Two Italians Fly From Rome to Brazil, Establishing New Distance Record.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
TWO Italian aviators, Captain Ferrarin and Major Del Prete, starting from Rome in a Fiat-motored Savoia monoplane, headed for South America on a nonstop flight, reached Brazil in safety, establishing a new record. When they landed near Port Natal they had flown about 4,485 miles, bettering the distance record of 3,900 miles made by Chamberlin and Levine by about 570 miles. These aviators already held the duration flight record of 89 hours, 39 minutes and 20 seconds. When the flyers passed over St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, approximately 3,000 miles from Rome, they had been up 22 hours with the remarkable average of more than 135 miles an hour. They made the 1,600 miles from there across the south Atlantic ocean at almost equal speed. On the way they were in radio communication with the steamship Philarus and said all was well with them. The flight was made under the auspices of the Italian military aviation service.

ONE of the extraordinary tragedies of aviation occurred last week over the North sea. Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, world famous Belgian financier and rated as one of the wealthiest men in the world, disappeared from his Fokker plane in which he was crossing from Croydon, England, to Brussels. It was believed that he had mistaken the door by which passengers left the plane for the one to the washroom, and, opening the former, stepped off into space and fell into the sea.

Lowenstein's wealth was estimated to be only less than that of Henry Ford and the Rockefellers.

He controlled steamship lines, was one of the chief stockholders in the Belgian railway system, owned manganese iron mines in Silesia, steel furnaces in the north of Spain, coal properties in the Saar basin and in the Ruhr, and immense rubber plantations in the Congo. Two years ago he started the world by offering the Belgian government a loan of $50,000,000 for two years without interest in order that the Belgian franc might be stabilized. The offer was refused. Shortly after this he offered to lend France a like amount at interest of 2 per cent. Quite recently Captain Lowenstein spent several weeks in the United States and Canada on business, traveling most of the time by airplane. He was an enthusiast on aviation and owned a number of big planes which were equipped with office desks and carried a staff of secretaries so he could work while flying.

Immediately after the capitalist's disappearance was reported there were rumors that he had committed suicide because of financial embarrassment following his recent failures to obtain large loans. These stories were denied and were succeeded by reports that he was secretly landed in France from his plane and had been met by an automobile which took him to a place of retreat. On European stock exchanges the Lowenstein shares fell rapidly.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE HOOVER spent independence day in rest and quiet recreation, but gave up the rest of the week to preparations for his departure from Washington, winding up with a conference on Saturday with prominent eastern Republicans for the purpose of establishing a campaign organization in that section of the country. It was announced that Mr. Hoover would deliver his resignation from the cabinet to President Coolidge at the summer White House on the Brule river. Further than that his plans were not made public. His resignation and speech of acceptance will be made in California, the first week in August. Governor Smith made two speeches on the Fourth of July, one at Tammany hall and the other from the steps of the city hall in New York city, but in both of them he avoided partisan politics, making only passing allusion to his nomination for the Presidency. Then he went to Albany to attend to state business. His plans called for a campaign conference with Senator Robinson, his running mate, and the Democratic national committee this week. Governor Smith also will be notified of his nomination early in August, and it is asserted that in his speech of acceptance he will make a further pronouncement on his position in the matter of prohibition. Until then he declined to reply to Josephus Daniels, who, while calling on all Democrats to support Smith, said Al had not been given any leadership by the Democratic party to seek to change the Volstead act and that any attempts to weaken the prohibition laws must be fought in congress.

Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcohol and a leader in the Anti-Saloon league, issued a summons to all friends of prohibition to unite against Smith, asserting that the country faces "what promises to be the greatest 'wet and dry' battle that the nation has ever seen." National Prohibition party chiefs seemed to be at odds as to the party's national convention called for July 10 and 11 in Chicago. Some desired to nominate some prominent dry Democrat, preferably from the South, while others believed it would be best to endorse Hoover. The Anti-Saloon league, scheduled to hold a convention in Asheville, N. C., at the same time, was said not to be co-operating at all with the Prohibition party.

If there is dissension among the dries, there is still greater disagreement among the men who profess to be the leaders of the Middle-West farmers. Gov. Adam McCallen, Republican, of Nebraska; George N. Peck, chairman of the corn belt committee formed in 1920, and some others declared the Democratic plank on farm relief was satisfactory to agriculturists and far superior to the Republican plank, and they predicted the corn belt farmers would vote for Smith. A counterblast came promptly from Senator Brookhart and Governor Hammill of Iowa, who accused Peck of double crossing Lowden and denied the assertions that the farmers were going Democratic. Meanwhile men who think they know the mind of the farmer continue to assert that those who have been Republicans in the past will support Hoover, and those who have been Democratic will cast their votes for Smith.

JEAN LAUSSIER, thirty-six years old, a French Canadian salesman from Springfield, Mass., achieved notoriety and perhaps fame last week by going over Niagara falls in a rubber and steel ball designed by himself. Taken from the river a few hundred feet below the cataract, he was found to be uninjured beyond a few bruises on face and shoulders. He was the third person to perform this feat and live. The others were Bobbie Leach and Annie Edson Taylor, both of whom performed the stunt in barrels. Laussier's rubber ball was eleven feet in diameter. Inside the outer covering was a canvas lining. Then came a steel framework and another canvas lining, and inside all a harness-like arrangement in which the occupant strapped himself. He carried in tanks enough oxygen to keep him alive forty hours.

GERMANY'S model of a treaty for strengthening the means of preventing war was adopted by the committee on security and arbitration of the League of Nations in Geneva, and was ordered sent to all governments in preparation for a general discussion of the subject at the September assembly of the league. The essence of the so-called German treaty is that the nations will bind themselves in advance to accept the recommendations of the league council in the case of a threat of war and to refrain from measures likely to aggravate the dispute. Its object is the same as that of the proposed Kellogg pact—namely, the outlawry of war.

CHIEF feature of the celebration at the Fourth of July by Americans in Paris was the dedication of the beautiful triumphal arch in Parc Viergeux in memory of 47 young American members of the Lafayette Brigade who fell in the service of France. Paul Painleve, minister of war, delivered the address to a great throng that included Ambassador Herrick, Marshal Foch and other notables. Ten French army planes dived overhead and as the last salute was fired and taps blown, tribute was paid to each grave in the marble-lined crypt, where the dead brethren lie four by four in the order in which they fell.

Americans in Shanghai had as a part of their celebration a Wild West rodeo given by the marines, the first ever seen in the Orient. Czechoslovakia made the day, which was also the tenth anniversary of its own independence, the occasion for the dedication of a monument to Woodrow Wilson in Prague.

CROATIA'S threats of demanding complete separation from Serbia because of the killing of two Croatian deputies in the parliament resulted in the resignation of the Yugo-Slavian government. The king began negotiations with party leaders with a view to forming a coalition government that would satisfy the demands of Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina for equal representation with Serbia. Italy announced that she would refuse to accept the ratification of the disputed Nettuno treaty unless it was approved by the Croatian deputies.

ENCOURAGEMENT of foreign immigration, and capital are the aims of a bill drawn up by officials of the Mexican government for the purpose of rehabilitating Mexican national finances. The measure has been approved by President Calles and also by Alvaro Obregon, who was unanimously elected President of the republic. The proposed law throws overboard most of the disabilities of foreigners and foreign capital. General Obregon's election was unopposed, as he was the sole surviving candidate. His supporters will be in control of the senate, chamber of deputies and state legislatures.

HELMANN MUELLER, the new Socialist chancellor of Germany, announced to the Reichstag that Germany is ready for a final discussion of her full reparation debts. "The Dawes plan has been carried out for almost four years and has prepared the ground for a definite settlement," Chancellor Mueller stated. "The exact date of the final agreement remains vague, but matters have progressed so far that all parties concerned are convinced that a definite debt settlement is not only desirable, but also possible."

In stating his policies Herr Mueller said: "We will give up all thought of revenge. This is the foundation of our policy, and starting from this standpoint we shall endeavor to reconquer for Germany the same rights that other nations have."

YOUNG CHANG HSUEH-LIANG, son of the late Marshal Chang, has succeeded to the dictatorship of Manchuria and has made overtures to the Nationalist leaders at Peking looking to the unification of China. General Chang Kai-shek, commander of the Nationalist armies, says that Nanking will become the capital of the country. Immediately, even if the foreign diplomats should refuse to move there.

REVISED but unofficial figures give that place in the international balloon race, which started from Detroit, to the United States army balloon, with the French bag Blanchard second and the German balloon Barnes third. The bags all landed in Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

REHABILITATION of disabled World War veterans, as a government activity, came to an end last week when the last of the 125,000 men who have been trained to be self-supporting, or nearly so, at a total cost of more than $600,000,000, received their diplomas. The number of men who took advantage of the training offered them far exceeded the original estimates. A total of 351,464 applied for the benefits offered them before June 30, 1925, and of these 216,481 were rated as entitled to full courses. Out of the latter number, 85,572 dropped out. Besides paying for tuition and books, the government provided $300 a month for single men and $200 a month for married men with additional allowances for other dependents.

First Aid to Tired Memories

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor:

I suppose that they're a great many amongst your readers and a specially the older ones, that find themselves all the time forgetting things that they should ought to remember and I was the same way myself and one of my friends suggested that I take one of these here memory courses which he said had helped him a whole lot but I said what is the use of my paying money for a memory course when I can probably get one up for myself that's just as good and maybe a whole lot better so I set down and figured out a system of how to remember different things, and now I am going to pass the good news on to my admires and the different between the other memory courses and I is because I don't charge anything for my lessons but all as you half to do is send in a stamp self addressed envelope so I won't forget where you live at, and I will tell you the complete system but in the first place I will give you a few examples of how the system worked with me and you can judge for yourself if it's O. K. or the opp.

Well, to begin at the beginning, the first time I felt like my memory was slipping was about 2 mos. ago when I was out on the golf link with a couple of friends and was playing for a berry a hole and along about the 3rd hole one of my friends said he had a six and the other said he had a seven so they asked me what I had and I said a five.

"Listen," said my 2nd friend, "how about them two times in the ploughed ground when you swang, and never hit the ball at all."

So that set me thinking that I had entirely forgot them two whiffs, so I kind of laughed to cover up my embarrassments but I made up my mind right there that I would find out some way to remember them missed swings a specially when the boys was keeping such close tabs on a person, so that night I remembered to go home and after dinner I worked out a system and the next morning I tried it in the nursery and all four of my kids was in there to say nothing about the nurse and without consulting no notes I called them each by their first name.

"Well," I said to myself, "this system looks like it was A-1 and I would be a fine stiff if I didn't pass it on to my friends that's inflicted the same way."

So then I used the new system to try and think of some of my friends that had forgot different things, and the 1st one I thought of was a bird that him and I had been to N. Y. City a couple of mos. before and had dinner and at that time he said let's make it Dutch, so I said all right, but when the check came around he said he was busy trying to get the maple syrup off his hands into the finger bowl, so in this letter I kind of reminded him about the Dutch laws and sure enough in a few days I got a letter enclosing 70 cts. in stamps which was his share of the orgy.

So then I happened to think of another old pal that couldn't never remember he was married and his wife had complained about it several times, so one night I was over to his house but he was not home but his Mrs. thought she knew where she could reach him by telephone so I called him on the wire and told him to not forget he was married and the next night he come home and called his wife by her first name, which is more than she could do to him as she didn't even answer him.

Personally I could give you other proofs about how this system works, for instance, I can set down right this minute and without going into no newspaper files or calling up no sporting editors I can tell who won between Dempsey and Tunney at Chicago last September or won the world's serious last October and I can tell if Babe Ruth swings right or left handed and I can remember what year I was married, and why, and I can recall the name of the school I went one semester to before they decided that 2 semesters was 1 too much, and etc.

Where this system comes in as handy as any other place is when a man is dressing. For instance, how many of you gents puts on your collar only to find that your shirt is off, or dons your shoes and then recalls that the hostery is missing? Since I got up this system I can always manage to get my garments onto me as they should come and at 1st I tried to do it in alphabet order but I soon found out that I hadn't no sooner had gotten my trousers on when I noticed that the underwear was yet to come and the coat had been on a long while before it had come time for the vest. But the way I overcome these difficulties was to make up my mind to discard the vest and then do the rest of it from omega to alpha instead of vice versa. So then when I don the old costume, the underwear comes first and then the trousers and then the box and shoes and shirt and necktie and finally wind up with the coat which is just as it should be.

This is only an example to show you how good the system works and it don't stop with dressing but goes on through a man's daily life and as I say I will pass it on to my admires if they will send me a stamp addressed envelope but no money and if they are satisfied with the course they can maybe come across with a few flowers or a 1/2 dozen doughnuts.

Lesson for July 22

PAUL'S EARLY MINISTRY

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:19-30; 11:25, 26.
GOLDEN TEXT—And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Begins to Work for Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's First Work for Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Saul Champions an Unpopular Cause.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Years of Growing Experience.

I, SAUL Preached Christ in Damascus (vv. 19-22).

1. Saul's fellowship with the disciples (v. 19).

After Saul was baptized he remained certain days with the believers in Damascus (v. 19). How beautiful to think of the transformation which took place—the one who was so passionately bent on their destruction was now enjoying fellowship with the disciples.

2. Straightway preaching in the synagogues (v. 20).

Saul, like every one who is really converted, begins to tell of the newly found Savior. As soon as he is saved he goes to save others.

3. The people amazed (v. 21).

They knew that the very one that had been the ringleader in persecuting the Christians in Jerusalem, and had come to Damascus for the express purpose of bringing them bound to the chief priests, was now passionately advocating that which he had so vehemently sought to destroy.

4. The Jews confounded (v. 22).

Saul, retired into Arabia for three years. During this time he was taught the full truths of his ministry.

11. Saul Escapes From the Jews (vv. 23-25).

He used the Scriptures with such skill that the Jews could not answer him. Finding that the argument was against them, the Jews took counsel how they might destroy Saul. So intent were they upon killing him that they watched the gates of the city day and night that they might take him. When this became known to the disciples, they let him down from the wall by night in a basket.

111. Saul Visits Jerusalem (vv. 26-29).

This journey to Jerusalem was in strange contrast with the one from Jerusalem to Damascus. The one was as a leader of an important expedition under the authority of the Jewish officers, with the prospect of a place of distinction in the council of the Jewish nation. Now he is an outcast, disowned by his countrymen, and fleeing for his life.

1. Suspected by the disciples (v. 26).

The believers at Jerusalem had not heard fully about Saul's conversion. They knew nothing of his sojourn in Arabia, and his preaching at Damascus after his return. Therefore they regarded him as a spy.

2. Barnabas' confidence in Saul (v. 27).

Barnabas was a man filled with the Holy Spirit. (Acts 11:24), therefore able to discern the reality of Saul's conversion. He was in reality a "Son of consolation" and in this instance showed his kind spirit.

3. Saul in fellowship with the disciples (v. 28).

They went in and out together. Peter received him in his home where he abode fifteen days. (Gal. 1:18).

4. Saul disputes with the Grecians (v. 29).

He was not content merely to visit with the brethren. He spoke boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

IV. Saul Sent to Tarsus (v. 30).

A conspiracy similar to that one at Damascus was formed against Saul. When the brethren knew of it they sent him to Tarsus. Saul's life was in danger everywhere except among the Gentiles. He now is back at the place of his birth. The first a d best place for one's testimony is in his home. Saul's conversion was typical of the conversion of the Jewish nation. Their eyes will be opened by a personal revelation of Jesus Christ to them, and when they accept Him as their Savior and Messiah, they will go forth as witnesses to the Gentiles.

V. Saul Teaching at Antioch (11:25, 26).

The work at Antioch so prospered in the hands of Barnabas that he went to Tarsus for Saul to help him in the work. Saul returned with Barnabas and ministered for a whole year. The disciples were first called Christians at Antioch. This name resulted from Paul's teaching. Instead of being given in derision, as is frequently taught.

God's Program

The program of God is not concerned with time. With Him a thousand years are as a day. We are too short-lived to criticize His providence. In the rolling years He has wrought wonders, but a short sight fails to see it.—Methodist-Protestant.

THE RETURN of ANTHONY TRENT

STORY FROM THE START

Anthony Trent, once master criminal, now reformed, returns to New York after four years' absence. He learns his friend, Capt. Frank Sutton, is in Sing Sing. Trent is surprised to find his New York apartment occupied by a stranger, Campbell Sutton, who represents himself as the brother of Frank Sutton. Trent is asked by Campbell to force a confession from Payson Grant, whom he accuses of having crookedly obtained all of Frank Sutton's apartment and then married the latter's wife. Trent starts on a campaign to accomplish the downfall of Grant. He learns that Captain Sutton has escaped from Sing Sing and later, to his surprise, finds that Campbell is really Frank Sutton. Trent takes his place in society as the opening gun of his campaign against Grant. He becomes a house guest of the Grants. Trent discovers in Mademoiselle Dupin, Natica's French instructor, a friend of the old criminal days. She is now going straight.

CHAPTER V—Continued

Payson Grant, dancing with Kathryn Holland, smiled jovially as he passed and re-passed. Already Payson was filled with the courage guarded by a green revenue stamp. Natica was troubled by his new ballet. They made him look older; he grew coarser. She had told him not an hour ago that he was drinking himself to death. The trouble with that sort of dissolution was that it lingered unduly and was not picturesque. Payson would probably develop into a flabby and fleshy old man.

Conscious that she had been silent for a long time and that Anthony Trent was looking at him curiously, Mrs. Grant, with whom he was dancing, became sprightly and conversational.

"These are not the sort of people who interest you," she said. "I wanted you to come when some very charming friends are visiting us. You must have thought Mr. Gilbert was terribly inquisitive at dinner."

"I like curiosity in others," Trent said. "It's the most self-revealing quality there is. Mr. Gilbert, for instance, gave me the impression of being a sort of amateur detective. Or perhaps he's one of the professionalists."

He did not take his eyes from her as he said this. If she lied he would know it.

"Unhappily he is Payson's godfather," she laughed, "and has to be humored on that account. Most of these people are the sort of old friends who assume they are welcome because they have known Payson or me before we were too old to resent them. A dreadful amount of nonsense is talked about old friends. Just look at this man coming in."

The new guest interested Trent. He had that square, aggressive carriage which is seen most often on those who have served their country on the police force. He moved with a ponderous solidity, and yet his furtive, dark eyes and nervous hands contradicted the impression his figure and walk gave the observer. His clothes were not of a fashionable cut.

"Another old friend?" Trent asked lightly.

"Simply a business acquaintance," she returned. When the music ceased, Payson Grant introduced the stranger as Mr. Yeatman, an accountant, who had come to help him over some South American business. As he said it Trent noticed that Natica Grant frowned. Mr. Yeatman, despite his Anglo-Saxon name, had a curious vocal inflection, that puzzled Trent. It seemed almost certain that the language he used was not that to which he had been bred.

Trent felt almost certain that the furtive Yeatman was an operative from an agency. For himself he experienced no fear. His finger-prints or Bertillon measurements were in no official bureau. It was for the "countess" he was anxious.

If the stranger were, indeed, a detective he would probably begin with the servants; and the presence of an alien, like Mademoiselle Dupin, would seem worthy of investigation. Trent could picture her being put through a brusque examination. Her references would be looked into and she would be invited to explain by what channels she entered the United States, the dates of arrival and all those particulars which would damn her in official eyes.

Presently the distinguished accountant was introduced to Anthony Trent. Trent was not acquainted with the conversational methods of accountants, but he did not think Yeatman a credit to that accurate body. "I should hardly have taken you for a commercial man," Trent said.

There was no mistaking the sudden interest Yeatman had for the speaker. Suspicion was on his face for a moment. Then he assumed a bluff heartiness.

"I'm not here on business tonight," he said. "Tomorrow I shall attend to that—tomorrow."

When the house party had broken up and Trent had retired to his rooms, there came a knock upon the door, and old Gilbert entered. There was something of a child in the old man. He was hardly able to conceal his triumph.

"They can't fool me," he began. "They forget I was a ranger once and an old Indian fighter. They couldn't keep it from me. That fellow, who don't know as much as I do about double-entry, is a detective. Natica got him here so that gang operating along the coast wouldn't get a chance. She says there's a million dollars represented in Jewels at the dinner-table. This fellow Yeatman had planned to be introduced as an architect going to make alterations. He'd been reading it up in a book and could have gotten by. What does Payson do but forget and call him an accountant. No wonder I got him all tangled up in figures."

She Had Told Him Not an Hour Ago That He Was Drinking Himself to Death.

"I suppose he has his suspicions already?" Trent hazarded.

"Sure," said Gilbert. "He saw he couldn't put anything over on me. He says the Spring Lake robberies were all inside jobs. He was asking Natica what she knew about the butler and his two deputies." Gilbert's eyes sparkled. "I've always wanted to be one of those swell house-party robberies. This place ought to be a magnet. If you were one of those society crooks wouldn't you try to get an invite here?"

"It would be an ideal place," Trent conceded.

"You understand," Gilbert warned him as he went to the door, "that it is all private what I've told you?"

"Naturally," Trent returned. "Good-night."

Things looked very dark for Mademoiselle Dupin. For all Trent knew, she might have been traced here. In that case, nothing could save her. He determined to use Thorpe as a messenger early on the morrow. At least, she must be warned.

The admirable butler, came unbidden, next morning to know what Mr. Trent desired for breakfast, and whether he would go downstairs or have it served in his room. Thorpe had found in the American one he might serve and still keep his self-respect.

"I'll go down," Trent said. "By the way," he added, "I want this note taken to Mademoiselle Dupin."

It was written in French. She was distressed when she read it.

"Be very careful," the note ran. "There is a detective here calling himself Yeatman and pretending to be a business friend of Mr. Grant. I must see you. Tell bearer at what hour you can come to me."

Mademoiselle Dupin turned to the waiting Thorpe.

"I will discuss the matter with Mr. Trent at ten o'clock."

The butler left her firm in the conviction that some monetary consideration was the cause of these conversations. Gentlemen of leisure, as he knew, would be indiscreet.

Mademoiselle Dupin entered Trent's sitting room at ten. Although she looked worried, there was an absence of the black despair which, the previous day, had had her in its grip.

"In twenty minutes," she said, "I have to give Mrs. Grant a lesson. Your letter alarmed me very much."

"I only meant it to put you on your guard," he answered. "There may be no danger of your being recognized."

"There is always danger," she said somberly. "How shall I recognize him? There are so many strangers in the house."

"He's about five feet nine inches high and chunky enough to weigh two hundred pounds. Coloring dark. Gray-black hair and full lips partly hidden by a mustache. Uneven teeth. The left ear is a quarter inch lower than the right. He carries himself erect and squarely. His age is probably forty. The impression he gives is one of great irritability of temper. He has many little nervous habits which, somehow, are not in keeping with his rugged, solid, policeman-like frame."

"You must have watched him keenly," she said.

"I did so because he was scrutinizing me and asking my host questions. I looked so closely because he was one of the few men I have disliked on sight."

There was a look of acute distress on her face.

"You can't mean you think he may have come for you?"

Her concern for his safety provoked a strange gratification.

"I don't think so; but that may mean nothing. Think of my life, Mademoiselle. I have taken what I wanted and played my wits against the police, and I have always won. The odds always turn. It may be I take too much comfort in thinking that because I have quit the game I shall be secure."

"You have the air of one who has yet a great destiny," she said. "I do not see you coming to an unhappy fate." She looked at the clock. "My time is up."

"But you need not go without seeing Yeatman," Trent said. "He is in the garden now, looking up here apparently."

From a table drawer Trent took a pair of powerful binoculars and handed them to the "Countess."

"He has turned his back to me," she commented. "Yes, he stands square and menacing like a policeman. I shall not meet this gentleman if I can help it." She put the glasses down. "You will not think me cowardly when I confess that something here oppresses me." She put her hands to her heart. "I cannot refuse to see him without making him suspicious."

Natica Grant used to talk of the doings of the day to Mademoiselle Dupin in the French tongue. It was her desire to become fluent in as short a time as possible, and to capture as wide a vocabulary as she could.

It was not reassuring to mademoiselle that her employer started her morning exercise with a discussion of crime, and the enormous value of the jewels beneath her roof.

It was an opportunity to get nearer to what was the object of the man. Trent, who should know, thought it a curious thing that a detective should be asked to come to a house party where there were no more than a score of guests.

Mrs. Grant smiled when mademoiselle expressed these ideas.

And It Really Seemed Such a Nice Scandal

A conversation between two women, one of whom was hard of hearing, interested the passengers of a Glenwood avenue car.

"I saw her on a street downtown with a man."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, and it was after ten o'clock, too."

"The very idea."

"I never suspected her of flirting before."

"No, nor me, either."

"But you never can tell."

"Ain't it the truth?"

"It is that."

"Do you know her husband?"

"No, I ain't never seen him close."

"Well, he is a big, fat man."

"Does he wear a brown suit?"

"Yes."

"Glasses?"

"Yes."

Aquarium Cement

Cement for panes in aquariums is produced from litharge and glycerin. The former must be as finely powdered as possible and the glycerin very condensed, of a syrupy consistency and limpid. Mix the two ingredients into a semi-liquid paste, coat the panes, or pour the tough mass into the respective cavity, and press into it the part to be cemented on. The surplus oozing out must be removed at once and the place cleaned, as the putty hardens very rapidly.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

It is Written

Santa Fe New Mexican:

We agree most heartily with those political dopests who foresee for Al Smith of New York, the greatest licking ever administered to a presidential candidate. As one writer points out, that in view of the fate of Cox and Davis, also others, this is a strong statement.

Most significant is the general agreement that the wonderful record of achievement of the great things done by Herbert Hoover—tasks as big as any president must tackle, places Smith under an initial handicap that is tremendous. Be conservative, if you will, and offset the dry Democrats with the wet Republicans and let these votes cancel each other. Again, the wise ones are willing to pair Smith's chances of getting any considerable farm vote, with Hoover's chances of splitting the solid south.

Along comes the vast independent vote cast by those who have come to the conviction through years of accomplishment that Hoover is a door of big things that has become almost proverbial.

Add to this the admitted fact that Hoover will poll the largest woman vote ever cast for a presidential candidate and the inevitability of the outcome becomes apparent.

Do not ignore the alarm-cry of "Tammany" and the capital which Republicans are going to make revelations of enormous corruption in New York city, an issue much fresher than Fall and Daugherty. Note the outburst of Mrs. Clem Shaver, wife of the outgoing Democratic national chairman, which must, in the nature of things, be the expression of thousands of Democratic women. R. P. Shuler, picturesque Los Angeles preacher and life-long Democrat, has come out for Hoover. The call has gone out to 45,000 W. C. T. U. women in New York, to help defeat Smith. Mrs. Katherine Braddock of Stockton, Calif., member of the Democratic central committee is for Hoover.

Illinois Republicans are solidly for the ticket with Lowden leading the van. Representatives of German-American societies have called on Sec. Work and pledged that element's support to Hoover.

"The Tiger is Knocking," is the tocsin sounded by Daniel A. Poling in the Christian Herald, which as foe of John Barleycorn has entered the field for Hoover. The magazine of Wall Street, in a lengthy article, with interviews from Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress, declares that no important economic issue is involved in the forthcoming campaign and for that reason business will be practically undisturbed in this presidential year. It points out that liberalization of tariff ideas on both sides of the fence has greatly reduced the importance of that historic bone of contention.

AN INCOME FROM GROWING FLOWERS

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Although Mrs. S. F. Poole of Winter Haven, Polk county, Fla., considers her rose garden partly as a commercial venture, she gets a great deal of personal enjoyment out of its masses of lovely color and its characteristic fragrance. She planned her garden under the guidance of the county home demonstration agent, and is now able to make a good side income by selling both cut flowers and plants or cuttings.

There is Nothing Lovelier Than a Rose Garden.

The varieties of tea and hybrid roses suitable for planting in such a garden as this depend somewhat on the location and climate. As far north as Iowa varieties that will do well, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, are: for pink blooms, Indiance, Killarney, Mrs. Wakefield, Christie Miller, La Tosca; for white, Kaiserine Augusta Victoria, white Killarney, Cochet; for red, Red Indiance, Gruss an Teplitz; for yellow, Marie Van Houette, and for copper, Mrs. A. H. Waddell. Information on the planting and management of a rose garden may be obtained by writing to the department.

Household Notes

If you are short, avoid large hats. Beat sour milk with a dower egg beater before using it for cooking.

Both alcohol and turpentine may be used to remove paint and varnish stains.

Children's diarrhea for certain foods are often formed through the influence of their elders.

Soft bread crumbs give a better color and thinner crust to croquettes than dried crumbs.

Plan the dessert to fit the meal—a light dessert after a heavy meal and a rich dessert after a light one.

Dirt and perspiration are the chief enemies of silk. They cause the fiber to break down and to wear out.

An excellent way to protect fur against moths during summer is to keep them in a cold storage plant.

Old Belief Shattered

Experiments made at the University of California have proved that a bull's reaction to the color of red is no more than to any other color. In fact, judging by the conduct of the steers tested, it seems doubtful whether they can tell red from green, or white from blue. It is even possible that the animals have no realization of color at all.

Party Frocks That Appeal

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

IN THE right kind of evening clothes every woman is beautiful. Well, every one will agree that there is no doubt as to the party, dance and dinner frocks being outstandingly of the right kind this season. Which means that feminine charm and loveliness is enhancing the summer picture of today as surely as did the courted belles of yesteryear, when flounces and lucres and beguiling graces held sway.

Many of the new evening gowns revive the romance of fashion in that they are given that quaint styling which emphasizes full-skirtedness, bertha effects and such. The bertha in the picture is of lace and because it is so extremely smart this season, its presence establishes the style prestige of this frock. This dainty dress expresses an exquisite color-play in that the chiffon voile of which it is made is in the three tones of rose, the darkest at the hemline diminishing to just a suggestion of pink at the top.

Compared to many of the latest dance and bridesmaids' frocks, this model is but mildly bouffant. It seems, if lengthened and fuller skirts are evidence, that extremely modish gowns are growing—quainter and quainter still. Some of the debutantes and modern belles look as if they had stepped out from the pages of a long ago style book. The fact that organdie and tulle and such diaphanous fabrics are so widely exploited adds to the charming quaintness and picturesqueness of current evening modes. Of course, only the youthful can wear these frocks which accent lengthened skirts and voluminous hemlines. Then, too, it requires a slender figure to be fitted becomingly in the simple halteres—with their normal waistlines which top the bouffant skirt. The new organdies are dreams. Their colorings, well—who can describe them? Then, too, their shoulder capes and berthas of the same material require the ingenue type, if they be displayed to advantage. Well, since every woman is youthful these days, the evening picture was never more alluringly presented than it will be during these summertime months.

HOMEMADE CONFECTIONS

Occasionally it happens that a jelly is too stiff or "tough" for the housekeeper to be proud of, for table use. As a confection, cut up in blocks and dipped in the sweet chocolate that comes for the purpose, the unsatisfactory jelly is more than redeemed, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture. Figs, dates, raisins, nuts and marshmallows can also be dipped in chocolate to make wholesome confections for the children. Sweets of this kind are especially good as surprises in the monotonous school lunch box.

have worked for the fire department. "And my speed has helped the firemen get to the fire. But fires seem as nothing compared to your work of saving many lives yourself."

"Well, said Danny, "I am glad that I have lived such a long life, for I was able to make others live a much longer life than they would have otherwise."

"But now I am just a wee bit glad to have a holiday—the first in twenty-six years."

"So am I," said Mustard, "but we wouldn't have enjoyed this holiday if we hadn't both felt that when we were working we did our work well."

"Now the fine horses aren't needed so much. Automobiles have taken their places."

"But I lived in the days when fire horses were of some account in this old world!"

Tree Planting a Virtue
When a man plants a tree he is displaying confidence in the future that will not fail him; and intelligence, thrift and fairness will bear fruit in the future as certainly and as well as his tree.—R. W. Howe.

Cute in a Baby-Awful at Three and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Planning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

Splendid Results in Good Health Campaign

No diphtheria deaths in 1927 puts Cambridge, Mass., at the head of the list in diphtheria prevention, of all the cities with populations more than 100,000 in the United States. Only once in the last five years, according to the American Medical association, has any city gone a year without a single death from diphtheria. The previous diphtheria record breaker was Duluth, Minn., in 1925. Seven cities with more than 100,000 inhabitants, had no typhoid deaths last year, the medical association's statistics show. New Haven, Conn.; Springfield, Mass.; Yonkers, N. Y.; Paterson, N. J.; Richmond, Va.; Canton, Ohio; Kansas City, Kan., make up the typhoid honor roll, which is the largest known since studies of typhoid death were started in 1913.

Some men never have any respect for gray hairs until they acquire some of their own.

DON'T suffer headaches, or any of those pains that Bayer Aspirin can end in a hurry! Physicians prescribe it, and approve its free use, for it does not affect the heart. Every druggist has it, but don't fail to ask the druggist for Bayer. And don't take any but the box that says Bayer, with the word genuine printed in red!

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing Co. of Monacocastleford at Halleysfield

TO MAKE FLUMMERY

Flummery is an old-fashioned dessert made of fruit juice thickened with cornstarch or farina. It is served cold, with plain or whipped cream, and is delicate and wholesome. Raspberries and blackberries and other fruits with seeds which become prominent when the fruit is cooked may be enjoyed in flummery. "Roto gruzzo" or red grains, is the German name for raspberry flummery. The same general proportions may be used with any berry juice, but the amount of lemon may need to be increased or decreased according to the acidity of the berries.

Raspberry Flummery.

8 cups of raspberry juice from canned or cooked fresh raspberries
8 lbs. farina or 4 lbs. cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar (if sweetened)
1/4 cup salt
1/2 cup lemon juice

Heat the raspberry juice. Mix the sugar and farina or cornstarch and the salt, and add to the raspberry juice. Cook in a double boiler for fifteen or twenty minutes, or until the mixture thickens and the raw, starchy taste disappears.

EFFICIENCY IN HOME ARRANGEMENT

Two-Way or Pass Closet Compactly Arranged With Reference to Dish Washing Closet.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

If you have a two-way dish closet in the connecting wall between the kitchen and dining room, preferably where that partition joins the outside wall of the house, it is possible to place the sink at right angles to this pass closet and continuous with it, along the outer wall, with a window directly above for light and ventilation. This arrangement is especially good when the dining room wall is at the left of the sink, but it can be reversed in homes with the opposite floor plan.

Clean dishes and silver are passed through from the dining room directly to the sink. After they have been washed they are put into the closet at once ready to be taken out on the dining room side. Not an unnecessary step is then taken in carrying or clearing away meals. It is wise to keep within the compact limits of these centers any small tools used at the sink, and also cooking utensils that are filled with water before they are put on the stove or dining table. The double boilers and stew pans, the coffee percolator, tea kettle and water pitcher have places on the shelves at the side of the sink. Spoons, brushes, scissors and cleaning accessories that can be hung up are just below these shelves. The counter space on a level with the drain boards should, however, be kept relatively clear both for passing dishes and foods between the dining room and kitchen and for use in spreading out plates to be filled at serving time. The space under the drain boards is useful for storing cleaning materials or supplies. The drain basket garbage can and kitchen waste basket belong in the clearing

Evening Story for Children

By Mary Graham Bonner

"I am twenty-six years old, and for twenty years I have been working with the police force," said Danny, the horse.

"You have!" exclaimed Mustard. "I have been working for almost that length of time with the fire department."

"We will be great friends." And both horses neighed.

"But tell me some more."

"You will have to tell me all about yourself."

"I will," said Mustard, "just as soon as I have heard all about your history."

"I have been given a holiday. They say I wasn't worth any more, but not because I feel old or ill or feeble."

"Goodness, no! But they say that I've done a good life's work, and I'm grateful to them for feeling that way about it."

"I haven't had a day's holiday in twenty years, not even the Fourth of July, or Christmas!"

"The same with me," agreed Mustard, "though there were some days when I had part-time holidays, and half-holidays, but it all depended on how much work there was to be done."

"If there was a fire on the Fourth of July, as was quite likely, we naturally didn't take a holiday!"

"Naturally not," agreed Danny. "Well, please continue," urged Mustard.

"I am to be looked after on this farm, free of charge, in return for the work I've done."

"It's a fine feeling to think one has worked for something; a very fine feeling."

"Just the way I feel about it," said Mustard.

"I have stopped a great many runaways. Oh, what a time I have had with the runaways."

"Some horses would get frightened and there would be no stopping them—at least it would seem that way."

"I have saved a great many children, and women, too, from being killed."

"I don't want to boast about it, but I am so thankful I have done what I could."

"My master told some one that I had saved nine boys and girls in one day, once. And I am so very, very thankful."

"I think boys and girls are so nice!

"I want to say, them to enjoy such a nice world. And I am so glad I was given a job where I could help that way."

"School children I used to help especially, for, of course, my work was in the big city and the children had to cross the streets."

"My master taught me to drill to

"We Will Be Great Friends."

the sound of the bugle. That is very thrilling work."

"And whenever my master had to speak to anyone I needed, neighed, or if they were very great friends of the master, I gave them a kiss!"

"I have done the same sort of work in a way," said Mustard, "because I

Recipes That Will Be Well Liked

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Whole-Wheat Rolls.—Take one cupful of whole-wheat flour, one cupful of white flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two teaspoonfuls of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter and three-fourths of a cupful of milk. Mix and sift the dry ingredients together; work in the butter, add the milk and when well mixed roll on a floured board and spread with the following mixture: Cream together one tablespoonful of butter and two of brown sugar; then add two tablespoonfuls of shredded raisins, one tablespoonful of broken nuts, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of cinnamon and a few grains of salt. After spreading roll up the sheet, cut into pieces three-fourths of an inch thick, place in a greased pan cut-side up and bake 15 minutes in a quick oven.

Finnan Haddie Fritters.—Select a short thick haddie and soak it in warm water twenty minutes. Put over the heat and bring to a slow boil; remove from the heat and pick the fish from the bones in fillets. Make a fritter batter as follows: Mix and sift one of fish in this batter and fry in deep fat. Drain on paper and serve with tartar sauce.

Victorian Fruit Cup.—Mix one-half cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-eighth of a teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg and one-half cupful of hot water; boil five minutes, then chill. Prepare two cupfuls of sliced orange, one-half cupful of sliced pineapple, one-half cupful of sliced grapefruit. Place the fruit with all the juice in a cold place. When chilled mix with the sirup and serve in glasses. Top each with a cherry.

Orange Nut Puff.—Cream one-third of a cupful of butter, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, then the well-beaten yolks of two eggs and one-fourth cupful of orange juice. Mix one and three-fourths cupfuls of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt; add the dry mixture with one-fourth of a cupful of milk. Add one-fourth cupful of chopped nuts, fold in the egg whites beaten stiff and pour into greased cup cake pans. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Bake 20 minutes. The nuts may be reserved to mix with the sugar and sprinkle the top if desired.

Keewick Pudding.—Bring three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one cupful of water to the boiling point. Beat the yolks of three eggs slightly and add one-fourth cupful of sugar with a pinch of salt. Pour the boiling sirup over this and cook until thick, then add one and one-fourth tablespoonful of gelatin soaked in one-fourth cupful of cold water and one-fourth cupful of lemon juice. Strain until the mixture begins to thicken. Turn into a mold and chill. Garnish with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

Another Hot One.—Chop the meat left from the Sunday roast, add a little green pepper finely chopped or a bit of onion. Heat to the boiling point with gravy in a double boiler and serve, adding a little Worcestershire or catsup on sliced buttered bread; cover with another slice and serve with spicy pickles.

Fried Summer Squash.—Wash and cut squashes into half-inch slices. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip into crumb and egg, then crumb again. Fry until brown and perfectly tender.
