

Corona News

A. S. McCamant and daughter, Mrs. H. T. Reynolds of Corona were Carrizozo visitors Wednesday, transacting some business matters and returning home in the afternoon.

Mrs. Wilbur Dishman, daughter, Zella, son, Earl Buchannon and Mrs. Jesse Atkinson were Carrizozo visitors Saturday.

The New Year's dance at the Gym was enjoyed by everyone—a nice, pleasant crowd attended.

Lum Richards, Jr., and wife are in El Paso at present with their son Glenn, who has been ill. Lum says he is improving rapidly.

School opened Monday and all the students are gradually recovering from the Xmas effects.

Miss Geneva Jenkins, who has been attending school in Albuquerque, is now in school here. We are surely glad to have her—she is a fine student.

Howard Mariner is also a new student in the H. I. School. We are especially proud of Howard, owing to his scholastic standing, and he is a new cog in the basketball team, and is showing some good form.

T. M. DuBois was in Carrizozo on business Monday.

Corkeley Baker spent Christmas with his sister in Albuquerque.

Everyone who attended the party at the home of M. D. Atkinson report a splendid time and plenty of nice eats.

Mrs. A. J. Atkinson is home from El Paso, where she spent Xmas with her daughter Alice.

Wm. G. Greer spent Christmas with his father, who lives in Altus, Okla. Mr. Greer says they are having plenty of rain there, and the wheat crop is looking good.

Mrs. A. J. Atkinson is leaving for Hot Springs today with her father, who has been ill for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Baucher of Cedarvale were in Corona Tuesday evening. They are both teachers at Cedarvale and are building up a fine school there.

M. D. Atkinson was in town Wednesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Argenbrite are back from Texas where they have been visiting friends and relatives for the past month or six weeks.

On Dec. 23, Estancia basketball teams swooped down on Corona anticipating a victory, but were completely smothered by Corona's "purple pirates."

The girls' game wasn't interesting at all. Estancia seldom ever had possession of the ball. Williamingham and Downing at center worked wonderfully well keeping the ball at our end of the court and Simpson and Arnold ran loose and tossed 22 baskets—the final score being Corona 44, Estancia 9.

The boys' game promised to be a game, and was the best one ever played here. The game

Railroad Rumbblings

Mrs. Chas. Terrell and daughter, Elvira, Mrs. C. B. Wells and son, Vaughn, were here for the holiday week, dividing their time between visiting Carrizozo friends and their mother, Mrs. A. N. Duggar, brother, Bryce Duggar and wife at the ranch in the Tortolita Canyon. They left for their homes in El Paso Monday morning.

A special train bearing General Passenger Agent A. E. Sweet, Supt. C. M. Murphy and Supt. of Construction H. E. Stansbury, passed through here Tuesday on an inspection tour of this wing of the S. P.

Mrs. Geo. Dingwall left Tuesday for El Paso, where she will visit relatives and friends for the remainder of the week.

Section foreman S. W. Hale of Capitan was a business visitor here on Wednesday, after returning from Tucson, Arizona, where he spent the holidays with his son Max and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stillwell and children of Coyote, have returned from their visit to Kansas, where they spent the holiday season with relatives.

Operator Devine has returned for duty after visiting his parents in Colorado. Operator Laverty will go to the office at Ancho and Operator Geo. Young will remain on the second, while Devine will be on the third trick, we understand.

The Ramsay Players at Crystal Theatre

Beginning last night and continuing tonight and tomorrow night, the Ramsay Players, who so delighted the people of this place and those of our surrounding towns last year, will be at the Crystal Theatre to again greet their old friends. They will not have the entire company as it appeared here, but Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay will give the best of pictures, all of which will be cued by Mrs. Ramsay in her unique manner which so pleased the people in times past. Of course, everybody will be glad to welcome the return of the Ramsays and full houses should greet them on all nights. They arrived here from Roswell Tuesday and rested over until last night to play the remainder of the week.

started with Atkinson, center, tipping to Clements who made a perfect pass to forward Jolly, who rolled the count 2-0. This work was kept up throughout the game. The first half ended 32-2 in favor of Corona. The second string played the second half and played a good game. Jones and Perkins were the outstanding performers for Corona. The final score was Corona 29, Estancia 14. Estancia exhibited fine sportsmanship, both teams taking the medicine with a smile. Corona plays Mountain air Friday night. They say they are going to "take us for a good trouncing" but we're going to give the "beat we have in the shop" and we hope it is enough to win!

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clements, Jr. and children spent two days of this week at Carrizozo.

On behalf of the Woman's Club, I take this opportunity of thanking the Financial Chairman, Mrs. C. P. Huppertz, and her assistants for the excellent manner in which the funds were managed and for the beautiful decoration of the hall; Mrs. A. Ziegler, program chairman, for the splendid program presented; the individuals and organizations whose liberal donations made it possible to carry out the Christmas plans, and Messrs. Bowen Zumwalt and Oscar Clouse for the beautiful tree given us. May your happiness for this new year be measured by the happiness you have given others.

The Watch Night Party given Dec. 31, by the club, for its members and their families, at the home of Mrs. Ziegler was a very enjoyable affair. The evening was spent in games and contests. When the hour of midnight arrived there was so much noise created by boys and girls, blowing their favorite whistles and rattling rattles, that the outside noise was not heard by the merry-makers within. After partaking of delicious refreshments the guests departed with a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Ziegler for their generosity in opening their home to all. Also to Mrs. F. H. Johnson and committee for the entertainment, and Mrs. Geo. Dingwall and committee for the delightful refreshments. The annual meeting of the

Stars Install

Last night at the Masonic Temple, officers for the ensuing year were installed. The lodge room and banquet rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion and a banquet was served at 6 o'clock, after which the Chapter was called to order by retiring Matron, Mrs. Jeanette Lemón, who also acted as installing officer, with Mrs. Maude L. Blaney as Marshal.

The new officers for 1928 are: Worthy Matron, Elizabeth Green; Worthy Patron, J. E. Green; Associate Matron, Eula Mayer; Conductress, May English; Associate Conductress, Zoe Glassmire; Secretary, S. F. Miller; Treasurer, Mollie Miller; Chaplain, Harriett Kellar; Star Pointe, Ada, Bernice Nickles; Ruth, Carrie Kincheloe; Esther, Lena Pittman; Martho, Katherine Billo; Electa, Pearl Stearns; Marshal, Maude L. Blaney; Warder, Jeanette Lemón; Sentinel, H. M. Bullard; Color Bearers, Right, Clara Huppertz; Left, Ella Brickley.

The Chapter enters this new year with renewed ambitions, zeal and progressiveness, during which period and forever beyond, the Outlook wishes it the best of everything. Meeting nights, first Thursdays of each month.—See the card.

Richard Degner Dies

About 3 o'clock Sunday morning, Richard Degner who had been ill but a short time with pneumonia, died at his home here. This sad occurrence adds to the family's sorrow, inasmuch as it was but 3 weeks ago, that Mr. Degner's mother passed away. The funeral was held yesterday from the home and the services conducted by the Rev. T. V. Ludlow of the M. E. Church. In view of the double affliction the family has experienced in so short a time, the sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved wife, children, father and other relatives.

Attention, Master Masons!

The next Communication of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., will be held at the Masonic Temple Saturday night, Jan. 7, to which all Master Masons are cordially invited.

club will be held Friday afternoon, January 20, at the home of Mrs. R. E. Lemon. Miss Lois Snyder, Drama Chairman, will have charge of the program. Begin making preparations now to be present at this meeting.

Burning Mountain

Helster, in Magdalena News:

Burning Mountain is situated about 85 miles east of Springerville and a short distance off the National Old Trails Road. Many of our people have visited the "Coronado Bake Oven," a name suggested by Joseph Pearce of Eagar. Mr. Herman of the Aragon Hotel, tells me that he is getting inquiries about the immense prehistoric ruin, the Burning Mountain and the wonderful open throated crater at Salt Lake, all less than 20 miles from Quemado, N. M. It is unfortunate that these 3 great wonders of New Mexico are almost unknown. A good road leads from Quemado with fifty feet of the ruin, where the tourist might spend two days and not feel satisfied to leave the enchanted spot, thence on a few miles and the guide tells us to unload. We are at the foot of Burning Mountain. We leave our car at the edge of the plain and ascend a hill not high enough to claim the title of the mountain. We take water, coffee pot, frying pan and such other cooking utensils as our limited time may require, and of course bacon, eggs, etc. We will now proceed to cook our dinner. Never mind gathering any camp wood, we are on the Burning Mountain you know. The guide hands a spade to some husky of the party and instructs him to cut a little trench three feet long, ten inches wide and about ten inches or a foot deep. At this depth we encounter a black, slaty substance. This is so hot that a little water thrown on it is converted into a bubbling stream as when water is thrown on a hot stove. Six inches deeper and we can fry or boil as quickly as any housewife could do on her pet range. 8 or 10 inches deeper we get living fire that will burn a stake driven into it to red coals in five minutes. No smoke, no odor, just fire.

See that little black dump down there at the edge of the plain? Well thereby hangs a tale. About 40 years ago, so the story goes, a tenderfoot saw this beautiful valley and decided to homestead then and there. But being a sensible tenderfoot, he decided to sink a well and get water before spending a ny money. He got 10 feet and the bottom of the hole was very warm, another foot and it was very hot.

Our well digger was using an "Indian ladder," a sapling cut with spikes or limbs left for climbing. Well one evening the thing happened. The would-be farmer dug a test hole in the center of his well, just to see how hot the "dad burned hole could get" and he found out; he got to real red coals, then he got scared, and chucking the butt end of his Indian ladder in the fiery hole he climbed out.

Of course as the end of the pole was consumed, it would settle lower and lower so when the tenderfoot peeped over the edge of the hole the next morning only about 8 feet of his ladder was visible, and that was settling. So he hitched his mules to the wagon, and without any regard for speed laws, got out of New Mexico.

Forty years has made no change, as La Montana de Lumbra (the mountain of fire) is

The Cutting Appointment

The appointment of Col. Bronson Cutting to fill the vacancy of U. S. Senator, caused by the death of Senator Jones, was made on the recommendations of the largest representative portion of the Republican party of the state and the same meets with the approval of our people, generally. There are two things which stand out in favor of the new Senator, one of which is his loyalty to his state, as a whole, the other as a staunch defender of the rights of the ex-service men. He being an ex-service man himself, he is more acquainted with their needs than any other man that could have been selected.

The attacks that have been made on him by some Democratic papers, might have been expected and inasmuch as he was at one time, aligned with that side of the fence, these unwarranted assaults may serve to show him just how much that side now thinks of him and the fact of his appointment at the hands of a Republican Governor, will show who are his friends and who are not. Col. Cutting will serve New Mexico to the entire satisfaction of our people and we wish him the greatest measure of success.

Watch Night Party

A watch night party was held at the Ziegler home last Saturday night with a large attendance. The guests made merry from 8 to midnight, when they dispersed with the usual exchange of best wishes. The hostess served light refreshments before the affair closed.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Tragedy of Submarine S-4—Hearst Is Bitterly Scored by Senators.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

FORTY men went to their death when the submarine S-4 was rammed and sunk by the coast guard destroyer Paulding outside the harbor of Provincetown, Mass. At least six members of the crew survived for some days in the forward compartment, and there were desperate efforts to rescue them, frustrated by tempestuous weather. Divers went down, and communication was held with the imprisoned men by hammer tapping in code, the victims telling from time to time the steady depletion of their store of oxygen and pleading for speedy help. A big rescue fleet stood by trying to devise means to get the men out or to get oxygen, food and water to them, and pontoons were gathered for raising the vessel; but by Wednesday evening all hope of saving any lives was abandoned, no further signals being received from the boat. The men who were in the torpedo compartment during those agonizing days were Lieut. G. N. Fitch, R. L. Short, R. A. Crabb, George Felner, Frank Snisek and J. L. Stevens.

One can but remark the pitiful lack of protection for submarine crews in such instances as this, and, reading that European undersea boats are much better equipped with emergency devices, one wonders if our naval constructors are not at fault.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

certainly poked his stick into a hornet's nest when he published those documents purporting to show that the Mexican government intended to present a lot of money to Senators Borah, La Follette, Norris and Hoffman. It didn't take the senate investigating committee many days to conclude that there was not the slightest reason to believe the senators ever had received any money from Mexico or ever had been offered any, and with this finding Mr. Hearst agreed. But he still insisted that the authenticity of the documents was practically established. Then Senator Norris, from his sick bed, issued an open letter to the publisher, exhorting him for his action.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader and a member of the investigating committee, also denounced Hearst, charging him with the dishonoring of public men to further his own selfish purposes. The publisher issued a long reply to Norris, in justification of his action in giving the documents to the public and asserting that no proof had been produced of their lack of authenticity. Next day the committee was told by Robert H. Murray, a former correspondent of the New York World in Mexico City, that Miguel Avila, the man who claims to have bought the documents from Mexican government clerks, had admitted to him that a certain paper of this character was a forgery. Avila said, according to Murray, that Joseph De Courcy, formerly correspondent of the New York Times in Mexico, was responsible for the fabrication.

From Murray's testimony it would appear that a large number of forged Mexican documents were being circulated. He said it was common report in Mexico City that the American embassy was in the market for documents of this sort, and that he believed former Ambassador Ethelred had the same material as published by the Hearst newspapers. The apostle was, he said, that the embassy bought everything Avila brought to them.

RMAN ADMIRAL MAGRUDER

is another man who appears to have bitten off more than he can chew. Being called before the house naval affairs committee to explain his criticisms of the navy department, he asserted that millions could be saved annually if unnecessary shore establishments were eliminated, the number of high naval officers reduced, the naval program, service and obsolete ships scrapped and duplicating of visions in the naval bureaus at Washington eliminated.

Specifically Admiral Magruder urged the abolition of naval yards at New York city and Portsmouth, N. H., and the closing down of the yard at Charleston, S. C. He asked for the concentration of naval training station work on the East and West coast and the consequent closing down of the training stations at Great Lakes, Ill., and at Newport, R. I. In addition he asserted that four hospitals maintained at unnecessary stations and yards should be leased to the veterans' bureau.

Then Acting Chairman Britten of Illinois and other members of the committee got into action, and to the innocent bystander it seemed as if they thoroughly riddled the admiral's vessel with their shots. They criticized him severely for not furnishing the committee with actual plans for cutting the naval expenditures and asserted that the adoption of all his suggestions would cost the government at least $1,000,000,000. Though contending that his proposals were sound, the admiral did not say what it would cost to complete the dredging of Pearl Harbor in the Hawaiian Islands, or what would be the cost of erecting new buildings on the coast and transferring the stations. He had asserted that it cost the government $2,500,000 to operate the Great Lakes station last year, and Mr. Britten replied that he had taken the trouble to check up and found the navy estimates the savings if the Great Lakes station is abolished at $200,000 annually. Admiral Magruder had advised the abolishing of the naval transport system, and stuck to this even after the committee showed him that last March Gen. H. C. Smithers, chief co-ordinator for the government, submitted a report showing that the navy transport service had been operated during the past year for less than the same work could have been done by private ships.

SENATOR JIM REED

of Missouri has not declared himself to be a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, but his friends are pushing him for that honor and he is fully aware of that fact. Now he has cleared the way for his backers by declaring that he will not again run for the senate. This statement is made by S. W. Fordyce, chairman of the Missouri Democratic committee. Of partisan Democrats and independent voters who believe in the "fundamental principles on which the Democratic party was founded," Fordyce said Reed's friends asked who besides Reed had a chance to carry the solid South and Missouri, and as good a chance to carry the doubtful states of West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Oklahoma and Kansas.

IN BEHALF

of Gov. Al Smith's candidacy, Norman E. Mack, Democratic national committeeman from New York, issued a statement asserting Smith is the only man who can carry New York for the Democrats, and declaring the "so-called religious issue dead forever."

Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas says the dry Democrats of that state seem determined to climb aboard the wet Smith band wagon in order to be with the winner. The Republican Kansas delegation, he says, will be for Senator Curtis as long as he is in the running. Afterwards the majority, he thinks, will go to Hoover, as will the governor himself and William Allen White.

CONTROVERSY

over farm relief came up again in the house when Representative Haugen of Iowa reintroduced the McNary-Haugen bill with a number of changes. The equalization fee, which furnished one of the chief reasons for the veto of the bill by President Coolidge, is retained, but a concession is made in the method of appointment of members of the proposed federal farm board.

The bill differs in some respects from the modified McNary bill introduced recently in the senate. The McNary bill also retains the equalization clause. The $300,000,000 revolving fund provided under the old McNary-Haugen bill is increased in the new Haugen bill to $400,000,000. The new McNary bill retains the $300,000,000 limit. The Haugen bill authorizes the board to enter into marketing agreements on all agricultural commodities.

CHIEF JUSTICE BRANSON

of Oklahoma, who, together with the governor and others, was impeached by the house of representatives, called a lot of the legislators as witnesses in his case and asked why they impeached him. The answer in general was because it was the sentiment of the people they represented, but the lawmakers admitted they heard no evidence supporting their action. Speaker Hill of the house, however, testified that the charges themselves, as read to the house, were sufficient evidence on which to warrant a vote for impeachment. The main charge against Branson was that he declared illegal the special session called to impeach the governor.

FRANKLY

determined to set him free if possible, the jury in the case of George Remus, ex-bootleg king, who killed his wife in Cincinnati, acquitted him "on the sole ground of insanity." The judge had instructed the jurors that that was the only ground on which they could return a verdict of not guilty. A sanity trial automatically was certified to the Probate court, and December 23 was set for those proceedings. Spokesmen for the jurors—ten men and two women—said that all of them wanted to send Remus from the courtroom a free man, feeling that he had been greatly wronged and had suffered almost beyond human endurance. Another potent argument is thus furnished the opponents of the jury system in criminal cases.

WILLIE

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh was flying by easy stages from Detroit to Mexico City to spend Christmas with her famous son, that young man was giving eminent Mexicans and some others the treat of their lives. Piloting a commercial plane he never had seen before, Lindy took President Calles up for his first experience of aviation, and the President enjoyed it immensely. Then the colonel took as passengers in succession General Oregon, who is going to succeed Calles, American Ambassador Morrow and other distinguished persons. The correspondents say that Lindbergh has inspired more aviation ambition than the Mexican government will be able to satisfy in the next five years. Hundreds of officers of the army, who had previously looked with more or less disrespect on aviation, now are anxious, if not to join the aviation corps, at least to learn aviation.

Lack of fuel defeated the attempt of Lieut. George R. Pond, naval aviator, and Capt. William Kingsford-Smith, Australian flyer, to set a new world's record for endurance flight in the tri-motored Fokker monoplane, Spirit of California. After remaining aloft over San Francisco and vicinity for 40 hours and 27 minutes, and with only three more hours to go to break the record held by two Germans, the aviators landed. Only four gallons of gasoline remained.

THAT

France does not intend to give in to extreme Fascist opinion concerning a new partition of the African colonies was made apparent when the chamber of deputies passed by a large majority the new naval program. Before voting, the deputies applauded violently this statement by Victor Bremond: "Regardless of the peaceful intentions toward Italy, France must have mastery of the Mediterranean and cannot sacrifice its position under any circumstances."

IT

is believed that fully 8,000 persons suspected of being communists have been killed by the Chinese Nationalists in their violent revolt against Soviet influence, and executions are continuing at Canton and Hankow, averaging 100 a day at the former city. All Russians are being expelled from the region, if their lives are spared. Among those who faced the firing squads was the Soviet vice consul at Canton, M. Hancin.

AMONG

the deaths that should be recorded are those of Senator A. Jones of New Mexico, who succumbed to cancer; Willie W. Moore, former chief of the government weather bureau, and "King Bee" Farnell, leader of the House of David out of Boston Harbor, Mass., who bitterly denigrated his followers by not being from the dead.

Shoes of Alexander Dumas Museum Exhibit

At Villiers-Cotterets, in France, in a Dumas museum raised to the memory of the celebrated author, who was born there. Among the exhibits is a pair of boots, and these have a history. When Dumas was a parliamentary candidate and had to address a public meeting at Sent, he noticed that his boots were down at heel and shabby.

"I can't possibly address the electors in boots like these," he said to his companion, Alphonse Billehault de Chaffault, "and there isn't time to buy another pair. You must lend me your boots, and I will lend you mine."

The change was effected. The novelist stuck to his friend's boots and wore them out. His own boots, which would stand no more wear, were thrown away in a lumber room, and ultimately inherited by Count George de Chaffault, who, in response to an advertisement for relics of the illustrious writer, presented them to the Villiers-Cotterets museum.

"What! I was in Torpidity tuther day I come mighty nigh swapping for a dog," related Lufe Lagg of Booger Holler. "In front of the New York store I met a feller that bantered me for a trade. His dog did look right good and I was examining of him and running him down in my talk when a feller on tuther side, of the street jerked out his gun and blazed away in our direction.

"Say, locky yur!' says I to the dogman, 'I don't reckon I want to swap with you for no dog. I hain't no-ways shore that the gent over across the street hain't one that you've swapped with before.'"

"Then the gent let slam with his gun ag'in and another gent came tumbling out of the winder and fell on the sidewalk in front of me. The dog lit out around the corner.

"Well," says I, "I'm dum!' shore I don't want to swap. There goes yore dog, skeered to death!"—Kansas City Star.

One Out of Five

"One of every five persons in United States owns an automobile," according to figures printed in Barron's Financial Weekly. "A world survey shows a car to every 60 persons," reads Barron's. "About 95 per cent, or 27,650,237, or all cars registered were of American manufacture. Canada and Hawaii rank second to United States in proportion of population owning automobiles, with one in eleven persons. New Zealand has 1 for every 12; Australia and Denmark 1 to every 17; United Kingdom 1 to every 43; Argentina 1 to every 45, and France 1 to every 45. India, with 1 to every 3,500 persons, has the smallest proportion among the first 25 motorized countries."

His Preference

A farmer took his wife to a concert, and after listening with apparent joy the pair suddenly became interested in one of the choruses: "All we, like sheep, have gone astray."

First a sharp soprano voice exclaimed: "All we, like sheep"; next a deep voice uttered in a most earnest tone: "All we, like sheep." Then all the singers at once asserted: "All we, like sheep."

"Well, I don't!" exclaimed the farmer to his wife. "I like beef and bacon, but I can't bear mutton!"

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAllister, famous in his special work—applied psychology—employs his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a reclusive, Henry Morgan. With a young friend, who tells the story, and Ashton, assistant district attorney, who is working on the case, he outlines the tragedy while at dinner in The Meridith hotel.

CHAPTER II

No one could deny my old chief a sense of humor, but his possession of it did not always prevent him from taking literally a remark intended to be jocular. He waited in perfect silence until Ashton laid down his fork and took his first sip of coffee. Then he pounced upon him like a cat. "So you want my help, do you? Well, I'm glad that. I'm glad that, at least there's a district attorney's office in this country advanced enough to use applied psychology in the detection of crime. I'm at your service absolutely. Phelps, here, and I will do all we can for you. But you must tell us all about the case first."

Ashton laughed. "I'm sorry to disappoint you, but the fact is that when I spoke of wanting your help, I was not thinking of you as a psychologist, but as a New Zealander."

Doctor McAllister frowned. "What has my being a New Zealander to do with it?"

"Why," said Ashton, "we found some bundles of old newspapers and various other odds-and-ends which seemed to point to Morgan having lived at one time in Wellington, and knowing that you had spent all the early years of your life in those parts, it occurred to me that you might have some connection there which would assist us in tracing him."

"Of course," growled the doctor, "I'll do anything I can for you."

Partly to appease him and partly because the subject was running strongly in his own mind, Ashton talked about little else than the Oak Ridge mystery during all the while we sat at dinner.

"The papers will make a great sensation tomorrow morning," he said, "of the testimony at the inquest of a young man named Harvey. I wish we might have got hold of him before that fool of a coroner did. His testimony sounded like a choice selection of pages from the 'Old Sleuth,' and I am inclined to think that it has just about as much relation to fact. I left Malory—he's one of the detectives in our office—out in Oak Ridge to keep an eye on him. He's to bring him down to the office in the morning. Until I have questioned him pretty thoroughly, I shan't know whether to believe a word of his tale, or not. Malory seems half inclined to think that the boy has some active connection with the crime, but that I disbelieve utterly."

"Tell us about him," said the doctor.

"Why, he's a young fellow well known here in town. His parents are eminently pious and respectable, but Willie enjoys the reputation of being a little fast. He's one of these imitation college boys, very well pleased with himself and quite a lady-killer. I judge, from the snickers that went round the room when he testified that he had gone out to call on a young lady and had not found her at home."

"I am telling you all that because it throws something of a light on his testimony. He swore that as he passed the house about nine o'clock, he noticed a light in the upper windows. The shades were down, he said, and in silhouette on one of them he could see old Morgan leaning back in a chair in an unnatural attitude, and with something queer-looking around his throat. That would be interesting enough, and may be true, but hear what he piles onto it. He says he saw the shadow of another figure on the shade, the figure of a woman, who was leaning over Morgan and making strange gestures in the air."

"Well," said the doctor, "say not that he's true, too?"

"He might have made us think so if he had stopped there," said Ashton, "but his subsequent testimony made it perfectly clear that he was lying. He told the coroner that after watching that lighted window shade for a few moments, he had walked away and gone straight home, and that was all he knew about it. Then the coroner questioned him more closely as to the appearance of the woman. He described her very fully. He said she was young, pretty, dark, and that she wore a green cloak with a high turned-up collar; and yet, mind you, he had not noticed that he had only seen her in silhouette upon a window shade.

"That thick-witted deputy coroner seemed to find nothing extraordinary in this description, and did not ask him how he could distinguish black hair from blond, or a green cloak from a yellow by its shadow. And not one of his precious jurors inquired about it, either. So his testimony went entirely unchallenged. Of course I could have spoken up, but I was only too glad to let the thing go until tomorrow morning, when I shall have the young man to myself."

I could see by the wrinkles about the doctor's eyes that his good humor was returning. "So it's perfectly clear to you, is it?" he asked, "that this young man, according to his lights, wasn't telling the exact truth? You rail at the coroner and his jury, you people who walk in darkness and might see a great light and won't. Haven't you any category in your mind at all between truth and lies? Don't you allow for any margin of illusion?"

"Illusion!" Ashton snorted. "Do you really believe that a man could testify as Harvey did, in perfectly good faith? Do you believe a sane man's mind could play him a trick like that? What was there to give him illusions?"

"Association," said Doctor McAllister bluntly. "The profile he saw in silhouette was associated, in his mind, with some woman with black hair, and the high-collared cloak connected itself in his mind with some cloak of the same shape that he had previously seen, which happened to be green in color. Consequently, he thought of the woman whose shadow he saw upon the shade as a black-haired woman with a green cloak."

It was clear to me that Ashton had been impressed by the reasonableness of Doctor McAllister's explanations, and yet he was unwilling to admit to himself that the impression had been made. Before he could think of any comment that would be sufficiently noncommittal, Doctor McAllister changed the subject.

"You've searched the house pretty thoroughly, I suppose," he said. "Have you found anything besides that vaguely suggested connection with New Zealand that places your man at all? Have you any indication how he passed the time? What sort of books he read, if he read at all, or what he did to amuse himself?"

"He had one queer hobby," said Ashton, "and that was geography. He had literally hundreds of maps, large scale maps of the whole of the southern Pacific."

I saw my chief's eyes light up at that, and waited, with a good deal of interest, for what he meant to say to this rather unpromising looking clew. But just then we were interrupted.

Wilkins came up and bent over his chair. "Doctor Reinhardt has telephoned to you, sir," he said. "Shall I put an instrument on the table?"

"Thank you, Wilkins. Yes, I'll talk with Doctor Reinhardt right here."

A moment later a portable telephone was set down beside the doctor's coffee cup. When he had hung up the receiver, and motioned to a waiter to take the telephone away, he turned to me—

"Reinhardt says he's got a queer case out at St. Martin's. He wants me to come out, posthaste, and have a look at it. You'll go with me, won't you? From what he says, it may prove interesting."

I nodded assent, and we both rose from the table.

"You'll excuse us, won't you?" said Doctor McAllister to Ashton. "Look me up in the morning and I'll give you those addresses."

Ashton rose, too. "I suppose you wouldn't care to take me over to the hospital with you?" he hazarded.

My chief looked a little surprised, and, perhaps, for an instantaneous moment, he hesitated; but then he said heartily: "Why, we'd be glad to have you come. Reinhardt won't object, I'm sure, only I'm afraid you may find us rather dull company when we get going on our hobbies."

"I'll go with you as far as the hospital, anyway," Ashton said. "I'd like your company, and, if possible, I'd like to get this confounded murder out of my head for an hour or two. And if you find you don't want a layman about when it comes to examining the patient, why I can wait outside."

early days spent in that part of the world.

"That was a great country for a boy to spend his childhood in," he said presently, "at least in the days when I was a youngster. That was during the gold rush, you know. They were finding it everywhere. And a wild lot of men they were. And if we had gold hunters ashore, we had pirates, and famous ones, too, afloat. Why, I myself saw Bully Franklin once."

"Was he a pirate?" Ashton inquired politely, but with no great interest.

"Was he a pirate? Well, what does fame amount to? He was a pirate that a British cruiser once spent a whole year looking for, tramping up and down the Pacific on the wildest goose chase that ever a cruiser led."

"I was rather glad to get the doctor to talking of something besides the murder, so I pushed along on this topic. 'I suppose he got what was coming to him, at last,' I remarked.

"Well, I don't know; not poetic justice, certainly. Nothing like what his crimes called for. He was killed as the result of a love affair of his. He made love to a Maori girl that one of his men was interested in, and it's said the fellow bashed his head with a tiller one night as he was coming aboard, up over the side. His crew went all to pieces after that. The authorities got hold of most of them and hanged them in short order."

"How did you happen to see him?" I asked. "I should think a pirate would be rather a difficult man to come to close quarters with."

"Let's see," he answered reflectively. "It was when we were living at Hokitiki. My father was manager of a branch of the Union bank there. Franklin put into the harbor and came ashore. I was only a lad then, and a good deal disappointed that he hadn't a long black mustache and a pair of pistols in his belt. He probably had the pistols somewhere, but they didn't show, and he was mild looking enough."

Then he turned suddenly to Ashton. "How old a man did you say this Morgan was?"

"A man apparently about sixty."

"Well, if he was out in that part of the world when I was, he was old enough to have had a rather lively time."

Our cab pulled up at the door to the hospital just then, and we found Doctor Reinhardt waiting for us in the office.

"I don't know whether it is a case that will interest you, or not," he said, "but it's rather curious. She was picked up for drunk, half frozen, out of the gutter by a patrolman. He rang up the wagon and they took her to the police station, but the desk sergeant disagreed with the diagnosis, and sent her here. Gilbert was on duty when they brought her in, about two o'clock this morning, and he thought it was concussion of the brain. For myself, I don't believe it. I'd say, to look at her, that she's normally asleep, except that we can't wake her. She's queer looking; pretty, in a sort of outlandish way. When I last looked at her she was mumbling the queerest gibberish you ever heard. I've got a nodding acquaintance with most of the languages that come in here, but I never heard anything that sounded at all like this."

"Come along," said Doctor McAllister; "I'd like to take a look at her."

Doctor Reinhardt made no objection to Ashton's accompanying us, so together we followed him into the long white ward. The girl we found lying upon the narrow cot, beside which we stopped, justified his description of her. She was not at all a beauty, according to our standards, but the thought came to me that in some far-off corner of the world where standards were different, she might have been accounted so, possibly in a supreme degree.

Nickel Pinchers Not Exponents of Thrift

I have never known a stingy person who was nice, who was one of those persons the thought of whom makes your heart expand with warmth and affection. I am not inveighing against those who are sensibly economical and thrifty. When a man or woman says: "No, I can't afford that. It's only a dollar, but a dollar is important to me," that is all right. The quality of being unashamed transfigures almost anything into something all right, even charming.

But a stingy person tries to pretend that the expense is nothing; that isn't what interests him. Oh, no! Yet his worry over the slipping away of nickels is so intense in him that it makes your flesh creep. When there is a restaurant check to be paid, when you invite a lighted to have a soda with you, click, click, you intuitively feel the cerebrations going on in his anxious brain as to which of you will have to give up the mazzuma for the indulgence.

"I don't want to embarrass them by taking them to the Ritz," the very rich girl rationalizes her economy, "so I will just take them down to that interesting little place under the elevated, with the sawdust on the floor."

"I don't want persons to get to care for me only for my money," says the very rich snob, who as often as not is the richest debutants of the season. So she always makes it a point to "go Dutch."—Elizabeth Barbour in the Saturday Evening Post.

Why Not 'Uniform Accounting' for Criminals

Establishment of criminal statistics bureaus in every state of the Union, is recommended by the National Crime Commission.

Based upon the findings of an investigating committee headed by former-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, the report states that America has more crime than any other civilized nation and has the world's worst criminal statistics. Annual police reports of America were termed little less than ridiculous.

The statistical bureaus recommended by the Crime Commission, coupled with central identification bureaus also suggested would be of enormous assistance to the Federal Census Bureau in tabulation of criminal data.

In civil affairs such as operating railroads, public utilities and national banks, the law requires uniform reports of the most intricate character and private companies have to furnish these reports to state and federal governments so that the public officials can check them in the smallest detail.

In public affairs and police court records, why cannot the same uniformity and thoroughness be applied? Why should the criminal be encouraged in carrying on his work due to lack of public information regarding his crimes? Why not keep as accurate a check on criminals as we do on honest and legitimate business?

Why blame the war, the modern jazz age, bootleg liquor, the movies, revolvers or our large cities for the 'crime profession'? Instead of warring on the criminal, we pass more laws further restricting law-abiding citizens, in the hope that the criminal will be checked by a new law. He laughs at such tactics knowing the more laws we have, the more loopholes there are for him to crawl through and evade punishment. Uniform laws, uniform penalties and uniform enforcement would get results.—The Manufacturer.

Solid South Against Smith

News from the Sunny South, noocen by one Washington correspondent, is taking the wind out of the political sails of Gov. Al Smith, and it does not now look as though Smith will have a walkaway for the democratic nomination for president.

Statesmen after statesmen from the southern states predicted that if Smith should receive the nomination at the democratic national convention the southern states, almost in their entirety, would back a third party or independent movement.

The Dixie Landers don't assert that the Solid South will go republican. They declare that an independent ticket assuredly will be put in the field, if Al Smith gets the regular democratic nomination, that the republicans will then carry the border states and that the sure enough southern ones, with the probable exception of Louisiana will give majorities to the third ticket. They are frankly of the opinion that it would quite likely disrupt the democratic party permanently. That's why they are so dead set against Smith's nomination—at all. They swear they would greatly prefer a united party candidate's defeat at the polls to the democracy's disintegration—which they profess to foresee, if Al runs.

Capital's Police Women Stand High in First Aid

Members of the Women's Bureau of the District of Columbia police department recently completed the Red Cross first aid course. This is perhaps the first women's group of the kind to be awarded the special first aid arm insignia by the American Red Cross in token of completion of the training.
The Red Cross in the past year qualified 24,312 persons in first aid and awarded certificates to members of police and fire departments, industrial groups and utilities employees all over the United States.

The Eleventh Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross, during which new membership is invited, will be held this year from November 11 to 24.

GENUINE NAVAJO INDIAN RUGS

AN UNUSUAL GIFT WHICH WILL LAST A LIFETIME

The Rugs of the Navajo Indians are unlike any other rugs ever produced as art of weaving has been brought to a perfection with this tribe of the Southwest. The designs are of their own figures and symbols and are seen nowhere else. These Rugs are of a texture and quality that will outlast Oriental Rugs. The wool used is sheared from live sheep which insures strength and firmness. They will wear a lifetime and become heir looms. The time is not far distant when genuine Navajo Rugs will no longer be woven, as the old Squaws who do this work are getting fewer and the present generation does not take up the work. For this reason the rugs now on the market are much sought after by lovers of Indian Relics.

Order Establishing Game Refuge

At a meeting of the State Game Commission of the State of New Mexico, held in the City of Santa Fe, on the 22nd day of December, 1927, a petition to establish a game refuge to be known as the Bonito Refuge in the County of Lincoln, was considered.

The Game Commission, after hearing the recommendations of the U. S. Forest Service, J. Stokley Ligon and the Executive Board of the Southwestern Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association, and after due consideration of said recommendations and other information presented to the Commission, found that the hereinafter described area should be set aside as a safe sanctuary in which game animals and birds may breed and replenish adjacent hunting grounds.

It is therefore ordered and directed, that the following described area:

"Beginning at a point on the Rio Bonito at the mouth of Kraut Gulch in the NE 1-4 Sec. 12 T. 10 S., R. 12 W.; thence northwest up Kraut Gulch to the mouth of Littleton Canyon through Secs. 12 and 1 T. 10 S., R. 12 W.; thence up Littleton Canyon in a northwesterly direction through Sec. 1 T. 10 S., R. 12 E., Sec. 1 T. 10 S., R. 11 E and Sec. 36 T. 9 S., R. 11 E. to the divide between the Rio Bonito and Nogal Canyon; thence west along this divide in Secs. 35, 26 and 27, T. 9 S., R. 11 E to the Nogal Peak trail; thence in a westerly direction along this trail through Secs. 26, 27, 28, 29 and 32, T. 9 S., R. 11 E., to the Summit trail; hence along the Summit trail in a southerly direction through Sec. 31 T. 9 S., R. 11 E., Sec. 6 T. 10 S., R. 11 E., Secs. 1, 12, 13 and 24, T. 10 S., R. 10 E., and approximately Secs. 19, 20, 29, 32 and 33, T. 10 S., R. 11 E., unsurveyed, to the Rio Bonito-White Mountain Trail, which forms the north and west boundary of the White Mountain Game Refuge, thence along this boundary in a northeasterly direction through approximately Secs. 33, 34, 27, 26, 23, 24, T. 10 S., R. 11 E., unsurveyed and Sec. 24, T. 10 S., R. 12 E., to the Monjeau divide, thence in a northerly direction along the ridge east of Rodemaker canyon through Sections 24, 13 and 12, T. 10 S., R. 12 E., to the point of beginning, being approximately 20,000 acres more or less, all lying within the Rio Bonito drainage, situate in the county of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, be and the same is hereby set aside, established and created as a game refuge for the purpose of creating a safe sanctuary in which not game may breed and replenish adjacent hunting ranges.

"I can never rightly know the meaning of what I hear at church, only a bit here and there."—Silas Marner.

There are two main reasons why the hearer may not understand the meaning of what he hears at church or elsewhere: the thought may be a complex one, or the words used may be unknown to the hearer. It is the rare speaker rather than the usual one who can speak simply enough to be understood by his entire audience. To do so often requires a translation of thought from the speaker's vocabulary that it is as definite a translation as one from Latin to English.

Every day, on all sides of us absurd ideas and notions are being taken from speeches and articles that seem perfectly simple and clear to the speaker or writer.

Several years ago a high school teacher of English and her class got into an argument on this subject. She assured them they did not know everyday English; they assured her they knew enough to be able to read the newspapers and magazines, which was as much as anybody needed to know. Thereupon, the teacher challenged them to bring in the next day any editorial article from any newspaper or magazine, and satisfy her that they knew the meaning of all the words in the article they selected.

The pupils were members of the Junior class, and of average ability. When the next day came, one after another rose, read his article, and acknowledged that he didn't know what this or that word meant. Finally, the last boy, the ablest pupil in the class, rose. He had selected the shortest article he could find, one of only a half dozen lines. The words in it were of the simplest, and he smiled triumphantly as he read the last sentence, which stated that the governor's efforts had been futile. The teacher asked him the meaning of "futile." He said that was easy, everybody knew what futile meant, but he couldn't just express it. The teacher then asked him whether the governor succeeded or failed in his attempt, and he had no idea. The word futile was familiar in sound; but quite without meaning to him. Because he knew the sound of the word, he had assumed that he knew the meaning. The same thing is true of a surprisingly large number of the words we hear and use.

JESUS AND THE SICK

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:31-48. GOLDEN TEXT—He hath done all things well: He maketh both the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak.

The purpose of Mark in this section is to show Jesus Christ the Divine Servant bearing God's message and clothed with the power to save lost souls.

1. Jesus Teaching With Authority (vv. 21, 22). 1. The place (v. 21). It was in the synagogue in Capernaum where He with four disciples repaired "straightway" upon His entrance into the village.

2. The time (v. 21). His faithfulness in observing the Sabbath brought Him to the place where the people assembled to worship and to hear the Scriptures expounded.

3. The impression (v. 22). The people were astonished. Two things about His teaching impressed the hearers.

4. Jesus Conquering Demons (vv. 23-28). 1. The outcry of the demon-possessed man (v. 23). Perhaps he interrupted Jesus while He was teaching.

2. The demon's confession (v. 24). "Thou art the Holy One of God." The one whose chief business it was to waste and destroy human life was in such miserable state as to desire to have nothing to do with Christ.

3. Christ's attitude toward him (v. 25). He asked and accepted no testimony from him, but sternly rebuked and cast out the foul spirit.

4. The obedience of the demon (v. 26). The spirit was reluctant to leave the man and malicious to the end, for he tore the man whom he had to leave.

5. The impression made upon the people (vv. 27, 28). The news of Christ's power spread rapidly over Galilee. The people were startled by two things:

(1) The new doctrine which He brought. (2) His authority over demons.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law (vv. 29-31). This scene lies in the home of one of the disciples.

IV. Jesus Ministering to Many (vv. 32-34). Though the day was strenuous in its labor, He came unwearied even when the sun had set.

V. Jesus Cleansing a Leper (vv. 35-45). As Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee and cast out demons, His power became known.

Beauty of Bible Thoughts I am of the opinion that the Bible contains more true sensibility, more exquisite beauty, more pure morality, more important history, and finer strains of poetry and eloquence than can be collected from all other books.

Occupation Absence of occupation is not rest; a mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.—Cowper.

Story for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Oh, dear, oh, dear, oh, dear," said Maggie, "whatever will I do, I've lost my stocking and I'm getting dressed to go to the party."

"It's one of my best stockings, too. Dear me, where can it be?" "Where could that stocking go?" She looked and she looked and she looked.

She pulled out her bureau drawers, she pulled out things from her shelves. She looked under chairs, under the bed, behind chairs, behind the bed.

"Please look for my stocking. Can anyone find my stocking?" Then she began calling out: "I'll give a penny to anyone who finds my stocking."

Quite often Maggie did offer a reward like that, for she thought it made people look for her things a little harder, and she was apt to lose her things.

Not for long, of course, but she had put them somewhere else than she remembered.

For instance if she said to herself: "Now I'll remember and put my piece of candy to eat after lunch on the mantelpiece instead of on the sideboard for I'll be going into the living room right after dinner," then she would be sure to be looking for it on the sideboard and would be saying:

"But I'm sure it must be on the sideboard for I thought it would be so much better to have it in the room where I was finishing my dinner."

So Maggie offered a penny reward for the stocking. Every one began to hunt once more. It was true they did hunt for her things, more when she offered a reward.

It was hard on Maggie's allowance to have to offer so many rewards, but then she was always taking up every one's time in looking for things!

But the stocking, all by itself, back of the washstand where Maggie hadn't looked, where it had fallen when Maggie had left them there when she had got up in the morning—so they'd be all ready for the party, was quite sad and felt quite absurd.

"She found the other stocking which was right on the washstand and she didn't look for me," the stocking objected.

"Or maybe she didn't even know that she had picked the other stocking up from the washstand."

"But how can she say that I'm lost? I didn't run away. I'm right here. I can't go anywhere without a leg to take me."

"I couldn't help falling. I haven't been anywhere, and I don't intend to go anywhere."

"Dear me, dear me, I wish I could be found."

And then, Maggie somehow remembered the stocking she had on had been on the washstand and she remembered about it.

She looked back of the washstand for the other stocking and there it was.

How glad she was. And she didn't enjoyed by cooking in milk or in a good meat broth.

Another way of cooking them after paring is to place them in a baking dish or casserole, either whole or sliced, cover closely and bake in a slow oven until done, or about one-half to one hour.

The cover of the baking dish may need to be removed toward the close to dry out excess moisture. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Add grated cheese or buttered crumbs or both, when liked.

JERUSALEM ARTICHOKE GOOD BAKED OR BOILED

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In many localities Jerusalem artichokes grow abundantly when once started in the garden. Their culture is like that of corn, and they are dug by hand. In food value the United States Department of Agriculture says they are similar to the potato.

They, however, contain inulin, which is converted in the body into levulose or fruit sugar, and they are often times recommended for diabetics. They have a delicious flavor of their own when properly cooked.

As these tubers are irregular in shape, they are tedious to prepare for the table, as they must be scraped or pared. A better way is to scrub them well with a stiff brush and then bake or boil them in their skins.

When they have been baked, they may be served in their skins and eaten with butter, salt and pepper, or they may be scraped out, mashed, seasoned, and then served. Boiled Jerusalem artichokes are easily peeled after cooking. They may be served whole or sliced, with butter and seasoning. A little lemon juice or vinegar is suggested by way of flavoring.

If liked, the boiled vegetable may also be served in cream or other well-seasoned sauce. It may be baked in cream sauce with a sprinkling of grated cheese; or fried with chopped leeks, celery tops, or parsley in a little butter, adding white sauce later, if desired.

If the tubers are pared before boiling, they should be thinly sliced, very little water should be used, and it should be boiled down almost dry at the close. Small tubers may cook in 15 to 20 minutes. The flavor is much have to give a reward for it, either. She was indeed fortunate, and the stocking was so glad to go to the party and not to lie, limp and useless, back of the washstand.

It was so true, the stocking kept thinking, how little it could do unless it was worn.

TIMELY HINTS FOR HOUSEWIFE

Spots on soft felt hats may be easily removed by rubbing with fine emery paper.

Salads are no longer considered luxuries. At least one salad should be included in every day's menu.

There's nothing like lemon juice, salt and sunlight for getting rid of rust stains on the household linen.

An inch or so of adhesive tape on each corner of the bed springs is likely to save many tears in the corners of the sheets.

A good way to clean mirrors is to wash with a cloth or newspaper moistened in alcohol. Use care not to let the alcohol run under the frame.

It doesn't pay to can fruit or vegetables at home to sell unless they can be sold at a price that pays for the labor as well as the materials used.

A rubber apron is one of the greatest time and labor savers. To clean it, simply rub it with a damp cloth or if it is badly soiled, dip the cloth in a little baking soda.

The Care of Children

Illinois Home Demonstration Agent Showing Care of Child.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) It has been frequently remarked that the most valuable crop on any farm is, after all, its children, and rural mothers are more and more awake to the need of information on everything that has to do with the welfare of their children.

The county home demonstration agent is showing how to weigh the baby correctly, and has accompanied the demonstration with a talk on the right weight for different periods of growth. Preceding this part of the meeting, there has been a visit to the infant's clothing section, and suitable garments which have been selected are seen hanging on a rack in the corner.

FAVORITE RECIPES

By NELLIE MAXWELL

HERE ARE SOME COOKIES

We all like to fill the cookie jar. Here are a few to try:

Sand Cookies.—Beat two eggs until light, without separating; add a cupful of sugar and continue beating. Add four tablespoonfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Handle and roll with as little flour as possible. Roll very thin and cut with a doughnut cutter. Roll in a little sugar and sprinkle each cookie with a bit of cinnamon and decorate with halves of blanched almonds, using three on each cookie—points all to the center. Bake in a quick oven.

Molasses Cookies.—Put two quart of flour into a bowl, rub into it one-half cupful of butter. Dissolve one teaspoonful of soda in two tablespoonfuls of warm water; add this to a pint of molasses and then add the mixture gradually to the flour. When the flour is moist roll out quickly, cut into round cakes and bake in a moderate oven until golden brown.

Coffee Cookies.—Beat two eggs with one cupful of sugar until light. Add four tablespoonfuls of soft butter and beat again. Add one cupful of strong warm coffee and stir in quickly three cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, adding more flour as needed to roll. Roll quickly, cut with a large round cutter and bake in a quick oven until a golden brown. Roll them not too thin. They should be soft when well made.

Dominoes.—Beat the yolks of two eggs, a cupful and a half of sugar, one-fourth pound of soft butter together, until very light. Add one cupful of tepid water. Sift three cupfuls of flour with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, add this to the first mixture, beat thoroughly and bake in a shallow, greased pan. The batter must not be over a quarter of an inch thick. When done cool, ice, and dot with melted chocolate, using a skewer or toothpick.

This is the season of the year when dainty cakes and cookies appeal to the appetite. It is also time to make the fruit cakes and those which will keep for months, growing better. Here are some that come highly recommended:

Six-Months' Cakes.—Cream one-half cupful of butter and lard, add one cupful of sugar, two well-beaten eggs and one-half cupful of molasses. Mix and sift two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves and one-fourth teaspoonful of mace. Add alternately with one-half cupful of milk to the first mixture and beat well; then add one cupful of raisins cut into small pieces and dredge with flour, using two tablespoonfuls. Turn into bread pans and bake 45 minutes.

Fruit Sponge Drops.—Beat three eggs and one cupful of sugar thoroughly, add one-third of a cupful of water, one cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of vanilla and a pinch of salt. Bake in patty tins. Scoop out the centers and fill with sweetened whipped cream, or peaches or pears cut fine, and cover with whipped cream when serving. If one likes, instead of the cream, roll the cakes in frosting and then in coconut.

Ginger Snaps.—Rub half a cupful of butter into two quart of flour. Add two teaspoonfuls of ground ginger, a dash of red pepper and sufficient New Orleans molasses to make a hard dough. Knead the dough, roll as thin as a wafer, cut into small cakes and bake until crisp. These cookies will keep for several months if kept in tin, tightly covered.

Chocolate Layer Cake.—Take one cupful of brown sugar, one-fourth cupful of butter, one-fourth cupful of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one egg, one and one-fourth cupfuls of flour, two squares of chocolate dissolved in one-half cupful of hot water added at the last. Mix as usual and bake in two layers.

It is unreasonable for a grower to expect a child to do anything as well as a trained worker.

KIDNEY STEW DESIRABLE WHEN PROPERLY PREPARED

Perhaps more people would enjoy kidney and other "fancy meats" if the butcher calls them, if they knew how to cook them appetizingly. Here is a recipe for kidney stew with just enough added seasoning to make it extremely good. A beef kidney is called for, but other kidneys may be used if beef is not obtainable. The bureau of home economics supplies this recipe:

- Kidney Stew: 1 beef kidney, 1 lb. thinly sliced onion, 1 cup diced potato, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 tba. flour, 1 tba. butter, 1 tba. chopped parsley, 1 egg yolk, 1/2 cup catsup.

Wash the kidney well, remove the skin, and most of the fat. Cover with cold water and heat it slowly to the boiling point, discard the water, and repeat the process until there is no strong odor and no scum on the water. Then add more water and simmer the kidney until tender. Cut the kidney in small pieces. Cook the diced potato and onion and add to the cut kidney. Thicken the liquid with the blended flour and butter, and cook for a few minutes longer. Take the stew from the stove and stir in the beaten egg yolk, the parsley, and catsup. The heat of the stew will cook the egg sufficiently.

FOR THE YOUNG LADY'S ROOM

That little corner bedroom apartment with the white dimity curtains can be made even more attractive by adding a fluffy pillow or two. Organza makes a lovely pillow cover for a young girl's room. Use two shades of pink or other dainty color which harmonizes with the general color scheme and goes nicely with the wall paper. An oblong of the lightest organza is attached to the center and two rows of hemstitching trim the edges. Five organza roses add a finishing touch.

Do Not Scold Children

It is wrong to scold children or to discuss matters relating to discipline at the table. Any unpleasant emotion, such as crying or prying, interferes so seriously with the digestion that it is harmful to the children, say authorities experts of the National Dairy Council, an organization promoting health and child welfare.

New Velvet Frocks

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

NATURE is somewhat a fashionist herself, changing her garb with the coming of each season. And what a shining example does she set of the appropriateness of things. She wears "roses in rose time," ruddy rustling leaves at autumn's debut, anemones and violets to usher in the springtime and when winter comes she clothes the earth in glittering snow and cheery holly berries—which leads up to the theme of the mode's timeliness and good taste in featuring gay-colored plaided and checked velvet frocks as being typically apropos for the mid winter style picture.

Every one must admit that costumes of multi-colored plaid and checked velvet, such as are shown in this picture "look the part" of wintry cheer. One could not choose a frock of greater enchantment for immediate wear than either of these models. Indestructible velvet check in royal blue and deep purple is the chosen medium for the gown to the right in the illustration. Not only is the material itself beautiful, beyond words, but it emphasizes the cleverest sort of fabric manipulation, combining the checks in artful ways both on the bias or the straight as well as circular cut.

Speaking of the combination of purple and blue as stressed in this checked velvet of which this frock is fashioned, these two colors frequently form an alliance. As to purple or amethyst, all Paris is exploiting these tones, also deep violet, especially when it comes to the velvet frock.

The other velvet dress complements the plaid with a "dicky" or shallow yoke of plain color, matching this with waistband and strap belt of the same.

The charm of these two velvet frocks cannot be sufficiently told in mere words, they must "be seen to be appreciated." There is no doubt about it, the new printed sheer velvets of every description are as handsome if not handsomer than any fabrics shown for seasons past. If one's clothes "budget" does not admit of one of the exclusive high-class transparent plaid velvets, it is well to remember that very charming printed velveteens are available at moderate prices.

In fact velveteen, plain or printed, is exceedingly fashionable. Perfectly charming sports frocks display the spirit of solid colored velvet, say wine or dark green topped with a blouse of printed velvet whose basic color blends with the skirt.

Another velveteen sports interpretation styles the skirt of this material, posing over it a jersey blouse the same color which shows either in sets or appliques of the matching velveteen.

For her winter coat the Parisienne is expressing favor for velveteen heavily furred. A wide-colored velvet top coat trimmed in black lynx is extremely handsome. Pretty colored velveteen with matching long haired fur or with spotted fur trimmings are extremely smart.

Very interesting machine stitching imparts a note of interest to many a velveteen coat, which is fashioned in a tailored way.

PERSONALS

Judge John Kimbrell was here the first part of the week holding Probate Court. The business transacted was all of a minor nature, but the Judge gives these matters as much attention as those of a larger importance.

Miller French, Don English, Alfredo Lopez and Jeanne Kelly have returned to the University at Albuquerque and Walter La Fleur, Marshall Beck and Jim Kelsey have returned to the State College after having spent the holiday season with the home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Turpin of San Bernardino, Calif., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Duggar at the Duggar ranch in the Tortolita Canyon for the week end, leaving for home Sunday. Mrs. Turpin is a sister to Mrs. Duggar and this was their first visit to this county. They were very favorably impressed with our mountain scenery and will pay us another visit at some future date.

Mrs. J. K. Such is ill this week with an ailment closely resembling pneumonia, but her condition is improving.

Judge McDaniel was a visitor from Nogal the first part of the week and reported splendid weather in that vicinity.

Messrs. Burkett and Riddle returned Monday from Abilene, Texas, where they spent the holiday week with relatives and friends. They report a fine time and said that Miss Mary Catherine Chandler, who accompanied them to Abilene for the purpose of entering the Simmons College, has enrolled and also well pleased with that institution.

Miss Margaret Thompson, who spent the holiday week here with her sister, Miss Alene Thompson and the T. E. Kelley family, left last Friday, accompanied by far as El Paso, by Miss Alene, who remained with her sister until she left Saturday for Post, Texas, where she is teaching school.

This office has received, during the past week, two announcements of new arrivals in the homes of two of our former residents, the first being that of the birth of Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben M. Stanley of Midland, Texas, the second of the birth of Patricia Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Adams of Benson, Arizona. Mrs. Ben M. Stanley was at one time Miss Mary White and Mrs. L. R. Adams is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ayers, who resided for many years on their ranch about ten miles south of here. Mothers and daughters in both families are doing nicely.

Mrs. J. H. Mims of Glencoe, is spending the winter season with her parents and other relatives at her old home in Evergreen, Alabama, where she will remain until about April 1. This is Mrs. Mims' first visit to the old home town since the family moved here from the south several years ago.

Miss Vivian Lane, daughter of Allen Lane of White Oaks, spent the holiday season with the Lane family, returning to El Paso last Monday.

The Board of County Commissioners met Monday with Chairman R. E. P. Warden absent, having not yet returned from his trip to Washington, Va. This being the first meeting of the new year, the commissioners have a great deal of business to transact which will require several days to complete, and will probably not complete the task before today.

R. A. Hunnicutt of Capitan was a Carrizozo visitor Tuesday. He said it was cold on the Mesa but stock is wintering nicely.

Dan Walker, brother of R. A. Walker of the Star Cafe, is here from Rawlins, Wyoming, and is taking care of the interests of the cafe during the night period.

Messrs. Hal Young and Ed Comrey were here from their homes in Nogal, shaking hands with their old friends and wishing them a Happy New Year.

Oliver Peaker was in from his ranch Monday and Tuesday of this week and reported that his stock has been wintering nicely.

Wm. J. Langston is in receipt of an instrument arranged in the form of a deed, which the donor, one Mr. D. D. Moproe, sent him as a New Year's card. The deed is made out in regular form and grants to his friend, Happiness, Prosperity and best wishes for the new year. The deed, it says, is from the State of Mind, Happiness County, and the same is recorded on the records of Time.

J. T. Jolly of Corona spent several days here this week, visiting his son L. A. Jolly, the Model Cleaner. Mr. Jolly has just returned from his old home in Texas and says that the weather is much colder there than it is here.

From good authority, I know the party who borrowed my cook stove, kitchen table, stove pipes and screens from my ranch house. Please return same and no questions will be asked. M. M. Drenning, 21 Ancho, N. M.

J. W. Armstrong, dealer in general merchandise at Hollywood, N. M., was a visitor here Tuesday. Mr. Armstrong reports business good and the weather nice in our neighboring mountain town.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Peckham made a trip to El Paso last Sunday in the new Ford car which had been on exhibition at the Western Motors, Inc., for the week-end. They remained at the border city, saw the festivities of the new year and returned home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Phillips, son Rogers, and mother, Mrs. J. H. Phillips were here from Capitan Wednesday. Rogers is but 2 months old, but even at his age, he is the boss of the Phillips home and besides he is a boy, quoth Pete.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Spencer have returned from Columbia, Mo., where they spent the holidays with their children, Wm. and Jane, who are attending the high school branch of the Missouri University.

Mrs. J. A. Brubaker was here Wednesday from Capitan.

The C. H. S. basketball team will play Friday night at Vaughn and Tularosa plays here Saturday, Jan. 14.

John Townsend is again on the streets after a severe case of the mumps. John was confined to his home for about two weeks.

Little Walter Fulmer has been ill with the flu this week, but is recovering nicely.

Assistant State Highway Engineer B. F. Kelly was here for two days this week, attending to some business matters connected with his department.

The Misses Callie Morris and Georgia Stewart of Capitan were visitors here yesterday with the Misses Mary Fritz, county school superintendent and sister Maude.

Lincoln Forest Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Willard F. Bond spent two days in Alamogordo visiting with the Ewing family.

We had the pleasure of a call last week from Fred Ayres of the Apache, enroute from his old home in Carlsbad to Springer-ville.

Word has just been received from Ranger Messer that another old timer has gone. Macario Torres, one of the oldest S & G permittees, died last week.

Miss Boone held a general clerical examination Wednesday for Wm. A. Goforth of the Indian Service. He was the only applicant as it was a non-competitive examination for change in designation.

On a certain district a prominent grazing permittee has persistently ignored all official instructions for proper maintenance of an important drift fence separating his allotment from adjoining ranges. A state of dissatisfaction due to drifting stock has prevailed. The situation was brought to a show down just recently when the District Ranger, accompanied by a delegated representative of the permittees on the opposite side of the fence, called and jointly informed him that leniency had about reached the breaking point. Result: fence is to be immediately improved and maintained in the future. (This method has administrative action by reductions, etc., beaten many ways.)

Girl Scouts Meet

Thursday, Dec. 27, at the home of Gladys and Dorothy Dodder, with a small attendance. The next meeting will be held at the home of Ida Chapman Tuesday, Jan. 16 and a good attendance is desired, as business of importance will come before the meeting.

Fort Stanton Notes

Mesdames Tappan and Faget will entertain the Personnel of the Fort at the home of Mrs. Tappan next Wednesday evening with a buffet supper and bridge party.

Drs. Reid, Nesbit, Red Merrill and Bill Hale went duck hunting the first of the week, and brought back 36 fine ducks and supplied the entire Fort. They were so proud of their possessions that they had their pictures taken with the big bunch, before distributing them over the Fort.

Commander Tappan has been ill for the past week with a bad cold, but is improving nicely.

Dr. Cooper has returned to the Fort after spending his vacation in the east.

Miss Converse, who had also been on a vacation spending the holiday season with relatives and friends in the east, has returned.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wunsch, who left for Kansas to spend the holidays, returned Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Wunsch's mother, who will visit with her daughter's family for a short period.

Dr. and Mrs. Nesbit and Dr. Nesbit's father and mother, who are here for a short visit, spent the first part of the week in El Paso, returning to the Fort Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Faget and Mrs. Tappan, were visitors at Carrizozo Thursday, returning to the Fort in the evening.

Mrs. Pettitt, mother of Mrs. Nesbit, who has been visiting her daughter's family for the past six weeks, will leave for her home in Santa Monica, California, next Wednesday.

A number of members of the Eastern Star, both ladies and gentlemen, will attend the installation ceremonies at the Masonic Temple Thursday evening.

Mrs. O. I. Nesbit will entertain at a five-table bridge party at her home Friday night. Honor guests will be Mesdames Pettitt of Hutchinson, Kansas, and Nesbit of Albion, Indiana.

The local Post of the American Legion held a meeting Thursday night and the following officers which were elected at the previous meeting were installed: Post Commander, T. B. Kinchele; Vice Post Commander, Dr. O. I. Nesbit; Adjutant, Jim Cavanaugh; Financial Officer, Scott Hewson.

The Seamen's Social Club entertained New Year's Eve with a fine musical program after which a big spread was served to the guests. Those who attended the affair are high in their praise of how well everything was carried out and of the many courtesies shown the guests by that popular organization.

Boyd Loughrey is ill this week with pneumonia and his condition at present is not very encouraging. Let us hope for the best.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Titworth, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brubaker, Mesdames Bilbo and Holmes of Capitan were here at the Eastern Star installation last night from Capitan.

W. H. Broadus, Optometrist, will be in Carrizozo Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 17 18, at Dr. Shaver's office. Glasses fitted. 2t

Walter Story, in a letter received at this office, is now in Ancho, from Nogal.

Harry Ryberg came in Wednesday from Chicago, where he spent the holidays with his brothers and sister. He was accompanied by his brother Ernest, who will remain with Harry on his ranch near Corona for a month or so before returning to Chicago.

We are in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Robt. Coakey, nee Helen Ester, who at one time was a resident of Carrizozo, being a niece of Mrs. O. S. Stearns of this place. Mrs. Coakey ordered The Outlook sent to her address in Trinidad, Colo., so that she might keep in touch with the folks in Lincoln County, to which we gladly respond.
