was a business visitor from his home in Oscura for several days the first of the week. The Judge is recovering from a serious siege of the flu, and in response to the question put to him by numerous individuals, asking if he would return to his old home in Fairfield, Ill. (a good state, by the way) he says he likes the sunshine of Lincoln county and says that no murky, rainy and gloomy east for him.

Stadtmans Sell Business

The entire business of the Lincoln Abstract & Investment Trust of Carrizozo, N. M., was sold last week when W. W. Stadtman and M. Ethel Stadtman, his wife, transferred all their holdings to Miss Grace M. Jones of Carrizozo, N. M.

The Abstract and Insurance business of the above firm started with the establishment, by W. W. Stadtman of a Fire Insurance Agency in 1912. To this business was added the Abstract Business in 1917 and the firm under the personal management of Mr. and Mrs. Stadtman has become well known throughout the state of New Mexico.

The transfer of the interests of the above Trust to Miss Jones leaves the management and control in very well-known and competent hands.

Miss Jones has had experience at abstract and title work becoming to Lincoln County. Since coming to Lincoln County, she has been affiliated with the Banking, Insurance and Legal business of Lincoln County. She has also, through her association with the Lincoln Abstract & Investment Trust, become competent in abstracting of titles in Lincoln County.

Bitten by Bear

On his return from Mountainair last Sunday, Frank Vigil, courthouse janitor, informed us that Margarito Robles, who was formerly a resident of Carrizozo, was bitten on the hand by a tame bear while in the act of feeding the animal. Frank said that it was feared that the boy would lose his hand, as it was very badly mutilated.

The First Weeks Are the Easiest

Road Matters of Interest to Lincoln County

Road Foreman Chas. F. Grey was interviewed yesterday and had the following to say about roads and bridges:

A new bridge has been completed at the Cooper draw, one at the Rowden draw and one at the Coal Mines draw about 2 1/2 miles below Oscura. All 21's.

At North, a station below Oscura, a double-16 bridge has been completed and the big 5-span bridge is completed with the exception of the dirt work, which will soon be finished, making it one of the strongest bridges on the road and will eliminate the danger of being washed away by the terrific floods which heretofore have been a menace to that particular spot.

On the Carrizozo-Socorro Highway, work is progressing rapidly. Structures are in place across the Spencer ranch and the forces on each side of the Malpais are working toward each other with the idea of meeting in the middle of the lava beds.

The highway from Corona to Three Rivers is in splendid condition and that portion between Carrizozo and Oscura has been re-ditched and re-shouldered. All places which suffered from recent snows and rains along the road are in ship-shape now and the road as a whole is a pleasure to travel over. Incoming travelers, more especially traveling men, report our roads in better condition than any in our sister states and make this particular mention without being solicited.

The road forces under Mr. Grey are making preparations against floods which come in the spring and safe-guarding formerly weak spots along the line.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stadtman

personally and in behalf of the Lincoln Abstract & Investment Trust, desire to thank their many patrons for the business received during past years, and they also desire to recommend to the people of Lincoln County the services of Miss Grace M. Jones, who has purchased the above business and who will continue to conduct the same in the painstaking and careful manner as it has been conducted before.

The withdrawing from the active work in the Lincoln Abstract & Investment Trust still leaves us as citizens of Carrizozo, Mr. Stadtman, as Field Assistant for the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, will maintain headquarters at Carrizozo and will continue to handle the duties as Village Clerk.

W. W. Stadtman, Mrs. M. Ethel Stadtman

Mrs. Vincent Reil

of the Passing Week at the Crystal Theatre

Last Saturday night, the local talent of Cloudercroft presented "Safety First" to a large and appreciative audience and from start to finish, the patrons were treated to a play full of pep and interest, in which, each member of the cast performed his or her part in commendable manner.

The cast was of more than ordinary interest to us from the fact that Mrs. T. J. Pittman and daughter Ida Mae, Mrs. Pittman as the maid and Miss Ida Mae as "Zuleka," added much to the importance of the play and as they are now considered a part of our population, their familiar faces made the cast more like that of our home talent. The play has been put on at Cloudercroft, Tularosa and Alamogordo before being presented here and we hope they will come again. The foregoing picture to the play, "Domestic Troubles," was a good companion and fitted in nicely. Everybody got a kick out of the "real kick."

Monday Tuesday and Wednesday nights, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was presented to large audiences and was the best of its kind ever seen on either screen or stage; in fact, the picture brings out more in detail than has ever been produced on the stage and is more effective as a whole. More especially would we mention the character "Simon Legree" as portrayed by George Seligman and that of "Marks, the Lawyer" by Lucien Littlefield. George Seligman performed more acts of cussedness than the mind of Harriet Beecher Stowe ever conceived when the book was written.

Manager Pittman is making extraordinary efforts to give the patrons the very best he can select from the contract he assumed on taking charge of the theatre and the public should appreciate this fact and support our only place of amusement in a liberal manner. Last night and tonight, "Excess Baggage," proclaimed one of the ten best pictures made in 1928, will be shown. "Show People," which will be shown next week is another one. Don't miss them!

Las Cruces Man Recalls Removal of Mexican Flag

Las Cruces — Jacinto Padilla, centenarian living in Las Cruces, is believed to be the only living witness to the hauling down of the Mexican flag at La Mesilla, and the hoisting of the Stars and Stripes over the courthouse there, following the Gadsden purchase in 1853.

Padilla, who claims to be more than 100 years old, was living in the town of Dona Ana when the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1848 placed it in the United States territory, he said.

His father and several other Mexicans then took their families and moved to La Mesilla so that they might still dwell in their native country.

Padilla said he was a young man when the Mexican flag in the plaza of La Mesilla was replaced with the American flag, and he believes he is the only person now alive who witnessed the celebration.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

The new freight service, running from here to Tucumcari is going on with less handicaps than were at first expected. Of course, the change necessitates the hauling of lesser tonnage than before which gives work to more men in the train service. The run from Vaughn over to Tucumcari being somewhat strange to trainmen who formerly worked from here to Vaughn, there has been some drawbacks where more practical experience will be needed in order to save time and become more effective in lightening the toil on the trainmen.

Since the change went into effect, the Carrizozo Eating House has had a hard time to accommodate the increase in its business, so many new crews being added to the service and in view of that fact, the company has caused foreman J. M. Russell and his force of 10 men busy in making bedrooms in the basement of the Club House. The bowling alley has been taken out and 7 rooms are being made along the southeast side of the basement formerly occupied by the bowling alley. There will be two large rooms, 17 x 18 and the remaining 5 rooms will be of dimensions as follows: 2, 14 x 12; 1, 17 x 12, 1, 9 x 12; 1, 8 x 12. There are wide windows overhead in each room, to allow plenty of ventilation.

A large door is being cut in the south wall and 14 concrete steps will be put in leading to the outer backyard. This will serve as an exit in case of fire and roomers will have free access to this exit in cases of emergency. The lower floor will be made convenient in every way and arranged as homelike as manager E. H. Sweet, under whose supervision the place will be conducted, can possibly make it; safety first and comfort being the main things in his mind.

Foreman Price and a force of 25 men in the signal service are here and are going over the signal equipment and making new improvements wherever needed. Changes over the line between here and Tucumcari are being made, all in the way of improvements which will work to the better advantage of both the company and the men.

Corona Wallops Mountainair

Saturday night, the Mountainair basketball teams met the Corona teams in a tussle at Corona.

A hard-fought game was played, but the Corona boys won with a score of 15 to 16. The Corona girls won, the score being 30 to 19.

The Mountainair boys commented on the good sportsmanship of the Corona teams. This makes each team winning a game. There will probably be another game this season.

Miss Kell

Principal of the Lincoln schools, was a Carrizozo visitor last Friday to see the basketball game between Lincoln and Carrizozo, and while here, Miss Kell paid this office a call.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. P. Warden and children were in yesterday from their ranch near Ancho.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Hoover Spends Week in the Capital Conferring and Building a Cabinet.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER spent the week in Washington conferring with President Coolidge, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and others prominent in the Republican party. Besides discussing German reparations, farm relief, an extra session of congress and other problems, he was presumably selecting at least some of the ten members of his cabinet. But he was firm in his determination not to make public any results of his conferences and cogitations. Washington correspondents were compelled to guess, and they did a lot of guessing.

As to the new cabinet, the guesses were almost unanimous in the belief that Mr. Mellon would retain the treasury portfolio. It was said this was settled even before the election. Soon after his arrival Mr. Hoover had luncheon and a long talk with the financier, probably concerning the European project to liquidate German reparations and the war debts owed the United States. The scaling down of those debts to America was formerly a matter on which Hoover and Mellon were in sharp disagreement. The deep interest Mr. Hoover displays in Latin-America intensifies the belief that his secretary of state will be Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who has done such excellent work in re-establishing amicable relations with Mexico. For the same reason some of the correspondents think Mr. Hoover will select for secretary of commerce Dr. Julius Klein, who, as chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, helped greatly the expansion of American trade with Latin-America.

That the southern border states will be given representation in the cabinet is taken for granted, and one of the most conspicuous candidates is Mrs. A. T. Hart of Kentucky, a vice chairman of the Republican national committee. She wants the place of secretary of the interior, and last week several Republican congressmen from Kentucky urged Mr. Hoover to give her that place or make her postmaster general. No woman has ever been a member of an American cabinet. The interior department portfolio also was asked for Bascom Blom of Virginia. William J. Donovan's claims on an appointment are strong and it was thought he might be made either attorney general or, more likely, secretary of war. One of Mr. Hoover's callers was Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa and it was his purpose to warn the President-Elect that the Republican radicals in the senate would make a bitter fight against confirmation of either Mr. Mellon or Mr. Donovan. Semi-officially it was stated Mr. Hoover did not expect to complete his cabinet until just before his inauguration. He was soon to go to Miami Beach for a rest, intending to return to Washington by February 15 to continue that job. This plan will make his projected visits to Cuba, Haiti, Porto Rico and Mexico City rather hurried.

Representatives of agricultural states told the President-Elect they would rather have an extra session for the handling of farm relief legislation. They think a more satisfactory bill may be passed under Hoover than under Coolidge, and they would rather have the former appoint the federal farm board. The Pennsylvania delegation in congress wants the extra session also to take up the matter of tariff revision upward.

DEBATE on the ratification of the Kellogg anti-war treaty brought out a lot of oratory in the senate, the most persistent speakers being those demanding reservations and interpretive statements. Facets were given credit for delaying action on the treaty, their idea being that this would help them in defeating the 10-cent naval bill. Senator Borah was confident that there were enough votes for the treaty without reservation or interpretation.

In the house right-of-way under special rule was given the bill for reapportionment of the house membership on the basis of the 1930 census. The measure, which is sponsored by Chairman Fenn of the census committee, would divide the representatives by the major fraction plan, which would result in the loss of about twenty-three representatives by some states and an equal gain by others, particularly those in the Middle and Far West, where the population has greatly increased since 1910. The last time an apportionment was made on the basis of a population of 91,041,107.

MICHIGAN'S "life for a pint" law and the plight of its latest victim, Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, stirred up a lively clash in the house. During the debate, precipitated by a dry defender of the Michigan code, wets seized the opportunity to compare the alleged past record of Mrs. Miller with the "moral lapses" of Sebastian S. Kresge, millionaire chain store owner and a chief contributor to the Anti-Saloon league.

The same day Senator Harris of Georgia offered an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill adding $50,000,000 for prohibition enforcement, and he said if this was defeated he would submit a similar rider to every appropriation bill brought to the senate.

In Ottawa, Canada, a conference on liquor smuggling was being held by delegates from the United States and the Dominion, and the former didn't do so well. They tried to persuade the Canadians to refuse papers to vessels seeking to clear for United States ports with liquor cargoes, but the reply of the Canucks was in effect an inquiry why the United States could not arrange her own laws to handle the problem instead of asking aid from another country. They also quoted former American prohibition officials as saying that liquor smuggled from Canada formed only a small portion of the total amount consumed in the country, and implied, in effect, "Why all the excitement about this small source?"

ALL records for sustained flight in an aircraft of any description were smashed by the army's big trimotored plane Question Mark over southern California. Manned by Maj. Carl Spatz, Capt. Ira Eaker, Lieut. H. A. Halverson and E. R. Quesada and Sgt. Roy Hoop, the plane was refueled in the air 30 times and flew for 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds before trouble with two of its motors forced it to a landing at the starting point on the Los Angeles air field. The practicability of refueling of airplanes while en route was demonstrated, and this was said by the army air officers to be the major purpose of the flight. The members of the crew were supplied with food by the fuel planes and came out of the ordeal in excellent physical condition. Air mail and passenger service between the United States and the West Indies was inaugurated last week by the Pan-American Airways, Inc., operating company for the Aviation Corporation of the Americas. The trimotored plane Havana was first on the route, with distinguished passengers, including Miss Amelia Earhart. At Havana its mail was transferred to another plane which took off for Santiago de Cuba en route to Porto Rico. About the same time the service was started from Porto Rico.

Igor Sikorsky, famous Russian airplane constructor, told in London of the plan of himself and others to establish a 43-hour air service across the Atlantic ocean, which will be worked with the aid of four artificial islands to be anchored in the Atlantic.

QUARRELS between the Croats and the Serbs in the kingdom of Yugoslavia have resulted in the addition of another dictatorship to the growing list in Europe. King Alexander, declaring that the parliamentary system had failed completely, abrogated the constitution and dissolved parliament, the land assemblies and municipal councils, and assumed absolute power himself, with Gen. Peter Zaykovich, commander of the royal bodyguards, as his premier. The Croats were at first pleased by the coup, and the Serb politicians were correspondingly depressed. Later, when it appeared that the military dictatorship would be long lived, none of them liked it so well. The king first clamped on a strict censorship; next he issued an entire new set of laws, completely changing the Yugoslavian jurisprudence, and then he issued a proclamation forbidding all public assemblage in the kingdom. Italy and Great Britain are intensely interested in these developments, and it is said the British government is far from satisfied with Alexander's action.

WHITE RUSSIANS everywhere were in mourning for Grand Duke Nicholas, chief claimant to the throne, who died in Cannes, France. He was a cousin of the late Czar Nicholas II and in the World war made a reputation as a great military commander. His nephew, Grand Duke Cyril, has now become the head of the Russian Imperialists.

WORK of the Pan-American conciliation congress in Washington culminated in the signing of compulsory arbitration and conciliation treaties by representatives of the United States and nineteen Latin American nations. The arbitration treaty provides for obligatory arbitration of all juridical questions it has not been possible to adjust by diplomacy. The conciliation treaty provides for conciliation of all disputes arising between the signatory nations, which cannot be settled by diplomacy. All nations are bound to submit their disputes to conciliation but are not bound by the decisions rendered. Permanent commissions are established and obligated to attempt to mediate disputes before they reach the dangerous stage. Under this treaty no contracting country can go to war for 18 months without violating the pact. Secretary of State Kellogg announced the appointment of Brig. Gen. Frank H. McCoy as American member of the conciliation commission which will attempt to mediate the differences between Bolivia and Paraguay.

IF HOSTILITIES do not break out between China and Japan it will not be the fault of the Japanese. The latest trouble is in Hankow. A Chinese man was killed there by a motor cycle operated by a Japanese marine, and the Japanese consul refused to pay the compensation demanded. An anti-Japanese society picketed the Japanese concession, practically isolating it, and the reply of Japan was the landing of a strong force of marines in Hankow. Chinese Nationalist officials filed protests and warned Japan of the danger of serious results, and the Nanjing government sent a navy squadron into Tsingtao harbor, which is occupied by the Japanese navy.

AT THE inaugural ball in Hartford marking the social beginning of the third term of Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, John Coolidge, son of the President, appeared in the resplendent uniform of a major, having just been appointed an officer on the governor's staff. Major John and Miss Trumbull, his fiancée, helped Governor and Mrs. Trumbull lead the grand march.

TEN RICKARD, greatest of American sport promoters, died in a hospital in Miami Beach of complications that set in after an operation for the removal of his appendix. His body was taken to New York and lay in state in the New Madison Square Garden which he built, and many thousands of genuine mourners passed before his bier. The funeral ceremony was held in the Garden in the presence of 10,000 persons, among them being prominent sportsmen and celebrities in other walks of life.

Another noteworthy death of the week was that of Benjamin Duke, principal figure in the American tobacco industry.

THE high council of the Salvation Army, meeting in Sunbury, England, adopted a resolution asking Gen. Bramwell Booth, leader of the Army for the last 16 years, to retire from that post because of the condition of his health. At the same time it was made clear that in retirement he would retain his title of general and continue to enjoy the honor and distinction attached to it.

The prospectus of industrial and employment conditions for the year 1929 just released by the U. S. Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor at Denver states that a gradual expansion is indicated in Arizona in all lines of industry during 1929, and will be reflected in practically all sections of the state. Increased activity will be particularly indicated in agriculture, horticulture, metal mining, live stock, dairying, building, general construction, municipal construction and highway construction. Agricultural, metal mining, building and general construction activities, indicated to show a material expansion during the year. Labor demands during 1929 will most likely show a material increase in metal mining, building, agricultural and general construction lines. Anticipated gradual influx of miscellaneous workers into state during 1929, will probably be sufficient to cause a fairly balanced labor supply and demand condition, except for a moderate shortage of skilled metal miners and a considerable shortage of cotton pickers during the 1929 harvest season. In New Mexico every indication points to a general increase in industrial activity and employment during 1929, particularly to be evidenced in agriculture, horticulture, live stock, dairying, building, general construction, coal mining and oil. The most outstanding industrial event to be noted in state during 1929 will be the commencement of construction of the huge Middle-Rio Grande Conservancy Project. Demand for both skilled and unskilled labor, will show a moderate increase, particularly in connection with agricultural, metal mining and general construction activities. Resident supply of labor indicated adequate to meet requirements in all lines, except for a considerable number of cotton pickers, during the fall in the Roswell district, a moderate number of skilled building mechanics in some districts and a moderate number of skilled metal miners.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By JOHN CLARENCE FUNK
THE SEDUCTIVE LADY

A VERY romantic lady indeed is Queen Nicotine. And a very powerful one, too. The amazing number of her devoted subjects is a world wide phenomenon. And no living ruler reigns with such despotic sway as does she. From her humble start among the American Indians she now has attained a dominating social power wonderful to behold.

Of the advantages attributed to tobacco no one needs to be told. It is an ever-present and continuously repeated story. But there is another side of the picture to which more attention needs to be given; this refers to the harm of too great affection for it can accomplish.

Of course, it would be folly to state that tobacco is harmful to everyone. Pipe and cigar smoking in moderation—and moderation is a personal equation with different individuals—is apparently harmless to thousands, many of whom are old people!

However, it is the cigarette especially that demands attention at this time. Its general popularity among men and women, boys, and even girls, justifies a discussion of its proper and improper use. True, if smoked casually and uninhaled, it is the mildest form in which tobacco can be consumed. But those who employ it in this fashion are in the very great minority. On the other hand, when inhaled consistently and constantly it is capable of harm and oftimes of much harm.

While definite statistics are yet lacking there seems to be a very close connection between the excessive use of tobacco and the heart and circulatory diseases; which diseases, by the way, are so markedly on the upgrade these days in America. A very significant fact—perhaps, when considered in connection with the cigarette. To damage irreparably or even temporarily any portion of one's physical economy for the sake of a transitory gratification of the smoke taste displays a lack of applied intelligence quite unflattering.

To injure one's heart, to enervate one's nerves, to poison one's blood stream, to pour smoke into tissues which were manufactured for air only—and that of the best obtainable—is to pay too big a price for over-devotion to the cigarette.

Health in its highest perfection cannot be realized if inhaled smoke in any quantity is a part of one's daily program. This is the solidest of facts. Speaking generally, there is a very definite point where health and tobacco must part. Frequently that point will be self-discovered through admonitory pains, headaches and other untoward symptoms. But not always. It may require the assistance of a physician. In any event if you are bent on enjoying long life, discover the parting point. And abide by the discovery. Neglecting to heed this advice may cause failure for you in your long life program. Give it some thought.

LIFE IS SWEET, BUT IT'S NOT ALL SUGAR

SUGAR is exceedingly popular these days. Tons of it are to be found displayed in alluring forms in countless stores throughout the nation. Packages of infinite variety and appealing artistry add to the lure. And the sweet-tooth already developed to the nth degree adds yearly to its gigantic size.

A close competitor to candy is the soft drink habit. Here again, the purveyors of sweetened fluids have set the stage most appealingly. Consequently at nearly every street corner, by the omnipresent suggestion of attractive advertising, one is urged to quench thirst by the soft drink route.

Now there is nothing whatsoever wrong with pure candy or with pure drinks. Even the synthetic potatoes measure up in most instances to the pure food laws and are themselves harmless. The trouble lies in the improper use of these luxuries.

As appetite wreckers with both children and grownups, candy and soda water play too large a part. And to use them consciously or unconsciously as a substitute for potatoes and meat is carrying the thing a bit too far. Yet people by the thousands are daily doing that very thing.

A good rule to follow is to be as careful in using these commodities for yourself as you are regarding your children. And if you are not now sparing with them, then get that way very quickly.

In their proper place, candy and soft drinks are perfectly all right. Out of their place, they are perfectly all wrong. Guide yourself accordingly.

Republican Nicknames
The term "Grand Old Man" was applied to Mr. Gladstone in 1862, and is accredited to John Bright, who used it in a speech made in that year in Northampton, England. In America the phrase was appropriated and changed by members of the Republican party, who affectionately called it the "Grand Old Party." This at once became a newspaper slogan, and in the headlines alluding to the party was shortened into "G. O. P."

When your Children Cry for It
There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Mrs. Bell Tells Her Friends of Her Narrow Escape

"Something over a year ago I had the flu, which left me with a very bad cough which kept getting worse all the time, until I could not lie down at night. If I attempted to lie down I would cough all night and choke up so I would have to sit up in bed. This continued until I got so weak I could not walk across the floor, and every night I thought would be my last. I became so thin that my hands would meet around my legs. My doctor said that my lungs were affected and I was in a desperate condition. Finally I read about Milks Emulsion and started to use it. I have now taken it about three months and I am entirely recovered. My cough is gone and I have taken on flesh and strength, and I thank God that I found Milks Emulsion. I have spread the good news among all my friends, and there are five of my immediate neighbors taking it, and they all say it has done them so much good. Yours truly, MRS. K. BELL, 1640 Bergen St., Brooklyn, N. Y."

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or fetid breath signals need of a sweetener. Physicians will tell you that every spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

Penetration Into Secrets of Nature Causes Faith of Man to Expand

By CHAPLAIN RAYMOND C. KNOX, Columbia University.

RELIGION suffers and stagnates without increasing knowledge; it becomes opposed to progress. With enlarging knowledge, religion becomes more charitable, more spiritual, more capable of doing its real work in the world. As men penetrate farther and farther into nature's secrets, as they give us a better understanding of the universe in which we live, as they make known to us more of the origin, the development, the laws of life, we are to think of them not as destroying faith, as is sometimes foolishly charged, but as men who make it possible for our faith to expand and grow.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, one of America's most distinguished scientists said: "Scientists imbued with the spirit of service, which is the essence of religion, and religion, guided by intelligence, the intellectual honesty and the effectiveness of science, can, between them, without shadow of doubt, transform the world."

May this vision, prophesied when Christ was born, be not far distant, and His Kingdom shall come!

In the Three Wise Men who came from the East the church has seen the symbol that Christ fulfills the hopes of all men everywhere, and that in Him racial barriers are to be done away.

It is further a symbol that men who are seekers of truth, who are striving to understand the world in which we live, and the mystery of life, are naturally attracted to Him who declared: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." In Him they find the answer to the profoundest questions that can be asked—what is life for? What is the purpose which all of our powers, our knowledge, our resources, shall serve?

For unless we have found the purpose for which to live, life is bound to be only a baffling, a futile thing. It is never sufficient to have merely something to live on. What each one of us needs is something to live for. Without aim, men surrender to cynicism and despair.

Phlegmatic Public Conscience Enables Moneyed Evildoer to Evade Justice

By EDWARD J. FOGARTY, Warden Cook County, (Ill.) Jail.

American psychology and conscience, especially in relation to crime, is leading to a crisis in the national life of the country, which in ten years will have reached such proportions as to make the United States a dangerous place to live in. Money has law and order roped and hog tied. The man with money considers himself above the law, because the law is powerless to restrain him. Why? Because public conscience is phlegmatic or doesn't bother, and public sentiment, in many cases, leans towards the evildoer rather than denounce him.

One means which would effectively counteract the general trend of psychology in crime is to adopt the English way of thinking in relation to the criminal. There punishment follows quickly the commission of crime, and the criminal, no matter from what station in life, nor how wealthy, knows to a certainty that if caught, he will have to pay for his act. In this country, on the contrary, many months frequently pass before the accused man is brought to trial, and in a large number of cases material witnesses have disappeared and the state is unable to prove its case.

Our jails are overcrowded, our penitentiaries taxed to capacity, it is true, but that in itself means nothing. To restrain a criminal for a time before his trial with the hope always that he can beat his case, is no deterrent. Take a cross section of prison inmates throughout the country. Analyze them and you find the poor man who cannot afford a tricky lawyer, or the criminal with neither influential friends nor political pull. In the meantime wealthy malefactors of our country roam the streets, dictating to the law with a fairy wand of gold.

Current Unemployment to Be Blamed on the Limitations of Markets

By PROF. SUMNER M. SLIGHTER, Cornell University.

Labor-saving devices and mass production are not the cause of current unemployment, but limited markets are. The public in recent years has not increased its buying of manufactured and agricultural goods, but has been putting its money into stocks and bonds, land, insurance, electricity and education.

It may be figured that since 1920 a decrease of 1,800,000 employees has occurred in farming, manufacturing, mining and railroading. Building construction and the repair trades have taken up some of the slack. Between 1923 and 1928 we might place the net drop in employment at between 500,000 and 1,000,000.

The most remarkable thing about this increase in unemployment is that it has occurred in the face of a rapid increase in spending by the public. Debits to individual accounts indicate the people of the United States spent at least one-third more money in 1927 than in 1923.

In order to diminish unemployment there must be a change in relationship between wages and other prices which would make it profitable for employers to use more labor. Speculation in stocks and land should be discouraged. A program of public work might cause more money to be spent for labor.

Science a Failure Because It Teaches Man That He Is Incurably Selfish

By HARRY WARD, Professor Union Theological Seminary.

In order to explain man, science must compass God. It is not enough to study where man came from and his behavior with his kind, past and present, and to try to take him apart by analyzing his mind, emotions and physical reactions. To learn what man really is, he must be put back together again and considered in his relations with God.

The note of doubt almost approaching despair in all the worth-while literature of the present day came because the World war has shown that man has failed to learn to control himself. The machine age has largely conquered the forces of nature, but when its inventions are used to promote war and when it permits the cruelty of organized sports and prostitution, evils that even animals do not know, it is a failure so far as man's control of himself is concerned.

Science fails in helping man to conquer himself because it teaches that man is incurably selfish, and this age is inferior to a more God-fearing generation that believe not only in salvation from sin but in the conquering of sin itself.

Man needs God, but God also needs man for the working of Himself on human beings on this planet.

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normal lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe bowel stimulant.

This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative. It has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds, fevers. At your druggist, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

The Blue and the Gray

Sixty - Four years ago there ended a struggle which had threatened the very existence of our nation. A struggle in which two sections of our country had arrayed themselves against each other and fought for four years with bitter hatred. At that time it seemed to many impossible that the wound would ever heal, that enmities could be forgotten. Today, so complete has been the reunion of the two factions that it seems even more impossible that such a tragic affair could have occurred.

There remain but a few of the Blue and of the Gray who fought so valiantly and stubbornly for what each believed to be the right. With the passage of years they have forgiven and forgotten. Since the time of that futile conflict their descendants have fought side by side and with equal valor for the glory of the Stars and Stripes. It could not be said those of the North are more patriotic than those of the South.

These remaining few are fast succumbing to the ravages of time. While there are yet some of those two great hosts for whom taps have not been sounded, it is planned that there is to be held, in Washington, in the year of 1929, a grand reunion.

To this end, Congressman Edgar Howard of Nebraska, has introduced a bill to provide for an appropriation to bear the expense of such a reunion and the appointment of a commission to carry out the plans.

The commission, as provided in the bill, would consist of the General of the United States Army, the commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans, the commander of the American Legion, the commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and such other persons as the President of the United States may appoint.

Such a reunion, symbolizing the complete unity of our nation, following the historic assemblies of the Blue and Gray at Gettysburg, Vicksburg, and Stony Mountain, and the return of captured battle flags, would be an event of national significance and serve as an inspirational object lesson to our people for generations to come.

Herein lies the great truth that proves that while at one time, men grasped at each other's throats over slavery and other matters which at this time are acknowledged to be of the best interest to this country, so shall it prove to be in after years, that prohibition, although the attempt at the suppression of the traffic seems to be disheartening, the day will come when men of all nations will join together in an international celebration of the death of John Barleycorn and agree that in its perishing from the earth, men are better, live longer; women and children are better clothed and have kinder treatment than ever before. It takes, as in slavery, a long time to suppress vice, but it will finally be done.

A GREATER TELEPHONE SYSTEM FOR NEW MEXICO

NEW MEXICO WILL PROFIT BY LOWER TOLL RATES

Reductions in Long Distance rates effective February 1 will mean an annual saving to the public of more than $5,000,000.

The people of New Mexico will substantially profit by these reductions which affect day calls between points from 120 to approximately 1600 miles apart. This is the third general reduction in Long Distance rates in a period of less than two years and a half.

During 1928 there was a continuous improvement in the speed with which long distance calls were handled, a large percentage of them being handled while the subscriber remained at the telephone. While this service has been speeded up, the quality of the service has been continuously improved.

Thus in long distance service it has been possible both to improve the service and reduce the rates.

A STATEMENT OF POLICY

"With your sympathetic understanding we shall continue to go forward, providing a telephone service for the nation more and more free from imperfections, errors or delays, and always at a cost as low as is consistent with financial safety."

From an address by Walter S. Gilford, President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

This company as one of the associated companies of the Bell System is in full accord with the policy outlined above.

F. H. Reid, President, The New Mexico State Telephone and Telegraph Co.

SELF-OILING

The good qualities of this new devise can be readily seen when compared with the old style, noisy, lumbering windmill, which had to be oiled every day in order to run. Now, your oiling troubles are at an end. The self-oiling feature of the new SAMSON wherein all bearings run constantly in a flood of oil, causes the windmill to run easily, make less noise and with less expense than any windmill on the market. As proof of the pudding is in the eating of it, so is the lasting virtues of the Samson windmill, made possible by a trial test. For full information SEE—

Good Things to Eat

By NELLIE MAXWELL

For a good dinner and a gentle wife, you can afford to wait—From the Danish.

A good wife and health are man's best wealth.—From the Hebrew.

Croquettes are such tasty food and may be prepared beforehand, so that they require little attention at the last, or may even be reheated in the oven if preferred.

Chicken Croquettes.—Take three cups of chopped chicken, one green pepper also chopped, one cup of bread crumbs, three beaten eggs. Add seasoning to the mixture and form into balls. Roll in egg, dip into crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Creole Sandwiches.—Soften four tablespoons of butter, add one cup of finely flaked sardines, two tablespoons of tomato catsup, one tablespoon of lemon juice and six stuffed olives chopped fine. Spread on crisp whole wheat crackers and serve.

Cover the bread with a star of tongue. Lay on top of the star thinly sliced dill pickle in log cabin fashion and crown with a sprig of watercress.

Baked Lamb Cutlets.—Slice three chicken livers and cooked chicken breast to make one cupful, add one cupful of crumbs, five tablespoons of cream, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper. Spread over the cutlets, place a thin slice of bacon on each, roll up and fry. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake, basting frequently.

Sweetbread Salad.—Cook one pair of sweetbreads, cut into half-inch cubes and add the same amount of cubes of boiled tongue. Add a little ample jelly and place on ice. Mash two hard cooked egg yolks, add salt, pepper, mustard, one teaspoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of olive oil, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and four tablespoonfuls of thick cream. Serve over the meat on lettuce.

Lamb Patties.—Grind two pounds of shoulder of lamb. Form into cakes, wrap a strip of bacon around each and fasten with a toothpick. Fry in a hot pan, season when well seared and serve with pan gravy.

Honey Doughnuts.—Take two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-half cups of honey, one cupful of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, three cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar. Mix and chill before rolling. Doughnuts made with honey are light, soft and do not dry out as do those made with sugar.

Pennsylvania Spice Cake.—Beat to a cream one-half cupful of butter and one cupful each of brown and white sugar, add three well-beaten eggs, one-half cupful of sour milk with one teaspoonful of salt, the same of cloves and allspice, two cups of seeded, chopped raisins. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a buttered baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven.

French Salad.—Take one can of drained peas, add one pint of finely cut celery, one cupful of blanched walnuts, one cupful of tart oranges. Toss lightly and garnish with celery leaves. Serve with mayonnaise.

As chestnuts are so well liked, one always welcomes something different in chestnut dishes.

Chestnut Salad.—Boil three dozen large chestnuts for twenty minutes, then plunge into cold water and remove the thin brown skins. Cut into quarters, add salt and a dash of cayenne, four tart apples cut into dice, a little dark meat of a turkey or duck, two tablespoonfuls of chopped pickle and heap on lettuce. Serve with French dressing.

Chestnut Patties.—Beat one egg, add one cupful of confectioner's sugar and one cupful of ground chestnuts, five tablespoonfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat and drop by spoonfuls on baking sheets. Dust with sugar and cinnamon and bake in a hot oven.

Sugar Cookies.—Cream one-half cupful of shortening and one cupful of sugar. Beat one egg until light and add one-fourth cupful of milk. Add this to the sugar mixture with one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Sift two cupfuls of flour with one teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add more flour if needed. Roll into rolls and place on ice.

Cheese Quaffles.—Take one cupful of hot water, two tablespoonfuls of butter and four of flour, two whole eggs and one extra yolk, three tablespoonfuls of parmesan cheese, two tablespoonfuls of chopped, cooked ham and one-half cupful of white sauce. Cook until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Cool and add the eggs one at a time, beating well; add cheese and the ham. Form into balls like olives, using a little flour to keep the mixture from sticking. Place in boiling water, cook until firm, then place in a baking dish; cover with the white sauce and bake until brown.

Fried Chicken With Peppers.—Wash six large green peppers and slice crosswise, removing the seeds and white fiber. Soak ten minutes in salt water, drain, then fry in butter or olive oil until brown. Fry the chicken as usual and arrange on a platter with the peppers over each piece of chicken. (© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

GOOD FLAVOR FOR LAMB ROAST

Preparing Shoulder of Lamb for Stuffing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The slight peppery flavor of watercress gives an unusually good flavor to stuffing for shoulder of lamb; or if you like mint with your lamb, you can try putting it into stuffing instead of sauce or jelly.

A shoulder of lamb has tender delicious meat, but ordinarily is rather hard to carve because of the shoulder blade and other bones. The butcher will remove these for you so that the meat may be cut very easily. The pocket left by taking out the shoulder blade can then be filled with any preferred stuffing.

Select a shoulder of lamb, weighing from 3 to 4 pounds. Have the butcher remove all the bones and the fall. Save the bones for making soup. A lamb shoulder may be stuffed and either left flat or rolled. The flat shoulder is easier to sew up than the rolled, and the pocket holds twice as much stuffing. Either of these completely boned stuffed shoulders can be carved straight through in attractive slices of part meat and part stuffing.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle the inside of the pocket with salt and pepper, pile in the hot stuffing lightly, and sew the edges together. Rub salt and pepper, and flour over the outside. If the shoulder has only a very thin fat covering, lay several strips of bacon over the top. Place the roast on a rack in an open pan without water. Sear for 30 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit). If bacon is laid over the roast, shorten the time of searing so as to avoid overbrowning. Reduce the temperature of the oven to 300 degrees Fahrenheit, and cook the meat at this temperature until tender. From 2 1/2 to 3 hours will be required to cook a medium-sized stuffed shoulder at these oven temperatures. Serve hot, with brown gravy.

For mint or watercress stuffing you will need 3 cupfuls fine dry bread-crumbs, 1/2 cupful fresh mint leaves or 1 1/2 cupfuls finely cut watercress leaves and stems, 6 tablespoonfuls butter, 3 tablespoonfuls chopped celery, 1 1/2 tablespoonfuls chopped onion, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1/2 teaspoonful pepper. Melt one-half the butter in a skillet and add the onion and celery. Cook for 2 minutes and add the mint leaves or the finely cut watercress and other seasonings. Push the mixture to one side of the skillet and in the empty part melt the remaining butter and stir in the bread crumbs. When they have absorbed the butter, mix all the ingredients together. When using watercress allow the liquid which cooks out to evaporate before the buttered crumbs are added.

For he was grateful indeed to the kind keeper who had made him well and who had been so good to him and so gentle with his poor sore hoofs.

Mr. Deer licked the keeper's hands and his great big brown eyes looked straight into the keeper's eyes, and he said, in deer talk: "Thank you, dear keeper, thank you!" (© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Harold's Mother Knew Answer

"Yes, sir, I am certainly proud of my little boy," says Mrs. H. M. Smith, 421 Topeka Ave., Topeka, Kansas. "He's five and weighs fifty-seven pounds. He's the picture of health as you can see, and I feel like he'll always be that way as long as I can get California Fig Syrup. I have used it with him ever since he was a year old. I knew what to give him for his colds and his feverish, upset spells because Mother used California Fig Syrup with all of us as children. I have used it freely with my boy and he loves it. It always fixes him up, quick."

In many homes, like this, the third and fourth generations are using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup because it has never failed to do what is expected of it. Nothing so quickly and thoroughly purges a child's system of the souring waste which keeps him cross, feverish, headachy, bilious, half-sick, with coated tongue, bad breath and no appetite or energy as long as it is allowed to remain in the little stomach and bowels. Fig Syrup gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do, and helps build up and strengthen weak, pale and underweight children. Over four million bottles used a year shows its popularity. The genuine, endorsed by physicians for 60 years, always bears the word "California."

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys If Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.
To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Fairy Tale for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

One day Mother Deer became ill. Oh, she was very miserable indeed. She had eaten something which had disagreed with her and she felt a very bad pain.

The keeper gave her some medicine in her food and before long she felt quite well again.
"It is horrid to feel ill," she thought to herself. And surely every one would have agreed with that thought could they have heard it.

She was so thankful to the keeper for making her well, but to and behold, only the day after she was cured Mr. Deer felt most uncomfortable.

"You must have eaten the same thing I did," said Mother Deer.
"It was something that was thrown in my yard by a passerby."
"Yes, and perhaps it took me longer to feel ill than it did you," said Mr. Deer.

"Too bad you're not all over it now as I am," said Mother Deer.
"It hurts me so to get down on my knees, which I do now when it's time to eat.

"It's most uncomfortable for me to walk, too," said Mr. Deer.
"Now," said the keeper, "this deer is really much more poorly than Mrs. Doe was.

"It will take him a longer time to get all well for his hoofs have become very much infected."

BINDING FOR BLOUSE, DRESS

To bind or face the neck of a blouse or dress quickly and neatly, cut a double bias binding of the material (thin silk is the best for heavy material). Place raw edges of binding to raw edge of neck and stitch. When the binding is turned you will fold to hem to the garment instead of an extra turn to be made. It will help to keep the binding true if it is basted before being cut.

HANDY WORK CENTERS IN KITCHEN

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

While the oblong-shaped kitchen is most often recommended for compactness and convenience, it is possible for a room of irregular shape to answer all the needs of the housewife in her kitchen if the work centers are well arranged in relation to each other. Here is a floor plan of a kitchen studied by the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. In spite of the fact that the wall space is broken by five doors—three are usual, and it is possible to get along with two—the work centers in this kitchen are well placed, away from the main lines of travel, and properly related to each other.

For example, food is delivered at the back porch door; stored on the drop shelf, to be placed in the refrigerator or closet; prepared at the work table; cooked at the stove, and served through the pass close to the dining room. All the necessary plates and vegetable dishes are at hand in the cupboard above the sink, reached from both dining room and kitchen. When the meal is over soiled dishes are cleared away by passing them through directly to the sink, where they are washed and stored in the dish cupboard.

There is a window at the end of the work table and two at the counter which continues into the sink drainboard. One of the doors in this kitchen leads to the cellar and laundry. Those to the closet, to the main hall and stairs, and to the dining room open onto what is virtually a small hallway and so do not in reality encroach on the kitchen space or the usual lines of travel from one task to another.

Household Notes

Brush wet fur to keep it from matting.

To brighten a room, use yellow instead of blue or gray.

Use lightly buttered whole wheat toast for the small child's breakfast.

Do not fasten linoleum to the floor until two weeks after it has been laid. This allows it to stretch.

Too much sugar causes many of the failures in apple jelly. Two-thirds as much sugar as juice is a good proportion.

Tomato paste is an excellent form of preserved tomatoes for use in winter soups, stews, and scalloped dishes. It is made by spreading thick tomato paste on a plate and drying it.

Lesson for January 27

THE HOLY SPIRIT

LESSON TEXT—John 16:7-11; Romans 8:12-17, 26, 27.
GOLDEN TEXT—For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Unseen Helper.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Unseen Helper. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Holy Spirit Helps Us. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Work of the Holy Spirit.

I. The Personality of the Spirit (John 16:7, 8).

Personality is here implied by the use of the personal pronoun. In the original Scriptures personal pronouns are used uniformly in speaking of the Spirit. Then, too, He is called the Comforter. The word "comforter" literally means one called to stand by the side of another as a helper, counselor and guide. While Jesus sojourning in the world He was such to His disciples. He assured them that upon His withdrawal the Holy Spirit would take His place as friend, helper and counselor. The personality of the Spirit is also proved by the fact that He performs acts only possible to persons. In John 14:26 He performs the function of a teacher. He not only teaches, but He speaks as a person, giving direction to the disciples as in Acts 8:29 and 13:2. His personality is again proved by the fact that men act toward Him as they could act only toward a person. In Isaiah 63:10 the prophet declared that men vexed the Holy Spirit. It would be manifestly improper to speak of vexing an influence; only a person can be vexed. In Matthew 12:31 Jesus speaks of men blaspheming against the Holy Spirit. It would be impossible to blaspheme against an influence. In Ephesians 4:30 Paul speaks of grieving the Spirit. Again, it would be manifestly improper to speak of grieving an influence. Further, in 1 Corinthians 12:11 Paul speaks of the Holy Spirit exercising the function of will. One of the essential characteristics of personality is that of will. The Holy Spirit is represented as divine. He has the attributes of deity. In Psalm 139:7-9 He is declared to be omnipresent; in 1 Corinthians 2:10-11 omniscient. He also performs the works of God. He is the creator and renewer (1a. 104:30). He is called God in Acts 5:3-4, and 11 Corinthians 3:18.

II. How Believers are Related to the Holy Spirit. They are regenerated by Him (John 3:5-8); they are indwelt by Him (1 Cor. 6:19 Gal. 4:6). He also fills (Eph. 5:18 and Acts 4:31). To be filled with the Holy Spirit is the duty of every believer. No one has the right to perform any work for Christ without this filling (Luke 24:49; Acts 1:5). Even the responsibilities of the church should be in the hands of Spirit-filled men (Acts 6:3).

III. What the Holy Spirit Does (John 16:8-11).
1. Convicts the world of sin (v. 8). The one awful sin of the world is unbelief. The Holy Spirit convicts the people of the world of their error concerning sin and shows their guilt before God.
2. He convicts the world of righteousness (v. 10). The resurrection and ascension of Christ prove that He is the Righteous One, and that righteousness is only possible as He is accepted as Savior.
3. He convicts the world of judgment. To be convinced of the reality of judgment is the crying need of the world today. Sin unatoned for shall be punished. The sinner who refuses the righteousness which God provided in Jesus Christ also shall be judged.
4. The Spirit mortifies the deeds of the flesh (Rom. 8:12, 13). The only way to get the victory over our carnal natures is to give the place of rulership to the Holy Spirit.
5. He leads the believer (v. 14). The Spirit-filled believer lives the life of the Son of God.
6. He gives assurance to the believer (Rom. 8:15-17). The Holy Spirit witnesses together with the human spirit to the reality of the new birth.
7. He enables the believer to pray according to the will of God (Rom. 8:26, 27). While the believer does not know how to pray as he ought, the Holy Spirit helpeth his infirmity. All prayer which the Holy Spirit indites the Heavenly Father answers.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

"I know that man—that is exactly the way he talks"

She was listening to a demonstration of an Atwater Kent. Turning the FULL-VISION Dial from one station to another, suddenly she heard the voice of a friend she had not seen for years. She listened eagerly. It was "exactly the way he talked."

"I'll take the set," she said. "This radio tells the truth." Anyone can convince himself that Atwater Kent receivers and speakers do give faithful reproduction. Listen to an orchestra and pick out the individual instruments. Each has its own character—its own identity.

Turn to a male quartet, a piano solo, a radio drama with all the varying voices and inflections—or to the President when he speaks. Every sound is true to the original. That is the standard of Atwater Kent performance.

Atwater Kent gives it to you for less money. Less money because Atwater Kent Radio is manufactured in great quantities, making economies of production possible. Yet this huge output does not affect quality in the slightest. For every set, besides being made of the finest materials, has to pass 222 tests or inspections in the course of manufacture.

Turn the FULL-VISION Dial and listen to "the radio that tells the truth."

Like the Swamps
The tiger bitterns frequent the banks of rivers, the wooded swamps and the reedy marshes, and they seem not to be rare in favorable localities, says Nature Magazine. They are for the most part solitary, particularly in the woods, and are seldom if ever actually gregarious. The small parties sometimes encountered are probably made up of members of a single family.

For Colds -

How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin? And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or tonsillitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism; and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! They relieve quickly, yet have no effect whatever on the heart. Friends have told you Bayer Aspirin is marvelous; doctors have declared it harmless. Every druggist has it, with proven directions. Why not put it to the test?

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturers of Monrovia, California, U.S.A.

ASPIRIN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

At the Warren ranch, the "Three Bar" on the fringe of the "cow country," a stranger applied for work as a rider. Willamette Ann Warren—known to all as "Billie," is the owner of the ranch. The girl's father, Cal Warren, had been the original owner. The question whether the territory is to remain "cow country" or be opened to settlement is a troublesome one. The newcomer is put to work. Cattle "rustlers" have been troubling the ranch owners. The new hand gives his name as Cal Harris. By his announcement in favor of "squatters" he incurs the enmity of a rider known as Morrow. The willamette by Cal Warren stipulated that half the property should go to the son of his old friend, William Harris, under certain conditions. The new arrival is the man, and he declines the offer to Billie. The girl is suspicious of a ranchman with an unsavory reputation as a "bad man," visits Billie. He has long wanted to marry her, but she dislikes and fears him. Slade, endeavoring to embrace Billie is interrupted by Harris. Harris, jestingly, proposes that the girl marry him and so settle the matter of the ranch ownership. The regular calf round-up is begun. While the riders are at their evening meal, far out on the range, six outsiders join them. Billie knows them to be "rustlers."

"Our families must have been real set on throwing us together," he observed. "I was cut off without a dime myself—unless I spent two full years on the Three Bar."

She was angry with herself for believing him sincere, for being convinced that he, too, as he had several times intimated, was tied in much the same fashion as herself. The explanation came to her in an illuminating flash. The elder Harris must have nursed a lifelong enmity against her father, who had believed him the most devoted friend on earth.

She had often heard the tale of how her parent had, in all friendliness, followed old Bill Harris step by step from Dodge City to the Platte, to old Fort Laramie and finally to the present Three Bar range. Perhaps the one so followed had felt that Cal Warren was but the hated symbol of the whole clan of squatters who had driven him from place to place and eventually forced him to relinquish his hope of seeing the Three Bar brand on a hundred thousand cows; that his friendliness had been simulated, his vindictiveness nursed and finally consummated by leaving his affairs in such fashion that his son must carry on the work his trickery had begun.

Harris resumed where he had broken off. "And I'd have tossed it off, as I told you once, if the Three Bar girl had turned out to be any except you. You've had a tough problem to work out, girl." "I sold out my little Box L outfit for more than it was worth—and figured to stop the leak at the Three Bar and put the old brand on its feet."

His calm assurance on this point exasperated the girl.

"How?" she demanded. "What can you do?" She pointed toward the six men near the wagon. "During the time you spent prowling the hills did you ever come across those men?"

"Not to put round with them," he confessed. "But I did cut their trail now and then. They're not the outfit that's going to be hardest to handle when the time arrives."

"What do you mean?" she asked. "No one has ever been able to handle them up to date."

"Did it ever strike you as queer that Slade could come into this country twelve years back, with nothing but a long rope and a running iron, and be owning thirty thousand head today?"

"He has the knack to protect his own and increase," she said. "They're afraid of Slade."

The girl shook her head impatiently and looked across at the six men who ate her fare.

"Look at them," she flared. "Eating my food; and in a few nights they'll be having a bunch of Three Bar steers toward the Idaho line. Why doesn't some man that is a man kill that albino dead and all his whelps and rid the country of his breed? Even Slade lets them put up at his place."

"If they're peering you'll order them off," he said.

"And what effect would that have?" she inquired scornfully.

"The effect of causing them to climb their horses and amble off down the country," he returned. He sprawled on the grass, his head propped on one hand as he regarded them.

"Then probably you'd better order them off," she suggested. "You have my permission. Now's your chance to make good the lordly brag of helping the Three Bar out of the hole." She instantly regretted having said it. A dozen times of late she had wondered if she were turning bitter and waspish. If she would ever again be the even-tempered Billie Warren with a good word and a smile for every one, Harris was, as always, apparently undisturbed by her words. Far down the bottoms she could see a point of light which she knew for a white sign that read: "Squatter, don't let sit-down find you here." The man before her had defied these sinister warnings scattered about the range and publicly announced that he would put in hay on his filing, knowing that he was a marked man from the hour he turned the first furrow. Whatever his shortcomings, lack of courage was not one of them.

"I take that back," she said, referring to her words of a few moments before. Harris straightened to a sitting position in his surprise at this impulsive retraction, and as he smiled across at her she divined that this man, seemingly so impervious to her sarcasm, could be easily moved by a single kind word.

"Thanks, Billie," he said. "That was real white of you."

He rose, and sauntered toward the wagon and Billie Warren felt a sudden clutch of fear as he halted before Harper, and she realized that he had taken her words literally and intended ordering them off.

"I've been made temporary foreman of the Three Bar—just so the boss could try me out on that job for an hour or two," he remarked conversationally. "So I'm putting in a new rule that goes into effect right off. When you boys ride away, in a few minutes from now, you can tell folks that the grub line is closed as far as the Three Bar is concerned."

Lang took a half-step toward him, his face reflecting his gathering rage as his slow brain comprehended the fact that this speech was but another way of announcing that he and his men would find no welcome at the Three Bar from that moment on. Harper caught his arm and jerked him back. The albino was an old hand and could rightly read the signs.

"The gentleman was remarking to me," he said to Lang; "not you." He turned to Harris. "There's no law to make you feed any man," he said. "From now on we'll pay our way—as far as the Three Bar is concerned."

His tones were casual; only his pale eyes, fastened unblinkingly on Harris' face, betrayed his real feeling toward the man who, notwithstanding the roundabout nature of his announcement, had practically ordered him to stay away from the Three Bar for all time.

"But even in the face of that," he resumed, "we'll welcome you any time you happen to ride down our way."

Every man within earshot understood the threat that lay beneath the casual words.

"Then I'll likely drop in some time," Harris said. "If you'll send word where it is. And I'll bring fifty men along."

The albino motioned his men toward their horses and they mounted and rode off down the bottoms. Harris walked back and resumed his seat near the girl, who sat looking at him as if she could not believe what she had just witnessed.

"You see it was just as easy as I'd counted on," he said. "I'll be a considerable saving on food."

"But how did you know?" she asked. "Why is Harper afraid of you?"

"He's not," Harris said. "Not for a single second. But he's an old hand and has left a few places on the jump before he came out here."

"And he thinks you know it," she guessed.

"He don't care what I know; it's what he knows himself—that the wild bunch is always roosting on the lower end can even when it appears like they're sitting pretty—that counts with him. You thought I was taking a fool chance of outgunning him. In reality I was taking almost an unfair advantage of him, providing he had the brains he must possess to have lived to his age."

"Not unless he can stage it as a personal quarrel," he said. "He'll never follow it up as coming out of what happened today by taking it out on me as temporary foreman of the Three Bar—for ordering him off. There's a good majority of folks that don't relish seeing Harper's bunch ride up—that feed them through policy. But whenever you make it plain to a man that he's compelled to do a thing whether he likes it or not, it's time to one he'll balk out of sheer human pride. If Harper kills the Three Bar foreman on the grounds that he refused to feed all his men—why then, right off, every foreman and owner within a hundred miles starts representing the possibility that may be the albino feels the same way toward him. Harper knows that."

"But if your theory had been wrong?" she persisted. "What then?"

"Then," he said, "then there'd have been a— and repeat. I wasn't just acting as me, a personal affair, but, as I took pains to remark aloud, as the foreman of the Three Bar. Every Three Bar man would have gone into action the second Harper made a move at me. You know that—and Harper knew it."

She realized the soundness of this statement. The one unalterable code of the country, a code that had been fostered till it eclipsed all others, decreed that a man should be loyal to the brand for which he rode. The whole fabric of the cow business was based on that one point.

"But now they'll work their devilry all the stronger against the Three Bar," she predicted. "They could wreck us if they tried. You couldn't get a conviction in five years. Not a man would testify against one of Harper's outfit."

"Then we'll put on a fighting crew and hold them off," he said. "But that's not the layout that will be hardest to handle in the long run. Slade is the one real hard nut for the Three Bar to crack. He can work it a dozen different ways and you couldn't prove one of them on him to save your soul. He's one smooth hombre—Slade."

Harris rose and headed for his bed roll and the girl sought the shelter of her knees for a rest. Her mind was busily going over the events of the day. She reflected that Cal Harris was at least possessed of self-confidence and that procrastination was certainly not to be numbered among his failings. It came to her that his interests for the present were identical with her own. As half-owner in the Three Bar it would be as much to his advantage as to her own to build it up. Waddle's warped legs prevented his acting as foreman on the job and it might be that the other man would find some way to prevent the leak that was sapping the life from the Three Bar. His half-ownership entitled him to the place. Billie Warren loved her brand and her personal distrust of Harris was subjugated in the hope that his sharing the full responsibility with herself might be a step toward putting it back on the old-time plane of prosperity.

She fell asleep with the crooning voice of the nighthawk drifting to her ears.

It seemed but a few fleeting moments before Waddle's voice roused her.

"Roll out!" he bawled. "Feet in the trough!"

There was instant activity, the jingle of belts and spurs and in five minutes every man was fully clothed and splashing at the creek. It was showing rose and gray in the east when the meal was finished.

When most of the men were mounted Billie urged Papoose over near Harris' horse.

"Do you know how to throw a circle?" she asked.

"After a fashion," he said. "I've bossed one or two in the past."

"Then we'd better be off," she suggested. "Since you're the Three Bar foreman it's for you to say when."

"I only pre-empted that job for ten minutes or so," he explained with evident embarrassment. "You surely didn't think I was trying to boost myself into the foreman's job for keeps?"

"No," she said. "But you're half-owner—and you can handle men. I'm giving you free rein to show what you can do."

Harris straightened in his saddle and motioned to the men.

"Let's go!" he ordered, and headed his horse for the left-hand flank of the valley. They ascended the first slopes, picked a long ridge and followed it to the crest of the low divide between that valley and the next. As they reached the head of the first draw that led back down into the valley Harris waved an arm.

"Carp," he called, and a middle-aged man named Carpenter, abbreviated to Carp, wheeled his horse from the group and headed down the draw. A half-mile farther on they reached the head of another gulch.

"Hanson!" the new foreman called, and the man who reined for the Half-moon D dropped out. One man was detailed to work each draw and when some five miles up the divide there were but half the crew left. The foreman led the way to the opposite divide and doubled back, sending a man down every gulch.

Sixth for our Boys
The home team rolled up its 6th victory Saturday night by defeating the Corona boys in a fast game 25-19. It was a thriller all the way through and good sportsmanship was shown by both teams. The girls were defeated by the Corona girls by a score of 25-31. This game was also a thriller and we hope our girls will fight just a little harder when they play the Corona sextet on our own floor.

The El Paso Bowie HI School team will be here tonight to play our boys, and the Alamogordo boys' and girls' teams will be here tomorrow night to play our teams. Alamo is reported to have a strong squad on both sides, so these games promise to be real ones. Everybody should see these games and we expect large crowds both nights.
