

Masonic Special

Last Saturday night at Masonic Temple, one of the biggest affairs of a Masonic nature was carried out in the history of local fraternalism.

From 5 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 in the evening, Masons from various places streamed in, the last contingent being a party of 38 from El Paso, all members the Southern Pacific Square & Compass Club, headed by President J. E. Lingenfelter and Secretary R. B. Hill.

Aside from those mentioned, 21 other members of the club were from other places, making a total of 54--to add to this number, there were 44 Masons from Carrizozo and surrounding vicinity, swelling the total amount of Masons to 98.

Train No. 12 from El Paso did not arrive until 8:10 p. m., consequently, the banquet which would have been served at 6, was delayed for the main body of the visitors, after which refreshments were served to the assemblage which included guests and other visitors, numbering 138.

As stated in the call in last week's Outlook, the object of the communication was to confer the Third Degree of Masonry on a candidate in the railroad service, and the degree was conferred by a team from the Southern Pacific Square & Compass Club.

Credit for the entertainment of the visitors is due to the committee, consisting of Messrs. C. F. Huppertz, S. F. Miller and R. E. Lemon; and the preparing and serving of the refreshments to the wives of the committee and the officers of the local Masonic lodge whose success in that line of undertaking met with such merited appreciation from the vast throng which filled the hall to overflowing.

The High School Orchestra, led by J. C. Burkett, gave a splendid program during the banquet--Raymond Lackland sang in his usual pleasing manner, two numbers--Helen Frances Huppertz gave a much appreciated reading, to all of whom, the thanks of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., is extended. To our Masonic guests, the Southern Pacific Square & Compass Club and others, we were honored by your presence and hope to meet you again, on like future occasions.

Miss Hazel Melasas entertained the Seniors and that portion of the Junior high school class which assisted in the Senior Class Play recently, at a six o'clock dinner at the Carrizozo Eating House last Thursday evening. Mrs. King also attended as a guest of Miss Melasas.

Prof. Helm and Miss Minnie Lumpkins attended the high school commencement exercises at Roswell on Tuesday evening.

F. L. (Flossie) Zumwalt came in last Saturday from Malaga, N. M., where he is superintendent of the school. Flossie has 7 teachers under his supervision and has built up the school to such a satisfactory condition, that the Malaga school board insists on him remaining in spite of flattering offers from other places.

Tommy Cook left Sunday morning for Rustin, La., where he will spend the vacation period with his father.

Ft. Stanton News

Fort Stanton won a game of baseball from Ruidoso last Sunday by a score of 10 to 4. The Fort team will play Alamogordo next Sunday, May 27.

W. S. Howson left for Chicago Sunday evening.

Miss Kane is spending a week in El Paso.

The Misses Rowan, Shoff, Rev. Swift and Mr. Draper spent last Saturday in Roswell.

Dr. J. W. Warner of Albuquerque spent several days here this week visiting friends.

Mrs. Harris is leaving for El Paso Monday.

Miss Mary J. Harris left Sunday to spend the summer in Dallas, Texas.

Messrs. Hobbs and Anderson attended the big Masonic Special at Carrizozo last Saturday night.

The Fort is preparing for a royal entertainment on the coming 4th of July. There will be a baseball game, a big barbecue and besides other means of entertainment, there will be fireworks at night. The promoters are making this advance announcement so that everybody may take due notice and attend if possible. Come and have a good time.

William Shannon, much loved and esteemed at the Fort, passed away last Sunday morning at 8:30. The remains were shipped to the home of his sister, Mrs. Switzer, at Baltimore, Md., on Monday and arrived there for interment today. The Trowel Club sent a beautiful floral emblem and Fraternity Lodge No. 130 of El Paso, in which deceased held membership also sent floral offerings. "Billy" Shannon, as he was known by his many friends, was a young man of exceptional qualities. A true friend, loyal hearted, was one who held a trust in sacred confidence. He will be sadly missed; his brethren mourn.

Flowers at Alamogordo

The flower business in Alamogordo, formerly in the name of M. I. Hunt, will hereafter be carried on by Mrs. C. E. Agnew. The place, "Rose Acres," is a beauty spot with its hundreds of choice rose bushes and large variety of other flowers. When in Alamogordo, call and see it. The new management will appreciate a continuance of the patronage given to the former proprietor, Mr. Hunt by Carrizozo and will guarantee the same good line of service. We are extremely fortunate in having such an important industry so close to Carrizozo.

Miss Noma Foreman of Roswell is a week-end guest of Miss Minnie Lumpkins. The young ladies were schoolmates when the Lumpkins family resided at Roswell.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gallacher and little daughter, Jane, were in from the Indian Tank ranch yesterday.

Miss Frances Aguayo is the new assistant in the office of W. W. Stadtman.

Memorial Day

Summer Orchestra, Organized in Carrizozo

The Carrizozo Summer Orchestra held its first rehearsal Wednesday morning at the Crystal Theatre.

This organization is composed of the members of the High School Orchestra, who will spend the summer here, and will be sponsored and directed by J. C. Burkett. There were 18 members out to the first rehearsal.

The purpose of this is to keep in practise during the summer months, and help out in getting several new members started so they will be in better shape to play in the High School Orchestra next season. The new members are:

Glady's Dozier, Piano; Carrol Gines and Saturnino Chavez, Violin; Ansel Swearingen, Mellophone; Rhea and Beatrice Boughner, Xylophone.

The orchestra will play about once a month at the Theatre. Any high school students wishing to play in this orchestra next year should take advantage of this orchestra in getting started for next term.

Miss Ethel Bryan, daughter of County Assessor J. L. Bryan, is here, to spend her vacation with her parents. Miss Bryan was at one time agent for the Western Union Telegraph Co., here, was transferred to Lordsburg, Mrs. Dudley taking the local station at the time of her departure, the Dudley family coming from Alamogordo.

Mrs. M. B. Paden spent Sunday with her parents, conductor and Mrs. T. E. Armstrong at Tucumcari, returning home on Monday.

We are in receipt of a letter from Mrs. M. I. Hunt, who left here several weeks ago to visit her mother at Oneonta, N. Y., who was at that time quite ill. We were pleased to learn through Mrs. Hunt's letter, that the mother is improving nicely since Mrs. Hunt arrived.

John Scharff and Lester Greer were up from Three Rivers this week and are jubilant over the prospects for that locality for the coming summer.

The high school pupils made a trip to the James ranch last Saturday, took a swim in the big tank, after which they were the guests of the A. J. Rolland and F. E. Hedrick families at a luncheon in Nogal Canyon.

Messrs. Ben S. Burns and John Haven of Three Rivers attended the big Special at the Masonic Temple last Saturday night.

Town Council Proceedings

S. F. Miller reports for the street and alleys committee on the side walk being built on the south and east sides of the Community Hall. He reports that this contract was let to Charles E. Jordan, he being the lowest bidder for the work.

It is ordered that the street lights be turned off at 4 a. m.

Bids for the village printing were submitted by the Carrizozo Outlook and Lincoln County News, but these bids being insufficient in some respects the matter was turned over to T. E. Kelley and A. Ziegler, a committee appointed by the mayor, for further consideration.

The following bills were audited and allowed for payment:

Crystal Theatre Orchestra to Play 3 Nights Each Week

The Crystal Theatre Orchestra, composed of 7 players, under the leadership of J. C. Burkett, will play on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays during the feature pictures for the summer months.

The management has secured a good run of pictures for the summer, and will help to keep clean entertainment in Carrizozo during the months that are usually considered dull months.

Wm. Barnett came over from Vaughn the first of the week and reported that a violent hail storm visited that region last week, killing many young lambs. He said the Thompson Sheep Co. were the heaviest losers, but others suffered to lesser degrees.

THE RETURN of ANTHONY TRENT

By WYNDHAM MARTYN

WNU Service

STORY FROM THE START

Anthony Trent returns to New York after nearly four years' absence. Once known as the master criminal, Trent is going straight. The purser aboard Trent of jumping overboard from the Pollania at Liverpool, but is disappointed when Trent shows no surprise. He learns his friend Capt. Frank Sutton, is in Sing Sing. At New York Trent is startled to find somebody occupying his house. The stranger is Sutton Campbell, the brother of his best friend, who is serving ten years in prison.

"No doubt," he said equably; "but the police are not here to satisfy the voracious curiosity of burglars, as you will find."

There was no question in his mind but that this amazing stranger had indeed been waiting for him and was undismayed by the encounter. There was, in fact, an air of triumph about him now which spelled disaster for Trent.

"Perhaps the police may be incurious," the singular personage replied. "But the public is avid for sensation. It would seem an intriguing problem for a newspaper man—or preferably a newspaper woman. I should remind them of the Anthony Trent who wrote entertainingly of a crook he created and styled Conway Parker. I should lament the sad fact that the death of a very wealthy uncle in Australia gave him a fortune and robbed fiction of an ornament."

This mention of Australia was disquieting. Years ago Trent had invented the legend of the rich uncle to account for the sudden alteration in his fortunes. He had long been aware that he had begotten something which might prove very dangerous. Uncles must be accounted for in family genealogies. It would be easy enough to prove that no will had been probated in the island continent which had Anthony Trent of New York as its beneficiary.

"I could assert that your lamented uncle had been my partner and that the money he left you belonged by right to me. It would be a simple matter to compel payment."

"You know very well you are talking nonsense," Trent said, keeping his temper under control.

"Of course," the stranger agreed. "I admit it; and so are you when you speak of calling in the police. Come, let us chat in a more friendly fashion. After all, it is your house, and you are entitled to consideration."

"You are very kind," Trent said acidly, "but I am going to get out of you what you mean by camping here, and what you want."

"A legitimate curiosity," the other agreed. "Very well. You are Anthony Trent, master criminal. You stole the great Takawaja emerald from Andrew Apthorpe, the Mount Aubyn ruby, the Edgcomb sapphire and the hundred carat Nizam's diamond, and innumerable other things of value. And you have worked so cleverly that you have flouted the police for eight years. Only once were you in danger, and that was in France, when Lieutenant Devlin, formerly of the New York police, denounced you to his adjutant."

Trent sat motionless. Here was a chapter of the dead past rising to condemn him. What more might this mysterious man not know?

"Before Devlin died," Trent said, "he tore up the depositions he would not sign, and I was absolved."

"But not before the documents were read—and remembered. Your adjutant was a lawyer, a man trained to marshal evidence, and kept it in his brain."

So it was Captain Sutton who had betrayed him. The Captain Sutton who had fallen into disgrace and was now in Sing Sing prison—Trent looked at the strange man and determined to talk. There were no witnesses.

"So it's Sutton who gave me away?" Trent's face hardened as he considered this treachery. Since that day when Captain Sutton had put his hand on Trent's arm and said kindly, "You played to luck this time, Trent; I wouldn't risk it again," he had done nothing to bring himself in danger of the law. And yet he had been denounced.

"You are wrong," the stranger said, reading his thoughts. "He is not your enemy; you should not harbor hard thoughts of him. You knew him as a very rich man. He is now penniless and in prison for ten years. They no longer know him as Captain Sutton with an honorable war record. He is called by a number now."

"Nevertheless, he has given me away to a stranger; and if he has betrayed me to you, how many more hold my destiny in their hands?"

"I alone know what was contained in Devlin's depositions. I am your friend's elder and only brother. I am Campbell Sutton."

Trent tried not to betray his nervousness. A brother of his former adjutant's, no matter how far he progressed on the definition of a welcome guest, would not be an dangerous as the police. And, conversely, he would not be as easily disposed of as a burglar.

"I came as by brother's emissary. I am here to remind you of a law which, while it is as old as mankind, has found its way into no statute books. It is the law of compensation between man and man. My brother saved you from many years of prison; that you cannot deny. He thinks enough of you to suppose you will admit this."

"I do," Trent said.

"Ordinarily my brother would never have given another thought to what he did for you. Personally he liked and admired you. When he was confronted with this appalling disaster he called first upon those men with whom for many years he had been intimate. They failed him. Then he thought of you, and put me in possession of those facts of your career which I have mentioned."

"What can I do?" Trent demanded. He recognized that he indeed owed much to the unfortunate Sutton, and he was ready to pay the debt; he had no thought of evasion. "How can I help? If it's money for a new trial, I can certainly be of assistance." His recent investments had been fortunate ones.

"It is not money," Campbell Sutton returned. "I have that. It is something that none of his friends had. In choosing you my brother was not selecting you as the best of a group; he was picking you as the only individual of that group."

Marked uneasiness preyed upon Anthony Trent. What qualifies had he that raised him above his fellows? Unwillingly he was forced to admit that there was one thing—should he call it a sport or vocation?—where he had been pre-eminent and without a peer.

"Your brother hates me too highly," he said.

"On the contrary he assigns you your rightful position. You are the only man he knows, or has heard of, who can bring to a successful issue the desire of his heart. Do you know why my brother received that monstrous sentence?"

"I heard it was attempted murder and embezzlement. I could not believe it of him."

"Nevertheless a judge and jury convicted him of using trust monies to cover market losses. It was proved that he had falsified entries."

"Why did he attempt murder? Was that charge justified?"

"He did not try to murder Grant, he tried to injure him, I admit. He found that the man he trusted had betrayed him. Mrs. Sutton was a very beautiful woman who loved gayety. My brother provided for her lavishly. He thought it a high and noble quality in her that she did not, like many other wives, seek to hold her husband back from going overseas. But he had a premonition that he would never return, and decided nearly all his fortune to her. It is not a pleasant tale, Mr. Trent. She sent him off because she had grown fond of Payson Grant, and Payson Grant, having control of my brother's business, sought to effect his ruin. That is the whole story."

"Unfortunately my brother conducted his own defense. He could have chosen no poorer counsel. The sight of Grant made him forget everything. He insulted the judge; he contradicted his own testimony. I believe he was for the time insane. He threatened when the trial was over he would kill Grant. In view of the amazing mess he made of it, ten years was a light sentence. He is now doing what he can to prepare enough evidence to justify petitioning for a new trial."

"Surely that won't be easy?"

"Almost impossible for him, situated as he is; and just as difficult for me, who am a quiet man, averse to society and unused to mixing with my kind."

Trent started to cross-examine.

"You are his only brother. Are you, also, afraid of justice?"

"There is nothing in Campbell Sutton's life that can cause him alarm." The manner was rather grandiose, almost absurd.

Trent leaned forward and watched his expressions.

"Then why does an honest man need to clamber over roofs and enter like a burglar?"

"For twy very excellent reasons," said Campbell Sutton, without that momentary pause which would tell his hearer that he was lying. "One is that your front door defied my efforts. Another, that I should not be surprised if Payson Grant had made him pay; in his place I should keep an eye on an enemy likely to be dangerous."

Trent thought there was no good purpose served by evading the issue. Campbell Sutton had come neither for money nor sympathy.

"What do you want me to do?"

"In brief, this; you must force a confession from Payson Grant which will exonerate Frank."

"Grant won't make any statement," Trent said. "Why should he? The law has given him ten years to enjoy stolen property."

"It is the only way. For my part I should be forced to give up the problem as insoluble. With you it is different; you have at your fingers' tips the technique of crime. For you it should merely be entertainment."

"I have abandoned, forever, what you term the technique of crime. What money I have is at Captain Sutton's disposal," Trent said coldly. "And any other legitimate effort will be given gladly, but I will not go back to the old ways."

"One appreciates these delicate acroples and honors you for them. I expected them, in fact. But what concern us now is how soon you can start to pay your debts to a man unjustly condemned to ten years of imprisonment. You would have got more than that out of him."

"I am not going to dispute your brother's services," Trent said quietly.

"But if I am forced to it I must point out the difference. It cost him no more than a momentary twinge of conscience to do what he did for me. Consider the situation. It was at a time when every man was needed, and I had a definite use. If your brother had sent me back home under guard he would have lost a man he relied on, and also the men detailed to guard me. He shut his eyes to what I had done because he had a shrewd idea I had finished with that sort of thing. And, perhaps, he thought the work I was doing was risky enough to offer small chance of my getting through. For that, I am asked to take the risks of blackmailing Payson Grant. I don't welcome that sort of thing now. I refuse to put my head in a noose for any man."

"You will admit that you could, by some method yet to be determined, abduct Payson Grant and hold him until he confessed."

"It would be difficult, but I suppose it could be done."

"Then you admit the task is not impossible. You have conceded that you might accomplish it and remain undetected. If that is so, Mr. Trent, why not accept it as the lesser risk?"

"Less than what?"

"Than going to prison for the Apthorpe robbery, for instance."

Trent's eyes narrowed. "You would denounce me for the things that are past after knowing I am through with that life?"

"I am sorry, but that is the only way."

Trent laughed. It was an unpleasant laugh that should have warned the other man he was in danger.

"I thought I had finished with violence and crime. God knows I want to forget it. But there's a limit beyond which no man living shall push me. I will not do as you say even for your brother, and I will not go to jail because you denounce me to the police."

"What course is left to you?"

"One that I would rather not take, but one I will readily accept, rather than what you propose. Listen for a moment. You are here in my rooms. Technically at least you are a burglar. There is no reason that I should not shoot a burglar, is there?"

"My brother rather thought you might be inclined to violence, and perhaps anxious for my safety, arranged if anything prevents by communication with him on or before a given date to call in the warden. Naturally he would claim the rewards that have been offered for you."

Scientists Frown on Idea of Diving Rod

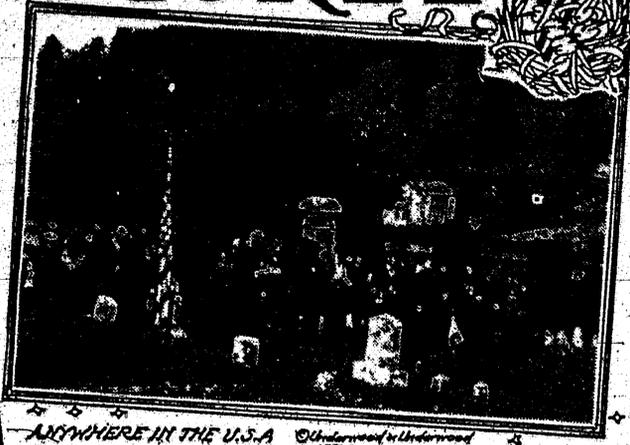

Letters are frequently received by the geological survey, Department of the Interior, asking for the names and prices of the best makes of instruments guaranteed to find diamonds, gold, silver and other metals, and especially buried treasure. The claims of readers of mineral rods and other devices said to be effective in locating precious metals and buried treasures are considered fraudulent by the geological survey. The dip needle or miner's compass has been used with some success in prospecting for iron and other magnetic ores, but the successful use of such an instrument requires considerable experience in surveying, together with the ability to make accurate mathematical observations and deductions. Various types of electrical prospecting devices, the seismograph and the torsion balance, have aroused considerable interest during the last few years. These devices, however, are most complicated and require the services of technical experts specially trained in their use. They would be of no service to one not versed in the principles of geology and physics.

Tale of Village Firemen

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor:
I won't give you hint as to the identity of the town where the scene of this little article is laid only to say that it is a suburb of the largest city east of Green River, Wyoming, and can be reached by motor from the midst of the large city referred to in 35 minutes.

Well, like practically every town of a population of 12 and upwards this town has got a fire dept. and like a whole lot of them, this fire dept. is what is known as a volunteer fire dept. which means that the members ain't supposed to get nothing but glory. Well, they's a man living in this town who is in the theatrical business in one way and another and one day the chief of the fire dept. asked him would he join the fire dept. and he says yes on acct. of being public spirited. So he bought himself a rubber coat and a helmet and a pair of rubber boots and staid home several nights with the windows open so as he would see and hear what is known in the town as the siren.

Well, the siren did not blow and did not blow and finely our hero, who we will call Mr. Kloot, rec'd a card saying they would be a meeting of the dept. at the fire house the following night and would he please try and attend. The dept. meets once every 2 weeks to discuss prohibition. Well, Mr. Kloot attended the meeting and pretty near all the members was there and he knowed the most of them. The chief is a building contractor and the asst. chief is the town's most prominent plumber. Others who he recognized was all well known citizens in various walks of life. Amongst them was a dentist, the supt. of the gas company, a plasterer, a painter, a mason, a paper hanger, an insurance man and etc.

Well, they sat around the whole evening and disgusted prohibition and the siren did not blow, but the meeting could not of been adjourned more than 15 or 10 minutes when it did blow and the firemen rushed back to the fire-house and clumb aboard the 3 vehicles with which the dept. is equipped.

Mr. Kloot happened to board the same vehicle as the chief and the both of them was right close to the driver. "Whose place is it?" shouted the chief as the vehicle tore recklessly down Boulevard. "L. M. Taylor's," the driver shouted back. L. M. Taylor being the town's millionaire, worth more than $150,000. "Well, what's your hurry?" shouted the chief and the driver slowed down a little, while Mr. Kloot did not know what to think.

Well, they got to the fire and it did not look like a very big fire for such a big house and in fact Mr. Taylor's Chinese help had just about put it out with the aid of a few seitzer bottles, but the fire dept. seemed to think the danger was nowhere near over and while some of them connected a couple of sections of hose with the nearest hydrants, others entered the house through the front and back doors and up ladders through the 2d story windows and begin welding their axes vs. walls, closets and etc. One stream of water was turned on the entire upstairs and another on the ground floor and in a few minutes the family and the servants and the firemen moving hither and thither was instinctively shouting ship-ahoy.

Mr. Kloot strayed into the bathroom and found the asst. chief cutting holes in the different pipes. "Safety first," said the asst. chief. "Many a home has burned to the ground on acct. of hidden flames in the plumbing." Mr. Kloot walked into a master bedroom on the 2d floor and seen 2 firemen with axes excavating the floor. "Safety first," said one of them. "If we should all half to go downstairs in a hurry, they'd be a panic on the stairs so it is best to have a place big enough to drop through."

Mr. Kloot encountered Mr. Taylor, the owner of the house. A couple of firemen was talking to him. "Was you covered by insurance?" asked one of them. "Not fully," says Mr. Taylor. "Well," says the fireman, "this should ought to learn you a lesson." "This fire," said the other fireman to Mr. Taylor, "was caused by defective wiring. If you would use gas for light a thing like this could not happen."

Mr. Kloot next met Mrs. Taylor and her two kids in company with still another fireman. The lady and the kids was open mouthed with horror, and the fireman was looking into their mouths. "Madam," he says, "you have got a advanced case of pyorrhea and your kids has got cavities that makes the grand canyon look like a dimple. It is a good thing I happened to drop in."

In the early hours of the morning the firemen decided they was nothing more to be done and left what might now be laughingly referred to as the house. Mr. Kloot was the last to leave and Mr. Taylor accompanied him to what had formerly been the front door.

"I feel like I had been giving a old-fashioned at home," said Mr. Taylor and pulled out of his pocket a small pack of cards, the business cards of the town's volunteer fire dept. Next morning Mr. Kloot called up the chief and submitted his resignation. "What's the idea?" asked the chief. "Nothing special," replied Mr. Kloot, "only that I'm in the theatrical business."

Problem of Bad Money

Settled by Westerner

Franklin Fisher, the well-known editor, said on disembarking from the France:

"The World war did one good thing anyway. It established a paper currency in France. The French can't foist bad money on the foreigner any longer.

"Tobaccoists and cabbies and bus conductors, used to carry several quarts of bad one-franc and two-franc and five-franc pieces that they'd unload on the foreigner without mercy.

"Once, back in 1913, I drove to the Louvre with a westerner. The taximeter registered 10 francs 10 centimes.

"The westerner slipped the driver a 20-franc gold piece and hurried off without waiting for his change.

"That's how I get around 'em now," he said, with a cunning look. "The wife used to have the laugh on me because I brought home so much bad money. Now I don't take any change at all."—Springfield Union.

Bringing Lonely Men

and Women Together

A serious effort to solve the marriage problem for lonely men and women, who have about given up hope, has been undertaken by Le Quotidien, Paris newspaper.

"There are no longer old maids. For there are too many of them who travel life's road alone," says Madame Albine Albaron, a feminist writer, who is in charge of the work. In four years working alone, she says, she has arranged 60 marriages, "none of them ending in divorce."

She proposes to extend her efforts by publishing brief unsigned statements from both women and men, she meantime exercising what supervision she can over the "candidates" and their correspondence.

CLOTHES IDEAS FROM ABROAD

By Mae Martin

Last fall when I was in France, I admired the dresses which the daughter of our hostess was wearing, and she confessed it was three years old, originally rose-beige, now dyed a rich, deep shade of red! The French are eternally surprising you with thrifty little tricks like that—tricks which it pays to imitate.

Most of us have dresses which, if allowed to remain their original color, are discarded or seldom worn. Dyed, they become favorites again. Just get a package or two of true, fadeless Diamond Dyes; and try your hand at tinting or dyeing. You'll be amazed to see how easy it is to use Diamond Dyes. They never disappoint you. The "know-how" is in the dyes. They are real dyes like those used when the cloth was made. They never give things that dyed look, like make-shift, inferior dyes. The more than sixty colors you can get from them include everything that's fashionable.

My new 64-page, illustrated book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of money-saving hints for renewing clothes and draperies. It's FREE. Write for it, NOW, to Mae Martin, Home Service Dept., Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

A Wrong

President Leo of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said in interview in New York:

The Geneva economic conference has very rightly protested against those cartels, or monopolies, which greedily increase the cost of living. "The men who do the useful work of the world—the farmers who feed us, the sailors who sail our ships, the teachers who educate our children—these men are lucky if they succeed in accumulating a few thousand dollars in a lifetime of toil; but the cartels! They, by putting up a price or two, make millions overnight."

Mr. Leo shook his head. "It's a wrong gain," he said, "that has no earning."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her So Much

Kingston, Mo.—"I have not taken anything but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for 10 months and I cannot praise it enough. I weighed about 100 pounds and was not able to do any kind of work. My housework was done by my mother and my out-of-doors work was not done. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and now I am well and strong and feel fine. I got my sister-in-law to take it after her last baby came and she is stronger now. I cannot praise it enough."—Miss HARRIE V. EASTIN, R. 1, Kingston, Missouri.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

EARLY every American is familiar with the story of the origin of Memorial day—how a group of women in Columbus, Miss., soon after the close of the Civil war, decided to set aside April 23 as a special day for decorating the graves of Confederate dead, how on that date in 1866 they covered with flowers not only the graves of their own kinsmen but of Union soldiers as well, how the story of this gracious act was reported in northern newspapers the next spring and sent a thrill throughout the North and how it led directly the next year to the issuing of the famous Order No. 11 by Gen. John A. Logan which resulted in the observance of a national memorial day from that time on. But not many are so familiar with the story of how a poem also resulted from the action of these southern women and the part it played in doing away with the bitterness which had been carried over from the war between the states.

In Ithaca, N. Y., there lived a young lawyer named Francis Miles Finch. When he heard what the Columbus (Miss.) women had done it inspired him to write the verses which he gave the title of "The Blue and the Gray." When this poem was published it seemed to strike a responsive chord in the hearts of thousands and it was widely reprinted and later set to music and sung. According to one historian, "the singing and reading of Finch's poem did more to re-establish harmony than any of the well thought-out plans of reconciliation of the diplomats."

The late Chauncey M. Depew in one of his famous addresses in referring to the custom of decorating the graves of the soldier dead on Memorial day, said: "Thus out of sorrows common alike to North and South came this beautiful custom." Although the inspiration for the observance of Memorial day came from a group of southern women, it was the large group of northern men who kept the custom alive in its earliest days. This group was the Grand Army of the Republic. The Grand Army of the Republic, or the G. A. R. as it is more familiarly known, was organized in Decatur, Ill., April 6, 1866, at the suggestion of Dr. B. Stephenson and Chaplain W. J. Rutledge of the Fourteenth Illinois Infantry. Its membership was composed of northern veterans of the Civil war and at one time this membership reached the total of 400,430.

Perhaps its most famous commander was Gen. John A. Logan who, as previously noted, issued the famous order which led to the regular observance of Memorial day. In the words of one G. A. R. veteran, whose remarks

The Blue and the Gray

By the flow of the inland river,
Whence the fleets of iron have fled,
Where the blades of the grave-grass
quiver,
Alike are the ranks of the dead:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Under the one, the Blue,
Under the other, the Gray.

These in the rubings of glory,
These in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle-blood-gory,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Under the laurel, the Blue,
Under the willow, the Gray.

From the alliance of sorrowful hours
The desolate mourners go,
Leaving laden with flowers
Alike for the friend and the foe:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Under the rose, the Blue,
Under the lily, the Gray.

So, with an equal splendor,
The morning sun-rays fall,
With a touch impartially tender,
On the blossoms blooming for all:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Blessed with gold, the Blue,
Mellowed with gold, the Gray.

So, when the summer sunbeams,
On forest and field of grain,
With an equal murmur fall,
The cooling drip of the rain:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Wet with the rain, the Blue,
Wet with the rain, the Gray.

Sadly, but not with upbraiding,
The generous dead was done,
In the storm of the years that are fading:
No braver battle was won:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Under the blossoms, the Blue,
Under the garlands, the Gray.

No more shall the war-cry sever,
Or the wailing rivers be red;
They banish our anger forever
When they leave the graves of our dead:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment-day;
Love and tears for the Blue,
Tears and love for the Gray.

—Francis Miles Finch.

At St. Mihiel

On September 12, 1917, the first American army, trained and operating as a unit, attacked the St. Mihiel salient both from west and south, drove grew fewer in number and went about their sacred duties more slowly and wearily, all that they had lost in numbers and physical powers seemed returned in moral and spiritual strength. In many villages and cities all over the land, sports are nearly or quite abandoned and the people join heartily with the few veterans in blue as they come together to hold their simple services. All alike seem to realize that it is not for the living. And while there may be tears for them, too, the day is for the memory of the 300,000 Union soldiers who gave their lives that the nation might live.

"Few veterans in blue"—how true that statement is of the men who have kept alive the tradition of Memorial day is more apparent each year when the Memorial day parades wind their way through the streets of American cities and villages. In 1865 President Andrew Johnson stood in a reviewing stand on Pennsylvania avenue in Washington and saw 200,000 men, the soldiers of Grant and Sherman, pass by. In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson stood on the same spot and saw the survivors of that first grand review march once more down Pennsylvania avenue. In 50 years the 200,000 had been reduced to less than 20,000. And that is typical of how the ranks of the men who wore the Blue as well as those who wore the Gray have been reduced by time.

So it is easy to see that the time is near at hand when neither the Gray nor the Blue will be represented in the Memorial day parades which honor the men who lost their lives when the United States was in the throes of the greatest civil war in history. But as the gaps began to appear in the ranks of the Blue and the Gray their places were taken by men who wore the khaki of 1908 and the "O. D." of 1918. For Memorial day now is more than a day of memory for the Blue and the Gray. This is a day for honoring our soldier dead, the countless host of those who gave up their lives in the Civil war, the Indian wars, the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection and the World war.

Conceived as a symbol of forgiveness for civil strife and a union reunited it has become the symbol of a nation more strongly united than ever before because it honors the memory—not only of the men who fought under two different flags but also the memory of their sons and grandsons who fought and died for one flag. Originating in the South but taken up and made a permanent national observance mainly by the North, the spirit of Memorial day now knows no North, no South, no East, no West. It honors the fighting men of no particular war but of all wars. It is the symbol of America's gratitude to her fighting men who have died in her defense.

In its aids and collapsed it on the Germans, taking nearly 16,000 prisoners in the operation. After that the St. Mihiel salient never bothered anyone. In taking it, the Yanks took the town of Thiaucourt, and at the edge of that town there later was located the permanent American cemetery, where rest the dead from the St. Mihiel drive, and also the many others who died in training or in battle in that area of northeastern France, which was the training ground of the A. E. F.

Great American Victory

The battle of St. Mihiel, because it was such an almost perfect victory, was regarded by some as an easy achievement. The more than 4,000 dead give no such evidence, for while not that many St. Mihiel dead remain at Thiaucourt, a great many have been brought back to the states these seven or eight years gone. It was a perfect victory in that every objective was taken on schedule time, or sooner. But the perfect victory was scored only by the perfect courage of a half-million American fighting men, and by the heroic sacrifice of many who were left on the field, as the well-timed movements of the drive surged on to seize each chosen objective.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

The Gran Quivera Road

Those who took interest enough in the affairs of Lincoln county to read the Commissioners' Proceedings published last week, will see that the Board has appropriated $2500 toward building the highway from Carrizozo to Gran Quivera.

We have long since advocated a road of this nature; there is every reason to believe that the road, when completed, will draw many tourists from different states to Carrizozo, as they would like to visit the old ruins, but have shunned the trip on account of the bad roads leading to that place.

That it will be built, and the work to start shortly, is assured by the Highway Department, which body has signified the intention; provided Lincoln county would do its share in financing the project, which has, as mentioned, already been done.

Long have we needed this improvement. It will attract many visitors who will take advantage of the good highway to view the old ruins, also the malpais, or lava beds which can be seen on the same trip.

The credit for this piece of valuable improvement belongs to our present Board of County Commissioners, who have worked unceasingly for the past 18 months to secure for the county, the good roads which we so badly need. The Highway Department has been exceedingly kind to Lincoln County in making appropriations for our roads and has signified a desire to do more for us, but because of the fact that the administration is Republican, some people would rather die than give credit where it belongs, nevertheless, the new improvements go straight ahead regardless of knoekers, who would tear down rather than build, unless their political party had the credit for the work.

Faster Freight Service Insures Increased Business

It is rumored that, appreciating the necessity for faster time on westward manifest and eastward perishable trains, the Trainmen of the New Mexico Division have co-operated with the Division Officials in chain-gangging cabooses on through freight trains between El Paso and Tucuman, a distance of 331 miles.

In the event that this is done these high class trains will be "main trackers" at crew changing points such as Carrizozo and Duran and instead of being delayed at these places about an hour they should pass through them in about ten minutes.

The Trainmen and Division Officers are to be congratulated on this exceptionally progressive move, as no doubt this faster movement of high-class freight will bring more business to the rails, consequently both the railroad company and the Trainmen will profit by it.

This division of the Southern Pacific under the supervision of Superintendent Murphy and

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Watson Defeats Hoover in Indiana—Japan Is Fighting Chinese.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
INDIANA farmers indicated last week that they did not approve of the Presidential candidacy of Herbert Hoover. The vote of the rural districts in the Republican primary was strong enough to give Senator James E. Watson, favorite son, a majority of something like 25,000 over the secretary of commerce, whose strength was mainly in the cities and larger towns; and the 33 Hoosier delegates at Kansas City will vote for the senator at least on the first ballot. Anti-Hooverites claimed the result in Indiana was a severe blow to Hoover's chances, but his supporters asserted he really had won a victory by keeping Watson's majority down to comparatively small figures.
Despite Senator Watson's protestations that he is in the race to win, the politicians nearly all assume that he is a stalking horse for Lowden or Dawes, and the opinion is widespread that the Indiana delegation, or many of its members, will shift to Dawes as soon as the senator releases them, though they may first give Lowden a chance. G. Burt Thurman, the Watson campaign manager in the state, said: "Indiana will be for Dawes or Lowden or any other Republican," with significant emphasis on the word Republican. Maryland Republicans last Tuesday pledged their 10 delegates to Hoover.
Democrats of Indiana voted to send their 30 delegates to Houston instructed to vote for Evans Woollen, the Indianapolis banker whom Tom Taggart brought forward. He was unopposed. The Republicans renominated Senator Robinson and the Democrats picked Albert Stamp for the senate. The nominations for governor must be made by the party conventions, for no candidate on either side won a clear majority.
Michigan's state Democratic convention voted to instruct the delegation of 50 to vote as a unit for Al Smith, the opposition being easily squelched. But the fight against the New York governor is not entirely abandoned, for in Alabama the anti-Smith or "un-instructed delegation" faction captured the majority of the state's delegates to Houston. In Texas the bitter struggle to send an un-instructed delegation to the Republican convention seemed likely to win.

SENATOR STEWERS' campaign expenditures investigation committee has not brought out anything interesting so far except a small display of temper by Herbert Hoover. He was subjected to a long examination as to promises, contributions and political deals and managed to retain control of himself, but when Senator Barkley of Kentucky asked him whether he had advised the manufacturers of chinaware to raise the price of china, he exploded, saying: "I wonder, Mr. Chairman, if the committee is not getting down to dealing with a pretty small type of street slander."
From the other candidates for the Presidential nomination the committee extracted no information in the least sensational.

BOTH the house and senate accepted the conference report on the flood control bill after the measure had been so altered that it would meet with the approval of the President. Three important revisions suggested by Mr. Coolidge were made and it was understood the bill would receive executive approval, although the President still dislikes some of its provisions.
The bill as it reached the President authorizes the expenditure of $225,000,000 for the flood control project, but according to President Coolidge and Maj. Gen. Dwight J. Davis, chief of engineers, the actual minimum cost will be at least $300,000,000. The bill places final authority in the hands of the President. Actual construction work would be in charge of the present Mississippi river commission under the direction of the secretary of war and the supervision of the chief of engineers.

While the bill declares for the retention of the principle of local contribution toward flood control projects, local interests under the bill must furnish only such additional rights of way as are needed for levees on the main channel of the Mississippi and must maintain the flood control works when completed. The federal government will bear the entire cost of construction of levees and other flood control works and will furnish rights of way for levees along floodways and spillways.

FOR the first time in history the senate has assumed the prerogative of offering advice to the Supreme Court of the United States. By a vote of 40 to 31 it approved a resolution asking that Donald C. Ritchberg of Chicago, counsel for the national conference on the valuation of American railways, be allowed to intervene in proceedings before the court for the purpose of making an oral argument and filing a brief. The conference Ritchberg represents was formed some years ago by radical groups and is headed by Senator Norris of Nebraska, who introduced the extraordinary resolution. The case in question is an appeal by the railroads from a lower court's decision upholding the interstate commerce commission's ruling with respect to the determination of valuation for rate-making and recapture purposes.

CHINA and Japan are actually at war, though not officially, because Japan insists on giving military protection to the Shantung railway and to her nationals there. Protests of both the Nationalists and the Peking government were unheeded and bloody clashes between the Japanese and the Southerners at Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, followed. There were many casualties on both sides and the fighting continues at the time of writing. Each side blamed the other for the outbreak of hostilities, and each accused the other of brutal outrages. The Japanese commander in Shantung established a neutral zone along the railway and at latest reports had driven the Southerners out of it. The Tokyo government speedily prepared and sent over heavy reinforcements and dispatched additional warships. Then Marshal Chang, dictator of north China, issued a proclamation ordering all his forces to cease fighting the Nationalists. In order, evidently, that the Chinese nation might employ its combined strength in combating the Japanese aggression. In his pronouncement Chang intimated his intention of soon retiring to Manchuria, stating he was willing to be not insistent regarding national politics, and he concluded with the statement that the ship of state was sinking rapidly and he hoped the people would come to their senses and save the country from destruction.
Suggestions of mediation by the United States have been made but are useless, for Washington has said it would not undertake to mediate unless asked to do so by both sides, and Japan says it will neither ask nor accept mediation. The unofficial government view in Tokyo is that Japan does not consider the present situation war and that therefore the matter can be settled diplomatically between Japan and China. All Americans in the war zone are believed to be safe, though some, including Consul Price at Tsinan, were under fire.

RUMANIA almost had a revolution last week, but the government nipped it in the bud. The peasants gathered in vast throngs—two hundred thousand in Alba-Julia and smaller numbers in other places—and formulated demands for a change of government and the end of the despotic regime of Premier Bratianu. Some of the leaders wished to have the border march on Bucharest to enforce their demands, but others dissented and only a few thousands started on the trek to the capital and they soon quit. At the gatherings the government had stationed large detachments of troops which did not interfere with the demonstrations but effectively squelched all the order for militant action. An interesting feature of the affair was the fact that Prince Carol, in England with his female companion, plotted to take advantage of the assemblies of the peasants to gain possession of the throne. He intended to send airplanes over to scatter messages to the people, and to whisper to fly there himself. But the British government discovered the plan, frustrated it and ordered Carol to leave the country. It was rumored he might come to the United States. Leaders of the peasants party denied that they had any part in Carol's scheme.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI, in an official note to Secretary Kellogg, stated that Italy is entirely willing to collaborate with the United States in the negotiation of a multilateral anti-war treaty. The State department officials, however, do not like the dictator's suggestion that the United States should participate in an international jurists' conference which would discuss the whole subject of outlawing war. It is not believed Italy will press this point.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., has made public two letters to Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in which he asked the latter to resign his position because of the revelation of Stewart's participation in the Continental Trading company's deals that were involved in the Teapot Dome lease scandal. Mr. Rockefeller wrote Colonel Stewart that he was calling upon him "to make good the promise you voluntarily gave me some weeks ago that you would resign at my request." Stewart up to the time of writing has declined to comment on the matter. Rockefeller is a very large stockholder in the Standard of Indiana, but it was said in Wall Street that he might not be able to enforce his demand for Stewart's resignation if the chairman decided to resist. District Attorney Rover in Washington submitted a transcript of Stewart's testimony before the senate Teapot Dome committee to the federal grand jury with a view to his indictment.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE told callers at the White House the other day that if all projects before congress are approved the required expenditure would be so huge that tax reduction would be impossible. Indeed, he warned, it would be necessary to levy additional taxes. The aggregate expenditure called for would be more than a billion dollars, according to Chairman Snell of the House rules committee. Included in the big projects are: Flood control, at least $325,000,000; farm relief, $400,000,000; Boulder dam, at least $125,000,000; Muscle Shoals, $75,000,000; good roads, $75,000,000; retirement of civil employees, $30,000,000; Welch federal employees' salary increase bill, $18,000,000; Minnie sippi river barge line, $10,000,000; war mineral relief bill, $5,000,000 to $10,000,000, and vocational training bill, $6,000,000.

BARON VON HUENEFELD, Captain Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice, the Bremen transatlantic flyers, flew from Philadelphia to Chicago and spent two strenuous days and nights there. They were feasted and entertained in various ways, and on Saturday there was a grand parade to Soldier field on the Lake Front where they were formally welcomed to the city. More than one hundred German and Irish societies were in the line of march and took part in the ceremonies. Among the guests of honor were Prof. Hugo Junkers, manufacturer of the Bremen plane, and T. A. Sutcliff, minister of the Irish Free State at Washington.

INFORMATION reaching the War department shows that Great Britain's army expenditures during the coming year for the development and purchase of new machine weapons and motorized equipment will be ten times the amount expended by the United States for a similar purpose. The British will spend $5,000,000 in army modernization work. The United States is planning to expend more than ever before in peace time on machine weapons, but its total spending for testing and new development work will not exceed $500,000.
Of the funds allotted to the ordnance department of the United States army about $145,000 will be utilized for the purchase of tractors, tractors, ammunition power cars, and other material for completely motorizing an infantry regiment. The balance will be expended in tank experiments and in purchasing new artillery.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZGERALD, D.D., Dean of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.) (© 1924 Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for May 27 THE WICKED HUSBANDMEN

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:1-12; 13:1-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the wicked shall perish.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Some Wicked People Punished.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Wicked Husbandmen.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Playing Fair With God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Misuse of National Privilege.

1. Demanding the Fruit of His Vineyard (Mark 12:1-12).
The certain man who planted the vineyard is God Himself.
2. The vineyard (v. 1).
This means Israel (See Isa. 5:1-7, Jer. 2:21, Ps. 80:8).
The Lord went to particular pains to make this nation separate. He bestowed peculiar favors upon it.
3. The husbandmen (v. 1).
These were the rulers and teachers of Israel, even members of the Sanhedrin. They were the spiritual guides of the people.
4. Servants sent for the fruit of the vineyard (vv. 2-5).
These were the various prophets whom God sent to the nation. The maltreatment and rejection of the prophets are fully set forth in the Scriptures.
5. The well-beloved son sent (vv. 6-9).

The son here is the Lord Jesus Christ, God's only and beloved Son. He came into the world.
6. Their punishment (vv. 9-12).
Jesus now asked them for their own verdict upon such villainous ingratitude. He took the place of a judge and pronounced judgment upon them on the basis of their own verdict. They not only rejected the kingdom, but the Son who was King; therefore the kingdom was taken from them and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.
7. The Son of Man Coming in Glory (13:1-37).

This is part of the well known Olivet discourse. It gives a prophetic view of the course of time from its utterance just before the crucifixion to the second advent of Christ. Two great facts are before us in this prophetic utterance, the destruction of Jerusalem and the second coming of Christ. The one was near, having taken place within forty years of the utterance of Christ; the other is still future. The order of events as outlined are:

1. Moral condition of the world during Christ's absence (vv. 1-13).
This pictures the present age and the result of preaching the gospel. In this age many shall come saying, "I am Christ and shall deceive many." There shall be wars and rumors of wars. Nation shall be pitted against nation and kingdom against kingdom, with earthquakes in divers places, accompanied with famine and pestilence. The witnesses of Christ shall be persecuted and arraigned before rulers and kings. Brother shall betray brother to death and the father the son. Children will rise up against their parents and cause them to be put to death. The preachers of the gospel shall be hated for Christ's sake.
2. The days of the tribulation (vv. 14-23).
In this time the Antichrist will appear according to the prophecy of Daniel. So severe will be the persecution that except the Lord shorten the days no flesh could be saved, but for the elect's sake the days shall be shortened.
3. The great advent (vv. 24-31).
This shall be preceded by great physical disturbances in the world. The moon shall be darkened, the stars of heaven shall fall. "Then shall they see the Son of Man coming in the clouds with great power and glory and He will gather His elect from the uttermost parts of the earth and heaven."
4. Instructions in view of the coming of the Lord (vv. 32-34).
The day and the hour of His coming are unknown to man. In view of this uncertainty we should watch and pray.
III. Warnings.
Running through the thirteenth chapter is the exhortation to take heed. In teaching the lesson it would be well to gather them up in their order.

1. Take heed against deceivers (v. 5).
2. Take heed to yourselves (v. 8).
3. Take heed against the time of the Lord's coming (v. 35).
The one command to all is "watch."

The Cross and Discipleship
The cross is the pattern of service and suffering for the disciples of Christ. The great demand of Jesus was and is for people who can suffer. It is of no use trying to get the cross out of discipleship. They go together, and will, until the world has been redeemed.—Charles Brown.

An Active Faith
Belief is the acceptance of a map. Faith is the taking the voyage.—Rev. C. M. Jernett, D. D.

The Hotel Child
Much has been written about the hard-boiled hotel child, and his somewhat unnatural maturity. I have been skeptical concerning most of these jokes, but yesterday I saw a likely lad of four or five who gave me quite a turn. He seemed to be arguing with his mother. "No, no, mamma," the little boy said, "I tell you I'm not talking about Annapolis. I'm talking about General Motors."—Haywood Brown in the New York World.

TASTY DISHES

Do not fail to serve several dishes of young turnip greens when thinning out the turnip patch. If wise you will have plenty of greens. Cook the immature turnip with the tops after washing well. Then serve the old-fashioned:

Hog Jowl With Greens and Corn Bread.—Put the well-washed greens of turnip over the fire and cook twenty minutes, then add the jowl which has been well cleaned and trimmed, cover closely and cook until tender. Drain the greens, place the jowl in the center of a hot platter. Season the greens well with salt, pepper, a bit of vinegar or lemon juice and arrange around the jowl. Garnish the dish with poached eggs and pass corn bread—either dodgers or pan baked.

Skillet Bread.—Melt one tablespoonful of lard and add to it one quart of corn meal, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt and enough water to make a stiff dough about one and three-fourths cupsful. Make into oval cakes and bake in dripping in a hot skillet until well browned on both sides. The crisp brown cracklings left from trying out lard are often added to these cakes.

Here is a Missouri dish which will be found seasonable at any time of year and is especially delicious:

Missouri Ham With Biscuits.—The ham itself must be fine and juicy, cut thick and parboiled in a little water if too salt, covered while parboiling to insure a tender meat. Fry until brown and crisp and place on a hot platter. Prepare hot raised biscuit, either soda or baking powder. Thicken the fat in the pan with two or more tablespoonfuls of flour, cook until well browned, add gradually one and one-half cupsful of thin cream and pour when hot over the split biscuits, placed around the platter of ham.

Deviled Cucumbers.—Peel and cut three cucumbers into halves crosswise. Cook in salted, boiling water until transparent and tender. Prepare the following sauce: In a bowl to four tablespoonfuls of salad oil add one tablespoonful of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and the yolks of two hard-cooked eggs put through a sieve. Beat with a fork, and place the drained cucumbers on a platter with the sauce poured over them. Nice served with fish.

About Mint.
A sprig or two of mint added to a vegetable salad adds a piquancy and makes such a common salad as potato, quite different.

Crisp Salad.—Dice three young cucumbers after peeling, with three seedless oranges; mix and arrange on heart leaves of lettuce. Sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of finely cut mint leaves and serve with mayonnaise dressing made from mint vinegar, or French dressing using the mint vinegar. Garnish with fresh mint leaves dipped in egg white then in sugar. Crystallized mint leaves may be used, adding much to the appearance of the salad.

Mint Sherbet.—Bruise the leaves of a well packed cup of mint, add the juice of two lemons together with the zest obtained by rubbing each lemon with a cube of sugar. Let stand with the sugar—covered for half an hour. Cook one pint of sugar with a cupful of water to a sirup—about ten minutes—add a cupful of orange juice and lemon and mint, add a cupful of cold water, strain and freeze. Garnish each cup of sherbet with a sprig of fresh mint.

Garden Punch.—Pour a pint of boiling water over three teaspoonfuls of tea and half a cupful of mint leaves crushed. Let steep for five minutes, strain, add six small cubes of sugar which have been rubbed over a lemon, and cool. Add one can of crushed pineapple, together with the juice and the juice of two lemons. Serve in tall glasses half filled with shaved ice and topped with mint.

Currant Cooler.—Infuse a pint of tea with mint as in the above recipe. Whip a glass of currant jelly and add to it a pint of boiling water, stir until dissolved, cool. Mix the ingredients, adding the juice of two oranges and sugar or honey to sweeten. Serve with ice and a sprig of mint.

Matter for Wonder

Clothes Do Make a Difference

Good and Poor Design in Dress.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The two views of the same figure in the illustration, which were posed by the United States Department of Agriculture, are good examples of the fact that clothes do make a difference. We would not change back to the older style even if we could.

We all remember seeing numbers of people dressed in such nondescript garments as the one on the left. It has little to recommend it to anybody. The bad proportion between the waist and skirt is not only due to the unnecessary length of the skirt, but to placing of the waistline. The dress fits and hangs poorly, due mainly to the slouched posture of the figure. The neck is uninteresting and the collar inappropriate. Elbow-length sleeves are not appropriate for street wear, especially in cool weather, and if short sleeves are worn in summer they are very short indeed. These sleeves are an unattractive length for this figure in any season.

The other dress speaks for itself, with its trim, tailored lines, carefully fitted sleeves and shoulders, its attractive contrasting vest with matching cuffs and simple trimming of large buttons. The box plait is placed to give ample skirt width and the proportion between their depth and the whole dress is good. The length of the dress should satisfy the most fastidious. If worn by a very young girl the skirt might be still shorter, provided that the relation between the box plaited section and the upper part is kept right. Light colored hose in harmony with the colors of the costume are more attractive than black.

Household Notes

Linoleum will wear longer and will be more easily cleaned if it is waxed before it is used.

It pays to put the woollens away clean because moths are always at tract first to the soiled spot in the garment.

Encourage the children to drink lots of water.

Cabbage should be cooked not more than 12 to 13 minutes.

Light-colored walls make a room look larger while dark colors make it seem small.

EVENING FAIRY TALE FOR THE CHILDREN

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER.

Jinny, a little girl, had to go one time to visit the cousin who had sent her the two parakeets, Tubby and Topsy.

Jinny's nurse looked after all the birds, but Binky, her most special pet parakeet she had had for a long time, certainly felt differently from the other two.

He was very lonely, while the other

On Her Shoulder.

ers seemed to be just as happy as long as they had something to eat.

"Binky," said Jinny's nurse, "how would you like to write a letter to your mistress?"

Binky put his head on one side and said in a funny little voice something which the nurse was quite sure meant "Yes."

So she wrote a letter for Binky, in a funny scratchy handwriting that Binky would have made if he had been able to write at all.

"My dear Missy: I am well, I eat a great deal.

"Miss you. I walk along the floor. I am treated well. I miss you, though."

"I'll be glad to see you. I am a good boy. I hope you miss me. When do you come home?"

"I can't get used to being without you. My seed is nice. And I have eaten up dish after dish of it."

"I drink a great deal of water. I like water. Do you like water?"

"I hope you'll come home soon. We send love. Topsy and Tubby do too."

"They don't know very much though they know enough to do that."

"From your loving

"BINKY."

How happy it made Jinny to receive such a nice letter! She felt, too, that it was just the way Binky would have written if he had held the pen himself.

For she knew that that was just what Binky was thinking.

Soon she went home again and Binky was ready to meet her just as soon as she got inside the door. There he was on the floor, and up he got on her shoulder.

"I'm so glad to see you, Missy dear," he was trying to say.

And he kissed her, a funny, little plucking kiss with his sharp wee beak, which he tried to make much less sharp when he kissed Jinny.

"There is no place after all like my own home where I have Tubby and Topsy, but where, most especially, I have my little Binky," said Jinny.

And Binky was very glad that Jinny felt that way about it, for it was the very way he felt with all the power of his little bird feelings.

So he kissed Jinny again, a second kiss, to make her feel quite sure she was very welcome at home.

WIDE-BRIM HATS AND SATIN RIBBON TRIMS

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

WIDER brims, wider ribbons—yes, there is no doubt about it, milliners are taking a broader view of things than for several seasons past.

this season. Already the medium large brim has become a general style item; there is every indication that large picturesque types will add charm to the midsummer costume.

It adds a refreshing note, too, that straws are again in the picture—and such interesting straws. Many of them feature a smooth line-like weave, and one bears the names ballbunt, also, bakou and the like mentioned at every turn.

The models in this group bespeak the new style trend which emphasizes use of ribbons on colorful straws. The top hat is a cocoa brown straw, with a bow and semi-crown of wide soft ribbon, just a degree lighter in tone than the straw it trims.

The large ballbunt straw hat to the left is a grayish green. The crown of matching velvet ribbon on the under brim matches the ribbon which bands the crown in double rows.

Velvet ribbon also trims the simple shape to the right. This model is effectively carried out in tones of blue.

The handsome model below is a wine-colored bakou body hat. Wide velvet ribbon in identical shade is draped around the crown, tying in loop ends at the back.

Now that the smooth straw body hats are in fashion, designers are devising ways and means of adding unique decorative touches to them. A favorite method of enhancing these new lichen-like straws is to hand-paint them in an all-over patterning, say polka dots or modernistic cubes and squares in vivid colors.

The latest stunt is to paint the hat, copying the motif of the printed gown with which it is to be worn.

ARMOUR ESTATE PAYS UP ALL DEBTS OF LATE PACKER

Chicago.—Claims against the estate of the late J. Ogden Armour, Chicago packer, who once said he had lost a million dollars a day for more than 100 days during the World War, have been settled in full. His debt to Armour & Co., Chicago packers, and claims of bondholders of the Sutter Basin Company, a California land reclamation project, were wiped out the books in a transaction which involved cash and bonds to the value of approximately 18 million dollars. "The books have been wiped clean and everybody treated justly," said Alexander F. Reichmann, attorney for Mrs. Armour. "Mrs. Armour has taken every possible step to see to it that her husband's debts were settled to the satisfaction of all his creditors." "Settlement of the remaining indebtedness of J. Ogden Armour to Armour & Co. was completed in a manner satisfactory to the company," said Edison White, president. "There will be available presently in cash and marketable securities approximately 15 million dollars, and in addition the company receives other securities representing the balance of the indebtedness."

Huge Acreage Thrown Open for Filing

Washington.—Approximately 230,000 acres of wild land in Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska and Wyoming were opened recently to settlement by the general land office at the Interior Department for World War veterans and other citizens. It was announced that the lands were of little agricultural value. The lands, to be filed on during May and June, were listed as follows: 24,046 acres in Dolores county and 2,355 acres in Rio Blanco county, Colo.; 3,000 acres in Morrill, Scotts Bluff, Banner and Sloux counties in Nebraska; 5,872 acres in Luna county, 22,970 in Hidalgo county, 28,723 acres in Chavez county, New Mexico, and 46,017 acres in Fremont county, Wyoming.

Silver Quotation Highest Since 1926

Denver.—Added impetus to the mining industry throughout the state and the entire western country was forecast when the price of silver reached the highest quotation since the fall of 1926. The increase followed an advance for zinc and is thought to precede a move for lead. Stronger demand from silver standard countries is believed to be responsible for the advance. In addition to the gain in the value of silver, zinc and copper also have shown a stronger price tendency. The advance in silver and zinc prices, local mining men believe, will result in greater activity in Colorado mining camps as more properties can be worked on a profitable basis.

New Judicial District Planned

Washington.—A measure to create a new judicial circuit comprising the states of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico was introduced by Representative Newton, Republican, Minnesota. The states are now in the eighth judicial district, which also includes the states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Arkansas.

Lafayette—W. L. Wilkinson was elected secretary of the school board here over the present incumbent, W. M. Harmon.

Aviators Receive Huge Awards

Washington.—Secretary of Navy Wilbur has announced award of the distinguished flying cross to Lieut. W. V. Davis, navigator of the Dole Hawaii race winner Woolarou and distinguished service medals to Capt. M. J. King and Commander Harold E. Saunders for their work in raising the submarine S-4. Navy crosses were awarded to Lieut. Henry Hartley, Chief Boatman George Crogan, and Chief Gunner Clarence L. Tibbels in the S-4 salvage.

Good Recipe for Ginger Snaps

If the family likes ginger snaps you can make them sometimes at home by following the recipe below. From the bureau of home economics. These ginger snaps should be kept in a tightly closed tin to retain their crispness.

Ginger Snaps.
1 cup molasses 1/2 lb. sugar
1/2 cup butter 1/2 lb. lard
3/4 cups flour 1 lb. ginger
1 1/2 tsp. salt

Heat the molasses to the boiling point, and pour it over the butter. Dissolve the soda in a tablespoonful of water. Add this and the dry ingredients which have been mixed together, to the molasses and butter. Chill the dough thoroughly. Roll out small quantities of the cold dough as thin as possible, and cut out the cookies. Keep the rest of the dough chilled until it is ready to be rolled and cut. Place the cookies rather far apart in greased pans, and bake in a moderate oven. Remove them from the pan while they are still hot. As these cookies cool, they become very crisp and will break if they are not taken from the pan immediately on coming from the oven.

How Two Can Share Same Clothes Closet

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Everyone has met, once or twice, the type of housekeeper who achieves ex-

Sisters Share Closet With Everything in Place.

cessful order by simply cramming what ever is left of place into a bureau drawer or closet. When the drawer or closet door is shut she feels secure against the critical eyes of chance visitors to her room, but the concealed clutter is always there to remind her of her bad system whenever she has to hunt through it for something she wants.

It is so much easier in the long run to be neat and tidy from within out. Even school girls, who are notorious sinners against order among their personal belongings, realize this as soon as they have to live somewhere away from home, at school or college, and share a room with some one else. These two girls, who are twin sisters, found out the secret of harmoniously sharing the same bedroom was to have a place for everything and everything in its place. They decided that to live up to this rule they needed more space, and so, acting on the advice of the home demonstration agent who directed the 4-H club to which they belonged, they added a broad, new closet to their room. Then they planned the disposal of their various effects so that one half of the closet would belong to each. An upper section provided space for hatboxes, papers and magazines not in everyday use. A pole for hangers economized space in the lower part, and a rack for shoes kept the messy pairs two people would need exactly where they belonged. Two sisters would not have to be twins to be able to agree that everything not belonging in such a closet should be kept out of it, and everything for which a place was provided should be returned to its place.

Capitan High School Dance

Contributed:

A big crowd attended the dance given by the Capitan High School last Thursday night. Bill Wetstein's Orchestra furnished the music and a good time was had by all. A coffee drinking contest was one of the features of the occasion, the same being waged principally by L. R. LaMay and J. A. Brubaker. Coffee was served free by the manager, and as each man came to be served, a tag was pinned on him which made Mr. LaMay ask as to what it meant and being told it meant on the payment of $100 he had the right to the pleasure of the evening, it needed no further explanation. Mr. Brubaker said that this made him think of a story he once heard of a man who sued for a divorce on account of his wife making such bad coffee and the divorce was granted on "coffee grounds."
