Good News From Hoover
Ford Talks Sense
Labor, Capital and Peace
How Old Is Man?

Mr. Hoover's "super-galaxy" of business talent reads like a Who's Who in the upper brackets of high finance.

A statement from the White House shows that things can be done when somebody takes hold.

Scores of business and industrial leaders have promised the President to expand construction, which means giving more employment.

It is refreshing to read Henry Ford's ideas about "stabilizing and increasing prosperity."

Invited by President Hoover to join the army of advisers, Ford begins by announcing "an immediate increase in wages among his own employees."

He says: "The only thing that should be high priced is the man who works. Wages must not come down, they must not even stay at their present levels. They must go up."

To that statement, frankly belated to many gentlemen with plenty of money, Ford adds: "We must see that increased wages are not taken away by increased prices that do not represent increased values."

President Hoover received from employees of labor, great industrialists, a pledge to avoid discharges of employees as far as possible, and to avoid reduction in wages absolutely.

The President asks the labor unions, for the time being, until prosperity has been put firmly on its feet, to wage no labor fight for higher wages except such as have already started.

It is a good program. Labor and capital should adopt it, at least until we know just what, if anything, is the matter.

Biologists of the future, studying our civilization, exploring the fancy writings of "star reporters," will discover these interesting facts:

Professional gamblers and criminals in New York engaged in a game of cards involving close upon a million dollars in one night. One of the gamblers lost and refused to pay about $200,000, and was murdered.

They will read also the guesses of wise reporters that witnesses summoned will not tell what they know because the "underworld" tells them to keep their mouths shut or say things that mean nothing.

An interesting picture of Twentieth century civilization.

If congress adopts Secretary Mellon's recommendation, as it probably will, taxes levied on Americans will have been reduced nearly two billion dollars since 1921.

Secretary Mellon believes that increased payments will more than make up for income tax reduction.

Scenes on Wall Street may interfere temporarily, not permanently.

Millions have studied the puzzle, "How old is man?" A few are working at another puzzle, "How old is man?"

The learned Henry Fairfield Osborn, head of the American Museum of Natural History, learns that the probability of which the elephant and the hippo are examples, were accompanied in their migrations by human beings as early as the early pleistocene times.

Man may have reached the North American continent "many millions of years earlier than is generally supposed."

How old is man? Man was said to have been on this earth 100,000 then 500,000, then 1,000,000 years ago. Now it runs into many millions of years.

More interesting is scientific proof that the earth will last with men living here for a thousand million years more. The human race should do something in that length of time, stop war, abolish poverty, cheating, swindling and cease devoting its energies to getting money that it doesn't need.

Advertiser Walker of New York, who intends to show other cities how to create employment by spending money wisely, on tunnels, bridges, wider roads, etc., said: "If this country is not all right, where are you going to move to?"

Golden Wedding Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. George Coe of Glencoe were entertained in honor of their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Elzie Perry.

The centerpiece was a large, beautifully decorated Golden Cake, baked by their granddaughter, Mrs. R. A. Bonnell.

Mr. Geo. Coe has been a resident of Lincoln County for 60 years and the splendid couple have resided in this one place for 45 years.

Everyone present had an enjoyable time and departed at a late hour, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Coe many more years of happy wedded life.

San Antonio Bridge Rebuilt

Socorro, N. M., Nov. 25.--The San Antonio bridge on U. S. highway 566 over the Rio Grande, 10 miles south of Socorro has been rebuilt by the state highway department and was opened to traffic this morning.

Three spans of the bridge were washed out by the Lower Rio Grande floods of August, and traffic has been forced to detour until repairs could be made.

The highway is on the route of the Carlsbad Cavern-Grand Canyon highway and is one of the important cross state roads.

President Hoover's Appeal

Never before in the history of this Republic has there been a President who ventured so far as to step down among his people and so interest himself in the behalf of his country as has President Hoover.

The country awaited with anxiety the response to this appeal and had not long to wait. Quick as the answers could come, they came from leaders of our industries who flashed the responses that they were more than ready and willing to assist in keeping the country in a prosperous condition.

Employers said they would increase manufacturing capacities without reducing wages, and Henry Ford went so far as to put into effect, an advance in wages with no demand on the part of labor. Labor leaders promised they would not ask for increase in wages; railroad executives promised they would increase construction that would pour millions into the purses of labor, while the bankers promised they would do all in their power to assist in financing construction.

Governors of the different states were quick in response to the appeal and promised to put on improvement programs and push road and state work to the limit of their resources. This has already established confidence throughout the nation and will ward off the impending danger to our prosperity.

Gov. Dillon Answers to Newspapers in the East

During the past week, Gov. Dillon has had inquiries from some of the biggest newspapers in the east as to what could be expected of New Mexico, and to all he answered much the same as he did to the Christian Science Monitor, which read like this:

"During the year now closing we have had abundant rains putting our ranges in good condition for livestock and yielding bumper agricultural crops. Our livestock industry has experienced the most successful season in its history this year and anticipates a higher level of success in 1930.

We are putting on a road program in 1930 at a cost of $5,800,000. This program will be carried to completion before the close of that year.

The Rio Grande Conservancy District will begin a $10,000,000 project for drainage, flood control and irrigation in the Rio Grande valley. The federal government has appropriated money for a Marine Hospital, a post-office and a federal building in this state at a total cost of over $2,000,000 and from the best information available we believe this federal building program will be put through in 1930."

RADIO RUBE SEZ:

One thing I can't understand is that everytime I get some station where I think I have about the finest program on the air, an air pocket comes on or Old Man Static throws a monkey wrench into the machinery and I have to "stand by" for a while and after the reception comes on, my program is over.

The same may be said of "Sunburnt Jim," who makes the fun over KNX at Los Angeles, when they put on the Blue Green Gasoline Circus program. He is the lite of the circus and without his funny pranks and songs, the program would be too dull for anything.

The Gilmore Circus is put on the air every Friday night--Station KNX.

Salt Lake City always has something good in store for the fans--for instance, the programs are put on every Wednesday night by the "Sun Freeze" Ice Cream Co., when the studio is full of sweet singing canary birds. There is no phonograph stuff either. The birds are there and at times during the program which is pleasing to the ear, the announcer halts the program and allows you to hear these sweet little singers and they are royal entertainers, too.

I like to turn on Denver about 7 a. m. and hear the "Morning Revellers," which is followed by "The Average American Home." The lady and gentleman who put on this novel and interesting advertising stunt every morning when at breakfast, advertise everything good to eat in the city, besides making mention of the merchandise at the different business houses, is something for Denver business men to be proud of. They are great. Pick them up some morning.

Old Pop Henderson is a jolly guy to listen to, when you want to hear something sly. What I like about him is, that he don't give a damn and plainly tells you so. They call him a peddler of the bull, but if a message comes in to him of that nature, he reads it the same as if it was complimentary and then your turn comes for a scorching--and believe me, he can scorch some, too.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Reduction of Income Tax by One Per Cent Proposed by the Administration.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

IF CONGRESS is agreeable, and it almost certainly will be, our income taxes for this year will be reduced by about $100,000,000. This is the plan of the administration, the announcement of which was made in advance of the President's budget message to congress in the hope that it would serve to ameliorate the stock market situation.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Undersecretary Ogden Mills and Roy Young, governor of the federal reserve board, conferred with Mr. Hoover, and Mr. Mellon then issued a statement which said in part:

"While the final detailed estimates of revenues and expenditures for the fiscal year 1930 and 1931 have not been completed, the secretary of the treasury considers the estimates have reached the point where tax reduction should be recommended to the congress at the coming session.

"The indications are that business profits, dividends, interest, and wage payments in 1929 will considerably exceed those of the year 1928. Our estimates indicate that the government should close both the fiscal years 1930 and 1931 with a surplus. Taking all factors into consideration, the secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the President, will recommend tax reduction to the congress.

"The form of relief to the taxpayers which the treasury's recommendations will probably take will be a 1 per cent reduction of the normal tax on the incomes of individuals and corporations applicable to 1929 incomes and payable in the calendar year 1930.

"The total reduction of taxes to be collected during the calendar year 1930 will amount, it is estimated, to approximately $100,000,000.

"The reduction, it is hoped, will take the form of a joint resolution of congress, thus permitting prompt action by both houses by avoiding a general revision of the revenue law.

"The proposal has been discussed with the Republican and Democratic leaders of both houses of congress, who have tentatively approved the proposed recommendation."

It was believed in Washington that enactment of the necessary legislation will come early in the regular session of congress, which opens on December 2.

COMMENT on the stock market situation seems superfluous, for every one in the country has been reading the financial columns with avidity if not with dismay. Day after day prices continued their downward way and it seemed as if the market had no bottom. Even the bears were surprised, and one of their leaders, James Livermore, was quoted as saying that prices of many of the good stocks had fallen too low. But the amateur speculators were panicky-stricken and refused to listen to reason. Many of the highest-priced industrials fell to new low records for the year, and lots of bargain hunters of the previous week were caught in the jam. The New York Stock Exchange on Wednesday took steps to forest all the undercover selling that had felled all efforts to stabilize the market. Every member was called on to give at once the following information:

A list of stocks borrowed and from whom and for whose account; a list of stocks loaned and to whom; intra-office borrowings and for whose accounts; a list of all stocks which they have failed to deliver, and for whose account.

This action, together with the tax reduction news, brought on a flood of buying orders, and prices began to move upward.

PRESIDENT-HOOVER'S Armistice day address at Arlington National cemetery was hailed in America and Europe as one of the most important statements ever made by him, and it was given general approval. Briefly, he challenged the other powers to a radical reduction of naval armaments, declaring that the United States would reduce its naval strength in proportion to any other, that it remained for the others to say how low they would go and that "it cannot be too low for us." He suggested the exemption of merchant ships, carrying food exclusively, from seizure by belligerents as the first step in solving the problem of the freedom of the seas. He proposed amplification of the Kellogg anti-war pact by provision of automatic machinery for investigation of disputes involved in violation of the pact, subjecting the aggressor to the "searchlight of public opinion." And he suggested the need of additional arbitration treaties and of an authoritative system of international law.

Throughout his address Mr. Hoover revealed himself as an ardent advocate of world peace and the reduction of preparations for war, but asserted the latter must be by agreement only. "I have no faith in the reduction of armaments by example alone," said the President. "Until such time as the nations can build the agencies of pacific settlement on stronger foundations; until fear, the most dangerous of all national emotions, has been proved groundless by long proof of international honesty, until the power of world public opinion as a restraint of aggression has had many years of test, there will not have been established that confidence which warrants the abandonment of preparedness for defense among nations. To do so may invite war.

"I am for adequate preparedness as a guaranty that no foreign soldier shall ever step upon the soil of our country."

It should be noted that Mr. Hoover said his suggestion concerning food ships in war times would not be discussed at the London naval reduction conference.

ONE of the many interesting events on Armistice day was the dedication of the Ambassador bridge, the first to be built across the Detroit river to Canada. It is the longest bridge of its type in the world and cost $20,000,000. Its free span is 1,850 feet long and its total length is one and eight-tenths miles. The ceremonies included military parades in both Detroit and Canada and addresses lauding the structure as an aid in perpetuating the 114 years of peace between the United States and the Dominion.

SIR RONALD LINDSAY, British under secretary of state for foreign affairs, has been selected as ambassador to Washington to succeed Sir Esmé Howard, who retires from the diplomatic service early next year. Sir Ronald is well known in this country and his wife is an American, a daughter of the late Colgate Hoyt of New York.

Nelson Johnson, assistant secretary of state in charge of far eastern affairs, was appointed by President Hoover to be minister to China to succeed John Van A. MacMurray, resigned. He is a "career" diplomat who has served in China and is remarkably well posted on the entire far eastern situation. William Phillips has resigned the post of American minister to Canada, to the deep regret of President Hoover and the State department. He was offered another diplomatic post, but wished to return to the United States on account of his children.

SENATOR BINGHAM'S theory that the senate lobby committee was packed against the Republican tariff bill received a measure of substantiation when its chairman, Senator Caraway, asserted that his labors would soon be concluded. For of all the lobbies operating in Washington, little or no attention has been paid by the committee to any others than those whose concern is the tariff. Joseph R. Grundy, veteran lobbyist for Pennsylvania interests, was recalled by the committee last week and Mr. Caraway demanded that he name the senators from "backwards" states who, he contended, have too much voice in fixing the policies of the nation. Mr. Grundy said that on reflection he had decided this would be improper and unbecoming, and Mr. Caraway called him a welsler and yellow. But a moment later the senator retracted this, shook Mr. Grundy's hand and said that, after all, he liked him. In a report to the senate, Chairman Caraway dealt with the testimony given by William Burgess of New Jersey, representative of pottery and other interests. The senator satly accused Burgess of perjury and slander and said he was a paid lobbyist who had "no regard whatever for his reputation."

DELEGATES to the conference to establish the new Bank of International Relations signed the statutes, charter and trust agreements of the institution and departed from Baden Baden. The statutes, as published immediately, fix Basel, Switzerland, as the seat of the bank and describe its purposes as:

"To promote co-operation of the central banks, provide additional facilities for international financial operations and to act as trustee or agent in regard to the international financial settlements entrusted to it."

So long as the Young reparations plan is operative the bank will not only "observe provisions of the plan in administration of operations of the bank," but also will "conduct its affairs with a view to facilitating execution of the plan."

During the Young plan's operation the bank is vested with the functions of receiving and distributing the German reparations and supervising and assisting in commercialization and mobilization of certain parts of the German annuities.

NADIR SHAH, the new king of Afghanistan, has issued a proclamation saying that strict prohibition is to be enforced in that country. The rights of the people are to be equal, with no distinctions as to nationality, caste or birth excepting those prescribed by the Shariat-sacred law. A recognized national army has been established and equipped with the latest implements of war. A military school is to be founded at Kabul, the capital, where officers will be trained in modern scientific warfare. King Nadir also says he hopes to conclude a trade treaty with the United States.

REDUCED to poverty and without desire to live longer, the former Princess Victoria, eldest sister of the ex-king of Germany, died in a hospital in Bonn at the age of sixty-three years. Wilhelm was estranged from her when she married Alexander Soubkhoff, a Russian refugee, and gave her no assistance when she was forced to sacrifice all her possessions to pay her husband's debts. She had applied for divorce from the dissolute Soubkhoff, who was expelled from Germany and has been working as a waiter in Luxembourg.

Other deaths were those of James A. Robb, finance minister of Canada; Dr. E. A. Allen, chief of the experiment stations of the Department of Agriculture; Dr. Frederick Mosen of California, eminent anthropologist; and James J. Hordan, New York banker and close friend of Al Smith, who committed suicide.

WHAT is believed to be the largest embezzlement in the nation's history was revealed by a statement of the officers of the Union Industrial bank of Flint, Mich. It shows that within the last few months ten or more of the bank's employees have stolen from it money and securities to the amount of $3,000,000. Charles S. Mott, president of the institution, has deposited cash enough from his private fortune to guarantee the depositors against loss.

SOCIETY along the Atlantic seaboard was provided with a sensation when it was learned that William W. Willcock, Jr. of New York had married Adeline Ingelbert, a recent immigrant from Norway who had been his mother's chambermaid. The young groom is the son of W. W. Willcock of the social register and former vice president of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company; and his mother was the daughter of the late E. F. Jones. The family fortune is reported to be more than one hundred million dollars, but how much the son will get is questionable. He and his bride were joined in a St. Louis wedding on October 24.

The recent industrial employment survey report issued by the U. S. Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor in Denver states that some improvement was noted in industrial activity, and employment in the major industries in New Mexico during October, except lumbering. Harvesting of the cotton crop was under way with the supply of cotton pickers about equal to demands, except at Clovis and Carlsbad where some difficulty was experienced in securing this class of help. The lumber mills in the Bernallillo district were temporarily inactive. Practically all other manufacturing establishments reported steady operations. Metal mining, ore milling, and smelter plant activities continued on a normal basis with the metal mine labor supply and demand fairly well balanced. Coal mining is expected to show a seasonal increase in production and employment and the supply of coal mine labor should be ample for all requirements. There was considerable activity in the oil fields, especially at Lea. Building increased slightly, and work under way or soon to start includes extensive metal mine developments, a $500,000 reservoir dam and telephone construction work in various parts of the state. Sufficient building tradesmen available for demands. Highway construction increased somewhat and additional workers were employed. The railroad shop, maintenance-of-way, and train service forces were employed on a satisfactory basis which should continue throughout November. The industrial employment situation in Arizona existing throughout October was described as satisfactory. Harvesting of the cotton and citrus crops, cultivation of lettuce, and the shipping of lemons, grapefruit and oranges engaged the services of a large number of workers who will continue to be employed for the next several weeks. A shortage of cotton pickers was reported in the Phoenix and Yuma cotton districts. Construction equipment plants and the cotton gin increased production and forces. Normal operations obtained in the lumber mills in the Flagstaff and McNary districts. Considerable metal mine construction and development work continued and large forces were employed in the major producing metal mines and smelter plants. Some difficulty was experienced in securing a sufficient number of unskilled metal mine laborers at Ajo. Building was exceptionally active in practically all sections. Included among some of the larger projects are the Stewart Mountain Dam, copper mine improvements at Superior to cost $2,000,000, development work in the Hiasayampa metal mining district to cost $600,000, a 100-ton ore mill, two large theaters to cost $100,000 each, and three state armory buildings. Considerable telephone construction was under way throughout the month, including the installation of copper circuit toll lines. Establishments effected by tourist traffic are expected to materially increase their forces during November. Highway construction employed many workers and should continue active throughout the next thirty days. A seasonal increase in railroad freight transportation is also expected in November. The railroad labor supply and demand were well balanced, except for a slight shortage of track workers in Tucson.

Three federal prisoners broke out of the Santa Fe jail recently and escaped in a big roadster which they stole here. The prisoners, who crawled through a hole about 16 by 15 inches after sawing a bar, are: Woodiel Moore, Jack Douglas and Raymond Naksett.

Wounded Indian Brave Made Quick Recovery

The neighborhood was resounding with blood-curdling yells as the young braves of the warpath engaged in a heavy Indian battle. When one of the young warriors was officially shot by the other side he must "play dead" and cease his hostilities until one or the other side had vanquished their enemy.

"Room, room, you're dead," one youngster shouted to a brave on the other side.

The victim ceased his activities, but it was too much to sit on the "side lines and watch the others."

"Hi, you're dead; I shot you a minute ago."

"Yes, I know, but I've been to the hospital since then," he shouted, as he plunged into the imaginary smoke and heat of battle again.

Native African Belief Aids Spread of Pests

Rhodesia is suffering badly from the depredations of lions and leopards. It would be the simplest matter in the world to eliminate these pests as in most parts of South Africa, but the natives, although baited by the offers of gems and other rewards, simply will not help the white farmers in this matter. The whole truth is that the natives believe that the spirits of their departed chiefs are reincarnated in the lions and leopards that infest the country.

As a result of this superstition no native dare kill a lion for fear of bringing the anger of the spirits upon him and his family. The native is rather between the devil and the deep sea, because the "spirits" have a nasty habit of carrying off members of his family when hungry.—Washington Star.

Lunch Hour Music

Passing a London church one mid-day recently, I was tempted by the inviting shade of its porch to seek shelter from the heat of the street.

Within, my ears were greeted by a cool sound, that of a string quartette, and I discovered the players seated in the chancel of the picturesque Tudor church, discoursing that freshest of music, Haydn's. Midday concerts in city churches have grown in popularity, and how not only do they take the form of organ recitals with an occasional vocal solo, but one may chance to hear a violin or cello, a string trio or quartette, or even a gramophone recital.—London Daily Chronicle.

"Foreigners" in Army

No attempt has ever been made to classify the United States army personnel by nationality or place of nativity. In a tabulation, however, involving about 3,000,000 names of veterans (from among the 4,037,101 individuals who served in the United States army during the World war) whose applications for adjusted compensation were passed by the War department prior to May 1, 1928, it appears that the foreign-born among those applicants numbered 340,533.

MODEL FOR A FRIEZE

Sergt. Walter E. Andrews, Company E, Thirtieth Infantry, stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco, who has been picked by the commanding officers of the infantry in answer to a call from Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of infantry, asking the picture of the "most soldierly" soldier in each infantry regiment. The photographs will be placed in a frieze to be installed permanently at headquarters in Washington.

Women and Money

In the hearing of a divorce case the other day the wife asserted that she had received only 40 cents in money from her husband in the ten years they lived together. But just to show it isn't safe to trust a woman with money it was proved that she spent 20 cents of this money for turnips. No wonder the men cling to their dough. Los Angeles Times.

Preserving Floors

The forest service says that to prevent dry rot in floors the wood should be treated with a preservative before it is used and there should be air vents in the foundation so that the air would not be confined beneath the floor.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

By REV. E. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (C. 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 1 THE CHRISTIAN HOME IN A MODERN WORLD

LESSON TEXT—Deut. 6:3-9; Matt. 19:13-9; Luke 2:40-52; 24:28-32; Eph. 6:1-9; 11 Tim. 1:3-5; 11 Tim. 14:15; Luke 2:40-52. GOLDEN TEXT—Honor thy father and thy mother. PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing God in Our Home. JUNIOR TOPIC—Pleasing God in Our Home. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living as Christians at Home. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Home: Its Help and Hindrances.

Instead of an exposition of the printed text, as suggested by the lesson committee, it will be better to make a synthetic study of the salient points of the several reference texts proposed by the committee.

- 1. The Makers of the Home (Matt. 19:3-9). The home is a divine institution. Its makers are the man and the woman joined together in holy wedlock, according to God's primary law—one man for one woman and one woman for one man. 1. The union is so vital that God declared the man and the woman to be one flesh (Gen. 2:24). 2. Divorce was not in God's thought for man (v. 9). It was only permitted because of sin (v. 8). Divorce has the disapproval of God and right thinking men and women. 3. Fornication is the one and only ground for divorce (v. 10). Lateness of the divorce laws causes the Christian to hang his head in shame. 11. The Ideal Child (Luke 2:40-52). Marriage has as its primary purpose the propagation of the race. Children are to be desired and expected. Christ stands as the ideal child in the home. 1. His central interest (v. 49). "My father's business." Being conscious of His Mission He entered the temple to inquire into the meaning of the ordinances of God's house. 2. His obedience (v. 51). Though fully conscious of His divine being and mission, He went down to Nazareth and lived a life of filial obedience. 3. His development (v. 52). (1) Bodily—"Increased in stature." His body became strong. A strong, healthy body is the inalienable right of every child, and parents are obligated to provide food and raiment such as to preserve their health. (2) Mental—"Increased in wisdom." As a normal human being, his mental powers developed. (3) Spiritual—"The grace of God was upon him," and He increased in favor with God and man. How beautiful is the picture of the symmetrical development of the Savior of men. III. The Place of God's Word in the Home (Deut. 6:3-9). The home has a vital teaching function. The child develops slowly; remains in the home for a long time to give an opportunity to be taught the things of God. 1. The central truth to be taught (vv. 4, 6). This is twofold. The unity of God (v. 4) and man's supreme obligation to God (v. 6). 2. How the truth was to be kept alive (vv. 6-9). (1) It was to be diligently taught to the children (v. 7). (2) It was to be talked of everywhere and under all circumstances. (3) It was to be bound upon the hand and placed as frontlets between the eyes (v. 8). (4) It was to be written upon the posts of the houses (v. 9). IV. The Early Training of the Child (11 Tim. 1:3-5; 3:14, 15). Timothy was taught the Scriptures from his childhood by a godly mother and grandmother. The Holy Spirit uses the Word of God in the salvation of children as well as adults. V. Christ a Guest in the Home (Luke 24:23-32). At the urgent invitation of certain disciples, Christ tarried in their home and sat at meat with them. Christ will come into the home and bless those who sincerely invite Him. VI. Mutual Relation of the Members of the Home (Eph. 6:1-9). Each member has certain rights and privileges which must be respected. Children are to obey and honor their parents. Parents are not to provoke their children to wrath, but to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Servants are to be obedient to their masters and to render service as unto the Lord. Masters are to show consideration to their servants, since they themselves are servants to the Heavenly Master.

Faith

When we are confronted by misery which needs relief, suffering which requires sympathy, folly which should be reproofed, ignorance waiting for counsel, sin pleading forgiveness, the true prayer is, "Lord, increase our faith." Nothing is impossible to faith.

A Daily Thought

I say to you truly, the heart of him who loves is a paradise on earth; he has God in himself, for God is love. Lamennais.

Rose Powder Box

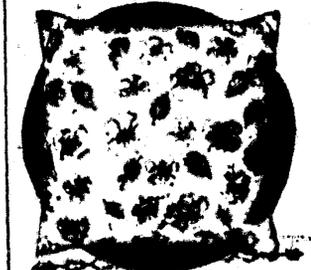

Well may it be said of the woman who uses this dainty flower powder box that "she has a rose-leaf complexion." Cunning idea, this of nestling a little round pasteboard powder box in the heart of a handmade crepe paper rose. A cluster of artificial flower stamens are pasted on the lid, which makes it easy to handle (see sketch). Lovely Christmas gift!

Artful Glass Toiletries

If you're asking what's "smart" to give for Christmas, decorated glass toiletries is the answer. A bottle for every lotion or medicine, cold cream jar, powder boxes, soap dishes. Oh! there's no end to the intriguing articles to be had, each prettily painted, many in dainty flowers, others adopting unique designs like the little fish set in the picture.

Crepe Paper Cushion

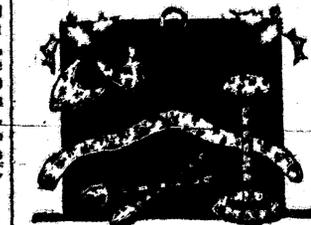

Once you make one of these cushions you will want to repeat. Cut two squares or circles if you prefer a round cushion out of flowered crepe paper—yes, paper! Really very durable because before sewing up it is covered with a layer of transparent georgette. The effect is that of exquisite handpainting. Some women are quilting these, placing a layer of cotton underneath before stitching. A Christmas gift which will be admired and appreciated!

Carries Sweet Odor

Santa Claus likes to carry these ornamental bags wherever he goes, for the sweet odor of their contents (garden lavender) scents up his entire pack. They are made of coarse, colorful netting with frills at the top and handpainted embroidery hoop handles. Gift shops report them as among their most popular numbers. They measure from nine to twelve inches across.

Ensemble Boudoir Sets

Not only do we dress, but we furnish our homes, a la ensemble, especially the boudoir. Dress hangers, shoe trees, hat stands must match. Latest item to add to this assortment is heart-shaped shoe tips. Stuff them in the toes and they "do the trick" of keeping lady's shoes in perfect shape. Christmas displays feature sets as pictured of painted wood and enamel cloth in identical patterning.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use PHILLIPS Milk of Magnesia. One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take. Any drug store has the genuine, prescriptional product.

Overcharged

Maurice often is his father's companion on trips to the country to repair lights that generate their electricity with batteries. On one of these occasions he was invited into the grape arbor to eat grapes to his heart's content. After the return home in the wee hours of the morning the dad's father was awakened by groans. "What's the matter, son," inquired the father. "I think an overcharge of grapes," replied the lad.

No ugly, grimy streaks on the clothes when Red Cross Ball Blue is used. Good bluing gets good results. All grocers carry it.—Adv.

Who Could It Have Been?

It seems to be quite generally agreed that the Arab wasn't the guy that put the pal in Palestine.

John's Mother Praises Doctor

There isn't a mother living who won't agree that no half-sick child should be the subject for an experiment with medicines of uncertain merit. When your child is bilious, head-achy, half-sick, feverish, restless, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, you know that nine times out of ten it's a sign his little stomach and bowels need purging. And when you know that for over fifty years leading physicians have endorsed one preparation for this condition, there doesn't seem to be any reason for "trying" things.

Rich, fruity California Fig Syrup clears the little stomach and bowels gently, harmlessly and in a hurry. It regulates the bowels, gives tone and strength to them and to the stomach; and helps to give your child new strength, energy and vitality. Thousands of Western mothers praise it. Mrs. Joseph W. Hill, 4500 Redford Ave., Omaha, Nebraska, says: "I'll never forget the doctor who got me to give my baby boy, John, California Fig Syrup. Nothing else seemed to help his weak bowels. That was when he was just a baby. He suffered a good deal before I gave him Fig Syrup, but it stopped his trouble quick. I have used it with him for colds and little upset spells ever since. I consider him a Fig Syrup boy."

Insist on the genuine article. See that the carton bears the word "California." Over four million bottles used a year.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

Fathers of Victory

The passing of the noted war chief, George Clemenceau of France, who has been justly called, "The Father of Victory," and also that of Prince Bismarck of Germany, who was also an outstanding figure in warfare, brings to mind the difference between these great men and those of our country who were also "Fathers of Victory."

In comparison to the warriors mentioned, we offer the names of the great Washington and Lincoln, and the comparison will leave the reader to choose for himself as to who were indeed the greatest and what the cause was, for their greatness.

While admitting the great generalships of Bismarck and Clemenceau, we are nevertheless acquainted with the fact that they lived their lives of fame and fortunes of war without the least faith in religion of any nature. In the case of Clemenceau, he believed, and to all reports, died in the belief that death was nothing more or less than a dreamless sleep, while with Bismarck, he was never known to have bowed the knee to a higher power than he could naturally comprehend. On his deathbed he was quoted as saying that in all his life, he could not recall having done a single deed of human kindness. Never could rest in the thought that he had ever done anything but wage warfare against his fellow man, and to relieve suffering, to give to the needy, to sympathize with those in darkness and the shadow of death, was something unknown to him.

Clemenceau was very much of the same type and while both were valuable to their countries, there was that outstanding lack of reverence to God and a desire to perform acts of human kindness to the needy that would have made their names shine with a more brilliant lustre in the halls of fame.

Now, take the lives of Washington and Lincoln. They never made an attempt to accomplish a single thing of importance without first imploring the aid of Almighty God. We see Washington praying at his mother's knee to be relieved of the tyranny of the oppressor and have freedom of his country established, while we see Lincoln pouring out his soul in prayer for a country under one flag, united in bonds that could not be severed and that freedom might not perish from the earth.

It is not our intention to offer criticism to the great men mentioned, for they were honest, at least to themselves, but they can never be held up to rising generations in France and Germany, as can the names of our "Fathers of Victory," who gave God all the glory.

Draped Millinery in Fashion could happen than revival of the art of millinery.

One of the amusing contradictions about the new soft draped millinery is that which often seems to be just a "rag of a hat" in the hand, becomes an imposing millinery masterpiece of dignity and sophisticated "lines," which are so essential to "good style."

A very new and ultra treatment sponsored by French modistes is that of the hanging side jabot. The model in the center of this group demonstrates the extremes to which Paris milliners are going in the matter of jabots or drooping bows, which fall sometimes quite to the shoulder. Caps of the type as illustrated are most often made of wide transparent velvet ribbon, which is almost as thin and supple as chiffon.

The first model pictured faces the brim with pale beige flat fur, which is as supple as any fabric. The rest of the hat so adroitly draped is of brown velvet.

Broadcloth was used for the hat to the right, the draped contour featuring a side-to-side effect inspired by ancient Egyptian headresses.

In the last model a felt hood has a draped facing of matching satin, for satin used with felt or soles is very fashionable. The other two sketches are merely suggestions as to the trend of the mode.

Tomato Juice Cocktail

A glass of tomato juice makes a delicious and inexpensive cocktail and appetizer for winter meals, and it also provides vitamin C, so valuable for health, especially in children.

Bavarian Creams Are Delicious

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Bavarian creams usually have whipped cream among their ingredients, as well as egg whites. When gelatin is combined with these, lightly beaten, the result is a fluffy, spongy dessert that literally "melts in the mouth." Various flavors may be used for Bavarian creams. The recipe below for orange Bavarian is from the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. Orange flavor is among the most delightful, and the use of orange juice assures the family one more way of enjoying this delicious and valuable fruit:

1 1/2 lbs. gelatin 1/2 cup orange juice and pulp
1/2 cup cold water 2 egg whites
1/2 cup boiling water 1 pint cream
1 cup sugar 1/2 cup whipped cream
1/2 lb. lemon juice 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. vanilla

Soak the gelatin in the cold water, then add the boiling water, and stir until the gelatin has dissolved. Add the sugar and lemon and orange juice. Chill this mixture until set and then

To Prepare Stuffed Onions

Remove the skins from onions, and parboil ten minutes in boiling salted water to cover. Turn upside down to cool, and remove part of the centers. Fill the cavities with equal parts of finely chopped cooked chicken, stale soft bread crumbs and the finely chopped onion which was removed, seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with cream or melted butter. Place in a buttered shallow baking pan, sprinkle with buttered crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until the onions are soft.

beat until foamy. Beat the whites of the eggs with the salt until stiff and fold into the gelatin mixture. Then fold in the whipped cream and the vanilla. Pour into a mold and put in a cold place until set. When ready to serve, turn out onto a platter and garnish with orange sections.

CHOPPED NUTS ADD TO WAFFLES

Chopped nuts in waffles make an acceptable variation of flavor which everybody will enjoy. Pecan meats in season are especially good, as they go well with maple or other syrups usually eaten with waffles. Other nut meats may be used when pecans are not available. But meats are better cut with a knife or chopped in a bowl than put through a grinder. The proportions below are given by the bureau of home economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

1 1/2 cups sifted flour 1 cup milk
2 tsp. baking powder 2 eggs, separated
1/2 tsp. salt 1 or 2 lbs. melted butter
1 tbs. sugar 1 cup-chopped pecan nuts

Sift the dry ingredients together, add the milk and the beaten egg yolks, then the melted butter. Stir in the nuts, and then fold in the well-beaten egg whites. Bake the waffle iron hot enough to brown the waffle quickly. If an electric waffle iron is used, it does not require greasing and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter should be used in the batter.

HOW TO USE MARSHMALLOWS

There are numerous ways to combine marshmallows with cake fillings. Or the marshmallows may be used alone as a filling. Simply put the marshmallows between the layers of a cake while it is hot.

Or you may melt the marshmallows in the double boiler and spread on the layers after they are cool. This melted marshmallow mixture may be used instead of jelly roll.

If the marshmallow filling is to be used you may add chocolate to the cake.

night's trip, and everything must be made warm and cozy.

"And then, after everything had been done, Boy of the North fell asleep. Santa Claus' dog must have had very pleasant dreams, too, for there was almost a happy smile on his face, and I think that happy dogs do smile. But you have to be very, very, happy yourself, to see it," ended the Sandman.

trend to sophisticated modes. Then, too, what with fashion demanding that hats be linked in color, design and fabric to the costume, none other

Hats that escape an intricate draping at the hands of the milliner are few and far between. The art of draping which manifested itself at the first of the season in a few adroit touches here and there, mostly in the little soft felt hoods which are so popular, is developing into a conspicuously featured vogue. As it now is the whole scheme of things seems to center about the idea of skillfully manipulating to the point of extreme, that of which the hat is made, be it felt, silk, velvet, satin, tweed cloth, or any of the many fabrics which fashion registers as available media for headgear.

There's a formal aspect about the new clocheaux, such as has not been for many a season past. The extreme formality of dress which introduces a distinctly new silhouette involving fitted lines, and longer skirts, naturally calls for millinery which reflects the

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Bananas should not be kept in the refrigerator as the low temperature turns them dark.

Contrast in the color, flavor and texture of foods helps make the meal look interesting.

A good workman is known by his tools, so the homemaker buys kitchen utensils of good quality and takes good care of them.

In making white bread the use of whole or skim milk to supplement the proteins and minerals of wheat flour is strongly recommended. Since bread is a staple foodstuff, the use of milk in bread would insure a better nourished population. Dry skin milk may be used in bread making with good results. In addition to supplementing the nutritive value it imparts the general appearance of the bread loaf and enhances its ease of manufacture.

Bedtime Story for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"There was great excitement way up North," said Sandman, "for Santa Claus was getting ready for his trip.

"His dog, Boy of the North, was the most excited of all.

"He barked with little short barks because that was his way of laughing when Santa Claus said, 'It seems to me I have more things to do this year than ever before!'

"Boy of the North barked again, and put his cold nose into Santa's hand and rubbed up beside him. 'You say seen, and of what they would like. "Then, they write letters, the precious dears!

"They tell me how much they love their brothers and sisters, and mothers and daddies and playmates, and pets!

"But I mustn't stop to think of all those letters, for I have a long way to go, and I must get started." The reindeer were trying to hurry him; they could hardly wait.

"I won't be late," Santa told them. "I've never been late yet, and I've been doing this trip to the lands where there are children for many, many years!"

"And the reindeer made queer sounds with their bells, for while they know that Santa was right, still they were in a great hurry to start off.

"And Boy of the North was anxious for them to start off, too, for while he didn't go with them he longed to see them return and hear all about the trip.

"Now, let me see," said Santa Claus once again. "Have I got nuts and raisins, the bright new pennies and big oranges? Yes, we're really ready to start at last! And when he said to the reindeer, 'All ready,' they pranced about as Boy of the North barked again and Santa sprang into the sleigh.

"Off they went with the sleigh loaded down with toys, games, and countless things for Christmas morning.

"Good-by, Boy of the North!" shouted Santa Claus. "Good-by, dear old North home, good-by, everyone and everything. I'm off on my big trip of the year!"

Cranberries for Sauce, Jelly

Making Cranberry Sauce to Last Several Days.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Don't wait for Christmas to treat the family to cranberry sauce, cranberry jelly, or other good things in which cranberries are used. Get some of the first cranberries you can get with chicken, rabbit, veal, pork, or any meat that is better for a sweet-tart accessory. The recipe for cranberry jelly given below is from the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. Cranberry sauce is even more easily made, as the skins are not strained out. You can make enough cranberry jelly and sauce for several days and keep it in the ice box. Use rather small jelly glasses, of the size that your family will finish at one meal. Cranberry products "weep" or run when they are out and so it is more attractive to place a fresh mold on the table at each serving.

1 quart cranberries 2 cups sugar
2 cups hot water

Select sound firm berries, discarding any that are soft or withered. Wash well and place in a saucepan with the water. Cover and cook for a few minutes until the berries have broken, then uncover and cook rapidly a few minutes longer, stirring all the time.

Press the fruit through a fine sieve to remove seed as well as skins. To the pulp add the sugar and cook for two or three minutes, or until the jelly sheets from the spoon. Mold in small wet bowls holding about the right quantity for one meal.

If you prefer cranberry sauce, add the sugar to the cooked unstrained fruit and watch for the jelly test in the same way.

Cranberry pie may be made of cranberry sauce or uncooked cranberries, with or without raisins. Cranberries may also be used in muffins as described in the recipe below.

Cranberry Muffins.

1/2 cup melted butter 2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar 4 tsp. baking powder
1 egg 1 cup cranberries
1/2 cup milk 2 tbs. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt

Break the egg into a mixing bowl. Beat it lightly. Add the milk. Sift the dry ingredients. Then add the milk and egg mixture; also the melted butter. Roll the cranberries in the two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and fold them carefully into the batter. Place in greased muffin pans. Bake in a moderate oven, about one-half hour, or until brown. This makes 12 muffins.

Good Things for the Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Away with clocks and sun dials! Time and I have made a compact—this is to be my boon—
To hear the evening thrush, and know the hour,
—Jean Dwight Franklins.

When the warmth indoors draws the family to the fireside, such things as corn popping, nut cracking and candy making interest us.

Chocolate Fudge.—Take one cupful each of granulated and brown sugar, one cupful of milk, one-third of a cupful of corn syrup, a tablespoonful of butter, one and one-half squares of grated chocolate. Melt together until a soft ball is formed in water, add the butter toward the last of the cooking. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla when cool, beat until smooth and thick. Put at once into a buttered tin and mark off into squares. Nuts may be added if desired.

Southern Chicken Pilau.—Stew a fat hen after cutting into serving-sized pieces. When almost tender add two or three cupfuls of rice and cook until all is tender, using plenty of water. The addition of a little celery and onion to the fowl while cooking will enhance the flavor. Season well with salt and pepper and serve on a hot platter with the rice heaped around the chicken.

Luncheon Cake.—Take two cupfuls of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two cupfuls of water or prune juice, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, two teaspoonfuls of allspice, one teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, three cupfuls of flour and one pound of stewed dried prunes chopped. Raisins may be substituted. Boil the sugar, prune juice, fat, spices and raisins (if used) five minutes. Cool, add the flour and soda and bake in a shallow pan 45 minutes.

An oyster stew with plenty of oysters—what can surpass it on a chilly night? It warms the very cockles of the heart. Oysters require only the slightest cooking to make them truly palatable but undercooked they are of all foods the most undesirable. Overcooked they become tough and inedible.

Take a quart of oysters, wash the heads in cold water and pass each oyster carefully through the fingers to remove any broken shell, as any of the sharp bits may cause serious trouble. Take a cupful of the oyster liquor, adding water if not enough,

This is the season of the year when a hot soup for luncheon or supper is most welcome. Dried peas make a most delicious soup. Soak them overnight and cook in the same water in the morning, adding a generous square of salt pork, an onion and plenty of water to cook. Simmer for several hours, season, strain if desired, or serve just as it is. If one does not wish the pork, add butter and milk when serving. Beans may be used in the same way, making a most tasty and nourishing soup.

The small rubber kneeling pads so useful for gardeners and when scrubbing will be a wonderful help to stand on when at work.

Don't neglect a COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every four or five hours.

Working like the trained hands of a masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection, and pain. Used by millions for 20 years, and paid. Used by doctors and nurses. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

STORY FROM THE START

Capt. Lion Fellowes' American merchant ship is sunk by a British frigate off Portugal in the War of 1812. Fellowes' life is saved by an English-speaking girl, who conceals her identity. Fellowes goes to Lisbon where he meets an acquaintance, Capt. Chater of the American ship True Bounty, who offers him a berth as a mate, but knowing Chater is disloyal in trading with the enemy, he refuses. He meets the girl who saved his life, Cara Inglepin, daughter of the owner of True Bounty. She is bound for home and induces Fellowes to sail as mate. He is in love with Cara. The vessel is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Captain Collishave. Fellowes is taken aboard the Badger as a "pressed" man. Mattered at what he believes is Cara's and Chater's treachery he strikes Collishave, who orders him a hundred whacks with the cat. Fellowes' hatred of the three becomes an obsession. Off New York Fellowes escapes from the Badger. He seizes a plot in a meeting to be held at Chater's home and gathers a company of militia to surround the plotter's home. In a fight between the militia and British sailors Collishave escapes. At Chater's home Fellowes finds Cara, her father and Chater. Fellowes scoffs at the girl's denial of conniving at his kidnapping. No incriminating papers are found. The Inglepin party leaves for New York.

"And carry on the maintenance of the estate? I fear not, Lion, I fear not. Business is slothful."
"Humph! Then I'll have you look over our titles. See which lands could be disposed of most readily."
"Sell the Manor fields?" Sopher was overwhelmed. "Why, my dear Lion! Not an acre has gone since—But this is absurd. Do listen to reason!"
"There isn't any reason in the situation," Fellowes replied, between strokes of the razor. "I must have a ship, Nimrod, and that means I must have money. Unless I can come to some terms with Joshua Inglepin." His lean, bronzed features were contorted in a scowl. "He hates his brother—as I do. I should think two men who hate the same person would make excellent partners."
"I must deplore the bitterness of your spirit," protested the lawyer. "Hatred is the cause of infinite suffering and misery."
"You have the cart before the horse," rapped Fellowes. "Misery and suffering inspire hate. No, you needn't argue. I appreciate your motives, but my mind is fast."
Sopher looked uncomfortable. "At the least," he said hesitantly, "allow me to offer my services as counselor and advisor. I should be delighted to accompany you to the city, and—ah—examine any measures suggested in the light of practical and consistent lawfulness."
"No, it won't do," denied Fellowes. And smiled at the lawyer's chagrin. "This isn't an occasion for lawfulness."
"Dear me, Lion, you are most obstinate," sighed Sopher. "And do I understand it's your purpose to put to sea as a privateer?"
"Yes."
"I shall go with you! I shall accompany you as—ah—marine officer. My military services will have equipped me for the duties, and I am sure a number of my corps will enlist with their captain."
Fellowes' smile became a laugh, almost carefree and hearty. "You shall come, Nimrod," he promised, "and all the fencibles you can raise. Now shall we sample Mrs. Rhodes' cooking? 'Twill taste more than good to me, after two years of salt horse."
The widow received them at the foot of the stairs.
"Perked up a mite, ain't ye, squire?" she remarked. "Thar's nothin' can master sleep for a 'red man, I say and after sleep ye want food." She led the way into the dining room, where Tom and Cuffee—Tom distinctly sheepish—were cleaning the floor and polishing furniture.
"Naow, then, Tom," she admonished, "we'll do with the sweepin' a while. Cuffee, ye can come outside with me, and fetch in the plates. I'll make a good waiter of ye, yet. After we get the squire settled, ye two can help out at the General Armstrong. I aint wanted a pair o' husky men-folks 'round the place. Not that I need 'em, specially; but it makes ye feel pert jest to have menfolks 'round. And Tom, thar, he's cut out for the heavy work. A honest, well-meanin' man, Tom is." She gave him a pat, under which he wiggled ecstatically. "Wantin' a teetle trainin', to be sure, but he'll come on. A couple o' months, and he'll earn his keep. I wouldn't wonder."
"I'm sorry, Mrs. Rhodes," Fellowes answered when he could squeeze a word in, "but we are starting for New York as soon as Jeff Riggle can come for us."
She halted in the kitchen door, arms akimbo.
"Noo Yawk, hey? After that Miss Inglepin, I'll be bound."
"After her and her father—and Chater," Fellowes corrected stiffly.
"Humph!" The widow eyed him shrewdly. "Ain't got much use for her, I take it."
He said nothing.

"Oh, well, ye ain't the fust man calculated—Humph! Maybe I better keep my mouth shut. I'm all upsoot. Here I figured ye'd want the Manor open, and I've and sweep and cleaned and brushed and polished 'til my body's crackin'. And ye tell me ye'll shet the place in an hour!"
Fellowes crossed the room, and took one of her red, calloused hands in his.
"Thank you," he said. "It was like you to think of me. And I'll come back again—with Tom and Cuffee—some day."
Mrs. Rhodes blinked her eyes sharply. There was a suspicion of a trickle in each corner.
"Some day! That's what men alius say. They come and ye get yer self used to thar dirty ways—and they up and leave ye, keerness as a cat huntin' a new hearth. But they'll come back—some day," says they. Humph! Well, all I can tell ye, Squire Fellowes, ye, ye'll be happier when ye stop sailin' 'round kiltin' folks, and gettin' yer self beat, and I don't know what else—runnin' after gals ye hate, too. That's the queerest tune I ever hopped to. If ye'd made yer mind up to settle down, all nice and proper, and farm yer land, and raise a family—"
Her voice receded through the kitchen, and Sopher said, haughtily:
"I think I'll drive on, Lion. I've had my breakfast. And I'll send Riggle up to you. Miranda is—ah—in a belligerent mood, I judge."
Tom Grogan wagged his head as the lawyer left the room. The sailor was sitting, rather uncomfortably, upon one of the spindly-legged mahogany chairs Fellowes' mother had fetched home from England.
"I dunno what bellygrunt is," he said, "neess it's kin to gabby; but whatever 'tis, meessmate, did ye ever see the woman could talk as fast and do as much?"
"She's a fine woman, Tom," smiled Fellowes. "And she seems to be fond of you."
"Fond of me, bey? She's fond o' workin' me."
"Well, you won't see her after today."
"And blowed if I don't feel sorry for it," growled Tom. "I like the way she swings a rope's end over me."
He jumped up quickly as the kitchen door swung in, and Mrs. Rhodes' instructions floated through.
"—but if ye ain't got time for no more, Cuffee, the two o' ye can wash up them dishes, and fold up all the furnitch covers, and lay the druggin on the carpet ag'in in that bedroom, and—"
"Sink me, what a bosun she'd make," Tom whispered awesomely.

CHAPTER VIII

Joshua Inglepin

Jeff Riggle pulled his team to a halt, with a mild: "Whoa-oo-a, thar!" brandishing his whip in either direction along the crest of the low hills overlooking Brookline. As far as could be seen, the countryside was dotted with work-gangs, laboring at the fortifications, which made ugly scars upon the green of fields and orchards.
"Naow, that air's a sight folks come miles to see," he observed. "All the way from Gowanus creek to Wallabout bay. We ain't agoin' to be ketchin' like we were in '76, squire. Look to them ships!"
The whip indicated the close-packed anchorages in the East river and off Governors, Bedloe's, and Ellis islands, hundreds of sail of all dimensions, most of them with their topmasts hoisted, and tar-barrels capping their masts.
"Madison's nightcaps" folks call them bar'ls," said Jeff. "Shippin's dead. Tain't even safe to sail the sound east o' New London—and thar's ships been picked up this side o' New Haven. Coastin' Thar ain't a coast-er put to sea in months, since the blockade was tightened. If 'twasn' for privateerin' and them d—d licensed traders, thar wouldn't be no clearances stall. I ain't holdin' with Charter none, but ye can't argify past the point the country wasn't fixed to take on the Britishers. No sires, squire, not by a jugfull! Privateerin'? The auction markets are full o' capture cargoes, and ye couldn't throw a stone in the river, and not hit a prize; but thar's a many privateers git took, tharselves, and our ships that put to sea to trade stand seven chances into ten o' losin'. So whar does it git us, ah? Thar's what I crave to know."

Fellowes hadn't devised a solution of Jeff's problem by the time the coach dropped them at the ferry-landing. It was a sorry fix for the country-to-be in, only half-interested in the struggle, and that half, as he knew, mainly concentrated in the southern and frontier states, which had no conception of the government's need of a navy, and were inclined to be jealous of the wealth shipping had brought to the seaboard cities of the north. But perhaps, if men like himself, who had either a sense of conviction or of wrong, fought desperately, determinedly, for long enough, the sullen apathy of the shipping interests could be neutralized, and the southern and backwoodsmen might learn the potentialities the sea held for America. They'd all come to hate the same object. Hate sufficiently, and you could conquer anyone, any difficulty. A lesson he'd learned by bitter experience, and must teach others.
He landed at the foot of Whitehall street as grim of countenance as though he went to meet Collishave. Tom and Cuffee trod close at his heels, bewildered by the throngs of people and the racket of voices and cartwheels grinding on the cobbles.
"—in front of the—Washington—hotel, at the corner of Broad and Pearl streets, Fellowes halted his charges.
"I am going on to see Mr. Joshua Inglepin," he said. "Do you two await me in the taproom here. And Cuffee, see to it that Tom doesn't get drunk."
"Yah, Mars' Fellowes."
"Relin' on a 'ignat' nigger," fumed Tom. "Tain't fair, meessmate. How'd ye know I was squarin' my sails to git three sheets in the wind?"
Fellowes turned into Pearl street, crossed Hanover square and so came to Front street, which he traversed as far as a large, double, brick warehouse. Once upon a time, its facade had been pierced by a double door, exactly in the center, but this had been bricked up, so many years ago that the new bricks had faded almost to the hue of the surrounding wall. In place of the large door, two single ones had been pierced under either gable. Over the nearer one hung the sign:
BENJAMIN INGLEPIN, Exporter and Importer; Sailings to all Ports.
Over the farther sign read:
JOSHUA INGLEPIN, Exporter and Importer; Sailings to the Baltic, the British Isles, Southern Europe and the India.
Fellowes entered the farther door. A gray-haired clerk slid off a high stool, and advanced to meet him, timorously.
"I am looking for Mr. Inglepin," said Fellowes.
"Mr. Inglepin is out, sir. At the Tontine."
"When will he return?"
"Ah, sir, not until after three, when the board suspends." But if you went around to Wall street now you might find him at leisure. 'Tis the hour of 'high 'Change,' sir, and all the gentlemen should be taking their noonin'."
Fellowes thanked the old man, and went out into Front street, turning the corner into Wall, where the Tontine Coffee house rose above the curbing this side of Water. Threading the groups, still arguing and discussing the trading projects of the morning, he had a little difficulty identifying Joshua Inglepin as the Inglepin warehouse the hostile brothers had divided in half when they broke up their partnership.
Joshua's stout body was clad as neatly as Benjamin's, but after the Democratic fashion; his long-tailed blue coat was short-waisted, and his nether garments were skin-tight, gray pantaloons, terminating in polished half-boots. His gray hair was cut short, and brushed straight back, and his ruddy face was set off by a plain stock and neckerchief. Where Benjamin was sedate, quiet, circumspect, with an elusive eye, Joshua was positive, outspoken, forthright.
Fellowes tapped him on the arm.
"I beg your pardon," said the Long Islander. "My name is Lion Fellowes, Mr. Inglepin. I was pressed off your brother's ship True Bounty."

Phoenician Dental Art Preserved in the Louvre

The first false teeth, as far as known today, were worn by a woman of Sidon in Phoenicia about 300 B. C., according to Dr. Roy L. Moodle, of Santa Monica, Calif. The Phoenician woman's jaw, with the false teeth, is now preserved in the Louvre, in Paris. The two right incisors are represented by artificial teeth held in place and bound to each other by gold wire. The wire has been drawn through careful perforations in the artificial teeth. Although the Egyptians pioneered in treatment of many diseased conditions of the body, this sort of dental replacement apparently was never devised by Egyptian physicians. Thousands of mummies, representing 7,000 years of life in Egypt, have been examined, but no clear evidence of such repair work has ever been found. It appears that we not only owe our alphabet and numerous geographic discoveries to the restless, inquiring minds of the Phoenicians, Doctor Moodle points out, but also we are indebted to them for this entrance into prosthodontics, which is a particularly valuable field of dentistry.

Her Secret
Elinor Glynn at a Los Angeles garden party was talking about the modern girl and charm.
"The modern girl with real charm," she said, "possesses a wonderful secret, in some delicious way or other, she won't let you kiss her just when you're doing it."

Girl Fights Big Handicap

MANY a girl would give up in despair when she found herself snubbed in school and unpopular in college, but not so Mrs. Norma Kussel Jones of 1567 Cramer Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.
"When I was seventeen I went away to college," says Mrs. Jones. "Freda, my room-mate, was a very popular girl. Soon she asked to have her room changed. It seems I kept her awake at night, I slept so restlessly. No one knows how I suffered."
"One day one of my teachers found me sobbing. 'Why,' she said, 'sometimes sluggish circulation causes restless sleep. Why don't you try Nujol?'"
"In two weeks Nujol had begun clearing out the poisons in my body, my skin had a clear healthy appearance, and everything looked brighter. 'What have you been doing to yourself?' asked my room-mate. 'You are a different girl!' The days and years that followed were filled with every activity and not long ago Freda was maid of honor at my wedding. That's what Nujol did for me!"

Such a simple way to health and happiness! Your doctor will tell you that Nujol contains no medicines or drugs—it is simply bodily lubrication—harmless, normal, and it works easily so you will be regular as clockwork. You can get a bottle in a sealed package at any drug store for what you would pay for two or three sodas.
Get a bottle today and try it. If you are like most other people Nujol will make you brighter, happier, more able to succeed. Don't put off good health! Start being well this easy way, this very day.

Unfair Triumph

Senator Smoot at a Washington reception said of a new Bolshevik triumph in Russia:
"This triumph reminds me of burly Mr. Strawbridge. He bragged: 'The man insulted me, he cursed me, and, fierce as he was, I knocked him down.' 'What? With your fist?' they asked. 'No,' said burly Mr. Strawbridge, 'with my car.'"

Think This One Over

A debtor seemed really anxious to settle a $3 delinquent account. He had only $2, a crisp new $2 bill. He took it to a pawnbroker and pawned it for $1.50. He sold the pawn ticket to a sympathetic friend for $1.50. He then had in his jeans the much desired $3 and settled the bill. Who lost? Puzzles.

For any BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician. All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

Protest New Rail Line

Helena, Mont.—Permission to intervene in opposition to the application of the Wyoming-Montana Railroad Company for authority to create and operate a north and south railway from Miles City to Denver has been granted to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad and the Colorado & Quincy railroad, the Montana railroad commission was informed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The intervening railway companies protest that their lines adequately serve the territory the proposed line would traverse. The Wyoming-Montana road seeks to purchase the property of the North and South, Wyoming North and South and Montana Railway Companies. It also wants to acquire trackage rights from the Denver & Salt Lake and Chicago & Northwestern Railway Companies.

Lindbergh is "Dollar-a-Year Man"

Washington.—Charles A. Lindbergh is a "Dollar-a-Year Man" for the government in his capacity as technical aviation adviser to the Commerce Department. His name was among several hundred submitted to the Senate in this class by Secretary of Commerce Lamont in response to a Senate resolution. The resolution was prompted by revelation that an employee of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, J. E. Vulchet, who appeared before the lobby investigating committee recently, was a dollar-a-year man. "The employment of such people on a part-time basis at a nominal rate has been a practice for many years," Lamont said. "It has resulted in the saving of millions of dollars to the government which would have been expended if the positions were filled on a full-time basis."

New York, "City of Fear"

London.—New York is a "city of fear" with its traditional "light hearted gaiety" replaced by tragedy and sorrow—this is the picture drawn of the American metropolis recently in the London Daily Mail. Blaming it all on the stock market crash, the newspaper pictures the city as grief-stricken by "wholesale suicides," with ruined and broken speculators besieging brokerage offices and newspapers, and with a pall of gloom extending from the Bronx to the battery. Banks, according to the story, are "overwhelmed" with requests for loans, and department stores are suffering financial agonies with sales slumping and goods knocked down all over the city at bargain prices. "New York's light-heartedness is gone," the paper dolefully remarks.

Washington, Stunt flying over football games

Washington.—Stunt flying over football games draw from Gilbert G. Budwig, director of licensing and inspection of the Department of Commerce a warning to pilots that such maneuvers are prohibited. Commenting upon reports of violations, he said no flight under 1,000 feet is permitted over open air assemblies of persons, except with the consent of the secretary of commerce, and that acrobatic flying or intentional maneuvers not necessary to navigation over a football game or open air gathering at any altitude is prohibited.

RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS
PRINT BOOKS FOR BLIND

One of the most appealing services that is carried forward by women volunteers under the American Red Cross is that of transcribing popular and scientific books into Braille for reading by the blind. This work was started at Wergreen hospital, where blind veterans of the World War were sent after the Armistice.

The Red Cross now has 1,166 volunteer Braille transcribers, and last year they produced 412 titles in 1,249 volumes, or 175,000 pages of Braille. The majority of the books go to the Library of Congress and public libraries throughout the country, although some of the books go to schools for the blind and, in a few instances, text books are transcribed for some individual scholar in order to help him complete his course in some study.

The work is supported from the Red Cross Roll Call for members which occurs each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.
