

Oh You Football

We are assured of a good football team here this fall, according to word from the High School. We have a lot of good, husky boys with which to fit out the team and arrangements are under way for a game with Tularosa in the near future. We are greatly pleased and shall publish the line-up when it is ready; football puts enthusiasm into everybody. Let's go!

Fulmers Here from White Oaks

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fulmer and sons Walter and Bill have moved from White Oaks to Carrizozo, so that Walter could enroll in our school. Bill has not as yet reached the age that would entitle him to scholarship, but when he does come, he'll be a "comer," eh, Bill?

The Comreys Have Moved to Their Ancho Ranch

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Comrey have moved from Capitan to their ranch near Ancho. The change occurred the first of the week and they will remain at Ancho for the fall and winter seasons, according to Mr. Comrey, who paid this office a pleasant visit Monday.

Woman's Club Notes

In spite of the rain and cold weather a large number of women attended the meeting of the Carrizozo Woman's Club held at the Community Hall Friday, Sept. 21. Owing to the absence of our president, Mrs. C. A. McCammon, our vice-president, Mrs. R. E. Lemon, graciously presided. Mrs. McDonald, as program chairman, presented a very unique playlet, "The Road of Time," which was written by Mrs. C. E. Freeman, one of our most promising members.

The past, present, and future were portrayed. Each past president gave a summary of the work done during her administration—the present president told of her plans, and the future was predicted by members of the Junior Woman's Club under the efficient leadership of Mrs. C. N. Lemmon.

Mrs. Kelley placed a wreath in the center of the stage, in memory of Mrs. Ulrick, our second president, who departed this life March, 1927.

The club accepted Mr. Brickley's proposition and pledged $500 to the Community Hall for the club year. Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Branum gave $100 each on the pledge. Others wishing to make donations will please see Mrs. Zoe Glassmire, our treasurer. A reception to the teachers will be given at the home of Mrs. Morgan Lovelace, Friday evening, October 5. We hope that all of the teachers will avail themselves of this opportunity to meet our people. Mrs. Kelley will have charge of the program. The meeting was a decided success and much credit is due to Mesdames McDonald, Freeman, Lemmon and Blaney, chairman of the hostesses, and all those who took part in the program. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mes-

They will go home after their visit here.

Meyer J. Barnett

Is there anyone in Lincoln County who does not know Meyer J. Barnett, the Republican Candidate for County Assessor? Is there anyone who doubts his ability to fill that office in a satisfactory manner?

The duties of Assessor require a man who is accurate, courteous and with an understanding of the burden the taxpayer has to bear.

Meyer has these qualifications in a marked degree. For many years he has been the local agent of the Sinclair Refining Co., and his books and accounts with that Company are shown to be accurate in the minutest detail.

In placing Meyer J. Barnett in the office of Assessor, the voters of Lincoln County would be assured that the State Tax Commission would approve his report without question.

Story for the Children

By Mary Graham Bonner

Alfred, the horse, was talking to the other horses in the stable. They had all been saying how much better every one, people or horses, or anyone or anything behaved, if they were well treated.

But Alfred had an adventure to tell the others.

"Once," he said, "I got out of my stall, and at first I had a glorious run."

"I went and went and I went. But after awhile I became very tired and then I began to try to find my way back home."

"I couldn't do it, and oh, how dreadfully worried I was! I didn't know what to do."

"I tried to find my home, and I kept going and going, without reaching it."

"After awhile a nice farmer met me and said: 'Whoa, in such a kindly voice that I stopped.'"

"He took me into his stable and gave me fine oats, and then he took me back home, for he had heard I had run away."

The other horses neighed that they were glad the story had a happy ending.

"Yes," said Alfred, "and I was so glad to get home that I never wandered off again."

"But I have another story to tell you of the time I took a little boy for a drive for the first time."

"He had never been driving before, and my master heard that he had been sick, and that driving would be good for him, only he had no horse to drive."

"And I was the horse which pulled him along as he took his first drive."

"Never will I forget how he loved the countryside and the flowers, just coming out, and he thought I was so wonderful."

"Think of having taken a child for a drive who had never before!"

"Wonderful," said the other horses, and then they added:

"He Took Me Into His Stable."

"You have such nice stories to tell us of the days before you came here."

"Ah, I love it here, and I'd never want to leave."

And the other horses said the same. Then one of the other horses told of the time, not so far off, when he had belonged to a city driver.

"One day," he said, "my master was inside delivering some laundry."

"Well, you know, I thought it would be fun to run away—not far off, but just have a little excitement."

"I dashed along the street, but you know I was discouraged by the speed with which the automobiles went, and I didn't go so very quickly."

"A policeman jumped up and stopped me and queted me—though I wasn't much excited, and then when my owner came along, he said: 'I guess it takes the old-fashioned horse to be much of a runaway.'"

"And you know that was just the way I felt about it."

So the horses neighed and told stories and ate hay and had a very nice time of it.

Greek Culture Widespread

Excavating an ancient tomb in Mongolia, Professor Kozlov discovered a Greek tapestry and a carpet representing a deer on whose back is a winged lynx. Such discoveries as these, in Eastern tombs indicate that the ancient Greek art and culture spread as far East as Mongolia, he said.

Watch Your Health

The game of life is a difficult one to play. There are so many who do not know the rules. The laws of nature are the rules of the game. The game is bound to be lost if these rules are broken, but if the game is played well, victory comes in strength and good health.—Exchange.

Things for the Family Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Heartier foods. A cream soup will often form the main dish of the meal.

Salads are most valuable summer or winter. They stimulate the appetite and supply the vitamins which are so necessary for health. A rich salad, such as chicken, may take the place of meat, or when a fruit salad is served the dessert may be omitted.

There is a reason for ending the meal with some sweet. We need it, and when taken then we will not eat more than is good for us. A light dessert should follow a heavy meal and a richer one may add to a light meal.

Nutrition

With the proper surveillance of school nurse the undernourished child is taken in hand to correct such condition. It is appalling to read the surveys of different cities; with all the assistance that is already given to overcome defects in nutrition, there is still a large per cent handicapped.

The poorer districts are by no means the worst, for there one may naturally look for undernourished children, but it is, one of the tragedies of life that many well-to-do, even wealthy homes, contain sickly, badly fed children, whose care is often left to unintelligent servants who do not care in the least about the child's welfare or development. The giving of sweets to a child to keep him quiet is a common practice. Sweets will often make a child fat, but all fat is not healthy.

It is not a tremendously expensive proceeding to feed a child properly and scientifically; it does not cost money, but it does cost time for thought and careful buying and preparing of simple wholesome foods that a child needs for growth and health. The ordinary amount spent for food will not be increased by intelligent buying.

Those who are able to take their children to the greatest child specialist in the country today will be advised as follows as to the kind of a diet:

Give him milk, the best grade you can afford and at least one whole quart each day. When the child refuses milk, give it to him in cream soups, sauce, on vegetables, custards, junkets and in cottage cheese and drinks, such as cocoa. Use diplomacy and coax, but get him to swallow it in some way.

Meat and eggs are to be served several times a week. Milk supplies all the protein needed for the child with an occasional meal of eggs and meat. The meats to serve for a child are well-cooked beef, chicken, lamb, mutton, fish and soft cooked eggs are also good.

Such desserts as custards, sponge cake, bread puddings, figs, dates, and fruits are the best of desserts for the growing child.

FOUNDATION PATTERN IS HANDY

The Pattern is Carefully Fitted at All Important Points.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

To avoid repeating the fitting process on every garment one makes, it is a good idea to make a guide or foundation pattern for each member of the family one sews for. A woman can fit her own foundation pattern, but it is better to have help. A simple commercial pattern with normal shoulder seam, high neck line, and set-in sleeves is bought for the purpose, and a dress-length of good quality, but inexpensive material, such as unbleached muslin, cambric, or gingham. A gingham with a conspicuous check is very satisfactory because the lengthwise and crosswise threads of the goods can be plainly seen. The foundation pattern is cut from this material as if one were going to make a dress, the bureau of home economics explains. In a bulletin on fitting dresses and blouses. It is basted up and carefully fitted at all the important points—shoulders, underarms, bust, hips, armholes, sleeve, and skirt length, and any necessary alterations are made on it. The hem is turned at the right distance from the floor, the neck line and armholes are correctly trimmed, darts are made in their proper places, and the points are marked at which pockets, belt-line, hips, or kick-plats should come. Care should be taken that the seams are uniform in width.

The foundation pattern is then cut down the center front and center back. One half is used as a pattern, the other as a base for designing, unless the two sides are noticeably different, due to irregularities in the figure. In that case both sides should be saved, the right and left being plainly marked. All markings are made permanent by stitching with thread of contrasting color, which makes the pattern reversible. All pieces should be attached one-eighth inch from the edge to prevent stretching.

HELPS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

Dark or soft dull colors tend to make the wearer look small.

A pinch of salt added before beating makes egg whites drier and stiffer.

White chamols gloves are softer after washing if allowed to dry with some soap in them.

Light, cheerful and sanitary, are three words which should describe the walls of every kitchen.

Cover foods which have strong odors to avoid giving this taste to other foods in the refrigerator.

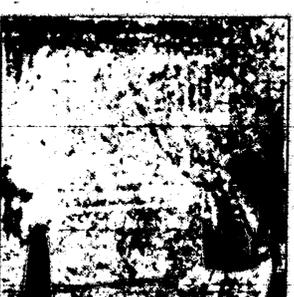

For jelly-making use a kettle large enough to allow for the rapid boiling damp cloth or oiled paper.

The man who waxes his razor blades on bath towels is often responsible for holes which appear after laundering.

CRETONNE-COVERED BOX WINDOW SEAT

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The feature of most interest to other girls about this charming room up under the eaves is probably the cretonne-covered box which serves as a window seat. Even if such a box is not immediately put into use as a "hope chest," it can always serve as a good place for storing clean garments and linen in a girl's bedroom. Ruth Henderson, a Virginia girl, whose room this is, entered it for the 2-B club girls' room improvement contest, held in her county under the direction of the club agent, who is under the direction of the co-operative extension forces.

She began by pulling all the old nails out of the wall. Then she tore off loose paper and pasted strips of cheesecloth over some of the cracks in the wall to keep the paper from breaking. One of the most unpleasant jobs was to clean some old paint from around the edge of the floor with lye. With the extension agent's help she selected a cream paper for the walls and a white ceiling, with a three-inch border. Dark buff paint was bought for the floor, mahogany-color for the dresser, washstand, bedside table and two chairs.

Ruth did all the papering and painting herself, and also papered some rooms for her mother. She earned the money to pay for the materials—$7.50—by making and selling two braided rugs and picking berries. This money enabled her to buy cretonne for the window box, glass handles for the dresser, candles and candlesticks, curtain rods and a peanut can to make into a waste basket, besides the paint and wall paper. Ruth says that after the papering was done she "moved all the furniture out of the room, gave the floor two coats of paint and washed off the furniture. I took the dresser mirror off the frame and fastened it to the wall, assembled all the furniture, also a vase, waste basket and ink bottle. I stretched a small flower on my dresser, washstand and the backs of the chairs, and got a seat for one chair. I made three braided rugs for the floor, scarfs for bureau and washstand and green curtains."

Any Woman Can Look Stylish

By MAE MARTIN

Most stylish-looking women are just "good managers." They know simple ways to make last season's things conform to this season's styles.

Thousands of them have learned how easily they can transform a dress, or blouse, or coat by the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing. Anyone can do this successfully with true, fadeless Diamond Dyes. The "know-how" is in the eyes. They don't streak or spot like inferior dyes. New, fashionable tints appear like magic right over the out-of-style or faded colors. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. Insist on them and save disappointment.

My new 64-page illustrated book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of money-saving hints for reweaving clothes and draperies. It's Free. Write for it now, to Mae Martin, Dept. B-143, Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

Gathering It In

The Dempsey-Tunney fight, with the enormous sums that went alike to winner and loser, led Mayor Duval of Indianapolis, to say at a luncheon: "Two men were talking about the fight."

"Great boxers, Jack and Gene," said the first man.

"Boxers?" said the other. "They're not just simple boxers!"

"Humph. What are they, then?"

Recent Discoveries

Among recent discoveries is a chestnut-colored robin, with a black throat, which was found in the mountains of Formosa, Siamese fish which can climb steep canal banks by means of their tails and fins and can travel on land.

MOST people know this absolute antidote for pain, but are you careful to say Bayer when you buy it? And do you always give a glance to see Bayer on the box—and the word genuine printed in red? It isn't the genuine Bayer Aspirin without it! A druggist always has Bayer, with the proven directions tucked in every box:

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing Co. of Elberfeld, Germany.

Flavor of Curry With Eggs

The flavor of curry goes especially well with eggs. A small quantity of curry powder, combined with other vegetable flavors and a dash of tobacco gives piquancy to a sauce served with hard-cooked eggs. The bureau of home economics gives these directions for preparing a dish of curried eggs with rice for lunch or supper:

- 4 eggs, hard cooked, cut in quarters
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped onions
- 2 tablespoons chopped celery
- 1 teaspoon curry
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 drops tobacco

Melt the butter in a skillet, add the onion, green pepper, and celery and cook for 2 or 3 minutes. Stir into this the seasoning and the flour, mix well, and add the cold milk. Cook for 3 or 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Make a bed of the sticky cooked rice on a hot platter. Arrange the cut eggs over it, and pour the hot sauce over the eggs and rice. Sprinkle the top with chopped parsley and serve at once.

It is wise in planning the menus for a day to have the food principles fairly distributed.

To know the relative value of different foods and different dishes will keep one from serving one day a menu in which all dishes are high in fuel value and the next day a menu lacking in nutritive values.

Concentrated foods, such as fats and proteins, should be combined with starchy or carbohydrate, which serve to dilute them. Cheese, a highly concentrated food, should be served with rice, macaroni, bread or potatoes.

Candy, another valuable food, should be eaten at the close of a meal, then the amount eaten will not be so great.

Soups served at the beginning of a meal are of two kinds—stimulating and nourishing. The thin clear soups are good to prepare the stomach for heartier foods. A cream soup will often form the main dish of the meal.

Salads are most valuable summer or winter. They stimulate the appetite and supply the vitamins which are so necessary for health. A rich salad, such as chicken, may take the place of meat, or when a fruit salad is served the dessert may be omitted.

There is a reason for ending the meal with some sweet. We need it, and when taken then we will not eat more than is good for us. A light dessert should follow a heavy meal and a richer one may add to a light meal.

Coat and Handbag of Tweed

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

finished with a cunningly devised leather band.

The use of woolen weaves for handbags is one that is increasing in favor. Nor do they always match the material of the costume. Some of the new bags are made of loose-woven worsted materials, the patterning being gaily modernistic.

As to the newer tweeds which top the fabric list for daytime and utility wear, they are luxuriously soft and delightfully light in weight. They express two trends which are characteristic of the season's woolen novelties, namely, looseness of weave and a jacquard patterning which is of modernistic inspiration. The plain loose woven tweeds give preference to the combination of several shades or several colors, as the case may be, so that an illusive tiny all-over repeat patterning is indicated. The jacquards, on the other hand, are of compelling patterning, defining cubes, angles and triangles which are frankly modernistic both as to color and design.

The swagger thing for fall is the tweed ensemble which features brown with orange or with any of the new reddish beige tones. Among models which attract because of their new and startling color effects is an ensemble which employs a fine small-patterned tweed in cinnamon browns for the skirt and jacket, the jumper being of vivid burnt orange cashmere.

FRUIT FILLING FOR CAKE

Select one dozen large stewed prunes and remove the seeds, allowing them to drain so that practically all of the juice is removed. Also use an equal number of stewed figs or canned figs. Put through a food grinder, using the coarse knife. Add enough sweetener to make a nice paste for spreading. This makes a good filling for chocolate-cake, with the plain white icing used on the top of the cake.

TWEED and tweedlike weaves have renewed their prestige for the coming months. So completely has this soft woolen, ingratiated itself into French couture fave, several of the most distinguished Parisian stylists are making even the handbags which accompany the new tweed

A striking instance of this is the exceptionally smart ensemble by Worth, shown in this picture. This modish travel or street costume (fitly well chosen for either) is of gray tweed with a long scarf collar. The blouse is a blooded crepe de chine. The handbag which is carried with this outfit is also of the gray tweed.

Maine Election Notable for Size of G. O. P. Majorities; Smith Nails a Lie.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
THOSE who still place faith in the old saying "As Maine goes, so goes the nation" are now free to place their bets on Hoover; for the Republican ticket won a sweeping victory in the state election last week. However, no one had doubted that the G. O. P. would elect its candidates, and the significant features were the size of their majorities and the total vote. The former was a surprise to even the most optimistic Republicans. William T. Gardner defeated E. C. Moran, Jr., for the governorship, by nearly 85,000 votes; and Senator Frederick Hale's majority over Herbert E. Holmes was approximately 80,000. The Republican majority was more than double what it was four years ago and four times what it was in 1920. The total vote was about 35,000 less than it was in the last Presidential year, but analysis shows that the loss was mostly sustained by the Democrats. The Republicans had made an especial effort to get out their vote and the Democrats were frankly apathetic. The Republicans elected all four of the state's congressmen.

Naturally, Republican National Chairman Work rejoiced in the Maine outcome and found in it presage for a Hoover victory, asserting that the campaign in the Pine Tree state was waged largely on national issues. On the other hand, Democratic Chairman Rankin saw no omen in the result, saying his party had made no special effort there and no national issues were decided by the Maine election. He was "surprised the Republicans did not poll a larger vote."

The records show that since 1840, in 15 out of 22 Presidential election years, the result in the Maine state election has correctly foretold the outcome of the Presidential election.

TEXAS provided an exciting incident in the campaign when its state Democratic convention opened in Dallas. A motion that only those delegates loyal to Al Smith be seated started the rumpus. The anti-Smith crowd, led by former Governor Colquitt, promptly bolted, and as they retired from the hall there were innumerable fist fights. The regulars proceeded with their business, "cordially endorsing" the national platform and Smith and in the same set of resolutions calling upon "all officers of the government and all members of the party" to rally for the "destruction of the traffic in alcoholic liquors."

WHILE Senator Robinson, Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, was making a whirlwind speaking tour through the South, Governor Smith gave such time as he could spare from state duties to conferences with party leaders and to further refutation of charges made in the deplorable "whispering campaign." Informed that he was accused, in a letter, of being "disgracefully intoxicated" at the New York state fair at Syracuse, he issued a formal denial of the charge, which denial was backed up by the statements of men who were close to him all during the day of his visit to the fair. One of his defenders was one of the governor's political opponents, State Senator Fearon of Syracuse. Others included the newspaper correspondents who accompanied the governor. The letter was said to have been written by a woman of Syracuse to one in Parkersburg, W. Va. Republicans Chairman Work has strongly repudiated the whispering campaign as an offense to common decency equally harmful to the candidate maligned and to his opponent. He says Hoover is also the object of scurrilous and false attacks. The Post Office department has taken steps to stop the sending of the vicious statements through the mails. In one instance a lot of post cards were confiscated. Plans were completed for Governor Smith's tour of a fortnight, September 10-30, during which he speaks in six western cities.

HERBERT HOOVER had a long conference with President Coolidge immediately after the latter's return to Washington, and while there was no announcement of the part the President would take in the campaign, it was said he probably would make one or more addresses in New England. Mr. Hoover is now directing the organization work of his campaign. The radio part is already in operation. The candidate's first real campaign speech was ready for delivery at Newark, N. J., Monday. National officers of the national Woman's party met in Washington and decided to support Hoover because, they stated, his position is in advance of that of other Presidential candidates. They said they opposed Smith "because he opposes equal rights for women in industry and has had a long record of opposition to equal industrial opportunity for women and has actively sponsored laws handicapping women in earning their livelihood."

WHEN Hoover, praising the Kellogg anti-war treaty, hailed it as one of the great achievements of the Republican administration, Secretary Kellogg showed signs of displeasure for above all things he does not want the pact dragged into partisan politics pending action on it by the senate. Said he: "I do not think the treaty for the renunciation of war should be made a party issue in either the campaign or the senate, and I cannot conceive that it will be." Reservations to the treaty, by the senate, will be vigorously opposed by both Mr. Kellogg and Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. They believe there is nothing in the treaty that imperils the Monroe Doctrine or other vital interests of the United States.

Despite the fact that most of the nations of the world have accepted the Kellogg pact, Secretary of the Navy, Wilbur believes the United States should go right ahead with its navy construction program. He said as much after conferences with naval officials in which both the Kellogg treaty and the mysterious Anglo-French agreement were discussed. Other officials said the Navy department would concentrate on senate approval, of the sixteen-ship bill and later would try for the adoption of a large building program.

FORMAL negotiations looking toward complete evacuation of the Rhineland and final settlement of reparations were opened in Geneva by the representatives of Germany, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. The first discussions of Germany's plea were promising, although an earlier speech by Premier Briand, attacking Chancellor Mueller's statements of German fulfillment of her pledges, had created some doubt of ultimate agreement. London dispatches said Great Britain and France were in accord on these points:

First, perfect co-operation among the allies. Second, implicit recognition of the fact that the occupation must continue unless the Germans give other guarantees for the payment of the reparations.

Third, a political guarantee by Germany that the plan for the union with Austria will not be pursued.

Fourth, the consent of Germany to the control of the demilitarized zone of the Rhineland for 25 years.

Fifth, the Germans to take the initiative by presenting concrete proposals. GENERAL Primo de Rivera, premier of Spain, uncovered another plot against his dictatorship and caused the arrest of several hundred revolutionists who were hatching a coup d'etat. The dictator in a statement to the press said those taken into custody were politicians and others who "live and prosper by provoking disorders," and declared the condition of public order in Spain could not be better in all the country. "Another dictator has been offered a crown, but probably will decline it. This one is Marshal Pilsudsky, who was offered the crown of the "Polish empire" by 1,500 delegates of the monarchists of that country. He already has refused a like honor several times.

CHARLES BYANS HUGHES was elected a member of the permanent court of international justice by the League of Nations to succeed John Bassett Moore, resigned. Mr. Hughes accepted, saying he deemed it a privilege to serve on the court. Since the United States is not a member of the world court, Mr. Hughes does not officially represent this country on the tribunal.

GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday last Thursday and Secretary of War Davis took the occasion to present to the famous soldier four foreign decorations conferred upon him since the World war. These were the Order of the White Lion, class 1, conferred by the President of Czechoslovakia; a medal commemorating the first centenary of the battle of Ayacucho, conferred by the President of Peru; knight commander's cross of the Order of Virtuti Militari, conferred by the President of Poland; and a Venezuelan "Dust of Liberator," two lapel buttons and an album of photographs conferred by the President of Venezuela.

JOHN COOLIDGE, son of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, has obtained a position as a clerk in the general offices of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in New Haven, Conn., and last week was earning his own living. William Wood, secret service operative, will continue to act as bodyguard of the young man until March 4. Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut, returning from a motor trip through Europe, admitted to reporters that she was likely to become John Coolidge's bride sometime next winter though not before Christmas.

EARL ROWLAND of Kansas won first place in class A of the aerial derby across the continent from New York to Los Angeles. He drove a Cessna monoplane and was in the air 26 hours and 30 minutes. Most of the planes in all three classes made the transcontinental trip safely, and the finish was a great sight for the crowds gathered at the Los Angeles field for the air races and exhibition.

Of the nine planes that started in the nonstop race across the continent not one completed the trip except that piloted by Art Goebel, and that noted aviator had been forced to stop at Prescott, Ariz. The contest was therefore declared no race.

One of the aviators taking part in the local exhibition was Lieut. J. J. Williams of the army. He crashed early in the week and died of his injuries, whereupon Col. Charles Lindbergh reported at army headquarters there and asked to be assigned to take the place of his dead friend. Thereafter the "three musketeers" in little Boeing fighters were led by Lindy in their maneuvers.

HIGHLY successful tests of the new submarine safety device called the "lung" were held off the coast of Maryland. Three navy divers went down 155 feet in a diving bell and equipped with the "lung" crawled out and made their way to the surface safely and with no discomfort. It was made known that several scores of these devices are being constructed and their final test, that of being used for actual escape from a flooded submarine in 225 feet of water, will be made next month by the same divers. The naval officers expressed a belief that last week's successful test will result in the equipping of all of the 73 submarines in the United States navy with "lungs" for each member of the crew to be placed in the escape compartments of the undersea craft.

PORTO RICO was struck by a tropical hurricane that caused damage of several millions of dollars, mainly in San Juan which bore the brunt of the storm. Tornadoes in Nebraska and South Dakota killed fourteen persons and ruined thousands of dollars worth of property.

Fight Over Bullhead Caused Duck's Death

A large duck was recently found at Portage Inlet, British Columbia, choked to death by a seagull in the act of swallowing a bullhead, according to a correspondent of Field and Stream. The strange occurrence, he says, came about in this manner: The duck had just dived into the water, emerging with a bullhead protruding from its bill. In the meantime a band of seagulls had been circling around in the vicinity of the ducks. One of the gulls immediately detached itself from the others and started to chase the duck. The sawbill, objecting to losing its dinner, pulled the opposite way. The result was that the spikes on the fish's pectoral fins jabbed the duck's neck. It was not long before the unfortunate duck was lying dead on the water with the fish still sticking out of its mouth.

So Constipated That Life Seemed Hopeless

"In November, 1920, I wrote you for special instructions in the use of Milk's Emulsion. I have been constipated for a number of years and suffered with my bowels for a long time. I finally had an X-ray made which definitely located the trouble in my bowels. An operation was advised, but I was afraid of an operation, and your Emulsion had been recommended to me, so I decided to try it. "I declined in weight from 190 1/2 pounds to less than 120 pounds, and became so weak that I could not turn over in bed without help. I could not eat any solid foods for months, but tanked up on liquid diet, until I threw it up constantly. Nothing passed my bowels except a dry, hard powder. "Finally when I was convinced that I had only a little longer to live, I resolved to try Milk's Emulsion. This was in November, 1920, and after a continuous decline for two years. Now I am happy to say to you that I am greatly improved. At this writing my bowels are fairly regular with proper consistency. I have gained in weight and I am beginning to have an appetite. "I have taken 35 large bottles of Milk's Emulsion and the results have been most satisfactory. I am 65 years old, and still improving. I expect to return East in October and resume active business as a mechanical engineer. "I heartily endorse your Emulsion and I am satisfied that it saved my life." Yours very truly, C. B. Sold His Birthright for a Mess of Pottage

After all other attempts to get at least a portion of the people to come his way, Gov. Al Smith has sought, through one of his appointees, to drag the Masonic order into the present campaign by a letter to a certain person of so-called prominence in Omaha, stating that if any member of that order voted against Smith because of his religious views, he brought himself into disrepute.

In the first place, Mr. Scudder steps out of line by taking any active part in the campaign, and would probably not have done so, had it not been that he expects if Smith is elected to receive an appointment other than that which he now holds on the New York Supreme Court bench, for favors advanced to Gov. Al Smith during the world war which are best known to members of the Masonic order only.

The letter was uncalled for, and can have nothing short of an evil effect which will do the Democratic candidate more harm than good, from the fact that the order takes no part in political affairs whatever, and its members vote as they please, regardless of what one individual might say or do and anyone attempting to dictate in the least measure is guilty of disloyalty. Since the letter has been made public, Scudder's action has been condemned by all Grand Masters in the United States.

In his efforts to help his boss, Scudder has sought to bring the order into disrepute by an attempt to drag it into the dirtiest campaign this country has ever known, but it has failed of its purpose, completely.

In his letter, Mr. Scudder has endorsed one of the most dangerous political machines this country has ever tolerated, Tammany. Tammany, with its record of graft, scandal, malicious designs, and its finger under the deck to get at the seat of the government at the present time, Tammany, the wicked organization which George Washington denounced and deplored the existence of, in his farewell message.

Tammany, with its past record of Tweedism, which inaugurated the nefarious custom of naturalizing aliens who had been in this country but a few months, and voting them as Tammany dictators. Boss Tweed was followed by 'Honest John' Kelly, who, like his predecessor, amassed over a million in fraud and graft undertakings. Dick Croker's acts of fraud are well known to all who have been familiar with the acts of Tammany. New York has suffered for 125 years from this corrupt organization, and is still a sufferer. All the bosses mentioned went out of office with millions wrenched from the taxpayers of the state of New York and this is the organization of which Al Smith has spoken, when he said, "Can an organization like Tammany exist for 125 years and not be right?"

SEES HOOVER KEAL FRIEND OF FARMER

His Record Appeals to Head of Equity Union.

Leroy Melton of Greenville, Ill., for many years head of the Farmers' Equity union, in a letter to Republican headquarters in New York, stated that he is giving his personal support to Herbert Hoover in the belief that he is the only man who will make a genuine effort to help the farmer.

"I am doing this," he wrote, "on his great record as a public servant and a constructive statesman. I agree with him in his position supporting the Constitution, including the Eighteenth amendment and I also believe he will assist the farmers of this country to work out their own salvation through co-operative marketing. I believe he will be fair to every class in this country."

The Farmers' Equity union is one of the strongest agricultural organizations in the country. It has more than 500 chartered locals, capitalized at from $5,000 to $100,000 each, in Texas, Oklahoma and many middle western states. It holds seats on the board of trade of Chicago and of Kansas City.

The organization operates grain elevators, coal and lumber yards and maintains a co-operative system of marketing that has been highly effective. Mr. Melton has been president of the union practically since it came into existence in 1910.

Why Let Democrats Tinker With Tariff?

Only once in our history has the country changed political administrations in an era of prosperity, except when the change was brought about by a party division. The single instance was that of 1892, when the country turned back to Cleveland. The change brought commercial disaster in its train. Notwithstanding the tremendous burden of taxation laid upon the people by the great war, we have experienced six years of the most remarkable prosperity. This, too, in the face of several great strikes and disasters, which for a time tied up one or more great industries. It may be true that a part of this prosperity is due to conditions in other parts of the world, but is more largely due to the wise administration of the government.

If the people as a whole are prosperous, why should they want to change and run the risk of bringing about a commercial crisis? Long years of experience have established the fact that a protective tariff has always been the backbone of American prosperity. The Republican party promises to retain that feature in any revision that may be made. The history of the Democratic party is that it has always opposed the protective theory. What assurance can it offer the people now that it will go back on its fixed beliefs?

Letters Show Growth of Hoover Sentiment

Thousands of letters arriving daily at the office of the Republican National committee, 15 E. 41st street, New York, give one of the most complete views of the extent of Hoover sentiment in all of the states that has been received by the national organization.

Instead of reports upon isolated incidents made by traveling workers, the letters, coming from editors, business men, farmers and those in every other walk of life, represent the observations of men and women who have spent their lifetime in their communities and therefore are fully in touch with local sentiment.

To sum up the letters, there are for "bad" spots in the country, and, to the contrary, a growing Hoover sentiment is expressed in regions which have been overwhelmingly Democratic.

The farm problem will not be settled until it is settled permanently and rightly. Dependence on the motive and abilities of Herbert Hoover offers the safest course for the farmers of the nation.

Smith's Charges Recoil

In our judgment, Governor Smith's prohibition policy, while vigorous and specific, is premature and based on insufficient facts. The governor echoes certain partisan arguments made familiar at Houston, notably an indictment of Republican corruption and a denial of Coolidge economy. As the actual head of Tammany hall and the most extravagant governor the state of New York has ever seen, he might better have left those charges unspoken.—New York Herald Tribune.

Electrical Extensions

In 1907 there were 1,948,273 customers of all kinds of electric service; within 20 years this figure has been multiplied 10 times and at the close of 1927 domestic customers alone numbered 17,800,000. More than 82 per cent of the people now live in homes served by electricity.

Columbus for the last several days has had more excitement than at any time since the United States army used its site as a base for the Mexican punitive expedition to protect American soil from Pancho Villa's band. Gold has been unearthed in the Tres Hermanas mountains by J. M. No commercial advertising hereafter shall be permitted on any Arizona highway subject to the control of the State Highway Commission, this to include any directional signal of sign that imitates any official marker. No sign of any sort may be placed on the highway without prior permit from the department. There may be erection of signs by civic bodies and municipalities under certain limitations of location, these to be not more than three feet in diameter and carrying official numbers. No signs will be allowed at curves or dangerous points. It is noted that the regulations will have no effect upon billboard advertising on the ground that may be outside the road right-of-way, but will serve to displace a multitude of alleged directional and distance signs, erected merely for business advertisement.

The industrial employment survey report, just issued from the office of Quince Record, district director of the U. S. employment service of the U. S. Department of Labor at Denver, states that an upward trend is noted in all lines of industrial activity and employment in Arizona, more especially reflected in agriculture, horticulture, building, general construction and highway construction, with indication for continued expansion during fall months. Harvesting of a 200,000-acre cotton crop in the Salt River, Casa Grande, Yuma and Tucson districts, is in full swing. Thinning of the fall lettuce crop in the Salt River Valley will be under way on or about Oct. 1, and will require hundreds of additional workers. The dairying industry is expanding. Metal mining in the Bisbee, Globe, Jerome, Ajo and Tombstone districts, continues normally active. Supply of unskilled metal mine labor is adequate. There continues to exist, however, a moderate shortage of first-class drift miners in the Jerome metal mining district. Building and general construction continues exceptionally active. Supply of construction labor barely equals the demand. A normal condition exists in practically all lines of industry and employment in New Mexico. Expansion is noted in building and general construction lines, agriculture, oil, highway construction and metal mining. Due to a gradual influx of migratory workers, the supply of labor is adequate to meet demands in all lines. The agricultural situation is promising for abundant crops. Harvesting of the cotton crop is causing demand for several hundred additional male and female cotton pickers in southeastern sections of state. Manufacturing plants are reported operating on normal summer schedules. A considerable amount of new metal mine construction and development work is under way in numerous new and old metal mining camps. The supply of metal mine labor is adequate. Coal mines are gradually increasing operations and forces. Coal mine labor supply is ample. Building is increasing. The supply of highway construction and maintenance labor is adequate in state to meet immediate demands. There is a considerable amount of all prospecting work under way in several districts.

EXPANSION IS NOTED IN SEVERAL LINES OF INDUSTRY

Denver.—The recent industrial employment survey report, issued from the office of Quince Record, district director of the U. S. employment service of the U. S. Department of Labor, states that industrial activity, which expanded in several lines in Colorado during August, with a corresponding increase in employment, is especially noted in connection with agriculture, plants manufacturing rubber goods, construction equipment, mining machinery, cranes and buckets and flour, canning factories, building, highway construction, concerns directly and indirectly affected by the travel industry, coal mining, oil, and in railroad shop and passenger and freight train services departments.

At the ferry, Weems voiced his desires to get out again to the coast to make pictures. Fort Lee, he said, was dead. Nothing doing in the East. In the West one could work outside all the year, and his comedies were to be all exteriors. Era the Fort Lee, all was ascended. Trent was offered the chance of becoming one of the leaders of the film industry. Weems proved it on the back of an envelope he had wrung from the reluctant Hubbard, who, carefully removed, the contents before he parted with it. It was difficult to judge from the back of his prospector's head just what effect his eloquence engendered.

"For the love of Mike," he said, as Trent passed David More's little store, "say something." "I'll think it over," he was told. "To begin with, I'd like to see how pictures are made."

Weems took this as encouragement. "You shall see everything the studio has to show," he declared. "They know me."

Weems was disappointed that Trent decided not to permit wholesale presentations. Weems grumbled about it to the girls.

"I'd have introduced him to all the big ones, whether I know 'em or not. I don't get him at all. He seems more interested in the mechanics of the game than the other parts," Weems added. "Look at him, will you?"

Trent was asking questions of a technical director when he could have talked with a star. "He must have money," said the lead a little wistfully. Look, Florence, the studio manager is talking to him now."

"I had to tell the old grafter I'd got new money in," Weems said a trifle apprehensive as to his immediate future. "That release is bound to come, and then I can pay up everything. If they crowd me too much they'll lose it all."

"So will you and me," said the lady soberly. The studio manager merely said that if Mr. Trent had an interest in the Horace Weems Productions, would he be responsible for their financial indebtedness?

"I will not," Trent said concisely. "To begin with, Mr. Weems has stated that the company has all assets and no liabilities."

"He's behind on last week's studio rental. Here's the statement." Trent looked over the items. He was no more anxious than another man to waste his money, but he accompanied the manager to his office and paid the accounts. He did not give the money because he felt any responsibility for Weems, and he did not aim at production. He was willing to settle the bill because he had certain definite knowledge to acquire and had given himself a week to get it in.

"I'm going down to the village," Trent told Weems. "I shall be back in half an hour."

David More was finishing a story in a magazine devoted to light fiction when Anthony Trent came in. He had read of the Deal Beach exploits, and was peculiarly interested. He thought he understood now why his client had been so anxious to learn the details he had been set to gather.

"You haven't forgotten tomorrow, I hope." "Not for a moment," she returned. "I shall be waiting at nine. It seems a shame we cannot bring poor Captain X." The names of the immured were never mentioned. "Would it not be possible?" "It would be far too dangerous."

While this was true, Anthony Trent could not conceal from himself that he did not want a third person on the trip. Sutton was already fortunate in having Mademoiselle so close at hand.

CHAPTER X Confessions

Trent was conscious of a certain restraint between him and Mademoiselle Dupin during the first few miles of the journey. She had made up her mind that she would not add to the many obligations she was under. And yet to broach the subject seemed ungracious. But at this apartment they were so rarely alone that here, aboard, was the only opportunity.

For his part, Anthony Trent was thinking how little he knew of this beautiful and accomplished woman.

Late in the Evening He Called Up Mrs. Kinney.

and how much more he desired to learn. What he wondered, was her early history? The launch was a fast one, and soon overhauled a liner going through the harbor shipping at half speed.

"It's the Brabant," he exclaimed, and told the steersman to go as close to her as he could. "I came over in her," Trent told the girl at his side, "and met a very decent sort of purser aboard. I've an idea I can use him if he is still there. She should be back here in exactly twenty days. I had a fearful quarter of an hour on that staunch ship when I left Dover." He told her of his interview with the inquiring purser.

"The tragedy with people like us," she said gravely, "is that there must always be the fear of such interviews. 'I know,' he answered, a little gloomily. "That very thought is never far away from me. I can never be certain that some one hasn't 'evoted just as much thought to getting me as I have given to evading capture. I mistrust people on whom I ought to rely. I am invariably looking for motives. Sometimes I think I have slain the ability to enjoy people."

"Am I not to be trusted?" she asked. "You are different," he answered. "You can understand because you have suffered too. That is why you and I should always be good friends. I know you will never go back to the old life."

Napoleon's Task Not Finished Until 1918

When the great cathedral of Notre Dame was alight with 10,000 softly waving candle flames and while a pope, brought from Rome to Paris, was preparing, in the presence of the most august assemblage that Europe could gather, to place an emperor's crown on Napoleon's head, Napoleon turned and whispered to his brother, "What would father say if he could see me now?" And the next moment, when the pope was ready to crown him, Napoleon firmly removed the emblem from the papal hands and placed the crown upon his own brow.

old life. Yet how many men who have lived better lives than I could you convince? Collective prejudices send innumerable men back to the crime they want to escape. "Didn't you enjoy the Grant house party?" she asked, after a silence. "Not at first. In the beginning I felt every man was watching me suspiciously."

"We pay," she sighed, "whether in prison or out of it." "All this isn't very cheerful, is it?" he returned. "I suggested this trip to keep you in good spirits, and we both drift into morbid moods."

"What do you see?" she asked. "The good ship La Belle Alliance in the offing." A number of small craft passed and re-passed the stranded vessel. She lay pathetically on her side, a mass of rusty red and faded black. Apparently none of the Grant household was on the private bench.

"I wonder if Mrs. Grant will let me go back," said Mademoiselle Dupin when the launch was headed for home. "Surely you don't want to go back?" he cried. "Why not?" she answered. "I cannot remain where I am any longer. I shall never cease to be grateful for what you have done. Some day I may be able to repay you. I can never forget what you rescued me from. But you must see I cannot be a burden to you any longer."

"Burden?" he scoffed. "That is absurd." Nevertheless he saw that nothing would alter her. "If you must go I cannot hold you back, but please don't go back to Deal yet. That might upset my plans and bring suspicion on you. Do me this favor. Stay on with Mrs. Kinney until my scheme for Sutton succeeds or fails. You are putting me under obligations. He was morose and gloomy all the way there, and I want him at his best. Don't go back on me now," he pleaded.

"If I can believe I am helping you it is different," she said. "But I only suspect more of your generosity."

"Sometimes you have looked at me," she said, "as though you wanted to know about my past. I have felt it as strongly as if you had spoken. 'You cannot imagine how much I have wanted to know,' he returned, "but I haven't any right to ask."

"I think I should like you to know. My father was Russian and my mother French. They died when I was quite young. For years I was at a convent in Paris. My guardian was a Colonel Ogilvie, who had been to a time in the Russian service with my father. There was very little money left from the estate. My father was suspected of liberal tendencies and his lands confiscated. Yet, when I joined Colonel Ogilvie and his friend Count von Schonbrunn in Cannes, I was not yet eighteen. They took a splendid house for me, which was in reality a gambling establishment, although I did not know it. There is much money among the visitors to Cannes, Nice and Pau, and there was a vast profit in the house. The police broke up the establishment at Cannes. So we moved to Nice, where there was a scandal about crooked play. And so on in other cities. You may believe me or not, but I was kept in ignorance of this. I was convent-bred and had been taught obedience to my guardian. I married Count de Beauclerc before I was twenty. He thought I was an heiress, and my guardian and Von Schonbrunn thought he was the head of the rich branch of his family. Instead, he had nothing. When it all came to light, he left me. I had news of his death while you were staying in Old Westbury."

"I remember," Trent said. It was this death which had seemed to clear the way for her marriage to Captain Monmouth, the man who had repudiated her so strangely. "After he left me, and I found out what sort of a man my guardian was, I joined the rest of them, knowing full well their way of life. I think I wanted to avenge myself on all men. I was in London for a season and then came here. You know what I was here. That is all."

Her story was very much what Trent had imagined it to be. Certainly she had more excuse for her career than he had for his. He believed her wholly when she said she had been for so long in ignorance of the men surrounding her.

"Are there any people over here, men and women with whom you were associated in the Riviera, who might recognize you?" (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Lesson for September 30 PAUL THE MISSIONARY

GOLDEN TEXT—Christ liveth in me. Galatians 2:20. PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories of Paul. JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul, the Brave Missionary. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul the Dauntless. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—"In Labors More Abundant."

In the review of this quarter's lessons, a good opportunity is given for character study. The interests of the quarter's lessons center in Paul, Stephen, Barnabas, John Mark, Luke, Timothy, James and Ananias. Assignments should be made a week in advance for the preparation of brief essays by the pupils.

Another method would be to lift out the principles contained in the lessons of the quarter and apply them to the important problems of the day. The following suggestions are offered: Paul's Ideal Education; Evidence of Genuine Conversion; What Is a True Christian? What Is the Real Missionary Spirit? Who Should Go as Missionaries? Should Religious Differences Be Compromised? If so, How Far? How to Be Assured of Divine Leading.

Perhaps the most satisfactory method for adults is to summarize the facts and state the leading lessons. The following suggestions are offered: Lesson for July 1, Paul, by birth and education, had much to be proud of. A godly ancestry and a true education ought to be the heritage of every child.

Lesson for July 8, While Stephen ministered in the benevolences of the church he testified of Christ and met with violent opposition. The ring-leader in this opposition was Paul. A man may be conscientious and wrong.

Lesson for July 15, Paul in unbeliever zealously persecuted the church, even consenting to the death of Stephen. When his eyes were opened by the appearance of Jesus Christ on the road to Damascus he was transformed into a zealous witness for Christ.

Lesson for July 22, The sight which Paul had of Christ was so real that he at once testified of His deity and saving power.

Lesson for July 29, Paul and Barnabas were sent forth by the Holy Ghost to preach the gospel to the Gentiles. They were opposed by Elymas, the sorcerer. Spirit-filled men will most surely meet with opposition.

Lesson for August 5, The preaching of Barnabas and Saul was accompanied with such wonderful signs that the people attempted to worship them as gods. The same people soon were moved to stone them. Despite this horrible treatment, Barnabas and Saul carried on their work.

Lesson for August 12, The question of the grounds upon which Gentiles were to be received was bitterly debated. Paul preached that it was to be by faith alone. Certain Judaizing teachers taught that faith was to be supplemented by the works of the law.

Lesson for August 19, Paul was forbidden to preach in Asia; then called to preach in Europe. Divine guidance is just as really shown in closed doors as in open doors.

Lesson for August 26, When Paul's missionary work interfered with the unlawful gain of certain men at Philippi, he and Silas were sent to jail. Through their miraculous deliverance and their testimony of the saving power of Christ, the jailer was converted.

Lesson for September 2, Wicked Jews followed Paul to Thessalonica and Berea. They stirred up the people to such an extent that he had to flee. Wherever he went his ministry was accompanied by supernatural signs so as to convince the Gentiles.

Lesson for September 9, Paul preached the gospel in Corinth with such power that many were saved. The gospel is the power of God unto salvation.

Lesson for September 16, The church was threatened with disruption through party spirit. The right conception of the gospel, Christian ministers and persons constituting the church, will cure sectarianism.

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normal lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings. The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe bowel stimulant.

This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative. It has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds, fevers. As your druggist, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. B, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It. Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Fletcher's CASTORIA CONSTIPATION RELIEVED QUICKLY. Carter's Little Liver Pills. They relieve the bowels from their pain and discomforts and prevent the poisons which cause that dull and aching feeling. Remember they are a doctor's prescription and are sold by all druggists. SELF-OILING
Boxes

The good qualities of this new device can be readily seen when compared with the old style, noisy, lumbering windmill, which had to be oiled every day in order to run. Now, your oiling troubles are at an end. The self-oiling feature of the new SAMSON wherein all bearings run constantly in a flood of oil, causes the windmill to run easily, make less noise and with less expense than any windmill on the market. As proof of the pudding is in the eating of it, so is the lasting virtues of the Samson windmill, made possible by a trial test. For full information SEE--
