On Tuesday, the 27th, in honor of his birthday, A. D. McNeff was presented with a very handsome and highly decorated box by his many friends at the Fort. The box was filled with many and various useful articles which Mickey in his little speech of appreciation assured us will come in very handy as he goes about his duties here at the Post. A happy birthday, Mickey, and many more of them.

H.S. Orchestra Now Boasts 20 Pieces

The Carrizozo High School Orchestra has been working steadily since Christmas preparing for the spring concert, to be given April 10 and 11.

In connection with the concert which will be given at the Crystal Theatre, the management has secured a high-class picture production, Mary Roberts Rhinehart's serial story "Finders Keepers," starring Laura La Plante, the popular screen comedienne.

The orchestra is now the largest of its kind in this part of the state, and is planning to enter the district high school music contest at Roswell in April, and if successful, enter the state contest at Albuquerque on May 11. The organization is giving the concert to raise funds for sweaters which will be used as uniforms at the concert and at the contests. The sweaters are black, light weight, slip-over type which will make a neat appearance as a concert uniform.

Obituary of Dan Franks

Contributed:

Dan Franks was born in Eagle Pass, Texas, October 12, 1885, departed this life at Carrizozo, New Mexico, March 21, 1928, having attained the age of 42 years, 5 months and 9 days. He was among the early pioneers in this part of the country, coming and settling up a claim down the valley. At an early age, he was converted to Christ and united with the Baptist Church, but after coming here did not affiliate with any of the churches but lived his life for his Lord and his neighbors.

He was a friend to all who needed a friend and counted no favor too large or too small to grant to anyone who was in need of his help. He will be greatly missed by his neighbors and by all who ever came to know him. He leaves to mourn his going, two brothers, Guy, of Pleasanton, Texas, and Melvin Franks of Corona, N. M. One sister, Miss Donnie Franks of Corona, N. M.

He liveth long, who liveth well; All other life is short and vain; He liveth longest who can tell; Of living most for heavenly gain. He liveth long, who liveth well; All else is being thrown away; He liveth longest who can tell; Of true things truly done each day.

Remains of Old Resident Taken to El Paso

Mrs. Sterling Fisher of El Paso, sister of Mrs. E. V. Abeyta of Capitan, came up last week for the purpose of removing the remains of her father, J. M. de Aguayo to the family lot in El Paso where their mother's remains are interred. Mr. Aguayo, who was known throughout the county as Judge Aguayo, died in 1901 and was buried on his ranch east of White Oaks. The mother died in 1927, and was buried in El Paso. The same minister, who conducted the funeral for the father in 1901, was in charge of the services at the mother's funeral in 1927, he being pastor of the Ashbury Methodist Church at El Paso.

T. A. Spencer has returned from his trip to Columbia, Mo., and reports Mrs. Spencer to be recovering rapidly from her recent spell of illness.

SOUTH-WEST NEWS NOTES

Silver City business men contemplate establishing an air service to surrounding towns and mining camps. Work on the new Las Cruces Country Club building and grounds, to cost $15,000, will begin at once. It is announced by Fred H. Hess, club president.

A new hospital, a branch of St. Mary's Hospital in Chicago, is being erected at Clayton, N. M., on land donated by Clayton citizens who also are giving funds to furnish it.

Following hearings of several days, Judge E. C. Jacobs of the United States District Court, announced in Phoenix that a receiver would be appointed for the Gila Water Company.

Ten farmers of Luna county, New Mexico, have agreed to plant 3,000 pounds of certified cotton seed grown at the New Mexico Agricultural College. This will be planted in ten-acre plots.

Mesilla valley growers will plant 1,400 acres to cantaloupes this season, a reduction of 800 from the acreage of last season. It is announced by shippers in Las Cruces who have signed that amount.

New Mexico hunters who sought their game in the Gila forest in the last season took a toll of 891 deer and 124 wild turkey, the report of E. L. Perry, state fish and game warden, just released in Santa Fe showed.

A petition asking that an election be called at Hatch, N. M., on a $35,000 bond issue, the money to be used in building a new high school, was presented to the Dona Ana county board of commissioners at Las Cruces recently.

The Arizona state entomologists' office recently reported that it had been successful in curbing the spread of pink cotton boll worm infestation recently discovered in the Santa Cruz valley cotton belt, near Tucson. Crews are at work in that area cleaning the fields and gins to prevent reappearance of the pest.

M. L. Shellenberger, Santa Cruz county cattleman, was acquitted of the murder of John Yoas, another cattle owner, by a jury in the Superior Court at Nogales, Ariz. Yoas was killed last fall in a cow camp. This was Shellenberger's second trial on the murder charge, the jury failing to reach a verdict in the first trial.

The hide of a lobo wolf whose toll in livestock and game is estimated at between $12,000 and $20,000 was on exhibition in Alamogordo recently. The wolf, which had been hunted by stockmen of the Mesquero reservation for twelve years, was trapped near White Tail by Alfredo and Louis Aguilar. The animal was almost snow white and measured six feet, six inches in length.

According to the latest report of the U. S. Employment Bureau, the U. S. Department of Labor at Denver, the usual winter surplus of labor in Arizona was apparent throughout February. Much of this surplus will be absorbed as agricultural activities are resumed in March, particularly in soil cultivation preparatory for the large cotton acreage and miscellaneous vegetable and citrus fruit crops. The majority of the industrial plants operated on fairly satisfactory schedules. While considerable new metal mine development and construction work was under way throughout the month, a small surplus of this class of labor was reported. Many men were employed on building and other construction work which includes the Coolidge irrigation and power project, twenty miles of railroad grading, considerable municipal improvement work, and other projects. Considerable highway work is under way with plenty of labor available. Adverse weather conditions during the month affected saw-mill and woods operations in the Flagstaff district and operations will be curtailed for the next few weeks. Forces employed in railroad maintenance-of-way work are expected to show a slight increase in March with the supply of railway labor adequate. The report states that industrial activities and employment in New Mexico continued on the usual winter curtailed basis during February and a surplus of chiefly migratory labor was apparent. Many of these workers should be absorbed in March when an increase in agricultural activities, building, highway construction, oil field work, and metal mining is anticipated. Work is soon to be started on the 1928 municipal improvement programs throughout the state, which will offer employment to a large number of men. Contracts were let during February for seven federal aid highway projects, approximating in cost $750,000. A material increase in the number of men employed on railway maintenance-of-way work is expected in March with the supply of this class of labor adequate for this demand.

The chairman of the Colfax board of county commissioners will call a meeting of citizens at Raton to decide whether an election should be called on issuing bonds to build a new court house, many contending that the old one has been outgrown.

Appropos publicity of James Wroth, mining engineer with the U. S. Bureau of Mines, writes to Carlebad from Berlin, Germany, that in the window of the United American Lines in Berlin are displayed two large photographs of Carlebad caverns, together with several views of scenes in Grand Canyon.

Dog Put on Pay Roll of League of Nations

The League of Nations has a dog on its pay roll. Loulou, a fine German shepherd, has thus been honored because of his ability to guard the big home of the league. Loulou has been on the pay roll for some time, being allowed about $8 a month for subsistence. But the dog really proved his worth during the recent Sacco-Vanzetti riots, when the mob threw stones through the library windows and broke nearly all the windows in the large, glass room known as the goldfish bowl. When the mob leaders were breaking down the rear entrance of the main building with the intention of reducing it to fire Loulou appeared on the scene with the two watchmen. The mob did not mind the watchmen and was pushing in when Loulou got into action. The place was promptly cleared and the mob held back long enough for the police to arrive.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night? If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Helping Sinclair

Senator William Borah of Idaho, receptive but disappointed perpetual candidate for the Presidency, again finds the opportunity to make the grand gesture.

He appeals to the rank and file of the republican party, to cast in their nickles and dimes to reimburse Harry Sinclair for money contributed to campaign expenses, as the big men of the party scorn his appeal.

Borah owes a debt of gratitude to Sinclair, as furnishing the aforesaid "Lone Wolf of Idaho" a splendid opportunity to parade before a gullible public.

But why should Sinclair's money be returned? It is, if half of what is said about Sinclair is true, the best money he ever spent.

If we remember correctly, a goodly share of the democratic convention expenses at San Francisco were paid by Doheny, another oil millionaire mixed up in the Teapot Dome brew.

Also, it was whispered that a carload of select booze that also attended the convention was the gift of Doheny, and that the said Doheny refused the honor of the nomination for the Vice President as his reward.

The rank and file of the democratic party know nothing of that, nor did the rank and file of the republican party know anything of Sinclairs donation, and to ask them such a silly thing as to return the money is helping Sinclair and no one else.

Borah is silly and melodramatic as usual. — Rio Grande Farmer.

Spring is With Us!

It is here and no perhaps about it. The boys are playing baseball; the girls are playing lawn tennis on the courthouse tennis grounds; people are busy making garden during the week and going to the mountains on Sunday; the festive long-haired spring poet is risking the result of his winter's efforts on the long-suffering country newspaper. The express and postoffice contains numerous boxes of little chicks; the cheerful fly is beginning to put in his appearance and the ever effective fly swatter is following suit. Yes, it is here and all the proof is at hand.

Saw 'Nail Picker' in Action

Judge E. W. Hulbert, who visited friends in Lincoln county last week says he observed the "nail picker" that was here recently, gather or pick up 100 pounds of nails, tacks, and anything that causes punctures in the tires on a test trip from Capitan to Lincoln recently.

GOLF

OF P. J. GAUDIN
Instructor of FLOKIE COUNTRY CLUB & UNION LEAGUE CLUB

Is—Intelligent Practice.

Intelligent practice! That, and enough of it, spell the difference between a hopelessly poor game of golf and the best average game within the physical and mental powers of the player.

After a certain point is reached in golfing skill, there can be no possible improvement by playing the game. All subsequent improvement must come from intelligent practice. It is this intelligent practice alone that will enable the player to duplicate indefinitely the good strokes from which good shots alone can come.

That brings about a fuller description of practice of shots. The player has taken instruction and tries, by intelligent practice, to co-ordinate mind and muscle so perfectly that he always will duplicate the necessary mechanics of the stroke, or come so close to it that he himself can locate the error. It is very necessary that this be thoroughly understood. In making an approach shot for instance, intelligent practice does not mean concentration on getting the ball near the hole. It means concentrating on making the swing that he has been taught and experience has shown is the right one to get the ball near the hole. The expert does not need to go through all that preliminary thought before making a shot. His mental and physical processes are nearly automatic. It is more a matter of instinct with him or her. But the real expert is one out of ten thousand and you can rest assured he has gone through the concentration on making the swing correctly or he never would have become an expert.

And the expert himself must go through his "dally dozen" in trying out his various shots. Between his third and fourth rounds in the National Open of 1924, Cyril Walker practiced a solid hour to straighten out his mid-iron shot. Perhaps it was that very practice which let him make the approach at the sixteenth and which guaranteed him the championship. The final thought is to practice each stroke intelligently up to the point where it becomes as nearly automatic as possible.

... the Lammeters had been brought up in that way that they never suffered a pinch of salt to be wasted, and yet everybody in their household had of the best, according to his place."—Silas Marner.

There are wasteful persons and thrifty persons in every nation; but when the percentage of wasteful persons is very high, we speak of the nation as wasteful, and when the percentage of thrifty persons is high, we speak of the nation as thrifty. America has the reputation of being one of the most wasteful nations on earth; France has the reputation of being one of the thriftest.

One drawback to popularizing thrift in our country is that so many people confuse thrift and stinginess.

Part of our extravagance is probably due to the fact that we are still close to pioneer conditions when game and fish and timber were so plentiful that there seemed no possibility of exhausting the supply, and consequently no need for thrift. Part of it is also probably due to the fact that many of our housekeepers grow up on farms where there were always pigs and chickens and cats and dogs to eat all table scraps and kitchen waste. Broken bread, bits of meat, thick parings, and uneaten food seemed no waste when thrown into the swill barrel, to be fed to the pigs. Nowadays, however, the farmer knows that his pigs and chickens thrive better on a proper diet than on table scraps; and what was formerly fed to them is now buried or burned.

When a farmer kills a beef or a hog or a sheep, there is usually much waste. Often he wastes the very portion of the animal that meat-eating savages and meat-eating animals consider the choicest part of the carcass—the blood and glandular organs. In the large packing plants, where a few cents saved on each animal slaughtered amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars in a year, there is no part of the carcass allowed to go to waste. No one speaks of the packers as stingy—but an efficient. With them the value of thriftiness shows, because the quantities handled are so large.

When our homes are run as efficiently as the large packing plants, we shall have more housekeepers such as the Lammeter sisters—housekeepers who waste absolutely nothing and yet provide their families with the best of everything.

Coats and Collars

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

IT IS the chic of its collar which distinguishes a coat as being of 1928 origin. The vogue for the coat without fur brings a challenge to the designer to individualize the spring wrap through manipulation of the fabric itself. In answer stylists are directing their genius and imagination toward devising diversified collars which shall give an entirely new expression to the coat mode.

Most of the newest collars stand erect at the back. Even the narrowest of them show this tendency—a point which is smartly defined by the new-type model in the picture. Note also that there are two shades of cloth involved in the making of this coat, this being a very modish detail in spring wraps.

The fact that many novelties are being introduced in the way of cape coats and others affects the status of the straightline silhouette not at all. Indeed the majority of accompanying coats in tweed and knappa ensembles accent straightness and simplicity. This same tendency to slowness is stressed also in the majority of separate topcoats.

Perhaps the most popular theme this season is that of the scarf or throw-collar. These are made of the cloth itself, often lined with a contrasting fabric.

Competing with the simple scarf collar is the standing collar, with slits cut at intervals through which a broad ribbon, a gay scarf or a streamer of the cloth is drawn. One of the attractive things about such a collar is the opportunity it presents to wear different scarfs at will.

Many of the stylish standing cloth collars are lined with a contrasting fabric next to the face.

How to Make Salads

Salads Made With Cabbage.

(Prepared by the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.)

The habit of including salad frequently in the family diet has been increasing steadily during recent years, as is shown by the enormous increase in the amount of lettuce produced and sold. Because of their facilities for storing and handling perishable foods, city markets carry lettuce and other salad materials the year round. The family living in the country, however, except in the Far South, cannot get fresh green vegetables such as lettuce after the growing season is over, and so it often happens that salads are omitted from the menus during the winter months. This means a reduction in the amount of vitamin-rich food being served, and consequent lack of balance in diet.

Home demonstration agents have therefore made a point of showing rural homemakers, as in this group from New Hampshire, how salads can be made from such ingredients as cabbage, carrots, apples, and other vegetables and fruits that are easily stored and transported in the country and that are valuable when eaten raw in the form of salad. The recipes below are furnished by the bureau of home economics.

Cabbage Salad.

Chop 3 to 4 cups of either white, green, or curly cabbage very fine. Combine it with a dressing made as follows: Beat one-half pint of thick whipping cream until stiff; add 4½ tablespoonsful of lemon juice, 2 tablespoonsful of fresh grated horseradish, a grating of onion, a few drops of tabasco, and salt to taste. These seasonings may be changed according to individual taste, but one must be sure there is enough dressing in proportion to the cabbage. A dash of cayenne pepper may be used if you do not have tabasco. If the horseradish is in vinegar use only 2 tablespoonsful of lemon. Combine the dressing with the chopped cabbage. Serve on a cabbage leaf or in a hollowed out head of curly cabbage. Or place a slice of canned pineapple on a cabbage leaf or lettuce leaf, and on that spread a thick covering of the salad. Grated cheese may be added if liked.

Cabbage Slaw.

Select a small firm head of cabbage, cut in quarters and wash thoroughly in cold water. Drain, wipe dry, and shred with a sharp knife. Put in a cloth on ice or in a cold place until crisp. Pour hot dressing over the crisped cabbage and stir until well mixed. Serve hot or cold. A cupful of cut celery may be added, or ½ cupful of finely shredded green pepper, or 1 cupful of thinly sliced tart apple.

Dressing for Slaw.

2 eggs, ¼ cup water, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 or 2 tbs. sugar, 1 or 2 tbs. butter, ¼ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. mustard, 1-16 tsp. celery seed

Beat the eggs, add all the ingredients except the butter, and cook in a double boiler until thickened. Stir constantly and just before removing from the fire add the butter. Pour over the cabbage while hot. If served as cold slaw, chill after the dressing is added.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

A hint for stout persons: Do not wear tight clothes; they emphasize the curves of the figure.

To keep your electric waffle iron bright and clean, use ordinary baking soda and apply it dry.

Mold on the surface of ham or bacon may be removed by rubbing the meat with a cloth dampened with lard or sweet oil.

Rooms with plenty of light and sunshine usually are most attractive. In cool, dark colors such as blue or bluish colors, soft green or gray.

Good Things to Eat

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Man is not born to solve the problem of the universe, but to find out what he has to do—and to restrain himself within the limits of his comprehension.—Goethe.

A brown stock which is so well known and so often given, is the foundation for so many delightful soups and sauces which may be kept ready for all sorts of dishes.

Consomme—Consomme is perhaps as popular as any soup served. It may be varied in more than a hundred ways. Plain consomme served hot in cups is always an appropriate soup for any meal.

The following is a simple way of preparing it: Strain, cool and skim every bit of fat from a quart of brown stock. Break an egg and crush the shell, add the white of the egg to the shell with a tablespoonful of cold water and beat slightly. Mix this with the cold stock and place over the heat; stir constantly as the liquid becomes hot and boil five minutes. Now pour in one-half cupful of cold water and set aside for ten minutes, then strain through a cheese cloth. The liquid should be clear, and of a rich brown color. If the consomme is to be served with rice, noodles or spaghetti, these are cooked separately in boiling salted water.

Onion Soup au Gratin.—This is a nourishing and delicious soup made on the brown stock foundation: Take three onions, two tablespoonfuls of butter, three dry rolls, one quart of brown stock and a cupful of grated cheese. Slice the onions very thin and saute in the butter until a golden brown, covering the saucepan during the cooking. Add them to a quart of boiling stock, season and boil five minutes. Slice the rolls very thin and toast in the oven until hard and dry. Pour the soup into a casserole or serving dish, arrange the toast well buttered on top and cover each slice with the grated cheese. Place under a broiler flame long enough to melt the cheese and tint a golden brown. This is especially attractive served in individual dishes.

Good Things to Eat. Here is soup that is different: Vegetable Chicken Soup.—Sift two cupfuls of chestnuts and throw them into cold water; bring to a boil and cook fifteen minutes. Drain and remove the shells and skins. Meanwhile melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a large saucepan and simmer one cupful of sliced onions with three teaspoonfuls of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper until the onion is a golden brown. Add the chestnuts, one quart of tomatoes, two cupful of boiled rice, one tablespoonful of sugar, two cupfuls of sliced boiled potatoes and cooked chicken, two cupfuls each of milk and water. Cook until thoroughly heated, then serve.

Armenian Chicken.—Prepare a six-pound fowl for roasting. For the stuffing cook a cupful of rice 15 minutes, season with pepper, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of tomato, one-half teaspoonful of sage, a finely chopped onion, one-fourth cupful of almonds blanched and chopped, the chopped, cooked chicken liver and one-fourth cupful of chopped raisins. Stuff the chicken with this mixture, filling three-fourths full. Sew up the opening and put into a kettle of boiling water to cook slowly until tender. Remove the fowl, rub with butter and flour and place in the oven to brown. Serve garnished with cooked carrots and fresh parsley. This is a fine way to cook chicken in a pressure cooker or in a pressure cooker.

Tomato Sandwich.—Peel and shell firm, ripe tomatoes and cut into slices. With one-half cupful of mayonnaise mix one-fourth cupful of minced green pepper and six drops of onion juice. On each slice of tomato place a spoonful of the mixture and place another slice; cover with buttered bread as usual. Another variation is made by sprinkling ham over the mayonnaise and using buttered rye bread.

Italian Style Mushrooms.—Cook a pound of coarsely broken mushrooms in three tablespoonfuls of butter for eight minutes, adding salt and pepper to season. Stir in one cupful of thick cream and two tablespoonfuls of chili or any piquant sauce. Cook a few minutes longer and when serving mix with small fried croutons.

Children's Bedtime Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"They call people who read books all the time bookworms and they aren't at all," said the first bookworm whose name was Willie, "so that shows you how foolish people are."

"That shows us," said Billie, the second bookworm, "they don't care for books as I do."

"But then," said Willie, "I am called a bookworm and I really belong to the bookworm family and yet the last thing I did was to bite through a cork."

"Let us not talk of that subject of people any more then," said Billie. "Let us tell each other of the adventures we have had."

"Well," said Willie, "the last adventure I had was, as I started to tell you, when I tried biting through a cork."

of that! That is truly amazing."

"Yes," said Billie, "I went through a whole set of books."

"I wasn't like some lazy creatures who pick up a little short book to read. I chose a long set of books—I did."

"You deserve the family name," said Willie.

"Perhaps I do," said Billie, "but I am quite willing to share it with others."

"That's good of you," said Willie.

"Well, did you find anything interesting in all those books?" asked Willie after a pause.

"And I went through each page of each book along on the shelf in just the very same spot, so that they could have put through a ribbon or a string or anything they might have had near at hand through all those many holes and hung the books up instead of standing them on the shelves."

"I thought they might care to change the books a little, so I did my best to help."

"That was good of you," said Willie, "and you certainly have an adventure to relate well worth hearing."

"The final result was quite worth seeing, too, and by final result I mean after I had finished going through all those many books in that same place, all the way through."

"I congratulate you," said Willie. "You're a bookworm, all right."

HOW TO BAKE APPLES

Wash and core cooking apples as perfect as you can get. Place them in a shallow baking dish; fill the centers with sugar, spice, seeded raisins, chopped nuts. Sprinkle with sugar, dot with butter and a dash of cinnamon. Cover bottom of pan with water and bake 30 minutes. For a school lunch they will carry better if not peeled.

Plenty of Water

A spring of the first magnitude, according to the United States geological survey, is one that has an average discharge of 68,000,000 gallons a day—enough water to supply a city of half a million inhabitants.—Literary Digest.

Delicious Dish for Luncheon

(Prepared by the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.) Cream cheese with toast and preserves is a delicious and easily made luncheon or supper dish, and it will answer the purpose when light refreshments are wanted for an afternoon or evening party. The custom of eating something sweet with cream cheese probably originated in France.

Apricot and Pineapple Jam With Cheese.

where a special kind of cheese known as "Gervais" is served with the famous "bar-de-fer" preserves.

The United States Department of Agriculture has a bulletin on making cream cheese of the Neufchatel type, similar to Gervais, and many stores now carry cream cheese either in small separate packages or by the pound. Cottage cheese may be used instead of cream cheese, if more convenient. The recipe for the preserves, which can be made at practically any season of the year, from materials available in the grocery store, comes from the bureau of home economics:

Dried Apricot and Pineapple Preserves. 1 pound dried apricots, soaked overnight. 3 No. 3 cans sliced pineapples. 3½ cups of sugar.

Wash the apricots thoroughly, then soak overnight in 1 pint of water. In the morning chop the apricots and add 1 cupful of the sugar. Drain the pineapple and cut it into very small pieces, and cook with the remaining 2½ cupfuls of sugar for 30 minutes. Add the apricots, and cook for 20 minutes. Watch carefully to prevent the preserves from scorching. The pineapple holds its shape, but the apricot softens and the mixture has the consistency of thick jam. The amount given makes a little over three pints.

Spread of Crime May in Large Measure Be Laid to "Mental Contagion"

By MRS. MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT, Assistant Attorney-General.

WOMEN are no more criminally inclined today than they were a generation ago, but men have increased in criminal tendency. There has been an increase of crime in both sexes, but women have fewer opportunities to break the law. The average reaction by men and women to crime is about the same.

Crime among women has increased almost in ratio to the gain in population, while crime among men has increased faster, because men in business life have greater opportunity for law-breaking.

The contagious state of mind is a major factor in the increase of crime to which we pay too little attention, and about which there has been too little scientific research.

I think newspapers, unintentionally, are very large contributing factors in the spread of crime. Publication of details of ways in which crimes are committed create a mental fever on the part of youthful readers who have no very powerful balance or home training.

Cheap, yellow fiction stories create similar fever, but true stories have a far more intense contagion.

Comparatively few criminals really reform and lead law-abiding lives after they are once convicted. The majority of women prisoners in federal prisons now are serving sentences for violation of narcotic laws. The second largest number is held for stealing automobiles.

Women and girls who engage in banditry have the "dare-devil spirit" and criminal associates. There are just as many girls and women who lead men into crime as there are men who lead women into crime. The contagion works both ways.

Pacifist Doctrines Never in History of World Have Created a Nation

By CHARLES B. ROBBINS, Assistant Secretary of War.

The United States became a nation as a result of war and will endure only so long as its people are willing to offer their lives, if necessary, to its defense.

No pacifist doctrine ever created a nation—no pacifist doctrine ever maintained a nation—they are destructive rather than constructive—and it is organizations such as the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense that furnish the best response to their fallacy of complete disarmament, the response of nationalism to internationalism.

You hear continuously the demand to outlaw war, but no nation has yet devised a means of outlawing war, and in spite of the large number of persons who passionately advocate such a measure, we do not find a plan to secure this country or any other country from the perils of armed conflict.

Many demand that the nation completely disarm as an initial step toward perpetual peace. It would be as logical to diabolize the fire departments to prevent fires, or the police departments to prevent crime. Human nature must change before we can rely upon peace and good will throughout the world.

Comparison of American and British Jurisprudence a Matter of Deep Moment

By F. H. COLLIER, St. Louis Journalist.

British judges are nonpartisan. They serve, on good behavior, for life. It seems to be quite accurate to say that the judge tries the case and the jury only assist him. We, in America, wonder why British jurisprudence is so much more efficient than ours.

Recently a Philadelphia judge ordered a man to be tried a third time after twice being convicted. In all England during an entire year only two cases were sent back for retrial. A flour mill which ground a grist twice or a steel plant which rolled a steel rail twice and did it repeatedly would soon be bankrupt. Retrials of court cases in the United States cost an enormous amount of time and money.

Some of the foregoing statements are made by "Girard" in his department in the Philadelphia Inquirer. They appear to be partially illuminating upon the subject of crime prevalence in this country.

So far, we have at least reached the point where people are studying the causes of the tremendous moral slump that crime roots in. Some blame it on inefficient legal administration; others on lack of early moral training. May not both be partially right?

Labor Demands Legislation Against the Iniquity of the Injunction.

By WILLIAM GREEN, President A. F. of L.

The growing use of injunctions in labor disputes is reducing the American working man to a condition of involuntary servitude, and labor demands legislation to protect itself. In the midst of all the confusion which has been created through the issuance of injunctions affecting labor, working men and women hold it is more essential to the preservation of the republic that labor should remain free, economically and industrially free, than that some corporation's goods should, at the cost of the exploitation of unprotected workers, be shipped in interstate commerce. Human rights should take precedence over property rights.

It is this distinction which labor seeks to legally establish through the passage of legislation which it proposes as a remedy for court injunctions. We propose that the equity courts return to the original purpose and use of the equity power, which was protection of physical, tangible property.

Disbelief in Christian Faith Is Rapidly Approaching the Inevitable Reaction

By REV. DR. JOHN HENRY HOPKINS, Chicago (Episcopal).

With regard to the outlook of Christianity there are plenty of pessimists at the present time. Some are merely negative critics, like Henry L. Mencken and his clan. He is merely superficial and of no particular value to anybody except as a symptom of the times.

We hear a lot about behaviorism and a mechanistic universe, which means, in plain English, that we have no minds and that there is no God in the commonly accepted sense of the word.

Disbelief has shot its last bolt in making such contentions. Nothing is left now for the disbeliever except the denial of all personality, responsibility, morality and justice, or else the acceptance of the foundations of what is the Christian faith at its apex.

To Reveal Life on Moon

A giant telescope which is to be erected on Naval Hill, near Bloemfontein, South Africa, was referred to by Professor Rossiter of Michigan University at a university luncheon in Bloemfontein. It will be possible, through this giant telescope, to discern an object an inch high nineteen miles away, he said, and it will be possible to see in the moon objects the size of a cathedral.

Another War Predicted

A war worse than the World War probably will come within a century, believes the English chemist Haldane. And, he adds, it is possible it may prove fatal to our particular type of civilization. At the present time the main thing science can do is to make wars unprofitable for the victors as well as the vanquished, says Capper's Weekly.
