Ft. Stanton News

Assistant Surgeon General F. C. Smith of Washington, D. C., left Tuesday, after spending several days at the Fort on official business.

Dr. G. H. Faget left Tuesday morning for several days stay in Tucson, Arizona, on business of an official nature.

Don't forget to come to the big dance at Fort Stanton on Saturday night, Oct. 27. A regular Halloween affair with Gus Lamp and his Roswell Night Owls (to make the feet light.) Benefit of the Patients' Xmas fund—Carrizozo people may buy the tickets at the Rolland Drug Store.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Whitacre of Mount Comfort, Ind., are visiting with Dr. and Mrs. Westhafer.

Messrs. W. Hendren and Joe Gentry left Tuesday morning for Tulsa, Okla. and New Bern, Tenn.

Mrs. Margaret Murray of North Bergen, N. J., arrived Sunday for an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. Hobert.

The following patients arrived at the Fort Tuesday night, being transferred from the Marine Hospital at San Francisco: Messrs. Bergren, Anderson, Pastor, Johnson, Duffy and Larkin.

The regular meeting of the Trowel Club was held last night, Friday, Oct. 12. Refreshments were served at the closing hour.

Miss Converse, Chief Dietician, arrived home Saturday, after spending a month in St. Louis.

Miss Shoff returned home after spending a month visiting in Baltimore.

Mrs. O. I. Nesbit and her guest, Mrs. Ray L. Pettit, from Tulsa, Okla., were Carrizozo visitors Tuesday. Mrs. Pettit will leave for home the latter part of this week.

J. E. Gregg

J. E. Gregg, Republican candidate for State Senator from the 18th district was here this week on a tour of the district.

Mr. Gregg is possessed of a disposition that makes friends for him wherever he goes, and his visit among our people increased his list to a large measure.

His very appearance makes a person of the opinion that as a Senator, he would make one to be proud of, and the people of the 18th district will be glad of the result, should he be elected.

Mr. Gregg's announcement card appears in the Outlook this week, and he solicits the vote of our people, regardless of past party affiliations. A vote for Gregg means a vote for good and substantial material with which to make an ideal Senator from the 18th district.

Girl Scout Notes

A Court of Honor meeting was held on Oct. 10 at the Methodist church and was decided to meet every Tuesday evening at 6:30.

Commissioners' Proceedings

The Board met October 1, 1928, 10 a. m. Present, Hons. C. F. Grey, Vice-Chairman; W. B. Rose, Member; S. W. Kelsey, Sheriff; Lotah Miller, Clerk. Absent, R. E. P. Warden, Member.

The Board hereby gives notice to the Chairmen of the Political parties that the County Commissioners of Lincoln County will appoint election Judges, Counting Judges and Poll Clerks and designate the places of holding election in the various precincts for the November, 1928, election, on October 22, 1928.

The Board hereby places the following named persons on the Indigent list for the year 1928-29 and designate the trading places as follows—Ah Nue, Ed Ortherfer, White Oaks, N. Corona News

Joseph Atkinson returned Friday evening from Roswell where he attended the Cotton Carnival. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Simpson also attended and reported a nice time.

The Junior class of the High School have their new sweaters now in their class colors, white and red and with the monogram "Jr." on the left side.

The school is progressing very nicely and it is believed to be the best school Corona has had for years. With the students' aid, the teachers have organized the dramatic, glee, athletic, Kodak and camera, science, art & poster clubs.

The glee club is putting on a nice American-Indian operetta, "The Feast of the Red Corn." It's a two-act play. The characters are: Queen, Edna Atkinson; Impee Light; Addie Perkins; The old Squaw, Elaine Simpson; Fudgee - Pudgee - Wudgee, the queen's 3 daughters, 3 seventh grade girls. The operetta will be given in the near future.

The senior class is giving a 1-act play, box supper and dance on Oct. 26, 7:30 p. m. A good time is promised to all who attend. Girls, come, bring your supper and see "Jerry!"

The Junior Class is giving a Masquerade Dance Oct. 19. Everybody come and have a good time, good music - good floor and good time guaranteed.

Corona is getting ready for the Basketball storm and still has the same old vim, so beware.

Jack Kemper is back in town on business. He is an old resident of Corona, and is at present residing in Amarillo, Tex.

Notice of Special Services

Rev. S. S. Bussell of the State Convention of New Mexico will speak at the Carrizozo Baptist church Friday night at 7:30; at the Capitan Baptist church Monday night at 7:30. Pastor Rowland will fill his regular appointment at Capitan Sunday.

Spending Week-End at Roswell

Project Engineer and Mrs. T. G. Brown and little daughter Martha left today for Roswell to spend the week-end at the home of Mrs. Brown's sister. They will return Monday morning.

The Big Parade Is On

The steady rain of last night caused many to predict that if it continued today, prospects for the 1928 Fall Fair and Track Meet would suffer as a consequence, but this morning the sun came out, the ground dried up, the big parade took place at the appointed time, and as we go to press, the Fair is on in full swing.

The town is crowded with visitors and all seem to be deeply interested in everything connected with the project. Tonight, the first grand ball will take place at Community Hall and tomorrow's program will be witnessed by many more who were unable to be here today.

Yes, everything is going on at a lively rate and the visitors are being welcomed by the different committees of the event.

Mrs. Julia Gurney Dies at Elk City, Kansas

Last evening, at her home in Elk City, Kansas, Mrs. Julia Gurney, for many years a resident of this place and proprietress of the Carrizozo Eating House, passed away, according to a telegram received at this office this morning from her son, Frank Gurney.

During the long period spent here, Mrs. Gurney was foremost in her zeal for Carrizozo and its interests. During the World War she performed many acts of loyalty to our cause and donated liberally wherever funds were needed. When the boys departed for service from here, she was foremost in seeing that they were provided with every comfort and assisted the mothers in making their departure one which would be fondly remembered for all time to come.

She was charitable in a large measure. On Christmas morning, the little tots from the East Side would always gather at the Eating House and Mrs. Gurney would invite them into the dining room, see that they were well provided with Christmas refreshments and send them on their way with presents. For this yearly custom, she earned the title of "Lady Bountiful."

Her many old friends in Carrizozo will be sad to learn of her death. The remains will be taken to El Paso, where the family resided before coming to Carrizozo and there interred. She leaves a son, Frank and grandson, Frank, Jr.; also a brother, who has lived at his sister's home for several years, to mourn her loss and to whom, the deepest sympathy will be extended from this community.

To the Voters of Lincoln County

Carrizozo, N. M.

To the Voters of Lincoln County Ladies and Gentlemen:

On the solicitation of many friends, both Republicans and Democrats, I have accepted the nomination for the office of County Treasurer on the Republican ticket.

The time is very short and it will be impossible for me to see all the voters, and I am taking this method of soliciting your support in the coming election on November 6th.

As you know I have filled public offices in Lincoln County several times and feel that I am qualified for the office of County Treasurer.

My record speaks for itself, and if you can consistently support me in the coming election it will be appreciated.

Yours very truly, Rinaldo Duran.

Unique Ceremonies at Eastern Star

At the last meeting of Comet Chapter, No. 29, O. E. S., the ceremonies were unique, from the fact that the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Elizabeth Green and J. E. Green, Worthy Patron of the Charter, conferred the degree on their oldest daughter, Miss Elizabeth Green.

The hall in the Masonic Temple was beautifully decorated, same extended to the banquet rooms, the flowers being donated by Mesdames S. O. Sproles and J. L. Bogle. The hall was crowded and the degree work being performed with the sacred solemnity and dignity by the presiding officer and her husband, assistant, marked this the most unusual event in Eastern Star history in Carrizozo.

After the initiation ceremonies were performed, the assemblage repaired to the dining room, where a delicious Eastern Star banquet was served. On the following morning, the flowers were sent to those of our town-people who are on the sick list.

To the more serious-minded, the above event will long be remembered as the most solemn ever attended, and the candidate will forever treasure in her heart the fact that her entrance to the noble and holy order was at a time when her parents occupied the foremost positions, and conferred the degree upon her which she will forever cherish.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Mabel Willebrandt's Hoover Speeches Create a Stir—Help Storm Victims.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MRS. MABEL WILLEBRANDT, assistant attorney general of the United States, was the storm center of the political campaign last week, and if she enjoys publicity she must have had the time of her life for she fairly crowded the candidates themselves off the front page.

Declining to retract or modify any of her utterances, Mrs. Willebrandt asserted she had asked the Methodists to oppose Smith on the ground of his views on prohibition and had made no mention of his religious beliefs.

GOVERNOR SMITH, in the course of his Western tour, spoke at Denver in advocacy of absolute government ownership and control of the natural water power resources of the country and for immediate action in the construction of Boulder canyon dam.

WITH the approval of President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg sent identical notes to Great Britain and France setting forth our government's attitude toward the naval limitation agreement reached by those two nations. The contents of the notes were not made public, but it was understood that they stated the British and French suggestions could not be accepted by the United States as a basis for naval limitation, and pointed out the reason.

WITHOUT having made much progress toward disarmament, the assembly of the League of Nations ended its fall session. Almost its last act was to pass a resolution that the disarmament preparatory commission should meet again not later than January 1.

REHABILITATION is now the great task in Florida and Porto Rico and the job is in the hands of the Red Cross, as in that of feeding the thousands of storm sufferers. An immense sum is being raised by popular subscription for these purposes.

Probably 150 persons, including children, perished when the big Novedades theater in Madrid, Spain, burned. The fire started on the stage and the tragedy closely resembled the burning of the Iroquois theater in Chicago years ago.

EMILIO PORTES GIL, secretary of the interior, was elected provisional President of Mexico by a joint session of the senate and chamber of deputies, without opposition.

Senator Borah of Idaho was the big gun of the Republican speaking battery during the week and his loudest explosion was in Kansas City, where in lively fashion he contrasted Smith's record and knowledge of the farm problem with that of Hoover, violently assailed the equalization fee, and blew up the charge that Hoover was responsible for the lowering of the price of wheat during the war.

the United States. According to a statement issued by him, he will follow the policy of the late President-elect Alvaro Obregon in the uplift of the peasantry, encouragement of irrigation and extension of schools in the rural districts and mountains. He will work to incorporate the Indians, which form 50 per cent of the population, into the body of the nation.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION, in an application filed with the interstate commerce commission, proposes extension of the government barge line services on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers to all parts of the country through the establishment of joint barge and rail rates and barge and rail through routes.

WHEN Nicaraguans go to the polls on November 4 to elect a President every voter will be marked on the hand with a chemical stain as he casts his ballot in order to prevent repeating. To avoid misunderstandings the election board, headed by Gen. Frank L. McCoy, U. S. A., issued a statement explaining that the chemical was harmless and the stain will disappear within a day or two.

MRS. GANNA WALSKA, opera singer and the wife of Harold E. McCormack of Chicago, is an American citizen, despite her residence in France, and will have to pay duty on jewelry and personal effects which are said to be valued at about $2,500,000.

ANOTHER "air derby" this time from Los Angeles to Cincinnati, was pulled off last week. First place in class A was won by Robert A. Drake of Pittsburgh, Pa., and in class B by Charles W. Holman of St. Paul.

CHINESE Nationalists in Shanghai unofficially announced that they had practically completed the reorganization of the system of government, eliminating the previous Soviet form, which was borrowed from Russia. Under the new scheme, General Chiang will head the Nationalist government council, his position being similar to that of President or premier.

Gen. Pat Chung-hai reported from northern Chihli province that he had completely defeated a remnant of the Chihli-Shantung troops and that Gen. Chang Chung-chang had fled, presumably to the Japanese leased area in Manchuria.

DEATHS of the week include those of Sir Horace Darwin, son of Charles Darwin and himself a noted scientist, and R. F. Outcault, veteran newspaper comic strip artist.

RELY ON HOOVER FOR FARM RELIEF Agriculturists Have Faith in G. O. P. Promises.

"The purchasing power of thirty important agricultural commodities was 43 in July of this year as compared with 69 in 1921, the low point following the World war depression," said Secretary of Agriculture W. H. Jardine in a recent statement.

"This improvement has been gradual and today we find some of our major commodities in a satisfactory condition." Secretary Jardine expressed the belief that a continuance of the Republican policy of protection will bring the farmers safely through their troubles.

"In my recent conferences with farmers throughout the West," the secretary continued, "I found a unanimity of thought that the problems of agriculture can only be met by keeping the Republican party in power, because it has consistently stood for the protection of the American farmer in the domestic market and has made a definite contribution to the recovery of farm prices since the severe depression following the war. The present level of wheat prices gives a clear example of the need for effective legislation to enable farmers to prevent price depressions, due to seasonal surpluses, through an effective plan of price stabilization. A constructive plan in this direction will receive the support of the Republican administration."

The secretary sees brighter times ahead for the wheat farmer since, he said, in the United States the consumption of wheat is increasing at the rate of 6,000,000 bushels a year. Increases in Europe also are noted, he declared.

Why Women of Indiana Will Vote for Hoover

"Because they feel that the prosperity of Indiana homes and the pay checks of Indiana fathers rest on the issue of restricted immigration more than on any other national issue. Indiana women are going to vote for Herbert Hoover and his restricted immigration policy, according to Mrs. Louise M. Dodson, personal representative of Mrs. Alvin T. Hart, vice chairman of the Republican national committee.

"Indiana is a state of farms and of industrial centers," she said. "So the question of immigration is a very vital one to every family in the state. Indiana women tell me they feel that in their state restricted immigration has lightened the load of labor, has raised wages and has increased the prosperity of Indiana homes."

Campaign Thoughts

"This year people are thinking pretty hard over the voting situation," says Postmaster Roland M. Baker of Boston. "They are thinking over the things they have been able to get during the last few years; of the new bungalow, the radio, the new family car; of a lot of things which they have been able to make for the better. No one wants to give up such things. No woman wants to go back to old conditions when a family income had to go wholly for the bare necessities of life. That's why, when thousands upon thousands of voters go into the election booth this year, they'll not be willing to change—they'll vote for Hoover."

Smith Admits Prosperity

Democratic as well as Republican newspapers report that since his address of acceptance Mr. Smith has modified some of the opinions theretofore expressed. In his acceptance speech he characterized the national prosperity as a "myth." Henry Morgenthau has persuaded him to admit that the country is generally prosperous, even if, for political purposes, he denies any credit to Republican policies for that condition. Mr. Smith's political education is progressing. But it is too much to expect him to confess his blunder in charging the Republican national administration with extravagance, although after his warranted rebuke by Senator Smoot he may be more careful in the future.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Smith Shows Weakness

The virtual surrender of the Smith campaign against "whispering" by some of its strongest and most partisan supporters may have several wholesome consequences. It should prick the pretense of amity, the begging for votes out of sympathy, which constituted the last and least admirable stand of the Smith forces. Every public man has been the object of false gossip. If Governor Smith can be bowled over by an old wives tale he is not the stuff of which Presidents are made.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Maine's Vote Significant

At the last referendum on prohibition, taken before the World war, the vote was a stand-off. Maine's landslide, in so far as dryness was an issue, was simply an overwhelming rejection of reform under Tammany auspices. Governor Smith has passed his life as part of a political organization in which the season was an integral part. When the country is ready to modify the Volstead act it will insist that the task of modification be done by the friends of temperance, not by its lifelong enemies.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate systems and is not habit forming.

Berlin Business Men Forced to Exercise

Berlin is rapidly becoming a city of fences in the truest sense of the word. Busy squares are being fenced in; low wire fences are being erected between the tracks of the street cars, where they run on a strip of grass in the center of the road; everywhere substantial metal fences are being put up. This is done to force the pedestrians to cross certain squares and thoroughfares only at specially marked corners. The population, however, is not exactly grateful to the authorities for thus taking care of them, for the fences smack too much of the old Prussian discipline. Not infrequently it happens that a man who has to catch a train or who is otherwise in a hurry jumps a fence and thus many a sedate business man is gradually acquiring considerable athletic skill.—Exchange.

Hat Has Lasted Long

Forty-eight years ago Thomas H. Husey, seventy-seven, of Batavia, N. Y., went shopping for a hat. After much inspection of stock, Mr. Husey bought the only one he thought looked well on him. And for 48 years he has worn it whenever the use of a head covering has been required. He says it retains its shape and original color.

THE RETURN of ANTHONY TRENT

By WYNDHAM MARTYN

The manner of delivering the third warning arranged itself with the ease Trent had come to associate with this campaign against the Grants.

One evening after dinner Kathryn Holland had complained of a headache, and he had taken her for a spin among the Lakewood pines. As the ironwork gates to the house were always closed, Trent got out of the machine at the curb on his return and opened them. While he was doing this a stranger passed and asked him in what direction Ahnett hall was.

"I thought it was a holdup," said Kathryn Holland gaily. "What did he want?"

She saw that her escort was looking curiously at an envelope he held.

"His excuse was that he wanted to know where Ahnett hall lay, but I think the real reason was to get me to give this letter to Grant. I wonder why he couldn't deliver it himself."

When he had put his car in the garage and joined the rest in the ballroom, Trent saw Grant from a doorway, beckoning him. Grant was looking wretched.

"Kathryn Holland says some one gave you a letter for me."

Anthony Trent put it into his trembling hands. Grant did not even thank him. Furtively he took it and disappeared.

In the library, where he could be sure of being alone and yet within the comforting sound of human voices, Payson Grant read the letter. It was Sutton's writing, as he had feared.

"You escaped that time through the unconscious intervention of one of your friends. But for that you would now be on your way to Buenos Aires in La Belle Alliance. If you doubt it, bring up the matter in court. I shall see you on the seventeenth. You have one way of escape, and that is full confession."

"F. W. S."

It was Albert Thorpe who informed Anthony Trent that Mr. Grant was overcome by the sultriness of the weather and had fainted in the library. Mr. Grant would like to see Mr. Trent, if possible, for a few minutes.

"I'll go up at once," said the obliging Trent.

"It's about that letter," Grant said. "I can't quite make it out," he confessed. "I suppose you didn't get a good look at the man's face?"

"I saw it quite distinctly," Trent answered readily.

Grant looked troubled.

"That's funny," he murmured. "Kathryn said she couldn't recognize him at all; she only saw he was a big man."

"Miss Holland was in the machine, and could not see him. I saw him clearly because he was in the circle of light made by the lamp on the top of the gate-post. Anything wrong about the note? Black-hand threats, or anything like that?"

Grant shook his head and tried to smile.

"Nothing more than curiosity," he answered. After a pause, as though warring himself for a shock, he asked what the stranger looked like.

"He was a man a little taller than you and a good bit broader in build. Rather a pale face. Sort of broken nose and sharp little gray eyes. I noticed he had a V-shaped scar over his left eye. Gave me the impression, Trent went on confidentially, "of being mentally unbalanced. Looked as if he needed a good square meal and a hair cut."

Through a mirror Trent watched the changes fear brought to the other's face. That Grant suffered pleased him; but that Grant's heart might be weak made him vaguely uneasy. There would be greater strains than this to bear.

"Did you recognize the man?" Trent asked.

"I wanted to see if I did," Grant said evasively. "It was a begging letter, and the police oughtn't to let people be annoyed like that. What's the date today?"

"The fourteenth," said Trent. "Anything I can do for you?"

"You might send Thorpe in."

When Thorpe came in his employer stared at him sullenly. "Do you still have the grounds searched every night?" he snapped.

"Yes, sir," Thorpe answered. "Also the house from basement to roof."

"You're too d-d careless to suit me," Grant grumbled. "See you take special care tonight. Send Mrs. Grant here at once, and get this number on the long distance."

Natica came in almost at once. All she knew was that a letter, had been given either to Kathryn Holland or Mr. Trent and on receipt of it her husband disappeared.

She read it slowly. It was Frank's writing, and he was near them. Try as she might, she could not fight off a feeling, as yet vague and nebulous, that events were at hand which threatened the fabric of her dreams.

"Of course, you must call the police," she said, "or I will."

"I've had enough of this place," Grant said. "Every man I look at I want to be sure isn't Frank in disguise. Mr. God! What are the police if they can't catch him? He was within two hundred yards of me a few hours ago, and may be nearer than that now." He looked about the big room apprehensively. "I'm through. Think of what an escape I had! That d-d ship was got just to kidnap me. I tell you Frank must have money at the back of him. The police go looking for a seedy, broken-down tramp when he's probably living as well as we are and driving down here in a limousine."

"Don't make any plans until tomorrow," she said. "If it will make you any easier, change your room tonight." Not because she had sympathy for his malaise, but because she was not sure how unwisely he might speak to the police, Natica saw the authorities when they came. They had combed the neighborhood and found no vagrants whom they did not know.

This confirmed Grant in his new belief that Sutton was not an oncast, but one protected, and therefore doubly dangerous. Because Trent had saved him from a deadly peril he felt a certain sense of safety in being near him. Trent was one of those reckless fools who liked dangers. If danger came near to Grant he might rely upon his guest to repel it.

He was talking to Trent when a footman brought a telegram toward them. Grant shrank back, as though here were another message from the man he had wronged. It was a relief when Trent opened it.

"It's from Swithin Weld," he announced. "Wants me to go up and spend a week or so in his Adirondack camp. I suppose you'd be bored to death at it."

Payson Grant turned a reproachful look on the speaker. Bored to death in such surroundings! He could imagine what it was like. Not a stranger could get past the keepers and guards. One might be as truly secluded there as any place in the world.

"Today's the fifteenth," he heard Trent say. "I think I'll start tomorrow. My visit is up. I've had a very pleasant time here, Mr. Grant. I wish you weren't looking so out of sorts."

Tomorrow was the sixteenth. A sentence of Sutton's note was graven on his brain. "I shall see you on the seventeenth." There would be no Anthony Trent to rely on then.

"You are lucky in having real friends," Grant said bitterly. "I've got to stay here whether I like it or not. I tell you, Trent, I'm a very sick man. It doesn't mean very much to you, a trip to the Weld camp. An invitation like that to me would mean saving my reason."

Trent simulated growing astonishment.

"You really mean it?" he asked. "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll ask Weld if I may bring you along, too. But could you leave?" he added doubtfully.

Cartoon in Japan Not Inspired by Politics

In Japan, apparently, the cartoon did not have the democratic beginnings of its occidental counterpart. Here in America the cartoon was originally used in magazines and newspapers as a political weapon, but the Japanese cartoon was more than eight hundred years old before the first issue of the Yokohama Mainichi Shimbun, first of the Japanese dailies, appeared in 1871.

The first Japanese cartoonist was a lordly person, a Buddhist monk, Kakuya, abbot of Toba, who was born in 1068 A. D. He employed most of his eighty-seven years laughing at the follies and vanities of the decadent Kyoto court and at pretentious low-brows everywhere. His influence over that branch of Japanese art was as great as that of Shakespeare on the English drama. In fact, for centuries the only Japanese name for the "There's nothing to stop me." Before dusk the wire came back as scheduled.

"By all means bring Grant (it read), but he will find it deadly dull here as there are no other guests."

"SWITHIN WELD."

Natica Grant was even more pleased than her husband, although for vastly different reasons. She could imagine the joy of telling those who asked where her husband had gone that he was staying at the famous Weld camp in the Adirondacks. Payson would have the opportunity to get to know his host thoroughly.

It pleased Grant to think he was stealing a march on his enemy. "You'll see me on the seventeenth," he muttered. "All right, I'm leaving on the sixteenth." He was in excellent spirits at dinner.

Grant had no fear that his wife would suffer at Sutton's hands. He did not think anyone could frighten Natica. Supreme selfishness dwarfed all her other emotions.

He learned from Trent that the week might lengthen into two if the weather kept fine. In two weeks' time Payson Grant would come back a different man, he assured his wife. Just now he was shot to bits with worry and unwise indulgence in stimulants. And every day brought Sutton's ultimate capture nearer.

Payson Grant left his splendid home in Deal Beach in the highest of good humors.

"I've never been in the Adirondacks," he confessed to Trent. "This is going to be a revelation to me."

"It wouldn't surprise me at all," Anthony Trent agreed.

CHAPTER XII

The Murder in the Forest.

Weld met them at Elizabethtown and drove them up the long trail to the camp. Payson Grant had never felt more wholly at his ease. Remote from cities, staying in the center of a vast acreage long held by a trespassing landowner, he was conscious as he had never been at Deal Beach of immunity from danger.

At night there were no servants in the camp. There was a smaller building for them a quarter-mile distant and connected by telephone. The discovery rather alarmed him. In effect it meant that his room, which was on one end of the building, left him far removed from those of the two men at the other.

He began to hint at possible dangers from robbers attracted by the booty to be obtained in such a place as this.

"Not a chance of it," Weld declared. Trent's contribution to the subject was not reassuring.

"That's because nobody has ever wanted to get in here badly enough to set about it skillfully. If I were anxious to get in here to murder, let's say, I'll swear it would be easy. To begin with, a camp like this would be a cluck. You or I, Weld, could climb up these rough walls and get in any window we wanted."

"You're frightening Mr. Grant," Weld remarked.

"Not I. He's used to things like that after having a burglar with him for a week. I don't suppose anyone is likely to come here, for the reason we are not marked out, for vengeance. If Grant were a defaulting banker like the man in 'The Pavilion on the Links,' there might be a chance of some fun."

"Fun!" Great cried testily. "I'm d-d if I get your sense of humor. The idea of being marked down by any criminal isn't a funny as you think."

He was conscious that his irritation was incomprehensible to men ignorant of the fears their idle chatter engendered. He sought to appear at ease.

"I'm afraid I shall have to disappoint you," he returned. "I've no more thrilling story than trusting a criminal for a week and thinking he was a detective. That makes me a bit sore of crooks."

Governor Dillon Attends Carefully to His Big Job

Notwithstanding the fact that the campaign is now on in earnest and candidates are roaming the state and placing issues before the people, one would think that our present governor, Richard Dillon, who is a candidate on the Republican ticket to succeed himself, would be absent from his official duties and be on the stump, in his efforts to be elected to again serve the people of his home state, but while his political ambitions are as great as ever along this line, he realizes that as a public servant at the head of our state government, he owes his regular attention to his business and in performing the duties of his office as though no campaign was on hand at all.

In a recent visit to the state Capitol by a Carrizozo citizen, he visited the office of the chief executive with but little hope of finding that distinguished gentleman on duty, but on making inquiries, he was invited into his office and with that natural disposition of gentlemanly courtesy, the visitor was given a warm welcome. He found the governor in the act of dispensing with a large amount of business correspondence coming from all parts of the state, answering each communication in its regular order and carefully seeing that every detail was carried out in businesslike manner.

On being questioned as to whether he would be able to cover the state before the campaign ended, the governor stated that as head of the state's business affairs, his first consideration was to care for the affairs of state entrusted to his keeping, and if he could find time aside from this, he would be glad to meet the people in every locality, but on the other hand, if business is so that he cannot reach them, he wished it understood that it would be on account of paying attention to their interests in a business way, which he considered his first and most important duty.

Most chief executives of states who are before the people for a second term, leave the business affairs in the hands of others and put in the time which belongs to the people to furthering their own ends in a political way but Dillon. He is, too big a man to descend to such a plane, but to the contrary, he fills his office in a thorough manner, and with no pretense of self-gratification.

In all his knowledge of our public men, a Carrizozo citizen said that he had never met a man more efficient in his daily routine of business life, more zealous in his efforts to be of benefit to his home state, more of an ideal father and husband to his family, and with these essential qualifications, how can a man with like Governor Dillon be anything but a perfect selection for chief executive of a great state like ours?

His record is an open book on which he will be re-elected by a handsome majority.

Fairy Tale for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Good morning, Kangaroo," said a Sparrow who had come to visit the zoo.

"There was no answer.

"Did you hear me, or are you a deaf kangaroo," the Sparrow said again.

At last the creature who was questioned turned around.

"I am most certainly not a kangaroo," he said, "and when you said, 'Good morning, Kangaroo,' I did not answer because your question was not addressed to me."

"Well, well, well, but I think you're particular," said the Sparrow.

"Besides, if you're not a kangaroo, what are you?"

"What am I? A Wallaby, of course, a brush-tailed Wallaby."

"Pardon me," said the Sparrow, "quite meekly." "Well, how do you do, Mr. Wallaby?"

"Now you've asked me a question I can answer. I am quite well, I thank you."

"I feel better now that I am called by my right name. It is not," he continued, "that I dislike the kangaroo family."

"Far from it. But I do not like to be mistaken for some other creature."

"One likes to be one's self, no matter if one is queer and odd."

"No one would change places with the peacock."

"It is all very pleasant for the peacock to have a handsome train, but do you suppose that the monkey would change places with him?"

"Not at all. The monkey has a far better time playing and springing and doing tricks."

"The worst hog is ugly but he wouldn't change places with a peacock. He is used to being a pig hog."

"He wouldn't feel natural or at home in the world if he were anything else, even though he is so hideous."

"I didn't ask for any hideous creature," said the sparrow.

"It's all a part of my talk, though," said the Wallaby. "Poor old wart hog has crooked horns, ugly wrinkles, a few queer hairs and an enormous snout which has a peculiar way of hanging down."

"But he is happy. He likes to lie in the sun and dig in the ground like any member of the pig family.

"You see all creatures want to be themselves. He'd be very unhappy as a peacock. He wouldn't know how to act or what to do."

"That is probably so," agreed the Sparrow. The Wallaby was still talking.

"Now you see over there, my really like a small kangaroo, and he comes from Australia.

He has a very long tail, short front legs, and longer back ones.

When he had finished making his speech to Mr. Sparrow he sat down upon his hind legs while he put his tail between and sat upon it, letting it come out in front of him, for it is so long.

He is a mixed color of gray and brown and red.

"Well," said the Sparrow, "I must be leaving, but I thank you for teaching me all about your family and the different members of it."

"Always glad to be a teacher of lessons, or a professor," said the Brush-Tailed Wallaby.

"I like to talk about what I know, but I believe that is true of all creatures."

"And people usually teach what they know best—so you see I did the same."

And now the Sparrow was off, for he had seen a few nice crumbs not far away.

consin. He is the Agile Wallaby, because he can move easily and quickly.

"An agile creature means one who is nimble and quick, in case you don't know, Mr. Sparrow!"

"And there is the Wallaroo too—he is a cousin, though he is quite gray in color and is a good jumper."

Now the Brush-Tailed Wallaby is

"That is Probably So," Agreed the Sparrow.

Loose-leaf systems of accounting are prohibited in Brazil, where the keeping of books by commercial firms is strongly fiscalized.

Only bound ledgers are permitted. Similar laws prevail in other South American republics, some even requiring that every sheet of every ledger be stamped by a government official before the book can be legally used for entries.

Great Mother Woods, stretch forth your arms to me, For I have come again with falling fire, My only strength the urge of my desire.

Sprinkle a custard pie, a pumpkin or a cream pie with chopped nuts, cover with whipped cream and serve a pie de luxe.

Nut Muffins.—Sift together one-half cupful of wheat flour, one cupful of whole wheat flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, add one-half cupful of nuts cut into pieces, six dates cut into quarters, one egg beaten until light, three-fourths of a cupful of milk and two tablespoonfuls of melted shortening. Mix lightly and put into greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes.

Nuts and Cinnamon Toast.—Cream three tablespoonfuls of butter and add two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar and one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Cut bread into one-fourth inch slices, using three slices, remove the crust, cut into three pieces crosswise. Toast on one side, spread the untoasted side with the butter mixture and sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of chopped nuts. Put into the oven until the sugar melts, then serve at once on a dainty plate.

Nut Topping for Coffee Cake.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar with three-fourths of a teaspoonful of cinnamon, three-fourths cupful of soft bread crumbs and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Put over the top of a coffee cake in a shallow pan, sprinkle with three tablespoonfuls of chopped nuts and bake as usual.

Fig Nut Cakes.—Wash and stone one cupful of dates, wash figs using one cupful, put through a meat chopper with two cupfuls of walnut or pecan meats. Mix thoroughly, season with salt, spread in a small greased pan one-fourth inch thick and cut into squares.

Banana Recipes. This tropical fruit which is now so common in our markets is not half well enough appreciated.

The golden ripe fruit is one of the best of our common fruits and when underripe may be baked and served in many tasty ways.

Baked Bananas.—Peel and scrape the fruit to remove the acid fiber. Cut the bananas into halves lengthwise. Place in a buttered baking dish and sprinkle with sugar, add a little water with a teaspoonful of lemon juice and bake in a moderate oven until the fruit is translucent. Use six bananas, four tablespoonfuls of water, two of lemon juice and six teaspoonfuls of brown sugar, serving six.

Bananas Baked in Cream Sauce.—Fill a baking dish half full of sliced bananas and sprinkle with a bit of salt. Scald two cupfuls of milk, pour it gradually over the sugar, one beaten egg, and two tablespoonfuls of flour. Mix the flour with one-half cupful of sugar. Cook in a double boiler until well cooked, pour over the bananas and bake until brown.

Banana Fritters.—Prepare the following fritter batter: One cupful of flour sifted with one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder; add one-half cupful of milk and one well-beaten egg, then one tablespoonful of melted butter. Beat until thoroughly mixed.

CARVING STUFFED SHOULDER OF LAMB

How to Carve Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many people think the meat of a shoulder of lamb is just as tender and quite as delicious in flavor as the leg or any other part. The shoulder is not so easy to carve as the leg, owing to the irregular shape and central position of the shoulder blade. This difficulty about carving is easily met, says the bureau of home economics. Select a shoulder of lamb weighing from three to four pounds. Have the butcher remove all the bones, as well as the fell, or outer papery covering of skin. The bones may be saved for making soup. The shoulder may then be stuffed, and either left flat or rolled: The flat shoulder, as illustrated, is easier to sew up than the rolled, and the pocket holds twice as much stuffing. Either of these completely boned stuffed shoulders can be carved stuffed shoulders in attractive slices of part meat and part stuffing.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle the inside of the pocket with salt and pepper, pile the hot stuffing in lightly, and sew the edges together. Rub salt, pepper, and flour over the outside. If the shoulder has only a very thin fat covering, lay several strips of bacon over the top. Place the roast on a rack in an open pan without water. Steam for 30 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit). If bacon is laid over the roast, shorten the time of steaming so as to avoid overbrowning. Reduce the temperature of the oven to 300 degrees Fahrenheit, and cook the meat at this temperature until tender. From 2 1/2 to 3 hours will be required to cook a medium-sized stuffed shoulder at these oven temperatures. Serve hot with brown gravy.

Mint or Watercress Stuffing. 3 cups fine, dry bread crumbs, 3 tbs. chopped celery leaves, or 1 1/2 cups finely cut watercress, leaves and stems, 1 1/2 tbs. salt.

Melt one-half of the butter in a skillet and add the onion and celery. Cook for two minutes and add the mint leaves or the finely cut cress and the other seasonings. Push this mixture to one side of the skillet and in the empty part melt the remaining butter and stir in the bread crumbs. When they have absorbed the butter, mix all the ingredients together. When using watercress allow the liquid which cooks out to evaporate before the buttered bread crumbs are added.

Hints for Housekeepers

To insure bright clear jelly cook the fruit juice rapidly.

Blueberries and raspberries combined give jam an unusually fine flavor.

Before dyeing any garment be sure it is clean. Dye does not conceal soiled spots.

When washing articles to the iron it may be that more shortening should be used in making them.

Put a thimble on the end of the curtain rod so that it may be pushed through the curtain without catching the fabric.

White felt hats may be dry-cleaned at home by rubbing into the surface of the felt a mixture of a quart of corn meal and a cupful each of salt and flour. Let the hat stand overnight, then brush it thoroughly.

Velvet Chic for Milady's Suit

By JULIA BOFFOMLEY

So extravagantly have the prices of velvet been sung, it would seem that there is nothing more to be said upon the subject—until one catches a glimpse of the new velvets for this season. Then does one realize that the story of velvet is only at its beginning. There was a time when velvet was just velvet, suitable to wear only a few months in the year, and then laid aside until the coming of another winter season. But now, in color glory, in sheerness of texture, in artful patterning or in superbly beautiful monotone, velvet challenges the most exquisite of chiffons and other apple lightweight weaves to outdo it. That there is a velvet for every occasion also adds neatly to its prestige.

While the new and enchanting print velvets are conspicuously in the limelight, they have in no way detracted from the vogue for sheer handsome solid-color velvets. So far the velvet vogue is developing on a fifty-fifty basis, plain colors and prints sharing the honors.

In the fallored daytime costumes, sheer monotone velvet finds one of its happiest expressions. The model in the picture, which is of transparent velvet in a deep wash tone, merits a place in the fall wardrobe of the woman who understands the art of dressing with distinction. It would be equally as attractive developed in one of the handsome and regal autumn browns, or in dark green, which is also a very fashionable color this season.

Tube like this is that it can be made more or less dressy by tucking the blouse worn with it to the occasion, preserving tailored simplicity for casual hours, and for the formal function wearing a very handsome metal fabric type or one otherwise elaborated. Smartly simple two-piece models of transparent velvet such as this one and others equally as intriguing are registered on the calendar, not only an autumn item but for midwinter wear as well. Dressed in the styling of these lovely colorfast velvets are finely plaited skirts which vie with these of circular treatment. The soft jackets are usually detached with zippers, the latest wrinkle being to monogram them.

Cozy Dining Alcove

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Do you have a comfortable spot in your kitchen where you can sit down for some of your tasks? We hear much in connection with modern housekeeping about saving energy by sitting at one's work, and there is no doubt but that a high stool at the sink or ironing board is often a great help and back saver. There are many other kinds of work done in the kitchen, too, for which one might be seated if there was an inviting corner and comfortable working surfaces handy—shelling peas, stringing beans, picking over fruit for canning, even peeling potatoes and apples or capping berries, although these foods may afterwards have to be washed at the sink. One of the great advantages of a "breakfast alcove" or "dining recess" or whatever you like to call such a nook off the kitchen is that it provides just this sort of place for working in comfort. The top of the table is easily protected by paper or oilcloth if the work makes dirt. For many of overs in the refrigerator and the other on the grocery order. A small shelf these tasks two people join forces at times, and there is not room for both at the sink, but here a sociable half-hour can be made of an otherwise uninteresting task.

A place for keeping track of household expenses, particularly foods and kitchen supplies, is almost a necessity.

Floor Plan of Dining Alcove.

and in such an alcove there is comfort, quiet, and order, and the records can be attended to in those intervals that occur while something is cooking, when there is not enough time to warrant going to another part of the house to sit. Meals can be planned here, too, with one eye on the left for cookbooks and records might be arranged at one side of such an alcove. Outside the window, a box lined with evergreen or flowering plants would add charm, just as does a bowl of flowers on the table.

In a small house the alcove sometimes serves every purpose of a regular dining room. In others it partly occupies the position formerly given up to a "butler's pantry," between the dining room and kitchen, where it is especially useful for hurried breakfasts and the housekeeper's solitary lunch. At dinner time, and on occasions when there are additional persons to serve, it is very convenient for spreading out salad or dessert plates to be filled, or otherwise to take the place of a serving center.

The floor plan, which is from Farmers' Bulletin 1512-F, "Convenient Kitchens," shows one way of arranging an alcove so that it is well situated in relation to other features of the kitchen. The window may be placed at the side or at one end of the alcove as in the other picture.

The illustration shows an alcove which was part of the kitchen improvement in a Massachusetts farm home, carried out during a kitchen contest directed by extension workers. The table and benches were built by a member of the family. The benches have hinged tops so that they can be used for storage. The table in this instance is not hinged, but a tilting table is often arranged to permit easier cleaning of the alcove.

"WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD"

Verdict of Woman Who Tried Pinkham's Compound

Tully, N. Y.—"It hurt me to walk or sit down without help and I felt sick and weak. My mother-in-law took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she induced me to take it. I am now on the fourth bottle and have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. The medicine that will do for me what the Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done are certainly worth their weight in gold. I think I have given them a fair trial and I expect to take two more bottles of the Vegetable Compound."—Miss CHARLES MORGAN, R. F. D. 1, Tully, N. Y.

Electricity Corrodes

Corrosion of pipe lines that carry oil has perplexed scientists for some time, but bureau of standards investigators, after a number of tests, have announced that they are of the opinion the action is due to electricity. Running through soils where the ground is of different chemical composition and of varying moisture content, the pipe is subjected to the results of a discharge and a collecting of electrical current at different points. The earth, in other words, becomes a sort of huge battery of cells formed by the different soil sections.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SPIRITUAL GIFTS

LESSON TEXT—1 Cor. 12:3-7, 31; 13:1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—Now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Love is the Best of All.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Greatest Thing in the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Greatest of All Gifts.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Spiritual Gifts.

Joel predicted a remarkable effusion of the spirit in Messianic times. (Joel 2:28, 29; cf. Acts 2:17, 18).

Before the crucifixion, Jesus promised to send the Holy Spirit to be the helper and guide of His people. This was historically fulfilled on the day of Pentecost. The gifts of the Spirit were extended to all classes. Not only were these endowments marked by great profusion, but by great diversity. In the exercise of these gifts confusion would surely arise. Divine life, suddenly poured into human nature, stirred it to unusual power. In view of the abuses and confusion which are likely to arise from such a condition, it is highly important that certain principles be set forth for guidance and regulation.

I. The Infallible Criterion (1 Cor. 12:3).

The infallible test which determines whether gifts are spurious or genuine is one's conception of and attitude toward Jesus Christ. Only those who recognize Him as God manifest in the flesh, His vicarious atonement on the cross, and submit to Him as their Lord, can be recognized as possessing the gift of the Holy Spirit. Christ said before leaving the earth that when the Spirit came His supreme business would be to testify of Him, to take the things of Christ and show them unto the people. The soundness of the faith of a man is the sign of this commission from God.

II. The Diversity of Spiritual Gifts (1 Cor. 12:4-11).

In the church there are to be found those possessing the gift of wisdom, knowledge, faith, healing, miracles, prophecy, discernment of spirits, divers kinds of tongues and the interpretation of tongues.

III. The Unity of the Spirit's Gifts (1 Cor. 12:12-30).

Christian unity is only possible when effected by the one Holy Spirit. This unity amidst diversity is represented under the figure of the human body.

1. The human body has many members, each performing distinct functions for the good of the body (v. 12).

2. The members are mutually related and independent (vv. 13-17).

3. The place of each member is determined by the choice of God (v. 18).

4. The members which are least attractive and least conspicuous are most important (vv. 21-23).

IV. Love, the Spirit's Best Gift (1 Cor. 12:31-33).

1. The pre-eminence of love (vv. 1-3).

It transcends.

(1) Speaking with tongues.

(2) The gift of prophecy.

(3) Faith of the most vigorous kind.

(4) Philanthropy of the most generous sort.

(5) Heroic devotion leading to martyrdom.

2. The attributes of love (vv. 4-7).

(1) Long-suffering and kind.

(2) Free from envy.

(3) Freedom from boasting.

(4) Decorous and well behaved.

(5) Unselfish.

(6) Does not give way to passion; is not quick tempered.

(7) Thinks no evil; does not impute evil motives to others; is not suspicious.

(8) Delights not in evil.

(9) Bearerth all things.

(10) Is trustful, hopeful and firm.

3. The permanence of love (vv. 8-13).

Prophecy as prediction will be fulfilled. Prophecy as teaching will be brought to an end in the day when teaching is not needed. Tongues shall cease, for as the languages of earth were caused by God's judgment for sin, so shall Christ's redemption bring the nations back to one tongue. Knowledge shall be done away with the coming of a wider and nobler intelligence. The twilight will be lost in day, childhood, in maturity. Love will always abide, for God is love.

5. The comparative value of prophecy and tongues (14:1-23).

Prophecy is given the highest place because it is to declare God's message to men. Its primary meaning is to forthtell. To speak with tongues means to speak in other languages for the purpose of showing the presence of God.

One Who Never Forgets

Others may forget us in their prayers; there is one in heaven who never does forget. Others may fail us when their lamp burns low; He ever liveth. We are encircled by the prayers of One who loves us and has the ear of God and therefore is able to save us to the uttermost.—George H. Morrison.

Rid of Constipation. Improved Both Health and Looks

"I suffered from stomach and bowel trouble for a number of years. I finally got so bad that I had no life or energy left, and felt that there was no help for me. I was completely worn out all the time, had a distressed, haggard look on my face. My mind was dull, my eyes blurred, and I was unable to take an interest in anything. I commenced using Milks Emulsion in May. It occurred to me that the best way to let you see the wonderful improvement Milks Emulsion had made in my health and appearance, would be to send you the picture that I happened to have taken a few weeks before I started using your Milks Emulsion, and to have another picture taken now, and send both to you. I am still taking your Milks Emulsion and improving each day. I know I would have been in my grave had it not been for your Emulsion. I love to take it. It is so pleasant and agreeable."

"I only weighed 108 pounds when I began to use Milks Emulsion, and now I weigh 135 pounds. It has cleared up my complexion, made my eyes bright and a difference in my looks, as you will see by the two pictures. I don't look like the same woman. To my mind it is Nature's beautifier."

"I try to get everyone that I meet to take Milks Emulsion as it is the most wonderful medicine in the world." Yours truly, MISS SARAH KATE KNIGHT, 722 Anderson St., Bristol, Tenn.

Hot Oil Employed to Wipe Out Mosquitoes

Hot fuel oil, sprayed along the shores of the lakes in the Canal zone, is a most efficacious weapon against malaria-laden mosquitoes. This oil, a big factor in the fight which is culminating in certain abolition of the insect, has destroyed breeding places in the Pedro Miguel and Gatun lakes.

The method used to spray the oil necessitates the use of a rowboat carrying a tank containing 150 gallons of oil, and a crew of three men. One man rows, one works a hand pump and the other handles the spray nozzle. The hot oil is sprayed on the shore line as fast as the boat can be propelled. This surface filming has been found positive and complete.

Wind action and wavelets carry the oil into every nook and cranny, even to a considerable distance from the point of application. A rigid inspection follows every oiling to determine if it has been done thoroughly.

Elsewhere than in the lake areas, mosquito breeding is controlled chiefly by training of streams and by draining and filling.

Cat's Varied Diet

On a farm in Hildale, Mass., says the Boston Globe, lives a cat that is positively omnivorous. Like most other felines she eats meat, fish and milk, but her diet does not stop there, however. When the lady of the house was surprised to find bits of cucumber on the ground near the kitchen door, she watched the cat for a while. Finally she saw kitty go to the garden, break off a good-sized cucumber and carry it to the house, where she broke it open and ate it. Since that time the cat's appetite has been tested with various other vegetables and it responds heartily.

Dwellers in High Places

The highest inhabited place in the world is a mining district in Chile, 18,450 feet above sea level; next, a mining district in Peru, 16,200 feet; then, a monastery in Tibet, 15,200 feet. The highest home of man in the United States is the Pikes Peak observatory in Colorado, over 14,000 feet above sea level.

Tolerance is never forced.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water.

Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Real Span of Human Education Extends From the Cradle to the Grave

By ANNA BELLE JOHNSTON, Nursery School Expert.

IT IS too often assumed that education begins at the school age of six years. Emotional personality and habitual slants begin at birth. So should education. The child may be said to graduate into the schools.

Children do not go untrained until six years of age. They are being trained somehow, somewhere, every hour of their lives. It is better to know how and where—as in the nursery schools.

The responsibility may rest entirely with the parents, but many of them do not feel they are adequately trained or have sufficient time or proper facilities. No thoughtful person fails to recognize the difficulties of the job of being a parent.

When families become convinced of the desirability of holidays for mothers away from their children a great step in correcting morbid emotional attitudes will have been taken.

This should mean a daily as well as an annual period of freedom. In the former it is the nursery school that is providing the desired separation.

The infant is in the nursery school three hours each day. This gives the mother an opportunity to view her own work and a chance for recreation while the child is receiving the scientific attention it should have during these early years. The child is placed in a social group of 15 children of its own age with two trained teachers acting as their guides.

The nursery school does not assume all the responsibility. The mother spends one morning a month in the school observing methods followed in handling her child. After such observations the mother has a conference with the director and discusses every phase of her child's development, thus setting up a link between home and school.

Nursery schools aim to provide a laboratory in which the student may learn child care with real children as the subjects of their study. Too many girls undertake the responsibilities of home and children without adequate preparation. Public schools now are recognizing a responsibility in this connection and increasing numbers are including training in motherhood.

New Artistic Era Certain to Be the Result of America's Material Activity

By PROF. DE WITT HENRY PARKER, University of Michigan.

History shows that periods of high artistic activity usually coincide with epochs of political and commercial pre-eminence, and into the latter we have already come. For better or for worse we have left the day of the "whole man" behind. In the growing complexity of civilization the problems of life have become so difficult and so numerous that in order to meet them each man must apply his whole nature to a single one of them, at the cost of integrity of personality. Losing the "wholeness" which is so characteristic of beauty, and being only fractions of our possible selves, we are loaded with longings and repressions and disfigured with strange inequalities of character.

Mechanism will go on its unrepentant way, but play and art will bring us the freedom which we lack. The harmony which we achieve through play is accomplished by an exclusion of worry and work. The harmony of art is one of inclusion, in which the whole resources of our personalities are called into action. But, while in all forms of play and sport it is conceded that America stands the peer of any nation on earth, in art, if we take the sweep of the last hundred years, she has not matched the most artistically gifted nations of Europe.

We are now fast building a tradition and a culture of our own. The mechanical nature of our civilization has created a need for art. And that secure hold on economic wealth so necessary for artistic culture has been won. Need and opportunity will combine to make the future of art in America immense.

Unlimited Possibilities of Achievement Offered in the Church Life

By REV. ROBERT S. CHALMERS (Episcopal), Dallas, Texas.

To judge from the articles one reads frequently in all the greater magazines today, the supreme activity of the modern Christian church is either controversy or raising funds. One would think that the entire energy of Christendom was being expended in the controversial issues between modernism and fundamentalism, between Catholic and Protestant, between traditional and liberal.

To hear certain people talk and to read their writings it would almost seem as if the principal objectives of the Episcopal church was to preserve the thirty-nine articles of religion; to read the equally fervent outbursts of equally sincere people one would believe that the only salvation of the church lay in discarding those articles.

Through the school of applied religion the national council of the Episcopal church hopes to create a different impression than that the clergy are always engaged in an every-member canvass, or constantly seeking support in a large way. The national council believes that the life of the church represents adventure more thrilling even than the exploits of Lindbergh; possibilities of achievement unrivaled among mankind today; human interest stories far more exciting than the most realistic fiction, and above all, opportunity for varied, interesting and worth while service.

Treaty for Renunciation of War Inspiring Token of International Love

By REV. E. B. DARLINGTON, New York.

The spirit of the nations who have approved the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war is a token of international love. The best use that we can have age-long life for is love. In the story of man we may learn the story of love and look for its repetition in our own lives. Let us picture our own human life as the scenes of the development of love pass onward.

At first, in the dim ages of Plato's time, all that love desired was the possession of beauty. Again, there is the kind of love where the lover desires not only his other half, but possession of the beautiful and birth in beauty. This yearning is the earnest of age-long life. Among mankind this is called biological immortality or age-long life.

The true order of love is to advance from love of one to all fair forms, then to fair practices and lastly to fair thoughts. In this connection, such a gesture as the ratification of the peace treaties would seem to show the highest order of love in nations having advanced to the conception of international justice.

How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin? And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or tonsillitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism; and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! They relieve quickly, yet have no effect whatever on the heart. Friends have told you Bayer Aspirin is marvelous; doctors have declared it harmless. Every druggist has it, with proven directions. Why not put it to the test?
