Kellogg Peace Fruits To Boon Good Times When a Man Scribbles Think of Mexico

China says Russia's attack on her Manchurian possessions, seizing the railroads, killing Chinese, setting fire to their homes, etc., is a defiance of the Kellogg peace pact

Britain and America will talk that over and see what can be done about it. Henderson, foreign minister in Britain's labor cabinet, says Japan will take part in the discussion. Russia asks no one's advice and the only thing that could be done about it would be to fight Russia.

It would be interesting if the first fruits of the Kellogg peace pact should be the start of another war. If that war came Japan, highly intelligent, would send a few "observers," as in the big war, and do nothing else.

Britain would be too busy with other things and too "fed up" for any more fighting. Uncle Sam would be told: "After all, Kellogg is your man. It is your peace pact. Have the common decency to attend to this matter."

Insull of Chicago, Cortelyou of New York and Owen D. Young of Europe, New York and everywhere have seen the President. They and other industrial stars promise the President to co-operate in his admirable undertaking, promotion of new enterprises, wise spending of money and creation of jobs.

Their promise is no small one, for they agree to spend fifteen hundred million dollars on one program.

What the country needs, if it really needs anything beyond common sense, is to spend part of the money we have, and we have hundreds of billions of it. On past occasions this country has stood petrified, unable to move, like a man watching his horse burn down, unable to use his legs or hands.

You might buy of autograph dealers a signature of Herbert Hoover on a sheet of paper with many little queer geometrical diagrams scratched on the paper while listening to a visitor.

These diagrams usually mean that the man making them is not listening "very hard."

If Rockefeller or Ford called to tell the President of a plan to put ten million men to work at good wages, he would listen and wouldn't do any scribbling as he listened.

When you talk and a man scribbles, make it short. He isn't much interested.

It was a distressing slump in Wall street, but think of poor Mexico. That country has had not a slump but a downward cataclysm.

Figures prepared by L. F. Herbert, authority on Mexican securities, show that national and railroad securities in Mexico with a par value of $503,928,150 are now selling on a basis of $37,000,000, or about six and a half per cent of par.

Suppose you could buy $100 worth of our government bonds or best railroad stock for $6.50. That would be wooty.

And the simple-hearted Mexicans have not been dumping out new stock, 20,000,000 shares at a time, either.

Business men that know what it means to take an inventory of a good-sized store will shudder when they hear that Doctor Shapley of Harvard has a plan for taking an inventory of the universe or "an index," as he calls it. Man is very far down in that inventory, about as important as a shoestring in a wholesale dry goods store.

In the cosmos everything is to be listed in its place, from electrons to "super galaxies." The difference between a super galaxy and an electron of which millions might rarely be perceived around their nucleus in the corner of the eye, is quite a difference.

Consider that the molecules in a pint of water, placed side by side, touching, would go around the earth two hundred million times; that our sun is a million times as big as the earth; that there exist other suns, one million times as big as ours, and you can imagine what a cosmic inventory would be. But men will make it, including everything within the telescope's reach.

Under ground near the marshy shores of the Bay of Biscay old Ctesibian would be interested to hear that the German newspaper says, "We should have won the war if we had had the greatest Frenchman since Napoleon."

School Notes

Schools visited—Capitan, Tinnie, Hondo, Picacho, San Patricio, Lincoln, Baca Canyon. Baca Canyon and Bluewater have been greatly improved. Both schools have been beaverboarded inside, doors and windows repaired and floors oiled, presenting a very attractive appearance.

J. W. Diefendorf, state high school supervisor visited all of the high schools last week. We have not yet received his report.

Upper Glencoe School Notes

Our enrollment for Nov. was 18 pupils with a monthly average attendance of 99.75%. We have two new blackboards which are a great help in our work and also add to the appearance of the room. Mrs. Jones, our teacher, has ordered some library books. Our aim this year is to build up our small library. We have 100 classics for all grades as well as a number of other books. Earl Allison was elected captain of "The Come Alive Book Club," which all have joined.

The little tots are enjoying beautiful Thanksgiving decorations. We are not working on our Christmas decorations and program. Christmas comes but once a year so we like to enjoy it during all of the month of December. Upper Glencoe School cordially invites our County School Superintendent and other friends to attend our Christmas program. (Signed) Consolacion Sanchez.

On account of congested conditions in the primary department at Corona it was necessary to give Mrs. Boucher an assistant. Miss Dorothy Wright, who has been attending the Normal at Las Vegas has accepted the position.

The Ancho, Tinnie and Bogle schools have each installed a new heating stove which greatly adds to the comfort of teacher and children.

Alfredo Lopez of Carrizozo has accepted the position as teacher in the Zacate Canyon, Corona District school. This position was made vacant by the resignation of F. W. Clyden.

Lute Skinner Dies at Malaga, N. M.

Last Friday evening at Malaga, Lute Skinner, oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Skinner of this place, died at the age of 51 years. Mr. Skinner had been ill but a few days before his death and his passing was a severe shock to members of his immediate family as well as to his relatives, as a whole.

On receipt of his hopeless condition, his parents and brothers, F. L. and Roy Skinner left at once for Malaga and were there but a short time when he passed away. The funeral was held on Saturday at Carlsbad, where his sons resided, with Rev. Cox of the Christian church conducting the same and attended by a large circle of friends both from Malaga and Carlsbad. He was held in high esteem by all who knew him. Of Lute Skinner it may well be said, that he led a conscientious Christian life, was a square in his dealings with his fellow man and these noble traits of manhood, made him a host of friends everywhere.

Before going to Malaga, he resided on his farm and ranch on the Nogal-Mesa and had resided at the first named location for 8 years. Four years ago, his brother, R. C. Skinner left here and purchased a place directly across the road from his brother, Lute, and the two were daily companions in their fields of work until the grim reaper separated them. Being daily companions, that aside from Lute's immediate family, the blow fell the heaviest on his brother Con.

He leaves a wife, five children, three girls and two boys, besides his parents, three brothers and two sisters to mourn his loss, to all of whom, the sympathy of our entire community is extended.

Mrs. George Ratzloff

mother of Mrs. Frank Maxwell and Mrs. R. H. Wilson, Mrs. Maxwell's sister, who spent a week with the Maxwells, left Wednesday evening for their home in Burrton, Kans. They were accompanied by Mrs. Maxwell and sons, Frank, Jr. and Morgan, who will visit at Burrton until the holiday season sets in, at which time, Frank, Sr. will join them. They will return home about January 1st.

The Model Cleaner

wishes to offer the advice for people desirous of having work of any kind done, for the holiday season, to get the same in as early as possible, so that they may have the same before the holiday rush comes on.

Radio Rube Sez—

I hear the Cliquot Club Eskimos every Tuesday night and it certainly is a jolly bunch that seems to enjoy the programs as well as the radio fans do.

Windy Whitewash Weldon, the bass singer over KNX, gets down so low, that they have to take a rope to pull him out.

KPRC at Houston has a male quartet that is hard to beat. Their voices blend together beautifully. In a great many quartets, both vocal and instrumental, there's always some 'smart' bird who wants to drown out everybody else, but you don't find that kind of an animal in this quartet.

Have you listened to "Piccolo Pete" lately? Say, he's a peach, isn't he? I think it the best ragtime composition on the air, particularly when he strikes a "b-l-u-e note!"

I heard a song the other night over KSL of Salt Lake City, that went like this — "If I give up the Saxophone, will you come back to me?" This is a new one on me.

Deputy Revenue Collector, is here this week on official business. Albert is always alert on the job.

FORT STANTON NEWS

In compliance with Bureau orders, Surgeon J. W. Tappan, together with his family left Fort Stanton Sunday morning, en route to San Diego, where he will be in charge of the Quarantine Service of the U.S. Public Health Service. For several weeks before leaving many parties and dinners were given in their honor. As was the custom the officers gave them a large party at the Nurses' Home, where more than 60 people honored them. A few days later a large number of employees bid them goodbye at a party given at the Community House. On Friday night the patients and all the personnel gave them a rousing farewell party at the Community House. Mrs. Faget and Mr. McNeff gave some very beautiful musical numbers during the evening. On Sunday morning there were a number of friends called at the house to bid them farewell and all expressed sincere regrets at seeing them go, and we wish them a very happy tour of duty at their new station.

We wish to thank Mr. Burke and the Outlook for the Thanksgiving menus, which they printed for us and sent us a bill marked paid with the compliments of the Carrizozo Outlook.

The Christmas committee wishes to thank the American Legion Chapter of Capitan and Fort Stanton for their donation of $40.05 to the Christmas fund for the patients. This splendid co-operation of the Legion with their fellow seamen will be appreciated very much.

The Ranson & Anderson Contracting Co. have just installed a new 75-KW engine and generator in our power plant. We hope this means more and better electric lights and less static on the radio.

The Trowel Club, a Masonic organization at the Fort, is planning to furnish a good, lively entertainment for the patients during the holidays. It is not known yet what this entertainment will be, but the committee assures us that it will be equal to or better than those of previous years.

Although Chaplain Swift is no longer at the Fort, the Seamen's Institute is arranging, through the temporary representative, to have open house at the Community House where refreshments will be served and the best of entertainment will be the order of the day.

The patients' Christmas committee states that they are in need of some heavy woolen socks, such as the Red Cross used to give the patients when they were doing social work at the Fort. It is a late day to ask the good women of Lincoln county to begin knitting socks, but we assure you that those who have the time and will do so, will render a very comforting service to the patients at Fort Stanton.

The groom is County Clerk of Lincoln County, to which office he was elected last fall. During his term of office so far, he has made one of the best clerks the county has ever had. Fruit Flavors With Pork Cooked Apples Are Always Pleasant Accompaniment.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Because of their pleasant tartness, cooked apples are an acceptable accompaniment to any of the usual cuts of pork—roasts, chops or sausage. The apples need not always be made into sauce, however. Sometimes serve them baked, or fried, or glazed. Or have an apple dessert. Other slightly acid fruit flavors may take the place of apples for a change—fried pineapple, for instance, or cranberry sauce in the winter months, or tart jellies like currant or peach plum.

Success in preparing pork cuts, says the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, depends on regulating the heat so as to cook the meat well done to the center of the piece and at the same time to keep the outside from becoming hard and dry. Moderate cooking temperature is best after the surface has been seared to develop rich flavor. It is neither necessary nor desirable to add water to pork roasts during cooking. Hams, shoulders and loins have sufficient fat on the outside to baste the lean meat, and so do not dry out when roasted fat side up at moderate temperature in open pans without added water.

For a pork loin roast have the butcher crack the bones so that it can be carved in slices between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Lay the loin, ribs down and fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Sear the meat for 30 minutes, or until lightly browned, in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) then reduce the temperature rapidly to a very moderate heat (300 degrees to 325 degrees Fahrenheit), and cook until the meat is tender. A loin weighing from 4 to 6 pounds will probably require from 2 to 2½ hours when these oven temperatures are used. A roast meat thermometer can be used with loins, just as with ham and other thick roasts. Put it into the raw meat so that the bulb reaches the thickest part and leave it in during all the time the roast is in the oven. When the mercury in the meat thermometer registers 135 degrees Fahrenheit, the meat is well done to the center.

Too much idleness, I have observed, fills up a woman's time much more completely and leaves her less her own mistress than any other sort of employment whatever.—Burke.

After middle age when the average person, man or woman, begins to notice the thickening of the waistline, it is necessary, if one keeps fit, active and ready for the enjoyment of all of the good things that nature provides us, to cut down on starchy foods, eat less of meat and more of the natural fruit

Juices, which are invaluable in neutralizing the acid ash of heavy foods. Acidosis, rheumatism of various forms, get us if we don't watch out. When heartburn (an acid stomach) rolls up to choke you, take a good glass of fresh orange juice and see how quickly the discomfort will subside.

Drink orange juice daily as much and as often as the stomach demands it. With a system well nourished daily with citrus fruit juice, whether lemon, lime, grapefruit or orange, the dreaded arthritis is routed and the body is kept in perfect condition—provided the food supply is reasonable.

Young people who work off so much steam in exercise may eat more freely of hearty foods, but inactivity and overeating is the cause of a large proportion of disease and death. Nowadays the wise mother begins with the citrus fruits. She gives her three-month-old babe a teaspoonful of strained orange juice between feedings. The vitamins and mineral matter found in orange juice builds up the tissues and bones and gives the body resistance to colds and infection.

The small glass of orange juice is part of every well-appointed table for the first meal of the day. Fresh vegetables, especially the green-leaf vegetables, like lettuce, chard, spinach and broccoli, should be part of the menu of every dinner. Uncooked onions if eaten at night are

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

Let the children have plenty of outdoor play in the sunshine now to help them resist colds this winter.

Weather stripping around the windows helps to save fuel and to keep the house evenly heated in winter.

To foster a love of reading in children, see that they are provided with comfortable chairs and good light placed conveniently near.

An uncovered kettle and short cooking in rapidly boiling water aid in keeping the color in green vegetables during cooking.

Soap and hot water and occasionally kerosene oil are better cleaners for porcelain or enamel than coarse abrasives, since these may scratch the surface.

To Make Brown Bread

Beat two eggs, add one rounded tablespoonful of melted butter, dissolve two teaspoonfuls of baking soda in one and one-fourth cups of buttermilk; add half a teaspoonful of salt, two cups of graham flour, one cupful of cornmeal and one scant cupful of brown sugar. Beat well. Bake in a well buttered pan in a slow oven for one hour. Raisins and chopped nuts may be added if liked.

Mulligatawny Soup Is Tasty

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The distinctive flavor in mulligatawny soup that makes it different from most other soups is the suggestion of curry, borrowed from East Indian cookery. The vegetables and seasonings are also a source of its fine appetizing taste, and as some of the meat is added at serving time, the soup is substantial and nourishing. The addition of a tart sliced apple is another touch that makes this soup unusual. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture supplies these directions for making it:

- USED FOR STOCK
- 1/2 or 3 pounds veal
 - 1 onion, halved
 - knuckle
 - 3 stalks celery
 - 2 stalks cold water
 - blinds of mace
 - 1/4 tsp. peppercorns
- 1/2 cup sliced onion
- 1 cup carrot, cut
 - in small cubes
 - 1/2 cup finely cut
 - celery
 - 1 green pepper,
 - finely cut
 - 1 tart apple,
 - sliced
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup creamed to-
 - mato
 - 1/2 tsp. curry pow-
 - der
 - 1 cup parsley
 - 1 tsp. salt, or to
 - taste.
- Wipe the knuckle of veal, put into a kettle with the water, peppercorns, onion, celery, and mace, and simmer for two hours. Remove the scum and strain the soup stock. Cook the onion, carrots, celery, green pepper, and

TO MAKE CINNAMON ROLLS

Sprinkle a layer of biscuit dough thickly with sugar, cinnamon and bits of butter. Roll as for jelly roll, cut into one-inch pieces, and set these cut side down in a pan prepared as follows: Butter a pan, sprinkle thickly with sugar, bits of butter and some cinnamon. Pour in syrup to cover the lower part of the pan with a layer of syrup. Set the rolls in this and bake as directed. When baked, turn the rolls out on a rack. If you want a roll that is covered with a plentiful supply of syrup, increase the amount of syrup that is poured into the pan. If a glazed surface is desired, additional syrup or honey may be poured over the tops of the rolls before they are to be baked.

Evening Fairy Tale for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

In the music shop the lullaby had put them all to sleep, but they were only going to take a nap so as to rest for the ball that was going to take place.

The instruments and pieces of music had all come to life and were having a fine entertainment for their guest, Minna.

But the lullaby had certainly made them sleepy.

At the very last note everyone of them had fallen off to sleep, though some had gone to sleep a little before the end.

Minna looked around and saw the music sheets resting on tables and counters.

The Big Bass Viol was leaning up against a wall, taking his nap. The Violin was resting upon a chair. Minna put her head down on the piano and closed her eyes. Either she went to sleep very quickly or else the others didn't sleep any length of time at all, for in what seemed but a few minutes the Metronome shouted:

"Time-to-wake-up." Once again they all dusted themselves off, and one or two sheets of music smoothed out their corners which had got bent over a little. Then everyone began to dance. The Sharps and the Flats came out from the pages of the music and jumped here, there, and everywhere over the piano. The Grace Notes did the loveliest of dancing steps.

The Octaves stretched themselves to their full length. They certainly looked quite large and Minna kept stretching her hands the way she did when trying to reach octaves on the piano at home.

Of course none of these little creatures were big enough to dance on the floor. They danced on some of the other pianos in the shop and the Grace Notes did the same, flying down over other Notes, reminding Minna of the way butterflies alighted on the honey-suckle bushes in the garden.

The Chords came out in groups and looked distinguished and handsome. From time to time the orchestra changed. A new group took the places of those who had been playing, so that all had a chance to dance. Minna danced a lovely dance with the Violin who hummed softly and sweetly as he danced.

The First Pieces were dancing around with some of the Scales.

Minna particularly liked the look of one G Major Scale who was like his relatives and yet appeared finer and of greater dignity and simplicity than the others. He was dancing with a charming little First Piece. The First Piece, Minna noticed, was written in the C Major key.

Perhaps that was why they had so much in common, or were in such harmony as Miss Drumble, her teacher, would say.

There were other First Pieces, to be sure, but Minna watched this couple more than any of the others. Even as she danced with her different partners, she watched them. They were dancing together all the time.

The tunes to which they danced were many. How gay it all was! Minna was glad that she had on her good blue dress. Her every-day dress had become so shabby that she had dressed up in her better one for her music lesson.

When she had started on her walk she had thought of going home to change into the old one, but then she had decided she hadn't much time, and that she wouldn't really hurt it. How thankful she was now that she had not gone home to put on her old one.

The hall was wonderful. Such lovely music, so bright and so jolly, such delightful, graceful, interesting dancing.

HOT COCOA GOOD COLD DAY DRINK

In cold weather it is good for the younger children to have a hot drink before starting for school in the morning. Cocoa made with milk is both a food and a beverage, and most children enjoy it for breakfast. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends cocoa as a suitable addition to the hot school lunch.

When it is not possible for the children to obtain it at school the mother may serve it when the children get home in the afternoon, or as part of the evening meal. Few adults will refuse an appetizing cup of cocoa for lunch or supper, when dropping in to call, or when returning late at night from a cold trip.

Make cocoa with whole or skim milk if possible. Allow two level teaspoonfuls of cocoa and about two level teaspoonfuls of sugar to each half pint of milk. While bringing the milk to the scalding point mix the cocoa and sugar to a paste with a little cold milk or water. Add to the hot milk, bring to the boiling point, and boil for about a minute. To prevent scum from rising, beat briskly with an egg beater. Some persons like the addition of a few drops of vanilla. Whipped cream or a marshmallow may be floated on top of each cup.

Proper Height for Kitchen Equipment

Is your permanent kitchen equipment substantial, easy to keep in order, carefully grouped and set at such height that you do not have to stoop or strain your muscles as you work? Sink, stove, and worktable should be near together so as to save steps. Scattered equipment means walking many unnecessary miles during the course of a year, the United States Department of Agriculture has estimated. If the kitchen table is on casters it can be easily moved where needed, thus saving steps.

The various kitchen tasks can be done most comfortably at different heights. Sinks especially are often set too low; 30 inches from the bottom of the sink to the floor is considered good average height. Experiment until you find the best height for your table, ironing board, and washbub. The table can be raised on blocks hollowed out to fit the legs, and with a little ingenuity you can adjust the ironing board and tubs.

Food for the Family Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Both wholesome and a good antiseptic. They also insure solitude, which is another necessity for a normal person occasionally.

The best diet then is plenty of vegetables, citrus fruits and, enough starchy and protein foods to keep in normal weight.

Now that the season is here for heartier foods, more roasts, pastry and richer puddings, we need to remember that we must include in this diet plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, if we are to have a well-balanced diet and keep well.

Pot Roast With Vegetables.—Place a two or three-pound pot roast in a small iron kettle or Dutch oven with some suet. Brown well on all sides, then season and add a tablespoonful of boiling water. Cover tightly and cook over a simmer burner for two or three hours. An hour before serving add potatoes and onions, placing them around the meat. Cover and steam until the vegetables are tender. This makes an easy meal to prepare on a busy day, as one has all the meat and vegetables cooked in one receptacle.

Dinner Punch.—Take two-thirds of lemon juice, one cupful of orange juice, one cupful of sugar syrup—made by cooking together sugar and water

Furred Cloth Suit Smart for Winter

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

The thing that intrigues about the furred cloth jacket suits, which are the smart note for nearly winter, is that they dare to be so strikingly original.

In the yesteryears, a suit was merely a suit lacking for the most part that "variety" which "is the spice of life." How different the modern suit! It has become a creature of imagination in the evolving of which genius is apparently taking its fling.

It is just such fascinating types as the one in this picture which is causing the fashionable world to pay homage to the fur-trimmed suit as a "thing of beauty" as well as costume of exceeding chic.

This striking model is made of brown verona cloth, its collar of brown caracul interpreting an entirely new and decidedly flattering silhouette. The bordering on the coat repeats the graceful circular movement of the collar. There is the buckle fastening. It is the latest—much more satisfactory and smarter than the button-and-loop idea. The close-fitting brown felt turban with its one-side flare, crowns this costume with a definite style touch.

The vogue for thin fur is proving an inspiration to designers to design, for the reasons that supple peltry, such as beaver, seal, lapin, broadtail, Persian lamb, astrakhan, galyak, caracul and such, yield to manipulation as gracefully as any fabric.

The smartest of the smart on the daytime costume list is the suit of tweed for sports, and broadcloths or velvet for dressier wear, which is retained anduffed with some one of the furs just mentioned. Competing with the fur for trime, to no small degree are the showy long-haired varieties, chief among which are badger fox, wolf and lynx.

Not all suits are black, not all suits are brown, although many of them are, but there is also a most desirable color program suggested out for the furred cloth suit, which includes deep wines, rich greys and very new dahls and eggplant shades.

A fascinating type of suit or ensemble, if you so please to call it, which has made its debut this season, exploits color and beauty in its every detail. We refer to the suits of loose-woven tweed which have an interwoven border which introduces a multiplicity of typical gay autumn and winter shades. The bordering is neatly finished with a selvedge which is featured in a trimming way. Of the same tweed the designer fashions a cunning hat, usually a draped toque which displays the selvedge to advantage. In some instances a peck-toek and a bouclier of the self-tweed adds the final touch of chic and charm.

This Mother Had Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show by feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, sallow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by the quick and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merit and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Western mother, Mrs. May Snavey, Montrose, California, says: "My little girl, Edna's, tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving her California Fig Syrup. It helped her right away and soon her stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice about her bowels. I have always used California Fig Syrup with my little boy, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.

Death of the Lady Killer

I DON'T know how many men were killed during the war, but I guess they are missed by the women of the various lands.

Oh! I'm not thinking of the Kaiser and the Czar or some of the little monarchs who had the fourteen-carat derbies knocked off their royal heads.

The old style lady killer, who is now as rare as a horse car, made his last appearance while she was shining on the old style female.

Well, the women of today aren't half as mortal as they used to be. Time was when a girl saw about only one man, and all she could do was to get a crush on him.

But, never again. Women are out in the world, and every day they behold as many fine men as a woman could see before only on Decoration day.

But it isn't only the quantity of masculine material which has come before woman's gaze.

A man can't pretend he's the whole works and tell about the wads of stage money he's making.

And then there's knowledge; not the bookish kind, but the degree one gets in the Uneda university of hard knocks and wise cracks.

The men who get us will have to get some new weapons, for we don't fall for their pop guns.

Love's Old Sweet Song

IF IT'S music you're talking about, you've got to hand it to Love for supplying the leading theme all the way down from Tubal Cain's brass band to the philharmonic orchestra.

People like to think and sing about love just as they spend time and money on love plays and love films.

The number of love pairs wouldn't begin to fill the Social Register, and the lovers who have made good are as few as the millionaires of America.

It makes me tired when I read about the way that science tries to explain the love-impulse and the love-interest.

No, science fumbles badly, when it tells us that love is only an inherited interest in the propagation of the race.

Love is your great adventure. The other person's heart is like the new world to a Columbus.

Love puts the kick into life, or the thrill if you think that's a nicer word. It may steam in the blood and boil in the heart.

Love is the only kind of insanity you may have and keep outside the official bug house.

Christmas on a Battleship

By HAROLD COOK

NICE, old lady who had no relatives, but who did have plenty of money, wanted to spread Christmas happiness where she thought there would be none.

Half an hour later she was ringing the doorbell of a pretentious house on one of the city's best streets.

"I came in answer to the ad about Christmas-making," she said sweetly to the somber-looking man who opened the door.

"Yes, please come in." The man possessed poise. Ann was at once impressed by his manner and began to enlighten him about herself.

"I am Miss Thomas. I live at the Brillington on Broadway. Your ad appealed to me because I, too, am alone in the world and tired of going out for my Christmas dinner with no one about to do something for." I'd just love to get ready for a real Christmas in a sure-enough home.

"I see no reason why you wouldn't if you are willing to undertake the task of trying to cheer up an old bachelor who has grieved through Christmas for the last ten years—since my mother was taken.

"Then we'll go shopping right away. There's no time to lose with Christmas only three days off."

"I'll get the car," he announced, reaching for his coat.

"So do I," replied Ann. "I'm getting the spirit fast. Let me have a pencil and paper, please. I'll make a list while you fetch the car."

"Not Carrie. But I hadn't thought to impose the cooking on you."

"Impossible! For five years I've wanted to make a fruit cake. But how could I without a kitchen to work in? I'll make it tomorrow, if you don't mind, even if Carrie has one already."

"What a jolly morning for Ann and Jim, though it was the mere beginning of a three-day period of increasing fun. Christmas eve showed the house ablaze with light and glowing with Christmas cheer."

Later the old couple across the way were brought in for dinner. The table was beautiful with poinsettia, red candles in silver holders, and sprigs of holly at each plate.

"Why, Mr. Hillton!" exclaimed the frail little woman, "how did you learn to make things so pretty?"

"I haven't learned," Mrs. Dean. Please give Miss Thomas credit for everything," and Jim bowed graciously to Ann.

Christmas and Hearts

By Lily Rutherford Morris

ANN laid the newspaper aside with a quizzical smile. "Wonder if he is a bachelor or a widower? Well, I'll not be long finding out," hurriedly jotting down the address.

"Yes, please come in." The man possessed poise. Ann was at once impressed by his manner and began to enlighten him about herself.

"I am Miss Thomas. I live at the Brillington on Broadway. Your ad appealed to me because I, too, am alone in the world and tired of going out for my Christmas dinner with no one about to do something for."

EDITORIAL COLUMN

The Railroad Man's Magazine

A copy of the first publication of the above named magazine since the world war, has just reached this office from the publishing house of Frank A. Munsey Company of New York. The publication in its new form, according to officers of the publishing house, has been designed to appeal to every class of railroad men and women and also to the general public, or rather to that portion of it, interested in railroad life and transportation. The magazine is replete with fiction, feature articles, the latter being illustrated with photographs, so that it is easy to understand the facts in the statement of Chairman T. Dixon, vice-president of the Munsey Co. and executive head of the magazine, who says:

"We are fully aware of the national need—yes, the international need—of a magazine devoted wholly to railroading and allied transportation, and with the railroad employees and the large part of the public intensely interested in railroad affairs in mind, we have gone about building a publication with a wide appeal. We have spared nothing to give the readers a magazine intelligently and ably edited by men trained in the hard school of railroad experience and complete in entertaining and educational features!

We have assembled about us a staff of writers, all railroad trained, who are fully capable of capturing the pulsing speed, the glamour and bravado of railroad life in a compelling way that we might project it from the printed page, and at the same time contribute largely to the preservation of railroad literature."

John J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, occupies the feature position in the contents of the December issue, which is announced for next Saturday. A gravure insert, or frontispiece, is a full portrait of Mr. Pelley, and the accompanying article is descriptive of the remarkable rise of the New Haven chief from the humble position of track hand.

Another interesting feature is an account of the part the railroads are playing in aiding the farmer—in helping him to grow two blades where one grew before. The building and operation of the largest locomotive in the world, owned by the Northern Pacific lines, is treated and illustrated with photographs.

Fiction of a high grade plays a prominent part in making the magazine everything the publishers claim for it, and then there are regular departments in which technical questions are answered on train operation, control, engine and car troubles, and a score of other subjects, and in which railroad people are given the opportunity to relate thrilling experiences.

AID FOR VETERANS IS RED CROSS PLEDGE

Service and Ex-Service Men Are Helped in All Problems.

Service to World War veterans in hospital, for able-bodied veterans, and for dependent families of both called for expenditures of $738,000 by the American Red Cross during the year just ended. In addition, Red Cross Chapters spent $1,963,000 in veteran relief, and also for men still in service.

Although eleven years have passed since the Armistice, there remain 25,590 disabled and sick veterans of the World War in hospitals, and the peak of the number who will require hospitalization is not expected by Veterans Bureau authorities to be reached until 1947. For these men, the Red Cross must continue its service of providing recreation and comforts, according to James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross.

"Under its Charter from Congress, the Red Cross is required to maintain service for veterans of wars and for the men still in the service," Mr. Fieser said. "The funds for this work come from the annual roll call membership fees. In addition to the sum spent in maintaining contact with the veterans, the Red Cross expended $308,000 in its service to the men still in the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The society and a majority of its 3,500 chapters handle claims for these men for insurance, compensation and other benefits they are entitled to under the law, and also where necessary arrange to provide for dependents of the men.

"Red Cross workers are maintained in forty-eight Veterans Bureau Hospitals, as well as in all regular Army and Navy hospitals, whose duty it is to supervise recreational facilities for the patients, and to provide small comforts. In the Army and Navy Hospitals, the workers also do social service for the patients. These tasks also are performed at all Army Posts and Navy Ports by Red Cross workers, and in addition Red Cross representatives to handle claims are established at the majority of Veterans Bureau regional offices.

Mr. Fieser urged that all citizens enroll in the Roll Call, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 23, in order to aid in supporting this work.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Industry and Finance Give Assurance That Nation's Business Is Sound.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

UNLESS President Hoover and the leaders of finance, industry and labor are all wrong, the country's business structure is on a firm basis and there is no reason why prosperity should decrease, despite the stock market collapse which in six weeks reduced stock prices by about 87 per cent.

What the leaders mentioned think about the situation was brought out in the conferences called in Washington by the President. First to gather were the presidents of a number of railroads, together with William Butterworth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Julius Barnes, chairman of the chamber's board; Secretaries Mellon and Lamont and Ernest L. Lewis, chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission. President Hoover thus told of the results of this meeting:

"The railway presidents were unanimous in their determination to cooperate in the maintenance of employment and business progress. It was stated that the railways which they represented would proceed with full programs of construction and betterments without any reference to recent stock exchange fluctuations; that they would canvass the possibilities of further expansion, and that amongst these particular railways it appeared that the total volume of such construction work already indicated an increase during the next six months over the similar period of last year."

Later in the week, at the annual meeting of the Railway Business Association in Chicago, the rail officials of the country gave out more definite information of their plans for expansion and betterment which will call for the expenditure of a billion dollars.

The second group to assemble in the White House included the twelve members of the advisory council of the federal reserve system and the members of the federal reserve board, together with government officials. They gave assurance of the soundness of the business structure and the probability of cheaper money. Each member of the council reported that business and banking throughout his district were in a sound condition.

On Thursday morning the nation's industrial leaders assembled, with Julius Rosenwald, Henry Ford and Owen D. Young of the General Electric company at their head. Included in the conference were the chiefs of nearly all the great corporations—an impressive gathering indeed. The President asked these men to cooperate in maintaining their business activities on the same plane as in past months and to make expansions wherever possible. What the President particularly desires to avoid is a curtailment of industrial activity in anticipation of a possible business slump due to the stock market collapse. He received the assurance that the constructive activities of the various industries would be continued, and even expanded to take up the slack in employment.

That afternoon William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and other prominent labor leaders, together with Secretary of Labor Davis, conferred with Mr. Hoover. And it was announced that on Monday there would be meetings of the leading public utility magnates and of farm leaders.

Thursday evening Mr. Hoover announced that a truce between capital and labor had been made; that the big industries of the country would not reduce wages and that organized labor would make no demands for increased pay. Both groups, he said, had pledged themselves to assist the President in his endeavor to maintain business stability and progress.

Soon after this Henry Ford announced that a general wage advance was to take effect immediately in all his automobile plants, benefiting about 135,000 men. He gave his views on the industrial situation, maintaining that prices of commodities are too high and must come down, while wages are too low and must be raised.

As a result of the series of conferences it is planned to set up some sort of an organization to act as a clearing house for the activities of the different groups. Mr. Barnes and Mr. Butterworth, in co-operation with Secretaries Mellon and Lamont, will figure prominently in this work.

JAMES W. GOOD, secretary of war, died in a Washington hospital following an operation for acute appendicitis. The news of his demise was heard with deep regret throughout the country for Mr. Good was regarded as a most efficient servant of the nation and was popular with a host of friends. President Hoover was especially grieved by the death of a man who had been his close associate for years and who held his high regard. The war secretary was given all military honors at the funeral services which were held in the east room of the White House and were attended by the President and Mrs. Hoover, the members of the cabinet and as many others high in the government as could be accommodated. Then the body, on an artillery caisson drawn by six bay horses, was escorted to the railway station and taken on a special train to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Mr. Good's boyhood home, for burial. It was accompanied by committees representing the administration and the senate and house and by Acting Secretary of War Hurley and General Summerall, army chief of staff.

PRESIDENT HOOVER has completed the delegation to the naval conference in London by naming as additional members Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes, Dwight W. Morrow and Hugh S. Gibson. The others, previously selected, are Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania and Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas. Admiral William V. Pratt, commander of the United States fleet, and Rear Admiral Hillary P. Jones, retired, will accompany the delegation as naval advisers.

The addition of Secretary Adams and the three ambassadors to the delegation was a measure taken to pacify Admiral Jones, who had threatened to refuse to go along because he thought the administration was not giving proper consideration to the navy and the naval authorities who have been opposing what they considered too great concessions to Great Britain. It was said the admiral is now satisfied.

FINDING it was impossible to complete its version of the tariff bill this month, the senate voted, 49 to 33, to adjourn the special session of congress nine days on Friday night, and the house concurred. This gives the lawmakers an intermission of ten days before the regular session convenes on December 2. The adjournment was proposed by the Democrats and the old guard Republicans voted for it because they are disgusted with the tariff measure as it now stands. The new grouping of younger Republicans, headed by Senator Allen of Kansas and called "Young Turks" by Senator Pat Harrison, tried to keep the session alive, believing much more progress with the schedule could be made. The tariff bill retains its place on the senate calendar as unfinished business, and though the Vars case comes up for disposal during the first week of the regular session, the senate leaders hope the tariff measure can be passed before the Christmas recess.

Doings of lobbyists in behalf of high and low tariff on sugar were investigated by the senate committee on lobbying during the week, and the information elicited was interesting though not especially incriminating. Most important of the witnesses was President Rostaker of the National City bank of New York, which institution is deeply interested in Cuban sugar plantations and refineries.

SENATOR George H. Moses remains chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, despite the absence he showed among the western radical senators recently. The committee met last week, and apparently all was harmonious. Consequently the New Hampshire senator will be in charge of the arrangements for the re-election of those senators whom he stigmatized during the tariff debates as "sons of the wild west."

HARRY F. SINCLAIR, oil magnate, completed his term of imprisonment for contempt of the senate and the District of Columbia Supreme court and was given his freedom after 108 days of confinement. He seemed happy and healthy and posed obligingly for news photographers, declared he was guilty of no moral turpitude and asserted his imprisonment was "in violation of common sense and common decency" to make him the scapegoat for corrupt politicians.

CONGRESSMAN Edward E. Denison of Marion, Ill., a bone dry, is added to the victims of the prohibition laws. He and John Layne, his former secretary, were indicted by a grand jury in Washington on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. The indictment is based on the fact that, eleven months ago, a trunk and suit case containing liquor were delivered to Mr. Denison in the house office building, being addressed to Layne in Denison's care. Federal agents opened the trunk in his presence. The congressman says he explained at the time that the baggage was not his and had been checked to him by mistake in New York after his return from a trip to Panama. The agents, he asserts, expressed themselves as satisfied and said there would be nothing more to it. In Washington it was said Denison's receipt for the trunk was laid before the grand jury. Layne, who is now connected with the internal revenue bureau, has flatly denied any connection with the liquor.

TWO of our new ambassadors presented their credentials last week at the courts to which they are accredited. John W. Garrett was received with all due ceremony by King Victor Emmanuel of Italy after being conveyed with his staff to the Quirinal palace in three gala coaches. In the royal palace in The Hague Ambassador Gerrit J. Dieken was received by Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands.

MOST of New York, New England and the maritime provinces of Canada were startled by a series of violent earthquake shocks early in the week. At first it was believed no material damage had resulted, but in a few hours the cable companies found that nine of their twenty-four Atlantic cables had been broken. The center of the disturbance was at sea between Nova Scotia and New York, and several liners that were in that region were brought up standing as if they had run aground a reef.

Toward the end of the week came the belated news that the quake had caused an immense tidal wave which hit the Burin peninsula on the south coast of Newfoundland. Several villages were swamped by the water and at least thirty-six persons were killed.

GEN. PASCUAL ORTIZ RUBIO was elected president of Mexico, defeating Jose Vasconcelos by a large majority. Rubio may be relied on to carry on the policies of President Oil. He is of an old Mexican Indian family, tracing his ancestry to the last of the Tarascan kings of Michoacan. He has had an adventurous life, taking part in all the revolutionary activities since his youth.

SOVIET RUSSIAN forces, invading Manchuria, captured Dalai Now, the key position of the Chinese front line defenses in the "Three Rivers" district, after nineteen hours of bloody fighting. The Russians thus cut off the Chinese position in Manchouli and opened the way for a drive on Hailar, besides gaining possession of valuable coal mines.

T. F. O'CONNOR, called the father of the British house of commons and familiarly known to the world as "Tay Pay," died in London at the age of eighty-one years of septile poisoning. Famous as an Irish Nationalist and as a journalist, he had served as a member of parliament for forty-nine consecutive years.

HELPING NEIGHBORS IN NEED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37; James 1:26, 27; 2:14-17; Matt. 25:31-46. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being a Good Neighbor. JUNIOR TOPIC—Being a Good Neighbor.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Good Neighbor. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Modern Good Samaritan: Who is He?

It is difficult to discover a thread of unity running through the texts selected by the lesson committee. The teacher should choose between them, making a study of the one best suited to the needs of the class. If the use of all the texts be desired, the teacher will be under the necessity of selecting the verses from each unit best suited to the needs of the class. Perhaps the nearest approach to unity of treatment of the texts in the light of the lesson subject would be the following:

I. Who is My Neighbor? (Luke 10:29, 30).

The parable of the Good Samaritan makes clear who is a neighbor and also what it means to be a neighbor. This destitute and wounded man left on the highway by the robbers, needed a neighbor. My neighbor therefore, is the one who needs my help—whether he lives next door or on the other side of the world.

II. What Being a Neighbor Means (Luke 10:31-37).

Our primary concern is not—who is my neighbor? but whose neighbor am I? Being a neighbor is:

1. To be on the lookout for those in need of help (v. 33).

2. To have compassion on the needy (v. 33).

Human need called forth Christ's compassion. All who have His spirit will be likewise moved.

3. To give to those in need (v. 34).

This means not only to give money but also to minister to the poor.

4. To bind up wounds (v. 34).

5. To set the helpless ones on our beasts while we walk (v. 31).

6. To bring to the inn and take care of the unfortunate (v. 31).

7. Genuine love is not spasmodic, but completes its service.

8. To give money (v. 35).

It costs much to be a neighbor. Love is the most expensive thing in the world. It cost God His only Son; it cost Christ His life.

III. The Test of Pure Religion (James 1:26, 27).

1. The tongue is bridled (v. 26).

This means that those who have experienced Christ will speak with discretion.

2. Sympathizing with and helping those in need (v. 27).

The widow and orphan are the symbols of helplessness and need. Those who have true pity will visit such and render necessary aid.

3. Keep unspotted from the world (v. 27).

The one who has truly experienced the life from God will separate himself from the world.

IV. Judgment of the Nations (Matt. 25:31-46).

It is difficult to see what bearing this text has upon neighborly responsibility as it is a picture of the judgment which is to take place at the end of this age.

1. The Judge (v. 31).

He is the Son of Man who died to redeem the human race. He will then be clothed with majesty and power, occupying His throne as Judge.

2. The time (v. 31).

It will take place when the Lord comes in His glory, accompanied with a retinue of glorious angels. It will take place after He has gathered the elect remnant of Israel.

3. The place (v. 31).

From Zechariah 14:1-5 we learn that it will be in or near Jerusalem. Since, according to Luke 1:31-33, Christ is to sit upon the throne of His father David, we conclude that the place and the throne will be real.

4. The people judged (v. 32-45).

They will be the living nations upon the earth after the translation of the church (1 Thess. 4:16, 17). They will be people unto whom the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached (Matt. 24:14). Those who preach this gospel will be Jews (Rev. 7 and Romans 11). They will be the brethren of the Lord in the flesh.

5. The issue of the judgment (v. 46).

(1) The sheep, Israel, shall enter upon their inheritance of the prepared kingdom.

(2) The goats, rejecters of Christ, go into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels.

Joshua swung around with amazing quickness in a man of his size. There was a look almost of shy consideration in the china-blue eyes that stabbed questioningly into Fellowes.

"Ah, yes," he answered. "Heard of you, Captain Fellowes. Heard of the incident you mention, of course. That d-d cur, Chater—ah, ahem, humph! But why d'you come to me? You must know my brother and I—"

"I have information in that connection which I think will interest you," Fellowes interrupted quietly.

Inglepin drew a step nearer. There was no suggestion of shyness in his face, now. His expression was eager, curiously avivorous. His blue eyes were cold as Fellowes' own.

"This d-d license business, eh? That—and more."

Inglepin hesitated, then asked abruptly: "Treason, eh?"

"I believe so, sir."

"Knew it, by G-d!" Joshua slapped his hip delightedly. "Knew the d-d fool couldn't play with fire, and not burn his fingers. Knew it soon as I heard he was keeping on the True Bounty's crew. But you, sir, how'd you—"

"I can't tell you here, Mr. Inglepin. Will it suffice if I say I escaped several days ago from the Badger sloop-of-war? And have just surprised your brother and his daughter, with Chater, entertaining Captain Collishawe at Chater's farm on Long Island?"

Joshua Inglepin slipped his arm through Fellowes', and the light in his eyes danced and flickered as if a wind was blowing it.

"Come with me," he said. "My office will do. Glad you dropped in, Captain Fellowes. Believe you and I can do some business. Eh? Treason! But I expected it, I expected it. Ben always would over-reach himself. Ha, ha! The d-d fool!"

"... a petition Lord Wellington said, the ministers were cordial, but they'd require a definite petition I'm persuaded 'tis that document your brother has been concealing these past months."

"He's been hand-in-glove with every ruffian Federalist to the North," admitted Joshua.

"Exactly, sir. And my guess is that before going further with it they awaited some answer from the Canadian authorities. If I'm right 'twas that answer Collishawe dell red at Babylon."

"And why wouldn't they have turned over the petition, or whatever the thingummy was, to him?"

"Tis likelier they'd choose to convey it themselves since most delicate negotiations would flow from it. I feel this the more strongly, sir, after hearing the True Bounty is held ready for sailing."

so sure 'tis—ah—what you call it, Captain Fellowes; but the sentiment will safeguard my interests."

"And what may your interests be?" Fellowes asked harshly.

"Need you ask?" countered the merchant. "I am on all fours with you in this matter, sir. I'd see Ben hung high as Haman, and Chater beside him. The girl—Well, we needn't discuss her. 'Tis not pleasant for you, and I'd not fight a woman, might I help it."

"What of Collishawe?"

"That's your affair."

"Nathless, he must figure in any bargain we strike," declared Fellowes.

"Granted," conceded Joshua, "with limitations."

"As what?"

"To begin with, we must inform the proper authorities of your discovery. I'm as skeptical as yourself of the efficacy of this step, but 'twould be inadvisable to ignore it. I am, I may say—" the mellow voice became a shade pompous—"on terms of intimacy with Governor Tompkins, who is also in command of the military district for the administration. Whatever he can do to aid us, we may rely upon. I'll see him, myself. So shall you. And we'll present the matter to him without reservation, eh?"

"I am willing," Fellowes agreed.

"And then, sir?"

"Come with me, if you please."

Joshua took his hat, and motioned toward the door.

"Don't wait for me, Howell," he called to the gray clerk as they passed to the street.

Fellowes was silent until they had crossed the road.

"What other limitations to our bargain had you in mind, sir?" he asked.

"Only such as motives of patriotism should place upon the satisfaction of private enmity. Your pursuit of Captain Collishawe must await the destruction of my brother's conspiracy."

"To pursue them back we'll require a ship."

"Exactly my thought, captain! 'Tis a ship we are after this moment."

They entered South street, and turned toward Gouverneur. Ahead of them was Christian Bergh's shippard, and Fellowes' face lightened at sight of the graceful fabric that loomed above the scaffolding of the ways.

"Ah, the beauty! The sweetest brig I ever saw!"

"No shipwright like old Christian," Inglepin responded.

"Is she yours?"

"Yes. Fight her, and take her."

"A dangerous business!" 'twas a Frenchman, now, or a bloody Dago. But a Britisher!"

"Aye, the best ship of her size in the King's fleet," Fellowes rejoined, uncompromisingly.

There was comprehension, yes, and respect, in the look Joshua gave the Long Islander.

"Hate him that much, eh? But there'd be no sense in sinking yourself doing it."

"None," Fellowes admitted. "But with the right battery—"

He broke off, and balled the shipwright, who loitered near, gazing lovingly on the thing he had created.

"Mr. Bergh. What guns were you figuring for her?"

"Well, I leave dot for you undt Mr. Inglepin. But if you put in rarronades, beraps we say eighteen-pounders, den you better not have more dan sixteen—hndt a couple of long twelves for chasers."

Fellowes shook his head.

"A privateer has no proper use for rarronades," he said. "She should never fight at close range. Give us long twelves in the broadside batteries, and we'll mount a twenty-four-pounder Long Tom for'ard on a pivot."

"A twenty-four-pounder!" Mr. Inglepin cried protestingly. "You'd rack her to pieces."

But Christian Bergh dissented vociferously.

"Not dot Centurion! I buildt her for rough work. Jai We put in some more heavy beams in der fo's'le, undt brace-der deck."

"Yes, you'd better reinforce those bulwarks, Mr. Bergh. I'd like her to be as strong as a navy vessel of her class."

"She will be," promised the shipwright. "Mit dot brig you can fight a King's ship, if she chase you. Jai!"

They talked then of storage room, and spare sails and cables, and arrangements in the galley for a numerous crew—"you'd best reckon on a hundred and fifty men, captain," advised Inglepin. "Aside from our private ventures, I hope you'll have the luck to pick up prizes. And prizes take hands to bring them in."

And afterward, in the glow of late afternoon, they said good-bye to Bergh, and retraced their steps to the warehouse in Front street. Joshua led the way to the table beside which they had held their earlier conversation.

"I am a business man, sir," he said, pointing to a chair. "And I find it more satisfactory to have definite agreements, of a contractual nature, with persons I deal with. So, if you have no objections, we will reduce our relations to writing. Perhaps you will be so kind as to express your side of the bargain?"

Fellowes peered out the small-paned window next him at the tree-bordered street, dusty and peaceful and very quiet since the workers had gone home. It was difficult to associate this soberly charming scene with all the wild and turbulent events that had preceded it, difficult to imagine that only a few miles distant, off Sandy Hook, the Badger plied her errands on the blockade, that perhaps Collishawe had pressed three more men to take the place of Tom, Cuffee and himself.

He was conscious of Joshua Inglepin's china-blue eyes studying his expression with avid intensity.

"My bargain is of the simplest, sir," he answered coolly. "You will purchase the brig Centurion for operation as a privateer. I am to be master of the brig, and I will sail as soon as may be, whenever the True Bounty puts to sea. My major object will be to overhaul the True Bounty, search her for papers or documents of treasonable purport, and if any such are found, seize all persons aboard her. Having done so much, I shall be at liberty to make every attempt to bring the sloop-of-war Badger to action, after which I will return to this port, and render account to you of my operations."

"Clearly phrased," applauded Joshua, grasping a quill pen in his chubby hand. "I will write it, by your leave, sir. A mere matter of form, captain, but advisable, always advisable." He scribbled rapidly at a sheet of foolscap. "Here, sign if you please."

Fellowes wrote his name, with a perverse sense of futility in the gesture.

Discovery of Vitamine Vital to Human Race

The greatest discoveries of benefit to the human race have been the result of accident. Columbus, seeking for a short cut to India, stumbled on America. Perkin, searching for a means of producing artificial quinine, hit upon aniline dyes. When Japan and Russia were in the throes of a death struggle for supremacy, Japan's navy was being decimated by beri-beri. Laboring to find a preventative for the disease, that was making the Japanese panic-stricken, some one remembered that a Dutch scientist discovered in 1907 that pigeons fed on polished rice, developed a disease which had all the characteristics of beri-beri. Orders were issued forthwith to stop feeding the sailors with polished rice and to substitute the whole grain; promptly and without delay, the beri-beri disappeared. Scientists, in their efforts to discover the "why," as a famous author expressed it, found the missing link that binds food to health, happiness and achievement—they came upon the vitamine. It was this discovery that enables the human family to keep from starving on a full stomach.

Tree Belfries

Many of the first Christian church bells were fastened in tall trees that stood near the church, writes Sells N. Coleman in his book, "Bells." Even today, in some villages of Russia and other countries, the bell hangs on the branches of a tall tree in the churchyard. In Iceland the bell usually is placed in the "lych gate," a covered entrance to the graveyard. The tree belfry once was common in Scotland and Ireland.

"A Man is as Old as he Works"

Detroit, Dec. 4.—Today when youth is generally given the preference in industry, the attitude of the Chevrolet Motor Co. toward older men and veteran employees presents an interesting view of some of the policies which have contributed to the growth and development of the Chevrolet manufacturing organization.

Man-power, the most vital factor in industry, its selection, management and productivity, has been a chief concern of C. F. Barth, vice-president and general manufacturing manager, who at 63 heads up one of the largest factory organizations in industry.

Commenting on the status of the veteran in industry, Mr. Barth declares that "age is no barrier to employment and promotion with Chevrolet. We have drawn no age lines in our organization. If a man is physically fit and disposed to do the work in mind for him he will receive favorable consideration, regardless of his age."

In its Flint plants alone, Chevrolet is now employing 324 men over 50 years of age. Of these, 131 are between the ages of 50 and 55; 98 are between the ages of 55 and 60 and 95 are more than 60 years of age.

Sentiment plays but a small part in the scheme of things, despite the company's interest in older men, Mr. Barth explains. The company is perhaps, "hard-headed" in its evaluation of their worth. We have no ribbons or buttons for our old timers. Each man is put on his own mettle and made to feel the responsibility we place in him. We appeal to and rely on the man in men.

"The old timer is valuable in a large sense. Older men are the stabilizing influences so vital to industry today; they help constitute the backbone of the organization. By their balance and poise they instill confidence in beginners and, having themselves a feeling of loyalty to the organization, they inspire it in their fellow workmen.

They have that experience that money cannot buy nor book learning provide. They are no longer theorists. They make the most of the opportunities about them rather than fondling the hope of some ideal situation that seems to show faintly in the future.

They take pride in their good service records built up over a period of years and apply themselves diligently to preserve them.

At the same time we are fully mindful of the great contribution that youth is making to industry. Youth supplies the power, age the experience."
