

GRAN QUIVIRA NEWS

Dr. Smith, caretaker of the Gran Quivira Ruins, reports a fair amount of visitors for this time of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Claunch motored to Belen Monday on business.

Practically everyone in the Gran Quivira neighborhood has had an attack of the flu, although there hasn't been any serious cases.

Jap Turner, a former resident of Gran Quivira, is here from Oulton, Texas, for a short visit with his two brothers.

Word has been received from Hamel, Texas, of the death of Mrs. Sam Russell, who died Jan. 16. She leaves a husband and several children, two of whom live in Gran Quivira, Stenie Russell and Mrs. Lawrence Stuart, both of whom left several days ago to be at the bedside of their mother.

On account of sickness, Mac Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Preston were called home from Oulton, Texas, where they have been working since December.

Frank Means, local postmaster, is planning to move over to his ranch about Feb. 1. Mrs. Means will remain here until the close of the school term.

Thurmon Maples drove to Carrizozo Monday on business.

Barber—Carl

At the home of the bride's parents at Aberdeen, Wash., Jan. 28, Geo. B. Barber of Hoquian, Wash., and Miss Lena Elizabeth Carl were united in marriage.

Never having the pleasure of the bride's acquaintance, she being from a far distant city, we can only say, that she is one of the most popular and highly esteemed of the young ladies of her home city, and as such, our home boy was truly fortunate in selecting her as a life partner.

Of the groom we can say much in his favor. He is the youngest son of Attorney and Mrs. Geo. B. Barber, his father passing away Oct. 24, last and his mother still resides here. The family is one of the best known and most highly respected in our community. George was born and reared in Lincoln County, passed through our schools and we are proud of him. When the world war came on, he enlisted in the service, went overseas and made a splendid record for himself and was an honor to the service in which he fought. He is now in the employ of the Hoquian Pulp Co., a corporation which makes pulp which is shipped to the mills and made into paper. George entered the employ of the company to manage one of the large cranes which carry the logs to the pulp mills and after being in the service of the company but one year, he was promoted to the position of manager of the full set of cranes numbering twelve in all, which he is now superintending, and which position carries with it a snug increase in salary.

The young couple will make their home at Hoquian and his many friends of the couple here and at their new home extend them glad congratulations.

Relieving Mrs. Dadrey

Miss Stella Butcher of Denver, Colo., is relieving Mrs. B. D. Dadrey at the office of the Western Union Telegraph Co. and will be here for another week.

CRYSTAL THEATRE

T. J. PITTMAN, Mgr.

Friday—Wm. Haines and Marion Davis in "SHOW PEOPLE." Comedy and News Reel.

Saturday—Sunday—Monday—Hobart Bosworth in "BLOOD-SHIP" and comedy.

Tuesday—Wednesday—Shirley Mason and Richard Arlen in "SALLY IN OUR ALLEY" and comedy.

Wednesday night will be opening night for our new China play. A piece of China given to each lady present.

Thursday—Lon Chaney in "WHILE THE CITY SLEEPS" and comedy.

Friday—Vera Reynolds, Harrison Ford and John Patrick in "GOLF WIDOWS;" auspices of Carrizozo Golf Club. 25-50c.

Glencoe Woman's Club

An unusually successful meeting from the standpoint of interest and preparation for the meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Elzy Perry, Jan. 26. The subject was "Manual Art Demonstrations for the Home and School." Mrs. J. R. Werner conducted the program in a splendid manner.

Among the fine school work demonstrations was one by Mrs. Ola Jones, who displayed work done by the schools of Taft, California, in leather goods, felt and bead flowers. Mrs. Herbert Haywood, a visitor, showed how to teach the Harmonica in the schools. She used the wall chart and the harp, ending by playing two beautiful songs.

Mrs. Ella Sellers responded by showing things for the dining room, beautiful serving trays made by putting native flowers and butterflies under glass and luncheon sets made of glazed chintz and tied dyeing and bright colors.

The women went into the kitchen where Mrs. Roselle demonstrated the way she had canned nearly 200 cans of meat and vegetables in tin with the Burpee Can Sealer Machine. She opened a can of chow chow for all to taste and sealed up a can with the machine.

Mrs. Werner displayed lovely things made by sewing; a pretty dressed girl which was a laundry bag, a sofa cushion with crayon flowers, sofa cushion of tufted quilting and many other articles.

Attention was given to rug making of all kinds—The Wilson Quick Way Rug Machine was demonstrated on a yarn rug—The Daliah rug was shown made by tying scraps of silk into string.

The following officers were elected for next year: President, Mrs. J. V. Tully; vice-president, Mrs. J. R. Werner; secretary, Mrs. A. F. Roselle; treasurer, Mrs. B. J. Bonnell; parliamentarian, Mrs. L. H. Coe.

Next meeting will be a Patriotic Luncheon at the Bonnell Ranch, Feb. 23. Miss Eva Rose will be Toast Mistress.

Mesdames J. B. French and T. G. James

are in Santa Fe this week attending to some business matters at the office of the State Superintendent of Instruction. They went by way of Albuquerque and visited for a short time with Miller and Evelyn French at the University before going to Santa Fe.

Another Victim of the Racketeer

Carrizozo-Socorro Highway Road Advancement

Work on the Federal Aid Project is going along nicely — on the Carrizozo side of the Malpais, 1 mile is practically completed, and on the west side, over half a mile is completed, making a total of a mile and one-half, or, in other words, the Malpais section which consists of 3 miles is half done.

In the limestone hills, the contractor has a large force working, part of which, including the Power Shovel, work a day and a night shift. Nearly one and one-half miles of the limestone hill section is completed.

This Project in Lincoln County, little as the local people may think, is one of the largest Road Projects in New Mexico — and the Project Engineer has had letters of inquiry about the same from the leading magazines and leading construction men in the country. The whole country is looking at the job across the Malpais (ancient lava beds.)

The work is being carried on in a business-like way, because the Tobin & Chase Construction Company is one of the biggest Road Contractors in the United States.

Mr. Williamson, District Engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Roads, was here Jan. 20, looking over the Federal Aid Project 126-A. With Mr. Williamson was H. H. Robbins of the Roswell office, Messrs. Lassiter and Thornburg of the Santa Fe office.

William Barron was recently transferred from the Location Department to the Construction Party under T. G. Brown.

It will be noticed that local men are being used on the Survey Parties of the State Highway Department—for example, three of the six Engineering personnel are Carrizozo boys.

Right-of-way is being obtained for the Carrizozo - Malpais connection.

On the La Luz-Highrolls road, work is nearly completed, and when finished, will be one of the best mountain roads in the state. T. G. Brown was formerly in charge of this work; it now is in charge of Raymond Polk, who is to come to Carrizozo as soon as he is released there.

Capitan News

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hale of El Paso are visiting Mr. Hale's father for a few days.

Several people from here attended the basketball games at Carrizozo over the week-end.

Prof. and Mrs. Burkett of Carrizozo attended the Capitan-Bowie HI game Sunday, Mr. Burkett umpiring the game.

Miss Cristell Hall was rushed to Carrizozo Saturday for an operation for appendicitis, and is recovering nicely.

Supt. and Mrs. Koogler were business visitors at Carrizozo last Saturday.

The news of the sudden death of Otis Bilbo came as a sad surprise to his many Capitan friends. His death was caused by appendicitis. Otis was a graduate of the '28 class and not only an excellent student, but an enthusiastic athlete. His many friends wish to extend their heartfelt sympathy to his family.

E. A. Everett and family were called to Tularosa last week because of the death of Mr. Everett's father.

Mrs. Sellers and daughter Doris of Alamogordo are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cummins.

J. A. Brubaker was a Carrizozo visitor last Saturday.

The Capitan Tigers were defeated Sunday by the Bowie HI of El Paso. The Tigers took the lead with 3 field goals in the 1st quarter. In the 2nd Bowie made 2 free goals, several field goals, leaving the score at the end of the 1st half 12-8 in Bowie's favor. The Tigers came back in the 2nd half with a fighting spirit quickly evening up the score, when Arreola made several long shots giving Bowie the lead, but the Tigers were not discouraged until the final whistle blew, the score being 19-18 in Bowie's favor.

The teams played at Lincoln Friday. Both won; boys' score was 38-5, and girls' 25-5.

On Friday, Feb. 8, the Tigers play the Roswell Coyotes here. Come and see another thrilling game.—See our schedule in this paper.

The High School students are busy working on a Negro Minstrel to be given in the near future.

Mrs. T. G. Brown is spending two weeks in Roswell visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Dills of Roswell spent Sunday visiting Carrizozo friends.

ANCHO NOTES

Arrived Tuesday, January 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Pete Frame of Tucumcari, a baby boy. Mother and son are reported as doing nicely.

Messrs. Jack Pruitt and Chas. Pfingsten and families went to Carrizozo last Saturday night to see the Carrizozo basketball teams wallop the Alamogordo teams. They said the games were fine and they were not disappointed in the outcome.

J. M. Frame, operator at the S. P. station here is leaving Feb. 1, for an extended trip into Texas. He intends to meet Mrs. Frame at Lubbock, then go from there to Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston and San Antonio. He expects to be absent about thirty days, during which time, operator Smith of Duran will relieve him at the station.

Mr. and Mrs. Juan Romero, who reside in a nearby ranch went to Carrizozo Monday for a visit with their son, Nathan Adler and family.

Grandma Drake, mother of A. W. Drake, is very ill at her son's home near here.

The Alamogordo - Vaughn Stage passes through here daily, as per schedule.

Gone Home

If there be a heaven for mothers, nothing could be more truthfully said, than that it exists for such mothers as Mrs. Alfreda S. Boughner, who after many months of patient suffering, passed on at the home of her son, F. L. Boughner last Friday evening. The remains were held over until Tuesday, with the hope that some relatives who were coming in this direction, would be here in time for the funeral, but on their failure to arrive, the remains were interred in the cemetery at Alamogordo, the services being conducted at her son's home here with the Rev. Rowland of the Baptist Church in charge of the same.

The minister paid a loving tribute to the life and works of the deceased, and the singing by Mesdames Lemon, Snow, Clouse and Kelley, with Mrs. Kelley at the piano, was beautiful, in that the songs were those which were the nearest and dearest to the heart of the devoted Christian mother.

Miss Alfreda S. Malcolm was born at Kelvin, Ontario, Canada, June 16, 1855; married Wm. M. Boughner Dec. 19, 1877.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Merritt, Albion, Mich.; three sons, Wm. and Harry of Freeport, Mich. and Fred Boughner of Carrizozo, N.M., to mourn her loss. She was a member of Alta Presbyterians Church of El Paso, Texas, and had resided in Carrizozo with her son since 1921 (excepting a year in El Paso.)

The remains were escorted to their final resting place at Alamogordo by a group of friends of the family and the pallbearers were, Messrs. Shirley Phipps, R. E. Lemon, Dr. R. E. Blaney, F. A. English, A. L. Burke and Joseph Devine. Others of the party were, Mesdames Phipps, English, R. E. Lemon, Paul Mayer, besides members of the family, to whom the sympathy of the community is extended.

Tommy Ludlow

is now employed at the Western Motors, Inc.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

Assistant General Manager A. E. Sweet and party passed through here the latter part of last week on an inspection trip over the New Mexico Division.

Splendid progress is being made with the ballast work between here and Oscura, 40 cars of slag being unloaded daily.

Effective Jan. 18, an additional Local freight crew was placed in service between El Paso and Carrizozo and one between Carrizozo and Duran. This will give the patrons along the line better service and also relieve through freight crews of handling any local freight. Conductors A. M. Hardin and M. C. Tracy are in charge of the Locals west of Carrizozo and Conductors J. R. Green and S. G. Allen are in charge of the Locals east.

On account of the volume of business being handled and the work trains and local freight trains that have been put on, all trainmen and engineers have been recalled to service and it may become necessary to employ more men to man the crews.

The running of crews through Tucumcari and Carrizozo has proven a success and trains are making the runs in 9 or 10 hours or in about 2 hours less time than they made the runs before crews started running through. The men are to be congratulated in the splendid co-operation they are giving this movement in the direction of progress, and the faster time which trains are making will no doubt bring more business their way.

A plentiful supply of "Weary Willies" going over the road, is keeping Detective Monk busy these days. They apply at the coal chutes and at the local station in order to "soak up heat."

Car Turns Over

While going at a high rate of speed Wednesday afternoon, Simon Chavez lost control of the car which he was driving and the same turned over just before it got to the railroad crossing near the reservoir. The driver, it is feared, suffered a fractured spine, while Jesus Robles, who was riding with him received badly cut hands by flying glass from the broken windshield. Another instance where hootch and gasoline, both of high power, failed to function well together.

Geo. C. Arnold

of Alto was down Wednesday, attending to some business matters in the County Assessor's office. Mr. Arnold has been traveling for the past two years, buying alfalfa hay for a commission firm at Kansas City, but thinks he will stay in Lincoln County for the coming spring and summer, and will pay his attention to farming on his place at Alto.

A Compliment

Couch Nat Gordova of the Bowie High School basketball team of El Paso paid quite a compliment to our High School team. He said that it was the cleanest and best aggregation of sports they had met on their tour of southwestern New Mexico. He also said that they were the fastest players. We are glad that El Paso thinks of us in that way, and we will continue to be good, clean sports and play eligible players.

Make Shoe Bag of Any Strong Material

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Doubtless everyone would agree that shoes ought to be kept off a closet floor, so that cleaning may be easily done, and also so that the closet can be made as neat as possible. What should be done with the variety of shoes, slippers, and other footwear most of us need then becomes a problem to be solved by each individual. Some people have special racks built for shoes; others put them on a shelf, either just above the floor or above the rod for clothes hangers. For many the best solution is simply an old-fashioned shoe bag of cretonne or other strong washable material, hanging on the closet door, where it is readily accessible both for taking out or putting away one's shoes. The bags are usually made with a box plait or other allowance for fullness, so that each bag will hold a pair of shoes with trees in them. To give added strength and firmness small curtain rods are often run through the top and bottom of such shoe holders.

Girls belonging to the 4-H clubs encouraged by the United States Department of Agriculture and the extension forces in each state have been especially interested in improving their rooms to make them more attractive and orderly. Among other practical furnishings made by the girls themselves, shoe bags have frequently been featured and directions for making them have been part of the courses in sewing. The picture shows a club girl and the bag she has made for her closet.

Simple Frocks Are Liked

By Julia Bottomley

Speaking of the family sewing, why not get it out of the way? That familiar adage, "make hay while the sun shines," loses its appeal as far as being housed in with a sewing machine is concerned on a spring day, when all "out-of-door" coaxes and teases to come out into the sunlit open. Rather does it seem wiser to sew and sew while the snow flies and all the landscape looks dreary and uninviting. For then, and then only, can one experience that grand and glorious feeling of having the family sewing out of the way, in time to yield to the persuasions of budding, blossoming spring.

So taking it for granted that the wise-minded have at this moment the household sewing campaign well under way, a few suggestions in regard to new washable fabrics for children's dresses for instance. It seems from all indications that printed pique is to prove one of the most popular materials.

Imagine anything in the way of a child's ensemble so clever as a frock of printed pique with a coat of solid colored pique. Well, that is just one of the many happy thoughts for spring.

Printed pique and printed dimity are charming for school frocks. Make them up very simple like the one in the picture. Most of the patterns call for unbelled straight effects from shoulder to hem, as shown here. Very short, too, continues to be the rule.

The use for contrasting materials is apparent in the styles coming in for spring and summer. A favorite idea is to combine plaques, gingham and such with dainty organdies. You have no idea how pretty the effect until you have tried it of trimming a gray-patterned heavy washable weave with little ruffles of organdie in plain color. Have the edges of the ruffing piped instead of hemming on the machine.

Pockets, collars, cuffs, belts and insets of organdie on piques, gingham, linens and the like are part of the coming season's styling plans.

Jacket ensembles combining a heavy material with a thin one, are worked with extreme cunning. A gray plaid gingham plaited skirt is topped with a tuck-in blouse of solid colored linen or organdie. To this is added a coat of the gingham.

Timely Hints for Housekeepers

Serve sauerkraut with crisp bacon, boiled ham, or corned beef.

Clean materials before dyeing them. Dye will not conceal spots.

Give the child only weak cocoa. Strong cocoa is too stimulating.

Keep the dirt bag of your vacuum cleaner empty. A dirty bag cuts down the efficiency of the machine.

To freshen old or stilted vegetables, soak them in cold water for two or three hours before cooking them.

Dress an old bed packed in trunks or suit cases with tissue paper between the folds to prevent unnecessary creases and wrinkles.

Fresh air and exercises aid children's appetites. On rainy days when they cannot go out they may be dressed warmly and allowed to play in a room with the windows open.

Silly Willie.

Charles M. Schwab, who has been elected president of the American Iron and Steel Institute to succeed Judge Gary, said at a dinner in New York: "Big business, all over the world, is agreed that it must be honest. The business man who hopes to fool the people with dishonest tricks is as bad as Willie."

"Why, Willie?" said his mother. "Blatting out without washing your hands and face! What will people think?"

"Oh," said little Willie, "they'll think I'm coming back!"

Fairy Tale for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Mrs. Lazy Pig shook her snoot which meant that she wasn't always mollifying her children, for some of the other pig mothers had said that she did.

"I make them grab for their own food, and I always try to grab first," she said.

"No, I don't spoil them. I'm a regular pig, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal." The others wanted to know why this family of pigs were called the Lazy Pig family.

Mrs. Lazy Pig had been too lazy to explain, but at last Mr. Lazy Pig said, lazily:

"I'll tell them."

So Mrs. Lazy Pig, Lawrence Lazy Pig, Lotty Lazy Pig, and four other Lazy Pig children, as well as the other pigs, all listened to Mr. Lazy Pig while he told his story.

"We had the usual family name of Pig," he said, "until a short time ago. 'We were fed and fed, ah, such goodies as we had, and nothing seemed to make us fat."

"That was the great joke over which your mother, Mrs. Lazy Pig, and I, were laughing about a little while ago.

"Why Didn't We Grow Fat?"

"The farmer couldn't understand why we didn't grow fat, for he was fattening us up so we would sell for good, big sums of money and make him a bit richer."

"But we didn't grow fat! No, we didn't! That's an excellent joke, eh?"

"Why didn't we grow fat?"

"Ah, we don't know, or if we do we won't tell, for that is our secret."

"The farmer most certainly doesn't know what keeps us from growing fat."

"If he did know he would give us whatever would make us fat, yes, he would."

"But we stay thin and still we eat and eat and eat."

"Ah, what good meals we have, delicious meals, for the farmer still hopes we will grow fat, but we won't, we're the Lazy Pigs—too lazy to even grow fat, and that is a queer, unusual and extremely lazy kind of laziness."

"We stay thin and still we eat as I said before."

"After the farmer saw that no matter what he did and no matter what he gave us to eat that we still wouldn't grow fat he named us the Lazy Pigs, and so we call ourselves the Lazy Pigs, for we think it is a fine name."

"Ah, it's our great secret, to eat a lot and stay thin, and we all seem to understand the secret too, and we'll all tell the farmer!"

"We think you're very clever," said the other pigs, "and we wish we knew your secret."

Eggs Served With Vegetables

Fry half a cupful of finely sliced onion slowly in butter until brown, then add one pint of canned tomatoes and simmer for a while. A pinch or two of salt, a teaspoonful of sugar and a little pepper will add to the flavor, or rather bring out the flavor. Break four or more eggs carefully into a saucer and slip each one gently into the mixture, taking care not to let the eggs touch each other. Take from the fire and put into a hot oven until the eggs are cooked. When done remove and place the eggs on hot toast, pouring the sauce over the top.

Garlic Adds Charm

The marvelous chicken a la creole and salads that were served with a simple French dressing but tasted so different, and a hundred other dishes, all have their charm from the humble garlic.

The schedule between Denver and Boulder over the main route will remain the same. Excursions at Westminster protested against reduction of the service. The company claimed business did not warrant continuing the two buses.

How to Renew Old Pieces of Furniture

Corner of Farm Home Living Room, Showing Upholstered and Refinished Furniture.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Reupholstering furniture at home is not a difficult matter. A woman who has reasonable skill in using a hammer and tacks, and who can cut out patterns according to a pattern, will usually find no great difficulty in doing over some of the upholstered pieces that need new covers. Sometimes a chair or a sofa that has been assigned to the attic as too shabby for use can be redeemed by a little furniture polish and a new dress.

The old cover is usually removed to serve as a pattern, for the new one must also permit an inspection of the stuffing already in the furniture. If there is the slightest evidence of the presence of such insects as moths, tobacco beetles, or carpet beetles, all the old stuffing should be discarded and destroyed. The wooden framework should be thoroughly scrubbed with very hot water. If a treatment with gasoline has been given outdoors, it will still further reduce the chances of unobserved insect eggs surviving to do later damage. Sometimes furniture can be fumigated to get rid of troublesome insects, but this is difficult to do under home conditions, and most fumigants should be handled by persons experienced in their use.

After the framework is thoroughly free from the possibility of harboring insects or eggs, the supporting webbing should be tightened and springs examined and placed in the right positions. Clean new stuffing of the desired kind should be used. The bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests still another precaution against moth damage. As moth larvae do not feed on cotton, some furniture makers cover the inside stuffing with a complete unbroken layer of cotton batting, fitted closely over the stuffing material and brought to the exact edges of the covering fabric. This larger prevents moth larvae from nesting in the porous vegetable fibers next to the wool or hair covers and eating them from inside. Surface damage can be largely prevented by any good housewife who goes over her furniture watchfully at frequent intervals. If the layer of cotton batting is pulled thin in sitting, or broken at any point, the chances of protection will be lessened.

Where one may obtain the codfish tongues, a dainty tid-bit, such a dish will be for your Sunday morning breakfast. Soak in warm water several hours, scrape off the skin, boil and serve them on toast with a thin white sauce. Garnish with hard cooked eggs cut into slices.

The illustration shows a small sofa and a hick rocker which were successfully covered by a farm woman in Iowa, following the suggestions of the county home demonstration agent. Extension workers have found women eager to learn how they can refinish woodwork and renew upholstery. A great many discarded pieces of rural ware have thus been brought from dusty attic hiding places and restored to usefulness.

up on a hot platter and place a square of butter on each with a few drops of lemon juice and a sprinkling of minced parsley. The butter, lemon juice and parsley may all be mixed together and a bit placed on each piece of fish.

Creamed Salt Macarons.—Soak the fish over night in plenty of water, changing it often at first. Drain and fry and broil on a hot broiler. Lay on a hot dish and pour over a cream sauce, add parsley and serve.

Fish Timbales.—Flake one cupful of fish as fine as possible. Add two well-beaten eggs, a cupful of milk and salt and pepper to season. Fill small buttered tins or cups half full, set into a pan of water and bake twenty minutes. Turn out on a hot platter and pour over a cream sauce or a tomato sauce to which a bit of mustard has been added. Garnish with parsley.

Codfish Balls.—Wash potato and fish that have been cooked together, adding the cooked fish when the potatoes are half done. Season well with butter, add salt if needed, and cut one. Make into balls and fry in butter on both sides until brown. They may be dipped into flour and fried in deep fat.

Cold fish flaked and creamed, covered with buttered crumbs, baked, will often tempt an invalid's appetite. If one has an invalid in the home these hints will be invaluable.

Buttered Crackers.—Arrange small round crackers in a baking pan, and just before serving pour over them melted butter with carefully covered.

Place in a hot oven to brown. Cheese finely grated may be added if desired.

When baking beans add the juice of an orange or a tart apple grated, when putting into the oven. It will give a very different flavor. Bake as usual with a bit of sugar or molasses.

Essence of Lemon.—When one enjoys saving and having the best of extract, just try this: Carefully scrape the pith from fifteen lemon rinds. Save them some time when making lemonade for company. Cut the rind into strips one-fourth inch wide and place in a quart jar with one pint of pure alcohol. Add the rind from time to time or better, all together. Allow it to stand for two weeks or a little longer. Strain through muslin or filter and bottle carefully. You will have extract which will cost much less than the ordinary bottled variety and it will be perfectly pure.

Sautéed Beans.—Drain a can of string beans, place in a frying pan with one tablespoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one-half teaspoonful of lemon juice with salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot.

Oyster Stuffing.—Chop two dozen oysters, add to a pint of bread crumbs, salt and pepper and melted butter to season, and stuff turkey.

The Settling of the Sage

By HAL G. EVARTS

Copyright by Hal G. Everts WNU Service

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

At the Warren ranch, the "Three Bar," a stranger appeared for work as a rider. His name was Billie, known to all as "Billie." The owner of the ranch, the girl's father, Cal Warren, had been the original owner. The question whether the territory is to remain "cow country" or be opened to settlement is a troublesome one. The newcomer is put to work. Cattle "rustlers" have been troubling the ranch owners. The new hand gives his name as Cal Harris. By his announcement in favor of "squatters" he incurs the animosity of a rider known as Morrow. The will made by Cal Warren stipulated that half the property should go to the son of his old friend, William Harris, under certain conditions. The new arrival is the man, and he discloses the fact to Billie, Slade, a ranchman with an unsavory reputation, who Billie Slade, endeavoring to embrace Billie is interrupted by Harris. The regular calf round-up is begun. While the riders are at their evening meal, far out on the range, six outsiders join them. Billie knows them to be "rustlers," who, under the leadership of Slade and a man named Harper, have in the past stolen Three Bar cattle. To test Harris' courage, Slade appoints him to guard the visitors to leave. Somewhat to her surprise he does so.

Harris and the girl worked the last draw themselves and when they drove their cows out of the mouth of it they found a herd already milked, two hundred yards above the wagon. Harris left her and circled the bunch, estimating it.

When the last rider appeared with his bunch and threw it into the herd Harris signaled all hands to change mounts. Half the men repaired to the rope corral and caught up cow horses while the balance of the crew held the herd, each one relieving some other as soon as he had saddled a fresh horse.

A sagebrush fire was burning fifty yards above the wagon and each man rode past it, leaned from his saddle and dropped his running iron in the same.

The men worked round the edge of the bunch and slipped a noose on every calf that was thrown to the edge of the constantly shifting mass. Morrow roped the first calf and dragged it to the fire.

As much as she loved the round-up, many times as she had seen it, Billie Warren had never become calloused to the brutalities perpetrated on the calves. She withdrew and sat in the shade of the wagon. She was downwind and the dust raised by the trampling hoofs floated down to her, mingled with the odor of steaming cows, the acrid smoke of the sage fire and the taint of scorched hair and flesh.

In a short space of time the herd had been worked, the last calf branded, and Harris led the men up the bottoms. Five miles up the valley, at the spot where he had crossed it a few hours before, they found the wagon waiting at the new stand, the corral refashioned and the remuda inside it. It was but ten o'clock but the first circle had commenced at four. The noon meal on the round-up was served whenever the first circle was completed. The men fed ravenously on the hot meal, changed to fresh circle horses and started again. It was falling dusk when the herd gathered in the third circle had been worked and the last calf branded for the day.

At the end of the first week out from the ranch Harris pulled up his horse beside the girls and showed her his tally book.

"We've run Slade's mark on more calves than we have our own," he said. "That's one way he works."

"But that's not his fault and it doesn't mean anything," she said. "His cows are sure to drift. This first strip we've worked is the southernmost edge of our range and his north wagon works the strip right south of us. We're sure to find a number of his cows. As we double back on our next lap we'll not find the same proportion."

"Not quite—but plenty," he predicted. "We've marked more calves for Slade in one week than all his three wagon crews will mark for the Three Bar in a year. The first three weeks of each season your men do a little more work for Slade than they do for you. It's a safe bet that the Halfmoon D does the same, and so on through every brand that joins his range. That puts him way ahead."

"But that is pure accident," she said.

"It's pure design," he stated. "His boys are busy shoving his cows from the middle all ways so that when fall comes he has a good inside block that's only been lightly fed over. They fall back on that for winter feed. Last winter, when cows were dying like rats, his men were out drifting Slade's stuff back toward his middle range."

"That's true enough," she admitted. "But—" "But you thought he was doing it as a favor to you—getting his surplus off your territory so your own cows would have a better chance. That's the same kind of talk he floated all round the line; playing the benevolent neighbor when in reality the old pirate had deliberately planned, year after year, to overcrowd your range and feed you out."

"But his men would know," she objected.

"Not many of them would grasp the whole scheme of it," he said. "You hadn't thought of it yourself, and what if a few of them did surmise? They're riding for his brand." The girl nodded. That unalterable code again—the religion of being loyal to one's brand. Not one of Slade's men would balk at doing it knowingly; each would do anything to advance his interests as long as he drew his pay from Slade.

As they talked Harris detailed men for each draw but when they reached the point where they were due to drop down and cross the valley he pulled up his horse.

"You take the rest of the circle, Carp," he instructed Carpenter. "I'm going to ride off the rise a piece." The girl regarded him curiously. No less than three times in the last week he had stopped midway of the circle and asked her to complete it. Now he had turned it over to Carp and he signaled her to remain with him.

"Where are we going?" she asked as she watched the men ride down toward the bottoms. "And why?" "Back the way we came," he said. "And maybe I can show you why."

He headed back the divide they had just followed until he came to the saddle at the head of a draw that led down to the valley. Far below them they could see a rider leading a bunch of cows out into the bottoms. High on the right-hand slope of the gulch lay a notch, a little blind basin watered by the seepage from a sidehill spring, and there on the green bed of it a dozen cows with their calves grazed undisturbed. For perhaps five minutes Harris toiled sideways in the saddle and watched them. Then a rider appeared on the ridge that divided that draw from the next, dropped in below the cows and headed them back over the ridge into the draw from which he had appeared. Even at that distance she recognized this last man as Lanky Evans. Harris resumed his way down the divide and she knew that he had discovered some irregularity for which he had been seeking.

"Who was the man that overlooked those cows?" she asked. "Who worked that draw?" "Morrow," he said. "His eyesight is getting bad. That's the second time this week—and the last."

"Then Morrow is an inside man for Harper," she said. "Drawing Three Bar pay and working against us, ton?" "Yes," he said. "Only he's an inside man for Slade."

"But how could his leaving those calves behind benefit Slade?" she demanded.

"How could it benefit Harper?" he countered. "Can you tell me that?" She could not and motioned for him to go on.

"None of Harper's men has a brand of his own," he said. "They're living on the move. They can't wait for calves to grow up. The way they work is to run a bunch of beef steers across into Idaho. They'll pick up another bunch there and shove them across the Utah line and repeat by moving a drove of some Utah brand up in here. Only beef steers—quick turning stuff. You know about the reputation of the O V and the Lazy H Four."

She knew all too well. There was a half-fend, a smoldering distrust displayed between cowmen on each side of the three state lines, a triangle of ill feeling. It was current rumor that the O V and the Lazy H Four, ranging far southwest of the Three Bar, would traffic in any steers that came from across either the Utah or Idaho line. In the corner of those states were similar outfits that were receiving stations for rustled stock from the opposite sides. The triangular feud had been fostered to a point where the thieves were immune. Even if a direct complaint should be brought against them they had but to ride across into another state and a sheriff following them would be helpless, the inhabitants resenting this intrusion into their affairs by an officer from another state, truly having no right there, and refusing to aid him even if they did not actually oppose his passage.

"But how would it benefit Slade?" she repeated.

"Why, suppose that Morrow overlooked a nice bunch of Three Bar calves all along this first strip next to Slade's range," Harris said. "Then some Slade rider happens to drop along after our wagon has moved on and he hazes them off south. Later another picks them up and shoves them along another half-day's drive—way beyond where our boys ever work, even beyond the strip covered by Slade's north wagon, the only one that carries a Three Bar rep; what then?"

"The calves would still be with mothers wearing the Three Bar mark," she said. "After they leave the cows they're sleek, fair game for the first man that puts his rop on them—and Slade wouldn't risk running one of his own brands on them before they left the cows."

"Not one of his own, no," Harris said; "only one that's going to be his later on. Did it ever strike you as queer that Slade, whose way is to crush every new outfit, should suffer a soft-hearted streak every year, or so and befriend some party that had elected to start up for himself right in the middle of Slade's range? And later buy him out? That's the way he came into nearly every brand he runs. Several of those dinky little outfits have moved out right sudden with a dozen riders from some other outfit fanning along close behind; McArthur didn't even get moved, for Brandons went on the war trail before he had time to start. But it transpired that he was all set to go because Slade showed bill of sale for Mac's holdings, dated only the day before. That's how he came to own every one of those brands that match up so close with those of every outfit that overlaps his range."

"They had turned their horses down a long ridge that led to the wagon in the bottoms."

"I'll mention to the boys that Morrow sold out the interests of the Three Bar while he was drawing down your pay. They'll pass sentence on him right sudden. Four hours from now they'll have dry-gulched him so far from nowheres that even the coyotes can't find him."

"Not that," she said. "Turn him over to the sheriff. You caught him in the act."

"In the act of missing a few cows on his detail. The sheriff would hold him almost an hour before he let him go."

"Then give him his check and send him off the Three Bar range," she said.

Harris waited till the herd had been worked and the men had gathered round the wagon. Then he handed Morrow a check.

"Here's your time," he said. "You can be leaving almost any time now."

Every man knew that Morrow had been caught at some piece of work contrary to the interests of the Three Bar. The discharged hand gave a short ugly laugh.

"As soon as you pussyfooted into the foreman's job I knew it was only a question of time," he said. "Exactly," Harris returned. "Pack your stuff."

"A foreman has a scattering of a dozen or so men to back him up," Morrow observed with a shrug of one shoulder toward the rest of the men. Harris turned to the girl.

"I resign for about sixty seconds," he said and swung back toward Morrow; and again all hands noted his queer quivering stand. "I'm not foreman right at this minute," he said. "So if you had anything in particular to address to me in a personal vein you can start now. Otherwise you'd better be packing your stuff."

Morrow turned his back and headed for the rope corral. When he had saddled one horse and packed his effects on another he turned to Evans.

"You helped frame this on me," he said. "I thought I saw you messing over into my detail a few days back. One day right soon I'll run across you again."

"Then I'll take to riding with my head over my shoulder—surveying my back-track," Lanky promised. "Because we'll most likely meet from behind."

Morrow started to snarl an answer, his usual self-repression deserting him, but Harris waved an impatient hand.

"Drag it," he snapped. "Get moving. If I had my own way we'd lead your horse out from under you—no we will if I ever hear of your turning up on the Three Bar range again."

No Possible Danger From That Cemetery

Eugene Field while on one of his lecturing tours entered Philadelphia. There was some delay at the bridge over the Schuylkill river, and the humorist's attention was attracted by the turbid, coffee-colored stream flowing underneath. He asked the colored porter: "Don't you people get your drinking water from this stream?" "Yassin Ain't got no further place to get it from, 'cept the Delaware."

"I should think," said the humorist, "that you would be afraid to drink such water; especially as the seepage from that cemetery I see on the hill most drains directly into the river and pollutes it."

"I reckon you all does know Philadelphia's well, sah, aw you'd know dat's Lau'el Hill cemetery!" said the son of Ham.

"Well, what of that?" asked Field.

"Dat watah doan' hurt us Philadelphians none, sah," replied the native son. "W'y mos' all of de folkses buyed theah aw Tom oahs vey bear families."

Lesson for February 3

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

LESSON TEXT—II Tim. 3:14-17; Ps. 18:7-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Bible.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Bible.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Read the Bible?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Bible is For.

I. The Scriptures Are Divinely Inspired. (II Tim. 3:16).

The first thing to be settled concerning the Canonical Scriptures is their inspiration and authority. In the Scriptures God is at sundry times and in divers manners speaking to man (Heb. 1:1). Paul in this passage declares them to be "God breathed," meaning that the utterances of Holy Writ were God's breath in men's mouths. The Holy Scriptures do not merely contain the Word of God, but are in verity the message of God to men.

The main cause of the moral breakdown of society is that men have been robbed of their faith in the Bible as the authoritative message from God.

II. The Value of the Scriptures (II Tim. 3:14-17).

1. Able to make wise unto salvation (I. 15).

Salvation is in Christ alone. It is secured through faith in His finished work on the cross. True wisdom leads to Christ crucified, since there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved (Acts 4:12), and without the shedding of blood there is no remission. (Heb. 9:22).

2. Disciplines the life (vv. 16, 17).

In this "doctrine" is set forth the necessary standard of conduct. The only place to find the teaching of God is in His Holy Word. It not only sets forth a standard of life, but it reproves—confutes error. The way to deal with error is not by denunciation but with a positive presentation of truth. The Word corrects (sets straight the dislocations of personal and social conduct), instructs in righteousness, and equips for service.

III. The Nature and Effects of God's Law (Psa. 19:7-11).

1. Perfect.

It is without flaw; converts and restores the soul; turns man back to holiness and to God.

2. Sure.

It is absolutely dependable. God cannot lie. Man's reasoning changes, but God's Word endures forever. It makes wise unto salvation, but also regarding the legitimate things of this world.

3. Right.

The precepts and judgments of the Lord are expressions of absolute righteousness. They fill the believer with rejoicing.

4. Pure.

There is in it no mixture of error. It makes no compromise with that which is untrue. Because of this it enlightens the eyes.

5. Clean.

The Word affects the life. Its cleansing is from within and from without. 6. True and righteous.

The decisions of God's Word are true, without exception. The judgments of God's Word are unimpeachable. Because of these qualities God's Word is more to be desired than the choicest gold. Obedience thereto brings great reward.

IV. The Prayer of the Believer (I Psa. 10:12-14).

The life brought face to face with God's Word is seen as sinful. The soul cries out for:

1. Cleansing (v. 12).

The perfect laws reveal the imperfections of the life. The Word of God reveals sins of which the individual may be ignorant (Isa. 6:9).

2. To be kept from presumptuous sin (v. 13).

Presumptuous, arrogant sins are peculiarly dangerous. In the Mosaic economy no sacrifice was provided for such sins.

3. Freedom from the dominion of such sins (v. 13).

How awful is the slavery of those who are in bondage to presumptuous sins.

4. That the words of the mouth and meditation of the heart be kept acceptable in God's sight. From how many dangers the believer would be freed if the words and meditations of the heart were kept in line with the Holy Scriptures.

Let It Rather Be Hung

Lift up the hands that hang down, and the feeble knees; and make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; but let it rather be healed.—Heb. 12:12, 13.

Hopelessness of Hypocrisy

For what is the hope of the hypocrite, though he hath gained, when God taketh away his soul? Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?—Job 27:8, 9.

Anarchy's Breeding-Ground

Disrespect for the law breeds anarchy — and anarchy breeds revolution. So whether it is prohibition or murder, when we discuss law violations, we should remember that those who flout the laws of this country are neither good citizens nor friends of true democracy.

Nine years ago, this week, after Congress had submitted, the people approved, and the President promulgated, there was established upon the pages of our Constitution an amendment which forbade the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage.

Whether we approve or disapprove of this constitutional enactment, it is a part of our organic law and deserving of both recognition and respect. To do otherwise is to stamp one's self as an enemy of orderly government.

Right now, when there is so much talk about law violation, it might be well to read what Abraham Lincoln had to say on this most important subject. He said—

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation in others."

"As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor. Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father's, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty."

"Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries and in colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling books and in almanacs. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation; and let the old and young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions sacrifice unceasingly upon its altars."

If we Americans, and those who are here from foreign shores to enjoy our priceless privileges, will only follow the advice of Abraham Lincoln, we will soon see that prohibition CAN be enforced successfully.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture. A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

A further improvement in braking performance is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes — an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in steady, uniform contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent in operation.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By JOHN CLARENCE FUNK

"ATTENTION!"

AFTER enrollment one of the first things a rookie learns is correct posture. When the command "Attention!" is given, the young soldier places his feet at an angle of forty-five degrees, throws his shoulders back, his head up, draws in his chin and keeps his abdomen on a straight line as possible.

Of course discipline is one of the main factors in this attention attitude. But there is more to it than that. Army and navy surgeons well know that faulty posture causes fatigue and interferes with the functions of the vital organs. Moreover, they realize that personal morale and brain power are more likely to be at top-notch in a person who walks and thinks straight than otherwise. And what is true in the service is equally true in civilian life. The body functions best when carried as nature intended it to be carried.

It is quite true that men are more likely to be offenders in this regard than are women. An innate pride sustains the latter which unfortunately is usually lacking in the former. One has only to observe the passers-by to realize how careless people have become regarding the proper carriage of their bodies. And the main reason is sometimes much deeper than it appears to be on the surface. It is a state of mind based on physical "fitness."

The person who is bubbling over with vim, vigor and vitality just naturally carries himself properly. And the converse is equally true. To be a slouch indicates either an inextinguishable state of mind or a decided lack of physical resiliency commonly known as "pep."

If you are walking with drooping shoulders, if you are hollow chested, if you shuffle along with head down, take a square look at yourself. You will know immediately if your careless attitude is merely a mental dop or if it is deeper-seated. If the former, start to remedy it at once through your own efforts. Use your will power to do it. You will be positively surprised how soon you will be stepping out with the best of them, looking and acting the man that you really are.

On the other hand, if you are tired and lack the "get-up" that you so much envy in others then walk as fast as you can to your doctor, tell him your troubles, let him prescribe the remedy and then take it conscientiously. Perhaps it will be a habit or so that will have to go by the board. Again, it may mean more fresh air or exercise, more or less work or food. In any event, whatever it is that you need to bring you out of the slouch class take your medicine like a man. The world loves the physical, fit and trows upon others. Therefore, "Attention! Forward march!"

"SLOWER, PLEASE!"

A CERTAIN gentleman of mature age, fortunate in the possession of two boys just returned from college for their mid-year vacation, accepted their invitation to join with them in a hockey game. He was fair, fat and fifty; and his exercise for the last two years up to that time had largely been taken in his high-powered car, with an occasional stroll over the golf course.

"I'll show these kids that Dad's still got the old stuff in him," he whispered to a friend as he boldly struck out on the smooth ice. And he did show them, too. He played a fine game and kept the admiring boys very much on their toes. He hadn't been an athlete for nothing. Mr. T certainly isn't!

But that evening Dad breathed a heavy sigh and two days later his earthly journey found its inevitable destination in a newly dug grave. Dad had merely permitted his enthusiasm to get the better of his body—and his body got the better of him! A sad story, but a true one.

No, it cannot be done safely, this dropping back into violent exercise after a lapse of years of comparative inactivity. Neither men nor women have any right to assume that their bodies, and especially their hearts, can thus suddenly be thrown into high gear and run at a speed which nature intended only for younger people.

It is all right to have a youthful spirit but the average heart at fifty and even at forty is no longer young, and care must accordingly be exercised in exercising. Everyone of middle age or over should politely respect this fact and decline sudden and sustained exertion of any kind.

Exercise! Most certainly! Keep in good physical condition by long brisk walks, golf, sitting up exercises or any other form of mild exertion that strikes your fancy. But don't get stuck up about your progress and assume a "just-as-young-as-I-used-to-be" attitude. In that case your head is playing a serious joke on the rest of you. And believe it or not, the rest of you matters very much in this business of living and living life. (A 1922 Western Newspaper Column.)

"Freshness" of Eggs

According to the international consensus of chefs, an egg is "new laid" for 10 or 12 days; it is "fresh" until it is 21 days old; then it becomes a "cooking egg."

Nineteen of the ships will be used by the Scenic Airways for tours out of Phoenix.

C. A. Mason, son of Elbert Mason of Durango, Colo., was killed near Riverside, N. M., while working on the state highway. The crew was preparing to move a steam shovel. Tools and iron thrown on the floor of the shovel jarred the trip and dropped the iron shovel just as Mason passed beneath it. His chest was crushed and several bones were broken.

Mrs. Ina K. Simmons, formerly of Winkelman, but now a resident of Douglas, Ariz., widow of J. C. Simmons who was electrocuted while employed by a public utilities concern in Winkelman, was awarded $61.25 monthly for the remainder of her life and the terms of the award made by the Arizona industrial commission will be allowed $1,470 in the event she should again marry, in lieu of further compensation. For the benefit of her four children, the widow was awarded an additional sum of $55.42.

H. W. (Marty) O'Toole of the Southwest Air Service Agency, and Melvin Smith of the 32nd Aviation School group, Kelly Field, Texas, were instantly killed at the municipal airport, Tucson, when their plane went into a nose dive and crashed from an altitude of 700 feet. Smith had been detailed to the municipal airport to service army planes and he and O'Toole had gone aloft. The motor of their plane apparently failed and the bodies, badly mutilated, were dragged from the wreckage and identity of the aviators established.

The industrial employment survey report, recently issued by the U. S. Department of Labor of Denver states that there was a gradual adjustment in New Mexico of industrial activity to a winter basis in many lines during December; however, considerable activity and a fair volume of employment continued in metal mining, oil, building and general construction and agriculture. Many seasonal workers entered the state during the month, creating a surplus of this class of labor. Quite a number of these workers will be absorbed in cotton picking and harvesting of vegetable crops. In Arizona a further expansion was reported in employment in practically all industries. Harvesting of the cotton and lettuce crops afforded employment to the agricultural workers and a slight shortage of cotton pickers was apparent the close of the month. An increase in dairying activity has created a slight shortage of experienced dairy hands.

Plans for a membership drive for 1923 were made at the annual banquet of the Las Vegas post of the American Legion.

The New Mexico Fish and Game Department's budget for 1923, contemplates an expenditure of $168,716, as compared with actual disbursements in 1922 of $122,224.94. The larger expenditure of last year was accounted for in the construction of two new trout hatcheries, one at Chama and the other at Taos, which virtually completed the cold water hatchery building program.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Kellogg Anti-War Treaty Is Ratified by Senate and Signed by President.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD UNDER the able leadership of Senator Borah, the Kellogg treaty renouncing war as a national policy was ratified last week by the senate. The vote was 85 to 1, Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin being the only one to remain steadfast in his opposition to the pact. All others who had been fighting the treaty fell into line after Senator Borah agreed to the submission of a report from the foreign relations committee setting forth the American understanding of the meaning of the pact.

This report said that the committee approved the treaty with the understanding that it does not curtail the right of self-defense; that each nation is free to determine what constitutes the right of self-defense. It also stated that the Monroe Doctrine is a part of our system of national defense and that there is no obligation on the part of any of the signers to engage in punitive or coercive measures against a violator nation.

It might be well to reprint the two essential articles of the treaty. These are:

"ARTICLE 1. The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another.

"ARTICLE 2. The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means."

President Coolidge, it is said, considers the successful negotiation of this treaty the high accomplishment of his administration. Skeptics and cynics consider it a mere gesture that, in a crisis, will amount to little or nothing. Between these two views is the general opinion of mankind, that the pact is a big step toward world peace that must have a powerful moral effect whenever there is threat of war between any of the signatory nations—and these include almost all the nations on earth. Some of the senators who voted for the treaty did it with a laugh, agreeing with Senator Glass that it is "not worth a postage stamp," but that its defeat would psychologically be a bad thing. In Europe the ratification was greeted with joy by the governments.

On Thursday President Coolidge signed the treaty in the presence of the cabinet and members of the senate.

WITH the Kellogg treaty out of the way, the senate started in on the debate on the administration's 15 cruiser bill which, according to Senator Hale of Maine, chairman of the naval affairs committee, would go through with only 10 or 12 senators in opposition. The pacifists kept up their strenuous fight against this measure and there was danger of a filibuster developing to defeat it, but Mr. Hale said he had assurances that this course would not be adopted. Since it was brought out that wars of self-defense would not be affected by the Kellogg treaty, the supporters of the cruiser bill felt that the pacifist arguments against it were refuted. The speaker for the measure was Senator Swanson of Virginia, Democrat, who declared the proposals contained in the bill were most moderate, not exceeding in any degree the requirements of our navy and "not to be construed in any light as competition war part as they only seek to bring our navy up to the ratio established at the Washington conference; they even fall far short of this."

BAQIA SAKAO, son of a poor Afghan water carrier, may become the king of Afghanistan. His real name is Habibullah Khan and he is the leader of the rebels who have been besieging Kabul, the capital. A few days ago King Amanullah rejoined some of his reform measures and then abdicated in favor of his brother, Inayatullah. But this did not satisfy the rebels and they continued their attacks on the government forces. Amanullah fled, but Inayatullah was cornered in Kabul and recent reports said the city, with the exception of the citadel, was in the hands of Habibullah's followers. Friends and tribesmen in the Jalalabad area joined the insurgents and the city of Jagdalah was reported captured.

This revolt in Afghanistan is an interesting result of international scheming. The Afghan minister to Paris says it was brought about by British intrigue. He declares Great Britain never forgave Amanullah for forcing the recognition of his country's right to diplomatic relations with other nations in 1919, and when, during his recent visit to Europe he went to Russia and came under Soviet influences, the British vowed to get him, and incited the tribesmen to rebel. The Russian government is believed to have had a hand in the affair and may yet come out winner.

GEN. BRAMWELL BOOTH, aged and sick, refused to retire as commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army when the high council of the organization asked him to do so, offering to let him retain the honorary title and dignity. So the council, after deliberating all day, declared the old general unfit to continue in his high office, the vote being 55 to 8. General Booth was quoted as having issued the following statement while the council was voting to oust him: "I shall resist by every means in my power this attempt to deprive me of the leadership of the Salvation Army. I have not much money, but I will spend what I have in defending my position. I should be a coward—worse than a coward—a skunk—if I quit because there is a bit of a rumpus."

J. PIERPONT MORGAN and Owen J. D. Young with Thomas Nelson Perkins as alternate, were agreed upon as the unofficial American representatives on the board of experts that is to devise a final settlement of German reparations. Great Britain suggested these names and they were accepted by France, Belgium, Germany, Italy and Japan. The program was to obtain the consent of the men selected; propose their names to the reparations commission and then ask Secretary Kellogg if the American government had any objection, to which he would reply in the negative. All of which was made necessary by the determination of this government to have no official concern in the business.

THE long quarrel between the Holy See and the state of Italy is about to be settled amicably, according to dispatches from Rome. Cardinal Gasparri and Benito Mussolini have concluded an agreement by which the Vatican grounds are to constitute a completely free and independent territory under the sovereignty of the pope. A precedent for this is found in the existence of the republic of San Marino within Italy, of Monaco within France and of Andorra surrounded by jurisdiction of other states.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., and Col. Robert W. Stewart have been engaged in a desperate battle for control of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, and it is reported that Rockefeller is winning. Stewart, who is chairman of the board and who had some well remembered troubles with the senate, refused to resign at the demand of Rockefeller and was supported by President E. G. Seibert and the other members of the board of directors. Thereupon both Rockefeller and Stewart started out to get proxies for the next annual meeting, set for March 7. Before the end of the week it was believed Rockefeller had obtained more than 51 per cent of the voting proxies. John D., Sr., joined his son in the fight, making it harder for Colonel Stewart.

NORTHERN EUROPE was swept last week by terrific gales and snow storms. Steamers and sailing vessels were wrecked, train services stopped and rural districts isolated and buried in snow. The loss of human lives was considerable, and great numbers of cattle perished.

On the coast of China a Chinese steamer, caught in a storm, ran on a rock and sank, about 300 natives being drowned.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Sophomores Are Now Permitted to Wear Smocks

In the annual smock fight between the sophomores and juniors of the University of Pennsylvania school of fine arts the sophomores were the victors and consequently now have the right to wear smocks in the drafting room. The picture shows Marvin Schladel of Harrisburg, Pa., president of the sophomore class, being carried from the battlefield by his triumphant classmates.

Fighting Fire With Carbon Dioxide Gas

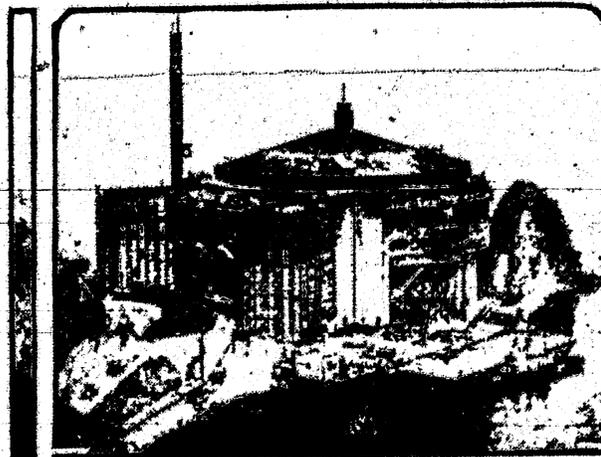

The Los Angeles fire department testing out a new weapon to fight fires—carbon dioxide gas, shot in a freezing stream from long nozzles. This is used in fighting oil fires, paint fires, and similar blazes in mercantile warehouses and stores without causing damage to fabrics and other materials.

Employment for Men Displaced by Mechanization Must Be Assured

By DANIEL WILLARD, President Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

SOCIETY must assume the duty of providing steady employment. The burden of providing employment for men displaced by the mechanization of industry is upon industry in general. It is for the benefit of society that we have mass production and reduced costs. Then society must assume responsibility to these men, and the Baltimore & Ohio, as a unit of society, has its responsibility.

At the present time the turnover in employees is less than 10 per cent; while five years ago it was 20 to 25 per cent. We have the problem of having to handle large freight movements when freight shipments are offered, and hence to have a great number of men. Engineers go back to firemen, and some accept employment in the shops during dull periods.

In the maintenance-of-way department employment has kept much more uniform than in 1928. I admit that before the war, and I apologize for it, we did not have a consciousness of the righteousness of trying to stabilize our employment.

The philosophy which has been impressed upon me is that if society is going to take advantage of mass production and reduced costs, society must assume the responsibility for finding employment for men.

We must all accept the responsibility. It is not only unjust, but it is dangerous to have men idle. Men will steal, for example. I would before I would starve, and I think most men, if they are honest, will admit the same thing.

I agree with Senator Couzens, chairman of the senate committee on education and labor, that construction work should be postponed in prosperous times. My company is following that plan.

Economic and Industrial Situation for 1929 Promises Record of Prosperity

By ALFRED P. SLOAN, Jr., President General Motors.

My business viewpoint, so far as 1929 is concerned, is necessarily based upon what I believe to be a fact—namely, that there is nothing except soundness in the general economic and industrial situation. I see no reason, therefore, why we should not continue to progress and enjoy excellent business and a general measure of prosperity.

Next year should see a new high record in automobile production. I reach this conclusion because I believe that the statistical position of the automotive industry indicates that sales during 1928 were limited by lack of production in the low-priced field, which means that we shall carry forward a certain amount of business in 1929, which will, of course, be in addition to the normal trend.

The normal trend will call for increased production due to the increased replacement demand over previous years plus increased demand for overseas markets, which are expanding very rapidly, plus a reasonable amount of natural growth, all of which should swell the total to a point where I believe a new record for production will be established.

Soul Not a Myth, but the Deepest and Most Thorough Aspect of Man's Life

By JOHN HAYNES HOLMES, New York Pastor.

Man is not a dualism, but is essentially a unity, made of a single piece, and body and soul are purely artificial distinctions. It has been asked, "Is the Soul a Myth?"

If we mean has man a soul as the body has a heart or a stomach or a brain? then I say yes, the soul is a myth; but if we mean, is man a soul, as fire is flame, or as mind is thought? then the soul is not a myth. On the contrary, it is the deepest and most thorough aspect of a man's life.

Who have thought of soul as something entirely apart from body, poured into the body at birth like medicine and out of the body like smoke from the chimney at the moment of death.

In every stage of evolution there appear new qualities of character and life which have never existed before. The new quality and character of man is his spiritual nature, not apart from him, but his own essence of being. I am myself an ego, a personality, a living entity, a soul. This great word is what we use to describe man's unity.

Willingness of Americans to Do Things in a Big Way Secret of Prosperity

By P. W. WILSON, Member of British Parliament.

I am asked why America is rich. To the best of my ability and observation, I give the real reason. It is not merely the size, the resources, and the geographical detachment of this vast area. It is a readiness to spend $55,000,000 a year on Y. M. C. A.'s alone; to hold dinners where the larger issues involved in industry are freely discussed; to admit employers and employed to one partnership in ideas; and to promote ability wherever it can be discovered. It is the inclusion of industry in the curriculum of universities and the purview of the churches. It is the belief that, properly conducted, industry is the true antidote to crime and discontent; that whatsoever a man findeth to do, he should do it with his might; that there is a divinity that shapes not only our ends but also our commodities, which are to be elaborated and consumed as a kind of economic sacrament.

Let three score British employers and employed come here (America) next year and spend a fortnight with an industrial conference, and they will have the surprise of their lives.

Workers' Rights to Share in Profits Due to Use of Labor-Saving Machinery

By ELLIS SEARLES, Editor United Mine Workers Journal.

The United Mine Workers of America favor anything and everything that is of benefit to the coal mining industry. We believe in the constant development of new ideas along that line. Any new thing that is worth anything to the industry will be a benefit to the mine worker. If it does not help to improve the condition of the mine worker it is worthless to the industry and should not be adopted.

We are not opposed to the introduction of machinery in the mines, but we do contend that when a machine is installed that effects a savings in costs, a fair and just portion of that saving should go to the mine workers themselves. There is no good reason why all should go into the pocket of the operator.

Dorothy's Mother Proves Claim

Children don't ordinarily take to medicines but here's one that all of them love. Perhaps it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food. It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach.

It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lazy bowels quick; cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Western mother, Mrs. J. G. Moore, 110 Cliff Ave., San Antonio, Texas, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that's claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Dorothy. She was a bottle baby and very delicate. Her bowels were weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and it regulated her, quick. I have used it with her ever since for colds and every little set-back and her wonderful condition tells better than words how it helps."

Don't be imposed on. See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name, "California" so you'll get the genuine, famous for 50 years.

In common parlance—slang.

With Every Dose, I Say: "God Bless Milks Emulsion"

"At last, after nine and one-half years, I am really getting well. I feel perfectly well (think of it!)—and I am sure no one came so near to the pearly gates and missed going through."

"Yesterday a doctor said to my mother: 'My God, Mrs. Stultz, this thing is a miracle that she will get well!' My mother smiled her radiant smile and said: 'It is time you gave the public something for their money; tell them to take Milks Emulsion.'"

"I have spent fifteen thousand dollars in doctoring, climates, etc., and one bottle of Milks Emulsion is worth more than all they did for me put together, and I have had the best medical advice in the world."

"As I said before, I am feeling fine and the rales are all gone from my chest; have no cough, but I am not taking any chances of getting a relapse, so I am going to stay right in bed and take Milks Emulsion until I get my weight back."

"I look down at my feet sticking up in the bed and say: 'By golly, babies, you are going to do some walking now. Cheer up; your day is coming!'"

"I can't tell you how happy I am, and I love the Milks Emulsion Company. Faithfully and affectionately yours, ANAMAD STULZ, Colfax, Calif." Jan. 28, 1927.

County School News
Alice M. French, Co. School Supt. There has been a great deal of sickness throughout the County during the past two months, causing many absences from school. The epidemic of 'flu' seems to be about over and most of the pupils are back in their accustomed places, and all the schools are starting off nicely for the second semester.

The attendance at the Arabella school has increased so that it was necessary to have another teacher. Miss Inez Gomez was selected for that position.

The Brown school, out of Corona, has closed on account of lack of pupils. The teacher, Mrs. Oja Jones and the remaining pupils were transferred to the Corona school.

Mrs. Ward from White Oaks reported a very substantial increase in her school; on visiting the school we found that she now has 31 pupils in all eight grades. She is preparing 8 pupils for the eighth grade State Examination. The services of another teacher are needed there very badly.

The Nogal school was also visited last week. Six new window lights were ordered put in, other minor repairs such as repairing the roof and ceiling which had recently become damaged by fire, were authorized.

The basketball games at Corona between Carrizozo and Corona, Saturday, Jan. 19, were fast and exciting throughout. The Corona girls won, but the boys were defeated by the Carrizozo team.

Mrs. J. V. Tully, past President of the County Board of Education, paid us a much appreciated visit last week. Mrs. Tully and Miss Mary Fritz, former County School Superintendent, have been most gracious and helpful in assisting us with a number of problems which it was impossible to completely solve before the past term of office closed.
