

Eagle Creek Murmurings

(By L. A. Whitaker)

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Johnson are spending 2 weeks' vacation at the Geo. Dingwall cabin.

A meeting of the Association was held at the Club House on July 5 and all officers serving the past year were re-elected and two new directors were elected, namely, L. J. Adams of Carrizozo and Allen Johnson of El Paso. The following are the officers of the association: A. J. Strayer, El Paso, Pres.; M. U. Finley, Carrizozo, Vice-Pres.; J. B. French, Sec. - Treasurer. Harmony prevailed and there being no further matters to come up they adjourned until July, 1929.

C. F. Grey spent the 4th with his family at Eagle Creek.

Dr. R. E. Blaney attended the meeting of Directors here on the 5th, of which he is a member.

Sheriff Kelsey made a hurried run to Eagle Creek Saturday to take Dr. Johnson to attend to the little son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Grey, who was taken suddenly ill on that day. The child was taken to Dr. Johnson's hospital and is reported as getting along fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Pilant, who have been at the Finley cabin for the past week, left for Roswell yesterday and will return shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Finley left Eagle Creek Sunday and spent Monday and Tuesday at Roswell on business.

Eagle Creek is certainly becoming more popular every year as a scenic place. There were not less than 25 cars of people yesterday, looking around and also looking at the State Fish Hatchery, as well as climbing the mountains. Cars from Oklahoma, Texas, Illinois and New Mexico composed the caravan. Some were surprised when they saw wild turkeys running around. Turkeys are so plentiful that they are coming down to the cabins and eating up the flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kirkland are spending some time at the Greer ranch on the Bonito. Mr. Kirkland succeeded Mr. Murphy as Supt. on the New Mexico division of the S. P.

Took trip to Nogal Canyon

The Girl Scouts under leadership of their new Scoutmaster, Mrs. C. M. Lucky, took a trip to Nogal Canyon the first part of the week to select a site for the Scout cabin which they expect to erect soon. Scoutmaster Lucky spoke in the highest of terms of the courtesies extended to her party by Mr. Chas. LeBaron, who gave the Scouts the privilege of selecting their own lot and site for their cabin. It now remains for our people to get together and build the cabin. Some have already offered to help build the cabin and others will be ready to raise the necessary money to finance the project. Let's go, before the season is too far advanced.

Barn Dance at White Oaks Saturday, July 14.

There will be an old-fashioned Barn Dance at White Oaks on the night of Saturday, July 14. Bill Wettstein and his "Toe Tickers" will furnish the music. White Oaks is a cool place, considerably higher than it is in Carrizozo, and with a good hard maple floor such as they have in the Town Hall there, and good, snappy jazz music, a fine time is assured. See the cards—they are out. The music will be excellent and dancing will continue from 9 to 2. The hall will be gayly decorated for the occasion. Don't miss this dance.

Mayor McQuillen on Vacation

Mayor G. T. McQuillen left last Saturday for Roswell, where he joined his sister, Mrs. James Harding and son Tabb of McGregor, Texas, and guest, Miss Grandberry. ### Visiting the Heflins

Miss Hilda Seiver of San Francisco, sister of Mrs. T. W. Heflin, is here for a visit with her sister's family and will remain for about two weeks.

Mrs. Charles M. Wofford of Alamogordo is the guest of Mrs. T. E. Welch at the Patos Mountain Ranch this week.

The New School Building

Work on the new High School building is progressing nicely. Through the courtesy of Prof. J. M. Helm, we witnessed the activity in remodeling the old portions and building of the new additions, this morning.

Contractor Heflin is different from most men in his line of business. He is continually on the ground to see that everything is done in order and strictly according to the provisions of the contract.

Professor Helm has denied himself his usual summer vacation and is also on the scene and nothing escapes his observation. When completed we will have one of the nicest schools in this part of the state. The walls of the new structure are going up rapidly and substantially, the connections to the old building are being made and it will not be long before Mr. Heflin can ring down the curtain on the finish, which will be in time for the opening of the fall term of school.

Clemente Hightower and family came through here last week on their return trip to Horse Springs, N. M., after attending the 4th of July celebration at Alamogordo.

Card of Thanks

We want to thank our many friends who came to our rescue in our great distress, and remained true and loyal through the long trying years of waiting and suspense. Peace and good fortune to all of you.

Some Desirable Recipes

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Far away there in the sunshine are my highest aspirations. I cannot reach them, but I can look up to them, see their beauty and try to follow where they lead.—Louisa M. Alcott.

A stew may be insipid, flat and wholly unattractive if not well prepared.

Take solid meat from the chuck or round, cut into half-inch cubes. Cut one third of the meat in sea-soned flour and fry brown in some of the fat, add the rest with boiling water and simmer very gently so that the meat will be tender when cooked. When the meat is partially cooked add the vegetables to be served with it. Carrots, turnips, parsnips and potatoes are commonly liked. Varies with green beans, peas, corn and tomatoes with a bit of marjoram, basil, thyme or other herbs. The stew will be different and most savory.

Cannelon of Beef.—Take a pound and a half from the top of the round, finely chopped; add a tablespoonful of minced parsley, the grated rind of half a lemon, a tablespoonful of grated onion, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of mace, one-half teaspoonful of melted butter, a teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper and paprika. Mix all well and form into a roll. Place in a baking pan and arrange slices of salt pork over the top. Bake in a hot oven adding a few moments before it is finished a sufficient number of halves of apricots (stewed or canned) to serve with each helping of the meat.

Lamb Chops With Pineapple.—Select rib chops and have them boned and rolled, broil and season well with salt, paprika and pepper. Drain canned pineapple slices from their juice, dry and brush with butter, then saute to a rich brown. Place the pineapple slices on a hot platter and arrange the chops around them.

NOTES FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Sunlight yellows white silk.

Before washing silk dresses, cut the badly soiled spots with basting thread.

Before dyeing cloth, be sure that it is perfectly clean. Dye will not conceal grease or soiled spots.

Blind tape turned under and hemmed to the dress makes a simple and effective trimming for children's summer frocks.

Shades of gray are usually more becoming to the elderly woman than black, which tends to emphasize the lines of the face.

Early childhood is the time when lasting health habits are being formed. Parents who know this will bend every effort to help their children form good ones.

Arrange the chops on each and garnish the dish with watercress. Each chop may be garnished with a strip of fancy form of plimento. Serve very hot.

Dainty French Dishes.

The French cook knows how to prepare a dainty dish from very little material and out of the common or ordinary. Here is a good one which will be greatly enjoyed:

Goussiers.—These are etheric dumplings in America; bring to a boil one cupful of milk, add six table-spoonfuls of flour to a little cold milk and mix well, then add to the boiling milk, stir and cook until smooth and thick. Remove from the heat and add two egg yolks, beating well after each, add salt and pepper and a half cupful of grated cheese. Have ready a pan of boiling water and drop the dumplings, measured between two tea-spoons, into the boiling salted water. When they rise to the top, skim them out, drain well and put into a large flat dish. Pour over, when all are done one cupful of rich white sauce, using one cupful of thin cream. Sprinkle with more cheese and brown in a hot oven or under the gas flame. These are nice for dessert served with hot maple syrup poured around them.

Bagnets.—Bring three cupfuls of milk to a boiling point, sift into this, stirring all the time, six table-spoonfuls of farina and cook, stirring constantly. Mix one table-spoonful of flour with two of cold water and stir into the boiling mixture, add one-half cupful of cooked ham, tongue, or crisp bacon with salt and pepper to taste; stir and cook. Turn out into a buttered dish and smooth the top, the mixture should be about one inch thick. When perfectly cold cut into rounds, using a small cutter. Roll them into balls, brush with egg and roll in grated cheese, then in crumbs. Fry in a wire basket until crisp and brown. Serve garnished with parsley, enjoyed.

Risotto.—To one-half cupful of rice add three table-spoonfuls of olive oil, two large onions, one-half cupful of cheese and two or more cupfuls of meat stock. Slice the onions and cook them in the oil for five minutes, add the rice and let it cook up the fat. Add a cupful of liquid and simmer until it is a soft paste. At the last moment season with salt, pepper and half a cupful of grated cheese.

Egg Croquettes.—Take four hard cooked eggs, dice them and add a cupful of the croquette sauce. Add one-half teaspoonful of parsley minced the same of green pepper minced and season nicely. Shape after cooling and fry in the usual way.

Mashed Turnips.—Slice and cook tender young turnips in water salted toward the last of the cooking. To a liberal quart of turnips add two small neatly potatoes and mash all together until smooth; add salt to taste half a teaspoonful of sugar, two table-spoonfuls of butter and beat well into into a hot dish, dot with butter, and dashes of paprika.

SUN BATHS ARE GOOD FOR CHILDREN

Children Playing in Sun Suits.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sun baths in the back yard are in order for this sturdy three-year-old and his sister, half his age, who is learning to manage her first kiddie-car. Both children are dressed in sun suits which permit a large amount of sunlight to reach their skin. Neck and arm-holes are cut low, and the tops are made of transparent material. The bottom part may be made of colored sulting or any printed cotton fabric, which the child may enjoy choosing for himself. The trouser legs are as plain and as short as possible. Features that make these suits comfortable and convenient are the wide shoulder straps, which do not cut or slide off, and the lapped shoulder fastening. Allowance for growth is made at the shoulder by providing a second buttonhole which will permit the garment to be dropped an inch or two. Barefoot sandals may be worn to protect the soles of the feet.

Every bright warm sunny day in summer when the thermometer reaches 80 degrees Fahrenheit or more, let the children wear sun suits while playing. In order to get the benefit of the ultra-violet rays of the sun which have been found so important to growth and physical well being, the Bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture believes that sun baths should be given to all well children to keep them well and to many sick children to help make them well. It may be necessary to accustom a child gradually to playing in the direct sun, until a coat of tan has been acquired. A light-weight brimmed hat should be worn to protect the eyes. The suits worn by the children in the picture can be made from an ordinary romper pattern.

HOW TO AVOID ROACHES

Roaches will not frequent rooms unless they find some available food material, and if such materials can be kept from living rooms and offices or scrupulous care exercised to see that no such material is placed in drawers where it can leave an attractive odor or fragments of food, the roach nuisance can be largely restricted to places where food necessarily must be kept.

Sun's Long Life

The sun will continue to supply us with heat and light for 150,000,000,000 years, says a French astronomer. Until now it has been thought that the sun would burn out in 10,000,000 years' time at the most. This new calculation is based on the latest discoveries of the atom's construction.

Remember Plants Are Alive

In dealing with plants cautious care must be exercised, because they are living things which are always changing. Unless this is remembered serious mistakes may be made in landscaping the home grounds.

USE OF ELECTRICITY IN FARM HOMES

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Electricity may be supplied to farm homes either by individual plants, by community power plants, or by a company which operates the lighting or trolley system in some nearby city. Wherever it has been installed it has brought innumerable conveniences with it. No one is more ready than the busy farmer's wife to avail herself of electric aids if she can obtain them. Californians have been especially quick to see what electricity could do for the farm home in addition to lighting it and operating power farm machinery. A recent report from California received by the United States Department of Agriculture states that there is more electricity used on the farms of that state than in all others put together. In a questionnaire on household conveniences returned by 5,361 California farm housewives to the General Federation of Women's Clubs, it appeared that over 3,500 had, and used, electricity.

Pennsylvania Farm Kitchen Electrically Equipped.

The illustration shows an electrified farm kitchen in the East, in Lancaster county, Pa. The housewife here has not only an electric range, but also an electric toaster, a vacuum cleaner, a washing machine and an electric iron. Running water is brought to the house by electric power, supplied from a co-operative electric power plant which uses an old mill pond for generating electricity.

Kiddies' Bedtime Story

By Mary Graham Bonner

"Why do you say that your adventures are finer and more interesting than ours?" asked the tree kangaroo.

"Because we see a great deal of the world, too. We don't walk out to meet the world, but the world comes to our eyes and yards to meet us," the oldest kangaroo inhabitant said proudly.

The rat kangaroo looked at the tree kangaroo and they both shook their heads as though to say:

"Poor old inhabitant—his brain is a little queer."

But while they were thinking this and saying nothing aloud, the oldest inhabitant went on talking.

"You see, people from all over the world come to see us. There are people who speak different languages, and stand in front and chat about us."

"Ah, the many languages which have been used in describing our charms!"

And the kangaroo who had lived longest in the zoo waved his tail delightedly.

"We have seen people from the south, the north, the east and west, and even from the center."

"Whatever do you mean by the center?" asked the tree kangaroo.

"I mean here, of course," said the oldest inhabitant. "I am judging the other directions from where I stand."

The Tree Kangaroo.

"Here in the zoo the keepers come to see us, and then the outsiders come to gaze and admire as I've said before. 'You see,' he continued, 'it is true, though we don't travel we see people who have traveled.'

WHITE ACCESSORIES WITH SUMMER COSTUMES

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

manufacturers are making their kid shoes pretty much of these whites. The newest modes are either all white or delicately appliqued and piped in pastel colors, or black, blue or brown trimmed. White kid sports shoes trimmed with brown lizard are very smart, while white kid trimmed with black glaze kid is perhaps a little more popular owing to its accommodation to any costume. For the dresser shoe there is the single thin strap slipper very delicately piped, appliqued and heeled with gold, or the white kid pump with inset of gold or color, or with a charming white and color small kid bow in place of a buckle.

Very dainty are the new white kid shoes for the sweet girl graduate. They are in a one-strap model of pump type, with the thin strap in a delicate color, and the shoe piped in gold. Or they may be all white in the same model delicately modeled to the foot. In fact so dainty are these new models that brides are abandoning the traditional white satin slipper for the more practical white kid pump.

Lovely as any silks are these new flannels, some of which show florals printed on creamy white. In weight they are as light as any challis. Being of 54-inch width, they cut to excellent advantage, especially if one is making a sports suit like the one in the picture to the left, where the wide cape scarf requires a good width material. Note the handsome white kid shoes worn with this ensemble. They have a medium heel and stress the chic one-strap mode.

A smart three-piece sports ensemble has a white flannel coat in three-quarter length, posed over a two-piece frock of striped flannel, with the skirt in plain and the striped running vertically, while the jumper is fashioned with the stripes running horizontally. With this ensemble, as shown to the right in the picture, white shoes are also worn.

WHITE is living up to early predictions. Enthusiasm is especially shown for white accessories with the summer costume. So it is that white kid shoes have come into their own again with a return of the white self hat.

There are many whites this season from which to choose, so that one is sure to get a pleasing tone. There is the dead white, the jade white, the cream and the ivory white. The most universally favored white is found in either the cream or the ivory. Shoes

"Less than two years ago," said the professional booster, with a wide sweep of his arms to include a new outlying area of his city, "this was all farmland."

"Is that so?" said the visitor, who was somewhat artistic and had a sense of beauty, as he looked over the shacks, pools of stagnant water, abandoned motor cars, and so on. "Is that so? That's too bad."

GOV. ALFRED EMANUEL SMITH

Democratic Standard Bearer Named At Houston

DEMOCRATS NAME SMITH-ROBINSON AS THEIR TICKET

Big Gathering of the Unterrified Held at Houston

PARTY HARMONY PREVAILED

Gov. Smith and Followers Dominated the Convention So Far As Nomination Was Concerned—Long Parley Over Prohibition Plank in Platform.

BY WRIGHT A. PATTERSON
Sam Houston Hall, Houston—In the words of Will Rogers the national Democracy met in Houston to nominate a candidate for vice-president. Of course, there was the small formality of ratifying the nomination of the presidential candidate, and the ticket named was:

GOV. ALFRED E. SMITH of New York nominated for president on the first ballot.

SENATOR JOSEPH T. ROBINSON, of Arkansas, nominated for vice-president on the first ballot.

Aside from the naming of a ticket there was much discussion, and long hours of argument over the things to which the assembled Democracy "pointed with pride," and those things which they "viewed with alarm." In the end a platform was adopted, and the following is a summary of its more important planks:

The prohibition plank, a compromise between the extreme wet and extreme dry, "viewed with alarm" the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment on the part of the Republican administration and promised a strict enforcement of that and all other laws.

On the subject of farm relief the Republicans were condemned for failure to pass suitable legislation, and the farmers were promised speedy relief by the Democratic party, but without specifying just what form the relief should take.

Burning denunciation was hurled at Republican corruption in office, and a promise to seek out all evil doers when a Democratic president had been inaugurated.

These were the important subjects covered by the platform adopted Thursday night. Other planks covered the usual things found in political platforms, and in much the usual way. The one plank on which there was the only plank on which there was a difference of opinion was regarding the enforcement of the prohibition laws, and the drys had attempted to write into it an approval of the Eighteenth Amendment, but without success.

The Show Opens
The big show opened promptly Tuesday noon with a brief session disposed of a number of formalities. Following the invocation by Bishop Hay, of the Methodist church south, and a rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner," "America," and "Dixie," by Miss Melvina Pasmore of Houston, came a brief speech of welcome by Mayor Holcombe. His Honor did not tell the audience all that he might have told them. He did not tell them that the magnificent hall in which they were meeting, with a seating capacity of better than 25,000, had been built specially for the convention at a cost of about $200,000, but he might have done so. He did not tell them that Houston had spent better than one-half million dollars, including the contribution to the national committee, in preparing for and entertaining the convention, but he might have done so. What he did tell each John and Bill, each Kate and Mary, was that Houston was mighty glad they had all dropped in, and invited them right out to the kitchen to have a cup of tea and a piece of cake. That little speech was very typical of Houston hospitality.

It was not until the evening session that old-time Democratic enthusiasm really showed itself. It came when Claude Bowers, the gifted keynoter, sang the praises of Democratic heroes, of Texas, calling for a strict enforcement and stony endorsement of the present law, was the most radical on that side. Somewhat milder was the one submitted by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, calling for the strict enforcement of all laws, but naming specifically the eighteenth amendment. Former Secretary Josephus Daniels submitted a somewhat similar plank, though a little differently worded. On the other side there came from the New York delegation a plank denouncing the present law and proposing that each state be permitted to name the amount of alcoholic content permissible in that state. From the dry southern states as well as some of the central and mountain states there came dire prophecies of what results might be expected in November should the wet ideas of New York, New Jersey, New England, and some of the other northern states prevail. Gov. Moody indicated that the adoption of such a plank would be "an overdraft on the loyalty of the south for the Democratic party."

Texas Hospitality
Houston and all Texas gave the Democratic hosts a royal welcome, and extended the very maximum of that brand of hospitality for which the south is famous. From the time the delegate stepped off the train to be met by a blare of tubas and the thud of bass drums, until he crossed the state line on his homeward journey, there was not a moment when there was not being lavished upon him the friendly attentions of a friendly people. The same welcome was extended to all, whether it was Senator Pat Harrison or Senator George, or Cordell Hull, and their dry followers from Mississippi, Georgia and Tennessee, or the wet Tammany tigers of New York, or the equally wet Brennans from Illinois.

That was outside the convention hall and the rooms of the resolutions committee. Inside these places the wet forces of the party found the gloved hand of good fellowship had become a bare knuckled fist of a lusty fighter carrying a hard wallop. Outside the convention hall Gov. Dan Moody and his Texas delegates were the genial hosts. Inside the hall they were the shock troops of dry Democracy, leading the fight for a dry candidate, if possible, but more especially for a dry platform. They believed in prohibition, and they said so; they believed in enforcing the prohibitory law, and they said so; they did not want any modification, and they said so—emphatically. And a right gallant fight it was before it was all over, but in the end party harmony prevailed.

Houston Enjoyed It All
Houston made the most of her first national political convention. Her people were out to see all, and to be a part of as much as possible of the big show. Forty-eight hours before Chairman Shaver called the convention to order there was no mistaking the fact that a convention was coming. Sunday morning the streets were alive with bands shouting a welcome to each incoming delegation, and the buildings were gorgeously decorated with the national colors, in which the lone star state flag of Texas was a prominent feature. Every native son and daughter was as greatly excited as any small boy or girl attending their first circus performance. It was a big event in Houston, and the Houstonians wanted the whole world to know that they knew it.

In the arriving delegations there came the Smiths and the O'Plannagans, the Joneses and the Levinseys, the Petersons and the Baumgartners. It was Democracy.

With the delegations came also the visitors, and many of the latter arrived in automobiles of all makes and many vintages. Largely they were farmers, but they were not the million farmers that had been expected at Kansas City some two weeks before. They were the cotton farmers of Texas and the sugar cane growers of Louisiana—they and their families came to town to give assembled Democracy the once over.

Many Bands and Two Tunes
"Dixie" was the favorite piece of the band leaders until Monday afternoon following the arrival of the New York delegation. After that the entire town was fed "The Sidewalks of New York" as its inspirational music. As soon as the New York delegation and the members of Tammany reached Houston it was Gov. Smith's forces that dominated the situation; and there was no longer a doubt of his nomination among even those who were opposed to him. The Smith forces could not only dictate the nomination, but could write the platform as well if they were so disposed. They were not anxious to use their power to the extent of dictating the platform; on that they were willing to listen to argument and to compromise with the south and west in the interest of party harmony.

The Women Take a Hand
A noticeable feature of the convention was the number of women visitors. Many of them were relatives of delegates, but many more were women who wished to be heard in the halls of the party, and came with the hope of influencing party action on subjects in which they were interested. Chief of these subjects was that of prohibition, and the women—most of them it seemed—were dry. They met at breakfasts, and teas, and real, sure-enough political meetings, and demanded in emphatic language a dry plank in the platform. Many others of them were interested only in having a good time, and they had it. They enjoyed the hospitality extended them at Houston, and they had brought their bathing suits along and enjoyed both the hospitality and the beach at Galveston. The Democratic convention, from either a business or a social standpoint, was far from being a stag party.

Prominent among the visiting women were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Al Smith, and Mrs. Jimmy Walker. Mrs. Wilson was very much the heroine of the occasion, and she figured in many social and civic affairs during her stay in Houston. Mrs. Smith was accompanied by her bride daughter, and Mrs. Walker, wife of the mayor of New York, made her headquarters at Galveston, motoring back and forth to attend the convention each day. All three of the ladies attracted a very considerable amount of attention at each session of the convention.

Orgy of Birthdays

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor:

Well here it is the open season for picnics again and on Monday morning our front yard looks like the chow auquar had stayed a couple of weeks extra. Last Sunday they were 10 or 11 of them little what nots from Detroit parked in line along the road and several passerbys thought we must be having a auction or something and come up to make inquiries and I was about ready to get sore when a kid about 13 yrs old that belonged to one of the picnickers pointed to our cow and says oh look mamma they have got a cow on that estate.

Well you can't stay very mad when they call your joint an estate and if one of them will pull something like that every Sunday I will try and not make no holier about them upholstering the front lawn with bread and sardines cans, but I can't help from wondering what that boy would of called the Swope place next door where they have got a 4 or 500 ft front and I suppose he would of nicknamed it Asia.

Speaking about the cow this ain't Flossie the one we had, but a brand new one as Flossie had finely become just an ornament. The new one don't seem to be no special brand and ain't got no family tree or nothing. She is plain black and when we first got her we left it to the kiddies to give her a name and they thought I over all one day and then give her the name Blackie.

Kids will think of the d—d things. But for some reason another Blackie don't seem to like her name, at least she acts mad all the time and has showed signs of a vengeful spirit. It seems that on some parts of the estate they's quite a growth of what they call wild garlic which now cow could possibly enjoy eating it but Blackie cuts it to get even and I will say she gets even. Sometimes you can shut your eyes will imbibing the oatmeal and pretend you are enjoying the $1.00 table de hote at Madame Gall's.

A few days of warmth and sunshine certainly made the estate look beautiful when all the flowers and blossoms was out. All told they was in bloom at one time (4) hyacinths, 2 crocuses, a 1/2 dozen tulips and the fruit orchard. The last named is unthinkably hid behind the garage so as the picnic parties can't enjoy it. Last yr. it yielded pretty near a strawberry box full of plums which come as a big surprise as when we bought the place they told us it was a cherry tree.

Annual work started last wk. on the tennis court. The men promise to have it ready by Sept. this yr. as they ain't nowhere near as much to do to it as other yrs. as this winter only 1/2 of it caved in. Personally I ain't in no hurry as I agree with the U. S. tennis assn. that a man can't write and play tennis both and it is a whole lot less trouble to write because when you play tennis you half to wear special white shoes and pants and shirt but you can write in a kluona and slippers and in fact some of my best writings has been done entirely bare foot.

Three of the 4 kiddies was born in the spring time so we been having quite a orgy of birthdays and generally when they's one in sight we ask the hero of same what he would like for presents and most always the reply is a pony or a wall beat or a parrot or something else that they ain't no chance of him getting.

But the 2d. boy is different and today is his birthday and we asked him a wk. ago what would he like and he says he would like something that would clean the rust off his bicycle. That is the way he has all ways been and will always be the same way, not wanting nothing and nothing is probably what he will get.

The Mrs. decided a while ago that it was about time we was getting a new vehicle to ride the kiddies back and forth to school and back as the one we had been using for that purpose the last 3 or 4 yrs. was getting kind of sullen so we called up the man and told him to bring something around and so we asked him could we trade in our old one and he looked at same and kind of swallowed hard but says yes he would half to take it over to Port Washington to get it appraised.

So we was scared to death for a 1/2 day as Port Washington is 4 miles from here and the betting was even that the good old wagon wouldn't never complete the round trip, but she done it all right and the deal was closed and the papers signed and now the kiddies is squawking because all the fun has been took out of their daily trips to and from school.

They always insisted on setting in the back seat of the old car and about 2 days out of every 5 the machine would part in the middle either going or coming and when the driver got to school or home and turned around to let them out they wouldn't be there but would be a mile or 2 up the road in the back 1/2 of the car, laughing at him.

That is about all the Great Neck news only that everybody is tickled on acct. of the spring rains being over which means that the electric lights will probably stay on pretty regular unless they's a breeze or it gets cloudy or something.

The Easiest Way is the FAULTLESS way

Nothing to add except boiling water

Every laundress knows that "SOMETHING" must be added to lump starch to make a perfect boiled starch.

The United States Department of Agriculture in Farmers Bulletin 1099, "Home Laundering," says—"The following is a good general receipt for making Cooked Starch:

1 to 4 tablespoons starch, according to stiffness desired
1 cup (1/2 pint) cold water
1 teaspoon borax
1/2 teaspoon paraffin or white fat
1 quart boiling water

Make a paste of the starch and the cold water; add the borax, the paraffin or fat, and the boiling water. Boil the mixture, stirring it thoroughly, until it is clear, or for about 20 minutes. Remove any scum that forms and, strain the starch while hot.

But why waste time to all that trouble?

FAULTLESS STARCH is already prepared. Our formula, we believe, will produce better results than the above. We know the materials we use are the purest we can buy. They are carefully blended to bring out the best results in starching.

That is why FAULTLESS STARCH users in more than a million homes agree that the "Easiest Way" is the FAULTLESS way. One trial will prove it.

Chinese and Indians

Alive to Food Values

Any custom that has held its own for generations usually has something back of it, no matter how little it appears to be supported by modern science. In the opinion of Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States Public Health service, "For a thousand years," he says, "the Chinese have prescribed the heads of powdered toad fish as a remedy for heart trouble, and now adrenalin, the most up-to-date drug for the treatment of heart disease, has been found to exist in the head glands of that fish."

"For generations the fact that American Indian hunters always chose the liver and the white men the meat when the animals they had trapped or killed were divided was quoted as proof of their ignorance and primitive development.

"Yet in the last five years the great nutritive value of liver has come to be recognized and it is prescribed in cases of anemia."

Champion Optimist

This John Smith is distinguished by being a liverman still doing business in New York, N. J., although most of his "business" is polishing up his old carriages. He is not at all impressed by the 20,000,000 motor cars in the country. There was the bicycle and look how that had went by! "I'm over seventy now," he says, "and I've been in this business 50 years and I expect to stay in it. They can't scare me out, because I know the tide is going to turn. Just as soon as this younger generation finds out the fun there is in taking their girls out for a buggy ride, business will pick up again."—Indianapolis News.

In keeping with the provision that various forms of animal and plant life found within the area be used for decoration motifs on the Cathedral of St. Paul and Peter, in Washington, an opossum is to have its likeness carved into the great structure now under way. The animal was captured on the cathedral grounds and was posed for a sculptor, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. When finished, the building will constitute a stone record of the animal, bird, insect and flower life of the neighborhood.

Shingled Cats Oust Tabby

Shingled cats from Slam replaced the old-fashioned freckle-loving tabby at the recent fashionable cat show in London. EDITORIAL COLUMN

This is a Hoover Year

Already political writers are beginning to predict a sensational vote for Hoover in Texas. None goes so far as to prophesy that the Republican candidate will carry the state, but that he will roll up an impressive vote is a subject of common agreement, it appears.

Mark Sullivan, not venturing an estimate on his own account but reporting what he heard in Houston during the convention, says "the average judgment of disinterested persons seemed to be that Hoover should get nearly 400,000 of a probable vote approaching 1,000,000."

One of the points sure to be raised in Texas is the old question whether a Democrat is legally and morally entitled to vote for a Republican. The question in a previous year was carried into court.

The answer, as applied to the present, seems to be that Texas Democrats may vote for Hoover without jeopardizing their standing in the party in either the legal or the moral sense.

In the rural districts it is expected that 'party regularity' will exercise a stronger hold than in the centers of population. Indeed, it is freely predicted that certain Texas cities El Paso among them, will give majorities for Hoover.

This is a Hoover year. When Democrats of such outstanding prominence as Thomas B. Love and the mayor of Dallas revolt against their party's choice and tend to make it fashionable, there will be no serious question of any Democrat losing caste by following the dictates of his conscience in voting for Herbert Hoover—El Paso Herald.

The Gold of Japan

UP TO relatively modern days gold was a rarity in Japan. Considerable supplies were obtained from river gravels, and some from quartz deposits that were crushed and panned out in the way placer gold would be washed from sand, but the country's needs for monetary purposes and for royalty made it necessary to restrict the use of gold by private persons.

The old-fashioned mining operations in Japan were paid for in a remarkable manner. Laborers employed to wash the gravel did not receive any pay at all, on the theory that enough gold would adhere to their clothes to repay them for their effort. And seemingly this was true. At any rate the mining continued until the lack of payment persisted for many, many years.

In the early days after the opening of Japan to westerners there was a belief that tremendous amounts of gold were to be found in that land. This fallacy had its roots in the fact that in Japan there were many "golden" ornaments in temples and palaces which were not, however, true gold, but copper covered with gold by an extremely clever process originated by the Japanese and still in use in that country.

The Japanese "plating" process was really one of amalgamation rather than of actual plating as it is done today. The copper base was heated after having been immersed in plain vinegar to clean it thoroughly. When the copper was still hot, mercury was placed on it, forming an amalgamated surface. Gold leaf was then placed over the mercury, and the whole object heated to a still higher point to get rid of the mercury. The gold then remained in a rather thorough mixture with the surface of the copper. Plating of this kind is said to have been extremely durable. Many statues so coated hundreds of years ago are still in about as good condition as when they were new.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

This is a Hoover Year

Already political writers are beginning to predict a sensational vote for Hoover in Texas. None goes so far as to prophesy that the Republican candidate will carry the state, but that he will roll up an impressive vote is a subject of common agreement, it appears.

Mark Sullivan, not venturing an estimate on his own account but reporting what he heard in Houston during the convention, says "the average judgment of disinterested persons seemed to be that Hoover should get nearly 400,000 of a probable vote approaching 1,000,000."

One of the points sure to be raised in Texas is the old question whether a Democrat is legally and morally entitled to vote for a Republican. The question in a previous year was carried into court.

The answer, as applied to the present, seems to be that Texas Democrats may vote for Hoover without jeopardizing their standing in the party in either the legal or the moral sense.

In the rural districts it is expected that 'party regularity' will exercise a stronger hold than in the centers of population. Indeed, it is freely predicted that certain Texas cities El Paso among them, will give majorities for Hoover.

This is a Hoover year. When Democrats of such outstanding prominence as Thomas B. Love and the mayor of Dallas revolt against their party's choice and tend to make it fashionable, there will be no serious question of any Democrat losing caste by following the dictates of his conscience in voting for Herbert Hoover—El Paso Herald.

Four hundred airplanes, all in the air at the same moment will be one of the features of a great aviation show to take place at San Diego, August 16, to 18 inclusive, and which is sponsored by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the United States government air forces.

Lesson for July 15

THE CONVERSION OF SAUL

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-9, 22:1-18. GOLDEN TEXT—This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Saul Becomes a Christian. JUNIOR TOPIC—Saul Becomes a Christian.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Saul Became a Christian. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Conversion of a Pharisee.

I. Saul's Violent Hatred of the Lord's Disciples (vv. 1, 2).

Saul knew full well that unless the movement set on foot by Jesus was stopped it would supersede Judaism. He was ignorant of the genius of Christianity. He did not know that the "blood of martyrs is the seed of the church." Prosperity may ruin the church, but persecution, never. The noble display of faith by Stephen in sealing his testimony with his blood did not soften Saul's spirit, but rather intensified his hatred for Jesus and His disciples. The intensity of his madness, and the extent of its operations are best set forth in his own words, "And I persecuted this way unto the death, branding and delivering into prisons both men and women" (Acts 22:4). "I both shut up many of the saints in prisons, having received authority from the chief priests, and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them, and punishing them oft in all the synagogues I strove to make them blasphemous, and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto foreign cities" (Acts 26:10-12, R. V.).

II. Saul Kicking Against the Pricks (vv. 3-9).

The figure here is that of the eastern ox driver following the ox with a sharp iron fixed to the end of a pole. The animal is prodded with this instrument and if it is refractory it kicks against the sharp iron and injures itself.

1. A light from Heaven (vv. 3, 4a). The time had come for the Lord to interfere. Saul was stricken with blindness and fell to the earth. This physical demonstration accentuated the workings of his conscience which doubtless were going on quickened by the Holy Spirit as He used Stephen's testimony.

2. A voice from Heaven (vv. 4b, 5). This was the Lord's voice calling Saul by name and asking, "Why persecutest thou me?" This moved Saul to inquire, "Who art thou, Lord?" The answer came, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest."

3. Saul's Inquiry (v. 6). "What wilt thou have me to do?" The dictator is now willing to be dictated to. The Lord told him to go into the city where information would be given him as to what he must do.

4. Saul entering Damascus (vv. 7-9). The haughty persecutor went quite humbly into Damascus, led by his attendants. For the space of three days he remained blind, and fasted. What went on in his soul in those days no mortal can know, but we may be assured that he, like the Lord in the wilderness, was too deep in meditation and prayer to desire food. In these days of deep meaning his whole life was being reorganized by Jesus Christ.

11. Ananias Ministers to Saul (vv. 10-12). 1. Ananias' vision (vv. 10-12). In this vision the Lord appeared and instructed him to go to Saul. He gave him the name of the street and Saul's host, and informed him that Saul was now a praying man, and that He had prepared Saul by the vision for the coming of Ananias.

2. Ananias' fear and hesitancy (vv. 13-16). He knew of Saul's ministry and the authority by which he came. The Lord encouraged him to go, assuring him that Saul was no longer an enemy but a chosen vessel to bear His name before the Gentiles.

3. Ananias' obedience (v. 17). His fears being removed, Ananias went to the house where Saul was staying, put his hand on him and affectionately addressed him as "Brother Saul." The hitherto savage persecutor is now a brother in Christ. Ananias informed Saul that the Lord had sent him with a two-fold mission:

(1) "That thou mightest receive thy sight." (2) "Be filled with the Holy Spirit."

4. Saul baptized (vv. 18, 19). After Saul received his sight Ananias baptized him. Since Ananias was not a church official, it is clearly implied that official rank is not necessary for the administration of baptism. The Lord bestows the gift of the Spirit upon whosoever He will.

God Does Not Forsake Thee

Suppose that all men forsake or forget thee; God does not. His eye sees thee, His heart feels for thee, and His hand is able to deliver thee. Thou art not friendless, nor wilt thou be till the God of all consolation dies.—Charles H. Spurgeon.

A Heavenly Vision

To a holy heart is vouchsafed a heavenly vision. Eyes that are cleared of the mists of sin behold undimmed the face of the Lord.—Blessed.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Democrats Pick Smith and Robinson as Leaders and Adopt Dry Plank.

IT WAS all "AI" Smith at the Democratic national convention. The friends of the New York governor had the attention in hand at all times. Alfred E. Smith of New York and Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas were chosen the standard bearers of the Democratic party in the coming campaign.

When the first roll call ended Smith was 8 3/4 votes short of the 73 1/2 necessary to nominate. Ohio led the switches that rolled up the governor's total to 849 3/4.

Jim Reed, Smith's outstanding rival for the nomination, took the platform and summoned all factions of the party to unite in support of the nominee.

The naming of "AI" Smith was merely putting the official stamp on the expressed choice of a vast majority of the party. The opposition which marched on Houston with the determination to fight the New York governor to the last ditch soon discovered they did not have a chance.

The tide toward Joe Robinson for second place on the ticket started even before the convention was opened. One ballot was enough.

Those who were looking for a "wet" plank in the party platform were disappointed. After a bitter controversy for days in the committee, a plank was agreed upon which declares for enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

The plank sharply criticizes the Republican administration for what is described as a failure to enforce the dry laws and also for placing "political broilings" in enforcement positions, thus making of prohibition a political football.

The platform pledges the party to establish a farm relief policy modeled upon the federal reserve system. Two outstanding paragraphs read:

"Creation of a federal farm board to assist the farmer and stock raiser in the marketing of their products as the federal reserve board has done for the banker and business man.

"Credit aid by loans to co-operatives on at least as favorable a basis as the government aid to the merchant marine."

The Democratic plank does not mention McNary-Haugen nor the equalization fee.

However, it does mention the principle of the equalization fee. It pledges the fostering and development of co-operative marketing associations through appropriate government aid. Then it pledges the party "to an earnest endeavor to solve this problem of the distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance."

Other high spots of the platform were:

Denunciation of Republican corruption.

Further reduction in taxation by limiting debt retirement to sinking fund requirements.

Imposition of tariff duties which will permit effective competition, insurance against monopoly and at the same time produce a fair revenue for the support of the government.

Criticism of foreign policies of the Republican administration.

Curbing of the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes as sought by organized labor.

Condemnation of excessive campaign expenditures.

Development of the American merchant marine.

Strict enforcement of anti-trust laws.

tolerance, saying "Jefferson gloried in the Virginia statute providing for religious freedom." This started one of the most noisy of the many demonstrations that marked this convention.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG

has called upon the governments of 14 nations to sign a revised and final draft of his projected anti-war treaty. The text of the slightly modified peace pact, together with a covering note, has been delivered to Great Britain and her dominions, together with France, Italy, Germany, Japan and the Locarno powers.

Each of the interested governments was urged to sign on the dotted line at once and to accept the treaty as written without qualification or reservation. This government, Mr. Kellogg stated, is prepared to sign the treaty as it now stands without reservations.

Mr. Kellogg brushes aside most of the objections advanced by France and other powers and states frankly that his examination of their replies to his first note, inviting them to cooperate in the negotiation of a treaty for the renunciation of war, has revealed no reasons why they should not adhere to the final draft of the treaty at once. He described the changes in the treaty as slight.

In making public his note placing the matter of approving the latest treaty draft squarely up to the interested powers, State department officials made it known that 12 of the nations have signified, through their ambassadors, a readiness to sign the treaty at once.

France and Italy are understood to be the only nations whose representatives have displayed reluctance toward complete acceptance of the Kellogg proposal.

The confidence felt by Mr. Kellogg in the ultimate success of his peace activities is expressed in the concluding lines of his invitation.

"My government is confident," he asserts, "that the other nations of the world will, as soon as the treaty comes in force, gladly adhere thereto, and that this simple procedure will bring mankind's age-long aspirations for universal peace nearer to practical fulfillment than ever before in the history of the world."

ROBERT W. STEWART, chairman

of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, under indictment for perjury in connection with his testimony before the senate committee investigating the Teapot Dome scandal, will be tried in Washington October 8. Stewart pleaded not guilty and demanded immediate trial, but the district attorney declared that the government was not ready to proceed.

The indictment charges that Stewart lied when he told the senate Teapot Dome scandal committee he did not participate in the profits of the Continental Trading Company, Ltd.

Subsequently Stewart, recalled by the committee, admitted he had handled $750,000 of the profits of the Continental company and had held them intact for either the Standard company or the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company. The bonds were delivered to the Sinclair company, according to Stewart.

HERBERT HOOVER, the Republican candidate for President, will resign as secretary of commerce within a few days, to devote all his time to the national campaign. It is expected that he will visit President Coolidge at the summer White House at Brule, Wis., to turn in his resignation. He will then proceed to his home in California to prepare his speech of acceptance which is to be delivered the first week in August.

Dr. Herbert Work, secretary of the Interior, who has been named chairman of the Republican national committee, is also expected to resign soon to give his entire attention to directing the campaign.

Chairman Work announced that President Coolidge will not be asked to make any speeches for the ticket and that it is not expected that he will take any active part in the campaign.

Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas and publisher of the Wichita Beacon, has been named as campaign publicity director.

CHICAGO'S gang killings go mercifully on. The latest victim is "Big Tim" Murphy, former state representative.

labor leader and mail robber. Murphy was shot down on the lawn of his home late at night by gangsters in a passing automobile. Police say the killing was the result of an internal fight for control of the Master Cleaners and Dyers' association.

PREMIER POINCARÉ'S bill to stabilize the franc at 200 cents and wipe out billions of wealth in French bonds of war and prowar issues was passed by the chamber of deputies by a vote of 450 to 22. Many of the bonds, which will be reduced 80 per cent in value, were sold in America.

The senate later voted in favor of the stabilization bill by 256 to 3, and the law is now in effect. Thus the French parliament buried the venerable old franc—the franc that, before the year held up its head among the other currencies of the world at 20 cents. It was 125 years of age, having been born in the days of the first consul, later to become Napoleon I, the emperor of the French. For more than a century it flourished as one of the powerful coinages of the world. That was before the day when the nouveau riches, the dollar and pound sterling, became the aristocrats of the financial world.

Its downfall dates in reality to 1914 and the war, when the French, although wonton with the blood that poured from the open wound in the country's side, never felt inclined to tax themselves, as other warring countries did. They paid for the war with loans. Afterward they hid behind the illusion that "Germany will pay."

THE sensational mailbag robbery, involving an estimated loss of $500,000, which was discovered on the arrival in London of the mail landed at Southampton from the steamer Leviathan, is still shrouded in mystery. The mailbags arrived in London with seals intact and the robbery was not discovered until the post office officials prepared to sort the letters.

The mail was under supervision of the United States sea postal staff throughout the voyage and was landed at Southampton under strict armed supervision. It is believed certain the bags were not tampered with after they left the ship.

When the bags were opened at London it was found that the registered letters had been split open and all negotiable papers taken.

CHARGING that the Aluminum Company of America, its officers and others entered into a conspiracy to create an aluminum monopoly in this country to the detriment of others engaged in the industry, the Borch-McCiney Tool company of Springfield, Mass., has filed suit in the Federal court at Boston against the company.

The plaintiff company names Andrew W. Mellon, James B. Duke and others as having participated in the alleged conspiracy, but does not make them defendants.

The bill alleges that, although Mellon resigned as a director of the Aluminum Company of America in 1920, he continued to participate in the policies and management of its affairs and has been a "dominating factor therein."

BECAUSE he issued orders to his subordinates to fire on all cars not stopping for liquor inspection, a grand jury at Buffalo, N. Y., has held Boatwain Frank Beck, commander of the coast guard station at Fort Niagara, N. Y., partially responsible for the shooting of Jacob D. Hanson of Niagara Falls. Hanson was shot early on the morning of May 6 while he was driving back to the Falls from a visit to Lewiston. Jennings and Drew, coast guardsmen, were patrolling the road on the lookout for liquor smugglers. They claim they ordered Hanson to stop and he refused.

JOHNNY FARRELL won the open golf championship by defeating Bobby Jones in the play-off of a tie by one stroke at Olympia fields, Chicago. Jones and Farrell were tied for first place at 294. The play-off was one of the most thrilling and dramatic hole matches ever played anywhere. Birdies on the last two holes by both players is an indication of how stonily the battle was waged. Farrell, Quaker Ridge professional, after seven years of striving and disappointment won the honor which, to a professional, is worth from $20,000 to $100,000.

THE RETURN of ANTHONY TRENT

By WYNDHAM MARTYN

Copyright by Barnes & Hopkins

WNT Service

STORY FROM THE START

Anthony Trent, once master criminal, now reformed, returns to New York after four years' absence. He learns his friend, Capt. Frank Sutton, is in Sing Sing. Trent is surprised to find his New York apartment occupied by a stranger, Campbell Sutton, who represents himself as the brother of Frank Sutton. Trent is asked by Campbell to force a confession from Payson Grant, whom he accuses of having crookedly obtained all of Frank Sutton's property and then married the latter's wife. Trent starts on a campaign to accomplish the downfall of Grant. He learns that Captain Sutton has escaped from Sing Sing and later, to his surprise, finds that Campbell is really Frank Sutton. Trent takes his place in society as the opening gun of his campaign against Grant. He becomes a house guest of the Grants.

"How can I see Miss Dupin?" he demanded.

"She has retired by now, probably," the butler answered. "She has a room above your own, sir, next to the house-keeper."

"I must see her at once," Trent asserted. "Can you tell her Mrs. Grant wants her for a few moments? Shall we say in half an hour?"

"Very good," said Thorpe. "In half an hour I'll bring her past your sitting-room door."

Trent had ten minutes in his room before he could expect the woman who had threatened to expose him. It was not a comfortable ten minutes to live through. More had mentioned a woman named Dupin and classed her with the maids. It was far more likely that it was she who would be the operative from a detective agency. And if she were, what a future of dread would envelop Anthony Trent! His keen ears detected the butler's solid tread almost as the thirtieth minute was dying. A modest knock sounded and the door was opened.

"In here, miss," said Thorpe's voice.

The woman who had advanced a few paces into the room looked at the closing door suspiciously.

"This is a trick," she said.

Trent rose to his feet and bowed almost gayly. The sight of her had banished his alarms. In Mademoiselle Dupin, Anthony Trent beheld the only person who had tricked and defeated him in all his adventurous life.

He remembered well how he had met her in one of his early enterprises. How vividly there came back to him now the library of the Guestwick home in Fifth avenue, that autumn night now gone by many years. Guestwick, the millionaire patron of the fine arts, had been possessed of a wild and amorous son; this young man had designed to marry a chorus girl named Grandcourt, whose origins, despite her name, were humble.

In order to buy back his son's burning love letters, Newman Guestwick had promised to pay fifty thousand dollars in currency. Anthony Trent had learned that this money was deposited in the Guestwick home overnight pending the interview with the chorus girl next morning. He had entered the house in the guise of a detective and had used authority to send the servants to bed. Not twenty minutes before, he had left the entire Guestwick family at their golden horseshoe box at the Metropolitan opera, where they would remain during a particularly long music drama. Trent had thus two hours in which to search the quiet house for the hiding place he sought.

The money was already in his hands when the woman, who was now Mademoiselle Dupin, came from behind some draperies and surprised him. Never had he beheld so lovely a vision. She was dressed superbly. She had announced herself as one of the Guestwick daughters and only remained from sending for the police because she thought he would give up his loot and turn to better occupations. She had read him a little lecture on wasted opportunities.

It was when she saw that the burglar in evening dress was laughing at her that these long, jade eyes narrowed in fear. He told her he could afford to laugh because he knew she was not a Guestwick; he assured her he had left the Misses Guestwick at the opera, and none of them were dowered with good looks.

Then the lovely girl had broken down. She confessed her role was a false one. In reality, she was Estelle Grandcourt, of as good a family as the Guestwicks themselves. She had come, surreptitiously, to meet the parents of the man she loved and show them she was not the painted adventuress they supposed her to be. The affair had touched Trent's generous heart. All his sympathies were hers. She pointed out that were he to take the bribe money, they would believe her to be the thief and there could be no reconciliation. With tears in her eyes she had confessed that she had married the wild Guestwick heir and loved him.

So Anthony Trent, with the chivalry of one who had nothing to gain by his sacrifice, replaced the fifty thousand dollars.

Later he discovered how he had been fooled. The girl was neither Guestwick nor Grandcourt. She was one of the most brilliant adventuresses who ever bothered the police of two hemispheres. In Continental Europe they knew her as the "Countess."

But the triumph was not always to remain here. Trent had long since taken his revenge. It was when she was living in Long Island as Madame de-Beaulieu that he had recognized her. He gained entry to her house in disguise as a paying guest, anxious to break into sporting society. When he left he had with him that hundred-carat blue-white stone known the world over as the Nizam's diamond. Since it was too big to dispose of, and he could not bear that a lapidary should cut it, the thing now reposed in a safety-deposit box at his bank with jewels of almost equal rank. He met her again with all the old, hard thoughts banished.

"What do you want?" she asked.

"Why should I send for you?" he asked. "Doesn't any reason suggest itself to you?"

"You know it was I who wrote that note, I suppose."

"I am wondering why you dare to threaten me."

"Because I thought you would never find who sent it. I hoped you would be frightened into going away at once."

"But as I am not, does your threat hold good?"

There was despair on the pale and beautiful face. Although Trent had not guessed her motives, he saw defeat in her attitude. He knew that she would always have some strange and subtle hold upon him. No tender word had ever passed between them and yet he was conscious of this regard.

"How can I threaten one who knows so much as you?" she answered.

"Why did you write it?"

She made a gesture of despair.

"How can I tell you? You will laugh at me when you know I am content to dress like this because I want to earn my living honestly."

"I should not laugh if I believed," he said, "but to believe would not be easy. You are here for the same reason I assumed a disguise and got into your home near Old Westbury."

"No, no!" she cried, almost wildly. "It is not so, but how can I ever expect you to believe after I tricked you!" She rose to her feet. "It is I who must go. If anything is taken suspicion will fall on me. That was why I wanted to frighten you away."

"I don't yet understand," he said slowly, "but if you care to explain, you'll find me a ready listener."

"You remember that when you came to us in Westbury you found me engaged to marry Captain Monmouth. I had been, like you, one of the aristocracy of crime. I had a good deal of money and bought back for him one of the country houses which had been a seat of his family. I saw before me only a future of happiness. Well, that is finished with. He was a gambler, a spendthrift, one who kept himself by his skill with cards and his knowledge of horses. His family had disowned him; he was at death's door when I found him. When I was about to marry I confessed everything. Ah, what a stupid weakness that is to tell the man one loves everything! He would have none of me. Actually, he did not know I had stolen. He would have been content had I been a gambler like himself. But a thief! He is dead now. Somewhere he died despising me. That is my story."

Anthony Trent believed her implicitly. This was no acting a part to gain his sympathies. Surely it must be genuine contrition which could make a woman like this content to work, humble and obscure, as a teacher of French.

"Some day," she went on, "if God is good, I may feel the blessed sense of peace. One must pay for everything. But you see, I cannot stay here. I cannot stand investigation. There would be prison for me, long years of it, and when that was over there would be nothing but the old life. I dare not think of it."

He saw her difficulty. Even though she denounced him, she would herself be investigated. To get away before a robbery occurred was her only chance for safety. It was plain she assumed he had come for professional reasons and did not think any prayers of hers could dissuade him.

"There is no reason that you should leave this place if you find any happiness here," he told her. "I am here, in a sense, on business, but it has nothing to do with my former way of life."

"You cannot mean," she said slowly, "that you, who were never caught, you, who are unknown to the bureaus of the police, have given it up?"

"I have," he answered, "and I shall never return to it. I know it seems difficult to credit, but it's true. I have come here to punish, not to bless. I am going to punish people who have committed wrongs you and I would never have stooped to in the old days."

"How can I help you?" she asked.

"By going on with your work here, taking no notice of me and resting assured I shall never do you harm."

He saw that the sudden ending of the strain under which she had been near to breaking down had left her devitalized and near to hysteria. There were tears in her brilliant eyes. He was profoundly touched to see her brought to such a position as this. But, he reflected, was it not better that she could cry, who had met the perils of her former calling dry-eyed and defiant?

Trent experienced a sense of relief from strain when the butler rapped upon his door and entered when bidden.

"They are dancing downstairs," said Thorpe, "and Mrs. Grant hopes you will come down."

"Directly," Trent told him.

Anthony Trent turned to Marie Dupin.

"There are many things I should like to talk about. There are better things ahead for you than living here." He smiled at her. "It is not good to dwell too much on what is done with. Grief isn't constructive. I must plan how to see you without letting Mrs. Grant suspect I know you."

"It is good to find a friend," she said simply. "I have been very unhappy. One must always pay."

He held out his hand to her.

"One need not pay twice," he said. "Cheer up!"

Natasha Grant had pretty manners, considerable personal charm and all that conscientious ambition which makes up the social climber's determination to succeed. It was difficult, as Trent danced and talked with her, to realize that she had deliberately cast Sutton aside when she was convinced that he would hold her back from her goal. There was a ruthlessness about women that had always startled Trent. Here she was surrounded with luxuries bought by Sutton's money while he, for all she knew, was hourly in danger of capture. And perhaps, too, she suffered as much as Payson Grant from the dread of some sudden tragedy being thrust upon them. He decided that the perfect criminal would be a woman. Her self-possession was absolute.

Eastern Man Credited With Remarkable Pun

Though Judge Ebenezer R. Hoar's name is scarcely known outside of Massachusetts, he sat on the Supreme bench of that state, was chosen by President Grant as his first attorney general, and after the refusal of the senate—because of two honest rebuffs of senatorial intrigues—to confirm his nomination as justice of the United States Supreme court, he became the acknowledged leader of the Massachusetts bar. His wit was perhaps a little too caustic for political preferment. He was one of the perpetrators of what is doubtless the most remarkable pun on record—a triple pun. This feat was performed in a conversation between the judge and his cousin, Senator William M. Everts. The incident is related by Miss Ellen Emerson, Ralph Waldo Emerson's daughter.

Judge Hoar told me that he and Mr.

Everts were talking together one day about a lawyer, bright, but of doubtful practices, who had lately come to some distinction. Mr. Everts said: "Yet he seems to have been getting on lately." The judge responded: "Yes, more than that, he's been getting honor"; and Mr. Everts instantly added: "And perhaps now he'll begin to get honest."—From the Outlook.

Use for the Mind

There is a certain use to which we might put the mind more often: We might use our minds to convince ourselves of our well-being instead of using our minds so much of the time to convince ourselves that we are in an unfortunate state. We get the idea that we are very tired—not because we are really worn out, but because we convince ourselves that we are. We rather like the martyrdom of weariness. In the mind we decide we are tired. Another attitude might convince us that we are still pretty fresh.—Grove Patterson in the Mobile Register.

Freaks of Nature

Cetaceans are mammals whose structure is so modified as to render themselves fit for aquatic life—for instance, whales, dolphins and porpoises.

We can scarcely be utterly dogmatic in such an uncertain world.

The fight will be held at the Yankee stadium in New York city on July 20. Heeneey is not bragging, but appears to be confident he will win the bout.
