

Girl Scouts Met

The girl scouts met at the McCammon home Wednesday, August 15. The Captain being absent, Miss Mary Elma Ludlow conducted the meeting. There were 15 members present. After the regular meeting and a short program, vocal and instrumental, delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The girl scouts met again Aug. 21, at the Methodist Church. There was a fair attendance and after a short business session the girls adjourned with the exception of those taking part in the play, who remained for practice. The play is a comedy full of fun from beginning to end.

The Live-Wire class had their August party at the church on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served and all had a delightful time.

Died in California

L. A. Whitaker of the Western Motors, Inc., received word the first of the week of the death of his youngest brother, who died at Los Angeles and the remains were shipped to El Paso, where after the funeral ceremonies are held, they will be placed in the Masonic vault to await being sent to the Whitaker family mausoleum in North Carolina in its last resting place. Mr. Whitaker left Tuesday to attend the funeral and returned yesterday.

Death Results From Blow in the Temple

Last Saturday night a dance was held on the East Side at Joe Navarro's Hall, at which Solomon Maes and Juan Silva attended. The dance broke up at the usual hour without the least trouble, but at about 5 o'clock Sunday morning Solomon Maes went to the Henry Silva home and called for Juan, aged 22 and a quarrel followed. The two men then proceeded a short distance from the house, where a fight took place, the participants being finally separated by Louis Garcia, who led Silva to his home and after retiring, died in a short time from the effects of a blow on the left temple with a rock in the hands of Maes, according to Maes' confession to sheriff Kelsey, after being arrested and also according to the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Monday afternoon a preliminary examination was held, conducted by Judge Harvey, at which, Maes entered a plea of not guilty, but bail was denied and he was returned to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury at the October term of court.

The remains of Silva were interred Monday in the family plot at the Silva ranch home in the Tucson mountains.

Home from Camp Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Finley have returned from the Bloys Camp Meeting which is held annually near old Fort Davis, Texas in the Davis mountains. There were over 1000 people present, composed of people of all denominations and the meeting was intensely interesting and profitable. The Finleys will leave today for Clovis to visit Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Pilant and their little grandchildren for a short while.

Mrs. Shaver and Daughters Return from Arkansas Trip

Mrs. P. M. Shaver and daughters Nellie and Thelma returned Monday from a trip to Arkansas, where they spent several weeks visiting relatives. They report a pleasant time.

On the Right Side of the Ledger

Hi-Lights in Hoover Speech

High lights in the acceptance of Herbert Hoover were: Opposition to the repeal of the prohibition amendment, and a pledge for enforcement of the laws enacted under it.

Farm relief through protective tariff, development of inland water service transportation and federal aid for farm stabilization corporations.

An Honest-Campaign with public accounting of all expenditures.

Endorsement of the principal of collective bargaining and freedom in labor negotiations with a pledge to curtail the excessive use of injunctions in labor disputes.

A comprehensive and co-ordinated plan for waterway improvements, flood control, development of hydro-electric power and irrigation.

Further economy in government by reorganization and grouping of governmental agencies dealing with the same general subject.

Co-operation between government and business on a voluntary basis for the benefit alike of producer, distributor and consumer.

A foreign policy dedicated to bringing about world peace, but with retention meantime of a navy adequate for national defense.

Honesty in government with no place for cynicism in the creed of America.

A declaration of religious tolerance.

Direction of economic progress.

A call to the women and the youth of America to contribute their enthusiasm to the success of the American experiment in democracy.

A pledge to adhere to the course of government charted by President Coolidge.

Ben Lujan and Family Here

Juan Martinez, freight clerk at the local railroad station left Tuesday morning for Tularosa to meet Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lujan, daughters, Clara, Stella, Frances and son Marshall, who arrived at that place Monday from Stockton, Calif., where they have resided since leaving here four years ago. Ben is managing a clothing store for a firm in Stockton and is well pleased with his position. The family arrived here Wednesday morning to visit relatives and friends. Mrs. Lujan is a sister to Mr. Martinez.

Will Visit Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Branum are attending the big Rodeo at El Paso this week and will meet Mrs. Branum's mother, Mrs. Geo. Rustin, who is there from her home in Santa Maria, California. After the Rodeo Mrs. Rustin will return with the Branums for a visit of several weeks.

Bill Lumpkins on Field Staff

Bill Lumpkins, Eagle Scout and Scout Leader of the Eastern New Mexico Area Council accepted a position on the Field staff of the El Paso Boy Scout Council. Bill entered scouting in Roswell as a member of troop six. There he rapidly rose to the rank of Eagle, an important position of Sr. Patrol Leader. He held this position until he reached his 18th birthday, then he was made assistant scoutmaster. He later moved to Captain and then here and in both these places he organized a strong troop. For three years he served as a member of the Jr. staff of the summer camp and this summer he was assistant camp director. Bill will report in El Paso Sept. 1. We congratulate him in his advancement and wish him success in his new work.

Here from San Patricio

Leopoldo Gonzales, Chairman of the Republican County Central Committee was a visitor here last week.

Picture and Musicals

Next Saturday night, August 25, the picture, "West Point," starring William Haines, and a musical by Mrs. T. E. Kelley will be given at the Crystal Theatre for the benefit of the Community Hall Fund. Attend. Admission, 25 and 50 cents.

A 75-year-old quilt is also being raffled off for the same benefit. You can buy your chances at 25c each at Rolland's Drug Store or other business places.

The Golf Club Dance

The second dance given by the Carrizozo Golf Club took place last Saturday night at the Community Hall and was well attended.

The Golf Club, having lately purchased the new grounds, the proceeds from the two dances proved to be quite a help financially toward making up the difference between the old grounds in exchange for the new. The popularity of the dances given by the Club have insured good attendances for any ventures of a like nature in the near future.

Attention, Masons!

There will be a Stated Communication of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., Saturday night, Aug. 25. After the business session, the Degree of Fellowcraft will be conferred. All Master Masons are cordially invited.

A. L. Burke, W. M.,
S. F. Miller, Secretary.

Repainting and Repairing

Morgan Lovelace who was ably assisted by Trainman Ernest Dingwall, has painted the Wetmore Building, the trimmings of which are a leaf green that adds greatly to the looks of that building.

Others over the town are renovating and repairing homes and buildings — in fact it seems that the movement is contagious. Let others follow the example.

Clem Hightower Writes

This office is in receipt of word from Clement Hightower who is now in Reserve, N. M. Clem wants to know how the political battle is raging—a little early yet, Clem. He sends his best regards to his old friends in Carrizozo and Lincoln County.

Improving Ranch Home

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Sowder are making extensive improvements on their ranch home, during which time, they have a suite of rooms in the Lutz Building.

arrived home yesterday from Amarillo, where he spent several weeks among friends and relatives. Brewer will attend college this fall and winter at Dallas, so we understand.

"The Gaucho"

Saints and cutthroats, shrines and robbers' lairs are the fiercely contrasting motifs of Douglas Fairbanks as "The Gaucho," the new United Artists production, which will be shown at the Crystal Theatre August 29 and 30.

How Doug came to impersonate another robber chief, this time a super-brigand, is now revealed. The story deals with a beautiful shrine city, whose wealth is coveted both by the bandit chief and a scheming dictator. The shrine idea came to Fairbanks upon the occasion of his visit to Lourdes, France; where many afflicted persons seek a cure at the cathedral altar. There Doug saw apparent miracles of faith healing. The marvelous urge and influence of the place was unforgettable and the actor realized the dramatic possibilities of the theme, especially at a time when religious drama is capturing the imagination of the American public.

Conflict of motives could be most powerfully provided by the element of brigandage, so once again Doug willfully donned the guise of a rover. Conflict reigns throughout Douglas Fairbanks as "The Gaucho" between hundreds of hard-riding plainsmen and soldiers, between the ambitions and hopes of fair heroines and between love and duty. Never before have so many people and animals appeared in a Fairbanks production. The scenes of the Andes and the pampas country are of surpassing loveliness.

Belios Back from California

Mr. and Mrs. Estanislao Belio were in from their ranch yesterday, after a four weeks' visit with Mr. Belio's brother, Roberto at Shafter, Calif. Roberto had been here visiting with the Belios for about two months and it was on his return trip that the folks paid him their visit. Estanislao says he likes California, but likes New Mexico better.

Eat and Save

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor:

These days most everybody are preaching economy in living and etc., but the great majority don't know how to go about it to lay something aside for a rainy day, of which God knows we have had enough of them on Long's Island this spring but anyway, I run across a married couple of man and wife the other day that has got 3 children all under 90 yrs. of age and the man showed me where he had solved the high cost problem and was saving enough weekly so as in a few yrs. he can quit work and not half to worry as they will be enough in the bank to insure he and his family vs. want in their old age.

This man is a plasterer by trade and only making $250. per week, as the Union don't allow him to work Monday, Wednesday, Friday and holidays and only 1/2 day Saturdays. A. M. Well, 1 night this man and the old lady, as he called his wife, set down and had a serious talk and began to figure things out and found they were only laying $100. per week to 1 side and spending all the rest of it. I in a few yrs. at that rate they would be living on the bounty of the country.

So this bird said to his wife, "We have got to economize somewhere or ruin is staring us in the face as all I can skimp up in my profession is $250 per week and we ain't saving only $100. of it, and will we are living in the lapse of luxury why suppose something happens to me so I couldn't plaster no more, where would you and the kiddies be at? So I propose that we start and run the house on the budget system."

So the Mrs. who had never seen the insides of a college asked him what was a budget system.

"Well," he says, "the word budget comes from 2 Lithuanian words, budg and et and it means I will give you $10. per week to buy the food and clothes and pay the rent and washing and services and etc., and I will take the other $240. and stick it in the old savings bank every week and in a few yrs. we can give the world the laugh even if I can't plaster or get plastered no more."

So his Mrs. was tickled to death and said let's try it.

Well, she set down with a paper and pencil and figured. Folling is a typical expense account that she made out for a week:

MONDAY BREAKFAST: Anchovies, ripe olives, celery, clam broth, sword fish, ham and eggs, liver and bacon, lettuce and tomatoes with Coley Island dressing, honey dew a la mode, coffee and cigars, cognac.

MONDAY LUNCHEON: Rum cocktail, terrapin, Rhode Island Reds, port, spinach and onions, toothpaste, coffee and cigars, Russian kummel.

MONDAY DINNER: Cavalier, Martinis, lobster, Guinea hen, O'Brien's potatoes, root, pudding, coffee and cigars, creme de menthe. Total expenses, $1.25.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday they was all too sick to eat anything.

FRIDAY BREAKFAST: Butterfish, weakfish, shrod, halibut, sea bass.

FRIDAY LUNCHEON: Brook trout, perch, white fish, catfish, dogfish, whale, coffee and cigars, sherry.

FRIDAY DINNER: Oysters, clams, crawfish, smelts, redhots, shrimp, blue gills, hook, line and sinkers, coffee and cigars. Total expenses, $1.25.

SATURDAY BREAKFAST: Talcum powder, porterhouse, smothered onions, Long's Island prairie dogs, snipe, squab, quail, pheasant. Water-town geese, bacon and eggs, soup and fish.

SATURDAY LUNCHEON: Robins, thrush, larks, bob-o-link, parrots, canaries, owl eyes, coffee and cigars.

SATURDAY DINNER: Sherry and egg. Total expenses, $1.25.

SUNDAY BREAKFAST: Ice cream, vaseline, cigars and coffee.

SUNDAY DINNER: Crackerjack, peanuts, pop corn, caramels, milk chocolate, chewing gum, candies, coffee and cigars.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER: Belgian police dogs, Pomeranians, Yorkshire terriers, spaniels, mastiffs, Boston baked beans, greyhounds, wolf hounds, Alredales, setters, pointers, water and cigars, cognac. Total expenses, $1.25.

This left Mrs. Plasterer with $500. bucks per week to throw away on her and the kids as the husband could get along O. K. on his plasterers uniform, so she decided for the best way to do would be to let the kids run around bare and that left her with $1.00 per week to buy shoes, or 1 pair a week and still leave her $1.00 to stick in the savings bank.

As for the clothes outside of the shoes and etc., my friend the plasterer's wife saved enough shells from the seafood to keep her children in shell glasses as they was all near-sighted, and she saved enough bones off the fish to keep herself in corns, and she saved enough fur off the dogs to make herself a coat and enough fur off the birds to keep her in hats and enough leaves off the lettuce and anchovies to make her dresses, and all in all it will take a whole lot of tough luck for his family to find themselves in the realms of poverty, and I give the details to your readers in the hopes that they profit by it, as all a person needs to beat the cost of living is a budget system and a thrifty wife.

Home Always Most Potent Force in the Formation of Character

By DR. THOMAS ARKLE CLARK, University of Illinois.

YOUNG people of today are better trained, more independent and more self-reliant than those of forty years ago. They are so radically different because in the home they have been given more privileges. They have more freedom, more luxuries. They work best and spend more.

They are, therefore, more selfish, more independent, less respectful and less polite. Too, they are more frank: They pull down the shades on nothing.

I do not overlook the effects of environment, but an experience of many years with tens of thousands of young men and women has brought me to the conclusion that young people are tremendously like their parents. Whatever traits we find in young people, if we look closely enough, we shall find them in their immediate ancestors.

If the young people are so different it is because of the economic and scientific changes in the home. Nobody is at home any more. Father and mother are riding, at the movies or their clubs. The children likewise.

Companions, the church, the schools and the home influence our characters. But the most potent of all these is the home. Courtesy, ideals, truth, honesty—all these have their foundation in the home. We learn by precept and example.

Every parent should remember this, because a child's character is pretty completely determined by the age of fifteen.

In Increasing Numbers, Young People Today Are Turning to Religion

By REV. WILLIAM T. MANNING, New York Episcopal Bishop.

The world is coming back to truer standards. After all, these standards are not mere matters of convention—the Ten Commandments are the divine laws of life upon which the happiness, the progress and the welfare of our race depend.

People are turning to religion again. Churches are crowded, particularly with young people. They are seeing the absurdity of a conflict between religion and science. Life has no meaning without religion.

As a concrete fact, I may say that since our diocesan convention in May, in a period of only five weeks, 16 young men, most of them from New York and almost all of them of a high qualification and promise, have come to me to offer themselves for the work of the ministry.

Then, too, great churches are being built. We are building the greatest cathedral in the whole of the English-speaking world. It is a striking thing that the city of New York sometimes mistakenly regarded as caring only for material things, is erecting one of the greatest buildings in the world to serve no utilitarian purpose, but to stand solely for things of the spirit.

Toilers of Today Co-Workers With Employers in Industrial Production

By BENITO MUSSOLINI, Premier of Italy.

Under the Fascist system employers are co-workers with the producers, whose scale of living should be raised materially and morally, according to favorable moments and possibilities.

In time of a crisis the workmen must accept a wage reduction, but once the crisis is overcome it is to the interest of the employer to augment wages, restoring balance in the situation.

Henry Ford's policy of high salaries is impossible in Italy, for many obvious reasons, and a policy of low salaries is just as inadvisable—the latter by reducing the buying power of vast masses ends by damaging in dusty itself.

It is to be forecast that peace will not be disturbed by the great Western nations, which are those giving directives to world civilization. After political peace will come social peace.

We are witnessing the eclipse of class struggles. After the last strike of the British miners Europe's laboring classes entered into periods of stasis.

Young Americans Making Mistake in Deserting the Farm for the City

By JAMES J. DAVIS, Secretary of Labor.

The day is passing when the American farmer is being referred to in the slighting manner of yesterday—an attitude on the part of the public, which has been responsible mainly for hundreds of thousands of young Americans—deserting the farms of their fathers, because they could not bear to be called "hayseeds."

Science has come to the aid of the farmer as it has come to the aid of every class in our community and science is transforming the farmer as it is now transforming the members of every other occupation.

If my advice were sought, I should advise every boy and girl born on a well-developed farm to remain thereon, unless he or she felt to a marked degree that their vocation lay distinctly elsewhere. There can be as much happiness on a farm in these Twentieth century years as exists within our cities. Even our city dwellers are beginning to cast a longing glance at the great open spaces, and they are manifesting a desire to get beyond the mist and heat of our urban streets.

Modern Girl Leading the Women of the World Into Emancipation

By MRS. NATHAN WOOD, Boston Baptist Church Worker.

God has given us this modern girl whom you sometimes look askance at and yet to whom you must look for the salvation of the world. I believe she has come into the kingdom for such a day of need as this. She is fully developed intellectually and what would we do in the church without her? These modern girls are trained to think for themselves. Sometimes we say they think too much for themselves, but they are the only girls we send to the Orient today, for they are thinking for themselves in the Orient also.

You say the modern girl is unconventional. Yes, just a bit. Perhaps there are among the modern girls some who wear their skirts just a bit too short, but it is these girls who are going out into the Orient to lead the Turkish woman out of her harem and the Mohammedan woman out of her filth and unhappy married conditions. It is these modern girls who are leading the women of the world into emancipation.

American Demand for Reindeer Meat Grows

Sale of Alaskan reindeer meat to American meat-eaters in increasing quantities is reported by the Interior department. Several thousand carcasses are brought into the country every year, and the meat may be bought almost anywhere in the Northwest, and occasionally is found on eastern bills of fare. One Nome (Alaska) company, recently reorganized with a $3,000,000 capital, owns 50,000 head, and devotes all its attention to exporting meat. There are about 500,000 reindeer in Alaska, of which the Eskimos own about two-thirds. The reindeer industry is one of Alaska's greatest.

Signs in the Sky

A glorified "magic lantern" said to be capable of projecting photographs and signs on to the clouds, is the latest contribution to the science of advertising.

The device, still in its laboratory form, consists of a powerful searchlight mounted behind a series of lenses and a slide holder. The whole apparatus resembles a cannon and is able to project images for a distance of five miles on a cloud bank.

The image is visible for miles around, while a revolving screen in front of the muzzle of the projector can be used to produce color-changing effects.

Inks in Bookkeeping

The use of red ink by many banks, particularly savings banks, to note interest is simply a matter of convenience, the interest being more easily distinguished from the principal sums by being written in colored ink. Any other color preferred may be used or it is not necessary to use a different color.

Here's Speedy Relief for Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

Moone's Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction Or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture, you'd give anything to get relief.

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Callouses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with powders, foot baths or other applications, if you have not tried Moone's Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing various or swollen veins.

Every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

The Dry Issue

State Record:

The Ohio primaries were held this week. Returns show a decided trend to the dries. Candidates for governor on both tickets who had the support of the anti-saloon league were successful. The Republican state ticket is composed of candidates who are pronounced dries. Wets were more successful in the democratic primary, the gubernatorial nomination being the only important one they lost. The wet and dry issue entered into the primaries to the exclusion of party issues.

Following the dry victory in the Missouri primaries, and taken into consideration of the announced stand of the leading democratic politicians and newspapers of Oklahoma that the presidential battle in that state is to be fought out on the issue of prohibition, the democratic candidate has a serious situation to face.

Straws Show Way Wind Blows

The straw vote on national candidates conducted by the Roswell Record indicates that Hoover will be a strong favorite in Chavez county in November. The vote was conducted over a period of ten days, a total of 894 votes being cast.

Of the total votes cast Hoover received 810, and Smith 84. Given an opportunity on the ballots to indicate their party affiliation, 640 announced they were democrats, 196 republican and 58 independents.

The straw vote showed that 686 democrats had voted for Hoover and that 52 democrats cast their ballots for Smith, and that 189 republicans voted for Hoover, while 24 republicans voted for Smith, with 50 independents voting for Hoover and 2 for Smith.

A considerable number of votes were received signed with various announcements on the back of the ballot, such as, "I have been a democrat for 30 years, but will vote this year for Hoover." Another voter said, "My entire family of 8 will vote for Hoover this year, even though we are from Texas and have been democrats all our lives."

Notice of Bids

Shining Example of Art "Made to Order"

A painter in Raphael's or Rubens' time, must have been a singularly unartistic person, judged by modern standards. He generally began his career as an apprentice, grinding colors and stretching canvases or preparing panels for some eminent employer. Later, he was allowed to work on the less important portions of his master's works, and still later, he opened a studio of his own. But he didn't call it a studio. If was a shop, equipped to turn out art by the piece or on time. Its proprietor was ready and willing to furnish whatever was wanted, from a sign for another shop to the ceiling of a chapel. His main concern was to please his customers, make as much money as possible, and turn out a good job. And because self-expression, in its only true sense, is almost as involuntary a process as the growth of a man's hair or the coloring of his eyes, he managed, in the course of a busy life, to stamp his work with an individuality before which we still stand in admiration. His ground out over a hundred symphonies because his chief job, under Prince Esterházy, was to furnish symphonies; Bach wrote his church cantatas because he would have lost his job if he hadn't. Mozart wrote his Requiem mass because a customer came along who wanted one. Shakespeare wrote his plays because the stock company he was working for needed things to act.—Vanity Fair Magazine.

Embroidery Art Goes Far Back in History

The making of embroidery was an established industry in China centuries before the visit of Marco Polo. The earliest extant specimen is assigned to the Eighth century, but it is certain that this art was followed at a very much earlier date. The impermanence of the materials used is alone responsible for the non-existence of very ancient Chinese embroidery.

Embroidery made in China for the western market on European patterns is a recent development, having been first introduced and fostered by the missionaries about thirty years ago. Certain kinds of embroidery the Chinese have not as yet duplicated, such as those of Madeira and Cyprus, although reports from Madeira indicate that several houses there have turned their attention to China as a field for future production.—New York Times.

Checks for Small Amounts

There is a federal law stating that "no person shall make, issue, circulate, or pay out any note, check, memorandum, token, or other obligation for a less sum than $1, intended to circulate as money or to be received or used in lieu of lawful money of the United States and every person so offending shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the court." Many individuals, and even the government, make checks for an amount less than $1, but they are not intended to circulate, but are only intended to pay the amount of the check to the person the check is made payable to. A check is not lawful money and consequently cannot be passed as lawful money. A check is a personal credit instrument used in place of money.

Won and Lost

Three young men were dining. After the meal one of them wagered another that the latter could not balance a glass of water on each hand. The challenge was accepted. Placing his hand palm down, flat on the table top the challenged one let his companions place a glass of water on each of his outstretched hands. "Easy," said he, "You win," replied the other two and they placed the meal checks in his coat pocket and departed. Amid the laughter of other diners, the heaved youth had to invoke the aid of a waitress before he could be relieved of his embarrassing burden.—Boston Globe.

In Mexico

Husbands in Mexico do not carry watch keys. When they have been out late to the lodge they ring an electric bell or pound on a heavy wooden gate. This wakes up the wife or servants and all the neighbors, but no one kicks very hard, for it is an ancient custom. Mexican wives do not wait up for their husbands to come home, armed with rolling pins. The husband can't sneak upstairs with his shoes in his hand. He makes enough noise when he arrives to wake up people for many blocks and then his wife gets up and attends to his case.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Electricity in Coat

Bobby, age five, had been left in the care of his aunt while his mother was doing some shopping. "Why," said Bobby, "does mother want a coat with electricity in it?" "A coat with electricity in it," said the aunt, "surely you must be mistaken." "No, I am not," said Bobby. "She said that she was going to buy a coat and have it charged."

Hardly Worth While

Fault finding is an easy habit to acquire. No talent, no brains, no character, no education is needed to establish yourself as a grumbler, and the rewards are usually commensurate with the investment.—Gitt.

Famous Mining Strikes

Early Copper Mining in Michigan

THE first account of copper's existence in upper Michigan was published in Paris in 1636 in a story from one of the early French traders. It described the copper country as 80 or 100 leagues from the land of the Hurons. Father Alouez, a missionary priest, also told of the copper deposits, and a famous mine has been named for him. An Englishman, Alexander Henry, formed a company in 1771 and started mining operations, afterwards abandoned. In 1837, 200 years after the existence of copper in Michigan was known, that state objected to being given the upper peninsula, for its people wanted instead to have included in their state a part of the present state of Ohio, including the site of Toledo.

Dr. Douglas Houghton, whose name is borne by a city on Lake Superior and by the Michigan State School of Mines, began systematic explorations of the copper country in 1834 and published his first report in 1841. He predicted that the mineral deposits would eventually yield tremendous wealth, but that many adventurers would suffer heavy losses before that time arrived. Less than 50 years later, in 1863, a report showed that there were 35,000 people in the district; that 112 copper companies, with invested capital of more than $10,000,000 had paid dividends of over $5,000,000, and that the Michigan iron mines, opened but 12 years before, were producing one-fifth of all the iron smelted in the United States.

The first mine of great value to be discovered was named Minnesota (note one n) which established an immediate reputation because near its surface was found the biggest block of solid native copper in the history of mining. Samuel O. Knapp, who discovered and explored this deposit, was prospecting in the snow when he found it.

The astounding thing about the block was that it proved to have been cut off from a vein of copper also five feet thick, that descended straight into the mine. It was like a tiny chunk sliced from a huge rope of taffy. When this mass of native copper, the largest ever found, was finally isolated it was found to be 46 feet long at its greatest length, 18 1/2 feet broad at its greatest breadth and to have a maximum thickness of 8 1/2 feet. It weighed over 600 tons. At 15 cents a pound, which copper often commands today, it was worth $150,000. Twenty men worked 23 months extracting and cutting up this single "lump" of copper. No smelting or refining was necessary. It was all "revel" over and above the costs of labor and transportation.

This strike was followed by a new rush of manpower and capital into the now-famous copper district of northern Michigan.

PICTORIAL LIFE OF HERBERT HOOVER

No. 1 By Satterfield

1. Herbert Hoover's ancestors, of Quaker faith, came to America from France and Holland.

2. They became settlers first on farms in Maryland, thence moving to North Carolina and Ohio.

3. In 1833 the Hoovers migrated to Iowa, where they and their neighbors founded the town of West Branch.

4. Before clearing the land for their farms, these Quaker pioneers built a Meeting House.

Improved SAMSON Windmills With SELF-OILING Boxes

The good qualities of this new device can be readily seen when compared with the old style, noisy, lumbering windmill, which had to be oiled every day in order to run. Now, your oiling troubles are at an end. The self-oiling feature of the new SAMSON wherein all bearings run constantly in a flood of oil, causes the windmill to run easily, make less noise and with less expense than any windmill on the market. As proof of the pudding, is in the eating of it, so is the lasting virtues of the Samson windmill, made possible by a trial test. For full information SEE—

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Smith, Resenting Preacher's Attack, Challenges Him to Public Meeting.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
GOV. AL SMITH, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, does not propose to be hit in public without defending himself, and his capacity for self-defense is considerable. Gov. John Rosch Straton, militant and fundamentalist pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of New York city, saw fit to declare from his pulpit that Governor Smith was "the deadliest foe in America of the forces of moral progress and true wisdom." The governor promptly challenged the preacher to repeat the statement in his presence in the church during the week of September 2 and give such proof as he might be able to advance, and permit Smith to reply in full. He suggested that the meeting might be conducted by question and answer if the pastor wished. In his letter to Doctor Straton the governor said:

"I do not know why you should make a statement of that kind, but I do know that I will never permit it to go unchallenged. I have spent 23 years in the service of the state in elective office, and the record of that service is open to the public. I do not feel that I should charge you with making this statement for any political purpose, as it was made in a church devoted to the teachings of Christ, one of which was 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.'"

Doctor Straton said he would give Governor Smith the satisfaction he sought, and suggested the meeting be held in some auditorium larger than that of his church. He also proposed that he and Smith should tour the South in a series of debates. After reviewing two New York National Guard regiments in camp at Peekskill, Governor Smith devoted most of the week to his executive duties. Among other things he ordered the officials of Saratoga county to clamp the lid tight on gambling and other forms of vice prevalent at Saratoga Springs. Then he journeyed to Chicago for the Brennan funeral.

IN THE death of George E. Brennan of Chicago the Democratic party, both of the nation and of the state of Illinois, suffered a great loss. Mr. Brennan was national committeeman and, since the death of Roger Sullivan, had been the undisputed leader of the Democracy of Illinois; and for years he was high in the councils of the party. Always frankly a "wet," he was one of Al Smith's strongest friends and most valued advisers. He worked for the nomination of Smith in 1924 and largely brought about the selection of Davis when it was seen that Smith could not win. This year he was among the most determined advocates of the nomination of the New York governor. Mr. Brennan was an example of the best type of practical politician, the kind that makes innumerable friends within and without his party and that plays the game hard but cleanly, keeping his own reputation for honesty unimpaired. He sought office but once. In 1926 he ran for the United States senate and came not very far from defeating Frank L. Smith, Republican, whom the senate refused to seat.

SATURDAY was the big day for Herbert Hoover and the Republicans. The candidate received the formal notification of his nomination in the great stadium of Stanford university at Palo Alto, Calif., and delivered his eagerly awaited speech of acceptance. The ceremony was preceded by a concert and stunts by the students. Mr. Hoover's speech was heard by many thousands who were present, and by yet more millions all over the country who were served by the hookup of 100 radio stations. Party leaders from practically every state went to Palo Alto and for several days before and after the notification the candidate was busy discussing with them details of campaign work. Friday was the fifty-fourth anniversary of his birth and he was the guest of newspaper correspondents who accompanied him across the continent at a birthday dinner at a Palo Alto hotel.

REPRESENTATIVES of 31 dry organizations who attended the Kansas City and Houston conventions as observers made public a report in which they denounce Governor Smith for his attitude on the liquor question and call on prohibitionists to disregard their political or religious affiliations and join in defeating Smith by supporting Hoover.

Dry's gained a victory in Missouri in both the Republican and the Democratic primaries. The Republicans nominated Roscoe C. Patterson of Springfield for United States senator and Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis for governor. The Democrats put up Charles M. Hay of St. Louis for the senate and Francis M. Wilson of Platte City for the governorship. Hay's opponent, James A. Collet, is a wet and a protégé of Senator Reed.

In the Kansas Republican primaries the farmers scored by nominating Clyde M. Reed for governor over five other aspirants. The Democrats nominated Chauncey D. Little, former congressman.

ONE more attempt to fly the Atlantic ocean from Europe to America failed when Majors Idzikowski and Kubala, Polish airmen, were forced to come down in the water because of a faulty gas feed pipe. Fortunately the German steamer Samos was near by and picked them up. The aviators had started from Paris for New York and reached the vicinity of the Azores before they were compelled to turn back. Their plane was wrecked when it struck the surface of the ocean 60 miles off Cape Finisterre.

POOR Florida was struck by another fierce tropic storm during the week. The central east coast towns received the first blows, and then the storm swept across the state to the gulf, doing vast damage in the south central portion. Houses were unroofed, orchards ravaged and roads made impassable, but strangely there was no loss of life.

Belated reports from Java tell of the destruction of the island of Paloo-wen, Dutch East Indies, by the eruption of the Krakatau volcano and resulting earthquake and tidal wave. Six villages were wiped out and the death toll was believed to be about one thousand.

SUBMARINE FI-4 of the Italian navy was sunk by collision with another vessel during maneuvers in the Adriatic and for 34 hours rescue crews labored heroically to raise the craft and save the crew of two officers and twenty-five men. Most of this time the imprisoned men were in communication with the salvagers by telephone, but their messages ceased suddenly and when the submarine was finally hoisted to the surface it was found the entire crew had been killed by chlorine gas liberated when salt water flooded the storage batteries.

IN ONE respect the future of Gene Tunney is now settled. The following announcement was given to the press last week:

"Mrs. George Lauder, Jr., of Greenwich and New York wishes to announce the engagement of her daughter, Mary Josephine Lauder, to Mr. Gene Tunney of New York. No date has been set for the wedding, which will likely take place in New York in the late autumn or winter."

Miss Lauder is listed in the social register and is heiress to a large fortune. She is twenty-one years old and was educated in fashionable schools in this country and France. She is an Episcopalian; while Tunney is a Catholic. The retired champion already has purchased a residence in Greenwich, Conn. His departure for Europe for a walking tour with Thornton Wilder was set for August 14.

CHINESE Nationalists were called to time sharply in a note from American Minister John Van A. Murray concerning the continued occupation of American mission property by Nationalist troops. The note said that China has not heeded repeated past protests and declared that "the American mission property in China is treated as though it belonged to an enemy warring with China rather than as the private property of a friendly nation." Mr. MacMurray cited specific instances and declared that this action by the Nationalists had caused an unfavorable impression throughout the world and was painfully disappointing to the American government.

STEFAN RADITCH, leader of the Croatian peasants, who was shot in the Belgrade chamber of deputies some time ago, is dead of his wounds, and observers in central Europe believe there is a chance of civil war in Yugo-Slavia unless outside influences are exerted strongly. The Croats bitterly resent the Serbian domination over the government of the kingdom and recently set up a separate parliament in Zagreb, their own capital.

THOUSANDS of British men and women made a peace pilgrimage to the battlefields of France and Belgium to mark the fourteenth anniversary of the beginning of the World war. They were led by the prince of Wales, Lord Jellicoe, Lady Haig, widow of the British commander, and other notables.

SIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN, British foreign secretary, who has been ill for some time, will not be able to go to Paris for the signing on August 27 of the Kellogg anti-war treaty. His place will be taken by Lord Cushendun, appointed acting secretary by the king. Germany is perturbed by Chamberlain's prolonged illness for it had been hoped the question of the early evacuation of the Rhineland could be brought up by Foreign Minister Stresemann at the Paris meeting and settled at Geneva in September. The German press does not like the appointment of Cushendun.

THE Obregon party of Mexico, finding no capable leader in its ranks, has practically disbanded, and its general secretary has announced that he is squarely behind President Calles. This gives Calles a free hand in carrying out his reconstruction program, which includes agrarian laws, rehabilitation of haciendas, re-creation of agrarian credit and agrarian banks and the encouragement of foreign capital and immigration. Congress, which is 85 per cent Obregonist, is supporting Calles. It is still considered likely that Aaron Saenz, governor of Nueva Leon, will seek the Presidency in succession to Calles.

Bishop Miguel de la Mora of Mexico City issued a signed statement repudiating the charge that the clergy was responsible for the murder of General Obregon. He said the fact that one Catholic priest and one nun were involved in the crime did not mean that the clergy as a body was responsible. The statement asserted that it was publicly known that the Mother Superior Concepcion Acebedo de la Liza was mentally deranged and that several cases of insanity have been reported in her family.

ONE of President Coolidge's callers at Cedar Lodge on the Brule was Gen. Herbert Lord, director of the budget, who conferred with the Chief Executive on government department estimates. They discussed especially the anticipated Post Office department deficit, which was predicted by Postmaster General New when the interstate commerce commission ordered increased payments to railroads carrying department mail. In the President's opinion this deficit comes because of postal laws enacted by the last congress over his vetoes.

IN THE Olympic track and field games at Amsterdam the United States won first place with a total of 178 points. Finland was second with 108 points, and Great Britain third with 48. In women's competitions Canada stood first with 34 points and the United States second with 28. The Marathon race of 26 miles was won by M. Oussif, a young Algerian metal worker from Paris. Manuel Plaza, a newsboy from Santiago, Chile, finished second. Jole Ray, the veteran American runner, could do no better than fifth.

The number of hogs in the United States decreased seven per cent in the year ending with June, while the decrease in New Mexico was 2.8 per cent, a report just issued by R. F. Hare, federal agricultural statistician at Las Cruces, shows.

Contract for the construction of five and one-half miles of highway on the Globe-Safford road has been awarded by the Arizona State Highway Commission to the Leo Moor Construction Company of El Paso. It was announced by M. C. Hankins, secretary to the commission. The bid was $49,945.22.

The following delegates represented New Mexico at the western states tax conference held at Boise, Idaho, Aug. 16-17: Nathan Jaffa, chairman of the State Tax Commission, Herbert J. Hagerman, R. F. Asplund and J. E. Owen, Santa Fe; Hugo Seaberg, Raton; J. F. Zimmerman, Albuquerque, and J. A. McNabb, Jr., Las Cruces.

The Gila county grand jury, which was in session in Globe, Arizona for several weeks, recessed until September 24, after having filed accusations of wilful and corrupt misconduct of public office and misappropriation of public funds against Mrs. Lucy Nash Bachman, county superintendent of schools, and her deputy, Karl B. McMillen.

Employment of Dr. John W. Diefendorf as high school visitor has placed the State University in closer contact with New Mexico's secondary schools than ever before. Dr. B. P. Nannings, dean of the college of education, stated recently. The position is a new one, coming as a direct result of the policy of the recently established college of education to co-operate with the public schools of the state.

Earl Nelson, bank bandit captured while attempting to escape with approximately $50,000 stolen from the Clarkdale branch of the Bank of Arizona, June 21, was bound over to the superior court in Prescott, under $25,000 bonds on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Nelson, who was captured after Deputy Sheriff Jim Roberts of Clarkdale had shot and killed his companion, Willard Forrester, already is held under $100,000 bond on a bank robbery charge.

Tests made in the state highway laboratory at Santa Fe by Materials Engineer L. C. Campbell indicate that caliche is not suitable for use in alled roads. "The siliceous sands found abundantly all over the state, however, seem to be quite what we want," Campbell said.

Fees from all sources collected by the motor vehicle division of the Arizona state highway department during July totaled $123,117.35, according to a report issued in Phoenix by E. M. Whitworth, superintendent of the division.

Lesson for August 26 PAUL IN A ROMAN PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:18-40.
GOLDEN TEXT—Rejoice in the Lord always; and again I say, Rejoice.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in Jail.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in Prison.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Source of Paul's Joy.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul As an Evangelist.

1. Paul and Silas in Jail (vv. 10-24).
1. The occasion (vv. 10-24).

As the missionaries went out from day to day to the place of prayer they were accosted by a young woman, possessed by a spirit of divination. She was owned by a syndicate of men who derived large gains from her soothsaying. Her utterances as she followed the missionaries became a great annoyance to Paul, who in the name of Jesus Christ commended the evil spirit to come out of her. The spirit in this maid testified that these were servants of the Most High God and that they proclaimed the way of salvation. But Paul, like Jesus (Mark 5:7), would not have Satan's testimony. The evil spirit immediately obeyed Paul's command. When the demon was cast out, the supernatural power of the maid was gone, therefore the source of revenue was dried up. This so exasperated her owners that they brought Paul and Silas before the magistrates on the false charge of the changing of customs. It was not custom but their unlawful gain which was interfered with. There is always trouble when the unlawful business in which men are engaged is threatened.

2. Their behavior in jail (v. 25).
Paul and Silas prayed and sang hymns to God. It seems quite natural that they should pray under such circumstances, but to sing hymns is astonishing to all who have not come into possession of the peace of God through Christ. Even with backs lacerated and feet fast in the stocks compelling the most painful attitude, in the dungeon darkness of the inner prison with extreme uncertainty before them, their hearts went up to God in gratitude.

3. Their deliverance (v. 26).
The Lord wrought deliverance by sending a great earthquake which opened the prison doors and loosed their bands.

4. The Conversion of the Jailer (vv. 27-34).
The jailer had small sympathy for the prisoners, for as soon as they were made secure, he went to sleep. Being suddenly aroused from slumber by the earthquake he was about to kill himself, whereupon Paul assured him that the prisoners were all safe. What he had heard of their preaching and what now he experienced caused him to come as a humble inquirer after salvation. He was convicted of sin and felt the need of the Saviour. Paul clearly pointed the way to be saved, saying, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ." The word "believe" means to trust and fully obey. The proof that the jailer was saved is threefold:

1. Transformation from brutality to tenderness (v. 33).
He who a little while ago could with impunity lay on the cruel lashes is now disposed to wash their wounds.

2. Confession of Christ in baptism (v. 33).
Those who have really been convicted of sin and have experienced the saving grace of God delight to confess their faith in Him under all circumstances.

3. He set meat before them (v. 34).
4. His whole household baptized (v. 33).
When a man's family is willing to follow him, you may be sure that his conversion is genuine.

5. The Magistrates Humbled (vv. 35-40).
1. Orders to release the prisoners (vv. 35, 36).
The earthquake brought fear upon the magistrates and thus moved them to give leave for the prisoners to go.

2. Paul's refusal to go (v. 37).
The ground of his refusal was that their rights as Roman citizens had been violated. They demanded public vindication.

3. Brought out of prison by the officers (vv. 38, 39).
Because they were Roman citizens they were released, the magistrates fearing what they had done.

4. Returned to the house of Lydia (v. 40).
Upon their public vindication they left the prison and entered the house of Lydia, and after ministering comfort to the brethren, they departed.

God Will Aid

It is my habitual practice about little things to bring them before God. I never attempt to carry any burdens myself. I roll them on God, and speak to God about them.—George Muller.

Safety

Be thou like the bird perched upon some frail thing, although he feels the branch bending beneath him, yet loudly sings, knowing full well that he has wings.—Gasparin.

ABBREVIATED

"Aunt Dinah, what are the names of your twin children?" asked a caller. Aunt Dinah swelled with pride. "De boys' name an Alphabet, an' de girl's name an Alphabet," she said. "Could I see them?" "Yas'm, I'll call um," said Dinah. And shuffling to the door she cupped her hands and called, "Alfalfa Alfalfa!"

WOULD REGRET IT

"If a man steals, he'll live to regret it."
"Jack stole a kiss from me last night."
"Well, what I said, goes."

Muzzle Her

A dame we would like
To put out of biz,
Is the one who phones:
"Guess who this is!"

Brothers

David Garrick, the actor, was once stopped in a London street by a man in very ragged clothes. "Hallo, Garrick, don't you know me?" said the man. "I am afraid I do not," replied Garrick. "But we used to act together at Drury Lane," replied the tattered one. "Is that so?" exclaimed Garrick. "In what play?" "In 'Hamlet,' I took the part of the cock and crowed behind the curtain."

Trying to Please Him

"Ah, monsieur! I call to see Mr. Smith," said the foreign visitor. "You can't, he's not down," replied the valet. "Vat you tell?" said the visitor. "I come yesterday and you say I cannot see heem because he is not up. Now you say I cannot see heem because he is not down. Vat you mean? Ven will he be in ze middle?"

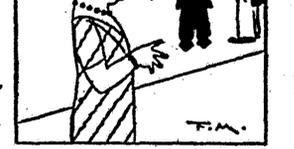

Ignorance

The Master—What is Ignorance?
His Pupil—Ignorance is when you don't know something and somebody finds it out.

Willing Worker

"My appeal is to the plain people."
"Go easy there. Don't you want us to get out the good-looking voter?"

DRESSES SWELL

"Did you say she dresses well?"
"No, dresses swell—she's fat."

Humble Pyrotechnics

The firey brings a gentle glow.
He makes no glorious din,
He sees his duty here below,
And does the best he kin.

Exigencies of Art

"It seems to me," said the man who had returned after a long absence, "that Critson Gulch is clinging to the old lawless traditions to a remarkable extent."
"Yes," answered Cactus Joe, "and it's gettin' terrible t'resome. But we've got our business interests to protect. When we ought to be livin' luxurious we have to keep up appearances necessary to prestige as location for picture dramas of the untrammeled West."—Washington Star.

Intermediote

Farmer (to friend)—I hear, Bert, that while ye were in the city ye took up this here golf. How'd ya like it?
Bert—Well, it ain't bad. It's a bit harder than hoein' turnips an' a bit easier than diggin' potatoes.

That's the One

Jackson—I hear Smith is looking for a cashier. Is it true? He engaged a new one only a month ago.

THE RETURN OF ANTHONY TRENT

CHAPTER VIII

By WYNDHAM MARTYN

Pierre Redlich Meets a Master

Mr. Yeatman was consulting the barometer as Trent passed him in the outer hall. The glass was falling.

"Blowing up for a storm," said Trent, reading the instrument.

"I much fear it," returned the other. "Why should a storm bother you?" Trent demanded.

"I get a headache when thunder comes."

Pierre Redlich was not in a mood to talk. His head already ached from his experiences of last night. The barometer reading was most unsatisfactory. If a storm sprang up his steamer dare not lie in close to the shore; also he would not be able to get to her with his little launch.

He did not like to think about last night. Redlich was convinced that it was some member of the gang controlled by the "Countess" who had rescued her. It was disturbing to know that men as brave and determined as he were also after the Strauss diamonds and the Fisher pearls, and already suspected him of a similar errand. How would they set about the task?

He had a list of the invited guests for tonight's dance. It was not a complete one. Some of the more important visitors had permission to bring with them certain of their own house guests. Of these added names he nor his employers had any knowledge. Such blanket invitations could be turned to dangerous uses.

Mademoiselle Dupin's former associates had been of the kind who could pass in any society. It was such a gang on the Riviera he remembered. They had not been crooks who masqueraded as men and women of position; they had been men and women of birth and breeding who had elected to follow criminal paths. A dangerous set, and difficult to unmask.

He did not think anyone else would choose the marine path to safety. They would work, he supposed, with high-powered automobiles. They would be many, and he but one. Yet he had the tremendous advantage of being unsuspected and free of the house. His actual zone of danger was that which lay between the mansion and the edge of the sea. It was exactly a quarter of a mile. He would need to take five hundred paces in the dark with his precious loot.

There was a man who watched for his signals on the steamer who could be useful in an emergency. He was a sailor and as strong and active as a gorilla. But Pierre had found that participation in a crime of this sort invariably led to a demand for too large a division of the spoils.

All the help that Redlich needed was an armed escort from the house to the boat. The steamer was undermanned. The fewer the crew the less danger. Once at sea Redlich would take his spell with the rest.

So far only Gilbert had seen his launch; and he had explained it satisfactorily. It was a nine-foot boat fitted with one of the removable engines which may be affixed to any small boat. In the surf it would have little chance, but the big sailor would be waiting just outside the surf line to pick him up.

When he saw Anthony Trent coming toward him he assumed his squarest and most polite-like pose.

"The glass is going up," said Trent. "I don't think we shall have a storm tonight. I'm mighty glad of it. I'm afraid of lightning. I don't suppose a bold accountant like you is afraid of anything, eh?"

"I fear only dyspepsia," Redlich said. He turned away to greet Mr. Gilbert.

"Better tuck all your valuables away carefully," said the indiscreet old man. "We may have a visitation tonight."

Trent noticed that Redlich found it difficult to answer.

"I do not understand," he said at last.

"We think," Gilbert said, "that tonight's the night. I'm laying for 'em. Grant wanted me to sleep all the afternoon so as to be ready to keep watch when the ladies have gone to bed and the burglars get busy. I don't have to have more than four hours' sleep any night."

"This may be very serious," Mr. Yeatman remarked.

"Nothing to it," Trent declared. "I'm going to have a swim while the tide's right."

He strolled away with elaborate unconcern.

"He don't know that I know you're a detective," Gilbert remarked. "What I want to do is to help you any way I can. Do these fellows hunt in couples?"

"They have various methods. Always they employ a man outside who watches. Sometimes two men to guard their getaway."

"That's Trent's job to look after them. Grant bluffed him into it."

"Explain, if you please," Mr. Yeatman spoke very deliberately.

Gilbert told him of the talk at luncheon.

It was all vastly disturbing to Pierre Redlich. He could send this old man on a wild goose chase as he had, last night, sent the butler. But to have this active younger man prowling around the premises promised him a great deal of trouble. He cursed Mademoiselle Dupin under his breath. If he had foregone his boasting and put all thought of her aside he might by now be steaming south to safety.

He was walking slowly past the garage when Trent's big car backed out.

"Do you not swim here?" Redlich asked.

"Sure," Trent grinned amiably. "I'm going to get a new bathing suit first at Asbury. Want to come along?"

"I have my work," Yeatman answered.

He verified Trent's words when, an hour later, he walked down to the Grant bathing pavilion at the end of the garden. Anthony Trent was disappearing himself in the water and his bathing suit was new. Redlich watched his antics scornfully. He himself had swum professionally, and he was looking at a man who dared not go out of his depth.

"A fierce undertow," Trent shouted.

Pierre Redlich grunted some reply and then turned toward the house. He would have been surprised to see what a changed swimmer Trent became when he found himself alone. He swam out a hundred yards and then dived to the bottom. A score of times he dived in as many different spots. When he returned, weary, to the hot sands, he had satisfied himself that a boat drawing fifteen feet of water would have no difficulty in coming within twenty yards of the shore.

In the house Thorpe and his staff were making elaborate preparations for the entertainment. Only old Gilbert was to be seen. Other men were lying in hammocks, resting. The ladies had gone to their rooms.

In his room, as he dressed for dinner, Trent took out the sheet of notes Sutton had written for him. One seemed to give him especial pleasure, and he put it in his pocket.

None saw him go out of a side door onto the terrace. From the center of a clump of rhododendrons where he was completely hidden from the house and unobserved from the gardens, now hazy with workers, he could just see the open window of Grant's room through the leaves. He wrapped the piece of paper around a pebble, tying it with common white string, and hurled it with perfect aim. It chanced to fall noiselessly on Grant's bed.

Payson Grant saw it just as he was ready to go downstairs.

The sight of it robbed him of the pleasant confidence he had tried so hard to cultivate. Without touching the thing, he knew from whom it was. He could hardly bear to pick it up.

"No matter how you protect yourself, you are not safe from me. I shall choose my moment and strike. It may be tonight. I may be behind any door you open or, around the first corner you turn."

"F. W. S."

Natica looked up crossly as he burst into her room. Her maid was frightened at the wild gestures with which he ordered her to go.

"Look at this," he said, his hand shaking. "It was on my bed. Some one must have thrown it through the window."

"Tell Regan to search the grounds at once," she commanded. "Have you done so?"

Flappers Succumb to Lure of Camel Riding

Morocco means camels and sheiks to the shoals of American schoolgirls who invade the country each autumn chaperoned by Paris finishing school teachers. Marrakech sees most of them, because they find the herds there which make camel rides possible. No debutante considers her tour complete until she has been camel riding. Sheiks are harder to find, the type being a product of the desert interior.

The schoolgirls visit Morocco early in the fall, at the Christmas holiday or late in the spring. Marrakech the Red under the shadows of the high Atlas, is the only city where camels in numbers may be obtained, and so the girls do most of their camel riding there. Only the freight-carrying

"I couldn't think of anything but this," he confessed. "I'm shot to bits. Frank's somewhere quite near. He's laughing at us. He says I can't protect myself from him, and it looks like it. I wish I'd never put up such a game on him."

"Don't be silly," she said sharply. "You put up no game, as you call it. He was proved guilty and sentenced. Nothing can be brought against us unless you lose control of yourself. Have you thought what might happen if you were overheard talking like that? Pull yourself together. One of us must be down to receive these people. Shall I tell them my husband has a nervous headache?" Her tone was biting.

Grant was not without his share of normal courage. But he had a vivid imagination and was susceptible to suggested terrors. The unknown had always frightened him. Had he known that around some definite corner Sutton stood, or that behind a designated door he would find him, he would have nerved himself to the encounter. But not to know behind which door or at which corner, provoked in him fears that Natica could not comprehend. She was of a direct, uncompromising, materialistic nature.

"I'll go down," he said sullenly, "and I hope to God he's there so it can end one way or another. I'm armed, too."

Almost a feeling of despair seized his wife. She would not admit that her first husband had been unjustly condemned. She had refused to be a party to Grant's forgeries, but she had not refused to benefit from them. Her whole energies were bent on social success, and any scandal such as the shooting of Sutton or Grant would render them null. She aimed at a set that would have gone of these sensational methods. She was one of those women who asserted that hell came here on earth. She began to be afraid her theological judgments were true. Everything seemed to be going wrong.

Her main reason for disbelieving that Sutton was not looking for her husband was due to the knowledge of his chivalrous nature. He had never shown any disposition to vengeance. She had often been angered at it. He had been too soft-hearted. Essentially he was not a man to bear long grudges. But she could not tell to what a mood his brooding over the outcome of the trial had brought him. If his thoughts were directed toward avenging himself, assuredly Payson would be the victim. Her husband had more right than she accorded him for being fearful.

Before going downstairs she glanced at herself in a mirror.

"I look fifty!" she cried. But she did not show the strain under which she labored at the very successful dinner. Nor did her husband. She could guess from the occasional stirs in his speech to what he owed his courage.

At a certain alcoholic pressure Payson was highly diverting. Frank Sutton, was at his worst at a function such as this. He was a man's man, happier at camp-fire conversation than among such a company as was gathered here. If Payson could keep his entertaining chatter going it might win them an invitation to Lakewood. All steps in the great game.

Later in the evening Natica saw that Anthony Trent was Mrs. Bixel's entertainer.

"Switlin dined with us a few days ago," Mrs. Bixel said, "and couldn't quite understand why you were here."

"Polo, mainly," he told her. "Do you know," she said, "you have quite a remarkable influence over Switlin. I came here just to find out why, although George thinks he persuaded me to pay a business obligation."

"What have you found out?" he asked.

"I think the reason is that you are strong and have a certain element of ruthlessness about you."

"That's the character that might belong to any successful man of business."

"Like my husband, for instance," she laughed. "I suppose that's true. I didn't mean exactly that type. I think you would look well in those swabsucking clothes men wore in Tudor times. I'll invite you only if you promise to wear a plumed hat and sword."

Natica Grant would have given a great deal for such an opportunity, but Trent was not as gratified as he pretended to be.

No Exchanges

The worst thing about going to a barber shop to a woman is that if after she gets home she is dissatisfied with what she got there she can't take it back and exchange it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Marco Polo Sheep in the Field Museum

Specimens of the Marco Polo sheep and the Himalayan ibex which were shot by Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Kermit Roosevelt on the roof of the world during the James Simpson-Roosevelt expedition are now on exhibition at the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago. The specimens, which were obtained in one of the places most difficult of access in the world, are posed to give the impression of real life. The group is probably the most complete to be found in museums anywhere in the world, it is said.

Monday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Reynolds, Miss Lucille Jones entertained the Epworth League of the Methodist Church. The evening was pleasantly spent in games of various kinds, after which the hostess served refreshments. There were 18 guests present.

School Notes

(Mary Fritz, Co. School Supt.)
The Lincoln county schools will begin Monday Sept. 3. Teachers will enroll pupils, assign lessons and dismiss for the remainder of the day.

All teaching positions are now filled. Teachers employed recently are: John Van Weelden, Hondo; Miss Janie Halderman and Ed Stone, Capitan; Mrs. Lola Jones, Brown; Mrs. W. F. Bond, Baca Canyon.

It is well for parents to have children vaccinated before school begins. It must be done sometime during the year.

Mrs. Ora G. Tully, president of the Board of Education is at Hotel Dieu, El Paso, where she underwent an operation. She is doing well and will return home shortly.

The new school building at San Patricio will be completed about the first of Oct. School will not commence there until the building is finished.

Baptist Church Notes

The pastor supplied at Corona both services last Sunday. There will be services next Sunday and you are invited to come and bring the entire family and enjoy the services. Several new pupils have enrolled in the Sunday School recently.

The pastor will preach at Capitan at 3 o'clock also.

Baptist Encampment

The Ruidoso Baptist Encampment was well attended and a splendid session was held in spite of unfavorable weather conditions there at this time of the year.

Over 100 were registered as regular attendants, while many more attended certain portions of the session. There will be a rally held in the Tabernacle on Sept. 28-30, at which time the buildings will be completed and the property transferred formally to the denomination. Many of the beautiful lots adjoining the property are now selling. The session next year will be held in July to avoid the rainy season. The new highway under construction will shorten the distance between our town and the Encampment.

Returned from Texas

Mr. and Mrs. George Melton, daughter and Mrs. Perry Melton were here Wednesday on their way to their home near Gran Quivira, after a visit with relatives and friends in San Antonio, Texas. The Meltons have sold their ranch and after securing pasture for their sheep, they will go to San Antonio to spend the fall and winter.

Louis Nalda Visits Us

Louis Nalda was in from his ranch, and attended the Tunney-Heeny fight pictures at the Crystal Theatre Wednesday night.

The Straw Vote

Washington, D. C. — Advices from every section of the country indicate that Hoover and Curtis have gotten the jump on their rivals in organizing women voters.

Credible predictions supported by the straw vote promise the Republican candidates a substantial majority of the woman vote in some normally Democratic and all normally Republican states.

Association among women of Hoover's wartime efforts as Food Administrator gives him a big advantage to start with over his opponent, which is being heightened by the stress placed upon his humanitarian record.

Auto Manufacturer Tells Why He Is Heart and Soul With Candidate.

SAYS FARMERS NEED HIM

Quality of Hoover's Ability is a Fact Already Demonstrated by His Record.

By HENRY FORD

In an interview with Samuel Crowther of the Saturday Evening Post.

I AM for Hoover for President because he has shown that he can size up any job, pick the right man and direct it through to success. Through fourteen years—ever since Belgium—he has been handling some of the biggest jobs in the world. He has made a success of every one of them. He has shown that he is not afraid of size.

The greatest job that the world has ever known is now before this country. It is so big that none of the old-line politicians even knows that it exists. We have developed this country just enough during the past six or seven years to know that such a job which was thought to be impossible can be made possible under the right leadership.

The task is to make such use of the experience we have gained that we can build rightly for the future. Otherwise we are going to lose all that we have gained.

We have the men, we have the money and we can make the tools for the job. But all these will be useless without leadership. That leadership, because the thing is national, must be in the President.

HOOVERISMS

It is the individual alone who can function in the world of intellect, and in the field of leadership.

No sensible business man wants either a boom or slump. He wants stability.

Brilliant Record
Ohio State Journal

Herbert Hoover was fully prepared by nature, education and experience to organize and direct the work in the department of commerce. As engineer, economist and student he brought to his task an unusual ability. As an executive he has directed the work of organizing and rounding out that important department.
