Psychology and Psychiatry Keys to the Formation of a Super-Race

By CHARLES W. TAYLOR, Supt. Public Instruction, Nebraska.

ENOUGH is known of psychology and mental processes today to make possible production of a super-race of men and women if proper means of controlling the environment and instruction of children were available. Principles of psychology and psychiatry applied to human problems of child growth is the key to the situation. In the schools of the future, the problem child, whether subnormal or supernormal, will be carefully studied, advised and controlled according to principles of psychological analysis.

The nerve systems of the present generation probably are not developing in harmony with the new times fast enough to meet present-day needs. One result of this is a continually increasing number of mentally unbalanced youths. Numbers of them fly off on tangents of human conduct and commit all sorts of emotional or brain-storm crimes.

Society is going to be compelled to adopt some means of protecting itself from this peculiar nervous product of modern times—from the large numbers of emotional crimes and moral delinquencies on the part of youthful criminals now so prevalent.

It is easy to imagine a time when numbers of young people will go out into adult life with definite restrictions on their personal liberties, under a sort of parole or guardianship relation to some individual in the community.

The danger of interfering with individual liberties produces one serious objection to any scheme of this kind, but individual liberties always have been curtailed in the last analysis when the need of the larger social group seemed to demand it.

The schools of the future will provide adequate psychiatric and psychological staffs for the observation and advice of all children as individuals. Vocational guidance, and perhaps some measure of vocational control, will be part of the educational system. As much attention will be paid to mental health and balance as to mere learning processes.

Men With Special Training Needed to Deal Successfully With the Wayward Boy

By BROTHER BARNABAS, F. S. C.

It takes years to properly train a man so that he can be allowed to practice law, and years more of study before we permit him to minister to our physical ailments, but yet we allow any Tom, Dick and Harry to deal with our boys when they most need wise guidance and companionship.

The wayward boy is a "hospital case," and the practice of consigning such youngsters to reformatories over which the wrong kind of men preside cannot be too strongly condemned. Men in the positions of heads of reformatories and corrective institutions should be especially trained men who have an M. A. degree.

Send a "kid" to one of the reformatories we have today under the type of men we maintain there, and he is released a candidate for the penitentiaries. There is hardly any blame for this condition. It is merely a situation that has grown up without our taking a great deal of notice of it, but now that we are aware of the dangers of that condition we owe it to ourselves and to the youngsters who will be the men of tomorrow to see that they are properly guided over the rough spots of their lives.

The boy doesn't want to hear any of the "thou shalt," "thou wilt" and "thou must" stuff after school hours. What he wants is a good, clean man, not a woman director—he probably has too many of them as school teachers now—to say "Come on, buddy, let's go," and have that man be a real, trusting pal.

A man for that kind of work is not an easy one to find, and that is why I believe an entirely new profession is needed—one in which men can train themselves or be trained for boy leadership.

Quality of Kindliness the Nucleus of Christianity as Its Founder Taught

By DEAN SHALLER MATHEWS, University of Chicago.

Religion is a simple thing. The paradoxical thing about it is that one need not understand it in order to have it. Its badge and embodiment are kindness: it is kindness which Christ lived and taught. That one quality alone comprises the nucleus of Christianity. If you achieve that relationship with God which will show you to be kindly the rest matters little.

Of course doctrines are inevitable. We will have almost as many interpretations of religious experience as there are people. But the important matter is not that a man or woman take any particular doctrine or interpretation as his or her own, but that he or she find, in some form, real, deep, satisfying religious experience. You don't need to know the intricate ramifications of metaphysics, with their ontology and cosmography and cosmogony. One teacher emphasizes forms, another extols devout prayer, another contemplation. But none of these can be religion to all men. Only kindness is the universal stamp of religion.

The formalist's conception of religion is as far from the life-guiding, personal experience and emotion of real religion as the charts in a cook book are from the realities of our digestive processes. Religion to be made intelligible has to be a religion which men can put into practice in their lives. It is a way of living.

Development of Character a Duty Devolving Upon Every Patriotic Citizen

By RIGHT REV. F. B. HOWDEN, Missionary Bishop, New Mexico.

Nationally, character is our greatest asset. The finest patriotic service that a man can make to his country is the developing of his character. We are not an unthinking mass. Each one has an individual personality pattern that must and should be developed.

Heredity and environment are very real things in every one's life, but they are not dominant nor absolute. There is nothing in the ancestry of Lincoln that foretold his greatness. All poets are not born poets. Every man is free in his actions.

If heredity interferes with your character building, grapple with it. Jesus himself came among artisans to prove that it is not the place that makes the man but the man that makes the place. Some of our finest characters have come from the slums of the city. There is a spiritual fellowship with Christ that transcends the influences of heredity and environment. It is the duty of all Christians to seek that fellowship if they are to be called Christians.

Yellow Fever Peril by No Means Ended

Contrary to popular belief, yellow fever has not been wiped from the face of the earth. Although it has been kept out of the United States and Europe, it is still a very great menace. Two main centers of the disease exist. One is in Africa, where Noguch and two associates died recently of the disease in the course of their investigations on it, and the other is in South America. A flareup from either center is always possible, just as cholera and plague frequently spread to epidemic proportions from their centers in India.

Recent investigations point to a reservoir of yellow fever in certain monkeys of Africa, and public health officials believe that a similar animal or mosquito or even human reservoir exists in South America. These reservoirs consist of subjects that have been infected and recovered, but yet are capable of transmitting the disease to others.—Columbia (S. C.) Record.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when baby is frowny. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctor's word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Insurance Policy Against Hard Times

For the American business man, tradesman and workman the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for President offers the best insurance policy for the continuance of good times the Republican or any party could give to the people of the United States.

As Secretary of Commerce for the past 7 years, Hoover stood steadfast at the right hand of Pres. Coolidge in piloting American business to safe harbors of progress and prosperity.

Like Coolidge, he has been an apostle of protective tariff as advocated by the Republican party, in its manifold workings to increase and multiply American business, fatten pay envelopes and raise higher and better the standard of American good living and the welfare of the people.

Hoover, in the Department of Commerce, has been the very monitor of good times. So far as any department or branch of the national government could go in helpful assistance, Hoover has gone.

Free of political quarrels and motives, safe and sound, with a heart and brain intent on the quickening of government service to the service of the people, Hoover has moved, in calm and in storm, serenely along, promoting good business and good times.

The great genius and untiring industry of Hoover have stimulated and helped thousands of enterprises. A national canvass would be necessary to show fully the breadth and depth of Hoover's good work, for no post-up Washington office has contained his talents. His beneficent genius has sped into every community and state in the Union, and sent the flag of American commerce into new parts in strange seas.

Hoover has discovered and made useful new methods and new markets for American production. He has been the supplement and reinforcement of the protective tariff. In helping business to help itself he has been a mighty adjunct in the good work of the Coolidge administration.

Not by voice alone but by example, not a mere preacher but a doer, he has shown the American manufacturer and the trader the road to business expansion and the success that carries on into happy homes and contented lives.

Coolidge Security

I consider it my duty to carry forward the principles of the Republican party and the great objectives of President Coolidge's policies—all of which have brought our country such a high degree of happiness, progress and security.—Herbert Hoover.

Ten Thousand Commandments

The basic principles laid down in the Ten Commandments and the Gernon on the Mount are applicable today as when they were declared, but they require a host of subsidiary clauses. The ten ways to avoid in the time of Moses have increased to ten thousand now.—Herbert Hoover.

Improved SAMSON Windmills

With SELF-OILING Boxes

The good qualities of this new device can be readily seen when compared with the old style, noisy, lumbering windmill, which had to be oiled every day in order to run. Now, your oiling troubles are at an end. The self-oiling feature of the new SAMSON wherein all bearings run constantly in a flood of oil, causes the windmill to run easily, make less noise and with less expense than any windmill on the market. As proof of the pudding is in the eating of it, so is the lasting virtues of the Samson windmill, made possible by a trial test. For full information SEE—

Immense Cave Discovered
In the Sacramentos

Alamogordo—Time-honored stories that immense caves underlie the south Sacramento mountains were revived here this week, when Forest Supervisor O. Fred Arthur made a visit to the Van Cleave cave while on an inspection trip in the mountains.

The cave has never been fully penetrated, but an exploring party which went into the cave a short time ago reported finding large rooms with brilliant colorings and unusual formations. A forest ranger reported that while digging a cistern in the mountains, the bottom fell out after he had dug six feet, and that rocks dropped into the hole could not be heard to strike bottom.

Chaves County Cotton Carnival

Every county in eastern New Mexico has an equal chance with every other county in booth competition at the Chaves county Carnival which will be held at Roswell Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6. In the past communities in Chaves County have competed with other county exhibits, but this year Chaves county will be barred and the outside counties will compete only with each other.

The winning county will receive $50, and second $40, the third $30 and each other entry $10 each.

The communities within Chaves county will compete with each other in a different class entirely. It is felt this will stimulate more interest in other counties by placing their agricultural products before the thousands of visitors who will be at the carnival. Every effort will be made to have this a representative showing for all eastern New Mexico.

Last year the paid admissions at night only ran to 16 000 and there was no charge during the day. Indications are that the crowd this year will be much larger.

All departments of the carnival are being improved this year. The entertainment features will be better than ever. The Lachman - Carson shows with seven rides and 14 separate shows will be on the grounds for the entire week. The rodeo with $2000 in cash prizes and a great array of special entertainers will be a bigger show than ever. There will be special features, three big parades, and each of the four days will be more attractive than the other.

Delegates Depart

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Titworth, Messrs. Greisen and Everett of Capitan, Fred Pfingsten of Lincoln, Robert and John Brady of Hondo, S. W. Kelsey, Chas. F. Grey, J. B. French and A. L. Methodists Urge Defeat of Smith

Greeley, Colo.—Declaring the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith for president to be unworth the suffrage of members, the Colorado General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, at its closing session here today, urged all Methodists constituents to work for his defeat.

The resolution, which was at the close of a 7-day conference here, during which a number of speeches were made by leading ministers and laymen, in which political questions were approached, read as follows:

"Inasmuch as the political situation which confronts the voters this fall involves a great moral issue, that of prohibition, and as we believe that such an issue must be considered by the church, and that the Methodist ministry must make some pronouncements, we, as members of Colorado conference, realizing the grave danger that may arise from supporting a man for the presidency of the United States who by his record and his recent proclamations, is opposed to the cause of prohibition and the continuance of the 18th amendment, pronounce the candidacy of Alfred Smith as unworth the suffrage of the Colorado conference."
