

Eagle Creek Murmurings

(By L. A. Whitaker)

The Misses Mary Dingwall, Lucille Prude, Mr. and Mrs. John Gallacher and Mrs. L. B. Crawford spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dingwall, all in turn attending the big dance at Navajo Lodge on Saturday.

Miller French came up Saturday and stayed over Sunday.

W. H. Muzzy and H. A. Borders of El Paso were at the Borders cabin for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McCloud left Friday for El Paso and will return on Monday.

Miss Alene Thompson, niece of Mrs. T. E. Kelley, who has been sojourning at the Kelley cabin for the last two weeks, returned Sunday evening looking well and feeling fine.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. French drove up to see their son Miller Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Finley and daughter are at the M. U. Finley cabin for a two weeks' stay.

Mrs. A. W. Whitaker of El Paso, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Turner of Spartanburg, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitaker of Roswell, the Misses Barber and Kitchen visited L. A. Whitaker Sunday, had a bachelor cooked dinner and enjoyed a family gathering.

Mayor McQuillen, sister, Mrs. Harding, son and Mrs. Grandberry, who had been at the lodge for the past few days, returned to Carrizozo Sunday. Mac is starting to chase trouble now that his fun is over.

Miss Dorothy Finley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Finley of Pecos, Texas, is spending several weeks as guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Finley.

C. F. Grey has moved his family back to town after spending one month at the Blaney cabin.

Hon. J. Walker Morrow of El Paso visited James A. Borders this week on business and was all enthused about Eagle Creek being such a pretty place.

Jack Raspberry, attorney for the American Trust & Savings Bank of El Paso was a visitor at the Borders cottage this week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Homan of El Paso will spend the week-end at Eagle Creek with Mr. and Mrs. James A. Borders.

Prize Dance at White Oaks

There will be another dance on Saturday night, July 28. This will be a prize dance and each ticket will be numbered and also on the stub. The tickets will be put in a container and about mid-night, the boxes will be opened and the lucky tickets, corresponding to the holder of the stub, will be drawn by a person blindfolded. There will be a prize for ladies and also for gentlemen, each prize being $5.00 in silver. Be sure to attend.

Mining Men Here

Doc Randles and A. H. Yeagley, employees of the B. L. & G. mining company on the Bonito, paid this office an informal visit this morning.

Ft. Stanton News

The Stanton team came home from Artesia last Sunday victorious in a very fast and exciting ball game by the score of 5 to 2. S. Hampton pitched a very good game for Artesia, but there were too many errors made by his team mates that accounted for one run directly and led to another run for Fort Stanton. Flores pitched in his old style form and received good support.

Score by innings:

Stanton	110	001	200 5 6 2
Artesia	100	001	000 2 9 5

Batteries: Flores & Pitts; Hampton & Carter. Home run: McCutchin. Two-base hits: Pitts, Cavanaugh, McCutchin, Carter. Base on balls: by Hampton 1; Flores 1. Struck out, by Flores 18; Hampton 10. Time of game, 1 hour and 50 minutes.

The fast Cavemen of Carlsbad will play at the Fort Sunday, July 29. Carlsbad has a very good ball team and our boys are anxious to get revenge as they lost to them at Carlsbad.

The Misses Converse, Kane and Mrs. Murdock spent Wednesday in Roswell.

Mr. and Mrs. Fidel Durant spent last week-end in El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wunsch of Carlsbad will be here this week visiting friends.

Mrs. W. S. Howson left Wednesday morning with her two children, Scott and John Clay for a month's visit in San Francisco.

Miss Margaret Rowen is expecting her annual transfer within the next few days. We hope it will be satisfactory this time.

Plans are under way to have the Tunney-Heeneey fight returns for all the patients here Thursday night.

O. Bassford returned home last week after spending several weeks in Augusta, Ga., visiting relatives. Mr. Bassford states that many roads are being built in the southern part of the country.

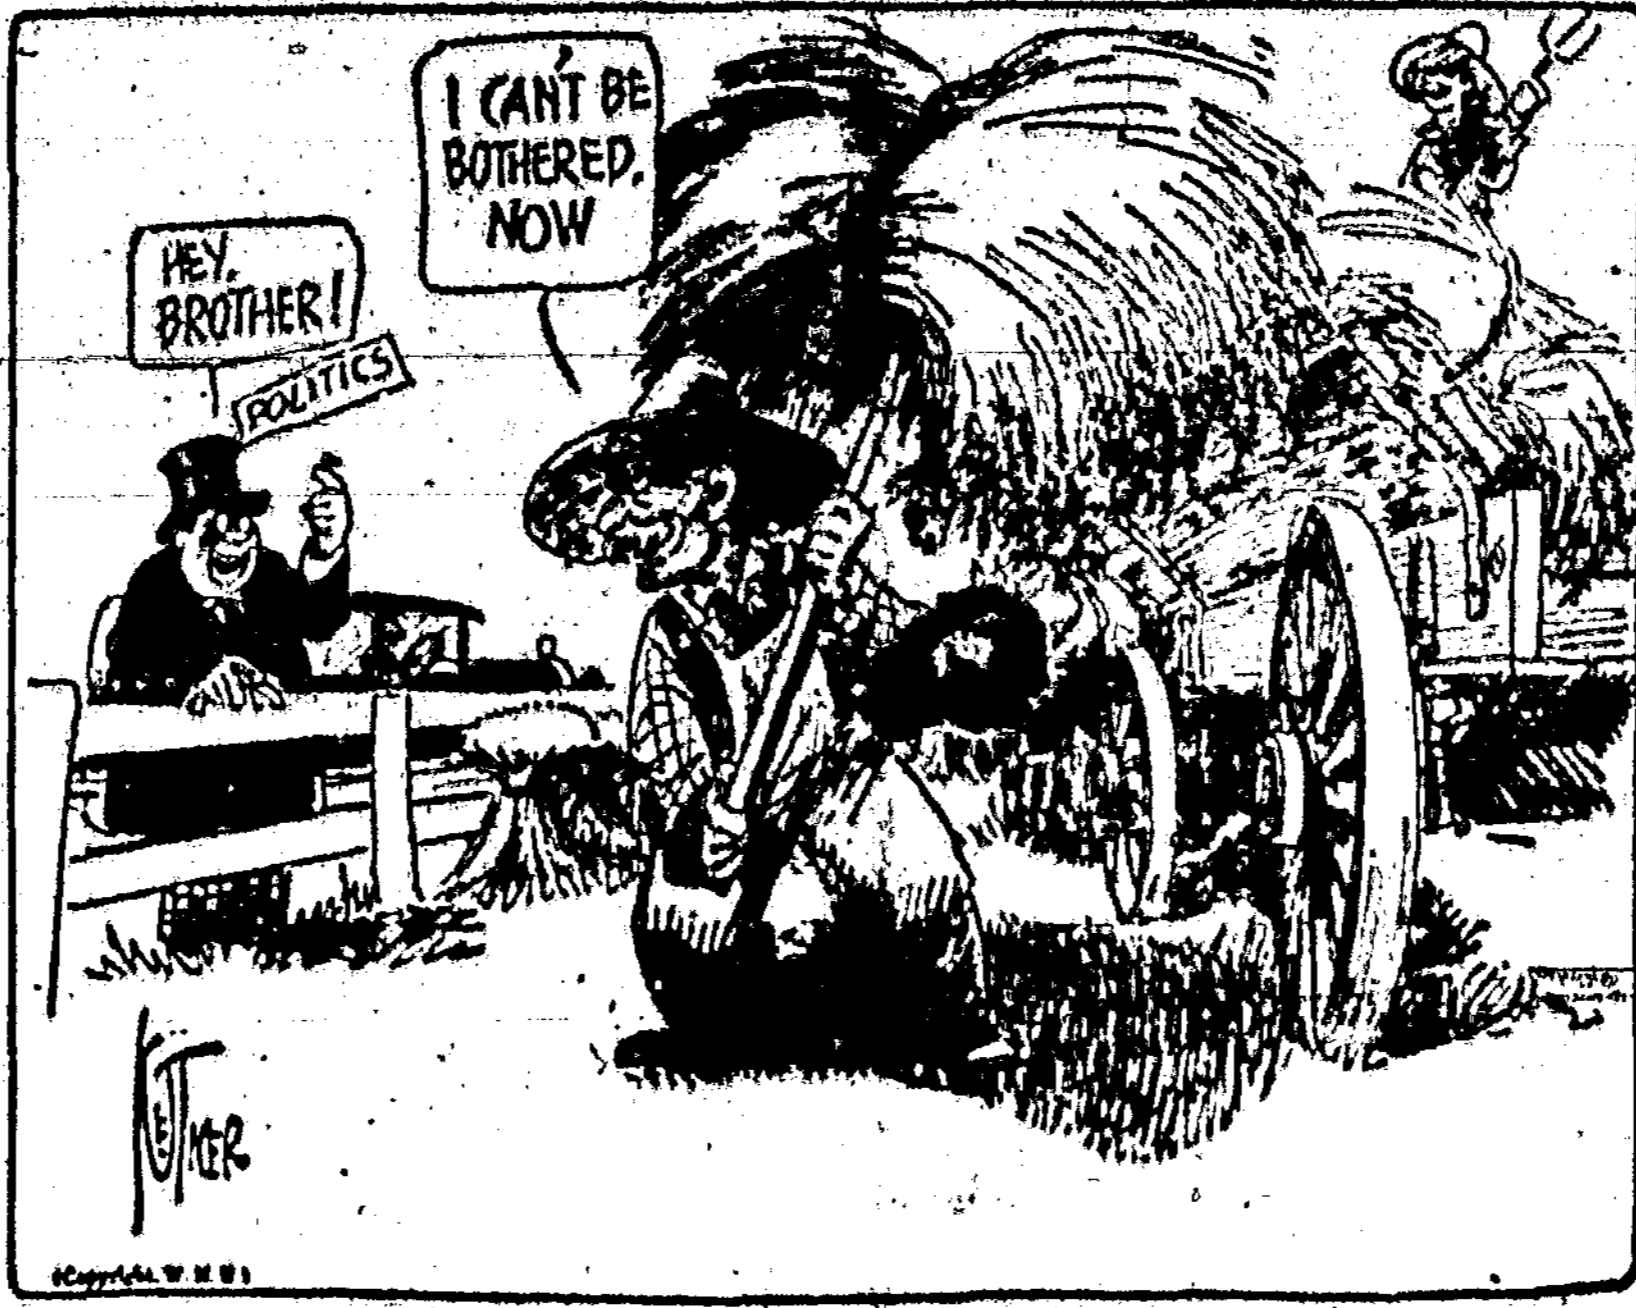

Performed a Service To Humanity

People residing close to the courthouse have been much annoyed during a few days of the past week by an unearthly noise coming from the big windmill in the courthouse yard caused by a loose fan, which would slam and bang its way through the day with a lesser annoyance, but at night was when the party, who longed for a night's rest, would get the worth of his money, by the howling, bounding, racking, roaring, banging of the slamrack. John Harkey was working out-of-town at the time, but as soon as he returned, he quieted the turmoil by tightening the fan and saving many nearby residents from falling further from grace. If you want a windmill and one that will run like a sewing machine, get John to put you up a Samson. See his ad on page 8.

On Trip to the Coast

Mrs. E. H. Sweet and daughter Louise left yesterday on a pleasure trip to the coast for an indefinite period.

SUMMER ORCHESTRA IN CONCERT

— NEXT WEDNESDAY —

The Carrizozo Summer Concert Orchestra, composed mostly of last year's high school orchestra, and under the direction of J. C. Burkett, will give a short concert at the Crystal Theatre next Wednesday night before the picture is shown, which will be a picture selected for this occasion.

In addition to the high school members, the following will play with the orchestra: Mrs. L. J. Adams, Piano, Marshall Beck, Trombone, and Rhea and Beatrix Boughner, who will play Xylophone Duets on their new Four - Octave Deagan Xylophone. This will be quite an attraction, as it will be the first appearance of performers on the xylophone here since an orchestra has been organized.

Arrangements are being made by the theatre management to secure a special picture for this night, and it will be shown only on Wednesday night. The picture will be advertised over the town as soon as definite arrangements are made. The admission price will be 20 and 40 cents for that evening.

This will be the only appearance of the orchestra in concert this summer.

Rodeo Boosters Here From Corona

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. DuBois of Corona were here last Saturday and talked freely about the big Rodeo and dance which will take place August 31 and September 1. This was to have been given July 4-5, but was postponed on account of the discouragement experienced at that time, due to the dry weather which threatened to kill the range and bean crop, but now, that good rains have fallen and confidence restored, the big Rodeo will take place on the above dates on a larger scale than was first planned. Gus Lemp's Roswell "Night Owls" will furnish the music for the big dance. Leave it to Corona for a good time.

Carrizozo-Socorro Contract Awarded

Santa Fe, July 25.—Low bids were announced by the State Highway commission here Wednesday afternoon on 4 road and bridge projects. These were: Carrizozo - Socorro road, total of 18.9 miles, first section at $169,516, second section at $226,391. T. J. Tobin Construction Co., Madison, S. D.; Albuquerque - Barton road, 15.1 miles, $279,639. Mountain States Construction Co., Pueblo; Santa Rosa - Vaughn road, 6.3 miles, $59,344. Hunt, Lutich, Letmich & Ivey, El Paso; La Plata bridge, $7,393. Engler & Teysler, Durango; Las Animas bridge near Farmington at $30,008, and Las Animas bridge near Aztec at $96,561. Pueblo Bridge & Construction Co., Pueblo.

Journey to Fort Stanton Sunday, July 29, and witness a fast ball game between the Fort and Carlsbad. Worth seeing!

J. B. Garven Family Here From San Antonio

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Garven, daughters, Kitty Belle, Ruth and Mary, came in Wednesday from their home in San Antonio, Texas, where they have resided since leaving here 9 years ago. They remained for but one day, we regret to say, but during that short space of time they met as many of their old friends and former neighbors as they could and left kind regards to those whom they failed to meet.

Mr. Garven, once an engineer on the old E. P. & S. W., is now the owner of one of the largest laundries in San Antonio and the family is well pleased with the new home, but always have a warm place in their hearts for old Carrizozo and their many friends here.

In recalling other people, once residents of the old town, they were pleased to inform us that Roy Baird, once a clerk in Roland's Drug Store, is now the proprietor of the Broadway Pharmacy on Alamo Heights, one of San Antonio's most popular Drug Stores. When we hear of the successful undertakings of our former neighbors in other fields of usefulness, we welcome the good news and wish them a long continuation of the good conditions which they so justly deserve.

Farris Family on Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Farris and daughters, Agnes Ruth and Nellie Katherine of El Paso, passed through here the first of the week and went on to the mountain resorts where they will spend their vacation. Mr. Farris, who was once an operator at the local station, is now in the general offices of the S. P., at El Paso.

Masonic Temple Painted

According to the predictions of Painter Lee, who has been painting the Masonic Temple, work is finished and the habitation of the craft now appears in new dress. The building presents a neat appearance from Alamo Avenue, and shows how much of an improvement is made by two coats of good paint.

Benjamin I. Berry Post Held Meeting

The members of the Benjamin I. Berry Post No. 11 of the American Legion, Carrizozo, met Saturday, July 21, and elected the following officers for the year ending Dec. 31, 1928:

Pete E. Johnson, Commander

Easy Pickings for Tunney

Subjecting Heeneey, New Zealand challenger, to one of the most severe beatings any man ever took in any ring, Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, last night scored a technical knockout over his opponent in the 11th round of a 15-round title match. Heeneey was punished fiercely in the 8th and 9th rounds and at the close of the 10th round was knocked unconscious, but the bell saved him and had to be carried to his corner. In the 11th round Tunney, not wishing to batter him to a pulp, just merely imitated the cat with a mouse and the referee stopped the fight. It was the champion's fight all the way.—Yes, we don't know of any one being richer or poorer in town over the fight.

Will Have New Grounds

The Carrizozo Golf Club met in regular session last night at Kelley's Store and decided to purchase the old Walter Gumm homestead, giving in exchange, the present grounds. The purchase will be made of Will Ed Harris and the new place will be converted into a country club, proper. It was also decided to give a dance on the night of Aug. 4, at Community Hall.

The new High School building is going up rapidly and substantially. Leave it to Hefflin.

Boy Scout Notes

Two hundred and four scouts and leaders attended camp this summer at Weed according to Minor Huffman, Area Executive. The camp was divided into three 10-day periods. The scouts have taken upon themselves the job of improving their camp and this summer they cut trees and built a log cabin. This beautiful cabin will be used to house the leather handicraft next summer. So well did the scouts enjoy this work that they have already made plans to construct another one next summer to be used as a Nature museum.

The camp program inaugurated this year proved a great favor with the scouts and met with unanimous support from the national office. Besides the regular instruction in scouting and camping special opportunity was given for horsemanship, Indian lore, handicraft and nature study.

One of the big features of the camp was the three day pack trip down into the Sacramentos. It was on this trip that the scouts tasted the life of the trail. Here they had an opportunity to ride, pack, cook, and sleep under the stars, all under the leadership of a real cowboy.

Attention, Masons!

There will be a Regular Communication of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., Saturday night, July 28. After the business session, the Degree of Entered Apprentice will be conferred. All Master Masons are cordially invited.

A. L. Burke, W. M.
S. F. Miller, Secretary.

Returned from Colorado

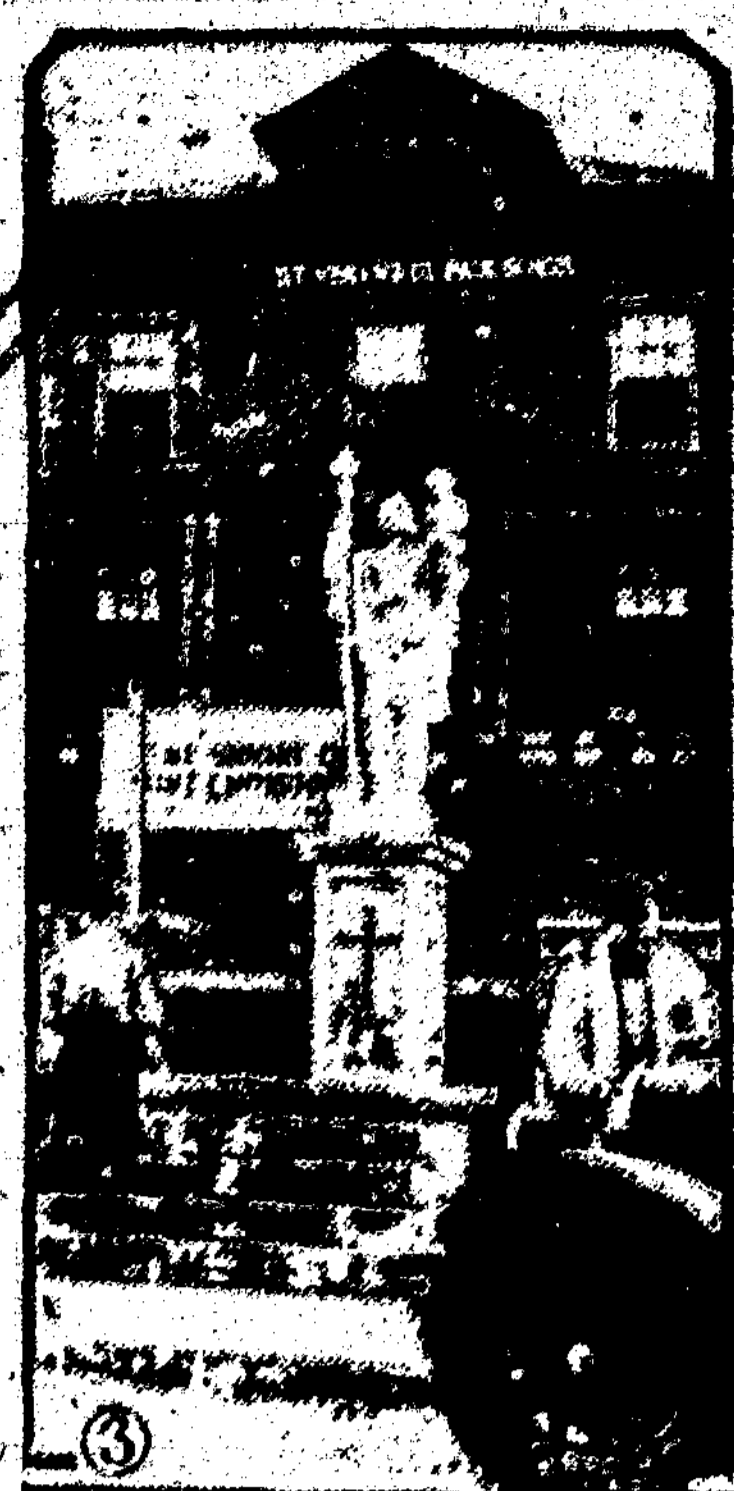

Mrs. J. M. Beck and children returned home Wednesday from Holyoke, Colorado, where they spent about 6 weeks with relatives and friends.

Given Shower

A shower was given last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burkett, for the latest newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Brantum. A good time was reported.

1—Four Boy Scouts leaving New York in "covered wagon" auto to post markers on Lincoln Highway to San Francisco. 2—Great rabbit drive conducted by the ranchers of Antelope Valley, California. 3—America's first wayside shrine for motorists, erected in Sedamsville, near Cincinnati, by Rev. W. P. O'Conner, former national chaplain of the American Legion.

On the way he held conferences with party leaders of several sections, and he spent Sunday afternoon with Vice President Dawes in Evansville, considering the difficulties that confront the Illinois Republicans, due largely to the wet sentiment in Chicago and Cook county. Mr. Hoover's further plans included a two-day visit with President and Mrs. Coolidge on the Brule river in Wisconsin and continuation of his trip to California, with a brief stop in Omaha. The notification ceremony is now scheduled for August 11 at Leland Stanford university, and at that time, Mr. Hoover says, he will outline his position on farm relief. WHEN the delightful Itala met with disaster in the polar region three of the survivors, Dr. Finn Malmgren, meteorologist; Capt. Alberto Mariani, pilot, and Capt. Filippo Zappi, navigator, started on foot in an effort to reach the mainland. Wednesday of last week, 42 days later, a Russian aviator discovered the little party on the ice floes, but was unable to land. Next day the Russian icebreaker Krassin reached the group and rescued Mariane and Zappi, but found that Malmgren had been dead about a month, his body having been carried along by his half-frozen and starving companions. The icebreaker, as soon as it had rescued the two Italians, again turned its prow toward the east and a few hours later reached and rescued the five men who had been left by Nobilo near Foyan Island.

AMONG the half-dozen victims of the week was Morris Titterton, inventor of the earth inductor compass which Lindbergh used on his transatlantic flight and of other safety devices for airplanes. He and Mrs. Patricia Andrews, a pupil, were killed when their plane crashed near Snyder's, Pa., in a storm.

Despite the various stories to the effect that Captain Loewenstein landed alive in some way or another from his plane and is in hiding, the Belgian court that investigated the case decided that the famous Belgian financier really fell into the sea and is dead. The insurance companies refused to pay until proof of death was given and the capitalist's family stationed boats along both coasts of the English channel to get the body if it was washed ashore. In London it is believed Loewenstein's disappearance is either a fake or suicide.

Countess Brandenstein, daughter of Count Zepelli, christened the world's largest airplane, named after her father, at Friedrichshafen, Germany, and it was announced that the huge dirigible would make three trips to the United States this year.

ONE of the worst sea disasters of recent years occurred off the coast of south Chile when the Chilean army transport Atacama struck a rock after losing her rudder in a storm and speedily sank. More than three hundred lives were lost, the list of victims including a number of political dignitaries. The other passengers were laborers and their families on their way to the nitrate fields in northern Chile. The crew numbered 215. Lifeboats were smashed by the heavy seas as fast as they were launched, and only a few persons were washed ashore alive. The captain shot himself on his bridge.

The schooner Refa, one of the entrants in a race across the Atlantic, ran into rough weather and lost her mast when about 800 miles out. The six members of the crew, including Capt. William Boos of Pellham Manor, the owner, and Mrs. Boos, were picked up by the oil tanker Tuscarora and brought back to New York. An attempt to tow the schooner in failed and she was abandoned.

SECRETARY KELLOGG'S proposed pact to outlaw war is well on its way to acceptance by all the powers to which it was submitted. Germany has already sent a favorable reply, and last week the French ministerial council authorized Foreign Minister Briand to notify Mr. Kellogg of France's unconditional acceptance of the treaty in its present form, since his revised suggestions showed a considerable interpretation of France's reservations in respect to her connection with the Locarno pact and the League of Nations. This action followed a parley in Geneva by Sir Cecil Hurst, M. Fromaget and Herr Gauss, representing, respectively, Great Britain, France and Germany.

Another conference in Geneva, held under the auspices of the League of Nations, agreed upon the general abolishment of trade restrictions, with a few exceptions. An American delegation was present but there is no indication that the United States will consent to abolish its tariff.

HOSTILITIES between Paraguay and Bolivia are said to be imminent following the breakdown of negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the boundary dispute by a commission that has been sitting to Buenos Aires for some time. It was reported that a virtual state of war existed on the frontier, to which Bolivian troops had been sent. Failure of the negotiations was due to Bolivia's refusal to dismantle the forts in the disputed zone.

LEADERS of the Chinese Nationalists held an eight-day conference in Nanking with 150 provincial officials, and proposals looking to the complete governmental and financial unification of China were adopted. These include detailed regulations, seeking improvement of the country's financial administration, elimination of graft, increased authority for the finance ministry, and other regulations looking to the development of China's resources and trade.

INVESTIGATION of Republican patronage in Georgia, conducted by a senate subcommittee, revealed that postmasters, whether Republican or Democratic, had been in the habit of contributing from their salaries to the Republican state party fund. Some of the witnesses more than intimated that they were virtually compelled to make the contributions, while others said the money was not "demanded" but that they were told the gift of 5 per cent of the salary was customary. In Mississippi a federal grand jury is inquiring into Republican methods of distributing federal patronage and about two hundred postmasters assembled in Biloxi to give evidence.

INCREASING speculation in stocks in Wall street is causing the federal reserve board a lot of worry and some method of checking it and averting a great crash is being sought. Last week a step in that direction was taken when the Chicago and New York Federal Reserve banks increased the rediscount rate from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent. It was expected this example would be followed by the other reserve banks. The Chicago action resulted in a wild break in prices on the New York exchange, declines ranging from 1 to 15 points, wiping out millions of paper profits.

Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank of New York, in a recent warning said that the heavy borrowing of the banks through rediscounting and their re-lending of the money on stock and bond collateral, which is not rediscountable at the reserve banks, are reducing the liquidity of the banks and creating a situation which, if not actually dangerous, reflects a trend that is unfortunate.

ELLEN, in national convention in Miami, Fla., elected Murray Halbert of New York as grand exalted ruler for the ensuing year. They voted to establish a $20,000,000 trust fund for use in charitable, educational and benevolent enterprises. It will be known as the Elks' national foundation.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Smith Selects J. J. Raskob, Big Business Man, as National Chairman.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD. JOHN J. RASKOB, head of the finance committee of the General Motors corporation and a resident of Delaware, was elected chairman of the Democratic national committee at the behest of Gov. Al Smith. He is an active Catholic and has given much money to the church and to the anti-prohibition cause, but the Presidential candidate made it plain that he selected him to conduct the campaign not for these reasons but because he is a big business man.

In accepting the chairmanship Mr. Raskob declared there should be no mud-slinging and no pussy-footing in the campaign on the part of the Democrats, and he was surprisingly outspoken as to the wet and dry issue. "Governor Smith," he said, "as President of these United States, with all the resources then at his command, will be able to give the people of the United States a picture of the real social conditions under the present so-called prohibition laws.

"If, as a result of careful study, he can evolve a plan for the regulation and control of the liquor question in a way that will absolutely prevent the return of the saloon, eliminate bootlegging, with its accompanying evil—graft, corruption, and murder—and restore temperate life in our country, then all fair-minded men must admit his right, if not his duty, as President to promulgate such plan and to advocate such changes in our laws and Constitution as may be necessary for its adoption. This is leadership—not pussy-footing.

"Mud-slinging always makes more enemies than friends. I should like to pledge every speaker and worker for our cause to constructive politics. "In our business life today we succeed by constructive work and by buying better goods to sell than our competitors. There is every reason why the Democratic party should follow this constructive business policy in this campaign. This is our job. Let others sling the mud."

Col. Herbert P. Lehman, New York banker, succeeded Jesse Jones as chairman of the finance committee of the national committee. James W. Gerard and Charles A. Greathouse were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively. Raskob was authorized to appoint an advisory campaign committee and selected as chairman of that body Senator Peter Gerry of Rhode Island, who had rather expected to be made chairman of the national committee. The five national vice chairmen chosen were: Frank Hague of New Jersey, Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia, former Congressman Scott Ferris of Oklahoma, former Gov. Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, and Mrs. Florence Q. Farley of Kansas. It was decided that main headquarters should be in New York city, but that Governor Byrd should have special headquarters in Richmond, since the campaign in Virginia is expected to be quite important.

THOUGH Al Smith, in conference with his running mate, Senator Robinson, declared that if he were elected the first thing he would do would be to start on plans for relief of the farmers, the Farmer-Labor party, in national convention in Chicago, was not won over to his support. Instead it selected as its candidate for the President Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska. The choice was made on the third ballot, which was 16 for Norris and 14 for Norman Thomas, nominee of the Socialist. Will Vereen of Monroe, La., wealthy cotton mill owner, was nominated for vice president. Both Norris and Vereen said they would not accept the nomination. The Prohibition party convention, also held in Chicago, nominated William F. Varney of Rockville Center, N. Y., for President and James A. Edgerton of Alexandria, Va., for second place. An attempt to stampede the convention for Hoover failed, but

THE FIRST FOREIGN MISSIONARIES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:1-52. GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul and His Friend Go to Tell Others About Jesus. JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul and Barnabas Sent as Missionaries.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Paul Found His Life Work. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Holy Spirit in Missions.

This lesson marks the beginning of foreign missions as the deliberately planned enterprise of the church. The occasion for the beginning of this work was a meeting of certain prophets and teachers at Antioch. While these ministers were engaged in praying the Lord laid upon their hearts so heavily the evangelization of the world that they refrained from eating in order to seek the will of the Lord in prayer. This is the kind of fasting that merits God's approval.

I. Barnabas and Saul Sent Forth (vv. 1-3).

The Spirit directed the church to send forth Barnabas and Saul to the work whereunto He had called them. The Spirit called and the church seconded the motion by sending those who were Spirit-called. A real call to missionary service comes from the Holy Spirit. It should be the concern of the church to constantly seek the mind of the Spirit relative to the sending forth of laborers into the Lord's vineyard. It is to be noted that the Spirit called and the church sent the very best men from their company at Antioch. This is as it should be. Success in the mission field is dependent upon the laying of her best men and women upon the altar by the church.

II. Barnabas and Saul Preaching the Word of God in Cyprus (vv. 4, 5).

After a second season of prayer and fasting the church formally ordained these first foreign missionaries for their work. Ordination by the imposition of hands has its proper place. Cyprus being the home of Barnabas perhaps, accounts for their first going to this country. It is most natural that those who have heard the good news should go first to their kindred and friends. Then, too, Barnabas was acquainted with the country and people and could thus be assured of a proper hearing among them. Andrew first went to his brother, and the man out of whom the demons were cast was commanded by Christ to go home and tell what great things the Lord had done for him (Luke 9:33).

III. Barnabas and Saul Withstood by Elymas, the Sorcerer (v. 6-12).

Sergius Paulus, the deputy, invited Barnabas and Saul to tell him of the Word of God. Elymas maliciously sought to turn the deputy's mind from the faith. This first obstacle encountered, as the gospel was being carried to the heathen world, was overcome through the power of the Holy Spirit. Paul denounced Elymas in most scathing terms, calling him the child of the devil, declaring that he was full of guile and villany, pronouncing him the enemy of all righteousness, and accusing him of preventing the right ways of the Lord.

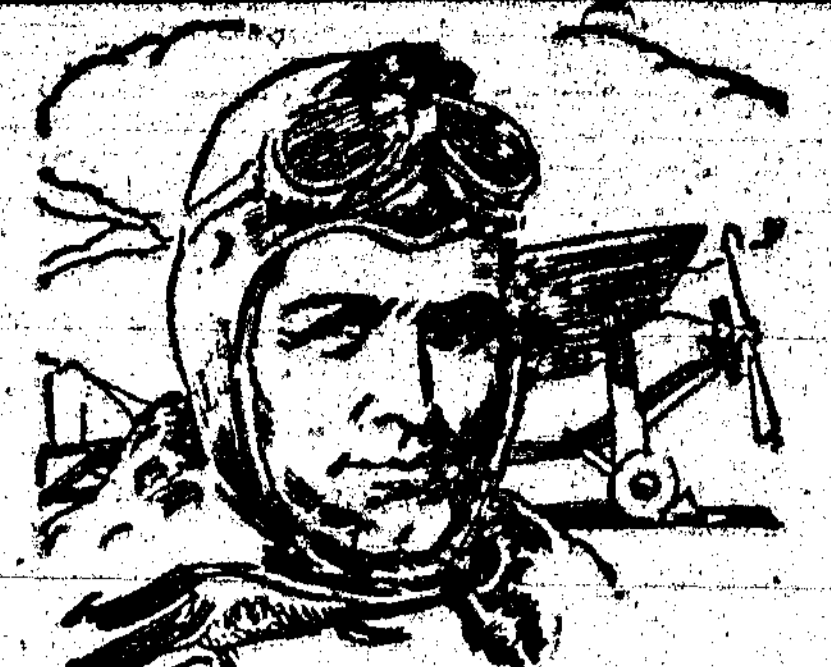

IV. Paul and Barnabas in the Synagogue at Antioch in Pisidia (vv. 13-16).

From Paphos Paul and Barnabas with Mark went northward to Perga. It is from this place, perhaps because of hardship, that Mark went back. He started out with good intentions, but the trials seemed too great for him to endure. Mark redeemed himself later, though when they started on their second missionary journey Paul would not consent for Mark to accompany them, although he later testified in Mark's favor (II Tim. 4:11). From Perga they went to Antioch in Pisidia and entered the synagogue on the Sabbath day. While he was the apostle to the Gentiles he began with the Jews. After the usual reading of the Scriptures, in response to the invitation of the rulers, Paul delivered his first recorded sermon. This sermon is worthy of careful study. When analyzed we find it had four parts. 1. Historical (vv. 17-23). 2. Political (vv. 24-27). 3. Doctrinal (vv. 28, 30). 4. Practical (vv. 40, 41).

The effect of this sermon was that many Jews and proselytes requested to hear these words again. Almost the whole city came to hear the Word of God the next Sabbath. While many came to hear these words jealousy provoked open opposition.

Counterfeit

John McCormack, the famous singer, was introduced as the lion of the hour while a guest at a house party on Long Island. Rising in answer to the toast in his honor, Mr. McCormack said:

"My host has introduced me as 'the famous singer of Irish songs,' but this is not correct; I am really 'the famous Irish singer of songs.' Just between ourselves, let me confide that I would not dare to sing the so-called Irish songs of Broadway in Ireland."

That modern youth has its ideals was demonstrated at a London school recently. The pupils were asked to draw a picture of their ideal home. The teacher expected cottages complete with rosebush, but half the young people drew pictures of Buckingham palace, the home of the king and queen.

Girl Scout Notes

The Girl Scouts met with their new captain, Mrs. C. M. Lucky, Tuesday evening, July 17. 13 scouts and 8 visitors were present. After the business session a program was given by the girls, followed by delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake. The girls then played games and adjourned to meet with Gladys and Dorothy Dozier next Tuesday. The girls are very much enthused over their new captain and are eager to get down to business again. They plan to start work soon on their cabin, the lot having been selected.

Huppertz Family Returns

Mrs. C. P. Huppertz and daughter Helen Frances arrived home last Saturday from Texas, where they visited Mr. Huppertz' relatives at different places. They were absent about four weeks and report a pleasant time.

Narrow Escape

Last Monday morning, as a man by the name of Juan Chavez was returning home across the railroad tracks with his sick mother whom he had taken to a local hospital for treatment, a locomotive hit his car as he attempted to make the railroad crossing and the occupants were injured to the extent that they had to be conveyed from the place of the accident to Johnson's hospital, where at last reports they were resting easily. The car was completely demolished.

Masonic Temple Being Newly Painted

The Board of Trustees of the Masonic Temple are having the building painted and at the finish, will present a favorable appearance to our people, as well as to strangers who will enter our city. The woodwork of the entire structure is being painted and a sign will adorn the same which will read as follows: "Masonic Temple." Lucian Lee, the painter, is doing the work and as he is a painstaking workman, it goes without saying that the work will be well done. It will be finished in about a week from now, says Mr. Lee.

Conceit and Timidity Bars to Advancement

Henry Ward Beecher once called conceit "the most incurable disease known to the human soul."

Conceit, however, is not to be confused with pride, self-respect or self-confidence. There is merit in these qualities and many a man of limited abilities has stamped and pounded his way to the seats of the mighty.

But the conceited man moves in quite a different realm. His is simply an unreasoning, unfounded opinion of his own importance. He is a giant in a world of pygmies.

Many men fall because of timidity and modesty. They secretly tell themselves that they don't amount to much, that they are mediocre and that nobody is interested in their words or deeds. They sink into the hidden recesses of obscurity of complete failure.

There is a sane middle ground upon which those who get anywhere worth while in life must ever stand. Neither conceit nor timidity will carry anyone very far.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Smith Selects J. J. Raskob, Big Business Man, as National Chairman.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD. JOHN J. RASKOB, head of the finance committee of the General Motors corporation and a resident of Delaware, was elected chairman of the Democratic national committee at the behest of Gov. Al Smith. He is an active Catholic and has given much money to the church and to the anti-prohibition cause, but the Presidential candidate made it plain that he selected him to conduct the campaign not for these reasons but because he is a big business man.

In accepting the chairmanship Mr. Raskob declared there should be no mud-slinging and no pussy-footing in the campaign on the part of the Democrats, and he was surprisingly outspoken as to the wet and dry issue. "Governor Smith," he said, "as President of these United States, with all the resources then at his command, will be able to give the people of the United States a picture of the real social conditions under the present so-called prohibition laws.

"If, as a result of careful study, he can evolve a plan for the regulation and control of the liquor question in a way that will absolutely prevent the return of the saloon, eliminate bootlegging, with its accompanying evils—graft, corruption, and murder—and restore temperate life in our country, then all fair-minded men must admit his right, if not his duty, as President to promulgate such plan and to advocate such changes in our laws and Constitution as may be necessary for its adoption. This is leadership—not pussy-footing.

"Mud-slinging always makes more enemies than friends. I should like to pledge every speaker and worker for our cause to constructive policies.

"In our business life today we succeed by constructive work and by having better goods to sell than our competitors. There is every reason why the Democratic party should follow this constructive business policy in this campaign. This is our job. Let others sling the mud."

Col. Herbert P. Lehman, New York banker, succeeded Jesse Jones as chairman of the finance committee of the national committee. James W. Gerard and Charles A. Gresham were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively. Raskob was authorized to appoint an advisory campaign committee and selected as chairman of that body Senator Peter Gerry of Rhode Island, who had rather expected to be made chairman of the national committee. The five national vice chairmen chosen were: Frank Hague of New Jersey, Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia, former Congressman Scott Ferris of Oklahoma, former Gov. Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, and Mrs. Florence G. Farley of Kansas. It was decided that main headquarters should be in New York city, but that Governor Byrd should have special headquarters in Richmond, since the campaign in Virginia is expected to be quite important.

THOUGH Al Smith, in conference with his running mate, Senator Robinson, declared that if he were elected the first thing he would do would be to start on plans for relief of the farmers, the Farmer-Labor party, in national convention in Chicago, was not won over to his support. Instead it selected as its candidate for the President Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska. The choice was made on the third ballot, which was 10 for Norris and 14 for Norman Thomas, nominee of the Socialist. Will Vereen of Moultrie, Ga., wealthy cotton mill owner, was nominated for vice president. Both Norris and Vereen said they would not accept the nomination. The Prohibition party convention also held in Chicago, nominated William F. Varney of Rockville Center, N. Y., for President and James A. Edgerston of Alexandria, Va., for second place. An attempt to stampede the convention for Hoover failed, but the Republican candidate received 45 votes on the deciding ballot.

HERBERT HOOVER, who already has sent to President Coolidge his resignation as secretary of commerce, left Washington Saturday for the West. On the way he held conferences with party leaders of several sections, and he spent Sunday afternoon with Vice President Dawes in Evansville, considering the difficulties that confront the Illinois Republicans, due largely to the wet sentiment in Chicago and Cook county. Mr. Hoover's further plans included a two-day visit with President and Mrs. Coolidge on the Brule river in Wisconsin and continuation of his trip to California, with a brief stop in Omaha. The notification ceremony is now scheduled for August 11 at Leland Stanford university, and at that time, Mr. Hoover says, he will outline his position on farm relief. Senator Curtis is to be notified of his nomination for the vice presidency on the evening of August 10 at his home in Topeka, Kan.

National Chairman Work, in reorganizing the party machinery, is arranging to give more authority than ever before to the national committeemen and state organizations. Senator Mosca of New Hampshire has been appointed "contact man" for the ticket in the northeastern seaboard states and, as Chairman Work explained, will undertake "the organization and direction of the service of plan and policy for the eastern campaign."

WHEN the dirigible Italia met with disaster in the polar region three of the survivors, Dr. Finn Malmgren, meteorologist; Capt. Alberto Mariani, pilot, and Capt. Filippo Zappi, navigator, started on foot in an effort to reach the mainland. Wednesday of last week, 42 days later, a Russian aviator discovered the little party on the ice floes, but was unable to land. Next day the Russian icebreaker Krassin reached the group and rescued Mariane and Zappi, but found that Malmgren had been dead about a month, his body having been carried along by his half-frozen and starving companions. The icebreaker, as soon as it had rescued the two Italians, again turned its prow toward the east and a few hours later reached and rescued the five men who had been left by Noble near Foy's Island.

AMONG the half-dozen victims of airplane accidents during the week was Morris Titterton, inventor of the earth inductor compass which Lindbergh used on his transatlantic flight and of other safety devices for airplanes. He and Mrs. Patricia Andrews, a pupil, were killed when their plane crashed near Snyder, Pa., in a storm.

Despite the various stories to the effect that Captain Loewenstein landed alive in some way or another from his plane and is in hiding, the Belgian court that investigated the case decided that the famous Belgian financier really fell into the sea and is dead. The insurance companies refused to pay until proof of death was given and the capitalist's family stationed boats along both coasts of the English channel to get the body if it was washed ashore. In London it is believed Loewenstein's disappearance is either a fake or suicide.

Countess Brandenstein, daughter of Count Zeppelin, christened the world's largest airship, named after her father, at Friedrichshafen, Germany, and it was announced that the huge dirigible would make three trips to the United States this year.

ONE of the worst sea disasters of recent years occurred off the coast of south Chile when the Chilean army transport Angamos struck a rock after losing her rudder in a storm and speedily sank. More than three hundred lives were lost, the list of victims including a number of political dignitaries. The other passengers were laborers and their families on their way to the ultra Soia in northern Chile. The crew numbered 218. Lifeboats were smashed by the heavy seas as fast as they were launched and only a few persons were washed ashore alive. The captain shot himself on his bridge.

The RETURN of ANTHONY TRENT

by WYNDHAM MARTYN

COPYRIGHT BY BARGE & HOPKINS

W.M.U. SERVICE

STORY FROM THE START

Anthony Trent, once master criminal, now reformed, returns to New York after four years' absence. He learns his friend, Capt. Frank Sutton, is in Sing Sing. Trent is surprised to find his New York apartment occupied by a stranger, Campbell Sutton, who represents himself as the brother of Frank Sutton. Trent is asked by Campbell to force a confession from Payson Grant, whom he accuses of having crookedly obtained all of Frank Sutton's property and then married the latter's wife. Trent starts on a campaign to accomplish the downfall of Grant. He learns that Captain Sutton has escaped from Sing Sing and later, to his surprise, finds that Campbell is really Frank Sutton. Trent takes his place in society as the opening gun of his campaign against Grant, but comes to a house guest of the Grants. Trent discovers in Mademoiselle Dupin, Natica's French instructor, a friend of the old criminal days. She is now going straight. Trent is suspicious of a man known as Yeatman, ostensibly in the Grant household as a detective.

"Don't think for a moment that this man is going to bother you or search your trunks. He is here to watch," she remarked.

Mrs. Grant took up the dainty telephone instrument which matched the boudoir furniture. "Thorpe," she commanded, when a voice answered her, "send Mr. Yeatman to me at once." She turned to the unhappy Mademoiselle Dupin. "You have seen the world, tell me what you think of him."

For the moment the "Countess" could not be sure that Mrs. Grant had not prepared the visit of the detective as a trap. It had been brought about so easily, so naturally, that she felt suspicion was justifiable. To seek to evade the man would be, transparently, so evidence of fear. There was a knock at the door and the man who was known as Mr. Yeatman entered. It was through the mirror that Mademoiselle Dupin first saw him. She had turned her back on him with a caution born of many harrowing interviews. For one fraction of a moment she caught his black eyes bent on her mirrored reflection. It was enough for her to feel a pang of fear. For the moment she could not remember how or where she had met him; but she was certain that she had. And she did not think he was on the side of the law.

Eagerly she listened for his voice. When he spoke it deepened the impression of previous knowledge of him, but brought identification no nearer.

"You are keeping an eye on him?" Mrs. Grant queried.

"He is rarely out of my sight, madame," he answered. "You have, perhaps, new instructions for me?"

"No more than I have already given you." With a nod of her head she dismissed him.

"What do you think of him?" Mrs. Grant asked.

"It was not a favorable impression. You are satisfied that he is genuine?"

"Oh, yes. The creature has his name in the New York telephone directory, an office, a stenographer, and all the rest of it. I want in to see him myself. There is so much iniquity in the world of crime that one can't be too careful."

"So one hears," murmured Mademoiselle Dupin.

She knew that soon she would be to place him. It was like going through an old trunk for a misplaced letter. She had known this man and had been associated with some one whose many incidents outside the which had made up her life. He had been of the police or a confederate of those for whom she worked.

That had been required of her in these early days in the gay capitals of Europe was that she should look young, remain beautiful, and never lose her heart. The danger of meeting former confederates was as perilous to her now as meeting an agent of police.

It was hardly possible that a quick glance through a mirror would reveal her as the brilliantly lovely girl of eight years before, who had passed as a great heiress in the Riviera.

CHAPTER VI

Mademoiselle Dupin Realizes Her Peril.

"Yeatman is the lesser of two evils," Trent told Mademoiselle Dupin. "He is here to steal, and not to denounce you. I don't see any reason for supposing he knows you are in America, much less in this particular household. It may even be that he is legitimately a detective now. Two things you must not do. One is not to be seen with me, and another is not to run the risk of meeting him. These people with their jewels won't be here more than a week, and then, I suppose, he will go."

"I don't know," she said doubtfully. "Mrs. Grant has a succession of these house parties planned. When do you leave?"

"I don't want to go until I know you're safe," he answered. "And that means I shall stay until Yeatman gets out. The trouble is that we can't yet tell certainly which side he is on now. I'm not one to be able to cast stones. He, too, may have changed."

"No, no!" she cried. "One has to catch but a glimpse of his face to know he is evil. It was something of violence that I half remember about him."

"Take what precautions you can," he reminded her as she rose to go to her lesson, "and remember you can communicate with me through the butler. After all, if it comes to the worst, I don't suppose two more resourceful people than you and I are to be found. I'm not going to see you."

"Now It Will Cost Enormously."

frightened or hurt by anyone. Remember that I am fighting for you, and my position here is a strongly entrenched one. If anything goes badly, send for me, give me a lead, and I swear I'll get you out of this house with all the honors of war, even if I have to mobilize the Welds and Bentleys to do it."

"I do not think I have ever had a friend like you," she said simply. "In other days, when I seemed to have money and position, it was different, but now, when I am nothing at all—your goodness brings tears to my eyes."

She went hurriedly from the room. Always when she had been talking to Anthony Trent she was filled with courage and hope.

Mademoiselle Dupin knew that while Mrs. Grant needed her for instruction in French she chiefly was anxious to learn the etiquette of these old French families which do not welcome foreigners in their midst.

In the long talks Natica Grant discussed her ambitions freely. She felt she could speak freely, as her teacher had none with whom to gossip. One of her chief grievances against Captain Sutton was that he had not let her know of his enormous wealth until he was about to leave for France.

"And because I did not know," she wailed, "I lived in the wrong places, knew the wrong sort of people and did the wrong sort of things. I could have been received in Newport if he had encouraged me. It would have been easy when I first married. Now it will cost enormously, and I shall need all my cleverness and scheming."

Natica Grant fired her out. Eves the housekeeper noticed it at the men they took together.

"She's a hard woman to work for," Miss Brown remarked. "I don't wonder Mr. Grant drinks, although that isn't the reason. He's afraid Captain Frank may come back and kill him as he swore he'd do at the trial."

When Mademoiselle Dupin went to her room, stealthily, fearing to encounter Yeatman, she was in possession of many useful facts which placed Natica Grant in a less favorable light.

Now that she was alone she tried to read, so that the hours, before sleeping might pass quickly. The printed pages were not able to hold her attention. She was vaguely uneasy. Anthony Trent had told her he would help; but he was downstairs while she was alone in this upper corridor. She turned out her lights and gazed for almost an hour out at sea. Her ears seemed to catch a hundred harrowing noises in the passage outside.

But her nerves grew taut and the fading courage returned when, out of these vague, confused sounds, there came the definite tapping of hands on her door.

"It has come," she murmured. Then she turned on the lights and flung open the door.

The man who passed by the name of Yeatman stood there. She clung to the hope that he might have come to ask her a few questions which, as a detective, he might find himself expected to do.

"You have something to ask me?" she said, with admirable self-possession.

"Not so loud," said Mr. Yeatman, putting his fingers to his lips. "I have my reputation to think of."

Without appearance of ill-will he pushed past her, closed the door and then crossed to a chair by the window. He lighted a Maryland cigarette and turned to Mademoiselle Dupin.

"You do not recognize me?" he demanded, in French. He was smiling. The changed intonation and the altered face brought back his name in a flash.

"Pierre Redlich!" she cried, vividly she called him to mind now. Perhaps she had seen him no more than twice, but they had talked much of him, the men with whom she had long ago been associated. This was the Pierre Redlich who had been a sort of outside man for them. It was his work to warn of the approach of the police. It had been Redlich's misfortune to engage in combat a gendarme with a singularly thin skull. It was cracked like an egg, and Redlich was sent to work for life on a breakwater.

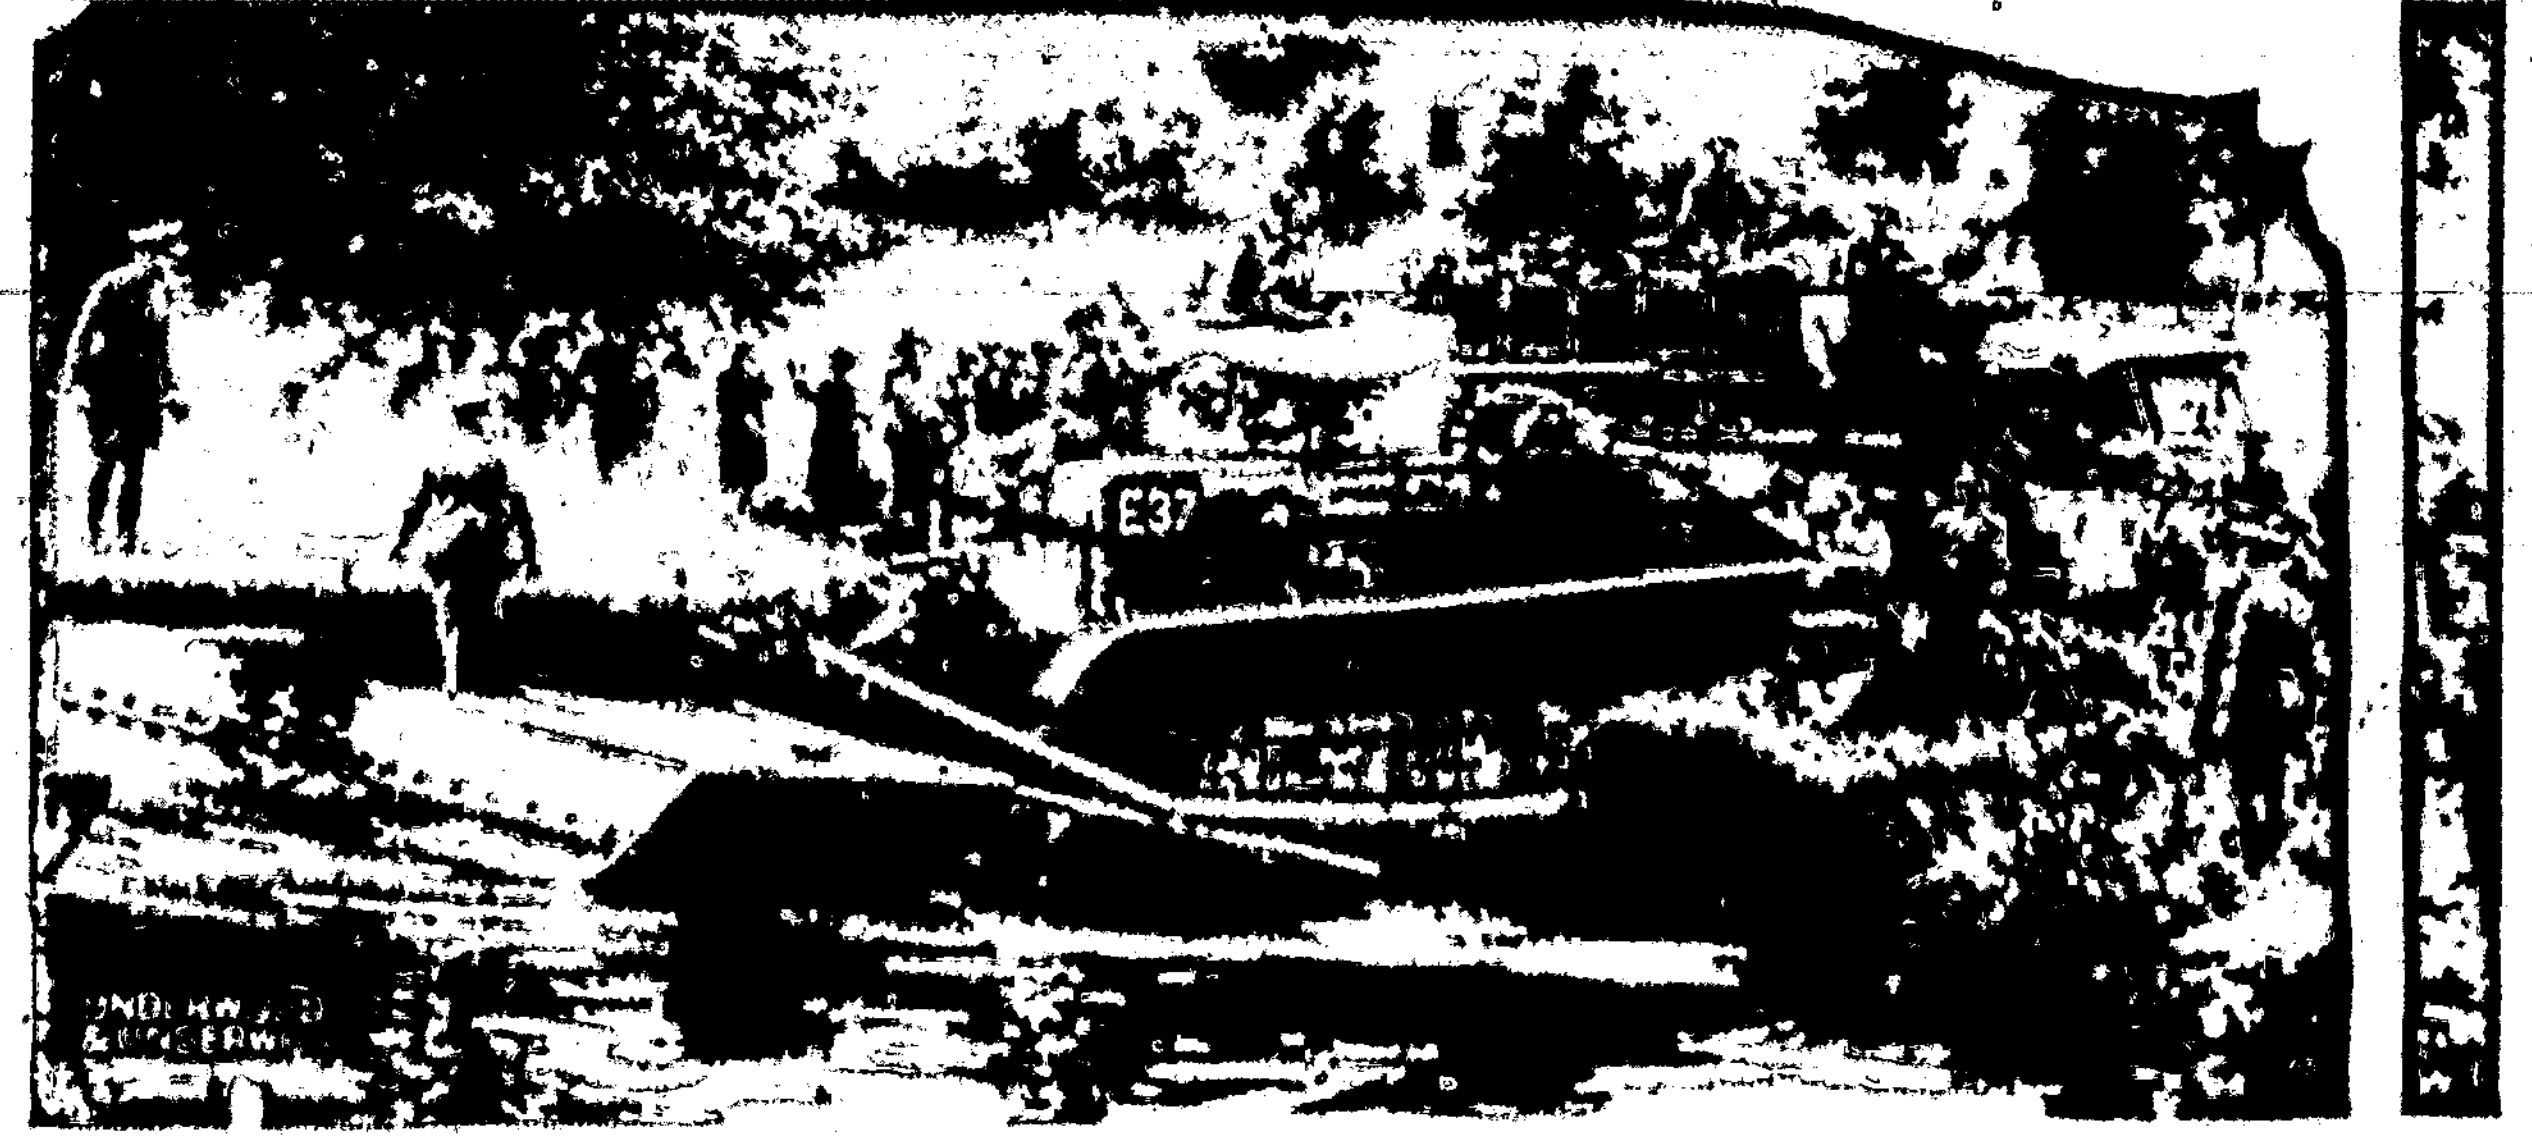

"You do not remember me as I remember you," said Pierre Redlich, breaking the silence. "What was I to you then? Nothing at all. Some thing not to be considered. If made mademoiselle remembers, she was Madame la Princesse Solofsky that season."

Conceit and Timidity Bars to Advancement

Henry Ward-Beecher once called conceit "the most incurable disease known to the human soul." Conceit, however, is not to be confused with pride, self-respect or self-confidence. There is merit in these qualities and many a man of limited abilities has stamped and pounded his way to the seats of the mighty. But the conceited man moves in quite a different realm. He is simply an unreasoning, unfounded opinion of his own importance. He is a giant in a world of pygmies.

Many men fall because of timidity and modesty. They secretly tell themselves that they don't amount to much, that they are mediocre and that nobody is interested in their words or deeds. They sink into the hidden recesses of obscurity of complete failure.

There is a sane middle ground upon which those who get anywhere worth while in life must ever stand. Neither conceit nor timidity will carry anyone very far.

Saving Distance on The New Highway

In its last issue, the Alamogordo News, commenting favorably on the new Carrizozo - Socorro road across the Malpais, asks the Outlook the following question: How will the new road save the distance of 20 miles from the old, and where will it save that amount?

For the News' information we wish to say, that the saving will take place in the distance saved by a direct route across the Malpais at Carrizozo, where with the old road, we go about 17 miles northwest from here, and around the head of the lava beds, and as the survey goes, which is a direct line to Socorro, several miles will be saved in addition, making a total of 20 miles, and perhaps more.

In other words, as the old road goes, we must make a detour of the Malpais or loop going northwest and around the head of the lava beds, wherein, the new road cuts off that amount of detour, making a straight line to Socorro. This is according to the government survey, but there is some talk of having the new road go by the way of San Antonio, in which case, the saving would be somewhat less. It is hardly probable that the road will go otherwise than to follow the original survey.

We were informed by the Highway Department, that a part, or perhaps all of the part which crosses the lava beds will be built without bridges and culverts, as it has been found by the engineers that the Malpais rocks are so porous and absorbent that water does not run across the rocks, but sinks in.

This, says the Department, is not only interesting, but economical from the fact that no other such condition exists in the state.

Drainage being one of the large items in the building of a road, the elimination of any part of this cost on a road, makes it possible to build more mileage than would be at first considered.

Evening Story for Children

By Mary Graham Bonner

"You are robbers and thieves," said the bluejays to the squirrel known as Nutty Chum and his companions.

"Well, so are you," said Nutty Chum. "We'd be friendly," said Mr. Bluejay. "If we didn't steal from each other."

"Yes," said Nutty Chum, "we could go into partnership, and everything you steal you could give to us, and everything we steal we could keep for ourselves."

"That's a fine sort of partnership," said Mr. Bluejay. "The kind of a partnership I would suggest," said Mrs. Bluejay, "would be the kind where we took everything we stole ourselves and called ourselves the heads of the firm."

"I guess," said Nutty Chum, "we won't agree on the heads of the firm, so we had better not go into partnership."

"We'd better not," said Mr. Bluejay, "unless you come to terms and give us all you steal." "I most certainly won't," said Nutty Chum. "And the very idea of suggesting such a thing. Why, you're more than robbers. You're impudent."

"So are you," said Mr. Bluejay, and his voice sounded a little like the scolding voice of Nutty Chum, for Mr. Bluejay was fond of making fun of others.

Nutty Chum went away after awhile, for he found that the bluejays would tell him nothing and would give him nothing to eat and he could not steal from them when they were right there to see him.

So he told his friends, Bright-Eyes and Chippy Chappr, about the bluejays, and said he thought they had just had a very successful robbery, so they had better see what they could do later on.

"I've stolen birds' eggs, straw from a nest and twigs," said Mrs. Bluejay.

"I'm going to nest in that young pine tree, over there, and lay four blue-green eggs with brown specks."

"I've stolen eggs, too," said Mr. Bluejay.

"We're robbers, all right," said Mrs. Bluejay.

"Yes," said Mr. Bluejay, "we are, but we are handsome robbers. We're beautiful birds, too."

"That's so, we are," said Mrs. Bluejay.

Jay. "But I don't suppose it is any comfort to the creatures we went from to know that beautiful birds stole from them."

"They think we're ugly, because we're robbers."

"Well, I don't know that I blame them when I think about it," said Mr. Bluejay.

"It's not much comfort to think that those who robbed them were beautiful, and it is said that we are so naughty."

"Sad," said Mrs. Bluejay, "but what are we going to do about it?" "We'll always be naughty," said Mr. Bluejay, winking.

"And we'll always be robbers, too," shrieked Mrs. Bluejay. (© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

To Keep Ants Away

The surest way to keep a house free from ants is to leave no food lying about on shelves or in open places where they can reach it, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Ants go where they find food, and if the food supplies of the household are kept in ant-proof metal containers or ice boxes, and if all food that may happen to be scattered by children or others is cleaned up promptly, the ant nuisance will be slight. Cake, bread, sugar, meat and like substances are especially attractive to the ants and should be kept from them.

SHOULD SCREEN UNATTRACTIVE VIEWS

A Planted Screen for the Poultry House.

One of the first things to be done to beautify the exterior of a farmstead or of any house is to screen unlovely objects or undesirable views. Extension workers, directed by the United States Department of Agriculture and the various agricultural colleges, have been encouraging for a long time the planting of quick-growing vines and annuals, as well as shrubs and other permanent ornamental plants, to shut off unattractive spots. Such places as the poultry house or barnyard, kennels, privy, tool-house, ice-house, or any of the other small buildings that seem to crop up like mushrooms to meet the many needs of the farm and its activities, may well be subordinated to a glimpse of something growing and of a more pleasant nature.

Mrs. D. M. Gregg, of Harrisonville, Mo., has planted flowers and vines along the high fence outside her poultry houses; not only rendering them less noticeable, but providing her with many charming flowers during the season. Some good plants for the purpose that can still be started in many parts of the country are: Castor bean, sunflowers of various kinds, and cosmos, which yields its gay-colored flowers until late in the season; sorghum, broomcorn, and even common corn, and such vines as the kudzu; moon, or morning glory. For a permanent screen some of the shrubs and taller perennials might be used.

INCREASED GRAIN CROP IN COLORADO REPORTED

Denver.—Substantial increases in Colorado's grain crops as well as in production of potatoes and peas this year as compared with last year, are indicated in the July 1 crop report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the Colorado State Board of Immigration.

The only major crop to indicate a decrease in production is sugar beets. The corn crop, which leads all Colorado products in acreage, is estimated at 23,572,000 bushels, the second largest yield in history and comparing with 22,816,000 bushels harvested in 1927.

Corn is growing on 1,597,000 acres, compared with 1,428,000 acres a year ago. Winter wheat held about steady during June and the present condition of 74 per cent supports an estimate of 17,316,000 bushels against 16,003,000 bushels last year.

Spring wheat, oats and barley all promise substantial increases over the 1927 yield, with conditions good. The spring wheat forecast is 7,035,000 bushels, compared with 5,594,000 bushels last year. Oats is estimated at 6,052,000 bushels against 5,481,000 last year and barley is forecast at 15,077,000 bushels, compared with 10,032,000 bushels in 1927.

Potatoes gained 18 per cent in area, with 133,000 acres planted, and the yield is now estimated at 19,445,000 bushels. The 1927 harvest was 16,046,000 bushels. Other estimated yields of Colorado crops, compared with the 1927 harvest, are:
Beans, 2,482,000 bushels in 1928; 1,732,000 bushels in 1927.
Tame hay, 2,713,000 tons in 1928; 2,711,000 tons in 1927.
Sugar beets, 1,980,000 tons in 1928; 2,754,000 tons in 1927. The smaller estimated yield is due to a decrease in acreage from 219,000 to 179,000 acres.
Apples, 2,429,000 bushels in 1928; 2,592,000 bushels in 1927.
Peaches, 632,000 bushels in 1928; 892,000 bushels in 1927.
Pears, 382,000 bushels in 1928; 480,000 bushels in 1927.

Union Pacific to Operate S. & E. Cheyenne.—Advised a few days ago by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington that the order granting a permit for the operation of the Saratoga & Encampment railroad in Carbon county had been given final approval, Union Pacific railroad officials have started moving equipment and men to the new line acquired by that road. The order granting the permit is now on its way to Omaha. The defunct Saratoga & Encampment road, intended to serve Saratoga valley of Wyoming, was recently saved from the junk heap when the citizens of the valley raised $100,000 by popular subscription, purchased the line from its owners, and gave it to the Union Pacific in return for the promise the road would be operated on a permanent basis.

Lowenstein Estate May Be Adjudged.—In the absence of actual eye-witnesses of the disappearance of Captain Alfred Lowenstein and in the event that his body should not be found, liquidation of the Lowenstein estate may be adjourned for four years under the Belgian law regulating similar cases. The Belgian law has no definite provisions for just such a case as that of the Lowenstein death and developments are being watched with the keenest interest in financial circles.

PREPARING SALTED PEANUTS

Peanuts may be salted in the same way as almonds or other nuts. They are not difficult to prepare, and one may have a fresh supply at any time by salting them at home. The recipe is from the bureau of home economics:

Loosen the skins of fresh, unroasted peanuts by placing them in water at a temperature of 85 degrees C. for 4 minutes. Slip the skins off, spread the nuts in a thin layer on cloth or clean paper, and let them dry for 24 to 48 hours at room temperature. Prepare a kettle of cooking oil for deep-fat frying, place the nuts in small lots in a wire basket, and cook them for 7 minutes at a temperature of 150 degrees C. They should then be uniform golden brown, tender, and crisp.

As soon as the nuts are removed from the oil, place on absorbent paper to take up the surplus fat, and sprinkle them with salt while still warm.

A radio program awakened a woman who had been asleep for 150 hours. Probably some one snoring one of those mummy tummy things.

Nellie Maxwell's Recipes

Another form of milk which has been known for hundreds of years is the fermented milk, called kefir, kumis and various other names. To prepare it heat a quart of milk just lukewarm, add one-fourth of a compressed yeast cake and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Put into bottles, corks tied down or properly fastened as to tops, place in a temperature of 80 degrees for 12 hours. Shake well and then set away to chill. The next day it is ready to use. Do not keep it longer than two or three days. Open with care or the kitchen wall may be decorated with a creamy mixture.

Small pork roasts may be partly cooked, then placed in a large jar and covered with hot lard. This makes a perfect seal. The fat may be used in various ways. In small families glass mason jars may be packed with cooked sausages and filled with not fat. The convenience of these is that only small portions or amounts for a meal or two are opened and thus there is no danger of spoiling.

Tiptop Spinach.—Wash half a peck of spinach very thoroughly, drain in a colander. Place in a kettle with one cupful of salted water and boil briskly uncovered for ten minutes, turning frequently. Drain and chop fine. Return to the fire, add one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of stock, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one-half teaspoonful of paprika. Stir all together and serve piping hot, garnished with toast points and crisp bacon.
Carrots a la King.—Cut tender new carrots into slim finger-sized pieces and these into inch lengths. Cook in a very little water until tender, salting just before they are taken from the heat. For a quart of carrots prepare a pint of rich, highly seasoned white sauce to which has been added while cooking, one teaspoonful of scraped onion, a dash of cayenne, one tablespoonful each of finely diced celery, minced parsley and minced red pepper. Pour over the carrots and serve very hot.

Lemon Butter.—Beat two eggs, adding gradually the juice of a large lemon, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one of butter. Cook over hot water until thick. Cool and fold in one cupful of whipped cream. This is an especially refreshing salad dressing.
With a dish of fruit jelly or gelatin on top, there are so many good dishes to serve. Add a bit to a salad of vegetables, or mold it with fruit as a fruit salad. Such wishes are especially wholesome for the young and the elderly in the family.
Coddish, one of our good fish is found in such palatable form—salted—that it should be served frequently. Baked potatoes with coddish in a drawn butter sauce or served in a rich white sauce is especially well liked. And who would refuse a plump brown "coddish" ball for breakfast or luncheon?
Westford Chicken.—Slice the entire breast of a boned fowl very thin, cutting some of the slices about the size of a large mushroom. Select the finest from a half pound of mushrooms, remove the stem and saute the peeled cap in a tablespoonful of butter and two of cream; remove and keep hot. Make rounds of toast and stew the remaining mushrooms in the same sauce, adding enough thin cream to make a pint. When the mushrooms are tender thicken with flour and butter well mixed, using four of flour and three of butter. Pour over the sauce after placing chicken and mushrooms. CHICKEN COOKED WITH VEGETABLES

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
One of the most delicious ways of preparing a fowl that has passed its first youth is to cook it en casserole with vegetables. Even the oldest rooster can be completely disguised if served in this way. The long, slow, moist cooking in the covered dish makes even the drumsticks tender, while the flavors of the chicken and vegetables form a delicious blend.
The bureau of home economics gives the following directions for preparing fowl en casserole with vegetables:
2 pounds fowl
2 stalks of celery
2 carrots
1 green pepper
1 onion
Cut the fowl into portions convenient for serving. Slice or chop the vegetables into very small pieces. Dust the pieces of chicken with flour and brown them delicately in a small quantity of fat. Place them directly in the casserole. Then pour the chopped vegetables into the frying pan and let them absorb all the browned fat left from the chicken, and put them in the casserole. Add enough hot water to keep the materials from sticking to the dish; place the cover in position, and cook for 2 to 4 hours, or until the fowl is tender. Just before serving, remove the pieces of fowl, add a cup of milk which has been blended with 2 1/2 tablespoons of flour, and cook for 10 minutes. Pour this sauce over the chicken or replace the chicken in it and serve from the casserole with starchy boiled rice or plain boiled potatoes.

Ribbon in Multicolors Trims

Milady's Sheer Frocks

a nonchalant air to the majority of costumes. The fad began with the kerchief scarf as an accessory but so popular has the idea become, designers have taken, as is instanced in the model here shown, to incorporate it as an actual part of the dress rather than considering it as a separate item. The kerchief square is a very clever way of settling the neckline problem which so often confronts the home dressmaker. It can be made either of the very fabric of the dress or of a different material related to the ensemble by employing an identical embellishment of a ribbon border as illustrated or of similar hand-worked motifs and colorings.

But to return to the subject of ribbon used as a trimming. Many of the bouffant party frocks of organdie, point d'esprit net or of some other equally as modish a sheer fabric, have their flounces edged with narrow colorful ribbons.
One of the most charming ribbon effects is that of the duotone or triple girls made of broad very soft satin ribbon, in two or three pastel colors. These floppy bows with long trailing ends grace many a tulle or lace evening frock. (© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

SWEETS MADE AT HOME

A quickly made home sweet may be had when berries are in season. Firm berries, such as whole strawberries, black raspberries, blackberries and also pieces of pineapple, or other fairly firm fruit are excellent when dipped in white icing or fondant. If they may be served within three or four hours. Here is a suggestion for "a little something" to serve with omelette or grape juice at a club meeting.

Rock Porides Fish Bowl

Water in the goldfish bowl will remain fresh and beautiful for three months or so by placing a chunk of special chemical rock at the bottom. Says Popular Mechanics Magazine: About half a pound to a mason's of water, is the proper proportion.

IF YOU are making up a pretty, sheer material and are wondering how best to finish the edges, why not border it with grosgrain ribbon in several colors? Ribbon used in a trimming way is featured throughout the women's smartest modes. The use of two or three colors is exploited and even as many as four and five shades are combined in form borderings.
The handsomest effects are achieved by picking out certain shades in the selected material of the dress, creating them in the trimming ribbons. The attractive frock in the picture shows a fashionable ribbon trim. The dress itself is made of a Swiss print voile and it is bordered with navy, old rose and apple-green ribbon. The kerchief adorns the neck, which is of white crepe, enters into the color ensemble, in that it is finished with the same ribbon bordering as that of the frock itself.

These days, a gay silk square or triangle tied about the shoulders gives

Call Vance Strike-Out King

THERE may be several distinctive "schools of thought" in baseball, but Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn's great right-hander, isn't going to become gray-haired trying to put-think any batter.

best bet is a pitch that is just too speedy for the batter to follow. Kiki Cuyler, Pirate batting star, declares Dazzy has the fastest ball of any pitcher in the league and believes most of the men who face the Brooklyn veteran will agree.

Dazzy Vance.

Great-Grandfather, 84, Still Keen Net Player

A. Morse, eighty-four years old and a great-grandfather, is one of the keenest tennis enthusiasts in Great Britain and still plays the game, which he took up at the age of forty-one.

BASEBALL NOTES

The Yankees hold the attendance record in every American league baseball park.

Pitcher Harry Sutton of Ohio State university will get a tryout with the Pittsburgh Nationals.

Of course, Miller Huggins' team might be made champion-meritorius or something, and we could start all over.

The New York Yankees have signed Smith of Columbus, a pitcher and shortstop. They farmed him out to Hartford.

Well, well, well. Babe Ruth says, or has it said for him, that baseball is entirely too uncertain to make prophecies.

The hobby of a member of the Pittsburgh pitching staff is aviation. Cynical fans profess to see nothing unusual in this.

Fred Monclawicz, for four years shortstop on the Boston college team, has signed with the Boston Red Sox. Rhyme that one.

Babe Ruth has played in more world series than any other major league player—three with Boston and five with the Yankees.

Mortimer Wilner of Washington, D. C., regular second baseman, will captain the University of Pennsylvania's baseball team next season.

Infielder George Toporcer and Pitcher Tom Kaufmann have been released by the Cardinals on option to the Rochester club of the International league.

Bib Falk, Chicago-outfielder, was a pitcher for three years in college, but was converted into an outfielder when he first joined the White Sox because he could hit.

Outfielder Pries of the University of Chicago baseball team had a chance to join the Brooklyn club this summer, but turned it down so he could play football next fall.

Charles Bednar, of Berwyn, Ill., has been elected captain of Knox's 1929 baseball team. He starred this season at shortstop. Van Peters, Galesburg, was elected team manager.

The highest batting mark ever completed by a regular in one season in either major league is the .438 average of Duffy of the Boston Nationals in 1894. He played in 124 games.

For the past three seasons, Joe Sewell of the Cleveland Indians has made the least number of strikeouts of any player in the big leagues. During this time he has whiffed only 17 times.

Kyle Anderson, captain of the University of Chicago baseball team, which won third place in the recent conference race, has signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates, and will report on June 20.

The much-talked-of trade involving Catcher Johnny Gooch of the Pirates came off when the Buccs sent Gooch and the veteran Joe Harris to Brooklyn, in exchange for Catcher Charley Hargreaves.

Jacobs, the infielder released to Toledo by the Cubs, got away to a great start. His first twenty-one times at bat resulted in eleven hits for a .524 average. He is being used a bit at second, but mostly at short.

Marly McHale, who was a major league pitcher for eight years, was also a three-letter man at college, a "ten-two" sprinter and holder of the amateur record for the Fox Hills golf course on Staten Island, N. Y.

With the league leaders averaging .331 and the lowest team batting mark in the league at .276, pitchers in the Southern association are howling about the lively ball and saying it is almost impossible to get 'em out.

Scientific Achievements May Be Relied On to Reduce Hours of Labor

By PROF. F. W. BURSTALL, Birmingham (Eng.) University.

A CONSIDERABLE section of the community appears to be under the belief that mankind is not quite so good as it was—in other words, not so fond of labor. I am very glad to think that that is so. Laziness is the reason for all the mechanical developments.

The domestic service and servants, such as I was brought up to look to, are going to be nonexistent in the future and I am very glad to think that this slavery is going to be a thing of the past.

Science is going to cut down the hours of labor. I venture to think that within a generation labor, such as the attendance on furnaces and work which by nature is hot and difficult, will be reduced to six hours per day, and perhaps five. This is sure to come.

Science is going to put into our hands the possibility of a heaven upon earth. There are no limits to what we can do, but I venture to think that unless the human makes up its mind which way it wants to go, then instead of being pleasant this will be a curse.

Inefficient Distribution of Business Responsible for Enormous Losses

By DR. JULIUS KLEIN, Federal Bureau Director.

Merchandising distributors are pretty well at the bottom of the scale in terms of business income with an average profit of 2.2 per cent in 1925 in business as compared with 5.9 per cent for manufacturers and 13.5 per cent for bankers.

Thousands of business firms beckon disaster by the inexcusably wasteful sales method of "going national," that is, "spreading the line all over the country." This danger is courted many times merely to gratify the vanity of the firms' executives.

National distribution is an excellent policy for a commodity with a deservedly nation-wide appeal, but not so profitable in the long run for thousands which are less favored.

The fundamental philosophy of lowering prices, so as to increase consumption, of minimum margins of profits and mass turnover, which have been so conspicuous an item in the success of many of our industrial undertakings, can be applied with equal effect to distribution. But such application is obviously impossible unless our distributors match our producers in the scrutiny of details in cost and the complete efficiency of their respective processes.

Socratic Method of Workers' Education Productive of Splendid Results

By ARTHUR GLEASON, Economic Authority.

The way a group of grown persons best educate each other is in the method used by Socrates and his friends. It is the way of endless discussion centering on one subject. It is almost the hardest work in the world, but the results are sometimes amazing. A grown man discovers he is beginning to grow again. Endless discussion about one subject cannot maintain itself on words. It dies away unless it feeds on knowledge and finally interpretation. It reaches out for facts and then for the meaning of them.

Disposition That Boy Makes of His Spare Time Matter of High Importance

By WILLIAM LEWIS BUTCHER, N. Y. Crime Commission.

Ninety-five per cent of juvenile crime in cities of America is committed after 3 p. m. Spare time in a boy's day is the danger period. It is a challenge to us all and something must be done. Psychologists tell us the delinquent boy is mentally deficient, but the crime commission has found that only 5 per cent of them are mentally off.

To combat the spare time danger the Boys' Club federation holds open house that the boy of the streets may avail himself of the opportunity to build himself up physically and mentally and morally. Passing the buck won't get us anywhere, it's a community problem.

The greatest insurance America has today is not in its powerful battleships, its swift bombing planes or its army. It is our young manhood. Boys are the best insurance and the best investment we can put money into. Save a man and you save one person, save a boy and you save a whole multiplication table.

"Organized Vice" and War System Greatest Enemies of the American Home

By JUDGE FLORENCE E. ALLEN, Ohio Supreme Court.

Two great forces are threatening the American home; organized vice and crime and the war system. The home will never be really safe until organized vice and crime take their fingers off the throat of government and until the so-called Christian nations delegatize the institution of organized warfare.

The home is the root of all good things and I appeal to college graduates to join the movement to outlaw war and destroy the alliance between government and the underworld.

The home itself cannot be properly protected unless our governmental institutions are established upon the principles of justice. Chicago shows how the home is threatened when there is an alliance between government and the underworld.

Morrison Doing Nicely

The photograph shows Johnny Morrison, for years one of the stars of the Pittsburgh pitching staff, but now with the Kansas City American association team. Morrison's excellent work is largely responsible for the good standing of the Kaw's.

McGraw Puts Huge Value on Connie Mack's Aces

An outfield of Al Simmons, Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, with all three in their prime, would be worth $500,000 in the estimation of John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, believes the Athletics' outfield is worth about $125,000 today.

Commission Is Named to Pick Best Ball Player

President E. S. Barnard, of the American league, has announced the following commission to choose the most valuable baseball player for the 1928 season:

Paul Shannon, Boston Post; Harry Nelly, Chicago American; Ed Bang, Cleveland News; H. G. Salsinger, Detroit News; William B. Hanna, New York Herald-Tribune; James B. Isaminger, Philadelphia Enquirer; J. Ed Wray, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and Denman Thompson, Washington Star.

First Hawaiian Open Is Carded for Next Winter

The first Hawaiian open golf championship will be held in Honolulu for three days during the first week in December. A purse of $5,000 has been hung up for the winner of the 72-hole contest, in which a number of golfers of high rating are expected to participate.

Invitations will be sent to fifteen of the leading professionals to play for the prize which includes free transportation from the Pacific coast to Hawaii and return, with free hotel accommodations in Honolulu.

People are Coming Back

There was a time in Carrizozo between 1923 up to last spring when there were more vacant houses than occupied. On the east side of the track alone, where nearly one half of the buildings were deserted during that time, they are all occupied and more are in demand. With the building of the new school, the road activity and other little enterprises in the surrounding country, more employment is noticeable and people are coming back. — We are glad to see it.

Don't forget the prize dance at White Oaks Saturday, July 28. It will be grand!
