Lincoln Forest Notes

Supervisor O. Fred Arthur and Assistant Range Examiner R. B. Ewing made a trip to the High Rolls - Grapevine road camp on Wednesday, where a conference was held with road project man, T. F. Myers, regarding action of road employees in case of forest fires.

The road camp at the Warnock mine is fully established and between 25 the 80 men are at present employed. The camp has been connected with Alamogordo and the Supervisor's office by phone. A 'Homelite' generator has been installed and is furnishing the camp with electric lights.

Miss Georgia Nichols will return to Alamogordo on May 14th from a two weeks' vacation spent in Denver.

Four fire guards are now on duty and others will be placed on the lookouts shortly, since the Rangers report the forest as drying out to a dangerous point. R. H. Traylor is on the Gavilan lookout; Cecil Nelson is on the Alamo; Alex Quick is on the Sacramento and R. T. Callison is on the Bluewater.

Miss Ruby Richards was in El Paso last Saturday and Sunday, where she met Miss Jennie Boone, now in the Forest Office at Safford, Arizona, but formerly employed in the Supervisor's office at Alamogordo.

Hughes O'Rourke Dies

After an illness of but a few days with pneumonia, conductor Hughies O'Rourke died at El Paso Tuesday morning. Hughies and brother, Jimmy were in the employ of the old E. P. & S. W. railroad for years before the change, after which, they remained with the Southern Pacific as conductors in the freight service.

He made his last run, as near as we are informed, on Wednesday, May 1 and was taken ill after arriving at El Paso, from which he failed to rally. The funeral will be held at St. Patrick's Cathedral in El Paso this afternoon and interment will be made in Concordia cemetery.

Hughies O'Rourke was a man of many becoming qualities. Modest in his manners, friendly in nature and trustworthy in his relations with mankind. His friends among his associates were many and he also enjoyed the confidence of the company with which he was connected. He will be missed by his many friends both here and at El Paso, who sympathize with the bereaved family.

Old - Timer Passes On

Monday night about 10 o'clock, Manuel Gonzales, aged 87, passed away at his home on the east side of the railroad track after an illness of long duration. For the last 4 or 5 weeks hopes had been abandoned for his recovery and with the passing of days he grew more feeble until life ebbed away at the time mentioned above.

Mr. Gonzales was a cornerstone of Lincoln county, you might say, coming here when only a young man and locating at Lincoln. Despite his advanced years at the time of his demise, he possessed a true historian's knowledge of the Indians' depredations and early events of the Lincoln County War and its main spotlight, Billy, the Kid, and many other interesting events too numerous to mention. Mr. Gonzales contributed many detailing points to the writing of 'The Saga of Billy, the Kid.' He, together with his family lived at White Oaks for many years and from there came here about 20 years ago, and has made his home here ever since.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in the local cemetery. The deceased leaves a wife, three daughters, Mrs. Saturnino Chavez, Carrizozo; Mrs. Chonita Martinez, Roswell; Mrs. Juan Peppin, Artesia; and a son, Sabino of Colorado and also a large number of grandchildren, to all of whom the sympathy of the community is extended.

Big Masonic Special

One of the best attended special Masonic communications for some time was held Tuesday night at the Masonic Temple and two candidates, Messrs. Will Ed Harris and John Gallacher finished their journeys with the Third Degree.

There were about 40 members in attendance, 15 of whom were from our neighboring town of Tularosa, headed by Worshipful Master R. T. Spence.

After the degree work, refreshments were served in the banquet room. At the next regular communication which will be held on the night of Saturday, May 18, the Third Degree will be conferred on one candidate after the business session.

Mother

If there be a heaven for Mothers Let it be while they're on earth, That they may taste its glee For all they've borne, suffered and kept on Toward some hope of rest and afterdawn.

If there be a heaven for Mothers, it were sweet If they could know it while their weary feet Are on the journeys, which they make each day To save their loved from sins that seek to slay.

If there be a heaven for Mothers no not keep Dear Lord, its beauty till they fall asleep But let its gates of glory open now, That they may feel its sun up on their brow.

To Enter State Contest

The Carrizozo High School Orchestra will enter the State Contest at Silver City Monday, May 13. Most of the members will go by train, leaving here on No. 1 that morning. The others will go in three cars.

Alfred Richardson will enter the vocal contest as a tenor soloist and Lois Stadtman will enter the piano contest for girls under 13 years of age. The orchestra and soloists received an invitation from the broadcasting station at State College to broadcast on Sunday evening, which invitation has been accepted and the orchestra and soloists will broadcast on that evening.

The orchestra will play in the contest on Monday night, and as the contest lasts two days, all will remain over next day and return home Wednesday.

The concert given by the orchestra last Saturday night at the High School Auditorium was well attended and the numbers were much applauded. We hope that the orchestra will come back from the state contest with first laurels.

Accepted the Invitation

On Wednesday, Mrs. T. E. Kelley received a letter from Mrs. Frances Goddard, wife of Dean Goddard of the New Mexico State College near Las Cruces, and concluded with extending an invitation for Mrs. Kelley and the Carrizozo school students who are to enter the contest at Silver City to stop over on their trip and broadcast their programs from KOB.

The following will broadcast their songs--Alfred Richardson, vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Kelley; Lois Stadtman, Maurice Lamon, Ruth Kelley, piano solos.

Carrizozo people should be on the alert and tune in on KOB Sunday night to hear our local talent, and the soloists may expect a good Carrizozo audience when they go on the air.

Larsen--Rustin.

At Santa Maria, California, on April 16, S. E. Larsen and Miss Stacy Rustin, both of Santa Maria, were united in marriage, with the Episcopal minister of the local church of that place performing the ceremony.

The bride is well known here, where she attended school and in athletics she was one of our foremost stars in basketball. The groom, while making his home in Santa Maria, his parents are now in England. After the ceremony the young couple sailed for Paris, France, where after about two weeks stay, they will go to England to visit the groom's parents. They will be absent about two months and at the expiration of their visit abroad, they will return to Santa Maria and settle down to home life.

The Rustin family moved from here to California about 2 years ago, the only remaining member of the family now residing here is Mrs. Claude Branum. The many friends of the newly married couple here and at Santa Maria, extend their kindest and best wishes for their future welfare and happiness.

Miss Thompson's Recital

Miss Alene Thompson will give another of her much appreciated piano recitals at the High School Auditorium on Saturday, May 18. Admission to the recital will be free and those who enjoy real music from pupils who are under an experienced instructor, should not fail to attend, or you will miss a musical treat.

Mrs. A. H. Harvey

has returned home, after a pleasant 10-day visit with friends in Roswell.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Langston left this morning for El Paso, to obtain medical advice from Dr. Brown. They will return home about the first of next week.

FORT STANTON NEWS

Tularosa came to Fort Stanton with lots of hits in their bats last Sunday, but failed by just one run in taking the game back, the final score being 11-10 in favor of the Fort after 9 hectic innings had been played. High winds and lots of dust made it disagreeable for players and spectators alike. Score by innings:

Tularosa 121 021 120 Stanton 401 022 20x

The team goes to Alamogordo Sunday, May 12, to play Shorty Miller's 'Loggers.' This game is looked upon as a tough assignment, as Shorty is reputed to have pitching this year second to none around here, as well as a bunch who manufacture hits and runs when needed. Alamo returns the game here June 2.

This committee in charge of the baseball dance report that plans are progressing favorably for a big affair. Gus Lemp says he will be on hand with his first string orchestra playing the latest dance hits. Nothing is being left undone to make this dance enjoyable. Everybody knows Gus and that wherever he plays there is plenty of music all evening long. Everybody at the station, patients and personnel alike, are being asked to give their support to the ball team by buying a dance ticket, or by contributing anything from 25c up, or both -- the idea being to get donations for the club treasury at the same time tickets are sold. Dr. Tappan heads the list with a contribution of $20 and several others of the personnel have signified their intentions to contribute. It takes money to run a ball club, and the fine spirit of co-operation on the part of both patients and personnel, signifies their interest in making the team a going concern.

We are pleased that the Carrizozo boys are trying hard to get organized and we hope that the business concerns of that town will see to it that their young sports do not fail, by giving them their due support.

Miss Gunn and Mickey McNeff were guests at a dinner given for Governor Dillon and his party at the Bonnell ranch, Saturday evening. Twenty-five guests were present, and Colonel Andrews of Roswell and Mickey, with his violin and several others entertained with various vocal and instrumental selections. The Governor and party spent the night at Navajo Lodge at Ruidoso and then proceeded to the Carlsbad Caverns, where he was to meet the governor of Arizona on Sunday.

Patients admitted: John R. O'Malley, New Orleans. Discharged: Carl Berggren, John Ford, Sigmund Amundsen.

S. S. Gillespie

successor to J.E. Farley as round house foreman, came up from El Paso May 1 and took charge of the local shops. Mrs. Gillespie will arrive here in a few weeks, after which the Gillespies will be at home in Carrizozo and we extend to them the hand of welcome.

RUIDOSO RIPPLINGS

The Ruidoso Valley Gun Club will put on a shooting match and pie luncheon at White Mountain Inn dance hall on Sunday, May 12, starting at 10 a. m. Cash prizes, pies, sandwiches and coffee will be there, so don't bring your lunch. We have 26 active members, and want to build a clubhouse. We have guns for you to use, but if you choose, you can bring your own gun.

Heck Johnson, a proprietor of the White Mountain Inn, his mother and R. B. Purdy, local merchant were Carrizozo business visitors on Monday.

Great activity prevails at present on the Ruidoso. Tradesmen are replenishing their stocks and refreshing up their buildings. Summer folks are building cabins so they may have a place to get away from the city heat during the summer months.

There is a rumor that the road from Ruidoso Junction, over the valley to Ruidoso and over through Alto and Bonito, to the Carrizozo-Roswell Highway, will have an appropriation of $10,000 for graveling the same. We hope this is true, as this road is now a strictly dry weather road.

The wind still blows; the fruit has been killed, and Frank Coe's old hay barn has finally blown down (this has been an expectation for the last 20 years.)

Hollywood is growing--in the last few months they have added a hotel, cafe, drug store and the postmaster has built another room to his chicken house. He has a nice flock of chickens and you can see him counting them any afternoon. That alone, is worth a trip to Hollywood, N.M.

Mr Hewitt has painted the front of the White Mountain Inn and re-finished the inside. He says he can feed and lodge the public in the most approved style and send them on their way happier in mind and body.

Ike N. Wingfield, merchant, was a visitor at Carrizozo Monday.

Passes Away

Following an operation for appendicitis performed by Dr. Brown of El Paso, assisted by Dr. P. M. Shaver Monday afternoon, Asher Emerson, well known and much loved citizen, died at the Johnson Hospital yesterday afternoon at about 4:15 o'clock. The news of his death was not unexpected, as the physicians claimed after the operation was performed, that there was but little hope for his recovery.

Asher Emerson was an ideal citizen, tender and loving father and was known for his charitable nature and splendid character. He was a member of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3:30 from the Methodist Church, with Rev. Ludlow preaching the sermon and the remains interred with Masonic burial rites.

He leaves a wife, two daughters, Charlotte and Eula and a son, Amos, besides one brother, Calvin of Las Cruces, to mourn his loss. The combined sympathy of our entire community is extended the bereaved wife, children and brother. Particulars of the funeral will have preferred space in our next issue.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

House Passes Administration Farm Relief Bill After Killing Amendments.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

FARM relief legislation as drafted by the house committee on agriculture and approved by the President won out easily in the lower house of congress after several days of debate. Representative Cannon of Missouri tried to get through an equalization fee amendment, but it was ruled out on a point of order as not germane, and all other attempts to make changes in the Hooper bill were frustrated by the administration forces. Most of the amendments proposed were from Southern Democrats. Two attempts to inject prohibition into the measure were made by Representatives Black and La Guardia of New York, but they were squelched. Senators took up the debate on their own farm bill, which as reported contained the export debenture feature. Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture, told the senate that he had withdrawn his support from the debenture plan because he regarded it as a subsidy and also because he wished to support a bill which President Hoover is sure to sign.

"I feel there is no doubt whatever," said Senator McNary, "that if a bill carrying the debenture plan were sent to the White House it would be disapproved by President Hoover."

Senator McNary conceded that the debenture plan, which provides an export bounty on farm products through certificates redeemable in the payment of import duties, would be effective in boosting prices.

In a letter to Mr. McNary the President had given at length his reasons for opposing the export debenture scheme, concluding by saying: "It is my belief that the theoretical benefits would not be reflected to the American farmer; that it would create profiteering; that it contains elements which would bring American agriculture to disaster. The introduction of such a plan would also inevitably confuse and minimize the much more far-reaching plan of farm relief, upon the fundamental principles of which there has been general agreement."

RUNNING up to New York for a couple of hours, President Hoover made, before the Associated Press at its annual luncheon, his first public address since his inauguration. It was an urgent appeal to the people of the United States for law observance and law enforcement. Life and property, he declared, are relatively more unsafe in this country than in any other civilized land, and he pleaded generally to aid the government in changing this deplorable condition. Reorganization of the law enforcing machinery, he said, is necessary. To get this he proposed to take his time in selecting "high-minded men, impartial in their judgment, skilled in the science of law and our judicial system" to "study and report upon the whole of our problems involved in criminal law enforcement."

At the outset Mr. Hoover declared that "while violations of laws have been increased by the inclusion of crimes under the Eighteenth amendment and by the vast sums that are poured into the hands of the criminal classes by the patronage of illicit liquor by otherwise responsible citizens, yet this is but one segment of our problem, for but a small percentage of these can be attributed to the Eighteenth amendment."

PROSPECTS for reduction of naval armaments were brightened immensely when Ambassador Giffen, American delegate to the League of Nations preparatory disarmament committee, frankly laid before that body the Hoover administration's proposals. To the astonished representatives of the other nations he declared America was prepared to agree to any reductions, however drastic, of naval tonnage which leaves no type of war vessels unrestricted, and also was ready to abandon limitation of tonnage by categories and accept the French compromise proposal as a basis for discussion. He offered yet another concession, stating that America would consider estimating "equivalent naval values" on the basis of other factors than the displacement of tonnage alone, such as age, unit displacement and the caliber of guns. Any approach at the disarmament on purely technical grounds, he declared, was bound to be inconclusive.

French, Italian and Japanese delegates chorused their welcome of the American proposals, and though Lord Cusheendun was mighty careful in his comment, the London press quite generally praised them. The British cabinet met to consider the Gillson plan, but it was believed nothing definite would be done about it before the English elections which are set for May 29. After that Austin Chamberlain may no longer be secretary for foreign affairs and W. C. Bridgeman will not be first lord of the admiralty.

The commission decided that a ban should be placed on the use of poison gas and bacteria in warfare. Encouraged by this action, Count von Bernstorff for Germany proposed that the dropping of bombs or incendiary gases from airplanes piloted either by human hands or by wireless be outlawed. Many delegates opposed this scheme as outside the jurisdiction of the commission and only the German, Russian, Dutch, Swedish and Chinese representatives voted for its adoption. Soviet Russia's plan for air force reduction also was rejected.

HALF-HEARTED efforts were made by the commission on German reparations to find a compromise that all might accept, but the new offer brought from Berlin by Doctor Schacht was not sufficient. The French and Belgians were firm in their determination to make no further reductions. The American experts tried earnestly to save the conference from utter failure, and there was a lingering hope that this might be accomplished if the Germans would again revise their offer.

ILLINOIS wets just barely won a victory in the state legislature when the bill calling for a referendum upon repeal of the state prohibition laws was passed by the house without a vote to spare. The measure was handed up to the senate, where the dries believed it would be defeated and the wets were none too optimistic of success.

Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina introduced in the senate a resolution proposing to prohibit the importation of liquor by foreign diplomats and providing for the expulsion of envoys who decline to accept our dry laws as binding upon themselves.

HEFLIN of Alabama broke loose again last week. In March he went to Brockton, Mass., to deliver a speech under the auspices of the Ku Klux Klan, and a small riot resulted. He tried to induce the senate to adopt a resolution expressing its condemnation of the treatment he received in the Massachusetts town, but this was too much even for that "senatorial courtesy" that has covered a multitude of queer actions. Goaded by questions, Hefflin admitted he was paid for his anti-Catholic speeches in Brockton and elsewhere. After he had annoyed his colleagues for two days and tried to interrupt the debate on the farm relief bill, the Alabama was sharply called to task by Senator Borah, who asserted that the Hefflin resolution would ally the senate with a campaign against the Roman Catholic people of the United States.

"If the senator really feels," cried Borah, "that that is the issue, we ought not to pass a futile resolution but we ought to appoint a bodyguard from the senate to accompany the senator on these trips. This resolution can have only a political or what is worse, a religious effect."

Hefflin attacked Watson of Indiana because, he said, the latter had gone back on a promise to support the resolution.

to know what inspired the Indiana senator's change of heart.

"The senator knows I do not belong to the Ku Klux Klan," retorted Watson heatedly.

"I do not," answered Hefflin, and added that he intends to visit Indiana and let the people there know "what has gone on here today."

TORNADOES in the Middle Southern states and storms and blizzards in Nebraska and Wyoming cost about fifty lives last week and did vast damage to property. Heavy losses also were sustained from floods in Missouri and Kansas. The blizzard in Wyoming was described as the worst in the history of the state. Transportation was tied up, telegraph and telephone wires were down and thousands of automobiles marooned on highways. The loss of live stock on ranches was severe.

THE American commission in the Dominican republic headed by Charles G. Dawes has completed its work and recommends the passage of a budget law and the appointment of a budget director similar to the one in the United States. It advised improvements in the organization of the executive and interior departments and the accounting system, and urged stringent economy. The commission states that the general economic and financial condition of the country is inherently sound. The total indebtedness of the republic, foreign and domestic including $902,000 owed by 63 municipalities, is estimated at $22,650,000.

ELINOR SMITH, seventeen-year-old flyer, regained the woman's endurance flight record at Roosevelt field, New York, remaining aloft for 29 hours and 25 minutes. She is now planning a transatlantic flight to Rome.

One of the worst of recent aerial disasters occurred at San Diego, Calif., when Lieut. Howard Keffer in an army pursuit plane while stunting collided with a big passenger ship of the Maddux Air Lines, Inc., bound for Phoenix and both planes crashed to earth from a height of 2,000 feet. Keffer, the two pilots of the passenger plane and its three passengers, two of them women, were killed.

UNITED STATES Supreme court refused last week to rehear the appeal of Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, from the three-months' jail sentence imposed upon him for contempt of the senate during the Teapot Dome oil scandal investigation five years ago. A mandate directing execution of the sentence will be issued on May 4, and Sinclair's only hope of avoiding the punishment is a Presidential pardon.

APPOINTMENTS submitted to the senate by President Hoover included those of Seth W. Richardson of Fargo, N. D., to succeed E. M. Farmer as assistant attorney general; Julius Klein, chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, to be assistant secretary of commerce; Col. Harry L. Glickert to be chief of the chemical warfare service of the army with the rank of major general, and Col. S. O. Fuqua to be chief of infantry with the rank of major general.

EDWARD F. CARRY, president of the Pullman company, died in his sleep in his Chicago home at the age of sixty-one years. Besides his long eminence in the business world, Mr. Carry was known for his philanthropies and his scholarship, and during the war he was director of operations for the United States shipping board. He was the recipient of two papal dignities, being made a Knight of Malta at the eucharistic congress in Chicago in 1906 and a knight commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great a few months later.

Prince Henry Hohenzollern, only brother of the archduke, died of pneumonia at his estate in Schloewis-Holstein. He was a great admiral in the German imperial navy but took no active part in the war, for he was exceedingly fond of his English relatives and of the coast of France, and his wife was Princess Irene of Great Britain. In 1901 Prince Henry toured the United States.

South West PARAGRAPHS

Arizona received from the National Forests of Arizona last year approximately $80,000 from grazing fees. This is apportioned among the counties and is applied to the school and road funds.

A state law enacted by the last State Legislature makes it a misdemeanor to destroy or remove any plants or shrubs from any public or private land without special permit. Seeds of cacti or other plants may be gathered.

Fred W. Hassman, prominent rancher of Deming, N. M., who was charged with first degree murder for killing Joseph J. Willoughby, tenant farmer, in a quarrel over Hassman's daughter, committed suicide here recently at his ranch home.

Tentative dates for the Arizona State Fair have been set for November 11 to 16. The Fair Commission has announced the slogan for this year will be "Farmer's Fair." A special effort will be made to make this an exhibition of State products.

The Farmington, N. M., Chamber of Commerce put on an old fashioned dance recently to raise money for publicity purposes and netted $150. The money will be used for the printing of pamphlets and literature about San Juan County for distribution to tourists.

A new creamery is being opened in the Casa Grande Valley. The dairy industry in the new territory to be brought under cultivation by the building of the Coolidge dam will be an important factor in the encouragement of planting crops other than cotton.

The task of taking electricity to the farmers of the Salt River Valley in Arizona, involving an expenditure of more than $1,200,000, is nearing completion and the power will be available by June 1. The project will use 8,000 poles and several thousand miles of wire.

The Texas Production Co. has opened an oil area previously unexplored southwest of Lovington, N. M. Cauliflower growers in the Sulphur Spring Valley, Cochise County, Arizona, have formed a co-operative marketing organization known as the Willcox Vegetable Growers' Association.

Extensive experiments have been under way for about two years in the Salt River Valley for growing the Guayule plant for rubber. Six varieties of this plant are being grown. Varying amounts of water are being used experimentally. The plant requires from three to five years to reach maturity.

Twenty-six students of New Mexico A. and M. will receive degrees at the thirty-sixth annual commencement to be held at State College May 21, according to Miss Era Rentfrow, registrar. In this class eighteen are men and eight are women. Eleven of the men will receive degrees of bachelor of science in engineering.

Re-entry of the bootlegging business after having been previously before the court and sentenced for violation of the federal laws, proved costly to James Cash and Jack Rodgers, Santa Fe, who were each given a three-year sentence in the Leavenworth prison by Judge Colin Nebbett in the Tenth Circuit Federal Court.

Roger P. Jay was arrested in Phoenix on a charge that he robbed the homes of two wealthy El Pasoans of gems and jewelry valued at $23,500.

Preparations to entertain approximately 1,000 teachers of New Mexico and other states who will attend the annual summer school session of the Normal University have been made and with an exceptionally well qualified faculty secured. President Frank Carroon anticipates a banner year in both a scholastic and social way. The first term of the summer school will open June 8 and will close July 18 and the second term will open on July 18 and close August 21. Enrollments may be entered by mail.

Enforcement of two new laws enacted by the last Legislature is to be vigorously undertaken, according to Walter A. Naylor, district inspector for the New Mexico Cattle Sanitary Board. The first of these laws, introduced as House Bill No. 345, deals with the transportation within the state of sheep, goats or cattle or the carcasses thereof and provides for their inspection. This law prohibits transportation between points within the state by any means until legal inspection has established the proper ownership and a certificate of inspection has been issued. The law applies except where such transportation is wholly within the lands controlled by the party making shipment.

For the first time in the history of Arizona lettuce growing, a solid train load of lettuce was shipped from Phoenix by express a couple of weeks ago.

Mrs. E. A. Parrault, New Mexico, Secretary of State, announced that she would proceed with the appointment of assistants authorized in the tobacco tax act and would have all of her machinery necessary for collection of tax ready for operation on July 1, unless the law is prevented by referendum petitions from going into effect.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By JOHN CLARENCE FUNK

DEADLY ROMANCE

ONE afternoon recently a man drove his family into the country. It was a beautiful day, spring was at its best, and the trip was a joyful success. Around noontime the picnic lunch was spread near an old stone walled spring. Here on the back road the romance of days gone by when father had been a boy on the farm, returned to life. And the water so sparkling, and so clear!

Now for the other side of the picture. Two weeks later the parents and the two children became sick. Three weeks later all of them had gone, through serious illness, the youngest child unsuccessfully. The romance had been attractive but the unseen typhoid germs had got in their work. Things at the spring had not been what they seemed to be.

City dwellers take pure, clear and safe water as a matter of course. Aren't they paying taxes and water bills for just that thing? Very well, and very logical. But many urbanites forget that at the city line the ultra-filtration plant and its intelligent overseers cease to function. It therefore does not pay to become too enthusiastic over the old oaken bucket, the spring by the wayside and the antique pump.

Quite true, some states, but by no means all of them, annually check up on the highway water supplies on the main traveled roads for the protection of the motoring public. They even placard as "Safe" or "Unsafe" every individual source of supply that is likely to serve the passing automobilist. But even in these careful jurisdictions the by-roads in all probability will be missed. Better go thirsty therefore, if the romantic water supplies cannot present clear proof of their safety.

In this connection, a word to country dwellers. Have your individual supply checked annually by a recognized laboratory. A small money outlay will be necessary but it's nothing compared to doctor bills or funeral expenses. In addition, obtain and study the literature published by your state department of health on this most important subject. Don't take any chances on your water supply no matter how good it looks or tastes. Acting upon this advice may save illness and even death.

QUACK, QUACK

THE barefaced assumption of scientific superiority displayed by quacks should be enough to settle anyone. Add to this the studio portraits of the wizards themselves, and the last vestige of appeal should be gone. But, somehow, the thing works just the other way.

The ability to toot their own horns is their only merit. Having failed in the ethical practice of their professions—medical or dental, if indeed, they possess even these qualifications—these egotistical gentry purchase space in newspapers (when they can) and in this manner brazenly admit to the world that they have beaten it, including all the scientists and leaders of their chosen calling. Thus they are able to effect marvelous and bitherto-unknown cures for as low as a dollar down! Which, it must be confessed, is low indeed.

And so it comes to pass that hundreds of thousands of dollars annually are expended by people who still believe in fairy stories. If this was all there was to it, possibly no objection would be made. If a fellow wants to throw his money away, that's his business. But when it comes to throwing health away, then the matter assumes public importance and a warning is quite justifiable.

In all fairness, quacks sometimes cure people. But their main interest usually is in the money they can extract—not in the amount of health they can bestow. As a matter of fact, many instances are on record where a physical condition has been aggravated for the sole purpose of prolonging the cure.

Indeed, sometimes the outlook as stated by this particular brand of medico has been so unpleasantly (and untruthfully) tragic that the patient upon hearing the verdict has straight away left the office and committed suicide!

The legitimate medical profession, on the other hand, is the foundation of the nation's health. Each community has its share of honest, well-informed and experienced practitioners. What more do you need? Can you afford less?

If you are seeking, therefore, for "value received" and health, don't make friends with the quacks. (A. 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

Before and After Childbirth

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my first baby was born and I am taking it now for my weakened condition after the birth of my second boy. Although I never have put on any flesh I am feeling good now and the Vegetable Compound has helped me in every way. It is surely a wonderful medicine and I will be glad to answer letters for I recommend it highly."—Mrs. Fred W. Dacey, Madison, Kansas.

The girl had a sickening realization that the work of a year would be blotted out in a space of seconds under those churning hoofs. It seemed that she must die of sheer grief as she witnessed the complete devastation of the fields she had watched day by day with such loving care. The stampede swept the full length of the meadow and held on for the house.

The foremost cows struck the corals and they went down with a splintering crash under the pressure from behind. She looked out on a sea of tossing horns and heaving backs as the herd rushed through, the heavy log buildings shaking from the mass of animals jammed against them and squeezing past.

The force of the run, was spent on the steep slope back of the house and the herd split into detachments and moved off through the hills.

The west side of the house was windowless, a blank wall built against the standing winds. Waddles was busily engaged in knocking out a patch of chinking and endeavoring to work a loophole between the logs. Harris was similarly engaged.

He pointed down the valley to the south and she turned mechanically and crossed to that window. A few riders showed on the ridges on either flank of the valley.

"They were cached up there to pick us off if we rode down to try and turn the run," he said.

She nodded without apparent interest. What, might transpire now seemed a matter to be viewed with indifference.

"It's time for me to go," Harris said. "I'll hold the bunk house. Good luck, Billie—we'll hold 'em off."

He turned to Waddles who still worked to make a loophole through the blank wall.

"If it gets too hot put her outside and tell her to give herself up. Even Lang would know that the whole country would be hunting them tomorrow if they touched her. They won't if they can help it. But this is their last hope—to trust in one final raid. They'll go through with it. Make her go outside if it comes to that."

He opened the door and leaped across the twenty yards of open space which separated the main building from the bunk house, barred the door and looked from the south window. The riders along the valley rims had descended to the bottom. Smoke was already rising from one homestead cabin and they were riding toward the rest. Two men had dismounted by the head gate.

Harris cursed himself for not having anticipated this very thing. The whole plan was clear to him. Slade would have known that when the cowboys came in from the round-up there would follow the inevitable night at Brill's. Morrow had mapped out the raid long in advance, engaging Lang to gather the cows throughout the first night the round-up crew was in from the range and hold them a few miles from the ranch. Lang could not know that Slade was locked up and that Morrow was dead so the raid had gone through as planned.

Smoke was rising from two more cabins to the flats and Harris reproached himself for another oversight in allowing the wagons to pull out before the others arrived. The crop would have been ruined in any event but with the hands at home they could have prevented the destruction of the cabins.

He transferred his attention to the long line of log buildings a hundred yards to the east. The row afforded perfect cover for any who chose that route of approach. They could walk up to them in absolute safety, screened both from himself and those in the main house.

As he watched the doors and windows for sign of movement within a voice hailed her from the shop.

"You might as well come out," it called. "We're going to fire the giant."

Harris stretched prone on the floor and rested the muzzle of his rifle on a crack between the logs. It was hard shooting. He was forced to shift the butt end of the gun, moving with it himself to line the sights instead of swiveling the free end of the barrel. He trained it on a crack some two feet from the door of the shop. Behind the aperture the light of a window on the far side showed faintly.

"Come out!" the voice ordered. "Or we'll cook you inside. We've no time to lose. Rush it!"

The light disappeared from the crack and Harris pressed the trigger. With the roar of his gun a shape pitched down across the door of the shop. Some unseen hands caught the man by the feet and as he was dragged back from sight Harris saw the red handkerchief which had served as a mask.

From all along the row of buildings a fire was opened on the bunk house. Harris threw himself flat against the lower log which barely shielded him. Shreds of dove chinking littered the room. The balls which found an entrance splintered through the banks and buried themselves in the logs of the far wall. One marksman worked on the lower crack. Puffs of dove pulverized smoke. Harris' eyes as the systematic fire swept toward him down the crack in the log steps.

The shooting suddenly ceased. Billie Warren, scarcely indifferent as to what should happen to the Three Bar since the wreck of the lower hall, had roused to action the instant she saw the spurts of chinking fly from the cracks of the bunk house before the fusillade sent after Harris. She threw open the door and stepped out, holding up one hand.

"Don't kill him!" she commanded. "If you fire another shot at him I'll put up every dollar I own to hang every man that ever rode a foot with Lang! Do you hear that, Lang?"

"Lang's in Idaho," a voice growled surlily from the shop. "None of us ever rode with Lang. We're from every band on the range—and we're going to burn you squatters out."

"Draw off and let us ride away," she said. "You can have the Three Bar."

"All but Harris," the voice called back. "He stays!"

Harris knew that the men would not be deterred in their purpose—would sacrifice her along with the rest if necessary to accomplish their end.

"Get back, Billie," he called from the bunk house. "You can't do us any good out there. Take the little cabin and sit tight. We'll beat them off."

She walked to the little cabin that stood isolated and alone, the first building ever erected on the Three Bar and which had sheltered the Harries before her father had taken over the brand.

From her point of vantage she saw two masked men rise from the brush and run swiftly down toward the main house, each carrying a can. She divined their purpose instantly.

"Watch the west side!" she called. "The west side—quick!"

The muffled crash of a rifle rolled steadily from the house as Waddles fired at the chinking in an effort to reach the two men outside. But they had accomplished their purpose and retreated.

The row of buildings was a seething mass of flames rolling up into the black smoke. Flames hissed and flicked up the blank wall of the main house, traveling along the logs on which the two masked raiders had thrown their cans of oil. The men outside had only to wait until the occupants were roasted out. She knew Waddles would come out when it grew too hot. The raiders might let him go. It was Harris they waited for.

The girl ran across and pounded on the bunk-house door.

"Run for it," she begged. "Make a run for the brush! I'll keep between you and them. They won't shoot me. You can get to the brush. There's a chance that way."

"All right, old girl," Harris said. "In a minute now. But you go back, Billie. Get back to the little house. As soon as it gets hot I'll run for it. I've got ten minutes yet before I'm roasted out. I'll start as soon as you're inside the house."

"No. Start now!" she implored. "Run, Cal. Run while you've got a chance." She leaned upon the door and beat on it with her fists.

"All right, Billie," he said. "I'll go. You stay right where you are as if you're talking to me."

She heard him cross the floor. He

Instinct Didn't Warn Elephants of Peril

A Billie's mariner, formerly in the Eastern trade, tells a queer elephant yarn. While captain of a trading steamer he had as cargo 40 elephants. The vessel was anchored in a perfectly calm sea off the coast of Zanzibar. When, therefore, the steamer began to roll, every one on board was greatly surprised.

At first they supposed the motion to be due to the ground swell, but when this motion continued to increase general alarm ensued. Then it was revealed that the elephants had in some way discovered that by swaying to and fro in unison they might produce dropped from the window on the far side from the men. When he came in sight of them he was running in long leaps for the brush, zigzagging in his flight. Half a dozen rifles spurted from two hundred yards up the slope, the balls passing him with nasty snaps. He reached the edge of the sage and plunged headlong between two rocks.

Waddles pumped a rifle and covered Harris' flight as best he could, drilling the center of every sage that shook or quivered back of the house.

Two men turned their attention to the one who handicapped their chances of locating the crawling man and poured their fire through the window. He dropped to the floor and peered from a crack. The firing had suddenly ceased. He saw a hat moving up a coulee, a mere flash here and there above the sage as the owner of it ran.

The smoke hurt his eyes and the heat seemed to crack his skin. He crossed over to see if Harris was down; that would account for the sudden cessation of shooting from the hills back of the house.

The raiders in the lower field were riding swiftly for the far side of the valley. One man knelt near the head gate, then mounted and jumped his horse off after the rest. Waddles put the whole force of his lungs behind one mighty cheer.

Far down along the rim of the valley, outlined against the sky, four mules were running as so many startled deer under the bite of the lash and six men swayed and clung to the wagon that lurched behind. Three men unloaded from the wagon as it came opposite the cluster of men riding far out across the flats. They opened a long-range fire at a thousand yards while the others stayed with the wagon as it rocked on toward the burning ranch.

Billie was running to the brush at the spot where Harris had disappeared. He rose to meet her.

"Cal, you're not hurt?" she asked. "Not a scratch," he said. "Thanks to you."

In her relief she grasped his arm and gave it a fierce little squeeze.

"Then it's all right," she said. Waddles burst from the door of the burning house, his arms piled high with salvage.

"We'll save what we can," Harris said and started for the house. As he ran the valley rocked with a concussion which nearly threw him flat and a column of fragments and trash rose a hundred feet above the spot where the head gate had been but a second past.

A dozen running horses flipped over the edge of the hill and plunged down toward the ranch. The men were back from Brill's.

Harris held up his hand to halt the riders as they would have kept on past the house. He knew that the raiders stationed behind the ranch had long since reached their horses and were lost in the choppy hills. He waved all hands toward the buildings and they swarmed inside, carrying out load after load of such articles as could be moved and piling them out of reach of the flames.

The girl sat apart and watched them work. Her lethargy had returned. It seemed a small matter to rescue these trinkets when the Three Bar was a total wreck.

Harris caught two of the saddled horses that had carried the men from Brill's and crossed over to where the girl sat.

"Let's ride down to the field," he said. "An' see what's got to be done. I expect a week's work will repair that part of it all right."

She gazed at him in amazement. He spoke of repairing the damage while the Three Bar burned before his eyes. But she rose and mounted the horse and they rode off down what had once been the lane, the fence flattened by the rushing horde of cattle that had swept through.

The homestead cabins smoked but still stood intact.

"Look!" he urged cheerfully. "Those logs were too green to burn. We won't even have to rebuild. They'll look a little charred round the edges maybe, but otherwise as good as new. We're not bad hurt. They can't hurt our land. I'd rather have this flat right now—the way it stands—than three thousand head of cows on the range and no land at all. We can rebuild the place this winter while work is slack. Build better than before."

His enthusiasm failed to touch her. For her the Three Bar was wrecked, the old home gone, and her gaze kept straying back to the eddying black smoke-cloud at the foot of the hills.

Church to Celebrate in Barn Where It Was Born

While the Church of the United Brethren in Christ is holding its thirtieth quadrennial general conference in Lancaster, Pa., May 14-25, at least one meeting will be held in Isaac Long's barn, six miles northeast of the city. This structure was the scene of the Otterhelm-Boehm "Great Meeting" in 1760 at which the church was born, being the first American-born denomination. The building still stands, and is shown above as it was in 1760. It is hoped that the conference will result in the organization of the "United Church in America," composed of the United Brethren in Christ, the Reformed Church in the U. S. A. and the Evangelical Synod of North America.

Mother's Day

Next Sunday, May 12, everyone should attend services at one of our churches, from the fact that on this particular occasion, mothers will be honored, their memories cherished and a peculiar atmosphere of reverence will be apparent everywhere.

We do not mean, that this duty should stand alone to be observed, for church services should be attended in regular manner as well one Sabbath as another, but let us hope that what will be heard from the pulpits, by our ministers next Sunday, will intensify the desires of those who attend, to make regular visits to places of worship in the future.

Mother's Day programs are being prepared at the churches here and elsewhere over the entire nation, but more especially would we speak of our own locality. Aside from the Carrizozo churches, there will be Mother's Day programs at Corona, Capitan and Lincoln, where, at the last named place, perhaps a more elaborate program has been arranged than at any other. No excuse can be offered for not attending services on that day. Your presence will show your interest in and reverence for the day set apart for honoring the mothers of our land. Your attendance is desired and an open invitation is extended by the ministers of all churches—Come.

Junior B. Y. P. U. Boys Entertain

A contest between the two groups of the Junior B. Y. P. U. was won this month by the girls.

The losing side was to furnish the refreshments; this the boys did with a formal chicken dinner consisting of five courses. The dainty place cards were dancing Spanish girls, and the B. Y. P. U. colors, green and white, were carried out in the table covers, dishes and courses.

The losing side is as follows: Floyd, Keith and Earl Stadtman, Manson, Claud and Lawrence Hicks, Jobie Bryan, Jobie McPherson and Johnson Stearns. The winning side is—Ruth Kelley, Lala Joyce, Frances Green, Yvonne Brown, Edith Dudray, Joyce Clubb, Ruby Leslie, Onie McPherson and Louise Shelton.

The boys are determined they will win the contest next month.

Your MODEL T FORD is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. These same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, rebering cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes retined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

Children Need Summer Outing

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Do boys and girls who live in the country need a vacation of a week or so at a camp? Extension workers, especially those in charge of 4-H club work, think so, and in almost every state are doing what they can do to foster the establishment of summer club camps. They believe that any girl or boy needs a change from familiar scenes and work, the chance to meet new people, to do things in a different way, to throw off responsibility for a little while; to learn a little and play a little. Club camps provide all this, and fill a real need in the lives of the fortunate young people who take part in them. Some of these camps are temporary, others have proved so valuable and so popular that they have been made permanent institutions, with buildings and equipment that can be used over and over by each group attending the camp. There may be various county camps available for those who want this sort of change, or a large state camp. The cost of a stay at camp is borne by the members who go, although in some cases a trip to camp is an award offered by a community or group of business men for club achievements.

Handcraft Hour, for a Girls 4-H Club Camp in Maryland.

These 4-H summer camps. Those who participate in them go home after a week or ten days with new points of view, fresh inspiration for their own tasks, and often with new friends. The photographs, taken by the United States Department of Agriculture at two girls' 4-H club camps, show both sides of camp activity. In one, a group of Florida girls at a lakeside camp are going for their early morning dip; in the other, a group of Maryland girls are enjoying an out-of-doors handcraft demonstration.

audience and in learning to be self-confident.

Physical training is coupled with setting up exercises, group games and water sports where a lake or river makes them possible. Manual training is given in such crafts as basketry, raffia, picture framing, or wood carving. Observational hikes are taken for nature study, and even the country boy or girl may learn much that is new about birds or plant growth, and other wild life. The companionship with a large group of congenial people for both instruction and recreation, is perhaps the most important feature of

Rhubarb and Strawberry Jam Liked

These two flavors combine especially well in a preserve, and many people like the slight acidity given by the rhubarb better than the unmodified sweetness of plain strawberry jam. Both fruits are obtainable early in the season in most parts of the country. The proportions and directions are from the bureau of home economics.

2 quarts rhubarb cut in 1 inch pieces
1 quart strawberries
1 1/2 quarts sugar

Cover the rhubarb with a portion of the sugar and let it stand for an hour or so. Crush the strawberries and mix with the remaining sugar, then combine with the rhubarb. Place over a low flame until the sugar has dissolved. Increase the heat and cook quickly, stirring frequently to prevent burning. Cook for about 30 minutes, or until the mass is fairly thick. Pour into hot sterilized jars, cover with paraffin, seal, and store in a cool, dry place.

Hint to Parents

When parents avoid infecting their children with fear as much as they try to safeguard them against disease. Fears learned in childhood are often the cause of failures in adult life.

Another Viewpoint

Women are clicking nearer and nearer to men's level every day. Why they want to do it we don't know. But if they want to we say, hey to it. —Farms and Fireside.

Flavors to Put Into Salads

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Everybody, apparently, likes potato salad, and the occasions upon which you may appropriately serve it are as varied as the ingredients you can put into it, for flavor or color. For party luncheons, church socials, out-of-doors picnics in summer, or Sunday night suppers in winter, potato salad with or without cold sliced meats is always a popular menu.

Nearly all potato salads have a little onion flavor. This may be in the form of onion juice, or the onion may be grated, finely minced, or shaved very thin. Chopped parsley, too, and pickles of some kind, may be added even when not specified in the recipe. The potatoes are usually cooked in their jackets in boiling salted water until they become tender but not soft or mealy. After they have been peeled and cooled they are cut up in small uniform cubes or sliced very thin. Mayonnaise dressing is always good in potato salad; or hot cooked dressing may be poured over the potato and the other ingredients added when the potato has had time to absorb the flavor of the dressing. Or a french dressing may be used, in the proportion of three parts of oil to one of vinegar, with salt, paprika and chopped parsley added to suit the individual taste.

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests some good combinations of flavor to add to potato salad. The proportionate amounts of potato and other ingredients is a matter of personal preference. With the diced cooked potato any of the following may be used: Pickled beets, and onion; crisped bacon, onion or chopped pickle; dill pickle and shredded cabbage; chopped olives and green peppers; fried ham in cubes and minced onion; bacon crisped, canned peas, horseradish in french dressing; celery (celery root) and minced onion; celery, cabbage, minced parsley, and finely chopped pickle.

Whisk Broom as Sprinkler

A whisk broom is a good clothes sprinkler, because it gives a fine spray, sprinkles evenly and is quicker than hand sprinkling.

"Pillow Pets" Easy to Make

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Have you a "pillow pet" in your home? If not, your fancy pillow collection lacks one of the cleverest novelties brought out this season.

Most every woman likes to take some sort of fancywork along when she goes summer vacationing, so that fingers be not idle during leisure hours spent at the beach or on cool, shady hotel verandas. A "pillow pet" cushion is delightful "pick up" work—no bother or "fiddled to count," just simple quilting according to a well defined stamped pattern for the quilted border. A deft bit of embroidery "dolls up" the cunning little dog or cat which is to be applied on the padding in the background.

That's why they are called "pillow pets," because to the center of each cushion top either a wee dog or kitten cut out of thin leather or suede is stitched as you see in the picture.

Materials for these cunning "pillow pets" are obtainable in almost any fancy work department. The work itself is very easy. The padding, which is stamped ready to quilt, is laid on the wrong side of the silk and basted together. The stamped design on the padding is worked with a running stitch or contrasts the silk as preferred. The sketch in the lower right corner of this illustration demonstrates the method of handling. The right side of the silk will then show a perfect quilted patterning. (See finished cushion above to the left in the picture.)

Embroider the little animals cut out of leather, as sketched above to the right, before sewing on the padded silk. Work eyes, nose and mouth in contrasting colors to give a realistic effect. Stitch the pupil of the little dog's eyes in solid black with lower part outlined in brown, then outline the whole eye in black or white. Embroider a few stitches around ears, legs, tail and body. If the motif be that of a kitten, embroider the pupils of the eyes green, outlined in white or black. Make the whiskers black or white.

Before applying the design to the pillow baste the outline of the animal figure so that the stitches will come through to the silk as a guide for its correct positioning on the pillow top. Place the little cat or dog, as the case may be, over the basting and apply the design to the pillow with long and short stitch, using black twist. Stuff the appliqued motif with a thin layer of padding before completing the stitching so as to give it a rotund shapely body. After the quilted silk cover is sewed together insert pillow.

An Evening Story for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"You must come along," said the Sun to the blue sky.

"Come where?" asked the blue sky.

"To a party the children are giving."

"How can I?" the sky asked. "Just because you're so very bright, Mr. Sun, you mustn't think you can do everything in the world."

"You can't really go to a party, and neither can I."

"Ah, I must explain," said Mr. Sun.

"Do," said the blue sky.

"The children are giving an out-of-door party."

"They are going to wear beautiful paper costumes and have a maypole and it's all going to be grand."

"Well, that's the sort of thing I must attend. And so must you."

"For this is what the children said, you see—"

"Children say many things," said the blue sky, interrupting.

"Yes," said Mr. Sun, "they're bright little things, that's true."

"You speak about them, Mr. Sun, as if they were stars."

"Bright little things, indeed. How funny you are."

"Well, they are little and they are bright, aren't they?"

"Very well," said the blue sky. "Do go on with your story."

"I don't get half a chance," said Mr. Sun, looking a little dull for a moment.

"I won't say another word," said the blue sky.

"These children said:—"

"We do hope Mr. Sun will come to our out-of-door party, for it would spoil everything and all our costumes if it rained."

"And then they said:—"

"Oh, yes, we must have blue sky for our party."

"So you see! We must go to the party. I'm going to shine and be very bright, and you must come along."

"It's such a compliment that they've asked us. We're not exactly part of the party—but you might call us party helpers, that's what we are."

"I don't know whether it's such a lesson," said the blue sky. "They're just making use of us to their advantage."

"Oh, don't always get such foolish ideas in your big head," said Mr. Sun.

"I like to be useful and helpful."

Just at that moment the children appeared for their out-of-door party

"Going to Be Very Grand."

and they were so happy as they cried out:

"Oh, see how bright the sun is. Mr. Sun beamed more than ever. And then some of them said:

"Isn't it wonderful to have such a blue sky?"

The blue sky was as pleased as could be after all.

It had thought a little of letting

Good Things for the Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"He is a friend, who can By a look, word, renew The courage in a man, His best and true."

Here is a good southern sponge cake from the land of good cooks:

Georgia Sponge Cake.—Beat three eggs and one cupful of sugar for ten minutes, then add one cupful of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt; add one-fourth of a cupful of cold water and a teaspoonful of flavoring. Bake in small fluted tin and serve piled high with sweetened whipped cream to which chopped candied cherries have been added.

Butter Frosting.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of confectioner's sugar, add three tablespoonfuls of butter, mix well and add thick cream enough to make of the right consistency to spread, flavor with vanilla and cover the cake with it.

For those who consider chicken livers the great delinquency they are, the following diet will be considered: Chicken Livers With Olive Sauce.—Cut the livers into half and wrap each piece in wafer-like strips of bacon, place on skewers alternately with mushroom caps which have been carefully cleaned and dipped into olive oil. Place the skewers across a dripping pan in a very hot oven or under the broiler flame. Baste occasionally with the fat from the pan. Serve on the skewers with the sauce made as follows: Brown two tablespoonfuls of butter with two of worcestershire sauce, one dozen stuffed olives, thinly sliced, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, salt, cayenne and paprika to taste. Serve with browned potato balls, small string beans or peas.

Fear Sauce.—Arrange eight halves of pears in lettuce cups. Mix one cupful of cottage cheese with one-fourth cupful of nuts, form into balls and press one into each cavity of the pear. Dot with cherries and serve with a highly seasoned french dressing, using pineapple juice with a dash of lemon.

Wash bacon dripping, allow to cool and skim off. Use for all sorts of cooking. When the bits of burned bacon drop into the water and sink to the bottom of the pan, it leaves the fat sweet and it can be used for shortening for molasses or apple sauce instead of butter.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for May 12

THE EARLY MINISTRY OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 1:4-10; 24:1-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—We must obey God rather than men.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Doing Hard Things for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Doing Hard Things for God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking a Stand for God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Fidelity in the Face of Difficulties.

1. Jeremiah's Call (1:4-10).

2. It was prenatal (v. 4, 5). Before Jeremiah was born, God ordained him a prophet.

3. His diffidence (v. 6). This seems to have grown out of his youth and inexperience.

4. His hesitancy overcome (v. 7, 8).

God graciously appeared unto him and made clear that he should (1) Go where sent. (2) Speak as commanded. (3) Be unafraid of their faces. The servant of God is called upon to face strong enemies. (4) Be assured of the divine presence.

5. The divine message given (v. 9). Not merely the thoughts, but the proper words to express the thoughts, were put into the prophet's mouth.

6. Nature of his ministry (v. 10). It was to be wider than that of prophesying. Six words are given as descriptive thereof. The first four are destructive in their implication—"root out," "pull down," "destroy," and "throw down"; two constructive, "build" and "plant."

7. Jeremiah's Grief (2:1, cf. 2:10). The unbelief of the people made him feel that his efforts were fruitless. Seeing so clearly the awful doom which awaited his people and nation, and their willful opposition, he wept sorely.

8. Jeremiah's Prophecy in the Temple Court (20:1-24).

1. Jeremiah's solemn warning to Judah (v. 1-7).

The Lord commanded him to stand in a conspicuous place in the temple and proclaim the judgment which was about to fall upon them because of their sins. The object was to move them to repentance (v. 3). If they would not repent, God would make the temple as Shiloh (v. 6). Just as Shiloh was once the dwelling place of the Lord and now fallen into decay and abandoned, so would it be with the temple.

2. Jeremiah on trial (v. 8-11).

(1) Cause of arrest (v. 8). It was for faithfully speaking all that the Lord had commanded.

(2) The charge (v. 8, 9). Thou shalt surely die. They charged him with a capital crime. According to this charge his guilt was twofold: a. Pretending to speak for God. b. Speaking against the temple and the city. According to this charge he was guilty of blasphemy and sacrilege. The one who prophesied without God's command was to be punished by death (Deut. 18:20). Blasphemy was also punishable by death. (Lev. 24:16).

(3) The princes sit in judgment (v. 10, 11). Matters of state were not entirely in the hands of the priests and elders, but were in part controlled by members of the royal family.

3. Jeremiah's defense (v. 12-15).

Threats of death did not deter him from preaching, but only made him repeat his message with clearness.

(1) Reiterates his divine commission (v. 12). He plainly told them that he was God's messenger and in opposing him they were opposing God.

(2) His exhortation (v. 13). He urged them to amend their ways and obey God and thus turn aside the divine judgment.

(3) He gave himself up (v. 14). He did not resist the powers of government (Rom. 13:1).

(4) Warns of fatal consequences (v. 15). He told them that God had sent him and that if they killed him they would be guilty of defying God.

4. Jeremiah saved (v. 16-24).

(1) The judgment of the princes (v. 16). They found him "not guilty."

(2) The speech of the elders (v. 17-23).

The elders pled for Jeremiah and adduced two cases in illustration: a. Micah (v. 18, 19). Micah had prophesied against Jerusalem, but King Hezekiah instead of putting him to death, repented, and thus turned aside the punishment which was impending.

b. Urijah (v. 20-23). Urijah prophesied against the city and the land and thus incurred the wrath of Jehoiakim, who even brought him back from Egypt and slew him.

(3) Rescued by Ahikam (v. 24). Ahikam must have been a man of influence, to be able to interfere.

Faith

Faith is not blind acceptance of absurdities. Faith is the completion of a transaction in which we commit ourselves to a personal relationship with an unseen and living Master. Faith is such an adventure as every sailor makes when he sets out for an untried port. Faith is our response to our yearning for the God who has made us for fellowship with himself. Faith is the answer of the vibrant human spirit to the music of Eternity. —Oswa & Davis.

JACK QUINN ON TWENTIETH YEAR

One of Few Remaining Spitzballers in American.

Jack Quinn, one of the last of the fast disappearing race of spitball pitchers, is beginning his fifth year with the Mackmen and his twentieth in the majors.

Quinn, who is forty-two years of age, is already in good shape, having trained for two weeks at Hot Springs, Ark., before going South. He attributes his success to hard work. He was a breaker boy in the coal mines near Pottsville, Pa., before he took up basket ball and a strong physique has carried him through many years on the ball field.

"There are only a few of us still in the game," said Quinn. "Red Faber of Chicago and myself are the only two spitballers left in the American league. I believe Grimes of New York and Mitchell of the Cardinals are the only ones in the National."

"Urban Shocker died last year and Bill Doak and Stanley Coveleskie have retired, so there are only a few remaining, but we still manage to get by and fool the batters.

"When the baseball powers ruled out the spitball seven years ago I think they had in mind to legislate only against trick pitching. I have always contended that few batters were ever hurt by spitball pitching.

"I see nothing mysterious about the spitter. Just take a baseball, moisten it a little on the side near the thumb and let the ball slip inward or away from you as you throw, depending on where you want it to go. That's all there is to it."

Gridiron Rules Makers

Didn't Hit Their Mark

Coach Dick Hanley, head of the Northwestern university football staff, says that he believed the rules committee missed its mark when it moved up the try for point from the three to the two-yard line in order to stimulate triple-threat plays there.

"A power formation that can be counted upon to gain two yards readily won't yield field goals effectively," Hanley said. "There goes the triple-threat idea. Otherwise the yard difference won't materially change the try for point. It will be just as easy to make or miss a field goal from 12 or 13 yards and passing attacks will function the same there."

Hanley has been opposed to the new fumble rule since it was first brought up several years ago. He believes that the human element must remain in the game to maintain the fans' interest.

"I am not in favor of stereotyping the game," he continued. "Anything that removes the thrills from the game and detracts from the spectators' enjoyment is not an asset."

Rookie Ty Cobb Is

Flivver in Minors

The name of Ty Cobb alone is not enough to assure success in baseball, one South Carolina lad has learned.

Seventeen-year-old Tyrus Raymond Cobb, who was named after the famous player, but who is no relation to the Georgia peach, tried out for an outfield berth with the Greenville club of the South Atlantic league. Failing to make the grade, he was released.

Shortstop Joe Sewell

Turning to Third Base

Joe Sewell, shortstop of the Cleveland Indians for nine years, in turning to third base, is attempting to master his third position in baseball. Joey has been a shortstop so long, most followers of baseball suppose, perhaps that he has always been a shortstop. As a matter of fact, when Sewell became a professional with New Orleans in 1920, he was touted in at shortstop and had to learn a new position, for at the University of Alabama he was consistently a second baseman.

Joe told his reactions to the change: "Yes, I had to learn to play short when I broke into professional ball," he said, "after I had always played second base in college. I learned to play it after a fashion and I expect to have just as good luck in mastering third base play."

Too Much Selfish Employment of Religion for Personal Comfort

By REV. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK (Baptist), New York.

RELIGION, like love, can be utterly selfish. Love gives and love wants. There are always two sides to it, and a love where the one side overbalances the other side can be disastrously ruinous.

Even mother love can be a destroying angel. For what some mothers mean when they say "I love him," is "I want him; I will not let him be anybody else's but mine."

More than one young man has poured out to me the story of a blasted life, and the cause, strangely enough, was a loving mother. For when love becomes selfish it can do more damage than hate.

So it is with religion, for religion has comfortable aspects. It is easy to get religion for comfort only. A man can love his family primarily for what he gets out of it. A man can love his country primarily for what he gets out of it. A man can love a friend and squeeze him like an orange into his cup, and a man can love God for what there is in it. There is a lot of that kind of religion today. Some of our most prominent modern cults face the tremendous temptation to be religious for comfort only.

It is dreadful to be really irreligious, to think that creation has no spiritual origin, meaning or destiny, that the creative power cares no more for us than the weather for the grass. One flees from the Arctic cold of irreligion to the gracious warmth of faith in God and His goodness and to the comfortable and sustaining power of His fellowship.

If I did not believe in missions for any other reason I would believe in them because they keep alive the heroic tradition of a sacrificial Christianity. They do at least challenge our easy consciences with the conviction that Christ came to get some great business done on earth and that it costs to do it.

Nation Can Have No Greater Concern Than Development of Its Youth

By OSCAR LEONARD, B'nai B'rith Leader.

The problem of American Jewry, in common with that of America itself, is that of its youth. The greatest concern of any people must be its youth, because that is its future. But this is truer of Jews, since we are a minority group. We must do something to save the Jewish youth for the Jewish people. We must give them something of the ideals which have animated our people through the ages.

For a time we were so busy finding our place in America that we almost forgot our youth, and particularly our intellectuals. The result being that many of them left us, or were about to leave us. It was Prof. Chauncey Baldwin, a prominent Christian at the University of Illinois, who called the attention of the B'nai B'rith to this peculiar situation. The B'nai B'rith, with its record of more than four score years of service, took up this work first in Illinois. The B'nai B'rith Hillel foundation was established there. This work was so successful that requests came from other universities for similar foundations. Where established, the foundation gives Jewish university students the opportunities to meet together for social, spiritual, and intellectual purposes.

Medical Profession Must Find Methods of Giving Proper Care to the Needy

By DR. MALCOLM M. HARRIS, Chicago.

Unless the medical profession adopts methods of caring for needy patients the medical foundation societies will. This will be to the detriment of the profession. Millions of dollars are being endowed to foundations. The doctors in them work on salaries. The idea is advanced that the patients are patients, first of the hospital, second of the doctor.

It is the belief of the people that the medical profession is charging prices so high as to make its services available only to the rich, that it is failing to fulfill its obligations. The people are providing this other method.

Exorbitant charges by surgeons are crimes against society. No physician, no matter how eminent, is justified in making such charges. Charges must be fair, honorable and just. They must not be greater than the financial status of the patient justifies.

County medical societies should include every reputable physician and should create institutions for the care of persons of slight means, with every physician pledging a certain amount of time to the institution. Only persons of limited means would be treated and they would pay according to their means.

Faith in Mankind and Belief in God Inseparable, Though Not Easy

By DR. CHARLES F. WISHART, President Wooster College.

Christianity is committed to fundamental faith in man and encourages men to see submerged possibilities in the most insignificant human through the power of Christ in their lives. "Honor All Men" is the very essence of Christianity. Belief in God and belief in man are inseparable. A thorough belief in man is manifestly not easy. In fact, it is not much easier than a belief in God. It takes a great soul to believe in God. It is about the largest achievement of the human spirit. Next to that is belief in man. It takes a great man to sense the greatness of all men, to work your way down beneath the overlay of circumstances, the apparent limitations, the puzzling inconsistencies, below the commonplace and the vulgar and the banal, and to appreciate the splendor, the tragedy, the majesty of humanity that is the achievement of a great soul!

Christianity is firmly committed to a fundamental faith in man. It views man not at all with blind eyes. In the deepest, truest sense, we may say that we dare not wait to love men until we know them. We must love them in order to know them.

Grave Necessity for Reorganization of Government in United States

By DEAN WALTER J. SHEPARD, Ohio State University.

If democracy is to survive under the present complex industrial system, and America is to avoid falling back on a centralized dictatorship as have several European countries, the government must be fundamentally reorganized along functional and group lines, rather than on geographical lines. We are attempting to operate a twentieth-century industrial system with an eighteenth-century scheme of industrial control. We have advanced by leaps and bounds in the field of industrial technique and organization. We have lagged far behind in the necessary social and political adjustments which such industrial transformation requires.

Sardinia May Grow Cotton
Cotton can be grown in Sardinia, the Italian ministry of national economy has just proved by experiments which it considers encouraging. The yield on arid land selected for the experiment was about three quintals of cotton per acre. As Italy is engaged in a program of raising everything possible within its borders in order to decrease the amount of imports from abroad, it is implied that further attention will be given to the raising of cotton, of which Italy is a heavy buyer. (A metric quintal is about 220 pounds.)

of every woman—health and strength. They're brought to you by Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is sold by druggists. It will build up strength and invigorate the "run-down," nervous, or delicate woman.

One who has used it remarked: "For over two years I was in miserable health brought on thru woman's trouble. I got so weak I would have fainting spells every day, my nerves were all gone and I was not able to do anything. Finally I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's medicine. I took several bottles each of the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and these medicines restored me to health. I have been a well woman ever since and in my work of nursing I always recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines where I think they are needed." —Mrs. J. A. Mitchell, 1421 Grove St., Bala, Pa.

OLD FOLKS SAY

DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

The law is very useful in getting one out of trouble—and in.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Joe Cochrane Dies

Joe Cochrane, miner and old resident of Nogal, died at Hot Springs, N. M., last week and the remains were brought to Nogal, where the funeral was held Monday, with the Rev. Rowland of the Carrizozo Baptist Church conducting the funeral rites.

Joe Cochrane came to this locality when a young man and entered the mining industry which he followed until a few years ago, when he was taken ill and after many attempts to improve his health he had tried the springs, but to no avail. Being one of our old residents, he was well known and had many friends over the county. The surviving members of the family have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mrs. T. J. Pittman

left Tuesday night for Cloudcroft, where she will spend the summer with friends.

Mrs. M. I. Hunt

formerly a teacher in our schools and who has been with her mother at Ononta, N. Y., for the past six months, is now residing at Boulder, Colo., where the Hunts will make their home for the future.

Mrs. A. E. Rohde

came down from Tucumcari Wednesday, accompanied by Mrs. Clint Brannum, who will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rely, and sisters, Misses Allen, Harris and Jones. Mrs. Rohde will leave on her return trip and be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Anna Roberts, who will visit her daughter at Tucumcari for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haven

The Carlsbad Road Meeting

A delegation composed of G. T. McQuillen, T. E. Kelley, J. E. French, M. B. Paden, L. A. Whitaker and J. A. Haley attended the Carlsbad road meeting Monday and found that there was no apparent activity against the proposition of having the big Highway come through here, as was proposed in the beginning.

Carlsbad, Roswell, and other places on this side, claimed that the Carrizozo route was the only logical one, and while other delegates were there from Vaughn and Albuquerque with the intention of using their influence, the united sentiment was so strong in favor of the Carrizozo route, that no arguments were presented. There were about 145 delegates present.

Trimmed Corona

As announced in last week's paper, the Corona baseball team made their appearance here last Sunday afternoon and vowed to the Carrizozo team by a score of 23 to 9. Our team found their pitcher's measurement right in the 1st inning and before he was relieved by another man, the local team had hit up all bases and practically checked the game. Their succeeding twirler was worse off on control and he, too, was sent to the showers, but was called back in an effort to halt the onslaught of the Carrizozoians' bats, as the pitcher succeeding him could not locate the plate and when he did, the ball sailed out and lost itself in the gusts of wind. The day was one very unfavorable to play baseball, but soon we shall have rain and it is all weather for the sport. The local boys are improving very rapidly and with just a little more experience, they will be ready to tackle such well-season-
