Senator Nye in a Hurry

The earth turns on its axis about 1,000 miles an hour, 25,000 miles in 24 hours. Because of its size, the earth's motion is slow.

At the same comparative rate of speed you could not detect any motion in a cart-wheel revolving once in 24 hours.

However, as President Hoover justly complains, there is something slower, and that's the senate's motion on the tariff.

It has been considering a tariff bill, as the President says, "since June, with fifteen schedules to work out, and has not yet completed schedule 1."

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors, back from Europe, sees no "logical reason for such action as has occurred in security values."

Business is sound, says Mr. Sloan. He believes that the quarter earnings for General Motors will be ahead of the same period for last year.

Edsel Ford announces reductions in Ford prices, expressing the belief of the Ford organization that, "basically, the industry and business of the country are sound."

There is no better contribution to prosperity than to give buyers more for their money, when greater efficiency makes that possible.

It isn't how much money you get, but what you get for your money, that counts.

F. H. Ecker, president of Metropolitan Life, biggest insurance company in the world, replies to a question concerning recent Wall Street excitement:

"Drastic deflation of market prices of shares of common stock in no wise affects life insurance policies issued by companies whose investment practice, guided by laws, such as those of the state of New York, or the sound judgment of executives, excludes common stock from their holdings."

"More than ever has this recent experience demonstrated that life insurance is the safest, most dependable repository for the savings of millions of our population," furnishing at the same time sound protection against loss which follows in the wake of death."

New Jersey, first among the states, has absolutely wiped out the gypsy moth.

Governor Larsen and the state agricultural department are to be congratulated on a fine achievement.

More money than Wall Street could lose in a dozen panics would be saved if science could eliminate agricultural pests, boll weevil, corn borer and the rest of the army.

Excellent news comes from Florida as to the success of that state in dealing with the Mediterranean fruit fly. It has been a costly battle, but worth the money and trouble.

Samuel Insull and other big employers, following the example of Julius Rosenwald, supply money to protect employees from losses in stock speculation.

Henry Ford wouldn't agree with that idea. Two years ago when this writer mentioned certain stocks in which there were bound to be heavy losses, Ford said: "Of course, but that's the only way people can learn."

Whether it is wise not to let nature take its course in gambling as in other things, is questionable.

Senator Nye of North Dakota wants Wall Street and "all speculation lifted." What's more, he wants a remedy ready by February 1.

That's a short time for so big a job.

The Malay, in his breech-clout, bets on cock fights.

The proud red Indian piles up his shirt and blanket, bets them on a pony race, standing in dignified nudity.

Two ways of getting something: one is to work, the other to gamble.

Ninety per cent of human beings prefer the gambling way.

That will be changed a good deal later than February 1, 1930.

You will be glad to hear that the Federal Reserve board says the Wall Street earthquake is over, public fears calmed.

It may be permissible to remark therefore, while the earthquake is still fresh in many minds, that gambling is dangerous.

And it isn't necessary. There are other, better ways of making a living in the United States. In addition to which gambling is NO WAY to make a living.

Alto Notes

A big Hallowe'en party was given at Mr. and Mrs. Conie Humphrey's last Wednesday night. A delightful time was had by everyone. Games were played for those who didn't care to dance. Marshall West called some dandy old square dances, much to the delight of the younger set. Scott Hagee and Monroe Howard furnished good music for all.

The P. T. A. had their meeting Wednesday night, and they decided that Alto should give a big box supper, also two snappy vaudeville acts, plays that will make your sides ache with laughter. No admission; just bring your box and come to enjoy yourself Saturday night, Nov. 9th.

Miss Tinnie Luck makes weekly trips to Roswell to get her eyes treated. The specialist says they are getting along as good as can be expected.

Miss June Hagee is ill this week with tonsillitis.

The Henry Peebles family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Warney West.

Mrs. M. B. Hagee was in Tularosa Saturday and Sunday, visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall West had the Charles Peebles family to spend the day with them Sunday.

Mrs. Ernest Blood has been quite ill this week.

Mrs. Conder has moved to Capitan where she will reside this winter.

New Ford Prices

On page 8 will be found the reduced prices on all Ford cars, which took effect Nov. 1. The Ford reduction is plainly set forth so that you may see what the Carrizozo price is and what the saving is under the new price list.

The Western Motors, Inc., makes this matter as plain as possible and would ask you to read the list carefully. The reduction will speak for itself.

State Teachers' Convention

The Forty-Fourth Annual Convention of the New Mexico Educational Association held at Albuquerque from Oct. 31 to Nov. 3, has passed into history and despite the fear of officials that the bad roads in some localities would keep many away, the enrollment was 2,525, being the largest attendance in the history of the association.

The principal speakers of the convention were, Gov. Dillon, Dr. W. R. Siders, Washington, D. C., of the National Educational Association, State Supt. Atanacio Montoya, Dr. J. F. Zimmerman, President of the University and Dr. S. P. Nanninga, Dean of the State College University.

The high-lights in the address of Supt. Montoya were for the creation of a ten-year program for the betterment of rural schools, development of the spirit of co-operation between political, industrial and educational leaders which will result in the abolition of politics from our educational system, as far as possible.

Dr. Zimmerman declared that re-organization of the state department of education is the most vital of all legislative measures needed to remedy the defects in our educational system, but this would require an amendment to the state constitution.

Dr. A. C. Bowden spoke on

"The Qualification of the Teachers of New Mexico" and being based on a careful survey of the condition over the state. He said that his survey showed that 4% of the state teachers have had no college training, 24% have had one year or less, 43% have had 2 years or less and 57% have had 2 years or more and only 36% have had any kind of a college course.

Lincoln County teachers present at the convention were, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chambers, Callie Morris, Nell Pfingsten, Stella Gomez, Lucilla Montes, Mrs. Florence Ward, Mrs. Lola Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Boucher, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Van Scoyoc, Mrs. Callie Franks, Miss Lois Martin, Miss Donnie Franks, G. W. Greer, Nannie C. Wright, Mrs. Geo. Dixon, Ethel Robinson, A. M. Freeman, Jas. V. Tully, Jr., W. C. Roskwell, Elva Wilson, C. V. Koogler, Robert Weeks, M. J. Coleman, Marion Chambers, Ida Lamont, Clara Lowe, Inez Gomez, Mrs. E. S. Dorsey and Mrs. J. B. French, County School Superintendent.

FORT STANTON NEWS

Dr. J. W. Tappan, Medical Officer in charge here, has received orders transferring him to San Diego, where he will take charge of the U. S. Public Health Service Quarantine and Relief Station. Dr. Tappan will leave Fort Stanton on Dec. 1, driving through to San Diego. During Dr. Tappan's tour of duty at the hospital he has made many friends, not only at the hospital but throughout the community. All of these people will sincerely regret his departure.

The Doctor's long experience in El Paso especially fitted him for the work in directing the affairs of the hospital. He has made many improvements in the method of treatment of the patients. The College of Surgeons has approved the hospital since he has assumed charge which places it in the first rank. In addition to his improvement in the medical service he has greatly improved the quarters situation for the personnel, having remodeled all the buildings, adding to certain quarters necessary rooms for the comfort of the occupants. There is at the present time under construction a 20-bed infirmary ward, which was necessary to care for the bed patients. Other improvements too numerous to mention have been made during his stay at the Fort.

Both patients and personnel are planning farewell parties in an endeavor to express their sincere appreciation of his unstinted service to them. It is needless to say that the loss of Mrs. Tappan and the children to the social circle will be very great as well as to the many other activities in which she has been a moving spirit.

A., set aside funds for state-wide study of source of revenue and its distribution; opposing the amendment in its present form relative to the re-organization of the state department of education; endorsing the sending of delegates from all school boards to the N. SAW LINCOLN SHOT

Benjamin Church of Lisbon, N. Famous Vatican Library

A curious feature of the Vatican library, in the custody of which Cardinal Ehrle succeeds the late Cardinal Gasquet, is the pains which seem to have been taken to conceal it. You turn aside in a corridor not far from the sculpture gallery, and pass through a glass-paneled door, screened by a grating. Within is a great chamber, exquisitely decorated, but, at a first glance, without any sign of books. The books are there, however—tens of thousands of priceless volumes—but all in closed cases and cabinets beautifully painted in harmonious with the general scheme of decoration.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. C. E. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, 1, 62, 117th, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 10

WORLD PEACE THROUGH MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 2:2-4; 11:5-10; 19:23-25; Acts 17:22-28; John 4:20, 21. GOLDEN TEXT—They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain, for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea. PRIMARY TOPIC—Friends the World Around. JUNIOR TOPIC—Friends the World Around. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Working for World Peace. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Share in Promoting International Understanding.

The lesson title is somewhat misleading. It is not world peace through mutual understanding, but through the actual coming of Jesus Christ, the Messiah, and the establishment of His kingdom on the earth.

1. Messiah's Kingdom Established (Isa. 2:2-4).
By "mountain" in the Scriptures is meant a kingdom (Dan. 2:35, Rev. 13:1; 17:9-11).
It shall be in a place of supremacy. The kingdoms of the world shall then become the kingdom of Christ (Rev. 11:15).

2. The restored kingdom the teacher of the gentiles (v. 3).
God called Israel and made her the priestly nation in order that she might make known His name among other nations. Now, after many centuries of apostasy and rebellion, the chosen nation comes into its own. God's favor will be so outstanding as to gain the attention of the whole world.

3. The Divine Judge (v. 4).
The problems of the world which are so beyond man's capacity to solve will be adjudicated by the One who is all wise, and He shall then rebuke many people. Because of this rebuke, they shall convert their implements of war into implements of husbandry, and shall learn war no more.

4. Description of His Reign (Isa. 11:5-10).
Universal peace between men and animals will prevail. In this picture each animal is coupled with that one upon which it naturally preys.

1. The wolf shall dwell with the lamb.
2. The leopard shall lie down with the kid.
3. The calf, the young lion and the fattling shall lie down together.
4. A little child shall lead them.
5. The cow and bear shall feed together.
6. The lion shall eat straw like the ox.
7. The sucking child shall play upon the hole of the asp.
8. The weaned child shall put its hand upon the den of the cockatrice.

The coming of Christ will have a regenerating effect upon the whole creation. The only peace for the earth will be when Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, shall reign.

III. Peace Among the Nations by Means of the Knowledge of God (Acts 17:22-29).

The way to bring peace among the nations is to make God known. Paul began his discourse on Mars' hill by referring to one of their inscriptions, "To the unknown God," and declared that it was his purpose to make known this God unto them. By using this as his point of contact he made declarations about God and man which it recognized will tend to the unity of the nations.

1. Declaration concerning God (v. 24, 25).

(1) The Creator of the universe.
(2) Lord of heaven and earth. Being essentially spirit, He demands heart worship, and being Creator He cannot be confined to an earthly temple.
(3) His active providence. He declared that in Him we live and move and have our being.

2. Declaration concerning man (v. 26-31).

(1) We are the offspring of God (v. 29).
(2) Nations have their place by God's purpose.
(3) Men should seek God. The truth thus declared concerning God and man, if received, will remove national and racial barriers.

IV. The Basis of National Union (John 4:20, 21).

The coming union of nations will not be in forms or symbols, but in spirit. The union of the race must be around Jesus Christ. Being united to Him as head, men are brought into fellowship with God. The Christian church is the supreme unifier of nations (Eph. 4:3-6). If we would hasten world peace, let us with diligence and enthusiasm endeavor to induce men to give allegiance to Jesus Christ.

Feminine Logic Above Any Possible Ruling

The controversy over what Ambassador Dawes should or should not wear at the Court of St. James inspired some Washington matrons to start a move to regulate the design of gowns which women should wear at state functions attended by the President.

"It just can't be done," laughed Senator Borah when approached on the subject. "The modern woman has a logic that will surmount any sort of rules and regulations."

"Daughter," roared an irate father, "why are you wearing your skirts so disgracefully short?"

"Why, daddy," replied daughter demurely, "this skirt isn't short. It just looks that way on account of my terribly long legs."

Tigers Spread Terror in Chinese Districts

Reading like the pages from some highly spiced jungle tale are the complaints made by villages to the north of the coastal city of Swatow. Ten Chinese have been eaten or badly mauled and one small girl knocked down and injured by man-eating tigers in the thickly populated districts of the province. Tigers have been attacking in the daytime as well as at night, and measures to cope with the menace are being considered. Among these is a proposal that whole villages be organized to take up a trail. One tiger weighing 100 pounds was killed recently near Thongkhlang. Man-eating tigers have long been known to inhabit this area, but this is the first time they have become so bold as to be a menace to hundreds of villages.

Replenishing Park Streams

Fishing ought to get better in a few years, at least so far as the national parks are concerned. The Department of the Interior and the Department of Commerce have worked out an arrangement whereby an expert from the bureau of fisheries of the latter department will carry on extensive research and development work in the national parks, in order to replenish the fast diminishing stocks of fish. The expert will also seek to introduce new varieties of fish in various lakes and streams where the change will work for better sport in the future.—Washington Star.

YOU HAVE A DOCTOR'S WORD FOR THIS LAXATIVE

In 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he saw the harm in harsh purgatives for constipation and began to search for something harmless to the sensitive bowels.

Out of his experience was born a famous prescription. He wrote it thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and had breath, headaches, feverishness, nausea, gas, poor appetite, and such disorders, are relieved by the prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original effective and harmless formula. All drugstores have it.

Humanity and Dogs

However much of a friend of man the dog may be, when his mode of life is applied to humanity, it means something else again. The sayings, "To lead a dog's life" or to lead some one else a "dog's life" speak volumes for the way some people treat their dumb friends.

Bad Year for City Slickers, Says Rogers

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Say, the champion New York and twelfth team looked like Man o' War till that bunch of O'Connell apple knockers got a hold of 'em this afternoon. It was no place for a raccoon coat either. I remember an old bunch of wheat sheaves whose coldest ambition is a pair of Levi overalls.

These old slobber players from the mouth of the Columbia had been only a few strokes from the goal line.

WHY YAH, HARVEY, FRANKLIN, Columbus and Al Smith have done all in succession. I just hope time it's the old country boys' turn.

Sandman Story for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Freddy Cole looked at his sailboat and then looked at the weather. The sailboat looked well, the weather did not.

Freddy's home was along the coast where sailboats were often hard to manage and where the weather did exactly as it chose—even more so than it did anywhere else—so it seemed to those nearby.

Freddy had been sailing all through the early spring and summer. He had learned to manage the boat well and he was well aware of this.

Not only had Freddy learned to sail the boat but he had learned to drive his father's automobile. He did this well, too, though with none too much regard for those along the highway.

To be sure, in the part of the world where Freddy lived the highway was never very crowded, but if a partridge did wander out upon the road it was all it could do to get back to the woods in time—or if a cow meandered along it was no easy matter to get out of Freddy's way.

Freddy rather prided himself on just being able to miss objects when he drove.

"I missed that chicken by a feather," he would say with pride.

"But that's not fair," his best friend Harold Grant would answer.

"You frighten those creatures almost out of their wits."
"Aw—what do they feel—just as long as they're not hit they are all right."
"But it's not fair," Harold would persist. "They're not used to automobiles and suddenly you scare them so they go back to the field or the woods panting with fear.

"They'll all be killed sooner or later," Freddy would reply.

"Let them be happy, then, while they live," Harold would answer.

"Ah—don't be so soft," Freddy would answer.

There were many nice qualities about Freddy. He was generous, anything he had he shared with others. He was not afraid of hard work. He helped his father, nor was he above helping his mother do the homeliest of tasks. He was loyal to his friends and never talked against others.

But there was a cruel streak running through him which worried Harold and bothered him.

At times Harold would argue with himself that Freddy was not really cruel—he was just thoughtless and so full of energy and strength and the joy of excitement that he didn't stop to think. And yet it was cruel to make any creature suffer. Perhaps Harold, was, as Freddy said, soft, but he wished he could make Freddy softer, too.

Freddy could do things so supremely well. He caught on to things at once. He had learned the hang of the automobile at once, he had learned to sail the boat so quickly and with such skill. Harold envied him for his cleverness and quickness.

But later on Freddy learned, and admitted it, too, that courage was not trying to bully some one more helpless than himself.

Courage was something far more important than that. It was being brave when unexpected dangers came up. It was being willing to admit fear but not let it get the better of you.

Oh, Freddy learned what real courage was, and it was Harold who taught it to him—though Harold never said a word about it.

And the younger boys in that place learned, too, something of what courage really, really meant!

Convenience in the Kitchen

Convenient Kitchen and Pass Closet.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
An arrangement that is very frequently recommended for making the kitchen convenient is to have a pass closet in the connecting wall between the dining room and kitchen. This plan can be made particularly compact when the sink and drainboards are placed at right angles to the pass closet on an outside wall so that a window may be located above the sink for light and ventilation. In the house where the photograph was taken by the United States Department of Agriculture, the stove is placed on the connecting wall next to the pass closet. With a minimum of steps, food can be prepared at the sink and put on the stove or in the oven to be cooked. When done, the platters and vegetable dishes can be reached without extra walking about and the hot food dished on the counter and passed at once through the closet to be taken out on the dining room side. The sink is within reach for those foods which must be drained immediately after cooking.

A well-arranged kitchen has all the major equipment placed so that work is routed from one center to another in a logical way and with no unnecessary steps. By thinking carefully how each part of the work is done it is sometimes possible to rearrange one's kitchen equipment and make it more convenient without extensive structural alterations.

A Palatable Entree

Rice mixed with a cupful of cold tomato or oven left-over tomato soup, well seasoned, sprinkled with cheese and buttered bread crumbs and baked till brown, appears as a palatable entree. It can be utilized for croquettes, drop cakes, for a thickening to soup and stews; it may be curried, worked into left-over meat dishes, and even added to ice cream.

Put into a pan and place in the oven to draw out the water. Cook finely chopped onion in two table-spoonfuls of butter, one chopped mushroom, one-eighth of a green pepper also chopped, one table-spoonful of flour, one-half cupful of stock and one-fourth cupful of drained tomato. Cook until boiling, then add the tripe and cook five minutes.

Food for the Family Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

When one grows up with mountains rather than mole hills against which to measure one's self, one's importance becomes amusingly small.—Margaret Prescott Montague.

Salting, smoking and pickling are so well known that one only needs to be reminded that these methods will apply to fish as well as meat.

It is a very poor market that cannot furnish fish at least once a week. Fried, boiled and baked fish are too well known to discuss, yet these methods are the most often used, while other more agreeable ways of serving are slighted. Here are a few suggestions:

Scalloped Fish.—Take a well-cooked fish, preferably by boiling, remove the skin and bones and flake. Rub to a smooth paste two table-spoonfuls of butter, the same of flour; when well blended add one pint of milk and cook until the sauce is smooth, stirring until well cooked. Add the fish, season with salt, pepper, finely chopped parsley and onion, a little table sauce, and place in a baking dish; cover with buttered crumbs and brown in the oven. Or, this dish may be served on buttered toast.

Fish Mousse.—Steam fish until tender—about thirty minutes. Prepare a rich white sauce using a table-spoonful each of butter and flour and a cupful of rich milk or thin cream; cook until smooth and thickened. Take two cupfuls of flaked fish, add the sauce, the beaten whites of two eggs, a table-spoonful of melted butter, minced parsley and onion, salt and pepper to season. Mix all well and place in a mold. Chill, serve unmolded on a platter with any preferred sauce.

Creamed Smoked Fish.—Take two cupfuls of rich milk, mix with two table-spoonfuls of flour and cook until smooth and thick, then add butter, salt if needed, one cupful of smoked fish flaked. Serve hot on buttered toast.

Fish Portuguese.—Take five or six even slices of any firm fish, season well and place in a baking pan with three table-spoonfuls of butter, two table-spoonfuls of olive oil, two chopped onions or a clove of garlic fried lightly in the butter. Add five tomatoes or the equivalent in canned tomatoes, a table-spoonful of minced parsley, two table-spoonfuls of par-boiled rice, one pint of water, with a cupful of any good fruit juice. Bring to a boil and simmer on the back of the stove twenty minutes, adding more fruit juice and water if needed.

Smoked Fish Patties.—Take two cupfuls of smoked fish put through the food chopper, two cupfuls of cracker crumbs, one egg and one-half cupful of cream or milk. Make into patties and fry in equal parts of butter and lard until well-browned. Serve on a hot platter garnished with parsley.

Chicken is always the favorite meat to serve when one desires a delicate meal; it is so adaptable to any luncheon or dinner menu.

Chicken a la Italy.—Simmer slowly one minced green pepper, half a cupful of mushrooms in three table-spoonfuls of butter, well covered for five minutes. Add one and one-fourth cupfuls of minced chicken, three-fourths cupful of minced ham, one-half table-spoonful of paprika; cook together three minutes. Add three-fourths cupful of spaghetti, one-half a pint, two cupfuls of cream, and a table-spoonful of salt. Cook four minutes. Mix the yolks of three eggs with two table-spoonfuls of cream and stir into the mixture. Take off the fire and serve at once.

Sea Food Salad.—Take one package of lemon flavored gelatin, add one cupful of boiling water to one-half cupful of chili sauce, one table-spoonful of vinegar, two drops of tabasco sauce, one table-spoonful of worcestershire sauce, two table-spoonfuls of grated horseradish, add enough cold water to make a cupful; add to the gelatin, chill, and when slightly thickened fold in two cupfuls of lobster meat, shrimp or shredded crab. Unmold in individual molds, or cut into squares or oblongs. Garnish with sprigs of water cress. Serve with a spoonful of mayonnaise on lettuce or cress.

Tripe a la Creole.—Those who like tripe are usually very fond of it. Here is a good recipe which you will enjoy:

Cut three cupfuls of tripe into pieces two inches long and one inch wide. Put into a pan and place in the oven to draw out the water. Cook finely chopped onion in two table-spoonfuls of butter, one chopped mushroom, one-eighth of a green pepper also chopped, one table-spoonful of flour, one-half cupful of stock and one-fourth cupful of drained tomato. Cook until boiling, then add the tripe and cook five minutes.

Planning the Christmas Fund

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every fall about the time school re-opens the newspapers begin to herald, especially in their advertising columns, the approach of the Christmas season. "Only so-and-so many weeks before Christmas"; "Do your Christmas shopping now"; "Mail early for Christmas," and so on. But none of these captions are of the slightest use in helping us to get the one means of carrying them out—enough money to spend for gifts. The assumption is that one has it.

Of course there are a good many thrifty thousands who have been educated by "Christmas Savings Clubs" and similar movements to tuck away a small sum regularly for fifty years of the year. They begin early in December to save for the next year and about Thanksgiving time are rewarded for their regularity by a substantial bank check. There are countless others, however, who spend as they go, and who find themselves unlikely to do much about Christmas unless a financial miracle happens. How are they to find the wherewithal to celebrate the holidays and give remembrance even to their nearest and dearest with Christmas but a few months distant?

In most families the need can be met best in the way other large needs are met, suggests the bureau of home economics. Assuming that one is interested in that type of Christmas giving which is dictated by affection and that therefore the kindness and trend of fashion is just like that—simply thrilling through and through with its chic, charm and striking originality.

As is the case with so many of the new fashions, the coat illustrated highlights the black-and-white theme. And though the idea in itself is age-worn, the interpretations as given this season are utterly and refreshingly different from those which have gone before.

All through the scheme of things fashionable one sees the somberness of black happily relieved by white. Especially is a play being made on combining black furs and white furs. For instance, a seal or black velvet coat is enlivened with perky bows of white ermine or lapin, and usually the black hat boasts a single or a series of corresponding white fur bows.

With a black velvet jacket suit lady wears a white crepe satin blouse, or one of glistening white transparent velvet if her pocketbook so allows. This effective black-and-white costume she tops with a snowy angora or white chenille-crocheted toque. Her boutonniere is, of course, white, the newest thing being to substitute a cluster of little black-and-white ermine tails for flowers, with a corresponding ermine motif on her hat.

The latest message from Paris which has to do with black-and-white, is that of flat white fur embroidered with black chenille. Wonderfully effective are the ensembles which line the up-standing collar of a black velvet coat with snowy ermine or lapin, the same showing in bold relief a flower-pattern handworked with black chenille. To this the designer adds white fur streamers, their scarf ends also elaborated with black hand-stitchery.

Black and White in the Mode

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Anything is apt to happen in the name of fashion this season—even that, for instance of a handsome black velvet coat, like the one in the picture which flaunts a black fur cuff on one sleeve, a white fur cuff on the other, and a collar that goes fifty-fifty on the black-and-white question. The whole

Girl at the Top in Health Test

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana All-gire, 610 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bonnie B. is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her ruddy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since baby-hood to keep her bowels active during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

Four Painter When Sir Austen Chamberlain was in Hollywood a pretty girl said to him at tea: "Is it true, Sir Austen, that your colleague in the cabinet, Winston Churchill, goes in for art?" "Churchill does dabble in oils," said Sir Austen—"landscapes, still life, that sort of thing." "Is he any good?" the girl asked. Sir Austen put his monocle in his eye. "Well," he said, "he's not as bad as he has painted."

Stricter Deportation Laws Greatly Needed

Scottish Rite News Bureau:

Washington, D. C. — Amendments strengthening the existing laws on deportation of aliens were urged recently by Representative Wm. P. Holaday, former member of the House Committee on Immigration which deals with deportation. In this regard he said in part:

"I think Congress could strengthen the laws now on the statute books relating to undesirable aliens and enforcement of their deportation.

"I firmly believe that provisions of existing law not only have permitted the States to rid themselves of alien criminals who would have been public charges and a burden on the States, but that the law has proven a deterrent to crime. I have heard of some particular cases of aliens who possibly have been violating a law but who have announced that they have reformed and intend to be law-abiding citizens because of the fear of being deported from the United States.

"I am convinced that the restrictive immigration law of July 1, 1924, a permanent statute, is as important as any law that Congress has enacted for many years. It has kept out the excess of foreign labor and has been a Godsend to American labor."

The D. A. R.

A Boston clergyman finds fault with the Daughters of the American Revolution. He says the organization is a menace to the peace of the world, that it is losing caste with intelligent people and with educated liberals who believe in internationalism. The ladies of the organization need not be concerned. The less they gratify the American internationalists, clerical and otherwise, the more they will serve a useful purpose. The intellectual endeavor to make patriotism odious is not intellectual. It is merely emotionalism. It is sentimentalism attacking a decent sentiment.

It has an undoubted influence in American affairs, not because the internationalists are numerous or because they are intelligent but because they are well supplied with money and because they terrify certain types of public men with their noisy virtues. The assumption that they represent all the American yearning for a better life disregards all the facts.

The D. A. R. is a patriotic organization with a pride in the national past and a regard for the national future. It arranges these women against the pacifist leadership. It irritates the internationalists to find a representation of American homes insisting upon nationalism as a virtue instead of a vice. — Chicago Tribune.

Supplement to Carrizozo Outlook

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1929

Glencoe Woman's Club

The club assembled at the Bonnell school house which was beautifully decorated and arranged with interesting displays of cozy library corners for all school grades, by Mrs. Myrtle Davis, teacher, in accordance with the program of the day, which was designated as a Book Party. Mrs. J. V. Tully had charge of the program, assisted by the chairman of the Literature department, which was as follows:

Song, "New Mexico," by all; Roll Call, "My Favorite Author"; Song, "Books," Mrs. Davis' 8th grade; Play, "Books Are My Friends," Mrs. Jones' school; Book-Guessing Game, Two Little Pale, Mrs. Davis' school; Fortunes, told by book titles; Story, "The Book Wedding," written with the titles of books.

The prize was won by Mrs. Anstey for the best representation of a book. A letter was read from Judge Hewitt in which he commented upon his favorite authors.

The things done in the observance of Book Week was very gratifying, especially the display of the 'Come Alive Book Library' by the librarian. The upper Ruidoso school carried off the banner for the best 'Come Alive Book Poster,' made by each of the six schools of the Ruidoso valley. In the Book Exhibit was a Bible written in Spanish and the Engala Magazine for the year 1887 all bound in red leather, with the badge of the 5th Annual Convention of the G. A. R. of '87.

The Union Sunday School purchased a library of 87 books of Bible stories with colored illustrations and elected Mrs. Roselle as librarian, and offered the child who read the most of the books by the 1st of the year, a red letter Bible. After the program the ladies enjoyed refreshments at the home of Mrs. Bonnell. The club will give a social Thanksgiving at Wingfield's Hall. All are invited to come in tacky costume.

Judge Crews

returned the latter part of last week from Chicago, where he visited his daughter, other relatives and old Chicago friends. He gave a detailed description of the new Palmer House, which he said, was the most modern and beautiful hotel he had ever seen. He looks well and is feeling fine.

Judge A. H. Harvey

kindly extended an invitation to C. H. Ross of Paden's Drug Store and A. L. and Lewis Burke of the Outlook office to accompany him on a trip across the new Carrizozo - Socorro Highway a last Sunday afternoon, which we accepted with much pleasure. He drove us over the highway until we came to the highest point which overlooked the Jornada del Muerto, or Valley of Death, where many expeditions in the early days perished. The view from this point is unobstructed and beautiful to the extreme. On returning, Mr. Harvey took us by Duck Lake, over Highway 566—the trip was a treat and we thank you, Judge.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lueky arrived home last Friday from a trip which took them through the states of Arizona, Utah, Nebraska and ending in Kansas, where they visited their parents and other relatives. They were absent about two months.

Judge John Y. Hewitt

was here from White Oaks and spent several days of last week, having his headquarters at the Carrizozo Eating House. Judge is slowly recovering from his injuries received about six months ago. He gets around very nicely with the aid of one crutch and his walking cane. In spite of his advanced years, 88, and his accident which caused him to be confined to his bed for four months, he still retains the same vein of good nature and a memory that is brilliant and wonderful.

A. W. Drake

ranchman and farmer from the region east of Luna, was here this week. Mr. Drake has been very successful since locating in that portion of our county, both in stock raising and bean farming.

Marshall Beck

of the State College, spent the week-end with his parents here.

Hallowe'en Party at Escondida

Miss Frances Sandoval, teacher of the Escondida school, entertained all her pupils, the directors and their families with a Hallowe'en party Wednesday from 7:30 to 11 p. m. The Hallowe'en decorations made and placed on the windows by the school pupils added to the attractiveness of the school room. The table was beautifully decorated with a large artificial bouquet made by the school girls adorning the center. Games were played, songs were sung and at the close of the affair, Miss Sandoval served refreshments.

Stricter Deportation Laws Greatly Needed

Scottish Rite News Bureau:

Washington, D. C. — Amendments strengthening the existing laws on deportation of aliens were urged recently by Representative Wm. P. Holaday, former member of the House Committee on Immigration which deals with deportation. In this regard he said in part:

"I think Congress could strengthen the laws now on the statute books relating to undesirable aliens and enforcement of their deportation.

"I firmly believe that provisions of existing law not only have permitted the States to rid themselves of alien criminals who would have been public charges and a burden on the States, but that the law has proven a strong influence for the good on aliens generally. I believe the existing law has proven a deterrent to crime. I have heard of some particular cases of aliens who possibly have been violating a law but who have announced that they have reformed and intend to be law-abiding citizens because of the fear of being deported from the United States.

"I am convinced that the restrictive immigration law of July 1, 1924, a permanent statute, is as important as any law that Congress has enacted for many years. It has kept out the excess of foreign labor and has been a Godsend to American labor."

The D. A. R.

A Boston clergyman finds fault with the Daughters of the American Revolution. He says the organization is a menace to the peace of the world, that it is losing caste with intelligent people and with educated liberals who believe in internationalism. The ladies of the organization need not be concerned. The less they gratify the American internationalists, clerical and otherwise, the more they will serve a useful purpose. The intellectual endeavor to make patriotism odious is not intellectual. It is merely emotionalism. It is sentimentalism attacking a decent sentiment.

It has an undoubted influence in American affairs, not because the internationalists are numerous or because they are intelligent but because they are well supplied with money and because they terrify certain types of public men with their noisy virtues. The assumption that they represent all the American yearning for a better life disregards all the facts.

The D. A. R. is a patriotic organization with a pride in the national past and a regard for the national future. It arrays these women against the pacifist sisterhood. It irritates the internationalists to find a representation of American homes in-igniting upon nationalism as a virtue instead of a vice. — Chicago Tribune.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Hoover's Extensive Program for Waterways—Golden Jubilee of Light

By EDWARD W. FICKARD
PRESIDENT HOOVER has definitely taken his position as champion of the development of our inland waterways and set forth the policy of his administration in that connection. In an address at Louisville, made during his trip down the Ohio in the celebration of that river's canalization, the Chief Executive proposed a program that would call for the expenditure in the next ten years of approximately one billion dollars for the inland waterways projects. He would complete the canalization of the Mississippi system of 6,000 miles within five years at an annual outlay of $10,000,000 over the present appropriation, and would be ready to spend as much more on the St. Lawrence project.

The chief points of the President's program are thus summarized:
Establishment of a nine-foot depth in the trunk systems and six or seven feet in the tributaries of the 6,000 miles of navigable rivers of the country.

The federal government should not only retire from the operation of ocean shipping, but from the operation of barges and craft on these rivers after the period of pioneering.

Completion of the entire Mississippi basin system of waterway in five years.

The 740 miles of intercoastal canals should be lengthened by 1,000 miles during the next ten years.

The great lakes channels should be further improved and the lake levels stabilized.

This Mississippi flood control project to be expedited and finished in ten years.

Harbors and their littoral waterways to be maintained and deepened to accommodate the expanding foreign commerce.

When it came to the matter of providing the needed funds, Mr. Hoover adopted the idea of beating our swords into plowshares. He expressed the hope that the great increase in expenditures involved would be balanced by reduction in the expenditures for the instruments of war as the result of the present international negotiations for naval limitation.

Mr. Hoover's first participation in the Ohio river celebration was at Cincinnati where, in Eden park he helped dedicate a monument to the men who started the canalization work 84 years ago and, as an engineer, gave high praise to the way in which the project had been carried out. He and his party then took a stormy ride to Louisville on the old lighthouse tender Green Drier, stopping briefly at Madison, Ind. Patrol boats, yachts and other passenger boats carrying members of the Ohio Valley Improvement association and officials from several states trailed in the wake of the Green Drier, making a flotilla of 16 vessels.

As the President's train was returning to Washington some persons discovered near Albany, Ind., an automobile placed across the rails. It was supposed an attempt had been made to wreck the train, and indeed that might have been the result; but two negroes who were arrested said they had put the car on the track in hope of collecting damages for its destruction.

LIGHT'S golden jubilee, the fiftieth anniversary of the creation of the incandescent electric lamp by Thomas A. Edison, was celebrated more or less all over the world but centered in the transplanted early American village, Greenfield, built near Detroit by Henry Ford. There were gathered President and Mrs. Hoover, Secretary of War Wood and other government notables, Mrs. Curie of France, co-discoverer of radium, and a host of other important people to do honor to the "Wizard" and his achievements. Bowed by his eighty-two years and almost overcome by emotion, Mr. Edison, in his rebuilt old original laboratory, repeated his final test of the first successful incandescent light, and then at a banquet heard what his fellow citizens and the world generally think of him and his inventions. Congratulatory messages from the prince of Wales, President Hindenburg of Germany and others were read; Owen D. Young as toastmaster was eloquent, and President Hoover revealed a delightful vein of humor as well as a deep appreciation of what Mr. Edison has done for humanity. Especially did he give the inventor credit for the way he has demonstrated the value of the modern method and system of invention by highly equipped, definitely organized laboratory research. Henry Ford and his son Edsel, the hosts of the occasion, declined to speak. Mr. Edison himself, in broken tones, thanked the American people for the tribute paid him and gave credit for a full measure of his successes to his fellow workers and the great thinkers of the past.

The celebration at Greenfield was supplemented by the dedication of the Edison Institute of Technology which Mr. Ford has created as his concrete tribute to his friend, the "Wizard of Menlo Park."

REPRESENTATIVES of twenty-nine co-operative live stock sales agencies, meeting in Chicago at the call of Chairman Legge of the farm board, made satisfactory progress with the organization of a central sales agency. It will have subsidiary corporations owned by its member agencies and financed to extend activities toward stabilization of the live stock industry.

Addressing the sixth conference of major industries in Chicago, Mr. Legge warmly advocated an economic parity between industry and agriculture as the only way to check the increase of radicalism in America.

"The public can rest assured," Mr. Legge said, "that the American farmer will never be reduced to peasantry, but unless he gets help, and gets it quickly, drastic results may be expected. You can't blame the farmers for backing radical blocs. Those blocs represent distress at home. If we remove the distress we remove the radicalism. If we don't we'll see radicalism in the future that is going to be worse than that we've had in the past."

DEMOCRATS and radical Republicans of the senate, striving at least ostensibly to make the tariff bill more favorable to the farmer, began their fight against the schedules of rates. Their success was variable, and the hottest parts of the battle are yet to come. The debates were so long drawn out that there were renewed fears that the measure would fall of enactment in the special session.

Herbert C. Lakin of New York, president of the Cuba company, was an interesting witness before the senate committee investigating lobbying. He said that American interests with Cuban sugar investments had thus far spent $75,000 in lobbying against an increased duty on sugar, and that propaganda headquarters have been maintained in Washington at a cost of $21,000 to date. Mr. Lakin insisted that he and those he represents do not desire to injure the domestic beet sugar industry and have tried to work out a scheme that would be equitable to all groups. Replying to Senator Caraway's questions, the sugar man said he believed his interests would have been unsafe if he hadn't employed persons to represent him in Washington.

ARISTIDE BRIAND, premier of France, and his cabinet stepped out of office last week because the chamber of deputies, by a vote of 268 to 277, refused its confidence in Briand's foreign policy. Briand, who has been premier 12 times and is in poor health, announced positively that he would not accept the task of forming another government. When parliament opened Briand demanded that debate on his foreign policy be postponed until after he had conferred with allied governments, until the conference at The Hague had been resumed for final action on the international bank, and until after final repartition of German reparations. This the chamber refused, deputies of all parties joining in the opposition vote. Dilekko of the Young reparations plan and of the contingent evacuation of the Rhineland was strongly evinced by the right wing, which was surprised by the fall of the government. The left wing leaders said they really were strongly in favor of the Young plan and the evacuation program. Eduard Daladier, Radical Socialist, was picked to form a new cabinet.

BECAUSE a Slovene student was executed in Pola, Italy, there were violent anti-Italian riots in Belgrade and other cities of Yugoslavia, and the Italian representatives in that country were threatened and insulted. Consequently Mussolini, through Minister Carlo Galli, made indignant remonstrance, demanding immediate investigation and the cessation of the press campaign against the Mussolini policies.

CROWN PRINCE HUMBERT of Italy arrived in Brussels to ask officially for the hand of Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium, and when the king and queen gave their consent the engagement was formally announced. The consent of the king and queen of Italy was published at the same time. Prince Humbert next day went to place a wreath on the tomb of Belgium's Unknown Soldier and was there shot at by a young Italian student, Fernando di Rose. Humbert, who was unharmed, stood quietly until the tumult was stilled and then proceeded with the ceremony.

CIVIL war in Afghanistan apparently is ended for the present, for news comes that Bacha Sakao, the deposed king, and 1,000 of his followers have surrendered to Nadir Khan, the new ruler, stipulating only that their lives be spared. Amanullah, the former king, has sent his warm congratulations to Nadir.

DESTRUCTION, by explosion and fire, of the Hollywood laboratories of the Consolidated Film Industries caused a loss of millions of dollars—nothing like an exact estimate being possible for some time. The place was used by about 75 per cent of the motion picture producers and included in the losses were a number of master films of new screen productions. Fifty persons were in the building at the time and all escaped unhurt except Albert Lund, who was taken out unconscious and died.

URBAN F. DITMAN, JR., Montana cattleman and amateur aviator, started a surprise hop from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, for London, and presumably was lost in the Atlantic, though there was a remote chance that he landed somewhere in Greenland.

DOX, the huge German Dornier seaplane, made a successful flight over Lake Constance carrying 100 persons; these included 150 passengers, nine stowaways and ten members of the crew. The big ship rose rapidly and for nearly an hour flew at an average speed of 100 miles an hour, though it is capable of 133 miles. Italy, Japan and Spain immediately put in orders for planes of the same type.

SEVEN of the Communist labor leaders who were tried in Charlotte, N. C., for the killing of Police Chief Aderholt of Gastonia during the strike troubles, were found guilty of second-degree murder and sentenced to prison for terms ranging from five to twenty years. Several of the convicted men were from New York; others were native products.

PIERCE raids by the bears brought on the wildest scenes the New York stock exchange has ever known, and prices of stocks crashed down to such low levels that billions of paper profits were wiped out. Trading was utterly demoralized as the brokers fought to execute their orders, and the ticker was nearly two hours behind with the quotations. The excitement was repeated only in lesser degree in the curb market and in Chicago and other exchanges. No explanation of the great crash was satisfactory, at least to the losers. The bulls struggled hard to keep their footing, with some success later.

STORY FROM THE START

Capt. Lion Fellowes' American merchant ship is sunk by a British frigate off Portugal in the War of 1812. The crew surrenders, but Fellowes reaches shore exhausted. His life is saved by an English-speaking girl, who conceals her identity. She is about to set out for Lisbon. Fellowes goes to Lisbon where he meets an acquaintance, Capt. Chater of the American ship True Bounty, who offers him a berth as a mate, but knowing Chater is disloyal in trading with the enemy, he refuses. He meets the girl who saved his life, Cara Inglepin, daughter of the owner of True Bounty. She is bound for home and induces Fellowes to sail as mate. He is in charge of the frigate, but is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Captain Collishawe. Despite his claims to American citizenship, Fellowes is taken aboard the Badger a "pressed" man. Maddened at what he believes is Chater's treachery, he strikes Collishawe, who orders him a hundred lashes with the "cat." Fellowes' hatred of the three becomes an obsession. Off New York Fellowes escapes from the Badger. He seizes a plot to meet to be held at Chater's home and gathers a company of militia to circumvent the plotters.

Feet shuffled in the dust, and Fellowes found himself, with Cuffee and Tom and Nimrod Sopher, leading the Fencibles west on the South Country road. From the rear of the little column echoed the monotonous incantation of Sergeant Peirt: "Hayfoot, strawfoot! Hayfoot, strawfoot! Hayfoot—"

The ancient's reiterated refrain died away in the chatter of the tree-tops. There was only the "shuff-shuff, slap-slap" of feet in the dust, the rattling of equipment, the tense breathing of men laboring under excitement held in leash. It must be very late, Fellowes reflected, well along toward dawn; but the mist, low-lying over the swampy lands bordering the bay, thickened the darkness. Collishawe should be on the point of departure—the Englishman was so fool; in any case, would wish to keep his landing secret.

They tramped around a curve in the road, and Cuffee, at Fellowes' elbow, stiffened with a jerk.

"What dat?" he whispered. Simultaneously, came a hail from the shadows in front:

"Aho, there! Lay to!" And a bosun's whistle trilled, sharp and clear.

"Back yer oars, Clinch," roared Tom Grogan.

Pistols exploded among the trees; the whistle trilled again, sharper, more piercing.

"Out cutlasses," bellowed Clinch. "Stand by to receive boarders."

Behind them Fellowes heard Peirt, quaveringly authoritative:

Form column—by fours—left into line—forward! Shift—firelocks! Present—firelocks! Aim—fire!

The crashing detonation of thirty stand of arms dismayed the sailors, notwithstanding the militiamen's bullets flew in every direction save the enemy's. Fellowes detected their flight by the crackling of tree branches and Clinch's fervid oaths, and summoned the Fencibles to pursue.

"After them, boys! Give 'em the cold steel!"

Tom was off already, Mrs. Rhodes' ax brandished at the length of his apelike arm, bowling challenges to Clinch. Cuffee leaped into the woods, screaming a weird slogan learned in the jungles of Coromandel. Sopher continued to emit trilling calls that ran the gamut from falsetto to bass, trying next to Fellowes. The Fencibles followed stoutly.

The pursuit receded from the road, traversing a belt of trees which hid the antagonists from each other, bewildering both sides, and presently spilled out of the grove on to a range of cultivated fields. The light was growing, Fellowes perceived. In the distance, Chater's house was a white blur against a windbreak of tufted eims. Clinch launched a vigorous charge as soon as the increased visibility revealed the scanty numbers and character of the attackers.

"Come on, Badgers," the bosun encouraged his men. "Carry it to 'em, lads! Slice the lights out o' 'em! They're only milshy!"

The sailors responded gallantly, coming forward in a compact group, sure-footed and agile; and the militiamen, caught off-balance, out of breath, ward disposed to run, despite Sergeant Peirt's angry appeals. Sopher, recast at last, stood stockstill, wheezing his war and crying shrilly: "Follow yer captain, men! Follow yer captain!" It was Fellowes, with Tom and Cuffee, supported by Peirt, who checked the impact of the sailors, and gave the Fencibles an opportunity to rally. He flung his empty pistol into the charging group, snatched a clubbed rifle from one of the faltering militiamen, and attacked Clinch, himself—who recognized the Long Islander with a yell of incredulity.

"Sink me, tad! 'Owd ye git 'ere?" "Surrender, Bob! You're cornered." "Not me! Bob Clinch don't strike in colors—"

But in the midst of his defiance the knot of sailors disintegrated, as Cuffee smashed the head of one and Tom hewed a second from shoulder to waist. The Fencibles, who had been on the verge of flight, were intoxicated with ferocity by their first sight of blood, and eagerly resumed the pursuit.

"Surrender, Bob," Fellowes urged again.

"Not if I know it," retorted the bosun, dodging a blow with a clubbed rifle. He parried another swing, then stooped and grabbed a fold of Fellowes' shirt, jerking it over the Long Islander's head. Blinded and hampered, Fellowes stumbled to his knees, and by the time he had ripped off the tattered garment and scrambled up, half-naked, Clinch was safely out of reach.

The sailors recovered rapidly from their panic, and made for the creek bank, halting at intervals to fire their pistols and gain a breathing spell. Daylight, Fellowes realized, would increase the timidity of his raw men, and he called anxiously to Sopher:

"We must finish this while we have the darkness for cover. One more charged. Fire a volley, and drive them into the creek."

"Him Lil Silty Man, but Plenty Brave," He Murrured.

Peirt cried faintly: "That's the way we took 'em at Saratog! Keep achargin'! The British'll run fast as any fellers if they see bay'nits to thar gizzards. Hearts up, now, boys! With powder 'n' ball—load! Present—firelocks! Aim—fire!"

The greasy powder smoke billowed across the field, and the Fencibles trotted with it, making no pretense at order, unable for the moment to see what the enemy was doing, and therefore persued they were beaten. Fellowes, in advance of the line and not yet blanketed by the smoke, saw the sailors fall prostrate as the American's muzzles jetted flame. Then Clinch's whistle piped distinct in the racket of musketry and haphazard cheering, a cannon boomed on the creek, and a host of sinister voices whined through the dank air. Grape-shot! Fellowes knew what that meant: the longboat's three-pounder had been brought to bear on them. And he knew, too, by their frightened yells, that the Fencibles were in headlong retreat.

"Peirt," he shouted, "Sergeant! Can't you hold your men? Sopher! Nimrod!"

But his only answer came from Tom Grogan, who bobbed up out of the smoke beside him.

"The old feller took a whiff o' grape 'twixt wind-and-water, messmate," Tom reported. "And that air milshy cap'n's off on 'tother tack under full sail, 'long o' the rest o' his squadron."

"Where's Cuffee?"

The negro towered erect at mention of his name.

"Cuffee wid yo', mair," he answered simply.

French Beggars Flock to Their Special Mass

The great church of Sacre Coeur (Sacred Heart) on the heights of Montmartre, Paris, has a feature that could not be duplicated in any other church in the world. Every Sunday morning at eight o'clock there is "Beggars' Mass." Painfully climbing the steps come hundreds of the down-and-outs of Paris, some listless and shoeless, others in rags and still others beat over with physical infirmities. But they are proud of their special service, and the mass is said to them by the chief dignitary of the church. The service is complete in everything but the collection. As the poor go out each receives 25 centimes—a nickel in the old days—and a card good for a large piece of bread. On special church days the gift is increased, and the attendance is larger. An office is also maintained to help them get work. Speaking of these Sunday services a church dignitary said: "If there remains a spark un-

"Three of us left," grained Fellowes. "But we can't fall like this. We must take Collishawe."

They stepped out of the smoke onto the creek bank as the longboat was backing into midstream. The gun in her bows no longer aimed their way, but several sailors discharged pistols at them. Collishawe, in the stern-sheets, bending over a wounded man, straightened at a word from Clinch, who held the tiller.

Fellowes waded waist-deep into the creek.

"Collishawe," he shouted. "D'you hear me, Collishawe?"

The Badger's captain rose slowly to his feet, motioning to several of his crew to put aside their pistols.

"I hear you," he answered clearly. "This is Fellowes—Lion Fellowes, whom you flogged. Will you come ashore, and fight me, man to man?"

"How did you come here, Fellowes?"

"Never mind how I came here," Fellowes waded further out, the bottom mud clutching at his feet. "Will you come ashore, and fight me, man to man? Choose your weapons, choose mine. You and all your men shall go off, unharmed, whatever happens to me."

"That is impossible," the Englishman replied deliberately. "I am an officer on duty. I cannot indulge in personal quarrels."

Gripped as he was by a rage that was volcanic in its force, Fellowes never for a second doubted the honesty of his enemy's position. Say what he might of Collishawe, he would believe the Englishman courageous—morally courageous, as well as physically. He choked down his wrath, and as Collishawe remained standing, with an effect of courtesy allowing him the last word, he called again:

"Very well, I'll come to you. Collishawe bowed.

"I shall be ready," Fellowes said. He resumed his seat, the longboat's oars feathered and dipped, and she pulled away for the mouth of the creek, as the first pink of the sunrise stained the east. Fellowes waded ashore, less disgruntled than he had been. For Collishawe's parting words had recognized their equality. They were no longer captain and common sailor, superior and infinitely inferior; but two enemies, who should encounter on a level plain of enmity, honorable, however bitter the hatred which knit their interests as closely as though they had been abiding friends. And somehow, hatred tasted cleaner in Fellowes' mouth—much, much cleaner than the hatred he held for the three who remained in the farmhouse beyond the creek fields.

CHAPTER VII

A Nolle Prosequi

The glow in the east was deepening. Objects that had been obscure assumed their proper shape. Fellowes' whole being, now that Collishawe had escaped, was concentrated upon the punishment of the three who remained in Chater's house. Climbing the creek bank, he set his face in that direction and led the way across the trampled fields, pausing only when they came upon a rusty-brown sprawl of limbs in a furrow of beet tops. Fallid lips mumbled unhappily:

"D—n milshy! Takes—Continents—stand—cannon—"

"We can't leave Peirt out here," exclaimed Fellowes. "His wounds must be dressed."

"Nothin' to do for them wounds," grunted Tom. "Looks like he'd stopped a roundshot."

"You drove the Britishers, Peirt," Fellowes tried to comfort him. "We'd have been beaten without you."

"Drove 'em—hey?" The wrinkled face lightened. "Jest—like—Saratog." His breath quickened. "Give 'em—bay'nit—boys—see L. But—takes—Continents—"

He sighed faintly, and the light in his face went out.

"Poor old Peirt," Fellowes said sadly. "If we'd had a dozen like him Collishawe couldn't have escaped. Pick him up, Cuffee. We'll carry him with us."

Cuffee handed Mrs. Rhodes' musket to Tom, and gathered the frail body in his arms, cradling it with a gentleness that was almost maternal.

"Him lil silty man, but plenty brave," he murmured.

Fellowes strode along, absorbed once more in contemplation of his vengeance, unconscious of the ghastly figure he made, plastered with mud and water, his naked torso hideously scarred by the livid welts of the cat.

Speed of Meteorites

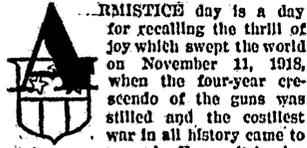

The fact that more meteorites are seen in the afternoon and evening than in the morning hours shows that their velocities must be, in general, greater than that of the earth, otherwise they would not overtake the earth in such great numbers. There is reason to believe, says Nature Magazine, that meteorites are different in their origin from shooting stars, that they are not true members of our solar system but are drawn into it from interstellar space by the attraction of the sun.

"Lest We Forget!"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ARMISTICE day is a day for recalling the thrill of joy which swept the world on November 11, 1918, when the four-year crescendo of the guns was stilled and the costliest war in all history came to an end. For us it is also a day for remembering the Americans who crossed the Atlantic to play their part in that titanic struggle and who never came back—the 30,000 men who sleep beneath the white crosses in the Meuse-Argonne, St. Mihiel, Oise-Aisne, Aisne-Marne, Somme and Suresnes cemeteries in France, in Flanders field in Belgium and near Brookwood, England. But, most of all, it should be a time for remembering those who did come back, not the men who were returned unharmed to their rejoicing families, but the "human wreckage of war"—men with blinded eyes, with deafened ears, with gas-seared lungs, with severed legs and arms, with shattered nerves, men whose precious years of youth and opportunity had been sacrificed for their country.

How many of them are there? The best answer to that is a statement made by Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' bureau that more than six hundred millions of dollars has been spent by the government in the rehabilitation of nearly 130,000 legless, armless, sightless and otherwise crippled or physically handicapped men to the point where they are capable of self-support; that more than 26,000 men and women who served with the military forces of the United States are now receiving treatment in government operated or supervised hospitals; that there are still in hospitals today more than 18,000 ex-service men who are undergoing treatment for disabilities due to their war service; and that there are under guardianship 23,727 veterans who are incompetent to take care of their own affairs.

"The problem of paying the human cost of the World war was a huge one in the beginning," says General Hines. "It is still a major national problem."

"Across 3,000 miles of ocean, in 1917 and 1918, we transported an army of 2,000,000 Americans, practically without loss of life from enemy guns, torpedoes or mines.

"Across the same expanse of water, a little later, 117,000 wounded and sick were brought back to the United States—some to live, some to die, many not to know for years the price they must pay for their participation in the war.

Beyond the sea, on foreign soil, 80,000 soldiers of the American Expeditionary Force were killed in action, or died of wounds, injuries or disease.

"In the single great offensive operation of the American First Army, in the period between September 26 and November 11, 1918—the attack which brought about the enemy's appeal for the armistice—our losses were 117,000 in killed and wounded.

"These items, large as they are, do not constitute the total human cost of our brief participation in the World war. There were, in addition, scores of thousands of young men who either died in the training and concentration camps here in America, or in those camps contracted diseases with lasting effects.

"The total toll of war was such that death or disability claims have been filed for one-fifth of all the men who served in the armed forces of the United States during the World war. More than half a million claims have been allowed. And nearly ten years after the war—on July 1, 1929—250,000 veterans were receiving disability compensation. That army of disabled included men afflicted with anemia receiving from $40 to $100 a month, depending upon the seriousness of their condition. It included thousands of men with impaired hearts or arteries. We had and have scores of thousands of other cases involving every disease or abnormal physical or mental condition from bronchiectasis to dementia praecox."

Another aspect of this problem is presented by General Hines in these words:

"As time goes on the obligation of the government changes. The average age of the former service men is now

Disabled

The bugle's call . . . the drum's low beat . . . Crowds surging through the flag-swept street . . .

And straight, young figures marching by . . . To music sung against the sky . . .

Yet on this day of peace I see Another, lonelier company!

These are not they who fell—these still Are tortured on Golgotha's hill!

And one is here who not again Will feel the pulse of rapture when

The high, hard trail has yielded to His conquering steps . . . Another who

No longer now will joy to see The April dawn's swift ecstasy

Of blue and gold . . . And here one lies With pitifully staring eyes,

To whom the drum's low beat will bring Remembrance of some hideous thing . . .

So, on this day of peace, I see Another, lonelier company!

These are not they who gladly died But they who still are crucified! —Catherine Parmenter in the New York Herald Tribune.

2. Two patients at General Hospital No. 81 of the Veterans' bureau, New York city, fashioning "Buddy poppies" which are sold throughout the country during the week of Memorial day by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Five million poppies are distributed in practically every city and town in the country, and proceeds being devoted exclusively to welfare work among disabled veterans.

3. A scene during one of the annual garden parties held on the lawn of the White House for disabled war veterans in Washington hospitals while Calvin Coolidge was President.

thirty-four years. That age is beyond the period of greatest susceptibility to tuberculosis. We shall have in Veterans' bureau hospitals, therefore, fewer and fewer cases of tuberculosis. In 1922 we had 12,000; now we have 6,500.

"So, too, the surgical and general medical cases, including, of course, shot and shell injuries sustained in the war, have been decreasing. We had 10,000 in 1922. Now there are only 6,700.

"But in another direction the government's obligation is increasing. There has been a steady, upward trend in the number of veteran patients with mental and nervous afflictions. In 1919 there were less than 3,000 such patients, including those who bore the so-called "invisible scars of war"; the shell-shocked veterans. Now there are 13,000. Our medical experts estimate that the peak of such cases will not be reached until 1947, when, with the veterans at an average age of fifty-three, there probably will be between 40,000 and 50,000 suffering from nervous and mental disorders. We may have to provide hospital facilities for 16,000 of these unfortunate veterans."

Another estimate of the increasing importance and scope of rehabilitation is given by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, a national organization of disabled ex-service men established in 1921. This group has been named by congress as an official representative of the disabled who present claims to the government. According to William E. Tate, national commander, during the next decade, more than 275,000 ex-service men will need help as a result of disabilities incurred during the war. So when Armistice day comes 'round each year, it behooves all Americans in the midst of their solemn celebration of the day to give a thought not only to those "who gladly died" but also to that "lonelier company" of those "who still are crucified."

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so. You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Heaven never helps the man who is a victim of that tired feeling. Trouble seldom visits those who do not expect it.

Needless Suffering

The next time a headache makes you stay at home—

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—

Remember Bayer Aspirin! For there is scarcely any pain it cannot relieve, and relieve promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, or the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might so easily be checked; to neuritis, neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Bayer Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

For your own protection, buy the genuine. Bayer is safe. It's always the same. It never depresses the heart, so use it as often as needed; but the cause of any pain can be treated only by a doctor.

Primitive Pearl Fishing

Arabian pearl divers in the Persian gulf take world records for a minimum of diving equipment. They go to the bottom with a stone to pull them down, a rope to pull them up and a clothes pin on their nose. The diver stands on a large stone with a rope tied to it, that he may descend quickly to the bottom of the sea. He walks about the bottom picking up oyster shells and putting them in a basket which is suspended from his neck. After he has been down about two minutes, he is dragged quickly to the surface by means of a rope tied about his waist.

Pearl fishing is one of Arabia's most important summer industries says the report to the Department of Commerce made by Consul John Randolph of Bagdad.—Detroit News.

Movement Imperative

I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving. To reach the port of heaven, we must sail sometimes with the wind, and sometimes against it; but we must sail, and not drift, nor lie at anchor.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Wide Sailing

"Sailing the seven seas" is meant to convey the idea of sailing all the seas.

The Lubbock Nursery

We have repeatedly made mention in the Outlook of the fact that the most effective way in which to beautify the town would be to plant trees, and have set the example ourselves by planting of Chinese Elms, which are the best adapted for this climate. Alamogordo has tested out the Chinese Elm and found it to do exceedingly well, the growth being remarkably fast and the shade plentiful.

Now, comes the Lubbock Nursery of Lubbock, Texas, announcing the fast-growing Chinese Elm and other trees and shrubs in their ads which will be found on pages 4 and 8, where they advertise trees, shrubs of all kinds; also roses, vines and frost-proof plums.

A very enjoyable Halloween party was held Oct. 30. The room was decorated in Halloween colors; witches, black cats, owls, jack-o-lanterns; also a very realistic skeleton, cleverly made from pasteboard of ordinary packing boxes. Many games were enjoyed after which, delicious refreshments of cake and hot cocoa were served to all present.

The following day the upper Glencoe school gave a party to which we were invited and which we enjoyed very much.

Our average attendance for October was 93%. Quite a number of our pupils will receive a certificate for 3-months' perfect attendance at the end of this month.—Club notes will appear in supplement.

Perished Almost Within Sight of Home

On the night of Oct. 19, W. A. Summers, 73, ranchman near Itabenton, about 18 miles north of here, went out about dusk, it is said by members of his family, to hunt a horse. The following morning he failed to appear, and a search was made and failing to locate him, it was presumed that he had wandered off to another part of that country and would return. Day by day his absence became more commented on, until the belief became established that he had met with foul play or had frozen to death during the last cold snap, which was on during the time he was missed.

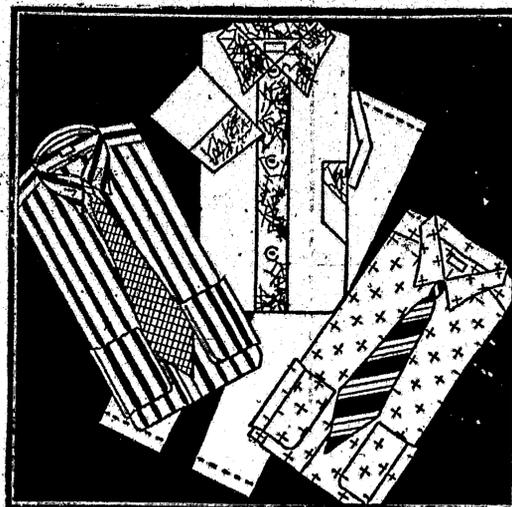

Searching parties were organized and it seemed that the country north of the ranch had been gone over and the parties disbanded, thinking he had wandered away to some distant place, until Tuesday morning, I. N. Bell, whose land adjoins that of the Summers' place, while out riding the range, noticed an object which he first took to be a beef that someone had killed, but on closer investigation, he found it to be the body of the missing man. This spot is only about 2 1/4 miles from the Summers home. The body was badly decomposed, having been left to the prey of cold nights and wild beasts for 17 days, that Coroner A. H. Harvey and Sheriff Brady, after due deliberation, ordered the body buried where it was found. His body was nude, he having removed his clothing, which was found near the body.
