July 4, 1791, and reads as follows—

"Monday, 4th. This being the Anniversary of the American Independence and being kindly requested to do it, I hereby agreed to halt here this day and partake of the entertainment which was preparing for the celebration of it.

"In the forenoon I walked about the town—at 2:30 I received and answered an address from the Corporation and the compliments of the clergy of the different denominations—dined between 3 and 4 o'clock—drank tea with Mrs. Hand.

"It is the quaint but flourishing city of Lancaster, Pa., that has the distinction of being the only town in this Republic where Washington delivered a 4th of July speech. Lancaster, at that was the largest inland town in the country. It was a widely known for the beautiful farms that surrounded it in all directions, and also by the fact that the Continental Congress had met there for a day when obliged to leave Philadelphia when pressed too closely by the invading British.

Never before nor since has a 4th of July celebration that compared with the one in which the hero of the Revolution and then President of the country, was the guest of honor:

The news that the "Father of His Country" would appear in person, and talk to the people, spread rapidly throughout the village and up and down the roads in every direction for many miles.

All night long on the third of July the citizen's committee was busily engaged in making preparations for the entertainment of the great man, and the thousands of people from near and far who wanted to see the face and hear the voice of the world-famed patriot who had been so largely responsible for the freedom from the tyrannical king across the ocean.

At the break of dawn the people from the outlying districts began arriving on horseback. Others came in dignified and stately-looking carriages drawn by four horses. Those—and there were hundreds of them—who had neither horses nor carriages, gladly walked the long miles over rough roads to meet the most beloved man in all the land."

Sheriff Kelsey is a week-and-a-half at St. Paul.

An additional charge today was filed by the Ethics, Grievances and Discipline committee of the State Board of Bar Commissioners against ex-Gov. A. T. The new charge is that Mr. Hannett made this charge against Judge Holloman: It would be interesting to know what part Holloman played in Hannett's pardon and, whether he received part of the $500,000 — or the case of what? It is
